Execution Of Moslems

Reported in Afghanistan

By United Press International Afghan authorities reportedly have begun executing members of a minority Moslem sect accused of leading bloody anti-Soviet protests in the Afghan capital of Kabul, news reports said today.

Bitter fighting was said to be continuing in the eastern city of Jalalabad and Radio Kabul acknowledged there was violence in Kabul. Diplomats reported earlier this week the government of President Babrak Karmal was rounding up leaders of the Shiite sect and the Associated Press of Pakistan today said the arrested Moslems were being executed.

Quoting "diplomatic circles" for its report, the Pakistani news agency said religious scholars were the main target of the campaign and Maulana Zabilhullah. an eminent Shiite scholar, was among the victims.

134 Escape Burning Plane

MANILA, Philippines (UPI) - A woman died today from burns suffered in the spectacular fire and explosion that destroyed a Taiwanese jetliner from which 134 others escaped.

The lone fatality was identified as Lin Tsu Ho, a Taiwanese woman who had suffered burns over 90 percent of her body.

Authorities said the plane's wing tips were on fire as it approached for landing. When it touched the ground, the aircraft bounced twice, then blew up near the end of the runway. The passengers were able to leave the plane before the explosions.

Rhodesian Gunmen Fail

SALISBURY, Rhodesia (UPI) - Gunmen reported to be followers of guerrilla chief Robert Mugabe tried unsuccessfully to ambush a mobile polling station in an isolated attempt to wreck Rhodesia's independence election, authorities reported today.

Two guerrillas and one of their supporters were killed and a black woman was wounded in crossfire in the attack staged on the first of three days of voting Wednesday in the Charter District south of Salisbury, Traveling with the police escorted mobile station was a member of the commonwealth election observer group, identified as Col. Nauna from Papua New Guinea. He and others traveling with the station escaped unhurt, a spokesman for the commonwealth group said.

The incident was reported as blacks by the thousands flocked to vote under the benign gaze of British "bobbies" and the shadow of Rhodesian guns on the second day of an election causing the white minority deep worry.

Carter's Draft May Need Provision For Mobilization

WASHINGTON (UPI) - President Carter has suffered a setback in the first congressional test vote of his proposal to register young men for a possible military draft.

A House Appropriations subcommittee Wednesday refused to approve the funds needed for a draft registration of young men, before emergency mobilization is ordered.

The issue was not settled, however, as the subcommittee essentially passed the question on to a full appropriations committee, which is expected to act on it next week.

The measure sent to the full committee would provide enough money to set up the registration system, but registration could not begin until after the president issued a general mobilization order in response to an international emergency. The amount specified was $4.7 million.

Lance Puzzles Examiner

ATLANTA (UPI) - A federal bank examiner says he was puzzled by Bert Lance's response to the discovery of more than $276,000 in checking account overdrafts by Lance's relatives at the Calhoun First National Bank in 1975.

Richard Newell, an examiner for the Office of the Comptroller of the Currency, said Lance, a bank officer, "told me he was aware it was not right. . . but he was in an awkward position with his relatives and that he was glad an examiner was there to bring their attention to the overdrafts."

Newell continued, "I told him I found his remarks somewhat puzzling because I found those overdrafts had been criticized in two prior examination reports.

Hostages Subdue Gunman

CINCINNATI (UPI) - Quick thinking by an ex-Marine helped five people aboard a Greyhound bus subdue a "crazy" gunman who shot and killed a passenger, then held them hostage for 90 minutes. Police said they had determined no motive for the unsuccessful hijacking attempt by Walter C. Atkins,

Carter Discovers Rosy Glow Of Success

United Press International Vice President Walter Mondale believes President Carter's win in Minnesota was stronger than expected, and leaders of Ronald Reagan's campaign stopped just short of claiming victory in that state's Republican caucuses. But mechanical and communications snafus stalled the Carter today planned to have breakfast with his economic policy advisers and meet with presidents of women's organizations and law enforcement officers.

In his statement, Carter congratulated the congressional conference committee for completing action Tuesday night on some amendments to the complex treaty. "a tough, energysound" windfall profits tax. "I urge the House and Senate to promptly pass the windfall

SALT II Push To Begin?

WASHINGTON (UPI) - Despite the intense feeling i Congress about the Soviet invasion of Afghanistan, the administration is preparing a new campaign to push ratification of a SALT II agreement this year. United Press International has learned.

Sources, who asked not be identified, said the chief compelling reason for renewing the campaign for SALT ratification in 1980 is that chances for Senate approval would be close to zero next year, after a new Congress is installed. Under Senate rules, the treaty would have to be submitted again for committee hearings once a new Senate is sworn in in

Energy Plan Gains Boost

How U.S. Can Spur Lagging Productivity

A tax cut to provide more incentives for American citizens to save money and for American businessmen to invest it in new machines and facilities is one of the ways to stimulate American productivity.

Our productivity is increasing, but at a slower rate than in the past, and more slowly than the rate of productivity increase in West Germany and Japan.

There are a number of reasons, none of them easy to deal with.

Our industrial economy is mature, fully developed, and productivity gains are harder to come by than they were at an earlier stage of our development. West Germany and Japan have more modern plants because much of their older infrastructure was destroyed in World War II. The expanding sectors of our economy are in the service industries and in government, where now you should also have your W-2 form from productivity is harder to measure and where your employer, showing your wages for 1979. technology is not producing great gains in productivity. The relationships between business and labor are traditionally more hostile in this country than in West Germany and Japan, im- 132 million other taxpayers in line. Massive peding the cooperation necessary to spur intimidation. And it works. productivity.

But the problem now demands attention, and if some rethinking is required to moderate traditional antagonisms, so be it.

One of the first steps that should be taken by government is to remove the tax disincentives that are partly responsible for the decline in saving and capital investment.

We are, perhaps, in no position to cut any taxes until we bring spending under control and wipe how it makes rulings. out the federal budget deficit. But, whenever we can begin to cut taxes, the first to go should be ready to turn into criminals - fraud on your those which penalize the saving and investment needed to shore up our sagging productivity performance.

- The proposed Capital Cost Recovery Act, which would accelerate tax write-offs to which business is normally entitled for its investments in new plants and equipment, would be a good place to

Other meritorious proposals would reduce taxes paid by individuals on investment income and savings interest.

But, we hear a reader protesting, won't these incentives benefit primarily people of means. rather than working people? True, the direct benefits would go mostly to affluent individuals. but even small savers would benefit from a tax if they don't go to a tax preparer. exemption on interest income. And all Americans will benefit from a reinvigoration of our free enterprise economy. Long the most productive in the world, it plainly needs a tax tonic in the in-flationary '80s.

VIEWPOINT It's What The IRS Counts On

Two million of us last year cheated ourselves out of money, we were so honest. About $152 each, on average.

But the IRS never relaxes in its effort to keep us guessing. While the IRS won't talk publicly about its methods, bits and pieces slip out all the time.

Sometimes ex-agents talk about their old jobs. Sometimes other government agencies spill the beans. Often, hidden policies slip out in Tax Court. And last month a federal judge ruled the IRS must release internal memos on

The problem is that IRS regulations are not all cut and dried. Many are open to in-

But the IRS is determined to get the benefit of the doubt when there is a doubt about what taxpayers should do.

This year, the IRS is trying something new. Its current strategy seems to be to lean on tax preparers and accountants, trying to force hem to take a hard line with their customers in favor of the IRS.

Almost half of all taxpayers find they have to go to a tax preparer for help in filling out their tax returns. In fact, if they have highly complicated returns, the IRS gets suspicious

One immediate result seems to be that some tax preparers may be in no mood to give you the benefit of the doubt this year. Without exact, detailed records for every penny involved, you may find your tax preparer won't let you take a charity deduction for the TV set you gave Goodwill or a casualty loss for the roof damage that happened in last winter's

The best defense, is to maintain records in minute detail. If you're audited - more than two million returns are audited, supposedly at random, each year - the IRS agents involved often can be incredibly nit picky, in their demands for records.

As Yugoslavia goes, so goes Finland? It is at least a possibility to consider. An with world attention focusing on the long anticipated change of leadership Yugoslavia, this could be a particularly appropriate time for consideration.

Something similar cannot be too far around the corner in Finland.

In some respects, the two countries are images of each other, although with mirrorlike reversals. Yugoslavia is a Marxist society that has made independence of the Soviet Union the basis of its foreign policy, possibly even its existence. Finland, on the other hand, is a Western-style parliamentary democracy that has made good relations with the Soviets the basis of its policy, and quite probably its existence.

In Finland, that leader is President Urho Kekkonen and the dominant question in national politics is an as yet unanswered one: Will he decide to run for another six-year term in 19843

Kekkonen, who will be 80 this year, has manipulated Finish affairs with a deft as well as firm hand since 1956. Foreign policy has been his pre-eminent interest and maintaining the friendliest possible relationship with the Finns' Soviet neighbors has been his primary objective.

This has not been directed at making Finland another satellite - although when sides are taken on some East-West issues outside observers at times find it difficult t see the distinction - but in the cause preserving its cherished independence.

Kekkonen has succeeded admirably, For quarter of a century, he has shuffled Finnis governments like a familiar deck of politica cards. Tennessee Nuclear Plan Upsets Carter

OAK RIDGE, Tenn. (UPI) - Despite continued Carter administration opposition, officials at the Clinch River Breeder Reactor insist the nation's energy dilemma mandates completion of the controversial $2.7 billion project.

President Carter steadfastly opposes the construction of the demonstration plant designed to produce more nuclear fuel than it uses. Despite his refusal to approve funding, Congress has kept appropriations flowing in. To date, some $766 million has been spent. But not one spade of dirt has been turned on the picturesque plant site located on a bend of the winding Clinch River east of Oak Ridge. That cannot occur until the Nuclear Regulatory Commission decides whether to license the breeder. And it is construction cannot decides to permit it.

Despite the administration's opposition, project officials continue to refine their plans for the 375 megawatt plant, which has been on the drawing board since 1972. Project design is 78 percent complete. Some 55 percent of the major hardware is in storage. More than 4,000 people in 28 states and Washington work on the project.

Bill Rolf, general manager of Project Management Corp., which oversees the breeder effort, said stopping the project would be like stabbing the energy-hungry nation in the back. "Why should we give up any practical energy alternative that has a good chance of working?" he asked in an interview. "We know the technology works. We just have to develop it to the point where it will be of a large enough scale to be meaningful in the production of energy."

France, Great Britain and the Soviet Union already have operating breeder reactors. Japan and West Germany have plants in various stages of development.

Carter opposes the breeder because it creates plutonium, a adioactive element which can be used to build atomic bombs The president contends the United States must set an example y staying away from plutonium-producing plants that could encourage nuclear proliferation.

However, Rolf said foreign nations are ignoring America's example and are instead preparing for their own energy futures.

"You have to look at what proliferation means," he said. 'Certainly the United States isn't in a position to say we aren't going to proliferate. We already have. We've already designed the weapons. That's a fact. "The technology is already developed in some of these other countries. Our example was supposed to keep them from doing this. That hasn't happened."

What makes the breeder so attractive, Rolf said, is that the United States has an estimated $20 trillion in nuclear waste

President Carter steadfastly opposes the construction of the demonstration plant designed to produce more nuclear fuel than it uses. However, Congress

Stockpiles of uranium 238, which is waste from commercial and other reactors, sit at federal facilities in Oak Ridge, Portsmouth. Ohio, and Paducah, Ky. That fuel, Rolf said, is an energy bonanza equivalent to all of OPEC's oil reserves enough to last centuries.

"The beauty of this whole concept is that the material - the energy resource - has already been mined," He said. "The material is sitting there. The people of the United States own it. "It's the real pot of gold at the end of the rainbow. And we have more of it than anybody in the world and we'd like to be able to use it." Without the breeder, a project spokesman said, the used uranium is "absolutely useless - pure garbage." Nuclear power currently provides more than 12 percent of the nation's electricity. But uranium stockpiles will not last into the 21st Century, energy experts predict. Waste material will abound, but one day the nation's power reactors will come to a halt as uranium supplies run out.

The breeder operates through a process called tran mutation Two different kind of fuel rods - some made of plutonium and some U-238 - are in the reactor core. An excess of neutrons from the plutonium bombards the U-238 rods, which are turned into plutonium, reusable in any reactor.

PREVENT

MARCH

The chain reaction produces the heat necessary to turn the breeder's steam-powered generators. For every 10 atoms of nuclear fuel the breeder uses, it creates 12.

The U.S. has in operation a "tiny" 20-megawatt breeder near Idaho Falls, Idaho. But Rolf said Clinch River --- which could power a city of 200,000 - is needed to provide vital operating experience.

Construction is a year to a year and a half away, even with administrative approval for licensing. The earliest the plant could be putting power into the Tennessee Valley Authority's grid is 1988. That doesn't bother breeder officials.

"We want to go through the licensing process," Rolf said "The project is ready to go back into licensing any time they will allow us to."

Clinch River faces almost certain opposition from antinuclear groups, which have gained support since the neardisaster at Three Mile Island. The likely argument is: how can the nuclear industry operate a new type of plant when it hasn't perfected the old ones?

Herald Sports Editor After opening round action Wednesday night of the District 9 Class 4A men's basketball tournament, Volusia County prep squads hold a two-zip edge over their Seminole County rivals. The Spruce Creek Hawks and top-seeded Mainland Buccaneers earned semi-final berths Wednesday night and a shot at taking another step towards the state playoffs. Spruce Creek came up with 11 unanswered points in a three minute stretch late in the final period to edge Lyman's Greyhounds 54-50. Mainland's victory came a little easier, 84-56, at the expense of outmanned Lake Brantley.

Lyman jumped out to a slim lead in the first quarter over Spruce Creek behind a hot-handed Neal Gillis. The slickshooting junior Greyhound canned a pair of floor shots and was perfect from the charity stripe to help Tom Lawrence's squad nights to win this tournament."

forge a 14-11 advantage. The tables turned on Lyman in the second quarter however as the Greyhounds were whistled with eight team fouls in a play us tough. Anytime you go against a guy like Joe Pigotte three minute stretch and Lyman was forced to go to the bench (Spruce Creek coach) you have to be prepared for anything.

Guard Shawn Britton and 6-8 center Thomas Tenbroeck canned six points each in the second period to help Spruce Creek knot the score at 38-all by intermission. The Hawks pushed ahead by four points heading into the final period and then rattled off the first 11 points in stanza number four to put the game out of reach despite a desperate charge by the Greyhounds. Britton paced Spruce Creek with 14 points while Neal Gillis led Lyman's efforts with 22 markers.

In the nightcap game of the opening round, Lake Brantley blitzed out in front of Mainland's top-seeded Buccaneers 8-2 only to have the roof cave in.

Sparked by all-state candidate Sam Henry and center Herb Harris, the Buc's outscored Lake Brantley 37-4 over the next seven minutes to put the game out of reach by halftime. In holding the Patriots to four second quarter points,

Mainland built a 39-12 lead at the half and finished the night with free substituting. The Buc's stretched the margin to 60-29 by the end of the third period and finished the night with an 84-56 win over the game, but outsized Lake Brantley crew. Senior guard Doug Dershimer led the Patriot effort with a 21 point showing while Mainland placed four players in double Henry 20, Cooper 10, Payne 4, Morris 4, Sheffield 10. Totals 35 honors against Mainland with 21 points but the Henry canned 20, Harris netted 15, Larry Prince added 13, while Jerry Smith scored 10 points, all coming on ally-oop passes from Henry to pace the Mainland offense. "We took advantage of early opportunities but then we lost concentration," commented Lake Brantley coach Bob Peterson of his early lead.

"We had the shots but couldn't get them in. Then their big men started hitting shots and hitting the boards. It's difficult to prepare for Mainland's size when you're as small as we are and don't have any size to practice against." Mainland coach Dick Toth seemed as happy about the tournament pairings as he was with the one-sided victory. "We now have a night off before we have to play again," observed Toth. "If the tournament runs like it should and we have to play Sanford again, they'll have to play three straight But Toth wasn't looking too far ahead.

"We've got Spruce Creek next and they get up for us and He's been coaching for something like 20 years and knows how to get ready for a game."

The Mainland coach was also pleased about the opportunity to go to his bench. "We're trying to find a strong eighth man," he pointed out.

"If we win the tournament and get into regional and state competition we have to have that kind of depth to keep going." The Buc boss complimented his reserves on their fourth quarter role.

"Sometimes there isn't enough credit given to our players because people are so used to the good plays they make they seem to lose sight of how exceptional these kids really are. Our fans have come to expect near perfect play everytime we go out on the court."

PATRIO PLEA

Commissioner Kuhn Swatting Baseball Flies

NEW YORK (UPI) - Bowie Kuhn must feel like he's swatting flies. Every time he nails one, a few more come buzzing around to bother him. So far, he has gotten a number of baseball men for tampering, the biggest one being Ray Kroc, the San Diego Padres' unsuspecting owner who wound up being soaked for $100,000 for saying his club would try to get Graig Nettles and Joe Morgan when and if they became free agents. Now, Ballard Smith, who runs the Padres and is Kroc's son-in-law, has brought attention to another so-called tampering situation. He claims representatives of two clubs, Montreal Expos' Manager Dick Williams and an unidentified member in the New York Yankees' public relations department, talked with Padres' Dave Winfield at Las Vegas last year telling him they'd like to have him on their side.

Smith admits he can't prove it, so he isn't filing any formal complaint, but he says Winfield's agent and adviser, Al Frohman, who is trying to negotiate a new 10-year $20 million contract for Winfield, told him of those talks. Everybody in the Yankees' PR department denies any conversation like that ever took place. The question that comes to my mind now is precisely what constitutes "tampering."

Seemingly, Rule 3G of the major league rules spells it out, stating quite clearly, "There shall be no negotiations or dealings respecting employment, either present or prospective, between any player, coach or manager and any other club with which he is under contract or acceptance of in essence, Kroc didn't say any more about Nettles and Morgan, but it still cost him $100,000. That has a lot to do with Smith's present feelings about anyone else talking to Winfield. "When Ray was fined, I was fully supportive of the commissioner's right to do it although I felt the amount was extremely excessive," Smith told me over the phone from San Di Wednesday.

This year Frisbee Events and Developmental Sports (for those athletes so physically involved that they cannot participate in other Special Olympic Events) are included in Track & Field. Track & Field will begin at 10:00 a.m. at the Lyman Track and Swinning will begin at the same time at the Lyman Swimming Pool. Lunch will be served to athletes and volunteers. The estimated time of completion is between 1 and 2 p.m. The public is invited to attend the entire program.

Robert Feather, Chairman of the Seminole County School Board, will be the Master of Ceremonies. The Sanford Optimist Club will provide the timers for the Track & Field Events. Lynn Stevens will direct the Swimming Events. Leo LeBeaux, Pastor of the Longwood Bible Baptist Church, will give the Invocation. The Sanford Junior Woman's Club will decorate the stadium and provide "nuggers" (persons who hup athletes after the races and congratulate them); Coca-Cola and McDonald's Hamburgers will provide lunch for the athletes and volunteers. Special Olympics for Seminole County are sponsored by the Seminole County Association for Retarded Citizens, P.O. Box 4004, Lake Mary, 32746. CREWS PREPARE Coal is arriving by rail at the Florida Power & Light plant on the St. Johns River in Sanford to prepare for the utility's mid-April test burn of 'COIL' - a FOR 'COIL' TEST coal and oil mixture. The coal will travel up the conveyor to the COIL plant where it will be deposited into coal silos and fed by crews into a coal pulverizer. As it emerges from the pulverizer in a fine graphite-like texture it will be mixed with hot air, cleaned and mixed with oil. The resulting COIL then will be pumped into the plant's boilers to be used as fuel.
