

Pinder Hurls 15-Innings As Lookouts Lose to Reds 10 to 8

Holland Stars With Home Run And Pair Of Doubles

DeLand Crew Scores Needed Margin In 15th; Contest Starts Monday Evening And Ends Tuesday Morning

Joseph P. Pinder, who had his heart set on winning a game of baseball last night, hurled for 15 innings but he and his mates went down to a 10 to 8 defeat at the hands of the DeLand Reds who pushed across a pair of runs in the 15th inning of the contest which started at 8:15 o'clock yesterday evening and ended at 12:16 o'clock this morning.

Pinder, who had been characterized as Sanford's greatest 11th inning pitcher, proved that all rumors were on the contrary as he hurled the entire route and had as much on the ball when the tilt ended as he did when it started. Pinder was hurt by poor support during the entire portion of the contest but he did his share by fanning a total of 14 men while walking a total of eight.

Hal Wolfberger started on the hill for the Reds but was knocked out after seven and one-third innings and was replaced by Eddie Harper who went on to get credit for the victory.

The Lookouts pounded out 12 hits during the evening and Freddie Holland pooled one over the left field wall in the third frame with two men on. He secured two more doubles, Eddie Davis came through with a double and a triple.

The Reds started the scoring in the first inning when errors by Musso and Gentry paved the way for a single by Jackson and a double by Schmidt to score three runs.

In their half of the third they collected two more when Jackson singled and scored on Gentry's second miscue. Parrett doubled in center field to score Schmidt.

The Lookouts went to war in their half of the third when with one out, Gentry singled to short, Brown walked and Davis walked filling the bases. Hudson singled to short left field to score Gentry and Brown. Freddie Holland then pounded the ball over the left field wall for a circuit smash with Davis and Hudson on the bags.

The Reds secured another in the fourth when Kubanks was safe on a fielder's choice, stole second and scored on Jackson's single to center field. In the fifth they got two more when Rutledge was hit by a pitched ball and took third on a single left by Schmidt. Parrett fanned and Wolfberger was safe. Rutledge was forced out at the plate. Newell worked Pinder for a walk and Kubanks single scored Schmidt and Wolfberger.

The Lookouts scored in the seventh when Davis tripled to right field and scored on a double by Holland. In the eighth the Lookouts tied the score when Langston, pinch hitting, drew a base on balls. Ruggerio went out Shimer to Jones. Brown singled to right field sending Atwater, who was running for Langston, to second base. Davis went out Shimer to Jones to advance both men and Hudson singled to center to score Atwater and Brown to knot the count.

Play was scoreless until the fatal 15th frame when the Reds scored twice. Rutledge singled to right. Schmidt was safe on an error by Joe Ruggerio, pinning the runners on third and second. Harper hit a bounding grounder down to Ruggerio who threw wide at first pulling Davis off the bag to allow Rutledge to score. Newell singled to left to score Schmidt for the Reds 10th tally.

Locals To Play Orlando Tonight In League Clash

Atwater And Hal Conn Are Likely To Take Over Mound Duties

The Lookouts who are down but far from being out, will travel to Orlando tonight for a contest with the Orlando Senators to be played at 8:15 o'clock under the lights at Tinker Field.

Neither Manager Hal Conn of the Senators nor Manager Rodgers have named their starting hurler but it is expected that Manager Conn himself may see action while Charlie Atwater will probably start for the locals.

Chapter Seven
A LOSING BATTLE

The Sartoris home blazed with candlelight and rang out with music and gaiety. Georges was giving a dinner party to the Commission appointed to transact the business of the county in the Southwest. He might have been one of them, he mused grimly, if he hadn't been for Froufrou. That Georges felt bitterness toward the man who had taken Froufrou as the stood before her long mirror, radiant and beautiful, she would be coming home soon and take her home.

"You won't let him have her," Georges laughed. "We need her, don't we?"

"But if I take charge of things," he offered thoughtfully. "George said he'd go. Don't get ambitious. Leave well enough alone. Goodnight." He started to get up but she restrained him, with her hand upon his arm.

"You're wrong, Louis," he said shortly. "I wasn't worthy of the honor. The Commission wouldn't be going without me."

Froufrou, he had on her heart, had eyes filling with tears, and blindly up the stairs. He had pondered, she had made Georges besides the Commission appointed to transact the business of the county in the Southwest. He might have been one of them, he mused grimly, if

THE TOY WIFE

RESUME
Georges and Louise married some time ago. Louise was a French girl, and her education was in the old French school. She was called Froufrou, and she was a very beautiful girl. She was a very good girl, and she was a very kind girl. She was a very sweet girl, and she was a very loving girl. She was a very beautiful girl, and she was a very kind girl. She was a very sweet girl, and she was a very loving girl.

"You shouldn't be staring at me," she said in a low voice. "The door doesn't even answer when you speak to me."
"These great men are too busy to notice us," he begged desperately.
"Go away," she begged desperately.

"Where?"
"Anywhere," her voice broke. "Far."
"If you know how much I love you," he whispered.

"I do know. Oh I know—that's the trouble, she's the danger!"
"Danger?" he cried. "Does that mean there's a chance of your earning for me?"
"How can I tell? I'm a woman who must be loved. That's all I know. That's why I beg you to go away."

"I'd go," he answered, "though I killed me—if I believed you were happy, but you're not. I've seen that lately."
"You have noticed that, then?" she appealed.

"Yes. Hasn't your husband wondered why?"
"She shook her head sadly. 'He hasn't noticed.' She sighed wearily. 'Well—I've said what I had to say. Now we must go back to the others. But don't try to talk to me any more tonight. Your face tells too much.' She turned and led the way back up the stairs, onto the balcony and into the house."

Late that night, alone and unhappy in her room, she waited for Georges. He came in, lit a cigarette, looked at her, and then he turned away. He might have been one of them, he mused grimly, if he hadn't been for Froufrou.

The relentless flood waters that neither guns nor troops could stop poured from the great Yellow River today to put both defenders and invaders to flight on China's war front, while in India a cholera epidemic claimed thousands of lives.

Japanese military authorities estimated 200,000 Chinese had been made homeless and 150,000 drowned by the flood in Honan province, although some quarters considered the figures too high.

Burke Denies He Intends To Seek 1939 Speakership

TALLAHASSEE, June 15. — (AP)—Rep. John S. Burke of Pasco county renounced himself from discussions about selecting a speaker for the 1939 Florida House of Representatives.

"I have not been and I am not now a candidate for the place," Burke said. He did not say he would decline the nomination if the members chose him without a campaign on his part.

Burke will be host to the 1939 legislators when they meet at a Pasco county resort (Moon Lake Gardens) July 23 to continue their discussions about selecting a House speaker.

A meeting held the first of this month at Jacksonville was adjourned without a choice when members could not agree.

Speaker W. Mel. Christie of the 1937 House called the Jacksonville meeting. He said he believed the next House would do well to agree upon a speaker now so he could proceed with organization matters to the end that legislation will not be delayed when the session begins next April.

Speakership candidates who have definitely announced themselves are Noah R. Butt of Bradford county, Talley Collins of Leon county, P. Bamberg Harrell of Hamilton county, Raymond Shelton of Hillsborough county, and Robert F. Sikes of Oklawaha county.

Judge Atkinson Hears Testimony In McCall Trial

"Skeegie's" Parents Furnish Pathos In Trial Without Jury

MIAMI, June 15. — (AP)—Parents of James Bailey Cash, Jr., numbly shaking their heads, identified their little boy's pajamas from a witness stand today as Franklin Pierce McCall went on trial for the capital crime of abducting him.

Federal agents furnished the principal testimony as Circuit Judge H. E. Atkinson, without a jury, listened to the evidence preliminary to imposing a sentence for the crime to which the 21-year-old son of a minister pleaded guilty.

But the father and mother, unable to speak when State Attorney G. A. Worley unwrapped the pajamas from a newspaper, furnished the pathos that held the packed courtroom in utter silence.

Senior Cash and his wife told how the five-year-old "Skeegie" was put to bed the night of May 28 and that they never had seen him again.

"Can you identify these pajamas as the ones worn by your boy when you put him to bed?" Worley asked the mother.

She lowered her head, nodded affirmatively and at length managed to say "yes." On the verge of tears, she was taken from the courtroom by a guard.

Senator O'Mahoney (D-Wyo.) resumed his taking inattention on the $375,000,000 flood control measure today. His determination that of some of his colleagues to force changes in the measure threatened to delay Congressional adjournment beyond tonight.

The bill would require persons and firms holding government contracts to abide by the Wagner Labor Act and by federal wage and hour standards or be blacklisted.

Auto Tags Go On Sale At Half Price Today

Motorists in Seminole county who have not yet purchased their 1938 auto license tags may secure the plates at half price beginning today, according to County Tax Collector Jim H. Jenkins, in whose office the tags are sold.

The change of the date from July 1 followed a recent order from Governor Cone. No half year licenses will be sold for less than $5.25 except for a light trailer tag which may be purchased for $2.75.

Rainfall During Month Of May Is Reported Normal

The water level in Lake Mead and the St. Johns River was 12 inches following the heavy rains in May but during the past few days, the fall of three inches has been recorded, according to Archie Smith at the Sanford Hydro Works. The present water level is still approximately three feet below normal.
Even though the drought has been broken, crops of 1938 in June 1 were for an ultimately smaller crop than was indicated by the heavy bloom. However, reports are that the coming of rain has improved the condition of the tree and has largely checked the dropping of fruit. Some expect the June bloom now coming on to partially offset the losses from the drought.
The harvesting of commercial truck crops in this section and over the state is nearly over with the exception of watermelons but during the Spring months heavy losses were inflicted upon the farmers in that yields were reduced.

Steargal Takes Lead In Alabama Primary

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., June 15.—(AP)—Rep. Henry H. Steargal, chairman of the House Committee on Banking and Currency, was returned today to Congress from Alabama's Third District, which he has represented for 21 years.
Steargal ran ahead of J. Herbert Farmer of Dothan in every county in the district except Houston. Farmer's home, on a complete financial ruin.
A tabulation of votes from 183 of the district's 229 boxes gave Steargal 12,672.
Farmer 8438.
Early returns in the only statewide race in yesterday's "runoff" primary revealed a neck-and-neck contest for a place on Alabama's public service commission.
Returns from 779 of the State's 2274 boxes gave:
W. Clint Harrison, incumbent, 36,790.
Arthur Heustess, Montgomery, 34,518.
The Democratic nomination is equivalent to election in Alabama.

TOUCHTON DRUG CO. MODERNIZES WITH NEW STREAMLINE SODA FOUNTAIN

Touchton's well known local store is fast completing a comprehensive modernizing program sparing neither effort nor expense in making this pharmacy the most up-to-date in this section of the state.
In line with their policy of many years standing, Dr. West states that they will continue to make their store a place where everybody will like to meet everybody and where the social atmosphere will be in keeping with the best of service and the finest refreshment. That's why Touchton's has purchased a new streamline soda fountain. This fountain was manufactured by the Liquid Carbonic Corporation, builders of soda fountains for over forty years, and will be installed in Touchton's store shortly.
The new soda fountain is one of the very latest models and reflects the trend of the times. Only the most modern materials are used in its construction and the finest engineering skill was employed in its planning.
Dr. West says that the fountain is built of a new material called Plymet which is lighter and stronger than steel. All exterior surfaces are of highly polished stainless steel, which is absolutely impervious to stains from fruit acids or syrups used at the fountain. The "Liquid Lifeline" fountain is narrower than any other soda fountain yet produced. It is only 30 1/2" wide which makes it much easier for the dispenser to serve customers.

Orlando Rallies In Eighth Frame to Down Lookouts 6-4

Holland Gets Three Hits To Again Lead Lookouts

Charles Atwater Nicked For Nine Hits; Locals Collect Same Number Off Harold Conn Of Senators

TINKER FIELD, Orlando, June 15.—The Orlando Senators claimed another win over the Lookouts as they came from behind in a late inning rally to down the Bill "Raw Meat" Rodgers outfit by a score of 6 to 4. Rodgers sent Charlie Atwater to the hill for the local delegation and the righthander was nipped for nine hits by the Senators while the Lookouts collected the same number off Harold Conn, Orlando skipper, who won the entire route for his aggregation.

Freddie Holland, catcher and outfielder, set the pace at the plate again last night when he lined out three hits in four trips to the plate. The Senators scored first in the second stanza when Whitey Walker, new Lookout shortstop, misused Pete Senora's ground ball. Woody Davis singled to left and Spider Favre singled to short center to produce the lone run.

In the third, the Lookouts came back to record a pair of markers when Win Brown, Mayo Langston and Joe Ruggiero recorded singles and scored on an intentional pass and an error by Bob Keller.

The Senators forced ahead in their portion of the fourth inning when catchers' interference, a sacrifice by Davis and one base hit by Overstreet, Conn and Hershberger produced two more runs.

In the sixth inning, the Lookouts regained the lead when they tallied twice more. They blended a walk, singles by Eddie Davis and Fred Holland, and an error by Woody Davis.

The late inning rally Orlando started in the eighth inning. Pete Schiro dumped one to Atwater who misused the ball. Woody Davis sacrificed him to second base, Overstreet singled to send Schiro to third and scored when Manager Conn called for the old squeeze play. Favre laid down a roller in front of the plate allowing Schiro to cross the pan.

Favre was safe on first on Atwater's second error of the inning, and Overstreet went to second. A passed ball by Holland allowed both men to advance and Conn's short bingle over short scored Overstreet. Favre scored on another squeeze play by Hal Hershberger.

State and federal poultry experts told the egg men they should substitute incubators for brooding hens.

THE TOY WIFE

GERTRUDE GELBIN

RESUME
 Gertrude Gelbin, called Froufrou, comes home from school in France with her sister Louise to their father's plantation in pre-Civil War Louisiana. Andre Voltaire, young man-about-town falls madly in love with the demure, virtuous Froufrou, so does George Barrois, serious young lawyer. Louise has loved George since childhood, when she discovers his love for Froufrou she urges her sister to marry him. Froufrou accepts George. Andre goes to France. For five years Froufrou is gay and happy. George returns and despite the fact that her whims and caprices ruin his career, his household and the upbringing of their child. At Froufrou's request he sends for Louise to stimulate mother out in their home. When a short time, Froufrou realizes her sister has changed her mind and is in her husband's confidence. Andre Voltaire returns from France, still deeply in love with her.

Chapter Eight
 Froufrou sat by her window, her hands busy with her embroidery. Andre, in boots and riding cloak, his tall hat under his arm, his gloves in hand, towered over her. "Are you doing that right?" he asked after a brief pause.

"No," she answered with a short laugh, raised her face. "Look at me," he begged. "Their glances met for an instant. Froufrou called him from her chair. "Hush!" she cried. Froufrou advanced towards her and jerked away the keys to her household which Louise had kept suspended on a cord ever since the day Froufrou had given them to her with gay abandon of her duties. "Give your keys to me," Froufrou said with deadly calm. "I trusted you—and you've stolen everything in this house!"

"Gilbert!" pleaded Louise, "someone will hear you."

"Let them!" cried Froufrou. "Why not? Even the servants know what I did! You've stolen my place, my husband, and now my child!"

"It's not true!" wept Louise. "It's not true!"

"No," she answered. "I'm just silly sometimes," she managed a smile. "I'm like that. I'm really glad—"

He stared down at her. "I'll see you one more," he said firmly. "When I come to say goodbye."

In another moment he was gone. She picked up her embroidery and tried to sew; but her tears were faster than the stitches.

With aching heart, Froufrou sought some solution for her problem. The solution offered itself the following week when her father returned from France with Monsieur de la Rochelle who had come to Louise's aid in marriage.

Froufrou was beside herself with hope and excitement. Louise must marry him! That would solve everything. Then Louise would leave this home; Froufrou swore to herself that she would make all the harm her whims had wrought between George and herself. She thought hard. George must convince Louise that the marriage was perfect for her; for she knew Louise would listen to George, and George alone.

Without revealing her true feelings in the matter, she brought up the subject with her husband, eventually insisting, despite his demur, that he speak to Louise. With out her sister was playing with little George. She herself began the talk, venturing throwing the blame of conversation to her husband so that he was forced to speak.

She sat back with cold eyes and watched them as a miserable and beaten dog. In the matter of the matter, she was the one who made the decision. Despite them both, she could marry Monsieur de la Rochelle, she would make a brand new man of him.

Froufrou rose. "When you have said George," she said evenly. "I shall talk to him myself. I shall tell him how much I love you. I shall tell him how much I love you. I shall tell him how much I love you."

"What?" she said when they were alone. "I shall tell him how much I love you. I shall tell him how much I love you. I shall tell him how much I love you."

"What?" she said when they were alone. "I shall tell him how much I love you. I shall tell him how much I love you. I shall tell him how much I love you."

"What?" she said when they were alone. "I shall tell him how much I love you. I shall tell him how much I love you. I shall tell him how much I love you."

McCall Is Sentenced To Die In Chair For Kidnaping Cash Boy

Judge Atkinson Pronounces Sentence; Youth Hears Doom Without Flinching

Governor To Set Execution Date

Defense Attorney Declares Fair Trial Of Case Was Given

MIAMI, June 16.—(AP)—Franklin Pierce McCall, 21, was sentenced today to die for his $10,000 ransom kidnaping of Jimmy Cash.

Delaying the crowded courtroom to keep quiet, Circuit Judge H. F. Atkinson called the minister's son to the bench.

"You plead guilty to the offense as charged of kidnaping and holding James Bailey Cash Jr. for ransom. What have you to say for yourself?" he demanded. McCall merely shook his head.

"Find you guilty as charged in the indictment," the elderly judge continued. "The same being a capital offense under the laws of Florida, and I sentence you to be held until such a time as you shall be delivered to the superintendent of the State prison at Raiford, there to be held safely until a death sentence shall be carried out."

The judge said the Governor would set the date for the execution. He said the Governor would set the date for the execution.

McCall heard his doom with little flinching. His face was impassive and he looked straight ahead. Afterward, under heavy guard he was taken to the electric chair and returned to his cell on the third floor, Jack Kehoe, defense attorney appointed by the court, said he thought McCall had received a fair trial yesterday and there would be no appeal.

He said he had followed McCall's instructions in representing him and that he had conferred with the defendant this morning and McCall declared he was doing more to say.

Prisoners James Bailey Cash Sr., returned word of McCall's sentence today and said the boy's mother was trying to get the whole thing straightened out.

He said he had heard elsewhere that he would be set for the chair on June 27 but gave no further details.

Mayor Of Jersey City Amplifies Opposition To Communism

NEWARK, N. J., June 16.—(AP)—Support of the Democratic party by CIO unions and the American Labor party was repudiated yesterday by Mayor Hague of Jersey City, a vice chairman of the Democratic national committee. Explaining continually in federal court he spoke only for himself, he said he would spurn campaign contributions from both groups because they fell in the class he has labeled "undesirables" and communistic.

Previously he said candidates who sought ALP support should be defeated.

Hague amplified his opposition to the CIO and ALP as he spent a hectic third day on the witness stand defending himself against charges he has suppressed free speech and assemblies in the city.

He said he had heard elsewhere that he would be set for the chair on June 27 but gave no further details.

Congress May Close Shop By Nightfall

Adjournment Blocked By Last Minute Appropriations Put In Deficiency Bill

WASHINGTON, June 16.—(AP)—Congressmen fumed and fretted today over the $10,000,000 barrier that stopped their rush to adjourn. The conference committee struggled to level the obstacle in time for a final windup tonight.

The barrier consisted of a handful of last minute appropriations written into a third deficiency bill, which was passed by the House, carried along with a total of $270,000,000. The Senate added $10,000,000 to that.

Virtually all major legislation was out of the way. The bill to continue low interest rates on certain farm loans was passed over the President's veto by a 57-48 Senate vote. The House previously had overridden the veto.

For a while yesterday it appeared there would be a prolonged Senate filibuster on the question of states' rights, but this argument subsided as quickly as it began.

The Senate row centered upon a provision in the $375,000,000 flood control bill authorizing the federal government to condemn land for flood-control projects, without the consent of the state in which the land is situated. Secondly a clause exculcating the states from contributing to the cost of such projects was also in dispute.

Any question involving states' rights is always an invitation to filibuster on the floor.

Rev. Martin J. Bram Speaks In Leesburg

Speaking at the quarterly meeting of the city-wide brotherhood in Leesburg Tuesday night, the Rev. Martin Bram of the Holy Cross Episcopal Church of this city declared that most people get their religion second hand. They hear what religion has done for others, then hope "with all the enthusiasm of a good gambler," that it will do the same for them.

He said that religion is not a code of ethics—it is not "doing unto others as you would have them do unto you." It was his idea that church unity does not come from seeking it, rather, "only when people because they have common interests."

He urged men to remember their baptismal vows when they come into the church, and to accept the mission of the church as they thought they would give to the world.

Members voted to hold their next meeting at the First Baptist Church.

Citrus Shipments For Season Over 30,000,000 Boxes

Production For Year Sets New Records; Low Prices Prevail

Nearly 30,000,000 boxes of oranges and grapefruit had been shipped from Florida since the beginning of the season in September to June 1, the Citrus Inspection Bureau reported today. Of the total, there were 7,768,848 boxes of grapefruit and 22,231,152 boxes of oranges. In addition, there were shipments of tangerines totaling 1,209,047 boxes.

Grapefruit shipments averaged 28,000 boxes a day, orange shipments 75,000 boxes daily and tangerines 1,500 boxes of tangerines a day.

The 1937-38 orange crop totaled 22,500,000 boxes and the 1937-38 crop exceeds 3,750,000 boxes, the largest production in the history of the industry. A freeze which caused serious damage to California citrus fruit together with generally improved economic conditions resulted in an improvement in prices for the 1937-38 Florida orange despite its large size. With record production of oranges in the 1937-38 season in both California and Florida, prices of Florida oranges have been relatively low during this season.

United States production of grapefruit in the 1937-38 season is estimated to exceed 28,500,000 boxes, of which more than one-third is accredited to Florida. The Texas grapefruit crop for the 1937-38 season is around 11,000,000 boxes, breaking all previous records for that state.

Tangerine production in Florida has increased gradually. From 1935 through the 1937 season the crop has averaged 2,450,000 boxes annually.

A zoning ordinance for the city of Sanford will be sought by the Seminole County Real Estate Board, it was announced at a regular monthly meeting of the board in the Chamber of Commerce building yesterday.

Pointing out the benefits of an ordinance of this kind, chief of the city planning department, the board declared the ordinance necessary before maximum benefits can be secured from the Federal Housing Administration.

Secretary James H. Galt stated that the board planned to appear before the City Commission in a body of the next regular meeting and request the passage of an ordinance of this kind.

Insurgent Airmen Continue Bombing Of Foreign Vessels

BRUSSELS, June 16.—(AP)—Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain today told the British House of Commons that the United States had indicated it was preparing to make default on a loan for world disarmament but in Washington the State Department said nothing had been done beyond a recent speech by Secretary Hull saying the United States was willing to join such a move.

Chinese today said their air force had shot down six Japanese planes attempting to raid Canton.

Germany today denied her responsibility for Austrian state debts, the rampant Yellow River was altering the map of the Chinese-Japanese conflict, while in Spain Generalissimo Franco's offensive forced the "lost" government division to flee into France.

Adolf Hitler's economic minister, Walter Funk, in an address at Bremen, declared Germany was not obligated to acknowledge the debts of pre-nation Austria either from the viewpoint of international law or on an economic or moral grounds. He said, however, Germany was seeking a compromise agreement.

Although this country is not one of the protesting guarantors of the defaulted Austrian bonds, Funk pointed to the United States as "virtually the center of disturbances" in world economies. The direct opposite of Germany is economic stability.

The Yellow River engulfed thousands of acres of central China farmlands. It had taken thousands of lives but enabled Chinese troops to cling to the vital rail junction of Chongchow.

Heavy rains also threatened disaster in the valley of the Yangtze River, which had risen within five feet of flood level. Trapped by one phase of the major insurgent drive in Spain, 2,000 ragged and wounded militiamen of the "lost" 13th division struggled into France from the Pyrenees. They had waged an effective guerrilla warfare on the flank of Franco's Catalanian salient.

Three insurgent armies pressed closer to Valencia on the Mediterranean.

Insurgent air raiders yesterday visited four more foreign ships, including two British vessels, in a terrific onslaught on Valencia harbor and the eastern seaboard where refugees were streaming south.

Five bombing raids on Valencia left three persons known dead and 20 injured.

Insurgent bombs again found a target in the British freighter Thurston leaving the ship in flames at her dock. The Thurston, last bombed June 7, was believed lost.
