BASEBALL'S IMMORTALS VOTED PLACES IN HALL OF FAME

Players and sportswriters voting in the poll to select players meriting places in baseball's hall of fame at Cooperstown, N. Y., could agree only on five men—although scheduled to pick ten—to represent the period from 1900 to the present day. Top choice was Ty Cobb (foreground), the "Georgia Peach," who set a staggering assortment of records in his stormy playing career with the Detroit Tigers. He received 222 votes, only four short of unanimous. The others chosen, left to right, were Babe Ruth and Hans Wagner, who polled 215 votes each; Christy Mathewson, next, with 205, and Walter Johnson, fireball king, who qualified with 183. In the background is the memorial hall in Cooperstown where baseball's centennial will be celebrated in 1933. (Associated Press Photos)

WHEN IT'S WINTER DOWN SOUTH

If Grace Pomeroy were back home in her native Minneapolis, where the mercury is diving below zero, she'd be sitting in the chimney corner thinking up more ways to keep warm. ## SALLY ADDS FUR COAT TO FANS

When Sally Rand, of fan and bubble fame, came to Columbia, S. C., on a theatrical tour, she found heavy snow had fallen over the city. And so she wore a fur coat, along with her fans, for a dance on the State House lawn after addressing the legislature. (Associated Press Photo)

FLOOD TORRENTS ROLL OVER ALABAMA

Alabama bore the brunt of a mid-winter flood that caused four deaths and great property damage in southern states. The Warrior river is shown (top) after inundating homes at Warrior, Ala. The house at the right was lashed to a tree to prevent it from being washed away. Hastily unstrapping what possessions they could, the family of Don Jackson (below) presented a scene typical of the flood zone as they waited beside their home near Warrior for transportation to higher ground. ## PROOF OF DEAD YOUTH'S TRIUMPH

This photograph, found in the camera of Delmar Fadden, ended all doubt that the Seattle youth reached the summit of Mount Ranier in mid-winter—a feat no person ever had accomplished—before he was dashed to death on the peak's snow-covered side. The picture shows the ice-choked crater at the summit. (Associated Press Photo)

Poor Sally And Her Fans

We have heard a great deal about underpaid and overworked workmen. And no doubt many of them are. But lately we have not heard so much about the mechanic who gets paid for fixing your car but fails to fix it, the plumber who was supposed to repair the plumbing, but only succeeded in messing up the bathroom, the carpenter who was paid to repair the leak in the roof, but only made it worse.

But Sally Rand paints a pretty interesting picture of the other side of the story after arriving in Tampa the other day only to find that her trunk full of fans and bubbles had been left in Jacksonville, not by herself, not by her maid, but a truck, a well paid, underworked, truck driver. And this is how Sally told the story to a Tribune reporter.

"You know," she said, "I pay my crew of truck drivers $300 a week. I pay my stage handlers $200 a week. Five hundred dollars a week for doing nothing. Absolutely nothing! Nothing, I say!!!!"

The blonde head began to toss, the violet eyes to flash, this writer to flinch.

"Every one of my company of 40 people carries two trunks," she continued, a little calmer. "Some of them even carry three trunks. I carry one little trunk. One little trunk that weighs 125 pounds. One little trunk !!!"

"This morning at Jacksonville, my $300-dollar a week truck driver and my $200 a week stage handlers put 99 of our 100 trunks onto the trucks and left one trunk with me, in Jacksonville. And in that trunk are my fans and bubbles. I pay them $500 a week to leave my bubbles and my fans about the countryside! The perversion of inanimate objects! Inanimate objects, I say!!!!"

Fortunately, at this moment, in rushed one of her managers.

"Have you arranged for the musicians?" demanded Sally.

"Yes," stammered the manager.

"When are they going to rehearse?"

"This afternoon, right away," said the manager.

Sally turned back to this writer.

"That's something else," she said. "We employ musicians in every town in which we play. And we have trouble wherever we go. I can't understand men, ever."

It was at this point that we told Sally goodbye.

"You follow Rand around and you'll go mad," was her parting salute.

Making The Most Of News

Want a job? Then read the newspapers! That's the tip which Dr. Walter B. Pitkin, author and psychologist, gives to youthful career-seekers.

"Events make news. Events determine jobs," he says in the current Rotarian Magazine. "Young people can, if they will, get their bearings and frequently find their 'chance of a lifetime' through nothing but careful reading and interpretation of the news published in the best of our large metropolitan papers. And useful information may be found in country weeklies, county dailies and medium-sized papers."

He cites typical examples in such headlines as these: "1,500 Co-operative Stores Are Launched During Year," "Color Photography Opens Field for Young Artists," "Currency Controller Sees Need for Trained Bankers," "County Manager Planned," etc. The story in each case gives helpful details.

"The next time some jobless youth or maid reports forlornly that he feels unwanted in this cruel world," he recommends to those adults who want to help, "suggest kindly that he retire to the nearest public library with a stack of newspapers, and let him look for jobs behind the news. Equally important, if he seeks a career in fields which seem overcrowded, let the news warn him against making the heartbreaking mistake of following through where he hasn't a chance."

And how can young people make the most of the news? Dr. Pitkin summarizes as follows:

1. "By genuinely reading the daily papers, just for a change. We have too many young comic-strip artists, and too few thoughtful newspaper readers."

2. "By subscribing to a top-notch metropolitan paper."

3. "By reading local papers from many parts of the country when possible. Dozens of these are usually on file in public libraries."

4. "By keeping a scrapbook of all information bearing on the careers the young people would like to consider."

5. "In short, by becoming alert, well informed citizens who recognize that wide information and the intelligent interpretation of news, not the job want-ads, ought to determine successful careers."

"For further details," he concludes, "see your daily newspaper."

SANFORD TWENTY YEARS AGO

Jimmy Thomas, representing the S. F. Richards Paper Co. of Atlanta, called on the local trade yesterday. He reports trade good but it will soon be difficult to get the different grades of fine commercial paper on account of the war in Europe.

The committee appointed by the Board of County Commissioners to take charge of the Seminole County exhibit at Orlando is busy getting everything in shape for the big event and details will be there with him on when the gates open next Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. E. F. Wheeler of Ocala took quite a number of young folks to the picnic for a week's fishing and boating. Others are expected going Friday night and returning Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Lee of Lake Champlain returned from a very pleasant trip to Fort Myers.

Dr. J. H. Campbell, representing the S. F. Richards Paper Co. of Atlanta, called on the local trade yesterday. He reports trade good but it will soon be difficult to get the different grades of fine commercial paper on account of the war in Europe.

FLORIDA HIGHLIGHTS

In a tiny laboratory in Fort Myers, Thos. A. Edison perfected many of the remarkable inventions he gave to mankind. Here also was the principal scene of his last great endeavor—to develop from goldenrod an emergency rubber supply in time of war. At the time of his death, the work was practically completed. He had spent 47 successive winters in Florida.

The Surinam-Cherry, which thrives in South Florida, bears two crops within a month! The main crop, which is usually very heavy, ripens at one time, extending over a period of about 2 weeks; following this, the plant produces scattering flowers, and begins to produce a second crop, which ripens about a month later. The fruit of this plant is very delicious when fully ripe. Under favorable conditions the Surinam-Cherry is one of the most prolific of fruits and its flowers are exceedingly fragrant.

Congressman Peterson Asked To Aid In "Rescue" Of President And Democrats Of This Section Of State Of Florida

Writing to Congressman J. Hardin Peterson on the subject of the Cross-State Canal, Mrs. H. M. Papworth closes with the request: "Please, Mr. Peterson, can you not rescue the President of the United States and the Democrats of Central Florida from an intolerable dilemma?"

In reply to Mrs. Papworth's letter, Congressman Peterson told of appearing before a subcommittee and subjected to the appropriation for the Cross-State Canal and added that "I do not feel that anyone, a good Democrat, should hold this against the President. I feel the same way you do about it," he continued. "At the present time, under present conditions, I oppose the canal, but on the other hand it won't cause me to run out on my President and I wouldn't even think of voting any other ticket."

Mrs. Papworth's letter to Congressman Peterson, in part, is as follows: "The Sanford Woman's Club of which I am chairman of the civic department, and the Sanford Garden Club of which I am convalescent chairman, both passed resolutions asking for assurance that our water would be protected."

"I have before me the latest report of the War Department from the U. S. Engineer's Office at Ocala, Dec. 21. The report contains a statement that some convincing research had been made and that water table would not be seriously affected by the canal, and that water table would not be lowered—such a result would be most disastrous to our crops."

can be produced, and prices are rapidly rising back to normal. We can see, at the end of the rainbow, a chance to pay off mortgages and make ourselves secure.

"Are we to lose the water upon which all business including the banks depend, our livelihood and our homes?"

"We are not fighting the building of the canal, but we must respectfully petition that if and when Congress votes an appropriation for this Cross-State Canal, they will add to the $146,000,000, estimated cost, an amount sufficient to make a lock form canal or to correct in some way, any damage to our subterranean reservoir."

"As I am writing you a personal letter without authority from any club, I am at liberty to say that some of us find ourselves in an anomalous position. We are good Democrats, many of us in this section. But the Republicans are making political capital out of the canal. They are sidling up to us as 'sisters under the skin' in the belief that, as we object to the canal, we must also be against the New Deal and the who's recovery program of the Administration."

"We believe our President to be a great and good man, who exemplifies perhaps more than any other leader of a nation who ever lived the possibility of combining the principals of Church and State, the Golden Rule with Practical Politics. We do not believe that he would knowingly endorse a project for relief in one quarter at the sacrifice of another—unless he was led astray by his own constituents."

"Please, Mr. Peterson, can you not rescue the President of the United States and the Democrats of Central Florida from an intolerable dilemma?"

"Very respectfully yours, 'JUNA L. PAPWORTH'."

When passing laws about the crops in "right," it should be passed in a sound manner.

History Turned Back On Sanford 99th Anniversary

er, noted author who married a member of the Sanford family, and by S. O. Chase, present owner of the Sanford estate of Palmyra and the last speaker on the program.

State Senator A. M. Taylor of St. Augustine was master and his wife accompanied many a "lunch, though the addresses were not wholly factual, nearly all the speakers bringing in their talks laughable anecdotes of days gone by.

The first person introduced to the assembly was T. A. Mellon of Pittsburgh, Pa., distant relative of Captain Charles Mellon but merely acknowledged the introduction. Senator Taylor announced that Mr. Mellon will trace the lineage of his family and read a paper at the 100th anniversary of Founders' Day in Sanford.

Joshua Coffin Chase, told the diners that the date of Feb. 8, marks the anniversary of the historical society of the state. George R. Farbanks was the society's first president, and it was Farbanks who sold to General J. J. Finegan the tract of land on Lake Monroe that became known as the Lovv Grant and that was bought by General Sanford in 1870. On this land was built the City of Sanford.

Mr. Bacheller said that Sally Sanford was a school girl when Washington was president, and Sally married Mr. Bacheller's grandfather. She was widowed early in life and the family migrated to the "Far West" of New York State where Irving Bacheller was reared in strict Puritanical surroundings. In those days, he said, "children never told their parents where to get off, and the parents never got off." He gave an interesting story of his boyhood days when he was constantly forced to forewear cleanliness and fevelity, and always to live with the thought of some day becoming president.

Harrison Holt, president of Rollins College, told his hearers that he is "more interested in historians of the past than in the historians of the past" though he went back farther in history than did the other speakers. His sixth great grandfather's name was handed as a week after being denounced by Cotton Mather as the paragon of the devil himself.

S. O. Chase closed the speaking program by reading a biographical sketch of General Sanford in which he traced ancestry back to 1631, and told of his employment as ownership of the Sanford estate since Mr. Chase came to this section as a boy. He told of the con-

General College Discussed By Sanford Boy In Address At Meeting Of Student Body

An interpretive talk on the General College of the University of Florida was delivered by the student body of Seminole High School last week by Randall D. Priest, of Sanford, a freshman at the University. Similar addresses were delivered by other freshmen in various schools of the state.

Mr. Priest told the student body that the General College plan is not a new experiment because, he declared, it has been tested before in many large colleges and has proved "very beneficial," though he said that some adjustments would have to be made at the University of Florida. According to the University freshman, the average student will be able to complete the work of the General College in two years.

There are four major purposes of the General College, Mr. Priest stated. These he explained as follows:

"The first major purpose is to broaden the base of education for students who are preparing for study in the colleges and professional schools of the upper division. You will not specialize in any particular field as has previously been the case; instead, you will spend two years preparing for the Upper Division and at the same time you will be deciding which college in the Upper Division you wish to enter."

Frank Parsons said: "It is better to choose a vocation than to hunt a job."

"The second major purpose is to satisfy the needs of those who have only a limited time to remain at the University. In the past about sixty percent of the University students received their training the first year; therefore, the General College is designed to give you a general, well-rounded college education in two years. If, however, it is possible for you to remain at the University, you will be better prepared for the work in the Upper Division."

"The third major purpose is to provide a program of educational and vocational guidance. It will interest all of you to know that you do not receive grades in the General College. Instead, each student has individual conferences with each of his professors at the middle and end of each term. At this conference progress reports are made. On these reports you rate yourself as to the progress you think you are making and your professor rates you as to the progress he thinks you are making."

"The fourth major purpose of the General College is to develop the ability of the student to think and to make adjustments having to do with the changing conditions of modern life. The student is taught to take a problem and think it out thoroughly for himself. He that never thinks can never be wise."

Mr. Priest said that a student at the General College has an unlimited amount of freedom and that "it is the student himself who is responsible for the way he uses his freedom." "You are on your own" at the General College, he declared.

He said that the main thing the new college requires is the ability to read, because every one of the comprehensive courses requires a large quantity of reading. The authorities who selected the reading material for these courses selected books that they thought freshmen would enjoy reading. They succeeded with some of the books, but there are a few that will be changed or discarded, due to the fact that they do not meet their requirements.

A significant feature of the General College is the requirement for graduation from the General College. Credits and semester hours have been eliminated. The student must successfully pass these six comprehensive course examinations on the two elective courses that he takes his sophomore year. Five of the six comprehensive course examinations will be given in June; the other one being divided into two one-semester courses will be given at the end of each semester.

Mr. Priest closed his address before the student body with the declaration: "I am sure that if you try this new system at the University of Florida you will discover that it will aid you in your problem of when to zig and when to zag."

Poor Sally And Her Fans

We have heard a great deal about underpaid and overworked workmen. And no doubt many of them are. But lately we have not heard so much about the mechanic who gets paid for fixing your car but fails to fix it, the plumber who was supposed to repair the plumbing, but only succeeded in messing up the bathroom, the carpenter who was paid to repair the leak in the roof, but only made it worse.

But Sally Rand paints a pretty interesting picture of the other side of the story after arriving in Tampa the other day only to find that her trunk full of fans and bobbies had been left in Jacksonville, not by herself, not by her maid, but a truck, a well paid, underworked, truck driver. And this is how Sally told the story to a Tribune reporter.

"You know," she said, "I pay my crew of truck drivers $300 a week. I pay my stage handlers $200 a week. Five hundred dollars a week for doing nothing. Absolutely nothing! Nothing, I say!!!!"

The blonde head began to toss, the violet eyes to flash, this writer to flinch.

"Every one of my company of 40 people carries two trunks," she continued, a little calmer. "Some of them even carry three trunks. I carry one little trunk!"

Again we put up our guard to ward off a possible left hook from a five feet, two-inch, 112-pound enraged bubble dancer without her bubble.

"This morning at Jacksonville, my $300-dollar a week truck driver and my $200 a week stage handlers put 99 of our 100 trunks onto the trucks and left one trunk mine, you, in Jacksonville. And in that trunk are my fans and bobbies. I pay them $500 a week to leave my bobbies and my fans about the countryside! The pervarsity of inanimate objects! Inanimate objects, I say!!!!"

Fortunately, at this moment, in rushed one of her managers.

"Have you arranged for the musicians?" demanded Sally.

"Yes," stammered the manager.

"When are they going to rehearse?"

"This afternoon, right away," said the manager.

Sally turned back to this writer.

"That's something else," she said. "We employ musicians in every town in which we play. And we have trouble wherever we go. I can't understand man, ever."

It was at this point that we told Sally goodbye.

"You follow Rand around and you'll go mad," was her parting salute.

Making The Most Of News

Want a job? Then read the newspapers! That's the tip which Dr. Walter B. Pitkin, author and psychologist, gives to youthful career-seekers.

"Events make news. Events determine jobs," he says in the current Rotarian Magazine. "Young people can, if they will, get their bearings and frequently find their 'chance of a lifetime' through nothing but careful reading and interpretation of the news published in the best of our large metropolitan papers. And useful information may be found in country weeklies, county dailies and medium-sized papers."

He cites typical examples in such headlines as these: "1,500 Co-operative Stores Are Launched During Year," "Color Photography Opens Field for Young Artists," "Currency Controller Sees Need for Trained Bankers," "County Manager Planned," etc. The story in each case gives helpful details.

"The next time some jobless youth or maid reports forlornly that he feels unwanted in this cruel world," he recommends to those adults who want to help, "suggest kindly that he retire to the nearest public library with a stack of newspapers, and let him look for jobs behind the news. Equally important, if he seeks a career in fields which seem overcrowded, let the news warn him against making the heartbreaking mistake of following through where he hasn't a chance."

And how can young people make the most of the news? Dr. Pitkin summarizes as follows:

1. "By genuinely reading the daily papers, just for a change. We have too many young comic-strip artists, and too few thorough newspaper readers.

2. "By subscribing to a top-notch metropolitan paper.

3. "By reading local papers from many parts of the country when possible. Dozens of these are usually on file in public libraries.

4. "By keeping a scrapbook of all information bearing on the careers the young people would like to consider.

5. "In short, by becoming alert, well informed citizens who recognize that wide information and the intelligent interpretation of news, not the job want-ads, ought to determine successful careers.

"For further details," he concludes, "see your daily newspaper."

SANFORD TWENTY YEARS AGO

Jimmy Thornton, representing the S. P. Richards Paper Co. of Atlanta, called on the local trade yesterday. He reports trade good but it will soon be difficult to get the different grades of this commercial paper on account of the war in Europe.

The committee appointed by the Board of County Commissioners to take charge of the Seminole County exhibit at Orlando is busy getting everything in shape for the big event and details will be there with him on when the gates open next Tuesday. G. M. Jones and A. V. French are hard at work preparing for the various exhibits, and what remains to be done is to complete the lot which is to be shown in the main building.

FLORIDA HIGHLIGHTS

In a tiny laboratory in Fort Myers, Thos. A. Edison perfected many of the remarkable inventions he gave to mankind. Here also was the principal scene of his last great endeavor—to develop from guaiacum an emergency rubber supply in time of war. At the time of his death, the work was practically completed. He had spent 27 successive winters in Florida.

The Surinam-Cherry, which thrives in South Florida, bears two crops within a month! The main crop, which is usually very heavy, ripens at one time, extending over a period of about 2 weeks; following this, the plant produces scattering flowers, and begins to produce a second crop, which ripens about a month later. The fruit of this plant is very delicious when fully ripe. Under favorable conditions the Surinam-Cherry is one of the most prolific of fruits and its flowers are exceedingly fragrant.

Congressman Peterson Asked To Aid In "Rescue" Of President And Democrats Of This Section Of State Of Florida

Writing to Congressman J. Hardin Peterson on the subject of the Cross-State Canal, Mrs. H. M. Papworth comes with the request: "Please, Mr. Peterson, can you not rescue the President of the United States and the Democrats of Central Florida from an intolerable dilemma?"

The "dilemma," as set forth by Mrs. Papworth in her letter to the congressman, is not only the threat of danger the canal holds to the underground water supplies of the state, but is found in "political capital." Republicans are making out of the canal. She says that "they (the Republicans) are stalling up to us as 'sisters under the skin' in the belief that, as we object to the canal, we must also be against the New Deal and the who's recovery program of the Administration."

In reply to Mrs. Papworth's letter, Congressman Peterson told of appearing before a subcommittee and "objected to the appropriation for the Cross-State Canal," and added that "I do not feel that anyone, a good Democrat should hold, this against the President. I feel the same way you do about it," he continued. "At the present time, under present conditions, I oppose the canal, but on the other hand it won't cause me to run out on my President and I wouldn't even think of voting any other ticket."

Mrs. Papworth's letter to Congressman Peterson, in part, is as follows: "The Sanford Woman's Club of which I am chairman of the civic department, and the Sanford Garden Club of which I am convalescent chairman, both passed resolutions asking for agreement that our water would be protected."

CARDUI

Helped Three Times
At three different times, Cardui has helped Mrs. Ike Wright, of Sealy, Texas. "I used Cardui when a girl, for cramps, and it helped then," she writes. "Next, after marriage, she reports having taken Cardui when she felt weak, nervous and restless before her children were born. And during middle life, it helped her again. "I was miserable," she explains, "I did not have an appetite. I was very blue and upset. I remembered Cardui had helped me, so I took it again and had more strength. I kept up the Cardui and did not have any more trouble. Is it any wonder that I recommend Cardui to all my friends?"

Thousands of women testify that Cardui helped them. If it does not benefit YOU, consult a physician.

Electrolux 'Caravan On Wheels' Comes To Sanford On A Tour Of The Continent

Modern science interested local residents today when crowds here viewed one of the stream-lined units of the Electrolux "Caravan on Wheels" now touring North and South America. Equipped with microphone equipment, turn-tables for an exhibition of the latest in refrigeration for rural sections and complete musical apparatus, the control and exhibition car made a colorful picture on arrival.

The luxurious trailer, one of 25 similar cars, was driven through the streets here and local residents were allowed to inspect at close range this moving advertising display through the courtesy of Sempron Tire Shop, local dealer for Electrolux kerosene-operated refrigerators.

This unit of the fleet of trailers arrived with a fanfare of music issuing from the loudspeakers and public address system of the cars. It will remain tomorrow and Wednesday.

Climate To Suit On New British Liner

CLYDEBANK, Scotland, Feb. 10.—Britain's giant new transatlantic liner Queen Mary, whose maiden voyage to the United States is set for May, is to have air conditions suited to every whim, including perfumed air for the ladies.

Arctic blasts may swirl in one cabin, while next door the warmer-minded passenger may switch on an atmosphere as hot as the Persian gulf.

Each of the 2,000 cabins has its own "gadget" for climate control.

Exotic fragrances will be on tap for women passengers, and a flick of the lever will rid their rooms of cigarette smoke, which will be emptied by suction fans.

In all, 150 grades of air are to be supplied by the giant air conditioning plant, which will operate from 20 stations and handle 100,000 cubic feet of air daily over a five-mile network of pipes.
