Standardized testing opposed

WASHINGTON — The nation's largest teachers' union wrapped up its annual convention at odds with Education Secretary Lamar Alexander and firmly opposed to standardized student achievement tests.

The 6,500 delegates to the National Education Association meeting voted overwhelmingly Wednesday in favor of a resolution that opposed "standardized testing that is mandated by a state or a national authority" and the "use of these tests to compare one school or district to another."

Instead, the resolution said policy-makers should explore alternate means of measuring academic achievement, such as collecting schoolwork for periodic review.

NEA President Keith Geiger said the vote would make it more difficult for his organization to work with state or national authorities on finding alternatives to a testing program. But he said he fully supported the delegates' decision.

New unemployment claims fall

WASHINGTON — The number of Americans filing new claims for unemployment benefits fell by 4,000 at the end of June, but remained high enough to lift a four-week average to the highest level in 11 weeks, the government said today.

Analysts prefer to track the so-called four-week moving average to discern trends because of the volatility of the weekly applications.

The Labor Department said the number of first-time applications for jobless benefits totaled 416,000 during the week ending June 27, down from 420,000 the previous week. It was the lowest since claims totaled 406,000 during the week ending June 6.

Analysts had expected a decline of about 5,000 claims.

BOOM: Shuttle's home

By NICK PFERFAUF
Herald Staff Writer

The cacophonous, sonic boom-boom created by the space shuttle Columbia as it swept over Seminole County toward landing this morning startled people, scared pets, rattled windows, shook walls, and tripped burglar alarms.

The shuttle landed safely in the Kennedy Space Center, Cape Canaveral, at 7:43 a.m., after its seven astronauts completed a two-week mission in space, the longest ever for a shuttle crew.

The original landing in California was aborted because of weather.

"Columbia came in from the Gulf at Crystal River, then headed east southeast over the state, crossing Seminole County at approximately Altamonte Springs," said Karl Kristofferson at KBC.

He added, "At the time, the shuttle was at an altitude of approximately 85,000 feet, and moving at mach 3, or 2,250 miles per hour."

The Seminole County Sheriff's office, and police departments in Sanford, Lake Mary and Longwood did not report any calls about the boom.

A number of burglar alarms were set off by the booms however. In Sanford, the alarm sounded at Gwaltney Jewelry, the First Baptist Church and a private residence. The Sheriff's office also reported two burglar alarm calls.

"This isn't uncommon," Kristofferson said, "the booms are capable of setting off alarms in buildings as well as cars depending on how loud they might be."

In downtown Sanford, Wilbur Davis heard the boom at Magnolia Mall. "I didn't see the shuttle," he said, "but the booms were loud enough to almost give me a headache."

Visitor Charles Gordon, of Richmond, Va., stood along the lakefront looking into the sky. "I'm just passing through here," he said, "and I don't know if I can see it, but this might be my only chance to see an actual shuttle come in."

The telephone operator at the Altamonte Springs Police department commented, "I only heard the booms, but there were some people here who said they actually saw the shuttle pass"

SANFORD — Female students, the driving force in Carlos Merlino's class at Seminole High School, made the boys tell everyone about it.

Male and female summer school driver's education students challenged each other during their final exam, a road test, to see just who the best drivers are.

"Women are definitely better!" chorused Angel Anderson, Meda Williams, Shirley Pinto and Vicki Smith.

Ben Brown just grinned. He was surrounded.

Merlino confirmed it. Tested on a three point turn, weaving forward and backward through parking cones and parallel parking, the females scored 94.5 percent to the males' score of 83 percent.

"It was close, real close," Merlino said. "It still counts!" student Jaime Dillman answered.

"But more guys got 'A's in the class," John Davis protested.

"There are more boys in the class, that's

Sheriff's budget: Making do

Employee raises, school crossing guards sought

By J. MARK BARFIELD
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — Sheriff Don Ealinger said his $29 million proposed budget for the 1992-1993 year was one of making do instead of expansion.

"We were looking at ways to increase productivity and at the same time, save money," said Ealinger.

The major change in Ealinger's budget is about $60,400 to hire additional school crossing guards needed because the school board eliminated courtesy busing this year to save money. With more children walking or riding bikes to schools, more of the part-time street monitors are needed to assure their safety, Ealinger said.

The sheriff's budget represents about 38 percent of all spending in the $77 million general county operations fund. The spending plan is about 1.5 percent more than last year's $28.6 million budget. The largest increase in spending will be in the wages spending. In addition to the additional crossing guards, Ealinger has proposed a 5 percent average pay increase for his 540 employees.

Ealinger said he will be able to offer more efficient services through changes begun last year and continued into this year. By hiring 15 civilian officers to serve civil documents and respond to non-violent situations, 11 deputies were freed to perform law enforcement functions. A five-man motorcycle squad was also created last year to patrol roadways.

"Those actions, coupled with automation of fiscal affairs, the correctional facility, changes in procedures in communications have enhanced our ability to perform services," said Ealinger.

The only major change in services will be the addition of 23 school crossing guards to the 110 already authorized. Earlier this year, the school board eliminated courtesy busing for children living close to schools. As a result, more children walked or rode bicycles to school, requiring more crossing guards to keep watch on the kids and traffic.

Two of the new guards will be assigned to Lake Mary Elementary, two will be assigned to Longwood Elementary, two will be assigned to Mitwee Middle, and two will be assigned to Greenwood Lakes Middle.

Belfiore takes control of police force, for now

By NICK PFERFAUF
Herald Staff Writer

LAKE MARY — The desk in the police chief's office here is empty. Director of Public Safety Charles Lauderdale considers himself a civilian again.

An earlier resignation dated May 30, submitted by Lauderdale, was accepted by the Lake Mary City Commission Monday night following a series of disputes with City Manager John Litton. Lauderdale was requested to leave his office immediately.

"Capt. Sam Belfiore is in complete charge of the police department now, as he was during Lauderdale's recent illness," Litton said Wednesday.

Belfiore has been managing the operational aspects of the department for several months, with Lauderdale supervising the overall department.

"I cleaned out my desk on Tuesday," Lauderdale said, "and left the office for the last time." He commented, "I felt there were many things I would have liked to complete, but I actually feel more comfortable than I have in months."

"I've already started receiving applications for the job," Litton said yesterday. "I plan to advertise, but I will also be looking at applications from within the department." He added, "Of course, once I find someone I believe will be best suited for the position, it will be up to the City Commission to make the final decision."

Lauderdale meanwhile, is spending his time at home. "I'll be heading for Texas," he said, "just as soon as I finish a few things that need doing around here." His mother lives on a small horse ranch in Texas, and recently suffered a stroke from which she is recuperating. Lauderdale had earlier suggested moving to the ranch and becoming involved in rodeo operations.

"In the meantime," he added, "I'll be heading for Texas," he said.

Rep. Grindle seeks seat in Senate

By J. MARK BARFIELD
Herald Staff Writer

ALTAMONTE SPRINGS — State representative Art Grindle announced Wednesday he will focus his Senate ambitions on the newly-created District 12, which takes in much of eastern Seminole County but excludes nearly all of Sanford.

"Most of Seminole County is in District 12 and I still support Seminole County," said Grindle, a Republican.

District 12 nibbles portions of southeast Seminole County south of State Road 434 but extends as far north as Lake Mary Boulevard in a protrusion generally bounded by Interstate 4 and the CSX railroad line. The district also takes in the west, south and east borders of Orange County, taking a dip into Ocala County.

The district boundary then returns to Seminole

As a result of fitting jigsaw puzzles of new congressional and legislative district boundaries over each other, elections supervisor Sandra Guard has created seven precincts with no residents, according to the 1990 Census. ## Head Start

Both liberals and conservatives extol the virtues of Head Start, the federally sponsored preschool program that gives disadvantaged children extra help to succeed. So why did the Democratic leadership in Congress shortchange the program by $250 million in the emergency urban aid bill that was passed recently?

The cutback was a false economy. Research shows that children who lack adequate nutrition, medical care and parental support often are destined to fail in school. Studies also suggest that this form of early intervention is more effective in diverting youngsters from crime than are such standard programs as juvenile homes and parent counseling.

The value of Head Start is reflected in other ways. Its graduates have a much lower rate of teen-age pregnancy and are half as likely to end up on welfare as those who do not participate in the program. A 1984 study tracking the progress of Head Start graduates from a poor section of Ypsilanti, Mich., concluded that every dollar spent saved $6 in later social costs.

Head Start's primary goal is to prepare kids for school by teaching them fundamental concepts that most other children already have learned by the time they enter first grade. This preparation includes feeding and inoculating youngsters, checking their eyes and teeth, and getting their parents involved in the education process.

Congress reauthorized Head Start two years ago with the goal of ensuring that all eligible youngsters would be enrolled by 1995. At current funding levels, however, the program serves only about 25 percent of the 2 million low-income preschoolers who need help. That's not nearly good enough.

President Bush has proposed a $600 million increase for Head Start in next year's budget. Meanwhile, a second urban initiative is taking shape in Congress for 1993. If the White House and lawmakers are serious about seeing to it that these kids have a decent chance of succeeding, they will find the $3 billion needed to pay for this cost-effective program.

Bush's vote phobia

Simplified voter registration rules should scare no one. That's what "motor-voter" provides. Under the legislation passed by the House and the Senate, U.S. citizens may register to vote when they apply for a driver's license.

In addition, voter application forms would be available in government and non-government agencies, including unemployment offices, disability agencies and libraries. The bill also allows registration by mail.

The motor-voter bill was approved by Congress despite almost universal opposition from Republican legislators. The White House has said President Bush will veto it. That's a funny position for an administration that opposes government red tape in every other sphere and says it wants to make it easier for citizens to deal with their government.

Opponents of motor-voter claim that making registration and voting easier will also make it more susceptible to fraud, but there is no evidence to support that. And the legislation includes specific provisions to guard against fraud. The bill requires that states check the addresses of voters to ensure current and accurate registration lists.

Proponents point out, correctly, that out-of-date, inaccurate voter registration lists can be an invitation to fraud. Nearly one-third of all adult Americans move within two years. By making it simple and convenient for them to change their registration, and thus generating more current voter information, motor-voter may actually help guard against voter cheating.

It also includes federal penalties for anyone who intimidates would-be voters and mail-registration systems in place now. It has not resulted in more fraud but rather in a sharp increase in public participation in the political process. One suspects that that's what the president and other Republicans fear.

Taking a fresh look at old problems

People who construct computer models designed to reflect some large reality — an ocean liner's hull, say, or the American economy — are forever trying to refine their models to bring them into closer accord with the reality under study. If they fail, their calculations will be invalid — garbage in, garbage out, as the saying goes.

What is often overlooked by political commentators is that their conclusions, too, are vulnerable to invalidation if their notion (or model) of reality is out of date, or is mistaken for some other reason. For we commentators, too, construct our own concepts of reality. The actuality is much too big to comprehend directly.

Thus, one of the liberals' favorite criticisms of conservatives is that the latter have an outdated vision of what America is like: a series of Judge Hardy households out of the 1960s, in which everybody is conventionally married to someone of the opposite sex, has 2.2 children, and lives in a white frame house, with a car in the garage, in a medium-sized town in the Middle West.

Conservatives reply, of course, that liberals think America is populated largely by bigoted Bubba-types and rednecks from the Appalachians to the Rockies, with sleazy millionaires infesting both coasts, while millions of involuntarily unemployed are compelled to sleep on the streets and still other millions are gay couples who seek only the right to marry, settle down and adopt a family.

To the extent that both models are mistaken, policy choices based on them are inevitably skewed in mistaken and even counterproductive directions.

Let me do what I can, therefore, to dispel a couple of current misconceptions.

Misconception No. 1: The Cold War fallacy. Although the Cold War is over, many commentators assume that minds developed during it, for the purpose of coping with it, are still generally valid. On the contrary, almost everything is different

Many voters are far more inclined to take a flyer on a risky president.

The American economy, just for starters, must be thoroughly reorganized and rerouted, with millions of workers being directed into new and more relevant jobs. For another thing, all sorts of stupid and/or disagreeable things can happen all over the world now without Uncle Sam being compelled to dash in and straighten them out. Thirdly, many voters are far more inclined than they were during the Cold War to take a flyer on a risky president — whether Clinton or Perot.

Misconception No. 2: The "town meeting" fallacy. We often tend to rely on rules that work splendidly at the local level but that cannot conceivably be applied to problems on the scale of the entire nation.

This is a huge country — the third largest on earth, now that the Soviet Union has crumbled into its components. We have one state 20 percent larger in population than Canada, and another 70 percent as big. Altogether, we are 10 times as big.

In a small town, one or two drunks or dope addicts present no great problem. In America today, however, we have an entire underclass, numbering in the millions, largely paralyzed by alcohol and drugs. In a small town, everybody may know (but not say) that the church organist is gay.

"President Bush promised he'd help Russia with CHANGE— then he gave me 50 cents and sent me on my way."

A tomato by any other name

They are now messing with tomatoes, and I have to tell you, I receive this news with very mixed feelings.

To be precise, the Calgene company of Davis, Calif., is about to market a tomato called the "Flavr Savr" that has been genetically altered to inhibit rot. Theoretically, it can ripen on the vine, retain its vitality during shipping, and be displayed on supermarket shelves in all its fresh, juicy and tasty glory. No picking green. No gassing with ethylene. No pink spheres that could be hit for home runs without cracking. Just delicious, red, ripe tomatoes in the dead of winter — at only twice the price of the inferior variety, no less.

That's what they say, and I'm waiting. But I'm putting Calgene on notice: Succeed and all will be well and I might even purchase your overpriced product when company comes. Fail and attempt to foist off on us a piece of plastic crud that you have to saw with a serrated knife and you are in deep sauce.

Worse, create some sort of mutant that attacks and alters or destroys Better Boys or Big Girls or Romas or another of God's great creations, and you will be under siege by the Tomato Liberation Army, which I will personally form and head. Tomatoes are a reason for living. It is written somewhere, I am certain, that those who debase them will suffer an agonizing demise.

The pages of history are replete with fools who questioned the merit of this fine fruit (technically speaking, that is: according to an 1893 Supreme Court ruling, it is legally a vegetable), which first grew as wild berries in the Andes and was being cultivated in Mexico when the conquistadors waded ashore in the 16th century. Castor Durante, an Italian who evidently preferred white pizza, wrote in 1585 that tomatoes "afford little and poor nourishment." A German expert later warned that tomatoes "should not be taken internally." A Geneva writer in 1686 classified the tomato as a poisonous plant.

Fortunately for all mankind, the opinions of such unlearned quacks were lost in a surge of positive publicity. A food authority named Pier Andrea Mattioli noted in 1554 that "the tomato is eaten in Italy with oil, salt and pepper." Another sagacious writer, Melchior Gualandini, observed in 1572 that tomato juice was "useful because of its cooling nature for rheumy joints and other such pains." By the mid 18th century, the tomato had gained acceptance across the continent and was a staple of Mediterranean cuisine.

But not in America, stuck as it was on corn, squash and other inferior flora. Native dimwits thought the tomato to be as toxic as the henbane and thornapple, to which it is related. There were some notable exceptions. A Virginia farmer named Thomas Jefferson recorded in 1782 that tomatoes were growing in his garden at Monticello. A 1792 cookbook contained a recipe for "tomatoe ketchup" (the idiosyncratic spelling leads authorities to believe the author was an antecedent of the Quayle family). And in 1820, a beloved hero named Robert Gibbon Johnson trudged up the steps of a courthouse in Salem, N.J., and proved for once and for all that the tomato is benign fare by eating one in plain view.

Still there were doubters. As late as 1845, a Boston editor (another Quayle forebear) compared tomatoes to "rotten potatoe-balls."

But tomatoes survived, as virtuous things tend to do, and today every American consumes an average of 80 pounds of them annually. Thirty million of us grow them. We bake them, we boil them, we broil them. We grill, fry, stuff, stew, pickle, and puree them. We put them in soups, sauces, salads, drinks, dressings, omelets and aspics.

Let me put it to you another way, Mr. Calgene, Inc: I don't think I'll have any trouble raising troops for the TLA.

So go ahead, mess with the object of our affections. But remember, there's a fine line between tinkering and tampering.

Tomatoes are a reason for living.

Constitution not safe around Bush

Scan the faces from far above the madding crowd in Madison Square Garden and rest assured: The biggest liberal of them all won't dare show his face in this pack of conventional Democrats.

The most blatantly liberal activist in America today will be at the Democratic National Convention in name, but not in body. You'll hear all about this radical for every cause, whose solution for our every problem is to tamper with the great gift bequeathed to us by our Founding Fathers — the United States Constitution.

But you won't see this wild-eyed radical of 1992: George Bush.

And that's too bad. Because Bush's politically convenient penchant for passing amendments to the document strict constructionist conservatives consider hallowed could fit right in with the old liberal notions that activist government meddling is the best way to reorder social policy and mandate action that duly elected leaders might not otherwise choose.

Call it voodoo liberalism. Fact is, our president is ready and willing to amend our amazingly classic yet sturdy, time-tested Constitution — at the first sign of a plunging poll.

Most recently, Bush told us what he needs to give us a balanced budget: We must amend the U.S. Constitution in order to force him to balance it.

But that's just the latest in Bush's contra-conservative catechism to cure all ills. No doubt the Founding Fathers begin whirling in their foundations every time Bush opines:

Should anyone have the right to burn or tread upon Old Glory? No — amend the Constitution to ban it.

Should women have the right to choose to have an abortion? No — amend the Constitution to ban it.

Should senators and representatives have the right to run for re-election as often as they wish? No — amend the Constitution to ban it (by limiting their terms).

Should presidents have the right to run for re-election as often as they wish? Yes — abolish the 22nd Amendment to the Constitution, which prohibits it. (Republicans had enacted the amendment in defensive frustration after FDR's four terms; but so far, it has only restricted eight-year presidents Eisenhower and Reagan, both Republicans.)

Should presidents have the right to veto funding for any specific items within a bill? Yes — amend the Constitution to permit it.

Of all the constitutional amendments being pushed by Bush, no doubt the most nettlesome to most Americans has to be the one that has hit them right in the wallet: the balanced-budget amendment.

If any of you readers land jobs as television network anchors or get chosen for a talk-show call-in, you can perform a genuine public service — the kind journalists once tried in events known as news conferences. You may be able to accomplish what those reporters never thought to attempt.

Just ask President Bush: "What can a constitutional amendment enable you to propose that you couldn't have proposed three years ago? Or even right now?" Of course, the president will try to divert you by saying that it was the Democrat-controlled Congress that drove our deficit ever higher. But don't be diverted and don't take any guff. You can always remind Bush of this analysis from the very conservative Cato Institute:

"It is not true that Bush is an innocent victim of a Democratic-controlled Congress. ... Bush has been requesting big budget increases. ... Clearly, the spending epidemic in Washington begins in the White House."

The spending epidemic in Washington begins in the White House.

The spaceship, diverted to Florida because of bad weather at the main landing site in California, touched down at 7:43 a.m. It rolled to a stop on the concrete runway, slowed by a new red white and blue drag chute.
"Congratulations on the longest shuttle flight on record. Thanks for helping to pave the way to space station operations," Mission Control's Ken Reighler told the crew.

at Edwards and more was expected. Nevertheless, about 550 spectators gathered on the soggy desert tarmac; they left disappointed when Edwards was ruled out.
Columbia flew over San Antonio, Texas, and just north of Houston and New Orleans on the way to Kennedy. The shuttle crossed the Gulf of Mexico and then passed over central Florida just north of Tampa.

"Everybody ought to have a pretty good show then," Richards said before firing the twin braking rockets.
It was the first time that Columbia, NASA's oldest shuttle, landed at Kennedy. But it was the 10th time in 48 shuttle flights that a mission ended at the spaceport where it began.
The shuttle's five-man, two-woman crew has been in orbit since June 25.

"I'm going over a lot of old memos to see what I want to take with me." At the time he was reached at his home he said.
"Right now I'm in the process of trying to determine which of my saddles I'll take with me to Texas, and that's the only major decision I feel like making at the present time."
Lauderdale would not comment on whether he is considering legal action against the city. "That's the one thing my attorney said I can't discuss," he said. "but I'll be happy to discuss rodeo life or horses at any time."

Litton would not comment on whether or not Belfiore would be seeking the double role of Lake Mary Public Safety Director and Police Chief held by Lauderdale. Belfiore was unavailable for comment. He traveled to Fort Lauderdale yesterday to bring back a former Highway Patrol vehicle which will be converted to a new Lake Mary police vehicles.

why," Vickie Murphy reminded him.
"The Camaro has bald tires. It was harder for us to drive, that's why the girls won," Jason Royal said.
"We drove it, too. And we had to drive the Grocery Getter," Dillman said of the station wagon, a little bigger than the other three cars used in the class.
The girls, gloating victoriously, weren't satisfied with keeping the test results confined to the classroom. The deal struck before the contest specified that the losers would have to publicly attest that the winners had superior driving skills.
The girls hand lettered signs, pinning them to the boys' lapels, proclaiming "I admit women drivers are better than boys."
"We wear 'em proud," Omar Bermudez said.
"Except some of them wadded their signs up," Dillman said.
And Merlino, grinning sheepishly, sported a placard draped over his shoulders this past week. Later today, he can finally take it off. One side is emblazoned with "Women are the Better Drivers Than Men." Spin him around, and on the front it reads, "I Know That Women Are Better Drivers Than Men."

He said he didn't mind wearing the large cardboard sign all week. The contest was his way to enliven summer school.
"I've been doing this for 17 years. I'm always looking for a way to spice up education by trying to eliminate the old, dull summer school idea," he explained.
It worked. Students such as Chris Buchanan made up two sick days with 10 hours of extra class time.
"I wanted to stay after school," he said.

"Yeah, his mom wouldn't let him come home," Derrick Prevatt teased.
All Merlino's students passed his class. They have been issued a waiver that entitles them to apply for a Florida driver's license.
And just who does Merlino think are the better drivers, females or males?
"Statistics show males get more speeding tickets, but females have more of a tendency to run into things," he hedged.
And?
He turned 360 degrees, the sign he wore answering for him.

In a special meeting at 1:30 p.m. today, Seminole County commissioners will consider increasing the number of voting precincts from 101, created only eight months ago, to 133 to accommodate new congressional and legislative districts created this year. Goard is working on a tight schedule to get the precincts approved before next Friday at noon when candidate qualifying ends.

"Because of what was, in my opinion, the injustice they have done to Seminole County, it looks like we will have to increase the number of precincts from 101 to 133," said elections supervisor Sandra Goard. "We wanted to have an average of 1,700 people, certainly no less than 400, but we may have one precinct that has nobody in it."
Goard said she will try to avoid establishing polling places in the tiny precincts. She said where possible, the residents in the new precincts would vote in their former polling places with voters from other precincts.

Here's a sampling of some of Goard's proposed precincts:
● 119 - a sliver of land south of West 25th Street between Lake Mary Road and the CSX railroad lines. Census figures show no residents in the area, although the single home there may be occupied now.
● 122 - two blocks flanking Frog Alley Street south of Midway with 63 residents as of the 1980 Census.
● 117 - one block southwest of Lake Mary Elementary with a Census count of 34 residents.

If approved by commissioners, the Public Safety budget will include $404,000 to hire 12 firefighters. The firefighters would be used to add a third person to four fire engines throughout the county. It takes three firefighters to increase staffing on each engine by one because the county has three eight-hour shifts in a 24-hour day.
Public Safety Director Gary Kaiser sought to perform the crew buildup during a two-year period beginning in 1980, but commissioners balked at the $1 million initial pricetag and decided to phase the crew buildup over three years.
The county had three-man engine crews until the late 1970s, when one man was removed from each engine to staff a second engine in busy fire stations. As a result of the decision, the reaction time of county engine crews increased by more than 86 percent, according to department surveys.

The reaction time is period between the time the crew arrives on the scene and the time when they begin fighting a fire or saving a life.
The first 12 firefighters hired under the buildup were assigned to engines based in Forest City, Fern Park, Red Bug Lake Road and Five Points, said Assistant Chief William Kinley. The second group of 12 firefighters have not been hired nor have the positions been assigned, Kinley said. No decision has been made on where to assign the last group of firefighters, he said.

Because the second group has not been hired, the hiring of the final group will be delayed until next January, under Rabun's proposal.
In addition to the larger engine crews, several equipment and construction projects are included in the Public Safety package. Proposed is $138,000 to buy a rescue squad vehicle for the Midway fire station on East State Road 46. The crew will be hired next year, if the vehicle is approved.
Another $100,000 would be spent to build a fire station bay for an aerial tower engine in the Markham Woods Road or Paola fire station. Heathrow developers agreed to pay the $300,000 cost for the aerial truck.

CONVENTION '92: The Democrats

Clinton picks Gore for VP

By KAREN BALL
Associated Press Writer

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. — Bill Clinton offered the Democratic vice presidential nomination to Sen. Albert Gore Jr. early today and the Tennessee senator accepted, a senior Clinton aide said today.

Gore will fly to Little Rock for a noon announcement, the aide said.

Clinton settled on Gore as his running mate during a late night session with aides at the governor's mansion in Little Rock, said a source close to the process.

Clinton's choice of the Tennessee senator gives the Democrats an all-Southern youthful ticket in the three-way race against President Bush and independent Ross Perot. The announcement will end a suspenseful weeks-long head hunt that put a bevy of the party's rising stars on Clinton's short list.

Gore, 44, is known in the Senate for his work on the environment and arms control. An unsuccessful candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination in 1988, Gore opted against making another run this year. He said he wanted to spend more time with his family.

Four years ago, when his name figured in speculation about a vice presidential nomination, Gore called the job a "political dead end."

Among those present was Warren Christopher, the head of Clinton's search committee, who met earlier Wednesday with Gore in Tennessee to make sure he would accept the offer, according to two sources familiar with the process who spoke on condition of anonymity.

Clinton then placed a phone call to Tennessee, and Gore accepted the vice presidential slot, said the senior Clinton source.

Besides Gore, Clinton's short list of potential vice presidential candidates had included Bob Kerrey of Nebraska, Bob Graham of Florida, Harris Wofford of Pennsylvania and Jay Rockefeller of West Virginia, as well as Indiana Rep. Lee Hamilton. One by one, the also-rans weighed in with their support for the Clinton-Gore ticket.

Gore gives the ticket a generational appeal, senior advisers said, and should help in Southern and border states that traditionally are Republican strongholds but that they believe will be competitive because of the likely independent Perot candidacy.

Gore was with his family in Carthage, Tenn., on Wednesday. He refused to talk to reporters about the search for a Democratic vice presidential candidate.

One senior Clinton aide said that the Arkansas governor was impressed — and a bit surprised — at the immediate rapport he felt with Gore during their first meeting, held weeks ago.

"I don't think he thought this one would feel right, but he kept going back to Gore, saying, 'He's so smart. I feel so comfortable talking to him,'" the aide said.

Clinton's advisers were initially concerned about picking Gore because it was "breaking the mold, age-wise, region wise," the aide said. But in the end, Clinton decided to forego those worries because he wanted "someone he felt he could have as a partner, to campaign with, to work with," the aide said.

Gore was elected to the House in 1976 and to the Senate in 1984, following the political path of his father.

In the last few years, Gore has staked out a position as a leading Democrat on the environment. Author of a recent book on global warming called "Earth in the Balance," Gore led the critic's charge against President Bush at the Earth Summit.

He also broke with the party leadership in January 1991 and voted to authorize the use of military force against Saddam Hussein.

His wife, Tipper, successfully campaigned to get record companies to label off-color lyrics of some hard rock songs, which she deemed too sexy for some young ears. The couple has four children.

As of this morning, Clinton had yet to notify some of the also-rans. On NBC, Hamilton said he hadn't talked to the Clinton campaign but he called Gore "a marvelous choice. ... I think it will be a very strong ticket and I will support it enthusiastically."

Graham wasn't picked but he's a winner still

By GUY ANDERSON
Associated Press Writer

TALLAHASSEE — Even though Florida Sen Bob Graham is not the vice-presidential pick to share the ticket with presidential candidate Bill Clinton, Florida Democrats say Graham is getting a lot of mileage out of the publicity.

"Graham is smart enough to maximize the exposure of this mating dance," said Dick Batchelor, a former state legislator who is a Clinton delegate to the Democratic National Convention.

"It gives him nice publicity and it moves him several notches toward the head of the line in the national Democratic Party," he said.

As Clinton pondered his choice, Florida Democrats hustled Wednesday to find a replacement U.S. Senate candidate if necessary.

"It's a calculation that's going on in a lot of people's heads right now," said Lt. Gov. Buddy MacKay. Clinton and Graham would make a good political fit because of the importance of Florida — the fourth-largest state that overwhelmingly went to President Bush in 1988. Graham met Tuesday with Clinton to discuss the vice presidential role.

Graham, during a visit to the West Palm Beach area, said Wednesday any comment about the vice presidential search would have to come from Clinton.

"My intention today ... is to run for re-election to the United States Senate," Graham said.

Education Commissioner Betty Castor was named by MacKay and other Democrats as perhaps the best choice to run for Graham's seat.

Other possibilities include Attorney General Bob Butterworth, former congressman and unsuccessful 1990 Democratic gubernatorial candidate Bill Nelson, U.S. Rep. Harry Johnston of West Palm Beach, Orlando Mayor Bill Frederick and Tampa Mayor Sandy Freedman.

married strong-willed women who have carved out separate careers.

Tipper Gore has successfully campaigned to get record companies to label off-color lyrics of some hard rock songs, which she deemed too sexy for young ears. Hillary Clinton is an outspoken attorney.

Gore's mother, the former Pauline LaFon, was one of Tennessee's first woman lawyers. She gave up her practice to back her husband and raise her son — a Harvard graduate who attended the Vanderbilt University School of Religion in Nashville before serving in the Army in Vietnam.

Pauline Gore was always at her husband's side during campaigns for Congress from Tennessee's 6th District and later for the U.S. Senate. Tipper Gore, with the couple's four children, has carried on the family tradition.

Gore Sr., who sponsored the bill that led to the nation's interstate highway system, was active in international affairs as a member of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee. His son's international interests deal with the environment, reflecting his membership on the Commerce, Science and Transportation Committee.

Gore Jr. attended the 1989 international conference on the environment in London, and wrote the World Environment Policy Act that called for a ban on chlorofluorocarbons, blamed for depleting the ozone layer of the Earth's atmosphere.

He is author of "The Earth in the Balance," and led a Senate delegation to the recent world environmental conference in Rio de Janeiro. He also has worked on landmark legislation concerning organ transplants and telecommunications.

Gore worked as an investigative reporter for The (Nashville) Tennessean after leaving the Army. He represented Tennessee's 6th District in the House of Representatives for eight years. In 1984, he won a Senate seat after former Senate Republican Leader Howard Baker made a surprise decision not to seek for re-election.

Two years into that first term in the Senate, Gore surprised even his father by announcing for president.

Then he surprised Tennessee colleagues in Congress by announcing he would not run.

Another perfect season Hammer Time is fourth team to complete 10-0 season

From Staff Reports

SANFORD — And Hammer Time makes four. That's the number of teams that have finished undefeated seasons in Sanford Recreation Department Spring Softball League play. Hammer Time did their part to remain perfect as they "hammered" Hall's Stucco 17-5 in five innings to complete play in the Sanford Recreation Department Men's Wednesday Night Spring C League at Chase Park.

The game between Hammer Time and Hall's Stucco was the only one of the three scheduled games to be played, as The Wrecking Crew received a 7-0 gift from Hancock Hardware and Royal Oak Pub got the same from Touchdown Pub.

Hammer Time	200	20 - 17	14
Hall's Stucco	201	01 - 5	9

Hammer Time ends with a 10-0 record, claiming a full five-game advantage over The Wrecking Crew and Touchdown Pub, which both finish 5-5. Rounding out the standings are Hancock Hardware and Hall's Stucco (both 4-6) and Royal Oak Pub (2-8).

Hammer Time took advantage of two big errors by Hall's Stucco to take a 2-0 lead in the top of the first inning. Scott Williams had the only RBI with a sacrifice fly to left.

Hall's Stucco came back in the bottom of the opening frame to score three runs on Jimmy Hall's three-run, home run and looked like they were going to make a game of it.

But the championship went right back to work in the top of the first inning, using a walk and an error to key a nine-run inning. Eight of the runs came after two were out, with Keith Acree's triple and a two-run homer by Mike Edwards being the big hits.

Hall's scored a single run in the third to cut the deficit to 11-4, but the winner answered with two in the fourth and four in the fifth to put the game away by the mercy rule.

Contributing to a 16-hit Hammer Time offense were Edwards (one home run, two singles, three runs scored, three RBIs), Acree (one triple, one single, three runs scored, one RBI), Williams (one double, one single, one sacrifice fly, two runs scored, two RBIs), Arthur Barnes (two singles, one walk, one run scored, two RBIs) and David Jones

Knights of Columbus treat team

By DEAN SMITH
 Herald Sports Writer

ORLANDO — The Sanford Knights of Columbus club treated the team that won the Babe Ruth City Championship for the second straight year to a trip to Orlando's Tinker Field for a Southern League baseball game between the SunRays and the visiting Jacksonville Suns Wednesday night.

The Knights of Columbus Cardinals, under head coach Otis Raines and assistants Robert Smith and Kenny Daniels, compiled a 14-1 record and won their second straight Babe Ruth City Championship last month with a 2-0 sweep of the Rotary Club Royals.

According to club representative Frank Joyce, the Knights wanted to honor the 13-15 year-olds for representing their group so well and felt this would be a fun way of showing their gratitude.

While at the game, the Cardinals enjoyed an exciting game that was won by Oviedo's Mark Merchant's home run and were recognized by the public address announcer and also on the message board below the scoreboard for being an honored guest of the SunRays.

Altamonte gets edge on Oviedo

By BILL KERRIS
 Herald Correspondent

DELAND — Suddenly, the hairy bohemoth vanished and turned into a looming specter.

The Altamonte American All-Star Seniors topped their old nemesis, the Oviedo Americans, 9-4 Wednesday night at DeLand to advance within two wins of next Friday's District 14 championship game.

Oviedo has a tradition of beating Altamonte. Six of Oviedo's players have been on teams that eliminated Altamonte each of the last three years en route to state and national championship play. The Seniors did so in last year's District tournament as well, climaxed by an eight-inning championship game.

And while Altamonte did beat Oviedo this time, they may still face Oviedo in the championship game.

"That was very emotional," said Altamonte head coach Dan Antonelli. "Winning tonight is as satisfying as winning the tournament. Their team has always taken me out of District play. I still think they're the team to beat, unless there's another team out there I haven't heard of."

Altamonte turned the emotionally charged contest between their arch rivals into a blowout with a six-run, sixth-inning that broke a 3-3 tie. Brian Shoemaker and Shawn Newberry lead off with doubles, and Ricky Engleburg's two run single also highlighted the inning. Joey Sufaltia had an RBI single as well.

Oviedo got on the board first when Anthony King scored on a pair of errors in the top of the second.

Altamonte rebounded in its second with two runs, as Jerrod Roust tripled while Newberry and Carey Hobbes singled. The tenacious evolved into tempers when Hobbes was called out trying to steal home and an argument ensued.

"We thought (Oviedo pitcher Mike) Metcalf balked," said Altamonte assistant coach Gary Weisen. "That's why we ran the play — to make him balk. It could have been a big turning point."

Oviedo took the lead in the third inning with two runs of its own, as Mike Duncan singled, Brian King tripled, and Brian Coffey scored King with a sacrifice fly. Altamonte tied the score in the fourth inning when Newberry singled and raced home on Timmy Frazier's sacrifice squeeze bunt.

The leading Altamonte hitters were Newberry (3-for-3, one double, two runs scored, one RBI), Sufaltia (3-for-4, one RBI), Frazier (2-for-2, three RBI, two runs scored), Hobbes (1-for-3, one RBI, one run scored), Roust (1-for-3, one triple, two runs scored, one RBI), Engleburg (1-for-2, two RBI, one run scored), and Shoemaker (1-for-3, one double, one run scored).

Contributing for Oviedo were Brian King (2-for-4, one triple, two runs scored, one RBI), Duncan (2-for-4, one run), Coffey (2-for-3, one triple, one RBI), Anthony King (1-for-3, one run scored), and Jason Fore (1-for-2).

Metcalf and Robby Gaffert of Altamonte engaged in a pitching duel during the first five innings, with Metcalf taking the loss despite a strong effort.

"I can't imagine facing a better pitcher than Metcalf," said Antonelli. "He pitched a great game. I also can't see seeing a tougher team than Oviedo. The only problem is, we'll probably face Oviedo next Friday."

Roust picked up the win after relieving a tired Gaffert with no outs and one runner on base in the sixth inning and stopping any potential rally. He gave up one run in the seventh inning when Coffey's triple followed singles by Anthony King and Duncan.

"When we started tournament play, I told our guys that I thought we had a good team," said Antonelli. "This lets me know that we're even better than I that we were. Oviedo has a great team. It's probably the best program in our District. This was a really satisfying win."

Altamonte will host the winner of Wednesday night's South Daytona-Eustis game Friday at 6:30 p.m.

Merchant homers to beat Rays

Associated Press

ORLANDO — Oviedo's Mark Merchant went 3-for-4 and had a two-run homer in the seventh inning to lead the Jacksonville Suns to an 8-5 Southern League victory over the Orlando SunRays at Tinker Field Wednesday night.

Merchant, serving as the designated hitter, walked in the first inning and grounded out in the fourth, before lining a double over the left fielder's head in the sixth.

The switch-hitting ex-Lion was batting right-handed for the first time in the seventh and fell behind no balls and two strikes before nailing a 2-2 offering into the screen over the 340-foot mark in left field. Merchant finished his evening with a single in the ninth.

Orr wins fifth Late Model feature after strange race

Special to the Herald

ORLANDO — Pete Orr won his fifth FASCAR (Florida Association of Stock Car Automobile Racing) sanctioned Late Model feature of the season, last Friday night (July 3) at Orlando SpeedWorld in a bizarre race in which anyone was lucky to finish.

Mack Hanbury led lap one from the pole only to be passed by Longwood's Ronnie Burkett, who had Daniel Keene and Orr in tow.

Hanbury tangled with Scott Reeves on lap eight for the first caution, while a lap 10 crash eliminated the cars of Reeves, Rick Lokey and Fred Castanza.

Burkett continued to lead as Orr passed a fading Keene, who pitted on lap 27.

But on lap 30 Burkett's excellent run ended, however, as

Rogers cruises to victory in 100-lap Championship

Special to the Herald

SAMSULA — Orlando's David Rogers, driving the TM/Ranch sponsored Pontiac Firebird, had the horses to handily win the 100-lap Super Late Model Championship Saturday night (July 4) at New Smyrna Speedway.

Rogers, who set the evening's second fastest qualifying time, started the race from the outside pole when the top six qualifiers had their positions inverted.

Rogers outdueled fellow pole sitter Ronnie Burkett, from Longwood, for the point. Once in command, Rogers went on to lead every circuit in securing his fifth win of the season.

"Tonight is the fastest my car has worked since we have come back to this track," said Rogers, who is the NASCAR/Sunbelt Division defending national champion. "Everything was just perfect. I was able to drive a good, steady race without abusing Jacksonville (the double A farm team of the Mariners) got on the scoreboard first in the top of the first inning when Jim Howie drove in two runs with a single.

Orlando (the Minnesota Twins' double-A team) came back in the second with three runs on two doubles, a single and a walk.

The score was tied when the Sun's Ronald Pezzoni scored on a fielder's choice in the fourth inning. But the SunRays went back ahead in the same inning on a run-scoring single by Rick slower cars Hal Perry and Morgan Hoover collided going into turn one with Perry's mount slamming hard into the wall. Perry's stalled car left Burkett nowhere to go and the local driver rammed into Perry's car, forcing him to the pits.

After repairs, Burkett was able to rejoin the remainder of the field without losing a lap before the restart. But Orr was too strong and cruised to the easy win, despite an overheating problem in the engine. Ronnie Burkett was able to get past his brother Jeff to earn second place, the only three cars that were left on the lead lap at the end.

Eddie Perry was fourth and Kenne fifth, after returning from his earlier problems, although he was four laps down.

Ron McCreary held off a late charge from Michael Williams to snare his seventh Limited Late Model feature victory of the year.

A late race caution allowed Williams to close up on McCreary, but the Vero Beach Driver's Warren-Wooten Ford sponsored Ford Thunderbird would not be denied. Gary Schlichter wound up third, just ahead of John Wills and Sami Grief.

Jon Compagnone Jr. took his second win in the Modifieds, leading all the way over Glen Carter, Gene Barlowe, Donnie Narmore and Wally Patterson.

Osteen's Bobby Sears has now taken a dozen feature wins in the Mini Stock Division for the 1992 season in his Pinto. Fellow Osteen resident, Richard Newton, was second, ahead of Dwayne Gilfus, David Lecklitter

Pregnancy possible when mixing pill and antibiotics

DEAR ABBY: Can you imagine my surprise when I read the letter in your column about the woman who became pregnant when she took antibiotics while she was on the pill? That's exactly what happened to me!

When my twin sons were 3 months old, I went back on the pill. A month later, my physician prescribed an antibiotic for an infection, and you guessed it — I got pregnant immediately. Believe me, Abby, we were not ready emotionally, financially, or any other way to have another child. We were still in a state of confusion and had our hands full with the twins.

When I recovered from the shock, I asked my doctor why the pill didn't work, and he told me it must have been the antibiotic — then he added rather sheepishly, "That information was in the insert, which you should have read."

Well, of course I had not read the insert that came with the antibiotic. I doubt if many people would — unless they had been instructed to do so.

However, today we have a beautiful — and thank God, healthy — baby girl. She was an unwanted pregnancy, but she was definitely a very much wanted child. Now when someone asks me if she was an accident, I reply, "No, she was a beautiful surprise."

Doctors should tell their patients everything they need to know about the medications they're instructed to take, and not just assume that the patients are going to read the inserts that come with it.

DEAR ABBY: The fact that antibiotics nullify the effectiveness of birth control pills must be the best-kept secret in the science of pharmacology. Read on for one of the many letters I received with the identical theme:

DEAR ABBY: Since I do not use birth control pills, I was very much surprised when I was informed that certain antibiotics,

ADVISE

such as tetracycline, may cancel out the effectiveness of the pill.

I also wonder how many of your readers know that certain antibiotics, such as tetracycline, can cause serious birth defects if taken during pregnancy — especially during the first trimester?

Every woman, whether she is trying to get pregnant or not, should know which medications can affect her and a possible fetus.

Abby, please advise women to ask their physicians the following questions: (1) Will the medication you are prescribing for me cause any reaction to the medication I am presently taking? (Be sure to name all of them.)

(2) Will it be dangerous to a fetus if I should get pregnant while taking this medication?

Had I asked these questions, it may have saved the life of my first child. I was in my first month of pregnancy when my physician prescribed tetracycline for a sinus infection.

STILL ASKING QUESTIONS IN MEDFORD, N.Y.

DEAR ASKING: Thank you for sharing some important information. Every physician worth his (or her) shingle will ask his (or her) patient which medications that patient is currently taking.

(Problems? Write to Dear Abby. For a personal, unpublished reply, send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to Dear Abby, P.O. Box 69440, Los Angeles, Calif. 90069. All correspondence is confidential.)

A salt deficiency needs diagnosis

PETER GOTT, M.D.

DEAR DR. GOTT: About six months ago I passed out for the first time. Upon being taken to the hospital, I was found to have low sodium and received IV sodium for the problem. The syncope has occurred twice since. I use salt every day to combat the problem, but it still occurs. What's wrong with me?

DEAR READER: You appear to have developed a major mineral imbalance, notably a state of salt depletion. Despite adequate (or even excess) salt intake, you are deficient.

There are at least two possible causes for this. First, you may have a type of kidney disorder that causes you to excrete abnormally high quantities of salt. This condition is rare but can be checked with a variety of blood and urine tests.

Frankly, I'm more concerned that you may have developed Addison's disease. Marked by salt depletion, low blood pressure and a host of metabolic abnormalities, this adrenal gland deficiency is serious and requires immediate diagnosis and treatment (with cortisone and other steroids). The diagnosis is made by special blood tests.

I'm astounded that your doctor would treat you with added dietary salt without investigating the possibilities I mentioned. Return to the physician for clarification and referral to an endocrinologist, a specialist in glandular disorders.

DEAR DR. GOTT: I'm a 22-year-old with aortic stenosis. My doctor tells me I may need surgery to enlarge the valve opening again -- a procedure I had done when I was 8. How has this medical procedure changed since 1978, and what can I expect in terms of medical costs? What are the risks, medications, average hospital stay and recovery period involved?

DEAR READER: These are questions you should ask your surgeon. Issues of costs and hospital stays vary throughout the country. The procedure, too, may vary, depending on what you need -- a valve repair or valve replacement.

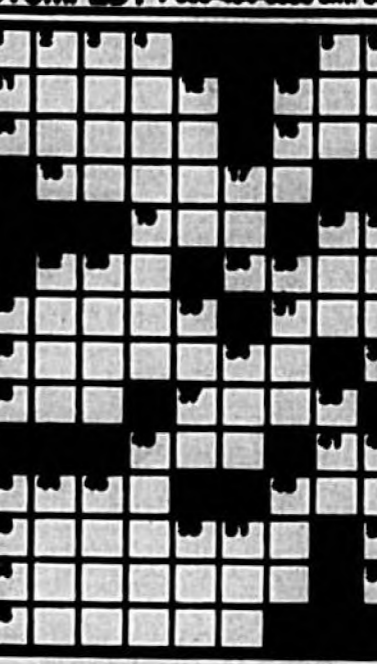

Obviously the risks, medications and recovery period depend on what procedure you

WIN AT BRIDGE

By Phillip Alder

Bridge features several plays in which an apparently certain winner disappears. Perhaps declarer executes a squeeze or an endplay. There is a third possibility in today's deal.

Bidding is more scientific than it used to be, but it still isn't an exact science. If it were, North-South would have reached either six clubs or six hearts, easy contracts to make. But, understandably, North opted for the known eight-card spade fit, raising to three spades. Then South cue-bid his diamond ace, and North used Roman Key Card Blackwood, learning that South had three aces, or two aces and the spade king.

West led the diamond king. After winning with the ace, South realized he had to discard a diamond loser from either the dummy or his hand before he could afford to lead trumps. He started with three rounds of hearts. West had to ruff the last of these low. (If he had ruffed with the spade ace, dummy's diamond would have been discarded.)

Dummy overruffed: three rounds of clubs followed. East ruffed low and South overruffed. The process was repeated two more times. West ruffing a heart winner and dummy overruffing, then East ruffing a club winner and South overruffing. Now, however, only the spade ace remained at large, so dummy's diamond loser was thrown on the fifth heart and the slam was made.

What an agony for the defenders -- two "certain" tricks reduced to one. No wonder the French call this play Le Coup de l'Agonie.

By Bernice Bode Oost
YOUR BIRTHDAY
July 10, 1992

The time could be ripe in the year ahead to make an important change you've been contemplating. Conditions may not be completely optimum, but you'll know how to make the best of things.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) If you truly take pride in what you're attempting to accomplish, tasks will be less arduous today. But if you're indifferent toward your work, results will reflect it. Get a jump on life by understanding the influences governing you in the year ahead. Send for Cancer's Astro-Graph predictions today by mailing $1.25 plus a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Astro-Graph, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, OH 44101-3428. LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) You'll derive your most pleasure today from involvements that have elements of friendly competition. The secret is not to take winning or losing too seriously.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) This is a good day to take time to tidy up situations that require a finishing touch. You're a strong closer today, so trade on this asset.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) The more you have to handle, the better you're likely to perform today. Don't be reticent about trying to juggle several assignments simultaneously. You're up to the challenge.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Conditions in general look rather favorable for you today, but you're likely to do best in situations where you're dealing with tangibles. Make that your focal point.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Try to free yourself today from encumbrances and individuals who aren't able to maintain your pace. You'll function best operating independently.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) If today's pressures become too demanding, go off by yourself to sort things out. Solitude stimulates solutions.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19)

Conditions are favorable today for launching new projects. If you're at the "go" point, make your move now; you should be able to translate ideas into action.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) You should do well today handling challenges or competitive developments. Don't sidestep your objectives just because there are a few boulders on the road.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) By trying to play everything free and easy today, you'll find you can effectively cope with any type of teasy development.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Pay particular attention to situations today that could provide some type of second income for you. If you're alert, you have a good chance at uncovering something advantageous.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Strive to keep everything in proper balance in each area of your life today. Allow adequate time for responsible interests, but also allot some hours for fun.
