Tonight's debate between President Carter and Ronald Reagan will be watched by 90 million — but will be only 60 million Americans and could determine the nation's course for the next four years.

The president arrived in Cleveland Monday, telling reporters "I feel good," but smilingly declining to answer whether he thought he would win.

Reagan, who has been in six debates with Carter, said he was "not nervous" but smilingly declining to answer whether he thought he would win.

Let Doctor Check Your Bumps, Lumps

DEAR DR. LAMB—I have a lipoma tumor on my left arm. I've had it for at least 15 years. I think it may be growing a little. How can I be sure? I showed it to my dermatologist last week and he said he wouldn't want to see it get any bigger. How large is considered dangerous? It is 6.5 cm now.

He said that if it gets any bigger, a puncture biopsy would be necessary. Please explain a puncture biopsy. Can it be done in the doctor's office? Then he told me that a plastic surgeon would have to remove it. I would think that since it specifically affects the skin that my dermatologist should remove it. Am I right? What type of doctor would be best to remove it? How is it removed?

DEAR READER—Lipomas are little tumors of fat. The ordinary one is totally benign and won't cause any problem. He remained in his rented estate in Middleburg, Fla., today, planning a late afternoon flight to Cleveland, where the debate will begin at 8:30 p.m. EST at the Convention Center.

Three new polls released Monday show the race to be so close a perceived winner of the debate could well acquire the

Sanford Waiting On Feds

A 9.5 percent across-the-board pay raise for employees is included in the budget for fiscal 1980-81.

But a salary schedule designed to bring "equity" in the salaries of city employees in the back burner. That many employees who would have received more than a 9.5 percent increase will have to wait.

The problem is that federal revenue sharing money has not been used to fund the salary schedule prepared earlier a study was done by the state Department of Community Affairs. The study compared salaries paid by Sanford for similar positions in other cities. It also compared the scope of each employee's job.

City Manager Warren Knowles told commissioners the new salary schedule hinged on receipt of federal revenue sharing funds and salary changes were timed after Jan. 1, 1981, because of these funds.

"Congress was to have moved this bill in September but did not. No action was taken and the existing federal legislation expired at the end of September. We have received the last check until further congressional action is taken. The action will be after mid-November, and just when and in what shape is now up in the air," Knowles said.

"There is a definite feeling that cities will receive some form of federal revenue sharing funds but the new legislation may pass late and may not be retroactive. We hope it will be at the end of the year. We are working through both Houses of Congress and we are hopeful that we will get the bill passed by the end of the year. We are working through both Houses of Congress and we are hopeful that we will get the bill passed by the end of the year."

Longwood Not 'Sensitive' To Psychic

By ANNE CASSELL BERRY
Herald Staff Writer

Robyn Jamison may be a licensed "Psychic" sensitive to Seminoke County, but she is not sensitive to the Longwood City Commission Monday night.

Mrs. Jamison had hoped to get a special occupational license for $40 to practice in Longwood under this designation similar to the one she obtained last week from the county on the budget which includes $1.36 million for the new fiscal year.

A tax rate of $1.867 per $1,000 assessed valuation was approved. Knowles said, however, the tax rate likely will go up to $2.70 when final figures are available from the county property appraiser in the city.

Knowles said it likely will be Mid-November before final figures on taxable values are available. He added that the tax rolls are late because of time schedules required under a new state law.

"We will be lucky if the tax bills are mailed by Dec. 1," Knowles said. "You know what that does to cash flow," he said.

Cities normally start receiving property tax revenues in November from the county. With passage of the new homesteaded exemption and completed reappraisal of property completed by Property Appraiser Bill Sobier's office, the rolls have been completed much later than normal.

The commission asked Knowles to prepare recommendations for the city Attorney Don Marblestone as the first witness to the proceeding. Marblestone and three other neighborhood youths were assaulted by King's children, who had jumped from her car.

Jury To Weigh Conflicting Stories

By DAVID M. RAZLER
Herald Staff Writer

Two different stories of a neighborhood fight which ended with 34-year-old Altamonte Springs woman charged with attempted murder are expected to be evaluated today by a Circuit Court jury.

Callie Mae King, 79 Salem Court, is charged with attempted murder, aggravated assault and leaving the scene of an accident with personal injuries.

She is charged with deliberately running down 11-year-old Dennis Wynn Thompson with her car as he walked along Brentwood Street near their home.

Thompson, called by Assistant State Attorney Don Marblestone as the first witness to the proceeding, testified he was assaulted by King's children, who had jumped from her car.

30 Americans Back From Cuban Prison

MIAMI (UPI) — After 17 months of fish heads and rice in a Cuban prison, Michael Settler, a "New York boy," came home to pepperoni pizza, Walker Clark, a Southern man, sat down to fried chicken.
They were among 30 Americans who returned to Miami Monday following their release from Cuba's Comandante del Este prison, with food and freedom uppermost on the minds of all but five of them.
Five of the repatriates were taken into custody by U.S. marshals. The quietest included Melvin Charles Cole, 25, Henry Dee Jackson, 33, and Lewis Douglas Moore, 35, all accused of the 1969 hijacking of a Southern Airways jet; Anthony Garret Bryan, 42, accused of another plane hijacking, and Terry Lee Beyerly, 34, wanted at Greensboro, N.C., for parole violation.

Three men, Jeffrey John Hoban, 33, Lester Perry, 33, and Charles Hill elected to remain in Cuba. Hill and Perry are both wanted in the U.S. for plane hijackings and Hoban for parole violation. The Miami Herald reported in a dispatch from Havana that Hoban and Perry planned to leave Cuba and go to some other non-Communist country. It said Hill planned to stay in Cuba.
The 30 — convicted on charges ranging from drug-running to religious pamphletizing — returned from Havana's Jose Marti Airport to Miami's Tamiami Airport aboard a chartered Air Florida Boeing 737 Monday afternoon. Relatives and friends were on hand to greet them.
— Douglas Mikko, 27, said, "Now we know what this thing called liberty and freedom is all about."
Sunny Seltzer, Michael's mother, said she let her son choose his welcome-home dinner. "It was a Southern-style pizza, with both cake and pie for dessert. But Clark said, 'I had a very small appetite. I haven't had this type of food for 20 months.'"
"Then had a drink of Heineken (beer) — just one — I never was much of a drinker. But you wouldn't believe how good it tasted!"

Minister Faked Death, Abandoned Family?

RAYBORO, N.C. (UPI) — The Rev. Samuel Jones was beloved by his parishioners who considered him a real born-again Christian. Authorities suspect Jones was even more "born-again" than anyone realized.
Sheriff Leland Brinson says the Rev. Jones is in fact Samuel Morris Swindell, who left a wife and six children in the little town of Oriental, N.C., more than five years ago when he believed to have been murdered and thrown off a bridge.
"Sam and I are just 14 days apart (in age) and I have known him for 25 years," Brinson said Monday. He said he had written Swindell off as dead in March of 1975 when he found his blood-spattered car by a bridge, and his boot and coat on the bridge. Swindell, he said, had problems readjusting after serving in Vietnam.
Acting on a tip, however, the sheriff tracked down Swindell to the Supply Baptist Church, 50 miles from Oriental, where he was known as the dedicated church pastor.
Swindell-Jones is being held in lieu of $25,000 bond on charges of abandonment and non-support of his family, and Brinson said he planned to send him to a Raleigh hospital today to determine if he is fit to stand trial.
The only question in Brinson's mind is whether Swindell knows he is he is. "He has not recognized any person or any friend that he had prior to 1975," Brinson said.
The sheriff said he believes Swindell is "taking it about not remembering, but I'm one of the few who believe that and I could be wrong."

Brain Cancer Deaths Probed

NEW YORK (UPI) — Federal health investigators say the brain cancer deaths of 18 workers at a Texas petrochemical plant apparently were work-related, but plant officials claim more investigation is needed to prove the chemical cancer link.
"A preliminary estimate reveals a plant-wide excess brain cancer risk (rate) that exceeded among 6,800 white males at the plant since 1941," investigators said after reviewing deaths at a Union Carbide petrochemical plant in Texas City, Texas, between 1956 and 1980.

Dr. Victor Alexander of the Occupational Safety and Health Administration released the results of investigations by federal health sleuths at Monday's opening session of a three-day New York Academy of Sciences Workshop on Brain Tumors in the Chemical Industry.
Investigators said the 18 brain cancer deaths at Union Carbide were the "largest single series" of presumably occupationally related brain cancers" in medical annals.
"Information available indicates this number of brain tumors is excessive — and the tumors are likely to be occupationally related," the government scientists said.

Inflation: Culprit Is Us

One might expect a national mobilization against a scourge so terrible as to threaten the very fabric of family life in this country.

A big reason this destructive, revolutionizing menace goes largely unchecked is that Americans have been slow in recognizing that inflation has serious, even dangerous, sociological consequences that go far beyond economic indices.

The run-away cost of living now requires more and more wives to join their husbands at outside jobs in order to keep the average household together.

The circumstances of this are often desperate and sad. Almost 30 percent of married women with infants less than one year old held jobs last year, according to the Census Bureau.

Among wives whose youngest child had reached 2 years of age, 4 percent were working and the percentage increased to 27 by the time a woman's youngest child was 6 or older.

The Bureau cites a substantial change in family formation. Young married couples are waiting longer nowadays to marry with more of them living together out of wedlock than ever before.

Those pressures are measured in grim terms that are all too familiar: The dollar today buys less than half what it did in 1970.

Now, for the second year in a row the inflation rate is 13 percent. To appreciate this increasing threat, we have to remember that for almost 20 years after World War II, inflation averaged only 2.5 percent annually and even then was a source of genuine concern.

Why has this happened? What can be done? The reason, we were reminded again the other day by David Rockefeller, chairman of Chase Manhattan Bank, is not as the liberals assert, because of "profligate capitalists, or greedy workers..." but "the soaring price of government."

It is significant and encouraging that Mr. Rockefeller, who has never been recognized as an inflation fighter, is now sounding the alarm and pointing at the real culprit: "Overpending by government has created nightmarish deficits for 19 of the past 20 years, with a total deficit exceeding $400 billion," which he rightly says debases the currency, creating most of the inflation.

But, inasmuch as we govern ourselves, we must look beyond an extravagant, careless government to the politicians whom we keep electing because they promise so much, including $200 billion annually in transfer payments from the U.S. Treasury to recipients of government largesse.

In other words, to paraphrase Pope, inflation is the encouraging thing about bleak reality is that, because inflation is manmade, it can, with discipline, be controlled. We must simply stop expecting and demanding so much from the Santa Clauses we elect to public office.

American Voter: Beware

By ARNOLD SAWISLAK

WASHINGTON (UPI) — With just a week to go before the election, this may be a good time to post the "Voter Beware" sign.

The very fact that such charges are heard in the final days of the campaign is suspect: if the candidate really is suffering from a terminal illness, has been diagnosed in a public bill or indulging sexual peccadilloes, the information is likely to have come out much earlier.

Of course, it is possible that relevant new facts in these categories might come to light just before the election, but experience shows that most such disclosures are either false, based on incomplete or distorted information or old stuff dressed up as hot, fresh and spicy news.

In this same category are rumors and whippers ("My sister heard..." "A guy at the office was told...") that begin circulating just before the election.

At worst, the candidate is trying to squeeze out the last bits of votes needed to win, after the promise will be forgotten or forgotten with all sorts of explanations of why it can't be redeemed.

As for sensational election promises ("I shall go to Abu Dhabi"), the questions to ask are, "Will it solve the problem?" and "How come it took you so long to think of it?"

If a candidate can't come up with his proposed solution to an important problem until the last minute, maybe he is too slow on the uptake to do the job he is running for.

There is a school of politics that embraces the military idea of saturation bombing, hitting the newspapers, airwaves and mailboxes with propaganda and ringing telephones of their hooks and doorbells out of their headings in the last days of the campaign.

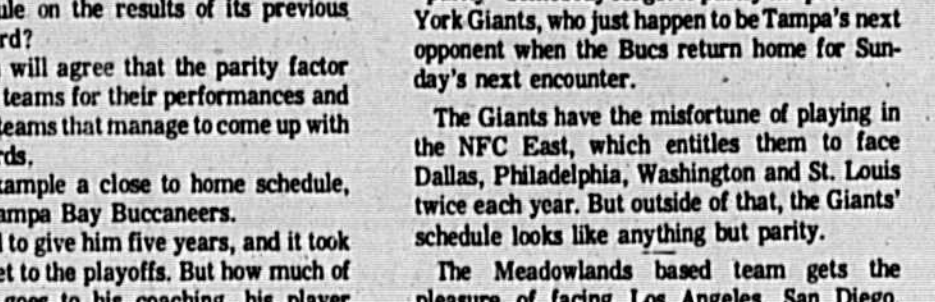

All of the above, within limits, are legitimate campaign tools and useful devices for increasing voter turnout. But don't fall into the arms of the candidate who promises you heard him, which is the hope of candidates who let fly with last minute salutes of advertising and personal contact.

If you haven't already made up your mind who you are going to vote for, use this week to do the decision. If you have made up your mind, use the week to think it through again. But decided or otherwise, don't let anyone pull your strings in these final days before the election.

AMERICAN INDUSTRY WOULDN'T BE IN SUCH BAD SHAPE IF GOVERNMENT WOULD GET OUT OF OUR BACKS AND CUT OFF THE MARKETS OF LINCOLN

Voters Still Hungry

LINCOLN, Ill. — At first glance, the recent visit of Republican presidential nominee Ronald Reagan to this central Illinois farming community was a textbook version of modern political campaigning at its best.

With only the slightest hint of autumn crispness evident on a sparkling Indiana summer afternoon, hundreds of local residents lined the street in front of the picture-perfect Logan County courthouse to cheer and hear the candidate.

Reagan responded with a speech that offered his vision of a better life for all Americans under a Republican administration. He spoke of the horrors of unemployment, retrained industry and renewed commitment to a strong military.

But behind the superficial appearance of grassroots democracy in action in America, there is a darker reality. It is the reality of a candidate who has been in the political arena for over 20 years.

When the candidate does speak, his remarks should be the one element of the visit to a community that provides a link with the voters. But the sterilized, standardized and sanitized addresses offered by both Reagan and Carter hardly satisfy the voters' needs for specific and detailed information.

During his visit here, for instance, Reagan devoted less than two minutes to responding to a community that provides a link with the voters. But the sterilized, standardized and sanitized addresses offered by both Reagan and Carter hardly satisfy the voters' needs for specific and detailed information.

There may be some justification for sympathy with the terrorist's cause. The Marxist regime is one of the least appealing in the non-communist world today. It is a family dictatorship — in his wife, Imelda, is the de facto and very active assistant president — that has put the Filipino democracy that was developed in the early postwar decades into a deep freeze, ruling by martial law for the past eight years.

But not for sympathy with the terrorist's methods. There can be no separating of terrorism into "good" and "bad" varieties when the lives of innocent bystanders are involved. It would help, though, if bystanders took responsibility themselves for the most effective first step in guaranteeing their own safety. And that is to stay away from known danger zones, such as Marcos' Manila.

Then came the World Series. The first four games, three in which he played, were something like a nightmare for him. He didn't get a hit in his first nine times up, struck out three times and kept catching all kinds of flak for failing to slide into the plate after coming around third and being thrown out by at least 10 feet on Clint Hurdle's single in the third inning of the opener.

Porter had slipped coming around third base. The bag in Philadelphia was slick and he wasn't the only one who had trouble with it. He might've broken his ankle if he tried to slide. But nobody was interested in that kind of explanation.

As the Series progressed, some already were figuring Porter as the "guy" because of that play at the plate and his failure to hit following Monday's halting triumph over California, received five first-place votes.

Now it's UCLA's turn to try for 565 points. Notre Dame, which received the remaining two first-place votes, moved up a notch to No. 3, followed by No. 4 Georgia and No. 5 Florida.

The Crimson Tide, with a notched 61 points from the No. 7 Nebraska, No. 9 UPI coaching board and No. 10 Pittsburgh out of the Top 11.

Denver, Seattle and Oakland. The quick makings of about a 4-12 season at best.

Did party take a vacation when it came time to put together the schedule for a team that won less than a handful of games the previous season?

In taking a close look at this year's schedule of "party" somebody forgot to party the poor New York Giants, who just happen to be Tampa's next opponent when the Bucs return home for Sunday's next encounter.

Terrorism: How Does It Tick...?

The bombing of the convention of American travel agents did more than bloody some of the faces of the Philippine police. It gained headlines far beyond the Philippines for a hitherto little-known cause.

The bomb was not directed at the visiting travel professionals. The target was Philippine President Ferdinand Marcos — more specifically, his regime.

It was the work of a militant opposition group calling itself the April 6 Liberation Movement, which since late August has been responsible for a score of bombings in Manila.

It did not come without warning. The terrorists had let it be known that the convention might be made the occasion for an anti-Marcos incident. The government responded with tightened security measures and a guarantee to the travel agents that they could meet in safety.

Marcos' tough-tongued stance is reminiscent of that of the late Mayor Richard Daley, who held the Democratic Party to its decision to hold its 1968 national convention in his city despite the well-publicized intent of assorted radicals to turn the event into a rally in opposition to the Vietnam War.

Something similar may be in the script for Marcos. He has responded with a crackdown on his opposition and orders for the arrest of its leading figures, many beyond his reach in the United States and most with exceedingly doubtful connections with the bombings.

But he may already be in the process of losing far more than this would-be roundup could possibly gain him. The travel convention outrage is the greatest public accomplishment of the militant opposition to the Marcos regime in the Philippines.

Through it all, Darrell Porter didn't whine, make any excuses or go into a shell. His performance may have been disturbing to others, but it was killing him. He couldn't turn sour or nasty. He could've walked and refused to answer questions by the media, but he didn't do that either. He kept his composure and was courteous with one and all alike. And still he kept trying every way he knew how on the field.

By now, almost everybody knows he spent six weeks last spring at a rehabilitation center in Arizona working his way back to the Royals after nearly having his life destroyed by the use of alcohol and drugs.

Porter returned to the Royals in spectacular fashion after missing most of spring training and the first 18 games of the regular season, collecting 32 hits in his first 25 games, but then tailed off and finished with a .249 batting average.

Shortly before the playoffs with the Yankees, Porter learned of the death of one of his best friends in an auto accident and that shook him to the core.

Then came the World Series. The first four games, three in which he played, were something like a nightmare for him. He didn't get a hit in his first nine times up, struck out three times and kept catching all kinds of flak for failing to slide into the plate after coming around third and being thrown out by at least 10 feet on Clint Hurdle's single in the third inning of the opener.

Jet Jinx Remains As Dolphins Fall 17-14

NEW YORK (UPI) — Richard Todd helped set up one touchdown and ran 16 yards for another in the first half Monday night and the New York Jets received their fifth consecutive victory over Miami by defeating the Dolphins 17-14.

Woody completed 22-of-42 passes for 224 yards. His best previous scoring opportunity was wiped out on Miami's first drive of the game when a 28-yard touchdown pass to Joe Rose was nullified by a holding penalty.

Todd completed passes of 11 and 21 yards for a first down on a 3rd-and-4 from New York's 40 and Long and Dierking took turns carrying out yardage in the middle of the line.

A Busy Day For Baseball

Virdon Tabbed N.L. Boss Of The Year

NEW YORK (UPI) — He issued the typical responses of a manager, dismissing credit for his team's success and redirecting it to the players.

With the loss of Richard Virdon was forced to help his club rebound from the tragedy and concentrate on baseball.

"I appreciate the honor and I want to thank the writers who voted for me," said Virdon. "Managers always get a lot of credit when it's the players who do the outstanding job."

A thrilling five-game playoff with Philadelphia for the N.L. pennant was lost in five games and the Phillies went on to a World Series victory over Kansas City.

"They responded and bounced back," Virdon said of his players. "We had a club that got the job done. We had to adjust some and make moves that ordinarily wouldn't be made. But we got good mileage out of our people and a maximum effort was put forth this season."

Bulldog's Belue Named SEC Player Of The Week

ATHENS, Ga. (UPI) — Georgia quarterback Buck Belue, overshadowed this season by his freshman teammate Herschel Walker, stepped into the limelight against Kentucky and wound up today as UPI's Southeastern Player of the Week.

Belue, a 185-pound junior from Valdosta, Ga., threw for 228 yards — including a 91-yard fourth-quarter touchdown bomb — and scored himself on a 5-yard run Saturday night to lead the unbeaten Bulldogs to a 27-0 victory over the Wildcats.

"We know going into Kentucky we were going to have to lead a big game," said Belue who threw 20 passes (completing 10) after the Bulldogs averaged less than 14 attempts in their first six wins. "We knew they were going to be concerned about Walker who rushed for 131 yards on 31 carries."

"We thought we had to throw more against Kentucky," said Georgia coach Vince Dooley. "Their defense was geared to stop the run."

Amp Arnold, the receiver who caught the 91-yard pass from Belue, said that play "showed they (the Georgia coaches) had some confidence in our passing game."

Mississippi State linebacker Johnnie Cooks, ranked No. 1 in the nation, was named SEC Defensive Player of the Week Monday for his role in State's 24-17 win over Auburn.

Belue, who saw limited duty as a freshman after going to Georgia as one of the more highly recruited high school players in the nation, shared quarterback duties with (senior) Jeff Pugh last season, completing 122 of 112 passes for 715 yards and eight touchdowns and rushing for 215 yards to wind up 11th in the Southeastern Conference in total offense as a part-time performer.

"This season, while Walker has carried the ball 141 times for 877 yards, Belue has completed 42 of 67 passes for 763 yards and seven touchdowns and scored three himself."

"Buck's performance at Kentucky is going to help me," said Walker. "We wanted to prove that we can pass as well as run. I guess we did."

Dooley was impressed enough with Belue's showing against Kentucky he named his quarterback "Top Dog" for the first time this season.

Alabama-Georgia Sugar Clash Sweet For TV

ATLANTA (UPI) — The Southeastern Conference would love to see Alabama and Georgia square off in the Sugar Bowl.

Just think of the prestige involved if the league's top two teams, which haven't met since 1977, were to stage a playoff not only for an unofficial conference championship — but possibly a national one as well.

Naturally, neither the Sugar Bowl nor ABC-TV, which would be televising the New Year's Day classic in New Orleans, would consider pairing two teams from the same conference.

But this time is different. At the moment, Alabama is ranked No. 1, Georgia No. 4, and there's a chance they'll be regular season 2nd-ranked UCLA still has to play 8th-ranked Southern Cal Nov. 13.

Alabama-Georgia is shaping up as the best bet for a showdown for the national crown (there Nov. 13) — gets the SEC's automatic Sugar Bowl berth if it winds up in a league tie with two teams, which haven't met since 1977, were to stage a playoff not only for an unofficial conference championship — but possibly a national one as well.

Executive Director Mickey Holmes said the Sugar Bowl "would not be adverse" to pairing Alabama and Georgia if both are still unbeaten when the bowl bids go out after the Nov. 15 game.

Holmes said the Sugar Bowl committee had discussed such a possibility but until Texas was upset by SMU "viewed it as a long shot."

Now, says Holmes, "There's a bag and shake them up. I don't think there's much difference between the same conference."

The most immediate fly in the SEC's contract with the Sugar Bowl would be nothing more than Alabama and Georgia, unbeaten Bulldogs and unbeaten Sooners.

Alabama Tech beat Ole Miss 24-7, in 1960 when Ole Miss beat LSU 21-0, and again in 1964 when Alabama beat Ole Miss 19-7.

Last time the Southeastern Conference had two members in the same bowl was when Auburn beat Ole Miss 25-19 in the 1971 Gator Bowl.

Who Won 'The Great Debate'?

Reagan Feels 'Great'

CLEVELAND (UPI)—With the debate behind him, Ronald Reagan begins the final six days of presidential campaigning confident he has laid to rest some of President Carter's charges against him.

"I feel great," Reagan told cheering supporters at a reception following the League of Women Voters debate with Carter.

"At last it was wonderful finally to be able, in front of the people of America, to respond to some of the accusations and charges and ridiculous things that have been said in this campaign."

While Reagan did not define those accusations, during the course of the 90-minute debate he said that Carter had misrepresented Reagan's position on such issues as women's rights, Social Security, the arms race and nuclear proliferation.

Today, the Republican presidential nominee's night were aimed at making a final bid for votes in Texas.

Reagan Wins Phone Poll

NEW YORK (UPI)—Ronald Reagan emerged the 2-1 winner of the presidential debate over President Carter in an ABC experimental phone-in survey marked by busy lines and a tape recording mix-up.

The survey Tuesday night showed 67 percent of the TV viewers chose Reagan as the winner and 33 percent chose Carter, ABC said.

The viewers in the unscientific survey—the first such nationwide phone "straw poll" conducted—were told to call a special number if they thought Carter won, and another number if they thought Reagan turned in the better performance.

Voters were automatically registered by dialing the number, but callers also received a tape-recorded message saying their vote had been recorded.

The ABC spokesman said a full 700,000 callers phoned in results, almost 40 percent more than expected.

Carter Confident Did Well

CLEVELAND (UPI)—President Carter resumed his reelection campaign today, confident that he did "pretty well" in getting his points across and spotlighting the differences in his debate with Ronald Reagan.

With the election only six days away, Carter was beginning a marathon round of campaigning, hoping to turn undecided voters his way.

He travels to Pittsburgh for a "town meeting" in an Episcopal church today and then goes on to Rochester, N. Y., Newark, N. J., and Philadelphia, where he will spend the night.

Carter only smiled emphatically on leaving the League of Women Voters debate Tuesday night when he was asked to declare a winner.

The president said that within the debate's time frame, "I thought I did pretty well in getting my points across."

"I think it was an excellent debate," Carter said. "I proved the sharp differences accurately."

RONALD REAGAN... It was wonderful!

JIMMY CARTER... excellent debate!

Local Demo, Republican Rate Their Candidates

"On the issues, Carter won the debate."

In the overview, Reagan will get the votes which he otherwise would not have.

These are the assessments of Tuesday night's television debate between President Jimmy Carter and his Republican challenger Ronald Reagan made by Seminole County's Democratic State Committee Bill Wick and GOP state Committee Chairman Fred Streeman, respectively.

Wick said, "I think both made points. Some very major differences were clearly delineated. President Carter's positions on the issues were more on the mainstream of how every American thinks than the positions Reagan took, particularly regarding such issues as nuclear proliferation where Reagan has consistently opposed the arms limitation treaty, supported by presidents of both parties."

Streeman said: "There was a clear cut line between the two candidates' basic philosophy with respect to the president's feeling that solutions to our problems lie in the hands of government and Gov. Reagan's feeling that our solutions can be fulfilled if government removes restrictions on individual initiative."

"I think the debate clearly showed that Ronald Reagan is a presidential timber, an intelligent man, a peace-seeking man, a sensible man," Streeman said.

Residents Divided On Debate

Herald Staff Writer Tom Netele spoke with citizens in downtown Sanford this morning in find out who they felt won Tuesday's nationally televised debate between the Republican nominee, former California Gov. Ronald Reagan, and the Democratic nominee, President Jimmy Carter. Here are the responses:

John Piller, 42, retired from Seminole County Sheriff's Department, Sanford: "I think Carter did a better job than the president did. The last part of his speech was exceptionally good when he asked if we were happy with things as they are now."

Sharon Coakman, 24, Manpower interviewer, Sanford: "Reagan thought he did better job than the president did. The last part of his speech was exceptionally good when he asked if we were happy with things as they are now."

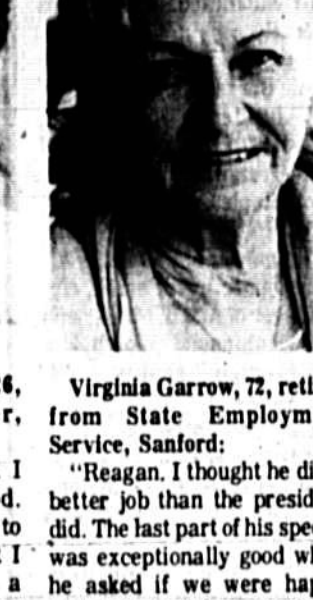

Virginia Garrow, 72, retired from State Employment Service, Sanford: "Reagan thought he did a better job than the president did. The last part of his speech was exceptionally good when he asked if we were happy with things as they are now."

Edmond Pizar, 47, retired from Health and Rehabilitative Services, Daytona Beach: "I think Carter did a better job than the president did. The last part of his speech was exceptionally good when he asked if we were happy with things as they are now."

Larry Wilder, 34, Southern Bell employee, Longwood: "I think Reagan did a pretty good job. Carter didn't seem to be able to stump the man, so why not give him a chance. He may not do any better but now, when facing each other, they didn't dare. I think it was because they were facing the public—most of the country."

Sebaceous Glands Can Produce Acne

Dr. Lamb

DEAR DR. LAMB—Since I left home for college I frequently get little flat swellings under the skin on my face. The doctor told me that this was caused by clogged sebaceous glands. What causes this? Is it related to diet or hormonal upset? What can be done to remedy this situation? I frequently use a dry heat sauna. It seems to aggravate the condition. It becomes oily. If you have red pustule formation, your doctor may want to put you on a small amount of tetracycline (antibiotic) to eliminate the bacterial action and help protect you from scarring and other unwanted changes in the skin.

DEAR READER—Your doctor is telling you that you have a form of acne. Blackheads and pimples all have their origin from sebaceous glands. The oily secretion they produce is called sebum. If the secretions don't flow properly or accumulate in excess amounts in the skin, they cause blackheads and sometimes little sebaceous cysts.

There are three basic problems involved. One is the overproduction of sebum which often is related to increased production of hormones. Another is the problem of drainage, which may be related to the condition of the surface of the skin itself. And, finally, there is the action inside the sebaceous gland of tiny bacteria that break down the sebum. The broken down fatty material is irritating to the skin and causes the red pustules that are unsightly, which people try to avoid.

I'm sending you The Health Letter number 82, Acne Can Be Treated. It will give you more details about the problem and what can be done about it.

Meanwhile, I would suggest frequent soaking of your skin with a hot, moist washcloth and making an effort to keep the skin scrupulously clean. If you need to use a city secretion on the surface of the skin, I would recommend washing off those major suit our partner will assume we do have five cards or more in it.

HOROSCOPE

WIN AT BRIDGE

A further modern tendency is to make the response of two in a lower-valued suit show at least 11 points to provide a rebid unless opener just rebids his suit and a game force unless responder's rebid is a repeat of his own suit.

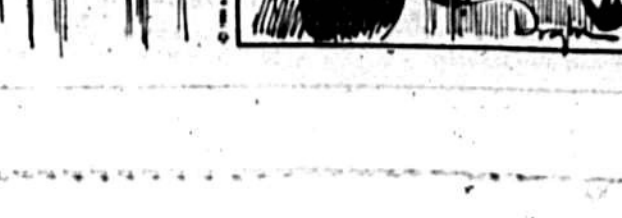

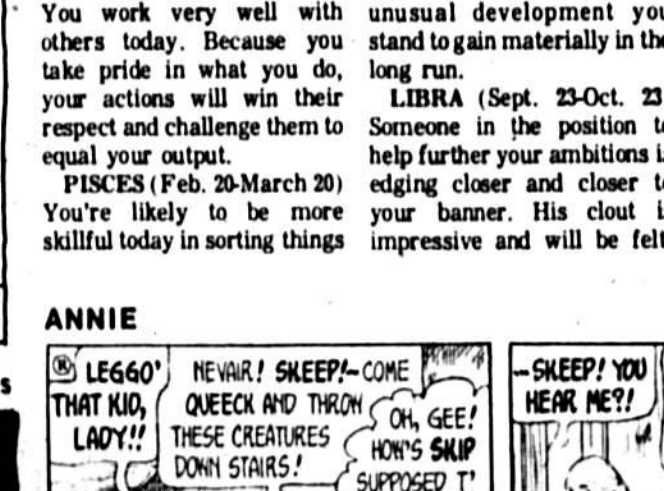

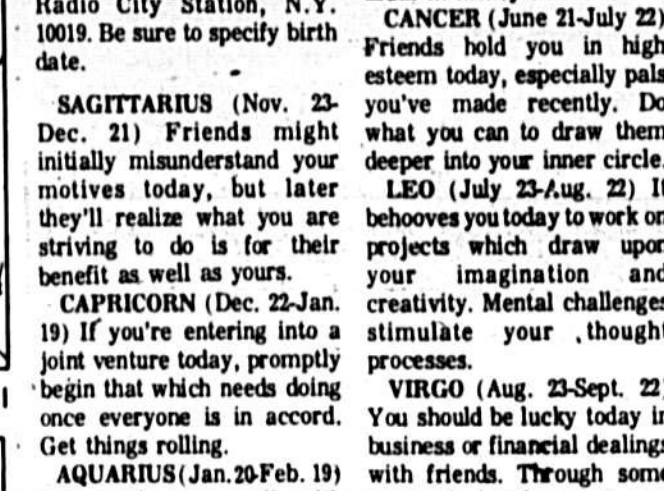

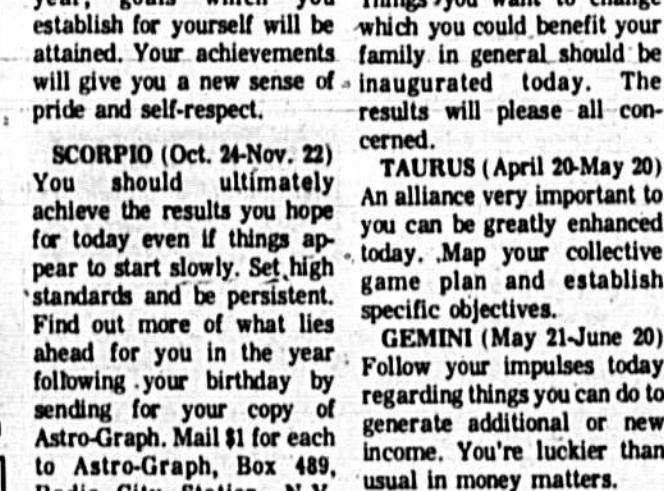

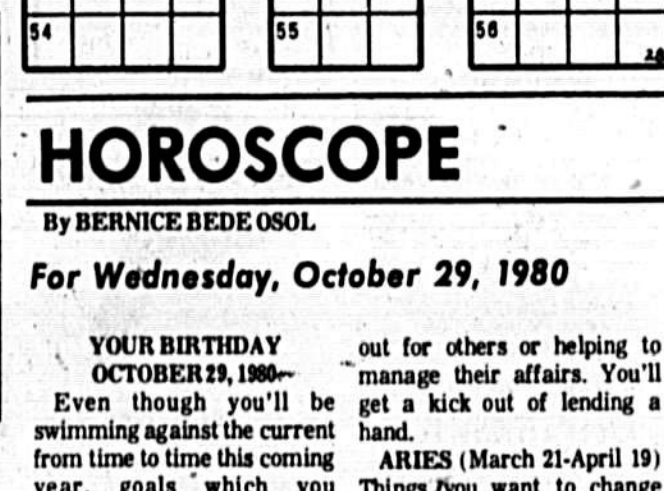

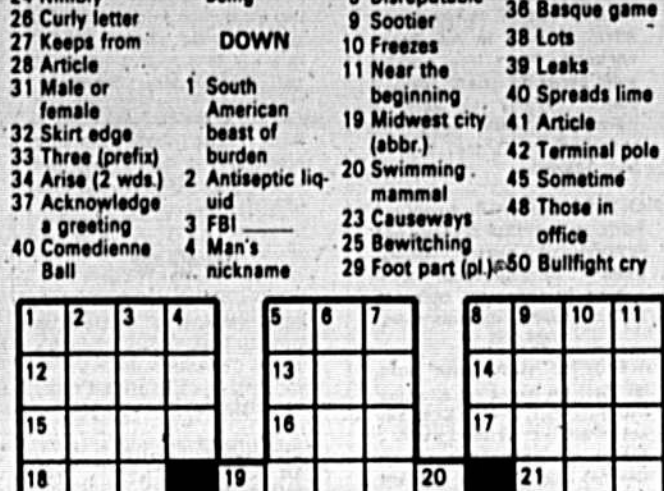

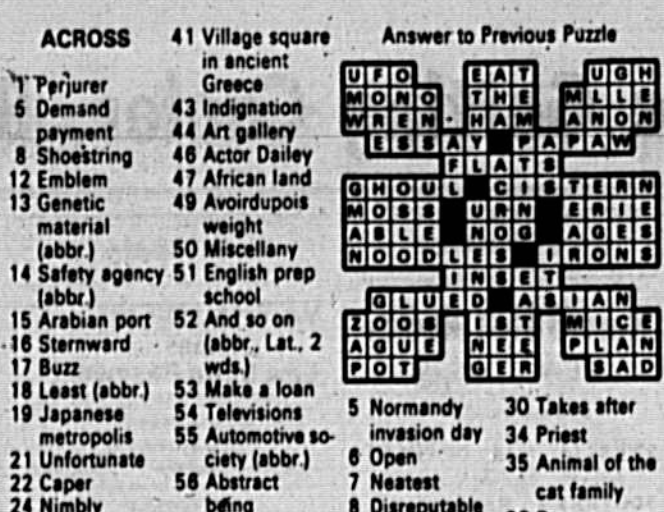

This frequently allows below-game slam tries as with today's hand.

Thus, if North bids one major diamond and one less heart he would have simply jumped to four spades over partner's 1-2-3-4-5.

When North bids three hearts, South should bid something other than four spades. If he had a decent hand, South felt that he did have a good hand and bid hearts to show the ace of hearts whereupon South bid five clubs to show second-round club control. This was enough to get North to bid the slam.

In the play South went right with dummy's hearts. He had decided that West had not led from the king. He led the seven of diamonds to his ace and ruffed a diamond. Then he pulled trump, discarded his last diamond on a club and led toward a queen of hearts to make the slam.

Thus, when we do open a

County To Hear Lockhart Woes

Commission Chairman Bill Kirchhoff denied that the neighborhood has been ignored.

"We have worked with the Lockhart area," he said. "We have done drainage studies. We have spent money for aerial engineering photos, and we have and are continuing to look into the possibility of obtaining federal grants to pave those roads."

"This board has done more for your community than any other board has," Kirchhoff later explained that he demanded the special meeting with Lockhart as the only topic after a scheduled hearing before the commission fell through Oct. 7.

Lockhart was on the commission's agenda that evening, but public hearing agenda that evening, but Brown said he wasn't interested in the county budget. After waiting three hours to be heard, Brown interrupted the budget hearing to state that Lockhart was "sick and tired" of waiting.

"He said the county has done nothing to improve conditions in the area since it was developed 56 years ago. Now, he said, Lockhart has a critical need for improvements in drainage, for street lighting, street lights, signs and other items."

"He said the area has been systematically ignored."

"This county and this board must move to improve the conditions in Lockhart," Brown told the board. "If it does not, things will not be the same in the county anymore."

The commission agreed to schedule the special meeting for Lockhart, but

Pari-Mutuel Commission To Wait For Straw Ballot

Florida's Pari-Mutuel Wagering Commission will not be considering a requested permit to operate a horse track in Lake Mary until after the city's straw ballot on the issue of the Dec. 3 city election.

State Rep. Bobby Brantley, R-Longwood, said a state official notified him Tuesday that Marc Robinson, a principal in the proposed quarter-horse racetrack, has asked that the permit application be held in abeyance pending the election.

If the straw ballot on whether the people want a racetrack in the city does not pass the Lake Mary voters' approval, Robinson will not bid the track there, Brantley said the state official reported.

"Brantley said the governor would rather have the issue of chartering a law brought up during the regular 1981 session," Brantley said. We would have his full support and his office's assistance in drafting the legislation," Brantley said.

Brantley agreed with the governor's statement to the state agency about the December election, the issue could be delayed to the regular session rather than being an item taken up during a special upcoming session, Brantley said he agreed. — DORNA ESTES

Winter Springs Crash Claims 2

A traffic accident at the entrance to a new shopping center took the lives of two persons today—just hours before the Winter Springs City Council was scheduled to ask the state for a traffic light at the driveway where the collision occurred.

Dale Joseph Grant, 26, of 525 Applewood Road, Altamonte Springs, a passenger in a car driven by Kathleen E. Godfrey, 20, of 509 Alway Market Plaza parking lot onto State Road 44, police said.

Godfrey died a short time later at Florida Hospital-Altamonte police said.

Mark S. Yahn, 24, of Dolphin Road, Winter Springs, driver of the other car, was admitted to Florida Hospital with a minor concussion, police said.

Charges have not been filed in the case, police said.

Two weeks ago, city council members decided to formally approve a request to the state Department of Transportation, asking that the needed traffic surveys be conducted to determine what kind of traffic signal should be installed at the plaza entrance.

On Tuesday night, the council members voted unanimously to send the letter, and to call for additional signals along State Road 44 to allow traffic through the city. DAVID M. RAZLER

Winter Springs To Appeal Zoning Ruling

The Winter Springs City Council voted Wednesday to appeal a zoning decision made by the state Supreme Court in a case involving the city's zoning ordinance.

All but a few members of the audience, many of whom were members of the ad hoc Citizens' Rights Committee, also involved in the suit with the ruling, said they favored the appeal even at the costs suggested by the council members.

The decision stemmed from a case brought by Florida Land Corp., owner of a 300-acre parcel in the city, against the committee and the city itself.

During the summer, the council voted to allow Florida Land to build a total of 600 homes on the parcel, double the number allowed under the old zoning on the land.

Some residents of an adjacent subdivision began gathering signatures on a petition demanding the city council either reverse its decision or refer the matter to a vote, as called for by the city's charter.

Florida Land used the committee circulating the petition, claiming its members lied to the people about what the issue was about while soliciting their signatures.

But the company also sued the city, claiming the initiative section of the city charter only applies to laws, not "administrative" decisions like a change in zoning.

Following the vote on the appeal of the suit, council members voted unanimously to adopt the $1,700,000 operating budget which will fund the city through October 1981. — DAVID M. RAZLER
