Twenty-five candidates had qualified to seek eight county offices when the qualifying deadline was reached at noon Tuesday. Party fights will be on tap for four County Commission posts. (Incumbent Edward Yarborough is not up for re-election this year.) Party primaries will be be held Sept. 8. There is no primary contest for the School Board's three posts and the tax assessor position. (Ray Slaton and Pat Buie are not up for re-election to the School Board.)

Commission Chairman John Alexander did not file for re-election. His place, in District 2, is sought by Carroll Burke and Garnett White, Democrats, and George Hess and John Kimbrough, Republicans.

Greg Drummond's seat in District 3 is sought by Robert Newell, Republican, and Al Davis and W.

Lawrence Swofford, Democrats. The District 4 seat, now beld by Robert Parker, faces the most competition with Democrats Parker, Titus King and Richard Wirz opposing Republicans Drummond, Clifford Jordan and C. L. Cooper. subject of the sheriff's office and its request from the county commission for funds to improve its crime We are well aware of the work along this line which has been and is being done in the municipalities in our county, especially in Sanford. We are also equally aware that a broader concept of crime control which would modernize all of such facilities and do away with duplication and overlapping of police actions should be under study.

But the issue of crime control within the powers of the sheriff's office is not in the future. It is right here and right now. We believe that any false economy or cutting of corners in this matter by the present members of the county commissions should

About Research

A frequent target of campus protesters is university research in the area of defense. As usual, the protesters don't have an alternative; they just want to move such research out of the academic picture. But the fact is that only campus demonstrators and out-of-office politicians can indulge in the luxury of NOT considering alternatives. First we can rest assured that defense research will continue - on or off the campus. Then we come to where such research should be conducted. And we happen to believe that the university campus, with its atmosphere of erudition and reason, is probably the best place. In the Soviet Union, for example, weapons research is carried on exclusively behind the locked doors of secret "in-house" government

Where defense studies are conducted on the academic level, a nonmilitary viewpoint can and does make itself felt. America's defense needs must be met and will be met - in government and business labs if the universities are not

It is our hope that a substantial portion of this nation's defense research continues to develop in the academic area where the safeguards of reason and logic can be best applied -and where the finest technical minds can help to maintain America's military parity with the Soviet Union. - Shreveport (La.) Boxing Set Thursday

By GARY TAYLOR Herald Sports Writer Amateur boxing will return to Sanford for a second try this Thursday night at the Sanford Armory. The fights are scheduled to get underway at 8 p.m., at the Armory located on East First Street. Local promoter R. G. Kondracki looks to have between eight and 12 fights on the card Thursday night. Fighters from Green Cove Springs, Melbourne, Eustis and Daytona Beach are expected to be on hand

A few weeks ago, fights were scheduled for the armory, but due to car breakdowns, several of the fighters were unable to appear and only a threematch exhibition by the Sanford boxers was staged. Kondracki told The Herald that anyone presenting a ticket stub from that fight would be admitted free of charge to Thursday night's matches.

Where Shopping is a Pleasure

About 760 years ago, a Pil-· grim father was strolling along a lonely strand when his nostrils were assailed by a tantalizing odor of seafood. Around the bend he came upon a tribe of Indians busy cooking clams and I fish over hot rocks strewn with seaweed The Indians turned out to be friendly, and they initiated the stranger into the mysteries of the clambake. Ever since then, Americans have been glorifying the mollusk and its finny cousins with bakes, barbecues, boils and fries that attract thousands of hungry tourists each summer from Maine to California.

New England is the clam-I bake, but its fame has spread H down the Atlantic Seaboard and across the Pacific Coast where the clam has been replaced by the abalone.

Today's clambake is a far cry from the snack the Indians whipped up for our inquisitive expanded into a multicourse banquet running the gamut from steaming bowls of creamy New England chowder to succulent lobsters; tangy sausages and finally fragrant slabs of ap-

In Florida, fish and crustaceans are so plentiful and inexpensive that the state puts on a year-round series of seafood fetes. Favorite dishes there in clude scallops paprika, barbecued eel and fork-tender turtle steaks from the great loggerheads that swim in the warm waters off Key West.

Louisians, noted for its French wine sauces and Creole Pompano which Mark Twain said was "as delicious as the less criminal forms of sin," holds a number of seafood festivals each summer.

So does the Mississippi gulf port of Biloxi, the world's best known shrimp and oyster port, where a crew may pull in as much as 50,000 pounds of shrimp in one season.

Every June there is a colorful ceremony in Biloi known as the blessing of the shrimp fleet. Hundreds of gaily bedecked trawlers sail past a priest who sprinkles the flotilla with holy water and asks the Lord's protection for the fishermen.

The ritual signals a weekend of gaity climaxed by a memmoth shrimp feast. It features such dishes as Jambalaya, Gumbo and shrimp stuffed in eggplant, tomatoes, and green peppers. There is shrimp saled galore, shrimp patties, barbecued shrimp, and of course well chilled shrimp cocktail. Biloxi is proud of its shrimp dishes and with good reason. Here is a recipe by Alena Cerenich that was a feature of a Biloxi festival a few years ago. BILOXI JAMBALAYA 1 medium sweet green pepper 1 large onion

Fry in the plive oil about 20 minutes over low heat chopped onion, green pepper, celery and gariic, then add one can tomato sance. In another pot, boll diced potato until completely absurbed in one quart water, then add some of mixture to tomato gravy and let almoser another 20 minutes.

Add raw shrimp and cook about 15 minutes, then add raw rice plus remainder of potate water as it cooks and thickens. Simmer another 20 minutes until liquid disappears and mixture is virtually dry. Serve with green salad, dry french bread and cold rose wine. Serves Four.

Girl, 19, Escapes Young Attacker

Downtown Sanford was the scene yesterday afternoon of an attempted assault on a 19-year-old female by an unknown 16-17-year old bicyclist. According to Sanford police files, the girl exited a First Street store and was approached by a youth who started to make advances toward her using obscene language.

Frightened, the girl began to walk toward her Mellonville Avenue home but was pursued by the youth who continued to utter

Becoming more afraid, the girl attempted to flag passing motorists and called for help as her tormentor continued to advance on her. Apparently none of the passersby heard her screams and as the aggressor continued his suggestive remarks, the intended victim turned and ran to a The pursuer, feeling he was losing his prey, sailed causing a spurt of blood. By this time, the occupant into whose house the terrified victim fled had answered her knocks and screams and the attacker had es-
