Clinic To Eliminate 3 Jobs

By Jane Casselberry
Herald Staff Writer

In a belt-tightening move, the board of directors of Central Florida Community Clinic in Sanford approved elimination of three staff positions that will save $132,000 this year, according to clinic Executive Director Susan Moore. Positions eliminated were those of financial planner, patient flow coordinator and a physician. The physician's position has been vacant since one of six clinic doctors resigned to work elsewhere, Mrs. Moore said. Curt Davidson, who has been financial planner for 13 months, said he will receive severance pay and compensatory time and will be leaving by the end of the month.

Teen Shot In Fight

Father Gets 7 Years For Killing Son

By Deane Jordan
Herald Staff Writer

A family squabble claimed its second victim when a father was sentenced to 7 years for killing his son during a fight while drunk.

Willie Lee Campbell, 34, of 1504 W. 15th St., was sentenced Wednesday for the death of Tracy Campbell, 18. Circuit Judge S. Joseph Davis Jr. also ordered Campbell to serve eight years probation after the jail time. Davis gave Campbell credit for 168 days he has served since the August shooting.

The men fought around 11:30 a.m. Aug. 23, according to a Sanford Police investigation.

Campbell had reportedly confronted his son about bringing cocaine home, though police did not find any of the drug in the house. The teenager struck his father in the eye during the argument, prompting Campbell to arm himself with a .38-caliber gun. Campbell, who pleaded guilty to manslaughter, shot his son in the stomach, according to police records.

Delores Campbell, the teen's mother, said they were not arguing about cocaine. She said her husband was a problem drinker and picked a fight with the boy when he came home.

"It ended up that Tracy got the best of him and he ended up shooting him, which I really think he didn't mean to do," she said.

"I was so angry. I don't know why he did it. But I forgave him. It was kind of hard, but I forgave him. You can't love God and hate someone. I tell the children not to hate him," she said.

"I go to see him. And I'd do everything I can for him. As long as you're alive, you've got hope," said Mrs. Campbell. "Maybe someday we'll be back together."

After the shooting, another son, Willie Lee Campbell Jr., called police. Responding officers found the wounded teenager in a bedroom. Paramedics worked on him for about 30 minutes, according to police reports. He was then taken to Central Florida Regional Hospital where he was pronounced dead 30 minutes later.

Landscaping Planned For 17-92 Median

By Kathy Tyrity
Herald Staff Writer

The median of U.S. Highway 17-92 from South Park Drive to 27th Street in Sanford will be landscaped according to plans unanimously approved Thursday by the Beautification Committee of the Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce.

If all goes according to plan, the medians will be enhanced with flowers or plants and irrigated with a new system to be tied to an existing water main beneath the median. The work should begin by summer.

Further segments of the road will be beautified as money permits, but the initial costs are expected to be around $10,000, said chamber Executive Director Dave Farr.

The project was spearheaded by Bill Glelow, Sanford, and other members of the Beautification Committee, which Mrs. Glelow heads. A subcommittee has been working on the project for two months, and its chairman, Mike Burkett, presented its plan to the chamber Thursday.

Additional meetings are scheduled for March and April to select the plant materials to be used.

The chamber plans to work with the city's Scenic Improvement Board (SIB) and its new chairman, Ray Priest. Farr said the SIB has some expertise and drawings of proposed materials for the plantings.

The chamber is also looking for some other civic organizations and corporate sponsors to join in the effort. Farr asked anyone who can help to call him at the chamber at 322-2212.

Other subcommittee members working on the project include Becky Courson, Ann Brisson, Lorraine Fiorelli, Barbara Bradshaw and Jim Jernigan.

Farr said that before the project can become a reality, approvals will be needed from the city commission and Department of Transportation.

Boil Water Order Depends On Inspection Today

An inspection today will determine whether customers of the Lake Monroe Utility west of Sanford will have to continue to boil their drinking water.

The state Department of Environmental Regulation was to inspect the private utility today. If repairs the DER ordered are complete the order will be lifted, said George Glonis of the DER.

Customers of the utility were ordered to begin boiling their water Feb. 6 after a high bacteria count was found in the system that serves the business area around the intersection of Interstate 4 and State Road 46.

The bacteria build-up was caused by a broken line on a chlorine machine, said Russell Miller, Seminole County's environmental health director.

While the bacterial problem has been resolved, the utility was told by the DER to clean or replace portions of the plant's machinery and aeration filters. That was to be done by today, Glonis said. He said the utility's owner said Thursday the plant was ready for inspection. If the plant has met the DER's demands, the DER will tell the county to lift the boil order, Miller said.

The county detected a high bacterial count in the water Feb. 6 after receiving a complaint, Miller said.

A check at the plant showed a line on a chlorine machine had broke reducing the amount of bacteria-killing chlorine in the water to zero, he said.

Normally, the chlorine count in the treated water is one-fifth of a part per million. The DER ordered the plant to increase the chlorine level to at least 1.5 parts per million for two days to disinfect the system, he said.

The utility pumps about 100,000 gallon of water per day, according to DER records.

Consultants Praise Schools' Food Service Improvements

By Genie Lindberg
Herald Staff Writer

Seminole County food service employees are "excellent" and the district's food service program has improved dramatically during the past year in many critical areas, according to consultants who presented an overall assessment of the program to the school board.

Peat, Marwick, Mitchell & Co. of Miami, whose consulting work includes food service evaluations, was hired after school board members last year requested a study to address the continued improvement of the food service program, said Karen Coleman, school district spokeswoman. The report presented to the School Board Wednesday makes short-term recommendations in areas for improvement between now and when all schools will have full-service dining facilities as part of the district's $120 million building program.

About 19 schools do not have self-contained kitchens and food being transported to these "satellite" facilities gets cold, according to Marwick consultant

Jon Simon. Simon said students at these schools also have to carry their lunches great distances to dining areas before they can eat.

Tuskawilla and Teague middle school students, Simon said, have to walk more than 50 feet to an outdoor facility after getting their food.

"It's hard to serve good hot food under normal circumstances but under these conditions, it's impossible," Simon also cited the recently built Greenwood Lakes Middle School as having the most efficient, modern food service operation. Tuskawilla and Teague are scheduled to have new modern cafeterias built as part of the $120 million building program.

Despite poorly designed kitchens with limited space, the district food service employees are "excellent," Simon said. "They have a hearty attacking of the task and are good employees."

He added that the employees have "a much higher caliber of care for the students and their satisfaction with school lunches" than other employees he had observed in other counties. "They like to know students are getting a good meal."

According to Simon, consultants who visited the food service operations observed positive improvements to the program being made on a daily basis by Eldon Chambers, director of food services. Their report says that "based on interviews with school principals, the director of food service has done an excellent job in coordinating and cooperating with them to ensure that an effective food service program is operated at each campus."

Since Chambers was hired in March of 1985, there has been a net gain of $158,000 with no board subsidy. According to Mrs. Coleman, this means the food service operation was operating on a break-even basis and did not have to dip into school funds that would be used for such things as teacher salaries, texts and other materials. Also, participation in the program has increased under Chambers supervision and food preparation and serving facilities were upgraded, the report said. And in preparation for the bond program funds, Chambers has started planning for the installation of kitchens and dining rooms in all schools lacking those facilities.

Chambers also improved communication among principals, managers, and food service staff through weekly newsletters, monthly kitchen managers' meetings, weekly staff meetings, financial feedback reports to principals, managers, and staff and a monthly food service handbook was developed and distributed to managers.

In addition, the report said that under Chambers management food pattern changes were initiated. In-service programs were established for food service personnel and dining area decorators were improved.

The steps taken by Chambers to improve the operation of the food service program, according to the report, "are positive indicators of effective departmental management and administration."

The board plans to appoint a food service committee at its February 11 meeting to evaluate the study and to report back to the board by March 25.

Superintendent of Schools Robert Hughes said the food service committee should be made up of people who are interested and who would volunteer to help in making recommendations that would serve to improve the food service program for the future. He said the committee would include principals, food service managers, PTA and advisory committee members, representatives from the private sector, food service employees and probably some students and other volunteers who would be formally appointed by the board.

Inmate Releases May Satisfy Judge

From Staff And Wire Reports

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — State officials believe Florida's new emergency prisoner release program, sought by Governor Bob Martinez and worked for by Lt. Governor Bobby Brantley, Longwood, will satisfy a federal judge until the Legislature can convene in April to consider a comprehensive program to ease prison overcrowding.

They acknowledged Thursday that if U.S. District Judge Susan Black is not satisfied, even more inmates could be ordered released than is planned under the administrative gain time program the Legislature approved during a special session Wednesday.

Larry Polivka, an adviser on prisons to Gov. Bob Martinez, said the governor is serious about solving the problem he inherited.

"It is not rhetoric when we talk about the long-range plan," Polivka said. "The governor doesn't want to spend the next four years dealing with a crisis."

The legislature, called into session Wednesday by Gov. Bob Martinez, passed an emergency inmate release law to avoid automatic court intervention when the state's prisons reached 99 percent of capacity. The bill allows prison officials to grant more gain time to certain prisoners, thus allowing them to selectively lower the prison population.

Brantley said the battle for the emergency bill was fought on the floor of the state Senate and not the House of Representatives, where the measure passed without opposition.

Brantley, fresh from the first and successful passage of Martinez-wanted legislation, said it was a different ball game working for a bill from the governor's office rather than in the house where he was a representative.

He said it was a lot of hard work but a coalition of Republicans and conservative Democrats prevailed and the emergency bill passed.

He said the next battle Martinez will wage is passage of the budget when the legislature meets in regular session in April.

Meanwhile, Justice Black is weighing a series of motions challenging the state's version of the system's legal capacity. Sharon Jacobs, a lawyer for inmates in a class action suit over prison conditions, contended officials improperly used temporary shelters including tents, plywood barracks and an unused cannery to inflate the system's capacity.

The temporary structures have room for about 1,500 convicts, according to prison officials. As of midnight Wednesday, the prisons held 32,555 convicts — 150 more than the number where administrative releases would be triggered under the new program.

If the system passes 100 percent of legal capacity, Black could find the state in contempt and take over the prison system. The population

Court Changes Execution Appeal Rules

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — The chief lawyer for Florida death row inmates says a new rule setting time limits on capital case appeals could become a problem for death row lawyers.

Larry Spalding, head of Capital Collateral Review which defends condemned prisoners who have no outside lawyers, said the new rule could result in lawyers preparing delicate and intricate capital appeals under a tight deadline. Spalding said he hoped to talk to representatives of Gov. Bob Martinez and Attorney General Bob Butterworth about problems the new rule could cause.

The Supreme Court adopted

the new rule Thursday, saying it could prevent last-minute appeals of death warrants. The court enacted the rule on its own initiative, Chief Justice Parker Lee McDonald wrote, because "In numerous instances, petitions and motions for post-conviction relief have been and are being filed scant days, and even hours, before scheduled executions. Such late filings leave little time for judicial consideration and have resulted in many stays of execution simply because the courts, both state and federal, have had insufficient time to rule."

The new rule, which will take effect April 1, says that when a governor signs a death warrant and sets the execution for at least 60 days later, all appeals and requests for stays must be filed within 30 days of the warrant's issue. Motions for rehearings on appeal orders must be filed in two days, and appeals from any appeal court ruling must be filed within two days.

"The court believes this rule is necessary to provide more meaningful and orderly access to the courts when death warrants are signed," McDonald wrote.

Under Florida law, death row cases must file their appeals within two years of their final court ruling. Spalding therefore has his lawyers work on cases on a predictable schedule, assigning cases well in advance of the deadline.

When a warrant is signed, that person is "forced" into the appeals process, often long before his two years are up. Under the old rules, Spalding said, he could appeal right up to the execution date, and so had time to prepare cases. But that might not be true under the new rule.

"Instead of having six months to assign a case, we're back to square one — we'll have to do it all in 30 days," Spalding said. "The warrant just compacts everything."

Snuff Theft Arrest Brings Drug Charge

Sanford police vice agents on a stakeout at Winn-Dixie, 419 E. First St., Sanford, reported watching two suspects enter that store and come out with goods believed to have been shoplifted.

Police saw the two get into a car with a third man. Police stopped the car on Seminole Boulevard at 7:35 p.m. Thursday, and reported recovering a six pack of snuff from the floor of the car. The snuff was reportedly identified by a Winn-Dixie manager as having been stolen from that store, a police report said.

All three men were arrested in connection with the retail theft. The driver of the car, Tommie Lee Isaac, 26, of 125 Yale Drive, Sanford, was also charged with possession of cocaine after a small quantity of cocaine along with a razor blade was reportedly found under the seat of the car. He was also charged with driving with a suspended license and on a warrant for failure to appear in court. He was being held in lieu of $1,000 bond.

Leron Redfin, 37, of 1822 Colidge Ave., Sanford, has been charged with retail theft and was being held in lieu of $500 bond. Renard Alonzo Brown, 26, of 2971 W. 23rd St., Sanford, has been charged as a principal in the first degree to retail theft, resisting arrest without violence and on a warrant charge of violation of probation. He was being held without bond.

Murderers Escape

By United Press International

A convicted bank robber awaiting trial on charges of first-degree murder, a convicted murderer and rapist and a convicted murderer were all at large today after staging separate escapes, authorities said.

James Martin Bowman, 41, was discovered missing from the Loxahatchee Road Prison at 4 a.m. Thursday when a guard went to wake him for kitchen duty, said Lt. Pat McCutcheon of the Palm Beach County Sheriff's Office. He had arranged his pillows to resemble a sleeping man.

"He's been gone long enough now that he's probably long gone," a sheriff's spokesman said today.

Lake County officials were looking for Arnold Anderson who escaped from South Lake Memorial Hospital Thursday after beating a guard with a shower head.

Authorities say Anderson was in the hospital for surgery and apparently took the fixture at a restroom when he was taken there by the guard. He was serving a life prison term for the 1978 rape and murder of a 14-year-old Naples girl.

Michael Savich, 53, a convicted bank robber who was transferred from Pennsylvania to Miami to face a first-degree murder charge, escaped from the exercise yard at the Dade County Jail between 10 and 10:30 a.m. Thursday, said Metro-Dade County police spokesman Jim Hutton.

Rain, Fog, Wind Blanket South

By United Press International

Rain fell from Texas to Florida and in the Plains today, while fog covered parts of the Midwest and snow scattered over upstate New York as mild winter weather continued in most of the country.

The precipitation was part of a quiet weather pattern across most of the country caused by strong high pressure systems centered over southeast Idaho and the middle Atlantic coast, the National Weather Service said.

A warm front extending across central Florida was the only frontal system in the country. Showers and thunderstorms were scattered over Florida.

Temperatures stayed near or above normal over most of the nation, but remained very cold in New York State and New England where readings late Thursday were mostly in the single digits and teens.

A gale warning was posted for the coasts of Georgia and northeast Florida because of high winds produced by a low pressure system over the coast of west central Florida, the weather service said.

A band of light rain extended from southeast Louisiana and Mississippi across Alabama and Georgia into South Carolina. Another band reached from southwest Texas across central and eastern Oklahoma into eastern Kansas and Missouri.

Patchy light snow was scattered over south central Kansas and central Illinois and snow flurries extended across upstate New York.

Fog covered southern Nebraska and eastern Kansas across northern Missouri and southern Iowa into northern Illinois and southwest lower Michigan.

Skies were mostly fair over the western half of the nation.

FLORIDA IN BRIEF

Lakeland Businessman Receives Human Heart To Replace JARVIK

GAINESVILLE (UPI) — A surgical team at Shands Hospital have replaced an artificial heart with a human heart in the chest of Lakeland businessman Rollie R. Murray, hospital officials said today.

A spokeswoman at the hospital said Murray was in critical but stable condition following the surgery early today. The condition is normal for heart transplant patients.

She said the surgery began at 9:40 p.m. Thursday, after doctors learned the heart would become available. The heart arrived shortly after 11 p.m. and the transplant was completed at 1:55 a.m.

Officials did not release any information about the donor of the heart.

Murray, a trailer park owner who is married and the father of four children, had a JARVIK-7 artificial heart implanted 10 days ago when a quadruple bypass operation on his own heart failed.

The artificial heart was implanted only to keep him alive until a suitable donor heart became available.

Abused Children Found In Van

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — Two Washington area men have been jailed on child abuse charges after investigators found them with a van loaded with six "filthy" and hungry children, police said today.

They said they arrested the men in a city park Wednesday and discovered the unidentified children, aged 2-6, inside their van.

The men, who identified themselves as Michael Houlihan and Doug Ammerman, are believed to be part of a commune-style home in Northwest Washington, according to neighbors quoted by WUSA-TV, a CBS affiliate in Washington.

A 6-year-old girl told Tallahassee police they all had lived together in Washington, but the men denied any family relationship.

Tallahassee police Lt. George Creamer said the children "were filthy — they obviously hadn't had a bath for a while. They were covered with bug bites. And they were really hungry."

Slain Boat Designer Mourned

MIAMI BEACH (UPI) — Mourners at a brief funeral service for murdered boat designer Don Aronow paid tribute to a man eulogized as "a man's man, a woman's man, a man for all seasons."

The memorial service for Aronow, who designed the high-speed powerboats that transformed offshore racing, drew about 100 family members and friends from the racing world to Riverside Funeral Chapel Thursday.

In the eulogy, eye surgeon Dr. Bob Magoon, a three-time national powerboat racing champion, recalled Aronow's personality and loyalty.

Police said Thursday they had few leads in Aronow's murder, although they had released an artist's sketch of a possible suspect.

Aronow, 59, was gunned down on a North Miami Beach street lined with boat-building companies he had founded. Witnesses said the killer shot Aronow while he sat in his white Mercedes and then sped away in a dark-blue Lincoln Town car.

Security Tight As Case Made Against Lehder

JACKSONVILLE (UPI) — Prosecutors assembled their case against drug czar Carlos Lehder Rivas and U.S. marshals erected a security web around the Colombian who sits in an undisclosed location in northeast Florida.

Lehder Rivas, 37, arrived in the United States early Thursday, appeared before a federal magistrate at Tampa, who denied him bond, and ended the day in Jacksonville under heavy guard to await legal action on Monday.

Lehder is thought to be one of a half-dozen leaders of a vast cartel, which U.S. authorities say processes, ships and distributes more than 80 percent of the cocaine consumed in the United States.

His arrest and quick extradition from Colombia — all accomplished in less than 12 hours — was hailed by federal officials, who also warned of the potential dangers from the action.

U.S. installations around the world increased security to guard against retaliation by the murderous Medellin drug cartel of Colombia.

Lehder arrived in Tampa shortly after 1 a.m. and appeared nine hours later before U.S. Magistrate Elizabeth Jenkins, who denied bond and ordered a detention hearing Monday before Magistrate Harvey Schlesinger in Jacksonville.

Clever Guilty In Trooper Shooting

ORLANDO (UPI) — Indiana fugitive Jerry Clever will be sentenced next month for first-degree attempted murder in shooting a Florida Highway Patrol trooper and kidnapping a deliveryman to make his escape.

Clever, 34, also was found guilty Thursday of using a gun in committing a felony after 13 hours of deliberations by a jury of five women and one man.

But the jury reduced a second charge of first-degree attempted murder and instead found Clever guilty of attempted manslaughter for shooting at witness John Harvey, who stopped to help the trooper on his way to work.

Harvey, a Wells Fargo security guard and former Marine weapons expert, testified he returned fire when Clever shot at his car. Clever said Harvey fired first.

"It was difficult to show premeditation," State Attorney Robert Eagan said of the reduced verdict. "I agree it was difficult to prove Mr. Clever was not surprised when that fellow pulled up in that car."

Clever, a former Indiana State Police veteran, abducted newspaper deliveryman William Pope and commandeered his van to escape a massive manhunt launched after the shooting of trooper Harry Dennard near an expressway entry ramp outside Orlando before dawn Oct. 9.

"The way I feel is sad for him," Dennard said of Clever's conviction. "But once you cause these problems, you have to pay the consequences."

Dennard, 28, survived the shot fired point-blank into his chest — above the heart — thanks to the bulletproof vest that is standard equipment for patrolmen.

Clever was stopped for a burned out license plate light and was arrested about 100 miles north of Orlando 4 1/2 hours after the shooting. Pope jumped from the van at an intersection in Ocala and alerted police.

Neither Pope nor Harvey were harmed.

Clever admitted on the witness stand he shot the trooper but insisted the gun accidentally discharged during a struggle. Clever rejected a plea bargain on the eve of trial, saying he wanted to tell his side of the story.

Until his arrest, Clever had been sought by authorities in the Terre Haute, Ind., area for the March 1984 attempted murder of his ex-wife, Jerri Lynn Clever of Dugger, Ind., and the murder of her boyfriend, Donald Clayton of Linton, Ind.

Clever fled Indiana after the shootings and eluded authorities until the FBI arrested him in Florida April 23, 1985 and returned him to Indiana. But Clever escaped the Sullivan County Jail Oct. 12, 1985 — just 16 days before trial.

Orange County Circuit Judge James Stroker set sentencing for March 30. Clever is jailed without bond.

Clever could face life in prison, and he also awaits Florida trial on two armed robbery charges in Marion County, where he apparently had been living for about a month before shooting the trooper.

Sullivan County special prosecutor Robert Miller and Florida prosecutor Eagan agreed to try Clever in Florida first and then jail him in the state that handed him the longest sentence.

Retraining Better Than Retrenching

After more than a year of study, a blue-ribbon Labor Department committee has decided that the federal government needs a better program to help American workers who have lost their jobs because of imports or structural shifts in the economy.

No wonder. The Bureau of Labor Statistics estimates that from 1981 through 1985 more than 5.1 million U.S. workers saw their jobs disappear in the riptides of a fluid world economy. Although many of those workers ultimately latched onto other employment, hundreds of thousands of others, many of them middle-aged and lacking up-to-date skills, have floundered.

The plight of these workers has been a driving force behind Congress' protectionist mood. But from the perspective of the overall economy, retraining and relocating the affected workers offers a cheaper and more efficient response than import quotas and tariffs. Retraining provides a measure of security for workers without freezing the economy. The committee's recommendation for a $1 billion consolidated program to provide remedial education and on-the-job training will thus draw few complaints, and many cheers, in Congress. Already, key congressional leaders have announced they will carry legislation to implement the committee's recommendations.

Unfortunately, the federal government's previous efforts in this field have not been very successful. The old Trade Adjustment Assistance program, which provided supplemental cash grants to displaced workers, was expensive and didn't result in much retraining. Its successor program, Title III of the Job Partnership Training Act, hasn't been extensively funded or widely used.

This time, Congress needs to assure that a new program delivers a high proportion of its funds into retraining in real-world skills for which jobs exist, that incentives exist for displaced workers to use their retraining opportunities seriously, and that, where possible, companies closing plants bear some of the burden for helping their displaced workers find a new niche in the job market.

In an increasingly changeable world economy, helping workers adjust to change is an important, permanent national responsibility that has to be performed both humanely and efficiently.

Cynical Standards

The Soviet Union has a general policy of encouraging larger families. But only some families, apparently, in the largely Moslem Soviet Republic of Tadzhikistan, the government is trying to reduce the birthrate.

Slavic, or European, Russians make up slightly less than half the Soviet population. Their proportion of the population is dropping, reflecting the fact that their birthrate is among the world's lowest. Part of the reason is that they have one of the world's highest abortion rates. Some authorities estimate that the average Russian woman has six abortions.

In the Moslem Soviet republics of central Asia, by contrast, abortion is frowned upon and large families are more common.

Slavic Russians, who hold most positions of authority in the government and armed forces, may be worried about eventually being outnumbered by their Asian countrymen. This wouldn't be the first time someone foresaw that possibility. Franklin Roosevelt once said that eventually the Soviet Union "would fly apart like a cracked plate" because of its ethnic nationalities.

For the Soviets to promote big families for the Slavic Russians while discouraging them in the Moslem sections of the country, however, is a cynical way of addressing the problem. In some countries it would be called a double standard.

President's 'State Of Confusion' Address

I went to New York City the day after President Reagan's State of the Union Message to visit my aspiring actress daughter, Krishna. She's really good, but still hasn't broken through the iron curtain for black actresses. After lunch, I visited my friend in Harlem, Booker Leroy Jackson. He had written another prayer to God. I can't resist sharing it:

"Yo, God:
"Just checkin' in.
"This is me again, Booker Leroy Jackson, your main man.
"I know you be havin' a lot of names to remember with folks everywhere hollerin' at you, so I'll hip you to my name one more time — it's Booker like in Washington, Leroy like in Jones, and Jackson like in Jesse.
"Lord, the last time we hooked up, I got a feelin' that you was goin' straighten out some of this mess, but you ain't done right by us cuz we still catchin' hell from President Reagan.
"Did you hear his sorry State of the Union address?
"My friend, Malcolm (he's a numbers runner, lives in the apartment above me), said it was a State of Confusion address.

"The president turned me off when he be sayin' he regret Iran.
"I'm like everybody else in the country, God, I ain't into no Iran. And I don't be carin' about who stole all that money in the White House to buy back them hostages.
"Only one who care about all that mess is the newspaper, the television and the politicians.
"If President Reagan want to regret somethin', why don't he regret Forsythe County in Georgia or Howard Beach in New York or the Citadel in South Carolina?
"All over the country, we got white people kickin' black tall and takin' names, baby, and what's our jive-talking president doin' 'bout it?
"Nary a thing.
"He more worried about makin' peace with Iranians than helpin' black and white Americans makin' peace with themselves.
"He only regret Iran cuz it didn't work.
"That's like some dude be robbin' your house and accidentally burn it down and then the brother say, "Hey, man, I didn't mean to fry your house. I regret that." (I didn't mean for you to think, Lord, that President Reagan is my brother, cuz he ain't. He's the Ku Klux Klan's brother.)

"And he act like he's Big Brother for Central America.
"Lord, he ought to leave them folks alone. Let them fight their own battles.
"Ain't that nothin'? President Reagan is makin' white folks richer, black folks poorer and everybody happier.
"Folks dig Ronald Reagan, Lord — I don't care what them polls say.
"All the dude gotta do is grin, blush, wiggle his ears, act dumb and everybody freaks out.
"I'm goin' call my man Jesse Jackson, and hip him — if he want to be president, he got to act dumb like Ronald Reagan.
"Jesse can't blush. But he can learn to wiggle his ears.
"OK, Lord? Gotta split.
"And if you hear from Pat Robertson, tell him Booker Leroy Jackson wants to know how come he couldn't pray you into shipping some of this snow to Florida.
"Amen."

Intriguing Elections This Year

BELLE CHASSE, La. (NEA) — With the memory of the 1986 political campaigns fading rapidly, it's fashionable to focus on early maneuvering for the 1988 presidential election — but first there are some intriguing, little-noticed 1987 contests.

Voters in three states — Louisiana, Mississippi and Kentucky — elect governors in this odd-numbered year. The race in Louisiana is likely to be especially fascinating if flamboyant Democratic Gov. Edwin W. Edwards seeks re-election.

A politician characterized as irreverent by his friends and outrageous by his enemies, Edwards has twice thwarted federal prosecutors who secured criminal indictments charging him with fraud and racketeering. The first trial ended with a hung jury and the second in acquittal.

In a recent statewide survey commissioned by the Baton Rouge Morning Advocate to ascertain voter perceptions of politicians, Edwards scored near the bottom, with 59 percent of the respondents viewing him unfavorably.

In response to another question, 42 percent of those surveyed thought he was doing a "poor" job as governor, while another 21 percent classified his performance as "not too good."

Nevertheless, some astute observers here believe he has a fair chance to win another term. In part because his notoriety will give him the advantage of name recognition in the large field of Democrats gubernatorial contenders.

The leading candidates in that field are believed to be Rep. W.J. "Billy" Tauzin, who shares Edwards' Cajun heritage, and Rep. Buddy Roemer, an articulate and formidable contender whose father was a senior aide to Edwards and was convicted on federal criminal charges in 1981.

Bowing out of the race in recent weeks were three potentially strong Republican contenders — former Gov. David C. Treen, former Rep. W. Henson Moore and Attorney General William J. Guste Jr. Their withdrawal means that Rep. Robert L. Livingston will be the leading GOP candidate.

In neighboring Mississippi, a constitutional amendment approved by the voters last November makes incumbent Democratic Gov. William Allain the first chief executive in the state's history eligible to seek a second term.

Casey Knows More Than He's Saying

By Jack Anderson
And Dale Van Atta

WASHINGTON — CIA Director William Casey knew more than he told — or was able to remember — when Senate investigators questioned him about the Iran/contras arms scandal, according to our sources.

These sources say Lt. Col. Oliver North, who ran the operation out of the National Security Council, conferred privately with Casey, whom he greatly respected. These secret meetings and telephone calls were unrecorded for the most part, so only North or Casey could say for sure what the CIA chief knew and when.

Private, one-on-one meetings were typical of Casey, who cut his teeth on the clandestine Office of Strategic Services during World War II. When he traveled he liked to have secret meetings with foreign officials, and in Washington he cultivated a wide range of private contacts.

On occasion, Casey would even meet with an individual reporter,

I'M TIRED OF HEARING ALL THE CRITICISM OF COL. NORTH AND THE NATIONAL HEROES WHO WERE COVERTLY FLYING ARMS TO THE CONTRAS!

IT SAYS HERE THE FLIGHT CREWS WERE SMUGGLING POPE INTO THE U.S.A. ON RETURN TRIP...

THEY DESERVE RECOGNITION FOR WHAT THEY'VE DONE FOR THIS COUNTRY!

SO HOW ABOUT A MUDDLE OF HONOR WITH POT LEAF CLUSTER?

JEFFREY HART

Appropriate Speaker

(Editor's Note: Professor Jeffrey Hart, who teaches English at Dartmouth, sent the following letter to the "Dartmouth," the campus newspaper. It raises issues of general interest.)

To the Editor:
It is stunningly appropriate that we entertained Rep. Ron Dellums on the occasion of Martin Luther King's birthday.

Rep. Dellums has been a consistent apologist for totalitarian regimes, even regarding the Soviet invasion of Afghanistan as an effort on the part of the USSR to "protect their borders."

He used his congressional post to become a virtual PR man for the communist regime in Grenada. As recorded in the January 1987 issue of Commentary magazine, Dellums' aide Carlotta Scott described Dellums' attitude toward Grenadan communism in the following terms to the late dictator Maurice Bishop: "Ron has become truly committed to Grenada, and has some positive thinking to share with you... He just has to get all his thoughts in order as to how your interests can best be served... He's really hooked on you and Grenada and doesn't want anything to happen to building the Revvo and making it strong. He really admires you as a person and even more so as a leader with courage and foresight, principles and integrity. Believe me, he doesn't make that kind of statement often about anyone. The only other person that I know of that he expresses such admiration for is Fidel."

Rep. Dellums, obviously, belongs at Dartmouth.

When the Reagan administration thought that Grenada was becoming a Soviet-Cuban base, Rep. Dellums went to Grenada on a "fact-finding" expedition. The American administration thought that the Cubans were building a military airport in Grenada. Perish the thought! Dellums "found" that the airport "was not for military use" and so reported to Congress, but not before submitting his script to the Grenadan dictatorship for correction.

In the wake of the U.S. invasion of Grenada, numerous documents came to light, including a March 22, 1980 entry by then Defense Minister Liam James: "The Revvo has been able to crush counter-revolution internationally. Airport will be used for Cuban and Soviet military."

As I began saying, the appearance at Dartmouth of Rep. Dellums was stunningly appropriate. Maybe he should have given us a few interpretations of the Boat People, or of the Crozco murals.

Of course, Rep. Dellums does not admire all dictatorships. Neither Assad nor Pinochet makes his heart go pit-pat. The dictatorships he admires are exclusively communist ones — Cuba, Grenada, Nicaragua, and the Kremlin "defending" its borders by invading Afghanistan.

Of course, there are many black Americans and Americans of other hues who could have meditated with us on Martin Luther King. Well, we got Dellums. One gathers, daily, that it will be a cold day in Hades when Dartmouth represents itself firmly as a friend of freedom and free institutions.

Sporadic Anxiety Normal

By Gayle Young
UPI Science Writer

NEW YORK (UPI) — Sweaty palms and a feeling of impending doom are common reactions to everything from life's major traumas to the prospect of making a public speech.

Doctors say anxiety is a normal physiological response to fearful thoughts and situations, triggered by a complex chemical mechanism in the body that can affect almost every organ.

"Anxiety is normal and good, a warning that something might be wrong and the body should prepare for it," said Dr. Marc A. Schuckit, professor of psychiatry at the University of California at San Diego. "If I didn't get anxious before a speech I wouldn't prepare for it."

"The problem is when anxiety becomes a regular, daily part of life," he said. "When it interferes with your life, then something is wrong."

Most people who suffer daily bouts of anxiety are reacting to a traumatic event in their life, such as the death of a loved one, illness or divorce, doctors say.

Usually, over time, their symptoms ease as they re-enter life's mainstream, but doctors often prescribe tranquilizers for short periods to help such patients relax.

Immediately following a traumatic event, physicians may even sedate patients to help them sleep. But Dr. Truman G. Schnabel, a professor of medicine at the University of Pennsylvania Medical School in Philadelphia, said at a recent conference on anxiety that sedation interferes with the ability to think clearly and should only be used for a few days.

There are other reasons why some people have daily bouts of anxiety. Thyroid problems can send a rush of chemicals through the body that create the symptoms of anxiety. Heart problems, such as irregular palpitations, can also cause anxious feelings.

"If someone came to me shaking with the awful feeling they are going to die, I would give them a complete physical first," Schuckit said. "This is not something that is always in your mind."

Doctors say stimulants such as caffeine, cocaine and diet pills can cause anxiety in some people, a problem that can be solved simply by removing the stimulants.

For many people with daily anxiety, however, there appears to be no physical cause for their concern.

IN BRIEF

Chairman Cites Discrepancies Between Testimony, Documents

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate Intelligence Committee chairman, comparing the Reagan foreign policy process to "the amateur hour," says his panel's report on the Iran-Contra crisis raises new questions about key witnesses' testimony.

Sen. David Boren, D-Okla., said in an interview Thursday he has not reached conclusions as to whether any of 38 witnesses lied in testifying before the committee two months ago in the most extensive probe of the scandal so far.

But Boren said the committee report released last week reveals discrepancies between testimony and documents, particularly relating to former national security adviser Robert McFarlane.

Boren also said former CIA Director William Casey, who has resigned while struggling to recover from brain-cancer surgery, has indicated he wants to return for more testimony before the select congressional panels now probing the scandal, if his health allows it. Several members of Congress have said Casey was less than candid in earlier testimony.

Nuke Site Protesters Arrested

MERCURY, Nev. (UPI) — More than 430 protesters, including entertainers and scientists, were arrested during a demonstration by 2,000 people at the Nevada Test Site, the biggest anti-nuclear protest in the history of the facility.

Actors Robert Blake, Kris Kristofferson and Martin Sheen were among those handcuffed Thursday when they stepped across the cattle guard forming the border of the test site, where the first U.S. atomic weapons test of the year was conducted Tuesday.

The Soviet Union said it would resume its testing as soon as the United States detonated its first blast of 1987, and the Kremlin confirmed Thursday that it plans to resume nuclear testing after an 18-month unilateral moratorium.

Astronomer-author Carl Sagan, his wife, Ann Druyan, and peace activist Daniel Ellsberg also deliberately walked onto government property and were arrested. They and the others were taken to nearby Beatty, Nev., where they were booked and released pending trials in March.

Coroner Probing Liberace's Death

RIVERSIDE, Calif. (UPI) — Liberace's burial apparently will be delayed until the coroner can determine if the flamboyant entertainer died of AIDS, it was reported today.

Riverside County Coroner Raymond Carrillo rejected the death certificate signed by Liberace's physician, Dr. Ronald Daniels, who announced the cause of death as congestive heart failure brought on by encephalopathy, a general term for degenerative brain disease.

State law requires county coroners investigate deaths that are suspected of having been caused by contagious disease.

Liberace died Wednesday at his Palm Springs home and a requiem mass was scheduled for today in Palm Springs.

U.S. Rejects Nuke Treaty

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The administration's rejection of a treaty declaring a nuclear-free zone in the South Pacific is straining U.S. relations with Australia and other Pacific nations.

State Department spokesman Charles Redman announced the rejection Thursday, saying the United States "has decided that in view of our global security interests and responsibilities, we are not, under current circumstances, in a position to sign."

Reagan Celebrates 76th Birthday

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Reagan, celebrating his 76th birthday today, is completely recovered from prostate surgery, according to the first lady — but aides say he is still moving gradually toward resuming a full schedule.

Reagan's health and his oversight of the Oval Office have drawn sharper focus in recent weeks as he has stayed mostly out of the public eye. The situation put his wife and his chief spokesman under the spotlight of media questions on the eve of his birthday.

Soviet Soyuz Rocket Blasts Off On Five Month Space Mission

MOSCOW (UPI) — In a blast of orange flame, two Soviet cosmonauts blazed through the night sky atop their Soyuz TM-2 rocket early today, bound for the Mir orbiting space station and five months of experiments and construction.

"Flight normal," the flight announcer at mission control said every few seconds as the rocket carried commander Yuri Romanenko and engineer Alexander Laveikin toward orbit.

The 160-foot spaceship, an upgraded version of the Soyuz spacecraft in operation for two decades, was "functioning normally" during initial stages of the mission, the official Soviet news agency Tass said. The cosmonauts were reported to be "feeling well."

The launch, broadcast live on national television, went off on schedule at 12:38 a.m. without a hitch. It was the second Soviet manned mission since the U.S. space program was grounded by the Challenger disaster Jan. 28, 1986.

Iraqi Jets Bomb Iran

United Press International

Iraqi warplanes bombed two Iranian cities today, killing or wounding several people and damaging houses, the official Iranian News Agency said.

The raids on Tabriz and the holy city of Qom came hours after Iran fired a surface-to-surface missile at Baghdad in retaliation for Iraqi raids against civilian areas in Iranian cities.

In Tehran, President Ali Khamenei said 500 people were killed in two recent air raids on Urumieh, in northwestern Iran. The attacking Iraqi planes hit 200 points in the city, he said.

Philippines Await Response

MANILA, Philippines (UPI) — The government said today that the 60-day truce in the nation's 18-year-old insurgency will be allowed to expire unless the rebels reply by Saturday to President Corason Aquino's call for an extension.

The government today was awaiting the rebel response to its call for the resumption of peace talks.

Reporter Arrives In Zurich

ZURICH, Switzerland (UPI) — American journalist Gerald F. Seib, expelled after being detained six days ago on spying charges in Iran, returned to the West today on his 31st birthday.

The bearded Wall Street Journal Middle East correspondent hugged his waiting wife, also a Cairo-based Journal reporter, as he got off Swissair Flight 365 from Tehran to Zurich.

"Just being here is the best birthday present I could possibly have," Seib told reporters gathered in an airport lounge. "I am feeling fine. I came to no physical harm in Iran."

Seib, who turns 31 today, detained on spying charges Saturday while visiting Iran with about 50 foreign journalists invited by the Iranian government.

Seib made a one-minute airport statement and refused to answer questions.

"For the past day-and-a-half I have been living comfortably as the guest of the Swiss Embassy," he said. "I am still not sure why I was detained or how I was released."

"All I know is any suggestion I was involved in any kind of espionage is completely false," he said. "I am a journalist, that's all. I was simply doing my job."

Seib wore a light gray tweed jacket, a blue pullover and cream open-necked sports shirt as he left the plane that arrived at 2:35 p.m. (8:35 a.m. EST), 15 minutes behind schedule.

His wife, Barbara Rosewicz, had flown to Zurich when his expulsion was first announced on Wednesday.

Seib said he had been "an invited representative" of his newspaper and was traveling with a valid American passport.

Seib was arrested in Tehran Jan. 31 after his visa had expired.

He wanted to extend his visa to stay on a few more days but was accused of being a Zionist spy — an apparent reference to Israel although Iran also uses the term to refer to Iraq, its Persian Gulf war arch-enemy.

At the Seib family home in Hays, Kan., his parents and three brothers had awaited word he had reached the West.

"People are very happy but are almost too tired to actively celebrate," said Dennis Farney, a Wall Street Journal reporter based in Kansas City, Mo., who was helping field media inquiries.

There was no mention of Seib's situation in today's edition of his New York-based newspaper.

Negotiations for his release were conducted by the Swiss Embassy in Tehran as Switzerland has represented U.S. interests in Iran since 1980, when Iranian students took 52 Americans hostage and held them for 444 days.

Waite's Shooting Report Denied

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — Militia officials dismissed a West German newspaper report that missing hostage negotiator Terry Waite was shot and wounded while trying to escape his Moslem extremist captors.

"I don't think that Terry Waite would try to escape," said a Moslem militia security official who asked not to be identified. "This report was fabricated as a pretext to launch a military attack on Lebanon."

The West German newspaper Bild reported Thursday that Waite, the special envoy of the archbishop of Canterbury feared held in Lebanon, was shot with a machine pistol while trying to escape his kidnapers.

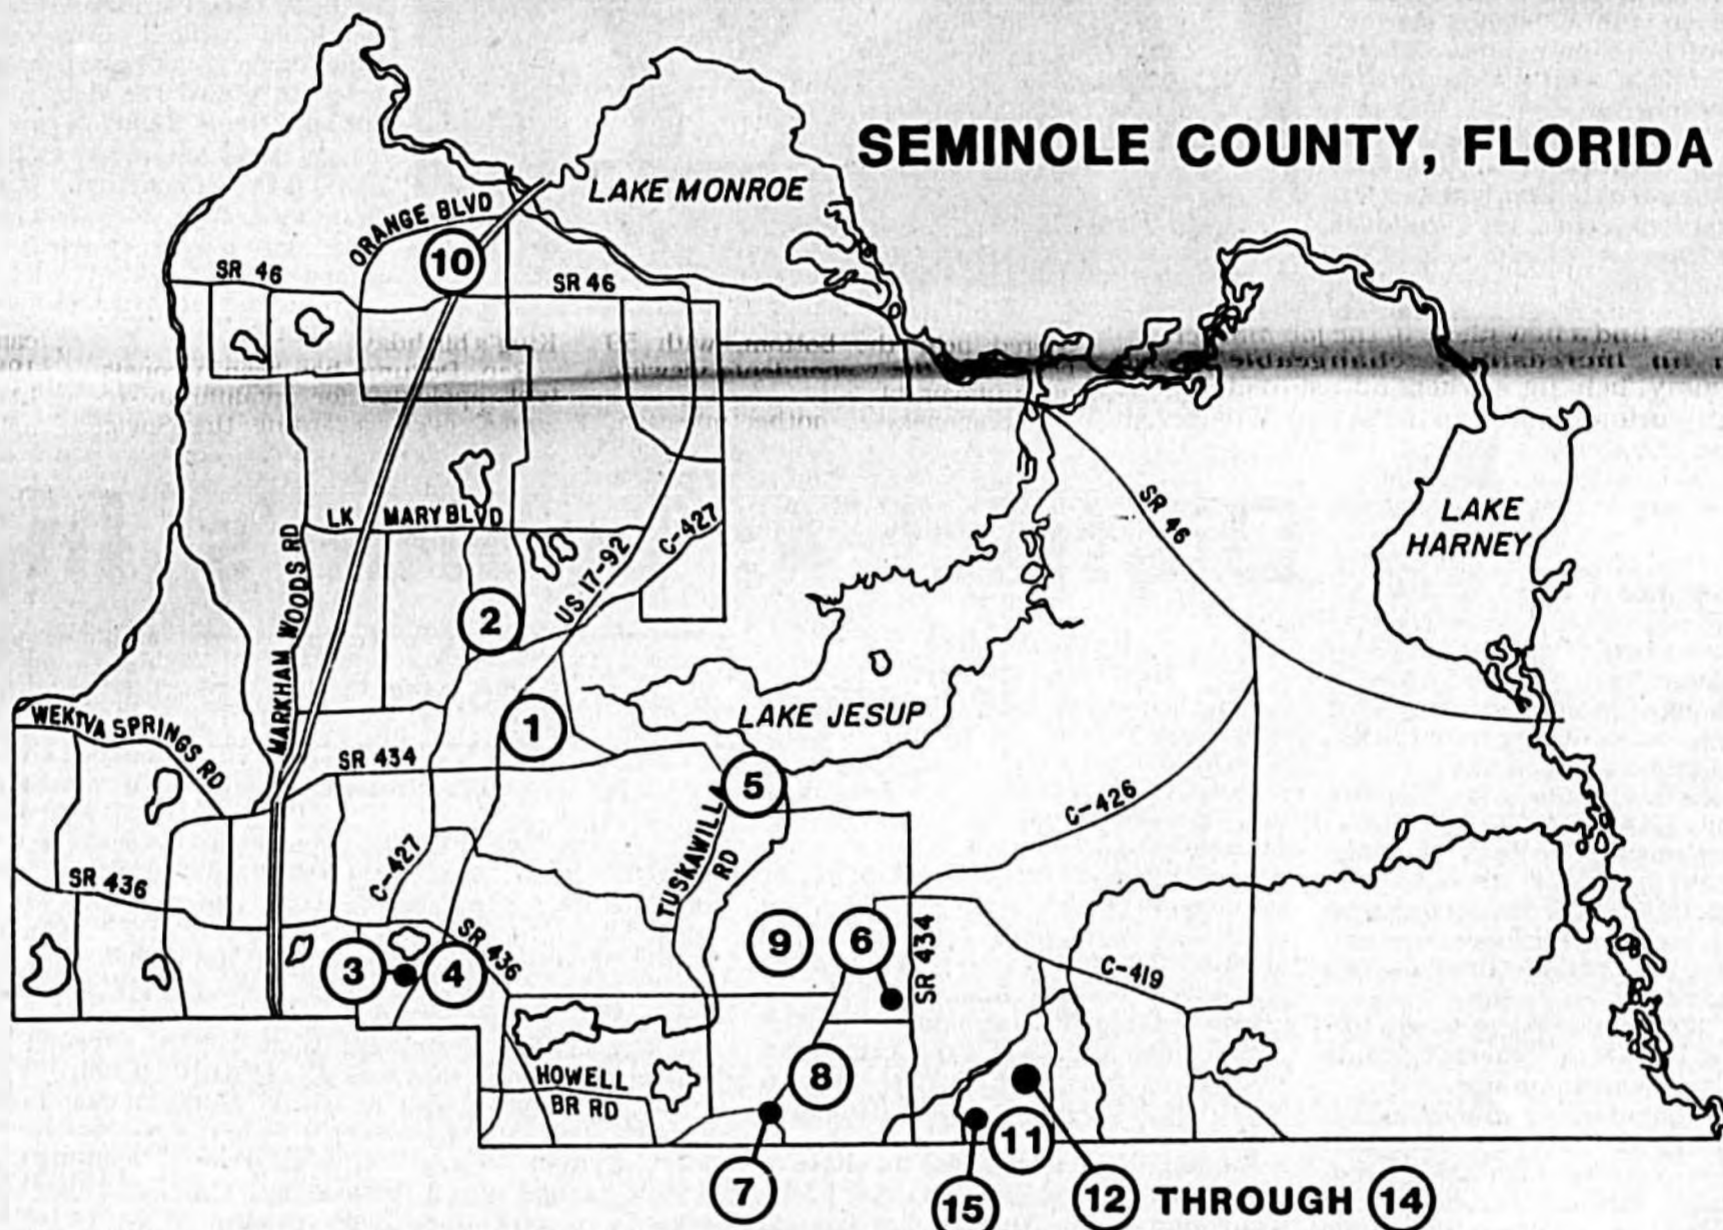

The mass-circulation newspaper described Waite's wound as life-threatening. The Church of England discounted the report as "sensationalist," and the State Department said the story could not be confirmed.

Waite, on his first trip to Lebanon since the U.S. arms-for-hostages deal with Iran surfaced in November, was last seen Jan. 20, when he left his Beirut hotel to meet with the Islamic Jihad kidnapers of two Americans.

Gators Dump Dawgs

GAINESVILLE (UPI) — Vernon Maxwell scored 23 points, including 8 free throws in the final two minutes Thursday night, to lead co-No. 19 Florida to a 66-52 victory over Georgia in a Southeastern Conference game.

Dennis Williams scored 6 straight Georgia points to bring the Bulldogs within 51-42 with six minutes left. But the Bulldogs got no closer as Maxwell scored 10 points in the final two minutes, going 8 for 8 from the free-throw line.

Maxwell, the second leading scorer in the SEC at 22.5 points per game, led Florida in scoring for the 17th time in 22 games this season.

Melven Jones added 14 points for Florida, 17-5 overall and at 9-2 in sole possession of second place in the SEC, one game behind Alabama.

Williams scored 20 points for the Bulldogs, who have lost twice to Florida this season. Georgia fell to 12-8 and 5-6.

Georgia moved in front 12-9 after seven minutes. Florida Coach Norm Sloan then substituted for all five starters, and the reserves reeled off a 12-2 run to give the Gators the lead and control of the game. A Jones slam dunk in the final 30 seconds gave Florida a 37-24 halftime lead.

UNC BLISTERS WOLFPACK

Even with four ailing starters, North Carolina impressed North Carolina State Coach Jim Valvano.

"They just shot the ball so well," Valvano said Thursday night after the third-ranked Tar Heels defeated his Wolfpack 96-79 in an Atlantic Coast Conference game. "They've got a great team, as good a team as I've seen since I've been here."

Senior center Joe Wolf and senior guard Kenny Smith — both listed as questionable before the game — led North Carolina with 21 points apiece. Wolf played despite the flu and Smith was coming off arthroscopic knee surgery performed Saturday.

Dave Popson, a senior forward recovering from a severely bruised lower left leg, added 8 points on 4 of 4 shooting. Jeff Lebo, also suffering from the flu, contributed 13 points.

North Carolina's starting five converted 34 of 46 shots. Freshman J.R. Reid, the lone healthy starter, recorded 16 points. The Tar Heels, who lead the nation in field-goal percentage, hit 39 of 60 shots, 65 percent.

"It's a real surprise to win like this over here," North Carolina Coach Dean Smith said.

Sophomore center Charles Shackelford led the Wolfpack with a career-high 26 points. Senior forward Bennie Bolton added 14 points and junior guard Kenny Drummond had 11.

The Tar Heels improved to 19-2 and 8-0 in the ACC. The Wolfpack dropped to 12-9 and 4-4 with its fifth straight loss.

In other games involving ranked teams, No. 1 Nevada-Las Vegas flattened Utah State 113-78 in a Pacific Coast Athletic Association game. No. 5 Temple downed Rhode Island 87-75 in an Atlantic 10 game. No. 6 Purdue flipped Wisconsin 70-62 in the Big Ten. No. 14 Illinois crushed Big Ten rival Wisconsin 72-43 and co-No. 19 Florida defeated Georgia 66-52 in Southeastern Conference action.

HATS TOP SAMFORD

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (UPI) — Guard Gary Coachman scored 17 points and center Martin Jenkins had 17 points and 10 rebounds to lead Stetson to a 72-60 victory over Samford in a Trans America Athletic Conference game Thursday night.

Stetson forward Randy Anderson had 15 points and 9 rebounds, while guard Terry Johnson added 11 and 8 assists to lead the Hatters.

Forward Rembert Martin, TAAC leading scorer, had 24 points, 11 rebounds and 5 assists to lead the Bulldogs.

Stetson, 9-11 overall and 7-5 in the conference, opened up a 15-6 lead with 11 minutes left in the half, but Samford went on a 11-5 scoring spree to make it 20-17 at 7:40. Martin hit a 20-footer for the Bulldogs one second before the intermission buzzer, but the Hatters led 28-23.

Rozelle: Olden Decision Is Due Early Next Week

By Sam Cook
Herald Sports Editor

LAKE MARY — Fred Rozelle, executive director of the Florida High School Activities Association, said he expects a decision "early next week" concerning Lake Mary High School girls' basketball player Gabriella "Gabby" Olden and charges of possible violations of activities association rules.

Rozelle interviewed four parties involved in the case Thursday at Lake Mary High School and received a written statement from a fifth party who was unable to attend because of a job commitment.

Lake Mary Principal Don Reynolds said he decided to free Olden out of Lake Mary's games until a decision has been made. Lake Mary won its 22nd in a row Thursday night with a 71-52 victory over Lake Brantley.

Rozelle questioned Lake Mary girls' basketball Bill Moore, Junior varsity coach Mike Averill, Olden and Judy McNaughton. McNaughton is serving as the host family for Olden. Ken Patrick, assistant coach for the University of Miami Lady Hurricanes, submitted a notarized statement.

Basketball

'I think it is ridiculous that I have to go through this.'

— Gabby Olden

The 18-year-old Olden is averaging nine points, seven assists and six steals per game. The 5-foot-8 point guard has been the catalyst behind Lake Mary's 23-1 record and No. 3 ranking in the Florida Sports Writers Association Class 4A Poll.

Rozelle said three areas are being scrutinized:

- Was Olden recruited?
- Was there out-of-school-zone participation?
- Why did Olden change her host family twice?

"You can leave no stone unturned when you do an investigation of this nature," Rozelle said. "I probably won't make a decision until Monday or Tuesday of next week."

If Rozelle determines Olden did play out of school zone, Lake Mary would have to forfeit its 23 victories. If it was found Olden was recruited, Rozelle said the penalty would be stiffer since the FHSAA guideline — losing a year's eligibility — would not affect Olden since she is a senior. He did not detail a penalty for changing the host family without official approval.

Olden was placed at Lake Mary by the Education Developmental Resource Trust, a Foreign Exchange Student placement agency in Los Angeles. Roger D. Riske, a placement officer, said Olden was recommended to him by Ed Visscher, an employee of EDRT who works in Sweden. Visscher formerly coached at Orlando Luther.

Olden said Wednesday it was her decision to apply for a Foreign Exchange Student application.

"I think it is ridiculous that I have to go through this," Olden said. "At the beginning of my last year at school, I decided I wanted to learn English good."

"Everybody talked how America is so good. I wanted to come here and see how it was."

Olden arrived in August and moved in with Patrick, a textbook salesman, who lives in

Patterson's 27 Overpower Lady Pats

By Mark Blythe
Herald Sports Writer

Lake Mary's Cynthia Patterson scored 27 points to propel the Lady Rams over the Lake Brantley Lady Patriots, 61-52, in Seminole Athletic Conference Thursday night at Lake Brantley before 204 fans. The victory was the Lady Rams' 22nd in a row.

Lake Mary improved to 23-1 and 7-0 in the conference. Lake Brantley fell to 11-8 and 4-3.

Lake Mary played without point guard Gabby Olden who is currently under investigation by the Florida High School Activities Association for possible rules violations. Supersub Gina Dawson was also sidelined with a strep throat, according to Lake Mary coach Bill Moore.

Basketball

"It was a big win for us," Moore said. "It shows we can play with the stronger teams without Gabby (Olden) and Gina (Dawson)."

The Lady Patriots, who were without sixth man Susan Asplen (flu), started the game in a zone-press defense to test the Lady Rams ball handling without Olden.

After Lake Brantley took a 6-0 lead Lake Mary cooled down and began to get into the flow of the game. Patterson scored the next six points of the game to tie the score. Patterson ended with 10 first-period points as the Lady Rams took a 16-11 lead.

"The shots were going in tonight," Patterson said. "We played team ball and I happened to get the ball where I wanted it."

The Lady Patriots went on a six-point run to cut the lead to 18-17 early in the second quarter only to see Patterson score again to kill their momentum. Patterson ended with 17 first half points as Lake Mary took a shaky 35-28 lead.

District 4: Lyman's In, Brantley's Out

By Chris Fister
Herald Sports Writer

The much-anticipated Lyman-Lake Brantley District 4 championship showdown will not materialize this year.

Lyman's top-ranked Lady Greyhounds are in; Lake Brantley's second-ranked Lady Patriots are out.

At Longwood, Lyman pulled out a hard-fought 3-2 victory over Lake Mary while at Altamonte Springs, Lake Brantley fell victim to the upset, losing a 2-0 decision to fourth-ranked Melbourne.

Unlike the district semifinals the past three years, the Lady Greyhounds did not just wait in, get their hair wet, and waltz out with an easy victory Thursday night.

Although Lyman has had its share of cakewalks in the past, it also never backs away from a fight. The Lady Greyhounds had to get some mud on their uniforms, get aggressive and fight every inch of the way to pull out a victory over a hard-charging Lake Mary team Thursday night before 151 hearty fans at Lyman High.

Lyman, 18-1-5, advances to the District 4 Tournament final Saturday night at 7 against once-bent Melbourne.

"We were moving the ball around well despite the rain," Lyman coach Laura Dryden said. "All of our people up front played well and we got some excellent defensive play from Stacey Roy, Julia Callarman and (goalkeeper) Tracy Wortham."

Lake Mary, ranked eighth in the state, concluded an excellent season with an 18-5-4 record.

"I told the girls after the game I was proud of them," Lake Mary coach Bill Eissele said. "They played hard and fought back from being behind early."

After playing to a scoreless tie for the first 14 minutes, fleet-footed Lyman senior Maye Belle Bryant struck for a pair of goals in a five-minute span. The first came when Bryant took a long ball from Dana Boyesen and stuffed the ball through the hands of goalkeeper Tammy Scott. Lyman took a 2-0 lead when Bryant's second goal, a breakaway. On Bryant's scored goal, Kerry Musante placed the ball over the Lake Mary defense and it appeared at least two Lyman players were offside but no call was made.

Lake Mary fought back within 2-1 with 7:36 left in the half when Michelle Mattingly made a nice run toward the goal and poked it in. Led by senior Rohr who poked it in. Off by senior Kelley Broen. Lake Mary kept up the offensive pressure but could not tie the score before the half ended.

The Lady Rams tied the score at 2-2 with 21 minutes left to play when Vicki Warner looped a shot from 35 yards out over the head of Wortham.

The remainder of the game was played in a downpour and was a back and forth battle with each team having scoring opportunities. With just over six minutes remaining, it was Bryant again who made the big play for the Lady Greyhounds.

Bryant streaked into the open and was tripped inside the penalty area and Lyman was awarded a penalty kick.

"It was a good call because it was a definite trip," Dryden said. "At that point, I was pretty confident we had the game."

Dryden was confident before the penalty kick was taken because the person taking the PK was senior midfielder Karen Abernethy — she of the booming kicks. "Aber" didn't let Dryden and the Lady Greyhounds down either as she blasted the ball between the pipes for the winning goal.

It was a different story at Lake Brantley.

Against a weaker opponent, Lake Brantley may have been able to get by, but the sluggish Lady Patriots were in trouble from the start against Melbourne's Lady Bulldogs.

Melbourne took advantage of Brantley's sloppy play with two first-half goals and the Lady Bulldogs went on to avenge their only loss of the season with a victory before 201 fans at Lake Brantley High.

Melbourne, with a 19-1 record in its first year of girls soccer, advances to Saturday night's district finals against top-ranked Lyman. Lake Brantley concluded its best season ever with a 23-2-2 record.

"The game that you hope will never show up snuck up on us tonight," Lake Brantley coach Wolfgang Halbig said. "There was not one thing we did that looked nice."

Melbourne took a 1-0 lead less than four minutes into the game when Christy Maxner drilled a corner kick that eluded goalkeeper Wendy Vickery and bounced into the goal.

Both Schaefer and Julie DeRusso tried to get Lake Brantley's offense cranked up but the Lady Patriots could not penetrate Melbourne's defense or goalkeeper Leslie Heins.

The Lady Bulldogs cast even more gloom over the Lady Patriots with 2:57 left in the first half when Christy Platt launched a towering shot toward the goal which slipped out of the grasp of Vickery and Maxner was there to knock in the rebound for a 2-0 lead.

"Lake Brantley was obviously flat tonight but our girls did what they had to do to win," Melbourne coach Larry Kaskey said. "It gave us a big lift when Leslie (Heins) was back in the goal and Kelley Barnes back on the field."

Heins was taken to the hospital after Tuesday's game with Bishop Moore and was reported to have a bruised kidney. Barnes took over in goal in that game but Heins was able to start Thursday's game.

Lyman's Greyhounds do not have any trouble winning at home. They are unbeaten in their last 16 contests at the "Dog Pound." And after losing their first five road games, the 'Hounds won their next three in hostile gyms.

Lyman coach Tom Lawrence said he does not have an answer for the on-the-road turnaround, he just hopes it continues. "Maybe we've just been lucky," he said Thursday night. "We do have three pretty good clutch players, but to win on the road anywhere you have to play well."

Robert Thomas, Craig Radzak and Vince Florence have been at their best when the chips are down. Thomas is the country's best free-throw shooter, Radzak is a rugged rebounder and scorer while Florence is an explosive, penetrating performer.

Lawrence said his big three will have to shoulder an even bigger burden since Lyman lost guard Darryl Starke to a serious knee injury last week. Earlier the 'Hounds lost two players to academic ineligibility. The continued development of 6-foot-6

Shawn Hester has also been a plus. Rick Moulton has moved into the starting lineup in place of Starke. Delmon Simpson, a 6-1 sophomore, was promoted from the junior varsity.

"We are very this, right now," Lawrence said. "We're real small and not real deep."

While Seminole sprinted to an unbeaten Seminole Athletic Conference start, Lyman has quietly put together a five-game winning streak. Lawrence's squad has not lost since it dropped a 70-55 decision at Sanford. The Greyhounds are 4-1 in the SAC, one game back, with a Tuesday showdown on the horizon at home against Seminole.

Lawrence, though, is quick to keep his 'Hounds nearsighted. See SAC, Page 7A

Yarborough Yarns For Busch Clash Trophy

DAYTONA BEACH — Cale Yarborough has done just about everything positive you can do in the Busch Clash — except win it. The legendary driver from Timmonsville, S.C. is hoping to correct that oversight Sunday at Daytona International Speedway.

"I've run well in most every Busch Clash I've driven," Yarborough said. "And I've come close a few times. I never knew how much I liked the race until I missed it last year."

To qualify for the Clash, a driver has to win a Busch Pole Award on the NASCAR Winston Cup circuit in the previous year or win the "wild-card" spot from among the Busch Beer fastest second-round qualifiers. Yarborough qualified for the first seven Busch Clashes, then missed last year's race.

"I guess every driver's dream at the beginning of each season is to make the Clash a two-car race: win all the poles and then it's just you and the wild card," Yarborough said.

Other drivers who qualified for the Busch Clash include Benny Parsons, Darrell Waltrip, Ricky Rudd, Dale Earnhardt, Terry Labonte, Harry Gant, Bill Elliott, Geoff Bodine, Tim Richmond and "wild-card" drawing Alan Kulwicki. Richmond will not be able to race due to poor health.

"That's a pretty stout field," Yarborough said. "If we can win against that kind of competition, then I'd say we'd be off to an awfully good start for 1987."

Yarborough's best Busch Clash finish was his second place to Neil Bonnett in 1983. He has finished in the top five in five of his seven Busch Clash starts and won $90,500. He will become the seventh driver to have surpassed $100,000 in Busch winnings when he starts this Sunday's event.

Terry Labonte thinks the traditional race strategy might change in this year's race of Busch Pole Award winners. "The strategy in the past has been to set yourself up for the final lap," Labonte, who will be driving the Budweiser Chevrolet of legendary car owner Junior Johnson this season, said.

"How you set yourself up, of course, depended on your circumstances," he added. "How well you were running, where you were starting, who was in front of you and who was behind you."

"Things might be a little different this year, and ought to be pretty exciting to watch."

Labonte said $35,000 in lap leader awards could make a difference in how teams approach the 50-mile dash of speed. The Busch Clash offer $10,000 to the leader of lap 5, $10,000 to the leader of lap 15, and $15,000 to the leader of lap 10.

"The big prize is still the $50,000 for leading the final lap," Labonte said. "But I think you're going to see a lot of people shooting for those other lap leader awards, too."

Sanford's Harold "Fat Rat" Johnson called to say that he has just finished re-vamping his race car and will be running his 1987 Celebrity at New Smyrna Speedway.

Tonight, the 21st Annual World Series of Asphalt Stock Car Racing starts its nine consecutive nights of ground-shaking action. Phil Dorman of Lake Mary has his "Dorman Racing" Camaro also entered in the strong field of late models.

Junior Simmons, Marc Kinley, Bill Kinley, Jim Taylor, Randy Smathers, James Carter and Don Roberts are just a few of our local racers entered in the Thunder Car class.

Watch out for Simmons. He has his '86 Thunderbird running real strong and could be feature winner during the prestigious event.

Betsinger Lifts Rams Past Tribe

By Chris Fister
Herald Sports Writer

Scott Betsinger had the Midas touch Thursday night as practically every pass the senior midfielder made turned into a goal for Lake Mary's Rams.

Betsinger dealt out a school-record six assists as the Rams rolled to an 8-1 victory over Seminole in Seminole Athletic Conference action at Seminole High.

"Scott (Betsinger) is a very knowledgeable player and if you give him time, he'll find the open man," Lake Mary coach Larry McCormick said. "And that's what happened most of the night tonight."

Lake Mary improved to 16-3-4 overall and 7-2-1 in the SAC. The Rams conclude the regular season Saturday at Daytona Beach Seabreeze. Seminole now stands at 3-11-1 overall and finished its SAC schedule at 0-10. The "Noles host Apopka in their regular-season finale Saturday.

While Betsinger did the dishing, Ernie Broenne, Tony Fiorentino and Steve Sapp scored two goals each while Jon Brooks and Chris Riske also scored. Rick and Ernie Broenne also had assists.

Chris Ray scored his eighth goal of the season for Seminole while goalkeeper Scott Taylor had a good game with 19 saves. Lake Mary outshot the Tribe, 33-7.

HOWELL: 10-0 IN SAC

Lake Howell concluded its Seminole Athletic Conference schedule with a 10-0 record as the Silver Hawks, ranked seventh in the state (Class 4A), blanked ninth-ranked (3A) Oviedo, 3-0, at Lake Howell.

The Hawks, 17-2-2 overall, conclude the regular season Saturday at home against Gainesville Buchholz. Oviedo now stands at 10-6-3 overall and finished at 3-5-2 in the conference.

"At first, we were trying to push the ball too deep instead of shooting," Lake Howell coach Glen Griffin said. "I told the kids to keep pressing and start ripping a few shots. Once we got the first goal, we got going well."

The first goal was on a penalty kick by Kenny Higgins while the second was a nicely worked goal by Alejandro Ballauddo on assists from Jeff Phillips and Todd Miller. Javi Ortiz made it 3-0 with an unassisted goal.

Lake Howell outshot the Lions, 17-4, and had five corner kicks to Oviedo's zero. Oviedo goalkeeper Gordon King made nine saves while Howell keeper Joey Schulman made two saves in recording the shutout.

LYMAN RIPS BRANTLEY

Chris Graham scored two goals and keeper Kelly Walden recorded his third consecutive shutout as Lyman's Greyhounds ripped Lake Brantley's Patriots, 3-0, Thursday night at Lake Brantley High.

Lyman concluded the regular season at 11-5-4 and 5-3-2 in the conference while Brantley finished at 6-12-4 overall and 2-6-2 in the league.

"From offense to defense, this was our best game of the season," Lyman coach Ray Sandidge said. "Now we're ready to go for the district tournament."

Lyman took a 1-0 lead in the first half when Gerard Mitchell scored on an assist from Shailer Bowers. Graham then scored on Mark Dubin's assist as the "Hounds took a 2-0 halftime lead. Graham added an insurance goal in the second half on Anthony Godhino's assist.

Lyman outshot the Patriots, 16-7, and Walden made three saves in recording the shutout.

...SAC

Tonight, Lyman invades Oviedo and the Lions' Den has always been a tough stop for the Greyhounds. He knows another loss could be fatal, since Lyman may not receive any assistance for the rest of the league.

Although the SAC race just passes the halfway mark tonight, it is a two-team race — Seminole and Lyman. In other games, Seminole, 5-0, hosts Lake Howell, 1-4, and Lake Mary, 2-3, entertains Lake Brantley, 2-3. Oviedo is 1-4. Count out the last four teams.

Elliott Draws Busch Clash Pole

DAYTONA BEACH (UPI) — Bill Elliott drew the pole position Thursday for Sunday's Busch Clash, a 50-mile race at Daytona International Speedway for stock car drivers who won pole positions last season.

Elliott, who won 11 superspeedway races and $2.3 million in 1985 and still holds the qualifying record at Daytona with a speed of 205.114 mph, was awarded the pole for the 20-lap race in a blind drawing. Ten drivers are entered in the $210,000 race, which will be run the day after pole qualifying for this year's Daytona 500.

Benny Parsons will start on the outside pole, while Cale Yarborough will start third and 1986 Winston Cup champion Dale Earnhardt will start in the fourth position.

Other drivers in the race are: Terry Labonte, Ricky Rudd, Darrell Waltrip, Harry Gant, Alan Kulwicki, and Geoff Bodine.

Elliott started the 1985 season by finishing third in the Busch Clash, then going on to win the Daytona 500.

"In a race like this it doesn't make much difference where you start," said Elliott, who will drive the Coors-Melling Ford Thunderbird. "But if I had my CASELBERRY — Erin Hankins proved Thursday night she's effective even when she's not hitting from the next county. The 5-2 senior guard scored eight of her game-high 22 points on drives to the hoop in the fourth quarter as Lake Howell's Lady Silver Hawks claimed a 66-61 Seminole Athletic Conference victory over Seminole High before 101 fans at Lake Howell High.

Lake Howell ran its record to 17-3 overall and 5-2 in the SAC with its third conference win in a row. Seminole fell to 9-10 overall with its third consecutive loss and now stands at 3-4 in the league.

With Seminole holding a 49-48 lead early in the fourth quarter, Hankins saw an opening and twice drove in for layups that gave the Hawks a 52-49 lead. Seminole rallied back to take the lead but Hankins made a layup with 20 seconds left and made two free throws with 11 seconds remaining to seal the victory.

"I hadn't drove to the basket all night," Hankins said. "But Mary (Schnitker) was drawing the defender and it was wide open so I went for it."

Behind Hankins for the Lady Hawks, Tammy Lewis pumped in 15 points, Denise Arriola added eight and Kelley Grider contributed seven.

"We changed defenses and tried to make Seminole beat us outside," Lake Howell coach Dennis Codrey said. "And we worked (Adrian) Hillsman and didn't let her beat us like she did before."

LaShon Cash led Seminole with 14 points, Liz Long tossed in 12, Hillsman added 10 points, five assists and six steals and Leticia Strickland chipped in with nine points. Sheri Reddick contributed eight points, nine rebounds and four blocked shots.

the offense up the way I told them to," Seminole coach Charles Steele said. "There a still a chance in the game where the girls are losing their concentration."

Seminole, on a layup by Reddick and two free throws by Strickland, took a 47-44 lead into the fourth period. Seminole was up by three, 49-46, when the Lady Hawks reeled off 10

Trees Offer Protection In Summer And Winter

From the 50 or so different species of trees that grow in our area, you can choose one or two suitable ones for planting in your landscape. A Florida home without at least one tree is sad, because trees offer shade in the heat of the summer as well as protection in the winter. You don't have to start with a big one. It's easy to plant a small one.

Some varieties of trees take a lifetime to develop leaf canopy, others may develop one in five to 10 years — fast enough so you won't need to move your lawn chair around to keep the hot summer sun off of your tender skin. Do keep in mind though, usually you're planting trees for the next generation. And, properly placed trees in your landscape will increase the value of your property, too.

Some of the more desirable broadleaf evergreen trees include: cherry laurel, live oak, laurel oak and southern magnolia. For energy-conscious folks, you can plant red maple, tulip tree, sweetgum or sycamore, as they lose their leaves in the winter.

Few of our native trees are as magnificent as a huge, old live oak. This long-lived, usually pest-free, tree is among our most valuable and historic shade trees. They grow in hammocks and along lake margins all over Florida. Old timers may be 20 to 30 feet around the trunk with limbs spreading over 150 feet. Usually they aren't more than 40 or 50 feet high.

Live oaks grow in the wild from seed and sprouts from the roots. They even have flowers, but they aren't very showy. The acorns mature in the fall, and if they fall on a moist, warm site, they germinate rapidly. Live oaks are very hard to kill. When a tree is cut or the trunk limbs are destroyed, even main root may send up three or four sprouts.

It's a good bet that most of the historic trees in the south are live oaks. But, most are not as old as we may think. Even the largest aren't more than two or three hundred years old. Some of the huge, low-growing live oaks actually developed from sprouts or groups of several trees which grew together. This tends to make them look older than they really are.

You can raise live oaks from seed, or transplant them from the woods. If you do a good job of root-pruning and top pruning, you can successfully transplant a live oak with a trunk diameter of several inches.

The live oak as well as many other desirable shade trees can be purchased already started in containers. They are available now at your favorite nursery or garden center. A little extra care and preparation for planting your new tree will certainly help it get off to a good start and future growth. Start by digging a hole at least a foot wider and deeper than the size of the container in which the tree is growing. If your soil is very poor, discard it and locate some good topsoil to back fill the hole. The backfill soil can be half compost, peatmoss, or bagged potting soil and half original soil. Be sure to mix it thoroughly.

Shovel a foot of the prepared soil mix into the hole, then carefully remove the tree and ball of soil from the container. Discard the container and set the tree into the planting hole so it will continue growing at its original growing depth, or slightly higher. Add more soil around the root ball, tamping and watering until the hole is filled.

In sandy, well-drained soils, be sure to leave a saucer-like depression around the base of the tree to make future watering easier. Two inches of mulch, such as wood chips, pine bark, or pine straw, around the base of the tree will help keep the grass away. Water your tree at least once a week after the initial application for the first year. Be sure to apply it slowly and deeply. Shallow watering encourages shallow rooting. The amount of water put out by most lawn sprinkler systems is inadequate for newly planted trees. Do not fertilize your newly set tree for the first season as this, too, will encourage shallow rooting.

If your tree is planted in an exposed area, you may want to stake it with a couple of 2x2-inch stakes driven a couple of feet into the ground. Tie the trunk to the stakes with sturdy wire strung through cut sections of old garden hose. Usually, no hard pruning is needed for the first couple of years. Later, you can trim off any branches on the stem that are lower than six to seven feet from the ground to save you a bump on the head. And, be sure to remove the plant label attached to the tree to prevent accidental girdling.

Happy gardening!

Man Who Sewed Wild Oats Needs To Explain Harvest

DEAR ABBY: Four years ago, while I was still in college, I got a young woman (older than I) pregnant. Marriage was out of the question, but I faced up to my responsibility and agreed to pay child support. I have since moved 500 miles away and have been paying child support ever since.

Now the problem: I'm in a new area with new friends and peers, and none are aware of my past. I have fallen in love with a wonderful young lady and we're talking marriage. She is not aware of this episode in my life, and as we move closer to marriage I don't know what to say or how to say it. How should I go about letting her know about my past mistake? I just can't find the words.

Dear Abby

and noticeably while conducting us.

Who can snicker in God's house as your conductor mops his brow between movements of music, when you are facing the audience or congregation? At intermission, he pleads, "Does anyone have a cure for sweating?" The poor man looks as though he has been standing under a shower!

Can you offer a practical solution to this awkward dilemma?

CHICKEN

PRAYERFUL TENOR IN PHOENIX

DEAR CHICKEN: Try this: "When I was in college I fathered a child by an older woman. Marriage was out of the question, but I faced up to my responsibility and agreed to pay child support."

Be prepared for some follow-up questions such as: "Have you ever seen your child?" "Do you plan to have a relationship with this child?" And many more. Your future wife has the right to know the extent of your involvement, and the sooner you tell her, the better.

DEAR ABBY: My prayers and suggestions culled from my experience as a registered nurse have done little to aid my suffering choir director at church, who sweats profusely

DEAR TENOR: Prayers won't help. Your choir director is suffering from "hyperhidrosis" — excessive sweating. He should consult a family physician, dermatologist or endocrinologist (gland specialist) — all or none of whom may be able to help him. Sweating is a natural function that can be controlled to some degree by medication, but some possible side effects could be worse than sweating, in which case it might be healthier to just sweat it out.

DEAR ABBY: I appreciate your alerting readers to various dangers — the most recent concerning children riding on escalators.

Several years ago you cautioned readers who stored their old refrigerators in their garages or basements to either turn the refrigerator with the door facing the wall, or to remove the refrigerator door so that small children could not crawl into them and have the door close behind them and suffocate them to death.

Recently, three young children were found dead in a refrigerator stored in a barn. Please repeat that warning. It could save lives.

CONCETTA CICERELLA, PITTSBURGH

DEAR CONCETTA: Thanks for the reminder. Over the years I have published this warning many times, and I am grieved when I read that this type of accident has occurred again.

Readers, if you see a temporarily stored or discarded refrigerator or freezer in your neighborhood — or anywhere else — you could prevent a possible tragedy by calling the potential safety hazard to the attention of the owner, or telephoning the police department for prompt attention in eliminating the danger.

CONFIDENTIAL TO W.W. IN SANTA ANA: "There's a time to wink as well as to see" (Benjamin Franklin). Wise man, Ben. You should have been seeing instead of winking.

Finding Cause Of Chronic Head Pain

Dr. Gott

AR DR. GOTT - I have a terrible pain in my head, and the doctors say it's neuralgia. Before the pain began, I had an ear infection. Could this have caused the neuralgia? Is there a cure?

DEAR READER - Neuralgia is a troublesome and puzzling type of nerve pain that can be difficult to control. I am not aware of a direct relationship between ear infections and neuralgia. However, pain from chronic ear trouble can be misdiagnosed as neuralgia. I suggest that you see an ear, nose and throat specialist. If you have a continuing infection, it could be contributing to the pain and will require treatment.

DEAR DR. GOTT - I'm male, in my 70s and being treated for high blood pressure. Four times each year, I have to go to the hospital and have a unit of blood removed because the hemoglobin is too high. What level is considered high and why does this happen?

DEAR READER - Polycythemia - the presence of too many red blood cells - will make the blood too thick and viscous. The removal of blood (phlebotomy) produces a temporary thinning of the blood. It's a useful remedy that works quickly; however, there are more effective ways to treat polycythemia, depending on the cause.

For example, polycythemia can often be the result of lung diseases that lower the amount of oxygen in the blood. Treatment of the pulmonary disorder will allow the blood to return to its proper consistency.

However, polycythemia can be caused purely by an overproduction of red blood cells. Under these circumstances, doctors usually choose to give drugs that slow down blood-cell production.

The quantity of red-blood cells is expressed as the "hematocrit" - the percentage of cells per total fluid volume. For adults, the normal hematocrit is 40 to 50 percent. Figures above 55 percent indicate polycythemia. Values below about 36 percent are seen with anemia, the opposite of polycythemia. DEAR DR. GOTT - I have a rectal prolapse, but the protrusion is through the vagina. The condition is not painful, just distressing. When the diagnosis was made, no solution was given. Do you know of any?

DEAR READER - The rectum and vagina are separated by a relatively thin shelf of tissue. As women age, this tissue may weaken, allowing part of the rectum to protrude into the vagina. Although this is not harmful, it can be upsetting and uncomfortable. Surgeons can often repair the weakened shelf and correct the abnormality. Ask your doctor about this.

WIN AT BRIDGE

By James Jacoby

Only favorable vulnerability justifies West's anemic two-diamond overall. It did achieve the favorable result of forcing the opponents to play in three spades rather than in two.

After the heart 10 was led, declarer was on thin ice for his contract but he found the winning line. East won the ace and returned a heart. Declarer was now confronted with constructing what West had held for his overall.

West would hardly try for a heart ruff unless he had what he considered to be a trump entry, so he surely held the king of spades. It was also likely that he had started with three spades, since it is less attractive to try for a ruff when the trump king is doubleton. If declarer played ace and a spade, West would win his king and put his partner on lead with a diamond to get a heart ruff. Fortunately his spots in the trump suit were good enough that he could defend himself against the threatened ruff.

South therefore played queen-king, club ace and club queen - pitching his high heart. West had to follow. Now declarer played a diamond. East could win and lead a heart, but declarer's spade spots would prevent West from making more than the spade king. If East played back a spade, the defenders could keep declarer from ruffing the third diamond in dummy, but he would simply win the third round of spades in dummy and cash the fourth club to shed a diamond.

Military Use Of Space Station Said Limited

By Al Roser Jr., UPI Science Editor

WASHINGTON (UPI) — NASA's administrator says the Pentagon will be able to conduct peaceful military research aboard the civilian agency's planned space station if it wants to, but he would prohibit installation of weapons.

James Fletcher told the House Science and Technology Committee Thursday that an agreement between the Defense Department and NASA limiting military use of the station should clear the way for international participation in the orbital base planned for the 1990s.

Although the Pentagon says it has no plans to use the space station, it had raised the issue of possible military use in the future. That apparent shift in Pentagon policy delayed NASA's negotiations with the European Space Agency and Canada and Japan.

NASA plans to meet next Wednesday with its international partners, expected to contribute an estimated $3 billion worth of equipment to the permanent base in orbit.

Fletcher told the committee the administration's senior interagency group on space settled the issue Wednesday, concluding weeks of discussions between NASA and the Pentagon.

"They wanted to be sure we weren't acting them out of the picture," Fletcher said of the Defense Department concern.

"They have not indicated any requirement for the space station," he said. "They just wanted to be sure that in the future if they had some requirement, they would not be excluded from use of that space station, provided it was for peaceful purposes."

Rep. Robert Walker, R-Pa., asked if it would be possible under the agreement to do weapons research aboard the space station.

"I think weapons research in the sense of laser beams or something of that sort, no," Fletcher said. "But in terms of, let's say, research on semiconductors, which they use as well as we, that would be fair game."

Walker pressed his question again.

"Weapons research covers a lot of territory," Fletcher replied. "If we're talking about components of weapons, the answer is yes." Walker also repeatedly asked Fletcher if weapons would be allowed aboard the space station.

"Weapons is a broad category, Mr. Walker," Fletcher retorted, but added that the station would not house nuclear weapons nor "the kind that would be used by the Defense Department."

Walker pressed, asking: "Is it specifically excluded from putting weapons aboard the space station under your agreement?"

"The international space station is for peaceful purposes," said Fletcher. "We could not put a major defense weapon on the space station and have it acceptable to our foreign partners."

FCC Chairman Named

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Reagan picked Dennis Patrick to succeed Mark Fowler as chairman of the Federal Communications Commission, a move expected to continue the sweeping deregulation of the nation's airwaves.

"I am deeply honored by the president's intentions," Patrick, 35, said in a statement after the announcement Thursday. "I welcome this opportunity to serve and hope to justify the confidence the president has expressed in me. I share the view of many that Mark Fowler has been and continues to be an outstanding chairman."

Because Patrick, a conservative Republican, is already an FCC commissioner, his appointment will not require Senate confirmation.

White House officials said Patrick, who has served with the FCC since Dec. 5, 1983, will

Stocks Open Mixed

NEW YORK (UPI) — Prices opened mixed today in active trading of New York Stock Exchange issues.

The Dow Jones Industrial average, which climbed 10.26 to close above 2200 for the first time Thursday, was down 3.24 to 2198.25 shortly after the market opened.

Gainers led losers 503-377 among the 1,301 issues crossing the New York Stock Exchange tape.

Early turnover amounted to about 11,774,100 shares.

The stock market posted another gain Thursday, pushing the Dow Jones Industrial average to its first close above 2,200 and other market indexes to record highs in the second-busiest day ever.

Traders cited strong bond prices and a more optimistic view of the economy as reasons for the market's climb. But they also said investors' fear of being left behind a rising market spurred buying.

Traders said the market's seemingly unstoppable gains have left many investors feeling that they must buy or be left behind.

"No one wants to be caught with much cash," said Jerome Hinkle of Sanford C. Bernstein & Co.

Cosmonauts Rocket Into Space

MOSCOW (UPI) — Two cosmonauts aboard a new Soyuz TM-2 spacecraft rocketed into the night sky in Soviet Central Asia early Friday and headed for the new Mir space station and a stay in orbit expected to last at least five months.

Cosmonauts Yuri Romanenko, a veteran of two previous space flights, and Alexander Laveikin, an engineering making his first trip to space, were "feeling well," the Soviet news agency Tass said.

Tass said the spaceship, an upgraded version of the reliable Soyuz spacecraft that has been in operation for two decades, was "functioning normally" during the initial stages of the mission.

The launch from Baikonur was shown live on state television and in the United States and occurred according to the previously announced schedule 38 minutes after midnight Friday Moscow time.

The 160-foot rocket rode a brilliant orange plume of flame, then contracted to a glowing point as it disappeared from camera range.

At intervals of a few seconds an announcer at the control center said "flight normal" in an unemotional voice. A camera aboard the Soyuz showed the two cosmonauts strapped into place.

The cosmonauts will dock with the orbiting Mir station two days after liftoff. The Mir, whose name means "peace," was launched in February 1986 and is to be the base for a permanent manned Soviet space station, now the chief goal of the Soviet space program.

It was the second Soviet spaceflight following the explosion of the American shuttle Challenger a year ago. It also was the second Soviet launching shown live on television.

Soviet television, picking up the style that has always marked American space launches, earlier showed the crewmen moving out of their Baikonur station and boarding a specially equipped bus for a nine-minute ride to the launch pad.

Romanenko flew aboard Soyuz 26 for 96 days in late 1977 and early 1978 and again on Soyuz 38 for eight days in September 1980. His crewmate for that flight was the first Cuban to reach orbit.

"We have an interesting program of research to carry out and we are looking forward to our work in space," Laveikin told Radio Moscow in a pre-flight interview.

The Soviets' return to their orbital laboratory comes at a time when the U.S. shuttle program is grounded and NASA's planned space station project is struggling to win congressional approval despite a possible $5 billion cost overrun and concern the project will be delayed.

Diplomats said the advance announcement down to the actual scheduled time of liftoff represents renewed Soviet confidence in its space program in the face of failures in the U.S. and European programs.

NASA is still reeling from the Jan. 28, 1986, Challenger disaster — the next shuttle flight is scheduled for launch in February 1988 — and the European Space Agency's French-built Ariane rocket remains grounded because of a 1986 failure.

The new Soviet flight aboard the Soyuz TM-2 and the Mir station is expected to last more than five months, according to diplomats, and will include a linkup with a joint Soviet-Syrian cosmonaut pair in July.

The world record for space endurance was set in 1984 by cosmonauts Leonid Kizim, Vladimir Solovyov and Oleg Atkov, who logged 237 days aboard the Salyut-7 space station.

The Soyuz TM-2 flight marks the first Soviet manned space shot in six months and only the second since the Challenger accident. The mission is the 60th Soviet manned one since 1961 and will enter Romanenko and Laveikin in the record books as the 199th and 200th men in space.

The cosmonauts will conduct a series of medical and scientific experiments and are expected to make several space walks and continue construction of additional chambers to the Mir that Kizim and Solovyov began during their 125-day stay in space last year.

Earlier this year, a Progress space ferry was launched into orbit and docked automatically with the Mir station, which has six docking ports. In preparation for Friday's launch.

Soviet space expert James Oberg said Mir's orbit was raised Jan. 27 to allow the upcoming rendezvous.

New Tax Forms Promised

WASHINGTON (UPI) — IRS Commissioner Lawrence Gibbs, trying to quell the storm over the new penalties for taxpayers who make honest mistakes with the complex document.

Gibbs, under questioning from a Senate Finance subcommittee, said IRS technicians had been sent "back to the drawing board" to come up with a new form and worksheet many American taxpayers.

The IRS chief said he hoped that in the next several weeks the IRS would have a simpler form that could be filled out by "most middle- and lower-income taxpayers."

"Our goal is to try to come up with a form that for most, if not all taxpayers, will be simpler," Gibbs said. "We're going to work until we find a way to do it."

He added that he was "sympathetic ... to alleviating penalties for people who are trying to complete and are having trouble" with the 300 million W-4 forms recently printed.

He promised to "come back with a proposal to try to address that," but cautioned that he had "not yet figured out how to do it."

The new forms were required because of last year's enactment of the sweeping tax reform changes.

However, the four-page form, including a complicated worksheet, has stymied thousands of taxpayers and prompted a huge public outcry. Employees are required by law to file a new W-4 by Oct. 1.

The Internal Revenue Service has previously stressed that while it is trying to work on new forms, there are no guarantees they would be ready for this tax year.

Officials have warned people that if they fail to fill out a form, they run the risk of having too little federal income taxes being withheld from their paychecks.

The new tax reform law also requires taxpayers to have a more accurate amount of tax withheld from their paychecks and calls for stiff penalties if a taxpayer has too little withheld.

Subcommittee Chairman David Pryor, D-Ark., chided Gibbs for the W-4 forms and stressed that time was running out for a new form to be developed. The longer people have too little tax withheld from their paychecks, the more chance they have of being underwithheld at the end of the year.

...Clinic

Ouida Stacey Barrineau is the patient flow coordinator and has been with the clinic since April 1978.

In September, 1983, Mrs. Barrineau filed a complaint with the Equal Opportunity Commission alleging the clinic board denied her application for directorship of the organization because of her age, did not review her application, did not interview her for the position until after they hired Mrs. Moore and failed to follow its own guidelines as published in ads seeking a new director. However, Mrs. Barrineau said this had nothing to do with her losing her job as patient flow coordinator.

The amount to be saved includes the three staff members' salaries, malpractice coverage and benefits.

The clinic's operating budget approved for the calendar year is $1,128,327.

As a condition of the latest federal grant of $884,706, the Oviedo satellite clinic is scheduled to close by April 1. A plan is being formulated by the board to transport patients of the full-service family practice from Oviedo to the Sanford clinic for treatment.

Mrs. Moore said there is $2,300 in the budget for transportation, but there is also a line item for travel for the staff members now traveling to Oviedo three days a week to see patients at the clinic. Mrs. Moore said she will be moving $5,000 from travel to transportation because of the closing.

The grant is for the same amount as last year, while costs have risen.

"Essentially all of the line items were the same," she said, "so personnel was the only place we could cut. There was a big increase in the cost of malpractice insurance." The malpractice premium for the first six months was $32,000.

The board will meet at 7:30 p.m. Feb. 23 at the center at Park Avenue and 25th St. to discuss the closing of the Oviedo clinic and setting up transportation for the Oviedo patients. The meeting is open to the public.

Although services of the Central Florida Community Clinic are available to anyone, the patients are primarily categorized as medically underserved, financially indigent, Medicare or Medicaid. The total income the clinic received last year from patient fees was $214,000.

...Food

Seminole County Council of PTA's President Diane Thornton, attended the food service work session and said she was concerned that parents were not interviewed by the consultants in their evaluation of the food service program. She said, I want to make the point that I feel our major food service problems stem from inadequate facilities and not from food service employees and not from the way the program is run. I think that as soon as our facilities are up-graded, negative comments concerning food services will be unwarranted."

Recommendations made in the report to continue the improvement of the food service program include:

- Increase the director of food service position authority.

- Create two area manager positions.
- Improve kitchen employee training program.
- Establish incentive programs for kitchen personnel.
- Improve food quality and consistency.
- Consolidate serving lines where possible.
- Provide pocket thermometers and temperature check sheets to food service employees.

...Releases

would exceed the legal cap by 943 inmates if Black rules against the temporary structures.

Black has given no indication when she might rule on the challenges. Jacobs speculated the judge was waiting to see what action Martinez and the Legislature would take. A federal judge in Texas declared tents illegal under a similar court order in that state.

"They are playing a shell game," said Jacobs. "The only question is when and where the ax is going to fall."

The administrative release program is intended to keep the prison population within a cap established in the settlement of the class action suit. The new release program allows releases when the prison population hits 98 percent of legal capacity. The releases could continue until the population shrinks to 97 percent.

Only convicts already eligible for gain time may benefit under the new plan. First-degree murderers, drug or firearms offenders serving mandatory sentences, habitual criminals and sex offenders who have not completed rehabilitation programs are ineligible.

Officials got to work Thursday targeting inmates for release under the new program. David Bachman, the corrections department's assistant secretary, said staff were reviewing computer files for inmates who fit within the narrow category eligible for release under the program.

Those names will be forwarded to prison superintendents and double checked, and convicts could begin hitting the streets sometime next week, Bachman said.

Bachman could only guess at the number of prisoners who would be freed. Estimates of the eligible convicts ranged from 650 to as many as 1,900.

Studious Acts Or Subliminal Reactions

Doodles And Notes Reflect Life

By Susan Loden
Herald Staff Writer

Some books contain words, notes and doodles that their authors didn't pen. One of these additions might have started with you as a youngster in geography class when without even realizing it your pencil was by some unknown force drawn to circle all of the state capitals on a map in the textbook.

Or perhaps it was in algebra that as the teacher explained a thorny equation you followed right along in the book with your yellow felt tip marker.

Such student scribbblings are usually frowned upon by those who follow the penman in use of that particular text. But in some cases book collectors and historians are intrigued by messages that have been added to printed pages.

Bibles not only log the vital family statistics of births, marriages and deaths, but in some cases also are a guide to what the reader found most meaningful and either underlined or elaborated on it within the margin.

One thing such markings indicate is that the book in question has been read. And according to Sanford's Duane Harrell who collects old books, such notations can also reveal something about the book's former owner.

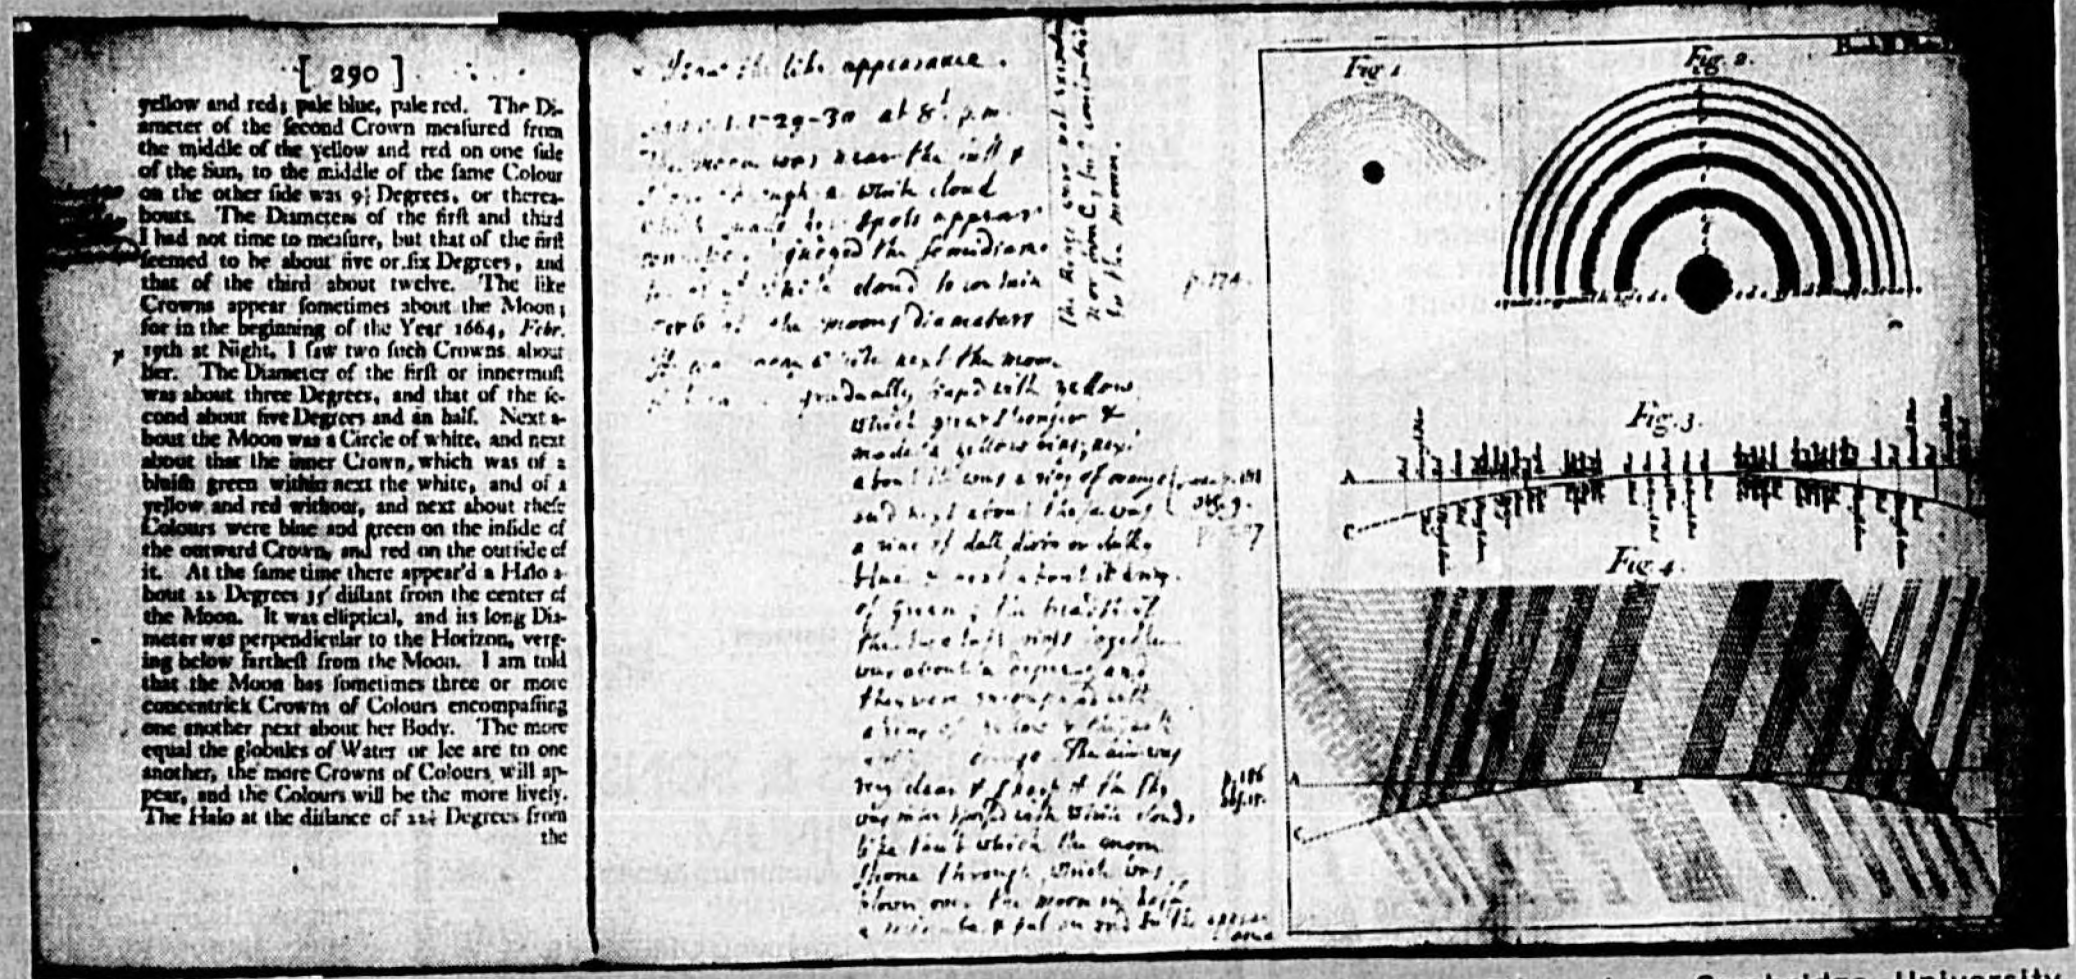

"I've got all kinds of treasures like that," Harrell said. He has a number of books that are more than 100 years old that have been inscribed by the author. Or to him, there is added meaning if there's a simple inscription saying 'Merry Christmas,' to the books original owner from its giver.

"Unless it just defaces the book, I enjoy it," Harrell said. "It makes it more interesting. I like that. I've been very fortunate finding books endorsed by the authors."

And he said a recent flea market find off a

This page of a 1508 German book has been underlined to alert readers to the medical conditions alleviated by plants included in the herbal. This text describes the uses of chrysanthemum.

This 1718 edition of Isaac Newton's Opticks was extensively annotated by Robert Smith, an 18th-century Cambridge University astronomy professor. The book is open to Smith's comments on atmospheric effects and halos around the moon.

Doodles

back road in Georgia was a copy of the Report on the Mayo Clinic, inscribed by both Mayo brothers. That book also held an additional treasure of a letter from the wife of one of the Mayo brothers to the owner of the book, who was apparently a family friend of the Mayos', Harrell said.

Ellen Wells of the Smithsonian Institution Libraries in Washington, D. C. said, "Everybody writes in books. It's a way of creating an image so the reader will catch some important point. Annotated books represent hard evidence someone handled the volume, read its author's words, reacted to them and responded by marking passages or writing in between the lines or in the margins. An annotated volume teaches you something about the learning process."

Some books, she said, printed from at least the early 16th Century, contain pages bound into the books with the suggestion that the reader correct mistakes made by the author or typesetter.

Often, Ms. Wells said, readers disagree with authors and correct the writer's assertions or write rude or laudatory comments in response to the text.

Not all comments are words of praise. In a 1513 volume, a commentary by Matthias Qualle on Aristotle's Physica and other books, one of the work's many annotators wrote in Latin, "Every man (is a) Thief."

In an 1718 edition of British scientist Isaac Newton's Opticks, or a Treatise of Reflections, Refractions, Inflections and Colours of Light, was in the hands of an 18th Century Cambridge University astronomy professor, Robert Smith, who added his own observations on atmospheric effects and halos around the moon.

In another historical work printed in 1888 a British physicist added his own notes predicting the existence of the ionosphere, an electrically conductive layer in the upper atmosphere.

Book collecting today, Ms. Wells said, emphasizes the pristine volume at the expense of the annotated copy. Unless the note writer is a recognized person of such importance that his or her comments on the book might be interesting, most collectors, unlike Harrell, she said, prefer a clean book.

Many books have been discarded because of the added markings, she said. "Marginal notes were of so little value after the 15th and 16th centuries that they were often cut through when a book was trimmed for rebinding."

Although Ms. Wells doesn't advocate writing in books, she said, "I fully expect that someday we will have a rare book library with a future Einstein's textbook marked with yellow highlighter and it will tell us something special about what that person was thinking when the book was read."

However intriguing that possibility might be, branch librarian Richard Gardiner, stationed at the Seminole County Library in Sanford, said he and most librarians consider books somewhat sacred. To mark in a book that is public property, he said, is something he frowns on, although he might make notes in books that are his own.

"It defaces the book and reduces its value. The next person doesn't want to read a book that's marked up," Gardiner said.

Works of fiction are generally safe from these phantom penmen, he said. Small children are likely to take a crayon to books for tots, but likely to be marred are reference books that students would use in report writing. And the ultimate in book abuse sometimes occurs with these textbook-type volumes, pages are ripped out by a user who won't go to the trouble of photocopying the information they need, Gardiner said.

Recapturing Hollywood's Bygone Days

By Mark Schwed
UPI TV Editor

NEW YORK (UPI) — In the four-hour miniseries "The Two Mrs. Grenvilles," NBC hopes to recapture the bygone days of Hollywood, when a kiss was not just a kiss, men and women danced cheek to cheek and everyone was filthy rich.

NBC's mini starts out with the same old swoon. Broadway showgirl with unclean past meets playboy from one of New York's most aristocratic families. He is a hunk of a sailor, and she's the salt of the sea. Together, they make plenty of waves.

On the dance floor of Manhattan's famed El Morocco, they squeeze so close the TV screen steams. Now the World War II Navy ensign has a reason to fight — he has a girl back home.

"The Two Mrs. Grenvilles," airing Feb. 8 and Feb. 9 over WESH-TV, Channel 2, (9-11 p.m.), packs the cast with grand names from the silver screen. Oscar nominee Ann-Margret plays the showgirl, and Oscar winner Claudette Colbert is the imperial mother-in-law. Stephen Collins is Billy, the man in middle of "The Two Mrs. Grenvilles."

Everything is red roses until Billy brings Ann home to a treasure-filled mansion to meet the future in-laws. Ann is in awe of the riches and immediately puts on airs. But you can't fool Mother Grenville. Ann is deemed unworthy and cast aside by everyone but Billy, who marries her.

The differences in upbringing plague Ann Grenville and finally threaten the marriage. There is a bitter argument in which Billy asks for a divorce. That night, Ann mistakes Billy for a prowler and shoots him dead in their bedroom.

There are whispered accusations that Ann shot her husband to collect his riches. To protect the family name, Mother Grenville and her high-society pals draw together and protect Ann Grenville.

"The Two Mrs. Grenvilles"

Ann Margaret is the younger Mrs. Grenville, a ambitious showgirl who marries into a powerful aristocratic family.

possesses the same soapy aftertaste as most network miniseries. There is romance, heartbreak and tragedy. But at least there's no Joan Collins. The fact that NBC landed Colbert and Ann-Margret to play the leads helped upgrade the final product considerably.

Colbert, 81, who had not made a film in 25 years, was drawn to the project by the quality of the book written by Dominick Dunne, on which the miniseries was based.

"As I read this book, I wanted to play Alice Grenville. I had no doubts or second thoughts about it. And then strangely enough, I went to a dinner party on Long Island where I was introduced to friends of Dominick Dunne. The friends relayed my interest to Dunne and he called me."

A year went by and Colbert was offered the part.

Colbert has worked with some of the greatest directors (Frank Capra, Cecil B. DeMille) and actors (Clark Gable, Charles Boyer) in American film history over her 64-film career.

Cloris Leachman: 40 Years After

By Vernon Scott
UPI Hollywood Reporter

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Cloris Leachman lost out in the 1946 Miss America beauty contest but she has been a winner ever since, possibly achieving more as an actress than any of the young women who have worn the crown.

In the 40 years since she entered the pageant as Miss Chicago — she was the only contestant not representing a state — Leachman has appeared in 27 movies, 18 plays and more than 100 television shows.

Along the way she picked up six TV Emmy Awards and an Oscar for her role in "The Last Picture Show."

To celebrate her four decades as an actress in films, TV and theater, Leachman will be honored at a testimonial dinner hosted by Paul Newman, Betty White and Columbia-Embassy Television.

At the moment, Leachman is starring in the TV series "The Facts of Life" and in the two-hour TV movie, "The Facts of Life Down Under."

"It's not easy for a woman to succeed at anything for 40 years," Leachman said the other day. She was only half kidding.

"I knew exactly what I wanted to do when the Miss America contest was over. I took the train to New York from Philadelphia. Dad had given me $60 to enjoy myself for three days in New York, but I had other plans.

"It was a steaming hot August day when I arrived at Grand Central Station. I had met a press agent, Joe Russell, in Atlantic City during the contest. He told me to call him when I got to New York," she said. "I called and on my first day in town he got me a job as an extra in a movie, 'Carnegie Hall,' for $30.

"I went to New York for three days and stayed for eight years."

Leachman laughed as she recalled that three months later she won the role of an understudy in a play titled "Mr. Peebles and Mr. Hooker." It survived only a few nights, but her fortunes changed when she won the lead role on Broadway in the hit "John Loves Mary."

It wasn't that simple, however. After the first performance she was replaced by Nina Foch at the request of director Norman Krasna. But Leachman stayed on as an understudy.

"Then along came live television, and I worked in the theater at nights and did TV during the day," she said. "I also attended the Actors Studio and did Maxwell House coffee commercials."

Leachman was lured to Hollywood in 1954 to co-star with Ralph Meeker in the early Mickey Spillane thriller "Kiss Me Deadly." It was her first major role in a movie.

"But it wasn't my first film," Leachman said. "When I was 17 years old Warner Bros. wrote a part for me in 'Women at War.' Faye Emerson was the star.

"I had no doubts I would be in show business for 40 years. I tried to play down the beauty contest thing while I learned how to be funny between the lines in comedy roles. Really, what I have is a silly bone and timing."

Over the years Leachman has starred in four television series, "Lassie," "The Mary Tyler Moore Show," "Phyllis" and "The Facts of Life."

Despite steady work in the theater and TV and 10 movies, Leachman did not become a recognizable face to most Americans until her brilliant performance as the pathetic small town housewife in "The Last Picture Show" in 1971, for which she won the Oscar as best supporting actress.

In all, Leachman has appeared in 27 films, the two most recent of which will be released this year — "Bobo" and "Hansel and Gretel."

"I play the mean old witch in 'Hansel and Gretel' and have the time of my life," she said. "In 'Bobo' I play the mother of Howie Mandell, a wolf boy. The mother is a real whacko and was a delight for me.

"What I like best is playing really off-beat, slightly mad women, like Frau Bleucher in 'Young Frankenstein,' who was love-starved and more than a little addled.

"I don't think of myself as a trained actress in the sense of going to school. But I learned from Elia Kazan at the Actors Studio that all actors must take responsibility for themselves as performers. And I do take responsibility for my work," she said.

"Another important thing I learned for myself: never to put my career ahead of my family. And I'm very proud of that.

"As for my first year in 'The Facts of Life,' it's wonderful. Like falling back into a warm bath.

"If I have my way, I will put in another 40 years as an actress before I think about retirement."

What's The Real Scoop On Gary Cooper

Dear Dick: Gary Cooper, quite a few years ago, starred as a boat captain with no seaman's knowledge. It was a great comedy! What was the movie? — B.D., Morgantown, W.Va.

Dear B.D.: From what little you have told me, it sounds like the 1951 release "You're In the Navy Now," not one of Cooper's best.

Dear Dick: Can you tell me what is the type of weapon that Don Johnson uses on "Miami Vice"? I say that it is a Bren 10 and my friend says that it's a .45 automatic. We have a small bet riding on this. The loser has to shovel the winner's snow for the next 30 days. Also, can you tell me if the gun is American-made or foreign-made. — R.G., Westville, Ind.

Dear R.G.: I hope for your friend's sake you have a mild winter. For all you gat buffs out there, it is a Bren Ten, as the manufacturer prefers to spell it. The weapon, which goes for around $600, is made by Dornaus and Dickson, an American manufacturer.

Dear Dick: I am writing in hopes you can track down the name of a little girl I saw in a movie. I have seen the movie many times but for some reason I have forgotten her name. The movie was "The Gift of Love" with Lauren Bacall and Robert Stack, made in 1958. Who was the little girl? — P.F., Coshocton, Ohio.

Dear P.F.: That was a cute tyke named Evelyn Rudie.

Dear Dick: My wife and I have a bet on this one. She says that "White Christmas" hasn't been shown on TV over the last three years due to some type of litigation involving Bing Crosby. Is this true? — K.W., Conroe, Texas.

Dear K.W.: No. You win, although maybe she can wriggle out of the bet on a technicality. Bing Crosby's people tell me there has been no litigation, but for some years the film was not televised. The owners were waiting until the video was issued and became established. That has now been accomplished, and "White Christmas" is again being shown: in fact, it was often on TV this past season.

Dear Dick: As a daily listener to "Days of Our Lives," I have a question. I know that Bill Hayes, as Doug Williams, and Susan Seaforth Hayes, as Julie, are really husband and wife. Now Doug says Julie is getting a divorce, and she is not in the story. Can you tell me why she is not, and what happened? — L.C., LaPorte, Ind.

Dear L.C.: Susan Seaforth Hayes got a better job. She is now on "The Young and the Restless." But the people at "DOOL" tell me there is no divorce in the works. On the show, Julie is supposedly in Europe and is just being forgotten. (In real life, by the way, the Hayeses are doing fine.)

Dear Dick: Who was the actor who played on the old "Superman" series? Is he related to Christopher Reeve, who is the new "Superman"? — S.P.B., Houston.

Dear S.P.B.: That question gets asked so often. George Reeves — with an "s" — was the old Superman. No relation to Christopher Reeve — without an "s." And, anyhow, George's real last name was Bessolo.
