Carter Takes Stock,

Sees No Quick Cure

ST. SIMONS ISLAND, Ga. (AP) President-elect Carter says those who think "we have automatic answers or easy answers to tough questions would be misleading themselves," and several of his key advisers are beginning to offer statements that seem geared to lower Americans' expectations. In a television interview taped earlier for broadcast today, Carter expressed confidence that "the things that we have promised during the campaign can be delivered." But Carter press secretary Jody Powell told reporters Tuesday that it would be unrealistic to expect promised defense budget savings of $5 billion to $7 billion prior to the 1979 fiscal year that begins Oct. 1, 1978.

GI Benefits Deadline

WASHINGTON (AP) - Friday is the last day you can enlist in the military and get full GI education benefits at government expense. After 1977 begins, new enlistees will have to contribute some of their own money in a new. voluntary GI education plan. Those who sign up for the new education program will have to contribute $50 to $75 monthly from their pay, up to a maximum of $2,-700, to receive GI educational aid.

Inaugural Art Readied

WASHINGTON (AP) - Jimmy Carter's inauguration will be immortalized by five top figures in American art - Andy Warhol, Jacob Lawrence, Roy Lichtenstein, Robert Rauschenberg and Jamie Wyeth.

The Presidential Inauguration Committee announced Tuesday that it has commissioned the five to record their impressions of the inauguration, and will raise funds for the event by selling 100 sets of their signed prints for $2,500 each.

Daley's 2nd Post Studied

CHICAGO (AP) - After picking the late Richard J. Meanwhile, Alderman Roman C. Pucinski, a former congressman, became the first formal candidate Tuesday for the upcoming special election for mayor of the nation's second largest city. Under state law, the election must be held within six months.

Ford Re-evaluates Amnesty

WASHINGTON (AP) - Prodded by a highly publicized request by Sen. Philip Hart's widow, President Ford has asked for information that could be used to re-evaluate an amnesty program for Vietnam draft evaders. But administration officials say Ford's effort is minimal. The Justice Department said Tuesday that at the request of the administration, figures were sent to the White House on Ford's own clemency program, which

State Health Policies Upped

Blue Shield rate increases averaging about 25 per cent will cost the state about $1.19 million more on its group health insurance policy, says Lt. Gov. Jim Williams.

He announced on Tuesday that the state is renewing its group health policy, despite the increases, but said the search is on for cheaper health insurance options.

Williams said the state's policy was renewed for one year, effective Feb. 1, after the increase was analyzed and found "to be justified because of rising medical costs, inflation and increased utilization of the benefits of the program by state employes."

Foreign Trade Zone Okayed

FORT LAUDERDALE (AP) - A 30acre tract near Fort Lauderdale has been designated as the first foreign trade zone in Florida — a move to give businesses a break on duties and excise taxes.

Pay Increases May Be Justified

With the plight of the unemployed and some discouraging economic statistics dominating the agenda of a new administration and Congress, it seems a poor time to propose salary increases for top officials of the federal government. But the federal Commission on Executive, Legislative and Judicial Salaries has done what it is supposed to do - reviewed the federal salary picture and recommended changes.

The commission headed by former Commerce Secretary Peter G. Peterson, a New York investment banker, is making a persuasive case for substantial pay increases at the higher levels of federal service. We would recommend that President Ford include the pay proposals in the budget he submits to Congress next month, but with one important proviso. He should add his voice to the commission's companion recommendation that the pay raises be tied to reform in the rules that govern outside income, conflict of interest and other matters affecting the total earnings and expense allowances of federal officials.

The main argument for raising the pay of the vice president, Cabinet members, Supreme Court justices, federal judges and members of Congress is that they have had only one 5 per cent pay increase since 1969. In that same period the civil service schedules that cover most federal employes have risen by 66 per cent and the cost of living has risen 61 per cent. There is not just a question of equity, but the practical problem of a shrinking difference between the pay of employes and their bosses.

President-elect Carter has acknowledged that have turned him down. We don't know if they were thinking about the pay, currently $63,000 a year. but they might have. As impressive as that figure may seem it is not that impressive compared to income levels in top positions of corporate management, law firms, educational institutions and other traditional sources of the expertise needed at high levels of a $435 billion a year federal

That reforms in the conditions of federal service should accompany the pay increases is imperative, especially for members of Congress whose salaries would go from $44,600 to $57,500 under the commission proposal. A figure like that should eliminate any justification for lecture fees and other outside earnings that some senators and congressmen collect to pad their income. Congress put an annual ceiling on those earnings last year. It should be willing to rule them out altogether as a condition for higher pay

Although it may be hard to convince many taxpayers that salaries in the $60,000-$80,000 range for top government jobs are justified, the marketplace for talent is what it is. We need the highest level of stewardship in our government and must reward it on a scale commensurate with competition and the cost of the life-style of officialdom. The proposed new salaries can be made acceptable if they are coupled with new assurances that the people who draw them are bound to the strictest codes of ethics in their role as public showdown over disposal of spent fuel from nuclear power plants. This could be a test of whether a dangerous proliferation in nuclear weapons technology can be curbed.

We are on solid ground in refusing to supply more enriched uranium for an Indian power reactor unless the Indians return all of the spent fuel from uranium we have supplied previously. In reprocessing its own fuel elements to obtain plutonium for an explosive device tested in 1974, India went back on a commitment not to use imported nuclear materials for weapons

India is complaining that failure of the United States to deliver enriched uranium could mean a heavy financial loss on a nuclear power plant waiting to use it. That's a consequence the Indians should have considered when they first decided on a secret program to develop atomic explosives.

Some researchers say there may be a link between the chemical spray and the appearance of a rare disease called Reye's Syndrome among children in the Maritimes.

MONTREAL, Que. (AP) - Imasco Ltd. said Tuesday it will buy 1,200,000 shares from a fast-food chain in the United States. The shares are to be issued by Hardee's Food Systems Inc. of Rocky Mount, N.C., at $12.50 a share.

Hardee's president Jack Laughhtery said the $15 million raised from the sale of shares will be used to reduce longterm debts and allow the chain to expand the number of company-owned restaurants.

Imasco is a tobacco product manufacturing firm which has diversified into food products, retailing and other srvices.

...That's The Question In Tallahassee And Seminole

The exotic weed-eating fish - the white amur — has pitted two state agencies against each other. And, the sparks from that confrontation in Tallahassee have fueled a like struggle here in Seminole County.

Staunchly opposed to introduction of the weed carp to three Seminole County lakes is Commissioner John Kimbrough, Mainly, Kimbrough fears the weed eater, if placed in Seminole's lakes, might make its way into the St. Johns and or the Wekiva River.

"I cannot verify the state's theory of safety," the Republican commissioner noted. Kimbrough pooh-poohs the fact that petitioners on Lake Orienta, Lake of the Woods and Mirror Lake say they want the state to introduce the amur in hopes of ridding lakes of pesky hydrilla.

"If the people on Lake Orienta were for venereal disease, that wouldn't mean I would be for it. Because it might spread," Kimbrough said. Petitions were gethered.

brough said. Petitions were gathered by Commission Chairman Dick Williams and presented to his associates at a meeting two

Lawyers for the Game and Fresh Water Fish Commission on Wednesday pressed their arguments for a Cabinet hearing on the amur,

Analysis

Natural Resources (DNR) say can help unclog weed-choked Florida waterways. On Jan. 6, 1977, Gov. Reubin Askew and his advisers are scheduled to decide whether the DNR or the Game and Fresh Water Fish people has the authority to act as the top pollution-fighting agency in Florida. If the DNR wins out, the amur could go into Though the fish is opposed by Kimbrough and Republican Commissioner Bill Kirchhoff, Williams has the support of Commissioner Bob French. At Tuesday's meeting, the commission deadlocked on the issue. County Commissioner Harry Kwiatkowski, the deciding vote, was absent. But Kwiatkowski, according to Kimbrough, favors the amur. Williams says he is for the amur if assurances are given that the Asian carp won't be able to get into the county's rivers, something Game and Fresh Water Fish officials fear could happen.

At Tuesday's meeting, Williams had wording introduced into a resolution which would place that responsibility on the state. But Kimbrough said today it may be impossible to pointed out empty lakes, oftentimes mysteriously, will fill up with fish — if conditions are favorable.

With that in mind, he said he does not believe the state can guarantee the amur will not make its way in the St. Johns or the Wekiva, where officials say the weed carp can breed in fast-flowing waters. The amur, officials say, cannot breed in stagnant water,

Wekiva, officials fear the game-fish population could be wiped out. That's because the amur gobbles up hydrilla. Organisms game fish feed on depend on hydrilla for their

At the heart of the dispute, statewide, is a conflict between the agencies' missions: DNR is responsible for aquatic plant control and the commission is responsible for protecting fish

In Seminole it's like a gambler's game of Russian Roulette. Place the amur in Seminole's waters, and the possibility exists that the game fish population will be shot. That, Kimbrough explains, would be "ex-tremely unfortunate for the people of
