NORTH CAROLINA MAY RATIFY WOMAN SUFFRAGE IN DEMOCRATIC CONVENT'N

Representative and Senator Flay Republican Party

ENTER CONSPIRACY

TO DISCREDIT DEMOCRATIC PARTY WITH ALL PARTY LINES OBLITERATED.

Raleigh, N. S. April 9.—In the keynote speech on state issues before the North Carolina Democratic State convention here, Representative Clyde R. Hoey, of the 10th congressional district, temporary chairman in the administration of the state's affairs, advocated passage at the special session of the assembly of the constitutional amendment granting full suffrage to women and declared the democrats bodily accepted the challenge of the republicans, predicting that in the November election "the republicans will be buried under an avalanche of ballots from which there will be no political resurrection in North Carolina."

"The democracy of North Carolina," declared Mr. Hoey, "welcomes the splendid womanhood of the state to share fully the duties and responsibilities of government, and I hope to see our general assembly at its special session ratify the suffrage amendment. Such action will serve the two-fold purpose of granting simple, though delayed justice to our women, and exercising for ourselves the privilege of conferring the right of full suffrage upon our women. Everybody can support that proposition. Those of us who believe in suffrage for women can vote for it upon that ground, and those who are opposed to it can support it because they are going to have it any way and it would be much more gracious for it to come by the vote of the men of our own state."

Woman suffrage is expected to furnish the principal feature at the convention which is meeting for the purpose of adopting a platform and the electing of four delegates from the state at large to the national convention at San Francisco.

Women who were elected delegates from several counties are her to participate in the convention for the first time. While there are a number of delegations with instructions to oppose any endorsement of woman suffrage by the convention, party leaders do not believe a fight will result over the seating of the woman delegates.

Assailing the republican party of North Carolina and of the nation Sen. Lee S. Overman, addressing the democratic state convention today, declared the republicans, "hoping to win the next election by discrediting the great head of the democratic party, have entered into a conspiracy of abuse and slander of the vilest and most inhuman kind against the president of the United States," Sen. Overman declared he believed the American people would resent at the ballot box "this unjust propaganda of slander." Sen. Overman charged that the highway of the republican party in the nation was strewn with a wreck of broken pledges and unperformed promises.

After summing up the achievements of the democratic party Sen. Overman said:

"We hear no more of the empty dinner pail; we hear no more of the incompetency of the democratic party to run the government; we have made a great record; we have kept the faith; we have fulfilled our promises and brought happiness and prosperity to a hundred million people. The democratic party is worthy of enthusiastic confidence and support. Let us have in November the greatest victory in our history."

NEGROES CAUSE ROW IN LABOR CONVENTION

Four Delegations Walk Out Of The Hall

St. Augustine, April 7.—Because the State Federation of Labor conference in annual discussion running over two days, voted to seat two negro delegates sent by white organizations of Jacksonville, the Miami delegation withdrew from the conference and was followed by the St. Augustine, West Palm Beach, and St. Petersburg delegates. The question was first raised Monday when Miami moved the credentials of two negro delegates be returned to them, and the matter had been subject of discussion during most of business sessions since then, except for the set speeches on the program.

"We have accomplished no business said a member of one of the insurgent delegations this afternoon, "and the convention is split up. Jacksonville now probably will get the next meeting place, elect all the officers and have things her own way because the entire east coast and St. Petersburg is out of the convention though we have not withdrawn from the federation. Shortly after that statement was made, however, the negroes fearing serious trouble, with drew and the insurgent delegation returned to the convention.

WILL ATTEND LECTURE

Sanford High School Seniors Invited
To Burton Lecture At Rollins

Principal Ogilvie has recently received a letter from the Advisory Board of Rollins College, of which Irving Bacheller, the author, is chairman, inviting the seniors of the Sanford High School to attend the lecture given in Knowles Hall, Winter Park, next Friday evening at eight o'clock by Dr. Richard Burton, celebrated author and playwright.

Of all the speakers on the subject of literature and the drama, Richard Burton, by reason of his deep study, wide experience as a professor and editor, and sympathetic attitude toward human nature, is one of the most sought after. With his work at the University of Minnesota, where he is head of the English Department his time for outside engagements has, however, been limited, but arrangements have been completed through Irving Bacheller, who is a personal friend of Dr. Burton's whereby he will deliver two lectures at Rollins College, one Thursday evening and one Friday evening and the seniors of Sanford for Friday evening, the latter evening being thought better for the local young people as there would be no lessons to prepare for the following day. Dr. Burton's subjects are, "The Drama of Today" and "The Return of Dickens". Dr. Burton is a successful author and playwright, and was formerly president of the Drama League of America. For this reason he is frequently requested to lecture on the theatre, with what success those who have heard him will testify. He is equally at home, whether on literature or the drama, and has a reputation as one of the most interesting lecturers on the American platform.

While in Winter Park Dr. Burton will be the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Irving Bacheller at their home in New England Avenue.

WILL BULID LINK

State Road Department Will Help Orange County

By an agreement reached with the County Commissioners, the State Road Department and residents of Tangerine, the road connecting the Lake County line with the paved road at Plymouth, will be hard surfaced at the earliest possible date.

The reaching of this agreement comes after months of controversy between all three parties, because of the rightaway going through valuable grove property. However, those most interested in the matter met with the commissioners yesterday and the differences were ironed out, with the result that Orlando will in time be connected with that part of the Dixie Highway leading to the northwest part of the State and into the north through Georgia.

The completion of this road, and several other stretches which have been practically cared for in the northern portion of the State, will do more to turn automobile traffic Orlando than anything which has yet been accomplished, as with the completion of the road through Kissimmee to Melbourne most of the auto traffic coming south as well as that going north will take this route. It also gives a much better route to Tampa in view of the completion of the roads south of here. The new road will be 16 feet in width and cost approximately $300,000. — Reporter Star.

MEMBER OF THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Have you registered?

And you if have or if you are exempt pay your poll tax.

You should vote your convictions at this election or hold your peace.

Forest Lake goes to the bat this time with his county solid behind him rooting for him and he will win the game.

Sanford has many big things in store and we should all join the Board of Trade and get in line for the summer's boosting. We want more accommodations and more people.

The people are importuning the Herald to continue the Daily for the summer and the management would like to continue but the people do not realize what a struggle we have had this winter with the power off and the lights and the gas and other handicaps. And we can have no assurance of better service until next fall.

The growers are kicking about the poor icing facilities and they have been kicking for ten years about the same thing. The Herald told them ten years ago to build their own ice plant and they have lost enough since that time for the lack of ice to have built several ice plants. This is something that would bear investigation and if the farmers intend to get service it is their only hope. A little money spent in something that is really needed in their business would go a long way toward stabilizing the growing of winter vegetables.

THIS MEANS YOU

Have you registered? That is the all important thing, right now, if you are otherwise eligible to vote, have you registered?

In the cities of twenty thousand or more, everyone must register for the primary election, every two years. This is the year to register. Have you registered?

If you have not, you will be debarred from voting at the primary, unless you attend to that duty before the night of Friday, April 30.

The coming primary will be one of the most important elections held in Florida, for many years. More is at stake now, than for any time in the past decade.

The man who by negligence or willfulness disfranchises himself, does his state and his community a distinct damage.

Have you neglected to pay your poll tax and have you failed to register?

If you have not paid the poll tax legally due, do it today.

If you have not registered, step into the supervisor's office today and register.

Don't put it off. You have only nineteen working days in which to do your duty with respect to registering. If you do it, today, it will be off your mind.

If you do not do it today, somebody is going to come around and ask you to be a sure-enough American citizen and prove that you are one by registering.

Register, today, and when you have registered, step over to your neighbor's and ask him if he registered? And see that he does it.

WOMEN AND WOMEN

Where will the emancipation of women end?

The ratification of woman's suffrage by the West Virginia legislature leaves only two more states to be brought into line when the impossible will have been accomplished. For only a few years ago women's suffrage was considered a chimera of the dreamers, the cheese at the end of the rainbow, and even the mere idea was laughed to scorn.

A hundred years ago woman was the ornament of the home, cherished and revered as a delicate personality to be petted and protected from all of the seamy side of life.

Today she is life itself—a potent factor in every phase of existence—a power domestically, spiritually, socially, commercially and politically.

She is a banker, a lawyer, a doctor, a merchant, a farmer, an artisan, a war worker, a peacher and a politician. If there are any other masculine fields for her to invade be sure she will soon be in them—and making good.

She no longer trembles at the dreaded displeasure of man, but in a few succinct words permits him to understand that she is always willing to listen to advice, but that her will is her own and will be exercised as she deems best. Her attitude of meek and gentle obedience has vanished.

In many cases we find the wife the full partner of the husband in business affairs, and such partnerships are invariably successful. As an established fact, women have invaded nearly every field of labor heretofore held sacred to man, and universal success has crowned her efforts.

The feminine mind has broadened and developed until it has become a wonder of the age. Her metamorphosis is a marvel.

A noted physician has even predicted that the day is coming when women will become the dominant factor in American life, and that man will be reduced to a status of secondary consideration.

This may or may not be true. But of one thing we are certain—woman has attained a pinnacle in public life which commands respect and consideration and the man who ignores her potentiality will inevitably come to grief.

The power of our new womanhood is great even now.

But what will it be a hundred years hence?

DON'T KILL THE BIRD, THE FARMER'S FRIENDS

Give a young American a gun and he instantly becomes possessed of the desire to kill something. He sallies forth into the fields and woods, and every bird that comes within range becomes a possible target. It is a perfectly natural sentiment and the boy is not to blame. The parents are blamable in that they do not instruct him in the proper use of the weapon. They are blamable for not telling him that the birds are God's creatures placed here on earth to add to the pleasure and enjoyment of man; that they serve man in many useful ways, notably by keeping down insect life, which, without them, would destroy the crops of the farmers and add materially to the cost of living. The farmer's life is one long fight against destructive insects and vermin, and without the aid of the birds it would be a losing fight. He does not realize how much he owes to these little feathered flyers, but let them once attack his young corn, or make a raid in numbers on his berry patch and he learns their destructive power.

And yet they are only getting a part of their pay for the gigantic debt which he owes them. The Kansas Horticultural society has been making some investigations into the magnitude of man's debt to the birds, and the result is enlightening to say the least. In that one state, 256 million birds, eat every year enough insects to fill 480 trains of 50 cars each—25,000 cars of 24,000 pounds each. Every year the birds of Kansas eat 576 million pounds of insects. Each bird eats an average of 100 insects a day. Imagine the damage that would result if all these birds were destroyed over night. It would not be many moons before man's very existence on this earth would be impossible. All the sprays and poisons that he could possibly devise would not free him from the destroying insects. His crops would disappear as though his fields were swept by fire.

And prowling cats and vagrant dogs, and small boys armed with guns and sling shots are waging against these benefactors of humanity. And men kill such insect destroyers as a quail for the mere sport of killing, and train dogs to assist them in the slaughter. In diminished crops the wheat farmers of the United States are losing 100 million dollars a year by the destruction of the quail.

Quails eat chinch bugs and potato bugs.

Says the Kansas society: "If the destruction of birds goes on, in a comparatively few years insect life will have multiplied to such an extent that the trees will be deprived of their foliage, plants will cease to thrive, and agricultural crops cannot be raised. 'Don't kill the birds. They are the farmer's best friends.'—Tampa Times.

OWNING YOUR APARTMENT

The Washington Times of April 5 says: "The co-operative ownership of apartments idea presented to Washington through the Times two weeks ago, has met with an enthusiastic reception. The Allen E. Walker Company, first to offer the plan in concrete form to Washington tenants sold one entire apartment building during the first week of the plan's operation, and reports a rapidly enlarging waiting list for other buildings. (The picture shown as the building sold, is a seven-story brick with stone trimmings, located on one of the most popular residence streets in the northwest section of the city.)

The plan met with success because it fills a need. There is not a renter who would not gladly be his own landlord if conditions were such that he could be, and there is no doubt the plan will soon be tried out in Tampa and will meet with the same success it met in Washington.

In practical operation the plan is this: A group of people who want to occupy a certain apartment house form a company and purchase the building. They each pay a pro rata share of the initial payment required in the purchase and establish a scale of rents sufficiently high to meet the deferred payments on the mortgage and to provide for the maintenance and care of the building. The care and management of the apartment building, with the duty of collecting the rents, is then entrusted to their agent.

The Washington Times gives "$1,000 per room" as the cost, on which basis the sale of the first apartment building there was made to the co-operative owners of it. This means that a ten-apartment house of four rooms to the apartment (the average size demanded) would cost $40,000. The Times figures that putting $10,000 cash into the building when it is bought, the carrying charges on the balance would amount to $3,000, approximately, per year, of $25 a month for a four-room apartment, and that when the building is paid for, $10 per month per tenant would provide amply for the overhead and carrying charges.

Bringing "the pride of ownership" to the apartment dweller is something that should result in immediate favor in this and many other cities.—Tampa Tribune.

Britons Eat Less Meat

Englishmen used to be considered the greatest meat eaters in the world. Now, declares the Society of Meat Importers (London), the average Englishman eats 33 per cent less meat than he did before the war. Unless he can be induced to eat more of it the country will be faced with such a glut of meat as it has never had before, a London dispatch says.

The annual consumption of meat in the United Kingdom before the war was about 1,800,000 tons, say the importers. It is now only 1,200,000 tons. And this, they contend, is due entirely to the high cost still maintained. Englishmen and Englishwomen, too, are just as fond of meat as ever, but they cannot afford to eat as much of it as they used to.

Use for Helgoland.

The Royal Society for the Protection of Birds in England and the Permanent Wild Life Protective Fund of the United States join in suggesting that Helgoland be made a reservation for the birds that migrate along the coast of Europe. The island is less than one-fifth of a mile square, but it is directly in the path of migratory birds, and when Germany has removed the fortifications and other military establishments the birds will probably use it.

Why Horses Are Diminishing.

An authority attributes the diminution in number of horses to the impossibility of horse prices keeping pace with the prices of wheat, corn, pork, beef and mutton, and therefore the farmer neglects horse breeding for something more profitable. But what are we going to do for work stock five or ten years from now? he asks.

Indians and Japanese.

Professor Mena, Mexican scientist, went to Tehuacan in 1903 to investigate a story that in small towns near by Chinese talked in their own tongue to the Indians and were perfectly understood. He found the legend false. Japanese scholars visiting the Mexican museum have been surprised to find articles used by the Indians exactly the same as those used by Japanese peasants.

VICTIM OF FATE'S HARSHNESS

Sad Story of Luther K. Linkenhooper Would Move Almost Any One to Tears.

"As I was coming to town just now," said the motorist. "I saw a peculiar sight; a thin, wild-eyed man, clad in a red-and-blue bedquilt, perched in a treetop and every now and then crying 'Honk! Honk!' to the unbridled glee of a gang of men and boys assembled below."

"That was Luther K. Linkenhooper, by the symptoms," replied the landlord of the tavern at Grudge. "He accumulated three second-hand Hootin' Nanny cars; one he traded for, one his brother-in-law wished onto him and one was left him by will. None of them were of any account, and so he set to work to take 'em all apart and make one good one out of the three. The task was too much for his mind, and after he had made about five from the ruins of the three and still had a lot of stuff left, and none of 'em would move a muscle, he began to chatter, then to yell, and finally took to his bed a-jibbering. Once in a while he escapes from his relatives and gets out and cuts some such caper as you saw. He thinks he is a Hootin' Nanny himself."

"But, great guns! Even a car of the name you mention does not wear a bedquilt and climb trees!"

"Mebby not. But it would if it was as crazy as Luther is."—Kansas City Star.

PRIZE CAST-OFF CLOTHING

Peculiar Whim of "Fashion" in Virgin Islands Puzzling to United States Marines.

United States marines garrisoning these new possessions of Uncle Sam can't understand the fashions affected by the natives, writes a St. Thomas (Virgin Islands) correspondent. Just why a negro or Cha-Cha Indian should wear an overcoat when the thermometer stands 100 in the shade still mystifies the "sea soldiers."

Many of the marines down here have seen service in the neighboring island of Haiti, where clothes are the least consideration of the natives. But as soon as the new arrival reaches these shores he is chased-off by natives begging for his cast-off clothing.

For some strange reason the native Virgin Islander believes in wearing every article of clothing he can lay hands on. All American holidays are now celebrated by the natives, who spend the day parading about the streets, some of them wearing overcoats, capes, two or more pairs of trousers and a red bandana handkerchief about the neck. Also they frequently adorn themselves with the horns of cows or oxen attached to the head just in front of the ears.

Immortal "Mermald."

She was a "famous woman," because she was a "famous" inn that served "famous" men. That was enough for the Mermald. She was named after an enchanting lady of the vast deep, who is a woman to her gridle and a fish to her feet. Her figure was on the signboard of the famous inn, in Friday street, London. Pass with hasty glance the bar in front—the parlor behind of the blackened roof and polished tables—tap-room on the left—low doorways, winding passages—and you have come to the inn parlor. This is the Mermald! And the men sitting there? Ben Jonson, Fletcher, Beaumont, Carew, Donne and—Shakespeare. Shakespeare is roaring over his dog's nose, and Ben Jonson over his canary, Oh, listen to the wit-combats between Shakespeare and Ben Jonson! Mermald, dear "famous woman," why were you not a twin?

Varying Colors of Diamonds.

Each of the five mines owned and worked by the great De Beers company in the Kimberley district produces diamonds with well-marked characteristics. The rich Kimberley mine yields a good percentage of white and many yellow stones. Dutoitspan mine is famed for its large yellow diamonds. At Bultfontein small white and spotted stones are common. From the Wessleton mine come many beautiful deep orange-colored diamonds, while the De Beers mine shows a good percentage of tinted yellow and brown stones. The Premier mine (Transvaal) yields a large number of "off-colored" stones. The Cullinan diamond was of exceptional purity. From the Jagersfontein mine in the Orange Free State the famous bluish-white stones are derived. The diamonds found in Gervan Southwest Africa are small and yellowish in color.

Win Fight on Yellow Fever.

In 1916 the Rockefeller foundation sent a sanitary commission to Ecuador for the purpose of arranging with the Ecuadorian government to take the responsibility of eradicating yellow fever from Guayaquil. The proposal was accepted June 10, 1918, when a celebrated bacteriologist arrived and began his work. He succeeded in discovering the germ which causes yellow fever, his investigations promising to produce not only a preventive, but also a cure for this malady.

The "Lower Calling."

The Principal—Miss Brown, I wish you would give up this idea of marriage. The training of children is a far higher calling than the mere bearing of them.

The Teacher—Yes, Miss Matthews; but if it weren't for those of the lower calling, whom would you have to train?—Life.

Remarkable Flight of Pigeon.
A homing pigeon bearing the name of Ben Holt was announced as having established a new long-distance flight record of 2,200 miles in the summer of 1915, from Norwalk, Ohio, to Los Angeles, Cal. The bird made the trip in five days nine hours and thirty-one minutes, arriving at Los Angeles August 30.

Character Revelation.
Not merely speeches prepared, orations delivered, sermons preached, but what a man says and how he says it to his neighbors, friend, to his acquaintance or customer, to his father or mother, his wife or child across the breakfast table; this is what counts, for it reveals him off his guard and taken unawares, not as he would wish to be, not even as he would wish to be thought to be, but as he actually is, and it marks him with an indelible mark.—Exchange.

Helgoland Legends.
Helgoland's great staircase had mounted to the rocky heights had fairies lurking above it, according to legend. In the eighteenth century, when a baby was born, its feet were buttered promptly so the child would slip through the fingers of a fairy who might try to exchange it for the fairy's babe.

Scottish Center of Industry.
Dundee ranks as one of the leading industrial and commercial centers in northeastern and central Scotland. The district of Dundee is the center of the jute industry in the United Kingdom and practically all the raw jute imported into the country, which averages 1,200,000 bales annually, is consumed there. It is the staple industry of Dundee and employs normally about 35,000 workers.

As Is A Life Preserver To a Man in A Wreck So Is A Fire Insurance Policy

And Resultant Check to the man who has a fire. It should be remembered, however, that it is just as essential that the policy be in force at the time of the fire, as that the life preserver should be strapped around the man when he is thrown into the sea.
