WEST PALM BEACH — Sen. Edward M. Kennedy appeared today before a Palm Beach County grand jury that is apparently hearing evidence on possible obstruction of justice stemming from the rape case against Kennedy's nephew.

The senator went into the grand jury room at the Palm Beach County courthouse shortly after 10 a.m. Grand jury proceedings are secret.

Prosecutors and Palm Beach police say they are still considering obstruction of justice charges related to the rape case against William Kennedy Smith.

Smith, 30, has pleaded innocent to the rape charges. He faces trial Jan. 13.

Lutherans re-elect leader

ORLANDO — Bishop Herbert W. Chilstrom today was declared to be overwhelmingly re-elected as head of the nation's largest Lutheran denomination.

He got 885 ballots out of 1,025 cast in a second round of balloting at the biennial assembly of the Evangelical Lutheran Church in America. The total, 86.3 percent, was well over the three-fourths needed to keep him at the helm another four years.

Chilstrom, 59, has guided the 5.2-million-member denomination through the formative strains of its early years since it was constituted by a 1987 merger of the Lutheran Church in America, the American Lutheran Church and the Association of Evangelical Lutheran Churches.

Yard trash debated

By NICK PPRFAUF
Herald Staff Writer

LAKE MARY — Lake Mary residents will soon have yard trash collections. How they will be financed however, is still undecided.

Robert J. Hyres, regional marketing manager of Western Waste Industries, which handles collections in Lake Mary, addressed the city commission last night, making a number of suggestions on pick up schedules, costs, and routing.

Cities will be required to provide collection of leaves, branches and other natural yard trash, beginning January 1, 1992, as provided for in the 1988 Solid Waste Law enacted by the State of Florida.

City customers presently have two garbage pick ups per week. Considering this, Hyres suggested several methods of handling the yard waste collection. One option is to add a third day pick up per week, solely for yard trash. He suggested the cost would be approximately $2.40 per month. A second option would be to continue with the present two pick ups per week, but have only one for garbage, with the other for yard waste. This was estimated at $1.25 per month.

Public Works Director Rod Stroupe had reported the average homeowner is estimated to produce approximately 20 pounds of yard trash per week.

Commissioner Tom Mahoney was opposed to the first option. "I am totally against having a third collection day each week," he said. "We don't need another morning with truck noise in our neighborhoods."

Commissioner Paul Tremel commented that the charges for yard trash collections might not be fair to all concerned. "There are many people who don't put yard trash out," he said. "But if we charge everyone for it, they might start putting it out and we'll have more yard waste than we do now." He suggested, "People who have yard trash

Labor Day weekend begins

Area slows for a holiday

By NICK PPRFAUF
Herald Staff Writer

Labor Day, observed on the first Monday of September, is a legal holiday for all federal, state and local government workers. Almost all of the government's operations will close for the day.

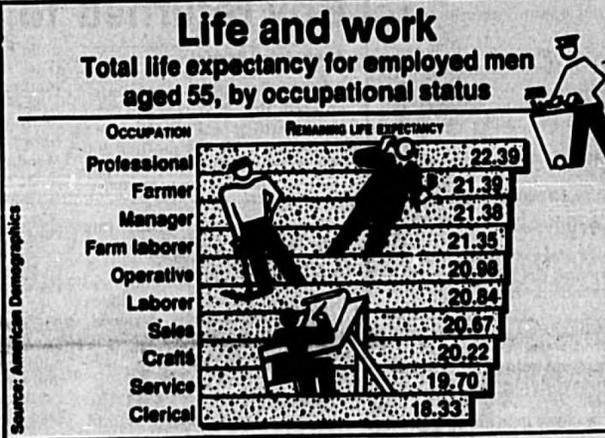

It didn't start with government however, the carpenters and joiners union got it underway on Tuesday, Sept. 5, 1882, with a parade of workers in New York City, who are believed to have taken the day off work on their own, to participate.

By the following year, other unions agreed to hold an annual day to honor the workers, and declared the first Monday in September of each year as Labor Day.

Within 10 years, the event had grown and observances were held in over half the states. It reached such proportion that a bill was introduced into Congress to establish it as a federal holiday.

President Grover Cleveland signed the bill into law on June 28, 1894, aiming not only at laborers, but all federal employees, especially those in the District of Columbia.

In the local area, Labor Day will be observed with barbecues at the Sanford American Legion Post 53, and by the VFW Ladies Auxiliary, at Post 5405 in Winter Springs. The Community Improvement Association of Sanford will celebrate the holiday with the Hopper Jubilee Program Monday on the grounds of the Old Hopper Academy, corner of 11th Street and Pine Ave. This event will help spearhead a fundraiser that will renovate the old building for a future community center.

FHP will continue to predict auto fatalities

Associated Press

TALLAHASSEE — A spokesman for the Florida Highway Patrol says a decision by the National Safety Council to stop predicting or tabulating holiday traffic fatalities won't affect its own predictions program. "I don't think I've ever seen their predictions," said Maj. Michael Bolas. "We use accident trends in the state for the last three years in arriving at our predictions." The FHP predicts 31 people will die in traffic accidents on Florida highways during the Labor Day weekend beginning at 6 p.m. today and ending midnight Monday. The prediction is one higher than the 30 deaths predicted last Labor Day, although 28 people actually died.

Bolas rejects the argument by NSC officials that holiday weekends are no longer any different than any other weekend in terms of accidents. The NSC determined nationally, the difference varies by only 1 percent.

Redistrict plan focus of criticism

By J. MARK BARFIELD

SANFORD — Seminole County's county commission and school board districts need significant changes to allow representatives to be more responsive to the public, says the redistricting review designee for the Seminole County Republican Executive Committee.

"I am looking for more fair representation than currently exists rather than drawing lines around false political boundaries based on where incumbents live," said Ben Tucker, appointed by party chairman Michael Saporito to review county redistricting proposals.

But the county statistician who drew the boundaries said the location of incumbents' homes wasn't a factor in drawing the proposed changes.

"It just worked out that way for commission districts," said Don Hastings. "Two of the alternatives apparently write some school board members out."

One alternative shifts board member Sandy Robinson into the district represented currently by Jeanne Morris. Another alternative removed board member Barbara Kuhn from her District 4 and places her in the district currently represented by Joe Williams.

Tucker and representatives from the school board, county Democratic Executive Committee and League of Women Voters are reviewing four proposals put forth by county planners for redrawing the district boundaries to keep up with the growing population. County commission and school board districts

Officials pass buck on tax complaints

By J. MARK BARFIELD
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — It was a case of third-floor county folks pointing a blaming finger at the first-floor folks, who returned the gesture, when a group of west Sanford residents took their tax and property value hike gripes to Seminole County officials Thursday.

A group of about 30 residents from the unincorporated Idylwild and Ravenna Park neighborhoods converged on the Seminole County Services Building in Sanford to protest tax proposals and increases in property values.

Seminole County Commissioner Jennifer Kelley, flanked by a team of senior county officials, told the residents in a third-floor meeting the main reason their taxes will go up is because of property value adjustments made by Property Appraiser Bill Suber.

Suber, in a later first-floor meeting, told the residents he had to increase many property values to keep up with current sales trends, but he has nothing to do with tax increases. County and city commissioners, school board members and other taxing agencies should lower tax rates when reappraisals bring them more money, he said.

Suber used the meeting to renew his attacks on Sanford Commissioner Lon Howell, who is leading a protest against Suber's reassessments. Suber noted that in a recent edition of the Sanford Herald, an article about Howell calling a property value protest meeting was positioned next to an article about Sanford commissioners voting to hold a referendum to ask voters to approve a tax increase to pay for a bond.

Irene and Roy Brown

Margaret and Lowman Oliver

"They guy who got you to the meeting is the same guy who wants to raise your taxes," Suber said. "I find it interesting on one hand he wants to save you money, but on the other hand, he does this."

The residents left with the impression they need to fight tax increases by the people who impose them. "If you raise the property value, then we need to force (the taxing authorities) to bring the tax down accordingly," Charles Hankey, organizer of the meetings, told Suber.

Deputies counseled in sex case

TAMPA — Two deputies have been counseled for using poor judgment and procedures are being changed after an internal probe into the handling of a videotape showing a couple having sex.

Hillsborough County sheriff's deputies Pam Tyler and Scott Hill were not formally disciplined, but supervisors talked to them about their handling of the videotape when it became evidence last month, sheriff's records show.

Tyler was counseled about viewing the tape in front of personnel at the county jail, documents showed.

She got it in the process of arresting Alfred Stephens and Janet Paddock, whom neighbors alleged were having sex at a Jacuzzi. A neighbor had taped the couple having sex earlier behind Stephens' blinds July 16 and gave the tape to the deputy.

Neither deputy violated existing procedures for handling evidence, officials said, and investigators found no proof they watched the tape for entertainment.

Navy base announces civilian layoff

PENSACOLA — A contractor is planning to lay off 48 employees who maintained aircraft being removed from a training program at Pensacola Naval Air Station.

It is the second civilian layoff announced at the base in the last month. Nearly 250 employees received termination notices July 31 as part of a cost-cutting staff reduction at the Pensacola Naval Aviation Depot, one of six such facilities the Navy has across the nation to refurbish aircraft.

Grumman Technical Services Inc. will close its operation in Pensacola on Oct. 1, company site manager Charles Ragghainti said Wednesday.

The company has maintained Navy TA-4J Skyhawk jet trainers used in Pensacola for advanced training of naval flight officers, non-pilots who operate navigation, radar and weapons systems.

The Navy instead will use T-2 Buckeye trainers, in which the students now receive intermediate training. The T-2s also are to be replaced in 1993 with a new aircraft, the T-45 Goshawk.

Two killed, 8 injured in lightning strike

PANAMA CITY — A brother and sister were killed and eight others injured Thursday when lightning struck as they headed in two boats to an island to seek shelter from a storm, authorities said.

Reports indicated that up to a dozen people were in the two boats off Shell Island in the Gulf of Mexico when it began to rain. They apparently had gathered for a family reunion, said Bay County Sheriff Guy Tunnell.

Killed when lightning struck their boat were Dolly Folosco, about 55, of California, and her brother, Moses Timbal, about 67, from Columbus, Ga., Tunnell said.

Frances Ombor, also of Columbus, and Esther Misajon, of Newport Beach, Calif., who were also in the 14-foot ski boat, were knocked unconscious.

Six others, who were nearby in another 14-foot boat, received minor injuries, Tunnell said.

The conditions of the injured were not immediately available.

Rolling convicted of robbery

TAMPA — Prime Gainesville slayings suspect Danny Harold Rolling's conviction on armed robbery charges may help place him in the college town last year around the time of the five student murders.

That is because the getaway car Rolling used in the robbery of a Tampa grocery store was stolen from a Gainesville student apartment two days after the last bodies were found.

But both Rolling's attorney and prosecutor in the Tampa case downplayed any links to Gainesville.

"I would remind everyone that just because he's found guilty of these charges ... it does not mean in any way that he's guilty of anything else, anywhere else," said public defender Mary Lou Cuellar.

Assistant State Attorney Cass Castillo said it's true Rolling was driving a car in Tampa that had been stolen in Gainesville three days earlier, but it's possible Rolling picked up the car somewhere else. And he noted for the record that Rolling has not been charged with the Gainesville car theft.

Sculptor demands $7,000 for art

TALLAHASSEE — A Miami sculptor says he won't chisel $7,000 from the price of a work he created for the Florida Department of Law Enforcement even if the agency doesn't want the structure.

Sculptor Ralph Buckley has argued for more than a year with FDLE officials who say his "Canopy With Ground Treatment" doesn't meet specifications.

The 24-foot-long, 16-foot-high structure at FDLE's Tallahassee headquarters resembles shards of sheet metal held up by metal poles bedded in a fractured stone base.

During the scrap, FDLE Commissioner Tim Moore has called the sculpture an "eyesore" and "a collective joke around here."

Cops limited in use of defendants

By CURT ANDERSON
Associated Press Writer

TALLAHASSEE — The Florida Supreme Court ruled that police have limited authority to offer suspects rewards for helping them catch criminals, despite concern that the practice creates crimes.

The court, in a 4-2 decision, affirmed the 1982 drug conviction of a Broward County man who was caught as part of a suspect's attempt to help police make more arrests in exchange for a reduced sentence.

In a sharp dissent, Justice Rosemary Barkett wrote that offering suspects rewards for catching criminals — such as a quota system involved in this case — was in reality a way to create more crime.

"A society that permits violation of the law as a means of convicting a lawbreaker is just as lawless as the individual it convicts," she wrote. "It is, in a twist worthy of Charles Dickens, simply using the law to break the law."

The ruling was somewhat mixed, however, in that it ordered acquittal of another man the justices said had been victimized by improper entrapment.

"I think it's much more of a win than a loss," said John Tiedemann, an assistant attorney general in the West Palm Beach office.

The case involved a drug suspect named Ron Diamond, who was offered potential reduced or suspended sentences if he helped Broward County authorities make drug arrests. The deal involved a quota of 4 kilograms of cocaine.

Diamond helped police make several arrests but fell short of his quota by 1 kilogram. A judge then allowed him another 60 days to find another cocaine case to meet the goal.

Another resident of Diamond's apartment complex, Kelly Conklin, was a marijuana smoker, according to court documents. Diamond approached him about getting drugs and, after Diamond phoned frequently, Conklin got David Hunter to provide the drugs.

When the transaction took place, police arrested Conklin and Hunter on drug trafficking charges. They were convicted and sentenced to 15 years in prison.

Both men claimed the case involved entrapment and that their due process rights were violated. The 4th District Court of Appeal asked the state Supreme Court to decide whether the quota deal was proper and whether Hunter and Conklin should be treated the same in the eyes of the law.

Gas leak blamed for blast at Navy base

By BILL KACZON
Associated Press Writer

PENSACOLA — A team of safety and utility experts was trying to determine the cause of a gas leak that blasted apart a vacant building and damaged a regional supply center at the Pensacola Naval Air Station, injuring 33 people.

"There was 'boom,' everything just started shaking, the lights went out, tile fell," said Sharon Randle, public affairs officer for the Pensacola Navy Supply Center. "I got hit by something on my hip."

A Navy firefighter was seriously burned when the vacant building, slated for renovation, exploded and burned as he was approaching to investigate the leak Thursday. Navy spokesmen said.

The injured firefighter, Larry Johnson, was in stable condition at the University of South Alabama Burn Center in Mobile, Ala., said a university spokeswoman.

Another man at the supply center across the street complained of chest pains, said base spokesman J.B. McKamey.

Boy returned to punishers

Associated Press

FORT MYERS — A judge ordered that a 7-year-old boy who was subjected to bizarre punishment by his mother and stepfather should be returned to their custody despite the objections of the boy's father.

The boy testified earlier this year that the couple threatened to cut off his genitals with a kitchen knife. In other instances, he was dangled from his ankles from a second-story balcony, forced to eat dinner off a toilet lid and had soup poured over his head.

The mother, 26, said the incidents were taken out of context, that the actions were humiliating but not malicious. "Abuse to me means when a child has broken bones, stitches, cuts, scrapes, burns," said the mother.

The Knoxville, Tenn., woman is to take custody of the boy from his natural father by 9 a.m. Monday, in accordance with the judge's order issued Wednesday.

The mother said Thursday she was relieved to be getting her son back.

"He has told me very recently that he wants to live with me," she said.

But the boy's natural father, 27, told the News-Press in Fort Myers for a story in today's edition that his son is anxious and afraid.

"He said he was pretty scared because he told on them and got them in trouble and they might be really mad and really hurt him," the father said.

Chiles: Check into Highway Patrol

Associated Press

TALLAHASSEE — In the wake of allegations of favoritism, discrimination and low trooper morale, Gov. Lawton Chiles asked Attorney General Bob Butterworth to review criticisms of the Florida Highway Patrol.

"The highway patrol, over the years, has enjoyed a very good reputation in Florida," Chiles said. "It looks like we need to try to get it moving in the right direction again."

But the governor also said it's too early to consider ousting patrol officials as union leaders and others have suggested.

Maj. Mike Bales, a patrol spokesman, said Thursday it would be inappropriate to comment on the governor's statements because FHP had not been notified of an inquiry by the governor or attorney general.

A spokesman for Butterworth said the attorney general plans to bring his recommendations to the governor and Cabinet in September or October and that they could range from an in-depth study of the highway patrol to specific policy changes.

"He doesn't know what his approach will be at this point, whether it will be a personal fact-finding type of thing or looking at what's already out there on the table," spokesman Joe Bizzarro said.

The Florida Department of Law Enforcement already has reviewed some of the mismanagement allegations and concluded that no crimes were committed. And Comptroller Gerald Lewis next month plans to begin an investigation into missing equipment.

Chiles said he asked Butterworth to check into the allegations because of his background in law enforcement and as a former executive director of the highway safety department.

Chiles, Butterworth, Lewis and the rest of the Cabinet are responsible for the Department of Highway Safety and Motor Vehicles, which includes the highway patrol.

The Tampa Tribune on Sunday reported that some critics were calling for the ouster of FHP Patrol Director Bobby Burkett and his boss, highway safety chief Leonard Mellon, following accusations that the patrol wasted $1.3 million.

Plaza Twin Theatre closes doors

By LAGY DOMEN
Herald People Editor

SANFORD — The butter-drizzled popcorn smells are gone. The movie screen, once lit by a planet full of talking apes and Burt Reynolds' car chases, is dark. After 22 years, the Sanford Plaza Twin Theatre closed last week for good.

"We closed mainly because of the condition of the center. It has deteriorated, including our theatre building. The center is pretty empty," Donna Bryant, executive assistant to Floyd Theatre President Harold Spears said from the Lakeland corporate office yesterday.

Bryant said Floyd Theatres, parent company to Plaza Twin, owns and operates other properties in Central Florida, including MovieLand Drive-In in Sanford.

"We have no plans to close that," she said.

Currently operating 16 drive-ins and one theatre with seating, the company is in the process of building three more in Florida and Georgia. But not near Sanford.

"We had plans at one time to open another operation in the area. But there is a lot of competition and business had fallen off recently partly because of it," Bryant said.

The Plaza Twin opened in 1969, featuring first-run movies such as "Smokey and the Bandit," "Planet of the Apes" and "Star Wars." Later, it became a budget theatre, charging 99 cents.

"As the market changed and the center deteriorated, we felt we had to do that," Bryant said.

Bryant said the budget format was successful for a time, but the decision to close was made in part because of dwindling revenue.

"It had fallen off recently. With the center being run down and more new theatres in the area, we decided to close," she said. "But the condition of the center was really the determining factor."

LAKE MARY — The Lake Mary City Commission rejected an offer to buy 11.2 acres of land last night. The property is adjacent to city land being developed as an active park.

The property at 115 Shealey Road, is owned by Linda and Harry F. Beckham Jr. It lies to the west of land being planned for Lake Mary's Sports Complex. It is located between the park property on the western side of Country Club Road, and the Timucuan subdivision. The land contains a two story house and several storage buildings.

Although the Beckhams had previously suggested the city purchase the property, they had recently resubmitted their offer at a reduced price of $392,000. The earlier price requested was not revealed.

Linda Beckham explained that the property was heavily wooded, and she hoped the city would purchase it. "I know it would continue in its natural state if you purchased it," she told the commissioners. "If we sell it for residential development, it will probably be cleared and end up not having any trees left."

She suggested it would be an excellent parcel to have next to the park land. Their proposal to the city suggested the house and storage buildings could be used as park structures and save city money that will eventually be used to construct facilities at the park.

While members of the commission extended their appreciation for the offer, most of them agreed the city could not afford to purchase the land at this time.

Commissioner Tom Mahoney commented, "I think this would be a wonderful addition, and it would certainly lead to more improved park service to the people if we purchased it, but I cannot see investing in it any time in at least the near term."

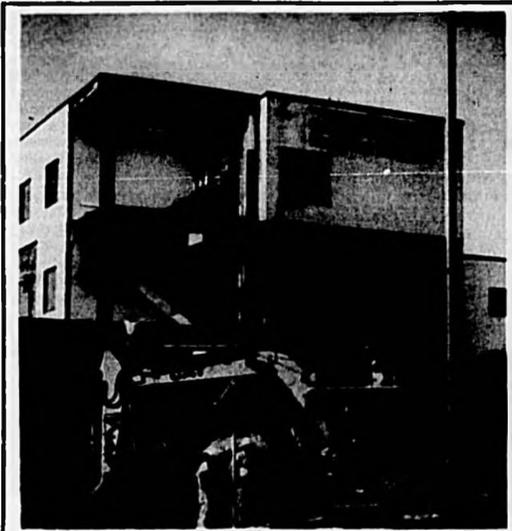

Commissioner David Mealor said, "It is a most generous offer, but I just couldn't support funding it." Other members of the commission indicated they generally agreed that there would be no way at the present time to pay for the property.

The Beckhams suggested they would be willing to consider selling only a portion of the land to the city, and leasing the remainder of it for a low charge. "That way, you could have the entire property, but wouldn't have to pay for all of it right away," Linda Beckham said.

While several commissioners suggested any further discussions on purchasing the property be delayed for at least a year or more, the Beckhams said they preferred to have either a decision, or an agreement to cancel the entire offer so they could take other action toward selling the land.

While members of the commission indicated they would not be able to be involved in any purchase arrangements at the present time, the matter will be brought up again next week.

City Planner Matt West was asked to look further into the proposal as well as the brick wall problem, and report back to the commission at the next meeting, scheduled for Sept. 5.

Freedom

Among the many miscalculations made by leaders of the failed Kremlin coup, none was more serious than their belief that the Soviet people would passively tolerate a return to authoritarianism.

The dramatic events illustrate the power of people determined to be free. That determination was stronger than the Soviet tanks that lumbered through the streets of Moscow. It was more potent than the troops summoned by Communist Party reactionaries to snuff out democratic reforms. And it sustained Russian Federation President Boris Yeltsin as he foiled the hard-liners' attempt to hijack the Soviet government.

There were massive demonstrations against the coup in the Ukraine and in Leningrad. Strikers shut down 236 coal mines in support of Yeltsin. Meanwhile, tens of thousands of Muscovites, with arms linked, formed a human chain that circled the Russian Federation headquarters.

Reflecting the mood of solidarity in Moscow, two 72-year-old grandmothers vowed to lay down their lives if necessary to save the country from "the scum" who had seized power.

Another elderly woman, recalling the 1964 overthrow of Nikita Khrushchev, underscored a change in the Russian people: "After fighting for free elections and choosing our own government — we will defend it with all our strength."

And a Soviet army officer, who defected for the sake of his three children, added: "I know what real democracy is, what democracy is worth."

The democratic forces unleashed by Mikhail Gorbachev's glasnost were particularly evident in the irrepressible flow of news and information. Underground newspapers, independent radio stations and individuals with cellular phones and fax machines were able to get the word out despite efforts by coup leaders to silence the news media. Broadcasts by the American-sponsored Radio Free Europe and Radio Liberty also provided vital news to Soviet listeners.

In recent years, modern technology has contributed mightily to the downfall of tyrants. The free flow of information was instrumental in the crumbling of communist rule in Eastern Europe. It helped prompt a democratic resurgence in Latin America, most notably in Chile, Nicaragua and Panama. And in 1986, it fueled the popular uprising in the Philippines that led to the downfall of Ferdinand Marcos.

A Soviet hard-liner predicted: "Might will triumph. It is just a question of who has the might on their side."

That the Soviet people prevailed and proved him wrong should strengthen the hand of democracy everywhere.

Why Gorbachev's time has passed

Watching Mikhail Gorbachev's fascinating press conference after his return from the Crimea, I once again found myself drawn to the man by his undeniable personal charm. He is so refreshingly relaxed, candid, good-natured and thoughtful — and all the more so when compared to the long line of wooden-faced thugs that preceded him. No wonder President Bush enjoys dealing with him.

To make matters worse, I still — despite everything that has happened — can't generate much enthusiasm for Boris Yeltsin as a political personality. From the outset, a few years back, he impressed me as a classic example of what American politicians call "a loose cannon": a loud, blustering ass who barges around the political china shop, wholly indifferent to the consequences of his actions. Clearly, he is more than that; but I still find him personally unappealing.

And yet I have to acknowledge that, during that earthshaking Three-Day Coup, Boris Yeltsin earned my admiration, and the admiration of a watching world, and earned as well the right to lead the Russian people into their future.

Basing himself in the parliament building of the Russian Federation and organizing resistance wherever he could, Yeltsin defied the coup-masters when he could not possibly have known that they would fail — demanding, in writing and in detail, that they disband their Committee and restore Gorbachev to power. It seemed clear that he was quite ready to die, if necessary, then and there, becoming the first martyr of post-communist Russia.

As for Gorbachev, he deported himself, in the press conference and elsewhere, with commendable dignity, and spoke movingly of the traumatic experience he had undergone, the many mistakes he had made, and the profound lessons he has learned. But when pressed by reporters, he did not modify by so much as an iota either his faith in "socialism" or his belief that a reformed Communist Party, under his leadership, should play the central role in shaping the future of the Soviet Union.

When I heard those words, my heart sank. For they mean that Mikhail Gorbachev has reached the limits of his possibilities.

No one can deny, let alone undo, the absolutely astonishing changes he has wrought in the communist world. He gave the peoples of the Soviet Union their freedom, which they will never surrender. He forced irreversible changes in the Soviet economy, in the direction of a free market. He abruptly and unilaterally abandoned the Cold War, and manumitted the slave states of Eastern Europe. He is preparing to reorganize the Soviet Union as a looser federation of those states that freely choose to remain a part of it. Every one of these steps is historic. Together, they have earned Gorbachev a place among the truly great figures of the 20th century.

But now the Soviet Union must turn its back resolutely on socialism, and transform itself decisively, with whatever difficulty and at whatever cost, into a true market economy. It isn't enough to talk about "market socialism" or some other cockeyed half-breed system. Socialism must be repudiated, lock, stock and barrel. And that, Mikhail Gorbachev simply cannot bring himself to do.

Nor can he bear to disestablish the Communist Party, of which he is still general secretary. It would certainly be a daunting task, for even today the party still has 14 million members, all in key positions in Soviet society. But it must be done, and with determination it can be done.

Boris Yeltsin has the determination. He resigned from the Communist Party many months ago. What's more, he is as through with socialism as he is with the party.

I DON'T KNOW WHY THERE'S BEEN SUCH A FUSS OVER OUR SALARIES. WHY, COMPARED TO SOME THINGS, OUR SALARIES ARE QUITE SMALL!

COMPARED TO WHAT? OUR PENSIONS.

Jerry's kids now his orphans

As Labor Day weekend approaches, officials at the Muscular Dystrophy Association are gearing up for the annual Jerry Lewis MDA Telethon, which is shown on more than 200 television stations to raise money for "Jerry's kids." But this year there are some new kids on the block, and they're calling themselves "Jerry's orphans." Two former MDA poster children, Cris Matthews and Mike Ervin, are organizing a nationwide campaign to boycott the telethon and, if necessary, its corporate sponsors until Lewis is removed and the MDA's pity-appeal is changed.

The anti-telethon advocates say they're determined to finally stop the portrayal of people with disabilities primarily as pitiful, hopelessly broken children who need to be fixed. "We're sending the corporate sponsors a press release that explains our position," Matthews says, "and we're trying to enlist their support for changing the telethon, but not discourage donations to MDA." The group wants corporations to continue contributing to MDA programs, but not through the telethon.

They also want cooperation from national corporate sponsors before Labor day weekend. Otherwise, boycott organizers may go a step further and target the sponsors for future protests and boycotts. The group also plans to contact many of the local TV stations that carry the telethon and ask them to withdraw. Picketing will be considered if a station isn't responsive. According to Matthews, this will be an ongoing effort until Lewis is out and things change. It may take years, but the organizers are committed to doing whatever it takes.

If you're wondering why Matthews and Ervin are throwing down the gauntlet this year, all you need to do is read the article by Jerry Lewis that appeared in last year's Sept. 2 Parade magazine. In it, Lewis wrote that if he had muscular dystrophy, he would be a "cripple" who is "half a person" and must be grateful for any help he gets, smiling helplessly in the face of cruelty from schoolmates. He referred to a wheelchair as that "steel imprisonment."

"I read it again, and cannot let a man who writes about me and my associates as half persons continue to all us his kids. We're his orphans, if the truth were known," says Matthews.

Others agree with Matthews. When the telethon was moved to Los Angeles from Las Vegas last year to cut production costs, John Neunzer and his family, along with some of his mother's co-workers, picketed the studio where it was being televised, demanding more accountability of the money being raised. Neunzer, a former MDA poster child who is now 27, carried a sign that read, "Once Jerry's kid, now a forgotten adult." This year, the telethon returns to Las Vegas, where it will be produced at the Sahara Hotel. Neunzer, however, won't be easily dismissed and is making plans to follow it there.

Are these criticisms well founded? Or are they being hurled by people Lewis derisively characterized in a 1990 Chicago Sun Times interview as "the activists ... but not my kids or anybody else who is involved with a neuromuscular problem"? It is well known, two former MDA poster children are organizing a nationwide campaign to boycott the telethon and, if necessary, its corporate sponsors until Lewis is removed.

Some disabled advocates take an even stronger stand than Matthews and Ervin and want to eliminate telethons altogether. Marilyn Phillips, an English professor at Morgan State University in Baltimore, says that trying to create a "good" telethon is like saying some slave owners were good to their slaves. "There's no such thing as a good plantation," Phillips says.

Matthews agrees that Lewis and MDA, like good slave owners, seem to be more interested in harvesting a crop of money than sowing seeds of self-esteem and dignity for people with disabilities. When asked if Jerry Lewis could be an acceptable host for the telethon if he apologized and changed his demeanor, Matthews replied she doesn't think so. "Too much damage has been done to too many people. He's gone too far, and he doesn't care."

He's still suspect in attempt on pope

WASHINGTON — The most mysterious man in Bulgaria today is either an international scapegoat or a scoundrel of historic proportions.

He is Sergel I. Antonov, and investigators from Bulgaria, Italy and the United States are poring over documents and questioning citizens throughout Bulgaria to find out whether he masterminded the attempted assassination of Pope John Paul II in 1981, and whether he did it on orders from the Soviet KGB.

The gunman was Ali Mehmet Agca, a Turk, who was convicted of the crime and sits in an Italian prison, forgiven — by the pope but not by the justice system.

At the time, Sergel Antonov was the head of the Bulgarian national airline (Balkan Air) office in Rome. He was a virtual unknown except to Western intelligence services who had identified him as a Bulgarian secret service agent like most of the Bulgarians who worked during the old communist regime in airline or tourist offices in foreign cities. Among them, Antonov was a minor blip on the intelligence screens. But after the assassination attempt, he became a consuming priority for investigators who pegged him as the man who directed the plot.

The trigger man, Agca, undoubtedly expected to be rescued from jail in Rome, but the longer he sat, the more he sang. He fingered Antonov and several other Bulgarians working in the Rome embassy as co-conspirators in the plot. After a 10-month trial, Antonov and two other Bulgarians were released. The prosecutor had failed to provide enough evidence to convict them.

Now the whole matter is receiving a new review because the new Bulgarian President Zhelyu Zhelev believes his country cannot move ahead until its past — the good, the bad and the ugly — is fully exposed.

Italian authorities and a commission headed by an American historian have begun by examining more than 100 red leather volumes that document the communist Bulgarian government's own "investigation" that whitewashed the whole affair.

Our intelligence sources say if Antonov was the mastermind in Rome, then he was being directed by the KGB. The Bulgarian security service, known as the DS for Durzhavna Sigurnost, was the one East European satellite intelligence service totally subordinate to the KGB. And Balkan Air officials were known to report directly to the KGB before reporting to their own DS superiors.

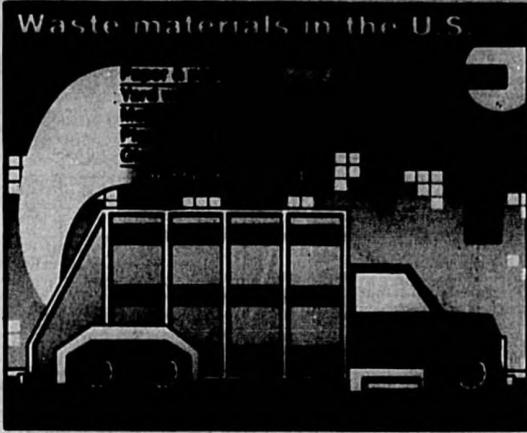

A former top Bulgarian foreign service official of that era, who has since defected to the United States, told us that Antonov boasted that he had never been to college, yet he spoke flawless Italian and was conversant in English. "I believe we (the communist government) were trying to hide the fact that Antonov had a KGB academy diploma. He must have gotten his higher education from the KGB, as did most DS agents," the defector told us.

The Soviet government of that era had one of the strongest motives to kill the Polish-born pontiff. He was strongly anti-communist and was stoking dissent in his native land of Poland.

We have also learned that a former Soviet KGB major, now living in the United States, said he discovered a plot to kill the pope when he was visiting the KGB headquarters in Poland in May 1980. He said he read a cable to the office from then-KGB chief Yuri Andropov speaking of the plan to kill the pope.

Forgiven by the pope but not by the justice system.

More than twice as much waste was produced in the United States last year in the form of paper and paperboard than in any other leading category.

Trash

should pay for the pick ups but I don't think those that don't use the service should pay for it."

Regarding Option 2, most commissioners were opposed to reducing the garbage pick up to once per week. "Garbage has a tendency to take on a rather unpleasant odor when it's left sitting around for a week," Mahoney suggested.

An earlier proposal that suggested the City may take over yard waste collection had been discarded due to the cost involved with equipment and personnel.

Hyres also presented a related proposal to the commission. He suggested the possibility of utilizing city property for the installation of a disposal site where yard trash could be mulched or turned into compost. Western Waste would operate the facility, with the mulch and compost to be sold with profits going to both the waste company and the city.

The city property requested however, was a minimum of 20 acres. Commissioner George Duryea commented, "We wouldn't have 20 acres to even consider for that purpose."

The suggestion that only persons with yard waste finance the changes in the collection, appeared to be acceptable to a majority of the commissioners, although no specific decision was made.

Mayor Randy Morris suggested the city staff meet with Hyres and discuss the possibility of financing the collections through user fees rather than a charge to all residents. "I think the commission agrees on two pick ups per week for garbage however," he said. "And one of those days will have to be yard trash pickups as well, without adding a third day collection each week."

The matter is expected to be brought up for further discussion at a later meeting, after discussions are held with Western Waste based on the results of last night's suggestions by the Commission.

Interlocal Agreement approved

LAKE MARY — The Lake Mary City Commission approved an Interlocal Agreement with Seminole County last night. The agreement pertains to the beautification project financing on the Lake Mary Boulevard Gateway corridor.

Seminole County Commissioners approved their portion of the agreement earlier this week, by a 3 to 2 vote. The city commission also ended up with a 3 to 2 vote, with Commissioners George Duryea and David Meador in opposition.

Although the agreement had been tentatively approved by the two governments, several changes had been made as a result of meetings between the city and county attorneys. Lake Mary City Attorney Ned Julian explained, "We now have the language of the agreement consistent with the decisions made previously by both parties."

Seminole County's portion of the agreement does not deal with the undergrounding of power lines along the construction route, which has been sought by the city. The power line issue was one of the objections voiced by Commissioner Meador.

"I'm concerned over what an approval of this agreement will do," Meador said. "I think there may be problems down the road that we don't know about now." He added, "There has been a lot of vocal opposition to the power line burial, and I'm convinced a majority of the people don't want the lines buried." Meador also commented that if the city used money for items such as this, they would not be able to complete Phase II of the proposed sports complex without another bond issue. "We would be doing a long term disservice to the community," he said, and urged the commission to vote against the Interlocal Agreement.

Commissioner Paul Tremel responded, "I disagree with Commissioner Meador's comments about a majority of people not wanting the lines buried." He continued, "Certainly there is a lot of vocal opposition, there is on any bond issue, but this is an opportunity to do the entire boulevard project including burial of the power lines, and I have received many calls from people supporting it."

Commissioner Duryea, was concerned about possible future costs that might not have even been considered. "I don't like to agree to something that has no end. I don't like an open ended proposal like this," he said. Regarding the vote however, he commented, "This sounds like an agreement we're going to end up doing, and if it doesn't work out, we're gonna eat the cost."

In the final vote, Duryea and Meador voting no, with Tremel, Mahoney and Mayor Morris voting in favor of it.

Tax

ment," Kelley said. Other officials said much of their spending is forced upon them by the state and federal government.

"More and more, we are a creature of the state and federal government," Rabun said. "A lot of things might be good to do, but we might not do them if they didn't tell us to do them."

Kelley added commissioners haven't approved a budget yet and there was still time for more items.

"You are talking to someone who has not voted on a budget yet," Kelley said.

Last year, Kelley voted against the $200 million county budget that included a 22 percent tax increase. This year, Kelley has asked commissioners to reconsider a 4 percent utility tax on Sept. 10 to help more unincorporated residents to share the burden of a $247 million budget this year. She opposed a 10 percent utility tax proposal last month.

"I didn't like a 10 percent tax," Kelley said. "I said roll the property tax back and spread the cost more evenly across the county. If you're thinking about (not supporting) the utility tax, all you're doing is taking it back on yourself."

A utility tax is directly paid by homeowners and renters, whereas property taxes are paid by only property owners and indirectly by renters.

But residents felt the utility tax proposal represented a betrayal to what they believed were county assurances taxes wouldn't be raised if the one-cent sales tax for road construction was approved.

"Next thing, you'll be taxing the clothes we wear," said A.L. Drummond of Vihlen Road.

Suber told the residents he had to increase property values to keep them consistent with real estate market trends. He told the residents he could not take into account age or income.

"In other words, it's an inconsiderate process," quipped Charles Best of the chuckles of the smaller group of residents.

Pensacola drops out of historic ship competition

Associated Press

PENSACOLA — This longtime Navy town, home port of the USS Lexington for most of its 49 years, has dropped out of the competition to turn the historic aircraft carrier into a museum and tourist attraction.

The City Council voted 7-3 Thursday against submitting an application to the Navy to keep the ship in Pensacola following its November decommissioning. "I suddenly feel myself going down with the ship," said Warren Briggs, a former mayor and member of the Pensacola-based USS Lexington Museum Foundation.

The action leaves three other cities in the bidding for the Lexington. They are nearby Mobile, Ala.; Quincy, Mass., where the Lexington was built, and Corpus Christi, Texas.

are the same, although their numbering is different.

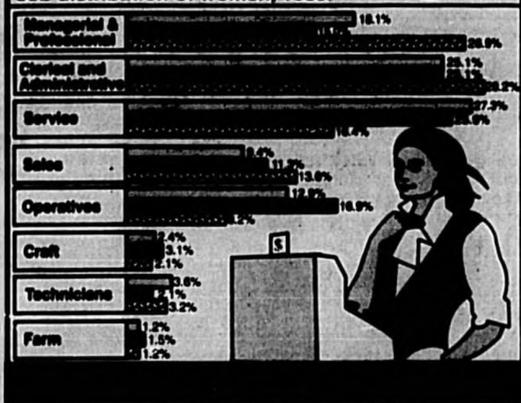

The committee will come together today to discuss the proposals. Their recommendation, along with the staff's recommendation, will be reviewed by county commissioners Sept. 10. They will adopt district changes, along with new precinct boundaries sometime in October.

School board member Nancy Warren said she favors the two alternatives that change the boundaries the least. Other representatives had not completed their review Thursday.

Fatalities

"When it (the count) was first started, and for many, many years, there was a legitimate additional risk involved in holiday travel," says Alan F. Hoskin, statistics manager for the Chicago-based council.

"If issuing an estimate helped drive that home and get people to listen to safety messages, it was a valuable activity," he added.

"Florida is unique," Boles said. "It is a very tourist-oriented state. There are a lot of things to do. I think there are more people on the highways, the major roads like I-95, I-75 and I-4, than on other weekends."

Hoskin credits the drop in holiday traffic deaths in part to increased awareness about the dangers of driving drunk and a growing tendency to fly rather than drive to holiday destinations.

Boles said about half of the 40 million Florida tourists either drive to the state or rent cars when they get here. He also refuted the NSC statement more people are using safety belts. During the July 4th weekend last month, Boles said only 2 of the 15 motorists killed were wearing a safety belt.

Boles said the FHP will inaugurate a new seat-belt awareness campaign this weekend, "Safety Belts—Smart from the Start."

"We're not saying more lives definitely would have been saved last month if more people were wearing safety belts," Boles said. "But we think there's a real good likelihood more people would be alive today."

For the three years ending in 1990, the number of traffic deaths during holidays was 1 percent higher than would have been expected during similar non-holiday periods, council figures indicate.

For the three years ending a decade earlier, the death toll was 15 percent higher during holiday periods; and in 1970, it was 16 percent higher, the council says.

The overall traffic death toll has been declining for years, settling to 46,300 last year from a high of 56,278 in 1972.

The council began tracking holiday traffic fatalities around 1947 at the request of news organizations, Hoskin said. The media wanted figures right away, rather than having to wait for annual statistics collected from law enforcement officials.

But the completeness of the counts has been questioned within the last year, he said. The figures were supplied by local authorities — such as police — around the country.

Jerry Ralph Curry, head of the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration, said he is delighted the council is abandoning holiday counts.

"The problem is they were accurate within about 30 percent," Curry said Monday. The council will, however, continue to issue pre-holiday safety tips, which this week urged people to buckle their seatbelts.

More than 16,000 people not wearing belts were killed in accidents in 1989, Hoskin said. Belts could have saved about 45 percent of those lives, he said.

Business leaders: schools fail

By DAVID E. KALISH
AP Business Writer

NEW YORK — To business, this week's report on students' dismal SAT scores was no bombshell. Unable to wait for national education reform, many employers are teaching workers math and English or "dumbing down" already basic jobs.

The latest bad news was for the college-bound students who take the Scholastic Aptitude Test, but business leaders said the broader implication is that schools are not even preparing students for the assembly line.

"In some cases businesses have had to 'dumb down' the work — spend time and money on machines and work processes that fit an undereducated workplace," said Foster Smith, senior vice president of the National Alliance of Business, a Washington-based group that represents about 3,500 companies.

The danger in simplifying tasks is that a company can handicap its ability to adopt more complex technologies that may be needed to stay competitive.

Many businesses have created on-site courses to bolster their workers' basic math and verbal skills and have formed alliances with public schools, donating time, equipment and money.

Although the results aren't visible yet, the programs are working, some leaders say.

"The worst thing someone can do is say, 'Oh my God, SAT scores are falling, we have to revamp everything,'" said John Laubenstein, associate director of the Amoco Foundation, a philanthropic arm of the oil company.

"After almost a decade of rhetoric ... there are some real things about to happen. But they just haven't had a chance to jell yet," he said.

Averages on the verbal section of the SAT slipped two points in the 1990-91 school year to an all-time low of 422 out of 800. Math averages dipped two points to 474 out of 800, the College Board said Monday.

(In Seminole County, scores went up two points in the verbal section this year, rising to an average score of 432 on the verbal section and remaining the same at 487 on the math.)

Amoco is one of several large corporations that have gone beyond in-house programs to work with school districts to try to improve education. The company said it contributed $14.2 million to education so far in 1991.

In Chicago, where the company is based, Amoco has committed $500,000 to a five-year program with the Department of Energy to retrain area public school teachers in math and science, with an emphasis on hands-on projects for kids.

The Boeing Co., based in Seattle, offers classes to bolster the basic math and verbal skills of its 158,000 workers.

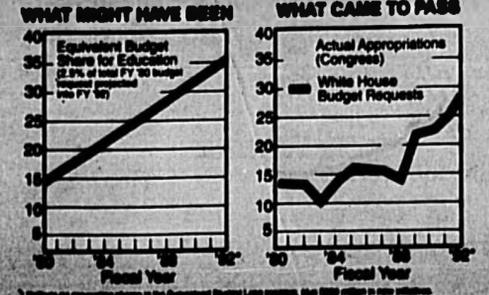

The courses now are conducted after work but Boeing spokesman Russ Young said company officials are considering offering them during work hours. Boeing also works with public schools and is mulling basic skill tests for potential hires, he said.

At US West Communications, also based in Seattle, phone operators, service people and repair workers — who have frequent contact with customers — must pass a literacy test before being hired. The company also holds one- and three-day seminars aimed at improving workers' communication skills.

Many experts expect efforts by businesses' efforts to pay off later this decade.

THE BOTTOM LINE

In 1980, education accounted for 2.5% of the federal budget. That same percentage of the budget in 1992 would amount to more than $36 billion. But between stringent White House budget requests and just slightly more generous Congressional appropriations, the education budget actually entered the 1990s with some $9 billion less than its projected share.

Federal spending on education hasn't grown as fast as the rest of the U.S. budget since 1980, according to data collected and presented by Agenda magazine. But President Bush notes: "We spend 33 percent more per pupil in 1991 than we spent in 1981."

Stalemate: Teacher contracts still unresolved by mediator

By VICKI BOGDANSKI
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — They tried, but failed. Again.

The Seminole Education Association, which represents the district teachers, and the school district reached another stalemate in their efforts to reach an agreement on a new contract for this year.

Teacher strikes are illegal in Florida so there will be no interruptions in the classroom as a result of the break down in talks.

After nearly eight hours of negotiations through a federal mediator ending about midnight last night, the union called off talks and asked that a Special Master be assigned to take over the mediation duties.

"They walked away from the negotiations," said Ernie Cowley, chief negotiator for the district.

"We didn't just throw in the towel," said Nancy Wheeler, executive director of the union. "We weren't getting anywhere with them."

With the talks off, a Special Master must be assigned to take over the mediation duties.

"That (arranging a date to meet with the Special Master) will take anywhere from two weeks to four months," Wheeler said. "We are at the mercy of their calendar."

As with the federal mediator who tried and failed to bring the sides together last night, the Special Master's services are free, provided by the Florida Public Employee Relations Committee (PERC).

At issue in the negotiations are four main points.

We didn't just throw in the towel. We weren't getting anywhere with them.

—Nancy Wheeler, executive director of the union.

The teachers are asking for a two percent raise for those teachers who are not covered by the mandatory increase. Teachers who have been employed in the district for one to 16 years automatically receive a two percent salary hike each year. Those who have been employed for 20 years or more get a $300 longevity bonus.

"But there are approximately 900 teachers who have dedicated themselves to the district for a long time who will make the same amount this year as they did last year," Wheeler said.

Wheeler said that the union understands that the budget is tight this year. She said the additional four points at issue do not involve money but are rather issues of language.

The teachers are seeking two additional paid holidays per year, a duty-free lunch period and a change in the way teachers are selected for summer school as well as a change in the way a summer school is structured.

"Usually in a year when there is no money, the district would be willing to make some concessions in language," Wheeler said.

State law allows teachers six paid holidays per year, but Seminole County instructors only have four. They are asking to remove one planning day from the beginning of the year and one from the end and replace them with paid holidays.

On the issue of duty-free lunches, Wheeler said that teachers are the employees in the district who are required to monitor children during their lunch break.

While some schools in the district have resolved the problem and are giving teachers time off to eat, the union wants the solution to be district-wide.

Summer school, Wheeler said, has always been a patronage job, but the union wants that changed.

"We don't want principals telling their teachers 'you do what I'm asking you now and you'll have a job this summer, but if you don't I'll see that you don't,'" Wheeler said.

The union is also asking for a pre-planning day for the summer school as well as a system of pre-registration.

"Teachers show up the first day of summer school and they don't know what they'll be teaching or who will be in their class," she said. "And they are expected to teach that day."

Wheeler said the district contends that to make changes in some of the school policies would take too much power away from the principals.

She noted that students suffer when teachers are not allowed to properly prepare for instruction.

"They have to remember that teacher working conditions are student learning conditions," she said.

Cowley did not comment on the specifics of the negotiations.

Kid fatalities same despite new seats

By ROBERT BYRD
Associated Press Writer

ATLANTA — More kids are riding in car safety seats these days, but child traffic fatalities have not fallen because kids are spending more time in cars, according to federal health researchers.

Each year since 1983 in the United States, about 500 to 700 children under 5 have died in traffic accidents.

Over the same period, as mandatory safety-seat laws spread to all states, use of those seats rose from 38 percent to 84 percent for children ages 1 to 4 and from 60 percent to 83 percent for infants under 1, the Centers for Disease Control reported Thursday.

"It's our suspicion that children are spending more and more time in cars, so more kids are exposed to risk for longer periods of time," said Dr. Julie Russell, an epidemiologist with the CDC's Division of Injury Control. "The restraints are very effective, but you have more kids in cars more often."

Russell cited a National Highway Traffic Safety Administration study that found, over a four-year period, a 10 percent annual increase in child fatalities at peak commuting times.

"That's generally a pretty safe time to drive, so that leads you to believe more kids are on the road," she said.

Another study has found that total miles driven in the United States are up nearly 20 percent in four years, "and you'd expect they'd take their kids along," Russell said.

Last year, 624 children under 5 were killed in motor vehicle accidents, a 14 percent drop from 712 in 1989.

"Nobody's willing to say that's the beginning of a trend," Russell said. "Statistically, you see numbers bounce around some, so we're reluctant to say one way or the other that it's going to change very much."

In 1983, 602 children under 5 died in traffic accidents; the number has hovered in the 500-to-700 range since.

Since 1985, all 50 states and the District of Columbia have required car restraints for young children. But penalties vary, and some states require restraints only up to age 1, the CDC said.

To gauge the impact of safety-seat use, the CDC tracked the percentage of infants and toddlers surviving accidents where someone else was killed. In 1983, 38 percent of infants in such crashes survived, and 60 percent were in safety seats. By 1990, 68 percent survived, while 83 percent were in safety seats.

The trend was the same for toddlers. In 1983, 21 percent survived fatal crashes, while 38 percent were in safety seats. By 1990, 52 percent survived, with 84 percent strapped in.

Prime time

FCC studying earlier TV prime time with a California test

By ALAN FRAM
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON — The Federal Communications Commission is beginning an experiment with a Sacramento, Calif., television station to find out whether viewers want their favorite programs to be broadcast earlier in the evening.

The FCC said Thursday it will temporarily allow KCRA-TV to air its prime time network programs between 6 p.m. and 10 p.m., rather than the 7 p.m. to 11 p.m. slot currently allowed on the West and East coasts.

As a result, the station will be able to broadcast its profitable late local news program at 10 p.m. instead of at 11.

The agency was responding to claims by the station and other television industry companies that with people driving longer distances to their jobs and working longer hours, viewers' habits are changing.

"Over the years, there's been a noticeable decline in viewing levels earlier and earlier," said Linda Bayley, the station's program manager. "People are going to bed earlier."

KCRA's earlier schedule will be allowed from Sept. 16 until next June 1.

The FCC said that by granting the temporary shift, detailed data could be gathered on whether people want earlier programming. Preliminary information submitted by KCRA and others already makes that assertion.

"The initial data submitted as to viewer preferences raised a sufficient question about the continued relevance of the current prime time hours," the FCC said in a written statement.

KCRA's owner, the Kelly Broadcasting Co., proposed the experiment after arguing that broadcasting prime-time shows from 7 p.m. to 11 p.m. no longer satisfies the lifestyles of Western viewers.

Bayley said that "without a doubt" one reason the station wanted to make the scheduling change was its desire to shift its late local news program from 11 p.m. to the more heavily viewed 10 p.m. slot.

The shift to earlier prime time has been opposed by two segments of the industry which stand to lose business.

One is independent stations, which often broadcast local news at 10 p.m. and would face increased competition if network affiliates moved their local newscasts to the same hour.

The other is syndication companies producing entertainment news programs and game shows that network affiliates often air just before network programs begin. If prime time began an hour earlier, many stations purchasing syndicated shows might no longer do so.

Under the prime time access rule, network affiliated stations in the country's 50 largest markets can broadcast no more than three hours of network programs during four designated evening hours.

Prime time runs from 7 p.m. to 11 p.m. on the West and East coasts and from 6 p.m. to 10 p.m. in the central and mountain time zones.

KCRA currently airs its local news show at 7 p.m.

Abortion trends dipping for youngest teenagers

By ROBERT BYRD
Associated Press Writer

ATLANTA — For the youngest teen-agers, pregnancy more often means carrying the child to term rather than having an abortion, according to a new federal report.

The national Centers for Disease Control reported Thursday that among girls under 15, there were 949 abortions for every 1,000 live births in 1988 — the lowest ratio since the advent of nationwide legal abortion. In 1980, the ratio was 1,408 abortions to 1,000 births.

"The abortion rate for teens has ... steadily declined since 1972," the CDC said. CDC researchers said the ratios are based on figures from most states; a few do not report abortion data by age group.

"There's probably no decline in the actual number of abortions (among young teen-agers); it's a decline in the proportion of pregnancies that end in abortion," said Stanley Henshaw, deputy director of research with the Alan Guttmacher Institute, a New York group studying abortion trends.

"There are more pregnancies, and you could say those added pregnancies are mostly ending in births," he said. "The reasons why they might be having births, rather than terminating pregnancies, are hard to know."

The pregnancy rate for teens under 15 has increased from 15.9 per 1,000 such girls in 1980 to 18.6 per 1,000 in 1987, said Beth Fredrick, a spokesperson for the Guttmacher Institute. "More and more teens are becoming sexually active at younger ages," she said.

Nationwide, the CDC reported 1,371,285 abortions in 1988, the latest year for which statistics are available. That marked a 1 percent increase from 1987. The yearly total has remained virtually the same since 1980, after increasing through the 1970s.

Education "strongly influenced when an abortion was performed," the Atlanta-based CDC reported. "Better educated women had an abortion earlier."

Women who had completed high school were more likely to obtain an abortion than women who hadn't. There were 433 abortions for every 1,000 live births to women with 12 years of education, equivalent to a high school education, compared with 235 for those with nine to 11 years of school.

Littering case bugs 15 Volusia judges

Associated Press

DAYTONA BEACH — A simple case of littering grew into a mountain of seemingly endless litigation.

The misdemeanor case — which began with the defendant being arrested at gunpoint — yo-yoed to the Florida Supreme Court and back. And after four years, it is back right where it started — in county court.

"I think it's absolutely ridiculous," said Nathan Dinitz, lawyer for defendant Alvin Williams. "It's the worst waste I've ever seen."

It began when Williams, 47, driver of a ready-mix concrete rig, was stopped by Deland Police Officer Margaret Lefavour from rinsing out his truck's pouring chute during a sidewalk construction project.

The officer told Williams he was littering and ordered him to pick up about a half-full of concrete he had dumped on a grassy roadside.

Williams protested, told her he had no shovel and that the contractor was obligated to clean the site before payment was made, anyway.

"Don't you have anything better to do than bother someone trying to make a living?" Williams asked.

The officer informed him he was under arrest and tried to handcuff him. Williams yanked his arm away. Another police officer, Steven Helmer, was passing by on a motorcycle. He saw the episode and stopped.

He pulled a .357-caliber Magnum revolver, pointed it at Williams' head and ordered: "Put your hands on the car or I'll blow your ... head off."

Williams was charged with littering and resisting arrest without violence. He paid a $250 bond to get out of jail. The concrete was picked up later that day by the sidewalk work crew.

The case then began its legal odyssey. Dinitz tried to get the littering charge dismissed as unconstitutional, vague and overbroad. County Judge Shawn Brice ruled the law was selectively enforced and tossed out the charge.

The state appealed, and Circuit Judge William Johnson reinstated it.

Williams appealed to the 8th District Court of Appeal, which refused to hear the case. Williams next petitioned the state Supreme Court. Justices there bounced the issue back to the appellate level.

Last week, appellate Judge Eric Peterson issued an opinion tinged with sarcasm.

Peterson quoted Williams' query about police priorities.

"Although Williams has never received an oral reply to his question, his arrest and the extensive judicial proceedings that ensued leave no doubt as to how the question would be answered," Peterson wrote.

The appeals court sent the case back to county court for reconsideration, with hopes that "the next route of appeal perhaps will be less circuitous than the first."

Dinitz complained that "we're back at the very beginning."

County workers getting new health-care options

By J. MARK SANFIELD
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — Seminole County commissioners have approved changes in health and life insurance for the county's 1,800 employees.

Hourly information sessions are scheduled for Sept. 5, 10, 13 and 18 at various locations to acquaint employees with their new options.

Commissioners approved changing life and accidental dismemberment coverage from Anthem Life to Mutual of Omaha beginning Nov. 1. Employee Relations Director German Romero said Mutual will offer the same coverage to employees, but at a slightly less cost to the county.

As before, the county will pay for employee's coverage. Coverage will remain unavailable for employee dependents, Romero said.

Health insurance policies are changing for about half the employees Nov. 1. Currently, the county offers employees health packages from Anthem, CIGNA, Av-Med and PruCare. Employees choose which plan they desire and the county pays for the coverage, regardless of differences in cost. Employees bear the expense for dependents' coverage.

To save costs, Romero said the county decided to provide health coverage under one company, CIGNA, which provides coverage to about half the county employees, offered the best rates and coverage plan, Romero said. Although overall insurance costs may increase by 14 percent, Romero said the added costs would have been substantially more by keeping the same four-company program.

For convenience, CIGNA will offer two options to employees. They will continue the current HMO — health maintenance organization which offers the lowest expense and greatest benefits but restricts employees to certain physicians.

CIGNA will also offer a "POSHMO", a point of service HMO, Romero said. Employees will then be able to choose which physicians to visit, but will have to pay more out of pocket.

The monthly premium for dependent's coverage will increase by about $2 or less for employees covered by other companies. Anthem policyholders will find the CIGNA POSHMO will save them about $5 monthly.

IN BRIEF

PRO FOOTBALL

Dolphins Signings

MIAMI — Miami Dolphins cornerback J.B. Brown and tight end Ferrell Edmunds ended summer-long contract disputes — probably too late to play in Sunday's opener at Buffalo.

COLLEGE FOOTBALL

Fox shines for UF

GAINESVILLE — Florida quarterback Brian Fox, battling for the backup position, put on an impressive passing performance in a full-contact scrimmage Thursday at Florida Field.

Fox, a junior, led the second-team offense to three touchdowns in three possessions against the third-team defense, completing 7 of 8 passes for 215 yards and two touchdowns.

On his first possession, Fox, who took the lead in the backup competition with redshirt freshman Terry Dean, drove 70 yards in five plays with senior fullback Dexter McNabb scoring on a 7-yard run.

Fox then immediately scored again, hitting a wide-open McNabb across the middle for a 70-yard scoring play. He finished with a 19-yard scoring pass to Charlie Dean.

SOUTHERN LEAGUE

SunRays lose again

GREENVILLE, S.C. — Ryan Kiesko scored the winning run in the bottom of the 12th for Greenville Thursday as the Braves beat the Orlando SunRays 2-1.

Orlando's Sean Gilbert scored the SunRays' only run in the sixth inning when he reached on a one-out walk and scored later on a Cheo Garcia single.

The game was tied by Greenville in the bottom of the eighth when John Alva reached on a catcher's interference and scored as Kiesko delivered a double to center.

Kiesko doubled again in the twelfth and scored the winning run when Jose Almedo reached on a single to short.

BASEBALL

Lemon better

GAINESVILLE — Former Detroit Tiger and Chicago White Sox player Chet Lemon was moved out of the intensive care unit Thursday after being treated for a blood-clotting disorder.

Lemon was listed in stable condition but was showing signs of improvement late Thursday, said Lisa Sherouse, spokeswoman for Shands Hospital at the University of Florida.

Lemon, who was released by the Tigers in April after nine years on the team, is suffering from a severe blood-clotting problem in his abdomen. Tigers spokesman Greg Shea said.

Burke back in school

GAINESVILLE — The Houston Astros have until Friday morning to sign first-round draft pick John Burke. If they don't, he is prepared to pitch his junior season back at the University of Florida.

Burke, the fireballing righthander who was the sixth player drafted overall in June's amateur baseball draft, told reporters Thursday that the Astros have until he attends his first class Friday morning to make a deal.

Burke, who was 9-5 last season for the Gators with a 2.25 earned-run average and 135 strikeouts in 104 innings, said that the Astros have offered a signing bonus of $360,000 and that just isn't enough for a player of his caliber.

As a comparison, Jeff Ware, the 35th overall pick taken by the Toronto Blue Jays, got a $340,000 bonus.

Canes get pitcher

MILWAUKEE — Allan Selig, president of the Milwaukee Brewers, defends the club's contract negotiations in their unsuccessful talks with top draft choice Kenny Henderson.

"We weren't using monopoly money," Selig said. "We made the fifth- or sixth-highest offer in the history of the game. We weren't kidding around."

Henderson, a pitcher, decided to begin classes Thursday at the University of Miami and become eligible for the draft in 1993.

Published reports say Henderson wanted $1 million, rejecting a Brewers offer of $500,000 plus college tuition.

Selig declined to discuss a comparison with the $1.55 million the New York Yankees paid pitcher Brian Taylor, this year's top pick.

The No. 2 draftee, outfielder Mike Kelly, signed with Atlanta for $575,000.

Sanford-bred Pirates

Blake, Lewis lead East Carolina against Illini on ESPN

From Staff Reports

CHAMPAIGN, ILL. — As if Sanford football fans don't have enough to cheer about already.

While college football-hungry Florida fans have plenty of teams to yell for this season — Florida State, Florida, Miami, U.C.F. and Florida A & M are all ranked in their respective divisions of the NCAA — Sanford plakin enthusiasts also have the East Carolina Pirates to root for.

Why East Carolina you ask?
 Because Sanford native sons Jeff Blake and Ernie Lewis are both key members of the Pirate program.

And Sanford fans will get a chance to see them play on national television this Saturday as ECU opens its season at Big 10 power Illinoi. The game will be seen starting at 4 p.m. on ESPN. The game will be the first football telecast for ESPN this year.

Blake, the son of Seminole High School head football coach Emory Blake, will be starting his second straight season as the quarterback for the Pirates.

A 6-foot, 1-inch, 194-pound senior, Blake is fourth in ECU career pass completions with 157. He is also sixth in career passing yardage with 2,080 yards.

With a good season, he could overtake the leader in both categories, Travis Hunter, who finished his career with 280 completions for 3,928 yards.

In three preseason scrimmages this year, Blake completed 58 of 108 passes for 665 yards and rushed for another 67 yards on 28 carries.

As a junior, the strong-armed Blake completed 116 of 219 passes for 1,510 yards and 13 touchdowns. During one stretch, he threw 48 consecutive passes without an interception.

He is also a threat to run as he was third on the team in rushing with 414 yards on 118 carries and four touchdowns. His 1,924 yards of total offense was a new school season record.

His play has drawn the interest of the NFL with the Chicago Bears, Houston Oilers, Los Angeles Raiders and Pittsburgh Steelers all talking to the former SHS standout. He is also on target to earn his degree in construction management in four years.

Lewis is a 6-foot, 1-inch, 216-pound inside linebacker. A red-shirt junior, Lewis was seventh on the team in tackles last season with 55, including 32 unassisted stops, despite playing on the second team. He has been impressive since becoming eligible for fall drills. While he will start the season on the second unit, he should be a major contributor to the Pirate defense.

yards on four carries to help the Gray blank the Red 17-0 in Lake Mary's annual intrasquad scrimmage Friday at Lake Mary High School's Don T. Reynolds Stadium.

Rams' offense gets best of defense

By TONY DeBORNIER
 Herald Sports Editor

LAKE MARY — Usually at this time of the football season, a given team's defensive unit is further along than the offense.

But on Thursday night at Lake Mary High School's Don T. Reynolds Stadium, Lake Mary's varsity offensive unit scored on three of four possessions against the varsity defense in the Rams' annual Red-Gray Game.

Conversely, the Lake Mary junior varsity defense shut out the junior varsity offense.

As a result, the Gray — consisting of the varsity offense and junior varsity defense — posted a 17-0 victory over the Red — made up of the varsity defense and junior varsity offense — in one half of play.

"We accomplished everything we set out to do," said Lake Mary Coach Doug Peters, beginning his third season at the helm of the Rams. "We wanted to throw the ball 15 to 20 times; we wanted to get everybody in; we wanted to see how the second teamers would play; and we wanted to see how well the offensive line was coming off the ball."

Obviously, the varsity offensive line did a fine job of coming off the ball as the Gray rushed for 157 yards on 21 carries. Before the substitutes came in, the starters had gained 174 yards on 17 rushing attempts.

Al Holt led the Gray with 71 yards and a touchdown on two carries. Quarterback Jason Rasmussen added 46 yards on four carries while fullback Titus Francis rushed four times for 41 yards. Anuah Collins had 14 yards and the Grays' second touchdown on three carries.

Rasmussen, who was able to transfer from Lake Howell to Lake Mary because his father is Ram defensive coordinator Boyd Rasmussen, completed four of seven passes for 41 yards. Matt Diemer caught two passes for 23 yards. Pete Kuc had one catch for 13 yards and Francis added a five-yard reception. Linebacker Paul Clayton intercepted one Rasmussen pass.

Norm Henkle kicked both extra points and was true on a 36-yard field goal attempt.

"The defense has been ahead of us in practice," said Peters. "The offense suffered a real letdown when Rich DiTucci (a three-year starter on the offensive line) broke his ankle. But they're starting to get it back now. And our defense didn't show much tonight."

For the junior varsity, Jermaine Hartfield gained 37 yards on 13 carries. Quarterback Justin Ruby completed one of seven passes, a seven-yard hookup with Jason Perry on his first throwing attempt. Ruby was also sacked by Pleas Akin and Jason Hackworth, resulting in a rushing total of (-17) yards.

Top-ranked Seminoles take care of Detmer, No. 19 BYU

By WENDY E. LANE
 AP Sports Writer

ANAHEIM, Calif. — Looking every bit like the nation's No. 1 team, Florida State showed why it will be tough for Ty Detmer to win two Heisman Trophies.

The Seminoles exploited Brigham Young's inexperience behind Detmer, who was sacked three times and didn't account for a touchdown until the final 7:22 Thursday night in overpowering the Cougars 44-28 in the second Pigskin Classic.

Florida State quarterback Casey Weldon thoroughly outplayed Detmer, passing for 268 yards and two touchdowns.

"Casey did a brilliant job," Florida State coach Bobby Bowden said. "He was outstanding. If I was comparing him to a baseball pitcher, he didn't rely on his fastball or his curveball. He's got it all."

Detmer, last year's Heisman Trophy winner, was 19-for-32 for 229 yards and two touchdowns with one interception. He kept his 24-game TD passing streak alive when he hit Eric Drage with a 30-yard shot with 7:22 remaining.

But it came far too late for the Cougars, whose inexperienced offensive line made Detmer an easy target all night.

"They've got great speed," Detmer said. "Every time you throw a pass, you know it's not going to get very far."

The Seminoles' explosive offense rolled up 543 yards, and Weldon completed 21 of 28 passes with no interceptions.

"I came out wanting to show there was another guy on the other side of the field," Weldon said.

Leading 28-14 at halftime, the Seminoles continued to roll in the third quarter, marching 66 yards on 11 plays to score on a 2-yard run by Edgar Bennett with 7:10 left in the period.

Detmer threw for only 16 yards in the third quarter while being sacked for an 8-yard loss. The Cougars' ground game was even worse, losing 13 yards during that span.

A bad snap on a punt by Florida State resulted in a 40-yard loss and set up the Cougars' final score, a 6-yard pass from Detmer to Eric Hughes with 2:27 remaining.

Bennett scored two touchdowns, rushing 21 times for 98 yards and making six catches for 65 yards. Amp Lee ran for 75 yards on 13 carries before leaving the game in the third quarter with a bruised shin. The injury was not found to be serious.

The Seminoles rolled to a 13-0 lead on their first two possessions as Bennett caught a 4-yard pass from Weldon and ran 3 yards for another score.

FCA Omni advancing on Atlanta

From Staff Reports

CASSELBERRY — One of the state's most successful select boys' soccer teams will be putting its reputation on the line this weekend when it ventures to Atlanta to play in the Ford/Pete' Labor Day Tournament.

The F.C.A. Omni, an Under-18 team affiliated with F.C. America, compiled a 42-6-4 record last year while winning the Orlando International Cup, taking second in the Virginian Cup and placing fourth overall in the "A" Division of the USA Cup, an international 68-team Under-19 select team tournament.

Previously affiliated with the Seminole Soccer Club until last year, the core of the team has been together since it won the state championship as an Under-15 side some three years ago. Since forming as a team, the Omni have made it a practice of always playing up an age group.

Earlier in the week, it was announced that the Under-14 F.C. United Burners would also be participating in the Ford/Pete' event.

Among the 12 returners from last year's team are Under-17 1/2 national team players Justin Walker and Frank Cipolla. Walker, from Lake Mary High School, played on the national this summer while Cipolla, from Lyman, is a member of the Under-16 national team player pool.

The Omni also boast three southern regional picks in Matt Buckmaster (Lake Mary), Rod Mentus (Lake Howell) and Ryan Scott (Ormond Beach) as well as state select players Dan McAvoy (Lyman), Brandon Reineke (Boone) and goalkeeper Quinn O'Sullivan (Winter Park).

Other returners include Jeff Onderko and Paul Klaus of Lyman, Lake Brantley goalkeeper Chris Williams and Brian Myers of Boone.

Four newcomers to the side this season, which begins with the Ford/Pete' tournament, are Will and Ken Umphreys from DeLand and Winter Park's Wolde Harris and Jamahal Green.

The Omni, who are coached by the husband-and-wife team of Roby Stahl and former UCF All-American Michelle Aker-Stahl with assistance from Ian Hailey, will open play in the Ford/Pete' tournament at 8 a.m. Saturday against Georgia's Canterbury Lions. At 2 p.m. Saturday, the Omni face Rowell Santos.

"We got a little out of sync," BYU coach LaVell Edwards said. "We have three freshmen in our defensive line. That's never happened to me in my coaching career. It takes time to get the new guys in. It can be a little frustrating."

On BYU's first three possessions, Detmer was 2-for-5, had one interception and was sacked for a 14-yard loss. But he regrouped in the second quarter and his 33-yard pass to Micah Matsuzaki keyed an 83-yard scoring drive that ended with Peter Tuipulotu's 21-yard run that made it 13-7 with 14:28 left in the half.

However, the Seminoles answered with scores on their next two possessions, on a 6-yard pass from Weldon to Eric Turrall, followed by Matt Frier's reception for a two-point conversion, and Lee's 5-yard run.

Volkasporting events are always free of charge, non-competitive and involve walking, biking, swimming or cross country skiing. The local chapter, the Mid-Florida Milers, will be hosting a walk starting from beautiful Loch Haven Park, Orlando, on the morning of Sunday, September 1. Walkers must begin between 7 a.m. and noon, and all are expected to finish the 6.2 mile trail by 3 p.m.

Debate pits mother against son

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Abby is on a two-week vacation. Following is a selection of some of her favorite past letters.)

DEAR ABBY: Our middle son, Andy, is a very intelligent young man of 19. He went to college for one year just to please us, then he quit, saying, "I don't want to waste any more of my time and your money."

His grades were fine, but he says he prefers working with his hands. He's now enrolled in a trade school and we're so disappointed in him!

I'm not putting down people who work with their hands, Abby, but it seems to me that people who work with their hands do so because they aren't smart enough to work with their minds.

Andy's father is a professional man, and both of Andy's brothers plan to enter professions.

Please say in your column that a college degree is absolutely necessary these days. After Andy graduates from college he can do anything he chooses, but we desperately want him to have a college degree first.

ANDY'S MOTHER

ADVICE

ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR MOTHER: I disagree. College is not for everybody, if Andy prefers to work with his hands, that's what he should do.

It's not true that people work with their hands because they aren't smart enough to work with their minds. Some handwork requires more skill, talent and know-how than many professions. You do your son a tremendous disservice by telling him he's "disappointed you" and urging him to go to college. Change your tune.

DEAR ABBY: May I answer "Ed in East Illinois," who asked: "Is it true that closely guarded tribal secrets on how to please a woman are passed down from father to son, making Indians better lovers than white men?"

First the white man took all the Indian's land and some of his women. Now they want the Indian's "love secrets." No way! The Indian needs something to call his own.

HALF-BLOODED INDIAN
DEAR ABBY: Now I know why the Lone Ranger never got the girl. They all ended up with Jay Silverheels, that good-looking Indian who played Tonto.

SEMINOLE IN FLORIDA
DEAR ABBY: Tell "Ed." "Yes, there are many closely guarded, secret Indian lovemaking tricks." You will notice that divorce is very rare among Indians. That's because they know how to please their women.

Secrets like the "Apache grip" and the "Kickapoo twist" will never be sold or given away by a true Indian.

MIKE WHITEFEATHER
IN SEATTLE

DEAR ABBY: In response to "Ed in East Illinois": I have lived with a Mandan Indian for five years, and I wouldn't trade him for FIVE white lovers. He is the greatest!

Local man fights for legal reforms

WINTER SPRINGS — Winter Springs resident and legal reform activist Tom Binford recently served as a delegate to the Congress of Americans for Legal Reform, where more than 100 legal reform leaders and activists from 38 states gathered to plot the course of the nationwide movement to make our legal system more fair, affordable and accessible to all people.

The Congress was held August 9-11 in Atlanta, at the same time as the American Bar Association's (ABA) annual convention to draw attention to the critical need for civil-justice reform.

"While the lawyers patted themselves on the back for what a great job they were doing, we rolled up our sleeves and got to work on how we were going to untangle the mess the legal system is in," Binford said.

Delegates had a chance to speak on legal reform topics and vote on resolutions regarding legal reform. Passed resolutions included abolishing lawyer self-regulation, ending secrecy in lawyer-discipline proceedings, creating consumer protection systems for victims of dishonest and nonethical lawyers, and reducing the amount of 'legalese' in basic documents.

"I CAN DO ALL THINGS"

As shorter days lead into cooler nights, and summer vacations are behind us, it is back to work... business as usual... with one exception... Labor Day... our annual "mini-vacation"... an opportunity to enjoy the luxury of sleeping late on a workday, and a chance to soak up some end-of-summer sun.

Cast your eyes in all directions. Above us are construction workers erecting skyscrapers. In other structures nearby, minds and machines whirl... our executive and clerical strength in action. Below us are those who labor underground as they mine our natural resources; and all around us is our labor force, giving of strength and intellect, compassion and courage.

Reward yourselves on Labor Day, your day, for the tasks you perform and the services you render each day. Moreover, may we remember to give thanks to God as we worship Him on His day, each Sabbath; for our Heavenly Father has blessed us with those resources with which we labor throughout the year.

As you daily endeavor to give of your best, may your strength remain constant as you affirm, "I can do all things through Him who strengthens me." (Phil. 4:14)

Attain, maintain spiritual fitness

There are many people who are concerned about physical fitness. Dozens of books are written annually on the subject. Television offers programs for those who are serious about getting into shape, physically speaking.

I'm not promoting any book or program in this area. I do want you to think about a guide to spiritual fitness. This kind of fitness doesn't come all wrapped up in a gift box, with a pretty ribbon. A spiritual life is more like a pilgrimage, and we are all at different stages of that journey. Some are far advanced, and others are just beginning.

All of us need to know that we have to make an honest beginning if we are to become spiritually fit. There are no shortcuts. You start where you are in order to reach your goal.

I would suggest that you have to establish a regular pattern.

"A spiritual life is more like a pilgrimage, and we are all at different stages of that journey."

-The Rev. James E. Ulmer

We have all known people who seem to breathe the atmosphere of devotion. They seem to live in a beautiful and intimate relationship with God. It seems so natural and effortless and we tend to envy them. We forget that they had to start somewhere. It didn't happen overnight. They kept the promise they made to themselves and God about becoming spiritually fit. They developed an inner harmony and wholeness over the years. It helped them become able to meet the stress and strain of everyday life. God wants all of us to enjoy the benefits of spiritual fitness. Begin today if you have not already started on your program. Continue your routine on your journey to spiritual health if you have already begun. You can become spiritually fit for the challenge of life.

James E. Ulmer is pastor of Christ United Methodist Church, Sanford.

Many people walk a certain number of miles every day in order to become and remain physically fit. The same is true if we are to be spiritually fit. It means saying no to all those diversions that take you away from the pattern you have developed in your spiritual life. Worship on a regular basis. Pray because it is a normal part of your regular routine.

Welcome home to Rev. Welch, wife

Seek diagnosis if glands are swollen

DEAR DR. GOTT: The lymph nodes and glands in my neck, underarms and groin area are sore and swollen. I've had pain in the nodes of my breasts for over three months also, yet blood tests for mono come back negative. What is my problem?

reach a diagnosis, seek a consultation with a hematologist.

To give you more information, I am sending you a free copy of my Health Report "Blood." Other readers who would like a copy should send $1.25 plus a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to P.O. Box 91369.

DEAR READER: The body's lymph glands (or lymph nodes) serve many functions. In particular, they act as filters (to remove infected material and microorganisms from the system) and as sources of blood cells and proteins that are essential to the immune system.

Thus, lymph glands will enlarge and may become tender when they are overworking.

All of us are familiar with the swollen glands in the neck that accompany sore throats. Or, if there is an infection on the hand, the lymph nodes under the arm may temporarily enlarge. This is a normal response to infection in an area of the body.

On the other hand, generalized lymph-node swelling (lymphadenopathy) may reflect a more serious condition, such as a systemic body infection, mononucleosis (and similar ailments) or lymph-node cancer (lymphoma).

Because you appear to have persisting, painful lymphadenopathy, you will need further testing to rule out one or more of the conditions I mentioned. For example, histoplasmosis (a fungus infection) and cytomegalovirus infection (a virus inflammation resembling mononucleosis) are common causes of lymphadenopathy and can be diagnosed with skin and blood tests.

Should your swollen glands persist, you will need a biopsy to discover whether a lymphoma (or other blood disorder) is present.

Return to your family physician for further examination and advice. If he or she is unable to

WIN AT BRIDGE

By Phillip Alder

In today's hand you are in three no-trump. West leads a low spade. What is your line if East plays (a) the queen or (b) the ace, and returns the spade nine?

First let us consider the situation when East plays the spade queen. Often it is right to duck with K-J-x, but this isn't one of those positions. You should win with the spade king, cross to dummy with a club to the 10 and run the heart queen. The finesse loses, but West cannot hurt you. If he continues spades, you have a second stopper in the jack. If he switches to a diamond, you win with dummy's ace and cash your nine tricks: one spade, three hearts, one diamond and four clubs.

What happens if East wins trick one with the spade ace and returns the spade nine? If you win with the king and take a losing red-suit finesse, the opponents may be able to cash enough spade tricks to defeat you. The right play is to finesse your spade jack. Here it loses to West's queen and a spade comes back to your king.

The correct play now is to run the diamond jack (or nine). If the finesse wins, repeat the finesse and have a shot at an overtrick or two. If the finesse loses and East still has a spade left, that suit must have been 4-4 at the beginning, so you are safe. Here the finesse loses, but East cannot do better than switch to a heart. You win with the ace and take your 10 tricks: one spade, one heart, four diamonds and four clubs.

YOUR BIRTHDAY

Aug. 31, 1991

Several sizable opportunities may fall into your lap in rapid succession in the year ahead. If they are merely taken for granted and not developed properly, Lady Luck might desert you.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Occasionally, we deprive ourselves of knowledge because we consider the source unworthy. This might happen to you today — if you're condescending when dealing with others. Know where to look for romance and you'll find it. The Astro-Graph Matchmaker instantly reveals which signs are romantically perfect for you. Mail $2 plus a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Matchmaker, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, OH 44101-3428.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) A friend you do business with has never given you what you consider a really good deal. Before patronizing this individual again today, why not shop around a bit first?

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) The safest course to pursue today is to be yourself. Trying to be all things to all people won't win approval, least of all from you.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Before tackling a new do-it-yourself project where you have to invest in materials and tools, be sure it isn't just a momentary fancy. This could become a costly whim.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) You may leave something to be desired in the management of your resources today. You could even be less effective directing the affairs of another.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) A volatile issue you and your mate disagree on should be avoided today. Neither of you is likely to be able to alter or tolerate the other's opinion.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Feelings of insecurity might tempt you to exaggerate your exploits in an unbecoming manner today. Sometimes, others can tell tall tales and get away with it; you can't.

ARIES (March 21-April 19)

NON

View with skepticism today anything proposed to you that promises something for nothing. It's apt to be nothing more than an unscrupulous promotion.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) A situation that has already caused you aggravation could become even more complicated today — if you resurrect your grievance. Be forgiving and let bygones be bygones.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) You could be too trusting and gullible today, and this may not serve your best interests. Insist upon verifiable disclosures in all your commercial dealings.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) If you are involved socially today with someone who usually disappears before the bill arrives, try to have an understanding in advance as to how the expenses will be handled.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Business associates will likely learn more from you than you will from them in conversations today. They'll keep their secrets, but you may not keep yours. (C)1991, NEWSPAPER ENTERPRISE ASSN.
