Toll Uncertain In Deadly Gas Seepage

YAOUNDE. Cameroon (UPI) -A deadly natural gas seeping from a volcanic lake in remote western Cameroon killed an unknown number of people, and estimates ranged from 40 to

A report, broadcast once on state-run Radio Cameroon and quoting the Information Ministry, said 2,000 were believed dead but the radio withdrew the report and later broadcasts used the official government figure of 40 dead.

Western diplomats said travelers from the remote area 250 miles from the capital reported up to 1,500 dead but said that was a speculative figure.

"The officials are still waiting for a final word on the death toll from rescue teams who went to the area," said a Western diplomat in Yaounde.

Radio Cameroon said a 15member Israell rescue team reached the site and would report back to the government later today. The lake is in a mountainous region reachable only by unpaved roads rendered nearly impassable by the current rainy season.

The disaster occurred Friday at Nios Lake between the towns of Wum and Nkambe, 250 miles northwest of the capital city of Yaounde. Officials said the toxic gas escaped from a volcanic fissure that opened from the bottom of the lake.

A correspondent for Radio Cameroon, Fidel Tchinda, said. "The figure of 40 deaths announced Sunday has been largely surpassed. They are speaking close to 1,500 dead.

Thousands of people gathered at a football stadium Sunday to remember the workers shot Wednesday morning at the Edmond post office by Patrick Henry Sherrill, a lonely and tormented part-time mailman who then took his own life.

Sherrill's ashes were buried earlier Sunday next to the graves of his mother and father in a family plot in his hometown of Watonga. Services for the last of his victims to be buried. Betty Jarred, were scheduled for today.

Audit: Secret' Auction Allowed

WASHINGTON (UPI) - A military audit, examining the latest lapse in Pentagon security, says the Air Force inadvertently allowed computer tapes containing "sensitive, unclassified" data to be auctioned off to the public.

The Air Force Audit Agency found more than 1,200 magnetic tapes containing the data - dealing with launch times, aircraft tests, and launch and aircraft vehicles available for public purchase at three key bases.

This information "could be useful to hostile agents" and to "organizations wishing to analyze Air Force tests and mission capabilities," auditors said in their October 1985 report, made available to United Press International.

The auditors discovered the error while examining property disposal offices at seven bases. They did not try to determine whether any tapes actually had been purchased or to whom they might have been sold.

Graham: Lake Okeechobee Aid Is A Top Priority

OKEECHOBEE (UPI) - An executive order aimed at curbing phosphorus pollution in Lake Okeechobee marked the beginning of what Gov. Bob Graham called the top priority for the final five months of his administration.

Graham's executive order Saturday endorsed a recent committee report that urged halting agricultural pollution and ordered state environmental department heads to implement a lake-saving strategy by Oct. 1.

He also ordered officials to clamp down on farmers and others whose polluted runoff flows into the lake.

The governor was in Okeechobee to celebrate the third anniversary of the state's Save Our Everglades plan. He inspected the remains of an algae bloom that turned 100 square miles of the lake into a pea-green soup and temporarily created a foul-smelling, lifeless zone of 6 square miles where dying algae consumed virtually all available oxygen from the water.

Freighter First, Now A Whale

PALM BEACH (UPI) - Mollie Wilmot was forced to add another item to her unwanted guest list this weekend when a dead whale washed up ashore the heiress' posh beachfront estate.

The Palm Beach socialite hosted a Venzulan freighter for three months after the Mercedes I crashed through a breakwall during a storm and settled down next to her swimming pool Thanksgiving weekend in 1984.

It took Wilmot three months to oust the 298-foot visitor. A salvage crew finally towed the rusty freighter off and sank it for use as an artificialreef.

The whale did not stay quite so long. The 2,000-pound carcass was spotted by fisherman Mike Groth early Saturday just a few hundred yards from where the Mercedes had established itself as a local landmark, attracting sightseers from around south Florida.

What To Do When The Tax Collector Comes

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The new tax reform bill is bound to have some dramatic effects, but experts any all taxpayers can follow a few basic rules to brace for the sweeping changes expected on Jan. 1.

Most accountants stress that each taxpayer's situation is different, but they note that a general rule - with some notable exceptions - is to defer income into later years when tax rates would be lower, but take advantage of as many deductions as possible now, before many of them are trimmed or cut altogether.

One of the biggest exceptions on the income portion, however, involves longterm capital gains on things such as stocks or property.

Under current law, only 40 percent of the long-term capital gain is taxed and since the top tax rate is 50 percent, the maximum capital gains tax is one-half of 40 percent, or 20 percent. However, the committee bill would drop that exclusion and tax capital gains at regular income levels. For small investors, such as people who have only a few stocks, that would be a great difference. Under current law, for example, a person with a taxable income of $16,000 has a top tax rate of 20 percent, meaning that his or her capital gains rate would be 8 percent.

Under the bill, that person's tax rate would be 15 percent, which would mean his or her capital gains rate would also be 15 5 percent of your gross income. That; percent.

Therefore, analysts advise that if you're already interested in selling a stock or property, it may be a good idea to do it before the capital gains rate rises. But.

several also caution that each taxpayer's circumstances are different and you may not want to sell a thriving stock or property simply because of the tax changes.

The following are other suggestions being offered by several accounting firms, which mostly involve itemizing taxpayers:

Consumer purchases: You would probably get the greatest tax benefit if you paid off as much consumer interest as possible in 1986. Beginning next year, the deduction for consumer interest will be cut to 65 percent and that will continue to decrease until it would end in 1991. As a result. paying the consumer interest now would provide the biggest deduction. Also, because the sales tax deduction would be ended Jan. major purchase, such as a car, you may want to do that while you can still write off the sales taxes.

Medical expenses: If you're interested in deducting expenses for medical and dental work, you should know that currently you however, will rise to 7.5 percent under the Home ownership: If you're thinking of it; buying a home would likely still be a good idea since mortgage interest on first and second homes would remain deductible; Also, real estate experts have predicted that because of changes in the tax treatment of various investments, such as many aparti ment buildings, rents may increase because of the tax bill.

Tax shelters: The bill would hit tax shelters hard, so buying into a new one in 1986 is almost certainly not a good idea.

IRAs & 401(k) plans: Both retirement programs would be hit with tough new limits, so it may be worthwhile to place as much as possible into them in 1986 when you are assured of your tax deduction. An annual deductible contribution of $7,000 would be allowed for 401(k) plans under the bill, but that is a sharp drop from current law, which allows a worker to place 25 percent of salary, up to $30,000, into a plan. Under the new individual retirement ac-1. if you're already thinking about making a 'count rules, people covered by another pension plan, even if they are not vested, could get a full IRA deduction only if their income was $25,000 or less for singles or $40,000 or less for couples. That deduction would decrease until it would end at income levels of $35,000 and $50,000. Others could can deduct any of the expenses that exceed make non-deductible IRA contributions.

Decision Delayed On Affirmative Action

Reagan administration, bitterly split over a plan to end a key federal affirmative action program, will not act on the issue until the Supreme Court decides two more job blas cases, a top official said today.

White House chief of staff Donald Regan, in an interview with a group of reporters reported today, said he has decided to delay a recommendation to President Reagan on changes in an executive order that requires government conaction goals and timetables.

"With the courts about to make decisions in this area, I frankly am the one slowing down the process on the executive order until I get a better understanding of what position the courts are taking." Regan was quoted as saying by USA Today. Similar stories appeared in The New York Times and Chicago Tribune today.

Declining Defenses

Vital gains in American military strength achieved by the Reagan administration since the start of the decade are being eroded by the Congress.

Although the assault on the Pentagon budget is rationalized as a means to reduce the federal deficit, such a meat-cleaver approach to defense outlays is not the proper course. President Reagan emphasized this in the budget he proposed to lawmakers early this year. The White House blueprint provided for 3 percent growth in military spending while, at the same time, reducing overall outlays enough to meet the declining deficit targets mandated by the Gramm-Rudman act. But Mr. Reagan's steeper cutbacks in domestic programs were more than legislators were willing to make, particularly in an election year.

As a result, the Pentagon has been required to bear the brunt of the cuts, with little consideration by Congress of the risks to the nation's security. IF the present trend continues, a return of the weakened defenses of the 1970s is inevitable.

Indeed, the more muscular military that has engendered respect for the United States abroad during the 1980s has begun to wither. "We're back to cross-decking ammo on Navy ships," warns Sen. Gordon Humphrey, R-N.H., referring to vessels transferring materiel at sea due to shortages.

Raw budget numbers starkly define the current predicament. The House of Representatives has cut next year's military spending to $286 billion. That is $16 billion less than Congress authorized for this year. And this year's spending is less than last year's. In other words, the United States will spend less on its defense in 1987 than it did In 1985.

Cuts on this scale will crode the readiness of U.S. fighting forces first, because lawmakers are inclined to reduce the military's operating expenses rather than procurement programs that generate jobs back

Among the biggest casualties of the squeeze is the Navy's plan for a modern 600-ship fleet. Given the lean budgets being imposed by Congress, there are mounting doubts that the Navy can sustain a fleet of that size. Future shipbuilding requirements and manpower needs cannot be met without at least 3 percent annual growth in the Navy's budget through the mid-1990s, according to estimates by the Congressional Budget Office.

Another critical program that will suffer is the President's Strategic Defense Initiative. Although Mr. Reagan requested $5.34 billion for SDI next year, the House has approved only $3.1 billion.

Confusion over the goals of the program has undermined its support on Capitol Hill. For this the administration itself is largely to blame. Defense Secretary Caspar Weinberger continues to insist that SDI's only objective is a leakproof shield for the nation's cities. Such a vision is a technological pipe dream. Mr. Reagan needs to make the case for a more limited SDI defense of missile silos and other military centers — a goal that is technologically feasible and would reduce greatly the risk of nuclear war.

There is room in the president's military budget for prudent cuts, rather than the indiscriminate approach that now prevails on Capitol Hill. For example, lawmakers voted funds to keep open the job-rich production line of the B-1 bomber beyond the 100 planes that are all the Air Force says it needs. A similar park-barrel waste is $151 million approved by Congress for the T-46 jet trainer that the Pentagon says it doesn't want.

Last but not least on the list is the Navy's $1.6 billion program to build new ports for a 600-ship Navy that may turn out to be only a passing fancy. Navy Secretary John Lehman's plan to disperse the fleet more widely cannot be justified on strategic grounds in this age of intercontinental ballistic missiles. The Senate would be wise to follow the House's lead and kill it.

Too many members of the Congress view defense spending as the villain behind the deficit. The real issue, in fact, is nothing less than national survival.

Reagans Face Busy Schedule After Vacation

By Helen Thomas UPI White House Reporter

WASHINGTON (UPI) - President and Mrs. Reagan will hit the deck running when they return to the White House late on Sept. 8 after a three-week vacation at their ranch in California.

There will be foreign visitors to the White House, campaign stops, the stepped-up drive against drugs and faster paced foreign policy efforts expected to lead to the summit meeting between Reagan and Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev.

Reagan's first state visitor of the fall season will be Brazilian President Jose Sarney. Philippine President Corazon Aquino also will be coming to the White House in September.

In addition, the president will be making his annual address to the United Nations General Assembly around Sept. 22 and hob-nobbing with the world's diplomats.

Reagan is determined not to be a lame duck president, a term he abhors and so far he has kept up an energetic schedule, not letting any heir apparent get the nod from the Republican ranks, keeping all his options open.

Never bite the hand that feeds.

White House spokesman Larry Speakes found himself in hot water with the cooks aboard Air Force One last week as President Reagan headed to California for a three-week summer vacation.

Musing with reporters about a luncheon menu that included meatloaf with brown gravy, macaroni and cheese (one of Reagan's favorites). bread, butter and apple pie, Speakes quipped, "It's like eating a brick."

Word of his assessment reached the galley. Speakes offered an apology and, after lunch, ate his words.

With a knowing smile, he later told reporters the meal was "the best I've ever had."

The opening of the White House to public tours is being decided on a day-by-day basis as the heating and air conditioning system throughout the mansion is being overhauled.

On sweltering days, the White House is closed to visitors who have to stand in long lines even before they get to the stifling state rooms. But on cool days, the White House is being kept open to visitors, and to the early morning congressional

Actress Carol Channing, who is appearing in Washington with Broadway star Mary Martin in the play "Legends," was the guest of honor at a nostaglic reception at the American Newspaper Newswomen remember Channing particularly for changing the lyrics of "Hello Dolly" to "Hello Lyndon" during the Johnson era.

Channing was in great form, handing out fake diamonds from one of her other big hits as Lorelei Lee singing "Diamonds are a girl's best friend." She noted that the diamonds were not from South Africa.

She recalled that in the 1970s at the height of the Watergate scandal, first lady Pat Nixon attended a party for Channing and the actress gave Mrs. Nixon one of her phony diamonds. Mrs. Nixon, holding her head high at a time of bad headlines, laughed and commented that at least it was one diamond she would not have to turn over to the archives.

The following week Channing said that she found out through the newspapers that President Nixon had put her on his "enemy list" along with a lot of other Hollywood celebrities. Of course all of this was unknown to Mrs. Nixon.

Channing has leaned toward the Democrats in her political choices and she thinks that San Antonio's Mayor Henry Claneros is a comer.

VIEWPOINT

Hart And The Navy

By William R. Hawkins

As a Democrat with a weak voting record on defense and an antimilitary image dating back to his management of George McGovern's 1972 campaign, Colorado Senator Gary Hart has sought to acquire new status as a military expert by joining the "military reform mov-ement." This movement cuts across the political spectrum, aiming to improve the combat power of the military by looking at new weapons. tactics and organizational concepts.

The goal is worthy, but how sincere is Sen. Hart in his pursuit? Is he simply using the cover of "reform" to pursue his old aim of military "reduction?"

The Navy is one of Sen. Hart's prime targets. What would he do to it? The Navy's conventional striking power is based on its 14 large aircrast carriers (CV), each about 80,000 tons and handling 90 aircraft. A 15th carrier will join the fleet this year. In 1981, the Administration obtained funding for two more carriers which Sen. Hart opposed. In his recent book, America Can Win: The Case for Military Reform, he claims Reagan is "building not a navy, but the world's largest and most expensive naval museum."

Sen. Hart had advocated "British-size" carriers (20,000 tons with 12 to 20 aircraft), but dropped this terminology after the Falklands War revealed the shortcomings of such small carriers in actual combat. The "Sea Harrier" vertical take-off and landing (VTOL) jets, which are the only war planes that the British can operate, suffer from limited range and simple electronics. They are good for close-air support of ground troops, but poor in fleet-air defense. They cannot make long-range strikes against well-defended targets or carry advanced weapons.

British carriers cannot handle airborne warning and control aircraft like the E-2C "Hawkeye." found on all U.S. large carriers. The E-2C has not only proven its worth for the Navy in recent Mediterranean battles, but has been used extensively by the Israelles to orchestrate their devastating air victories against the Syrians over Lebanon.

Sen. Hart now favors "light carriers" built on converted merchant ship hulls. He claims that several of these could be built for one large carrier, thus increasing the number of targets an enemy would have to hit. This is supposed to make the fleet less vulnerable, but the result would be the opposite.

MSG Syndrome False?

By Gayle Young UPI Science Writer

NEW YORK (UPI) - Sufferers attribute to it a dazzling array of symptoms, including flushing. palpitations, coughing, sleeplessness and swollen tongue.

The cause is allegedly the food additive monosodium glutamate or MSG, and the malady it brings on has been dubbed "MSG syndrome" by doctors and lovers of Chinese food alike.

Although first described in a medical journal 17 years ago, MSG syndrome has come under fire recently from researchers who say only a handful of people really suffer side effects from the additive and that most reports of the syndrome are either psychological or a misdiagnosis of some other pro-

Two separate studies conducted over the past year have failed to produce an MSG reaction in a laboratory setting, even though volunteers claimed to have suffered from MSG syndrome in the past.

"I don't know why so many people seem to get something that doesn't appear under control situations," said Dr. Richard A. Kenney, professor of physiology at the George Washington University Medical School in Washington, who conducted one of the studies.

"Perhaps it's psychological," he said. "Perhaps it's historically associated with Chinese food so people get it because they expect to MSG is used as a flavor enhancer in many Asian dishes.

Kenney and other doctors said previous studies have shown high doses of MSG can Irritate the esophagus and create a tingling sensation in the hands and faces of some people.

But they said only an estimated 1 percent to 2 percent of the population have the reactions and said the amount of MSG found in most food tingling, headache, dizziness, heart is too low to produce much of a reaction in anyone.

Dr. Jonathan K. Wilkin, a dermatologist from McGuire Veterans Administration Medical Center in Richmond, Va., who conducted the other study on MSG, stated in a recent report to the American Academy of Dermatology that most cases of MSG syndrome could be attributed to "folklore".

He said salt, alcoholic drinks, cooking wine or the mushrooms used in some Asian dishes could cause symptoms wrongly blamed on MSG.

Wilkin tested a total of 30 volunteers with high doses of MSG and then measured their blood flow with a probe attached to their cheeks. None of the volunteers suffered a reaction, including six men who were given 7.3 grams of pure MSG. 15 times that which would be found in a single meal.

Kenney tested 15 people in a double blind study in which volunteers received either high doses of MSG or placebo solutions. He said the volunteers either reacted to neither of the solutions or reacted to

"They couldn't tell the dif-ference," he said.

MSG is a salt-based amino acid that has been approved for use in this country since 1959, said Mary Custer, consumer safety officer for the federal Food and Drug Administration.

She said people have complained to the agency about reactions to the flavor enhancer, but said there have not been enough reports to warrant an investigation.

Crisis Remedies

Things are rough in the "oil patch," the states where America's oil is found after exhaustive. expensive exploration. Indeed the situation is worsening steadily and could become disastrous if the House-Senate tax conferees remove the last bits of economic incentive and common sense from the tax laws pertaining to petroleum exploration, drilling and production.

Unfortunately, Americans outside the energy states don't fully appreclate the stake they have in a strong, healthy domestic oil industry. Unless steps are taken to help the industry withstand the present economic chaos, the American people will suffer grievously when the Arabs got control of the global oil market. Crippling the American domestic oil industry is one of the principal goals of their all-out production and price-cutting

There are things that Congress ind the administration of help this industry which is basic to the national security and economic well-being of the United States. A longtime student of the domestic oil industry recently wrote to me. recommending that the government do the following:

1. "Purchase 'stripper' oil at a premium price and inject it into the Strategic Petroleum Reserve.

2. "Pay a 'reverse Windfall Profits Tax' on current production to partially offset the devastation to the domestic industry caused by the Windfall Profits Tax.

3. "Repeal the Windfall Profits-Tax so those looking towards survival will not have to face the fact that when crude prices (through continued OPEC manipulation) return to viable levels the government will not once again take the cream off the top.

4. "Decontrol all natural gas. This may be detrimental to the industry in the short run but will be advantageous to both the industry and the nation in the long run.

5. "Take effective action, as opposed to the present lip service, and get the field offices of the bureaucracy off the oil industry's back. For example, it normally takes three to four months to get approval to drill on federal minerals. On occasion, it takes between nine and ten months to do so.

6. "Impose a temporary. across-the-board import fee on all crude oil and products, tied to a base price for crude oil of, say, $22 or $23 per barrel. The tax on crude oll would be the difference between the current price and the base price.

Should Press Use Medical Records?

By Jack Anderson And Dale Van Atta

WASHINGTON - A blizzard of mail has swept into our offices questioning our journalistic ethics. At the heart of the controversy is this question: If an accused public figure seeks sympathy from the public and clemency from the courts by claiming he is suffering from a specific disease, should the press have the right to use his medical records to determine whether he's telling the truth.

That, we confess, is what we did. We reported that an embattled Roy Cohn - who has since died - had AIDS. Quoting from his medical records, we proved that he had lied when he insisted repeatedly that he had "liver cancer." not AIDS.

Most readers conceded, as one put it, that "Roy Cohn is a hateful man and has been guilty of monstrous famous and the notorious, including deeds." But they contended, in the words of a New York City reader. "this is no excuse for getting hold of and publishing data from highly confidential medical records." Was this, as the reader suggests, a media abuse that "threatens the rights of all of us?"

We agree that the media has no business obtaining or publishing considential medical records of private individuals. But there are times, we think, when the medical ailments of a public figure need to be aired.

Roy Cohn was a superlawyer who spent most of his life in the public spotlight. In the 1950s, when Sen. Joseph McCarthy was rummaging through government closets in search of communists. Cohn was at his ear, whispering. He went on to become an attorney for the rich, the mob figures.

A pattern of legal misconduct finally caught up with Cohn last October. A New York judicial disciplinary panel recommended he be disbarred for "dishonesty, fraud, deceit, and misrepresentation." Court testimony alleged, for example, that Cohn had flown to the hospital bed of a dying multimillionaire and induced him to sign a document naming Cohn as trustee of his estate. According to the testimony. Cohn told this 84-year-old man — who was partly paralyzed, nearly blind, semicomatose and drugged — that the paper had to do with his divorce proceedings.

Cohn denied it all, offering a more benign version of events and blaming his accumulated enemies for hounding him on his sickbed. In a plea for elemency, he presented affidavits from doctors that he had a "life-threatening" disease.

Thus began a spate of stories and interviews with Cohn. As The Washington Post aptly reported last December: "Loathed or lionized, the legendary Roy Cohn is dying a very public death." He vociferously denied his ailment was AIDS and threatened to sue anyone who said

It was legally defensible to report "rumors" that Cohn had the dread disease. This is what "60 Minutes," for example, did. We decided to publish the story only if we could obtain incontrovertible proof. After weeks of effort, Dale Van Atta obtained confidential medical records that provided the proof we needed. So we reported that Cohn had engaged in a public fraud. contrary to his denials, he had

Scott, Williams Wait, Worry As NFL Trims Rosters

By Chris Pister

Herald Sports Writer It's wait and worry time for former county football standouts Chuck Scott and Isaac Williams. Scott, a Lake Howell High and Vanderbilt product, and Williams, a Seminole High and Florida State performer, are both about 50-50 picks to make the NFL this fall.

Last season, a shoulder injury kept Scott from competing for a wide receiver alot with the Los Angeles Rams. In 1986. Scott has held his own in the Rams' camp and in the first two preseason games.

The only thing that may put Scott's NFL career on hold is the 45-man roster.

The Rams played with four receivers a year ago and all four are back in '86. After the most recent cuts were made. Scott is the fifth and final receiver remaining on the squad. The Rams will trim the roster from 60 to the final 45 in two weeks.

The whole question is how many receivers they will keep," Scott said from his home in Irvine, Cal. "Last year they kept four and right now I'm right in there with them. I've had a really good camp so far and feel pretty good about the way things have been going. We just had our cut down to 60 players last week and I'm still here."

At the moment, Scott is actually among the top four receivers since last year's top pass catcher, Henry Ellard, is holding out for more

"I've been playing a lot, since Henry (Ellard) has been out," Scott said. "Now it's a matter of when Henry comes back how many receivers they decide to keep. If it's five, I'll be here. If it's four, I'm not sure."

The other receivers on the team include current starters Ron Brown and Bobby Duckworth and second-year player Mike Young out of UCLA. In the preseason, Scott and Young have been the backups for Brown and Duckworth.

In two preseason games thus far. Scott has seen plenty of action. In the preseason opener against the Houston Oilers, Brown was injured early in the game and Scott played almost the entire game. He had three catches against the

In game two against the San Francisco 49ers, Brown played the first half and the Rams built up a big lead. Scott played the second half and had no catches but did have a fumble recovery.

"We got a big lead in the first half and stayed mostly on the ground the second," Scott said. "I think we threw the ball about five times the whole second half and none of them came my way."

Scott has trimmed down to 190 pounds this year and he said that is the best weight for his 6-2 frame. "I'm 15 pounds lighter than last year," Scott said. "I'm right where I want to

A year ago, Scott spent the entire season on injured reserve after reinjuring his left shoulder which he had surgery on while at Vanderbilt. Scott said he returned to camp this season. though, at full strength.

As long as he continues to perform well and the longer Ellard holds out, the better Scott's chances are of making the 45-man roster. The Rams will cut down to 50 players this coming Monday or Tuesday and then to 45 the following

"If Henry (Ellard) isn't back by then, I think I will make the team," Scott said. "I don't know for sure yet if I'm going to make it, but I'm going to keep doing my best."

Williams, likewise, has been holding his own in the camp of the Baltimore Colts, who selected him in the 12th round of this year's draft.

Williams, an all-stater for Seminole High in 1981, completed a fine career with Florida State last fall.

Williams, who played offensive guard in high school but switched to defensive tackle for FSU. has about a 50-50 chance of making the Colts. according to Curt Allen, a spokesman for Indianapolis.

"The depth chart changes every day." Allen said via telephone from Indianapolis. "Sometimes Williams is second and other times he is third. He's listed third today."

The Colts cut their returning starter at nose tackle, Brad White. Willie Broughton has assumed the starting job while Williams and Northern Illinois' Scott Kellar are battling for the

Opportunity Knocks, Branch Bops Castille

By Sam Cook Herald Sports Editor

TAMPA - Sanford's Reggie Branch knows opportunity isn't going to knock in Washington's offensive backfield too often. When it does, the Redskins' special teams standout said he's going to make the most of it.

The knock came with five minutes remaining in the third quarter Saturday night at Tampa Stadium. Washington, which runs 95 percent of its offensive from a one-back set, Inserted Branch at fullback and Rick Badanjek at tailback on Tampa Bay's 2-yard line.

Branch also played on the kickoff receiving team and the punt return team. "I usually play on all the special teams, the 23-year-old former East Carolina running back said. "But the coach wanted to look at some of the rookles before the final cuts. I think they know what I can do."

Seminole High's football squad grew to 42 members last week and coach Dave Mosure said he expects it to "stabilize" level for the opening game Friday, Sept. 12 at Titusville Astronaut.

Twelve more players - including versatile Dwayne Willis wrapped up job commitments and reported. The tardy appearances didn't make Mosure happy, but the second-year varsity coach said he is making the best of it.

"Some of our kids have to work, it's that simple," he said. "All of them worked after practice to make up the work they missed. We're ready to go now, we've been working very hard."

Willis, who Seminole High football coach Dave Mosure switched to quarterback to fill Jeff Blake's big shoes, was puting in an eight-hour work day before suiting up for Seminole's afternoon practices.

"Dwayne had to keep the job. so we had to make adjustments." Mosure said about his running back turned QB. "That's the type of kid I've coached all my life and I enjoy that type. They've had to work overtime to make ends meet."

Wilander Tops Connors; Lendl Cools Off McEnroe

MASON, Ohio (UPI) - Mats Wilander credits golf for helping his tennis game.

"I have to enjoy my outside life and here I've always enjoyed broke Connors' serve five times. myself." Wilander said. "It sounds funny, but golf is important to me.'

Wilander defeated Jimmy Connors 6-4, 6-1 Sunday to win the Association of Tennis Professionals Championship at the Jack Nicklaus Sports Center for the third time in the last four Wilander, the No. 1 seed. played five rounds on the golf course that's part of the complex this week, and said it helped relax him.

It must have done something to his serve, too. Wilander fired 12 aces and three service winners in defeating the secondseeded Connors in 1 hour, 18 minutes to pocket the $48,000 winner's share.

"Against Connors, it's tough to serve because he gets most of them back. Today, I kept my speed and rhythm the whole match expect for a couple games," said Wilander, winner of the ATP in 1983 and 1984 and runner-up to Boris Becker

"He played well," Connors said. "He ran down a lot of balls. I could have been more aggressive at times but, when I was aggressive, I rushed too much."

Wilander, who lost only seven points on his first serve, had only six unforced errors to Connors' 21, and Wilander while Connors managed only one service break.

"It gave me so much confidence to break him to win the first set," Wilander said.

Connors broke Wilander's serve to pull within 4-5, but Wilander responded with a service break in a sloppily played game by Connors to win the first set 6-4.

Wilander raced to a 4-0 lead in the second set, as he won 16 of 19 points, and the outcome was never in doubt.

Wilander has now defeated Connors all four times they have played.

Wilander, who is known for his topspin style of play, said a change to a slice backhand helped neutralize Connors' hard, flat shots.

Connors said Wilander's slieing backhand was the only difference he could detect in Wilander's game since they last played in the the 1984 Davis Cup finals in Goteborg, Sweden.

I don't know why he did that," Connors said of Wilander's change in tactics. "He always used to come over the top. He's always served well. had good legs and hit good

Pohl Pats Wallet, Finds Win

AKRON, Ohio (UPI) - Having an identity crisis is bad enough. Dan Pohl admits to several.

One stems from his name and the nine-year PGA veteran has heard "all the jokes about Pohl-vaulting into the lead, blah, blah, blah:

The second is Pohl's not wanting to be known as the long hitter that blasted booming drives from the tee in the late 1970s and early 1980s.

"I've changed my swing." he said. "No more moon shots for Finally, during final-round play Sunday in the $700,000 World Series of Golf, Pohl said he and the other members of his threesomehada 'Heckle-and-Jeckle- and a Jekyll-and-Hyde-type round."

"We weren't sure who was who and who was doing what," he added.

But afterwards, Pohl patted his pocket, which held a wallet that contained a first-prize $126,000 check that represented his biggest payday ever.

"I always thought playing golf was great, but playing winning golfs even better," he said. 'It wasn't pretty out there, but it was good enough." Pohl carded a sec-saw. 1-over-par 71 in the final round to win by one shot over Lanny Wadkins. Pohl, 31, of Mt. Pleasant.

Mich., qualified for this select, 43-player field by winning the Colonial National Invitation in May for his first title ever. He had rounds of 69-66-71-71 for a total of 3-under-par 277 on the 7.139-yard Firestone Country Club course.

Pohl also earned a 10-year exemption on the PGA Tour.

"That's great for peace of mind, which I didn't have out there (Sunday)," he said. "I scrambled all day long. Four birdies and five birdies isn't exactly anybody's idea of steady play.

Wadkins, who won the 1977 World Series, missed birdie putts on the three closing holes en route to a 2-over 74. His scores of 68-68-70-72 gave him a 72hole total of 2-under 278, worth $75,600.

"I played fairly well, but I missed too many birdie chances," said Wadkins, of Dallas. "The door was open but I didn't go in. I didn't even knock.

"There's satisfaction, though, since Danny, Bobby (Cole) and myself were the only guys to break par. Those new Firestone greens are tough, particularly when it's sunny and dry like it was today."

Cole was alone in third place after his 74-67-68-70 put him at 1-under 279 and gave him a $47,600 payday. He had won only $19,221 prior to this week.

Pohl, Wadkins and Cole were the only players to better par. John Mahassey carded a 1-over 71 to finish in fourth place at even-par 280 and win $33,600.

Four players tied at 1-over 281: Donnie Hammond (a closing 74), Andy Bean (66), Rodger Davis of Australia (71) and Tim Simpson, who closed with a 5-under 65 for the tournament's best round.

Pohl opened a three-shot lead by the seventh hole but closed his front nine with two bogeys to drop into a tie with Hammond.

A sand wedge to four feet gave Pohl another birdle on the 11th hole, but he bogeyed the 14th off a bad approach and lost another stroke on the 18th when his drive sailed into trees.

Five-time World Series winner Jack Nicklaus had a 3-over 73 to finish five shots behind, tying for ninth at 2-over 282 with PGA Championship winner Bob Tway, Calvin Peete, Tom Kite, David Ishii and Jim Thorpe.

INKSTER BREAKS FIELD

ABSECON, N.J. (UPI) - Juli Inkster said she "got the breaks when she needed them" as she battled a stiff crosswind Sunday to shoot an even-par 71, winning the $33,750 first prize in the Atlantic City Classic by three strokes over Judy Rizzo.

Inkster broke a tie with Rizzo in the final round and finished with a 4-under-par total of 209. Rizzo shot a final-round 74 to finish at 212. Judy Dickinson shot a 1-over 72 for a third-place total of 213.

Inkster, winner of four events on the 1986 tour, went ahead for good when Rizzo bogeyed the par-4 10th hole. Inkster then increased her lead with birdies on 11 and 12.

NICHOLS, BYRUM SET MARK JEREMY RANCH, Utah (UPI) - Bobby Nichols and Curt Byrum established a tournament record Sunday by completing a 39-under-par 249 to win the

PGA Senior Tour's $450,000

Showdown Classic.

Stewart Likes Restart, Hurls A's Past Yankees

United Press International

Dave Stewart is extending his major-league pitching career in a new capacity — as a starter.

Stewart, mostly a reliever during his four-team, seven-year career in the major leagues, has become a starter and perhaps the Oakland A's stopper. He won his seventh game in eight decisions Sunday to lead Oakland to an 11-4 victory over the New York Yankees at Yankee Stadtum.

The victory marked Stewart's first complete game since Sept. 24. 1984, when he pitched for the Texas Rangers. This is Stewart's best season since he won nine games as a reliever with the 1982 Los Angeles Dodgers. Stewart gave up an RBI single to Dave Winfield in the first inning and Mike Pagliarulo's 28th homer of the season in the second and trailed 2-0.

But the Oakland offense, which scored only four runs in the first two games of the three-game series, came alive. Mickey Tettleton, who entered the game when Manager Tony LaRussa sent him up as a pinch hitter in the sixth, drove in five runs with a pair of bases-loaded walks and a three-run homer.

"I told Tony, 'Thanks for the day off.' I was going to enjoy it." Tettleton said. "I just want to contribute. You never really know. We want to finish as high as possible and this series is a good impetus for us."

Donnie Moore relieved McCaskill with runners on first and second in the ninth and, after giving up a run-scoring single to pinch hitter John Shelby, got the last out for his 16th save. Storm Davis fell to 9-11.

Indians 5, Red Sox 2

At Cleveland, Joe Carter and Julio Franco belted two-run homers to help Phil Niekro to his 310th career victory. Niekro, 10-9, held the Red Sox to four hits over the first seven innings and reliever Frank Wills earned his first save. Al Nipper, 8-9, was the loser.

At Milwaukee, Paul Molitor and Robin Yount hit consecutive one-out doubles in the 11th inning to lead the Brewers. Loser Dan Quisenberry, 1-5, pitched three innings. Mark Clear, 4-4, hurled the 11th for the victory.

Brown Heads For Soviet Union, Wants Center Sabonis For LSU

BATON ROUGE, La. (UPI) - Louislana State basketball coach Dale Brown plans to travel to Moscow Thursday to attempt to meet with Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev for permission to sign 7-foot-1 center Arvidas Sabonis.

Sabonis. 21, has two years of college eligibility remaining, Brown said. The NCAA this week ruled Sabonis could enroll at LSU without fulfilling all the academic requirements.

"He would enroll as a partial qualifier," LSU athletic director Bob Brodhead said. "He's never had the opportunity to take the ACT in Moscow because they don't have it over there. He would take the test here on a national testing date in October."

LSU's registration deadline for the fall semester is Sept.

"Secretary-General Gorbachev said on Jan. 1 that this will be a year of direction for the United States and Soviet Union, a year devoted to peace and harmony." Brown said. "If the secretary-general was sincere, and I believe he was, here is a living opportunity to prove it."

Hood: ISU Offered Plane Ride

AMES, Iowa (UPI) - Former Iowa State quarterback Alan Hood was offered a free airplane ride to his hometown and received $65 from coaches to pay for laundry and a speeding ticket, a newspaper reported Sunday.

Hood, who said Iowa State coach Jim Criner paid him the $45 for an overdue parking ticket, is the latest player to publicize his part in an NCAA investigation of the Big Eight school, the Des Moines Register said in a copyright story.

"I received some help. I know some people will say I am lying, but I'm not," Hood said from San Diego, Calif., where he works as a recreational supervisor.

Hood, a former prep star in St. Louis, Mo., said he told the NCAA of the incidents last week. His accusations were denied by Criner.

Even though Jim Kelly and Herschel Walker did not play this weekend, other former U.S. Football League players did have an impact on the NFL.

It was the first meeting between the two since Lendl dethroned McEnroe last year for the U.S. Open crown.

"It was difficult to play in the wind," said McEnroe, who has lost three straight tournaments since ending a six-month sabbatical. "The wind affected my game more than his. I string my racket tighter and can't hit through wind like that."

Lendl disagreed that McEnroe was at a bigger disadvantage.

Rivers' Condition Fair; No Internal Damage

discussed.

ELKHART, Ind. (UPI) - David Rivers of Notre Dame, one of the nation's top college basketball players, was listed in fair condition early Monday after he was thrown Sunday through the windshield of a van driven by former teammate Ken Barlow.

Rivers, 21, Jersey City, N.J., suffered a foot-long cut on his abdomen in the accident. He was in surgery for three hours at Elkhart General Hospital, said John Hisler, a Notre Dame Athletic Department spokesman. Barlow suffered minor injuries. "The wound was quite deep but apparently there was no internal damage." the spokesman said of Rivers.

Hospital spokeswoman Kathy Ebener said Rivers was in fair Basketball

But the junior guard's status for this season is in doubt. Classes at Notre Dame start Tuesday and students must be enrolled for at least 12 credit hours to be eligible for sports or other activities.

Doctors indicated Rivers will condition early today and was be in intensive care for a week to onto the shoulder. Barlow tried

Waltrip Wins SCOREBOARD Bristol's 500

BRISTOL, Tenn. (UPI) - Darrell Waltrip, NASCAR's first $7 Million Man, says reaching the mark is more significant than the money itself.

"It's not that the money is so important to me." Waltrip said after racking up his 69th career triumph in the Bristol 500 Saturday. "It's the accomplishment that I'm proud of.

"I realize I can never win 200 races. But one record I can shoot for is most money," he said. "And it's a very satisfying record because the people I've caught up with and passed have been out there racing against me.

"It's not like a baseball player catching Ty Cobb, because he ain't ever going to get another hit." Waltrip said after winning $41,725 to push his winnings over $7 million.

Richard Petty has exceeded the 200-win mark but most of those victories were during a time when the NASCAR schedule had as many as 62 races a year. The schedule now is 29.

"The competition's much tougher now than it was when Richard was winning all his races. He came from 10 laps down to win one race, which should tell you something about who he is running against," Waltrip said.

Detained Black Cleric Seeks Court Restraining Order

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (UPI) - A black Roman Catholic priest who has been detained for 75 days under the state of emergency today sought a Pretoria Supreme Court restraining order against alleged police torture.

According to City Press, a black Johannesburg newspaper, dramatic evidence will be produced to support allegations by the lawyer for the Rev. Smangaliso Mkhatshawa that he was tortured in detention.

Mkhatshawa, secretary general of the South African Catholic Bishop's Conference, was taken into custody on June 12, the first day of the emergency declared by President Pleter Botha.

Civil rights groups estimate that some 13,000 people have been detained without charge during the emergency. which granted authorities sweeping powers of arrest and detention in a bid to step racial and political violence.

New Wave Of Violence Expected

DUBLIN, Ireland (UPI) - The Irish Republican Army replaced its Belfast brigade commander with a jailed hard-liner who will run operations from his prison cell in a move that could presage a new wave of violence on the British mainland, IRA sources say.

The warning Sunday came as the Irish government confirmed it had protested to President Reagan over the decision by members of the New York Emerald Society Police Band to parade in support of the outlawed IRA next

The New York policemen are scheduled to march for the third year in a row in a pro-IRA parade in Bundoran in County Donegal, just 9 miles from the village where the IRA assassinated Lord Louis Mountbatten, the cousin of Queen Elizabeth II, seven years ago next week.

The IRA sources commented Sunday on reports that a veteran hard-line IRA man, Martin Meehan, 41, who has spent the past seven years in a Northern Ireland fail, has recently taken over command of the IRA's Belfast brigade from his prison cell.

"At the scene the rescue teams are having trouble reaching the area because they lacked technical equipment. The gov-ernment has asked for international aid," Tchinda said.

There was no volcanic eruption. The area is located in a old volcanic chain that is still semi-active. A similar incident in the chain four years ago killed 50 people. In that case, a heavy as formed a cloud and killed those who walked into it.

"The gas comes up out of the lake, and if it's a heavier gas, it sits around the surface and rolls around. People think its a fog and walk right into it," said one diplomat.

He said he would be surprised if the toll reached 2,000 unless the gas hit a populated village.

'It's a relatively densely populated area, a village every few square kilometers. There are a good number of people out there, but once again, unless the cloud or gas itself surfaced and floated over a major village, I would think 2,000 would be a bit high," he said.

DEAR ABBY: I'm sure my ictter will not command as much attention as Kirk Douglas' because I'm not a movie star, but after reading his letter. I had to write because I also had a mother in a nursing home.

Mr. Douglas' mother was in a nice home. He could afford the best. My mother was in a convalescent hospital that was little better than a pigsty, although it cost a considerable amount of money. The poor souls were kept medicated to and wallet also mysteriously keep their demands at a minimum.

My family visited our mother three or four times a week, and we observed the nighties. sweaters, toiletries and slippers kept disappearing.

We give billions of dollars to foreign countries to upgrade their standard of living: we send billions for ammunition so they can slaughter each other. And on the Fourth of July, millions were spent to honor the Statue of Liberty. But where is the money to honor our own fathers and mothers? Shame on all of us for allowing this to happen.

G.K. COSTA MESA, CALIF.

DEAR ABBY: My husband spent the last three years of his life in a nursing home. Duringthat time he experienced problems I never would have of the home to Small Claims believed existed. It was shocking, frightening and sad.

When his condition was critical, an employee removed his wedding ring and wristwatch. His walker, hand-knit afghan dispappeared, along with a basket of goodles he had just received for his birthday. My complaints to the administration were ignored. Only after I wrote to the state ombudsman and the editor of The Deseret News did all the missing articles mysteriously turn up! One week to the day, he was buried - with his ring on.

DEAR ABBY: I could write a book about the thievery that goes on in nursing homes. Would you believe someone came into my mother's room and carried away her TV set? (Police report enclosed.) Her little refrigerator had been unplugged - apparently that had been targeted as well. I took the owner Court and won. I moved my mother to another home where I had to sign a form stating that they were not responsible for anything that was "lost." The help in most homes are paid peanuts. The work is awful. I couldn't do it — not for a million dollars a day.

CATHERINE PAHRINGER,

SAN ANTONIO, TEXAS

DEAR ABBIT: I could write a book about my mother's experiences in a nursing hoem. Her diamond ring was stolen from her hand, and her antique family Bible disappeared from her nightstand. Once I visited her to find her wearing dentures far too big for her mouth. (They'd lost hers!) Another time I caught an orderly "bathing" her. He had scated her on slats, and turned the overhead shower on full force - no soap.

One Sunday she was physically well and mentally alert. In eight days she was dead. They CLEO P. MOLLINET, said, "Pneumonia." How? Why? SALT LAKE CITY You may use my name.

MARI VEARRIER, TEGARD, ORE. DEAR MARI: Tomorrow I'm giving equal time to those who write in defense of nursing

Problem Warrants A Second Opinion

DEAR DR. GOTT - About two requirement. years ago, my family doctor found blood in my urine. A urologist found no problems in the kidneys or bladder and treated me for a bladder infection. I still have a constant urge to urinate, but have a burning sensation and can release only a few drops. My gynecologist says that I do not have a dropped bladder. What can you suggest?

DEAR READER - Get a second urological opinion. You may indeed have a chronic urinary infection, despite your treatment; you may have some abnormality of the bladder lining. an obstruction to the outflow of urine (stenosis) or an irritation of the urethra (the tube leading 13 Angry from the bladder).
