

Zoning Scrutiny Set In Paint Firm's Bid To Re-Build

The Sanford City Commission at its Dec. 27 meeting will decide whether to give permission to United Solvents of America to rebuild a warehouse and offices destroyed by fire at the paint products plant on Oct. 29.

In the meantime, commissioners Monday night tabled discussion of a request for meetings with company officials to establish guidelines for construction.

In the intervening two weeks, City Manager W.E. "Pete" Knowles is to search city ordinances to find what requirements the firm would have to fulfill in a reconstruction or if city law even permits the reconstruction of the Airport Boulevard facility.

"Look at the zoning ordinance to see if the facility can even be built at all," Commissioner David Farr told Knowles, while Commissioner Milton Smith asked, "Why can't they move somewhere else?"

It was noted that the firm owns the tract on Airport Boulevard and probably would prefer to use that property rather than move into an industrial park where another parcel would have to be purchased.

At a commission meeting in early November, Knowles said he concurred with some 70 residents from nearby Academy Manor, who sought assurances from the city commission that the plant would not be rebuilt so near their homes.

Louise Wellon, 139 Bethune Circle, told commissioners she was temporarily blinded by chemicals carried by smoke from the blaze into her neighborhood.

Robert B. Thomas of 129 Bethune Circle, spokesman for the Academy Manor residents, said the chemical fire and the thick smoke it produced damaged homes and cars and destroyed vegetables residents were growing in their yards.

Attorney Kenneth McIntosh, on behalf of United Solvents of America Inc. officials, wrote to Knowles to inform that the firm wants to "open channels of communication regarding construction" at its site.

He said that the firm's new storage area would contain "empty containers only." Asking that the city review the matter for an early meeting, McIntosh said, "Time is of the essence."

The firm, according to McIntosh's letter, plans to build a 4,000 square foot production filling and packaging building. The building would be of block wall construction and have a sprinkler system, fire detection devices, explosion-proof lighting and all electrical connections would comply with building codes.

The building, McIntosh said, would be used for daily production filling only. "At the end of each work day, all materials will be removed and stored in new warehouse located in the center of the property," McIntosh said.

He added that storage in the production building would be limited to empty containers only and all filling equipment would be emptied and secured at the end of each work day.

Flood

Farmers Blame Developer For Ruined Crops

Three Lake Monroe farmers are blaming a new ditch put in by a developer to drain a 280-acre tract adjacent to their property for flooding their farms after Sunday's heavy rain.

Farmland belonging to Gerald Behrens, Donald Burk and Lyle Burk on Oregon Avenue and Orange Boulevard was still under water today and water was flowing across Oregon Avenue and saturating the road bed.

County owned culverts proved inadequate to handle the excess water. Debris was being removed from the culverts by a county crew this morning to help drain off the flooded farms.

The three farmers said they are considering taking legal action against the developer, but they, and apparently the county, do not know who the developer is.

A spokesman for American Land Realty Inc., 4842 W. State Road 46, who the farmers thought was the developer, said they are only a brokerage firm and the 280 acres are owned by a group under a trust. The spokesman would not reveal the owners names or the trustee.

Behrens said a 12-foot wide, 4-foot deep ditch was put in by the land developer dumping more water into the existing ditch than it could handle flooding 40 acres ready for planting cabbage. A small part had been sowed with seeds and will have to be replanted.

Donald Burk had 15 acres planted with eggplant and squash which were ready for picking and five acres of pasture when the floods came. His horses and cattle are now crowded into the only corner of the pasture left out of the water.

Lyle Burk had 16 acres ready for planting cabbage, which are now under water.

charge of water management for the county, said county staff had not approved the clearing operation on the 280 acres, which he described as "a very sensitive swampy area."

"If they do submit plans for review we will have to look into it carefully," he said.

Griffey said that the county is now in the process of looking into the problem trying to determine a legal description and who the owner is.

City Seeks Way To Rid Wells Of EDB

By Donna Estes
Herald Staff Writer

Faced with uncertainty about when the state will be able to set guidelines on how to clear three city wells of EDB contamination, the Sanford City Commission has instructed its staff to come up with its own cleanup plan and a cost estimate to accomplish the task.

Commissioner David Farr started the ball moving in that direction at Monday night's city commission meeting.

He noted that Sanford is one of the few cities in Florida, if not the only one, where there has been a shutdown of a significant portion of the municipal water supply because of contamination by the suspected cancer-causing pesticide, ethylene dibromide.

The three wells represent 20 percent of the city's 13-well water supply.

EDB, injected this summer into the greens at the Mayfair Golf Course where the city's wells are located, apparently caused the contamination.

City Manager W.E. "Pete" Knowles says the state has no criteria for ridding the wells of the EDB.

To a suggestion from Alex Alexander, district manager of the state Department of Environmental Regulation in Orlando, Knowles said the city can create a filtration system using activated carbon.

"Perhaps this would work, but it will not be cheap," Knowles said, possibly as much as $100,000.

Knowles said activated carbon filtration is not new to water treatment and it will remove gaseous substances from water. He said that EDB becomes a volatile gas at certain temperatures.

Dr. Jefferson Flowers, an Altamonte Springs chemist who ran tests on Sanford water samples from the three contaminated wells, said that EDB will become a gas and escape into the air when the tainted water is aerated. State officials, however, disagree.

Farr said that none of the staff-generated cleanup plans may be financially feasible.

"But when you turn up a lemon, sometimes it is the best to make lemonade," he said.

"If we wait for the state to tell us what to do, it will take the course of least resistance and say no," Farr said.

In the meantime, Alexander has suggested that the city retain a consultant to investigate the possibility of installing the activated carbon filtration system at the well heads as an interim measure.

"Previous studies indicate that a minimum 10 minute contact time will remove EDB to below detectable levels," Alexander said.

He added that the state DER laboratory will retest the city's three down wells as soon as the wells can be pumped to the proper level.

Knowles reported that the city began identical tests last week, with samples being sent to the DER recommended Orlando Laboratory in Orlando for testing at city expense.

Knowles said results from those tests are expected by Monday. He said a spokesman for the state Department of Health and Human Services said the three down wells will be retested by that agency before Friday.

For Sanford Probationer

'Tis Not The Season To Be Jolly

Jerome Washington, 37, of Sanford, may not be having a jolly pre-Christmas season.

His un-ho ho ho yule began Nov. 28 when he was arrested for violation of probation on an unemployment compensation fraud conviction.

The infraction landed him in the Seminole County jail until Dec. 9.

While in jail, police reports show, someone burglarized his home at 512 Celery Ave., entering through a window. The intruder apparently took $5,579 worth of articles.

Among the items stolen, leaving Washington's holiday cupboard bare, were a television set, stereo system, cassette recorder and tapes, coins, a fur cape, a diamond ring, a revolver, clothes, meat and canned goods, sheets, towels, a clothes iron, a basket, and two picture frames.

"I was totally devastated,"

Washington said today. "It doesn't really feel like a holiday season for me."

And if fate was not unsmiling enough, while in jail Washington was re-arrested on a bench warrant Dec. 9 for failing to show up for a trial regarding a worthless check charge.

Washington was released from jail Friday on $1,000 bond.

Seminole Educators Say Reagan Remarks Don't Apply Here

A Seminole County school principal branded as "rhetoric" much of President Reagan's recent speech before educators in Indianapolis where he listed his administration's priorities for achieving excellence in public education.

Sanford Middle School principal Dan Pelham said today that the state of Florida and Seminole County in particular are far ahead of the nation in solving problems the president mentioned.

"Everything I've seen from the federal government has so many strings that when it gets here (to Seminole County) it's not worth the venture," Pelham said.

"If he is talking about reforms and laws, I don't know what he can reform. The school system in Florida has the legal procedures to have strong discipline. You get to the situation involving students' legal due process and I don't think he is talking about doing away with those constitutional rights.

"The state of Florida has taken the leadership role with the back to basics concept. I don't know how far back the president is thinking, but we are not living in the world of his boyhood," Pelham said. "Curriculum has to be updated to the times. There is a lot more to education now than there was even 10 years ago."

"With good discipline all the other things are possible.

We have seen a general breakdown among students of just plain honor, the willingness to do the right thing, respect for authority, respect of one's elders including teachers and parents," Pelham said.

Noting that Seminole County has a student conduct policy and has had a method of punishing errant students for 10-to-12 years, Pelham said, "I don't know how he could improve on that. It sounds like a bunch of rhetoric, but his heart is in the right place."

In his speech before teachers and school administrators Thursday Reagan said he has directed the federal departments of Justice and Education to find ways "we can help teachers and administrators enforce discipline. Whatever it takes, we must make certain America's schools are temples of learning, not drug dens."

A White House spokesman said the Justice Department's role would be to "identify ways for principals to work with local law officials and find ways to communicate school law enforcement problems to the community."

Saying schools need "fundamental reforms," Reagan called for "good, old-fashioned discipline," an end to drug and alcohol abuse, increased academic standards, a return to the basics, restoration of state and local control of schools and performance-based pay for teachers."

Dr. Hortense Evans, project director for school based management in Seminole County, said there are parent organizations in the county working to solve the problem with drugs and the school system is "always looking for alternative and effective methods of helping students with problems of this nature."

Dr. Evans pointed to the officer in the schools program where sheriff's deputies are located at four county schools — Lynnan, Lake Howell and Lake Brantley high schools and Sanford Middle School.

Wayne Epps, principal of Seminole High School at Sanford, said Reagan's speech sounded like a restatement of goals in education adopted by the Florida Legislature earlier this year.

"Florida has already taken the steps in the back-to-basics direction," Epps said.

Of discipline in the schools, Epps said, "The school system has been very cooperative on the county level of promoting good discipline for years. We have no problem here. But I've heard from other administrators that it isn't the same in other areas," Epps said.

Pelham said state law gives the principal or his designee authority ranging from the administration of corporal punishment to a recommendation that a student be expelled.

"It's been that way for 10-to-12 years. Seminole County's policy is one of the strongest in the state and it has been well-received by students and parents. We act as a parent and have the same basic rights as a parent when the child is at school. We have authority to paddle," Pelham said.

Sterling Park principal Mike Townsley said Reagan was addressing the norm and below average school system.

"But we have an excellent school system here." Noting in any system there is always room for improvement, Townsley said he takes off, "when Seminole is lumped in with other public education systems in the nation.

"We have many dedicated and excellent teachers here. I don't think what the president said applies to Seminole County. We have no problem enforcing discipline and by and large our parents are cooperative," Townsley said.

NATION IN BRIEF

Panel To Recommend 21 As Drinking Age

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Reagan's commission on drunken driving, which issues its report today, is recommending raising the minimum legal drinking age to 21 nationwide, administration officials said.

But the Presidential Commission on Drunk Driving, headed by former Transportation Secretary John Volpe, wants the states to establish the minimum drinking age instead of setting federal legislation, the officials said.

Officials said if the states refuse to go along with the minimum drinking age recommendation, Congress could pass appropriate legislation. The administration favors the states' handling this matter and would give them sufficient time to do so, officials said.

Other key recommendations include stepping up public education about driving drunk and cracking down on offenders, including imposing mandatory suspension of the driver's license or — in severe cases — jail terms. The panel also will suggest that judges consider a "victim impact statement" when sentencing a drunken driver who killed or injured someone.

Bad Checks Net Small Fine

HOUSTON (UPI) — A man given a new identity under the federal witness protection program used an FBI reference to set up a scam that passed $83 million in worthless checks, but was fined only $1,000 in a plea bargain, a newspaper reported.

A dignified looking man acting under the name John M. Bennett — the identity provided by the federal witness protection program after the man testified against two California policemen in a securities fraud case — used an FBI reference to start the scam at a Houston area bank, the Houston Chronicle reported in a copyright story Monday.

He said he put the cash in the Capital Preservation Fund in California because the fund takes advantage of the time it takes for checks to clear banks across the country, Capital Preservation Fund since has changed its rules.

Once the scheme was going, Bennett said he moved from bank to bank using the previous banks as references.

Real Adoptee Strikes Back

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — A San Francisco man says Cabbage Patch dolls ridicule and humiliate adopted persons and he has asked a court for $100 million in punitive damages in a class action suit filed on behalf of all adoptees.

Martin Brandon filed the suit in San Francisco Superior Court Monday against the designer, maker and seller of the dolls.

"The advertising campaign holds adopted persons up to ridicule and humiliation by implying these individuals are bought and sold," the suit says. Thus, Brandon alleges, he and other adopted persons are caused to suffer "emotional distress and psychological harm."

Last U.S. Combat Troops Leave Grenada; Support Crews Remain

FORT BRAGG, N.C. (UPI) — The last combat troops left Grenada and returned to Fort Bragg to meet the Reagan administration's Christmas deadline for withdrawal of U.S. fighting men from the island.

About 700 paratroopers of the crack 82nd Airborne Division, wearing camouflage fatigues and helmets with jungle netting, arrived home Monday for reunions with families and friends they had not seen in seven weeks.

"It's just great" to be home, said Staff Sgt. Robert Teske.

Lt. Col. K.M. Nightingale said he had forgotten about the holiday season until he returned to his office and saw a potted plant his wife decorated with Christmas ornaments.

"It's hard to think about Christmas when you've got 85-degree temperatures, azure seas and white beaches around you," said Nightingale, 40.

Nightingale's battalion was the last element of the 82nd Airborne and the last combat outfit to leave Grenada, Fort Bragg spokesmen said.

About 700 to 1,000 American soldiers from military police, medical and other support units remain on the island, but most are scheduled to return home later this week, leaving a force of about 300 MPs and support personnel to assist the Grenadan government.

Eighty-second Airborne paratroopers began arriving on Grenada Oct. 26 to relieve lightly armed Army Rangers and Marines who invaded the island a day earlier.

Several hundred wives, children and friends — many of them waving American flags and wearing yellow ribbons — watched as C-141 transports carrying the 2nd Battalion arrived at nearby Pope Air Force Base in a light, steady rain.

Members of the 2nd Battalion's A Company carried their rifles as they met their families and friends inside the unit's dayroom, which was decorated with red and green crepe paper and balloons. Spec. 4 Jeff Zell of Fort Wayne, Ind., fed his son Matthew, whom he last saw when the infant was three weeks old.

Zell said his company was "locked up" on the day of the Grenada invasion and arrived on the island the next day. While he waited, he said he re-enlisted and will be trained in helicopter maintenance.

"It's scary when you get off the plane," Zell said. He said he never came under direct fire, but some members of his outfit were fired on by snipers during their first days in the island.

Nightingale, who served in Vietnam, said only seven other men under his command had previous combat experience, but the entire battalion was psychologically prepared for combat.

The men did a "super job," Nightingale said.

While the last of the U.S. combat forces have left Grenada, 700 to 1,000 military police and medical personnel remain. They are scheduled to be home within a week.

Intense Security Surrounds Reagan

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Recent incidents of suicide terrorist attacks in the Middle East have led to extraordinary security measures at the White House and wherever President Reagan travels.

Sources confirm anti-aircraft missiles are part of the defensive arsenal at the White House, where new concrete barriers have been built to prevent the kind of suicide truck bombings that have occurred in Lebanon and Kuwait.

The barriers leading to the back gates of the executive mansion have been enhanced aesthetically with plantings. White House counselor Edwin Meese predicted, "You are going to see them for a long time."

Every new form of protection that has been instituted at the executive mansion over the years has seemed to stay permanently.

While Reagan was vacationing in California last August, new, stronger White House gates were built and metal detectors were installed in the guardhouse at the entrance to the West Wing, where presidential offices are located.

Guests invited to White House parties must also go through the airport-style megatometers and women's purses are inspected.

More recently a White House order went out for vehicles, often carrying heavy television equipment, to be checked by bomb-sniffing dogs.

Food brought into the White House is X-rayed, as mail and packages have been for many years, and passes are now scrutinized with extra care.

The White House cannot yet be described as a fortress, but there is no question Reagan's activities are severely curtailed by increasing security needs.

Presidents have traditionally lighted the national Christmas tree each year and broadcast a brief holiday message. But security precautions have blocked Reagan from attending the open air event in the evening in the park in back of the White House.

On Thursday, for the third year in a row, Reagan will press a button to light the tree from inside the White House.

Sources confirmed that ground-to-air missiles such as the shoulder-fired heat-seeking Stingers or Redeyes are part of the protective arsenal for the White House. The weapons could be launched from the roof of the White House or the next door Executive Office building.

White House air space is sacrosanct, and aircraft are monitored from nearby National Airport across the Potomac River.

President Kennedy's assassination in 1963 led to greater secrecy for presidential movements. Motorcade routes through big cities now are routinely kept secret. Oftentimes, the whole police force of a city or town is on duty to protect the president, sometimes a costly appearance for the local citizens.

The attempt on Reagan's life outside a Washington hotel in 1981 led to other innovations, including a swat squad of sharpshooters in the motorcade, decoy limousines and a blackout of his public schedule.

Court Rejects Surgery For 'Baby Jane Doe'

NEW YORK (UPI) — The parents of a severely handicapped New York infant hope the Supreme Court's decision not to order life-prolonging surgery for their daughter will keep other families from having to go through the same ordeal, their attorney says.

The parents, who have been identified only as Mr. and Mrs. A. of Smithtown, N.Y., have been subjected to numerous court actions ever since "Baby Jane Doe" was born two months ago with multiple birth defects. They decided not to permit surgery for the baby, who doctors said would live in constant pain even with the operation.

The Supreme Court refused Monday to enter the legal battle and let stand a New York court ruling upholding the parents' decision to withhold surgery.

But a "pro-life" attorney, who has been appointed the child's guardian in the legal battle in New York's courts, vowed to continue his fight.

Despite the court's rejection of Weber's plea, the Reagan administration's well-publicized suit to examine the baby's medical records is still pending before a three-judge panel in federal court in New York.

Government lawyers want the records to determine if she is receiving proper care or is a victim of illegal discrimination merely because she is handicapped.

Altamonte Man Busted For Growing Pot At Home

An Altamonte Springs man charged with cultivation and sale of a controlled substance has been arrested by Seminole County undercover drug agents.

The agents reported that on Nov. 7, they approached the suspect at his home and negotiated with him to purchase a bag of marijuana for $30. The agents and uniformed sheriff's deputies returned to the house Monday and arrested the man, a report said.

Seminole County sheriff's spokesman John Spolski said that while the uniformed deputies were arresting the suspect the undercover agents noticed several marijuana plants that were being cultivated along the southwest side of the house. The value of the small crop has not been determined.

Charlie Wyatt Knutson, 26, of 220 Lake Shore Drive, was arrested at 8:28 a.m. He was released from the Seminole County Jail Monday after posting a $2,000 bond and is scheduled to appear in court on Dec. 30.

CIVIL SUITS
The following civil lawsuits have been filed in Seminole Circuit Court:

Dental Disagreement
Clark L. Human is suing Dr. Alan Guy for unspecified damages in excess of $500,000 regarding the removal of one of his wisdom teeth on or about Dec. 8, 1981.

In his suit, Human maintains that Guy failed to disclose to him serious or statistically frequent risks regarding removal of the tooth. Human maintains that since the tooth's removal, he has suffered permanent paresthesia (a sensation as of pricking, tingling, or creeping on the skin without apparent cause.) Human is seeking damages for pain and injuries, dental expense, scarring or disfigurement, mental suffering and loss of capacity to lead and enjoy a normal life, according to court papers.

Video Filing Out
Neil Solomon is suing The Video Game Facility, Inc., and the company's directors, Alex Bronsonki and David Ungar, regarding the purchase and placement of video game machines.

On Sept., 10, 1982, according to the suit, Solomon paid the defendants $10,000 for 12 video game machines, 10 to be placed at the Taco Maker Restaurant at State Road 436 and U.S. Highway 17-92 in Casselberry. Solomon maintains that the company did not have a disclosure statement, did not file a disclosure statement, did not give him a written contract, and provided locations for the machines for which written authorization by the property owners or lessees was not obtained. Solomon, according to court papers, has asked for reimbursement of $10,000 plus costs and attorney fees.

CARPOT SMASH UP
A 1969 Ford Bronco parked at Yale Avenue and E. 25th St., Sanford, received $5,000 worth of damage when a flatbed trailer in tow left the road and careered into it.

According to a Sanford police report, a homemade lowboy trailer towed by a 1974 Chevrolet truck owned by R&M Packing, Inc., Geneva, and driven by Carl Samuel Bigler, 2401 Willow Ave., Sanford, separated from the truck when it crossed a set of railroad tracks on E. 25th St. near Yale Avenue late Sunday morning.

U.S. Gunners Retaliate For Antiaircraft Fire

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — The U.S. Sixth Fleet fired at antiaircraft gunners in the Lebanese mountains east of Beirut today after U.S. reconnaissance flights came under renewed attack, a U.S. Embassy spokesman said.

It was the second time American forces have launched strikes in retaliation for such antiaircraft fire. American bombers struck Syrian positions in Lebanon Dec. 4 in their first retaliatory strike against antiaircraft fire.

U.S. Embassy spokesman John Stewart said he did not know whether the gunners were Syrians or antigovernment Lebanese forces.

"There was some naval gunfire at antiaircraft positions in the mountains that were firing again at reconnaissance flights," said Stewart.

Stewart said he could not identify the ship or ships involved, but said the USS New Jersey battleship did not fire.

"The policy is that U.S. multinational force troops will respond to hostile fire from whatever source and in whatever way deemed necessary," said Stewart, reiterating President Reagan's pledge to counter attacks in Lebanon.

Embassy Reopens Amid Tight Security After Bombing

KUWAIT (UPI) — Kuwait deployed army units outside Western embassies today and stepped up its investigation into bomb attacks on the U.S. Embassy and other targets in the oil-rich sheikhdom that killed four people and wounded 62.

American officials inspecting the damaged U.S. Embassy, which resumed operation with half the staff reporting to work, said today it was a "miracle" the casualty toll was not higher.

A flag that would have been lowered to mourn the deaths of at least three people killed and 20 others wounded when the truck-bomb exploded Monday fluttered from atop its pole because rope was damaged in the blast.

Embassy spokesman David Good said at least three people and possibly a fourth were killed in the blast that may result in between 20 and 35 injuries.

Kuwait's Parliament went into closed session today to discuss the bombings, all of them caused by either cars or trucks packed with dynamite.

Bombs rocking Kuwait in 90 minutes Monday killed a total of four people and wounded 62. Minister of State for Prime Ministry Affairs Abdul Aziz Hussein said.

None of those killed was American.

The same Islamic fundamentalist group that said it carried out previous suicide bombings at the U.S. Marine headquarters and embassy in Beirut claimed responsibility for the blasts.

Targets also included the French Embassy, Kuwait international airport, where one man was killed and another 43 wounded, a petrochemical plant and a U.S. residential area.

Abdul refused to confirm a report that the owner of a company to whom all the vehicles had been registered had been arrested.

He refused to say how many people had been taken in for questioning or if anyone had been officially arrested on charges of participating in the bombings.

"Only half the staff reported to work today," said U.S. Embassy spokesman David Good. He said between 10 and 20 people were at work in the devastated compound.

Good said the Mercedes truck that slammed the embassy gate exploded in between a warehouse complex and a three-story administrative annex, which caught fire and collapsed.

"There was no specific threat that anything was going to happen," Good said. He said the embassy had been on alert ever since the October bombing of the Marine headquarters in Beirut.

Embassy officials said more lives would have been lost if all of the butane gas cylinders loaded on the truck in addition to the explosives had detonated.

"We really consider it a miracle that no more people were killed," Good said.

A government official said armored army units have been assigned to reinforce "some embassies that we fear could be further targets."

An armored personnel carrier with a machine gun mounted atop the carrier and trained on passersby guarded the British Embassy today.

All roads leading to the U.S. Embassy were cordoned off, and the identity papers of all those visiting the compound were carefully checked.

The Arabic daily Al Watan said police patrols have been increased and army units posted at sensitive and vital installations such as water desalination and power plants.

Kuwaiti Crown Prince and Prime Minister Sheikh Saad al Abdallah al Sabah vowed that the "cowardly, low crimes — will not go unpunished."

A group calling itself the Islamic Jihad, or Islamic Holy War, claimed responsibility for the bombings in a telephone call to a Beirut news agency. The same group claimed responsibility for the Oct. 23 suicide bombing at the Marine headquarters in Beirut and the April 18 bombing at the U.S. Embassy in the Lebanese capital.

The United States has blamed the Iranian regime of Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini for attacks by the Jihad group.

Syrians Take To Streets In Anti-U.S. Protest

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — Thousands of Syrians flocked through the streets of Damascus today in an anti-American rally to protest the new U.S.-Israeli strategic military cooperation, while a French soldier was killed in an ambush in Beirut.

A French spokesman said French troops traveling in a convoy in Moslem West Beirut came under small arms fire from unidentified gunmen. The troops returned the fire and one French soldier later died of undetermined injuries, the spokesman said.

The televised rally, organized to protest the new American-Israeli military accords and monitored in Beirut, coincided with the postponement of a visit to Damascus by U.S. Presidential envoy Donald Rumsfeld. He had been expected to press for the release of American attorney Lt. Robert Goodman Jr. who was shot down Dec. 4 during U.S. retaliatory air strikes on Syrian positions in Lebanon.

KAL Report Due Today

MONTREAL (UPI) — The International Civil Aviation Organization waited until today to release details of its investigation into the Soviet downing of a Korean jet in order to review Soviet documents on the disaster.

KAL flight 007, which originated in New York, was en route to Seoul, South Korea, from Anchorage, Alaska, when it went off course and was shot down Sept. 1, killing all 269 people aboard.

Portions of the report, leaked to the Canadian Broadcasting Corp. and the New York Times last week, indicated that the cockpit crew of the Korean Air Lines' Boeing 747 would be partly blamed for the incident.

The reports said the jetliner strayed over Soviet territory because its cockpit crew programmed the on-board computer with the wrong starting point.

FLORIDA IN BRIEF

Police Step Up Hunt For 'Pillowcase' Rapist

MIAMI (UPI) — Police are stepping up their manhunt for a wily, athletic rapist who blindfolds his victims with pillowcases to prevent them from seeing his face and who is becoming increasingly violent.

The suspect is believed to be responsible for at least 11 attacks that have occurred since 1981 and may have carried out many more, police said Monday.

Police said they know the same man is responsible for the attacks because his sexual habits are distinct, but would not elaborate.

The articulate, soft-spoken attacker chooses attractive, white women in their 20s and 30s who live in large apartment or condominium complexes and who have good jobs. Most of his victims have lived alone and were asleep when he broke in through a window or sliding glass door. Occasionally he helps himself to jewelry or cash.

Engineer May Get New Trial; Prosecutor May Drop Robbery Charge

DALLAS (UPI) — A black engineer sentenced to life in prison for a robbery he insists he did not commit won a victory in his battle for a new trial, clearing the way for his release by the weekend.

Dallas County District Judge John Ward is expected to grant a new trial today and an attorney said Lenell Geter might be freed from prison.

District Attorney Henry Wade Monday said he would join Geter's lawyers in a motion for a new trial. He said the robbery charge would be dropped if Geter passes a polygraph test ordered by his office.

But Wade said if Geter failed the test, he would be retried.

Geter was convicted in October 1981 in the robbery of a Balch Springs, Texas fried chicken restaurant. The 24-year-old graduate of South Carolina State College was sentenced to life in prison in the robbery.

A number of Geter's co-workers at Systems Inc. in Greenville, Texas testified that Geter was at work the day of the robbery, but that went squarely against the testimony of five restaurant employees, who identified Geter as the robber.

Liz Taylor In Hospital To Shake Drug Problem

RANCHO MIRAGE, Calif. (UPI) — Actress Elizabeth Taylor has checked into a chemical dependency center, saying she suffers from problems similar to the ones that sent former first lady Betty Ford to the hospital six years ago.

In a prepared statement read Monday night by a spokesman, Miss Taylor, 51, said she admitted herself to the Betty Ford Center at Eisenhower Medical Center Dec. 5.

The center is named for the former first lady, who is a member of the Eisenhower Medical Center board and who was treated for alcohol and pill dependency at Long Beach Naval Hospital in 1977.

The statement said Miss Taylor chose the center because she "has great admiration for Betty Ford and believes her problems to be very similar to that experienced by Mrs. Ford in that much of her trouble stems from prescription drugs administered over a period of years to combat her various medical problems."

Not Whether, But How...

The Reagan administration has chosen a case involving the Detroit police department to make its first argument in court that Affirmative Action programs which use racial quotas for hiring and promotion are unconstitutional. The suit brought by white officers claiming to be victims of discrimination on the Detroit police force is an ideal one to elicit a definitive ruling on the issue from the U.S. Supreme Court.

It is ideal because all the parties can agree at the outset that there was discrimination against blacks on the Detroit police force and that it needed to be corrected. The Justice Department has acknowledged this in its friend-of-the-court brief on behalf of the white officers. No one is trying to defend a discriminatory personnel system.

The Detroit police department obviously needed an Affirmative Action program when Coleman Young was elected mayor in 1973. The number of black officers on the force was woefully out of line with the number of blacks in the city population, nothing was being done to see that more of them were hired and earned promotions, and the force was not responsive to the concerns of a substantial portion of the city's population.

It is not at issue that the Detroit police department needed to recruit more minorities and to help its minority officers qualify for promotion. It can do this in a manner that is fair to everyone. What is at issue is the way the department has pursued its Affirmative Action goals. It has rigged its merit system so that a black officer is promoted even if a white officer ranks higher on the promotion list. This is exactly how Affirmative Action programs step over the line into "reverse discrimination," a form of racial bias that is no less obnoxious because it is designed to help blacks get into the system rather than keep them out.

In the Detroit case it is the white officers who are feeling the injustice of racial quotas, but their plight is not unusual in the wake of the Affirmative Action mania that seized the federal government a decade ago. In an attempt to do right by a minority, the government has induced many employers to pursue personnel practices that are patently unfair to the majority.

The administration has picked the Detroit police case to take a forthright stand in court against reverse discrimination in the name of Affirmative Action. We can hope its argument will help clarify the issue for the Supreme Court and bring a ruling that reaffirms the principle of equal opportunity in employment — a principle which should protect both black and white Americans.

Part Of A Team

Good thinking on the part of Western Airlines management, which is meeting the woes of federal deregulation with a well-planned approach that promises harmony with its workers.

Deregulation means airlines now have to make it on their own, that the government will no longer provide support for high costs of operation.

Some airlines have answered the financial problems of deregulation by cutting the work force, reducing routes and slashing payrolls.

Western, instead, is taking its employees in as part of the management team. The airline is giving its workers 32 percent stock interest in the company, setting up a profit-sharing program and providing two seats on its board of directors to be filled by representatives chosen by labor groups involved.

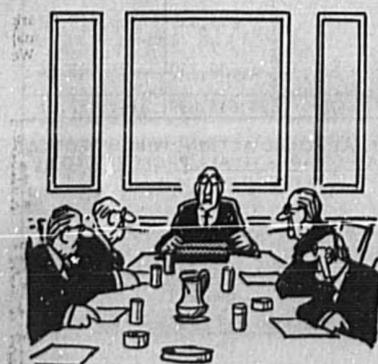

In turn employees have accepted 12-month pay cuts of 10 percent for most of the work force, 12.5 percent for management and 18 percent for pilots. The program has been accepted by all five of the airlines' labor unions. Workers have given it overwhelming approval.

Stock issued to Western workers will be held in independent trust until they either retire or terminate their employment. The workers also will share in profits for three years, starting in 1984.

Another airline, America West, which is based in Phoenix, also has an employee-ownership program. Its workers receive future wage hikes in tandem with company profits.

Employee participation means that workers strive to do their best for the company because they are part of it. Other airlines should consider programs like those of Western and America West.

"The motion to play 'Trivial Pursuit' has been seconded."

By Donna Estes

Elections for 1983 are over. The complexion of the city governments in Longwood and Casselberry will be considerably different with the changing of the guard.

Surprising was the loss suffered by John Leighty in Casselberry after six terms on the city council. It was only a few years ago that Leighty polled the most votes ever given a city official in an election in Casselberry because of his obvious popularity with the public at that time.

His defeat and absence from the governing body will have to make a big difference in his life. The city and its needs over his years of service were paramount in his thoughts. But he took it well, saying that the people apparently wanted him to retire from politics.

Casselberry has seen a lot of changes over the past two elections.

Last year there was the defeat of Frank Schutte and Bill Grier and their replacement by Frank Stone and Richard Russo. This year it is Leighty's replacement by Al Harmon. So a whole new council majority will exist there in January.

The biggest change Casselberry saw during the past year, however, was the retirement of City Clerk Mary Hawthorne because of ill health.

The only members of the council's old guard left are Tom Embree, elected unopposed, and Carl Robertson Jr., the council chairman, completing the second year of his current term. He will be up for election again next year.

1983 was just not the year for incumbents. Two incumbents were also defeated in Longwood — Steven Uskert and Chick Pappas. Pappas could be seen on every occasion possible representing the city at some function or other.

The voters can be a fickle lot. One day a man or woman can be powerful and the next day, the electorate perceives the power is misplaced and takes it back to itself to lend it to another for a time.

Earlier in November, another incumbent bit the dust. Cheney Colorado was defeated by another newcomer, Bette Griffith, in Altamonte Springs.

A telling statement came from Longwood Commissioner-elect Ed Myers. He said as he ran his door-to-door campaign many voters asked him if he was an incumbent. When he told them he was not, they promised their votes and he was elected. It should also be noted that Myers received more votes than any other candidate in the Longwood contests.

The exceptions to the unhappiness with incumbents, however, are: June Lormann, elected to a sixth term on the Longwood City Commission; Charles Glascock re-elected as mayor of Casselberry; and the re-election to a second term in Altamonte Springs of Commissioner Dudley Bates.

Glascock also received the highest vote in the three contests in his city.

Anderson, McGovern: Why run?

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Early this year, George McGovern and John Anderson were passengers on the same early-morning shuttle from Washington to New York. The two former presidential contenders sat together and quietly talked politics on the short flight.

As they prepared to disembark, a reporter jokingly asked them why they hadn't yet joined the 1984 chase for the White House. "Give us a chance!" was Anderson's laughing reply.

Now they've entered the fray — and when the two old warhorses meet, it's usually somewhere in Iowa or New Hampshire or on some other stop along the campaign trail. Both Anderson and McGovern are the longest of long shots to capture the Oval Office, yet they're both giving it their all.

Why are they devoting a year or more to a seemingly fruitless pursuit? The answer: Both feel that they represent a principle that must be upheld in this campaign.

Of the two, Anderson's motives are easier to understand. Anderson, a former GOP congressman from Illinois, first ran for his party's nomination in 1980. When that effort failed, he ran in the general election as a third-party candidate and ended up with almost 7 percent of the presidential vote.

Anderson believes that the two-party system is letting down the American political process. He believes that neither the Democrats nor the Republicans are "managing the present or preparing for the future" and that both are "captives of special interests and unwilling to experiment with new ideas."

There have been third-party candidates in the past, but they've almost always surfaced for only one election. Anderson says this is damaging to the system: He believes that the only way to break the two-party monopoly is for a third party to establish itself over the long haul.

Therefore, Anderson's candidacy is an effort to establish a continuing third party — the National Unity Party, a name Anderson also used for his 1980 presidential bid. It was officially formed at a recent Washington meeting of some 75 activists from 32 states — most of them liberals, and with differing ideas about the positions that the new party should adopt. However, all seemed to agree that their main task was to get Anderson, their standard bearer, on as many state ballots as possible.

These efforts will be helped by the fact that Anderson's showing in the 1980 election qualifies the party for about $6 million in public funds for this campaign. It can raise matching funds this year.

George McGovern's reasons for running are more complex: This is his third try for the White House, and even he admits that his chances of capturing the Democratic nomination are slight to nonexistent. No one close to him wanted him to run — not his family.

Grenada: Hotbed Of Leftist Sexism

WASHINGTON — President Reagan may head the feminists' "Least Wanted" list at home, but the old Hollywood cowboy unwittingly struck a blow for women's liberation when he ordered troops into Grenada. The island's Marxist regime turns out to have been a veritable hotbed of MCPs — Male Communist Pigs.

The evidence is laid out in picturesque detail in a letter written to the Grenadian authorities by a loyal party member, Gemma Greaves, who complained bitterly about the rampant sexism among communist officials. The letter, which was seen by my associate Lucette Lagnado, was one of many captured documents turned over to the CIA and State Department for study. It is a basic tale of Leninist lechery unmasked.

Ms. Greaves wrote to protest her expulsion from the local communist party on charges that she claims were a direct result of harassment of the most sordid nature: attempted sexual assault by a superior officer.

The incident occurred in Cuba, where the eager apparatchik had been sent en

WILLIAM RUSHER

The Focus Of Evil

NEW YORK (NEA) — Most of the so-called "issues" about which people argue — certainly those involving policy toward the Soviet Union — are essentially secondary. Underlying them are deeper differences that are rarely if ever discussed openly, because their existence is only reluctantly acknowledged. Indeed it may not even be realized.

But the deeper differences do exist, and recognition of that fact is essential to an understanding of what is really going on in the world. Inevitably, such realism is painful to those who comfort themselves by ignoring the facts, or cling to a different interpretation of them.

Recently President Reagan, by speaking frankly on the subject of the Soviet Union, has distressed people of the former sort and angered the latter. He had described the Soviet Union as "the focus of evil in the modern world," and confidently predicted that Marxism-Leninism will end up "in the ash heap of history."

Mr. Reagan's critics have condemned these statements as "nam-calling," and warned that (in Anthony Lewis's words) they "obstruct the real work of diplomacy." But the critics plainly sense that Mr. Reagan's comments are far more profound than mere name-calling, and that they direct our attention to something that places sharp limits on the possibilities open to diplomacy.

What Mr. Reagan was saying, at bottom, is that there are in fact such things as good and evil in the world; that one fundamentally flawed product of the 18th-century Enlightenment was a concept of mankind stripped of any relation to God; that the Soviet Union is the primary carrier of this diseased view of the human condition in the modern world; and that as such it can never find a permanent place among the world's civilized nations, but is doomed to final failure as a society.

Now in a sense, of course, it is bad news if Mr. Reagan is correct about all this. It would be much easier if the Western world's "problem" with the U.S.S.R. were merely, as Lewis graciously concedes, that we "disapprove of the Soviet system with all its tyranny and injustice." Then it would simply be a matter of not letting relations deteriorate to the shooting stage while waiting for the Soviet Union to ease up a bit on the "tyranny and injustice."

But unfortunately, as Mr. Reagan points out, the problem isn't quite so simple. The Soviet Union is based on a view of mankind so fundamentally wrong (and indeed evil) that it cannot reform, but can only collapse. This doesn't mean that the free world must necessarily go to war against it; but it does mean that we must remain defensively strong while it struggles against its destiny, and that meanwhile there are severe moral and practical limits to the possibilities of "detente."

Mr. Reagan's critics evidently recognize the implications of this view of the Soviet Union because their responses tend to insist on the "common humanity" of the Soviet leaders. Lewis, for example, quotes with approval George Kennan's speech at Dartmouth a couple of years ago, in which Kennan said that an American president dealing with the Russians ought to "accept their common humanity and their common interest in peace." Unfortunately, Kennan's reference was quite explicitly to the Russian "people," not the Soviet leaders — almost certainly nothing more than a failure of dialectical nerve, but one that largely robs the quotation of its value from Lewis's standpoint.

ROBERT WALTERS

Closing Democratic Loopholes

WASHINGTON (NEA) — His timing is terrible and his motive is selfish, but Jesse L. Jackson has performed a valuable service in challenging the rules under which delegates to next year's Democratic convention are to be selected.

A declared candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination and a shameless self-promoter, Jackson has candidly admitted that he objects to the rules not because they are inherently unfair and undemocratic but because "they threaten my quest for the nomination."

Moreover, Jackson was nowhere in sight in late 1981 and early 1982 when a party rules commission held a lengthy series of public hearings and engaged in protracted debate before recommending the procedures to which he now objects.

Nevertheless, Jackson has offered a valid critique of the delegate selection rules. These rules have been approved by the Democratic National Committee even though they violate the spirit — if not the letter — of the party's charter.

That charter specifically requires that delegate selection procedures in each state must "assure that delegations fairly reflect the division of preferences expressed by those who participate in the presidential nominating process."

In practice, that means, for example, that if three candidates respectively receive 50, 35 and 15 percent of the votes cast in a state's Democratic presidential primary, their supporters should be represented in similar proportions on that state's delegation to the Democratic convention.

That's fundamentally fair and equitable, but the principle wasn't always embraced by the party. As recently as 1972, the Democrats reluctantly accepted the winner-take-all primary in which the candidate who received a plurality (but not necessarily a majority) of the votes cast was awarded all of a state's convention delegates.

Although that is now prohibited, the party has carved out an exemption which allows perpetuation of the winner-take-all effect in states where convention delegates are directly elected in jurisdictions no larger than congressional districts.

In 1976, 13 states relied upon what has become known as the "loophole primary," producing inherently flawed results. In New Hampshire, for example, Jimmy Carter received only 28 percent of the votes cast in the primary but was awarded 88 percent of the state's convention delegates.

Jackson is thoroughly justified in seeking the restoration of the 1980 reform measure as well as a companion reform dealing with the minimum proportion of primary or caucus votes a candidate must receive.

Because Jackson has raised his objections so late (the delegate selection process begins only a few months from now in Iowa and New Hampshire), rule changes would be virtually impossible to implement for 1984.

government. It takes insiders who can find their way through the bureaucratic maze to uncover government scandals.

Your reward, if you're caught, will be retaliation. Anyone who tries to name actual thieves and wastrels in government, rather than merely lamenting theft and waste, becomes a target. This is intended to intimidate others from revealing official embarrassments.

I have appealed to the White House to change this unwritten code, which honors the person who covers up his boss's wrongdoing instead of the employee who exposes it.

I have suggested, for example, that the embattled employee be given one-tenth of all the money he saves the taxpayers. He could become an overnight millionaire by showing us how federal spendthrifts are wasting millions here and government contractors are embezzling millions there. A 10 percent reward should be incentive enough to start bureaucrats scrambling through the federal labyrinth, prying into dark corners, searching for hidden waste.

Until the reforms and rewards are adopted, though, whistle-blowers will do better to stay in the shadows. If you know of any skulduggeries that should be stopped, you can contact me in confidence. I keep a light burning in the window for the storm-tossed informer. I will protect your anonymity.

I would also like to hear from ordinary citizens who wish to turn the tables on the federal regulators and controllers. These anonymous officials keep usurping more and more authority over activities that used to be private, constantly issuing new government forms and tightening their power over the people they are supposed to serve.

So I invite citizens everywhere to help me keep watch on the officials. If you can cast light on a blunder, an embarrassment or a scandal, please contact me. I'll either investigate the complaint or refer it to authorities I trust.

Some citizens may prefer to keep a lonely vigil; I'll safeguard their identities. Others may want to join citizens' groups that keep watch on specific problems such as military waste or deficits-run-wild. Still others might monitor non-governmental menaces like the hordes of lawyers who are binding up the populace in red tape.

Hustling Lady Hawks Rout DeLand, 54-41

By Chris Flister
Herald Sports Writer

Prep Basketball

DeLand High's Bridgette Gordon may be one of the brightest girls basketball stars in Central Florida, but she was outshined Monday night by Tammy Johnson and the hustling Lady Silver Hawks of Lake Howell High.

Johnson poured in a game-high 23 points, including eight in the decisive third quarter to lead the Lady Hawks to a 54-41 rout of the Lady Bulldogs in Five Star Conference action at Lake Howell.

It was the eighth straight victory for the Lady Hawks who now stand at 9-1 overall and 4-0 in the conference. DeLand is 7-2 overall and 2-1 in the conference. Lake Howell battles conference foe Sanford Seminole on Thursday night at Seminole High. DeLand is in another crucial conference game against Lake Mary on Wednesday night at DeLand.

After a close first half, the Lady Hawks completely outshined DeLand on both ends of the court in the second half. Behind Tammy Johnson for Lake Howell, Mary Johnson added nine points and Elizabeth Dietrich and Janene Brown tossed in eight apiece.

Brown and Monica McNeil provided the strength underneath for the Lady Hawks as Brown pulled down 12 rebounds and McNeil grabbed seven. Gordon led DeLand with 21 points, 14 in the first half, and a game-high 17 rebounds, but she wasn't much of a factor in the second half thanks to the defense of the Lady Hawks. Although they didn't figure much in the scoring column, McNeil (four points) and Christy Scott (zero points) played outstanding defense.

Lake Howell jumped out to an early 6-1 lead as Gordon missed her first six shots, including four layups. But, with Gordon, Nikki Williams and Raysha Roberts scoring four points each, DeLand came back to take a 13-10 lead. Dietrich answered with four straight points at the end of the quarter to give the Lady Hawks a 14-13 lead going into the second.

Gordon carried the load for the Lady Bulldogs in the second quarter, scoring nine points, including 5 of 7 from the free throw line. Tammy Johnson took up the scoring slack for the Lady Hawks as Brown and Dietrich both picked up their third fouls in the second quarter.

Gordon connected on two free throws with 1:15 left in the first half to give DeLand a 23-22 lead, its last lead of the night. On Lake Howell's next trip down the floor, Jolene Johnson pulled down on offensive rebound and made the follow-up shot to put the Lady Hawks ahead to stay. Lake Howell took a 26-25 lead at halftime.

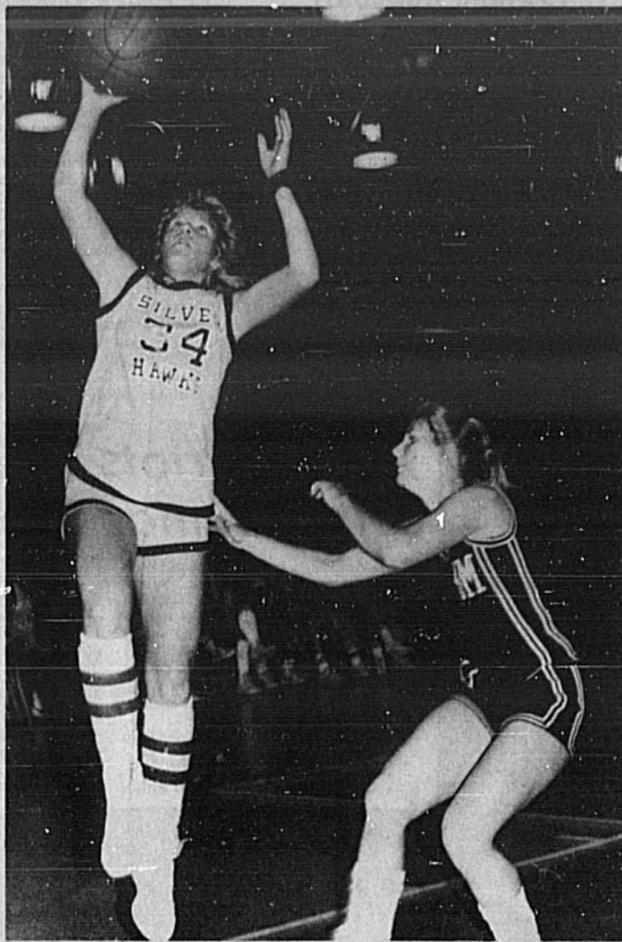

Lake Howell scored the first six points of the second half, but DeLand stayed close for a while. With Lake Howell clinging to a 34-33 lead with two minutes left in the third quarter, the Lady Hawks reeled off six straight points and Tammy Johnson's jumper at the buzzer gave the Hawks a eight-point lead, 43-35, going into the fourth period.

Johnson hit another jumper to start the fourth quarter as Lake Howell built a 10-point lead, 45-35. DeLand couldn't get back on track after Johnson's clutch shooting performance and the Lady Bulldogs scored only six points in the fourth quarter. Mary Johnson's two free throws with 4:52 left put the Lady Hawks up by 12, 51-39, and DeLand coach Clifford Cox threw in the towel and pulled most of his starters out with three minutes left.

Lake Howell's Tammy Johnson goes up for a layup while a Bishop Moore defender arrives too late. The Lady Hawks demolished the weak Bishop Moore team earlier in the season, and did the same to the highly touted Lady Bulldogs of DeLand High Monday night. Johnson poured in a game-high 23 points and the Lady Hawks claimed a 54-41 victory in Five Star Conference action. It was the eighth straight victory for Lake Howell.

Glass Twins Lift Lady Rams; JVs Roll To Fourth Straight

Laura and Peggy Glass, Lake Mary's 6-2 twin towers, poured in 16 points apiece, Kim Averill tossed in 13 and Lisa Gregory added 13 as the Lady Rams put on a strong second half performance en route to a 71-54 thrashing of Daytona Beach Seabreeze in prep basketball action Monday at Lake Mary High.

Lake Mary, trailing 35-33 at halftime, outscored Seabreeze, 20-11 in the third quarter to take a 53-46 lead and the Lady Rams coasted through the fourth quarter. Laura Glass scored 11 of her 16 points in the second half.

"We made some adjustments defensively at halftime and it really seemed to help," Lake Mary coach Bill Moore said. "We started playing good defense and dominated the boards in the third quarter."

While Lake Mary dominated the second half, it had trouble getting on track in the first. However, the play of Gregory, who scored eight of her 13 points in the first half, enabled the Rams to stay close. She also connected on 5 of 8 field goals on the night, added five assists and three steals. "She kept us in the game in the first half," Moore said.

Laura Glass led Lake Mary underneath with 15 rebounds and Peggy Glass added seven. Lake Mary now stands at 2-2 overall and 1-2 in the Five Star Conference. The Rams host conference foe Spruce Creek tonight at 6.

USA Coach Knows What It Will Take To Defend Gold

RICHFIELD, Ohio (UPI) — Lou Vairo, coach of Team USA, thinks he knows what it will take for the U.S. to successfully defend their Olympic gold medal in hockey in Sarajevo, Yugoslavia next year.

Vairo says his team will need a consistently strong offense as demonstrated in Team USA's 4-2 victory over the Soviets Selects at the Richfield Coliseum Monday night. Pat LaFontaine and Scott Bjugstad each scored twice for the Americans.

"If we could bottle that first period and take it to the Olympics, I could sit on the bench, open up the bottle and just watch," Vairo said.

The crowd of 16,711 was the largest to see Team USA to date in its 48 exhibition games leading up to the Winter Olympics in February. It was also the largest crowd ever to see a hockey game in Ohio.

Both LaFontaine and Bjugstad have scored three times in the series with the Soviets, which Team USA leads 2-1. The six-game meeting continues in Cincinnati, Thursday night.

The Americans jumped to a 3-0 lead in the first period on a goal by LaFontaine and two goals by Bjugstad 2:27 apart.

The Selects, one of three teams which will provide players for the Soviet Olympic team, charged back with two goals 14 seconds apart in the fifth minute of the second period. Vladimir Kovin and Vladimir Golikev each scored their second goals of the series.

But LaFontaine scored again on a breakaway from mid-ice. He charged goaltender Aleksandr Tyzhnykh, felled him to his left and poked a 10-footer around the goalie's right side.

Bjugstad said his team was somewhat weary. "We were a little tired coming in," admitted Bjugstad. "But that crowd was crazy and it really fired us up."

"Our players thought the Americans would start to play tonight as they finished the previous match," Golikev said, referring to his team's 6-1 victory over the USA Sunday night in Bloomington, Minn.

That wasn't the case. "We played with 60 minutes of intensity tonight," said LaFontaine. "Last night we only played for about 35 minutes. Their goalie came up big. They put two pucks in the goal in the second period and caught us flat."

There were six penalties in the rough first period, including a fight between USA captain Phil Verchota and Soviet Alexander Mimchenko.

"That was unusual," insisted USA defenseman Mark Fusco. "You seldom see any fights in international hockey. It must stem from the U.S.-Soviet relations. We travel with these guys and get along well with them."

Bill Capece may be looking for a new job after Monday night's game. The alleged Tampa Bay kicker missed an extra point and a 35-yard field goal attempt in the Bucs' 12-9 overtime loss to Green Bay.

Stenerud Keeps Rolling, Capece Needs Roloids

TAMPA, Fla. (UPI) — It was a tale of two kickers. Green Bay's Jan Stenerud booted his way into the NFL record books Monday night, while Tampa Bay's Bill Capece may have kicked his way right out of a job.

Stenerud nailed four field goals — giving him a record 338 for his career — to hand the Packers a 12-9 overtime victory and keep their hopes alive for a playoff berth.

"I'm very happy about the record," said the 39-year-old Stenerud, who surpassed George Blanda's total of 335. "I've been thinking about it for several weeks."

On the other side of fortune, Capece missed an extra point and a 35-yard field goal try in the fourth quarter that could have won the game for the Bucs but only disappointed a Tampa Stadium crowd of 80,763.

"I haven't been hitting the ball good all season," said Capece. "I'm in a very bad slump. I need some Roloids."

Embattled Tampa Bay Coach John McKay was livid.

"We cannot make an extra point; we cannot kick a field goal," said McKay. "There will be no more kicked field goals by the Bucs this year, no matter what the score is, no matter what the game is. It's over. I'm tired of being crucified."

The Bucs, who were mauled 55-14 by the Packers in October, fell to 2-13 with the loss. They dropping them into a tie with Houston for the worst record in the NFL. But Green Bay, 8-7, stayed alive with the win — barely.

The Packers are tied with Detroit for the lead in the NFC Central with one game to play. Green Bay needs to beat Chicago. After that, the Packers need some help.

Tampa Bay must defeat Detroit; or Los Angeles must beat New Orleans and San Francisco must lose to Dallas.

"The bottom line is we're still in it," said Green Bay Coach Bart Starr, letting out a sigh of relief.

Packer hearts skipped a beat with Tampa Bay leading 9-6 and less than 3 minutes remained. But quarterback Lynn Dickey directed Green Bay on a 75-yard drive, setting up Stenerud's third field goal — a 23-yarder that tied the game 9-9 with 31 seconds left in regulation.

In the overtime, it was all Green Bay. The Packers, playing their fifth overtime game of the year, won the toss and roared down the field behind the passing of Dickey and the running of Harlan Huckelby.

Pro Football

"We hadn't been sharp, but we've been in overtime before so we know what we have to do," said Dickey, who was 24-of-36 for 278 yards with three interceptions and became only the fifth player ever to pass for more than 4,000 yards in a season.

"You could see it in [other Packers'] eyes. They just really started coming off the ball."

With second down at the Buc 6, Starr removed all doubts and sent in Stenerud. The sidewinder drilled the 23-yarder with 4:07 gone in the overtime.

It was Stenerud's fifth game-winning kick of the season and second in overtime.

"Believe it or not, I was nervous," said the soft-spoken Norwegian-born kicker. "That's the first time in a long time."

"He's a pro, a winner and a clutch performer," said Starr of his kicker. "He's all the clichés I could stand here and conjure up. He can play here as long as he likes."

Stenerud gave the Packers a 3-0 lead with a 35-yard field goal with 12:05 left in the first quarter. Capece tied the score with a 22-yarder early in the second period.

Another Stenerud three-pointer with 42 seconds to play in the third quarter gave Green Bay a 6-3 advantage.

But quarterback Jack Thompson drove the Bucs 65 yards in 10 plays early in the fourth quarter, hitting Adger Armstrong with a 4-yard scoring pass with 7:33 left for a 9-6 Tampa Bay lead.

But Capece's extra-point attempt struck the goalpost and bounced away. His 35-yard field goal try on the next Buc possession knuckled low and to the left, giving the Packers new life with 2:49 left in regulation.

All-Everything Rozier Earns Player Of Year Honors

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI) — The correct answer to this multiple choice question is not: A) Gale Sayers; B) Steve Owens; C) John Riggins; D) Joe Washington; or E) Billy Sims.

They represent miles of rushing yardage, a wall of All-America plaques and a couple of Heisman Trophies ... but also the incorrect options to the question, "Who is the best running back in Big Eight history?"
The right answer? Try, F) Mike Rozier.

At least that's what the record books and Big Eight coaches say.
The University of Nebraska tailback registered not only the greatest single season and the greatest career ever by a Big Eight running back but also one of the greatest seasons and careers by anyone in NCAA history. Rozier became only the second college player to rush for 2,000 in one season and no one ever scored more than his 29 touchdowns in 1983.

For his achievements, Rozier was honored nationally Monday as both the 1983 Player of the Year and the Back of the Year by United Press International.

Rozier was a landslide winner over Brigham Young quarterback Steve Young for both honors. Out of 96 sportswriters and sportscasters who voted, Rozier received 64 votes for Player of the Year and 71 for Back of the Year.

College Football

Young received 14 votes for Player of the Year and six for Back of the Year. Young was also the runnerup to Rozier in Heisman Trophy balloting.

"Rozier might be the best back ever to play in the Big Eight," Oklahoma coach Barry Switzer said. "I've had some great ones ... and I'm certainly not trying to put down Billy Sims. But Rozier has had three productive years in an offense (I-form) that suits him. He makes his linemen all think they're All-Americans with the way he goes about his business."

Rozier led the nation this season in both rushing with 2,148 yards (almost 30 yards more per game than his closest competitor Shawn Faulkner of Western Michigan) and scoring with his 174 points (nine touchdowns better than runnerup Keith Byars of Ohio State).

Only Marcus Allen of Southern California ever rushed for more yards in one season (2,342 in 1981) and only Lydell Mitchell of Penn State ever scored as many touchdowns (29 in 1971). Rozier also finished sixth on the all-time NCAA rushing list with 4,780 yards; Herschel Walker was the only three-year player to rush for more than 5,259 yards.

Rozier averaged 7.8 yards per carry this season and his 7.16 career average broke two NCAA records; the highest average with a minimum of 500 carries (breaking 7.09 mark of Sims) and also with a minimum of 650 carries (breaking 6.13 mark of Archie Griffin of Ohio State).

Rozier rushed for only 71 yards in the 1983 season opener against Penn State but was not held below 140 yards thereafter. He gained 191 yards the following week against Wyoming, 196 against Minnesota, 159 against UCLA, 142 against Syracuse, 146 against Oklahoma State, 159 against Missouri and 155 against Colorado.

The 5-foot-11, 210-pound Camden, N.J., native then closed out the regular season with four consecutive 200-yard games -- 227 against Kansas State, 212 against Iowa State, a school-record 285 against Kansas and 205 against Oklahoma -- to set another Big Eight record.

"Rozier plays with a tremendous amount of effort — regardless of the score, regardless of the opponent, regardless of the situation," Oklahoma State coach Jimmy Johnson said.

Rozier was held without a touchdown against both Penn State and Oklahoma State but scored one against Oklahoma; two against UCLA, Syracuse and Missouri; three against Minnesota and Kansas State; and four against Wyoming, Colorado, Iowa State and Kansas.

Rozier is a three-time All-Big Eight pick and a two-time All-America as well as the 1983 Heisman Trophy winner.

"Mike is such a complete football player," Nebraska coach Tom Osborne said. "He's the best blocking I-back we've ever had, he catches the ball well and he really follows his blockers. He's physically tough and durable. We've had backs in the past with the ability to win the Heisman, but didn't."

Tumbling Tornadoes Ready To Put Show On The Road

Last week the newly formed "Tumbling Tornadoes," a 21-member gymnastic club from Longwood Elementary School, made their first "away from home" debut. The students, chosen out of grades kindergarten through five, are the tops in the school for their gymnastic abilities. On Dec. 2, the Tumbling Tornadoes boarded a school bus, and traveled the long ride out to Geneva Elementary School to put on two special performances.

Their routine starts with simple warm-ups, like "animal walks," and somersaults, but progresses into a finale of leaps, jumps and involved back flips. The show, which is highlighted with a hilarious touch of comedy, had the Geneva students sitting in awe.

Coach Mike Platt, who has been training the tumblers, accompanied the club. He said, "We hope to make at least three or four trips like this before the school year is out." He also said, "This was kind of a 'test' trip for the kids, to see just how they would handle themselves out on the 'road' and under the pressure of live performances." The coach hopes that by visiting other schools in the area, students will be inspired to do more gymnastics. One thing was sure, many of Geneva's elementary school students somersaulted all the way home that day. Following lunch with the Geneva school, the still tumbling Tornadoes leaped on the bus, flipped back into their seats, and headed for home.

Karen Warner

Hawkins, Jan and Steve Platt, Pam Davis, Melody Bergeson, Angie and Jennifer Kopps, Mike Ackerson, Katie Chinfatt, D.J. Lewis, Josh Arnold, Jason May, Aaron Fulsang, Brian Dangel, John Scott, Tim Wynn, Gwen Bean, Matt Tickle, Beth Cash.

Any school wanting the Tornadoes to put on a performance at their school should contact Mike Platt at Longwood Elementary School.

The Longwood Elementary School Chorus along with the school's Fife & Drum Corps had been invited to sing and play at the Longwood Village Shopping Center during the early part of this month. Final appearance will be on Friday, Dec. 16, at 5:00 p.m.

Other school news: the school is collecting canned goods to give to needy families over the Christmas Holidays. Anyone wishing to contribute please drop them off at the collection box in the school's office.

Special notice: The Fife & Drum Corps placed third in the marching unit division during the Winter Springs Holiday Parade. Congratulations are in order for Mrs. Evelyn Towler, corps director, and all the corps members.

The Sweetwater Oaks Garden Club held their annual Christmas luncheon on Dec. 12, at the Maison et Jardin restaurant. An elegant fashion show highlighted the meeting, with fashions from Pappagallo's. Jo Daly performed on the piano during the show. Anna Spalla sang some of her favorite Christmas carols. Beautiful door prizes were given out to the members at the conclusion of the luncheon.

The Longwood/Winter Springs chamber of commerce during the month of November recognized the following students as "Business Students of the Month." Ms. Patsy Munsey presented the award to Barbara Sloan of Oviedo High School. Barbara is active in the Future Business Leaders of America.

Ms. Linda Beathard, director of Lake Mary Business Education Department, presented the award to Catharine Carreno of Lake Mary High School. Cathy is also an active member of the Future Business Leaders and competed in the annual Clerk Typist II contest.

Ms. Patty Aycock presented the award to Paul Arnold of Lake Brantley High School. Paul is president of the Future Business Leaders of America, and is a member of the National Honor Society.

Jim Thomas presented the award to Meg Baugham of Lyman High. Aside from being an industrious student at Lyman, Meg attends classes four nights a week at Seminole Community College. Congratulations to these Future Business Leaders.

Mother's Gigantic Goof May Serve A Purpose

DEAR ABBY: My daughter was married in a beautiful ceremony in our church last Saturday, after which she and her husband took off for a two-week honeymoon.

I had all their wedding gifts on display at my home together with the cards of the givers, and I promised to pack them all up and keep them until they returned so they could write their thank-you notes. They received about 250 wedding gifts.

Well, I don't know where my head was, Abby, but I collected all the gift cards and put them in a large envelope — then I packed up the gifts!

It suddenly occurred to me they won't know which cards came with which gifts! What should I do?

THOUGHTLESS MOTHER

DEAR THOUGHT-

LESS: In acknowledging a gift, one should make some reference to "the beautiful ice bucket" or the "lovely salad bowl," but unless somebody writes or telephones each giver to find out what was given, your daughter and her husband will have to thank them all for the "lovely gift" and let it go at that.

Your gigantic goof, however, serves a good purpose. It will remind all brides to make a list of each gift together with the name of the giver as soon as it is received.

Dear Abby

DEAR ABBY: After seven years of marriage, my husband (I'll call him Joe) and I are divorcing. We have been separated for a year, and here's the situation: Joe lives out of town, and when he comes in without a date (twice a month), we always end up in bed together. We enjoy each other sexually, and neither one of us has found anyone else with whom we are more comfortable sexually. We're not kinky; we just know what pleases each other.

Joe thinks this should go on forever. I have my doubts, mainly because I could very easily fall in love with him again, which I think would be a step backward. (He was a poor husband, and I know he will never change.)

Do you think that to continue this twice-a-month habit is OK since we both enjoy it and are not serious about anyone else right now? Or should we try to break off all ties before the divorce is final?

WONDERING

DEAR WONDERING: Joe obviously wants the pleasure of your company "forever" for sexual reasons — a nice convenience — but since you feel that it may cause you to "fall in love" with him again, which could not be in your best interests, let go. Say goodbye to all of Joe so you can be free to go on with your life.

(Problems? What's bugging you? Unload on Abby, P.O. Box 38923, Hollywood, Calif. 90038. For a personal reply, please enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.)

Nothing Finer Than Car-o-liner Lining Up Car to Factory Specs

If your car has been in an accident, you can get it back in shape again at Seminole Paint & Body, 2540 S. Myrtle Ave., Sanford.

Seminole Paint & Body, the largest paint and body shop in Sanford, was the first in this area to obtain the most modern in car straightening equipment—the Car-o-liner.

The Car-o-liner is all you need to align any make of car and will do it to within three millimeters of factory specifications, according to David Redwine, owner of Seminole Paint & Body. He acquired the ultimate in frame machines eight months ago.

Most cars manufactured now are unitized with the body and frame in one piece, he said, and if they are not put back as they came from the factory will never be quite right. This machine, with its measuring system, does just that.

Seminole Paint & Body does all types of paint and body work and specializes in insurance work.

Denny Triplett is manager of the business, which was opened by Redwine in 1971. Redwine, who is a lifetime resident of the Sanford area has lived in Paola for 10 years. He and his wife, Dee, have two boys, 18, and 15. He has many years experience in the business and prior to opening his own shop was body shop manager at Strickland-Morrison Ford.

Seminole Paint & Body has 20 employees.

Rhondel McMillan framing specialist at Senkarik Glass & Paint, with his wife, Garnet and daughter, Angela.

In 30 Years Senkarik Employee Has Framed About Everything

Rhondel McMillan celebrated his 30th anniversary with Senkarik Glass & Paint Co., 210 Magnolia Ave., Sanford, on Dec. 7. Although he has worked in every department of the store, picture framing is his specialty.

"I've seen a lot of changes," he said, "when I first went to work there Mr. John Senkarik, who died in 1968, and Mrs. Senkarik were still operating the business."

The business, founded more than 35 years ago by Mr. Senkarik is now owned and operated by his sons, Jerry and Eddie.

"I found my niche in the framing department. Woodworking is my hobby and I enjoy refinishing techniques, so I guess it was natural," Rhondel explained.

Over the years he has made thousands of custom frames and shadow boxes for the ordinary photographs and paintings to the more unusual and he will be making a hundred more before Christmas. He has framed a variety of musical instruments including violins and trumpets. Other interesting items include all types of needlework, quilt patches, jigsaw puzzles, awards, swords, knives, war medals, and uncirculated coins and paper money.

Rhondel studied interior decoration, composition and styling. He majored in industrial arts and mechanical drawing in high school and vocational school in Casey, Ill. He moved here 30 years ago from Greenup, Ill.

When he is not working in the store, his activities are centered on his home and family. He lives at 2601 Grandview Ave., Sanford, with his wife, Garnet, who works at Lakeview Nursing Center, and their daughter Angela, 10, a fifth grader in Midway Elementary School. Angela's goal is to be a teacher when she grows up. "I enjoy my home," Rhondel said, "I like gardening and working on the lawn and my wife and I do some quilting."

In addition to the large selection of frames, Senkarik carries a full line of Pen Paints and Benjamin Moore Paints for interior and exterior paint jobs, as well as brushes, rollers and other paint supplies, and artists supplies. The have a large selection of wallpaper designs. Senkarik specializes in all types of glass for commercial, residential and auto work.

Holiday Books Help Localize Christmas

By Jim Lewis
NASHVILLE, Tenn. (UPI) — "Old Saintry" brushes the soot off the seat of his britches after an inglorious slide down the log cabin's chimney. He's dressed in a mountain man's hat, suspenders holding his baggy pants just below the watermelon bulge of his belly. His coat and pants are quilted with patches.

"He'd grannappy whiskers. But his twinkly eyes Made him look like a youngin' Whose smile never lies." That's from "Hillbilly Night Afore Christmas" (Pelican Publishing Company, $9.95). It's new this year and is a sort of companion to the popular "Cajun Night Before Christmas" by the same publisher.

In Hillbilly Christmas "Saintry's" wagon is drawn by some mountain bears named "Big Feet, Orn'ty, Molasses, Rumbler, Gumpston and Grumbler. 'Twas the night afore Christmas Twixt ridgeback and holler. 'No critter was twitchin' 'Nary hawg dast to waller Naturally both books are done in what is perceived as dialect and are excellent vehicles for "localizing" Christmas.

They are two of the best Christmas-themed children's books with southern flavor this year.

"Hillbilly Night Afore Christmas" is illustrated by James Rice, whose books have delighted children for more than a decade. He was also the illustrator of "Cajun Night Before Christmas." Thomas Noel Turner, a professor of education at the University of Tennessee and a native of Appalachia, is the author of the book.

However, there are other books timed to be ready for Christmas which are not primarily aimed at children.

The chief among new titles this year are "South by Southeast" (Oxmoor, $39.95), "The Art of the Old South" (Knopf, $50.00), and "Jefferson's Monticello" (Abbeville Press, $49.95).

"South by Southeast" was written by Walter Cronkite with watercolors by Ray Ellis.

This beautiful book is a verbal and pictorial odyssey that is worth having whether one is a seafarer or a landlubber.

It takes the reader and viewer on a 1,245-mile journey from Norfolk, Va., to Key West, Fla.

Ellis' 90 watercolors are breathtaking and capture the open sea, the inland waterways, the outer banks, the barrier islands the coast of Florida as well as the ports of Charleston, Savannah and 50

'He looked plumb full of happy 'Bof' cheeks puff't out wide 'Like a chaw of terbacky 'Wuz helt in each side.'

—From 'Hillbilly Night Afore Christmas'

other coastal conjunctives.

The text, by the now retired anchorman of CBS Evening News, is rich in anecdote and detail. He concludes there is a common thread from Maryland to Florida and that thread is America from elegant mansions to lowly fishermen's huts.

"The Art of the American South" by Jessie Poesch represents the first real collection in book form of southern architecture, sculpture, crafts, and painting.

Ms. Poesch has been a professor at Tulane University in New Orleans for two decades.

"Jefferson's Monticello," by Jeffersonian scholar William Howard Adams, is about the Virginia home of the third president of the United States. This extremely well done volume is a tribute to the estate that personifies Jefferson's complex personality.

Two other perennial Christmas gift books are also published by Oxmoor — "Jericho: The South Beheld" with art by Hubert Shuptrine and text by James Dickey. This book, first published in 1974, is an unusual combination of art and poetry. It retails for $60.00.

"The American South: The Four Seasons of the Land," first published in 1980, is a gorgeous addition to the book collection. It contains mood-setting photographs by William A. Bake with the text written by journalist James J. Kilpatrick. It sells for $34.95.

Another annual favorite is Oxmoor's "Christmas with Southern Living." This annual and popular book by the publishers of Southern Living Magazine provides easy instructions for Christmas crafts, including making wreaths of all shapes and kinds for decorating the season.

"Christmas with Southern Living" has instructions for making Christmas decorating cookies and Christmas dolls.

The book has patterns for the dolls, which can be made out of socks, polyester stuffing, muslin, dried beans, remnants, buttons embroidery floss for eyes, pink for nose and ears and bits of yarn for hair.

Books make wonderful and lasting gifts. This year, it seems, there are literally hundreds of specifically local volumes from which to choose. But, the major publishers have or themselves with gift books this year ranging from a study of dinosaurs to life among in rural China.

Astrologer Takes On Cabbage Patch Kids

By Bill Lohmann

WINTER PARK, (UPI) — How far can this Cabbage Patch Kid madness go?

Shoppers stand in long lines for hours, then claw and scratch andlobber each other to grab one of the few remaining dolls.

But people don't merely wrap up the dolls and toss them under the Christmas Tree. No sir.

These homely dolls are becoming more than dolls. They're little people. And little people have personalities and futures.

So why shouldn't a Cabbage Patch Kid? That's what long-time astrologer Mary Conarroe says. "Your Cabbage Patch Kid has a personality all of its own," says the newspaper ad placed by Miss Conarroe.

Tell her when the doll was purchased and Miss Conarroe will whip up a birth chart, checking stars and planets and everything else astrologers use. She can even read the doll's future and describe its traits and personality using those astrological devices.

The price for a reading is $25 — which is more than the doll probably cost.

Miss Conarroe was somewhat startled when more than 50 customers came to her the first three days she offered the readings.

But she now sees something special about these dolls. Miss Conarroe says some are "strong and forceful" and others are "naughty." She's even run into one "who would pout and not talk for days if he were not a doll."

But all appeal to the basic loneliness in people, she said.

More Letters To Santa

Dear Santa,
I have been very good this year so you should get me all the stuff that I want. My sister, Amy, has not been as good as I have. But I guess you can't get her some toys.
What I want is a Texas Instruments home computer, a Sony Walkman, and a digital watch.
I promise you that I will leave you some cookies and milk.
Goodbye, Santa!
Laura T. Sanford

Santa,
I want a brown pouch and gold sword, a Kit car and man.
Anita Kiser

Dear Santa:
I have been a good girl. I am three years old. This is what I'd like for Christmas: poeche, Barbie, Barbie swimming pool, Barbie furniture, Barbie car — pink. I love you.
Aurora Greene, Sanford

Dear Santa,
How are you and Mrs. Claus? We hope you're fine. My name is Lindsey and my baby sister's name is Morgan. I'm 4 years old already and Morgan is 1 1/2. Mommy is helping us write this note to you because I don't know how to write yet — but I'm learning.
We saw your helper at the mall. I asked him to tell you to please bring me a Barbie Dream Bed, Baby Skates, My Little Pony, Barbie Dream Pool and Bath.
Santa, I forgot to tell you that my baby sister wants a driving set for Christmas. She can't talk yet, so I wanted to be sure to tell you.
Mommy and Daddy say that you can't give all of us everything on our lists cause you have so many kids to visit. We always try to share.
Santa, Morgan and I will be sure to leave our cup of milk and cookies out for you on Christmas Eve.
Thank you for being so nice.
Love, Lindsey and Morgan Woodruff, Winter Springs.

Dear Santa
I would like some dishes, popcorn popper, telephone, baby doll and that's all.
And for my brother Germaine I would like some cars and trucks and my mommie a little car.
And for you Santa Claus, something special — candy.

Dear Santa Clause,
I seen a T.V. show about you and it was interesting and I loved it.
I decided that I want a Strawberry Shortcake colletsun and My Little Pony to and dolls and anything.
I love you.
Love, Meagan Livingston, Winter Springs.

Take It Or Leaf It

Living in Sanford, Samuel Mendoza, 8, of 701 Sarita Ave., didn't have any snow to make a "now man in his yard, so he decided to improvise by creating what he calls his "leaf gingerbread man." Although his creation won't melt in the Florida sun, it is vulnerable to breezes. It took the Pinecrest School third grader one hour and 10 minutes to make the figure using aluminum foil for a mouth, halves of a styrofoam ball for eyes. He is the son of Octavio and Estrella Mendoza.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Others may be in a better position to do things for you today than you're able to accomplish on your own. You'll gain their support by being cooperative.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) If you are involved in something today that's financially meaningful, stick with it until you succeed even if you must burn the midnight oil.

Mother Can't Lose Fat; What's Wrong?

DEAR DR. LAMB— My mother has a weight problem. So do I, for that matter, but I'm losing and Mom isn't. She's been dieting for three weeks and hasn't lost a pound. She is not overeating. She skips breakfast, eats toast and tea for lunch and has baked chicken and vegetables for supper. It is very frustrating for her, as you can imagine.

Most people and doctors stereotype an overweight person and give you looks saying, "Sure, you're dieting." They assume that all overweight people sit in front of a TV and feast on chocolates.

My mom does hard work in a factory, comes home after work to clean house and cook, and walks on the farm — so she isn't inactive.

She has had her thyroid checked and it is OK, but something must be wrong with her metabolism. Could this be hereditary? I have trouble with my weight, but can lose slowly. Mom also used to be able to lose weight. Please help. I feel so sorry for her.

DEAR READER — Your mother may be losing fat, even though the scales may not show that she has lost anything. A lot of people metabolize body fat and retain water at the same time. Then, after a few weeks, there will suddenly be a marked increase in urination as the excess water is washed out. Then there will be a sudden decrease in body weight, often several pounds. The cycle is then repeated. These people lose in plateaus, and three weeks may even be too short a period to tell.

The other point is that your mother may be developing muscles while she is losing body fat. That often happens when a person diets and also exercises. That's good because good muscles are important to good health. Then there is the question of whether your mother needs to lose weight at all. If she happens to be muscular rather than fat, it might not even be good for her to lose weight.

I would prefer that your mother follow a balanced diet so she can use it as a basis for her diet after she has lost the pounds of fat she wants to lose, so she won't regain it.

DEAR DR. LAMB — As a child, while in the service and as a civilian, I had the usual childhood diseases and was given vaccinations.

Recently I received a pneumococcal pneumonia shot and was told I had protection for life from the disease. But over the years, I have had an annual flu shot. Why is it necessary to get the flu shot every year even if the flu type is the same as recent types? Can't you be protected for life with a flu shot?

DEAR READER — I wish it were possible. Many vaccinations are not for life. They confer immunity for a limited period of time. That is why "booster" shots are given, as are tetanus shots, if you are injured outdoors. Your pneumonia shot is not for life, either, but the current recommendation is that it should not be given again for at least five years.

The flu vaccines just don't provide that strong an immunity to provide life-long protection. Even if the flu shot is the same as one-shot booster that's advised. If it is a different flu organism, then two shots are usually required.

WIN AT BRIDGE

attempt while still reserving your main chance, you can't afford to ignore that extra one.

West opened the king of spades and continued with the jack after South ducked. East followed with the trey and deuce. Their carding was to play next-to-top on a king lead, so South knew that East was dealt exactly three spades and that the suit was going to break 5-3.

A successful club finesse would give him nine quick tricks: an immediate losing club finesse would leave him down one.

Then there was that extra chance. South chose to work on diamonds first. If the queen dropped doubleton he would have his game without benefit of clubs. If the queen dropped singleton he would have to try a second-round finesse for the 10 which would fail if some genius defender false-carded with Q-10 doubleton. All it risked was an extra 50 points, so South banged down the ace and king of diamonds, dropped the queen and was home without benefit of the club finesse.

When you have two chances to make a contract, it is best to take both of them. Even if those chances are "Slim" and "None," take the slim chance. It may pay off.

When your first chance is an even 50 percent and your second chance a small extra that you can
