Police Kill 6 In South Africa

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (UPI) — Police killed six people in racial riots near Cape Town, raising to 19 the number reported killed in the worst two days of violence since the government imposed a state of emergency in black areas last month.

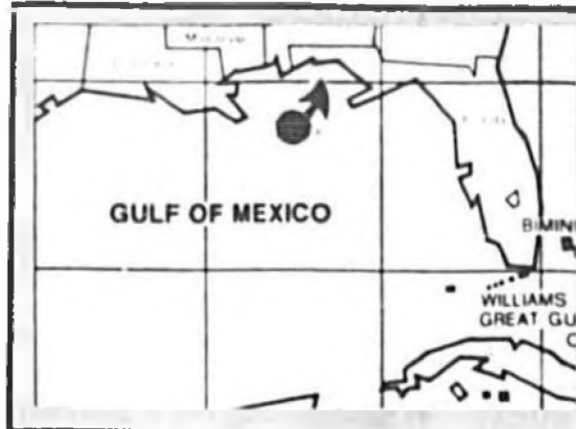

Amid the violence Thursday near Cape Town, President Pieter Botha prepared for a meeting today with three European foreign ministers on a fact-finding tour of South Africa.

Dutch Foreign Minister Hans van den Broek and the foreign ministers of Italy and Luxembourg left Europe Thursday to meet with government officials and black leaders. They described their visit as one of "inquiry and pressure."

Their tour was to begin in the midst of the worst outbreak of violence in Cape Town since South Africa's apartheid policy of strict racial segregation was instituted by the National Party in 1948.

Police said they killed six people in nationwide racial rioting Thursday, bringing to 19 the number of people reported killed since Wednesday — the bloodiest two days in South Africa since March.

Elena Looks Ferocious; May Hit Land Saturday

PENSACOLA (UPI) — Hurricane Elena, a potential killer hurricane that sent 120,000 residents and Labor Day holiday tourists fleeing inland from Gulf coast resorts, flung its 100 mph winds and 12-foot tides today toward the condominium coasts of the Florida panhandle.

Hurricane warnings were posted from Morgan City, La., to Apalachicola, Fla., a span of about

First 'No' In SEA Bargaining History

Teachers Turn Down Contract

By Jim Searls
Herald Staff Writer

For the first time, Seminole County teachers have rejected a contract negotiated for them by their union, the Seminole Education Association.

By a 786 to 728 vote, tabulated late Thursday, the teachers voted down a contract that would have given first-year teachers about a 13 percent pay hike and teachers with 15 or more years experience a 4 percent increase.

Although the turn down was unexpected, disgruntled veteran teachers had been vocal in their opposition to the pact, calling it a "slap in the face" to experienced educators.

SEA negotiators will now have to come up with a new proposal to present to the school board bargaining team, said chief school board negotiator Ernest Cowley. Cowley said the SEA members' votes marks the first time teachers have turned down a contract proposal since the school district began collective bargaining in 1974. By law, teachers are not permitted to strike.

"I find the teachers' vote very disturbing," Cowley said. "We (the negotiating teams) had a tentative agreement and I am very disappointed in the results." He said the basics of the rejected contract are the same as those offered teachers in Seminole for the last 20 years.

But it was that fact that irked so many experienced teachers.

Seminole High School geometry teacher Bill Klein, a Seminole County teacher since 1972, said he thought the vote was indicative of teacher frustration with just that lack of change in their pay scale.

Marshall Ogletree, executive director and chief negotiator for the SEA, said the contract offered the teachers was another in a long list of false promises starting with the governor to the legislature and on down to the school board. "Long time teachers are angry and frustrated and this vote expresses that feeling," Ogletree said.

Of Seminole County's 2,200 teachers, about 500 have 15 years experience or more. Not all

Rahming, treasurer; Debby Whitmire, president; Helen Goodson, past president; Marshall Ogletree, executive director. The final vote: 728 for the contract, 786 against.

teachers are members of the SEA and some members may not have voted, accounting for the total vote of 1,514, about 700 less than the total number of teachers.

Howard Butcher, Seminole High School teacher with 16 years' experience, said the voted-down contract was "terrible."

"What it was telling us was they aren't interested in the older teachers. They'd rather have the younger ones."

"I'm pleased to see the SEA members stuck together and defeated it."

But, Butcher said, "as long as we don't have binding arbitration, the school board will do what it wants to do. You notice the superintendent (Robert Hughes) got a 10 percent raise, not 4 percent." While a new contract proposal is put together, teacher salaries will be frozen at their 1984-85 levels. No disruption of the school year is expected, Cowley said.

The defeated salary plan, called by negotiators a "15 year step-plan," called for pay raises averaging 6.7 percent according to a teacher's education and level of experience. For example a teacher with a bachelor's degree and two years' experience would receive more compensation than a teacher with similar education and one year of experience. The pay raises, that would have cost the school district $3.7 million more than it paid for teacher salaries last year, would have benefited inexperienced teachers most, whose base salary would jump from $14,260 to $15,116 if approved.

Cowley said the idea behind giving new teachers a greater rate of pay hike is to attract them to Seminole County. He said out of 67 Florida counties, Seminole ranks near the bottom, 56th, in beginning teachers' pay. But for veteran teachers' pay, those with 15 years or more experience, Seminole ranks 8th for those with bachelor degrees and 5th from the top out of 67

17% Of Florida Lakes Surveyed High In Acidity

Northeast Rate Less

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A federal survey shows a greater percentage of lakes in south Georgia and Florida have relatively high acid levels than lakes in the Northeast, the Environmental Protection Agency said Thursday.

The survey sampled 151 lakes from south Georgia through Central Florida and found relatively high acidity in 17 percent of them. Of 771 lakes sampled in the Northeast, about 4.5 percent showed relatively high acidity.

EPA officials stressed that the limited findings do not show what caused the high acid levels, whether those levels — recorded in one-time measurements — are consistent, and how likely other lakes are to develop similar problems.

Findings also do not measure the overall impact of acid rain on lake acidity levels, they said.

Police Quell Fight

A crowd gathered at Higgins Terrace apartments Thursday at about 7 p.m. when a fight broke out and handguns were reportedly drawn. Sanford police arrived and broke up the fight but found no guns, according to Police Chief Steve Harriott. Charged with resisting arrest with violence and disorderly conduct was Norman Gaines, 18, of #23 Higgins Terrace. He was jailed in lieu of $5,000 bond.

Escapes Still At Large

Three felons who escaped from the Tomoka Correctional Institute near Daytona Beach were still at large early today, Volusia County sheriff's officials said.

Sheriff's deputies checked out numerous tips provided by Volusia County residents but none of them led to the whereabouts of the escapes, said a Volusia sheriff's deputy.

Television news reports indicated the three were sighted in the Jacksonville area after having stole a county truck that had its keys left inside, but a Tomoka prison official said those reports have not been confirmed.

The three felons, all serving long prison terms, escaped sometime between 6 a.m. and 8 a.m. Wednesday, according to prison officials. They cut through an inner fence in the compound and then used a ladder left behind by a construction crew to scale another fence topped with coils of razor wire.

The three escapees are:

Humberto Lopez, Cuban male, 30, 6 feet tall, 165 pounds, with black hair and brown eyes. He has a tattoo of a mermaid above the right knee and a scar over his left eye. Lopez was serving a 15-year mandatory sentence for trafficking cocaine and three counts of battery on a law enforcement officer. He is from Miami and was sentenced in Broward County.

Jose Moreno, Cuban male, 24, 5 feet 6 inches tall, 147 pounds, with a ruddy complexion, black hair and brown eyes. He has a tattoo of a female on his upper right arm. Lopez was serving nine 20-year sentences running concurrently for armed burglary, armed robbery, false imprisonment, kidnapping, grand theft, burglary of a dwelling with assault. He is from Miami and was sentenced in Dade County.

Vincent James Capizzano, also known as Antonio Vincente, Mexican male, 35, 6 feet 1 inch tall, 178 pounds, with ruddy complexion, black hair, green eyes, and when last seen had a salt-and-pepper beard. Capizzano was serving four life sentences and one 30-year sentence for armed robbery and kidnapping. He is from Port Charlotte and was sentenced in Broward County. Lopez and Moreno are believed to have come to the United States during the Mariel Boat Lift.

Prison officials say all three are considered extremely dangerous.

Anyone with information about the whereabouts of these men is asked to call the Volusia County Sheriff's Department at 904-252-0485 or 904-734-3441, or the Tomoka Correctional Institute at 904-257-1314.

Labor Day Closings

City, county, state and federal offices will be closed Monday for Labor Day. Banks, post offices and schools will also be closed, as will the Seminole County Library branches in Casselberry and Sanford.

There will be no city refuse collection Monday in Altamonte Springs or Sanford. In Altamonte, residents who normally have their trash picked up on Monday will have it collected on their next regular pickup day. Those who usually are scheduled on Monday's route in Sanford will have their trash picked up on Tuesday and Tuesday's customers will have pickup on Wednesday.

U.S. Issues Guidelines For Kids With AIDS

WASHINGTON (UPI) — In an attempt to quell worry among parents and school officials, the government issued its first set of guidelines on children with AIDS and said there was no reason to keep them home from school.

The U.S. Centers for Disease Control in Atlanta reiterated there was no evidence the disease could be transmitted through casual contact in the classroom, school showers, day-care centers, gyms or elsewhere, and recommended common sense hygienic procedures be followed in situations where there might be any doubt.

"Most (children with AIDS) pose no risk in a school setting," said Dr. Martha Rogers, a CDC medical epidemiologist, in a telephone interview. "Therefore, most of them should attend regular school. There's no medical reason to keep them out."

Rogers said the guidelines, the government's first, were drawn up in response to a deluge of calls to the CDC from parents, teachers and school officials with questions about how to protect children against AIDS virus infection.

"We get questions about whether school showers are safe," Rogers said, pointing out there was no way a child could contract AIDS from normal use of such facilities.

In one celebrated case, 13-year-old AIDS sufferer, Ryan White of Kokomo, Ind. — who already had hemophilia and contracted AIDS from use of blood clotting factor made from contaminated blood — has been kept out of school.

The boy has been permitted to participate in classes at Western Middle School, but only by telephone.

His mother, who is appealing the school's decision, said Thursday she is glad the government is advising schools to let AIDS-stricken children attend classes, but doubts it will help her son attend his seventh grade classes immediately.

But Ryan's mother, Jeanne White, said: "This more or less sounds to me like as close as you can get. If you have the CDC backing you I think that's pretty great."

Exceptions might be made for developmentally or neurologically retarded children who have poor control of bodily functions,

Rogers said. Special steps should be taken to minimize contact with such children's secretions.

Anyone with an open cut or wound should wear gloves to prevent contact with children's body fluids, if only to avoid contracting other diseases, the guidelines said.

"Mandatory screening (for HTLV-3 virus infection) as a condition for school entry is not warranted," the guidelines said, but foster-care and adoption agencies probably should screen children since prospective parents will have to make decisions about the youngsters' medical care.

Children with AIDS or related infections might be more likely to be harmed by attending school, since their immune systems are unable to battle disease effectively. Decisions about them should be made individually in consultation with doctors, the CDC said.

As of Aug. 20, 183 of the 12,599 reported cases of AIDS in the United States were among children under age 18. The number was expected to double within the next year.

Daughter of Nelson Mandela Accepts Donation in Washington

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The daughter of South African black activist Nelson Mandela, in Washington Thursday to accept a check from a group of U.S. senators to rebuild her mother's house, which was recently destroyed by a firebomb, said growing up without a father was not easy.

Nelson Mandela has been imprisoned for 22 years in South Africa and is the symbol of black resistance to apartheid in that country.

Mandela's eldest daughter, Zenny, as she is called, and her husband, Thumbumuzi Dlamini, live in Swaziland but periodically return to South Africa to visit her mother and father. She is 26.

Her trip to Washington was sponsored by the Center for Development Policy, a non-profit research organization concentrating on developing nations.

"What's happening today in South Africa is quite terrible. I think the youth are very, very angry ..." she said.

Economic Indicators Up—Slightly

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The government's sensitive index of leading indicators moved up a weak 0.4 percent in July following three months of barely perceptible improvement, signaling the absence of any big rebound on the economic horizon, government economists said today.

The composite index, designed to anticipate trends, had a hard time finding any. Only two of the 11 indicators — stock prices and money supply — moved more than one-tenth of a percent.

The accumulation of tiny changes added up to a 0.42 percent increase for the month, only slightly stronger than June's revised 0.36 percent advance.

The index, like a variety of other economic indicators, reflected no special strength in July that would appear to be the prelude to an economic rebound in the second half of the year.

Bums Hired To Buy Tickets

DALLAS (UPI) — Seedy-looking transients, who spent one night in line to grab all the Bruce Springsteen concert tickets they could, have been hired for another night's work.

Ticket scalpers hired street people — bartering with cigarettes, food and money — to buy the tickets for Springsteen's Sept. 13 show at the Cotton Bowl. Scalpers raided the Salvation Army Wednesday, promising cash for anyone willing to sit in line.

The 80,000 tickets for the Sept. 13 show were gone in just 4 1/2 hours so promoters arranged for a second show Sept. 14.

With tickets going on sale this morning and limited to six a buyer, scalpers again turned to the transients, who earned as much as $40 in addition to the perks of smokes and chow.

Police Increase Patrols On Solidarity Anniversary

GDANSK, Poland (UPI) — Police stepped up patrols around the home of Solidarity leader Lech Walesa and elsewhere in the port city of Gdansk today — the fifth anniversary of the founding of the outlawed trade union.

Walesa, who works as an electrician at the Lenin shipyards in Gdansk, said he would commemorate the anniversary by visiting a monument erected in the memory of more than 50 workers killed by police during 1970 food riots in Gdansk.

"I will try to say a few words at the monument on leaving the Lenin shipyard and lay flowers at it," Walesa said. "Everything depends on the situation."

Sources close to Walesa said the Nobel Peace Prize winner would release a 150-page document today calling on the communist government to open a dialogue with the outlawed trade union.

Hostages Freed Amid Fighting

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — Rival militias freed 22 kidnapped Christians and Muslims in an exchange that came after a rash of abductions led to the closing of key highways linking the divided capital.

As the Lebanese victims were released Thursday, broadcasters in France pleaded for the release of four Frenchmen kidnapped in Lebanon since spring. They are among 12 Westerners — including seven Americans and a Briton — missing in Lebanon.

Fighting continued unabated between gunmen in Beirut, east of the southern port of Sidon and in the northern port of Tripoli.

Representatives of the Shiite Muslim militia, Amal, and the Christian Lebanese Forces militia traded 11 Christians for 11 Muslims Thursday night at one of the closed crossings between Christian east and Muslim west Beirut.

Inflated Travel Costs Alleged

Federal Grand Jury Probes Martin-Marietta Defense Billing

WASHINGTON — A federal grand jury is investigating allegations that the Martin-Marietta Corp. inflated its travel costs billed to the Defense Department in a "very imaginative" way, Pentagon sources say.

The sources said the investigation will look into the creation of subsidiary companies by the Bethesda, Md., firm and IVI Travel Inc., of Northbrook, Ill., to handle the defense contractor's taxpayer-paid travel.

Evidence indicates that Martin-Marietta charged the Defense Department full price for its travel fares without disclosing refunds it recovered from the travel agency through business transactions involving the subsidaries, sources said.

Officials connected with the Justice Department investigation Thursday declined to say how much money was involved. But in an internal memo obtained by United Press International, a Martin-Marietta official asserted the company devised "a very imaginative" way of avoiding federal restrictions against travel rebates.

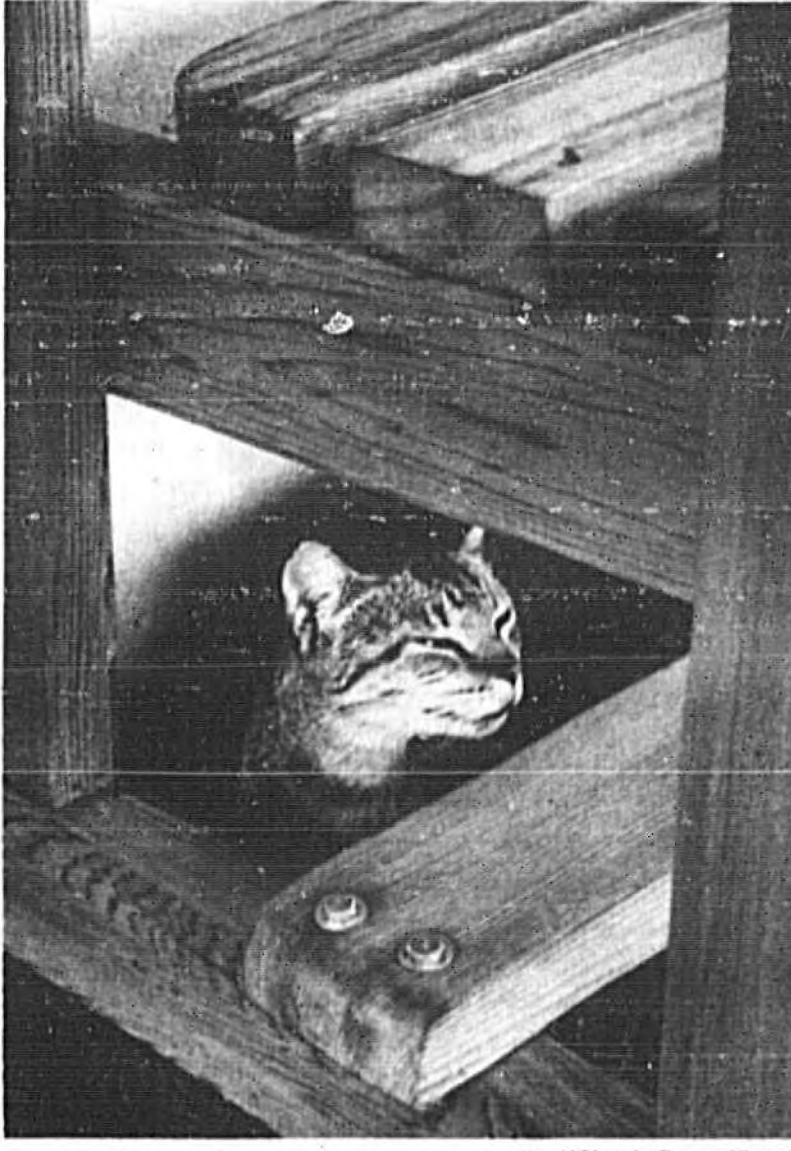

William Harwood, a spokesman for the firm, the Defense Department's 12th largest supplier in 1984 with more than $2.26 billion in contracts, declined comment as did an official Pentagon spokesman.

In the memorandum, Martin-Marietta official William Vetter wrote: "In order to lower travel costs without giving money back to the government, MM Corp. created a novel business relationship."

In the memo, dated March 20, 1984, Vetter wrote that IVI set up a subsidiary called Performance Travel Inc. to book travel arrangements for Martin-Marietta, which established a "special subsidiary" to provide office space, staff and computer services to the travel agency.

"The arrangement is neither illegal nor a violation of (ticketing) rules, although it's certainly very imaginative in getting around the rebate restrictions," Vetter wrote.

FAA Reports Airline Near-Collisions Up 40%

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Federal Aviation Administration reports a 40 percent increase in the number of airplane near-collisions, but says the jump does not mean the skies are becoming less safe.

There were 439 near-collisions in the air during the first seven months of 1985 compared to 313 in the United States during the January-through-July period of 1984, preliminary FAA figures released Wednesday show.

FAA chief Donald Engen attributed the increase to renewed emphasis on pilots reporting near misses as well as to improved procedures by the agency for auditing such reports.

"It is important to keep these statistics in perspective," Engen said. "There are about 200,000 flights every day in U.S. airspace, which means there is approximately one report of a near miss for every 122,000 flights — if we use last year's total of about 600 reports as the base."

Engen said general aviation aircraft — private and corporate planes — accounted for 373 of the reported near-collisions through July 1985, compared with 251 in the same period last year.

The FAA will continue trying to reduce the number of such incidents through pilot education and an improved air traffic control system, Engen said.

Automated radar terminal systems are being updated at 120 airports by adding such features as conflict or collision alert, and the FAA is replacing computers at all of its air route traffic control centers, he said.

If Treated With Pesticide

EPA: Apple A Day May Cause Cancer

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The EPA is concerned that eating an apple a day that has been treated with the chemical daminozide could cause cancer over one's lifetime, and is acting to ban the pesticide from the market.

In announcing the action, the Environmental Protection Agency also said that cooking daminozide-treated fruits degrades the chemical into UDMH, a more potent carcinogen chemically related to hydrazine rocket fuel.

The agency recommended to its Science Advisory Panel that the fruit and vegetable pesticide, first introduced in 1963 and primarily used on apples, be banned.

The EPA concluded, based on animals studies, that lifetime consumption of pesticide residue by humans could cause up to one cancer death per 10,000 persons.

fruits, vegetables and peanuts use the chemical to extend storage life and enhance color, it penetrates the fruit and cannot be washed off.

The pesticide is used on an estimated 50 percent of America's apple harvest. The EPA said a ban could reduce the supply from 4 percent to 7 percent and raise consumer costs by up to $1.90 a bushel.

It estimated that a ban could cost the apple industry $31 million and the peanut industry $2 million.

Paul Lapsley, chief of the EPA's special review branch, said the agency's advisory panel will likely act on the recommendation to ban next month, with the prohibition taking effect as early as this fall.

He said, however, if there is an appeal, the process could take up to a year.

Untroyal Inc., the major producer of daminozide, disputed the EPA's findings, saying they are based on inconclusive data.

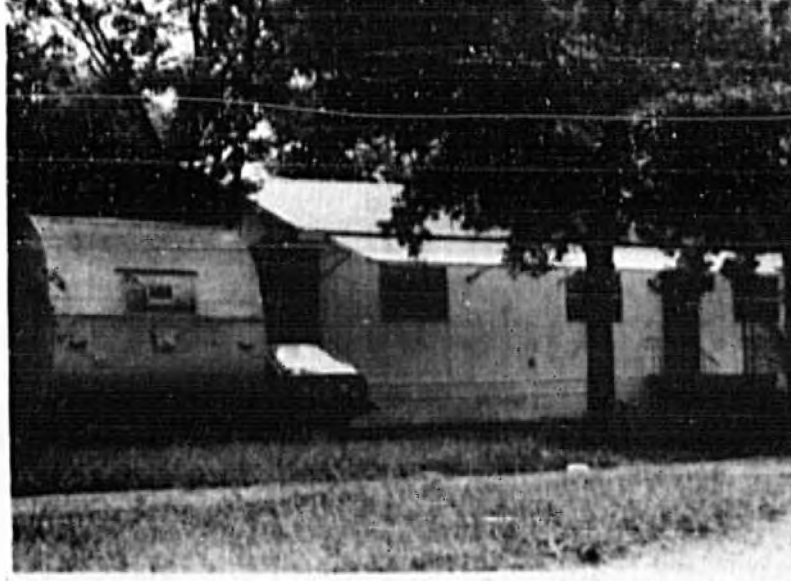

The EPA said in a statement that its conclusions were based on "lifetime animal feeding studies which showed that daminozide caused carcinogenic effects in mice and rats."

As for humans, Lapsley said in an interview, EPA researchers concluded that "the use of daminozide presents a significant risk of developing cancer over a 70-year lifetime."

Lapsley said, "We make our decisions on benefits versus risks and we consider the risk in this case unacceptable."

The EPA also found that daminozide causes kidney, lung and blood vessel tumors in laboratory animals.

Dr. Jack Moore, an EPA assistant administrator, said, "The risks associated with daminozide are related to long-term exposure. The risk to public health during the time necessary to cancel uses of this product will be minimal."

Mobile Home Must Go, Lake Mary Tells Resident

Lake Mary's Code Enforcement Board gave a city resident 60 days to sell or move her mobile home illegally parked next to her house. After that time she will be fined $20 a day for every day it remains illegally parked.

The mobile home is owned by Evelyn Van Dahm, 237 Third St., and is parked on property zoned R-1A, which does not allow mobile homes, said Kathy Rice, city manager.

The board met Wednesday to discuss the mobile home, the first official act of the board, Ms. Rice said.

Generally, after the board notifies a person that they are in violation of a city code, the violator will correct the infraction without the board having to meet to decide punishment, she said.

In this case, however, Ms. Van Dahm did not respond to letters sent to her by the board informing her she was in violation of the zoning restriction. Ms. Van Dahm told board members she moved the mobile home onto the property next to her house last year after her house burned. She lived in the mobile home until the house was repaired and has been trying to sell the mobile home. Ms. Rice said it must be sold or moved by Oct. 28, for Ms. Van Dahm to avoid paying any fine.

In other action, A.R. "Doc" Jore was elected chairman and Joel Ivey vice-chairman of the code board. The board, which enforces all of the city's codes, usually meets once every two months. Legally, the board can fine code violators up to $250 per day for violations.

Woman Jailed For Tossing Bottles Through Window

Roger Sermon flagged down a Sanford policeman early Thursday morning and told him a woman was throwing bottles at and through the windows of his room at the Franklin Boarding House on 13th Street. The officer nabbed the suspect, but she didn't give up without a fight, a police report said.

Officer R.C. Barthlow confronted a woman at the scene, who according to his report, appeared intoxicated. She was belligerent and pushed her finger into Barthlow's chest as she screamed and cursed, the report said.

The woman ran across 13th Street and her continued screaming and yelling drew a crowd. When Barthlow confronted her again she became violent and struggled with him and bit his thumb, the report said.

It took Barthlow three minutes to handcuff the woman who then pulled him into the street, the report said.

Before being booked into the Seminole County jail on charges of disorderly intoxication, resisting arrest with violence, battery on a police officer, and throwing a deadly missile into an occupied dwelling, the suspect was transported to Central Florida Regional Hospital, Sanford. There she refused treatment for a cut shoulder and a bump on her head, the report said.

Sylvia Claudette Davis, 22, of 113 Castle Brewer Court, Sanford, was arrested at 2:36 a.m. She was being held in lieu of $13,000 bond.

FIGHTS ARREST
A Seminole County sheriff's deputy trying to serve two civil warrants on Marion County charges against a Sanford man charged the suspect with battery on a police officer after the man allegedly attacked him.

Deputy James Virgin reported that when he confronted the suspect at his home at 310 Kimberly Court, Sanford, the man became hostile and abusive. He reportedly hit Virgin on the chest with the palm of his hand. The two then struggled and they both fell to the floor where the suspect hit Virgin on the head with a glass table top, a sheriff's report said.

The suspect then picked up a small child to hide behind and Virgin waited for a Florida Highway Patrol trooper to arrive before he again tried to take the suspect into custody, the report said.

The man was subdued by the two officers.

Reginald Smith, 39, was arrested at 8:13 p.m. Wednesday. He was being held in lieu of $5,000 bond.

drug task force agents who searched their home Wednesday reported finding a bag of pot inside the house and 19 plants growing in a shed in the back yard.

The agents, with a search warrant, entered the home at 200 Lake Markham Road at about 5:45 p.m. They reported finding the paper bag of pot on the floor in a bedroom, a sheriff's report said.

The pot crop was found when the shed was searched, the report said.

John Raymond Milligan, 35, and Deborah Hudson Milligan, 28, were arrested at their home at 6:48 p.m. They have been released on $5,000 bond each and are scheduled to appear in court Sept. 16.

FLEDBUT JAILED

A Longwood policeman investigating a vehicle parked in front of the open gate of a closed business on E.E. Williamson Road arrested the driver of the vehicle but not until after the man jumped in the car and made a short-lived getaway.

The chase began in front of Tree Scape at about midnight Wednesday when the suspect was spotted by the officer as he ran back toward the vehicle. The man slowed his pace when he saw the police car, but when the policeman identified himself and asked the suspect to stop, the man jumped in the car, made a U-turn and sped south, a police report said.

The officer pursued and chased the suspect to Bears Circle, Longwood, where the man stopped and got out of his car, the report said.

The policeman questioned the suspect and spotted several cans of beer in the teenager's car, the report said.

Several items of drug paraphernalia and a bag of marijuana were found in the vehicle, the report said.

Jason Todd Kern, 18, of 2100 Howell Branch Road, #18D, Mattland, was charged with loitering and prowling, fleeing and attempting to elude police, possession of alcohol by someone under 19, and possession of less than 25 grams of marijuana and drug paraphernalia. He was being held in lieu of $5,000 bond.

at 2:01 a.m. Wednesday after his truck was seen weaving on State Road 436, Altamonte Springs.

BURGLARIES & THEFTS

Gregory Woods, 31, of 2550 Crawford St., Sanford, reported to sheriff's deputies that a $500 video recorder and a $25 television antenna were stolen from his home Wednesday.

A diamond pendant, two gold chains, a gold bracelet and two small pieces of gold chain of an undetermined value were stolen from a jewelry box in the home of Patricia A. Hill, 44, of 119 Ihabod Trail, Longwood, on Wednesday, a sheriff's report said.

Merle V. Felt, 66, of 1015 U.S. Highway 17-92, Longwood, reported to deputies that $210 worth of fishing gear was stolen from his car on Tuesday or Wednesday. The rear window of the car had been broken out.

The 1979 Plymouth of David L. Thornhill, 35, of 1831 Linden Road, Winter Park, was stolen Tuesday while parked at his home. Deputies reported the car is valued at $2,522.

Clerk Martha J. Montgomery reported to deputies discovering $200 missing from the Texaco station at 3498 W. State Road 436, Apopka, when she arrived at work Thursday. A thief had force open a door of the station late Wednesday or early Thursday, deputies reported.

Thieves broke into Bojangle's restaurant early Thursday and stole $1,100 and hid about $600 in damage to the building, according to Sanford police Capt. Herb Shea.

The person or persons got into the building by breaking a window after the restaurant closed at 12:30 a.m., Shea said. The restaurant's strongbox was battered and forced open with some kind of instrument, Shea said.

A Sanford police officer noticed the broken window at about 2 a.m. and investigated, Shea said. The officer called the store manager who confirmed $1,100 was in the box. An investigation is continuing.

FIRE CALLS

The Sanford Fire Department responded to the following calls.

Wednesday

—5:33 p.m., 13th Street and Olive Avenue, rescue. A 3-year-old boy suffered a cut lip after he fell out of a car. The car was not moving, fire officials reported.

—5:39 p.m., 1101 E. First St., false alarm.

Thursday

—11:38 a.m., 1301 Silver Lake Drive, rescue. A 27-year-old woman who had a cut on her arm was taken to the hospital.

Only Animals Will Be Involved

Preliminary AIDS Vaccine Ready For Testing

SAN ANTONIO (UPI) — Scientists at the Southwest Foundation for Biomedical Research said a preliminary version of a vaccine against the deadly disease AIDS is ready for testing in laboratory rabbits and mice.

Information from the experiments at the San Antonio facility would lead to the second step in the fall — testing of the substance in chimpanzees, considered the best animal models for research into acquired immune deficiency syndrome.

Gordon R. Dreesman, director of virology and immunology at the foundation, discussed the development Wednesday in challenging assertions by some physicians that a vaccine to protect against AIDS was decades away.

"We do things in a couple of months that used to take us 10 years," the scientist said, adding, however, that human testing is still "some time away."

Dreesman also said several drug companies had approached the foundation about trying out other potential vaccine formulas.

A $89,887 grant received in June from the National Institutes of Health is supporting vaccine research at the San Antonio facility.

The foundation's scientists already have attracted international attention for their work in successfully infecting chimpanzees with AIDS-related virus, although the animals have yet to show outward symptoms they have the disease.

Dreesman said research has allowed laboratory synthesis of two tiny proteins — peptides — found on the surface of AIDS viruses. Scientists hope these peptides will make the body produce an arsenal of antibodies to defend itself against the virus that causes AIDS.

"We can take it and inoculate a chimp with the peptides and then challenge the chimp with the AIDS virus. We can see if they (the peptides) can prevent this infection," Dreesman said.

He bases his optimism on the availability of the synthetic peptides, as well as new gene splicing and cloning techniques and a greater knowledge of natural defenses to disease.

This additional know-how has allowed AIDS researchers to unravel the proteins in the AIDS virus in about a year, a necessary step for modern vaccine synthesis that would, in earlier years, have taken a decade to develop, Dreesman said.

Improved Drugs May Result

Scientists Find New Clue To Epilepsy

By Lidia Wasowicz
UPI Science Writer

STANFORD, Calif. (UPI) — Scientists have found unusual brain cells that may trigger epilepsy, a discovery they say could lead to improved drugs for the 2 million Americans who suffer from the disorder.

"The unique ability of these cells to readily discharge a volley of electrical impulses makes them likely instigators of epileptic seizures," Dr. Barry Connors, assistant professor of neurology at Stanford University School of Medicine, said Wednesday.

Seizures result when large numbers of nerve cells in the brain suddenly synchronize their electrical activity. The abnormal rhythm produces the convulsive movements, fainting or episodes of confusion characteristic of various forms of epilepsy.

Most victims live normal lives with the help of drugs that prevent seizures by stopping the spread of aberrant electrical activity, scientists said. But these medications can cause side effects and are ineffective in 10 percent to 20 percent of patients.

"If proved conclusively that the bursting cells indeed are the ones that start an attack, learning more about them could lead to the design of drugs to stifle epileptic discharges at their source," Connors said.

"We could target a drug towards them to shut them off specifically, rather than depress the whole central nervous system. This is the way anti-convulsants tend to work now."

In their research, funded by the National Institutes of Health, Connors and his colleagues found that bursting cells are a subset of pyramid-shaped nerve cells in the cortex, the outer shell of the brain especially prone to epilepsy.

These cells, which send out a network of spidery fibers that form an extensive web of connections with other nerve cells in the brain, normally fire one pulse at a time when activated. When bursting cells are stimulated they fire in rounds of three to five pulses.

And On The Bright Side

To this year's drumroll of anniversaries, add one more: It was 20 years ago this August that 35 persons were killed and more than 4,000 arrested during the rioting by blacks in the Watts area of Los Angeles. Watts was not the first of the terrible riots that boiled out of America's black ghettos during the 1960s, but it was among the very worst. And it shocked the nation into a realization of what might be expected if more blacks were not permitted a better chance at the American dream.

So, 20 years after Watts it's worth considering what has been achieved. Are blacks in fact better off or are the indications of progress mere veneer? Many incline toward the latter view.

Is it not true, after all, that black unemployment rates are roughly twice those for whites? Is not median family income for blacks only 58 percent of that for whites? Are not blacks twice as likely as whites to be victims of serious, violent crime; and statistically far more likely to commit violent crimes? And, most worrisome of all, is it not true that the family structure of black Americans is deteriorating, with nearly half of all black families today headed by females compared to only 21 percent in 1960?

Yes, all of this is true. And yes, it is also much less than the full story.

The case for a steadily improving, progressing black America is compellingly put by author and political commentator Ben J. Wattenberg in his 1984 book, The Good News Is The Bad News Is Wrong. Here is some of what Mr. Wattenberg found significant, and significantly heartening, about black America:

— 6.2 million blacks now live in suburbs compared to 2.5 million in 1960 and 1.7 million in 1950. As a percentage of the black population, that's 23 percent compared to 13 percent in 1960 and 12 percent in 1950.

— 44 percent of all black families now own their homes. The figure was 35 percent in 1950 and 38 percent in 1960.

— As of 1982, 1.1 million blacks were enrolled in college. In 1970, the number was just over 500,000; and in 1960 it was 227,000.

— By 1982, black Americans between the ages of 25 and 29 were only two tenths of a year behind whites in that age group in median years of school completed (12.7 years for blacks to 12.9 years for whites).

— The numbers of blacks in the most lucrative occupational categories — professional, technical, managerial, and administrative — increased an astounding 91 percent in the 12 years from 1970 to 1982 (from 802,000 in 1970 to 1,533,000 in 1982).

— Per-capita income (measured in constant dollars) for blacks increased by 21 percent from 1970 to 1980 while whites experienced an increase of only 16 percent — one of many indications that black Americans are narrowing the earnings gap with whites.

— The percentage of blacks living below the poverty line declined from 33.5 percent in 1970 to 21.5 percent in 1980 (if non-cash income is counted).

Three years after the Watts riot, the Kerner Commission — appointed by then-President Lyndon Johnson — surveyed a landscape of urban rioting and racial discord and reached a celebrated conclusion. Said the commission: "Our nation is moving toward two societies, one black, one white — separate and unequal."

Events since then show convincingly that the Kerner Commission was wrong. That is something of which all Americans can be proud even as they recognize that much remains to be accomplished.

BERRY'S WORLD

BEN WATTENBERG

A Message To (Rep. Robert) Garcia

The Census Bureau has just released the poverty numbers for 1984. Watch this space for comment soon. There will be comment, from me and others, because the bureau served up data that are honest and comprehensive — including 10 different ways of measuring poverty.

You don't get an argument anywhere in the world if you say the U.S. census operation is the best there is. Over the years, the bureau has fought off attempts to put political spin on its statistics. Census data are credible. They tell us where we've been and where we are — thereby enabling us to try to figure out where we're going.

You can forget all that if Rep. Robert Garcia, D-N.Y., has his way. In an Orwellian spasm Garcia has taken it upon himself to try to write and rewrite the history of our time. John Peter Zenger, wake up! Numbers, as well as words, can be victims of censors.

Here's the issue: Until recently, the bureau published one "official" poverty rate. It measured only cash income. That rate is important, but it doesn't tell the whole story. After all, in recent decades America started huge programs for food stamps, rent supplements and Medicaid, just to begin a long list. These programs — more than $100 billion worth per year — help poor people even though they are not "cash." Go to a supermarket with food stamps and you come out with groceries.

Because statistics should reflect reality, the bureau began publishing several rates that measured poverty by including non-cash benefits.

Enter Garcia. He is chairman of the House Subcommittee on Census and Population. He's a smart man, knows a lot about social statistics, and is usually a friend of the census. But he comes from a district in the Bronx that is the poorest in America. He knows that if you count non-cash income, the poverty rate comes down — for example, from a 1983 "official" national rate of 15 percent in poverty to an adjusted rate that goes as low as 10 percent.

Garcia is apparently worried that if the American people are informed that there is less real poverty now, and less than there used to be, they won't support poverty programs. So he quietly arranged that the House Appropriations bill contain "report language" directing the Census Bureau to cease publishing the nasty numbers.

If you don't like it, dump it. That's what happens when the Soviets rewrite history in their official encyclopedia. It's what happened when Galileo was forced by the church to deny that the earth moved around the sun (although the earth kept doing it).

Garcia challenges the validity of the data. He maintains that what he wants is a broad study of the issue. That's not a bad idea; there are no glitch-free statistics. But conducting a study is no reason to close down a data series that already has five years on it. Like many wines, economic numbers take on value as they age, revealing the impact of recessions, booms and policy changes.

Now the legislation moves to the Senate. If Sen. Paul Laxalt's subcommittee doesn't act, Garcia's gambit may well prevail.

The message from Garcia is not only intellectually corrosive, but politically foolish. On the intellectual front, it would announce that the Census Bureau is engaged in politics, not social science. Who would believe anything they put out?

FARMING WORLD

Asian Sales Upward

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The government predicts U.S. agricultural sales to South Asia will increase by 19 percent in the coming fiscal year, largely because of heavy wheat sales to Pakistan.

The increase will place South Asian purchases of U.S. farm goods at about $760 million in fiscal 1986, the Agriculture Department said.

In its South Asia Outlook and Situation Summary, the department's Economic Research Service said India and Pakistan are likely to increase their edible oil imports in fiscal 1986.

But no significant gains are expected for U.S. soybean oil because of the still competition from palm oil marketed by other nations.

U.S. cotton exporters will probably face a limited market because of record exportable cotton supplies in Pakistan, the research service said.

The agency said exports to South Asia are down to $641 million in the current fiscal year, off about 25 percent from last year.

Wheat sales are off nearly 20 percent despite larger exports to Bangladesh, because India ended commercial wheat imports and competitors met most of Pakistan's increased demand, the agency said.

U.S. exports of soybean oil dropped about 25 percent, largely because of improved South Asian oilseed harvests and competition from palm oil, the report added.

Cotton exports from the United States plunged 70 percent below last year's levels largely because Pakistan stopped its imports and renewed its competition in the Bangladesh market, the report said.

JACK ANDERSON

Mob 'Buses' Way Into Casinos

By Jack Anderson
And Dale Van Atta

WASHINGTON — Ever since Atlantic City legalized gambling, Mafia families in the Northeast have been trying to grab a piece of the action. So far they have failed to acquire control of the casinos that line the boardwalk — but not for want of trying.

Crime families have tried to infiltrate through various labor unions and companies that provide essential services to the gambling palaces. They've also zeroed in on the lucrative "superbus" junkets for big-stakes gamblers.

These aren't the widely advertised bus rides that lure older folks away from their bingo games with free meal tickets and a roll of quarters for the slot machines. The superbus deals are tailored for usually no more than 25 high rollers who can — and do — drop large amounts at the crap tables.

Our associate Tony Capaccio has reviewed evidence gathered by New Jersey State Police investigators during a two-year undercover mission called Operation Eagle. They learned that at least 90 of the 200 junket operators licensed to do business in Atlantic City have been associated with an interstate network of junket organizers controlled by a reputed "capo" in the Bonanno crime family, Charles Musillo of Staten Island, N.Y.

A statement the Jersey cops submitted to the President's Commission on Organized Crime last June identified four casinos the network did business with: Caesar's, the Claridge, the Tropicana and the Sands. None of the casinos has been accused of any wrongdoing, on the contrary, they were the victims.

Musillo is among 11 men who were indicted for a junket operation that allegedly milked $1.6 million from Caesar's between March and August 1983.

Musillo refused to talk with us. His attorney did confirm that Musillo was one of several persons convicted in 1977 for their roles in a scheme that led to the collapse of the Bank of Bloomfield, N.J. But he said his client's involvement in the junket business was "minimal," and said that "in thousands of pages of grand jury testimony his name was mentioned only once by one witness."

The state police statement, however, identified Musillo as a Bonanno family member who "indirectly" received commissions from licensed junket operators. The commissions went to Casino Caravans Inc., a now-defunct firm in Fort Lauderdale, Fla. that was incorporated in late 1982 by Musillo's two sons.

"Casino Caravans controlled the network's operation into (the) four casinos in Atlantic City," the police statement said.

During Operation Eagle, the Casino Caravans office manager boasted to an undercover cop that he "had 75 percent of Caesar's business" since it had opened.

The indictment charges that Caesar's paid the "front" company under Casino Caravans' control $1,200 to $1,800 per superbus, for a total of $1.6 million during the five-month period.

New Drug May End Leprosy

By Ramya Thambusawamy

SHAHDRHA, India (UPI) — A combination drug treatment promises the eventual elimination of leprosy, but the fear and social stigma attached to the age-old scourge prevent people from coming to get the medicine.

There are 11 million lepers in the world today, and 4 million of them are in India, more than any other country.

The therapy, called Multi-Drug Treatment (MDT), has been introduced in Asia over the past few years to bring the crippling disease under control. It has been used in the United States for nearly a decade.

"The new MDT is very effective," said Dr. R.H. Thangaraj, head of the International Leprosy Association.

MDT, which consists of three drugs, rifampicin, clofazimine and dapsone, "will shorten the duration of the disease and kill the bacilli, the causative of leprosy, anywhere between two weeks to three months," he said.

The treatment was developed five years ago in India, but it has still not been used on a wide scale.

More than half the world's population appears to be immune to the Mycobacterium Leprae which causes leprosy, and those who are susceptible usually get it only after years of contact with lepers.

Early detection and treatment with the multi-drug therapy prevents development of scars and deformities.

But Health Minister Mohsina Kidwai said recently the disease still poses problems. One of them is that the social stigma long attached to leprosy stops people from admitting they have the disease and coming forward for treatment.

"Those who suspect that they have leprosy often hide it and pass through the infectious stage, spreading the disease," said Harchan Singh, occupational therapist at the Leprosy Home in Shahdra, 30 miles outside of New Delhi.

The disease still means ostracism from the normal world. Leprosy victims bold enough to admit their affliction risk losing their jobs and may end up begging to survive. Some believe they brought the disease on themselves.

VIEWPOINT

Women In Birth

By Patricia McCormack

NEW YORK (UPI) — Armed with new evidence that American women are widely misinformed about birth control, the American College of Obstetrics and Gynecology has launched its first information campaign ever to help women prevent unplanned pregnancies.

"We're talking about an estimated 3.3 million unintended pregnancies in the United States," says Dr. Luella Klein, board member and immediate past president of the American College of Obstetrics and Gynecology (ACOG).

"We should have a national policy of making contraceptives easily available to all females who want to prevent unintended pregnancy," Klein said in an interview.

To reach more women, especially teenagers, ACOG has begun a public information program. People can call a hotline, 1-800-INTENDS, to order a free pamphlet — "The Facts: What you need to know about contraceptives to make the right choice."

"We're very much interested in preventing the first pregnancy for girls in school especially," Klein says of the first public information program ever funded by ACOG.

To prepare for the campaign, ACOG commissioned a poll by the Gallup organization to find out what the public knows and thinks about contraception and teenage sexual-ity.

"This poll showed that American women overestimated by large margins the risks of almost all forms of contraception," Klein said.

"Three quarters of all women felt that there were substantial risks with the birth control pill, including the risk of cancer," she said. "Actually, the modern birth control protects against many forms of cancer."

Only 16 percent of women correctly said that the risks of dying from childbirth are higher than the risks of dying from birth control pills," Klein said.

"We also found that knowledge of the effectiveness of contraception was poor and people generally underestimated the effectiveness by wide margins."

Klein says the pollsters also learned that 9 out of every 10 Americans felt that sex education should be taught in schools. More than 8 out of 10 women wanted it taught before high school and 54 percent favored teaching it in elementary school.

"Obviously, Americans, and most particularly American women, are asking for help — to help avoid pregnancies for their daughters," Klein said.

Klein says birth control education, through programs such as the ACOG hotline, and more readily available contraceptives could stem the rising U.S. abortion rate.

Seminoles Are A Hit With Coach; Scrimmage Set For Today

By Sam Cook
Herald Sports Editor

It's two weeks and counting for coach Dave Mosure's mighty band of 35 Seminole football players. They will go through a controlled scrimmage today at 3:30 and then the coaches will hit the road for Cocoa Beach to scout Titusville Astronaut in a jamboree.

Astronaut, one of the top 3A powers in the state the past decade, will be Seminole's Sept. 13 opponent for the season opener. Reserved seat tickets are on sale at the high school. Just $20 will cover the five home games along with all junior varsity and freshman games. Call 322-4352 and ask for Sherry Koke or Cynthia Jones for info.

Mosure said he is satisfied with the Tribe's progress, especially in some of the intangible areas. "I'm real pleased with the overall team attitude, condition level and mental toughness," he said. "They are a well disciplined group and they love to hit."

The first-year coach said the last quality is of utmost importance. "We're not big," Mosure said. "We're going to be outsize every week but gang-tackling and aggression can overcome that."

Today's scrimmage is a game-type situation where the offense runs 12 plays and then takes a break. Goal-line and overtime situations will also be incorporated. All of the plays and formations have been diagrammed beforehand. Only the strong and weak sides will be determined by the hashmarks (wide and short side of the field).

Mosure said the scrimmage will be videotaped with a narrator and the organized flow of plays gives the coaches and players a very detailed account and a much easier way of observing successes and mistakes during the film review.

Seminole's backfield will have sophomore Jeff Blake at quarterback with Dwayne Willis and Willie Evans at running backs in the veer. Louis Brown and Mike Levant lend depth. The receiving corps is comprised of flanker Herbert Hillery, split end David Rape and tight ends Sonny Osborn or Ed Banks.

Mosure said he is especially pleased with his blocking corps of guards Carl Tipton and Alan Kendall along with center James Rowe. Wen Springfield and Jack Jackson has moved into the starting tackle spots.

Defensively, newcomer Clint Boyles and Ernest Lewis occupy the ends while Mike Luster and Terrence Flanders are at the tackles. The linebacking trio, another strong area, is manned by Bryan Brinson, Jerry Littles and Rick Kelly. Even stronger is the defensive secondary with Dexter Franklin, Theron Ligons, Horace Knight and Dennis Lawrence.

Mosure said Kenny Morris and Osborn are fighting it out for the punting duty. Mosure said Morris was injured in a car accident but should return next week. Blake and Willis will handle the placekicking in his absence.

"Horace Knight has been doing a helluva job in the secondary," said Mosure about the only newcomer to the veteran group. "Offensively, Blake and Willis have looked good. Banks and Osborn are both plusses at tight end. We still need more consistency at quarterback and at wide receiver, though."

Lloyd Drills Reggi

NEW YORK (UPI) — For 14 years Chris Evert Lloyd has refused to lose in the first week of the U.S. Open, and Raffaella Reggi wasn't up to stopping history.

The No. 1 women's seed Thursday night rolled over the 19-year-old Italian 6-0, 6-3 in a second-round match.

"It's sometimes hard to get psyched up for the early rounds," she said. "When you're 17 or 18 it's easy. But at 30 years, that's when concentration comes in, that fighting spirit."

"And, I guess, my pride. I still really hate to lose. I felt she really had no weapon. If I hit it corner to corner, she'd make an error eventually."

None of the women seeds was defeated in the third day of play. Only No. 12 Johan Krick among the men failed to live up to expectations, losing 2-6, 6-3, 6-4, 6-1 to Greg Holmes.

In other second-round matches, top seed John McEnroe returned to form after barely squeaking through the first round, eliminating Martin Wostenholme of Canada 6-0, 7-6 (7-3), 6-1.

Wimbledon champion Boris Becker, the No. 8 seed and No. 1 topic of interest, moved a step closer to a quarterfinal meeting with McEnroe, overwhelming Huub van Boeckel of the Netherlands 6-3, 6-0, 6-2.

The confrontation would be their second; McEnroe defeated the 17-year-old West German 6-4, 6-4 in Milan the last week of March.

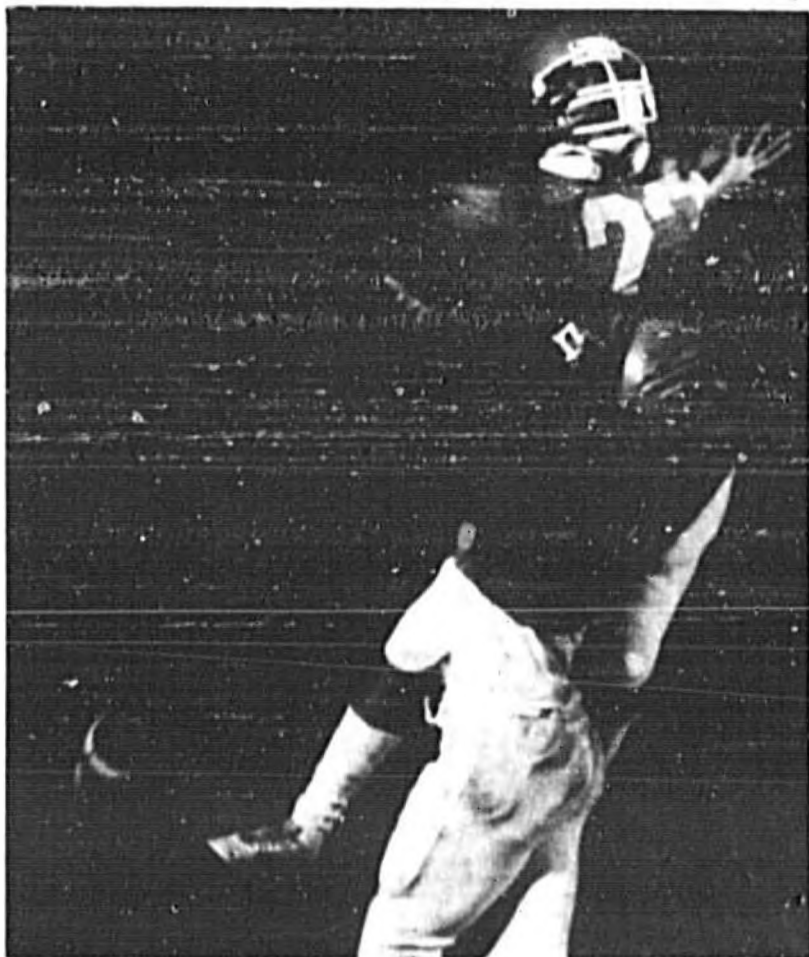

But Thursday McEnroe needed to avoid thinking about the past or the future and concentrate on the present. He escaped the first round with a fifth-set tie-breaker victory over Shlomo Glickstein. Against Wostenholme, he again lacked his usual aggressiveness.

"I definitely got tentative," the defending Open champion said. "I really wanted to win the second set because I really felt like I was just playing his game. I got into the same rut that I got into against Shlomo."

Becker eagerly anticipates a meeting with McEnroe.

"He was the last Wimbledon champion; I'm the new one," said tennis' latest phenomenon. "I think he's the best player in the world and I'm trying to be the best. It's going to be a good match. I think."

The comeback of the often injured Andrea Jaeger, the former No. 2 women's player, was sidetracked by Kathy Jordan 3-6, 6-2, 6-2.

Rams' Offense Explodes Before 2,500 Fans

By Chris Flater
Herald Sports Writer

Football fever is spreading like wildfire at Lake Mary High School. A good example is the 2,500 people that showed up Thursday night to watch the Rams scrimmage.

"That's the most people I've ever seen at a scrimmage," Lake Mary coach Harry Nelson said. "This is really a first-class operation."

Those 2,500 fans got a good preseason look at what should be a team to reckon with in 1985 in the Seminole Athletic Conference and District 5A-4. Lake Mary will compete in a jamboree Friday, Sept. 6, at Lake Howell before opening the season Friday, Sept. 13 at Apopka.

Nelson, starting his third year at the helm of the Rams, had plenty to be pleased with Thursday night from the freshman squad right on through varsity.

Offensively for the varsity, junior quarterback Shane Letterio looked sharp along with senior running back-receiver Ray Hartsfield, sophomore fullback John Curry and junior running back Anthony

Football

Hartsfield.

"Letterio looks good back there," Nelson said. "He's the kind of player that makes things happen."

Hartsfield, too, has been making things happen for the Rams since he was a freshman. This season, the fleet-footed senior will play both ways again but he most likely won't be needed full-time at quarterback with Letterio showing he could handle the job Thursday. Mike Schmit, who shared the QB slot with Hartsfield last year, didn't come out for football this fall.

The varsity played for 40 minutes. It scored three touchdowns and added a 15-yard field goal by Jeff Pommier. Mike Renaud was perfect on two extra points and Pommier added a third for a 24-0 victory.

Sophomore Curry opened the scoring in the first quarter with a 10-yard run and Renaud kicked the PAT for a 7-0 lead. Later in the quarter, Ray Hartsfield broke loose for an 18-yard TD scamper. Renaud kicked the point after for a 14-0 lead.

"Curry and Ray both ran well and (fullback) Brett Molle threw some hellacious blocks," said Nelson. "Molle runs the ball tough, too. As a fullback, he's the best-kept secret in Central Florida."

Letterio cranked up his arm in the second quarter and found Byron Washington on a 55-yard touchdown pass. Pommier kicked the PAT for a 21-0 lead. Pommier added a field goal to complete the scoring.

With plenty of talent at the skilled positions, Nelson is now looking for some offensive linemen to fill the spots vacated by the behemoths that paved the way for a district title in 1984.

"The last piece of the puzzle is the offensive line," Nelson said. "We've got some people coming up who are looking tough."

Nelson said the linemen he's counting on include Dave Mitro, Larry Stankovits, Marty Hopkins and Nick Armato.

Defensively, the Rams may have one of the best secondaries around with a pair of experienced seniors in Byron Washington and Hartsfield and a talented sophomore in Sheldon Richards.

"Richards has the kind of ability that he can be as good as he wants to be," Nelson said. "And he's playing back there with two very good seniors. We've got an excellent secondary and good linebackers, too."

Prior to the varsity scrimmage, the junior varsity and freshman squads went at it. Players to watch for the JV this season include quarterback Kelly McKinnon and running backs Richard Burkett and Terry "The Cat" Miller.

Nelson said he wasn't too sure about the freshman team at first but said it has been progressing nicely. "I didn't think the freshman team would be that strong," he said. "But they're doing pretty well."

Another reason for the big crowd Thursday night was the Lake Mary High band which performed inbetween the JV and varsity scrimmages.

Bucs Close In On QB Young

TAMPA (UPI) — Attorney Leigh Steinberg can scramble almost as well as his celebrated client, quarterback Steve Young.

With little tangible evidence to back Thursday's optimism, Steinberg claimed Young and the Tampa Bay Buccaneers are closing in on a deal that will bring the disgruntled Los Angeles Express star to the NFL club within two weeks.

The Buccaneers, who own the NFL rights to the former Brigham Young star, had Young in for a physical exam and light workout Aug. 2 as Tampa Bay coach Leeman Bennett looked on.

United States Football League Commissioner Harry Usher granted the Buccaneers permission to inspect the merchandise, but has maintained that his league retains the rights to Young. The NFL has proceeded cautiously in pursuit of Young because of an antitrust suit filed against it by the USFL.

"We are certain that a deal with Tampa Bay can be worked out, and I would expect that something is going to happen within the next 10 days," said Steinberg, who negotiated a record-setting contract for Young at Los Angeles worth an estimated $40 million. "Steve wants to play in Tampa Bay and he's excited about the opportunity."

Football

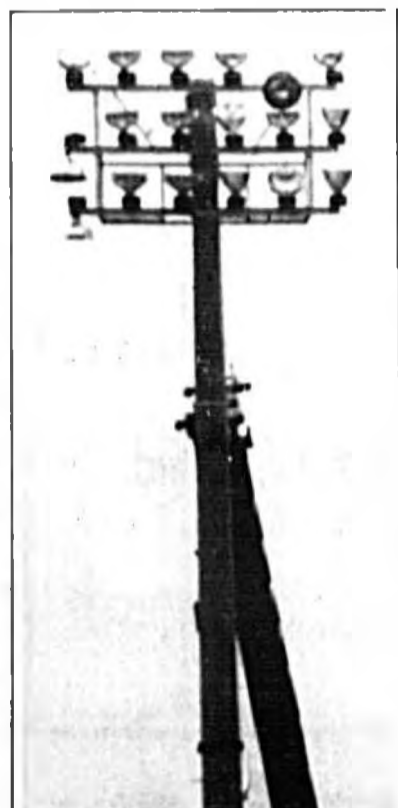

Two very hot quarterbacks, Joe Theismann and Steve DeBerg, meet Friday night at broiling Tampa Stadium in the final exhibition game for the Washington Redskins and Tampa Bay Buccaneers.

The Redskins, 3-0, are shooting for their first undefeated exhibition record in 25 years while the Buccaneers, 1-2, are hoping for some impetus to take into their regular-season opener at Chicago Sept. 8. New coach Leeman Bennett won for the first time as a Buccaneer last week as Tampa Bay beat New Orleans 14-10.

"I like playing a top team in the final game of a pre-season," said Bennett, who has had two defensive starters — end Lee Roy Selmon and strong safety Mark Cotney — placed on injured reserve in recent weeks.

"Washington was an outstanding team last year and they've added a great running back in George Rogers. We need a tough game to get ready for the Bears."

The Buccaneers Thursday signed sixth-year defensive back Paul Dombroski and waived rookie cornerback Jim Rockford.

3 Of A Kind
When Lake Brantley High School installed its new football lights recently, it made the Altamonte Springs high school one of the most unique and progressive complexes in the state. Lake Brantley's Booster Club moved the old football lights to the softball field. Brantley now has three — baseball, football and softball — lighted fields on campus.

Bosco, Kozlowski Propel BYU Past Boston College

EAST RUTHERFORD, N.J. (UPI) — Boston College knew what to expect from Robble Bosco Thursday night. Glen Kozlowski was the guy who surprised them.

Kozlowski was Bosco's favorite target on a night when the Brigham Young quarterback completed 35-of-53 passes for 508 yards and three touchdowns. Kozlowski accounted for 10 receptions, 241 yards and a TD while making some catches that frustrated the Eagles' defense in BYU's 28-14 Kickoff Classic victory.

"Kozlowski is a lot faster than I thought he was," Boston College coach Jack Bicknell said.

That's because Kozlowski perpetuates the myth that he's just another slow possession receiver. After the game, he admitted he runs a 4.5 40-yard dash but he usually tells people how slow he is.

Against an inexperienced secondary, Kozlowski often outran his defender and Bosco's arm. But he also beat the Eagles' defenders back for the ball several times — once for a 51-yard gain.

"I have the advantage when the ball is underthrown," said Kozlowski, who split Rorery Perryman and Carl Pellegata on the 51-yard gain. "I have a better view. I'm looking at the ball."

"We took advantage of some things in the Boston College secondary."

That secondary had just one

Football

returning starter — cornerback Neil Iton. Iton had one of four interceptions against Bosco and recovered a fumble but nothing the Eagles tried could stop the attack that lifted BYU to the national title last year.

The Cougars also have the country's longest current winning streak at 25 games.

BOWDEN BEFUDDLED
NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — The opening game of any college football season leads to uncertainty among coaches, but Mack Brown of Tulane and Florida State's Bobby Bowden seem to be downright befuddled as they approach Saturday's contest.

Bowden will be going against a Green Wave team that has a new coach and few returning starters. Brown will be facing a strong Seminole offense that has the team ranked 13th in pre-season polls, but a squad that was 78th in the nation last year on defense.

"I just don't know what to think of Tulane," Bowden said. "Preparing for a new staff in the first game makes for a lot of guesswork. I mean, we'll be guessing all day."

Brown, who played football at FSU in 1971 and 1972, is still getting to know his players and recently joked to his squad. "Last 11 men out of the locker room have to start."

3 Deadlocked At B.C. Open

ENDICOTT, N.Y. (UPI) — Second-year pro Joey Sindelar has played more rounds than anyone else on the professional golf tour this season and says he has never enjoyed the game more.

"That's 101 rounds and I really feel great. No problems at all," he said Thursday after his 5-under-par 66 tied Bruce Lietzke and Brett Upper for the lead in the first round of the $300,000 B.C. Open at the En Jolie Gold Club.

"I just can't get enough of the game," said Sindelar, who grew up less than 40 miles from the tournament site in the south central New York community of Horseheads.

Niekro Notches 297th Against Descending Angels

United Press International
It's getting time for the numbers game in baseball and if the California Angels continue to play the way they have been, their number will be up before they know it.

The Angels watched their lead in the American League East shrink to 1 1/2 games over the Kansas City Royals Thursday night as Phil Niekro, ringing up some impressive numbers of his own, notched his 297th career victory in pitching the New York Yankees to a 4-0 triumph over the Angels.

"We can't keep doing this," said California manager Gene Mauch, whose club has played only .500 ball since Aug. 8. "We gave the game away in the first inning. Tomorrow had better be better."

Speaking of numbers, the Yankees' victory enabled them to pull within four games of the Toronto Blue Jays in the AL East.

Niekro scattered four hits over seven innings before giving way to Dave Righetti, who completed the shutout with two innings of hitless relief.

The Yankees sent nine batters to the plate in the first inning off starter and loser Kirk McCaskill, 9-9. Rickey Henderson led off with a single and Willie Randolph walked. Don Mattingly's fly to left advanced both runners and they both scored on Dave Winfield's single to left.

Ron Hassey singled and Don Baylor was hit by a pitch to load the bases. It was the 22nd time Baylor has been hit by a pitch this season and 190th of his career, breaking the AL record of 189 set by Minnie Minoso. The major-league record of 243 is held by Ron Hunt, a former New York Met.

Orioles 7, Mariners 0
At Baltimore, Larry Sheets drove in four runs and Mike Young smashed his 22nd home run to back the six-hit pitching of Mike Boddicker and power the Orioles.

Red Sox 17, Indians 2
At Cleveland, Tony Armas drove in five runs for the fourth time in his career and Rich Gedman hit a three-run homer to help Red Sox snap a five-game losing streak. Boston starter Bruce Hurst, 9-10, struck out 11 and allowed six hits to get the victory. Ramon Romero, 2-3, took the loss.

Tigers 3, A's 2
At Detroit, Lance Parrish's bases-loaded single with none out in the bottom of the 12th inning scored Lou Whitaker and gave the Tigers their victory. Parrish homered in the sixth inning to tie the score. Bill Scherrer, 3-1, the winner and Steve Mura, 1-1, the loser.

White Sox 6, Rangers 5
At Chicago, Reid Nichols singled home Ozzie Guillen from third base with one out in the 10th inning, giving the White Sox the victory. Guillen led off with a double off Dave Schmidt, 5-4, and Luis Salazar sacrificed. Nichols then singled over a drawn-in infield to make a winner of Dan Spillner, 4-3. The game, delayed 67 minutes by rain at the start, ended with a mist falling.

Rose Finds Right Spot For 4,184th

CINCINNATI (UPI) — Pete Rose said all he had to do was hit the ball in the right spot. Rose did exactly that and the result was hit No. 4184.

The Cincinnati player-batter singled once in three at-bats Thursday to move within eight hits of breaking Ty Cobb's all-time record of 4191. He also walked twice and scored two runs in the 6-0 win over Pittsburgh.

The hit came in the third inning. Eddie Milner singled to left field off Pirate Jose DeLeon. With Milner running, Rose bounced his hit past second baseman Denny Gonzalez, who was breaking to cover the bag.

Speculation is mounting in Cincinnati whether Rose will break the record in his hometown, but it appears Rose will collect No. 4192 in some city other than Cincinnati.

The Reds have three more games at home against Pittsburgh before embarking on a six-game road-trip — three games in St. Louis and three in Chicago.

Davis Steals Mets' Heart With 3-Run Homer In 10th

United Press International
The New York Mets must avoid losing their heart in San Francisco.

"This isn't the right way to start a road trip," catcher Gary Carter said Thursday after the Mets opened a 10-game swing with a 6-3, 10-inning loss to the Giants.

"We just hope we can come back and play well these next three games. We played well on our last West Coast road trip, and we have to do well here if we are going to stay in contention."

Chili Davis hit a three-run homer with one out in the bottom of the 10th, lifting the Giants and dropping the Mets three full games behind the division-leading St. Louis Cardinals in the National League East.

"These Giants have played us tough all year, even though we have a pretty good record against them," said Carter.

Davis went 3-for-5, drove in five runs and scored twice in handing the Mets their third straight loss.

"I hate for us to have to be a spoiler," Davis said. "We've been a spoiler for four years. I want someone to try to spoil it for me. I don't come out here to be a spoiler. I like the Mets ballclub. They are fighting for a division title. We're not going to just give it to them. If we were playing St. Louis, we would want to beat them also. I want to beat them all. I hate playing that spoiler role. That's the role of a loser."

Scott Garrelts, 8-3, pitched two innings in relief for the victory.

In the 10th, Jeff Leonard led off with a single off Terry Letch, 2-2, and was sacrificed to second by Dan Gladden. Manny Trillo walked and Davis followed by slamming a 3-2 pitch over the right-center field fence for his 12th homer of the season. "I said, he has got to come to me now," Davis said. "If he walks me, he loads the bases with one out and another left-hander coming up (Dan Driessen). He hung a fastball."

Braves 9, Cubs 5
At Chicago, Bruce Benedict drove in four runs with a three-run homer in the sixth and a groundout in a five-run eighth, pacing the Braves to their fourth victory without a loss under interim manager Bobby Wine. Rick Mahler, 17-12, pitched 5 2/3 innings for the victory. Leon Durham hit two homers for the Cubs.

Expos 8, Padres 5
At San Diego, Andre Dawson hit a three-run homer with the head of center fielder Kevin McReynolds with two out to cap a seven-run seventh that lifted the Expos. The blow came off rookie Lance McCullers but the loss was charged to Gene Walter, 0-2. Tim Lincecum singled, doubled, homered and stole his 51st base for Montreal to raise his average to .313.

Reds 6, Pirates 0
At Cincinnati, Tom Browning, 14-9, pitched a seven-hitter and Buddy Bell went 3-for-3, including a three-run homer, and drove in five runs to lead the Reds. Cincinnati player-manager Pete Rose singled once in three at-bats to move within eight hits of breaking Ty Cobb's all-time record of 4191.

In a late game, Philadelphia and Los Angeles were in extra innings.

O-Twins Falter; Osceola Opens Playoff Tonight

The Orlando Twins' fading East Division title hopes faded a little more Thursday night when they lost a 9-1 decision in Southern League baseball at Greenville, S.C.

Orlando, which plays at Jacksonville tonight, trails Charlotte by 2 1/2 games. Charlotte lost to Columbus, 7-5. The regular season ends Tuesday. Sam Sorice drove in the O-Twins only run with a ninth-inning single.

While Orlando is scrambling to hang close, Osceola's Florida State League Astros entertain Fort Lauderdale in a best-of-playoff between the Central and Southern division champions at Kissimmee's Osceola County Stadium.

The Astros completed the regular season with a double-header sweep of Lakeland (2-1 and 3-2) Thursday night. Bob Parker was 1 for 2 with his 34th stolen base.

In the other semifinal, Fort Myers, the West champ, takes on St. Petersburg, the wild-card entry.

Should Lung Pumping Be Performed At Home?

DEAR DR. GOTT — A relative of mine had cancer, but stayed at home and could walk unassisted. A home health nurse attempted to pump fluid from his lungs. Thirty minutes later, he was dead. Should this procedure have been attempted at home?

DEAR DR. GOTT — Of the two ways to extract fluid from the lungs, one is dangerous and the other is unpleasant but safe. I assume that the nurse did not put a tube between the ribs and into the chest cavity of your ill relative. This procedure should only be performed by a doctor.

DEAR DR. GOTT — I am 28 and have had three operations for a curved spine. It's now 33 degrees on top and 27 degrees on the bottom. During my last operation, 10 years ago, the doctor said my curve was 25 degrees on top and zero degrees on the bottom.

DEAR DR. GOTT — I cannot diagnose your particular case but, in general, a curved spine is under tremendous forces exerted by the muscles supporting the spinal column. Special exercises to strengthen the weaker muscles in your back might be a simple and inexpensive way to help correct your progressive curvature.

Send your questions to Dr. Gott at P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, Ohio 44101.

DEAR DR. GOTT — My job as a switchboard operator involves sitting eight hours every day, except for a seven-minute break morning and afternoon. What is the long-term health hazard of being so very inactive for most of the day?

DEAR DR. GOTT — Your term "hazard" is probably misleading. Sitting on one's behind for seven hours and 46 minutes a day may be boring and cause stiffness, but it is not a potential problem for health. Most people who work in sedentary occupations function better if they are permitted — even encouraged — to get up periodically and move around. This activity breaks the routine and stretches tired muscles. Perhaps your supervisor would consider allowing all the operators a five-minute break every hour. If not, you might want to get regular exercise after work and on weekends.

You don't mention a lunch break. If such a time is not set aside for employees, complain to the boss. You're at least entitled to eat.

WIN AT BRIDGE

By James Jacoby

There are many challenges that a declarer must meet. Not the least of these is anticipating possible danger. Anticipation should lead to the right play.

The defenders were playing standard methods, and so the opening lead of the two of hearts showed only four cards in that suit. Still, declarer had read about ducking plays. East was allowed to hold the jack of hearts. East continued the suit and declarer won the king. Now a diamond was played to the queen. West played the nine, and East won the ace.

East now reasoned that West must hold four spades and three clubs to go with his doubleton diamond. If one of those clubs were the queen, something good could happen in that suit before declarer gave up a spade trick. Accordingly, East returned a low club. Declarer ducked, West won and returned the club seven. East played low on dummy's club, and declarer had to win the ace. Later, when West won the spade king, two more club tricks set the contract.

Although it looks unlikely that the East defender would be able to figure out the club shift, South should anticipate the possible danger. He should win the first trick in dummy with the heart ace and forthwith play a spade to the queen. A club shift from West cannot sink declarer's ship, since dummy's 10-9-8-2 of clubs come into play. Declarer can then force out the diamond ace with impunity.

HOROSCOPE

What The Day Will Bring...

YOUR BIRTHDAY AUGUST 31, 1985

In the year ahead, you will establish a beneficial alliance with someone older and more experienced. You will be successful in whatever you collectively pursue.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) To protect your position, insist today that the person with whom you made an agreement honors the terms to which he consented. Major changes are ahead for Virgos in the coming year. Send for your Astro-Graph predictions today. Mail $1 to Astro-Graph, c/o this newspaper, Box 1846, Cincinnati, OH 45201.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Up until today you've been a poor collector regarding remuneration to which you're entitled. If you stand firm now, you'll get what's owed to you.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Something may arise today that will put your leadership qualities to a test. Don't be concerned, because you have what it takes when challenged.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Keep a sharper weather eye out than usual today for people for whom you're responsible. Your alertness will fend off potential problems.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Involvements with new acquaintances may have caused you to neglect old pals lately. Make amends today by getting in touch and letting them know you still care.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Ways can be found today to strengthen your economic foundations and give you greater feelings of material security. Keep on searching.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 19) If you vent your ambitious moods today, you can get quite a bit accomplished. Use your imagination to advance your self-interests.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Don't hesitate to request assistance today from one to whom you've been helpful recently. This person will be happy to balance accounts.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Your chances for getting something for which you've been hoping are improving with each passing day. Outside contributors will enter the picture.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Your mode of behavior in handling difficult situations will win you the respect of others today and enhance your reputation and status.

CANCER (June 21-July 21) Happy results are likely today regarding social plans about which you've been dubious. What you had feared was of your own imagination.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) A solution will be discovered today pertaining to a problem you haven't been able to resolve for most of the week. Now you can change something for the better.

Fungicides Prevent—Not Cure—Diseases

Fungus diseases are a common problem in the Florida landscape. Unfortunately, fungus disease control can be a complicated matter. Obviously, it's essential to choose the right material for the job.

Fungicides work by preventing plant diseases. They serve as shields against infection — not cures. These chemicals can't save plants that are already infected. They can only limit the spread of a disease to healthy plants. So it's very important to begin a fungicidal spray program at the first signs of attack — or better yet, even before you notice any symptoms at all.

Probably the most confusing thing about using fungicides is selecting the right material. A lot of things play a part in the choice you'll make. Some fungicides are "specific," and will control only certain diseases on certain plants. Others are "broad spectrum," and will control a lot of different fungus problems on a variety of plant types. And sometimes, a lot of different fungicides will be recommended for the same disease problem. How do you know which one to use?

Recommended fungicides can vary in strength and effectiveness. If the disease is severe, either because you waited too long to do anything about it, or because it's one that spreads rapidly, such as downy mildew, use the most effective fungicide you can find. You may have to go to a specialty store for a fungicide of this type as they are not always available at garden centers.

If you catch the disease before it becomes severe, a less effective fungicide may do just as well in clearing up the problem. In a garden, you can usually apply a less effective fungicide if you've practiced such things as crop rotation, planting resistant varieties, and good cultural practices. Still, the choice of which fungicide to use can be confusing. The best advice is to check with you, garden supplier, or the Extension Office and follow their advice.

As I said, fungicides work by preventing plant diseases — not cures. When you first notice a problem, usually leaf spots or blight, you can be fairly sure that the plants have been infected for at least three days, and maybe as long as two weeks. Symptoms of bacterial leaf spots and downy mildew usually appear three to 10 days after infection. Other leaf diseases have incubation periods of from seven to 10 days — maybe as long as 10 to 14 days. Greasy spot on citrus can take several months to show up.

Generally, the longer the incubation period, the slower a disease spreads, and the more easily it can be controlled. Obviously, diseases that have short incubation periods, such as bacterial blights and downy mildews, are the most difficult to control.

Other variables, such as weather conditions, cultural controls, fungicide toxicity, and spray application techniques will have some effect on your attempts to control a disease, too. But, the one thing that will have the most influence is the time at which you begin your spray program. The earlier you begin, the more successful you'll be.

Inspect your plants carefully and frequently, and begin spraying at the first sign of infection. It may appear that extensive disease symptoms develop overnight. However, a few spots always appear on the leaves before a sudden explosion of symptoms. You should be alert for these early warnings.

If disease symptoms that have appeared seem to get worse after you've sprayed, don't get discouraged. Remember that fungicides can only prevent — not cure — an infection. A disease may continue to produce symptoms for some time after spraying. However, you should notice a slowdown in symptom development within about ten days following application of a fungicide.

When applying fungicides, only use the rates listed on the product label. Sometimes, rates are listed in ranges, such as "four to six ounces per thousand square feet." Generally, the lower rate is the amount used early in the season, or when the plants are small. The higher rate is used when the plants are full-grown, or the disease has become severe. Sometimes it's a good idea to use the higher rate early in the season. This will reduce the chance of disease early in the plant's life, and make any disease control that is necessary later in the season more effective. Unless the product specifically states otherwise, it's usually OK to use the higher rate, right from the start.

Good cultural practices, such as sanitation in the garden or landscape, can go a long way in preventing disease buildup in the first place. Removing diseased plant parts and picking up fallen leaves is what we mean by sanitation. Limiting fertilizer applications and proper watering are other things to watch in reducing fungus infections.

Remember, treat your fungus problems as early as possible. A fungicide can't get rid of an existing disease. It can only keep the disease from spreading. A disease that's already present will remain on the plant until the plant dies, or is removed.

Happy gardening!

Couple Married 55 Years

Marcus and Virginia (Bobbie) Harvey, 1700 W. 3rd St., Sanford, were the guests of honor at a celebration on their 55th wedding anniversary. The party was held at the Knights of Columbus building in Sanford during the luncheon hour.

A yellow and white color scheme was used in the decor and refreshments including a beautifully embossed cake topped with a traditional bride and groom. Mrs. Jessie Brisson made a centerpiece of money contributed by the Hardys' friends who regularly meet at the congregated meal site for lunch where he is a volunteer.

"It [the party] was beautiful and lovely," Mrs. Hardy said. "We cannot put into words how much we enjoyed it."

The Hardys were married Aug. 23, 1930, in Decatur, Ga. He was an auto mechanic before his retirement in 1960.

Mrs. Hardy was a practical nurse at Henry Grady hospital in Atlanta. She did private duty nursing after the couple's move to Sanford 15 years ago and retired in 1983 following a stroke. She is a past president of the Sanford Senior Citizens Club, a representative of the Silver Haired Legislature in Tallahassee for three terms and past Noble Grand of Seminola Rebecca Lodge No. 43, Sanford.

The couple have one daughter, Betty J. Starnes, San Antonio, Texas, and two grandsons.

The 55th anniversary party hostess was Jo Ann Henwood, manager of the congregated meal site, assisted by volunteers, Jessie Brisson, Jean Dmello, John Blum and Robert Jeffrey.

Just Say No Club Helps To Keep Kids Off Drugs

DEAR ABBY: My name is Angel Wiltz. I am 9 years old and I am a captain in one of the "Just Say No" clubs helping other kids to say no to drugs. These clubs are being started all over the country. They were formed last February under Oakland Parents in Action, a program to educate parents in early drug prevention.

Our aim is to get kids to say no to drugs because drugs will mess up their minds, hurt their bodies, ruin their chances in life, hurt their grades, make their parents sad, and get them in trouble with the law.

If any of your readers would like to know how to start a "Just Say No" club in their own communities they can send a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope to: Oakland Parents in Action, 1504 Franklin St., Suite 610, Oakland, Calif. 94612. Or call (415) 836-6078.

Thank you.

ANGEL WILTZ

DEAR ANGEL: Glad to help. Please give me a progress report.

DEAR ABBY: I hope you can offer a practical solution to me and millions of other fathers who face the following dilemma:

A son, about to be married, invites his father to his bachelor party that takes place the night before the wedding. In 1985, it seems that an X-rated, sexually explicit film is shown as part of the program. Fathers and prospective fathers-in-law are invited to attend, along with the bridegroom and his male friends.

How can a male parent who really doesn't want to attend this kind of party decline without making himself appear prudish or square? Or, if he does attend in order to be accepted as "one of the boys," what is the proper conduct at such parties?

OKIE FROM MUSKOGEE: DEAR OKIE: A male parent can decline by saying, "Thanks, but if you don't mind, I think I'll pass."

And if he attends, he should sit in the back of the room and be himself.

DEAR ABBY: I live in an area of Texas where tornadoes are apt to occur, so I try to learn all the safety precautions I can.

Lately, people have been telling me that I should keep my windows closed during a tornado.

Abby, I've always heard that you should keep your windows open. Could you please straighten this out for me?

CONFUSED IN TEXAS

DEAR CONFUSED: My experts say to leave at least one window open on each side of the house to keep it from exploding. (That's the reverse of "exploding.")

DEAR ABBY: What's the proper etiquette here? A friend of mine is expecting triplets. Most everyone who attends her baby shower give her three presents, or is one gift acceptable? Any suggestions?

OVER BUDGET

DEAR OVER: Give her three gifts, one for each baby; the cost of all three should amount to whatever you would have spent had she been expecting a single. She may appreciate a gift certificate for a diaper service.

SCC Sets Leisure Time Classes

The Leisure Time Program at Seminole Community College announces that the following classes will begin the week of August 26 and September 3, 1985. These classes are self-supported by student fees at no expense to the taxpayer," according to Fay C. Brake, Coordinator of the Program. Registrations are being accepted in the Registrar's Office at SCC.

CONDITIONING (evening classes) — Modern day conditioning using the Nautilus equipment. Selection of individualized program including jogging, flexibility and calisthenics.

COMMUNITY BAND (evening class) — An organization open to anyone in the community interested in performing all styles of concert band literature. No audition is necessary. Any band instrument will be acceptable.

JAZZ DANCE/EXERCISE (morning and evening classes) — A total form of dance and exercise in which you are taught proper body alignment, coordination, discipline, flexibility and rhythm. You accomplish muscle toning, stamina, poise and confidence in yourself, along with appreciation for music and total enjoyment. Jane Fonda's workout is taught in this class.

SLIM 'N TRIM (afternoon classes) — This exercise class is designed to achieve results in reducing body fat, toning, stretching, and firming up your body. There will be a cardiovascular workout of aerobic routines and floor exercises. Nutritional hints are provided by the instructor.

COLOR & STYLE WORKSHOP (afternoon and evening class) — Two three-hour sessions which will cover personal color analysis, makeup selection and application techniques. Class enrollment is limited to six to that each student may be given as much personal attention as possible.

GOLF I (Saturday morning and evening classes) — Designed to teach the student the basic techniques of playing golf — how to hold the club, stance and swing. Students should bring a 4 or 5 iron to the first class meeting.

GOLF II (Saturday morning class) — Each session will be designed for the development of golf's most common shots such as short game (putting, chipping, short approach and sand shots), the middle irons; and the long game (irons and woods). Students should bring the 4, 6 and 9 irons to the first class meeting.

AEROBIC DANCE/EXERCISE (morning and afternoon classes) — A physical fitness course involving vigorous exercise to music. Different routines are taught with the emphasis on dancing for movement and exercise.

OIL & ACRYLIC PAINTING (morning class) — Basic to advanced techniques in acrylic and oil painting concentrating on use of color, composition and perspective as applied to portrait, figure, still life and landscape painting.

TENNIS I (Saturday morning class) — Instruction in the fundamentals of tennis such as grip, stance, forehand, backhand and service. Scoring rules and regulations will also be taught. Students must furnish their own rackets, bring one unopened can of balls to the first meeting, and wear regulation tennis shoes.

TENNIS II (Saturday morning class) — A follow-up to Tennis I. Designed for those who possess some knowledge of tennis but need help in developing solid ground strokes and more ball control.

FLORIDA

IN BRIEF

Shuttle Begins Space Chase; Crew Get Great View Of Elena

CAPE CANAVERAL (UPI) — Discovery's astronauts launched their last satellite Thursday, then gunned the shuttle in pursuit of the disabled Syncom 3 communications station two spacewalkers will try to catch and fix this weekend.

The five-man space crew also got a bird's-eye look at hurricane Elena, churning up the Gulf of Mexico 218 miles below. Commander Joe Engle said it looked like it could grow into a "whooper."

Elena aimed its winds at a stretch of Gulf coast between Louisiana and Florida but NASA was prepared to move shuttle control from Houston to a backup center near Washington if the storm turned and threatened southeast Texas.

The astronauts completed the mission's No. 1 objective when they launched their third satellite, sending the Syncom 4 sailing out of the cargo bay spinning like a giant Frisbee in slow-motion. The satellite was an improved model of the Syncom 3 the astronauts will attempt to salvage.

"Syncom's away, Houston," said astronaut James van Hosten.

"You get to wrestle with one just like that in a couple of days," replied astronaut David Leeesta in mission control.

Pals To Attend Bag-Lady's Burial

MIAMI (UPI) — Friends of bag lady Mae Janecka will be allowed to attend her burial service today after all, and a memorial fund has even been created in her honor, church and local officials said.

Janecka, 64, spent her days on Biscayne Boulevard, pushing a supermarket cart heaped with the old cans and newspapers she collected.

She died Aug. 12 on the steps of the First United Methodist Church, where she had slept on a sheet of cardboard every night for the last five years. An autopsy showed she died of natural causes.

Earlier Elsie Nixon, an owner of the Nixon-Pearson Mortuary where Janecka's body was sent, said that by law the public could not attend today's burial service to be carried out by Dade County Jail inmates.

But Shari Gaenslen, coordinator of the indigent burial program, said that was not true, and Janecka's friends will be allowed to attend. "We welcome anyone to the cemetery," she said.

Janecka's body lay unclaimed at the morgue for 16 days while investigators tried to find the two married daughters Janecka was said to have in St. Louis.

Investigator Dorothy McKendric found two St. Louis telephone listings in the name Janecka, but both denied knowing the dead woman.

Division Of Treasure In Doubt

KEY WEST (UPI) — The calls come in daily to Treasure Salvors Inc. asking, when will I get my riches?

The hundreds of investors in Mel Fisher's hunt for 17th century Spanish booty have been in an ecstasy of trying to count their money ever since Fisher's divers found the "mother lode" cargo of the galleon Nuestra Senora de Atocha July 20. Fisher has estimated the treasure of the ship that sank in a 1622 hurricane off Key West at $400 million.

The division of the spoils may take a long time.

Officials of Treasure Salvors told The Miami Herald Thursday they do not know yet how much the backers of the treasure expedition will reap on their investment and the payoff may not come until next July.

Divers so far have hauled up 177 gold bars, 900 silver bars, about 75,000 silver coins, many gold coins and hundreds of silver artifacts, said Bleth McHaley, vice president of Treasure Salvors. Every piece has to be cleaned, recorded, catalogued and evaluated under court direction and then must be released to Fisher's company by the federal court.

Skeptics contend the size of the treasure will not be close to the $400 million Fisher exulted over when the first encrusted gold bars were hauled up after three centuries on the ocean floor.

Court Grants Stay, Ignores Other

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — The Supreme Court Thursday granted a stay of execution to William Lanay Harvard but declined to interfere with the execution of Willie Jasper Darden.

Both men were scheduled for electrocution on Wednesday.

The justices gave no reason for granting Harvard the stay, which will remain in effect until the justices say otherwise.

But the justices said in a unanimous ruling that Darden failed to prove that his appeal lawyer mishandled any fundamental points in his case.

Darden was sentenced to die for the 1973 robbery-murder of a Lakeland furniture shop owner. Harvard was sentenced for the 1974 shooting death of his former wife in Brevard County.

Hit-And-Run Victim Undergoes Surgery

Surgeons operated for seven hours Thursday pulling splinters of bone from the spinal cord of a Sanford bicyclist paralyzed from the waist down when his back was broken during a hit and run accident late Wednesday. Whether the surgery will have any effect on the 21-year-old man's diminished mobility will not be known for several days, his father said this morning.

Allen King, of 7372 Sylvan Drive, was in serious but stable condition today at Humana Hospital Lucerne, Orlando, according to a hospital spokesman. The surgery stretched from 2:30 to 9:30 p.m., according to the young man's father, Jim King, also of Sanford and an instructor of emergency medical technician training at Seminole Community College.

His son, an emergency medical technician, was run down about 9:46 p.m. while riding a bicycle northbound from SCC to Seminole Community Mental Health Center where he held a part-time job.

The accident occurred near the Foxfire Restaurant, 3221 U.S. Highway 17-92, south of Sanford. King was discovered when a motorist saw his bike and heard him moaning. It appears the man lay beside the road a while before the motorist noticed him, according to the elder King. He said the conditions were poor for riding a bike that night — it was raining with poor visibility — and "I can understand how that could have caused the accident." But, he said, the driver didn't stop to help his ailing son and that he can't understand.

Florida Highway Patrol Trooper R.E. Davis said law enforcement personnel are looking for a flatbed truck possibly missing a large red side or rear reflector. It was seen traveling north on 17-92. Davis asks that anyone who may have witnessed the incident call the FHP DeLand office at 323-1800.

King, who received emergency treatment at Central Florida Regional Hospital in Sanford before being transferred to the Orlando hospital, also has a fractured pelvis, his father said. He received on-scene care from EMTs his father trained.

450 miles. The storm was not expected to hit land until early Saturday.

The hurricane slowed its forward motion today, giving it more time to strengthen over the warm Gulf waters.

"Winds are now 100 mph and Elena could become even more dangerous before moving across the coast early Saturday," the National Hurricane Center said in a late advisory.

At 9 a.m. EDT, the center of Elena was near latitude 28.0 north, longitude 87.5 west, about 160 miles south of Pensacola.

"There are also indications the steering currents are changing and the hurricane is expected to make a more northerly course today," said the hurricane center. "If this occurs, the threat to southeast Louisiana will decrease and warnings may be lowered there later today."

Florida Gov. Bob Graham warned residents of low-lying areas to evacuate immediately or face possible injury or death, and he dispatched 250 National Guardsmen to Pensacola to help with the evacuation.

Escambia County Civil Defense Director M.K. "Buck" Renfro estimated that 20,000 people were evacuating Santa Rosa Island, Perdido Key and low lying areas along Pensacola's waterfront.

Maj. Dick Barlow, an officer with the Escambia County Sheriff's Department, said a few people chose to remain on Santa Rosa Island.

"We have the names of their next of kin," he said.

"They're staying at their own risk," said another official.

Allen Dean Jr., who manages a Holiday Inn on Pensacola Beach, told guests to leave the resort Thursday.

"It's a heartbreaker to have this weekend disappear like this because of the storm," he said.

In Mississippi, Gov. Bill Allain declared a state of emergency Thursday night for the Gulf Coast counties of Harrison, Jackson and Hancock, and Louisiana Gov. Edwin Edwards, calling Elena "a major hurricane," declared an emergency in 14 parishes. Alabama Gov. George Wallace also declared an emergency.

"This is not a super storm like Camille but it's not a Danny, either," said Harrison County (Miss.) Civil Defense Director Wade Gulce. "This is more like a Frederic of '79 or a Betsy of '65 — both were killers and not to be taken lightly."

More than 100,000 people shuttered coastal homes, packed belongings and jammed coastal highways along the Gulf coast, where resorts were jammed with tourists anticipating one last summer fling during the Labor Day holiday weekend. And some 20,000 men on oil rigs in coastal waters also evacuated to safe ground.

Mansions along the Mississippi coast, ravaged 16 years ago by Hurricane Camille, were boarded up.

"People are panicking and heading inland," said Carol Barnett of the Mobile County (Ala.) Emergency Management Agency. "Traffic is backing up, gas stations are full and grocery stores are packed. People are scared."

British Mystery Worthy Of Bond Spy Thriller

LONDON (UPI) — A mystery intriguing Britain has the tangled elements of a James Bond thriller — a curious death notice in the Times of London, an elderly German princess visiting Queen Elizabeth II and the mounting West German spy scandal.

The twisted tale began Saturday when the Times of London, one of Britain's most respected newspapers, printed an elderly German princess visiting Queen Elizabeth II and the mounting West German spy scandal.

It announced the death Aug. 21 of three "dearly beloved sons" of Countess Margarita von Hessen and the late Count Richardt of Cornwall on Britain's west coast.

However, police began an investigation because no such deaths were recorded. The West German Embassy in London could find no trace of the countess.

Genealogists dug into their books on royalty. The most similar name they found was Princess Margaret von Hesse, 75, who is staying with Queen Elizabeth II at her Scottish estate for the royal family's August summer holiday.

However, the princess — a close friend of the queen — has no children and said she was "bewildered" by the whole affair.

The West German spy scandal, in which eight government workers are suspected of being East German agents, was the next element to enter the British mystery.

On Wednesday, an East German couple living in England was arrested and charged with espionage offenses in London.

Speculation simmered that the scintillating death notice had been placed as a coded warning for East German spies in Britain to flee.

"I think such a warning has been suggested in novels but we're not speculating on why it was placed," said a spokesman for the Times. "The police have called us about it."

He said the Times does not demand a death certificate for death notices. The paper usually takes notices by phone and checks back on the caller's number for confirmation.

The woman who took out the advertisement answered the confirmation call and her credit card payment for the notice was accepted, he said, but phone calls to her number are not answered now.

Cornwall police said they believe the death notice was an apparent hoax, even though they do not know what the motive could be. But intelligence sources refused to discount the spy theory.

"All my contacts were by phone," a former operator for MI6, Britain's version of the CIA, told the Guardian newspaper. "But in the looking-glass world of intelligence, the more bizarre the story seems, the more likely it is to be true."

increasing the acid levels of lakes and streams and for damaging forests, primarily in the Northeast. Some experts blame the problem on sulfur emissions from coal-fired power plants and smelters, but others say more research is needed to pinpoint the exact cause.

"It (the survey) really does not give us all the answers we need, but it is an essential first step," said Charles Elkins, EPA's acting assistant administrator for air and radiation. "Many people will be expecting a lot more from this survey."

Steven Howard of the National Wildlife Federation said the survey did nothing to lessen the environmental group's belief that without corrective action, the acid rain problem is "doomed to get worse."

The EPA is conducting a similar survey on lakes in the West. Plans call for the agency to develop additional data to help identify causes of the acidity and determine which lakes could become more acidic.

Richard Linthurst, leader of the national surface water survey project, warned that the findings should not be interpreted as an indication of environmental problems.

"From these data alone, you can't conclude whether Florida has an acid deposition problem," he said.

In the Northeast, he said, findings were consistent with the survey team's expectations, indicating the existence of few acid lakes.

Of 595 lakes tested in Michigan, Minnesota and Wisconsin, high acidity was measured in 4.7 percent.

for those with master degrees. Ogletree said teachers would fight the plan "to the bitter end."

Klein's jubilant reaction to the contract's defeat was "Great! Great!" Two weeks ago he and Seminole High teacher Whitey Eckstein suggested a move to start a new teacher's union, unhappy with the SEA negotiated pact.

"Teachers in this county are discontented ... he said. "The school board can do better than this."

The next scheduled school board meeting is set for Sept. 11 at the school board offices at 1211 S. Mellonville Ave. in Sanford.

Mormons Host Road Shows

The DeLand Stake comprised of eight churches of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints will host its annual road shows at 6 p.m. Saturday at the Lake Mary High School auditorium on Longwood-Lake Mary Road.

Members of the Sanford, DeLand, Daytona Beach and Hurler churches will take part in the activities. Each group's road show will last approximately 15 minutes and participants will be judged on their performance. Radio personalities from the community and members of the Orlando Stake will be the judges. The overall show is expected to last between 1 1/2 and 2 hours.

Brent Leckie, activities chairman, said the theatre and road shows go back almost to the inception of the Mormon Church and the founder, Brigham Young and his family were heavily involved in the theatre. "We are carrying through with that tradition in the church by having road shows, which can be performed in one spot or can travel from place to place," Leckie said.

The show is open to the public and there is no admission charge.

Trim gyms

Admit it. The mirror doesn't lie. It's time - past time - for an exercise program. But before you rush out to buy at-home equipment you need to establish goals and check your bank balance.

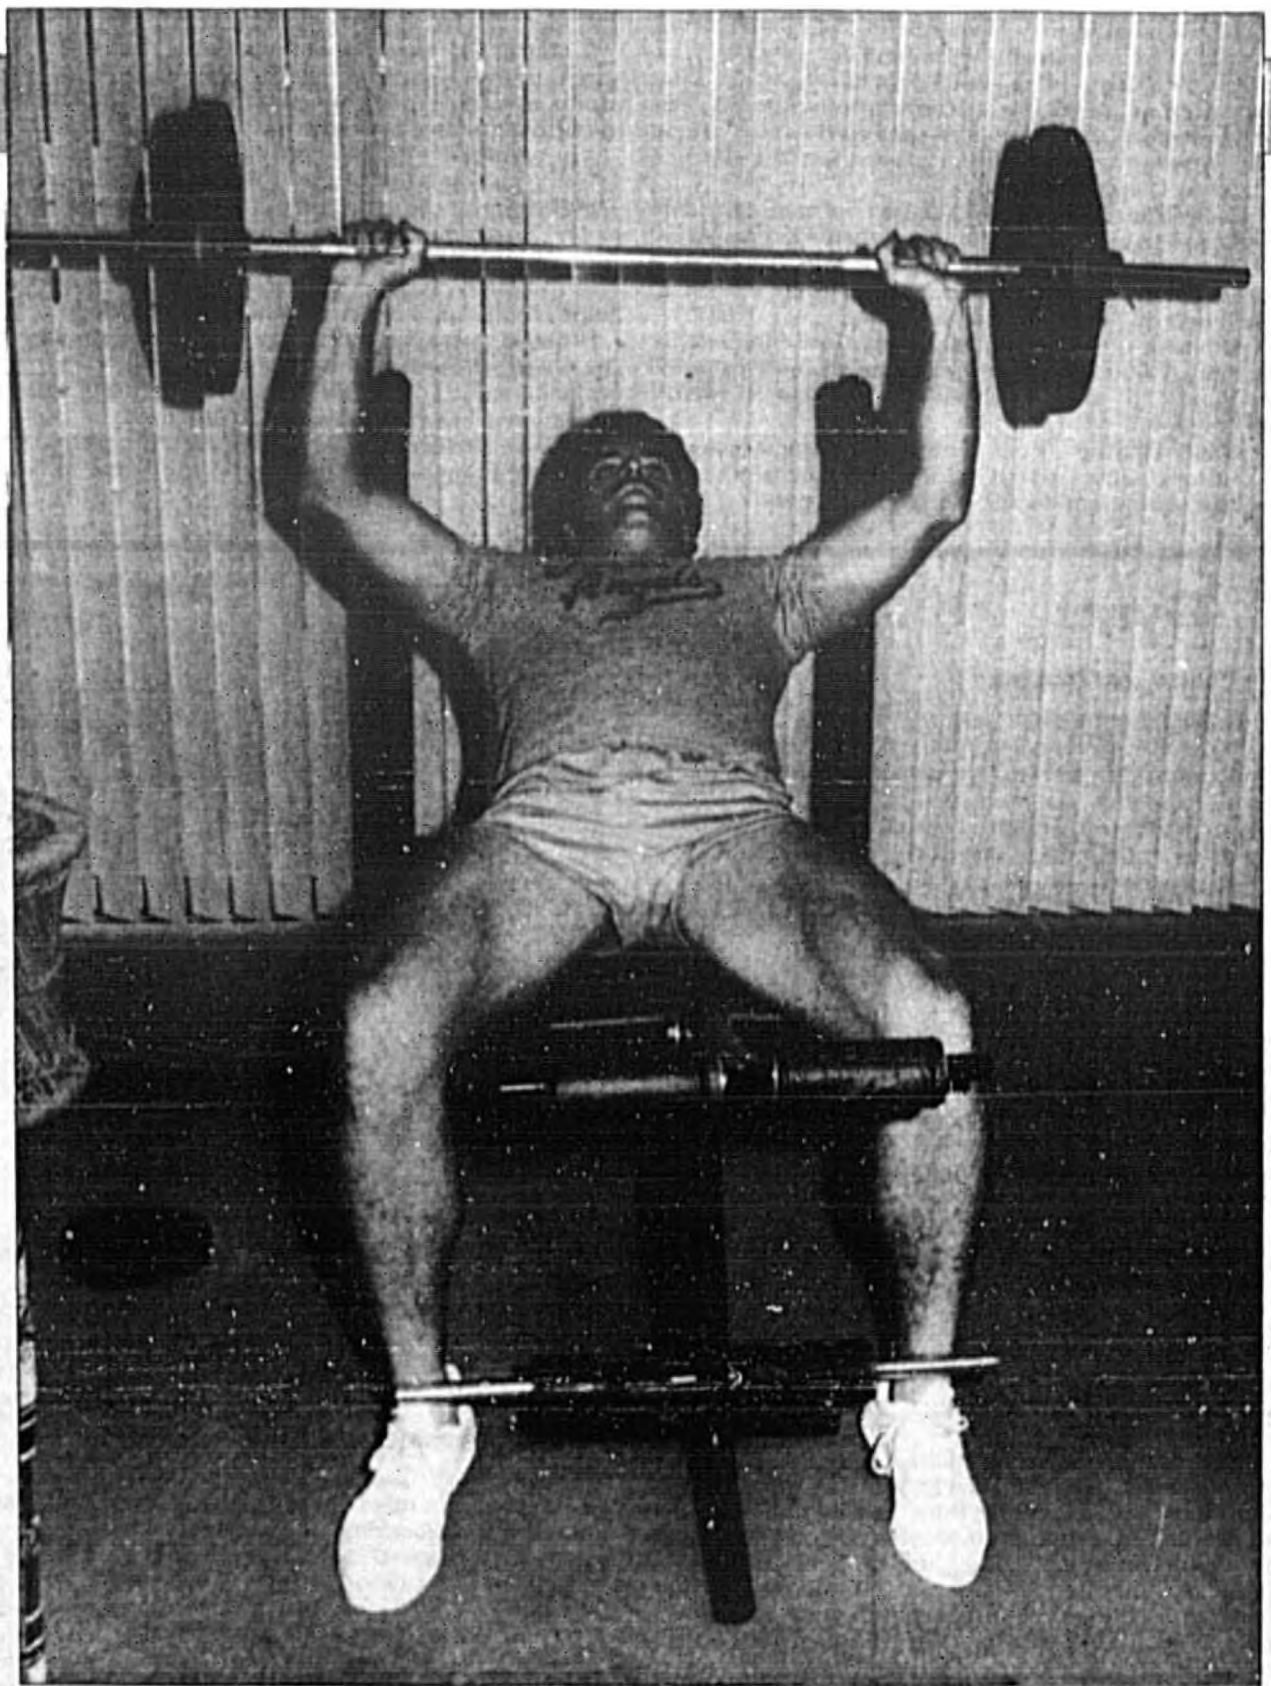

Tim Groves

By Susan Loden
Herald Staff Writer

We've all gone exercise crazy. At every turn in the road there's a runner. Posh and plain fitness centers are popping up faster than pectorals. But despite all this conspicuous sweating, most fitness fiends shun the public eye and grunt groan, stretch and strain in the privacy of their own homes.

Rowing machines and barbells are turning up in bedrooms and dens. Stationary bicycles have bumped out some easy chairs and fitness buffs are pedaling away the pounds and firming up the flab while watching television.

And that TV is probably tuned to an exercise program like fitness guru Richard Simmons'. Or Jane Fonda's top-selling workout tape may be plugged into the VCR.

Home exercise gear is the top dog in the multibillion-dollar physical fitness industry.

Consumers are snapping up everything from gooey "power putty" for hand exercises to complete state-of-the-art gyms; the home exercise equipment industry is well into the high-tech age.

The putty can be picked up for about $7 (you can get the same effect by squeezing a tennis ball) while the super gym like the Nautilus can set you back about $35,000.

There is a middle ground, and most home rowers, hoppers, pedalers, lifters and grippers can rig out a pretty sophisticated gym with all the gear they'd

Traveling Workout Appeals To Busy Execs

BARKHAMSTED Conn. (UPI)—Corporate executives successful in every venture except keeping themselves fit are trimming away flab with the advice and comradery of an exercise consultant who makes house calls.

Driving a van loaded with trampolines, bikes, weights, rowing machines, a cross-country ski simulator, treadmill and body monitoring equipment, Douglas C. Comstock visits the homes of busy professionals whose careers have outpaced their bodies.

"These people realize the importance of fitness, but it's the last thing they have time for," Comstock said. "Still, they don't want to look or feel like jellyfish."

As president of a firm providing health and maintenance programs at corporations, the 30-year-old Comstock said he noticed those who didn't attend the sessions were often top executives who needed the exercise the most.

Endless successions of business conferences, phone calls and trips were keeping many from participating in any exercise program, Comstock said. "What they needed was a personalized, professional service in their homes," regardless of the hour.

Although an initial attempt to generate interest by mailing 2,500 letters to prominent executives failed to spark a single response, Comstock wasn't discouraged.

While visiting firms during the fitness classes, Comstock talked about bringing his state-of-the-art sports equipment to the houses of corporate clients.

The proposal spread by word of mouth and soon aroused the curiosity of enough men and women to keep Comstock and three instructors busy from dawn until late at night.

"The key factors are time and motivation," Comstock said. "They don't have enough hours in their days to exercise at a club, and they always feel there is something else they could or should be doing."

The enthusiastic one-on-one participation and encouragement of Comstock or his instructors, all with degrees in physical education, provides the motivation frenzied professionals need.

Richard Bronson, a 40-year-old developer of shopping centers and office buildings who also produces rock 'n' roll concerts, maintains the kind of hectic pace typical of Comstock's clients.

An admitted "sports-machine junkie," Bronson said, "I was the kind of guy who got excited, ran out and bought all the equipment I could find, but could never force myself to use it. My home was a sportsman's paradise."

"I must have signed up for six different courses at health centers and never showed up," he added.

Bronson met his mentor at a sports equipment show where he went to buy a new treadmill.

"Doug said he wouldn't sell me one, that what I needed was motivation, not fancy gadgets."

Bronson decided to give the 13-week program a try providing Comstock showed up at his home at 5:45 a.m.

"I needed discipline, and he put together a plan that worked," Bronson said, adding he lost 20 pounds, has lower blood pressure and is more relaxed.

In dealing with success-driven people, Comstock says he has tried to develop a program that's practically fail proof. He contacts his clients' doctors to learn if there are any special problems, and every session begins by measuring physical dimensions.

As Comstock guides each participant through the hour of stretching, weight lifting and aerobics, he logs pulse rates, intensity of workouts, repetitions, durations and makes recommendations for the next class.

But he also makes sure the participant has fun, by alternating between the different pieces of equipment, exercising with them, coaxing and shouting encouragement.

An insistence on meeting goals is an essential for the program to work.

"If you have a guy pounding on your door at 6 o'clock in the morning three days a week, there's not much you can do," Comstock said. "They're paying me $45 an hour for motivation. And that's how I get results."

"These people, corporate executives and presidents of companies, don't have anybody telling them what to do in most areas of their lives," he said. "But they admit they wouldn't exercise any other way."

...Gyms

ever need for from $2,000 to $4,000. The cost-conscious can equip a smaller but still "total gym" for about one-tenth that price. Still too much? Try shopping a few garage sales for some used weights and a discarded child's jump rope.

Tim Groves, who presides over a glittering array of chrome exercise equipment in an Altamonte Springs showroom where do-it-yourself muscle men and women can pick a mean machine to whip themselves into shape in the privacy of their own home, said time is a factor. Money plays a role too.

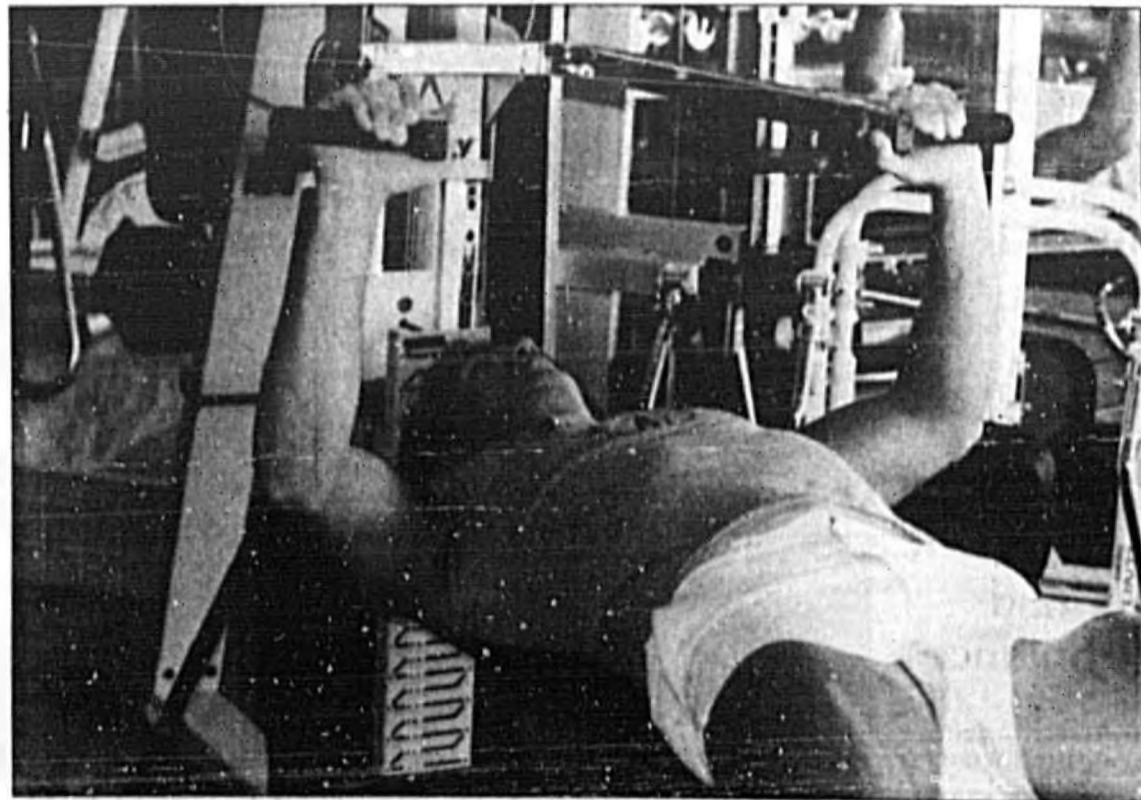

Many fitness buffs who pay the "extremely high price" ($400 a year and up) to exercise at one of the posh exercise emporiums that are popping up in Seminole County find it's too much like work to make it in for a workout, Groves said.

They pay the fees and then don't show up. They realize by the time they get home from work, change into their sweats and battle the traffic getting to the gym they've wasted an hour and haven't moved a muscle in a meaningful way, he said.

Then it's time to wait in line for a turn at the machines and a post-workout shower. It all takes about two hours, he said, and they could have toned their muscles and given the old heart a workout in only 30 minutes if they had stayed at home.

That's where 38-year-old Dave Skyles of Longwood chooses to exercise.

An architect, Skyles said if he had to make time to go to a gym he just wouldn't do it. So he invested $5,000 in a sit-up board and a six-station "fitness trainer" where he strains and trains with presses and pulls.

So far, he has worked out faithfully using a program developed by a friend during the five weeks he's had the gear.

"I'm just getting in shape," Skyles said. "I prefer it over riding a bike. It's a different kind of exercise."

If Skyles becomes a real dyed-in-the-wool fitness buff he may join others who have gone as far as investing in home indoor tanning machines or saunas. About the only thing they miss out on that the clubgoer enjoys, Groves said, is the social aspect of watching others sweat.

The health spa has become the singles bar of the 80s.

If that's not what you're after, then there's a certain pleasure in knowing that by working out at home you can set your own pace and your own time to exercise, even if it's at 11 p.m. or 3 a.m. And the investment in equipment is one that should last a lifetime, Groves said.

The most popular home exercise machine, Groves said, is the rower which can range in price from about $200 up to a super $550 machine that will count the calories you're burning away.

"The people come in who not only want something for the heart and lungs like a bike or a rower or a treadmill, but who'll also purchase a fitness trainer for about $4,000 that has different stations where they can do squats, bench press, a military press, exercising various parts of the body. They go for the complete fitness program."

Though individual exerciser's goals and needs vary they are all generally working to give their heart and lungs, the cardiovascular system, a good workout. That's the key to good health.

"The secret is to get your heart rate up in your target zone, which varies depending on your size and other factors (but usually hovers around 125-150 beats a minute), at least three or four times a week, in 20-minute exercise sessions," Groves said.

"Heart disease is the leading cause of death in our country. People are starting to realize that and are leading better lives. They're exercising and are eating better. They're more alert, they stay in shape. They look better and feel better," he said.

So much for the motivation that causes the typical home exerciser to shell out an average of $500 for gear. What if you don't know where or how to join the fitness freaks?

Most people have an idea of what they want to achieve from exercise, Groves said. "We kind of guide them. If they don't have any idea what they are doing we will offer to come by their home and set up a program for them," he said.

Although many take to gravity systems, which dangle you upside down to take pressure off the spine, few go in for serious weight training.

"People want to tone up, but not train like a bodybuilder," he said. "That's a fulltime job. But they do get into their workouts and a lot of people are pretty fanatical about it."

"It can definitely become an obsession. You don't want to go to that point, but you do want to make exercise a part of your lifestyle, to incorporate some type of fitness program even if it's only 10 or 15 minutes a day," he said.

And you don't even have to leave home to do it.

News Or Entertainment?

'West 57th' Fuzzes The Line Separating Style, Substance

By David Handler
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

"West 57th" offers the hip-nerve camera work of "Hill Street Blues," the heart of "Cagney & Lacey."

The only problem is that "West 57th" is a news show. I think. It's hard to tell sometimes. The line between news and entertainment is awfully fuzzy here. Too fuzzy.

This CBS News summer magazine is new, now, daring, caring, wow! It's a rock 'n' roll operation from the network's new breed. The executive producer, Andrew Lack, is under 40. The correspondents — John Ferrugia, Bob Stott, Meredith Vieira, Jane Wallace — are young and fresh-faced.

Fresh is nice. I'm all for fresh. Fresh editing techniques, fresh use of sound and music. The problem with "West 57th" is it's more interested in style than in substance. Sensation matters more than information.

The bottom line: It's shallow and self-conscious and it's not good journalism. It's crummy tabloid journalism.

"West 57th" covers a couple more stories a week than "60 Minutes" does. It can do that because the subjects are less complex. Soft, actually. And there's very little digging.

Stott, for instance, profiled actor Chuck Norris. I knew very little about Norris. I still know very little. Stott showed some film clips and chatted with the guy on a sofa. Oh, and he spoke to Norris's wife. "Chuck," she told us, "is truly so at peace with himself."

That was it. "Entertainment Tonight" would have given us more.

Miss Wallace probed the story of how Jon-Erik Hexum lives on. You'll recall the actor's organs were donated when he died last year from an accident on the set of "Cover Up." Well, she found the fellow who has his heart.

He operates a Las Vegas escort service. "Are you a pimp?" she demanded. He ducked the question. She let him.

Ferrugia went the Geraldo Rivera route with his piece on battered wives. He actually spoke with a battered wife. He actually asked her how it felt to be turned away from an overcrowded shelter. He watched as her little boy pointed at her bruised face and said, "Mommy, what's that?" "It hurts," she replied.

He watched as she phoned motels and friends in search of accommodations for the night. She ended up bunking with a friend. "This report has no story-book ending," he reported. It also had no point, besides shock value.

Miss Vieira went to Ethiopia with Harry Belafonte and Michael Jackson's brother. "There were roses and tearful hugs," she told us. "And, if on cue, it started to rain in this drought-stricken country. An African sign of welcome — a reason to hope."

She went for heart over reportage. The camera showed us grain sitting untouched at a dock. It showed Soviet helicopters hovering overhead. She mentioned it, but didn't account for it. "The only two facts that matter," she said, voice quavering slightly, "are these people are hungry and need help."

The sad thing about "West 57th" is that it can't be dismissed. It comes from network TV's most distinguished news operation, the one that produced Edward R. Murrow, Walter Cronkite and "60 Minutes." Its arrival signals a major development in TV news, and not a positive one.

Don Ameche: A Movie Star Who Doesn't Go To Movies

When Don Ameche quit making movies he also quit going to see them. Ameche says he saw only three — "The Godfather," "Kramer vs. Kramer" and "E.T." — in a 10-year period.

He was well off financially and came out of retirement for a role in "Trading Places" only after he was given the same salary that Ray Miland was to have gotten for the role.

"Hell, I'd gone for 12 years without making a picture so what was the difference?" he told People magazine.

Ameche, 77, has become something of a senior sex symbol with his role in "Cocoon" but says he wouldn't choose near-eternal life like his character in the movie.

"I wouldn't go," he said. "I'm a very contented, peaceful man."

Ameche, who has been separated from his wife for 19 years but won't divorce because of their Catholic faith, says he thinks of himself as "someone who had decent looks and could sing decently well."

 Song Of Angels
 Tony Bennett's heart may be in San Francisco but his effort is going toward giving Los Angeles its own trademark song, "City of the Angels."
 "The city isn't tied together like other cities," he says. "But this is a song about the atmosphere of L.A. It has that Fred Astaire beat that he dances to a lot."
 Will San Franciscans resent his works on behalf of Los Angeles?
 "Oh no," Bennett says. "They've been too good to me."

Here She Comes ... Again

By Joan Hanauer
UPI TV Reporter

NEW YORK (UPI) — Here she comes — for the 32nd year on television — Miss America.

"The greatest sport in America is not football or baseball," stockbroker Albert Marks Jr., said. "It's girl-watching and I find nothing wrong with that."

Marks's interest in girl-watching comes naturally — professionally he deals with stocks but his hobby for the last 32 years has been the Miss America Pageant, of which he is the unpaid chairman and chief executive officer.

The pageant, hosted by Gary Collins, airs this year on Sept. 14, 10 p.m. to midnight on NBC and Marks pointed out that the girlwatching involved is done more by women than men. The current audience makeup is about 65 percent female, 35 percent male.

"The greater part of our audience is female," Marks said. "The perspective and identification depends on the age of the female involved."

'These kids know who they are, what they want, and most important, how to get what they want. Their smarts shine through.'

—pageant chairman Albert Marks Jr.

"The little girl 10 or 11 years old looks with stars in her eyes and wonders, 'Can I ever grow up to look like that?' The 25-to-40 year old says, 'Gee, do I still look like that?' The older ones ask, 'Did I ever look like that?' And the grandmothers who grew up with us say, 'Isn't it wonderful?'"

Marks pointed out that he had omitted one age group — women 18 to 25.

"We lost them almost completely in the late 1960s and early 1970s," he said, "what with the women's movement, the Vietnam war and the fact that they felt the values of their elders weren't worth a damn."

"They are returning to us in large numbers, I am told. The kids of that era are largely the Yuppies of this era."

Every year some 80,000 young women compete in almost 3,000 local pageants in hopes of winning crowns — and a share in the almost $5 million in scholarship money the pageant generates.

Marks expressed his continuing surprise about the hostility of the women's movement — which he thinks is "a little over the hill" — to the Miss America Pageant.

"The criticism seems to concentrate on the swimsuit competition," Marks said. "As a nonchauvinistic male, I have yet to see anything prudent about it. I see bathing suits on the beaches I wouldn't permit my daughter to wear — well, if I had anything to say about it. She's 32."

"But I fail to see the difference between Joe Blow somewhere in Pennsylvania getting a scholarship for playing star football for the University of Texas, and young women having the same opportunity to win scholarships on their own terms."

Marks was president of the Chamber of Commerce in Atlantic City, N.J. back in 1954 when bandleader Paul Whiteman sold his sponsor, Philco, on the idea of putting the pageant on the new medium of television. Whiteman sought local assistance and found it in Marks, who became the pageant's first and only television chairman.

"The young women we deal with today are different from those of, say, 25 years ago," Marks said. "About 99 percent of all our kids today are college women," Marks said, "and that was not true 25 years ago."

"These kids know who they are, what they want and, most important, how to get what they want. Their smarts shine through."

How'd You Like To Be A Star?

Here's your big chance at stardom, to open at the Orange County Civic Center Nov. 2 for the Marlboro Country Music Concert and win a $5,000 first prize.

Marlboro is hosting the Marlboro Country Music Talent Roundup in Central Florida. The company is looking for a single act or group to be the show opener for country music superstars Alabama, Hank Williams, Jr., Merle Haggard, Ricky Skaggs, John Anderson, and Kris Kristofferson.

The rules for entry are simple:

- All contestants must be 21 years old.
- Contestants cannot have an existing contract with a major record label.
- All contestants must be self-contained. No backup band will be provided by Marlboro. To enter, send a cassette tape with three country music/bluegrass songs to Marlboro Country Music Talent Roundup, P. O. Box 5988, Grand Central Station, New York, NY 10017.

Official entry blanks may be picked up at any Marlboro Country Music Talent Roundup club — The Barn in Sanford, Finky's Country Showplace in Daytona Beach, and Sullivan's Trailway Lounge in Orlando. Contestants may call 1-800-637-6560 for further information.

Deadline for entry is Sept. 9. Cassette tapes will be judged by Entertainment Services Group, Ltd. in New York. Semifinalists will compete before a live audience and local judges at The Barn Oct. 15.

Finky's Country Showplace Oct. 16 and Sullivan's Trailway Lounge Oct. 17. The finals will be held at Sullivan's on Oct. 22. In addition to the $5,000 first prize, second prize winners will receive $1,000 and third prize winners will take home $500.

Just Another Pretty Face

Brooke Shields drew her usual big crowd during an appearance in Boston to promote her new line of jeans, but she can't figure out why.

"I've tried to analyze my fame," she said. "And, really, I haven't been able to come up with an answer. I really can't understand it. When I do a promotion like this and I see 1,000 people looking up at me, I don't even know why they're there. I really don't."

As for being a sex symbol, sexy is in the eye of the beholder, she says. "I don't find it strange that I'm considered a sex symbol but the sex symbol image has been given to me by other people," Shields said.

"The person I am is a straight person. I mean, I don't look at myself in the mirror and see a sexy person."
