House OKs funding for missing link

By J. MARK BARFIELD
Herald Senior Staff Writer

SANFORD — The U.S. House of Representatives approved $6 million to complete the Central Florida GreeneWay "missing link" between U.S. Highway 17-92 and Interstate 4.

The $6 million was the first cut of $68 million being sought for the six-mile link. Rep. John Mica, R-Fern Park, who pushed the funding through House committee, is confident the remainder of the funding will be forthcoming during the next four years.

At a glance

SANFORD — Travelers are finding the Central Florida GreeneWay, and using it too.

Based on preliminary figures obtained by Gerald Brinton, director of the Seminole County Expressway Authority, ridership at the main toll plaza of the 12-mile tollroad increased about 4 percent between May 13 and 20. On May 13, 5,990 vehicles passed through the toll plaza. By May 20, the number reached 6,217.

Brinton said nearly 10,000 vehicles took the expressway during the first weekend after it was opened May 7.

"I saw a lot of people coming home from the beach Sunday afternoon," said an elated Brinton.

The tollroad over Lake Jesup is expected to transport an average of 12,000 cars per day by the end of the first year. On May 7, the first day tolls were collected at the main plaza, 3,014 cars passed over Lake Jesup. By that Friday, nearly 6,000 vehicles were passing through the toll plaza.

Brinton said a total of 23,000 vehicles traveled on some portion of the expressway last Friday. A total of 38,000 cars are expected to take the road by the end of the first year.

County approves 5-lane design to widen CR 46-A

By J. MARK BARFIELD
Herald Senior Staff Writer

SANFORD — Seminole County commissioners unanimously approved a five-lane design to widen County Road 46-A between Rinehart Road and Orange Boulevard Tuesday night.

The $4.4 million project will one day link to an interchange at Interstate 4, but when that connection will actually occur is uncertain. Final federal approval of the interchange is being piggy-backed with the approval application for the Central Florida GreeneWay connection at I-4, which is being moved through Congress by John Mica, R-Fern Park.

Until the federal approval is gained, the design can't be completed. About a quarter of the work is done, said Wayne Waters, Florida Department of Transportation manager of the project.

Although county officials don't know when the interchange construction will begin, they aren't waiting. Once work begins on the interchange, the state may have to reconstruct a portion of the county's roadwork, said Otis Gifford, manager of the county road project.

Gifford said land purchases are scheduled to begin in July 1995 and construction will follow about 20 months later. The project will take about a year to complete, Gifford said. Widening of CR 46-A east of the interstate is scheduled to begin SANFORD — Sanford Police discovered marijuana plants being grown in a Sanford residence Tuesday. Two residents of the house at 1909 S. Park Avenue were arrested.

At approximately 7:30 Tuesday evening, members of the City/County Investigative Bureau, with a search warrant, entered the house and searched each of the rooms.

Sheriff's department spokesman Ed McDonough said two rooms appeared to be totally dedicated to the cultivation of marijuana.

In filing the arrest report, officers described one room as having "an elaborate marijuana growing system." They located 38 plants in that room.

In another room, officers said they found 18 seedlings. In still another room, they uncovered a number of plastic bags containing what proved to be marijuana.

Arrested were Tammy Sue Singer, 27, and her husband Edmund Lance Singer, 30. Each was

Mom petitions school transfer for daughter

Board OKs second move from Sanford to Lake Mary classes

By VICKI DeSORMIER
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — Linda Johnson has successfully petitioned the school board to have her daughter transfer from Sanford Middle School in Sanford to Greenwood Lakes Middle School in Lake Mary.

Johnson, who has volunteered for many years in Sanford schools, petitioned last year to have her son make the same move. He was given the go-ahead and attended Greenwood Lakes this year.

He will attend Seminole High School in the fall.

The Johnsons and another family took an apartment in Lake Mary last fall in an effort to move their children out of the Sanford Middle School district.

Linda's husband, Bill, still maintains that Lake Mary home. He lives there with their son for now. In the fall, their daughter will live there.

Meanwhile, the Johnsons' Sanford home is for sale.

The Johnsons made the move to have their children taken out of Sanford Middle School when their son was entering the eighth grade. After two years of fighting for improved academic standards and a safer school environment, they said, they wanted out.

They have continued to volunteer their time and talents at the Sanford area schools in order to make a difference, Linda said. Still, there have not been sufficient improvements and they believed it would be best to transfer their daughter to Greenwood Lakes Middle School.

"It is not, as many have accused us, a racial issue," Johnson said. "It is a matter of educational standards."

She believes the needs of her children can be better met at the Lake Mary school. She wants, however, to be sure the school district works to change that situation. She said she would like to see the Sanford schools on an equal footing with other schools in the district.

Johnson reported hostile actions, including anonymous deposits of dead animals on their doorstep and "obscene materials" with a school district return address, were taken against her family after last year's transfers. She reported, also, that her family was "bad-mouthed" by Sanford Middle School teachers and administrators.

"Greenwood Lakes has been very supportive (of the transfer)," she said.

Board member Larry Strickler said that it was the transfer of Johnson's son and the other students that forced the school district to take a look at the needs of at-risk students in the Sanford schools.

"One day the Sanford community will see that they owe them a debt of

Millionaire for a day

TAMPA — Howard Jenkins became an instant millionaire on his lunch break — but he didn't win the lottery. Instead, the bank had a sweet surprise for him when a computer error put $88 million in his account. Jenkins, a 31-year-old promotional manager for a roofing company, decided to have some fun and withdrew a cool $4 million. Jenkins' brief stint as a rich man started when he lost his checkbook. He called NationsBank and put a hold on the account. When he went to make a deposit Friday, he was told to check the automated teller machine outside to make sure the account was working. When he withdrew $10, the receipt said Jenkins' balance was $889,437. Incredulous, Jenkins went home and called the bank's telephone system and got even better news. A computerized voice told him his account topped $88 million. Jenkins returned to the bank and asked a teller for his balance. When she wrote eight digits on a piece of paper and slid it to him, "I almost fainted," he said. "She said, 'Did you get an inheritance or something?'" Jenkins said. "I said, 'Or something.'" He decided to ask for $4 million. "They handed me $4 million and didn't bat an eye." He picked up his girlfriend for lunch and showed her the money: $3,000 in cash and seven checks, one for $997,000 and the rest for $500,000 each.

Law requires state program goals

TALLAHASSEE — State programs will have to pass muster for cost and meet measurable goals under a bill signed by Gov. Lawton Chiles. The performance-based budgeting bill (HB 2497) also earmarks $1 million for an innovation investment program to help agencies pay for changes that save money or improve services. Chiles signed the bill Wednesday at the state Department of Management Services, where hearing officers save time and money by using video teleconference equipment to reduce travel in conducting hearings across the state. Performance-based budgeting will be phased in over six to seven years. Some agencies, including the Department of Revenue, are starting with their next budget requests, said House Government Operations Chairman Allen Boyd, D-Monticello. Boyd's panel, which worked on the bill for about two years, adopted the phased-in approach after studying similar laws in states such as Texas and Oregon, he said. "You can't do it all at once," Boyd said. "Change is hard to come about, so we've got a lot of work to do." The bill sets up a 15-member government accountability panel to hold hearings on how state agencies perform and recommend improvements. It also authorizes the governor and Cabinet to determine if any state services could be done better privately.

Officer takes shot at motorist

ST. PETERSBURG — Hank Edwards says he is alive today only because the police officer who shot at him missed. Edwards was on his way to a friend's house when St. Petersburg Police Officer Paul Kiesel pulled him over. As Edwards was getting out of his truck, Kiesel fired at him. The bullet whizzed inches away from Edwards' head, shattering the driver's side window. Kiesel later said he thought Edwards' black metal cane was a shotgun. Edwards has been using the cane since spraining his ankle a few weeks ago by slipping while carrying groceries home. Edwards, a 43-year-old plasterer, said regardless of what traffic violation he had committed, "you don't kill somebody for it." "He wanted to kill me," Edwards said Wednesday. "He's just a bad shot." The 10-year veteran officer is on administrative leave while police investigate the shooting.

Settlement voids $6 million verdict

MESA, Ariz. — A jury ruled a bar must pay $5.9 million in damages for a death caused by a driver who was sold 38 beers, but the award was voided by a settlement reached shortly before the verdict. The suit against Fair Lanes McRay Plaza Bowling Inc. was filed by Ronald C. Polk, a Miami criminal lawyer, in the death of his daughter, Rosalynne Polk, 20, of Tempe. She was killed in a four-vehicle crash Oct. 13, 1990, triggered by Luis E. Salcido of Chandler, who was traveling the wrong way on Interstate 10. Polk agreed to a $300,000 settlement with the bowling alley while the jury was deliberating last week but said Wednesday that he was satisfied.

NEWS FROM THE REGION AND ACROSS THE STATE

Chiles to sign tobacco bill today

By Associated Press

TALLAHASSEE — With what is touted as the nation's toughest anti-tobacco measure, Florida will try to recover the high cost of providing medical care to poor people suffering from smoking-related diseases. Gov. Lawton Chiles planned to sign a bill into law today that gives Florida new legal tools to sue tobacco companies to try to recoup the costs of caring for Medicaid patients stricken by smoking-related illnesses. Statistics show that the state has spent $1.2 billion in Medicaid funds treating smoking-related diseases since 1989. "It looks like the governor is going to take the Marlboro Man to court," said his spokesman Ron Sachs. But Chiles also is expected to announce that he will revise the measure during the health-care special session in an effort to appease the tobacco industry. The measure, tacked on to a larger Medicare fraud bill, passed both Legislative chambers quietly in the waning days of the 1994 regular session. "The tobacco companies responsible for causing these tobacco-related illnesses should help pay for the treatment of those illnesses, rather than forcing those costs to be borne solely by the taxpaying public," Chiles wrote in a letter earlier this week to Associated Industries of Florida.

Associated Industries and the Florida Chamber of Commerce fear that the broad-written measure could also apply to other products such as dairy and pharmaceuticals and are pushing for its repeal during the special session set to begin June 7. The provision passed both chambers unanimously largely because lawmakers were not fully aware of what they were voting on. A number of legislators also have called for a review of the measure during the special session — partly swayed by arguments from the tobacco lobby that the measure is bound to provoke an "avalanche of litigation."

Fire investigated

LT. Mark Hall of the Seminole County Fire and Rescue station douses a fire in the woods, in the southwest corner of North French Avenue and the lakefront. A witness reportedly told police a woman had set the fire Tuesday, at the campsite of Victor Fontanez, who lives in the wooded area. Sanford fire investigators are looking into the blaze which was extinguished before it could spread to the surrounding woods.

Governor, education chief hear students' concerns of violence

By ADAM YEOMANS
Associated Press Writer

TALLAHASSEE — A group of middle-school students laughed at a videotape on conflict resolution that showed two youngsters patching things up after an argument in a school hallway. The students, who were participating Wednesday with Gov. Lawton Chiles in a television show on school safety, said that was a real-life example of how youths usually handle volatile situations at school. But one student said he was told to be more aggressive. "My mom always told me, if somebody hits you, you got to hit 'em back," eighth-grader Greg Hosendorf told Chiles and Education Commissioner Doug Jamerson. "You do what you gotta do until they leave you alone. Otherwise, if you don't do nothing, they just gonna keep messing with you." The governor said he identified with the student's feelings but has learned from personal experience that fighting isn't always the way to resolve disputes. "I used to get in a lot of fights

ACLU challenges teen curfew

ORLANDO — The American Civil Liberties Union is challenging a midnight to 6 a.m. curfew for anyone under 18 in downtown Orlando. The civil rights group says it violates juveniles' rights of free speech, assembly and privacy. The curfew, which the city has labeled a "youth protection ordinance," is take effect June 1. The ACLU, representing four youths, their parents and a downtown store, announced Wednesday it has been granted a circuit court hearing next Tuesday to argue for a temporary injunction. In March, the ACLU won an injunction that prevented the enforcement of Dade County's curfew; the matter is now tied up in appeal. Teen curfews have been declared illegal in four

MADD loses sales tax exemption for charities

By JACKIE HALLIFAX
Associated Press Writer

TALLAHASSEE — It's going to cost several chapters of Mothers Against Drunk Driving a little bit more to buy supplies for their marches and vigils and prom night parties. Six percent more to be exact. For years, MADD chapters across Florida have been exempt from the 6-cent sales tax. But several months ago, the state Department of Revenue took another look at the exemption law. The agency concluded some groups, including MADD, were given exemptions even though they don't fit the definition of charitable institutions. "The law is so clear about who is entitled to it and who isn't we feel there is no legal authority to continue the exemption," said Larry Fuchs, executive director of the Department of Revenue. Attorney General Bob Butterworth asked Fuchs about the situation Tuesday, noting some groups received letters saying their five-year exemptions would not be renewed.

The only group named by Butterworth was MADD, and Fuchs' agency refused to identify other groups because of taxpayer confidentiality. But agency spokeswoman Donna O'Neal said Wednesday that 11 organizations have lost their tax-exempt status since the agency's bureau of registration and records got a new chief last November.

To qualify for a charitable exemption, state law provides a checklist of services a group can provide: medical aid; basic necessities such as food, clothing or shelter; prevention programs targeted at alcoholism, drug abuse or suicide and health problems; child care, services for the elderly or adoption services; medical research; legal services; or food, shelter, care and other programs for animals.

A man reported someone took a buffer from his business in the 400 block of Andrews Drive in Longwood.

Someone threw a cement block through a rear window of a law office on Dog Track Road. There were no signs of entry into the building. Damage to the window was $250.

A resident of Shore Drive, Longwood reported someone entered his unlocked vehicle Friday and took the GMC Jimmy 1500 and a cellular phone.

Two factory installed speakers were removed from a vehicle parked at a business in the 1200 block of Hwy. 17-92 sometime Sunday.

A woman in the 5000 block of Lake Avenue, Sanford said her landlord entered her dwelling without permission and took some of her belongings. She had given notice she was moving in one week, the landlord reportedly said she should be out in two days. The woman said she had not been served with eviction papers.

The landlord reportedly told the woman's son, "This junk will be at the dump if you want it."

Florida gets lackluster economic report card

By BILL BERGSTROM
Associated Press Writer

TALLAHASSEE — Though Florida manages to create thousands of jobs each year, its capacity for economic development is hampered by one of the nation's worst high-school graduation rates and the lack of skilled scientists and technicians, a national economic report card shows.

The Corporation for Enterprise Development gave the state a D grade in development capacity and a C in economic performance.

Florida ranks sixth in job creation, with 9.7 new companies being established for every 1,000 workers, analyst Daphne Clones, who helped prepare the report, said Wednesday.

But Florida ranks 48th in the nation in graduations, with only 61.2 percent of ninth-graders finishing high school in 1991. Clones said, Minnesota was first with 89.5 percent, and Louisiana last with 54.3 percent, said Clones.

Despite Florida's low marks, the report shows that efforts to diversify the state's economy are starting to pay off, said Ron Sachs, a spokesman for Gov. Lawton Chiles.

Development capacity was Florida's — and the South's — Achilles heel, the report said. Ten of 12 Southern states received a D or an F in that category.

Ironically, as a region, the South creates the most jobs, the report said.

"The job creation powerhouse is also the land of the working poor. It is still an area of poor education and low-wage branch industrial plants," the report said.

The South's technological resources continue to be relatively scarce, though Florida's aerospace industry is one of the few exceptions, the report said.

On a brighter note, Florida earned a C for business vitality, an improvement from the D it got last year.

"It came up because of entrepreneurial energy and significantly more new companies being created," Clones said.

Though it boasts of other strengths such as good average pay, Florida is weak in health coverage and the human and technological resources essential for a vital business sector, Clones said.

Only 53.7 percent of Florida workers were covered by employer health plans, she added. The state had an average wage of $23,144.

Florida had the nation's sixth-best long-term job growth, with a 123 percent increase in jobs from 1985 through 1993, and 13th best short-term growth, with a 3 percent increase from 1992 to 1993, Clones said.

The state is taking steps to improve its health care system, help defense contractors and improve public schools, Sachs said.

"This report shows strong improvement for Florida and a great potential to do even better," he said. "Gov. Chiles believes health care reform will be one of the single most important economic boons to the state."

Colorado led the nation with A grades in all three categories. West Virginia ranked last, earning F grades in all categories from the Washington group, which is funded by corporations, foundations and unions.

In support of Main Street

Not every new business opening in downtown Sanford in the past few months has been a direct result of the Sanford Main Street program. There is no doubt however, their existence helped.

A Central Florida man who had not visited downtown Sanford for over a year recently came into the city. He was surprised at the new growth, especially the number of antique stores and small shops which have sprung up.

An out-of-state visitor recently spent five hours touring antique shops in the city, and had not visited all of them.

Land clearing began several months ago for the Seminole Towne Center Mall. It had been known for some time that the mall had been proposed. It possibly required actual dirt-moving for people to start considering what approach to take toward preserving the downtown area.

Sanford Main Street, (SMS) sought and received official state and national recognition. Downtown revitalization efforts began in earnest.

Yesterday, SMS, held a membership telephone blitz. As a result, a number of new members have now been added to the ever-growing roster of people interested in Sanford's future.

We commend these new members for agreeing to work with SMS. More people have been needed, and with larger numbers will come larger projects and better results.

There may be a few who agreed to join the SMS but may not be able to take an active part in the work. These people, along with persons who donate money to the SMS are also needed.

A few others may have been reluctant to join this organization. For them, we urge a study of the many projects which have already been accomplished and those which are planned. It may change your mind.

A majority of cities have some type of organization which works on revitalization or restoration projects. Unfortunately, a few of them fall by the wayside. In a short time period, some other group will form, and more efforts will get underway.

Sanford Main Street has proven it works and is here to stay. While some may have questioned the need for such a group at the start, SMS is making an important contribution to the city of Sanford.

If you weren't called yesterday, contact the SMS office at 322-5600 and become a member.

LETTER

No work, no food

I also agree with Mr. Leon Charles on his letter printed in the Sanford Herald, Sunday, May 1, 1994.

I am glad to hear and read about people that own guns and know why we have them.

The United States is getting to the point in time that we are paying the price for having compassion with crime because some criminal had it hard in life. We all have a choice for our own life. If we choose wrong then it's time to pay the price and the price for killing is your own life unless it's self-defense.

But for bullies and people who steal because they don't want to work all week, then we need to raise the cost on crime, even on caning or lashes or whatever works. And a jail should be a jail — no pleasures — doing what is called hard time.

I also think road gangs need to be brought back. Prisoners need to earn their own keep — by work camps or farms or road crews.

The city has wooded areas that need cleaned and work that the city employees don't do. Each city or county employee can be matched with a prisoner to do the day's work. Cut cost and get more done than seeing city and county trucks just sitting around parked or driving through the neighborhood.

I believe in God, and crime deterrents, and working to receive food each day. No work, no food.

South Africa's future looks bleak

Nelson Mandela is certainly entitled to savor the triumph he has recently enjoyed in South Africa. To have been sentenced to life in prison, as Mandela was, for acts of terrorism; to have survived 27 years in prison; and then to be freed by his jailers and promptly win election to the presidency of his country — these add up, any way you look at it, to a remarkable human achievement.

It does not detract from that achievement to note that many things had to occur in exactly the right order, for him to bring it off. First and foremost, the ANC had to be kept alive and supplied with money and weapons by the Soviet Union for a quarter of a century as a pro-Communist underground organization. Then the Soviet Union had to collapse at exactly the right moment, enabling South Africa's white government to yield to the internal and external pressures against apartheid without inflicting a deadly blow to the West in the Cold War.

In addition, South Africa's white population had to undergo, during the transition period, a paralysis of the will that left it unwilling to carve the nation into a number of separate sovereignties genuinely representative of the people inhabiting them: white, coloured, Asian and the nine major black tribes. Instead, the dominant English-descended business interests made their deal with the ANC, and prevailed on President de Klerk to ratify it and sell out his own Afrikaner lower and middle classes in return for one of two deputy presidencies under Mandela and one-half of a Nobel Peace Prize.

As for South Africa's future, the uniform experience of the rest of Africa makes it all too clear. For a few years, the euphoria will continue. The United States and other Western nations will pour hundreds of millions of dollars into Mandela's exchequer, and he will use part of them to make a down-payment on his reckless promises to South African blacks: one million new homes in the next five years, 2.5 million new jobs in the next decade, 10 years of free compulsory education, etc. Western business, too, will be eager (as it always is — witness Vietnam and Communist China) to trade with the new regime.

Then in a few years Mandela will die or retire, and the second generation of black politicians will take over. That is when the serious despoiling of South Africa will begin, and it will continue until there is nothing left to despoil.

The rapaciousness of black African politicians is legendary. There is scarcely a single honest, let alone genuinely democratic government between South Africa and the Mediterranean Sea. Practically all of them are despotisms in which the acquisition of public office is simply a license to loot. White (i.e., foreign) businesses can deal with the dominant politicians, of course, but strictly on a basis of What's-in-it-for-me? (There are signs that this process is already under way in South Africa, with Mandela demanding — and receiving — a slice of every important melon.)

But corruption is, relatively speaking, the good news where the long-term future of South Africa is concerned. Terrorism (by a recalcitrant Afrikaner minority) will become a way of life, as it is today in Northern Ireland.

Hypocrisy knows no boundaries

If you can bring yourself to look at this Paula Corbin Jones business as pure political theater, it might provide you with hours of blissful amusement.

With the possible exception of Bill Clinton, whose guilt or innocence is undetermined and who may therefore be suffering unjust pain, every party in this mess deserves the notoriety and disrepute which has befallen them, or surely will befall them before the thing has run its course.

I'll put it to you another way. If you enjoy watching hypocrites and poseurs getting peeled like rotten onions to their rotten cores, you are in the right place. This scandal is swarming with charlatans — smug liberals, cruel conservatives, extra-chromosome fundamentalists — and it is oh so satisfying to see them exposed for the phonies they are.

Start with the orthodox liberals — the leftist public interest groups, the rabid feminists, the victimization lobby. Three years ago, they set upon Clarence Thomas and gouged out his eyeballs — all on the uncorroborated charge of one woman that he had "sexually harassed" her.

Anita Hill had worked for Thomas for years, had followed him from one job to the next and had kept in touch with him after she left. She somehow managed to suppress the memory of his purported off-color remarks, but when he was nominated to the Supreme Court, well, then one had a duty to speak up. To the fanatics, the mere charge was tantamount to guilt. Thomas was accorded no presumption of innocence and barely made it to the High Court, where today he sits embittered and mute.

Now Paula Jones, supported by a phalanx of right-wing nasties and Enemies of Bill, has charged the president with making lewd sexual advances in a Little Rock hotel room three years ago. But Bill Clinton supports much of the feminist agenda and is married to the world's most famous liberated woman. So what do True Believers do about Paula's uncorroborated sexual harassment charge?

Nada. They set the foolish precedent and now they can do nothing but sit and watch the worm turn.

And what did rightwingers do during the Thomas-Hill hearings? Well, they protested the assault on the conservative Thomas, that's what. The hearings, wailed the Washington Times in 1992, "had little to do with disenfranchised women or even sexual harassment — and everything to do with politics."

And what sayeth the Times now that the alleged culprit is a moderate-to-liberal Democrat? "The behavior Mr. Clinton is being accused of," the paper says, "is debased and preposterous; it speaks directly to the issue of the president's character.... Whether a crime was committed, and whether Ms. Jones' complaint is a legitimate one is a matter for the court to decide."

Perhaps one of the most curious developments in the Paula Jones affair has been the conversion of prominent fundamentalist Christians into advocates of the feminist cause. The Rev. Patrick Mahoney, executive director of the Christian Defense Coalition and national spokesman for the militant anti-abortion group Operation Rescue, has formed the Paula Jones Legal Defense Fund and is pushing women's rights organizations to support her.

"Sexual harassment knows no political boundaries," Mahoney told the Washington Post with an apparently straight face.

This thing ought to be on the Entertainment Channel.

Every party in this mess deserves the notoriety and disrepute which has befallen them.

Senate vote deals in small change

Bathed in the TV lights that are now the afterglow of Washington's daily news moments, Common Cause's Fred Wertheimer was heralding the Senate's vote to ban members of Congress from accepting freebies — gifts, vacations, winings-and-dinings — from lobbyists.

"This will fundamentally change the way business is done in Washington and on Capitol Hill," gushed this ardent crusader for reform after the Senate's 95-4 vote.

Whoa, Nelly. Fact is, that the Senate vote really deals in another sort of change — small change, not big bucks. It tells senators and representatives they can no longer take baubles, bangles and bright shiny beads. But near-bribes are still OK.

Make no mistake: These senators and representatives now posing as populist reformers are still campaigning for re-election under rules that permit (some would say "compel") them to solicit (some would say, "shake down") special interests for contributions that are as close to bribes as payments of money can legally be.

Even on the day the Senate voted to ban gifts from lobbyists, members of Congress were in their private offices with their telephone lists making their usual round of calls to lobbyists from corporations and labor unions whose special interests happen to be regulated by the committees on which the members sit and vote.

It's a daily ritual that, in the spirit of truth in labeling, should be called "Dialing for Dollars." (Existing law allows PACs to contribute to a candidate up to $5,000 for each election — that can be $5,000 for a party primary race, $5,000 for a primary runoff election, $5,000 for the general election.)

Here's how the solicitation/shakedown happens each day, according to some of the lobbyists who are on the other end of the phone calls. After brief pleasantries, the senator/representative says: "I'm having a fund-raiser (a dinner or just cocktails) can you give $5,000?" Sometimes the member adds: "And can you raise $10,000 or $20,000 more?" Or: "Will you host a fund-raiser for me at your home?"

Members don't cite a specific pending vote or issue; they don't have to. What the lobbyists say they are thinking, throughout this ritual, is: "How can I not contribute? If I don't, every other lobbyist will, and then I'll be left out."

Subtlety is no requisite in the senators' and representatives' traditional contribution kabuki. Several lobbyists recall meeting on a specific issue with a senator known for his nice-guy, non-political image — and the senator opened his desk drawer, pulled out a computerized list to blatantly check just how much each lobbyist had contributed. And one lobbyist recalls a well-known liberal representative who responded to the lobbyist's promise to contribute $2,500 by snapping: "No, I want the full $5,000."

And then there's the lobbyist who noted the irony of a prominent Republican representative who publicly refused to take PAC money — but called lobbyists and asked them to host dinners of executives from companies with interests before his committee, with each exec making individual contributions. "What's the difference if they call me and shake me down for a contribution, or ask me to host a fund-raising dinner for executives?" the lobbyist asked.

In the end, special interests invest in political campaigns because they calculate they'll reap grand profits in subsequent legislative decisions — a subsidy here, a tax break there — that cost us millions more than they contributed.

There's only one way to end the stranglehold money has on our politics — by publicly funding Senate and House campaigns up front. We couldn't constitutionally prevent billionaires from bankrolling their own races. But we can require that all candidates who accept public funding be barred from receiving outside contributions.

That's the one and only way to finally level the playing field in House races, where Democrats have ruled for decades and incumbents outstep challengers by four to one in 1992, according to a study by the Center for Responsive Politics.

It's a liberal idea that is the best — and probably only — hope for the congressional resurrection of the Republican Party.

Fact is, that the Senate vote really deals in another sort of change — small change, not big bucks.

In 1986, he said. The whole transportation picture north of Lake Mary Boulevard has yet to come into focus. Although Congress appropriated $11 million in 1987 for the CR 46-A interchange, the project stalled. Area property owners planned to donate the land needed for the interchange, but in subsequent years, property changed hands and the project waned. Interstate interchanges must be approved by the Federal Highway Administration. The application for the I-4 interchange with the GreeneWay includes a shift of an CR 46-A exit ramp. Gerald Brinton, director of the Seminole County Expressway Authority, said the package was delivered to state road officials Monday. It is expected to be delivered to the Federal Highway Administration in about a week. The federal review may be completed by fall, he said. The House Public Works and Transportation Committee approved the first $4 million for the GreeneWay interchange last week, said Sharon Pinkerton, Mica's legislative aide. Also complicating the Seminole County interchange picture is the future of I-4 itself. The FDOT is awaiting the results of a $4 million I-4 study which will determine the needs of the highway into the next century. The study may call for 10 lanes of auto and mass-transit travel through north Seminole County, said project manager Wayne Waters. The study isn't expected to be complete until early next year, said Steve Homan, FDOT spokesman in Deland. The 46-A and GreeneWay interchanges are designed with the assumption I-4 will eventually be built to a full 10 lanes.

show a total of 30 calls coming in, but only two of them have produced valid results." Russell said many of the other calls were to report speeding cars, or suspected drug activity. "What we need," he explained, "is specific information, especially if a person connected with some type of criminal activity can be identified by name." Sanford police have distributed fliers to various businesses in the city, especially in the downtown area. They suggest individuals can help the police department by phoning 330-STOP (7867). Rod Layer, president of the Sanford Historic Downtown Waterfront Association commented, "In walking around the downtown area, I've seen many people looking at those signs, and taking down the phone number. I think this is a very outstanding show of cooperation, and I certainly hope they will use that phone number whenever they see a crime being committed." Russell said he has also been handing out posters and promoting the telephone line at all of the Access-94 meetings as well as wherever he gives talks to groups of citizens. Russell however, has now realized that there is a flaw in the posters. "The 330-STOP is correct," he said, "but the number 7807 is wrong. It should be 7867. I guess the posters were printed up wrong." Russell said he would immediately look into getting the posters corrected and have them changed wherever they are located. "The way I see it," he observed, "a police department is only as good as the community which supports it. We are giving the citizens a tool with which to help us, and persons who don't want to get involved can remain anonymous." "We have so many burglaries and thefts in this area," he said. "If we are to combat this problem, we are going to need everyone's help." Whenever a crime or criminal act is seen, phone 330-STOP (7867).

The ceremony will include an official reading of the proclamation by Sanford Mayor Betty Smith. Guest speaker for this year's event is Bill Hickman, DAV State Senior Veteran Commander. The firing of a 21 gun salute will climax the observance. Each branch of the military services, and all area veterans organizations are expected to participate in the parade as well as be in attendance at the lakefront ceremony. Following the event, veterans will gather at the DAV Chapter 30 building, 3512 S. Orlando Avenue, host for this year's Memorial Day activities. The hosting is on a rotational basis among the various groups in the Sanford area. Persons planning to watch the parade are urged to be downtown on E. First Street by

It was formerly known as Decoration Day, and has been especially focused on honoring those who have died in battle. It is one of the oldest holidays in the nation, having been observed as far back as May 5, 1865, when veterans gathered in Waterloo, N.Y., to pay homage to veterans and fallen soldiers of the Civil War.

Of the $6 million, $4 million will be available on demand from the state. The remaining $2 million requires additional approval from the Appropriations Committee. The money will be used to begin land purchases in the road corridor west of U.S. Highway 17-92. "We're making progress day by day," said Mica. "I'm gonna do it hell or high water. I'm gonna do it."

A pleased Gerald Brinton, director of the county expressway, authority, said he was ready to focus his attention on the Senate. "I'm very pleased, although this was expected," said Brinton. "The next hurdle is to see how quickly the Senate can get to it." That may not be for a year or more. Greg Williams, spokesman for Sen. Connie Mack, R-Cape Coral, said the Senate is required to act on the road funding bill by November 1995. Although there's some speculation constituent pressure could bring about a vote by the end of this year, Williams said the scenario was "unlikely." Brinton said even if the Senate waits until the end of 1995 to vote, there won't be a holdup in the process. A number of Federal Highway Administration approvals are required before land purchases can begin, the last approval expected by June 1995.

gratitude," he said. The board was divided on the approval of Johnson's transfer request. The approval was made by a 3-2 vote with Nancy Warren and Jeanne Morris voting against the transfer. "I can't support this based on the court order," Warren said, referring to the 1970 desegregation order that mandates the number of minority students required to attend each school in the district in order to maintain racial balance. Morris suggested that a hearing officer be employed to hear the matter based on the racial balance issue. "How can one child upset the racial balance?" chairman Barbara Kuhn asked.

Welfare card: Savings for state, dignity for users

By TOM STUCKEY
Associated Press Writer

ANNAPOLIS, Md. — Bobby McKinny calls it the "poor person's MasterCard Card," and she loves it. "It saves me money. It gives me dignity. It gives me independence," Ms. McKinny said. She has one of about 180,000 "Independence" cards the state has given welfare recipients to handle monthly food stamp and welfare allotments.

stamps. You don't have to pay supermarkets to handle food stamps," Ms. Brown said. The card operates like a bank debit card. Instead of mailing out checks to welfare recipients, the state electronically credits payments to their accounts once a month. People can then use their cards to shop at supermarkets and some other stores, and to get money from cash machines. When a welfare recipient pays for food at a supermarket or gets cash from a machine, the amount is deducted from the cardholder's account. The transaction is rejected if the balance is too low.

Despite the objections of the two board members, Johnson's request has been granted for one year. She will have to come to the board again and make a request next spring as her daughter prepares to enter the seventh grade.

One year after the first cards were issued, the program has accomplished most of its goals, said Dale Brown, the program's manager at the Department of Human Resources. The card, issued to almost all welfare recipients, has eliminated a lot of paperwork. It also appears to have reduced welfare fraud and the state's costs, although Ms. Brown acknowledged the program is so new that studies of its effectiveness are incomplete. "You don't have mailing costs, costs of shredding used food

The state has a contract with a company to handle the electronic transfer of $57 million in benefits each month. Victim Of flesh-eating organism

STROUD, England — When Les Christie walked into his local pub, the regulars applauded. He had survived a killer bacterium and came to enjoy the one pint of beer his doctors now allow.

The local politician is one of seven people in the Stroud area this year to contract necrotizing fasciitis, a virulent form of the common throat germ strep that feeds on flesh.

Two of the cases were fatal. Christie says he doesn't know whether to consider himself lucky or unlucky.

"I went into hospital with something simple and I'm now scarred," he said Wednesday night, his sweatshirt and trousers hiding the huge bandages on his abdomen where skin from the tops of his legs has been grafted to cover the wounds.

Necrotizing fasciitis is not new to medicine. Cases have been reported from time to time in the United States, New Zealand, Australia, Germany, Switzerland, Norway, Iceland and elsewhere.

But rarely do so many crop up in the same vicinity.

Dr. Christopher Bartless, director of Britain's Public Health Laboratory Service, said the cluster was highly unusual but that chance was the likeliest explanation.

While doctors are perplexed, there were no signs of panic Wednesday in this small leafy town 100 miles west of London, where a meningitis outbreak in the 1980s also remains a mystery.

Restaurants and pubs were doing their usual business. Mothers said they were not considering taking their children out of school.

At Christie's favorite pub, the King's Head, a few miles outside Stroud, the regulars reflected the views elsewhere in town: Some were concerned and some dismissed the bug as a bit of other cities, the ACLU said, listing Pensacola, Bradenton Beach, Palmetto and Jacksonville.

The Orlando law makes it illegal for those under 18 to be in a 12-square-block area of downtown during curfew hours. Mayor Glenda Hood proposed the curfew in response to downtown crime and violence that police attribute to roving bands of rowdy youths.

when I was kid. The reason I did is because I was afraid somebody would think that I was afraid," Chiles said. "I wasn't a very good fighter, so I got beat up a lot.

"Finally, that happened enough that I decided to think of something else to do."

Chiles and Jamerson fielded questions from about 30 Augusta Raa Middle School students and teachers and parents for a 30-minute show scheduled to air next month on the Sunshine Network.

The two politicians touted efforts by the Legislature this year to address school violence and praised programs to move unruly students into alternative education, keep middle schools open longer and make parents more responsible for their children.

Augusta Raa served as an appropriate setting — while the show was being taped in the school's media center, a student was beaten by another youth. The day before, a 14-year-old youth was arrested for bringing a gun to campus.

Some students said they are concerned about weapons at school. But telling school officials would only lead to more trouble, they said.

"If a person has a gun, it's most likely they are probably in a gang or from a different side of town," said Chinyere Solomon, a seventh-grader. "If they catch you at the mall, they're like, 'She squealed, let's get her.'"

Chiles and Jamerson urged the students to make it clear to troublemakers that guns and knives didn't belong at school.

"You have to be taught how to appropriately deal with peer pressure, and to feel good about yourself and not to allow yourself to be dragged into those kinds of situations," Jamerson said.

"Safe Schools and You" is a 30-minute show produced by the Florida Cable Television Association and Sunshine Network. It is scheduled to run on the Sunshine Network at 9:30 a.m. June 4, 9 a.m. June 5, 5:30 p.m. June 9, 7:30 p.m. June 14, 9:30 a.m. June 26 and 5:30 p.m. June 28.

scaremongering.

"It doesn't worry me," said Hugh Baxter, 42, a landscape gardener. "It's more the media that worries me than anything else."

British tabloids have pumped up the story with headlines like "Killer Bug Ate My Face" and "Dither And You Die."

In recent days news reports have said 10 other people have died from the germ this year. But government scientists have not confirmed all the deaths were caused by the bug.

Streptococcus infections usually are easily treated with antibiotics, but virulent forms can kill if not treated promptly. Strep killed Muppet creator Jim Henson in 1990.

Christie, a 58-year-old engineer and local councilman, went into Stroud General Hospital on Feb. 4 for a routine hernia operation. The next day the bug struck, and he was fighting for his life. He was saved by surgeons who removed the skin and fatty tissue eaten away from most of his lower abdomen.

He believes the outbreak is "a warning" that people around the world are abusing nature.

"Don't be frightened," he tells the young woman tending bar. "Whatever it is, we have to live with it."

But he worries the world may one day run out of remedies.

"Will we get to the point where we've reached the end of the warnings, when there are no more conquerors?" he said.

In the 1980s meningitis outbreak, 77 cases were reported in the Stroud area over a period of eight years and five were fatal. The cause was never determined.

Deer Run hosts fund raiser

CASSELBERRY — Deer Run Country Club will be the site of a charity golf tournament this Sunday, May 29, for 9-year-old Danielle O'Brien, who is suffering from a rare form of cancer.

Entry fee for the 1 p.m. tournament is $50 per person, which includes greens fee, cart, soft drinks, and an awards buffet dinner at 5:30 p.m.

Proceeds from the event will go to defray O'Brien's medical expenses. O'Brien has been fighting rhabdomyosarcoma, a form of cancer, since 1990. She has had two major operations and several types of chemotherapy. Presently, the cancer has returned and she'll be seeking treatment at a research clinic in Houston.

For reservations, call Dennis McBride at Windemere Country Club, 876-1112, or the Deer Run pro shop, 699-9592.

Senior baseball league tryouts

SANFORD — The second and final tryout session for the Sanford Recreation Senior Boys Baseball League has been set for 5:45 p.m. Tuesday, May 31, at Sanford Memorial Stadium.

The league is for players between the ages of 16 and 18 who will not be playing NABF or American Legion this summer. Boys who participated in the recently completed Sanford Recreation Babe Ruth Baseball League players and are 15 years old may play in the league.

For info, call Jim Schaefer at 330-5697.

Brown's triple eclipses Suns

ORLANDO — Brant Brown's two-out, two-run triple in the bottom of the fifth gave the Orlando Cubs a 2-1 win over the Jacksonville Suns on Wednesday.

Winning pitcher Derek Wallace (2-7) broke a five-game losing streak. David Evans (1-4) took the loss.

AROUND THE STATE

Fletcher, Hill stop Marlins

MIAMI — Darrin Fletcher drove in two runs and Ken Hill earned his eighth victory as the Montreal Expos beat the Florida Marlins 3-1 Wednesday night.

Rookie Carl Everett scored Florida's run in the seventh when he walked, took second on a groundout, stole third and came home on Dave Magadan's sacrifice fly.

Marlins release Destrade

MIAMI — The Florida Marlins parted company Wednesday with first baseman Orestes Destrade, who hit the most homers and heard the most boos in the team's inaugural season.

This year Destrade was hitting .208 and being jeered almost every time he made an out at Joe Robbie Stadium.

The Marlins designated his contract for assignment, which gives them 10 days to determine his status. Options include trading or releasing him.

AROUND THE NATION

NL suspends Destrade

NEW YORK — St. Louis teammates Allen Watson and Bernard Gilkey, and Florida's Orestes Destrade were suspended Wednesday by the National League for participating in a bench-clearing brawl.

Watson was suspended for eight games for intentionally hitting Destrade with a pitch and then throwing his glove at Destrade after he charged the mound Sunday during a game in Miami. Watson hit Destrade in the back after giving up three homers to the Marlins in the second inning.

Destrade was suspended for four games for charging the mound and hitting Watson. Gilkey was suspended for four games for making contact with an umpire during the melee.

The three players, who were ejected from the game along with Marlins reliever Luis Aquino, also were fined an undisclosed amount.

Dodgers dump Strawberry

LOS ANGELES — The Los Angeles Dodgers once paid Darryl Strawberry big money in hopes he would produce a championship in his hometown. On Wednesday, they paid him to simply go away.

Strawberry has not played this season and is in an after-care program following a four-week stay in a substance abuse clinic. What's next for him is unclear, although his attorney said his client will play baseball again.

The Dodgers said they reached a settlement with their troubled outfielder, who was to be paid $3 million this year and $5 million in 1995 to finish out the five-year, $20.25 million contract he signed Nov. 8, 1990. The Dodgers would not disclose settlement terms.

Wells dodges upset bid by Dee's Nuts

From Staff Reports

SANFORD — George Porzig's two-run home run capped a five-run rally in the bottom of the fifth inning that helped Wells Contracting get by upset-minded Dee's Nuts 7-6 in the Sanford Recreation Wednesday Men's Softball League at Chase Park.

Trailing 5-2 heading into the home half of the fifth, Wells Contracting exploded for five runs on six hits, then had to weather a sixth-inning comeback attempt by Dee's Nuts to register the win.

In the first game of the evening, Barrow Lane scored on Dave Shifflet's sacrifice fly in the bottom of the second inning to break a 1-1 tie and give the Wrecking Crew a 2-1 decision over Sportsmart-Crazy Wings.

Pats get right back to work

By TONY DESORMIER
 Herald Sports Editor

ALTAMONTE SPRINGS — It appears that Lake Brantley's charge to the Class 5A baseball state semifinals this spring has been both a blessing and a bother for the Patriots' summer program.

"It's great that the varsity went so far into the state playoffs, but that only gave us two days to get ready," said Coach Lee McDermott, who will guide the Lake Brantley 'A' team in the local NABF summer league. "As a result, we're going to have to play ourselves into shape."

"But getting to the final four has created a lot of enthusiasm among these kids. It gives them something to shoot for. They saw what their future may hold. It makes it easier to get guys out and it makes it easier to get the guys to work hard."

On Wednesday night, Lake Brantley opened the NABF season (four days after the Patriots fell to Cooper City in the Class 5A semifinals) with an 8-4 loss to the visiting Apopka Blue Darters.

With the score tied 2-2 through five innings, Apopka jumped on reliever David Etzkin for four runs on five hits in the top of the sixth, then scored two more runs in the top of the seventh.

Todd Smith led the 12-hit Apopka attack by going 4-for-4 with three doubles, a single, two runs scored, and three RBI. Catcher Steve Harrelson was 3-for-3 with a double and an RBI.

For Lake Brantley, Juan Rojas collected a double, single, one run, and an RBI. Neil Castaldo doubled and scored a run. Matt Krot hit two singles. Nick Cheek scored a pair of runs. Brian Grassing and Walt Wheatley each hit a single. Shaun Child had an RBI.

Reliever Jerry Zaffis was the winning pitcher.

The two teams will play again today and tomorrow. This afternoon's game will be played at 4 p.m. at Apopka High School. On Friday, the teams will return to Lake Brantley for a 4 p.m. game. Next Tuesday, Lake Brantley will host Winter Park at 7 p.m.

Sears catches Van Alstine, wins Mini-Stock main

By PAUL MARSEGLIA
 Special to the Herald

NEW SMYRNA BEACH — Bobby Sears ran down early leader Gene Van Alstine to win the Mini-Stock main event last Saturday night, May 21, at New Smyrna Speedway.

At the drop of the green flag, Van Alstine outduelled Sears and went on to the point. Four laps later, Sears caught up with Van Alstine. After two laps of side-by-side racing, Sears seized the advantage and managed to hold off Van Alstine the rest of the way to score his ninth win of the year.

Van Alstine was second followed by Ted Vulpus, Kevin DiMeco, and J.D. Duncan.

A lap 13 caution opened the door for Allen Rhodes to overtake front-running Michael Williams and claim the top money spot and the trip to victory lane in the Limited Late Model division.

Williams bolted to the early lead while Rhodes and Bill Morris hooked up in a battle for second place. By lap seven, Williams had pulled away to a 10-car advantage over the rest of the field that he maintained until the caution.

With two laps remaining to the checkers, Rhodes claimed the advantage on the restart. Williams chased him in an attempt to regain the lead but his efforts came up short and he had to settle for second in front of Wayne Lockett, Claude Collignon, and Bubba Martone.

Art Chapman didn't bother to wait for the rest of the pack in the Sportsman headliner. When flagman Johnny Bass dropped the green, Chapman (who set the evening's fastest qualifying time) was gone.

By the end of the first lap, Chapman had a 5-car lead over second-place David LeBeau. Going into lap five, Chapman already was lapping other cars in the 15-car field.

A lap seven caution bunched the field for a restart with LeBeau lining up alongside Chapman. But when the flag dropped, Chapman once again blew away the rest of the field and headed for victory lane, 11 car lengths ahead of Jeff Rule and Tommy Johnson, who had gotten around LeBeau with three laps left.

"Just because you have a big lead, you can't back off," said Chapman, the current FASCAR Sportsman points leader. "You race just as hard up front as you do if you're in the back of the field trying to plat catch-up."

"In this sport, you take nothing for granted. You race hard and race to win."

Bobby Stevens took the early lead in the Bomber division with Gary Frosh and Chuck Vola in hot pursuit. For most of the early laps, Stevens and Frosh raced wheel-to-wheel until

Andretti qualifies for second Sunday ride

By JOE MACENKA
AP Sports Writer

CONCORD, N.C. — John Andretti took a big step forward Wednesday night in his bid to become the first person ever to run in the Indianapolis 500 and the Coca-Cola 600 on the same day.

Andretti, who has already earned the 10th spot in Sunday morning's Indy 500 starting grid, assured himself of a spot in the 42-car field for Sunday afternoon's Winston Cup race at Charlotte Motor Speedway.

Andretti, driving a Chevrolet Lumina, posted a fast lap of 178.542 mph on Charlotte's 1.5-mile layout, good enough for the ninth starting position.

Andretti was greeted by yells of "All right, man!" and "Good job!" as he drove back into the garage, and he exchanged high-fives with his crew members when he climbed out of the car.

"It's going to happen," a beaming Andretti said, "and it looks like we might even have a pretty decent starting spot. That's more than we could have ever asked for."

Andretti had been hoping for one of the top 30 spots. Instead, his solid qualifying run meant he didn't have to worry about what happened in Thursday's second round of time trials, when spots 21 through 42 were filled.

The run also meant he was free to fly back to Indiana and take part in Thursday's final pre-race practice session at Indianapolis Motor Speedway.

Back in the garage area, Andretti unbuckled the top of his driving suit and slid it down to his waist.

"Maybe now I can sell some of these T-shirts," he said, showing off a shirt that has an Indy car on the front and a Winston Cup car on the back. On the front, the shirt says "John Andretti: Out of the Day," and on the back, it says "And into the night."

After Sunday's Indy race, Andretti plans to board a helicopter and fly to a nearby airport for a 53-minute flight to Charlotte. Once on the ground in North Carolina, Andretti is to take a helicopter to the infield at the track at Concord, about 20 miles northeast of downtown Charlotte.

Andretti hopes to have about 20 minutes to spare between the time he arrives at the Charlotte track and the time the Coca-Cola 600 begins.

Frosh grabbed the point at the midway point.

With Frosh in the lead, Stevens and Vola battled to the white flag for second place. Coming out of turn four on the last lap, Stevens took sole possession of second. Vola finished third followed by Brian Schlimmer and Doug Gould.

Mike Fritts, driving in relief of Daniel Keene, dominated racing action in the Late Model division to win his first-ever feature event at the New Smyrna speedplant.

Fritts grabbed the lead from Bruce Everett on lap three and out-ran the 12-car "freight train" on his way to taking the checkers.

"The car was just awesome tonight," said Fritts. "Not only did I have a lot of power, I could run anywhere on the track. Most of the time, you have to settle for a fast car or a good-handling car, but it's great when you have both."

Rounding out the top five were, in order of finish, Bill Coody, Scott Laughlin, George Murphy, and Ted Head.

A fender bender in the Late Model heat race kept Joe Piazza and Ricky Wood, the current overall FASCAR Late Model points leader, from running in the main event.

Dave Savicki held off a hard-charging Greg Hughes and Wayne Parker to win his seventh Modified feature of the year. Hughes settled for second with Parker, the feature event winner Friday night at Orlando Speedworld, coming in third ahead of Gary Salvatore and Joe Middleton.

Dan MacCarrick was the winner of the Run-About main event.

What is cause of female facial hair?

DEAR DR. GOTT: What causes a woman to get unwanted facial hair? What are the treatment options available?

Because it is so prevalent in foods (protein, beef, peas, beans, peanut butter, wheat germ, and others), deficiency states are not known to exist. Therefore, sulfur supplements are not necessary.

DEAR READER: Although some women develop facial hair as a result of hormone imbalances or hormone-producing tumors in the reproductive tract, most cases have an unknown cause.

To give you more information, I am sending you a free copy of my Health Report "Fada I:

Therefore, while I urge you to check with your gynecologist or dermatologist for blood tests, I suspect that you will be left with the usual treatment options: bleaching, shaving, plucking, or waxing. A cosmetologist can probably help you.

WIN AT BRIDGE

By Phillip Alder

Being educated is recognizing that you have made a mistake. Being experienced is recognizing that you have made the same mistake again.

hoping West had the jack? Or should he ruff with the queen, hoping the spade jack would drop in one or two rounds? Of course, if South had a trump loser, maybe East would have the club queen, so that South's diamond loser could be discarded on dummy's club ace. Which way should South have gone?

Of course, ideally we compress education and experience into one, never making the same mistake twice. Yet in the real world it happens. And it is especially frustrating when it occurs at the bridge table.

As the experienced among you will know, declarer shouldn't ruff high or low. He should discard one of dummy's low diamonds. Then, as long as the trump arent 4-0, the hand is under control.

North's three-heart cue-bid showed at least a limit raise in spades with three or more trumps. South, despite being worried about his heart holding, had to take a shot at the vulnerable game.

Suppose West switches to a diamond. Declarer wins with dummy's ace and draws trumps. Then he ruffs his diamond loser in the dummy, when there is no risk of an overruff.

West started with three rounds of hearts, East echoing to show his doubleton.

As Mark Twain said, The principle of give and take is the principle of diplomacy -- give one and take 10.

YOUR BIRTHDAY
May 27, 1994

Joint endeavors could be profit producers for you in the year ahead. Your chart shows you might find two situations where you can offer your service or know-how for a participation in the returns.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Changes over which you'll have little or no control could prove to be very beneficial for you today. Be alert for opportunities when skills occur.

19) The way you handle matters will win you the respect of others today. Once you make a commitment or a promise they'll see that you will follow it through, regardless of the inconvenience.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Today if you are subjected to financial pressures, it could awaken your resourcefulness and ingenuity. Don't be afraid to try something new and daring. Get a jump on life by understanding the influences which are governing you in the year ahead. Send for your Astro-Graph predictions today by mailing $2 and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Astro-Graph, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 4485, New York, N. Y. 10163. Be sure to state your zodiac sign.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) If there is a critical matter you want to negotiate today, do not use an intermediary. You should do very well on a one-to-one basis.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Occasionally in commercial or business situations your inner perceptions tune you in on things your logic ignores. This condition may prevail today.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) A wise friend might offer you some advice today that can only be helpful if you're truthful with this person. He/she needs facts as a base.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) This could turn out to be a very productive day for you, even if you get off to a slow start. Once you're on a roll, do everything constructive you can to pick up momentum.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Innately, you're not a showoff. However, today will welcome applause and are apt to do better in front of an audience than you will when unobserved.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Fortunately, you have very good managerial abilities today, because you might find it necessary to step in and assume control of something your associates have botched up.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) There is something constructive you can do today that could significantly enhance your material security. It might not be easy, but it will be doable.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) If you get involved in something important today where you need help from others to pull it off, don't be afraid to request aid. Your chances for getting assistance are excellent.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19)

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Your best ideas today might come from others rather than from your own creative process. Don't let your ego reject outside input.

Garden club installs officers

The new officers of the Garden Club of Sanford were installed on Thursday, May 19 at the Garden Club building. The installation theme was "A Ragout", a stew recipe, with each incoming officer being presented with a vegetable representing the roll they will play in leading the membership over the coming two years.

A green pepper was given to Pat Foster, incoming treasurer; potatoes for Isabel Wilson, secretary, to hold the club together; Barbara Bradshaw, vice president, received a red tomato and Betty Akers, the new president, was given a container of spices, which included some hot spices, "to keep the club on its toes," club member Mary MacTavish said.

The new slate of officers was installed by District VII director Gladys Howard. The 41 members and guests, including John Howard, husband of the District VII director, Gladys Howard, then enjoyed a covered dish luncheon.

Upcoming events for the Garden Club include a "mini-flower show", on Wednesday, June 29 and three advanced floral design classes, held in conjunction with the Tusawilla Garden Club. The classes will be held at the Sanford Garden Club. For more information on either of these events, please contact Mary MacTavish at 322-5545.

Budding romance choked by smoke

DEAR ABBY: Knowing myself, and the loving, stable family I grew up in, I never thought I'd be twice divorced at 45, but that's another letter.

My present predicament is that I have met a wonderful man who wants to marry me. I would marry him in a minute, but there's a problem: He's a heavy smoker. He has asthma and bronchitis, and when he lights up he coughs, which makes me cringe. He keeps saying he's going to quit, but he's still smoking.

ADVICE

Abby, I feel as though he's killing himself, and there's nothing I can do about it. Should I continue to see him and hope he'll quit smoking? Or should I go on like this, and fall more deeply in love with him only to watch him die an agonizing death from lung cancer? He's 54. So far, I'm distancing myself from him until I know what to do. Please help me.

PERPLEXED DOWN SOUTH

DEAR PERPLEXED: First, not everybody who smokes gets lung cancer and dies an agonizing death.

You could (and perhaps should) tell this wonderful man that you've been distancing yourself from him because you fear that his smoking might shorten his life, and the second-hand smoke could have a negative impact on your own health.

Don't give him an ultimatum; give him an incentive. Tell him that the American Cancer Society offers stop-smoking programs, and there's also Smoke Enders and Smokers Anonymous. It could be the beginning of something wonderful for both of you. Please write again and let me know what happens. Good luck.

DEAR ABBY: My niece - I'll call her Abby - is a single mother with a 4-year-old son. (I'll call him Johnny.) Carol just turned 40. Since the day Johnny was born, he has slept with his mother in a single bed. They go to bed between 8 and 10 o'clock every night, and always have snacks and drinks in bed. They watch TV and cuddle until Johnny falls asleep in his mother's arms.

Abby, this child has never fallen asleep alone. Carol lives with her parents, and there is no shortage of beds in their home.

Recently, Carol and Johnny visited me in my country home, and I gave them the bedroom with twin beds. The following morning, I discovered that Carol had pushed the beds together so she and Johnny wouldn't be separated. This really bothered me.

I think Carol's emotional needs are taking precedence over what is best for her son. He has no father, and his grandparents have no say in his upbringing.

I would appreciate your assessment of this situation. No city, please, and sign me...

CONCERNED AUNT
DEAR CONCERNED: You have good reason to be concerned. You hit the nail on the head - Johnny doesn't need to sleep with his mother nearly as much as she needs to sleep with him.

You would be doing Carol an enormous favor if you advised her to get counseling in the rearing of her son.

DEAR ABBY: The letter from the girl who wanted her mother to walk her down the aisle prompts this letter.

When my son was married, he asked his sister to be his "best man." She is seven years younger, and they have always had a very close and loving relationship.

Although the wedding was formal, it was held outside, on the California coast overlooking the ocean. My daughter wore a tux and, with her beautiful long hair, she looked like a picture.

You are right, Abby; there should be no set rules for weddings. They should be what the bride and groom want them to be.

MOTHER OF FIVE

DEAR MOTHER: If every mother of the bride - or the groom - were as broadminded and loving as you, my mail would probably be reduced by one-third. I don't know who decided that rules for weddings cannot be altered to suit the wishes of the bride and groom.

propagation and maintenance of a healthy, well-balanced population of fish and wildlife.

The proposed NPDES permit modification was drafted in accordance with the provisions of the Clean Water Act (33 U.S.C. Section 1311 et seq.) and other lawful standards and regulations. When a permit is modified only the conditions subject to modification are reopened to comment from the public. The proposed modification will change all of the parameter sample type from 24-hour composite to grab and the sample frequency from "daily, 5/week", to "daily discharge".

The parameter for biochemical oxygen demand (5 day) is proposed to be changed to carbonaceous biochemical oxygen demand (5 day) and as a result of the discharge going from continuous to intermittent the facility testing requirements, Part IV, of the permit will be deleted.

Persons wishing to comment upon or object to any aspects of a specific permit issuance or wishing to request a public hearing, are invited to submit same in writing within thirty (30) days of this notice to the Office of Public Affairs, Environmental Protection Agency, 345 Courtland Street, N.E., Atlanta, Georgia 30365. ATTENTION: Ms. Lena Scott. The public notice number and NPDES number should be included in the first page of comments.

All comments received within the 30-day period will be considered in the formulation of a final determination regarding the permit modification. Any interested person may within the 30-day period request a public hearing. Where there is a significant degree of public interest in a proposed permit modification, the EPA Regional Administrator will hold a public hearing.

After consideration of all written comments and the requirements and policies in the Act and appropriate regulations, the EPA Regional Administrator will make a determination regarding the permit modification. If the determination is substantially changed, the EPA Regional Administrator will issue a public notice indicating the revised determination. Requests for evidentiary hearing may be filed after the Regional Administrator makes the above described determination. Additional information regarding an evidentiary hearing is available in 40 CFR Subpart E, 48, FR 1278 (April 1, 1993), or by contacting the Office of Regional Counsel at the address above or at (404) 347-2309.

The administrative record for each, including application, fact sheet or statement of basis, draft permit, a sketch showing the exact location of the discharge(s), comments received, and additional information on hearing procedures is available at our office by writing the EPA administrator for review and copying at 345 Courtland Street, N.E., Atlanta, Georgia, between the hours of 8:30 a.m. and 4:30 p.m., Monday through Friday. Copies will be provided at a minimal cost per page. Please bring the foregoing to the attention of persons who you know will be interested in this matter. Publish: May 26, 1994 DER-311

Nine of 10 playgrounds said to pose hazards

By CASSANDRA BURRELL
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON — America's playgrounds may look safe but nine of 10 contain hidden hazards that are partly to blame for accidents that send some 170,000 youngsters to hospital emergency rooms every year, two consumer protection groups said today.

Those dangers, such as hard surfaces and equipment that is too high, also contribute to the 17 playground deaths that occur each year on average, the U.S. Public Interest Research Group and the Consumer Federation of America said in a joint report urging government action to improve playground safety.

"Unfortunately, the federal government has not done enough to improve playground safety," the report said. "There are no national standards for the design and construction of outdoor play equipment."

Falls accounted for 75 percent of the nearly 170,000 injuries resulting in emergency-room treatment in 1992, the study said. Ninety-two percent of the playgrounds surveyed nevertheless lacked adequate protective surfacing under and around equipment.

Report findings were based on an examination of 443 playgrounds in 22 states and the District of Columbia in March and April.

The most common injuries also occur when children are hit by moving swings or are strangled. Children also hurt themselves by running into stationary equipment, sharp edges, protrusions, pinch points, hot surfaces and debris, the consumer protection groups said.

"Slides are the most frequent cause of injury for children under the age of six," they said. "Superficial facial injuries ... and serious head injuries ... are the two predominant patterns of injury for young children on slides, swings and climbers."

Playgrounds that look safe to parents may contain hidden strangulation hazards, said Mary Ellen Fier, a product safety director for Consumer Federation of America.

"For example, children can strangle to death when their head gets caught in an opening that is big enough for their feet to enter, but too small for their head to get through," she said.

Group investigators found obstacles and other equipment in "fall zones" — areas under and around equipment where a child might fall — in 75 percent of the playgrounds examined.

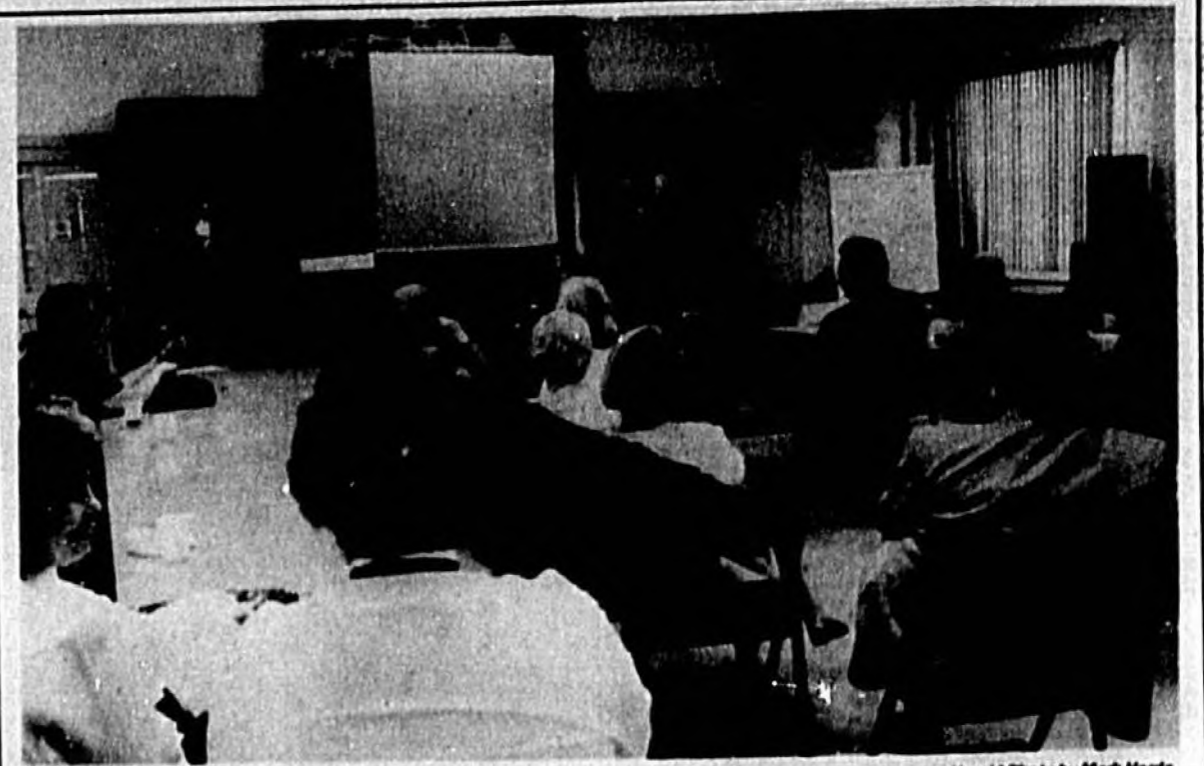

Higher-than-necessary equipment was found in 57 percent.

In 70 percent of the 300 playgrounds with swings, the number and spacing of swing seats increased the risk that a child would be hit by a moving swing, the report said. Swing seats were made of wood, metal or other rigid material in 20 percent.

Equipment posed a head entrapment hazard in 55 percent of all playgrounds studies, the groups said.

There was some good news. The number of playgrounds with hard surfaces under and around equipment fell from 31 percent in 1992 to 13 percent this year, surveyors found.

"Many playgrounds surveyed this year, however, have mixed surfacing, with loose fill, shock absorbent materials like hardwood chips under some equipment and unsafe hard surfaces like soil and grass under other equipment," the report said.

Winfrey wins 2 Emmys, 'All My Children' best

By JOE UNGARO
Associated Press Writer

NEW YORK — Oprah Winfrey is beginning to enjoy herself.

Winfrey was a double winner at the 21st Annual Daytime Emmy Awards, collecting trophies for best talk show and best talk show host.

"This is getting to be nice," Winfrey said Wednesday night as she accepted her fourth consecutive best-host award.

She also presented the evening's premier award to ABC's "All My Children" for best drama series.

Soap opera queen Susan Lucci, whose reign has yet to be confirmed by an Emmy, was the host.

Lucci, who has played Erica Kane on "All My Children" for 23 years, has been nominated 14 times for Outstanding Lead Actress — and has lost 13 times.

She wasn't nominated this year. The ceremony was televised on ABC.

Including previously announced technical awards, the biggest winners were "Sesame Street" with seven awards, "Guiding Light" with five, "The Bold and the Beautiful" with five, and "One Life to Live" and Winfrey's show with four each.

Hillary B. Smith was named outstanding lead actress in a drama series, on ABC's "One Life to Live." Michael Zanolow of CBS's "Guiding Light" won the outstanding lead actor award.

Justin Deas, also of "Guiding Light," won the best supporting actor award. The Emmy for best supporting actress went to Susan Haskell of "One Life to Live."

Daytime TV pioneer Dick Clark received a lifetime achievement award for his work on "American Bandstand" and other programs.

The Emmy for outstanding animated children's program went to Nickelodeon's "Rugrats." "Sesame Street," on PBS, was named outstanding children's series.

Shari Lewis, of "Lamb Chop's Play-Along" on PBS, was voted outstanding performer in a children's series. It was her 10th Emmy award.

Bob Barker of CBS's "The Price is Right" beat out the only other nominee for top game show host, Alex Trebek of the syndicated "Jeopardy." That award was presented May 21.

"Jeopardy" won an Emmy for outstanding game audience participation show.

Winners were determined by peer panels of the Academy of Television Arts & Sciences and the National Academy of Television Arts & Sciences.
