After Many Years

Joseph Bumby of Orlando was a visitor to the city last Saturday and to a Herald scribe related some interesting data regarding Sanford's early history. Mr. Bumby was greatly surprised at the marvelous growth of Sanford in late years and remarked that his early recollections of the city showed a remarkable contrast. He carried the mail from Sanford to Orlando before the days of railroads, and was accustomed to tie his horse to a tree on what is now the most populous part of First street. At that time there was but one store in Sanford, and the waters of Lake Monroe lapped the shores where are the business houses now standing.
 Had he invested a few dollars in Sanford real estate at that time he would now be a millionaire.

CULLED FROM THE STATE PRESS

An Epitome of the Week's Most Important Happenings in the State's Domain.

Deputy Sheriff Allen, of Inverness, shot and killed Will Purvey, a negro, in that town, shortly after midnight Saturday. The officer was passing through the colored quarters of the town when Purvey called him and attempted to slash him with a razor. The coroner's jury exonerated the officer.

Harry White, a former resident of Cocon, has been placed in the county jail under $1,000 bond for entering the Indian River Drug Company's building—at that town and taking $42.00 in money and $13.00 in checks. He was a clerk in the store up to about two months ago and knew the combination to the safe. He burned the checks, and the proprietor of the store recovered $21.00 of the money.

There seems to be a desire on the part of the United States Government to investigate the Caloosahatchee river, with a view to improving it and doing such things as will be a benefit to the river traffic. A board of engineers will visit the city on the 17th of this month and, with a number of citizens, will take a trip down the river to Punta Rassa, the main object being to get a glance at the river and form some idea of what can be done to improve same.—Fort Myers Press.

A movement to raise a fund for the purpose of presenting the battleship Florida with a handsome silver service, was inaugurated Saturday by Secretary Waterman, of the Pensacola Chamber of Commerce, when he announced that he would devote attention to the proposition and lead all assistance possible in raising the desired amount. The idea is for citizens of Florida to contribute, whatever they desire, say $5,000, and the Legislature appropriate and equal amount which would give to the vessel one of the handsomest services of any battleship of the navy. The movement had its origin in Jacksonville, and the State is expected to respond readily.

Attorneys representing the Key West Cigar Manufacturing Association have started suit against one of the largest cigar dealers in Philadelphia for the fraudulent use of the name of Key West on cigars sold by them. This will probably be a test case.

That Jacksonville is destined to be the New York of the South Atlantic Coast is evident from the fact that every few days some big enterprise springs to the front, each adding to the already large wholesale and retail business in that city; the latest of these being the Merchants' Warehouse Company.

It will take $22,000 to carry on the expenses of municipal government in Key West during the coming year.

A Pensacola representative of one of the big western packing companies has been fined $100 for selling tainted meat. The corner stone of the New Masonic Temple at Gainesville was laid Wednesday with the imposing ceremony of the Masonic order.

More than two million pounds of Florida leaf tobacco was shipped from Pensacola on the British steamship Cuban last Tuesday, consigned to Liverpool, England.

A fire at Newberry, Alachua county, on Monday, destroyed several of the most substantial business houses in the town. The total loss is estimated to be more than $20,000.

The reunion of the Confederate Veterans of the Florida division will be held in Tampa, October 21 and 22. It promises to be one of the most enthusiastic gatherings ever held in the State.

That Palatka and Putnam county are to soon have bridges, hard roads and a modern court house is evident from the action in the matter by the board of commissioners at its last meeting.

By the overturning and explosion of a heretofore lamp, Eben, the eight year old daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Peacock, of Bradenton, was so severely burned that she died a few hours after the accident occurred.

Not long ago the pension roll of Confederate Veterans of Florida contained 7,200 names, but death in recent months has cut the number down to 3,706. Each day the number is lessening and it will not be long before all the old heroes are all gone.

It is reported that the Florida State fair will again be pulled off again at Tampa next year. Did any body have an idea that these Tampanites were going to miss the opportunity to check out the $15,000 appropriated by the last Legislature for that project?—Gainesville Sun.

While locking up an Italian prisoner named Abraham Nevi in the St. Petersburg jail Wednesday Constable E. A. George was overpowered by the prisoner and killed with his own gun. The Italian then killed the entire Police department and held the officers at bay until he was finally shot to death.

In announcing suspension of the Tallahassee Sun the publisher informs his subscribers he is making an effort to have the unexpired subscriptions carried out by Watsons Jeffersonian. Looks like L. Engle as a parting shot, is trying to carry the State Populist. The Sun had a numerous list in Starke, ranging somewhere from three to six, and we shudder to think what would happen to the Democratic ticket if all this horde of stalwarts should be suddenly and unceremoniously transferred to Watson.—Starke Telegraph.

The rate of taxation in West Palm Beach for this year has been placed at 20 mills on an assessed valuation of $140,250.

The citizens of Ocala and Marion county are taking steps to organize a county fair to be held some time during next winter.

The postoffice at Jupiter, in Dade county has been discontinued and the inhabitants of Jupiter will have to go to the neighboring planet, Neptune, to get their mail.

DEATH BLOW TO CONVICT SYSTEM

Each County in Georgia will Work Its Own Misdemeanor Convicts

At midnight Saturday night Gov. Hoke Smith signed the convict bill and the system that has been in existence in that State since 1865 was abolished.

Under the terms of the new convict law adopted by the General Assembly Saturday morning, the 2,400 misdemeanor convicts and the 3,000 felony convicts which the State has to handle, is disposed of as follows:

The counties are forced to maintain and work the misdemeanor convicts, each county taking the number of its convicts. The counties are allowed to buy or lease farms upon which both the misdemeanor and felony convicts may be worked in order to raise supplies for the road work it may be engaged upon.

Counties desiring to work their quota of felony convicts upon the roads must notify the prison commission not later than February 10, 1909, and annually thereafter before that date. After this first distribution is made to counties desiring to work their quota, then counties desiring more may apply to the commission, and may have them without cost, except that an equal amount of convict labor is to be returned to counties furnishing the convicts when those counties are ready to work their quota.

School Opens Next Week

Prof. N. J. Perkins, the efficient principal of the Sanford High School, is busy this week getting the school in shape for the opening of the fall term. There will be one change made this year that should be of great benefit to the first grade pupils.

Miss Jennie Henderson, who will have charge of this department, comes to Sanford with fine recommendations, and the school is fortunate in having such an able teacher to take charge of the little tots. The first grade will be located in the old school building formerly used as a kindergarten, and this arrangement will keep the younger scholars separate and distinct from the other pupils.

A kindergarten department will be added to this grade if possible, and parents can rest assured that the younger children will be taken care of and receive proper attention.

Prof. Perkins has a most efficient corps of assistants and the school will start under most favorable conditions.

Do It Now

Property owners should sign the petition for public drainage in this district. The papers are in the offices of J. N. Whitner and The Holden Real Estate Co., and should be signed at once in order that the matter can receive the attention of the county commissioners at their meeting in October.

Items of Interest Gleaned From Various Sources

HAPPENINGS DURING THE WEEK

Here the Readers Will Find a Brief Historical Spring Flowing For Hurried Readers

William J. Bryan has written a "red-hot" message to President Roosevelt, denying the charges made by the latter that Treasurer Haskell of the Democratic National Committee was in the Standard Oil. The President replied in like manner and the affair has created the biggest sensation of the campaign.

Mrs. Howard Gould has demanded $120,000 a year from her husband, pending divorce proceedings.

Forest fires are raging in California. One town has been destroyed and many others are threatened.

The cannery ship, Star of Bengal, sank in Alaska waters on the 23rd inst., and one hundred and ten persons perished.

W. J. Oliver, who offered to take the contract to build the Panama canal, is to build the new water dam at Augusta, Ga., to replace the dam destroyed by the recent flood. The cost will be about $1,000,000.

A company is now being organized in Germany with a capital of $125,000 to establish a line of passenger airships between the principal capitals of Europe, backed by the Krupps and the leading bankers.

Editors of forty trade union journals published in various parts of the country met in convention in Chicago recently and after forming a permanent organization voted their support for Bryan and the Democratic ticket.

Dr. Leroy S. Chadwick, husband of the late Cassie L. Chadwick, who died in the penitentiary, serving a term for her great awfully operations has filed a petition of bankruptcy. He places his personal debts at $1,750, and debts contracted through endorsing notes for his wife at $850,000.

James Bellows McGregor, of Mount Sunapee, New Hampshire, the oldest Mason in the country and believed to be the oldest white man now in the United States, recently celebrated his one hundredth and seventh birthday. Mr. McGregor can read ordinary print with the aid of a reading glass, and is hale and hearty.

The alarming spread of cholera in Russia has given rise to the gravest fears that the whole European continent will be ravaged by this disease. Germany, France, Italy, Austria, England and other countries are planning the most rigid precautionary measures. Owing to the unsanitary condition of Russia, it seems impossible to check the spread of the disease. The Austria health officials say that one thousand cases have been reported in St. Peterburg alone.

Great London is said to have 50,000 houses that are vacant, representing $150,000,000 dead capital. If that was in Atlanta or Georgia the Tampa Tribune and the "noted traveler" (for booze), Allan Rogers, would say it was the result of prohibition. London is mighty prosperous, according to the reasoning of such hired writers as Allen and Ex-Governor Peck, whose lurid logic adorns the pages of that great "temperance champion," the Times-Union.

A full program for the reception by the Japanese to the American fleet, which is due October 17, leaves very few minutes for sleep while the vessels are in port. Official orders, the American press is informed, will include decorations as to the treatment of the visitors. Already in Yokohama it has been directed that during the visit of the fleet, lanterns bearing the flag of the United States shall be distributed and displayed from every house and shop day and night. It is understood that the American ambassador will give a dinner to the officers, as well as a reception which will take the form of a garden party. On every side there is enthusiasm. The Japanese seem to take no notice whatever of the innuendoes that there may be some overt act committed. They laugh and say that this is the work of the professional propagandist and it is not to be taken seriously.

Orville Wright, in three phenomenal flights at Fort Myer near Washington, Saturday, the 17th inst., established new aeroplane records that not only assure the success of the official trials before the army board, but indicate that aerial flight is now only a matter of development. Two flights of approximately an hour each, another flight in which two men were whirled through the air for 6 minutes were achievements of the Wright brothers' aeroplane. The first flight in which the machine circled the drill grounds at the fort fifty-seven times in fifty-seven minutes and thirty-one seconds, was surpassed later in the same day when a flight of sixty-two minutes and fifteen seconds was made. Not satisfied with breaking all distance and time records for a heavier than air flying machine, Mr. Wright took Lieut. Frank P. Lahm, the aeronaut of the signal corps, for a spin around the drill grounds, and making a new record for a two-man flight. Among the spectators were members of the cabinet and high officers of the army and navy.

A Fine Fire Wagon.

The Dick Holland Wagon works have just turned out a very fine fire wagon for the Sanford Fire Department.

The wagon is something like the Orlando wagons, intended for two horses and cost $250.

The painting and decorating was done by Mr. Lovering in fine style.—Orlando Reporter-Star.

Patronize Home Industries

KISSIMMEE GAZETTE

A TOWN is the same as an individual—to build up and make prosperous more money must come in than goes out. If a man spends more money than he makes it will not long before he is a bankrupt, and if a town, or the people living in it, spend their money abroad instead of patronizing local industries and commercial houses it will be but a short time until there will be no money on hand to spend anywhere for anything.

Now, for argument's sake, let us suppose that the citizens generally would send to a Chicago mail order house for their clothes, shoes and hats, how long would our merchants who deal in that particular branch of trade be able to keep their doors open?

The rule of patronizing home merchants, home factories and home industries of every character must be strictly adhered to, not theoretically but practically, if we wish to ever assume the proportions of a city. Jacksonville has adopted the rule that if a man patronizes foreign in preference to local businesses of any character he is taxed, in other words boycotted, by the citizens generally as a menace to the town, and the result has been that today ten and twelve story buildings are being erected in that city and in two years' time it will have one hundred thousand population. Remarks have frequently been heard on the streets of this city such as "I can get such and such a thing a little cheaper in— and I'm going to send for it." Suppose that the gentleman saying this spoke truly, does he stop and consider for one moment that if we all practiced his rule there would be no town here in a few months and that he would have no money to send abroad and make his purchases, that a dollar spent locally with Smith is in turn transferred to Brown, then to Johnson, and so on down the line, each getting his share of the profit on what he sells, but that the dollar he sent to Chicago or New York or anywhere else abroad has been as completely lost to our local business as if it were sunk to the bottom of the ocean?

Without the aid and co-operation of one another we cannot successfully live, and the sooner all our citizens get acquainted with this fact the sooner will Kissimmee take rank with the foremost cities in inland Florida.

There is a way to make us big, and that way is to patronize local businesses in every instance where possible.

LOCAL LEGISLATION

City Council Holds An Interesting Meeting

FRANCHISES THE MAIN ISSUE

Other Matters Pertaining to Welfare of City Receive Proper Attention

The City Council met in regular session on Monday night with Chairman Laffer and Messrs Thrasher, Robinson, Stevens, Robbins and Evans present.

After the roll call and reading of the minutes of the last meeting, the real business of the evening was launched by the request of a report of the street committee. Chairman Stevens of the committee reported the progress of sewerage construction and the work on the streets. It was a source of gratification to hear that the street committee intends to cut grass upon the streets and otherwise improve the appearance of the streets.

The building committee reported on the numbering of houses, and a resolution passed to finish this work at once, the committee being given the power to act and push the same to completion. This means that free delivery will soon be added to Sanford's many improvements. The warrants made out by the finance committee were approved and ordered paid.

The committee on ordinances being ordered to report, Attorney Andrew Johnson presented a petition for an ordinance granting a franchise for an electric plant and street railway, asking for right of way over First street, Tenth street, Palmetto avenue and such other streets as agreed upon by the Council, the same to be operated by electricity or compressed air as a motive power.

It was resolved to put the ordinance on its first reading, which was done.

The ordinance granting a franchise to the Sanford Traction Co., was ordered placed upon its second reading and was carried.

The following amendments were made: Resolved, that the word "exclusive" right to streets be stricken from the third line in section one of the franchise. To increase section number nine and substitute number ten in its place. That lines sixteen and seventeen be amended to read "gasoline or such other motive power as may be from time to time authorized by City Council, providing, however, at no time shall steam be used as a motive power." That the word "Palmetto" in the eighth line, section one, be erased and Sanford substituted. Same corrections in ninth line of section one. Wherever the words occurs of the names of the company and their heirs, the words "associates" and "gains" be added.

In section six, line four, the word "reasonable" be erased.

Alderman Thrasher submitted the following amendment which raised an animated discussion "that the Sanford Traction Co. should forever abide by the said ordinance and at no time contest or file suit against any point or part of said ordinance." Alderman Robinson thought this unfair and that it would hamper the company in all their transactions in the courts. Mr. Thrasher stated that in asking for these amendments he was only actuated by honest motives and wished to guard the interests of the city not only for the present period, but for all time.

The question was left to vote of the members present with the following result: Yeas, Thrasher and Stevens; nays, Robinson and Robbins. Messrs. Evans and Laffer declined to vote and this left a tie vote.

Mr. Robinson made a motion that all the amendments to the franchise be erased and taken up at the next meeting, which was passed. This virtually left the matter of the franchise where it had been at the last meeting, and the result is awaited with great interest by the public. S. O. Chase addressed the Council regarding the question of the Sanford Light and Fuel Co. lighting the city with electric lights and stated that while nothing definite could be said at this time, his company certainly intended to install a plant in the near future.

Good Morning!—How's your pulse?

A postoffice building is next for Sanford. Nothing is too good for the Celery City, and a direct effort made in that direction will certainly secure this much desired addition.

A destitute passenger, an entire stranger, died on the cars at Peru, Ill., a few days ago, and his body would probably have been shoveled off into the potter's field had it not been that on the body was found evidence that he was a member of the Knights of Pythias. The Peru order took the body in charge, investigated the circumstances, and found that he was from a town in Massachusetts. A coffin was bought, the body enclosed, and a committee accompanied it east to his old home, where there were lively manifestations of gratitude expressed by the widow and children and also the local lodge. A member writing to Peru said: "Permit me to say as a brother Pythian that I have several times wondered what would have become of the remains had he not been a member of the order." It is well to call attention once in a while to unostentatious kindness and interest shown by secret societies toward a member. No wonder the orders grow, wax in strength and power all over the civilized world.

In the days gone by, the business man used to take his pen in hand, but now he takes his typewriter in his arms—at least some of them do down at Tampa.

The watchword "hustle" is not a pretty word—it is slangy—but it is expressive of a good deal of valuable meaning, in these times.

In a period of depression and slack work, when a larger number of persons than usual are out of employment, the best and the only thing for an individual to do is to hustle as he never hustled before. The one who gets up earliest and strives the hardest and longest for remunerative work is the one who stands the best chance of obtaining it.

There is always a great deal of work that must be done in this world, for where the competition is unusually great, as now, the most foolish course for a man to pursue is to sit down and grumble about it.

Accept the harsh conditions and strive all the more earnestly for recognition. Furthermore, aim high. There is "plenty of room at the top," but only a little half way up, and none at all at the bottom.

A New York chemist recently analyzed a glass of beer and found five things in it that should not have been there. The generous brewer throws these in.

"One of the petty nuisances we have to suffer in our line of business," said a prominent grocer of our city to THE SAUNTERER, "is the continual pilferings from exposed packages of fruits, candies, nuts, crackers, etc., which our business compels us to display to make them attractive. Now, see that old man with his daughter coming in at the door, he is a regular customer and comes in almost every day. See! no sooner does he get through the door than out goes his hand for an apple. There is nothing surreptitious in the act on his part, as you will notice. He evidently thinks he does nothing wrong, and unconsciously helps himself to a small handful of some enticing morsel which his palate takes a fancy to almost every day as he has just done. Like father, like son' will apply to the daughter, also, for there goes the young lady, who is waiting for her father to make his purchases, making a bee-line for the candy counter, a small bit from one tray and a dip into another, until the entire circuit of the store is made. It is true, that what they have eaten is of small value, but during the whole day, with the hundreds of customers we have going in and out, the aggregate amount of our losses in this very same way is much larger than you would suppose."

I wish that all tired people did but know the infinite rest there is in fencing off the six days from the seventh. The anchoring of the business ships of your daily life as the Saturday draws to its close, leaves them to ride peacefully upon the flow or ebb until Monday morning comes again. O, the delight, the lull of feeling! "No need to think of this piece of work for a whole long thirty-six hours." Why do you read papers to keep your nerves astir with business on the Lord's day of rest? Why do you add up and consult and consider in the pauses of the sermon, or make opportunity for a business whisper in the church, and on the way home? Why do you let your perplexities of servants, of means, of plans, ruffle your spirits on the one great day of freedom? Do you not know that even a debtor may walk abroad on Sunday with no fear of a prison, and the house doors may stand open and no sheriff can enter? Shall it be worse with your mind than with your body? "Sleep, sleep today, tormenting cares, Of earth and folly born." It is the high court of the Prince of Peace.

A Sanford woman allows her husband to carry a hatchkey and show it to his friends and pretend he is boss of the ranch. But the key, just the same, can't unlock anything in or about the shebang.

Oh! these women: they are just making us men deceitful, and almost drive us to drink—water.

Dr. D. B. Sweat is just rounding out his third year as pastor of the First Methodist Church of Sanford, and it has been a glorious period for the congregation of that church, as well as for Dr. Sweat. No more enthusiastic minister ever came among us, and no one who takes a greater interest in the development of the city. He is ever energetic in doing all that makes for the betterment of mankind, and is especially interested in the community.

I sincerely trust that the people appreciate his efforts and more particularly that the good brethren of the First Methodist Church will do so to that extent that they will make "a call" for him to be returned for another four years.

From what I have seen of results, I am convinced that existing methods of instruction in schools are not an improvement over the old lines.

In the olden days, the days when children of all ages did not wear spectacles and swallow nerve remedies three-fourths of the year, it was customary for the youngsters to hustle off to school as soon as they had breakfast. Before school "took up" a game of "black man" or town ball had started the blood on a merry, health-giving rampage. The pupils went to their opening exercises and subsequent daily work with flushed, happy faces and with their soda biscuits and bacon settled. Not so now. In one school building in an Indiana city, the rule has been adopted making it a punishable offense to arrive earlier than a certain minute. And then if the poor child happens to make an error in his chronological calculations and arrives a minute or two late he is punished again! We are getting education down to a fine point. We are teaching punctuality to our babies with a vengeance. We are stuffing them with philosophy, bad spelling, poor geographical notions and astronomy. We are making them burn night oil and destroy health. We are making them hate their studies and despise their teachers. We are living in an advanced age—and don't you forget it! In twenty-five years the babe at the breast will, if the present craze continues, be wearing goggles and measuring the milk he gets by the metric system without the use of even a pencil or paper.

He was a tramp, or his looks belied him.

"Excuse me, gentlemen," he said, approaching a small group in front of the hotel, "but I'd like a chance to make a little money for some of you. If I can do that, I suppose you wouldn't begrudge me a small part of what I earn for you, would you?"

"Go ahead," laughingly retorted one member of the group, "you can't make too much money to suit me."

"Thank you," remarked the stranger; "nothing is easier. Have you a dollar bill?"

"Yes, but I intend to keep it."

"Good! Now you take that bill and fold it twice each way."

"Yes."

"Unfold it again and you'll see it in creases."

churches. When the meetings were concluded, one dominie put forth his best efforts and succeeded in getting nearly all the converts into his fold. The next Sunday the other parson felt that this circumstance needed a word of explanation and looking down at the handful of converts in his congregation he said: "Brethren, it doesn't make any odds who strings the fish—the Lord knows who caught them."

Lost Babies in the Woods

Messrs. Puleston and Ware love the pursuit of Master Reynard and when the huntsmen's horns are sounded these gentlemen are always found in the van leading the chase. One night last week the party started out, and in the excitement of the first fox, these two gentlemen became lost in the wilderness and never reached town until the break of day. They claim it was all a mistake, as the country is thoroughly familiar to them, but the rest of the bunch claim that the two were miles away from the hunters and were looking for "somebody."

What is Doing Among the Boys in Uniform and Overalls

T. L. Griffin was recently notified by wire of the severe illness of his brother in South Carolina. A pass was furnished and he left at once for the home of his brother. A letter says "much improved."

Work is being rushed at the shops, and the boys seem in good spirits.

S. K. Wood has resigned from his position in the tank department and accepted a position on Celery avenue with the carpenters. He did not fancy railroad work.

Mrs. A. E. Sutton and little daughter, Edna, who have been quite ill for several weeks, are convalescent.

Master Mechanic H. R. Stevens has put a stop to much of the overtime work. In the car repair department the hours are 7 a. m. to 4 p. m.

The old yard engine run by Mr. Barlow, has been off duty for a few days. It is an old wood-burner and most worn out, but can move a good train of cars yet.

Trains 83 and 84 are to run between Jacksonville and Tampa as heretofore—so it is rumored.

A. E. Sutton had a slight mishap recently which might have proved serious. He fell and struck his head against a car in a manner that made him see stars.

The Sanford Postoffice

To the Editor of THE HERALD: The management of the affairs of our postoffice is very efficient, indeed, and no one who considers the limited facilities of the office space can justly find fault with Postmaster Haskins, or any of his officials, in respect to the opening and delivery of the mails.

But the writer, who was once an employee, for a limited time during the great war, in the postoffice at Nashville, Tenn., and whose later observations of the interior arrangement of the postoffices of Boston and Washington, have shown him what is indispensable in a postoffice for the prompt performance of the work, and for a just protection of the health of the officials, desires to call the attention of the citizens of Sanford to the great need of a new and suitable postoffice for this city, to be built by the Government.

1. There is not, in our office, sufficient box space to allow every citizen to have a box—a facility that would obviate the present unavoidable delays at the general delivery window.

2. There is not enough desk room, nor room for the stamping of letters, to enable the business of the office to be transacted promptly.

3. And, more important than all other defects, the office-room is too contracted to allow of proper ventilation for the preservation of the health of the employees, which will surely be affected, in time, by long hours of occupation in a too close air space.

Let our citizens unite in a petition to Congress, during the coming session in December, for an appropriation to build a proper postoffice building in Sanford.

In the office of the chief architect of the Treasury Department, in Washington, plans for U. S. court houses, custom houses and postoffices, are being constantly prepared, and such a citizens' petition to Congress, presented and advocated by our Senators and District Representatives, would obtain an appropriation for our relief, just as such appropriations are constantly made for other cities in all parts of the country.

Finds Many For Bryan.

To the Editor of The Herald: Being a travelling salesman selling securities for a prominent banking house, and having just returned from a trip through the West and East, I have taken every possible means and opportunity to sound the opinions of the leading bankers, merchants, farmers and leaders of laboring organizations as the outcome of the Presidential election.

It will no doubt surprise New Yorkers to know that the sentiment is almost unanimous in favor of Bryan, as they believe him to be not only eminently capable, honest and sincere, but believe that he has mellowed by age is quick to see his mistakes and quick to correct them.

Everyone has the greatest admiration and faith in President Roosevelt and Judge Taft, but they believe that the republican party has grown so rich and powerful from the tariff and extravagances that a change is necessary or else the party will become bigger than the people.

Handsome Bryan Photograph.

Catching William J. Bryan in one of the most pleasing and naturally characteristic attitudes was the good fortune of the photographer responsible for the wonderful true-to-life photograph of the democratic leader, which reached us yesterday. Neither printer nor publisher spared expense in its reproduction, consequently, this picture of Nebraska's favorite son and Florida's favorite candidate, is the most handsome of the many which have been seen by us during the present campaign, and will undoubtedly be the most popular. It is published by A. R. Harper, Piano Company, 306 Main street, Jacksonville, Fla., who will consider it a favor to send a copy absolutely free to any reader of this paper who will write them.

CONCERNING A LOCAL PREACHER

A Story Told in The Florida Christian Advocats About Bro. Sweat

The preacher sat in his easy chair while the evening breezes swept the broad veranda. He was at peace with all mankind, his spirit subdued by the hush and restful prospect of the coming night, his thoughts were busy with the events of the day now closing. A stranger came up the steps, a pleasant smile upon his face, his hand extended in friendly greeting found a responsive hearty grip, in brother love from the willing hand of the preacher.

Stranger—"And this is Dr. B., pastor of First Church?"

Preacher—"Yes; I am pastor of this church."

S.—"Methodist church?"

P.—"Yes."

S.—"Well, my name is Wilson, T. E. Wilson; I am a Methodist; a member of Bro. Sweat's church in Sanford. We know Bro. Sweat quite intimately, and my family and I are very fond of him. We are now removing to Jacksonville. Owing to a recent closing of the car shops in Sanford, I find it necessary to come to Jacksonville in order to find employment. I have secured work in the shops of the S. A. L. Rr., in the western part of the city, and will locate my family on Eighth street, Springfield. My household goods will arrive this evening, and my family tomorrow. I am just erecting a building for my chickens; I have quite a number of very fine fowls, broilers and good fresh eggs are always to be had at our house. I have just presented dear Bro. Sweat with a coop of nice young broilers, of which he seemed quite proud. I always make it a rule to furnish my pastor with fresh eggs and now and then a fat hen or nice young broiler. Bro. Sweat expressed very great regret at the thought of our leaving his charge; but then you know we must often be governed by circumstances. So here I am arranging to locate in Jacksonville, and I will in a day or two give you our church letter, and cast in our lot with you at First Church."

P.—"Well, Bro. Wilson, we would, of course, be glad to have you join our church; but your residence on Eighth street, will be nearer our Springfield church, of which Bro. N. S. Williams is pastor, and I am sure he will be glad to receive you. Perhaps it would be more convenient for your children to attend his Sunday school."

S.—"That is all very true, but wife and I have heard so much of your superior preaching, and of the very excellent people whom you serve, among whom we have acquaintances, and owing to these advantages, we will put our membership in First Church."

P.—"Very well, then, Bro. Wilson, I will take pleasure in receiving you and your family, and will do what I can to aid you in religious life."

S.—"By the way, Bro. B., I am in need of additional material, with which to complete the "quarters" for my chickens, and it is now too late to reach the railroad shops before they are closed. I am under the necessity of asking you for the loan of a small amount."

P.—"How much, Bro. Wilson, do you need to complete your chicken coop?"

S.—"Only one dollar and twenty-five cents."

P.—"I have no money in my pocket, and will be compelled to give you my check."

S.—"Oh, that will be sufficient, Bro. B., any business man who knows you will cash it, and I will then be relieved of the necessity of going out to my employers."

The preacher secured a blank check and soon filled it out, while visions of new additions to First Church to be announced on the coming Sabbath, and perhaps some uprisings of desire aroused by the vivid and eloquent representations made by Bro. Wilson of "fat hens," fresh "eggs" and "young and luscious broilers," fully justified the very susceptible minister in his act of "bestowing his goods upon a stranger." The promise of a return of the money on the next day had also put a quietus upon any suggestions of misgiving.

Brother Wilson departed, and so did the day, and the next, and the next, but the "one twenty-five" nor Bro. T. Wilson ever returned to strengthen the preacher's faith in man. The check soon returned through the bank that cashed it, bearing the endorsement of a firm of liquor dealers, who doubtless had obtained it from Bro. Wilson for whiskey. The preacher felt the weight of this slick trick, and in pleasantry wrote the Rev. D. B. Sweat, giving a detailed account of the affair, and appealing to that worthy fellow-laborer on the propriety of a "divide" of the "nice broilers" he was reputed to have received as a present from his former parishioner. Bro. Sweat's reply was full of sympathy and brotherly counsel, but conveyed the information that the roll of members at Sanford contained not the name of T. E. Wilson. "So the "poorer but wiser" victim of "a smooth citizen" tried to exercise himself into Godliness and patience. Now, the incident is again brought vividly to memory by a letter from Bro. Sweat relating an experience with one T. E. Wilson, almost identical with that of the above mentioned preacher, only Wilson, as he represented to Rev. Sweat, had just arrived in Sanford from Bro. Williams' church, Jacksonville, and went into the same detail of mowing his family and chickens, fresh eggs, young broilers, fat hens, etc., until he had Bro. Sweat much wrought up in innocent desires of the flesh, but the recollection of the fate of his unfortunate brother pastor saved him from a like imposition and nerved him to charge the would-be-imposer with the guilt of the transaction in Jacksonville. Of course, Bro. Wilson expressed great surprise and much regret, declaring that "some unworthy person had wrongfully used his good name." The above is only one instance of innumerable like impositions to which preachers are subject everywhere. As soon as the new preacher occupies his quarters, he may look out for the coming of the frauds, and enjoy experimentally the truth of the words: "It is more blessed to give than to receive." Nevertheless, he may occasionally apply the words of Solomon, "My son, if sinners entice thee, consent thou not," or words to that effect. Selah. —J. W. B.

What's in a Name.

Orlando Reporter-Star. Editor Harris of the Ocala Banner has changed the name of that city from the "Brick city" to that of "The City of Sweet Content."—Gainesville Sun.

City nick names do not always wear well, but "Sweet content" is better than brick.

Orlando once sported "Phenomenal," and then some fellow dubbed it with an "Automobile."

We believe Sanford was once styled "Gate City," but now it is "Celery" and its people are even called "Celeryites."

Possibly Ocala folks are styled "Contenties" and Orlando people "Automobilettes" and Jacksonville residents "Mafletica."

Death Was in The Milk

Dr. Romero, health officer of Jacksonville is after impure and diseased milk in that city. He showed a bottle to the city council, and this is what he said:

"In this bottle," said the Doctor, holding the gruesome object up in plain view, "there is not only enough tuberculosis germs to kill the strongest baby in a short time, but the drinking of it would also have a like effect on a strong man or woman. This bottle was found within 3 blocks of this place, and although I do not think tuberculosis is general among the dairies which sell milk in Jacksonville, it is but one of many illustrations of the necessity of making careful tests as often as possible."

The Best Bananas

Hon. J. N. Whitner, standing in front of one of Sanford's leading groceries, pointing to a bunch of Bearhead Bananas, said to a friend "that is the best banana that grows."

Governor Broward says "The Bearhead banana is the finest banana that I ever tasted."

A Grand Concert

Monday night Sanford music lovers listened to a splendid programme of classical and popular music at the opera house, when Lily Vilona, violin virtuoso of Berlin gave a concert to a good audience, who showed its approval in unmistakable ways.

The following programme was rendered:

1. Violin Solo, Fantasia de Concert, Faust, Alari
2. Violin Solo, Swanee River
3. Violin Solo, Gypsy Tunes, Sarmate
4. Violin Solo, Intermezzo Rusticana, Mascagni
5. Violin Solo, Cavatine, Ruff. Chicken Polka, Fox
6. Violin Solo, Cavatine, Ruff. Chicken Polka, Fox

The artist was evidently pleased by the spontaneous applause and delighted faces of the audience, which called forth encores in happy mood. The programme was just right—not too long; not too brief—it leaves us with a strong wish to have the concert repeated soon.

Vilona is certainly a great artist and a young lady of charming presence. She plays with a master hand—not over the heads of her audience, but straight to their musical senses. Her violin sings songs, tells stories of love and emotions, thrills, crows with delight, flutters and rises, and comes to earth again.

Never before have we heard the violin crow, but this unique artist actually reproduces the bird's challenge in the chicken polka by Fox. Vilona's violin playing is full of power and harmony and is most impressive as was shown in all her numbers. It is noteworthy that Miss Vilona gave an entire concert by herself, the supporting ladies, Mrs. Likins and the pianist having failed to appear. No virtuoso ever succeeded in such a feat before.

Manager Johns is to be congratulated on securing such musical talent to open the season here. The management was requested to come again soon. Vilona will tour this season under the management of Colonel T. Hall of Indianola, Fla.

"A Quack From the Country"

A very enjoyable evening was spent at a surprise party given to Miss Jennie Carraway Thursday evening. Most of the party took the first degree in duckship before reaching the house. Consequently they were hung up to dry on arrival. As most of the callers were of the thin persuasion this did not require much time, and they were soon enjoying themselves in the highest degree with charades, cross questions and crooked answers, rabbit, mumblepeg, leap frog, skin the cat, and similar games, last of all, the much noted one of "good night." Among those present were:

- |                    |                 |
|--------------------|-----------------|
| Miss Nellie Amick  | N. P. Lipe      |
| Miss Nora Amick    | Bob McGlon      |
| Miss Ailie Robbins | Jeff Carruthers |
| Miss Lillie Lord   | S. G. Broer     |
| Miss Beattie Wynn  | Will Noland     |
| Miss May Humphry   | Lavin Talford   |

An amusing incident of the evening was one of the boys getting out of a covered buggy during the rain and walking back home to keep from getting wet.

A Pleasant Straw Ride

A jolly straw ride took place Tuesday night, in honor of Miss Cora Ordway of Tampa, a guest of Mr. and Mrs. Ferguson. The party went out to the Celery avenue ferry and spent a few hours in towing on the St. Johns. Refreshments were served and all report a good time. Those who participated in this pleasant diversion were: Misses Cora Ordway, Mildred and Mary Haskins, Mabel Goss, Adn Stenstrom, Nora Amick, Carrie Ensminger, and Messrs. Eddy Randall, Beacher Rept, Walter Griffith, Ed. Routh, S. E. Broer; Mrs. George, Randall chaperoned the happy young folks.

Miss Willie Wynn left Thursday night for Bradford, Fla., where she will teach this winter.

Miss Tillie Evans has for her guests this week the Misses Edie Lord Martin, and May Alice Martin and Mr. F. A. Cannon of Jacksonville.

Despite the inclement weather, the usual Thursday night dance at the city hall was well attended, and a happy time enjoyed.

Miss Chelaie Butt is expected home in a few days from North Carolina, where she has been spending a three months' vacation.

Mrs. Mary Ordway and daughter, Miss Cora, left today for their home in Tampa, after a week's visit to Mrs. J. H. Ferguson.

Miss Mary Ensminger arrived here last night, after a very pleasant five weeks' vacation, spent in Richmond, Va., and other Northern points. Miss Ensminger is much improved in health, and everyone is glad to know that she has recovered from her indisposition.

Pink Putterbaugh, who has been gold-mining in Arizona, is here visiting his uncle, Nate Korpeter. Pink seems quite prosperous, as he bought a new suit of clothes on the installment plan, and a new second-hand bicycle. Pink says that $2 per day is wearing on one's nervous vitality.

Much wet weather prevaileth hereabouts. Over a bushel of popcorn and peanuts were consumed during the street fair at Macaroni Delta that ran three days this week.

Our new baseball team bought new three dollar uniforms last week. Quite a number of our business men subscribed fifty cents each, and local pride was much stirred up over the defeat of the Bungalow Corners club by our boys, who skinned 'em 23 to 16.

The Bean Creek saw mill is kept busy of late. Two cypress logs passed through town yesterday and one the day before. We learn that all the sawdust is engaged in advance for sidewalk construction in Enterprise and Bungalow Corners.

Pete Gilchrist collected $300 on his wife's life insurance and has bought a second-hand automobile on the installment plan. Many of Pete's neighbors are reported as saying that his oldest daughter is badly in need of shoes and stockings and undergarments.

An epidemic of twins is prevailing in Macaroni Delta, and the center of population is veering round in this direction.

Abraham Lincoln Johnson and Christopher Columbus Jones, the newly elected deacons in the colored Hardshell church, have bought a gallon of gin for communion purposes for the next quarterly meeting. It is thought that the gallon will not be too much.

Your correspondent was agreeably entertained at a sumptuous dinner given by Mose Dingman's wife to several of our prominent citizens last night. Among those present were Deacon Snodgrass, Deacon Hostetter, Col. Bill Horkenspitz and his charming daughter Cuspadora, Gabe Terwilliger, Preacher Goodbelcher and others. While the guests were of opposite political and religious views, no acrimony was visible to the naked eye. After repeat anecdotes and song and recitation was the order until late in the evening. Belladonna Saillies sang the "Three little girls in blue" with eclat and Cuspadora Horkenspitz warbled "After the ball was over" with so much pathos that there was hardly a dry eye in the house. Deacon Snodgrass told a snake story that made everybody yell with laughter.

Mary Jane Lungbuster and Jim Sidebottom sat in the same pew in the Hardshell church, last Sunday. More or less gossip is floating around in consequence. Truman Scully and his father-in-law have bought the red lemonade and cracker jack privilege for the Newlight campmeeting next week in Jim Bolivar's woods.

Zeke Spruggins is getting up a glee club to sing campaign songs for either party that will pay the most money. Zeke leans toward the Prohibitionists, but says business is business.

"Those yellow kahkai uniforms," said a Macaroni Delta woman who was over to Orlando yesterday, "certainly are very becoming to our soldier boys. They give 'em such a broad shouldered appearance about the hips."

The editor of the Macaroni Cyclone declares that an era of prosperity has dawned on our distracted country. Delinquent subscribers are calling at the office almost hourly and leaving word that they will pay up in the near future.

The Macaroni Quartette Glee Club appeared at the Newlight church last Sunday in their new blue sweaters, knee pants, gum shoes and rubber collars. Our young ladies were much smitten.

Two more new bath tubs have been installed in houses of our well-to-do citizens this week, showing the growing metropolitan trend of our town. Sylvanus Plunkett and Josh Korpeter's houses got 'em.

Uncle Bill Garlick, got a letter from his son Bill in Arizona, informing him that he had won the championship at an egg-sucking contest out there and his society was much sought after. Uncle Bill is feeling quite proud.

Sam Gowdy and Arminta Gullett have commenced keeping company and old man Gullett is madder a wet hen. He says Sam's too lazy to draw his breath, and he aint sufferin for that kind of a son-in-law.

THE GRANTING OF FRANCHISES

The citizens of Sanford are taking a great interest in the meetings of the council and attend regularly. The franchise question is of the most vital interest and while it is only right to grant the gentlemen these franchises that mean so much to our city in improvements, still no one can blame the members of the city council from being very careful in the wording of each and every franchise. The gentlemen who compose the present corporations seeking rights and privileges from the city are all honorable men and citizens of Sanford. No one questions their purposes in seeking these rights, or that they would in any way, shape or form take undue advantage of the city. But these franchises are not granted for a day or a year, but for a period that will exist after the present body of aldermen have ceased to exist. The incorporators of today will have relinquished their holdings to others, probably foreign capitalists and in their hands the city may become a prey to corporate greed that would result in a condemnation of the original grantors of such a franchise. The city council is not building for a day but for all time and their careful action and mature deliberation upon the present petitions for franchises is only a faithful adherence to their duty toward their fellow citizens.

Sanford needs these improvements and will get them in due time. When the franchises are granted the ordinances will be in proper form and redound to the credit of the council instead of being a bone of contention in the years to come.

APPRECIATES THE HERALD

Among the many nice compliments bestowed upon THE HERALD by the Sanford people and those living in other parts of the county and state is the one below from our valued friend and former employer, Mr. Hewitt Hill. Lack of space forbids the publication of all these letters, but this one deserves a place and we give it:

Tampa, Sept. 21, 1908.
My Dear Boys:—Today I received The Herald, No. 5. You sent me a copy of No. 1—I said "good, but I am afraid 'tis too good—can it be possible—it will hardly be possible, to keep up the pace, as a matter of steady, or weekly diet?" But here comes number five—and five times as much of a paper as was number one. I want number six and seven and so on ad infinitum—so I enclose you my check for a year's subscription to the paper, which kindly mail to me at my home address, 106 Plant Avenue.
Sincerely and appreciately,
HEWITT HILL.

A local correspondent has written a commendation to THE HERALD and which is published in this issue under "Voice of the People," which should awake the enthusiastic concurrence of every Sanford-loving citizen. A suggestion is made that the people of this city "get busy" at once and petition the Postoffice Department, at Washington, for a new and more commodious postoffice building. The point is well taken, as this city has long since out-grown the "cross-roads" style of cramped quarters for a postoffice, and we will be satisfied with nothing short of a building built especially for the transaction of the government's business.

Such a great desideratum is within our grasp and only requires united effort on the part of our people.

The Champion of Arcadia in its last issue says that it thought it was doing pretty good newspaper business last week when it published twenty-eight columns of good live reading matter, at least five columns more than any other DeSoto county newspaper, and DeSoto has five of the healthiest papers you ever saw, but then we decided we weren't so "many" after all when we got hold of Editor Holly's Sanford Herald and looked over his sixty columns of bright reading matter. We have decided however, not to be out done by anybody, so have added two compositors to our competent force till our two new Monotypes get here on which we will then set the type for The Champion.

In the Tampa Tribune we find the following very truthful and pointed expression:

Every newspaper man who does his duty is constantly making somebody mad. Although he realizes this is inevitable yet no true newspaper man ever intentionally wounds another's feelings, to take a step that he does not consider necessary for the public good.

ASLEEP ON YOUR OPPORTUNITY

Last week THE HERALD called attention to the fact that the property owners can seek the aid of the county commissioners in the drainage of lands. The law gives you this right as follows:

Chapter 5035 of the Act of 1901, gives the county commissioners full and complete authority to condemn rights of way for drains, to appoint officers to supervise the construction of such drains and for the assessment of the benefits to abutting and adjoining property. It provides also for the extension of the payment for such work over a period of six years.

This means much to the people of this vicinity and if this measure is not made strong enough to pass, it will be the fault of the people who should sign this petition at once. The papers are at the offices of J. N. Whitner and the Holden Real Estate Co., and while it needs only a majority of property owners, every one interested has the privilege of signing the petition. The commissioners meet in October and this petition should be signed at once. Let every one come forward and swell the list.

In R. L. Harper's paper, The Independent and Central Union Times, published at Jacksonville, we find the following:

The Sanford Herald has made its debut and presents a most praiseworthy appearance. A five-column, twelve-page paper, filled with good reading and except for a few advertising paragraphs, it is typographically neat and shows the handiwork of skilled labor, in democratic of course, and if Robert J. Holly don't make it a factor in Florida journalism he will have more than himself to blame, for Sanford, like many other Florida cities, has long needed a newspaper. Bro. Holly was for a long time with the Orlando Reporter-Star, and as its editor made it an attractive sheet in some respects. As managing editor of The Herald he doubtless will be able to better show his calibre, and if the initial number of his paper is to be the low mark, to work up few Orange county may soon see something perfect in the weekly newspaper line. We wish The Herald long life and a happy one.

We thank Brother Harper for the good will expressed above, but most of all for the kindly wishes he expresses for the publishers of THE HERALD in a private letter, and we take this occasion to say that "Bob" Harper is in every way qualified to give the labor people of Florida a journal which will correctly express their views and faithfully advocate all that tends to benefit the "body politic." Again we say, Bob, thanks!—thanks awfully.

Help your children do their best at school, advises the News of Arcadia. They have them on time. Encourage them to be polite, studious and kind. Arrange home duties so as to help and not hinder the school work. Soon the time for school will be passed. Better take advantage of the opportunity a great state offers to every boy and girl. Talk up the school. Try to help create a school atmosphere that will make strong men and noble women. A school is helped or hindered by the general, social and moral conditions outside make it the great community interest to all.

The use of the mower in the parks and on the streets has made a decided change in their appearance. We were afraid for a time that pedestrians would be lost in the grassy wilderness but the street committee has responded nobly to the call for aid and we doff our chapeau to Chairman Stevens and Aldermen Thrasher and Evans of the street committee. The whisksers have been cut.

Change in Business

N. H. Garner has disposed of his grocery business to N. O. Garner and J. D. Roberts, who will continue the business under the firm name of Garner & Roberts. N. O. Garner is the son of N. H. Garner and has been identified with the grocery business for a number of years in this city and has a host of friends and acquaintances in this and adjacent counties. J. D. Roberts formerly resided at Mt. Olive, N. C., but for the past few years has been in the grocery business in Pittsburg. We welcome Mr. Roberts to Sanford and bespeak for the new firm a liberal patronage, which by their ability and thorough knowledge of the business they are sure to obtain.

An Attractive Window

One of the prettiest and most attractive show windows in Sanford is that of the Sanford Furniture Company now on exhibition. The window is dressed as a dining room with handsome quartered oak center table, chairs and sideboard, together with beautiful decorated china. It is, indeed, a pretty conception, and reflects much credit on the artistic ability of the designers. Take a look at it.

Prof. Perkins Returns

Prof. and Mrs. N. J. Perkins and baby arrived in the city Thursday, from Amhurst, Virginia, where they have been spending the summer.

Prof. Perkins will resume the school work on Monday next.

LARGE COMMERCIAL TRADE

Sanford House Filled with Guests These Days

Never before at this time of the year has the commercial trade been so heavy in this city and the Sanford House has been taking care of large numbers of guests every day for the past month.

Since the return of Mr. Harry Driver, he has been kept busy preparing the hotel for the winter season and many new guests have been booked for three months ahead. The great influx of guests at this season of the year speaks well for the management of this popular hostelry and many of the commercial men make arrangements to spend their week-ends at the Sanford House.

Another New Business

THE ASSOCIATION IS GROWING

List of Subscribers Increases Each Week.

The Sanford Building and Loan Association is meeting with great success and each week the list of subscribers grows in numbers.

The association should have at least one thousand shares taken before opening the books for business and all the members are requested to urge their friends to take stock and swell the list of subscribers.

Following is a list of the subscribers and those added this week:

Table with 2 columns: Name and Shares. Lists subscribers like Holden Real Estate Co., J. N. Whittier, A. T. Rossetter, etc., with their respective share counts.

Quaint Quibbles From Sis Hopkins

God bless our home—town. All men from Maine are not marines. A bank clerk lends a check—ered career.

Even fat people seem to have human frailties.

No man who has a high aim in life ever carries a gun.

Ma says no man is a failure: He tried the wrong thing.

It is easy to make a man back down who puts up a front.

Some men eat twice a day, and others twice at each meal.

Deaf people always manage to hear what you don't want 'em to.

Why is it that when a man shaves notes he always wears whiskers?

Many a man likes to go to church so that he can talk about hymn-self.

Ma says it's a mean sort of girl who won't pretend her brother is handsome.

A man does not usually find out how mean he is till he runs for the legislature.

Ma says a man must be pretty light-headed who tries to "carry himself with an air."

The more oil some men put on their hair the surer they seem of coping out a girl.

Pa's receipt for being a gentleman: Be considerate of the feelings of others, and don't eat with your knife.

Gabriel's trumpet may turn out to be nothing else than a Republican weekly published down the East Coast.

Ma says some men go a-fishing for no other purpose than to get away from home and be uncomfortable.

Pansy Bonehead's pome: There was a young girl of St. Jo—of Michigan, not of Mo.

Michigan manufactures all the necessities of life. Health foods are made at Battle Creek, pills at Detroit, and coffins at Grand Rapids.

Ma says the new woman is one of those creatures who knows more about mathematics than about mendin' socks; more about Greek verbs than getting the best bargains at a scrimmage sale.

Prosperity Bringers

Orlando Reporter-Star

Perhaps the most potent force today in Orange county that makes toward re-adjusted prosperity is that force that rests from the soil its percentage of wealth.

We talk of Orlando as depending largely upon tourist support, and that is so; but to a much greater extent do we depend on the man with the hoe.

Orlando might not be so fancy a town without its winter contingent, but the 'taters and turhups would be just as filling and we would live just the same.

After all is said and done, give us as a regular thing, the producer, the farmer and fruit grower who compel Nature to give up a portion of her store.

And it is from this class we must expect that permanent, well to do, condition. Indeed, the farmer has it right within his own hand to make or break us.

Simply let him lie under the shade of a Chinaberry tree and sleep awhile away, and we are dished.

We do not undervalue the tourist and the winter resorter—they are all right; we have had much to say in their favor; but heaven speed the day when the main stay of our town and county is the producer, the man who does something, grows something, makes something.

WHERE TO REGISTER

Sanford Voters Have Two Places for Registering

It behooves every man of Sanford to see that his name is upon the registration list in order that he can vote in the National election in November. There are two places where this can be done, as Sanford has been divided since the primary election, on account of the great increase in the number of voters.

The books for District No. 3, for all those living east of Park avenue, will be open at the office of the Marks Real Estate Agency, in charge of F. J. Powers.

Every voter should see that his name is on the list before the expiration of the time for the books to close.

The Jacksonville Carnival

Jacksonville is to have a carnival celebration lasting for an entire week, from October 26 to 31 inclusive.

This will be good news to our readers, for the thousands of people who attended the Jacksonville carnivals in past years have pleasant recollections of the splendid attractions presented by the Jacksonville Carnival Association.

Very low railroad rates for the round trip, from all points in Florida, are assured, and that the city of Jacksonville will be thronged with visitors from all parts of the state is a certainty.

Jacksonville is growing faster than any city in the entire South, and this will be an excellent opportunity to see the Metropolis of the state.

Reduced Postal Rates to England

After October 1 letters addressed to any point in the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland will be carried at the same rate of postage as letters addressed to cities in the United States, two cents an ounce being necessary upon all letters destined for the foreign country.

Lawn Mowers

Special prices to reduce stock. If you want a good mower at a low price, now is the time to buy. Also good stock of scythes, grass hooks and lawn rakes. Harry J. Wilson.

Bryan and the Presidency

*****
"Cross of Gold and Crown of Thorns"—How a Wonderful Speech Won a Presidential Nomination . .

Mrs. William J. Bryan.

*****
His Renomination In 1900. The Dominant Spirit of the Democracy For Twelve Years. Bryan In 1908

WILLIAM J. BRYAN, JR.

Again the great east lashed and buffeted the western candidate with demagogic denunciation, though that time there was a very large increase in personal respect for Mr. Bryan. He had proved himself to be by no means the wild visionary, the anarchistic revolutionist, the dangerous fanatic, which the opposition in his own party had pictured him as being in 1890, when the Democracy split open and the lesser section thereof nominated a "gold Democratic" ticket, with General John M. Palmer of Illinois and General Simon B. Buckner of Kentucky as the standard bearers, thus contributing to Bryan's defeat in the first campaign. In the campaign of 1900 the Democratic seceders simply voted the McKinley and Roosevelt Republican ticket. A second time Bryan went down to defeat, but gracefully and with good cheer.

He was at his home in Lincoln on election day, ate an early dinner, went upstairs at about 6 o'clock and slept soundly until 11, when he came down and discovered that he was badly beaten. He smiled to the assembled reporters, returned to his bed and slept soundly until morning. It was said by those present that he evinced not the slightest sign of disappointment. Mr. Bryan did not seek the nomination in 1904. He was quite willing for the disaffected wing of the Democracy to name the ticket just to see if that

By ROBERTUS LOVE.
(Copyright, 1908, by Robertus Love.)
WHEN the Democratic national convention met at Chicago in 1896 one of the delegates from Nebraska was William Jennings Bryan, a young man of thirty-six, a private citizen of the city of Lincoln. His prior political career comprised two terms in congress. He had been his party's nominee for a United States senatorship in a Republican legislature.

The national Democracy had broken away from Grover Cleveland, whom it had elected president twice and who was then in office. The split was on the money question. Cleveland had called a special session of congress to repeal the silver bullion purchasing act. The mass of the party stood for the free coinage of silver, chiefly at the ratio of 16 to 1. The Cleveland wing stood for the single gold standards a presidential campaign such as the nation never knew before. Men called it a whirlwind campaign, and such it was. The whirlwind road was the railroad, and it carried the candidate up and down and across the land upon an amazing schedule of traveling and talking. Mr. Bryan traveled in that campaign more than 18,000 miles and delivered considerably more than 2,000 speeches. He made forty-nine speeches in one day in New York state. Thirty-five addresses, short and long, were delivered by him on several days, while it was an ordinary thing for him to address twenty crowds at twenty different towns in twenty hours. The candidate showed a physique and a voice that stood the tremendous strain with marvelous endurance. As the campaign progressed and the fame of Bryan spread people got to sitting up all night and traveling many miles just to hear the phenomenon speak.

Bryan's first appearance in the east was on the 12th of August, when he delivered his speech of acceptance of the nomination. Madison Square Garden was packed with a suffocating mass of men and women, though it was one of the hottest days ever known in New York and a dozen persons had died from sunstroke during the day. Bryan read that speech from manuscript, a disappointing thing, for it detracted greatly from his eloquence. But the candidate was well aware that great issues hinged upon his utterances on that important occasion, and he did not care to trust himself to the uncurbed enthusiasm of the moment. With Arthur Sewall of Maine, the vice presidential candidate, Bryan went and. The mighty chasm widened at the convention. Congressman Richard P. Bland of Missouri, "Silver Dick," the old war horse of the free silver coinage movement, was the logical and apparently the inevitable candidate for the presidency. His nomination seemed to be a certainty until a thing happened hitherto unprecedented in American politics.

Bryan of Nebraska, known as "the silver-tongued orator" and "the boy orator of the Platte," mounted the platform and delivered a brief but bold and masterful speech. His vibrant voice rang out over the heads of the 15,000 persons in the vast hall, penetrating with clarion intonation to the farthest corners. The customary uproar of a great political convention, which the strongest of oratorical lungs, as a rule, cannot quell entirely, was hushed into unbreathing awe. No such eloquence ever before had been heard in a national convention. The man and the occasion had met, and the man had mastered the occasion. The address was an impassioned appeal for bimetalism and an exalted glorification of the new Democratic financial doctrine. When the orator closed with his epoch-making metaphor of "the cross of gold and crown of thorns," the enthusiastic approbation of his sentiments and of the man himself was indicated by a whirlwind of applause beyond description.

And William Jennings Bryan was nominated for the presidency of the United States.

Flashed to the remotest reaches of the nation, the news was the most sensational political titbit that ever took the wires. Bryan was but one year above the minimum age required by the constitution of the United States for a president. While some of his speeches in congress a few years before had given him a momentary reputation, he was practically unknown to the nation at large, and particularly so to the great eastern section of the country. Never before had a great party nominated for president a man living west of the Mississippi river. Never before had so young a man been nominated. Never before had an orator won the great prize by a single speech. Democrats, Republicans, Populists, everybody wondered how the newcomer would conduct himself in the campaign.

Presently the wonder turned to amazement. Young Mr. Bryan was a campaigner—there was no doubt as to that. He infected the American poli-down to defeat at the November election, though he had been nominated also by the Populist party, with Thomas E. Watson of Georgia as the vice presidential candidate on that ticket. McKinley and Hobart went into office, and there were those who predicted that Bryan was forever eliminated from the Democracy.

Four years later at the Democratic national convention in Kansas City Mr. Bryan was re-nominated by acclamation. There was absolutely no other candidate suggested for the nomination. For vice president Adlai E. Stevenson of Bloomington, Ill., who had been vice president during Cleveland's second term, was named. The war with Spain and our consequent acquisition of the Philippine Islands had brought new issues into politics, but the silver plank was reinserted into the Democratic platform. Mr. Bryan declining to stand for the nomination without it. It was expressly declared in the platform, however, that imperialism was the paramount issue of the campaign. The Democracy opposed the ferocious subjugation of the Philippines and the control of the archipelago in the colonial style of the British empire.

Mr. Bryan made another whirlwind campaign, even breaking his own record for traveling and speechmaking. He was forty years of age in the run of his magnificent manhood. During the four years since 1896 he had done much political speaking and writing, he had lectured many times on other topics, he had traveled abroad and studied other governments and conditions of people; also he had become Colonel Bryan, having gone to camp during the Spanish war as colonel of a Nebraska regiment.

element could do better than the other. He attended the convention in St. Louis as a delegate, made an amazing fight for a platform upon which he and his supporters could stand and won the fight by sheer force of brain and brawn. He arose from his bed on the early morning of the last day of the convention, though threatened with pneumonia, and just as the dawn was breaking over the city he delivered in that convention to the vast throng which had awaited and sweated and fretted all night long just to hear him a speech which for pathos and power and thrill no inveterate convention follower ever heard equalled. The Democratic ticket. Judge Alton B. Parker of New York and ex-Senator Henry G. Davis of West Virginia, was defeated in November inexpressibly worse than was Bryan in either of his campaigns.

The discovery of vast deposits of gold in Alaska and elsewhere since the free silver campaign has eliminated the money issue from politics. Mr. Bryan has accepted this fact and now stands upon other Democratic issues. Despite all opposition, he has dominated the national Democracy for twelve years. For several years past he has given expression to his views in the weekly journal, the Commoner, which he established at Lincoln. He has removed to a fine farm near Lincoln, built a commodious residence and become known throughout the world as the "great American commoner," titular successor to Henry Clay. He has traveled around the world and written his impressions for a syndicate of American newspapers. He has been for years the most popular and highest paid lecturer on the American lyceum and Chautauqua circuits. It is said that his income from lecturing alone is as much as $50,000 a year, the president's salary.

Mr. Bryan is a total abstainer from alcohol and tobacco. He is a member of the Presbyterian church and never works on Sunday, save to deliver a religious address now and then. His ideal is morality, personal, political and civic. The Bryan of 1908 looks older than the Bryan of 1896, but he is no less vigorous and virile than he was when his voice flashed across the continent from the Chicago convention hall.

EXPLOSION OF A COAST DEFENSE SHELL.

During recent war maneuvers in New York harbor the big guns of the forts demonstrated by actual shell firing tests that a hostile warship endeavoring to enter New York harbor would be blown up by cannon fire in short order. The picture shows what a great hubbub is kicked up in the water when a sixteen inch shell strikes it and explodes.

CHARLIE TAFT AS A MORO DATTO.

One of the most interesting members of the Taft family is Master Charlie, who, despite the fact that he is only eleven years old, has already made a complete tour of the world in the company of his distinguished father. Among his relics of a trip to the Philippines is the costume of a Moro datto, and Charlie is fond of donning it.

Bought His Own Work.

To come across a bit of one's own work in print is an experience not ordinarily exasperating to an author, but a Washington writer on scientific matters was recently not very agreeably surprised by such a development.

It appears that the writer was collecting material for a monograph on electro magnetism when word came to him of a valuable paper on the subject not long before published in a Berlin journal devoted to science. Thinking that the paper would be of use to him in the work in hand, he had it translated. When the English version was laid before him, together with quite a bill for the translator's labor, what was the disgust of the writer to find that the article was nothing more or less than a German reproduction of an article of his own published the year before in an English journal. And he had paid twice as much for the translation as he had received for the original article!—Washington Star.

A Dream Superstition.

I heard what was to me at least a new piece of superstition the other day, and when I think of the risks I've run all these years because I didn't know of it my blood runs cold. I met a woman from Virginia in market, and the talk falling on dreams I recalled a most blood curdling nightmare I had had the night before.

"I must tell you what I dreamed last night," I said.

"Let me ask first whether it's a pleasant or an unpleasant dream?" said the lady from Virginia.

"Decidedly unpleasant."

"Then for mercy's sake don't tell it!" said she. "Never tell a bad dream on Saturday, for we say in Virginia:

"Friday night's dream on Saturday told is sure to come true, no matter how old."

—Washington Post.

Sanford Voters Have Two Places for Registering

It behooves every man of Sanford to see that his name is upon the registration list in order that he can vote in the National election in November. There are two places where this can be done, as Sanford has been divided since the primary election, on account of the great increase in the number of voters. All those living west of Park avenue in District No. 25, should call upon City Clerk, M. L. Scott, where the books will be opened.

WHERE TO REGISTER

The books for District No. 3, for all those living east of Park avenue, will be open at the office of the Marks Real Estate Agency, in charge of F. J. Powers. Every voter should see that his name is on the list before the expiration of the time for the books to close.

License Tax Is a Public Wrong

C. Fred Price of Daytona, is making a fight against the license tax in that city, and gives constitutional authority that any license tax is unconstitutional. He says that Chief Justice Bradley covered the subject thoroughly and absolutely proves why it is illegal to tax citizens for the privilege of selling goods or of practicing their honorable and useful callings in any part of the United States. Among other citations of the law, and opinions of others, he says: "The right" by which the citizen has to support himself and family is a property right, and we again emphasize the fact that no state shall abridge or deny to citizens of the United States his life, liberty or property." And, therefore, to her citizens from selling, a useful occupation (unless exorbitant privilege license is paid), is worse than stealing.

The Robbins Nest

The Robbins have repaired their Nest, and the old birds are ready to receive their friends—the tourist, the commercial traveler, and the home citizen. Some will be new friends, others the old and faithful friends. Those that have enjoyed the hospitality of the Robbins Nest found a table with every delicacy of the season served in the most appetizing manner, a room with white iron bedstead, National springs, Ostermoor mattress, and spotless covers, with many other comforts to rest the body. The following is how some of our guests feel when leaving the Nest—

It ever I come to Florida Health and rest to find. It's only stop in Jacksonville For a ticket on the Clyde Line. And to Celery City I'll be bound. To find that health and rest. For up the St. Johns 200 miles You can land in the Robbins Nest. It's good enough for me. As others read they added— And me—and me—and me.

The Robbins Nest is $2.00 per day, $10.00 per week, with room, $7.00, without room. All questions answered promptly. A. Robbins, Prop.

More New Residents

Messrs. J. A. Smith and R. C. Massee of Macon, Georgia, have rented the Fielder place and will put in a crop this season and become identified with Sanford. Mr. Smith will return for his family this week and make this city his home. These gentlemen are well-known cotton planters in Georgia, yet the lure of the celery crop has proved more than the heavy staple, and Sanford gains two more good men and another family.
