GOV. ASKEW

Askew, Wife In Sanford March 6

Gov. Reubin and Mrs. Askew will fly to Sanford on March 6 to honor the Salvation Army's capital funds campaign workers. The next morning, Sanford's own Donna Lou Askew will be the honored participant in groundbreaking ceremonies at the site of the new community center made possible by the support of the drive for funds. Civic leaders will head what is expected to be a huge crowd of local admirers of the chief executive as he and Mrs. Askew arrive at 3:30 p.m. at the Sanford Airport. The Governor will address the annual banquet of the Salvation Army at the Holiday Inn the night he arrives. At 11 a.m. on March 7 at 24th Street and

Holly Avenue Mrs. Askew will join local civic leaders in a "gold" shovel groundbreaking. The trio of functions culminate a long drive for funds to build a new headquarters building for the Red Shield welfare and religious organization. For 43 years it has carried on its work from the antiquated building at 214 E. Second Street. Gov. Askew voiced an eagerness to pay tribute to the success of the financial drive, but more especially to "recognize this splendid organization that with dedication so effectively carries on the work of God as it is interpreted in service to the brotherhood of man." Because of Mrs. Askew's former residence here, the chief executive has been aware of the pitiful facilities from which so much helplessness has been extended to the needy. Community leaders as well as the membership of the Salvation Army will be recognized for their efforts to acquire the new building and community center. While other commitments will necessitate Gov. Askew's departure before the scheduled groundbreaking, Mrs. Askew expressed eagerness to take part. Mrs. W. V. Roberts, chairman of the advisory board said that she was "delighted beyond expression" that the Governor and Donna Lou would make time in their crowded schedules to come here "not to be honored, but to honor those who are giving so unselfishly to this worthy endeavor."

Toxic Mushroom Recall Expanded

WASHINGTON (AP)—United Canning Corp. has expanded the recall of its canned mushrooms because a botulism toxin was found in one lot. The Food and Drug Administration Sunday said the recall now includes all large institutional-size cans—which are not ordinarily sold for home use—produced by the company at its East Palestine, Ohio, plant since Sept. 4, 1972.

Botulism is a food poisoning. The toxin involved is relatively low in potency and identified easily by a strong smell, the FDA said. The products involved in the recall have not been implicated in any known injury to consumers, the agency said. Two previous recalls were announced after a Type B botulism toxin was found in two lots. The products involved in the expanded recall can be identified by the character code: upside down T, H2S4. The recall expansion involves 42 lots of No. 10 size cans. United started recalling 20 lots on Feb. 17. A lot or code represents a day's pack and usually contains 1,500 to 2,000 cans, the FDA said. The FDA said United found swollen cans in its plant Feb. 15. The company had changed its equipment recently, the spokesman said, but the precise cause of the undercooking that would cause contamination has not been determined.

Rogers Wants Conference To Insure Vietnam Peace

By MICHAEL GOLDSMITH Associated Press Writer
PARIS (AP)—Secretary of State William P. Rogers called on an international conference on Vietnam today to set up simple machinery to make certain peace there does not fall into jeopardy. Canada expressed its displeasure at the present system and threatened to pull out of the peacekeeping commission in South Vietnam. Rogers suggested to the opening session of the conference that it should establish a simple link with the peacekeepers in the field and that if six or more of the parties meeting here find that peace is in danger then the conference "had the right and responsibility to reconvene."

Canada officially informed the conference that it will quit the four-party peace supervisory commission in Vietnam by April 30 unless an international authority is established to deal with cease-fire violations. This stand put forth by Foreign Secretary Mitchell Sharp was supported in principle at a meeting here during the 2-hour session. U.S. officials said the method for setting up an authority to deal with peace violations is open to negotiation. "However," Rogers said, "a simple mechanism for reconvening must exist."

It is obvious, the Secretary continued, that the parties have a responsibility in the event of violations which threaten the peace, independence or right of self-determination of the Vietnamese people. This is both a joint and individual responsibility, he said, which means all participants should consult with each other on a regular basis concerning the agreement. Rogers said there should be some link between the conference members and the four parties manning the International Commission of Control and Supervision—Poland, Hungary, Indonesia and Canada.

Such a relationship would permit the conference to keep track of important developments, Rogers added. Sharp proposed that U.S. Secretary-General Kurt Waldheim, who is attending the conference, be empowered to receive reports of cease-fire violations and reconvene the conference if he thought this necessary.

He stressed that the individual members of the International Commission of Control and Supervision board, that he should resign.

But Laver said today he had submitted his resignation and the Feb. 12 meeting was the first time there was any indication the commission was unhappy with his work.

"Williams beat around the bush in the discussion," Laver said, "and Kimborough said you can assume these are the feelings of the majority of the commissioners."

Kimborough and Williams, when contacted today by the Herald, freely admitted the meeting with Laver was held without notice to the public.

"There are no scheduled meetings of the personnel board," Kimborough said, "I had to see personnel matters in print," he said, but admitted the function is public business.

Williams said he was "very careful not to violate it," he said. "Actually," Williams said, "The entire county commission has been considering and talking about the administrative assistant's duties and responsibility."

"We generally concurred the administrative assistant's job was to be a part of an area as dynamic and growing as Sanford," he says.

Sharp told the other 11 foreign ministers and Waldheim. "But we should not be asked to watch in silence a resumption of hostilities, nor to accept direct responsibility for all the consequences that could ensue if we felt duty-bound to report to the world that the agreement had been seriously breached."

Despite Sharp's efforts to put forth the agreement signed in Paris Jan. 27, the conference was expected to settle for a big power pledge to let the Vietnamese people settle their problems without outside interference.

"My government is well aware of the problems that could create, and would, in practice, do whatever it could to avoid that situation arising," Sharp added that Canada may pull out of the commission

Identity Of Body Disclosed
By GARY TAYLOR

Sheriff John Polk today said a man whose body was found Feb. 19 in the agreement signed in Paris Jan. 27, the conference was expected to settle for a big power pledge to let the Vietnamese people settle their problems without outside interference.

This is the first unavowed murder in Seminole County since 1968. Sheriff John Polk at the annual Valentine charity ball Saturday night at the Civic Center. Proceeds from the king and queen contests will benefit the Little Red School House.

Authorities said dozens of people have viewed the body since the day after it was found, and several hundred phone calls have come into the department, but no one was able to shed any light on the identity of the man.

But Laver said today he had submitted his resignation and the Feb. 12 meeting was the first time there was any indication the commission was unhappy with his work.

Sure hope that they don't find anything wrong with pizza... have already decided that "no more mushrooms" on the good stuff when I order it in the future. (Let's see... maybe just a smidgen of pepperoni, or ham, or ham... but, leave the fish off, O.K.)

Got a new hero... Forrest Fedler. He didn't "choke" on that four-footer yesterday... all he did was prove he's human and in the process picked up a heck-of-a-lot of weekend dollars as his admirers. (I miss from 12 inches.)

The kind of publicity you just can't buy... a woman called and wanted us to let everyone else know what kind of folks there are at F&L. Seems there was a cat stuck up in a tree in front of her house (not hers), and this woman called the police and fire departments... just about everyone she could think of and no one responded. That is until she called the utility folks—who were there in short order and rescued the animal.

Kinda makes you feel good to read about things like that occasionally doesn't it?

North Vietnamese Delay Tuesday's POW Release

By GEORGE ESPER Associated Press Writer
SAIGON (AP) — A North Vietnamese spokesman said today that no American prisoners of war will be released on Tuesday, but U.S. officials were hopeful of last-minute word from Hanoi announcing about 140 more POWs would be handed over.

"There will definitely not be any POW releases Tuesday," the chief North Vietnamese spokesman in Saigon, Bui Tin, told newsmen. He added that the list of the next prisoners to be turned over also would not be delivered today. He said word was expected soon from Hanoi, but he did not know when it would come.

Tin said the senior members of the Joint Military Commission would take up the POW issue at their next regular meeting Wednesday, indicating he expected no transfer of POWs before Thursday.

But a U.S. official told newsmen there was still a "distinct possibility" of about 140 Americans being released on Tuesday, "the last day of the second increment."

"That's what happened the first time," he said. "We're short to go into action within short notice as soon as we get the specifics of when and where."

North Vietnam and the Viet Cong handed over 143 American prisoners on Feb. 12, 15 days after the signing of the cease-fire agreement in Paris, and the United States expected the release of another group of the same size on Tuesday, 15 days after the first transfer. Twenty more U.S. POWs were handed over in Hanoi on Feb. 18, but this was billed as a gesture of appreciation for the visit of U.S. presidential adviser Henry A. Kissinger.

The Communists still hold 407 servicemen and 15 civilians in North and South Vietnam and Laos, according to Hanoi.

Tin tied the release of the Americans to the issue of Vietnamese civilians held by the Saigon government, saying, "We would like very much to see the U.S. POWs return to their families, but there are also 100,000 Vietnamese families who do not know about their missing members."

The United States maintains that the cease-fire agreement specifically prohibits such flights over North Vietnam, there is no ban on such activity in South Vietnam.

'Evil' Automation Replacing Tellers

By JERRY ESTILL Associated Press Writer
NEW ORLEANS (AP) — A New Orleans bank with a goal of being totally automated already handles all teller-customer transactions at two of its branches by closed-circuit television.

The tellerless machines — linked to the bank's computer — would enable a customer to handle the most common banking transactions without any contact with a human. The customer would insert his coded card into the machine, punch in four identification numbers and make his deposit, withdrawal or whatever.

As in other banks, International City's two-way closed-circuit television system is coupled with pneumatic tubes for moving money and documents between the teller and a hatch in the pneumatic tube. The system is the use of the system to replace the traditional walk-up windows in its lobby.
