Cupid Flying High

By Deane Jordan
Herald Staff Writer

Though spring was not in the air Thursday love was as a Sanford man asked his Valentine to marry him by trailing the proposal behind an airplane.

"Jackie Lee Farr, will you marry me? Dave," asked the red banner.

Her heartbeat-quick reply?

"Yes."

The wedding date is unmet but Jackie and Dave Thomas, 21, will probably exchange vows after the bride-to-be graduates from Seminole High School where she's a senior. She's the daughter of Sanford City Commissioner Dave Farr and wife Joyce, who were on hand with Thomas' parents — Jack and Sherrill Thomas — and other relatives and friends for the lofty proposal. The couple have been dating for about three years.

The out-of-the-blue question was probably one of the worst kept secrets in Sanford, the bride-to-be's father said, explaining that just about anyone who knew Jackie knew of the planned event. Jackie, it seems, was the last to know and was caught off guard just as planned. The proposal also had a down-to-earth ring to it... placed on her finger after she ran to her beau who was nearby when the plane flew over.

The plane, carrying the streamer of yard-high letters, took off from Sanford Airport at 4:20 p.m. and circled the south shoreline of Lake Monroe in Sanford where the to-be-

Don't Use Tylenol, FDA Says

2nd Tainted Bottle

YONKERS, N.Y. (UPI) — Consumers nationwide were warned against using Tylenol as investigators searched for a link between the cyanide-laced capsules that killed a woman and a second bottle of Extra-Strength Tylenol tainted with the poison.

Five capsules containing cyanide were found Thursday in a triple-sealed Tylenol bottle that came from a Bronxville, N.Y., Woolworth's store less than a mile away from the A&P supermarket where the tainted Extra-Strength Tylenol that killed Diane Elstroth, 23, on Saturday had been purchased.

State health officer Dr. James Howell has ordered Tylenol capsules removed from store shelves in Florida, according to a mid-morning announcement by Russell Miller, Seminole County director of environmental health. Ordered removed are extra-strength, regular and child capsules. Tablets of Tylenol may be sold. Anyone who has purchased capsules of Tylenol are should return the product to the store or destroy them, Miller said.

Thursday's discovery prompted the Food and Drug Administration to issue a nationwide warning against the use of Tylenol capsules. Gov. Mario Cuomo banned the sale of the capsules in New York, and California, Illinois, Massachusetts and Indiana followed suit.

FDA commissioner Frank Young said a bottle of Regular-Strength Tylenol containing "a very, very small trace of something that reacted like cyanide" was also found Thursday. But FDA spokeswoman Kay Hamric said later, "There was absolutely no evidence whatsoever the substance was the deadly poison."

Preliminary analysis showed the five tainted Extra-Strength capsules contained roughly equal doses of cyanide and potassium cyanide, a lethal dose, according to Young. The outside seals on the bottle were not broken and the aluminum foil over the top of the container was intact, he said.

"We're hoping further testing will give us a clue if there is a link between the second bottle and the Yonkers death," said Paul Hile, FDA assistant commissioner for regulatory affairs.

The test results were expected today.

Library Plan Unsuitable, Panel Says

In its first exercise of aesthetic authority, Sanford's Historic Preservation Board literally held its ground on Thursday by denying Seminole County's site plan for a $780,000 library in downtown Sanford.

Although the plan was amended as per the board's request in December, the county library services' second rendition also failed to capture the downtown district's historic flavor, according to the board majority. It voted 6-4 to reject the project, which the county hoped to begin building in June behind the Sanford library.

The refusal and possible courses of action, including an appeal to the Sanford City Commission, will be reviewed by Seminole County Commissioners later this month, according to Janie Boutwell, county library business coordinator.

She said for Sanford, at best, the county commission would authorize her department to develop a new set of plans, which would delay the project six months. "At worst," she said, "is no new building. We may have to remain with the (Sanford) library we have now."

Ms. Boutwell added, however, "That's the last thing we want to do. The (current) building just isn't adequate."

The library services department could also switch the timing for the Sanford project with one of the four other libraries it plans to build in local municipalities during the next three years, she said. "We'll have to go over the entire matter with the (county) commissioners before deciding what course of action we'll take."

The Historic Preservation Board's course of action was taken in order to set a precedent for subsequent development in

City Seeks Dismissal Of Paulucci Suit

By Karen Talley
Herald Staff Writer

Sanford has called for dismissal of the $28 million lawsuit Jeno Paulucci's Heathrow organization filed against the city. Its five commissioners and its manager for "interfering" with Paulucci's Yankee Lake land sale to Seminole County. Paulucci said the city's effort to obtain the land by condemnation hampered the contractual obligations the county assumed when it agreed to purchase Yankee Lake from Paulucci in November.

The first judge assigned to hear the city's motion has already recused himself.

Mack Cleveland, attorney for Paulucci, said today Sanford's counsel "must prove we didn't state a cause of action if they're going to invalidate our suit."

"We're confident they won't be successful."

In moving for dismissal of the Heathrow charges, the Sanford motion cites the city's legal authority to bring a condemnation action, as well as the effort's Feb. 3 invalidation. Sanford's condemnation suit was dismissed on the grounds that it was sanctioned during a meeting which was conducted in violation of the city charter.

In its dismissal motion, the city contends if its condemnation effort had been successful, the county's contract with Paulucci "would be void" and there would be no basis for allegations that the city interfered with the contract's stipulations.

In taking the opposite posture, the dismissal motion states that because the condemnation effort was dismissed, there is no validity to the Heathrow suit's charges of contractual interference.

It also contends that Paulucci attorneys violated a state statute when bringing the multi-million dollar suit.

According to Colbert, state law dictates, "If you're going to sue a governmental entity, you have to present a claim in writing six months before filing the lawsuit."

Additionally, the dismissal motion contends the city's condemnation attempt does not warrant an injury claim of $28 million. "The alleged actions of the City of Sanford could not, as a matter of law, have caused any injury to the plaintiffs even if those actions resulted in a successful condemnation of the property at issue," the motion states.

The Sanford motion was filed Thursday and assigned to Seminole-Brevard Circuit Judge C. Vernon Mize, one of the three judges who declined in November to hear the city's condemnation case.

Now, Mize said he will have no part of Paulucci's attempt to obtain $28 million from the city. The judge said his "automatic reason" for both recusals is the eight years he spent as Sanford city attorney.

The condemnation suit was ultimately heard in a Melbourne court room and both Cleveland and City Attorney William Colbert acknowledged the dismissal motion may end up going See SANFORD, page 2A

Rodent In Beer Spurs Lawsuit

A man who was overcome by violent retching when he discovered a rodent in his half-drunk beer, has filed suit against Anheuser-Busch Inc., makers of Budweiser.

Carmen N. Fazzina of Winter Springs filed suit Wednesday against the beer company based in Missouri. He is seeking unspecified damages in excess of $5,000.

Fazzina could not be reached for comment but his lawyer, Richard Taylor, said the incident has prompted Fazzina to seek psychological counseling and treatment of a skin condition prompted by nerves aggravated by the incident. He said Fazzina is in his 50s.

The rodent probably did not impart any flavor to the beer because it was pasteurized along with the beer, said Taylor, who at one time worked the company in Tampa.

Mike Fleming, a spokesman for Anheuser-Busch in St. Louis said he had not heard of the suit but added it is not an uncommon claim. He said it may involve tampering in a warehouse. After checking with the company's legal department, he said they have not received the suit so their official position is "no comment," until after they receive it.

According to the suit, Fazzina purchased a six-pack of beer in Seminole County on Sept. 13. He said the discovery was made while he was home drinking the beer. He said he had drunk about half the beer from the 12-ounce bottle when the flow of the beer stopped as he tipped the bottle against his lips. At the same time he felt something touch his tongue or lips. The something apparently was the small See RODENT, page 3A

Smoke Shows Crew Doomed At Liftoff

CAPE CANAVERAL (UPI) — New NASA photographs show a cloud of black smoke spurting around a shuttle rocket booster less than a second after Challenger's blastoff, indicating the crew of seven was doomed from the moment of liftoff.

A presidential commission investigating the disaster at the Kennedy Space Center reviewed un-released film and data Thursday and met again today for more briefings and a tour of key shuttleport facilities, including Challenger's launch pad and the giant building where the shuttle boosters are assembled.

Following the panel meetings Thursday, NASA released photographs that clearly show an abnormal spurt of sooty black smoke emerging between the right-side solid rocket booster and the shuttle's external fuel tank about one-fourth of the way up the 14-story rocket.

The origin of the smoke cannot be seen but it is thickest well above the joint connecting the booster's lower two fuel segments that has been the subject of intense scrutiny because of NASA documents that show a history of problems with crucial joint seals.

The first of the six photographs was taken 0.676 seconds after solid rocket ignition, which commits the shuttle to blastoff. During the two minutes the solids are firing, there are no survivable escape procedures should one of the rockets suffer a major malfunction.

While the first two pictures, taken milliseconds apart, are not clear, the NASA caption said "dark smoke begins to appear" in the area between the booster and the fuel tank.

The third picture in the series was taken 1.81 seconds after launch and by that point, the cloud of smoke is clearly visible, extending about 15 feet up from the area of the highly publicized joint.

The last two pictures in the series, taken at 3.34 seconds and 3.37 seconds after launch do not show any signs of smoke or any other apparent problem.

The pictures could indicate the results of a possible defect in the booster's steel casing or trouble with a factory seam in the case that allowed hot flame and gas from burning propellant to escape.

Morgan Says Yes As Space Teacher

WASHINGTON (UPI) — NASA says it will give backup space teacher Barbara Morgan a chance to join a shuttle crew when the flights resume, and educators praised the decision, saying the project must continue in the spirit of Christa McAuliffe.

Acting National Aeronautics and Space Administration chief William Graham announced the agency's decision Thursday. But he said the date of the next teacher flight depends on the outcome of the investigation into the explosion that killed the Concord, N.H., teacher and her six crewmates aboard the shuttle Challenger.

Morgan, of McCall, Idaho, underwent the same training as McAuliffe and was at Cape Canaveral when her colleague was killed 73 seconds after takeoff.

Morgan did not attend the news conference at which Graham and two space teacher finalists appeared, but she said Wednesday and again Thursday in Boise that she still wants to fly in space.

"I have confidence with NASA," said Morgan, who was accompanied by her husband, Clay. "NASA will find what's wrong with the space shuttle."

"The future of the space program is bright," said Morgan, 34. "The children are waiting to see what adults do with the space program, and I am ready to be their partner in space."

Graham said he met with Morgan earlier and she told him that her acceptance of a seat aboard a shuttle would depend on her circumstances when NASA decides it is ready to fly shuttles again.

Blaze Kills 7 Children In Home With Windows Nailed

EL CAMPO, TX — Seven children were trapped and killed in a burning small frame home early Thursday, when they were left with no way to escape because the windows and back door were nailed shut, according to the city fire marshal.

Jacqueline Williams who lived in the house with her five children, and Marsha Owens, whose two children were visiting, were 25 miles away in Bay City when the fire broke out, witnesses claimed.

The women returned 2 1/2 hours later, according to officials. Witnesses told Police Chief J.C. Elliott that the women had visited several bars Wednesday night.

The bodies of five children were found in the front room of the three room house, while two of the bodies were found in the back room by firefighters, who arrived at the home at 12:30 a.m.

A neighbor, Pearl Mac Wilkins, was one of the first on the scene. She said she heard hollaring and screaming, but was unable to reach the children. She said after she opened the front door, flames shot out and the crying stopped.

Officials suspected a space heater might have been at fault, although an official cause has not been determined. No one has been charged in connection with the fire according to Elliott.

The dead Williams children are: Monica, 8; Jeremy, 7; Veronica, 6; Jason, 3; and Claressa, 9 months. The Owens children were Demetris Johnson, 3, and Nathan Johnson, who would have been two months old today.

Iacocca: Firing Near UnAmerican

HIGHLAND PARK, MI — Lee Iacocca, fired Wednesday by Interior Secretary Donald Hodel from his position as head of a government advisory commission on the restoration of the Statue of Liberty, said Thursday his dismissal "borders on being un-American", and claimed he was fired because he fought commercialization of the project.

"A lot of people have worked hard for four years on behalf of this project and so have I, and I don't appreciate being disenfranchised on somebody's whim Iacocca said."

In the end, a beautiful project gets hurt; I don't get hurt," the Chrysler Corporation chairman continued at a news conference at Chrysler headquarters.

Iacocca said his firing was related to his stand against the National Park Service's endorsement of a luxury hotel and conference center on Ellis Island, which is also being restored.

Iacocca said the planned hotel would be "financed by tax shelters for the rich. That's not part of the deal we made with the American people."

Iacocca will remain the head of the private foundation that so far has raised $233 million for the project.

AIDS Boy Can Attend School

KOKOMO, IN — A 14-year old AIDS victim can return to school without any health threat to his class-mates or teacher, it was certified by a county medical officer Thursday. But Western School Corporation, which has barred the youth, Ryan White, from attending class, announced no decision on whether they would continue to try to keep him out of class.

The boy contracted AIDS through contaminated blood products used to treat his hemophilia. He was examined by for 40 minutes Thursday by Dr. Alan J. Adler, the county health officer. The doctor said White was not a health threat to those he came in contact with at school.

The boy was banned from attending Western Middle School after he was diagnosed as having AIDS in December 1984. He has used a telephone system in order to follow his classes.

School board attorney David Day said further action would have to take place in a state or federal court, if the board continued trying to bar the boy.

A Vote To Ride MTA

By Sarah Nunn
Herald Staff Writer

Seminole County commissioners said Tuesday they prefer a referendum on the Metropolitan Transportation Authority to be held in the fall rather than in June. They also said they want the measure to include both a gas tax and property tax to fund road projects in three counties.

County Commission Chairman Bob Sturm, the county's representative on the MTA, said the agency will meet today in Orlando to finalize plans for the referendum.

The MTA is seeking voter approval in Seminole, Orange and Osceola Counties for a gas tax of up to four cents and as much as a $1 per $1,000 assessed value property tax to fund road construction.

Seminole County would receive $37 million to help meet its transportation needs if the proposed referendum passes.

The legislation creating MTA had targeted the referendum to go on the ballot in early June. However, the agency Friday will discuss the possibility of moving the date to the September primary or November regular election rather than holding a special election this summer, Sturm said.

MTA has estimated it would cost $250,000 to hold a special election in all three counties.

County Commissioner Bill Kirehloff, endorsing the idea of a fall referendum, said it is a matter of "whatever is convenient for voters."

County officials noted that most of the polls are located at schools, which would be closed in June. They estimated it would cost between $60,000 and $70,000 to hold a special election in Seminole County.

MTA would have to present a bill to the legislature in April to change the date of the referendum. Assistant County Attorney Lonnie Groot said.

Also on the agenda for today's MTA meeting, Sturm said, the agency will be discussing the specific financing plan it will ask voters to approve. Seminole County commissioners unanimously agreed Tuesday that both a property and gas tax should be put on the ballot.

The East Central Florida Regional Planning Council has estimated that $174 million could be raised in the three counties under MTA. Council Transportation Planning Director David Grovdahl said.

The legislature gave MTA the authority to finance road projects through bonding for up to 40 years using the tax revenues, he said.

The counties have submitted lists of their road priorities over the next five years to be included in MTA's ground transportation plan. Those lists are being compiled into a draft plan which will go to local governments for review Feb. 22.

MTA must adopt a final plan including the financing and road projects by April 22, Grovdahl said.

project last year, prior to the Historic Board's inception in October.

Board member Cal Conklin, however, also pointed out that although the board is a fledgling one, the city's downtown area was declared a historic district many years ago.

"The county," he said, "chose to ignore this."

This was disputed by library services coordinator Jean Rhein, who said the architect had been instructed from the onset to develop site plans that were "compatible" with surrounding structures in downtown Sanford. The amended plan, she said, had covered up a long expanse of glass window and leveled off the pointed roof contained in the first plan.

Board member Gerald Gross voiced the minority's opinion that the project "would not pose a problem" if approved. "I don't feel we'd be setting the wrong kind of precedent by accepting this," he said. "If we deny the county now, we could be facing a long term delay for a new library."

"I could live with this (the proposed plan)," Gross said.

Board member Shirley Moak spoke for the majority by saying acceptance of the amended plan might cause subsequent development to deviate from "the historic appeal" we're trying to protect.

"Either we strive to preserve the area's historic character or we don't," she said. "This board was created out of a sense of urgency to protect and guide this asset. If we approve this project, its visual impact will cause us to lose the appeal we've been chartered to protect," she said.

The city's Scenic Improvement Board also expressed its opposition to the plan. In a letter submitted to the historic board Thursday, the SIB said the library plan, if accepted, would "compromise the historic integrity" of the downtown area and create "an ineffective structural hodgepodge."

"Both the library and our older buildings would suffer by comparison," according to the SIB.

the same route in view of the difficulty in securing local judges to hear litigation involving Seminole County, Sanford and Paulucci.

The Paulucci suit was filed on Jan. 27 on behalf of his Heathrow Utilities and Heathrow Land and Development Corporations. It alleges the city's now invalidated condemnation effort interfered. The county's contract calls for the dismantling of the Heathrow sewage treatment plant, with the community's waste to be rerouted to the plant the county plans to build at Yankee Lake. Sanford also negotiated for the land, although its highest offer came in at $1.4 million less than the county's.

The suit holds Sanford liable for $15 in punitive damages and $13 million in actual damages for charges stemming from the "malicious and illegal" condemnation effort the city launched to obtain the property after the county contracted with Paulucci.

The dismissal has no bearing on Sanford's legislative authority to exercise its power of eminent domain, according to Colbert, who also said city representatives cannot be held liable for undertaking such an effort.

Additionally, according to Colbert, although the condemnation meeting was ruled invalid, this has not altered the city's position that the wastewater program it wishes to locate at Yankee Lake meets the criteria of "public benefit" that must be established to proceed with an eminent domain action.

Colbert also said, "The city hasn't ruled out correcting the shortcomings the judge found with our (condemnation) meeting and then filing a new suit."

The city frequently cites case law to bolster its position and even attempts to turn the Heathrow suit against itself, he said.

"The allegations in the (Heathrow) complaint that the defendants' (condemnation) actions are unlawful and therefore ineffective ... further demonstrate the impossibility of any damage being caused by the defendants' actions," the motion contends.

"That's a matter for a judge to decide," Cleveland said.

Firemen responding to the scene at 11:36 p.m. found the car's right front seat "burned all the way down to the floor board," Sanford Fire Chief Tom Hickson said. In addition, he said the black 1980 Ford Thunderbird suffered extensive smoke damage and its dashboard was severely scorched.

Driver Charged In Ambulance Crash

A Winter Park man has been charged with failure to yield to an emergency vehicle following a car-ambulance accident in Sanford Thursday.

Charged is Robert L. Kolodzeski, 27, according to Sanford Police Chief Steve Harriett. Kolodzeski was not only charged with failing to yield but also violation of right of way and driving with a suspended driver license. His license was suspended for accumulating too many traffic infraction points and failure to pay all related court-ordered payments.

The 7:48 a.m. accident occurred at the intersection of 25th St. and Sanford Ave. as the eastbound Rural-Metro ambulance responded to an emergency call in east Seminole County, not to Cardinal Industries as earlier reported.

Harriett said, Kolodzeski, westbound, turned south at Sanford Avenue and into the path of the ambulance which was traveling with lights and siren operating.

The impact shoved Kolodzeski's 1974 Mercury Comet into a concrete pole and caused the ambulance to roll downside up. The ambulance was not transporting anyone at the time.

Paramedics in the ambulance received minor injuries and were dazed by the incident, Harriett said. They were pulled from the overturned vehicle by Sanford patrolman Tino Fontanna, he said.

Kolodzeski, whose crumpled car was smoking from a short, was transported to Central Florida Regional Hospital where he was treated and released.

surprised was in the outfield practicing softball with her high school team.

At first, Dave thought he would have to pop the question in a less dramatic fashion because of two groundings due to weather and plane problems. The two false starts, Tuesday and Wednesday, put the groom-to-be in Central Florida Regional Hospital's emergency room early Thursday with stomach troubles.

He recovered in time to nervously await an answer. Thomas' romantic venture was just one of thousands around the nation and the world as lovers prepared to celebrate the day for hearts.

In London — yes the British can be romantic, unless you ask a Frenchman — sweethearts were looking for precious mementos for Valentine's Day. Items of magnum sentimental value.

The gifts were up for sale at Bonhams auction house which held a "A Sale for Valentine's Day" auction.

"We've included anything and everything romantic," said Bonhams executive Anne Haworth, standing beside cases holding American joke Valentines from the 1920s, heart-shaped jewelry and sheet music of sentimental tunes like the "True Love Waltz."

Haworth sorted "anything with a romantic feel" from items submitted for ordinary auctions, including an 18th century German enamel scent bottle case decorated with pastoral lovers, a wooden money box made like a fireplace surrounded by hearts, and a mug printed with "the endless knot of love."

All were chosen for their connection to Valentine's Day sentiment, however slim, not for their value. Haworth said. Pre-sale estimates put prices as low as $6, and most of the 132 lots were estimated at below $400.

And what is all the sentimentality about? Love, the pulse between lovers, the je ne sais of romance and subject of scientific inquiry as reported Thursday by two professors.

They revealed what a lot of people already know — love is a many splintered thing — and it may be impossible to figure out what attracts one person to another.

But they tried, not half-heartedly, to explain how a person seeking love might get it from another.

Some general guidelines:
 ● If you like someone, they are more likely to like you back.
 ● People tend to like others the more they are around them.
 ● Similarity breeds attraction.
 ● Happy people are more likable.
 ● Shared misery can breed friendship.

● It's sometimes detrimental to be too good-looking.

A bit of little-known data for those who want to attract another: Research shows that other people look more attractive to you after you've exercised.

"First of all, unless there's reason for a real clash of personalities, people tend to like people the more they see them and the closer they are to them," Ann Baumgardner, assistant professor of psychology at Virginia Tech in Blacksburg, Va., and Christopher Peterson, associate professor of psychology, said in phone interviews.

Next, they said, similar economic backgrounds, political stands and religious beliefs help but underlying opposite traits are an advantage after the relationship starts to develop.

"People who are happy are likable and those who're unhappy are not," Peterson said.

"Depressed people depress others. If you want people to love you, you have to act in a lovable way."

Dispelling some myths, Peterson said. "Playing hard to get turns people off." And Baumgardner said extreme attractiveness is not always an advantage.

"People tend to like people at the same level of attractiveness as they are," she said.

If love doesn't work out, they said, bad pheromones could at least theoretically be blamed.

There is speculation the chemical signals that attract animals to each other may also work in some version in humans.

IN BRIEF

South Africa Reported Dealing With Angola On Prisoners

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (UPI) — South Africa is secretly negotiating a prisoner exchange with Angola that could lead to the release of jailed black nationalist leader Nelson Mandela, a newspaper said today.

Mandela's wife, Winnie Mandela, told a reporter in the Kagiso black township near Johannesburg that she expects her husband "to be released before the end of the year but it will take some months."

The conference was to have been held in Alexandra, but it was outlawed Thursday by a magistrate who said it could "endanger the public peace."

Instead, reporters and dissident leaders — including the Rev. Allan Boesak, the president of the Geneva-based World Alliance of Reformed Churches — met at a Roman Catholic convent in Kagiso, about 20 miles west of Johannesburg.

Bishops Join In Condemnation

MANILA, Philippines (UPI) — The powerful Roman Catholic Church joined the opposition today in condemning massive election fraud and called for a non-violent struggle against President Ferdinand Marcos's 20-year rule.

With 119 of 140 provinces, districts and cities counted, a controversial official vote tally in the Marcos-controlled parliament showed the president leading with 9,394,984 votes, or 54 percent, compared with 7,965,211, or 46 percent, for challenger Corason Aquino.

In the vice presidential race, Marcos's running mate, Arturo Tolentino, had 8,887,046 votes, or 53 percent, to opposition candidate Salvador Laurel's 7,828,069.

On the eve of the arrival of special U.S. envoy Philip Habib, the influential conference of Catholic bishops of the Philippines issued its strongest statement ever against Marcos, condemning "unparalleled fraudulence" in the Feb. 7 presidential poll.

Haiti Sports New Flag

PORT-AU-PRINCE, Haiti (UPI) — Haiti today has a new flag and its airport a new name in changes ordered by the week-old government in the face of mounting anger over its links to former president Jean-Claude Duvalier.

In an announcement on government radio Thursday, the six-man council that replaced Duvalier said the red-and-black flag that flew during the Duvalier rule would be replaced by the blue-and-red flag that was Haiti's official standard before Jean-Claude's father, Francois, came to power in 1957.

The government also changed the name of nation's airport from Francois Duvalier International Airport to Maigat, a creole word meaning spoiled corn.

Despite the changes, the government faced growing anger over links between members of the military-civilian council and the Cabinet and the 28 years of Duvalier governments.

Longwood Seeks Funds For Building, Paving

By Jane Casselberry
Herald Staff Writer

Longwood is seeking funding for a $6.3 million improvements package that will include a $1 million police station, a maximum of $2.8 million for street paving, and a $2.5 million Skylark Sewage Treatment Plant expansion.

At a worksession Monday night Longwood City Commission agreed unofficially (a vote cannot be taken except at a regular meeting) to have City Finance Director Barry Weeks contact area banks about available financing.

The money for streets will be paid back over a 10-year period with the adjacent property owners paying 90 percent and the city 10 percent of the costs.

Heading the priority list for paving are: 14th Street, Georgia Avenue, Park Avenue, Short Street, West Lake Street, Wilma Avenue and West Warren Ave. The total needed to pave the entire list of 34 streets (including sidewalks, drainage, curbing and legal and engineering fees) comes to a total of $4,288,100, but according to Weeks $2.8 million is the maximum that can be borrowed for streets this year.

Following a status report by the engineering firm of Dyer, Riddle, Mills and Precourt, Inc., on the Water & Wastewater Rate and Charge Study and the 600,000 gallons per day Skylark Wastewater Treatment Plant Expansion Program, it was the consensus of the commission that the city continue to look at the expansion and method of funding while pursuing a cooperative effort with other government entities to build a regional wastewater treatment plant and look at other options. It was also conceded that the city needs a master wastewater plan.

The engineers said if construction on the expansion gets underway in September construction would be completed in May 1959.

The study recommends increases in sewage rates and impact fees because Longwood charges less than other Seminole County cities. Recommended changes include: the development assistance (impact) fee up from $2 gallon to $5 a gallon; residential rates from $12 to $17; commercial rates from 150 percent of water charges with a $7.50 minimum charge to 250 percent with a $17 minimum; and a new charge of $4 for vacant buildings ready to serve.

Recommended water rates and charges include: impact fee for developers will go from $1 a gallon to $2 a gallon while the connection fee remains at $450; no change in water rates; a new $20 turn on charge and new $4 charge for vacant building ready to serve.

The commissioners expressed the opinion that the Columbus Harbour treatment plant should be phased out and the sewage from the area it serves be pumped to the Skylark plant.

City Engineer Charles Hassler presented a report on drainage projects designed to prevent flooding in the Lake Tiberon, Highland Hills, and Sleepy Hollow areas of Longwood. There is funding in this year's budget for these projects.

It was the consensus of commission that the engineer proceed with a proposal for the Lake Tiberon project that would not require the acquisition of any casements and can be completed in five weeks or 25 working days.

Hassler said the Highland Hills project, also tentatively approved by consensus of the commission, could be completed within 3 1/2 weeks and will cost $865 not including labor.

Hassler said the Sleepy Hollow Cove would take six weeks and will cost $6,600 not including labor. It includes two catch basins, $500; a manhole, $290; pipe, $5,600; and shoring, $210. He pointed out that there are two swimming pools that infringe on the drainage easement and will be within three feet of the city's excavation. He said the city is seeking an agreement with Seminole county and Sanlando Utilities before beginning this project.

The contract with Florida Residential Communities under which the city bills customers of Sanlando Utilities for sewage service along with the monthly water bills from the city has expired, but the commission reached the consensus that the city continue the billing until an agreement is reached with the company. The charge to FRC is now 75 cents each for the first 849 bills, 60 cents for each bill mailed over that amount up through 1,099 and 50 cents for each bill rendered over and above that amount. Commissioner Harvey Smerilson said the average amount paid per bill is 68 cents.

The majority of the commissioners now want a flat fee of 75 cents per bill. The city's engineering consultant had recommended a charge of $2 to $2.25 for each customer to compensate the city for use of the computer and extra work for FRC sewer billing. Smerilson and Mayor Larry Goldberg, who are among Sanlando Utilities sewer customers, were against raising the charge any more than 75 cents because they said it would be passed on to the customers and there was no proof that there would be any savings in money for the city if the billing service was discontinued.

Fire Chief Charles Chapman, recently named city safety director, expressed concern about the high cost insurance and difficulty in getting coverage because of the high incidence of Workman's Compensation claims by city employees.

The number of companies willing to insure the city has dropped from 12 to two, he said, and the cost has skyrocketed. He said the city will pay $80,000 this year on Workman's Compensation insurance. Out of the 105 employees who have made claims over the three-year period on which rates are based, the causes have included just about everything from animal and insect bites to back injuries and shortness of breath.

Chapman said the city averages one Workman's Compensation claim a week and one of his goals is to reduce the number of claims and create a safer working environment.

Broken down by departments the injuries for this fiscal year have included 21 in public works; eight, police; 11, fire; and two, parks and recreation.

Chapman is asking the commission for $1,170 for safety bulletin boards, printing costs, and other items for his safety program.

NATIONAL REPORT: Snow and freezing rain were expected to move into the Southeast. Travelers advisories were in effect from Arkansas to Kentucky, and a winter storm watch was posted for today in northern Georgia and the Carolinas. Mud slides triggered by torrential rain closed roads and forced the evacuation of dozens of families from California's coastal mountains as a second powerful storm marched in today from the Pacific Ocean. With up to 10 inches of rain expected from the second storm today, weather officials posted new flash flood watches in vulnerable areas of California's Santa Clara and Ventura counties, scorched last year by brush fires. Flash flood watches were also posted in other areas of central California, inundated by up to 8 inches of rain from the previous storm Thursday. "The ground is saturated from previous storms, and additional rainfall will run off rapidly, increasing the potential for flash flooding," a National Weather Service warning said. Winter storm watches extended from California's Sierra Nevada northward into Washington for today and Saturday. Up to 4 feet of snow was expected to accumulate above 7000 feet in the Sierra Nevada, the NWS said. As much as 10 inches of snow was expected in the Rockies of Colorado, where it was feared winds gusting to 60 mph in Walenburg would cause white-outs. Dozens of families were forced to evacuate their homes Thursday in the mountains of Ventura County, Calif., because the heavy rain and unstable soil threatened to destroy homes with mud slides. Officials said about half the 80 residents of the Matlija Canyon, 50 miles north of Los Angeles, had evacuated their homes. Before leaving, many buttressed their homes with planks and reinforced them with walls of sandbags.

A Real Family Crisis Exists

Twenty-one years ago, Daniel Patrick Moynihan, then an assistant Secretary of Labor in Lyndon Johnson's administration, warned of the impending breakdown of the black family. His confidential report was roundly condemned as racist and he was berated by numerous civil rights leaders. Many of those same leaders now concede that Mr. Moynihan's conclusions were closer to the mark than they cared to admit.

Any lingering doubts about Mr. Moynihan's conclusions should have been laid to rest by the recent, stunning CBS documentary: "The Vanishing Family — Crisis in Black America." The two-hour program, narrated by former LBJ aide Bill Moyers, essentially vindicated the Moynihan report and confirmed a problem that this nation dare not ignore any longer.

Single-parent families are twice as common in America today as they were two decades ago. And black children have been the big losers. Mr. Moyers's statistics are ominous: 47 percent of all black families are headed by women without husbands; 56 percent of all black babies are born out of wedlock, almost 40 percent of them to teenagers.

Although teenage pregnancy is a national problem, adolescent parenthood is a disproportionately black problem.

Of all unmarried 18- and 19-year-olds, the black birth rate is five times the white rate; among those 17 and younger, the rate is approximately eight times higher. Indeed, black females between the ages of 15 and 19 are the most fertile population of that age group in the industrialized world. Half of all black teenage girls become pregnant. And nearly 50 percent of all black children are partially supported by welfare programs.

The social and economic consequences of black teenage parenthood are devastating. Many of the child-mothers are third-generation recipients of government relief. Several of them told Mr. Moyers that they had no desire to get married because they said a man around the house would only complicate their lives. As though to emphasize the point, a brazen black male teenager admitted he had sired six children, not counting an abortion and a stillborn baby. Nevertheless, he felt no responsibility for their support because the government is footing the bill.

Little wonder that illegitimate black children are condemned to life in the ghetto and the attendant social pathology that creates a perpetual culture of poverty in American cities.

This disturbing situation has prompted Eleanor Holmes Norton, a distinguished black scholar, lawyer, and public official to cite black teenage pregnancy and parenthood a "catastrophe." Moreover, she warns that: "Repair of the black family is central to any serious strategy to improve the black condition."

Mrs. Norton's conclusions were echoed last spring at the Black Family Summit at Fisk University in Nashville. During his opening address, John Jacob, president of the National Urban League, cautioned delegates: "For too long we may have been too defensive — seeing counterproductive tendencies in our community's structures as an attack upon black people."

The extended black family, so long a bulwark against adversity, is currently beset by the hardships of urban ghetto life, a hedonistic society, and anti-family welfare requirements. This in turn has created entire sections of black communities where children are being raised by young mothers without male role models, except hustlers on the streets. If this disturbing trend continues, by the end of this century a staggering 70 percent of black families will be headed by single women.

Bill Moyers has no pat answers for the problems that plague the black family. The liberal commentator has nonetheless provided a valuable public service by calling national attention to those vexing problems so that responsible community leaders can begin to deal with them.

Marcos Loosed Genies In The Philippines

MANILA, Philippines — Beneath the apparent electoral chaos, corruption and confusion that is playing itself out in the Philippines, something is going on that is of enormous global significance. It is more important than whether Ferdinand Marcos or Corazon Aquino "wins" this close and controversial election.

For despite all the charges of fraud, thuggery, theft, violence, harassment and goonery — strange as it may seem — democracy has won a mighty battle.

For wittingly or unwittingly — probably unwittingly — Ferdinand Marcos let all the genies of freedom out of the bottles of liberty.

The first genie, of course, was the election itself. The Philippines have a genuine democratic tradition. As Americans, we should be proud that it stems from a time of American colonial rule. That tradition was so sturdy that it did not vanish during the years of the Marcos-imposed martial law. In such an open culture, an election can have the power of a tidal wave; it is, in fact, an uncontrollable force.

The second genie Marcos let loose was the National Citizens' Movement for Free Elections (NAMFREL). Now, there is simply nothing like this organization anywhere else in the democratic world. It is as if a conservative U.S.

president, facing re-election, signed an executive order deputizing Common Cause and the National Council of Churches to become a fourth branch of government during the election period, and that new fourth branch — while authentically stressing and policing the precepts of good government — worked against the hated president with a passion. In the Philippines, there were half a million (!) NAMFREL volunteers watching the process — very, very closely.

This good-government genie interacted famously with a third genie that Marcos underestimated: a ravenous international press corps. The basic, all-purpose story — it may be true, it may be false — was graven in stone the day the election was called: Marcos will try to steal it. All that was needed were the details, and a few good video bites.

The fourth genie was collective: the U.S. embassy, and the free-floating international electoral observer corps. I was privileged to be a member of the team sent out by President Reagan and headed by Senator Richard Lugar. We received a non-stop tattoo of allegations of fraud, corruption and harassment. Some of the charges were even confirmable.

In short, all the pent-up forces of democracy were let loose upon poor Ferdinand Marcos.

There was a final factor: Marcos and his thugs may indeed be corrupt — but they are surely inept. Watching them operate, one wants to present marksmanship medals to The Gang That Couldn't Shoot Straight. Surreptitious is not a word in their vocabulary. These palookas couldn't get away with the smooth theft of an election in the dark of night, let alone with all the genies jumping up and down in broad daylight.

As this is written, no one really knows whether Marcos or Aquino got more votes. (My guess is Aquino.) No one knows [yet] what machinations the players will use to make their will felt. Marcos still has plenty of power left, which he may still try to use illegitimately.

But the Philippines will never be the same. All the president's horses and all the president's men will not be able to put the toothpaste back in the tube. There will be an opposition party — either Marcos's or Aquino's — that will have probably received 48 or 49 percent of the vote. They will organize, complain, bang the drum — in short, do all the things that happen in a contentious and fractious democracy. The sanctimonious faction will be sanctimonious. The bully boys will be bully boys. The press will keep the kettle boiling.

Congress Trembles At Cutting

The decision of a three-judge federal court, invalidating an unconstitutional automatic-cut provisions of Gramm-Rudman, will (if upheld by the Supreme Court, as seems likely) put the problem of deficit reduction right back where it belongs: in the lap of Congress. And since that august assemblage includes one of the largest collections of certified cowards on earth, it is probably safest to assume that nothing serious will be done about reducing the deficit.

Congress is, however, to some extent the victim of its own rhetoric in this matter. The House Democrats have vowed to high heaven about the deficit — not because they have the slightest record of true concern over deficits (quite the contrary), but because every other and better economic issue — inflation, high interest rates, unemployment — has collapsed under them. A number of Senate Republicans have joined the vowers — partly, no doubt, out of genuine concern, but also partly out of a not very elevated desire to upstage a popular president, and (worst of all) partly out of a quiet complicity with the Democratic scheme to force a tax increase and then spend the proceeds.

The pressure to make major reductions in the deficit is therefore by no means over, and the best measure of its intensity is the extremes some of my brethren in the column business are being driven to in a desperate attempt to solve the problem.

Bill Satrie, for example, recently demanded in exasperation to know why President Reagan insists on regarding Social Security as "the third rail of American politics." That's easy, because it is the third rail of American politics: step on it, and you're dead.

Social Security is a huge expense, and an obvious candidate for a certain amount of judicious pruning. Not being a coward, Mr. Reagan had proposed, early in his first administration cuts in certain aspects of the Social Security program.

In 1982, the Democrats scored major gains in the off-year elections. Ronald Reagan learned his lesson well, and the next time he tackled Social Security reform it was through a bipartisan commission.

Foreign Policy Shifty

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Being a Reaganite means never having to say you're sorry about, or even bothered by, the growing contradictions in U.S. foreign policy.

The United States makes distinctions between "terrorists" and "freedom fighters," for example, or between "good" and "bad" trade sanctions.

But U.S. allies balk at contradictions when they are the basis for American foreign policy. Many close U.S. allies have faced this same problem over the years: Washington's foreign policy has been wildly inconsistent.

Changes from one administration to another are expected — but far too many inconsistencies occur from day to day or month to month within a single administration.

Allied complaints were often heard during the Carter years, when policies shifted along with the political winds. So, consistency in foreign policy was a major theme of the 1980 Reagan campaign.

Yet the Reagan administration, for instance, steadfastly opposes sanctions elsewhere while asking U.S. allies to observe them against Libya or Nicaragua.

After the massacres at the Rome and Vienna airports, the Reagan administration announced it would impose tough sanctions against Libya. It then began a whirlwind effort to have our European allies support these sanctions.

Yet this same administration has long opposed any sanctions against South Africa, claiming that sanctions don't work but only goad the offending nation into taking more negative action and becoming more self-sufficient.

The United States castigates anti-government organizations like the African National Congress, which opposes South Africa, and the Farabundo Marti National Liberation Front, which opposes the government of President Jose Napoleon Duarte in El Salvador. The Reagan administration says these are terrorist organizations that must be stamped out.

But there's no real operational differences, at least, between the ANC and Jonas Savimbi's National Union for the Total Independence of Angola, or between the FMLN and the contras in Nicaragua.

However, the Reagan administration calls UNITA and the contras "freedom fighters." It invited Savimbi to Washington, where he was given the red-carpet treatment and a White House reception; the vice president and met with the president and other officials.

The administration bitterly opposes the governments of Cuba, Nicaragua and Angola, to say nothing of Eastern Europe and the Soviet Union — the "Evil Empire." It decries the lack of personal freedom in those countries.

But does someone living in Chile, South Korea or Zaire, for example, have any more freedom than the average Cuban or Nicaraguan?

Rock Art Therapy For Teens

By Kate Callen

While Senate wives and others blame rock 'n' roll for the woes of American youth, a psychiatrist who treats disturbed teens has found that rock music can help them cope with problems.

"Rock art therapy," which uses songs by such musicians as the Grateful Dead and Ozzy Osborne to unravel complex feelings, has achieved measurable improvement among young people with emotional disorders. Dr. Levon Tashjian reported in a recent issue of the American Medical Association News.

Data from the program at the Horsham Clinic in Ambler, Pa., also indicate that the type of rock music a troubled teenager prefers can provide important clues to underlying problems.

The program's creator attributed its success to the powerful influence rock music has on youth and he warned that attempts to quell that influence by putting warning labels on records will backfire.

"As soon as you slap an X-rating on an album, it is automatically going to become a million-seller," said John Sappington, the Horsham art therapist who developed the therapy. "Rather than do that, I'd like to see parents utilize adolescents' choice in rock 'n' roll to tell them something about what their teenagers are dealing with."

Sappington got the idea for the program in 1980 when he noticed young patients doodling the names of rock groups during art therapy sessions and found that the "doodles oftentimes told me a great deal more than the artwork the teens had done."

He began asking youngsters to select their favorite rock song, draw a picture to express the song's lyrics and discuss the finished artwork. The result was "one of the most powerful of my projects," Sappington reports. Listening to selected albums in group sessions, teens who had been unresponsive started to open up and "talk about the feeling that the music produces and how images (in the artwork) that come from the music express rage, isolation or detachment from reality."

"Music and art are windows," said Tashjian. "They are openings, ways to get into teens."

Sources Profile Mussavi Family

By Jack Anderson
And Joseph Spear

WASHINGTON — The Mussavi clan makes the most bloodthirsty Mafia family of fact or fiction look like a Cub Scout pack. The Mussavis, cloaking their homicidal anti-Americanism in the black robes of Shiite Moslem fundamentalism, have been responsible for the murders of 264 Americans in the Middle East.

As we've already reported, the Mussavis have more in common with the Corleones of "The Godfather" than with the dedicated disciples of the Prophet Mohammed. The Mussavis are seeking power and money, and they use the Ayatollah Khomeini's Islamic revolution as a convenient cover for building a family empire in Lebanon's Bekaa Valley.

Who are these people who have transformed shrill anti-American rhetoric into bloody bombings, airplane hijackings and kidnappings over the past three years? Here's a rundown on the most powerful

Mussavis, gathered from intelligence sources we trust:

— Mohammed Mussavi, the family patriarch. A clergyman who went to school many years ago with Khomeini in the Iranian holy city of Qom. He joined Khomeini for a while in his Paris exile, which ended when the shah was overthrown early in 1979 and Khomeini returned to Tehran to seize power in the name of the Islamic revolution.

— Mohammed Mohsen Mussavi, the patriarch's first son to rise to prominence, came to public attention as Iran's charge d'affaires in Lebanon, an appointment undoubtedly greased by the fact that the Iranian prime minister is another family member, Mir Hussein Mussavi.

It may have been an inter-tribal rivalry that led to Mohammed Mohsen's kidnapping in 1982. He has not been seen since.

— Hussein Mussavi, another son of Mohammed Mussavi. A one-time schoolteacher, he broke with the mainstream Shiite movement in Lebanon, Amal, about the time that his brother was kidnapped. Hussein reportedly was unhappy with Amal's unwillingness to become more militant.

As a first gesture of independence, Hussein assisted in the kidnapping of David Dodge, acting president of the American University of Beirut. Dodge was lucky: He was released after having been taken secretly to Iran.

By late 1982, Hussein had gathered a bunch of fanatical followers ready to do his bidding. His headquarters was the ancient city of Baalbek in the Bekaa Valley, near the Syrian border. He named his splinter group Islamic Amal.

Our intelligence sources are convinced that Islamic Amal was responsible for the 1983 suicide bombings of the U.S. Embassy in Beirut and the Marine barracks at the city's airport. A total of 258 Americans died in the two blasts. One of Hussein's cousins, Abu Haydar Mussavi, reportedly obtained the pickup truck used in the Marine barracks bombing.

Although he disclaimed responsibility for the Marine bombing, Hussein did say: "I salute this good act." He was peripherally involved in the bombings that rocked American, French and Kuwaiti facilities in Kuwait in December 1983.

— Sheikh Abbas Mussavi. This third Mussavi brother emerged in early 1984 as one of three leaders of Hezbollah (Party of God) which was being transformed into a terrorist group. By no coincidence, Hezbollah came to terrorist prominence about the time that 17 suspects in the Kuwaiti bombings were arrested and convicted. Two of the 17 were Mussavi family members.

The sheik's Hezbollah terrorist group was involved in the 1984 bombing of the U.S. Embassy annex in Beirut and the hijackings of a Kuwaiti airliner in late 1984 and a TWA plane in June 1985. Release of the 17 terrorists held by Kuwait — and particularly the two Mussavi clansmen — was a key demand of the hijackers in both incidents.

Al Latimer: Humble Beginning To The Ultimate Overachiever

By Sam Cook
Herald Sports Editor

Davey Johnson and Al Latimer couldn't attend last Saturday's Seminole County Sports Hall of Fame inductions but that didn't take away from their satisfaction nor the warmth felt by those most dear to them.

Johnson, who is in the midst of getting his New York Mets ready for spring training, was represented by his son, Dave, a senior at Lake Howell High School. Davey was attending a meeting in St. Petersburg with the Mets' brass.

Latimer, a former Lyman High School standout who went on to play professional football, now lives in Detroit. He had to stay away because of a business commitment but his mother, Alice Mitchell of Altamonte Springs, was a happy recipient.

Latimer was nominated by Dick Copeland, his football coach at Lyman High School. Johnson was nominated by Jim Stanley, an assistant principal at Lake Brantley High School, who is a friend and neighbor of Johnson.

Bud Laver, chairman of the sports committee, handled the ceremony. He introduced and presented Johnson and Mitchell with the plaques while adding, "We have two sports heroes on the national scene who also have close ties to Seminole County."

Latimer didn't have the national exposure Johnson attained but he was one of the finest all-around athletes to ever play in Seminole County and the ultimate overachiever on the professional level. He graduated in 1975 and was named Lyman's most outstanding athlete his senior year.

The 5-10 158-pounder excelled in football and track. Latimer played safety and quarterback for the Greyhounds. "He was an all-purpose man," Lyman assistant principal Ed Buckner said of the All-Metro selection.

During his Lyman career, Latimer said football coach Copeland was a major influence on his career. It was a combination of Copeland and

Creek Dips 'Noles

Spruce Pulls It Out, 101-98

By Chris Flister
Herald Sports Writer

PORT ORANGE — Instead of "Welcome to Spruce Creek High," the sign underneath the scoreboard for Thursday night's game should have read, "Welcome to the NBA."

Seminole High's Fighting Seminoles and Spruce Creek's Hawks put on a dazzling show for the 401 fans in a game that featured deadly outside shooting, dynamic drives to the hoop and devastating slam dunks.

After 32 minutes of regulation, and a three-minute overtime period, it was the Creek that came away with a 101-98 victory over the Fighting Seminoles.

"We're involved in some helacious games aren't we?" Seminole coach Bill Klein said. "This was a great game but I think we lost it because of lack of discipline in the end."

Seminole, which has scored 80 or more points in three of its last games but has lost two of them, now stands at 13-7 overall. The Seminoles return to Seminole Athletic Conference action, 7-1 record, tonight at Lake Howell.

The 'Noles had five players in double figures Thursday and three of them scored 20 or more points. Sophomore center Craig Walker turned in one of his strongest performances of the season as he pumped in a career-high 22 points including a couple of slams in which he was so high he could have used the net for dental floss. Jerry "Stick" Parker also pumped in 22 points while Andre Whitney had a tremendous fourth quarter and finished with 20. Rod Henderson and Joe Holden tossed in 14 apiece.

Spruce Creek now stands at 23-3 after its second victory over the Seminoles. The last time the two teams met, however, the Creek came away with a not-so-spectacular 51-49 victory.

"I told our kids that they now know how it feels to be in the NBA," Spruce Creek coach Jim Romaniszyn said. "Sanford (Seminole) played one heck of a game. They outplayed us for the most part but we hung in and were fortunate to get the game to overtime."

Junior point guard Lavon Darthard led Spruce Creek with a game-high 23 points and he also broke a school record in dishing out 19 assists. Jon Fedor finished with 18 points despite a sloppy fourth quarter while Kenny Southall popped in 17. Victor Cooks added 14. Johnny Bennett hit 13 and Cory Bell contributed 10.

Cooks had eight of his 14 points and Southall six of his 17 in the first quarter but Henderson answered with eight and Walker hit six as Seminole stayed within two, 24-22, after the first eight minutes.

The two teams continued to sizzle in the early going of the second quarter as they matched buckets until it was 38-37 in the Tribe's favor. Walker and Parker then combined for 10 of the Tribe's next 12 points as Seminole built a 50-43 lead with 30 seconds left in the half. Fedor then went in for a reverse slam with four seconds left to cut Seminole's lead to 50-45 at halftime.

Seminole opened the second half the way Spruce Creek ended the first. Whitney put a perfect alley-oop pass up for Walker who almost ripped the rim down with a two-handed jam that gave Seminole a 52-45 lead. The 'Noles would go on to build a 12-point lead, 64-52, with three minutes left in the third quarter.

Darthard then got the hot hand for the Creek as he scored seven points in the last 2:30 of the quarter to bring the Hawks within 68-64 going into the final eight minutes.

Parker opened the fourth quarter with a three-point play as Seminole took a seven-point lead, but Spruce Creek came back within one, 80-79, with 4:17 remaining on a jumper by Southall. After Holden scored for the Seminoles, Fedor hit a pair of short jumpers on assists from Darthard to give Spruce Creek its first lead since early in the

Skinner's Goal Nips Rams, 2-1 — Lyman Rolls

By Chris Flister
Herald Sports Writer

Bob Skinner has not scored a whole lot of goals for Lake Brantley's Patriots this season but, the ones he has scored, have been big ones. Thursday night, Skinner scored his third goal of the season and, for the third time, it was the game-winner.

Skinner popped a shot into the upper right hand corner of the net with 4:40 left to play to lift the sixth-ranked Patriots to a 2-1 victory over Lake Mary's Rams in the semifinals of the 4A-9 District Tournament at Lake Mary High.

Meanwhile, at Lyman High, Shatter Bowers completely marked out Lake Howell scoring sensation Eric Reesman as Lyman's Greyhounds advanced to Saturday's final opposite Lake Brantley with a 3-0 blanking of the Silver Hawks.

Lyman will host Saturday night's final beginning at 7. The two teams have met twice and tied twice this season.

Before Thursday's game, Skinner's other two goals provided victories over DeLand and Gainesville Buchholz in the Gainesville Tournament. Skinner, a senior, is completing his first season on the varsity squad.

"He's come a long way since being on junior varsity last season," Lake Brantley coach Jim Brody said. "He was probably beaten up a bit tonight but he hung in and continued to play well."

Lake Brantley jumped out to a 1-0 lead with 18:19 left in the first half on a goal by Chad Marien off an assist from Jose Calvino.

"Chad (Marien) got open down the left side but he kind of mishit his shot," Brody said. "The keeper though might have misread it because it went off his hands and in."

Brantley kept Lake Mary scoreless the rest of the half and for most of the second half behind the defense of sweeperback Mike Shanahan, stopper Joe Pledger and center midfielder Paul Ahrens. Brody also said goalkeeper Scott McCullough made the plays when Lake Mary threatened.

The Rams came back to tie the score at 1-1 with 6:45 left in the game when defender Vinay Jotwani pushed forward, got the ball at the top of the penalty box and hit the ball into the far right corner.

The Rams continued to push after Jotwani's goal but the Patriots came right back as Skinner took a long pass on the right side of the goal and unloaded a high shot that dipped into the upper corner for a 2-1 Brantley lead.

"They (Rams) were pushing a lot of people forward," Brody said. "We just came right back at them. If there was a let down when they scored, it wasn't a noticeable one."

Lake Brantley, which now stands at 14-3-6, will look for its seventh win in a row Saturday against Lyman.

"I guess whoever makes the fewest mistakes will win it," Brody said. "Lyman's got a powerful offense and we've got a good defense. We're not scoring as many as the past but we're not giving up many."

defensive performance to a 3-0 victory over Lake Howell in 4A-9 District Tournament semifinal action at Lyman High.

Senior Brian Ocasek, one of the top offensive threats in the state, scored one goal and assisted on the two others. The first goal came five minutes into the match when Paul Bontempo scored when Ocasek placed a corner kick in front of the cage.

Lyman made it 2-0 with 15 minutes gone in the game when Ocasek dribbled through the defense and passed off to Brett Wortham who put it in from 15 yards out.

Lyman added an insurance goal 15 minutes into the second half when Ocasek got a through ball from Gerard Mitchell, drew the keeper out, and put it past him for a 3-0 lead.

"There's no doubt Ocasek's one of the best players in the state," Lyman coach Ray Sandidge said. "He's a joy to watch."

While Ocasek led the offensive attack, Bowers did a defensive number on Lake Howell's Reesman. Reesman had scored three goals in the Hawks' first round win but couldn't shake off the defensive shackles applied by Bowers.

"The defense played unbelievably," Sandidge said. "I always wonder if we played a complete game, we did tonight."

Lyman might have won by a bigger margin had it not been for Lake Howell keeper Alex Skodnick. Skodnick had 12 saves for the game including five on one-one-one opportunities for Lyman.

District Teams Plot Upset Of Lake Mary

By Chuck Burgess
Special to the Herald

The District 4A-9 Wrestling Championships at Lyman High School this weekend look to be pointing in the direction of the Lake Mary Rams. The Rams ended their season with a 13-1 record and have won the Seminole Athletic Conference over the same field, minus Daytona Beach Mainland, DeLand and Port Orange Spruce Creek, which will be competing this weekend.

The seed meeting begins at 4:30 today followed by the first round at 7 p.m. The semifinals will be held at 10 a.m. on Saturday and the wrestlebacks at six. For all those wanting to see the best grapplers in each weight class, the finals begin at 8 p.m.

"We're really looking forward to the district meet," Ram coach Doug Peters. "We want to win this more than anything else. My guys have worked hard all season long and they're ready."

The only competition the Rams may receive will come from Bill Scott's Lyman Greyhounds. The 'Hounds ended their season at 12-2 and are just as eager to meet the Ram challenge, according to Scott.

"They (Lake Mary) should be pretty tough," Scott said. "I think the score will definitely be closer than the conference, but we will have to have some big wins up front in the lighter weights."

Even though the 13-1 Rams will be the ones to beat, there could be a few upsets along the way if any of the other county schools have anything to say about it.

Wrestling

"No one's going to test them (Lake Mary)," Seminole coach Glenn Maloini said. "Lyman will be the closest ones to them, but I don't think anyone can hang with them. Who knows?"

That's precisely the question that's been running through the minds of every prep wrestler and coach. The district meet will separate the men from the boys and only the fittest will survive. After all, that's what tournaments are for, according to Peters.

"That's where the true champions and athletes are going to shine," Peters said. "Just because a team has a successful dual meet season doesn't necessarily mean that they're going to take every guy on the team to the state meet."

Lake Howell coach Joe Corso agreed with Peters in the fact that every athlete is equal. "The regular season doesn't mean a thing," Corso said. "There's eight guys in each weight class and all eight have a shot at the district title."

Although the goals of the teams are different, there will be some tough competition being slung around the mat tonight. Every school may not have a shot at the team title, but every school in the county has a chance of having at least two district champions.

For the Seminoles, the 149- and 159-pound combo of Tracy and Troy Turner will be the show to watch. Even though the older Turner, Troy, tore some ligament in his knee earlier this week and Tracy has been suffering from a recurring flu bug, the Turners will be more than ready come wrestling time, according to Maloini.

"Both of those guys are going to give it their all," Maloini said. "Troy's going to wrestle even if he only has one leg. Tracy is coming around and putting things together very nicely. Both of them are a lot stronger than they were earlier this year so it should be pretty interesting to see what happens."

The Rams have a flock of matmen who can walk away with individual honors. Craig Johnson at 109, Enrique Carbia at 116, Rob Richards at 123, Matt Broberg at 130, Tom Olson at 136, Bill Richards at 142, Scott Ross at 149 and Troy Jackson at super heavyweight are all ones to keep an eye on through the preliminary rounds.

"We have a pretty well rounded lineup," Peters said of the Rams' strength. "We have to have our heavier men come through for us if we want to wrap it (district title) up quickly."

The Greyhounds look to their two undefeated powers for crucial points. At 116, Chad Dublin has moved down to take on the likes of anyone who tries to

IN BRIEF

Seminole To Unveil 2 Defending State Champs At Wildcat Open

The prep track season officially gets underway Saturday with the Wildcat Open (boys only) and the Lake Howell Open (girls only).

Coach Ken Brauman and defending state champion (4A) Seminole High will unveil the 1986 team that includes such returning standouts in state mile champion Billy Penick, triple jump champion Alvin Jones and sprinter Louis Brown.

Saturday's Wildcat Open will be held at Showalter Field in Winter Park.

Lake Mary's boys team is led by distance standouts Ken Rohr and Eric Petersen along with sprinter Jeff Pommier.

In the Lake Howell Open, Seminole High's Lady Seminoles, fourth in the state last season, will be the favorites led by sophomore sensations Shownda Martin and Dorehelle Webster. Martin was the state champion in the 800 run last season as she broke the state record and both Martin and Webster ran on the state champion mile relay team that also established a new record.

Lake Mary's Lady Rams have a substantially larger team (37 people) than last year and hope to get back in the thick of things team wise this season. Leading the way are sprinter-long jumper Onevke Berry, sprinter Tanya Gordon and hurdler Jodie McCurdy.

Mandeville's 22 Sparks Mary JV

The Lake Mary Rams used 22 points by Mike Mandeville to turn back Lake Brantley, 56-40, in junior varsity basketball Thursday at Lake Mary High School.

Mandeville also handed out seven assists to pace the Rams, while Rich Burkett came off of the bench to pour in 11 points. Corey Prom added 12 points as the Rams took a 23-20 halftime lead and turned a seemingly close game into a rout.

"I was really impressed with the way we played in the second half," Ram coach Mac Blythe said. "Rich (Burkett) did a great job in coming off of the bench. He played his best game of the season."

Burkett crashed the boards for 12 second-half rebounds and controlled the game for the Rams. The win improved the Rams to 10-8 on the season with Lake Howell on the schedule for next Tuesday and the Greyhounds of Lyman on Thursday.

Rams Roll Past West Orange

The Lake Mary Rams continue to roll without a fault. This time the victim was the West Orange Warriors as the Rams pulverized the Warriors, 8-0, in prep tennis at Lake Mary High School.

In the singles, Shea Whigham stomped Jamie Jacobs 8-4, Trey Siebold destroyed Nat Blip 8-2, Mike Renaud pounded Pete Wiley 8-2, Steve Ho slipped by Ketan Bakil 8-6 and Tom Boysen shut out John Schniffer, 8-0.

In doubles, Ho and Sheridan dominated Schiffen and Klaus, 8-1, and Renaud and Bennett beat Wiley and Wagster 8-2.

Coach Randy Kelley's Rams, 3-1, travel to Trinity Prep Tuesday.

Tribe Boosters To Meet Monday

The Seminole High School Booster Club will hold a general meeting Monday at 7:30 p.m. in Bill Fleming Memorial Gymnasium, secretary Gayle Tipton announced earlier this week.

"This will be a good opportunity for people to hear about our spring sports," Tipton said.

Coaches on the agenda include Ken Brauman (track), Dave Mosure (weightlifting), Mark Rose (tennis), Joe Dalton (tennis), Mike Ferrell (baseball), Whitey Eckstein (golf) and Lance Abrey (softball).

Refreshments will be served. For further information, call president Bruce McKibbin at 323-6412 or Tipton at 322-4354. Ext. 223.

Stewart Sets Pace, Mary Wins

Lake Mary's Susie Stewart set the pace when she wiped out Kenyon Gatha, 8-0, in the No. 1 singles as the Lady Rams blitzed West Orange, 7-0, in prep tennis at Lake Mary High School Thursday. Lake Mary is 3-1.

In singles, Lori Cravton topped Lisa Gettgey 8-1, Erin Higgins defeated Claudia Maskis, 8-4, Heather Bennett whipped Heather Kim, 7-3 (tiebreaker) and D'Ann Haynes ripped Dana Jackson, 8-1.

In doubles, Stewart-Michelle Heard dropped Gatha-Maskis, 8-2, and Bennett-Haynes drilled Gettgey-Kim, 8-2.

Barnes' Girls Go After Section Title Against Buchholz

By Sam Cook
Herald Sports Editor

LONGWOOD — Tom Barnes and his Lyman Lady Greyhounds are down to three steps. Three victories from accomplishing the ultimate in any sport — back-to-back championships.

They try to take Step 1 tonight when they host Gainesville Buchholz for the Section 1 Soccer Championship at Lyman High School. Kickoff is 7 p.m. A victory tonight qualifies them for the state tournament, which draws Sections 2, 3 and 4 together next Friday and Saturday.

The Lady Greyhounds are 21-0 this year which computes to a perfect 45 for the past two years under Barnes. They are in somewhat of an unfamiliar position tonight since they have not played Buchholz this year.

Barnes said he had a regular season match scheduled with Buchholz but it had to be called off due to cold weather. Attempts to reschedule could never be worked out.

"We don't know what to expect," Barnes said Thursday night. "We've scouted them and they've scouted us but we haven't played each other."

Don't expect the unfamiliarity to faze these Lady Greyhounds, however. They haven't been beaten in two years. They know and thrive on tournament pressure. They have more big-game players than the Los Angeles Lakers.

The last loss came in the 1984 title game when Coconut Creek pulled out a win in overtime. Last year, they nipped South Plantation for the school's first state soccer championship. Lyman has been just as impressive this year. The Lady Greyhounds lost just one girl to graduation (Allison Wright, now at Brevard (N.C.) College on a scholarship). All the girls have one more year of experience. They are ranked No. 1 in the state and have played the favorite's role without fail.

Soccer

With the return of senior Lisa Chatman to goalkeeper, Lyman is close to 100 percent. Kim Mitchell, who turned in an excellent stint during her five games in the net, returns to center-forward. Lyman's only missing part is junior Stacey Roy, who injured her back and is lost for the season.

Dawn Boyesen and Sheila Mandy are a potent 1-2 offensive punch. Karen Abernethy, sister of two former Lyman field-goal kickers, has the same strong leg which keeps opponents backed up defensively.

Barnes said he won't compare last year's champions with this year's unbeaten squad. "They're similar," he offered. "The team last year achieved a certain level," he said. "We'd like to see if this team can, too."

That level, of course, is top shelf. Barnes, a stickler for not looking beyond the opponent at hand, said three more good sets of 80 minutes will get the Lady Greyhounds on that shelf again. He will not, however, look past Gainesville Buchholz.

"What we try to do is play 40 minutes of soccer and move onto the next 40 minutes," Barnes has said many times. "It's hard to maintain immediate focus when you are thinking a game or two ahead."

"We must attack their weak points and defend their strong points. If you win 40 minutes of soccer at a time you're can move onto the next 40 minutes with confidence."

From the scouting report, Barnes has determined Buchholz' strength is at the midfield. "They have a strong midfield and our midfielders are going to have to have a good night," he said about the trio of Nancy VanVoorhis, Bonni Steeves and Alyson Barnes. "If they are able to make some good runs and control their persons, we'll be successful."

Although Lyman has not played Buchholz, Barnes does have one barometer to go gauge tonight's foe. Lyman's toughest test all year was the Lake Brantley Patriots. The Lady Greyhounds whipped Brantley four times (3-0, 2-1, 5-1 and 4-0). The last one was convincing for the district title.

Lake Brantley owns a victory over Buchholz.

Still, Barnes refused to speculate. But he came close. "The only edge we feel we have... well, we don't have an edge," he said after a slight hesitation.

Buchholz has a mainstay between the pipes in Andrea Deyrup. "Deyrup is an excellent keeper," Barnes said. "She's quick and she comes out (from the goal mouth) quite a bit. She's also very acrobatic and can cut down a lot of scoring opportunities that way."

But this net-tending style also

Sheila "Hat Trick" Mandy moves toward another goal, leaves itself open to chance.

"Yes, it can be dangerous unless you get 100 percent ball," Barnes said. "But you can't exploit it before it happens. If you can get one-on-one the reaction at the time makes the difference."

The Lady Greyhounds have been taught to react. It's something Barnes knows they will do under pressure. "A lot of people say it's luck," Barnes said. "But luck is when opportunity meets preparation."

And luck is something Lyman hasn't needed much for two years.

Clear-Cut

Elliott, Earnhardt Earn Favorites' Tag After Twin Wins

The clear-cut favorites to win the 28th annual Daytona 500 were found during Thursday's running of the twin 7-11 125's. Bill Elliott only led two laps during his race, but the ease with which he took the win on the last lap was decisive.

Bobby Allison led most to the race in his Buick until Elliott took the lead. "We didn't know what Elliott could do," Allison said. "But we found out. He was just playing with me until the time came."

In the second 125 race of the day, Wrangler-sponsored Dale Earnhardt out-muscled the rest of the field as he won the race by running low on the track which showed how well his car was handling.

Earnhardt, on the basis of Thursday's win and a victory in Sunday's Busch Clash, is the favorite to win the 500 this year. He said that due to the new sloped windows on the General Motors cars, the slingshot pass, made famous at Daytona, will not be a big factor this year.

"I want to be in front. If you're beating people in the corners, which I am, it's better not to be out front," Earnhardt said. "And right now, I'm not sure I could be handling much better."

Variety is the key word in the largest group of entries for the Daytona 500 since

Carl Vanzura
MOTOR SPORTS

NASCAR downzoned the eligible models in 1981. Chevrolet still has the most, with 29 of the 76 cars that were entered being the popular Monte Carlo. Next is Ford, with 19, followed by Pontiac with 15. Oldsmobile with seven and Buick with six.

Which model is the most likely to win the 1.4 million dollar Daytona 500? The favorites would have to come from NASCAR's top 20 in last year's Winston Cup point standings, plus the former winners who did not make the NASCAR listing.

Led by Winston Cup Champion Darrell Waltrip, Chevrolet will claim half a dozen of the top 20. 1985 Daytona 500 winner Elliott leads a contingent of five Fords, while seven-time Daytona 500 winner Richard Petty tops the list of five Pontiac pilots.

There are three former winners of the Daytona 500 that are not among the top 20, and they will certainly bear watching. They are Cale Yarborough in a Ford, and A.J. Foyt and Benny Parsons, both in Oldsmobiles.

While NASCAR's top stock car drivers are racing around the Daytona International Speedway on Sunday their crews will be in a special race of their own on pit road.

Sponsored by the Power Tool Division of Ingersoll-Rand, this race-within-a-race awards money and points to the crews whose finishing cars spend the least total time in the pits.

The Daytona 500 is the first of 10 NASCAR events that count for the 90,000 National Pit Crew Championship. Each contest is scored by a special NASCAR timing team that clocks every pit stop of the cars whose drivers have earned a top 10 starting position.

New Smyrna Speedway and Volusia County Speedway will both end their Speed Weeks this Saturday night with added lap championship races. Local drivers at both tracks, so this is your last chance to see some of the best short track racing in the country for this year.

Hall: Johnson Mistaken, No Illegal Walk-Ons

Football

GAINESVILLE (UPI) — University of Florida football coach Galen Hall says the Gators have not been illegally recruiting walk-on football players as University of Miami coach Jimmy Johnson apparently thought.

"I assured coach Johnson that there is nothing out of the ordinary in our walk-on program," Hall said Wednesday. "It is very attractive for a player to walk on at a state university which has a combination of good athletics and good academics with lower tuition than a private school can offer."

Hall said he spoke with Johnson on the phone Tuesday morning and resolved the dispute, assuring Johnson that the Gators were not illegally encouraging players to walk-on at Florida.

Johnson had alleged — without specifically naming Florida — that a state university had been illegally recruiting walk-on players. After the signing date had passed, Johnson said, he would take the school "straight to the NCAA." Johnson would not say what he thought was illegal Florida's recruiting practices.

"I had some concerns and discussed them with the opposing team's coach," Johnson said. "I spoke with the coach and my concerns were resolved. It's a dead issue."

The recruiting of walk-ons has become a major priority at the University of Florida since the Gators were put under recruiting restrictions 13 months ago by the NCAA. Part of the two-year probation was a limitation on football scholarships for the 1985 and 1986 recruiting seasons.

Because of the lack of available grants, Florida has encouraged many prospects to come to the school as walk-ons to complete this year, but the squad cap has been lowered to 75 players on scholarship. Hall said the Gators plan to sign 16-20 players to grants-in-aid this year.

mother that paved the way for Latimer's college career.

"After high school, the college days were dictated by my mother," Latimer said via telephone Thursday from Michigan. "I wanted to get a job and make some money."

Mother, however, begged to differ. "My mother only had a fourth-grade education," Latimer said. "She wanted her children to do better. She said, 'You can get a job and make money, but you're going to college first.'"

"Coach Copeland was always there, always encouraging me," Latimer, 28, said. "He said my mother's advice was sound and that he would help me find a school."

With the ultimatum presented, Latimer took a step back. He reasoned that if he had to go to school, he wanted to go somewhere where he could play football.

As a 5-10, 158-pounder, though, the recruiters weren't knocking down the door. That's where Copeland came in. He called the coach at Ferrum (Va.) Junior College and told him about Latimer. The coach was encouraged and Latimer had found his school.

Latimer played at Ferrum two years before moving to Clemson for his junior and senior years. For the Tigers, he was a second-team defensive back for then coach Charley Pell.

Although Latimer never started at Clemson, it was there that he continued the work ethic which made him so successful at the lower levels. One year later, he was playing for the Philadelphia Eagles — one of the last places he expected to be after his less-than-spectacular college career.

"Even though I wasn't starting, the ability to work hard was important, even though the awards weren't that immediate," he said. "Although I was second team, I was one of the hardest workers there."

And he worked even harder in Philadelphia to make the team as a free agent. "There was a combination of factors working there," Latimer said about his opportunity with the Eagles. "They weren't a very good team the year before and they didn't have a lot of draft picks."

Defensive back was an area where they were short on picks. I just went in, worked hard and made the team."

Latimer said playing in the NFL was his greatest sports accomplishment.

"Of course I dreamed about being in the NFL when I was younger," he said. "But I never expected it to happen. I played second team at Clemson. Through that I was lucky enough to get a tryout. I made it against all odds."

Latimer also played for San Francisco and Detroit. He stuck with the Lions for three years, two of which he was a starter in the defensive backfield. He was released in August of 1985.

He then finished up his degree in Michigan at Walsh College of Accountancy in Business Administration. He and his wife, Denene and their two sons, Justin (21 months) and Joel (seven months), live in West Bloomfield, suburb of Detroit. Latimer works as a financial planner with Equitable Financial Services.

Mitchell said he fondest dreams were watching her son play at Tampa against the Lions. "Al was always a nice, neat and religious young man," Mitchell said. "That's the way he was raised."

And the pattern has continued. "Being elected to the Seminole County Sports Hall of Fame is one of the greatest things that can ever happen to me," Latimer said. "Obviously, I am not in a position to be named to the National Football League Hall of Fame."

"But even if that were possible, this honor from my county would mean even more. It's from the community where I grew up in. It's a reflection of what they think of me."

Johnson, meanwhile, has lived in Seminole County (Bear Gully Road near Goldenrod) since he purchased the land in 1970. The former major league slugger graduated from Winter Park High School.

During his major league career, which included stops at Baltimore, Atlanta, Philadelphia and Chicago (Cubs), in addition to two years in Japan, Johnson etched his name in the record book on several occasions.

In 1966, he made the Topps Baseball Card Rookie team after his debut with the Orioles. He set the major-league record for homers by a second baseman with 43 in 1973. He won three Golden Gloves. He appeared in four World Series. He holds the distinction of being the only teammate of Henry Aaron and Sadaharu Oh, the game's two most prolific home run hitters.

Johnson made one of the most staggering ascents of the managerial ladder in baseball's history. "It was pretty quick," son Dave said. "And surprising, too, because he never planned on being a manager when he was a player."

Johnson got his feet wet at Jackson, Miss. in Class AA. He served as a roving instructor for the Mets for a year before moving to Tidewater, Va. Like his AA club, the Tidewater Tides also won the playoffs.

The next year, it was the Big Apple. Johnson was hired over several other managerial "re-treads" to pilot the floundering Mets. Despite his lack of major-league experience, Johnson managed very well.

"The first year he took a sixth-place team and made a contender out of them," Dave said. "Probably his best move was bringing up Dwight Gooden. The organization didn't think Gooden was ready, but dad knew he was. He was right."

This year Johnson hopes he has the Mets on the right trail to the N.L. East Division title.

Seminoles Go To Boards, Batter Lake Howell, 73-59

With Kim "Big Wheel" Johnson, Yolanda Robinson and Catherine "Kitty" Anderson outletting passes like an assembly line, Seminole ran to a 22-7 first-quarter bulge en route to a 73-59 blowout of Lake Howell in Seminole Athletic Conference basketball Thursday night at Bill Fleming Memorial Gymnasium.

"We had great outlet passes from Yolanda, Kim and 'Kitty,'" Seminole coach Charles Steele said. "We just sat back in the zone and went to the boards."

The victory concluded the Lady Seminoles' SAC season at 7-3 and the regular season with a 16-7 mark. Lake Howell dropped to 15-8.

The Lady Seminoles need Lake Mary to lose one of its two remaining games to salvage a tie for first place. If the Lady Rams lose both (Lake Brantley tonight and Lake Howell Monday), Seminole will tie with Lake Brantley. Brantley must win tonight and Monday at Oviedo, however. If Brantley whips Mary and loses to Oviedo, Seminole wins the title outright.

Freshman guard Adrian Hillsman was the beneficiary of the brilliant boardwork Thursday night. Hillsman scored eight of her team-high 16 points on breakaway layups to open the game.

Steele, who had been critical of his girls' rebounding earlier this year, said he's happy with Thursday's reversal. "They're moving better in our zone defense," he said. "Instead of just being in position, they're getting down and playing defense."

"They're not just standing there. Before they were not letting smaller people beat us around the bucket."

One of those Munchkins, Lake Howell guard Erin Hankins, did beat the 'Noles for 20 points, but Seminole checked the rest of the Lady Hawks to ensure the runaway.

Anderson and Johnson each pulled off 11 rebounds while Robinson had 10. Temika Alexander popped in 13 points and handed out six assists and came up with three steals. Anderson was held to a three-week low 14 points but finished with four assists and three steals. — Sam Cook

LAKE HOWELL (39) — Hankins 20, Lewis 9, Johnson 8, Winston 8, K. Johnson 8, Kuhl 4, Schmitzer 2, Coop 1, Grider 1. Totals: 21-11-26-59.

SEMINOLE (73) — Hillsman 16, scored first eight points, Anderson 14, Alexander 13, Robinson 8, Johnson 8, Strickland 6, Stephens 4, Harfman 2, Long 4. Totals: 31-11-16-73.

Thomas: Great 'D'

Stephanie Nelson scored 19 points and Oviedo held the Lady Hornets of Bishop Moore to only six second-half points as the Lady Lions ran away with a 49-19 victory in prep basketball Thursday night at Oviedo High School.

The win improved the Lady Lions to 8-16 overall on the season, 7-3 in the Orange Belt Conference. They are 1-6 in the Seminole Athletic Conference with two games remaining at home. Oviedo hosts Lyman tonight and Lake Brantley Monday in two key SAC matchups.

Nelson played all over the court with her two blocked shots and two steals. Not only being a defensive menace, Nelson had six assists on the night along with her game-high total.

"We needed her (Nelson) to go on a rampage tonight and she did," Lady Lion coach John Thomas said. "She really shot the ball well tonight."

The Lady Lions held the Lady Hornets to just three scorers on the board and totally shut off all scoring lanes in the second half.

"We started the game off with a matchup zone and then switched to a 2-3 defense," Thomas said. "We pressed in the fourth period after our great third period performance."

The Lady Lions put together their best period of the night in the third when they outshot the Lady Hornets 18-4.

COLON BUCKET LIFTS JV

In a junior varsity game Thursday night, coach Mickey Norton's Lady Lions pulled out an exciting 54-48 triple-overtime victory over Melbourne Central Catholic at Melbourne.

Carrie Stellhorn kept the Lady Lions alive with a bucket in each overtime before Kerstein Cotton delivered the game-winner in the third OT on a nice pass from Adrienne Wood.

second quarter. Seminole came back behind two free throws each by Holden and Parker to take an 88-85 lead with 1:50 remaining but Spruce Creek battled back to tie it at 90-90 with 40 seconds left.

After Darthard was whistled for his fifth foul, Whitney swished a pair of free throws with 36 seconds left as Seminole took a 92-90 lead, but Cooks got a feed from Fedor and slammed home two points to retie it with 22 seconds remaining.

Seminole immediately pushed the ball upcourt and Holden hit a turnaround jumper from 15 feet to give the 'Noles a 94-92 lead with 12 seconds left. Spruce Creek raced downcourt and got the ball to Bennett who was fouled by Henderson on his drive to the hoop. Bennett buried both free throws with five seconds left to send the game into overtime tied at 94-94.

The lead changed hands twice in the early going of OT but Seminole took a 98-97 lead with 1:23 remaining on a baseline jumper by Rod Fossitt. Fedor then turned the ball over driving in for a layup and Seminole had the ball with 1:06 left.

Instead of running time off the clock, Whitney missed a baseline jumper and Cooks grabbed the rebound. Trent Ivey then swished in a jumper from 20 feet for his only two points of the game and a 99-98 Creek lead with 43 seconds remaining. After another Whitney miss, Cooks sewed up the win by hitting two free throws with 28 seconds left to make the final 101-98.

"It's tough when you play as well as Sanford did tonight only to lose," Romaniszyn said. "I thought we could win it if we got it to overtime. This was one great high school basketball game and maybe a preview of things to come in the district tournament."

SEMINOLE (98) — Whitney 20, Parker 22, Wright 4, Holden 14, Fossitt 2, Henderson 14, Walker 22. Totals: 33-28-98.

spoil his 16-0 record.

"Chad (Dubin) will go out there and do his thing," Scott said. "I expect him to do great things and he expects them from himself."

The other 'Hound to look for is Pat

Perkins at 224. Scott said Perkins, bound for UCF on a football scholarship, is slightly unorthodox in his style, but can put relentless holds on his opponents and has the capability of the quick pin.

For the 5-8 Silver Hawks of Lake Howell, Corso depends on his entire team to do the job. One outstanding athlete will not be enough, according to Corso. "Everybody's got to put forth their best effort of the season," Corso said. "We're going to go out there and have some fun and wrestle our best. That's all I can ask for or expect. We'll be ready."

The Patriots of Lake Brantley, who ended their season with a 8-4, Daniel Roth, Kevin Greenstein, Daniel Streetman and Troy Lewis are the key to opening the door to the regional meet next weekend.

"It's all going to depend on who's in their brackets," Patriot coach Kevin Carpengar said. "We've been concentrating on drills and takedowns all week long. We would like to finish third, but there are so many good wrestlers from every team, they could knock off the top contenders."

Zinc Supplements For Odor Not Recommended

Dr. Gott

DEAR DR. GOTT — I just read in your column about the person trying in vain to clear up bad body odor. I've used zinc supplements in the diets of my own children and several of my son's friends. It's worked for their body odor.

DEAR READER — Zinc has not been scientifically proven to affect body odor. However, I am not aware that a modest zinc supplement would be harmful. I don't recommend an amount exceeding 100 mg. a day, because gastrointestinal disturbances and anemia can result from overdose.

DEAR DR. GOTT — In 1958, while in the Navy, I came down with tuberculosis. Since then I've had lung trouble, including emphysema. What other trouble can I expect from my past tuberculosis?

DEAR READER — Tuberculosis remains a serious illness, even though modern treatment is usually effective. Sometimes tuberculosis bacteria can stay dormant in the body for years, then later reactivate to cause devastating infections in lungs and other tissues. Emphysema is not ordinarily a consequence of tuberculosis.

You should have periodic checkups to make sure that your TB remains cured. Your doctor is the best judge of the frequency and extent of the examinations.

DEAR DR. GOTT — I have a 2½-year-old boy who has, for several months, been waking up screaming at night. The doctor says he has "night terrors" and put him on Tofranil (10 mg.). It has helped, but is it safe for him? Is there anything else I can do?

DEAR READER — Tofranil is an antidepressant that has been shown to be useful as temporary therapy for children who are bedwetters. The medicine is potent; in fact, it is quite dangerous at high doses. The manufacturer discourages the use of Tofranil in children younger than 6 for conditions other than bedwetting. Seek an opinion from another doctor.

DEAR DR. GOTT — I've got diplopia. Is there effective treatment for relief or a cure?

DEAR READER — Diplopia (double vision) commonly results from imbalance of the ocular muscles that control eye movement. Treatment depends on the cause. Because diplopia can be a symptom of serious neurological and/or muscular diseases, you will need to have a thorough general examination, including tests for nerve and muscle function.

DEAR DR. GOTT — I have a shoulder injury, a severe tear in the rotator cuff. The surgeon wants to operate. What is your opinion?

DEAR READER — If you have pain due to a torn rotator cuff — the capsule of gristle that surrounds the shoulder joint — surgery may help you. If your surgeon is qualified to perform this operation, let him or her do it.

DEAR DR. GOTT — My husband has plantar warts on his heel. These have been cut out three times and are back again. Are there any folk remedies that might help? Even if they don't work, at least they won't hurt, which is more than can be said for the surgery.

DEAR READER — I am not aware of consistent successes from folk remedies for plantar warts. I've had better results from Vergo, an over-the-counter cream, applied as directed to the wart. Make sure your husband uses sandpaper or an emery board to remove all of the callus over the wart before he applies the cream.

Answer to Previous Puzzle

WIN AT BRIDGE

By James Jacoby

A thoughtful play by defender West went for naught when declarer kept his own thinking cap tight on his head. Declarer won dummy's diamond ace to take a spade finesse. If West wins the king, it's simple for South to draw trumps and then play a heart to dummy to take a club finesse. When that works, declarer has enough tricks for the slam — five spades, two hearts, three diamonds and two clubs. West was up to a clever play often missed by greedy defenders who grab their tricks quickly. He casually refused the spade trick led around to declarer's queen. He wanted to encourage declarer to waste an entry to dummy to try the spade finesse again.

What about declarer? He did plan to return to dummy for what he presumed would be another successful spade finesse and so played a low heart to the queen. But then he was shrewd enough to consider the remote possibility that West might be trying to hornswoggle him. Was there anything he could do to neutralize such a nefarious play?

Of course. He played dummy's diamond queen, on which he jettisoned his heart ace. Now when East showed out on the spade led from dummy, South went up with his ace and played another spade. West won the king, but now what? A red card would put declarer in dummy and a club would be doing declarer's work for him.

When a finesse works, always remember that an astute opponent may be holding up his winning card to lead you astray. Look for ways to counteract his stratagem.

HOROSCOPE

What The Day Will Bring...

YOUR BIRTHDAY FEBRUARY 15, 1968
Establish lofty objectives for yourself in the year ahead, but don't expect them to be accomplished immediately. Big gains can be made, but events will dictate their pace.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19)
Try to make do with what you have today, rather than borrowing anything from friends. Above all, do not ask for financial assistance. Major changes are ahead for Aquarius in the coming year. Send for your Astro-Graph predictions today. Mail $1 to Astro-Graph, c/o this newspaper, Box 1846, Cincinnati, OH 45201. Be sure to state your zodiac sign.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20)
If you are going to pattern your tactics after anyone today, be sure to pick a person whose methods are truly worthy of admiration.

ARIES (March 21-April 19)
An associate may make some unfavorable remarks about you today, but don't let this affect your self-esteem. Consider the source and forget it.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20)
Do not be afraid to ask a lot of questions if you're involved in a situation that requires a cash outlay. Be sure the answers are good ones.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20)
It will prove unwise today to let others make decisions for you that you should be making yourself. Others may not have your best interest at heart.

CANCER (June 21-July 22)
Guard against tendencies today to look for irrational reasons to delay doing what needs immediate attention. Excuses won't cut it.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22)
If you divert your energies and attention to frivolous pursuits, what could be a productive day will turn out to be anything but that.

Stay on track.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22)
Unless you have complete faith in the talents and abilities of people with whom you'll be involved today, it's best not to rely upon them too heavily.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23)
Work too complicated or strenuous for you to do alone should be temporarily shelved until you can get proper assistance.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22)
Usually you're a pretty shrewd shopper, but today you could buy things on impulse that won't measure up in value to the dollars you spend. Be careful.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21)
In situations today where you are unsure of yourself, do not try to bluff your way through with a bold front and false bravado. It won't work.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19)
Today you might have to deal with someone who displeased you in the past. If you try to even up the score, you could create a rather serious problem.

Gardening

Don't Forget To Feed Landscape Trees

Sometimes we forget that our landscape trees get hungry. It seems that we make sure our azaleas, hedges, shrubs and lawns get their fair share, but completely forget about our beautiful shade trees. This is a good time to get this chore out of the way.

The only way you can properly feed your trees is to know about the different fertilizers that are available. Most of our landscapes contain an assortment of trees. To simplify the job, you can generally use a complete fertilizer - one containing the three major nutrients needed for best growth. This means for most trees you can use a 6-6-6 or 8-8-8 all-purpose garden fertilizer.

To calculate the correct amount of fertilizer for a tree, you need to know the diameter of the trunk. This should be measured about four feet above the soil level. For trees with trunk diameter of six inches or less, apply three pounds of fertilizer for every inch of trunk diameter. For trees with trunk diameters larger than six inches, use five pounds of complete fertilizer for each inch in diameter of trunk.

The best way to apply the fertilizer you have weighed out is to punch holes in the soil about a foot deep with a crowbar, jack handle or similar tool. Space your holes out about 18 inches apart beneath the leaf canopy of the tree. Then pour your fertilizer into each hole until the correct amount has been used. If for some reason you can't use this system, you can divide the total amount required for a tree into three parts. Broadcast one-third on top of the soil under the tree now; make your second application in mid-June; and apply a third application in early October. This is not as effective as the hole punching method, particularly if you have grass growing beneath the tree - it

Alfred Bosseson
Urban Horticulturist
323-2500

will grow like crazy! But the broadcast system is much better than no feeding at all.

Don't neglect your palms, either. They, too, need their fair share of fertilizer. You can use a special palm fertilizer mix or a regular all-purpose complete fertilizer with a high percentage of nitrogen, such as a 16-4-8 or 12-4-8. If you can get a complete fertilizer with additional minor elements, the palms will certainly benefit.

Young palms with no clear trunk need about one to three pounds of fertilizer for each feeding. Palms with clear trunks should receive one-half to one pound of fertilizer per inch of trunk diameter per feeding. Feed your palms three times a year. Make your first application now, another in mid-summer, and a third in early fall. The fall feeding will help increase cold tolerance and reduce the chance of nutrient shortages that may occur when the roots are less active.

Your palms can be fed by the same method described for your shade trees, or you can simply broadcast the fertilizer beneath the normal canopy.

When considering fertilizers, the word "complete" comes to mind first. A complete fertilizer is one containing nitrogen, phosphorus, and potassium - the three major elements needed for good growth of any plants. But in our sandy soils, sometimes we have a shortage of some needed "minor" elements. These minor elements are needed in addition to the three major elements. Many of the all-purpose fertilizers contain these additional elements. You can tell by reading the contents on the fertilizer bag. The minor elements can also be applied in the form of a liquid spray. The all-purpose fertilizers containing both major and minor elements for plant growth may be a little more expensive, but from the plant's nutrient needs, the extra cost is well worth it.

Iron is deficient in many of our soils, and you'll find this added minor element in many fertilizers. Symptoms of iron deficiency appear on many landscape plants where the soil pH is high, either naturally or where someone has limed the soil, thinking that the poor response of plants is due to a low pH - usually without having the soil tested before liming.

Additional iron can be applied when needed by using iron sulfate or chelated iron mixed with water according to the instructions on the product label. No matter which fertilizer product you choose, always follow the manufacturer's instructions to the letter.

After applying fertilizer to your shade trees and palms, be sure to give them a thorough, deep watering. This activates the nutrients in the fertilizer so the tree's roots will be able to readily assimilate them. Our landscapes are fairly dry now, unless you're fortunate enough to have an irrigation system and have been watering about once a week. If not, better drag out the old hose and give all your landscape plants a good, deep drink. They'll love you for it.

Happy gardening!

The community is invited to attend, and Seminole County youth are encouraged to witness this special program. Raymond Gaines is FAMU alumni president; Robert Thomas is chairman.

The Junior Usher Board will present a black history program Feb. 23, 11 p.m., at Allen Chapel AME Church. The speaker will be local Reverend Frank Williams. Citizens of the community will be honored for their services.

The Good Samaritan Home and Staff recently recognized Tammy Williams for her deicated services to the home's residents. Williams, a 1985 Seminole High School graduate, was active in the band, the Alpha American United Club, the yearbook staff, the Spanish club and the Tribe club. Williams, who has been working at the Good Samaritan Home for more than a year, said she will miss the residents most of all, and stated that she has learned a great deal from them. She is leaving to enter the Wilma Boyd Airline and Travel Career School. Williams, shown in the center, accepts an award from Armajene Bradley, a member of the staff. With her are Sherrine Thomas, Timonthy Wilson, Barbara Wilson and Geneva Bradshaw. Williams is the granddaughter of Mrs. Minnie Lee Thomas and Mrs. Mary P. Williams.

Getting Married?

Engagement and wedding forms are available at the Evening Herald offices to announce these events. The forms may be accompanied by professional black and white photographs if a picture is desired with the announcement.

Does Daddy Need To Make Honest Woman of Mom?

DEAR ABBY: My parents are about to celebrate their 25th wedding anniversary. They have four children and three grandchildren.

My mother was not of legal age when she married. Her parents refused to give her consent, so she and Daddy eloped, and Momma changed her birth certificate and lied about her age.

Are my parents legally married or just living in common-law? Am I illegitimate? Does Daddy need to make an honest woman of Momma? This is especially important because Daddy is a preacher now.

OLDEST DAUGHTER

DEAR DAUGHTER: Falsifying one's age in order to marry does not necessarily invalidate the marriage. You are not illegitimate, and your mother is an honest woman with one (tiny blemish on her record, having lied about her age 25 years ago.

While honesty is always the best policy, if everyone who lied about his or her age were doomed to hell, hell wouldn't be big enough to hold them.

DEAR ABBY: I'm one of four daughters - all married. We were a very close family and still are, although none of us lives in the town where we grew up.

Our mother loves to write letters. I answer as soon as I can, but I can never catch up because the day Mom receives a letter she answers it! The problem: She sends me snapshots, news clippings (some of your columns) and newsy letters from other relatives, and demands that I return the enclosures immediately. I'm not always able to answer her letters immediately, and there were times when I have misplaced (or lost) snapshots and letters she's asked me to return. This infuriates her, so she writes a scathing letter upbraiding me for being so disorganized, bumbling and undependable.

Abby, I love my mother and don't want to be disrespectful, but most of the stuff she sends is boring, and I wish she wouldn't saddle me with the responsibility of returning it. So how do I get this across to her?

MOM'S DISORGANIZED DAUGHTER

DEAR DAUGHTER: In your next letter, respectfully ask her not to send you anything she wants returned. Tell her that the responsibility is more than you can handle, and if she continues that practice, she does so at her own risk. Period, paragraph, and "love."

DEAR ABBY: I have been married for over 30 years, and

when my husband never wanted to go out in the evening, I thought it was because he was so tired from working all day. (He has the kind of job that doesn't require him to account for his time.)

Then I found out he was in the habit of picking up tramps when he was supposed to be on the job.

You once explained why a man will treat a tramp better than he treats his wife. I remembered that explanation, and it helped me to feel better. I need to read it again, but I can't find it. Can you?

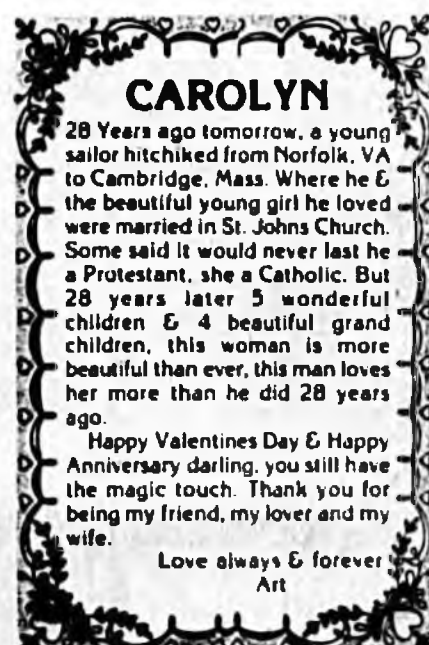

HURTING IN OKLAHOMA

DEAR HURTING: Yes. And here it is:

A man picks up a tramp because he wants a female companion who is no better than he is. In her company, he doesn't feel inferior. He rewards her by treating her like a lady.

He treats his wife (who is a lady) like a tramp because he feels that by degrading her he will bring her down to his level. This makes him feel guilty. So in order to get even with his wife for making him feel guilty, he keeps right on punishing her.

(Getting married? Send for Abby's new, updated, expanded booklet, "How to Have a Lovely Wedding." Send your name and address clearly printed with a check or money order for $2.50 and a long, stamped (39 cents) self-addressed envelope to: Dear Abby, Wedding Booklet, P.O. Box 38923, Hollywood, Calif. 90038.)

Your Heart In Flowers

How does your garden grow?

If you're trying to cultivate non-native cut flowers or exotic foliage in Florida without taking special care, it probably isn't growing very well.

Gardener and garden author Betty Barr Mackey, who moved from Maryland to Longwood about three years ago, found that after a lifetime of plant tending she was off on the wrong foot when it came to growing in sand instead of soil.

"The biggest problem is the soil," she said. "If you can lick the soil problem you can cope with everything else." Everything else being bugs and the weather, which shifts from extreme heat to frigid cold.

"Florida is one of the hardest places to have a garden. We don't have soil," Mrs. Mackey said. "I lived here for a long time before I realized just how bad the soil is.

"After having so-so results I bought a test kit, read directions and started to test the soil. I was getting no results. I thought, "stupid idiot, you can't even follow directions". Finally it dawned on me. I was getting legitimate results. I was testing plain sand that had no nutrient value. It was just plain nothing. It was 'hydroponic' gardening.

"That was a big breakthrough. Once I realized that I started buying a different type of fertilizer. I got a slow release kind that would stay in the soil and slowly release nutrients.

"I started speeding up digging in composts and buying bags of cow manure. I'd love to have a big truck of manure pull up — but my neighbors — so I haven't done that. I buy it by the bag and all of this has helped, Mrs. Mackey said.

Enriched soil has a more natural resistance to nematodes, a worm pest that plagues Florida's soil and attacks roots systems, she said. Nematodes are usually purged by treatment of the soil with a strong, poisonous chemical.

After three years, Mrs. Mackey's Longwood home garden is just getting off the ground with herbs, flowers and vegetables that have survived the recent cold snap peeping through the soil.

"It takes a long time to make a garden," she said. "The first few years you're just improving your soil and trying to buy plants. They're expensive and you can't buy everything at once."

An alternative, Mrs. Mackey said, is to start plants from seed, but that's and even slower process.

Now, in late February, which Mrs. Mackey called Florida's spring, is a good time to plant. Before it gets too hot and while many bugs are still in hiding from the cold. The cooler weather makes things a bit easier on the gardener too, she said.

Many Florida farmers grow roses, which Mrs. Mackey said is a good plant for the area, "because you get a lot of bloom through spring, a little in the summer, a lot in the fall and some through the winter.

"You have to get roses that are especially for Florida. I'd advise either very old fashioned types that are very nematode resistant or roses that locally have been grafted onto nematode resistant root stock.

"The plant I recommended most is the small flowered sunflower," Mrs.

Mackey said. "They grow to about four to six feet. Instead of one big flower it has a cluster of flowers each about three inches wide. They look terrific.

"They only last for a few weeks. I think when you grow flowers for cutting you have to realize it's not like growing an azalea. Cut flowers have a period of growth where they don't look like much, then they bloom and look terrific for four to six weeks. After a while they go to seed or start to look kind of beggerish. At that point you have to pull them up and discard.

"It's a passing thing," Mrs. Mackey said. "You have a sense of time passing. Everything has a season."

If you think it's your season to dig in and start a Florida garden, there are books available including Mrs. Mackey's A Cutting Garden for Florida. Tips can also be picked up through the Seminole County agriculture extension agent's office at the county government complex at Five Points.

A Tribute To A Television Success: C-SPAN

By Robert Walters

WASHINGTON (NEA) — "The instrument can teach. It can illuminate," pioneer television journalist Edward R. Morrow once said in explaining the awesome potential of his medium.

"It can even inspire," Morrow added. "But it can do so only to the extent that humans are determined to use it to those ends. Otherwise, it is merely lights and wires in a box."

Unfortunately, Morrow's employer and the other commercial television networks have severely restricted their role as providers of inspiration and illumination, opting instead to dispense least-common-denominator entertainment.

The Public Broadcasting Service has been somewhat more rewarding, but it too has been disappointing as a vehicle that might have advanced the viewers' understanding of their world.

There is, however, one television news organization that comes close to fulfilling Morrow's vision and achieving the medium's potential for serving the public through offerings that are enlightening yet compelling.

It is the Washington-based Cable Satellite Public Affairs Network, aptly characterized by one industry expert as "cable's most unique and, in some ways, greatest contribution to television."

Distributed to approximately 23 million homes by 2,000 cable systems throughout the country, C-SPAN is an oasis in the television desert, providing informative and intriguing around-the-clock programming interrupted by neither disruptive commercials nor intrusive commentary.

Best known as the cable operation that broadcasts the live, complete, unedited proceedings of the House of Representatives, C-SPAN also covers:

- Hearings of both House and Senate committees on such diverse topics as obscene record lyrics, ambient air quality standards, organized crime, airline deregulation, health care and offshore fishing rights.

- National Press Club speeches made by newsmakers ranging from politician Geraldine Ferraro and evangelist Jerry Falwell to New York Philharmonic Musical Director Zubin Mehta and actress Jessica Lange.

— Call-in programs that encourage viewers to question politicians, diplomats, lobbyists and journalists. Guests have included Vice President George Bush, feminist leader Gloria Steinem and consumer advocate Ralph Nader.

Although C-SPAN's programming is Washington oriented, its crews regularly travel to other cities. Last year, it broadcast the annual meetings of the National Governors Association in Boise, Idaho; the Republican Governors Association in Wilmington, Del.; the Council of State Governments in Lake Tahoe, Nev.; and the U.S. Conference of Mayors in Anchorage, Alaska.

In recent presidential election years, it has been the only television news organization to offer uninterrupted gavel-to-gavel coverage of the nominating conventions of both major political parties.

C-SPAN's history dates back to 1977, when Brian Lamb, its founder and chairman, persuaded a number of television industry executives to invest $400,000 to launch the non-profit cooperative venture.

Today, C-SPAN operates on an annual budget of about $6.5 million, slightly more than the three major commercial networks spent on the combined yearly salaries of Dan Rather, Tom Brokaw and Peter Jennings.

Note To Readers:

Subscribers To Cablevision of Central Florida can receive C-SPAN with the expanded service. It is received by subscribers with an Alpha-numeric converter on Channel A. Subscribers with a Numeric converter will receive the programming on Channel 43 and those with a Zenith converter will receive it on Channel 1.

Flat Beer And Justice

NEW YORK (UPI) — The man just wanted a cold can of beer, that's all. He opened it, drank the suds and pronounced the fluid flat. Normally, it would have been 75 cents down the drain, but there's principle involved here.

Joseph A. Wapner, a retired judge, presides over the nationally syndicated show that airs in about 200 cities in 20 countries and settles actual civil disputes on the air.

A lawsuit was filed in California Small Claims Court and the wheels of justice began spinning. It was only a matter of time before the flat beer became a national issue, a case suitable for consumption on "The People's Court," television's attempt at finding justice for the common man.

Note: People's Court can be seen daily at 5:30 p.m. over WESH-TV, Channel 2

TV Violence Just Hokey Make-Believe

Dear Dick — I am 11 years old and love shows like "Miami Vice" and "Hunter." I can't wait until the weekend to watch them. I was wondering if I should watch shows like that? — R.A.H., Knoxville, Tenn.

Experts have been arguing ever since TV began whether or not kids are hurt by seeing violent shows. I think probably you and all the other children would be better off if you didn't watch such shows. But I don't think they really hurt you — as long as you understand that what you are seeing is not real life at all, but just a lot of hokey make-believe.

Dear Dick — I have heard that the actor, Neville Brand, won the Congressional Medal of Honor during World War II. Also, that he was the fourth highest decorated soldier of World War II. What name did he use when he won the medals? And what medals did he win, other than the Congressional Medal of Honor? — R.R., Bowling Green, Ky.

His biography does not claim those honors. It does say that "he earned a fistful of medals, including the Silver Star." He was a sergeant during World War II.

Dear Dick — Are Stanley Livingston (Chip) and Barry Livingston (Ernie) of "My Three Sons" brothers? I say they are, my mom says they're not. Who is right? Whoever loses our bet has to do all the dishes for a month. Are they related at all? — J.W., Sugarland, Texas.

Hand your mom the soap, the towel and the sponge. The Livingstons are complete brothers.

Dear Dick — My family is having a disagreement about the character of Pat Brady on "The Roy Rogers Show." My mother says he was Alfalfa on "The Little Rascals," but my father says it can't be because Alfalfa died when he was young. If he wasn't Alfalfa, then who was he? — S.B., Rock Hill, S.C.

I'm on your father's side. Alfalfa was Carl Switzer, who died in 1959 at the age of 33. Pat Brady was Pat Brady, who died in 1972 at the age of 57. Brady had been a member of the old Sons of the Pioneers singing group, but was never a Rascal, big or little.

Dear Dick — I always read your column and enjoy it. Please tell me a little about Dolph Sweet on "Gimme a Break." Is he the same man that played Ada's husband on "Another World" in years gone by? — J.E.S., Listowel, Ontario.

Dear Dick — Could you please tell me if Cindy Williams is still alive? My stepfather says she is still alive but I thought she passed away a couple of years ago. — A.G., LaMarque, Texas.

Dear Dick — The wife and I have had an on-going bet as to whether or not Christopher George is still alive. If he is still alive, why has he dropped out of sight? — W.E.G., Alpena, Mich.

Dear Dick — I was informed by a friend that Andy Kaufman had died. I have since heard several rumors about his passing. Is he really dead? — Mrs. L.C., Miramar, Fla.

Dear Dick — Can you tell me what happened to Brandon DeWilde, the "kid" who played in "Shane"? — J.G., Albuquerque, N.M.

Of the above, only Cindy Williams is still with us. Dolph Sweet — and, yes, he was in "Another World" — is dead. So is Christopher George; Andy Kaufman; and Brandon DeWilde, who was only 30 when he died in 1972.
