Hardy volunteers brave rain, say you don't stay dry cleaning up the water

By Vicki Desormier Herald Senior Staff Writer

SANFORD - They had expected hundreds to fan out across Seminole County to clean up the waterways associated with the St. Johns River, Instead, mere dozens braved the intermittent showers and ever-deepening mud to pull cans, bottles and all manner of other trash from the water and from the shore.

"li's yucky!" said seven-year-old Trisha Langford of Sanford, who had brought her older brother and uncle to the cleanup. "But we gotta do this. They told me at school that we're killing the water because we keep throwing stuff in it." The St. Johns River Celebration, sponsored by the St. Johns. River Water Management District, was planned as one of the largest water cleanup efforts in history, but a line of ominous rain storms deterred most who had committed locally to the statewide effort.

Small groups lanned out across the designated clean upareas. filling plastic garbage bags with the refuse left along the shore.

Most were dressed in yellow. red and blue rain slickers, doiting the shoreline and some off shore spots with colorful motion. Some, less prepared for the weather, despite the full evening of showers and thunderstorms, wore raincoats made of trashbags.

"The latest in environmentalist fashions," commented Shannon Jarvis of Lake Mary, modeling her all-weather gear by Hefty, "Don't you love #?

Jarvis and her best friend Gilda Santos said they didn't care about the inclement weather.

"Oh, hell, we would have gotten wet any how," Santos said kicking up a splash of mudacross her partner's back, "You don't stay dry cleaning up the water, even if you are up on the shore."

Kenneth Bates and his sons. David and Shawn, made their way carefully up the embankment of the bridge that crosses Lake Monroe between Sanford and DeBary. Slick vegetation sent them back a step for every two steps they took forward.

David, 6, his blonde hair plastered across his left cheek. sniffed and dragged a trash bag as Shawn, 7, filled it with discarded items.

We wanted to clean up and make it pretty for everybody, Shawn said.

His father noted there was more to it than that, but "making it pretty" was a fine goal.

We have to preserve this fine body of water for future generations." he said. "This isn't just water; this is a part of the history of Florida."

Fiotilia heads into choppy seas

KEY WEST, Fla. - Cuban exiles defied dangerous whitecaps, fought off seasickness and flew into thunderstorms Saturday before cutting short a memorial service at sea for four comrades killed by Cuban jet fighters.

Escorted by 11 U.S. Coast Guard cutters, a flotilia of 35 boats icft Key West early Saturday and lurched into waves whipped up to 9 feet by high winds blowing across the Florida Straits. By carry afternoon, 21 boats had turned back.

The conditions are terrible," said Pablo Valladares, who returned to a Key West marina early in the day. "It was smart to come back.

The rough seas prevented the 14 remaining boats from reaching the spot 21 miles northwest of Havana where two exile planes were believed to have crashed after they were blasted out of the sky by Cuban MiG jets a week ago.

But the boats held the planned memorial service 43 miles south of Key West. Exiles dropped flowers and wreaths into the churning sea and sang the Cuban national anthem. They shouted "Viva Cuba libre!" — "Long live a free Cuba" — and then headed back to Florida.

Cuban leader Fidel Castro's "time is up," said flotilla participant Dario Vallejo, 53. "He has to go. Those men on the planes aren't his only victims. He has the blood of thousands of people on his hands."

Heavy thunderstorms in Miami also delayed the departure of a flock of planes from Brothers to the Rescue, the extle search-and-rescue group whose planes were shot down last weekend. More than a dozen planes took off two hours late. flew over the Straits and dropped a floral wreath over the spot where the planes were shot down.

Fight brews against drug used in rapes

Staff and Wire Reports

They call it the date rape drug. The rapist slips several powerful sedatives known as "roofles" into the date's drink and molests her once she becomes unable to fight back. The Sanford Herald reported in a story last month that cases of date rape using

"roofles" are cropping up in Seminole County.

Now, such a rape of a Cooper City teen-ager has mobilized city and county officials to fight the illegal drug.

Police Chief Ed Werder and Broward County prosecutors are leading a push for state legislation to toughen penalties for those who use or sell it. Police are holding neighborhood and school seminars to warn students and parents of the drug's potency.

'Roofles are being used as a tool for date rape," said Sgt. Marvin Stoner.

Police have charged three teen-age boys with raping a 15-year-old girl after slipping Rohypnol, or roofles, into her wine cooler last summer. Authorities are investigating three other cases where women claim to have been assaulted after their drinks were spiked with the drug.

While possession of the drug, widely used in Latin America to sedate surgery patients. is punishable by up to three years in prison. it doesn't fall under the state's trafficking statutes.

"You could have 10 million of them and not be considered a trafficker," said John Gallagher, an assistant Broward state at-

Supporters of tougher measures want prison terms increased to a maximum of 30 years for possession and 15- to 20-year minimum mandatory terms for trafficking. "There is no lawful purpose for these drugs in the United States," Gallagher said.

In 1992, there were 11 cases involving the drug statewide; by 1995, the number had risen to 342, according to the Cooper City Police Department.

Werder expects to have a proposal drafted by Tuesday, when the Legislature begins its regular 60-day session. Though it is too late for a separate bill, the measure can still be tacked on to other legislation.

State Rep. Tracy Stafford, D.Fort Lauderdale, promised to help push the Rohypnol legislation.

Last week, Cooper City commissioners approved writing a letter in support of strict roofie laws. The drug first appeared in South Fiorida four years ago. "As one of the newest problem drugs on street, we need to make our community aware of it," said Mayor Suellen Fardelmann. "We must make certain our children are protected from a very dangerous problem.

The way we were: Banking, farming, land for sale in 1910

There is a large full page ad for the First National Bank in the 1910 newspaper which includes pictures of both the interior and exterior of the bank. It was located on the southwest corner of First Street and Park Avenue; Stairs Property Management and Real Estate presently orcupies the building.
The ad gives six reasons why the people of Banford should do business with their bank: (1) because it had done business for nearly a quarter of a century in the same location and under the same management: (2) because its stockholders and officers were home people who had large holdings in the city; (3) because the strength of this bank was not only in its capital surplus and resources, but also in the character and financial re-aponaibility of the men who conduct its affairs; (4) because its business was governed with conservatism, combined with enterprise and up-to-date methods which made for soundness and satisfactory banking services: (5) because it enjoyed the patronage and confidence of the great majority of the leading firms, corporations, and individuals in Sanford and therefore knew their needs: (6) because it was a sound bank which combined the working capital of the community where it was most needed.

Officers of the bank were Frederick H. Rand, president; George H. Fernald, vice-president: F.P. Forster, cashier; B.F. Whitner Jr., assistant cashier. Additional directors were 8.0. Chase and B.R. Swoope.

Frank R. Forster

in a separate article, Frank Forster, cashier of the First National Bank, was described as being the gentleman you were pretty sure to meet if you were doing business at this bank. He was said to always have a cheery recting and for all.

Mr. Forster came to Sanford from Ohlo in 1875. Since arriving here, he had held several positions of trust including deputy postmaster and later postmaster; teller, then assistant cashier in the old Lyman Bank; director of the First National Bank of Jacksonville; third vice-president of the Florida Hanker's association; and city councilman.

Fraternally, he was a Mason, standing high in the order. He had always taken a lively interest in the welfare and advancement of the Celery City and substantially aided those enterprises which were factors of the coming Greater Sanford. □ See Stinecipher, Page SA

Sanford friends help after ruinous fire

By YICKI DeBO Herald Senior Staff Writer .

SANFORD — She has always given freely to all, especially to her four-legged friends, but now the tables are turned and she needs help.

Ruth Sackett Dye graduated from Seminole High School in 1946, but now lives in Lake Helen. Still her classmates are committed to helping her rebuild her life after a devastating fire destroyed her home, killing three of her dogs.

"She's a wonderful woman and we want to do what we can for her." said her fellow alumnus Walt Smith. "She has cared for a tot of animals and people over the years."

Dye has lived in Lake Helen for many years, but she was born in and grew up in Sanford. She attended school here and her parents lived here for many years, Smith said.

"Even when she went to live over there, she stayed a big part of the community here." he noted.

Dyer is trying to rebuild the Volusia County home she shared with a number of animals. Resources are limited. however. and the going is slow.

Smith and others have established a savings account for Dyer at Barnett Bank. Friends and others who want to help her out are encouraged to make a deposit in that account.

The account number is 8601848902. Deposits can be made at any Barnett Bank branch in the state.

Chrysler, Honda, Nissan sales surge

DETROIT — Chrysler and Honda set monthly sales records and Nissan had its best February since 1989 as the traditional spring sales surge came early for some car makers.

The largest automaker, General Motors Corp., said Friday its vehicle sales rate in February was 5.3 percent higher than a year ago, with car and light truck categories both showing gaine.

No. 3 Chrysler Corp. reported its U.S. sales rate for cars and light trucks was 19.8 percent higher than in February 1995.

"I think there was a little pent-up demand on the East Coast from January." Chrysler executive vice president James Holden said. Winter storms had slowed showroom traffic early in the season. American Honda Motor Co. reported a sales rate 19.6 percent higher than a year ago, with Accord up 28.6 percent and Civic up 17.5 percent.

Ford Motor Co. and most of the European companies release their February sales reports next week.

Leno wins ratings sweeps

NEW YORK — Jay Leno swept past David Letterman in the late-night ratings battle during the February sweeps, but David Letterman is claiming victory, too.

According to CBB' analysis, "Late Show with David Letterman" beat both Leno's "Tonight" on NBC and Ted Koppel's "Nightline" on ABC among adults ages 18 to 34 and 18 to 49. two key demographic groups the network claims advertisers most want to reach.

most want to reach.

Among total households, where a single ratings point represents 959,000 homes, "Tonight" won the sweeps with a 4.8 rating, "Nightline" had a 4.7, while "Late Show" had a 4.2.

Among adults 18 to 49, "Late Show" had a 2.6 rating, "Tonight" a 2.5 and "Nightline" a 2.0; among younger adults 18 to 34, "Late Show" finished the sweeps with a 2.7 rating to MRC 2.0 and ABC 1.4

NBC's 2.0 and ABC's 1.4.

The February sweeps are one of three monthlong periods per year during which the ratings are used to help TV stations set their advertising rates.

stuff comes back ... so the prices go up too."
Victor Weiner, executive director of the Appraisers Association of America, predicted a "modest escalation" in prices. But he and others don't expect anyone to get rich selling the plates, mugs, matchbooks and other mass-produced wares that marked the 1961 fairy-tale wedding of Prince Charles to Lady Diana Spencer.

The number of items on the market and their less-thankingly quality will keep prices from rising too high, Weiner said Friday.

"And I haven't seen any jewel-encrusted scepters with their faces on it," he joked.

Clinton lauds accord on TV violence

By LAWRENCE L. KNUTSON Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON - President Clinton Saturday lauded this week's decision by the television industry to rate TV programs and permit parents to block "numbing and corrosive" violence and sex.

"Something remarkable happened this week: something that can forever help parents, children and anybody who cares about what our children watch on television," Clinton said in his weekly radio address, recorded Friday.

That event, he said, was the decision by the leaders of the television industry, meeting at the White House, to voluntarily establish a ratings system for their entertainment offerings amid pressure by the administration and Congress. "We took an enormous step toward controlling the images of violence and bias that can enter our homes and disturb our children," Clinton said. "In study after study, the evidence has steadily mounted that television violence is numbing

TV industry executives promised Clinton on Thursday to devise a ratings system, much like the one used for movies.

Enforcing codes

Several Historic District residents recently lobbied Sanford officials over a compound of rental properties they cited as nuisances in the neighborhood. Code officers followed up and found numerous violations to the structures owned by Violetta Williams, some of which they say are endangering the lives of the tenants.

Sanford Community Development Director Charles Rowe also checked up on the landlady's state licenses and found she had none. By Florida law, she is required to hold state licenses to operate the type of rooming houses officials believe she is operating.

In a forceful move. Commissioners Lon Howell and Whitey Eckstein pushed to close the rentals at 718 W. First Street, 210 Laurel Ave., 611, 615 and 621 Oak Ave., 612 Park Ave and 101 W. Ninth St if code violations are not corrected by March 8. The commission meets again to discuss the matter on March

Howell lamented, "We go through this problem about every two years, and it's only getting worse. It's time to close them down Eckstein added, "We aren't punishing Ms. Williams, but it should be known this is a life safety issue. That's the main thing we have to be concerned about."

We are thrilled to see this proactive approach to cleaning up our neighborhoods. Sanford's image is undergoing a slow evolution from ramshackle, ill-maintained downtown rooming houses to grand homes lovingly renovated by families who choose to settle here. Mr. Howell was instrumental in the birth of that movement 15 years ago with a push to change the zoning from multi-family back to residential. He represents the district on the City Commission and is well aware of the particular problems the neighbors cite.

Mr. Eckstein is sensitive to the hardship displacement may cause some of the residents, but his good sense identified this as a safety issue. A forced and inconvenient move is preferable to burning alive in a building with faulty smoke detectors and wiring.

We commend the neighbors who spent time documenting the trouble instead of just griping about it. Neighborhood involvement is critical in solving problems of which the city may not be aware.

Rowe. Fire Inspector Richard Cohen, and the city's building inspector. Dan Florian are also to be commended for their follow-

We will be watching this matter closely between March 8 and March 11. If Ms. Williams manages to bring her properties up to code, the issue is settled. But if not, we will look to Mr. Howell and Mr. Eckstein to rally other commissioners to do what they, and the neighbors, already know is right...shut the unsafe rental compound down.

Reunion announced

As we approach this fifth anniversary of Operations Desert Shield and Storm, I would like to announce the reunion of the 22d Support mand. The 23d SUPCOM, commanded by LTG Gue Pagonie, was composed of Active, Reserve, and National Guard units. These were the logisticians, medics, MPs, transporters and most all support personnel who served in the Gulf War. The 22d Support Command Association will have a reunion in Gulf Shores, Ala. on June 20-23. We would like to invite anyone who served in the Gulf War with the 22d SUPCOM to contact us for information on the reunion and also about membership in the association. There will be a full plate of activities for individuals and families who attend this reunion. Information may be obtained by writing:

LETTERS TO EDITOR

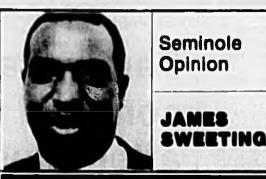

Letters to the editor are welcome. All letters must be signed, include the address of the writer and a daytime telephone number. Letters should be on a single subject and be as brief as possible. The letters are subject to editing.

What makes this nation great Twelve-step programs have become widely accepted in the treatment of alcohol and substance abuse. It is said that the first step toward addressing the abuse is to acknowledge that a problem exists. The avoidance of responsibility for one's own behavior is often referred to as denial. It is human nature to deny those aspects of our lives, of our history that are less than flattering, ugly or embarrassing.

Collectively, as Americans, we seem at times to be in a perpetual state of denial. This status was illustrated recently by events in Colorado and Tennessee. Early in the week the Supreme Court of the United States decided to not entertain an appeal of a lower court decision to allow the state of Colorado to maintain in a public park a granite monument in which the Ten Commandments were inscribed. The decision that this issue did not merit review was relatively constitutionally benign and would have not raised many eyebrows but for the political reaction that ensued.

Inspired by this non-event, certain reactionary elements to the right of the political spectrum in this country seized this moment and ran with it. Beyond gloating that this decision rang another death knell for liberal do-gooders who serve as the ritual pinata of the non-thinking right to be brought out and beaten on every occasion. narrow-minded legislators throughout the land sprung into action, passing legislation in a most reckless fashion without thought and without regard to the very Constitution that they have all sworn to uphold.

In a year when the Congress of the United States failed to recognize the Fourth Amendment to the Constitution, the very document to which they swear allegiance to uphold and struck its language from the 1995 Crime Bill, a degree of legislative ignorance and disregard of the Constitution is hardly surprising. Most of our present legislators nationally and locally, if by some warp of fate were cast in the revolutionary period at our nation's inception, would have been Tories and Loyalists, revolution being a particularly liberal act as we define liberal and conservative today. It would appear that some are still waiting, 220 years later, for King George to rescue them from the burdens of self determination.

in the absence of legislative thought and inspired by this non-decision, the state senate of the state of Tennessee voted 27 to 1 to pass legislation encouraging Tennesscans to display the Ten Commandments in every possible location. Such legislation clearly violates the Establishment Clause of the U.S. Constitution. The rationale for this legislation given by the bill's sponsor was that it upheld American values. What in fact that statement upholds is American hypocrisy.

This country and the great state of Tennessee were not founded, built or established upon the benevolent theories espoused in the Ten Commandments. This country and our civilization were established and built upon war, theft, slavery, murder, betrayal, intrigue, double dealing, and a whole list of malevolent human character traits. Adherence to the Ten Commandments had little to do with the establishment of this nation. This doesn't mean that we are an evil civilization or not worthy of the Lord's grace: it simply means that we are

The desire to improve, to create a society where all were created equally and entitled to life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness, free from government interference, is what makes this nation great.

Buchanan: Crossfire candidate

PALO ALTO, Calif. - The time is midweek between Pat Buchanan's victory in New Hampshire and his second and third place finishes in the Dakotas and Arisona.

The network is CNN. The program is "Crossfire," where Buchanan plies his trade as a a journalist between gigs as a presidential candidate.

On the left, as the "Crossfire" lingo goes, is Geraldine Ferraro, politician just turned pundit. On the right is Robert Novak in a seat often occupied by John Sununu, another pol now turned syndicated columnist.

Their subject is Pat Buchanan, pundit turned politician turned pundit turned politician. Are you dissy yet? Ken Adelman is saying that one of the reasons Pat is a good candidate for president of the United States is that "he's very good at the kind of 'Crossfire'

What's wrong with this picture? On television, the punditocracy has begun to look like the last scene from Orwell's "Animal Farm." You can't tell the journalists from the politicians, the watchdogs from the running dogs. It's not that they are in bed with each other. it's that they have become one and the same.

Out of this new reality has come Patrick Buchanan, would-be president. His candidacy is the petri-dish conception, the embryo created from the sperm of sound-bite politics and the egg of food-right journalism.

Remember how often a politician is referred to as a "media creation"? Whatever happens in the next weeks, Pugnacious Pat has shown us the genuine article: The Crossfire Can-

"People mock 'The McLaughlin Group' and 'Crossfire'," he says, "but the training I got there and on the radio, it is extraordinary for a candidate. Extraordinary! ... You are able to articulate your views clearly, sharply and briefly. You learn to limit the wonk stuff and try to get some humor and wit into it."
No doubt, Pat started early. While Bill

Clinton was trying to stop his stepfather from slugging his mother, the Buchanan boys were punished by their father "when we failed to hit a punching bag 400 times a day." You don't need a shrink to figure out why one grew up in search of common ground and the other preferred scorched earth.

But Buchanan came of age and name-recognition in an era when television turned journalism into a contact sport. Now we have to ask what it means to be "trained" for presidential politics by "Crossfire" or "Capital Gang" or "McLaughlin."

It means, of course, learning to limit "the wonk stuff" in politics, the details, the facts. It means becoming a champ at what James Fallows calls in his new book "competitive

It means purposeful, even artificial polarization, the art of dueling certainties. It means: internalizing the television producer in your ear who urges you to "interrupt!" and "cut him off!" It means turning every issue into a thumbs-up, thumbs-down, yes-or-no answer.

As Fallows writes in "Breaking the News: How the Media Undermine American De-mocracy"; "In real life people disagree but consider the possibility of consensus. in polarized talkshow life, they score points off one another and don't even pretend that there's a possibility one combatant might change his mind." Time magazine's

Margaret Carlson once confessed about her talk-show experience, "the less you know, the better off you are." What happens when the Crossfire Candidate enters a political arena already downsized into seven-second issues?

You don't need a shrink to figure out why one grew up in search of common around and the other preferred scorched earth.

You get Pat Buchanan posing at the OK Corral in Arizona. You get one-liner public policy and political infotalment. You get an impression left on politics like a flat mark on

It's said that what the voters like about Buchanan is that "he says what he thinks" and "you know where he stands." Indeed there is nothing wishy-washy about his stand against all abortions, against immigration, against homosexuality, his rejection of evolution, or his belief that "women are simply not endowed by nature with the same measures of single-minded ambition and the will to succeed in the flercely competitive world of Western capitalism." As his former co-host Michael Kinsley once said, Buchanan 'never fears to oversimplify."

But the question left by this offspring of food-fight journalism and sound-bite politics is whether "saying what you think" has now become synonymous with extremism. With simplicity at all costs. Is that what he and we have learned from the journ-o-politics of the talk show culture that scorches the middle ground and falsely divides ambivalence into two absolutes?

Years ago, when Buchanan was applying to journalism school, a teacher was asked to list the student's handicaps. The Jesuit wrote: "Irascibility." Handicap? These days, it seems more and more like a job qualification.

JOSEPH SPEAR

Not even the GOP deserves Buchanan

When I hear someone mention Republicans these days, two thoughts pop immediately to mind. The first is a truism as old as mankind: If you sow lemon seeds you eventually get lemons. The second is a frightful scenario: Patrick

Buchanan wins the Republican nomination and does to them what George McGovern did to the Democrats - enfeebles them for two decades.

The man who planted the seeds that produced the lemon that is Pat Buchanan was Richard Nixon. In 1968, after barely winning the presidency over Hubert Humphrey; Nixon decided to woo the 10 million voters who went for Alabama Gov. George Wallace. Whereas before, Nixon had sought to attract blacks and moderates to GOF ranks, he now considered them less important than the economically disaffected, the "Wash ington elite," the anti-integrationists, the God-and-guns gang. I am tempted to say the Republican Party deserves him, but I have too much affection for a viable two-party system to wish this man on anybody. Yes, he'is striking a chord with blue- and white-collar workers who feel they are being shafted by Wall Street and ignored by Washington. But what the disaffected fail to appreciate is how much worse the cure would be than the malady in this case. To dislodge Buchanan, some say, would be to encourage Ross Perot. Ah, friends, Ross Perot would be stinker. Pat Buchanan would be an unmitigated disaster.

Buchanan is a hater, a goader, an opportunist. He exalts hooliganism. He praises such despots as the late Francisco Franco of Spain and Augusto Pinochet of Chile. As a speechwriter for Richard Nixon, he was the black angel who perched on the president's shoulder and succored the dominant dark aide of the Nixon payche. As the communications director in the Reagan White House, he was the administration's resident provocateur.

Buchanan is, in the words of fellow Nixon speechwriter William Gavin, "George Wallace with a Georgetown degree. Buchanan was, in the words of Reagan spokesman Larry Speakes, a "blindly reactionary" troublemaker.

Let's permit Pat Buchanan to speak for .. "Hitler was indeed racist and anti-Semitic," he wrote in 1977. But Hitler was also a person of "great courage, a soldier's soldier in the Great War, a political organiser of the first rank, a leader steeped in the history of Europe, who possessed oratorical powers that could awe even those who despised him."

- Holocaust survivors are engaged in "group fantasies of martyrdom and neroics." he said in 1990. - Democracy "may prove the Golden Calf of this generation," he wrote in 1992. He also decried "the democratist temptation, the worship of democracy as a form of governance."

· Woman are "aimply not endowed by nature" with what it takes to succeed in the workplace, he once wrote. "The momma bird builds the nest. So it was, so it shall ever be."

- Martin Luther King Jr., he once said, was an "immoral, evil demagogue."

Suffice it to my that no tenable candidate on the political horizon could inapire the united opposition of a hundred factions -like Patrick Buchanan could.

As craven as it's been, the GOP doesn't deserve this lemon.

During a mid-February 12 work session, Commissioner Lon Howell started the discussion by relating a situation where an individual reportedly chose to pay a $600 fine rather than obtaining a permit to sell his products in the parking lot of a local shopping center. Howell questioned if such an operation could be shut down if it failed to obtain necessary permits.

During the discussion, City Manager Bill Simmons reported that there was not enough time for the promoter to get a short term conditional use permit as required, and that the city would not issue an occupational license without prior approval of the conditional use permit by the Planning and Zoning Commission during a public hearing. Howell however, insisted that the person responsible for arranging this particular sale knew of the process he would have to go through. Howell theorized the person thought it would be easier and less expensive to pay the $600 fine. At the conclusion of that discussion, officials decided to contact other cities to determine how they might handle such a situation, with the possibility of Sanford drawing up some type of resolution or ordinance pertaining to the matter.

During the second February work session however, on Feb. 26, no further information had apparently been obtained. Howell continued to push the commission to work on a definite plan which would prohibit such activities without proper licenses and permits.

Discussion then centered on whether or not the city should consider placing more stringent requirements against persons outside the city who come in for special events. Howell and some other commissioners said people coming from out of town took away from the selling capability of merchants who operate in Sanford.

Others however, observed that they were, nonetheless, business sales and helped the local

With still no resolution of the problem, the "blatant violation" matter was again continued to a later date, with the city staff directed to continue looking into various possible solutions.

The ad claimed that Black Hammock had long been recognized as the richest body of land in the state. There, every imum production and field crops grew luxuriantly without additional fertilizer.

It was stated that the earning capacity of Black Hammock was unlimited. The previous season, 1.250 crates of celery per acre had been produced and every other vegetable had had proportionate yield. The orange and grapefruit groves in the vicinity also brought up to $1,000 per acre each year.

Stats show Labor Dept. helps just 11 percent

TALLAHASSEE - Only 11 percent of the hundreds of thousands of unemployed people who last year turned to Florida's Labor Department for help finding work got jobs, federal statistics show.

A decade ago, nearly 23 per-cent of the job-seekers who turned to the state agency ended up finding work.

"I'm worried about it, I'm very concerned about 'it," Gene Rhodes, an administrator who has been with the Labor Department for 25 years, told the St. Petersburg Times in a Wednesday story. "We're in a lot worse shape than we were 10 years ago.'

Of the 1.2 million applicants looking for work in the flacal year that ended last June, the Florida Labor Department placed only 10.9 percent, according to federal statistics cited by the newspaper.

Florida spends about $55 million to operate more than 100 jobs and benefits offices around the state. The money comes from unemployment taxes paid by employers.

Until 1994, unemployment benefits offices and job service centers were separate. But both offices were merged in a push by Gov. Lawton Chiles to provide "one-stop" services.

Since that merger, the job placement rate has declined. from 11.9 percent in the year ending June 1994, to 10.9 percent in the year ending June

"It takes time to change organizational culture. It takes time for people to adjust to new jobs," responded Barbara Griffin, acting assistant director of the Division of Jobs and

People who used to do only unemployment benefits had to be retrained to do job services work and vice versa, Griffin

"When we merged, a lot of the emphasis was on getting it right. learning everything, and we were not really pressing the placement issues." Rhodes said.

But Job placements were on the decline well before the merger.

Rhodes attributes the decline to a number of factors, including more people seeking help, and no significant increase in staff to handle them. State officials also believe they're doing a better job than the federal statistics indicate.

The federal government requires Florida to report how many people are actively seeking help from the Labor Department in a given year even if that means including applicants from the previous year, Rhodes said.

If the total number of applicants is larger, the percentage of people placed in jobs is smaller.

The department keeps inhouse reports that show no carryover applicants from previous years - and higher placement rates.

For example, the in-house report states that 16.2 percent of applicants were placed into jobs by the state Labor Department in the year ending June 30,

Newest automaker, Kia, makes first appearance at Sanford dealership

From staff reports

SANFORD - Kia, the newest automaker on the American scene, drove into Florida last week when 33 dealerships began selling cars in the state, in-cluding Courtesy's Magic Isuzu Suzuki in Sanford. When added to two dealers currently selling vehicles in the state's Panhandle, Florida will virtually equal California as the state with the most Kia dealerships.

Kia currently sells two vehi-cles — the Sephia (pronounced Sch-FEE-uh) compact sedan and the Sportage (pronounced SPOR-tedge) sport-utility vehicle — with another passenger sedan due on the market in 1998. Florida dealers will be offering only the Sephia until the 1996 Sportage becomes available in carly spring.

'Our research shows we have terrific products for this market," explained Greg Warner, Kia's executive vice president and chief operating officer. "Consumers in Central Florida have told us they need a car that's reliable yet packed full of value. The Sephia has more standard equipment than many competitors yet its starting price begins well below that of other compact sedans. Our Sportage is a fun vehicle that turns heads wherever it goes."

The Florida debut is Kia's largest to date. Kia got its U.S. foothold in August 1993 when it sold 2,000 sedans to Budget Rent-A-Car. Ploneering a strategy championed by Warner, Kia has taken a deliberate. market-by-market approach to its national rollout. By the end of 1994. Kia products were on sale at 88 dealerships in 13 Western states. Last year, Kia opened more than 50 additional dealerships and its products are now on sale in 20 states. Once the Florida launch is complete Kia will move up the Eastern scaboard, then to New England and finally, to the Midwestern states. Kia expects to have dealerships nationwide in another two years.

drivers, is an affordably priced, well-equipped compact sedan with a manufacturers' suggested retail price beginning at $9,495. The 1996 model features more than 50 enchancements over the 1995 model, including a more powerful 1.8-liter, 16-valve, dual overhead camshaft (DOHC) engine and dual airbags.

Named "Best of What's New" by Popular Science in 1995, the Sportage is a rugged sport-utility vehicle that was designed with passenger comfort in mind. Able to support an active lifestyle, the Sportage has a 2.0 liter, 16valve, DOHC engine and a driver-side airbag. The Sportage is available in four-wheel or two-wheel dirve models. Prices for the 1996 Sportage will be released later that apping when the SUV goes on sale.

We have chosen dealerships that have demonstrated a commitment to customer satisfaction," Warner said. "We only wnat dealers who will put our customen: first.

In return, Kia offers its dealers higher than average margins on vehicles sold as well as a commitment to quality by restyling and revising products to meet consumer demands. In addition, dealers are encouraged to fix customer complaints without question and to bill repairs to Kia directly.

Kia dealers have responded by giving Kia a high ranking — fifth overall — in the 1995 Dealer Attitude Study conducted by J.D. Power & Associates. Its dealerships are sought after, too, More than 175 Florida dealers requested applications for Kia's, 34 Florida dealerships.

To support is customer first philosophy. Kia has established several policies that set it apart from other manufacturers. All Kia Sephia models come with very competitive warranties: a three-year/36,000-mile basic limited vehicle warranty and five-year/60,000-mile limited powertrain coverage. All owners are covered by Kia Extra-Mile Care, a program that includes 24-hour roadside assistance, for the term of the basic limited warranty. Kia will contact customers no less than seven times during the first two years of ownership, including surveys following the initial purchase and first service to make sure they're happy with the service they received.

Innovative sales: a success story

LAKE MARY - Starcraft Homes of Lake Mary has been selected to construct a new home for Steven and Salvatrice Kimball of Casselberry. Construction is expected to begin in March.

It wasn't who, however, but how the home was obtained. Steven and Salvatrice Kimball attended the recent Mount Dora Arts Festival. They said their goal was to possibly obtain some pieces of art. They ended up however, purchasing a new $247,950 home to be built at Upson Downs, at Black Bear Golf Club on SR-44 at SR-437 in Lake County near Sorrento.

Upson Downs, one of the sponsors of the Mount Dora festival, had a booth at the two-day event, where representatives, including Cathy Russell of Russell Management Company, were on hand. They were dispensing free gifts and literature about the new community.

The Kimballs were among an estimated 2,500 guests who registered at the Upson Downs

Coping with loss

CASSELBERRY - Hospice of Central Florida offers support for all those who are struggling to cope with the loss of a loved one. The support group is offered free to those who are served by the Hospice of Central Florida program. The cost to others is $35 which covers the cost of materials provided to participants. The following group offers general support for those who've lost a loved one, spouse, friend or co-worker: 1:30 p.m. to 3 p.m., Thursdays, April 18-May 23 at Community United Methodist Church, 4921 S. Hwy. 17-92. To register, call Linda at 875-0028, ext. 464.

Hospital introduces new chief

ORLANDO - President and CEO Teresa B. Soderlund of Princeton Hospital, an affiliate of the University of Florida Health System and Shands Hospital at the University of Florida, and outgoing Princeton Chief of Staff Robert S. Roberts, M.D., welcomed the new Chief of Staff Lou C. Harold II, M.D. at a formal event held at the Stouffer Renaissance Orlando Resort recently.

Dr. Roberts who successfully served two years as Chief of Staff, will serve as past president and continue as chairman of the Department of Orthopsedic Surgery at Princeton Hospital. Dr. Harold has been on staff at Princeton Hospital for eight years and served as the chairman for the Department of General Surgery from Feb. 1, 1994 through Jan. 31, 1996. Dr. Harold will serve as Chief of Staff through 1998.

Pollo resource group to meet

WINTER PARK - Polio/Post Polio Resource Group of Central Florida will have their next general meeting Saturday, March 2, at 1 p.m. at the Winter Park Mall Community Room which is located inside the back main entrance off North Denning Drive. For more information, contact Diane Smith at (407) 774-2925.

Bike Ride for AIDS

ORLANDO - The AIDS Ride '96 has swept through San Francisco, Boston and New York, raising millions of dollars for AIDS support organizations in those cities. For the first time ever, the AIDS Ride is coming to Florida.

Sponsored by Tangueray, the Florida AIDS Ride will begin in Orlando on May 17 and end in Miami on May 19, 1996. Approximately 1,200 participants will bike 275 miles over three days. These are not entrants for the Summer Olympics, they are average people with above average desires to make a difference in the battle against AIDS. Twelve hundred individuals will test their personal best.

At the end of each day's ride, a mobile city of tents and support vehicles will await your arrival. Delicious catered meals are provided, as well as shower facilities, massage therapists, and even nightly entertainment. The ride organizers will haul your gear for you and provide full medical and roving technial support. There will be five rest and snack stops daily, and when you breeze into Miami on May 19, you will be part of a speciacular closing ceremony.

The monies raised through sponsorships will directly benefit people in Florida who are living with AIDS and need housing. medical, and support assistance. Proceeds will also help fund more AIDS prevention programs. Space is limited. If you are interested in experiencing the life-altering event first hand, contact Caroline Gerts or Al Becker at the AIDS Resource Alliance, (407) 894-2233.

Hospice of Central Florida is sponsoring duck adoptions as part of The Great Hospice Duck Race, one of their primary fund-raisers. Any community organization, civic group, scout troop, school team, quilting bee, church group, bowling league, etc. can make some serious cash.

Every $5 adoption translates into entry into Water Mania for a sun-filled day at the races, a chance to see thousands of rubber duckies paddle down Cruisin' Creek and a chance to win some ducky prizes. The first ducks to cross the Fowl Line will win some great prises from free dinners at some of the area's finest restaurants, attraction tickets, air fare, trips. Since the prises and park are donated to HCP, the money made goes to New Hope Counseling Center which provides the community with support for issues of grief and loss. Since 1976, more than 13,000 terminally ill patients and their families in Orange, Oscools and Seminole counties have been helped.

For every $5 duck adoption a group sells, HCF will give them a buck. They need as many "quacker jack" teams as they can get their "beaks" on. For information, call Terry Knox. (407) 875-0028, ext. 458.

Get a dentist for dentures

WINTER PARK - Some people think going to "denturists" - non-dentists who provide or repair dentures for the public will have time and money. But there's more to getting dentures than having someone take a mouth impression, make the dentures and put them in a patient's mouth. Dr. Lew Earle, spokesperson for the Florida Dental Association, said. The key difference is education.

Laboratory technicians have no formal training and only one or two years of technical education after high school, he said. Dentists, on the other hand, have eight years of professional education. Proethodontists, dentists who work specifically with dentures, have an additional two years of education. In addition to a broad medical background, all dentists are educated in oral anatomy, facial structure, general and oral pathology, psychology and dental materials.

Total denture service involves a series of appointments for proper diagnosis and complete treatment." said Dr. Earle of Winter Park. Dentists may need to take X-rays to see conditions below the gumline or they may need to prepare mouth tissue for dentures with surgery. Plus, they measure jaw relationships, give patients initial placement and fitting and adjust the bite, all to assure a comfortable and proper fit. "Denturists are not qualified to do all these things," Dr. Earle concluded.

Learn about childhood asthma

Does your child wheese, cough or experience chest tightness after exposure to animal dander, smoke, pollen, cold air or exercise? If so, he or she could be among the nearly five million children who suffer from asthma.

Asthma, a chronic respiratory condition characterized by airway inflammation, is the most common childhood ailment and the leading cause of both emergency-room visits and school absenteeism for people under the age of 18. Yet, sur-prisingly, thusands of children with this condition go undiagnosed and untreated. Education is the key to the early diagnosis and effective management of authma. Parents can enhance their knowledge of asthma with two informative brochures: "Helping Children Manage Their Asthma," and "Asthma: What Every Parent Should Know." These brochures are available, free, by writing to The Asthma Information Center, P.O. Box 790, Springhouse, PA 19477-0790.

Schools try hands-on approach

Like Seminole High, other schools start medical training early

By MELANIE BURNEY Associated Press Writer

CAMDEN, N.J. - Khalit Murrell knows he wants to become a doctor. At 15, he's already pursuing his goal. He's a sophomore at a high school in Camden where students learn about health care professions.

The Medical Arts High School, located at Our Lady of Lourdes Medical Center, is believed to be the only one of its kind in the area and one of only a handful in the country.

Hundreds of students from around the city applied for the first class, but only 60 were chosen based on an essay, attendance, grades and teacher recommendations. Classes began in September 1994.

"I want to do my best," says Murrell. "I definitely want to be a doctor.

The school is a rare success story in Camden, a district with about 20,000 students that has struggled to improve test scores and avoid a state takeover. About 500 youngsters are on the waiting list for the medical arts

"I think it's a good opportu-nity for me," said sophomore Johnelle Johnson, 16. "I really medical arts school passed the state proficiency exam, said Principal Stephanie A. Reynolds. Truancy is not a problem and there have been no fights since the school opened, she said.

"They're here because they want to be here," Reynolds said. 'The commitment on all levels is extremely high."

Reynolds, 40, a former businesa teacher, strolls purposefully down the narrow hallway as students change classes. She greets students by name or calls out, "HI, baby, how are you today?"

"We push them, prod them, encourage them and hug them." Reynolds, the mother of two sons, said during a recent interview at the school.

Attendance averages about 96 percent daily, according to Reynolds. Only two students have dropped out - one moved from the area and the other took exception to the dress code.

Discipline is strict at the medical arts high school. Students wear uniforms every day except Friday, which is casual day. They wear lab coats when going on field trips.

The girls are barred from wearing dark nail polish or large earrings or dyeing their hair

Last year, all students at the outrageous colors. Hats, dark She has wanted to become a glasses and sneakers are also not allowed.

> Most students agree with the stringent rules. Messages are posted around the school, reminding them that "respect and good manners are a must."

'The other schools are kind of bad," said Maria Sanchez, 15, who rides two buses to school. 'This one gave me a chance. It's fun, interesting and educational.

Students at the high school interact with medical professionals. Camden has a booming health care industry, with thousands of people working at several hospitals and research facilities.

'We go deep into the medical field," says freshman Lamar Oates, 14, who decided he wanted to become a doctor after undergoing a kidney transplant two years ago.

Classes are structured around the required state curriculum, but the health care profession is integrated in the lessons. The school day is divided between the classroom and field trips to health care facilities.

"The work we do every day is challenging." says sophomore LaRhonda Pritchett, 15, the student government president.

nurse, she says, since she was 2 years old.

In the computer lab, students work on producing medical pamphlets, learning communication and computer skills at the same time. One student researched diseases influenced by the environment. Across the hallway in the chemistry class, eight students huddled around the blackboard using calculators to solve complex problems. They cooperate willingly when teacher James Gibbs says, "Let's take it off and do it again."

"They give us hard work and make us think," says Johnson.

The school day begins at 8 a.m. and ends at 2:48 p.m. There is no study hall; students go to a nearby YMCA for gym. Lunch is brought in from a nearby school because there is no caleteria.

Currently, the school has about 100 freshmen and sophomores who attend classes in eight rooms. The school is housed on the fourth floor of a nursing school adjoining the hospital.

Students are not only expected to do well, but also are required to tutor their peers. Reynolds said.

Pressure check

Peggy Fox, left, a Beminole Strollers participant, stopped to have her blood pressure checked as a part of the registration process for the walking club that meets at the Seminole Towns Center's food court. Ellen Rollins of Senior Friends takes her pressure as Roni Mott signs her in and Marths Mannatio, marketing director of Seminole Towne Center looks on.

Dolphins lose Vincent

MIAMI - The Philadelphia Eagles won their bid for Miami Dolphina free agent cornerback Troy Vincent, according to published reports. The Dolphina decided late Friday not to match the Eagles' five-year $16.5 million offer sheet for Vincent. The Miami Herald and The Philadelphia Inquirer reported.
"We can't match that cap," Eddle Jones, the Dolphina' general manager told the Herald. "We've done all we can do. I'm flabbergasted. Troy is clearly being influenced to go to Philadelphia. They've made a terrible, terrible mistake."

The decision not to pursue Vincent came after Johnson tried and failed to restructure the offer sheet in Miami's favor.

Jaga sign receiver

JACKSONVILLE - The Jacksonville Jaguars on Saturday signed wide-receiver Keenan McCardell to a free-agent contract. McCardell led the Cleveland Browns' wideouts last season with 56 catches for 709 yards. He also scored four touchdowns. In his last game with the Browns, McCardell caught seven passes for 75 yards against the Jaguars.

Gators close with win

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. - Demetri Hill scored a game-high 30 points, including a game-winning jumper at the buzzer, to lead Florida past late-charging Tennessee 73-71 Saturday. The Gators (11-15, 6-10 Southeastern Conference) anapped a five-game losing streak. In a battle of senior centers, Hill came out on top against Tennessee's Steve Hamer, who finished with 26 points and 13 rebounds. Greg Williams with 11 points and Greg Stolt with 10 were the only other Gators in double figures. Damon Johnson scored 14 for Tennessee and Shane Williams had 18.

Continued from Page 1B "We stuck together," Kennedy said. "If we're there for each other when things are going bad. eventually good thing would happen." Four other Central Florida players reached double-figures. Eric Riggs and Stacey Castle had 12 points apiece and Howard Porter and Chris West added 11

Reggie Elliott led Mercer (15-14) with 24 points, followed Ledon Green with 16, Scott Farley with 15 and Skurka with 11. The Bears made just 8 of 36

3-point attempts. "We were 0-4 in the conference on January 14th." said Mercer coach Bill Hodges, "If you told me that we'd finish

15-14 and be playing for the championship game, I'd take it."
Leading 39-34 at halftime, Central Florida quickly in-creased its lead to 47-36 on Castle's 3-pointer with 18:35 left and jumped to a 61-45 lead with just over 10 minutes remaining on a three-pointer by Traina, the 6-foot-5 freshman son of Seminole High School head basketball cuech Bob Traina. Mercer closed to four points on three occasions in the final four minutes, the last when Elliott hit two free throws to make it 79-75 with 1:27 left. But Mercer went without a field goal in the final four minutes while Central Florida made 10 of its final 12 free throw attempts, including three-of-four in the final minute by Traina.

sion (GFC) is mailing questionnaires to 25,000 Florida hunters to find out how well they did during the past season.

Tom Wright, business manager for the Division of Wildlife, said the survey is an annual project designed to provide data for managing the state's game animals and birds.

Information we receive will help us enhance recreational opportunities for hunters," Wright said. "From data hunters give us each year, we find new ways to design and administer our wildlife programs."

This month, the commission will mail questionnaires to 12,981 Floridians holding a wildlife management area stamp. By mid March, some 11,898 holders of Florida hunting licenses will receive separate questionnaires requesting information on a statewide level. In addition. sportaman's lifetime and five-year license holders are included in the survey samples.

Wright said hunters who do not respond within three weeks will receive a second mailing. If they still don't respond, they will receive a reminder

'We'd appreciate a timely response." Wright said. "It would save the commission the cost of additional mailings. At the latest, we need the questionnaires returned by May 17.

Wright said information from the questionnaires will not be processed in connection with hunters' names.

"We're not interested in knowing anything about individuals in these questionnaires, Wright said. "What we need to know is how much hunting was done between September and early March, where it was done, and how much game was taken.

SHUPE'S SCOOP THE DATA FROM THE GAME AND FRESH WATER FISH COMMISSION'S SURVEY IS VERY CRITICAL IN MAKING MANAGEMENT DECISIONS FOR FUTURE GENERATIONS. IT IS NOT DESIGNED TO DETERMINE WHAT INDIVIDUAL SPORTSMEN ARE HARVESTING. IT IS THE AGGREGATE DATA, OR THE CUMULATIVE TOTAL OF GAME HARVESTED THAT IS OF CRITICAL IMPORTANCE PISHING PORECAST

River fishing is as good as it's going to get. Water levels are low and bass are moving. I prefer to fish sandbars, slough mouths, and runoff areas as base walt to ambush baitfish in these areas. Three days before the full moon and three days after are prime times to bag a real lunker as heavyweight bass are found on shorelines preparing for spawning activities.

Big flounder are still the news at Sebastian inlet. Anglers are scoring on fish in the 5-10 pound range by bouncing finger mullet slowly across the rocky bottom. Also expect redfish, snook, ladyfish, small jack crevalle and bluefish to be mixed in with the catches.

Captain Jack at Port Canaveral reports that the water is very clean for this time of year, but that fishing is on the slow side. Cobia are scattered on wrecks and in the open water. Dolphin are scarce, and a few wahoo are being taken from in 140-250 feet of water. Grouper and snapper fishing is off due to cold and dirty water on the bottom. Inside the Port, flounder, sheepshead and snook are the main attraction. Snook are thick, but very finicky, and can be found amongst the numerous piliags and decking areas. Trout and redfish are very scattered in the Banana and Indian rivers.

Sheepshead are still the news at Peace Inlet . The largest fish prefer a deep hole at the tip of the morth jettles. Medium-sized fish can be caught all along the rocks on live shrimp or fiddler crabs. Drum, redfish, jack crevalle and bluefish are also present in good numbers. Redfish and trout are rated as fair in Mosquite

Outdoors enthusiasts hunting down latest toys at trade show

MONROEVILLE, Pa. - As a peaceful melody plays, a deer trots out to a clearing in the woods and turns its head, stepping tentatively.

Then Charlie Albright aims a high-tech bow and arrow from a distance of 14 feet and - THUNK! - lands a fatal shot, good enough to win him 10 points on a computer scorecard superimposed on the freeze-frame image of the deer.

A cursor marks the spot where his blunt arrow hit the screen and bounced off.

"What it wants you to do is shoot in the heart-lung area, which is your most fatal shot," said Albright, one of more than 350 exhibitors at the recent Allegheny Sport, Travel and Outdoor Show outside Pittsburgh.

In states such as Pennsylvania, where the first day of deer hunting is a school holiday. shows such as these attract thousands of hunters, campers, fishing aficionados and folks who just love the outdoors.

Frank Waronsky, 26, and Lisa Witte, 24, scanned the aisles with an eye toward the many vendors hawking outdoors vacations. "These guys know what's on the lake and everything, as opposed to a travel agent.

Waronsky said. Several booths appealed to archers, whose sport has grown substantially in the past decade, said Scott Tomlinson, a state wildlife conservation officer who attended

Last year, a record 322,000 archery licenses were sold in Pennsylvania, a state where roughly one out of every 12 residents is a licensed hunter.

Among the archery vendors was Auttech of Aurora, Ohio, which set up the virtual archery program. Albright demonstrated the system for onlookers who paid $2 each for five shots.

Depending on what laser disc the computer is programmed to use, the hunter can see only North American animals, just deer or all African animals. Variables such as wind and distance also can be programmed

One floor below, for the less technologically inclined, Wendell "Big Wooly" Adams displayed homemade bows, arrows, knives and quivers. Behind him, a long-haired demonstrator who called himself "Legs" chucked tomahawks at a log with a bulls-eye painted on its center.

"It's a way of hunting that's more back to basics," Adams said about the primitive weaponry from his company. Frontier Specialty. "It's more adventuresome. You have to get closer to the animal, you have to use more stealth."

Adams, of Shively, Ky., hand-makes most of the weapons and is spending his retirement educating people about them at trade shows.

"If we ever had a nuclear war ... the guys that could hunt with these are the guya that could survive," he said. "If these weapons hadn't existed, mankind might not have progressed as far as it did."

While several booths were decorated with moose or deer trophy heads or stuffed bear in fearsome poses, live elk and deer also were on display, courtesy of Emmanuel Shughart of Carlisle. He sold fawns as pets, with males costing $300 and females $250.

Of the 400 deer on his Whitetail Entertainment and Pincy Mountain Game Farm. Shughart has sold 150 since Jan. 1.

Alaqua CC names new golf club pro-

LONGWOOD - Alaqua Country Club has named a ficial as its new golf professional.

Alaqua Country Club President Martin Hartmann said 10-year POA veteran John Charles Lilivia intends to focus his efforts on building strong programs for Alaqua's junior players. We owe it to the sport to develop programs for younger players," Lilivis said. "It's the only way to make certain that the game is constantly improvcause you have to hold it in a Lilivis said he expects to form junior camps to supplement the junior clinics that are already offered at Alaqua.

"I'd like to try to establish some intra-club teams as well." Lillyis said. "WE should be playing against junior level golfers at other country clubs in the area."

Lillvia spent the past fiveand-a-half years as a tournament official with the LPGA, where he was an expert at managing professional tournaments. He has served as golf club pro at Penobecott Country Club in Mino, Maine, and at Lost Creek Country Club in Lima, Ohio.

"John is a good example of the energetic, member-oriented programs we have been establishing at Alaqua," Hartmann said. "We sew establishing Alaqua as the premier family-oriented country club in central Florida. John is a welcome addition to that effort."

Alaqua Country Club members acquired the Gary Player designed golf course, along with the upscale clubhouse with its award. winning dining room and world class tennis and aquatics facilities and a winding, heavily forested stretch of Little Wekiva River bank last year.

Since that time membership in the club has increased substantially.

Alaqua is located on Markham Woods Road, some two miles south of Lake Mary Boulevard.

Key to successful turkey hunting: know the terrain and

By The Associated Press

ATLANTA — When it comes to turkey hunting, you have to know how to make the seductive sounds that will lure a bird. But scouting the terrain and knowing the bird matters even more.

"Calling is important," said
James Earl Kennamer, vice president for research of the National Wild Turkey Federation. "Obviously, when you go out turkey hunting, if you can't call, then you're not going to be playing the game."

But too many hunters spend so much time working on calling that they miss more important things, like acouting the land where they are going to hunt and learning the biology of the bird, Kennamer said. The object of spring turkey hunting is to overcome the gobbler's ego. He is used to gobbling, strutting and showing hunter's job is spot a gobbling turkey, then sit down and make calls like a female, luring the gobbler into shotgun range.

Too many hunters don't sit down and devise a plan to make sure the gobbier comes to them. A combination of scouting and planning will help a hunter avoid setting up in a position where there's an obstacle between his gun and the bird he is

The hunter must know what's over the ridge, if there's a fence or a gully or fallen trees, anything that will stop the already reluctant gobbler from strutting toward the call. "If there's an obstacle between you and the bird," Kennamer said, "they'll hang up, and you'll call and call and call and when it's all over with, you go over and see why he didn't come, there's a rock in the way or a drop off or a gully. You were out off to attract females. The of the game all the time. He might be answering you and you think you are in the game, but you're not going to get him."

"The real good turkey hunters, those who get turkeys consistently, they know where to set up, they know the lay of the land, they know the biology." Kennamer said. Another common mistake made by unsuccessful turkey hunters is carrying the wrong kind of gun or a weapon they aren't familiar with.

"I've had people that I have guided that have cost us turkeys because they did not know what their gun was going to do," Kennamer said. "They have not patterned that gun, they've not shot different loads through their gun. Each gun shoots dif-ferently. When you've got that turkey at 40 yards or less, things have got to work and they've got to work right."

Kennamer said he thinks a lot

Labonte Wins Pontiac 400

By MANK KURZ Jr. APSports Writer

RICHMOND, Va. - Terry Labonte, the defending champion and pole-sitter, probably won't have to worry about the weather in the Pontiac Excitement 400. That means he can worry about his strong. snake-bitten car.

Laborte, who overcame low temperatures and cold tires to win his second straight pole position on Friday, stands 50th in the series standings after failing to finish either the Daytona 500 or Goodwrench

At Daytona, a plastic bag got up under his air cleaner, shutting down the engine. Last weekend in Rockingham, N.C., a burned piston foiled him again. He's led 311 of 900 laps, but ranks 30th in the point standings. "We had a great car at Daytona, and last week we had an awesome car at Rockingham. probably the best car I've ever had there." said Labonte, who was relegated to 34th place when his engine went early in

On the three-quarter-mile oval of Richmond International Raceway, Labonte always seems to have a strong car. Last year, he won the Miller 400 here in the fall and finished first and second in the two Grand National races.

"If we can get out of here with a good finish, we'll be happy, he said after posting a 123.728 mph in his Chevrolet on Friday. We've had some tough luck the last couple of weeks, and we just hope that's behind us." Jeff Gordon, another struggling driver, will start alongside Labonte, a repeat of last week's front row. Gordon, the defending Winston Cup champion, hasn't finished either race and is 43rd among 45 drivers in the stand-

Gordon, a Hendrick Motorsports teammate of Labonte, said his car didn't perform in qualifying the way it had in pre-trials practice.

"We could never find that speed we needed," he said. "I don't know if I overdrove the car or what, but we were a little bit too tight."

Bobby Hamilton, foiled by Dale Earnhardt in his bid for his first career victory last weekend. will start third at a track where he's done well.

"It would be real good to win here, especially with it being a Pontiac weekend." said the Pontiac driver. "The car felt good to me."

Last spring at Richmond. Hamilton started second and finished ninth. In the Miller Genuine Draft 400 in the fall, he Anished AAh.

Ricky Craven, driving a Chevrolet, earned the outside spot on the second row, followed by the Fords of Mark Martin and Bill Elliott.

Series co-leaders Earnhardt and Dale Jarrett, each with one victory and one second this season, will start from the No. 9 and No. 11 positions.

On Saturday, Ernie Irvan was the only one of six second-round qualifiers to earn a spot in the field. Irvan, who crashed in practice Friday, made his second iap in a backup car at 121.940 mph. He'll start 26th.

ESO reviews 'Balkan Ghosts;' ballet set Saturday

Dr. Faye Kelly was the guest speaker at the February meeting of Epsilon Sigma Omicron, a reading society of the Florida Federation of Women's Clubs, held at the home of Shirley Milis. Co-hostess for the event was Lourine Messenger.

Dr. Kelly, a third generation Floridian, carned her PhD from the University of Florida and taught at American University in Washington D.C. and Stetson University in DeLand before retiring. She is a licensed pilot and has traveled extensively throughout the world.

Her review of Robert D. Kaplan's book, "Balkan Ghosts, A Journey Through History, was not only informative but timely because of the wars raging in Bosnia today.

According to Charlotte Knowies, Dr. Kelly traced the history of the Balkans and how their ethnic hatred is passed on from one generation to another. She said their background is one of war, terrorism, mass murder and religious fanaticism. The author claims the Romanian holocaust was far worse than the German holocaust. New members are: (from left) Janet Vigilante, Lyman High School; Margle Nicholson, Wilson Elementary; and Mary Ann Venezia, Greenwood Lakes Middle School.

LaSertoma presents youth award

LaSertoma (LAdies in SERvice TO MAnkind) is an international organization with clubs in the United States, Canada, Mexico and Puerto Rico. The Greater Seminole Chapter of LaSertoma was originally chartered on March 25, 1977. The purpose of the club is the promotion of friendship and service among those interested in serving their communities and providing for those in need.

In addition to supporting Camp Endeavor by providing scholarships to those who are hearing impaired, and support-ing the Marie Taylor Needy Children's Fund in the Seminole County School District, and providing scholarship awards to those students who demonstrate a service commitment to their community, the international club voted last year to initiate a "Youth Service Award" which would recognize the leadership and community spirit of a middle school student. This "Youth Service Award" was presented to outstanding youth dedicated to bettering their communities in all the clubs throughout the country during the mount of February.

Marcus Robinson, a sixth grader at Lakeview Middle School, has been awarded the first "Youth Service Award" by the Greater Seminole LaSertoma Club. He is an outstanding example of a person committed to making his community a better place. At school, Marcus is a member of the "Task Force," a group of students dedicated to stopping the violence in their school by providing tools and examples of better ways to handle differences and altercations among the students.

The guidance counselor, Mrs. Wilson, is the sponsor of this program which also provides parties at the end of each month for those who adhere to the rules and help to maintain the peaceful environment within the school setting. Marcus is also an honor roll student within Lakeview Middle School, and is a three-year member of "McKnight," a University of Central Florida Honor Society for black students. At present, Marcus' favorite subject is science in which he is currently studying geology. He is also fond of English and is presently reading a Martin Luther King biography on which Marcus plans to write his book report which is dus illicity. In addition to serving his school on the Task Force and

He actually plays basketball and works out with the high school basketball team, because his brother plays basketball. The team naw Mar-cus play and allowed him to stay because he helped to improve their game as well as his own

Marcus is also involved in his church, the St. Matthew Missionary Baptist Church. He is a member of the youth group where he is encouraged to learn Bible verses and how he may apply each to his own life. For the past four or five years, he has been a member of the chair. He is also an usher, one who has been selected to escort people to their seats and give tours to church visitors, and pass out programs.

for him: "My mom teaches me right from wrong, she reminds me to study and reminds me of my busy schedule, and if I come home late, she has my clothes ready for me; she takes care of me. Although both parents are very proud of Marcus, his dad says of him." Marcus is headstrong; he is never afraid to make a decision and puts thought into that decision before he makes it." Marcus has little free time, but when he is free, he enjoys "butting" his older sister, watching TV, and he has de-veloped an interest in genealogy.

The Youth Service Award presentation was held in the home of Marilyn Armstrong of Longwood and included a delicious potluck dinner, and an evening of quiet conversation with good people who enjoy one another. As Marcus and his parents, Pat and Leonard Robertson, were leaving the home and extending warm thank you's and well wishes to their hostesses, one of the LaSertoma members bid them leave with this reminder. "Remember us when it comes time for college scholarships, wel'll be here for you."

Another happening at Wekiva is the exceptional job that Seminole Deputy Sheriff Daren Tjomstol is doing to reduce the speeding in the Wekiva area in an effort to make the streets safer for the residents. According to Deputy Tjomstol, if you receive a ticket for speeding 12 miles over the limit, the base charge is $80.75, plus $4.25 for each mile over the speed limit which totals $131.75. That's an incentive to slow down.

Garden club to meet

Sweetwater Oaks Garden Club will hold its regular meeting on March 11, at 9:30 a.m. in the Sweetwater Community Center. The program on "Floral Designs" will be presented by Ed Lactura, owner of The Flower Market in Winter Park. Come join us. For information on

She's a natural when it comes to painting skills

By SVEAM WENN Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — Painting was been a part of Carol Buettner's life for some 10 to 12 years and she enjoys her hobby as relaxation and for profit.

Buettner has had the privelege to sell much of her artwork as well as create masterpieces for family and friends. Many of her oil canvas works are displayed at the Seminole County Cour-thouse in the Clerk of the Circuit Court Office where she is employed as a deputy clerk.

Although this self-taught artist did pick up a few tips from television shows, she attributes most of her skill as being "an in-born thing." She had the opportunity to attend a small number of classes at a craft shop in Longwood, which has now been sold, yet the time spent there was mimimum.

As Buettner commented,"it just kind of comes naturally to me," referring to her talent with paint and a brush. She tries to find a spare moment between her hectic work schedule to perform a few strokes of the

According to Buettner she first began her art experience with landscapes. "I started painting landscapes," she said. "I now do portraits of homes, pets, houses or whatever people want. If they tell me what they want I tackle

Many various surfaces have been transformed by Buettner. "I can paint on any surface," she said. "I mainly use canvas. I also once took some shiny hardboard from my bathroom and painted that.I can paint on plywood or most any surface that's available."

Sketching on paper occupies some of her time. She shared that she may just sketch with pencils when she finds the time. Charcoal work has been experimented with but Buettner admitted that it's not a favorite of hers.

She has occasionally painted some floral pictures with acrylics. "I really prefer oils though." ahe said.

To beginners, Buettner advised, "Just experiment, Just go for it. If you want to paint, you can do it. If you just have the urge to paint... Buettner added, "As a retirement treat. I want to try crafts. For now, I just do an assortment of painting. whatever I see or others see that they like.

vote, there are other issues the AARP is following closely. In Tallahassee, lawmakers are reviewing the Baker Act. When originally enacted, the Baker Act was an attempt to get mentally ill people off the street and into institutions where they could be cared for. Unfortunately, the act is currently being used by many as a way to dump the elderly in mental institutions. For instance, a wealthy woman was institutionalized by her son after a disagreement. It took him only one week to get the woman put away. It took her friends three weeks to get her out. By then the woman had contracted hepatitis in the institution. The disease eventually killed her. Some nursing homes, faced with a client who needs a little more care than the average client, find an excuse to have the patient declared mentally unfit and put in an institution. No enteride doctors have to agree on the decision. It can be made by one doctor working for the home.

Girl Scouts will hold its third annual Olympics on Saturday, April 13 at 9 a.m. at the soccer field in the Lake Mary Sports Complex. The Olympics give the girls a chance to compete with other girls their own age and have lun as well. Scheduled events include the shot put, using a water balloon, and the three-legged race. Because of the cost of T-shirts and medals, this is one of the most expensive events the Lake Mary Girl Scouts put on. For that reason, the Olympics is a sponsored event. There are three levels of sponsorships. The Gold is $150 and gets the sponsor's name on the back of all the T-shirts and in the program in large type. The Silver is $50 and the Bronse is $25. If you would like to help make the games affordable for all giris, you can buy a sponsorship by calling Brenda Anderson at 862-3634.

Dancers entertain Forest's Keenagers

The Forest Keenagers held their monthly social last Saturday night in the Starlight

A delicious chili supper was served by Hostess of the Month, Grace Hauck, who personally made over 35 gallons of chili.

Grace, who not only knows how to stir up a great pot of chili. is also a member of the Happy Hoofers Dance Troupe. She arranged for the dancers, under the direction of Evelyn Chester, to perform at the event.

Evelyn, who is a great favorite with audiences, is a masterful choreographer and teacher who leads these senior dancers, ages mid-50s to 80, in many intricate

When the dancers hit the stage in their glitzy costumes, the audience responded with a thunderous welcome, and remarks such as, "Wow! Look at those legs!" and "Gee, wish I could do that!", could be heard. Two of the dancers, Honey Stiles and Elizabeth Taylor, are also vocalists who had fun with the audience while singing.

Lunch cost Mom embarrassment

DEAR ABBY: I am 20 years old, have been married for a year and a half, and have a 3-month-old son. We don't have much money and are struggling to get by.

Last week a friend of my mother's called and said, "Let's go to lunch. I want to see your new baby." I assumed it would be her treat. Imagine my embarrassment when I was asked for "my share" of the check. All I had with me was $5. My mother put in the rest.

Had I known I'd be expected to pay for my lunch, I would have suggested that she stop by my house to see the baby.

Was I wrong to assume that she'd be treating me to lunch? EMBARRASSED

DEAR EMBARRASSED: No. Since she invited you to lunch, she should have paid for it. However, some people make a practice of going "Dutch" and assume that everyone class

Before accepting an invita-tion, leave nothing to chance. Ask, "Are we going Dutch?"

DEAR ABBY: I'm an avid reader and respect your opinion, which prompts me to write this letter. I am 31, and for three years I have been dating "Tom," who is 11 years older than I am. We have a fantastic relationship and can usually work out our differences. Recently we've been discussing marriage. Tom has two daughters from a previous marriage. "Angie," the 21year-old, does not live with him. "Michelle" is 18, a senior in high school, and will be leaving for college in the fall. Their mother is still living, and I am not attempting to take her place.

Tom and I attend all Michelle's functions together, and I praise her when she excels in something, but after three years, she has not warmed up to me. I don't mind her cool treatment, because she is always respectful and courteous.

If Tom and I marry, I would prefer that Michelle not address me by my first name.

What is the appropriate way for children to address their stepparent? (By the way, Angle is very fond of me and we get along great.) Tom and I have agreed to abide by whatever you suggest.

TEXAS READER

DEAR READER: Since Tom's daughters are adults, and only slightly younger than you, they might be uncomfortable calling you "Mom." And to call you "Mrs. So-and-so" would be too formal.

The two remaining options: Your first name, or a mutually agreed-upon nickname.

DEAR ABBY: Can you please help me decide what to do? I am 60 years old and have adult children. I want to write a journal of my life, but there are a few shocking things in my family's past. How much should I tell my children? Or should I leave the family skeletons in the closet? I've been worrying about this for a long time.

MRS. "O"

DEAR MRS. "O": How much of your life you choose to reveal is a decision that only you can make; however, I urge you to think carefully before reve information that could hurt family memb

Above all, whatever you disclose in your journal must be the truth

DEAR ABBY: The Lake Elsinore, Calif., parents who donated little Patricia Ann's organs helped three other families. Patricia, a 5month-old baby, died Jan. 10, about 13 hours after she and her mother were struck by a car.

Patricia's heart went to a 2month-old boy in Alberta, Canada. A 16-month-old boy in San Francisco received Patricia's liver. The mother of two sons in Pennsylvania received Patricia's kidneys.

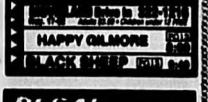

What an admirable and humanitarian thing to do. It would be wonderful if more people gave muchneeded organs to an organ procurement center. Knowing that some good came from their tragedy would help families cope with their loss.

Abby, please publish this message so that more people will consider organ donations. VIRGINIA IN ESCONDIDO,

DEAR VIRGINIA: Patricia's parents are to be commended for their generosity in giving three people the gift of life in the midst of their own overwhelming grief.

I can think of no finer tribute to the memory of a loved one.

Lakeview Middle one of top 15 innovative schools

For the second consecutive year, Lakeview Middle School has been recognized by the State Department of Education as one of the 15 most innovative middle schools in the entire state. Principal Jim Shupe attended a Break the Mold middle school workshop on Feb. 13 and 14 which showcased Belle Vue Middle School in Tallahassee.

On the first day, Tracey Bailey, Florida's former teacher of the year, addressed the group on the need for innovation and change. Later, principals met in "think tank sessions" to share innovative strategies that were taking place at their schools. The evening culminated in a working dinner at a local restaurant.

The morning of Feb. 14 was spent touring Belle Vue Middle School and talking with students and staff. That afternoon, principals once again met in think tank sessions and shared successes. Commissioner of Education Frank Brogan dropped in for an informal presentation early that afternoon. Brogan applauded the principals for being on the cutting edge of educational reform in the state of Florida and he spoke of the importance of providing all children with a quality education. Pete Kreis, from the Office of Business and Educational Alliances, closed out the workshop with a talk on innovation in education and the need to step 'outside the box" when contemplating change.

Shupe reported that the workshop was both inspirational and informative. He said that it was exciting to network with innovative principals across the state and to glean ideas that might be replicated at Lakeview

County. Shupe went on to say that it was "enlightening to have a glimpse of the global perspective of innovation and change across the state" and that "we should all be proud of the many exciting and innovative things that are taking place in Seminole County

He went on to elaborate that the seeds for this year's novel Prescriptive Disciple Plan were nown at the 1994-95 Break the Mold workshop. Designed entirely by the teachers, this plan clearly defines student expectations and consequences for violating these expectations. The plan combines the best of ideas from several different aproaches to classroom management. The prescriptive discipline is assertive in that everyone knows the rules up and other schools in Seminole front. There are no surprises. It behaviors such as violence, is progressive in that a student will always receive a more severe consequence for the same disciplinary infraction. The plan is consistent in that all teachers and administrators are operating under the same guidelines. The plan also takes a zero tolerance stance towards certain student profanity to staff or threatening staff.

Shupe and his staff have been dedicated to implementing current educational research into practice at Lakeview Middle School. As a result of this effort, approximately 43 percent of the entire student body is on the honor roll. Shupe further noted that the Sanford schools are making their mark at the state level. Last school year, Seminole High School was recognized as one of the top 21 high schools in the state and this year. Sanford Middle School was honored as a Red Carpet school for community involvement.

Public schools try uniforms to focus students, restore order

By DEB RIECHMANN AP Education Writer

WASHINGTON - Ashley Johnson halfheartedly agreed to wear a uniform when they were introduced last year at her school in Richmond, Va.

Then she saw it and rejected "She hated the plaid," said her mother, Tony Johnson. "I ad ordered it and everything. I ad to sell it to another stu-Ashley acquiesced after Maymont Elementary School for the Arts and Humanities modified its voluntary uniform policy to permit navy blue tennis kirts. Now she's in uniform two or three days a week.

Nationwide, a rising number of public schools are turning to uniforms to help restore order to unruly classrooms.

Some parents, teachers and students say uniforms curb violence that sometimes stems from disputes over coveted clothes or pricey tennis shoes. They say uniforms foster discipline, self-esteem and school pride.

"While it's clearly a decision that has to be made community-by-community, and perhaps building by building. there appears to be ome anecdotal evidence that they achieve more order, more discipline," sald Hal Seamon, deputy executive director of the National Association of School Boards.

Opponents say uniforms are a fad that will do little to improve public education. They also argue that they squelch freedom of expression and individualism.

"Uniforms in and of themselves will not have an impact on anybody," said Robert Walter, education professor at Temple University in Philadelphia. "It's not the wearing of the uniform, but the shared vision and commitment to making the school a better

While uniforms might improve student behavior, schools have no concrete evidence that they will lead to higher academic achievements. And many of the schools choosing uniforms are adopting other reforms so that if homework and test grades improve, it will be hard to know whether uniforms should get the

Some large school systems, including ones in Miami. Baltimore, Detroit, Milwaukee and Los Angeles, have schools with either mandatory or voluntary uniform policies. Under the voluntary plans, students and their parents are not required to participate but often do because of the pressure to conform.

The discussion about uniforms was renewed in January when President Clinton championed the idea in his State of the Union address. He said public schools should be allowed to require them if it would mean "teenagers will stop killing each other over designer jackets."

Wait to elect

By Phillip Alder

In a speech in the House of Lords on March 2, 1770, William Pitt, Earl of because they love liberty, and I love them for the noble efforts they made in the last war (the French and Indian Warl."

Today's deal was sent by Lord Smith of Marlow to Tony Forrester, the bridge correspondent of The Daily Telegraph.

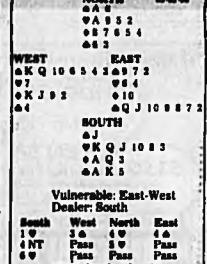

North couldn't bring himself to pass over three spades with two aces and four trumps. But apparently when the dummy came down, there was a stony silence from South.

After winning the first trick with dummy's spade ace, South was tempted to take the diamond finesse. But there was no rush, as the finesse could always be tried later.

Declarer drew trumps, cashed his top clubs and ruffed the club five in the dummy. What had he learned? That West had begun with one heart, one club and, presumably, seven spades. This meant he had four diamonds. The finesse was unlikely to

So, South tried for an endplay. He led the spade eight from the dummy, planning to discard the diamond three if East played a lower spade. However, East was awake, covering with the nine. New South ruffed and exited with his diamond three.

What could the defenders do? If West played low, East would have to concede a ruff-and-discard after winning with the 10. And if West went up with the diamond jack, he would have to lead into South's ace-queen of diamonds or concede a ruff-and-discard. Nicely done!
