Paint Industry Sees Promising Year

By Arthur W. Stead, President The Sherwin-Williams Co.
As in 1957, the paint industry should continue to expand and prosper in the year ahead. Now over, the increase in volume of sales will not come so easily; it will be the result of vigorous and consistent selling effort.

There is no doubt that our economy is pausing to catch its breath before again pushing ahead. We see signs of that in many areas of business endeavor. Indications are that this trend will continue, possibly through the first half of 1958, with the immediate prospect probably more favorable than one might be lead to believe by some of the headlines that describe it.

In the building field, for example, there is reason to believe that total expenditures may be higher in 1958 than in 1957. Although there may be some slackening of industrial construction, this should be more than offset by increases in residential building and public construction.

Housing will be spurred by the pent-up demand that was not satisfied during 1957. It will be further encouraged by the recent loosening of the "light money" policy. The continuing demand for new schools shows no sign of diminishing. In fact, it is increasing, as indicated by the great number of school building bond issues which voters approved at the last election in hundreds of communities throughout the country.

All new buildings require paint, of course. But even more significant to the paint industry is the need for repainting of homes and other buildings completed as recently as 1954. Many of the houses, farm buildings, schools, hospitals, churches and other buildings erected in the early years of this decade are now in need of repainting. Getting that job done in addition to supplying paint for structures of older vintage, should require the best efforts of the paint industry.

Coupled with the need for paint for protection against erosion and weather, there is another important factor. That is the growing tendency of people to consider paint a style item. Realizing that it takes only a very modest investment in paint to re-style a home, consumers now repaint more frequently than they did only a few years ago. As yet this trend appears to be confined largely to the interior of homes, but similar consideration of exteriors is also increasing. The problem for the paint industry is to encourage this trend in the face of all the other demands modern living makes on the individual consumer's income.

The familiar interior and exterior paints normally account for about 80 per cent of the paint industry's sales. The remaining 20 per cent is made up of sales of specialized finishing materials for industrial and transportation use. These include paint for automobiles, ships, railroad rolling stock appliances, office and industrial equipment and a host of other products of industry. In addition, they include the maintenance paints necessary to keep our industrial plant in good condition.

As far as finishes for products are concerned, demand in 1958 will, of course, depend directly on general manufacturing activity. There are encouraging signs that the levels reached in 1957 may be improved in 1958 in some types of industries. Hence, the sales opportunities for industrial products finishes should be quite favorable, with an increasing share of the business being won by those paint manufacturers whose effective research has brought forth dramatic new types of finishes.

In the industrial maintenance field, prospects are bright. New paint products that do a better job of protecting expensive installations have been introduced and industry generally has been quick to put them to use. With less new industrial construction indicated, it will become increasingly important for business to protect its present investments. There is no more economical or effective way to accomplish this than with paint.

At Sherwin-Williams we are confident that 1958 will be another record year, with sales surpassing those we enjoyed during our last fiscal year which ended August 31. We recognized that real effort will be needed - but such effort has always been required in the highly competitive paint industry.

REPEATED TURKEY
PERRIN, S. D. — (UP) — A Thanksgiving turkey was costly to the Lutheran Memorial Church, $300. An eastern wild turkey crashed through a large, six-by-nine-foot window in the church. A construction company estimated replacement cost of the window at $100.

KEPT HIM AWAKE
WETHERSFIELD, Conn. — UP — William E. Oney was fined $5 for having a noisy muffler on his auto despite his excuse that "it keeps me awake while driving."

The U. S. Department of agriculture estimates farmers brought nearly 600,000 wheel tractors during 1956. About 300,000 of these were used tractors.

Venezuela Forces March On Maracay To Crush Revolution

By JOSEPH TAYLOR
United Press Staff Correspondent
CARACAS, Venezuela (UP) — President Marcos Perez Jimenez announced today that he had ordered a military force to march on Maracay today to crush a revolution by a military group that was preparing to bomb and seize the capital.

He expected a victory in a matter of hours. But there was no word yet of a major clash.

The revolt was led by air force units and army troops at the big military base in Maracay, 50 miles west of Caracas. Venezuelan sources in New York said the Navy had joined the uprising against what they called Perez Jimenez's dictatorship.

The U. S. Embassy reported all 30,000 Americans in the capital, mostly oil workers and their families, were safe. The city itself was at a standstill with residents fearful of new air raids.

The government admitted rebel plane attacks on the capital, but Perez Jimenez said the flights were "disorganized" and did no damage. He said one rebel aircraft buzzed the presidential palace but was shot down by anti-aircraft fire.

Authoritative sources in Washington said rebel jet and propeller planes strafed the capital Wednesday and one dropped a bomb but caused no casualties.

Caracas Radio broadcast uninterrupted classical music from 11 o'clock, a. s. t. Wednesday night. No telephone calls from New York were being accepted in Caracas. Cables were getting through from Caracas but the Venezuelan government censors outgoing cables.

Military police, security police and national guardsmen in battle dress guarded the presidential palace and the main public buildings in Caracas, capital of one of the richest oil producing nations of the world.

Vehicle traffic in the city of 70,000 automobiles came almost to a standstill.

Residents stayed off the streets but maintained constant watches at windows and balconies for possible air raids.

State Department officials in Washington said the situation was "serious" but they declined to evaluate the full impact of it until they received further reports.

Perez Jimenez insisted the revolt was confined to only a few units at the big Maracay base along the Pan-American Highway.

At 9 o'clock Wednesday night he called on them to surrender or face annihilation.

Meanwhile, in Cairo the Afro-Asian "solidarity conference" ended Wednesday in a burst of anti-Western resolutions that condemned the Eisenhower Doctrine, NATO and the Baghdad Pact.

The delegates, mostly left wing groups, called on the West to accept the latest Soviet plea for an immediate end to nuclear tests and condemned the policies of the United States, Britain and France.

Egyptian newspapers bannerlined the end of the conference and described the weeklong talks as "historic" and "epoch making" in developing the Afro-Asian bloc.

Egyptian workers today were taking down the huge, five-language banners and signs that festooned Cairo during the conference.

The delegates either were en route home or to Egypt's agricultural show place in Tahrir Liberation Province. Many were visiting the India's Anup Singh started work setting up a permanent solidarity committee with headquarters in Cairo to carry out the conference resolutions.

Arrangements for financing the new body were left vague in the final resolution establishing it but Egypt was expected to make the major contribution.

Western observers studied texts of the resolutions and hoped for detailed reports of what had up to them to get an inkling of what happens next.

Bicycle Stolen From 70-Year-Old Local Handyman

New Year's Day was a sort of disappointing one for George Swain, 70-year-old handyman, porter and janitor for a number of Sanford firms.

George, while working in the neighborhood of Commercial and Park Aves., left his bicycle in the rear of the Valdez Hotel.

When he returned the bicycle was gone. Someone, George reported, had apparently stolen the old bicycle on which he made his home to town each day from his home at 107 Locust Ave.

"It's going to be hard to identify the bicycle," George reported, "because it's so old and there was no number on it that I know of."

And, of course, as bicycles go, there are many just like the one that George used.

George Swain has lived here nearly all of his life and has served folks here and there to the best of his ability and certainly "court-courteously and faithfully."

Many, many times, when tables were to be served at elite luncheons or special dinners and affairs, George Swain was "on the job" to see that everyone would be taken care of and served well.

Right now, George Swain has no way to get back and forth from his home to downtown Sanford—that is, unless his bicycle is returned to him or he can get another to replace the old one.

Funny thing—New Year's Day brings many different observations. Some are good wishes for the coming year—others are parties and revelry to how the new year into being. But for George Swain it was a sort of disappointment.

George is 70-years-old now and walking those 13 or 15 blocks to town isn't quite as easy as it used to be. That bicycle was a handy thing to have for transportation.

Courtesy Week In Sanford Will Give Everyone An Opportunity To Take Part In One Of The Biggest Events Ever Staged Here

Merchants are going all out to make the event worthwhile for shoppers, too, by staging a Courtesy Week Clean-up Sale.

According to reports reaching The Sanford Herald, merchants are offering some of the biggest and finest bargains ever to be displayed on shelves and tables in the local stores. "It's really going to be big," one spokesman said.

Throughout the week merchants will offer Courtesy Week specials. Courtesy Week has been proclaimed by Gov. LeRoy Collins as a statewide event and has also been set aside as a special event for Sanford by Mayor David Gatchel. The Courtesy Week celebration will get underway Monday morning and will continue throughout the week.

Already, plans made by the Sanford-Seminole County Junior Chamber of Commerce, who will cooperate with the Seminole County Chamber of Commerce in staging Courtesy Week, here have been completed.

Appointed by M. L. Raborn, president of the local Jaycees, chairman of the local observance will be Howard McNulty.

Secret Committees have been appointed by McNulty to select the most courteous waitress, saleslady, salesman, policeman and most courteous act. Winners in each category will receive a $25 U. S. Savings Bond.

Other special events have been planned for the week and will be announced as the big week-long event gets underway.

Banners promoting the event will be distributed to merchants throughout the city. Also bumper strips will be attached to local automobiles and badges will be displayed by salespeople and others meeting the public.

Officials have said that "Courtesy Week" will be an annual event in Sanford and is expected to be one of the biggest celebrations of its kind to be staged here.

Noted Resident Victor Greene Dies Yesterday

A well-known farmer and citrus man of Seminole County passed away at Seminole Memorial Hospital yesterday afternoon.

Victor M. Greene Sr., 69, died at 4:30 yesterday following an illness of approximately six weeks.

Mr. Greene was a member of the Board of Trustees of the hospital in which he passed away.

Born in 1889, Mr. Greene, Pa., Mr. Greene came to Sanford in 1911 and attended schools here.

He was a member and deacon of the First Presbyterian Church, a Veteran of World War I, a member of the American Legion and a member of the Oddfellows.

Mr. Greene had been engaged in farming in Seminole County for 40 years and had recently entered the citrus growing business. He made his residence on the Westside.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Victor M. Greene, Sanford; one daughter, Mrs. John J. Gunning Jr., Wilmington, Del.; two sons, L. V. M. Greene Jr., Ft. McClelland, Ala., and Alfred F. Greene, Sanford; three grandsons, Victor M. Greene III and John DuBols Greene, both of Ft. McClelland, Ala., and Alfred M. Greene Jr., Sanford; one granddaughter, Shirley Diane Greene, Sanford; one sister, Mrs. E. W. Matthews, Leesburg; one brother, Robert A. Greene, Daytona Beach; several nieces and nephews.

Funeral services will be held at 3 p. m. tomorrow at the First Presbyterian Church with the Rev. A. G. McInnis officiating.

Active pallbearers will be deacons of the First Presbyterian Church: J. M. Garrett, Clarence Redding, C. C. Henderson, Dick Aiken, Kirby Fite Jr., Dr. Harry Woodruff, W. S. Brumley Jr., and Harvey Hale.

All other deacons and elders of the church will serve as honorary pallbearers.

The family requests that flowers be omitted. Those wishing to send memorials in Mr. Greene's name, may send them to Thornwell Orphanage at Clinton, S. C.

Brisson Funeral Home is in charge.

Mrs. Cecil Ozier Dies In Illinois

Mrs. Cecil Ozier, 51, of Champagne, Ill., passed away suddenly last Saturday night.

Mrs. Ozier was well-known in the Sanford area and had many friends and acquaintances here.

Funeral services for Mrs. Ozier were held Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock in Champagne, Ill.

Mrs. Ozier was a sister-in-law of Lowell Ozier, Sanford builder and developer.

Officer's Condition Said 'Uncertain'

A 21-year-old Navy officer, struck down early yesterday morning as he walked along Sanford Ave. near 28th St., continued in an "uncertain condition" at Orange Memorial Hospital this morning.

Ensign Neil W. Herrmann of Heavy Attack Squadron Nine received a head injury, fractured legs, and fractured ribs when he either fell or stepped in front of an automobile traveling south shortly after 2:30 a. m. yesterday.

Hospital attaches at Orange Memorial said that no condition was available since the young officer was "still in x-ray this morning."

However, a spokesman for the officer's squadron gave the young man's condition as "serious."

A doctor yesterday, immediately following surgery, said that Herrmann's condition was neither good nor bad, but that it could be listed as "fair."

U. S. Is Urged To Become Full Member Of Pact

KARACHI, Pakistan (UP) — President Iskander Mirza today urged the United States to join the Baghdad Pact as a full member.

He also said he favored East-West summit talks—but only after extensive groundwork had been laid by the Western Big Four foreign ministers.

Interviewed by a group of visiting foreign newsmen, Mirza said U. S. membership in the Baghdad Pact would have "the greatest possible effect on the largest possible number of nations."

The United States now is a member only of the military and economic committees of the pact. The five full members are Pakistan, Iran, Iraq, Turkey and Great Britain.

Mirza, an impressive gray-haired figure radiating a powerful personality, received newsmen in the Pakistan House of Representatives building.

"The Baghdad Pact should be strengthened," Mirza told the newsmen who are making a round-the-world flight with the Australian Qantas Airline.

"The United States should come in as this would have the greatest possible effect on the largest number of nations."

"The pact is not aimed at the Arab League but supports it. Every Baghdad Pact member that I know of wants Arab unity."

Asked about the possibility of a summit meeting Mirza replied: "I favor one, but would prefer some spadework by the foreign ministers first. Then perhaps something tangible could be achieved instead of a mere succession of receptions and banquets and so forth."

Mirza said the two main issues still keeping Pakistan-India relations at a peak of tension are those of Kashmir and the sharing of river waters which India repeatedly has threatened to cut off from Pakistan.

Traffic Death Toll Reaches 156 Mark

By UNITED PRESS
The nation's motorists opened the new year with a "distressing" traffic death toll, and safety experts said their estimates of the holiday highway slaughter probably would be "far exceeded."

The National Safety Council had estimated that 130 persons would be killed in traffic during the 30-hour mid-week New Year's holiday period.

At 10 p. m. a. s. t., today the United Press traffic death count had reached the 156 mark for the period from 6 p. m. New Year's Eve through midnight Wednesday. Fires caused 14 deaths, 1 person was killed in a plane crash and 18 died in other mishaps for a total of 191.

New York had the highest reported traffic toll with 21 killed. California reported 14 on the highways, New Jersey 13, Texas 9, Ohio an Virginia 8 each and Illinois 7.

Ned H. Dearborn, council president, said all signs point to an other tragic holiday on the highways. Only last week, at least 223 traffic fatalities marred the Christmas holidays, a figure well in excess of the 180 highway deaths estimated by the council.

"It's sad," Dearborn said, "but judging by past experiences the really heavy death reports will probably start coming in fast during the morning hours today."

Dearborn anticipated a heavy

Comedian Skelton Faces Indefinite Stay In Hospital

STANT MONICA, Calif. (UP)—Comedian Red Skelton today faced an "indefinite" stay in St. John's Hospital where he was hospitalized after an acute "cardiac-asthmatic" attack which nearly cost him his life.

Dr. Garth K. Graham, the consulting physician, said Skelton was "progressing very satisfactorily" but that it still was too early to tell how long he must stay in the hospital.

"He still is a sick man," the doctor said.

Skelton was stricken Monday night at his Bel-Air home and rushed unconscious to the hospital where he was reported to have been near death.

The 43-year-old comedian rallied to greet the new year with a midnight phone call to his wife, Georgia, who had gone home to be with the couple's children.

"Stick to me is, he talked his doctor into letting him call me at midnight," Mrs. Skelton said.

Hospital attendants said earlier that Skelton was able to "joke a little."

Statement Shows Highest Assets In Firm's History

The year-end statement of First Federal Savings and Loan Assn. shows assets of $7,214,629.41, highest in the 23 year history of the organization and nine percent above the similar figure for December, 1956, thus continuing the firm's forward surge of recent years.

In spite of "the tightest money conditions in the past decade," the savings placed with First Federal exceeded $2,350,000 and inched ahead of the 1956 record. However, in the face of the "less rosy" outlook, especially toward the end of the year, savers found it necessary to withdraw, or the purpose for which funds had been saved arrived and the net inflow was under last year's figure by 23 percent, according to Howard Faville, president.

The association executive added that there had been a strong de-

Family Held Captive By Teenagers

EDITOR'S NOTE: Florida yachtsman Richard Aisa tells in this dispatch of the night of terror he and his wife and four children spent as captives of four teenage pirates who took over their 46-foot boat.

By RICHARD AISA
As told to UNITED PRESS
ESTAMORADA, Fla. (UP)— My family and I were in our boat—the "Siesta"— Tuesday night at Craig Key. We had planned a quiet New Year's Eve and had just gone to bed.

Suddenly these two boys burst into our cabin and said, "Don't move, don't make a sound. You keep quiet and we'll let you know what we're gonna do."

They held a rifle on us, and we couldn't do anything but what they said.

They woke up the children and told them the same thing. They were all very polite about it.

Family Held Captive By Teenagers

One of the boys kept the gun on us while the other two went out and started loading their equipment and food on the boat.

They said they wanted to take our boat and use it for about two or three weeks. They first talked of going to Cuba, then changed their minds and said they wanted to go to Mexico. Later they said St. Petersburg.

I finally persuaded them I couldn't navigate at night, and so we left Craig Key early New Year's morning. They said it would be all right for us to go to Islamorada for gas, but when we got there we had to wait an hour because the power was off.

My wife and the children deserve all the credit for getting us out of this safely. My wife slipped a note to my oldest son, David—he's 14—and he walked along the dock and slipped the note to a fisherman.

About that time I saw Wally

Family Held Captive By Teenagers

Kinney from Winter Haven, a friend of mine, and pretended I didn't know him. So he put two and two together and called the Coast Guard and Sheriff. It turned out he and the fisherman reported what was happening about the same time.

We pushed off from Islamorada, but a few minutes later the sheriff (John W. Spottwood) came out in a speedboat and really took charge. I was afraid the boys might try to shoot it out and somebody would get hurt, but they threw the rifle overboard just before the boat reached us.

One thing I'll have to say about those boys—they were very polite all the way through. They didn't use any bad language and didn't do any of us any harm.

But my wife was pretty shaken up when we finally brought the boat back in and she cried a lot. I have owned and sailed boats for 30 years, but nothing like this ever happened before.

Reduction Of Income Tax Rates Is Essential

Two members of the House Ways and Means Committee today declared that reduction of excessively high income tax rates is as essential to the bolstering of the presently sagging national economy as the strengthening of military defenses is to the prosecution of the missile race with Soviet Russia.

Sponsors of a bi-partisan measure calling for complete reform of the individual and corporate income tax rate structure — Rep. Antoni N. Sadlak (R-Conn.) and Rep. A. S. Herlong, Jr. (D-Fla.)— emphasized their conviction that the "contest with Soviet Russia is basically one that will be determined by the relative capacity of the two nations to grow economically, rather than one in which the ultimate solution is arrived at by a temporary advantage in missile or space technology."

Pointing out that the present income tax system was developed largely during a series of emergency measures over the past 25 years, the legislators declared that "the income tax rate structure is clearly not in keeping with a free economy that must provide the revenue for continuing high-level defense outlays and at the same time assure continued economic growth without inflation. The income tax system must not be allowed to continue to discourage initiative, penalize ambition, and restrict capital formation; rather it must be completely reformed to strengthen the economic basis of our defense effort."

The Ways and Means Committee members said:

"At present the economy is in a recession coming after a period of inflation, caused in large part by our tax system which so severely limits the ability to save. As a result, business is apprehensive, production and income are declining, and government revenues are falling off. The revenue decline has resulted in the original estimates of a $1.5 billion surplus in the current fiscal year being discarded completely. Instead, it is expected that the nation's deficit at best is $200 million and the prospect of a budget deficit has not been ruled out.

"There are only two methods by which this situation can be reversed. The first of these, which we reject, is to provide new artificial props for the economy by manipulating the money and credit supply. It is exactly this that has brought us the almost continuous inflation of recent years, which in turn has brought us to the current recession.

"The other method is income tax reduction as soon as possible, designed principally to reform the rate structure, so that future growth of the economy will no longer be dependent upon continuing inflation. Our people will be encouraged by such action on the part of the Congress, the economy will be revitalized, income will rise, and government revenues will again resume their steady growth. Strange as it may seem, tax rate reform, in the light of the present recession, may be the only way we can insure an increase in tax revenues and eliminate the prospect of repeated federal deficits with their inflationary characteristics and consequent weakening of our defense effort.

"We are firm in our belief that not only can we afford to move ahead with reform of the tax structure, but actually we cannot afford not to do so if this Nation is to win the present race with the Soviet Union and, at the same time, assure healthy, non-inflationary growth of the economy to meet the needs of a rapidly-growing population. The legislation we have introduced provides the Congress with an opportunity to begin

Pittsburg Pirates Seeking Another Long-Ball Hitter

By DANNY MURTAUGH
Manager of Pittsburgh Pirates
Wrote for United Press

WOODLYN, Pa. (UP)—We've taken a big gamble of Ted Kluszewski in an effort to get another long-ball hitter to go with Frank Thomas.

We're gambling that Kluz can regain the ability he once had. If we can come up with a well Kluszewski or a reasonable facsimile, we think we're in much better shape. We got a lot of base hits last year, but we were lacking in the long ball.

Last season our pitching was strong but thin. We had three pitchers capable of holding their own with any others in the league—Ron Kline, Bob Friend and Vern Law. Our big weakness, from a pitching standpoint, was the lack of a good left-hander.

Smith Bears Watching
A fellow who's going to bear watching is R. C. Smith, who opened a lot of people's eyes in the last four games of the '56 season. He lost one game, 2-1, and then won, 2-1. We think he'll be ready for a regular starting assignment this year.

The Pirates also have three men coming up from Hollywood who should help—Red Witt, Benny Daniels and Curt Raydon, all

Robson To Head Financial Committee For Boat Races

Sanford Boat and Ski Club Commodore Dr. A. W. Woodall said today that Harry Robson had been placed in charge of the financial committee that is to make it possible for the club to bring national right-handers. We're also bringing up Johnny Powers from Columbus and he should help on offense. He hit some 20 homers last season and he knocked in close to 100 runs. We think he's ready for the big time.

Down the middle, I'd say the Pirates are as strong as any other team in the league. At short and second we have Dick Groat and Bill Mazeroski. In my opinion, those two can do as much to win games as any other double play combination in either league. I mean defensively, of course.

Virvon Defensive Star
In center, we have the second best man defensively in the league. I'll concede the Giants' Willie Mays is No. 1 but I think Billy Virvon is only a shade behind him and ahead of all the others. Behind the plate, we have Hank Foiles, who was good enough to make the National League All-Star team last year. Foiles is a first-class ball player.

The keynote for the Pirates this year is versatility. I've got players I can move around and I'm going to do it. Thomas can play three positions; Gene Freese can play third and the outfield; Bob Skinner moves from first base to the outfield without a second thought.

boat racing here Jan. 19. "Harry Robson has consented to take the job," Woodall said. "Last year he did a magnificent job and I am sure he will do it again."

Woodall said that it was necessary for the club to raise $800 to put the races over. "We have to put up $650 in prize monies plus insurance and having a program printed," he said.

The club is making accommodations to give good vantage points for an estimated 10,000 people for the event. "Last year was our first year, and we have a lot to learn," Woodall said. "But this year we will definitely put on a better show."

Woodall said that it would be wonderful if interested merchants and citizens would cooperate in order to make the event possible. "Last year we had publicity for Sanford that couldn't be bought at any price," Woodall commented of the publicity in the larger boating magazines as well as other coverage.

"We proved last year just how interested people are in boat racing," Woodall said. He based his observation on drawing 10,000 people along the shores of Lake Monro on the same day that Daytona's Speed Week reached its climax.

The race boat drivers were pleased with the Lake Montego site. "They wanted to stage another race here last year," Woodall said. "Naturally, we felt that we could not afford to stage such a race, but it did give us the opportunity to stage the races this year in the height of the tourist season when its appeal would be at its peak."

Woodall said that Harry Robson would be working and organizing a group to cover the Sanford area in an attempt to raise the necessary money to make Sanford the nation's Boat Racing Capital, come Jan. 19.

Time Has Come To Get Down To The Business Of The Day

We've had it! Turkey, dressing, cranberry sauce, fruit cake, and all of the trimmings on Christmas Day.

There came the turkey hash, turkey soup, pan pie and other delicacies from left over Christmas feasts.

And yesterday there were the traditional black-eyed peas and hog jowl with a dime cooked in the pot, turnip greens, the burning of the Christmas tree and other year-end or year-beginning customs that have become attached to the American household.

Now comes time to get down to the business of the day and plan for the year ahead. And as we mull over all that must be done it is realized that there must be some commonsense reasoning done with it.

Topmost in the minds of people everywhere is the missile-satellite program of the nation—the educational programs that must go on unabated to train up and coming scientists for new avenues of research and development. Solid thinking will answer one question for us posthaste—and that's the fact that none of it can be done overnight and little will be accomplished under the blankets of secrecy and autocracy. There must be a spirit of cooperation, among the people, among our government leaders, among scientists, among our armed forces.

Nothing—and that is a literal statement, nothing for dreams—can be done through selfishness, personal gain, or petty party challenges.

Individuals, civic clubs, economic groups, municipal organizations, church groups—every group that can be named—must lend its hand of assistance and cooperation toward accomplishing one thing . . . the continuation of our basic freedoms in a country that was built on the personal liberty of man and his desire to worship and pray.

There is no time to waste—moments are precious—bickering becomes costly and dear.

There Are Children Who Suffer

Take this fact: The United States is the wealthiest great nation on the face of the earth. Now place up against it another fact: There are in the United States several million underprivileged children who do not share, in anything like full measure, the benefits of citizenship in this most prosperous of nations.

This was highlighted recently in a survey made for Parent's magazine. It was learned, for example, that total family income is less than $40 a week in the families of more than nine million children. There are some 600,000 migrant children, most of them denied even minimum schooling. About two and a half million children must, because proper facilities are lacking, attend school either in overcrowded classrooms or in converted garages, basements and the like.

There is more to this sorry catalogue. Because juvenile detention quarters are lacking in many communities, more than 100,000 children annually are put into adult jails. About 800,000 American children receive only part-time schooling. Facilities for those who are physically handicapped or mentally retarded, as well as for the half million or so who suffer from serious emotional disturbances, are very far from adequate.

All this is brought to our readers' attention not to cause them shame, but by way of pointing out that none of us can be complacent. On the whole, America's children are sheltered and nurtured and cared for as

Ike Has No Intention Of Resigning

By MERRIAM SMITH
United Press White House Writer
WASHINGTON, Pa., (AP)—President Eisenhower has no intention of resigning.

He doesn't even think in such terms these days.

He sees no reason why he should resign.

As far as his physical condition is concerned he feels more than adequate for the job. His doctors concur in this confidence today.

Eisenhower does not regard himself as a "part-time president" any more than the late President Franklin D. Roosevelt regarded himself as part-time because of his frequent weekends in Hyde Park, N.Y., or former President Truman and his fondness for week ends on the White House yacht or long holidays in Key West, Fla.

Such is the basic philosophy of the current Chief Executive as he is pelled, largely by Democrats and to a lesser degree by members of his own party, for not stepping out of office because of recurrent illnesses and frequent absences from his White House desk.

The United Press is able to report the President's attitude after long talks with some of his closer friends and administration associates who are in frequent if not daily contact with him.

The President's feelings would change with a heart flutter, but today he does not brood or think of himself as a sick man. On the contrary he is active when work or bad weather in chill Gettysburg prevent him from getting out in the open and riding or strolling around his farm.

The latest talk of resignation started with a Sunday night statement by Chairman Emanuel Celler (D-N.Y.) of the House Judiciary Committee. Celler suggested that the President resign Tuesday.

He has just finished a complete tour of his district in a house trailer converted into a mobile congressional office.

Vets Told To Keep V. A. Informed Of Present Address

Karlisle Housholder, County Service Officer for Seminole County, cautions all veterans training under P. L. 550 to keep their training establishment informed as to their current address. This is important due to the fact that the finance division of the regional office will adapt the address shown on the latest document received. Veterans may change their address early in the month by use of the regular change of address form, (VA Form 4-572), but if their training establishment submits the monthly attendance report that shows his old address, or any other address, at the end of the month, the VA will adopt the address on the attendance report, as that would be the latest document received by them.

Parents or guardians of children of deceased veterans eligible for training under the War (Orphan's) Educational Assistance Act are urged to make application during the student's senior year, preferably the last semester of high school. This will allow the VA sufficient time to establish eligibility for such training and to schedule the mandatory counseling session during the summer months before the beginning of the college year thus avoiding the necessity of having the student miss a day or more of classes to report for the mandatory counseling. These desiring to enter college at mid-year should apply at least 30 days before the beginning of the second semester of the college year so that all the necessary preliminary steps may be completed by that time and the student can pursue his or her course without interruption.

'More' Word For Congress Session

By FRANK ELZEKER
United Press Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON (UP)—Rep. Harold C. Osterlag (R-N.Y.) says the word for the coming session of Congress undoubtedly will be "more." More defense is mostly what Osterlag had in mind for the new year.

He might have added more noise, more bickering, more investigations, more viewing with alarm; more efforts by more members to hook more pet projects onto the defense bandwagon; more official inspection trips along about the end of winter to sunny places like Hawaii and the Panama Canal.

Also, more of a gap than ever between hope and performance on economy, a balanced budget and a tax cut.

None of this is any reflection on the 45 House members less five vacancies as of opening day and 96 Senators who will be returning to their desks on Jan. 7 for the second session of the 85th Congress.

It's just the way the setter fixes. Like most everything else it all can and will be blamed first on Sputnik and second on Republicans, or Democrats, as the case may be, depending on which party you happen not to belong to.

So as of New Year's Day here is the congressional outlook in aspirin boxes:

Missiles: Ask, and it shall be given. Nothing is too good this year for our missile makers. Scientists once again will be spoken to, and kindly, President Eisenhower wants to spend about 40 billion dollars in the new fiscal year on defense. What's already worrying him is how to keep the Congress from giving him more. Last year it was just the other way around. Soviet Party leader Nikita Khrushchev, obviously, is Ike's best lobbyist. Too bad he isn't around to answer some of the questions at the innumerable

U. S. Farmer Winds Up In Predicament

WASHINGTON (AP)—The American farmer wound up 1957 in the same predicament he was in a year ago—a cost-price squeeze.

The Agriculture Department's monthly price report showed prices farmers received for crops and livestock in mid-December were 3 per cent higher than a year ago. Farm production expenses also rose 3 per cent for the year.

Thus the parity ratio between what farmers received and what they paid out was 81 per cent—the same as in December 1956. Parity is the price needed to put commodities sold by farmers on a par with the cost of things they must buy—theoretically a fair return for their products.

The mid-December index of farm prices received was 212 per cent of the 1914 base period. This was unchanged from a month ago. The index of prices paid rose to an all-time high of 293 per cent in mid-month, up three-tenths of one per cent from a month ago. The increase in the prices paid in parity ratio from the 81 per cent registered last month and last December.

The farmer got higher prices during the month for meat animals and sweet potatoes. These were offset by lower prices for cotton, tomatoes, milk and oranges.

The farmer had to pay higher prices for feeder livestock, tractors and trucks. He got a little break in cost-of-family-living items. His cost of food and building materials went up, but the increases were more than offset by price declines for other categories of goods bought for family living purposes. Overall, however, he had to pay more than he did a month before.

Average hog prices for the month were $1.90 per hundredweight, up $1.20 from a month ago and $1.70 from a year ago. Average beef cattle prices were $9 cents per hundredweight, up 90 cents from mid-November and $1.70 from a year ago.

State Legislative Council Calls Meet To Organize Plans

TALLAHASSEE (AP)—The powerful Legislative Council will meet here next Monday to organize its plans for the coming year.

The council, composed of leading senators and representatives, will undertake studies of various matters on which legislation will be sponsored in the 1959 session. On Monday afternoon, a subcommittee of the new interim committee on education will meet to set up practice and procedures for a two year study of teacher's salaries, including merit raise, tenure, qualifications and other matters.

The committee was created as part of the so-called "package" plan for teachers pay raises and school construction, passed by the 1957 Legislature. Members of the subcommittee are Sens. I. K. Edwards, Irvine, and Yum Adams, Orange Park, and Rep. J. E. Cross, Gainesville.

hearings into how come Russia was first.

Yes, cut! Quit kidding yourself and each other. Count yourself lucky taxes aren't going to be raised. With the budget at a peacetime high (74 billion dollars is what it looks like now), and revenues declining, there's no room for a tax cut, no matter what the wishful thinkers are saying.

Offsetting Economies: This is another luan, April 1 style, Congress claimed to have cut the President's money requests last year by billions, and what came of it? Nothing. Spending rolled along. And last year the word was "economy." This year, remember, it's more.

Farm Price Supports: Benson wants authority to lower them. The farm bloc doesn't know what it wants except that this isn't it. Dairy state congressmen hope to repeal Benson's recent order cutting supports under milk. As for the deal they may have to make with other farm interests to put that one across, your guess is as good as anybody's. One thing is certain. It will cost money.

Postal Rates: They'll go up for sure this time. You may as well lay in some of those pretty new red, white and blue four cent stamps for letters of complaint to your congressman. Blame this one on Sputnik II. Uncle Sam will need the extra half billion dollars yearly which a rate increase would produce.

Civil Rights: Plenty of talk about this, with a Sputnik angle here too. The idea is that rights abuse in this country play into Communist hands and that Little Rock did us more damage abroad than Laika, the satellite dog. So go new civil rights legislation, pro or con, is in the cards now.

Tariffs: Boring as it sounds, this is important, and one of Congress' hottest battles this year will be what to do about them. The wants continued authority to negotiate mutual reductions, so trade with our friends will be freer. But Congress has been listening lately to the protectionists who say the home folks are beginning to hurt. For the outcome see your newspapers about next July.

Education: Eisenhower has twice taken a licking on federal aid to build schools. Now he's back with a plan for federal scholarships, and other aids to train more of the scientists we need in the contest with Russia. (Sputnik again.) The senators so far seem more amenable to this than the House.

Statehood: This plum will be dangled, as usual, before Hawaii and Alaska. As usual, it will be snatched away in the nick of time to prevent passage. However, this won't be done without due consideration. One or more inspection groups will certainly make an on-the-spot study at sunny Waikiki, probably sometime near Easter. Alaska they will turn down without even looking.

Presidential Inability: This one already has rolled up plenty of oratorical mileage and is good for lots more. Question is what to do about any President who isn't up to the job, either when he is or isn't in position to make this decision. Some members can't restrain themselves here from giving names, and that's where the trouble starts. In the end, probably nothing will be done.

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

PINT-SIZED impresario Billy Rose seldom has a fit of temper, but when he does, it's a beaut. Like the time a fellow a full two inches taller than Billy came in and asked for a job. "As what?" asked Rose. "As a midgel," was the answer. Rose let out a roar of rage, and the applicant departed on the double.

Somebody tells about a tub-thumping politician who blew into Dallas and explained the raising the Texas papers had been giving him by saying, "These head reporters ain't such bad fellers, but they draw such big salaries they ain't in sympathy with plain folks like me."

A reporter duly quoted this statement, then added, "Other hilarious remarks by the speaker were . . ."

"My cat," said the man, "can say his own name." "Okay," said the other chap. "What's your cat's name?" "Meow," came the answer.

Riding To Work Gives You Chance To Relax

By MERRIAM N. BUNDEN, M.D.

MOST of you probably dread a long bus or train ride to work each morning. You really shouldn't because you can use that time to good advantage.

Whether you stand or sit, it will give you a chance to relax. It will, that is, if you heed these few suggestions.

If you are lucky enough to get a seat make sure you sit so your back rests against the back of the seat. Place both feet comfortably on the floor and let your hands rest easily in your lap.

Really Feel Relaxed
If you feel like dozing, fine, go ahead. You'll really feel relaxed then. If you prefer, you can read a newspaper, book or magazine. One important don't is—don't sit staring out of the window brooding about your problems or the work that awaits you at the office. This commuting time can be a real help to you if you use it properly.

You won't be able to fall asleep if you have to stand all the way to the office. But that doesn't mean you can't relax.

Distribute Weight
Stand on both feet with your weight evenly distributed between them. Don't stand on one foot and then the other thinking you are feeling either. It just doesn't work that way. Relax your shoulders, draw in your tummy and lift your chest.

QUESTION AND ANSWERS
A. A.: I have severe migraine headaches during menstrual periods. What treatment would you advise?
Answer: Injection of small doses of testosterone, or male hormones, about one or two weeks before the period, may help.

Make sure your chair is a firm one. Check the height of the seat, if you can, so that it is the same as the length of your leg from the bottom of the knee to the back of the knee. Flex your knees and keep them at right angles.

Bit on the back of your thighs instead of the back of your spine. And hold your head and trunk erect with your body centered over your pelvis or tilted forward slightly.

There is a good health reason for all of this. Your blood circulation may slow down if you don't sit or stand properly. Your breathing will become shallow and your lungs won't be exercised properly.

FRUIT COMPOTE
To achieve perfection, the fruit for a compote should be varied, absolutely unblemished, and handled with care. Go over the fruit displays with an eagle eye, picking out only what seems particularly delectable. A fine ripe pineapple, half a pound of huge black cherries, apricots, plums—whatever the season offers at its best.

If you are giving this to company, be sure to get enough so that each person can have some of each fruit, bring them home tenderly, wash them and then go to work. They all have to be poached, a few at a time, simmering gently until tender. You can do this in simple syrup, two parts sugar to one of water, or in wine, reversing the proportion of sugar. Sometimes you might try adding a few cloves or a stick of cinnamon. Peaches and apricots you can blanch in syrup or water and then skin; pears you will peel leaving the stem on; cherries keep both stem and pit; pineapple gets carefully skinned, eyed, cored, and cut in wedge-shaped pieces. Put in a few slices of apple too.

As they are finished lift them out of the syrup and put them in a dish—the ice-box variety if you are serving it chilled, a heat proof one if it is to be hot. Then concentrate the syrup to about a third and pour it over the fruit. Usually a compote is set aside to cool and laced with whatever spirituous flavoring you like best when it goes into the refrigerator to chill. Some of the best are kirsch, rum, brandy, red curacao, and Jamaica rum. But if your menu calls for a hot dessert, a gay dessert, a light dessert, serve your

Germans Take To Chicken Dish

Many a German Hausfrau may today be passing by the wiener-schnitzel, and the sauerbraten to try out something new—barbecued chicken, says Myrtle Wilson, home demonstration agent.

That's what Mary Swickard of the U.S. Department of Agriculture reports. She introduced numerous Germans to this American dish during the recent International Trade Fair in Cologne.

Mrs. Swickard, of the Poultry Division, Agricultural Marketing Service, operated a glass-walled demonstration kitchen and dining room, sponsored at the fair by USDA's Foreign Agricultural Service. Later, she conducted poultry demonstrations in Berlin and Frankfurt before various school and industrial groups.

Whatever the event, the barbecued chicken was the smash hit, Mrs. Swickard says. It was a novelty also, for although Germans are great fanatics of all kinds of sauces, they had never before tasted barbecue sauce. American broiler-fryers, such as those used for the barbecued chicken, are something of a novelty in Germany, too, though increasing numbers are being imported and they are quite popular where ever they are introduced.

In preparation for her trip to Germany, Mrs. Swickard converted her USDA barbecued chicken recipe to metric measures and weights, and translated the directions into German. This and other poultry recipes that she used in the demonstrations were mimeographed and distributed to German food editors, home economists, and others who could publish them or make them available to the public in other ways.

Here is the recipe that delighted trade fair visitors and may be simmering in a number of German kitchens today:

Flour, salt, pepper for "flouring" barbecue sauce

SAUCE
2 tablespoons brown sugar
1 tablespoon paprika
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon dry mustard
1/4 teaspoon chili powder
1/2 cup chopped onion
Few grains cayenne pepper
2 tablespoons Worcestershire sauce
1 cup tomato juice
1/4 cup chili sauce or catsup
1/4 cup vinegar

Combine ingredients and cook over low heat 15 minutes

Cooking the chicken:
Cut the chicken in serving pieces. Roll the pieces in the mixed flour, salt, and pepper. Heat the fat and brown the chicken on all sides over moderate heat (about 20 minutes). Pour sauce over the chicken, cover the pan.
Bake at 325 F. (slow oven) about 45 minutes, or until meat is tender. Uncover the pan and place under the broiler. Broil 15 minutes or until meat is brown.

The truth of the matter is that I do not feel like working today, and frankly am almost incapable of doing anything anyway. Typical New Year's Day regrets—but mainly loss of sleep. In order to avoid more unpopularity all over town, I am studiously ignoring all the New Year's Eve parties. Am sure that all of you who went out had a good time. If you didn't you are probably not blaming yourself, and I do not want to be put in the position for any more criticism.

Lake Mary News

By Etile Jane Keogh LAKE MARY—The Community Christmas Tree Friday night was a huge success. The children were ready and waiting for Santa when he arrived at 7:30. Santa took time to speak to each child then presented him with a lovely gift and candy.

Santa arrived again Sunday night at the Community Presbyterian Church. The Sunday School presented a program centered around the story of the Little Black Lamb. The kindergarten, and two primary classes had "pieces" to speak and sing.

Everyone enjoyed the program to the utmost. The children are always cute and so entertaining. After the program Santa arrived and gave everyone candy. The high school group Westminister Fellowship and the Upland High School group gathered after the party for a worship service and the group went caroling.

It was nice to see the Rev. and Mrs. J. W. Scott Sunday night. Mrs. Scott said that she just had to come back for the annual Christmas program. When the Rev. Scott was minister in Lake Mary Mrs. Scott was very active in the annual Christmas program.

Mrs. Ellen Willard and Kathy will accompany her brother and sister-in-law Mr. and Mrs. Jack Keogh to their home in North Carolina. They will return after the first of the year. Enroute home they will spend a day with Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Keogh in Columbia, S. C.

Jane Fales and Karl Scholtz were visitors at our home Sunday night. Jane and I are old friends from camp days and we had many, many things to talk about.

Mrs. C. W. Isabell and Miss Charlotte Isabell were visiting friends Monday. Charlotte is spending the Christmas vacation with her parents in Orlando. She is employed by the University of Florida. Mrs. Isabell said that she and Mr. Isabell hope to start building on their lots on Country Club Road soon after the first of the year.

Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Kindell entertained the children of the Florida State Bank employees at their home Sunday afternoon with a lovely Christmas party. Each child found a gift under the beautifully decorated tree. Then they gathered in the back yard for punch, cup cakes, apples and candy. The Keogh family and the Schooley family from Lake Mary enjoyed the afternoon thoroughly.

Reduction

The legislation, in the form of identical bills, H. R. 6432 and H. R. 8119, calls for reductions in all progressive rates of the personal income tax, with the first bracket rate being reduced from 20 to 15 per cent. The top rates of tax would be brought down to 42 per cent, the individual tax from its present top 91 per cent, and the corporate tax from its present top of 52 per cent.

Testimony concerning the legislation will be heard during the House Ways and Means Committee Tax hearings starting January 7, 1958. "We must spare no dollars needed," Rep. Sadiak and Rep. Herlong stated, "to repair both the losses in international prestige and the obvious weaknesses which we have allowed to develop in our military program, especially in the field of missile and space technology."

"We sense no other prime purposes. One of the prime purposes of advance scheduling of tax reductions in our bills is to give taxpayers a choice as to whether they favor this kind of reform and reduction legislation, or an increasing level of federal spending on any and all programs. We are as confident now as we were when we introduced our bills that given the choice, taxpayers will insist on economies in every area, except those which would threaten national security, in order to achieve all possible budget economies. One of their prime purposes is to give taxpayers a choice as to whether they favor this kind of reform and reduction legislation, or an increasing level of federal spending on any and all programs."

"We hope that all concerned will keep fixed in mind the fundamental nature of the continuing conflict and Communist imperialism. Decisions made at this time may not have their final test for years, but the Nation can afford no delay in turning its sights toward curing defects in the functioning of its free economic system which impair its capacity to grow to the maximum extent without inflation."

"An indispensable step toward curing these defects is a start on repairing the damage to the economy caused by the present tax system in order to create the conditions under which this country can more than keep pace with growth. In addition, we feel that renewed economic growth would so improve the revenue situation that budget balance with provision for debt retirement will be better assured in succeeding years."

While he said he wasn't a crystal ball gazer, Faville remarked that "generally, conditions in this area will be good in 1958. That does not mean that we will not feel the effects of the recent cold weather, we will; but people and business firms are moving into this community and we will continue to make progress in Inverness, in Seminole county and in our neighboring communities across the lake."

The directors are Faville, E. C. Harper Sr., J. H. Van Hoy, H. James Gut, George Touhy, S. F. Doudney and A. Edwin Shinkhorst. High tribute was paid by Pres. Faville to the staff for the courteous and efficient manner in which they had operated during the past 12 months. That staff is made up of George Touhy, executive vice president; Mrs. B. E. 3 Mothers Leave For Far East Today To Visit Sons

LOS ANGELES (UP) — Three mothers of Americans held as "spies" in Communist China for years leave today for the Far East, taking food, warm clothing and love to their imprisoned sons. The three were scheduled to board Pan American World Airways flight 805 at 6 a. m. e.s.t. for Honolulu on the second leg of their trip. They left New York City Wednesday.

"I feel wonderful," said Mrs. Hugh F. Redmond of Yonkers, N. Y. "I can't wait to see my son." Mrs. Redmond said she and the two others mothers, Mrs. Mary V. Downey, New Britain, Conn., and Mrs. Philip G. Fecteau, Lynn, Mass., would leave Honolulu Friday, stop over in Tokyo for 11 hours and then go on to Hong Kong, arriving there Monday.

Once in Red China the three will split up and travel under direction of the Chinese Red Cross to where their sons are imprisoned. Their passports are good for two weeks.

Mrs. Redmond's son, Hugh F. Redmond Jr., 38, was imprisoned near Shanghai after receiving a life sentence in 1954 on charges of spying for the United States.

Redmond, a decorated and wounded veteran of World War II, went to China in 1946 to work for an export-import firm. He was married to an American girl in 1949 but was not permitted to return to the United States with her in 1950. He now is under house arrest.

The other two prisoners, John Thomas Downey, 27, and Richard George Fecteau, 30, were U. S. Army civilians employed when they disappeared on a flight between Japan and Korea in 1952.

They were captured by the Red Chinese and sentenced as spies. Downey for life and Fecteau to 20 years. The three are among six Americans known to be held by the Communists.

Unusual conditions, it was pointed out, the association exceeded last year's loan total by one percent. Highlight of the current statement in Faville's opinion and that of the other directors is the substantial addition that has been made to reserves. "This first safety factor for our savings money is important to us and we know from many favorable comments that it is, also to the folks who have accounts with us," he said. The reserves now equal 10.8 percent of the savings outstanding.

The association is continuing to serve an increasing number of borrowers and savers, fulfilling its purpose of promoting thrift and home ownership, the firm's president commented, the best exceeding by eight percent the 1956 figures. He pointed out that dividends paid during the year totalled $209,521.00 and that in spite of rising costs of money, the loan costs had been maintained at the 1956 level.

While he said he wasn't a crystal ball gazer, Faville remarked that "generally, conditions in this area will be good in 1958. That does not mean that we will not feel the effects of the recent cold weather, we will; but people and business firms are moving into this community and we will continue to make progress in Inverness, in Seminole county and in our neighboring communities across the lake."

Senator Warns U.S. Losing Out To Communists

WASHINGTON UP—A Democratic senator, has warned the United States is "rapidly losing out" to the Communists in another "vital area" affecting national defense—water resources development and climate control.

Sen. James E. Murray, D-Mont. said the Soviets are putting "more effort and emphasis" on irrigation, hydroelectric, flood control, and water transport programs than they are on missile and satellite development.

Murray, chairman of the Senate Interior Committee, said Russia has been announcing "fantastic" plans for such projects to cover vast areas for "even changing the climate of whole provinces."

He called on President Eisenhower to give the matter his immediate personal attention to prevent the Communist bloc from further "outstripping" the nation in water development.

The senator made the statement in a new committee report to the President comparing U. S. progress in the field of water resource development with that of Russia and Communist China.

The report, issued Tuesday night was prepared at Murray's request by committee consultant Michael W. Straus. It came at a time when Murray and other Western legislators were expressing concern over reports that funds for reclamation projects will be cut sharply in the budget for the 1959 fiscal year.

It marked the first time in the annual poll that the winners were chosen on the basis of their first screen performances.

Griffith, who rose to stardom as an illiterate Army private in the Broadway version of "No Time for Sergeants," was honored for his portrayal of a singing, guitar-playing vagrant who becomes a national television idol.

Miss Woodward, who has appeared on Broadway and in television, was cited for her role as a "multiple personality" in the film adaptation of the best-seller authored by two psychiatrists.

Second among the male stars was James Cagney, cited for his portrayal of Lon Chaney in "A Man of a Thousand Faces." James Stewart's portrayal of Charles A. Lindbergh in "Spirit of St. Louis" won him third place.

Fra Marie Saint was runner-up to Miss Woodward on the basis of her role as Celia Pope in "A Hatful of Rain." Carol Baker won third-place honors with her performance in "Baby Doll."

Coincidentally, both Griffith and Miss Woodward also were named "finds of the year."

Joanne Woodward, Griffith Honored For Performances

NEW YORK UP—The nation's film critics have picked Andy Griffith and Joanne Woodward for the best acting performances of 1957.

The critics, in halloing conducted by Film Daily, the movie industry's trade paper, cited Griffith for his role in "A Face in the Crowd" and Miss Woodward for her performance in "Three Faces of Eve."

Expert Says Most Motorists Do Not Use Eyes Properly

EDITORS NOTE: Many of you have expressed a continuing interest in helpful stories about traffic safety. We invite you attention to the following distinctive piece.

UP WASHINGTON

By ROBERT J. SERLING United Press Staff Correspondent WASHINGTON (UP)—I've been driving for 23 years and have had only two medium-size accidents so I thought I was pretty solid behind a wheel.

But a driver-training expert convinced me I've just been lucky. My driving habits are poor enough to get me into trouble 10 times a day without realizing it.

The expert is Harold L. Smith, training director of Detroit's Institute of Driver Behavior. Under sponsorship of the Ford Motor Co. he is teaching safe driving to thousands of trucking firms throughout the United States.

Do Not Use Eyes

Smith's theory is simple. He believes most motorists do not use their eyes properly. He teaches you to use your vision so you can anticipate trouble before it happens. And his definition of an expert driver is one who has never had to skid his tires on a dry pavement in five to 10 years of daily driving.

Smith gave me a two-hour test in Washington's busiest streets—the same examination he gives his regular students before they take his course.

We used a 1958 sedan. I drove carefully—I thought I tried to keep alert, avoid jamming on brakes, obey all traffic laws.

After two hours, Smith handed me my grade—out of a possible 100. Slightly above average, he said. "You were lucky. You committed enough errors to get you into a dozen accidents if other drivers had been committing simultaneous honors."

A Few Examples

There, according to expert Smith, are just a few of the things I did wrong (Smith comments in brackets):

"When unsure of the intentions of someone else, waited too long to adjust speed, change lanes or tap horn. (You were so busy looking at one other car and wondering what it was going to do, you completely ignored other traffic situations around you. You saw about 20 others.)"

"Failed to take frequent glances in rear vision mirror to see what traffic behind me was doing. (You should get into the habit of checking that rear vision mirror once every five seconds.)"

"Didn't stay far enough behind vehicle ahead of me to see past it. (Too many drivers focus their vision on what's just ahead of them, without getting a big picture of the entire traffic situation. They don't leave themselves enough space when the unexpected happens.)"

"Drove too fast in curb lane without regard to what might happen if someone suddenly opened a door on the left side of a parked car or pulled out from the curb. (You observed the speed limit, but you still didn't give yourself enough time to stop in an emergency developed in such close quarters. And you weren't watching those parked cars ahead of you.)"

Truth or Mankind

All right, maybe we did. But what seems to be at stake now is not so much our ability to endure as a national entity as it is our will to preserve a way of goodness and truth for mankind.

If resolution is in order—and any American who wants to may feel free to join in—let us now resolve:

—To see to it that "faith in ourselves" is not a hollow—and even mocking—phrase but a going institution.

—To reaffirm by words that dynamism in America is a living thing rather than a history-book item, that resourcefulness and skill and joy of competition are still our trademarks.

—To stand ready to lose some national fat.

—To try to prove that truth, beauty, courage, and goodness for its own sake are not old-fashioned but are with us now.

—Not in fallar but to move ahead with high spirit.

Perhaps, Elliott suggested, he should quit his job and seek welfare assistance from all six states.

THE CARD OF THANKS

Very often a Card of Thanks in The Sanford Herald meets a need which is difficult to fill in any other way. Not only is it a gracious expression of gratitude to those who have sent floral tributes but also courteously acknowledges the services and kindnesses of the many to whom a personal note of thanks cannot well be mailed.

Newspaper Cards of Thanks are accepted as socially correct. Emily Post, the noted authority on etiquette, feels they serve many good uses.

There is no prescribed form for a Card of Thanks. It can be as brief or as detailed as you desire. When the occasion comes you will find a sympathetically understanding member of our staff to assist you.

THE "IN MEMORIAM" NOTICE

It is the custom of many families in this country to commemorate a bereavement by an "In Memoriam" notice in newspaper classified columns. They find a real solace therein. Preservation of a suitable verse brings back to them tender, pleasant recollections. As Eliza Cook, the English poet has so beautifully expressed it:

"How cruelly sweet are the echoes that start
What memory plays an old tune on the heart"

Most frequently an In Memoriam is inserted on the anniversary of death. However, other dates, which it is felt are appropriate or meaningful are also selected. The birthday of the departed, the wedding anniversary, Memorial Day, even Christmas are among other significant occasions chosen.

If you are hesitant to express your tender thoughts in poetic form, you may avail yourself of the Herald's collection of original verses. These express in poetic beauty the emotions of the heartstrings. Among them are verses appropriate to any circumstance.

THE RATE

Cards of Thanks and In Memoriam notices, due to the fact they may run to considerable length, are billed at $1.00 per column inch.

TV TODAY AND TOMORROW

By Ralf Hardester Feature Editor TV Guide

THE STEVE ALLEN SHOW WILL probably be the first big network program to utilize the new over-the-horizon transmission technique from Cuba to the United States. Steve is taking his entire eye to Havana for a one-shot origination. He'll also do one or two shows from Hollywood in February... 2nd Minea has signed for the title role in Hal Boyer's "Maiden" show. Anna Maria Alberghetti will play the princess... Richard Diamond, Private Detective, which did number duty this year, seems to be the hottest contender to replace "Hush" on Thursday nights for CBS.

After appearing on "Date With The Angels" six times, Jimmy Boyd is now set as a regular with Betty White and Bill Williams... Odds are that Lure and Deas will return next year with another batch of one-hour shows.

Anna Maria ELVIS PRESLEY'S AWARD PRIZE for a TV princess appearance is up from $75,000 to $100,000. So far, no takers at either level... NBC is now talking about Gisele MacKenzie in terms of an hour show for 1958-59... There will be no more guest stars on Guy Mitchell's show... Janie Penne is being considered for the title role in the Marie series planned by MGM-TV... Strike It Rich will finally leave the air in January. It will be replaced by a new audience participation show, Let's Face It... A leading ad agency has assigned Talent Associates to produce a series of holiday musical specials next fall, probably on a once-a-month basis. No other details have been released... Bing Crosby plans to appear on a TV pickup of the Pebble Beach Golf Tournament in January.

PIPER LAURIE WILL PLAY VIOLET in Ebb's opera's Twelfth Night for Hallmark's Hall of Fame opposite Maurice Evans, Howard Morris, former Sid Caesar sidekick, and Rosemary Harris, recently in Prince and the Pauper, have also signed for the show... Several panel changes are in the wind for Goodson-Todman shows. Fay Emerson will join Face It... A leading ad agency has assigned Talent Associates to produce a series of holiday musical specials next fall, probably on a once-a-month basis. No other details have been released... Founding Fathers Rejected Democracy Back In 18th Century

By LYLE C. WILSON
United Press Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON (UP) — Among the basic ideas which befuddled the citizens in the 18th Century the founding fathers set up the United States with democracy as its form of government.

Constitution for the political system known as a democracy in which the voters count all the heads, empty or not, and give the decision to the most numerous. Political orators and others, even including editorial writers, continue, however, to sound off with such deathless phrases as: This great democracy, and so forth.

The Founding Fathers deliberately rejected democracy as undesirable and established the United States as a representative republic, specifically guaranteeing to each state a republican form of government (Article IV, Section 4). In contrast to the democratic or head-counting political form which the Constitution rejected, the republican form is properly defined like this:

A state in which the sovereign power resides in the people qualified voters and is exercised by representatives elected by them. James Madison was effective in steering the Constitution away from democracy. He expressed the fear that democracy favored the self-seeking maneuvers of factions or blocs within a political party.

These facts are intimately related to the national and congressional discussion expected this year seeking more satisfactory processes of nominating and electing presidents of the United States. There has been national dissatisfaction with the presidential election process and agitated discussion of it for many more than 100 years.

In establishing the present Electoral College process, some of the authors of the Constitution felt that they had disposed of the most difficult of all the problems confronting them, but without much confidence that they had done it well.

The direction of discussion in recent years has been generally toward more democracy and less representative republicanism in the election of presidents. There has been considerable support for abandonment of the Electoral College and for a direct popular vote.

A direct popular vote for U.S. senators was established by the 17th Amendment in 1912. They had been chosen by state legislatures. That may indicate a trend. Regardless of the 17th Amendment, however, and talk of direct election of presidents, there is no doubt what the Constitution's authors thought of political democracy. They did not trust it and they were against it.

6 Red Army Deserters Flee East Germany

MRS. STELLA PRYOR EXPLAINS to Sanford Jaycees the nominations for "Queen" in the Annual High Fever Follies to be staged by the Womens Auxiliary of Seminole Memorial Hospital.

BERLIN (UP)— Russian refugee groups reported today that six Soviet soldiers deserted in Communist East Germany New Year's Eve, and four of them beat their way to the West through a ring of Soviet troops.

The display of force, the greatest since the workers revolt of June 1953 indicated the Soviets attached the greatest importance to the deserters. There was wide speculation on a general.

The Russian emigre "Truck-novich committee" in Berlin first reported the defections and another Russian emigre group, the "Soviet resistance organization," in Frankfurt, known as N. T. S., backed it up.

The N. T. S. said the quick action by the Soviet Army blocked the flight of deserters on an even larger scale.

Harman To Give Top 10 Stories At Rotary Meet

For several years past, it has been traditional at the first meeting of the new year for the members of the Sanford Rotary Club to hear J. Marion Harman, Sr., Executive Editor of the Sanford Herald, discuss the outstanding events of the preceding year.

Merchants Will Stage Courtesy Week Sales

Signs are going up, bumper strips are being attached to automobiles, and badges are being distributed today and tomorrow, said Howard McNulty, Jaycee Courtesy Week Chairman.

"We want everybody to know about Courtesy Week which gets underway Monday morning," said McNulty as he placed Jack Hall of Yowell's in putting up the first of the red and white streamers.

There are going to be a number of various events going on next week, said McNulty, "so we want everyone to watch carefully for announcements and pictures of them."

Included in the events will be the cooperation of the Sanford Merchants in staging Courtesy Week Clean-Up Sales. Merchants are cooperating in offering some of the most astounding bargains to make the event a remembered one.

The contest will get underway the first thing Monday in which the most courteous waitress, saleslady, salesman, policeman, and most courteous get will be selected by secret committees.

Courtesy Week in Sanford is being staged by the Seminole County Chamber of Commerce and the Sanford Seminole County Junior Chamber of Commerce.

"During 1958, I resolve to be courteous in all my contacts with others," is the essence of a New Year resolution being adopted throughout Florida at the request of Governor LeRoy Collins in support of the statewide courtesy campaign. Governor Collins made the week official with a proclamation designating the week of Jan. 6-12 as "Florida Courtesy Week."

The response has been immediate and enthusiastic, according to John Krider, manager of the Seminole County Chamber of Commerce.

Prizes of $25 U. S. Savings Bonds are being awarded to winners in the "Courtesy Week" contests being staged here. The bonds are being contributed by civic minded organizations and institutions, said Krider.

School Lunch Price Goes Up

Prices of school lunches went up five cents yesterday in six of Seminole County's schools, Mrs. Charlotte Whitmore, School Lunchroom Supervisor said yesterday.

Up until yesterday, prices for the school lunches were 25c at Seminole High, Pinecrest, Sanford Grammar, Lake Monroe, Wilson, and Crooms Academy.

"Some of the schools raised prices earlier and informed parents by either sending notes home by children or making announcements at Parent-Teacher Association meetings."

"Each school made their own decision which was based upon the financial situation of the lunchroom program," Mrs. Whitmore said.

"Of course, we are continuing to get dry milk, butter, cheese and some beans," Mrs. Whitmore said. Commented the school lunchroom supervisor "Meat is expensive and there is an increase in the cost of fuel as any housewife knows."

But that isn't all, she said. There is a decrease in the rate of reimbursement by the federal government. Each year, she said, a certain amount of money is used to reimburse schools and the appropriation has not been increased in proportion to the number of children attending school. "And even then," she said, "the rates are lower and it is likely that they will be even lower than they are now."

"Right now I am being asked to look at our program very carefully (Continued on Page 8)

Firemen Answer 2 Calls Here

The Sanford Fire Department reported today that two calls had been answered yesterday and today.

A kerosene heater had overturned yesterday at Castle Brewer Court causing only slight damage.

The other alarm answered was this morning at 317 Sanford Ave. in the old Jerry Arcade building which has been condemned and is being torn down. Trash and rubbish was found burning in a metal container causing quite a bit of smoke.

Music Company Holding Convention At Mayfair

There is music in Sanford this week—music for the nation to dance or listen to—and the way Ray Clevens describes it — it's "Music in Color."

Ray Clevens is general sales promotion manager of Symphonic Radio and Electronic Corp. of New Brunswick, N. J., a firm that is holding its annual national sales and distributors convention at the Mayfair Inn this week.

"We have salesmen and distributors coming here from all over the country," said Clevens. And to greet them is one of the most fabulous displays of record players, Hi-Fi phonographs, and tape recorders ever shown. They're all over the Mayfair Inn ballroom, literally "stacked in" so that company representatives can get a complete view of "all that we have for the music lovers of America."

On display are record players—the smallest being a portable with three speeds that sells for only $19.95 up to high fidelity instruments that are the epitome in magnificent sound reproduction units.

"When we say 'music in color,' Ray Clevens said last night, we mean color literally. "Just look at that display," he said, waving around the Mayfair Inn's huge ball room, "there's every color in the rainbow including one model in genuine leather covering."

Stepping over to the specific model Clevens rubbed the case and said "The leather is superb—and not only that, this is a portable high fidelity model with four speeds."

"We have gone all out for portables and high fidelity," the sales manager of the huge phonograph firm said. "A real prize is the Symphonic tape recorder with internal speaker for stereophonic sound."

Clevens demonstrated the tape recorder that, in his words, "adds thrilling new dimensions to high fidelity reproduction."

He described stereophonic sound this way, "The system is on breathtaking you can hardly believe your ears. It's the ultimate achievement in listening pleasure. There are extra dimensions to sound reproduction—depth, realism, and direction. You actually enjoy thrilling "concert hall" performances in your own home."

Another item on display caught Clevens' eye as he described the full display manufactured by Symphonic and he exclaimed "I've got to show you this one."

It was a 45 RPM record player. A table model it was—neat, compact and ready to fit into any niche for enjoyment. He picked up the phonograph and slid it into a colorful frame with a handle and it automatically became a "portable."

"We have all of them," said Clevens, "manually operated phonographs with three speeds, four speeds, automatic, portable, table models, single speakers, double speakers, four speakers—yes, all of them right on up to the huge console models. We believe in music," he said, and added, "music in color."

His last words, however, were "What's the weather going to be tomorrow?"

Jaycees Are Asked To Nominate High Fever Follies Queen

The Sanford Seminole County Junior Chamber of Commerce heard details yesterday at its luncheon meeting on nominations for "Queen" of the High Fever Follies.

One officer and three enlisted men reached West Berlin safely, the organization said.

Second Officer Shoh

A second officer was reported shot by a Red Army patrol near the East-West border and a third officer was reported still at liberty trying to reach the West.

The Truchnovich Committee said all four deserters who reached West Berlin already had been flown out of the isolated city.

Of the four, only one was accounted for by Western officials. The British admitted granting asylum to one Russian. U. S. and French spokesmen said they had no Russians. However, the Western allies always have been resistant to admit the flight of Russian soldiers.

Dr. Roberts Named Chief Of Staff At Local Hospital

Dr. W. V. Roberts was elected Chief of Staff at the Seminole Memorial Hospital in a recent meeting of the Medical Staff. Dr. Roberts succeeds Dr. C. L. Park Sr., who has held the office for two years.

Others selected for office were Dr. T. F. McDaniel, vice-chief; Dr. C. F. Brooks Smith, secretary-treasurer.

The following appointments were made by the new chief: Dr. C. L. Park Sr., chief of surgery; Dr. John Morgan, chief of obstetrics; Dr. Gordon Stanley, chief of medicine; and Dr. Orville Barks, chairman of credentials committee.

Fierce Winds Hit Southeast Coast

MIAMI (UP)— Fierce gale winds up to 55 miles an hour raked the southeast Florida coast for the second straight day today, causing heavy property damage.

The gusts broke plate glass windows, knocked down power lines, uprooted trees and shrubs, grounded planes and postponed dog racing in Miami for the first time in history. The Miami police department was virtually knocked out of operation for more than half an hour Thursday night when a palm frond crashed across the main power line near the station.

The Miami weather bureau hoisted gale warnings from the Keys to Daptona Beach and said winds up to 50 miles an hour would whip the coastal area during the day, diminishing slowly this afternoon and tonight.

Heavy, driving rain pelted the area, flooding streets. All small shipping was warned to stay in port in the southeast Florida-Bahamas-Cuba region.

The fringe effects of the storm brought gusts and rain over a wide area. Small craft warnings were flying from the Keys to Tampa on Florida's west coast and from Daytona Beach north to Charleston, S. C., on the east coast. The torrential rains threatened to cause heavy damage in the already waterlogged winter vegetable belt in southern Florida. Continued rains could cause damage in the millions to Dade County's tomato crop, by far the largest now in cultivation in the nation.

Assistant county agent Nolan Durso said a return of sunshine in the next few days would save the tomatoes. He said there appears to be little danger so far of serious flooding.

The principal danger to the crop, he said, was from fungus disease stimulated by the damp weather. He said the rain prevented farmers from spraying their tomatoes for the last seven days because of nightly drizzles.

The storm also had the chamber of commerce here unhappy during one of the peak periods in the south Florida tourist season. Beaches were empty and all outdoor sports halted.

Airlines Thursday night were forced to divert 34 of 171 incoming flights from Miami to other cities in Florida and the Caribbean. At times, the Civil Aeronautics Administration tower at Miami International airport said as many as 20 airlines were stacked in the skies above Miami awaiting permission to land.
