Islamic Jihad Denies Sending Messages Via Jenco

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — Moslem fundamentalists holding three Americans hostage said they will not negotiate with President Reagan, the pope or the archbishop of Canterbury and did not send them messages through freed hostage Lawrence Jenco.

In a statement published Sunday in the independent newspaper An Nahar, Islamic Jihad said it will kill the Americans unless its demands are met. The pro-Iranian group has demanded release of 17 Shiite Moslems jailed in Kuwait for a series of bombings.

Jenco, a Roman Catholic priest freed by Islamic Jihad July 28 after being held hostage for nearly 19 months, met last week with Reagan, Pope John Paul II and Anglican Archbishop of Canterbury Robert Runcie. He said he gave them messages from the kidnappers but refused to divulge the contents of those messages, citing concern for the remaining hostages. Jenco said Sunday the messages came from a man called Haj.

But Islamic Jihad, in its statement Sunday, said it gave Jenco no messages for Reagan and the two religious leaders and that it would not negotiate with them for release of the remaining American hostages.

"We have always announced that we are at continuous antagonism against the Great Satan (the Reagan administration) and that we never contact them even by messages," it said in the statement.

"As to what the Great Satan believes — that this case could be resolved with prayers — we advise them to start praying for the souls of the American corpses that will be dispatched one by one to the black house (the group's term for the White House) if our demands are not met," the group said.

"We did not give Father Jenco any messages, openly or secretly. Their claims that he had carried messages from us to the pope, the archbishop and the wicked Reagan are false and baseless," the statement said.

"The silence of the pope about the crimes of America and its collaborators ... makes him an accomplice. Therefore any contact with him is impossible. So is the case with Archbishop Robert Runcie," it added.

Jenco, who celebrated mass Sunday in his hometown of Joliet, Ill., for the first time since his release, said he was "very disturbed" about the Islamic Jihad statement.

Hot — And Staying That Way

Holding Up Under The Heat Wave

By Paul Schaefer
Herald Staff Writer

Seminole County residents are holding up under the stress of the heat wave that began about three weeks ago. But while area hospitals reported no dramatic increase in emergency room patients, an ambulance service and the Seminole County fire department are getting more calls to aid people with heat-related problems.

The highest temperature this weeked was 98 degrees, recorded in Sanford Friday. Saturday the high was 95 degrees and Sunday it reached 94.

No relief appears in sight. Although Tuesday is expected to have some showers, temperatures are expected to be in the low 90s through Friday.

A power company spokesman said increased demand for electricity to power air conditioning units is being met, and the Humane Society is experiencing an increase in the number of calls reporting animals chained up in yards without shade.

Both South Seminole Community Hospital and Central Florida Regional Hospital emergency room spokesmen said this morning that they have seen no increase in people reporting heat-related problems.

But a spokesman for Rural Metro Ambulance Service said they have gotten an increase number of requests to assist people suffering from heat exhaustion. And at Florida Hospital-Altamonte a spokesman said emergency room is seeing an average of two persons a week suffering heat-related ills, which is normal for this time of year. The patients are usually treated and released, she said.

Both the ambulance service and the Seminole County fire department say they have gotten requests to aid construction workers in the county.

Rural Metro spokesman Nancy McClintock said calls are running an average of two to three

Group Sets Seminar In Drug Abuse War

By Karen Talley
Herald Staff Writer

Identifying and coping with young people's drug problems will be the topic of a comprehensive three-hour seminar Sanford's drug abuse prevention network is to host at the Sanford Civic Center beginning at 7 p.m. Tuesday.

Counselors, concerned citizens, city officials and police will provide information.

The session is expected to be the first of many offered for adults, while like efforts for young people will begin with an Aug. 26 network presentation, also to be held at the civic center, beginning at 7 p.m.

Members of the Sanford network include Mayor Bettye Smith, Police Chief Steve Harriett, Parks and Recreation Director Jim Jernigan and congregants of the Grace Apostolic Church.

The network's inception is rooted in the drug abuse prevention seminar Apostolic Church members hosted with city officials on July 8. More than 200 attended the session, and network members hope for like response for Tuesday's program. They also hope the numbers who turn out will take the anti-drug message into all Sanford's neighborhoods, to enable its continued momentum.

Already movement within the community has expanded the network's membership and provided it with financial support. Soon after the network announced its anti-drug platform, both the public and private sectors began responding to its campaign, Jernigan said.

Private citizens have become members, local companies have offered funding, and clubs and service organizations have provided both, he said.

The Sanford Kiwanis Club has pledged its support, by offering the services of its youth committee to the network, while Codisco Industries has volunteered to cover all network printing costs, Jernigan said.

Additional clubs and private firms, who wish to remain anonymous, have also responded to the effort by offering both money and manpower, Jernigan said.

Now, the community at large, particularly parents, are being asked to support the network through attendance at Tuesday's seminar.

The session targets educating parents to the dangers of drug abuse, how they can spot the drug use signals their youngsters may be sending, and where they can seek help if the signs are displayed.

Speakers will include Mayor Smith, Harriett, Jernigan, Apostolic Church members, and several specialists in the drug field.

Tom Roll, Seminole County Schools drug education director, will discuss drug abuse warning signals in young people. His statements will be followed by those of Larry Visser, director of

Reagan Begins Anti-Drug Work

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Reagan, gearing up for his national crusade against drugs, is enlisting the help of a few close political allies — his Cabinet and Republican congressional leaders.

Reagan was scheduled to discuss drug policy proposals twice today, with Cabinet members in the morning and GOP leaders in the afternoon.

The president announced last week that he had set a goal of a drug-free generation. However, his plan is still in its formative stages and deputy press secretary Larry Speakes said Reagan has not decided on a set of recommendations to deal with the problem.

Among the options is a proposal to test all federal employees for drug use, which has constitutional and other legal implications.

Reagan's new drive was spurred by his wife Nancy's anti-drug crusade and by the recent cocaine-related deaths of University of Maryland basketball player Len Bias and Don Rogers of the Cleveland Browns.

With two weeks to go before Congress recesses, Reagan faces a host of domestic and foreign policy decisions before he leaves for a three-week vacation at his California ranch.

Rehnquist Documents Subpoena Closer

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A Senate vote to subpoena documents written by Justice William Rehnquist loomed more likely as administration and legislative negotiators failed to break an impasse over their release.

Senate Judiciary Committee Democrats and administration representatives negotiated through the weekend to try to reach a compromise for the release of documents Rehnquist wrote while he served as head of the Office of Legal Counsel under President Nixon in the early 1970s.

President Reagan claimed executive privilege Thursday and refused to make the documents available.

Rehnquist, Reagan's nominee to be chief justice, was the subject of four days of committee hearings that included charges that he harassed minority voters in the 1960s and that his ideology is too extreme.

Democrats say the documents include writings about prosecution of anti-war protesters, illegal wiretapping and civil rights issues.

Sen. Orrin Hatch, R-Utah, speaking Sunday on NBC's Meet the Press, said if the request can be narrowed and is reasonable, "maybe something can be done."

The White House Sunday referred all questions concerning the documents to the Justice Department. Justice Department spokesman Terry Eastland said the status on the release of the documents had not changed.

Democratic aides on the committee said Sunday that it is possible the Democrats may vote Tuesday to subpoena the documents if they don't get a satisfactory offer from the Justice Department.

Sen. Howard Metzenbaum, D-Ohio, appearing with Hatch, was asked if Democrats planned to filibuster Rehnquist's confirmation on the Senate floor if the documents are not provided.

"I've heard no talk of a filibuster at this point," Metzenbaum said, but added, "Rehnquist has said we can have those facts and I don't know why the White House has suddenly decided to exert executive privilege."

Hatch said, "This is what you call a fishing expedition by a bunch of senators who really don't have anything else. ... They don't have anything to criticize about (Rehnquist's) 15-year public service record."

Committee member Sen. Paul Simon, D-Ill., said last week that Rehnquist should return for further questioning, which could delay hearings for Supreme Court nominee Antonin Scalia, scheduled to begin Tuesday.

Asked if Rehnquist would be called back, Hatch said, "I don't think so."

Metzenbaum said, "I believe that's up to Justice Rehnquist. If he wants to come back in order to clarify the facts, fine. I have difficulty in

2 Killed, 32 Hurt In Beirut Blast

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — A 14-pound bomb hidden inside a bag blew up today outside a coffee shop in Christian east Beirut, killing two people and wounding 32, in the fifth such blast in the war-torn capital in eight days.

Christian Voice of Lebanon radio said the explosive charge went off at 10:25 a.m. in front of a two-story building that houses a coffee shop, yards away from the Karantina neighborhood police station.

The blast destroyed the building and caused small fires which set ablaze five cars, caused small fires which were immediately put out by fire brigades who rushed to the scene.

Civil Defense and police officials said two bodies were dug from under the rubble and 32 wounded were taken to hospitals, including two who lost their legs.

A police source said a 14-pound bomb was placed inside a bag and hidden near the coffee shop. He said the police station was not affected by the blast.

Commonwealth Weighs South Africa Sanctions

LONDON (UPI) — After a dinner with Queen Elizabeth II, British Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher and leaders of six Commonwealth nations began a meeting today to consider the imposition of economic sanctions against South Africa.

Thatcher, who opposes general economic sanctions, was "isolated" at the mini-summit, said Zambian President Kenneth Kaunda who called the meeting "crucial."

But despite Kaunda's statement that Thatcher was "isolated" by her anti-sanctions stand, a British source said she was ready to negotiate and hoped to reach a "successful conclusion" to the mini-summit.

The session began at Marlborough House, the headquarters of the 49-nation club that was formerly the British empire.

At the start Sunday of the three-day "review meeting," the seven leaders agreed Pretoria was making inadequate progress at ending apartheid but put off until today the controversial question of imposing sanctions or not.

At Buckingham Palace, the queen Sunday night hosted a dinner for the participants in the Commonwealth "mini-summit."

The London gathering was organized as a follow-up to a full Commonwealth leaders conference last October in Nassau that proposed economic measures against South Africa's white-minority government.

Before it took place, the dinner had been described as informal with no speeches but politicians said that they expected the queen, who is the titular head of the Commonwealth, to use it to seek a compromise.

No details were given on the palace dinner.

Sir Linden Pindling, prime minister of the Bahamas and chairman of the meeting, said "We will get down to the business of what further measures might be taken by the Commonwealth with respect to South Africa."

The leaders of Britain, Canada, Australia, India, Zimbabwe, Zambia and the Bahamas held a

The 'Secret Plan' To Re-Elect Nixon

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A key Democratic campaign strategist has suggested the drive to repeal the 22nd Amendment, limiting presidents to two elected terms, has a secret motive.

While Rep. Guy Vander Jagt, R-Mich., chairman of the House Republican Campaign Committee, is spearheading the effort, claiming there is "a groundswell of popular support to get Ronald Reagan to run for a third term," Rep. Tony Coelho, D-Calif., chairman of the Democratic Congressional Campaign Committee, said Sunday on CBS's

Face the Nation: "The reason you want the 22nd Amendment (repealed) is you are really wanting to bring Richard Nixon back as president."

Under the law, neither Nixon, who won the 1968 and 1972 elections, nor Reagan, serving his second term, would be eligible to run again.

The amendment was devised by Republicans in the 1940s to prevent a repeat of the Franklin Roosevelt era. He was elected president four times — in 1932, 1936, 1940 and 1944.

Secret Report: Air Force Supplies Are Easy Target

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Poor security at military supply areas provides ample opportunity for hostile nations like Libya and Iran to steal spare parts, munitions and supplies, a secret Air Force report says.

And detecting evidence of theft is extremely difficult because supply clerks usually mask errors in inventory records, the report by the Air Force inspector general's office found.

The report also concluded that foreign maintenance workers at overseas bases are permitted unsupervised access to critical aircraft parts, sources said.

The report identified Libya, Iran and Vietnam as "prime suspects" among governments that might try to organize theft of Air Force parts for their F-4, F-5 and C-130 aircraft, sources said.

"Poor security practices for some maintenance supply areas provided numerous opportunities for theft," the report said.

The 15-page report examines the security of the $19 billion Air Force supply system, which contains an assortment of items such as ammunition, nuts and bolts, wiring, and vehicle engines.

2 Climbers Missing In Avalanche

GLACIER, Wash. (UPI) — A "big wall of ice" loosened by the hot sun tumbled down an avalanche-hazard area of Mount Baker, burying two climbers and nearly trapping two others who were found before more slides chased searchers away.

Dave Jenkins, Whatcom County emergency services director, said chances were "slim" that search teams today would find the missing men beneath the snow at the 8,800-foot level of the 10,750-foot mountain in northeast Washington.

After the first "alab avalanche" Sunday, two of the climbers were found by members of the Northshore Alpine Rescue team of Vancouver, British Columbia, who were practicing maneuvers on the mountain.

Two more slides then swept down the section of the mountain that is known as the Roman Wall, preventing further search efforts. The area is considered prone to avalanches because of its many crevasses.

Death-Row Inmate Escapes

BRECKENRIDGE, Texas (UPI) — A death-row inmate awaiting trial on kidnapping charges pulled a knife on a jail guard, freed a woman prisoner, then the two fled with the killer's wife in the jailer's truck, authorities said.

Convict Richard Donald Foster, 33, sentenced to death for the robbery-murder of a Springtown man, fled the Stephens County Jail in Breckenridge, about 100 miles west of Fort Worth, around 11 p.m. Sunday, Texas Department of Corrections spokesman Charles Brown said.

Extensive roadblocks were set up in the area but the condemned killer, who authorities described as "extremely dangerous," and prisoner Cindy Davis, 27, remained at large early today, sheriff's officials said.

New Approach In IRA Issue

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The sensitive issue of IRA tax breaks has prompted some Senate tax reform negotiators to consider separating it from the overall bill and having Congress deal with it next year.

Sen. William Roth, R-Del., came up with the idea, which would call for a final tax reform measure to extend current tax treatment for individual retirement accounts for a year, then they would either be severely limited or ended.

Under Roth's plan, that would give Congress all of next year to try to find the money to keep the tax break.

U.S. Knew Who Bombed Beirut Embassy In 1983

MIAMI (UPI) — The U.S. Government has known for three years that five men confessed to carrying out a 1983 bombing attack on the U.S. Embassy in Beirut with Syrian aid, a published report said.

In the days immediately following the April 18, 1983 bombing, which killed 63 people, 17 of them American, Lebanese police detained four suspects who admitted their involvement. Their confessions and other evidence led Central Intelligence Agency agents to a powerful member of the Christian Phalange Political Front, The Miami Herald reported Sunday.

That man, who died in prison of unknown causes after questioning, confessed to acting as paymaster for the operation and said he arranged passage for a Syrian intelligence officer who supervised the wiring of a truck loaded with plastic explosives, the Herald said.

"It's very interesting that he was the one who died, because he knew the most," said Robert Dillon, who was the U.S. Ambassador to Lebanon at the time. Dillon, who is now attached to a United Nations relief agency in Vienna, escaped injury in the bombing.

Plane Makes Emergency Landing

COLUMBIA, S.C. (UPI) — A People Express jetliner carrying 150 passengers made an emergency landing at Columbia Metropolitan Airport Saturday because the pilot suspected there was a fire in the rear of the plane.

No fire was discovered, but seven passengers were slightly injured while evacuating the plane through emergency exits, airport director Bob Waddell said.

Flight 147, bound for Newark, N.J., from Jacksonville, Fla., radioed the control tower in Columbia at 4:30 p.m. EDT and asked permission to land when a fire alarm light came on in the cockpit, Waddell said.

"There was a suspected fire in the auxiliary power unit located in the rear of the plane," he said.

The plane stopped at the edge of a runway and passengers left through an emergency slide on the left side and through an emergency exit over the left wing, Waddell said.

Seven passengers were hurt evacuating the aircraft and were taken to a Columbia area hospital. Six were treated for "bumps and bruises" and released and one remained hospitalized with a possible broken ankle, Waddell said.

The flight was expected to be delayed five hours while People Express sent another plane to pick up the passengers.

'Titan' Statue Could Be Lost Ship's Mascot

SAN DIEGO (UPI) — Two Naval officers who got a look at debris alongside the wreck of the Titanic saw a mattress springs, cups and a bronze statue believed to be the mascot of the ill-fated ship.

Lt. Michael Mahre and Lt. Brian Kissel were part of the research team that explored the wreckage of the 45,000-ton Titanic, which sank in 1912 after hitting an iceberg. The officers were aboard the manned submersible Alvin.

An undersea robot called Jason Jr. was maneuvered inside the wreck with a 250-foot tether.

The robot first entered the sunken luxury liner July 15 through a broken skylight and maneuvered down the ship's grand staircase through four different decks.

Mahre and Kissel, stationed with the Navy's Submarine Development Group in San Diego, were on board the Alvin for one of the dives made in the submersible.

They assisted a pilot from the Woods Hole Oceanographic Institution in guiding the Jason Jr. in and around the Titanic. The robot recorded the sights on television and still cameras.

Kissel said Friday he was amazed the first time the ship came into view.

"It was just a big shadow ... until it snaps into focus and you see a huge wall of rust-colored metal," he said. "You realize the size of the Titanic as you look up."

Through the Alvin's view ports, Kissel and Mahre said they saw hundreds of articles strewn on the ocean floor.

"We saw a lot of debris you would expect to see, plates, cups, mattresses, (mattress) springs, pots, wine holders," Kissel said.

Kissel said the most exciting discovery of the dive came moments after a power warning alarm went off, indicating the Alvin had to begin resurfacing.

Kissel had just spotted a statue that he said appeared to be of a toga-clad Roman.

"It was a bronze statue about 4 feet long," he said. "It was buried in the sand with its back in the sand and face and arms facing to the surface. They believe it's the mascot of the ship, Titan," he said.

Kissel said pictures of the statue were overexposed, making it difficult to discern its exact features.

Kissel said the four-hour exploration of the wreck left him with an eerie feeling.

"When you see all this twisted steel and metal, you realize what kind of force was involved in crushing the hull," he said.

Jaws Lost Its Bite

Jaws decided to strike. But this time it was the line of Keith Kempke, 15, 6094 Feather Lane in Sanford, who was fishing with his Dad and friends on a party boat off of Port Canaveral. The giant shark weighed in a 350 pounds. Its 8 foot length topped the fisherman by nearly a yard. It took Keith 20 minutes to land the sea monster, and the assistance of four others to bring it back to Sanford.

Lake Mary H.S. Students To Contract Against Drugs

By Paul Schaefer and Angela Woodhull

Voluntary drug tests have been proposed for students involved in extra-curricular activities at Lake Mary High School during the 1986-87 session. Principal Don Reynolds said about 1,000 of the school's 2,400 students are involved in the extra-activities, and he would like to see the entire student population involved with the program.

The spread of the use of rock cocaine around the nation, previous drug and alcohol use by Lake Mary students, and a desire to help those students who are having drug or alcohol related problems, prompted the proposed testing program, Reynolds said.

"We have a 3-party contract proposed between the student, parents, and school saying that the student promises not to use drugs or alcohol," Reynolds said.

"The contract says the students will not do drugs, and that they will encourage others not to use drugs, and avoid parties and people that have drugs available," Reynolds continued.

"It's a voluntary contract that the students will take home to their parents and talk about," Reynolds said.

He added that the tests, urinalysis, would allow a student suspected of drug or alcohol use to prove that he or she is innocent. Students who test positive could be suspended from their club or team, and will be given information on social service organizations that can provide professional help, Reynolds said.

Reynolds said the contract has been in development by the Lake Mary High Local School Advisory Committee for a year, and has been greeted with "full parent support" at the school. He also said he has sent copies of the proposed contract to other high school principals.

He said urinalysis has been administered by a social service organization, The Grove, to students suspected of having problems in the past.

"Rock cocaine is scaring all of us in education," Reynolds said. "We have been told at meetings that a student can experiment with it one time and become addicted. It is a major potential problem, and it could be the worst we have ever seen."

"This is not a witch hunt. It's an honest effort to help those students with problems," Reynolds said. "We've got to take strong actions against it, and we can't ignore it," he added.

Reynolds said he will consult with Superintendent of Schools

Robert Hughes, schools attorney Ned Julian, and the school board about the proposed contract and testing program, but he is hopeful it can be in place this fall, in time for the fall sports season.

"I would like to see all the students involved, not just the ones who are participating in the extra activities," Reynolds said. He said a rally is being planned for students to spark interest in the program.

Reynolds said his is the first school in the county to come up with the idea since Lake Mary High School "was sensitized" to the drug issue last school year, when a teacher was arrested on cocaine sale charges, and an assistant principal was terminated in part for allegedly buying drugs from a student.

"That brought it to a head," Reynolds said, adding, "We got a lot of negative publicity."

Hughes, Julian and several school board members could not be reached for comment. Two principals said they supported the concept of fighting student drug use, but the contract and testing program proposed at Lake Mary needs further discussion and legal opinion before they would make the same proposal for their schools.

"I think we in education need to look at ways to ways to help students make the right de-isions about chemical abuse," said Lake Brantley Principal Darwin Booth, "and the right decision is to say no."

"If we could have the agreement for testing and do it in a way that would not imply all students as criminals, do it in a legal way, and in a way that would be supported by the parents in our community, then I would be happy to enter into such a program of chemical testing."

"If I felt it was going to be perfect, I'd enter into it now myself. I feel it is a courageous and bold move by Mr. Reynolds," Booth said.

Oviedo High School Principal Charles Webb said, "We need to do anything we can to prevent (athletes) from entering athletic contests under the influence of drugs," and said he doesn't know of any specific examples of problems in the athletic programs at his school.

"Whatever we do has to have support legally and also have school board backing," Webb said.

"We need a thoroughly conceived program that can be ongoing and sustained," he added.

Webb said school health classes discuss the effects of drugs on the body.

WEATHER

LOCAL REPORT: Weekend high temperatures went from 98 degrees Friday to 85 Saturday and 94 Sunday. The reading at 8 a.m. today was 77 degrees at the University of Florida Agricultural Research and Education Station in Sanford, which recorded no rain over the weekend. Rain Sunday afternoon provided some relief from the heat in South Seminole County. Hot and humid again today with good chance of rain.

NATIONAL REPORT: Severe thunderstorms carrying lightning that killed four people and injured three others brought some relief to the heat-stricken Southeast, but did little to ease the century's worst drought. "Most of the (drought) area didn't get too much," said National Weather Service forecaster Bill Barlow. "Most parts of Georgia, Alabama and Tennessee, where it's really dry, didn't get too much rain." An example of the problem could be found in North Carolina, where nearly 5.5 inches of rain drenched Cape Hatteras and 3 inches soaked

Cherry Point, but only scattered rain fell in parched areas away from the coast, the NWS said. The Southern drought has caused about $2.3 billion in farm damage. However, the storms did continue a pattern that began Saturday when cooler air combined with clouds and rain to help lower temperatures to near normal levels in the South and Plains, NWS meteorologist Scott Tansey said. "The last three days of July we had highs of 97, 98, 99 (degrees), successively, and the first three days of August, we had highs of 92, 95, 95," explained Claude Hall of the NWS in Atlanta. "It's been a little less hot. The biggest change was a considerable drop in the humidity. ... It makes the air feel much more comfortable. We're only expecting highs in the low 90s today," he said. "I think it's going to be like that the next couple of days." Lightning killed three people huddling under a large umbrella Sunday at the beach in Ocean City, Md., and injured two others, police said. Other people on the beach either scattered at the approach of the storm or were not affected by the strike, they said. Lightning also struck and killed a Texas Power & Light lineman repairing a transformer atop a utility pole Sunday during a downpour in Irving. In nearby Dallas, two firefighters suffered minor burns when they were struck by lightning while fighting a fire. An unidentified Dallas man hit by lightning Sunday in his yard was hospitalized in stable condition. Hall and strong winds downed trees and power lines in upstate New York and blew the roofs off several homes in Cheraw, S.C. In the Plains, storms Sunday strafed southeast Texas with winds of 90 mph and two tornadoes. The twisters in Wharton County downed trees and knocked out electricity in several communities, a sheriff's department spokesman said.

AREA READINGS (9 a.m.): temperature: 80; overnight low: 74; Sunday's high: 93; barometric pressure: 30.11; relative humidity: 79 percent; winds: southwest at 6 mph; rain: .32 inch; sunrise: 6:48 a.m., sunset 8:14 p.m.

TUESDAY TIDES: Daytona Beach: highs, 8:40 a.m., 9:04 p.m.; lows, 2:27 a.m., 2:17 p.m.; Port Canaveral: highs, 8:32 a.m., 8:56 p.m.; lows, 2:18 a.m., 2:08 p.m.; Bayport: highs, 2:34 a.m., 1:32 p.m.; lows, 7:50 a.m., 8:53 p.m.

AREA FORECAST: Today...mostly sunny this morning then partly cloudy with thunderstorms likely this afternoon. High in the lower 90s. Wind southwest 10 mph but gusty near thunderstorms. Rain chance 70 percent. Tonight: a 30 percent chance of evening thunderstorms then fair. Low in the middle 70s. Light and variable wind. Tuesday...partly cloudy with afternoon thunderstorms likely. High in the lower 90s. Wind southwest 10 mph or less. Rain chance 60 percent.

BOATING FORECAST: St. Augustine to Jupiter Inlet — Today...wind south around 10 kts. Seas 2 to 3 ft. Bay and inland waters a light chop. Scattered afternoon thunderstorms. Tonight and Tuesday...wind south around 10 kts. Seas 1 to 3 ft. Bay and inland waters a light chop. Scattered early nighttime and afternoon thunderstorms.

2nd Haitian Charged In Drug Deals

A second Haitian native in two ways has been arrested in the Sanford area and charged with trafficking "crack" cocaine. It was one of three cocaine arrests Friday.

The suspect, seen leaving a motel on Southwest Road in Sanford, was arrested on the trafficking charge after an ounce of the drug was found in a radio speaker in his car. The incident occurred Friday around 11:30 a.m.

Thursday, Sanford police made their biggest "crack" cocaine bust to date nabbing another Haitian suspect with 60 grams of the wax-like drug.

In the latest incident, a deputy noticed that a television in the man's car had a tampered serial number. That led to a search of the vehicle and the discovery of the cocaine.

Arrested and charged was Elismond Desina, 29, of Ft. Pierce. He is charged possession of a controlled substance and trafficking cocaine.

In the second incident, two men sitting in a car behind Midway Elementary School were arrested on cocaine charges after deputies were told cocaine was being sold from the car.

When a deputy approached the vehicle, he said the occupants were putting something under the seat. A search of the vehicle produced cocaine and drug paraphernalia. The incident occurred Friday at 7:37 p.m. in Midway.

One of the men reportedly resisted being handcuffed during arrest and was also charged with resisting arrest without violence. Charged with possession of cocaine, paraphernalia and resisting arrest was Harry Cornell Johnson, 28, of 1505 W. 18th St., Sanford. Also arrested was the passenger in the car, George Reginald Smith, 28, of 290 E. 20th St., Sanford. He was charged with possession of cocaine and paraphernalia.

A Seminole County man told deputies someone called his home and threatened to kill his 6-year-old daughter.

The man told deputies that around 5 p.m. Friday his daughter answered the phone. He took the phone from her and a man's voice said he had seen the girl at an open market in the county and was going to abduct, rape and kill her.

The father, who told the man off, said the voice sounded muffled as if the speaker was talking through cloth.

PEACOCK PROBLEMS
A Longwood woman told a deputy that a peacock from a neighboring lot damaged her Corvette.

According to an incident report, a peacock landed on the roof of her Corvette scratching it severely. Becky Davenport, of 1150 Alberta St., said the peacocks usually live in a fenced area to the north of her home. Animal control was notified of the problem.

ROLLING JOINT
Two men were arrested on marijuana charges after an officer saw one of them rolling a marijuana cigarette as they drove down U.S. Highway 17-92 in Sanford.

According to the report, the officer located marijuana in the van and in the passenger's pocket. The incident occurred Friday at 11:11 p.m.

Charged with possession of less than 20 grams of marijuana was the driver, McHail Manley, 24, of Lake Monroe. Also charged with possession of marijuana was Thomas W. Fryer, of Box 685, Sanford.

"NOT ME"
An Orlando man was arrested on a marijuana charge after a deputy reportedly saw him holding a marijuana cigarette.

According to the arrest report, the deputy approached the man at 108 Variety Circle, south of Altamonte Springs, after he saw him holding what looked like a marijuana cigarette. The incident occurred Friday at 10:40 p.m.

When the officer approached, the man reportedly threw down the joint and said "not me."

Arrested on a charge of possession of marijuana was Julius Martin Dietrich, 21.

Sanford Buys New Patrol Car

Sanford commissioners have authorized emergency purchase of a new police patrol car, for $9,972.75, as replacement for the patrol vehicle lost during a run-in with another car at the intersection of French Avenue and 25th Street on July 19.

The action was taken during last week's regular meeting. The city will file an insurance claim to recover the cost of the expenditure. Police Chief Steve Harriett said.

The accident occurred while the Sanford patrolman was transporting a prisoner to the Seminole County jail. The driver of the vehicle which hit the patrol car was found to be at fault in the accident and criminal charges against him are pending completion of an investigation, Florida Highway Patrol Trooper Ken Weaver said.

Both the officer driving the patrol car and the prisoner he was transporting to the county jail have recovered from injuries received in the incident, as has the driver of the other car, Harriett said.

According to police reports, the accident occurred July 19, at approximately 2 a.m., when Sanford patrolman Tim Black, 24, was driving the 1986 Dodge Diplomat patrol car south on French Avenue in transport of prisoner David Lewis, 34, to the county jail. Black had picked up Lewis a few moments before the accident, police said.

A northbound 1972 Datsun driven by Blake Gebhardt, 21, reportedly attempting to turn left off French Avenue onto 25th Street, hit the patrol car, sending it into a nearby utility pole, police said.

All three were treated and released from the hospital and Lewis was reportedly subsequently booked at the county jail for the charge he had been picked up on.

Against The Wind

One of the fictional Mr. Dooley's most famous lines is that: "No matter whether the Constitution follows the flag or not, the Supreme Court follows the illicion returns." That certainly seemed true in 1984 when the high court took a starboard tack and gave the Reagan administration impressive victories in several criminal and civil-rights cases. Yet the Dooley rule became a cropper during the last two court terms as the justices steered leftward in the face of the prevailing political winds.

Actually, the recently completed session saw the Supreme Court hand some stinging defeats to one of the most popular presidents in U.S. history.

A dramatic setback came in June when the court rejected the administration's attempt to overturn the 1973 Roe vs. Wade decision, thereby reaffirming the right to abortion on demand. In a 5-4 vote, the court voided those Pennsylvania statutes requiring physicians to obtain informed consent before performing the operations.

Soon thereafter, the high court handed down two affirmative-action rulings that effectively sanction the use of reverse discrimination in the work place. The rulings are all the more curious because they came on the heels of the court's earlier decision in a Jackson, Mich., case that said minority employees must not be given preference over their white counterparts with more seniority during layoffs.

The Reagan administration took another lump in a North Carolina case when the court unanimously rejected the Justice Department's narrow interpretation of the amendments to the Voting Rights Act. Simultaneously, the justices, in a 5-3 vote, invalidated the administration's "Baby Doe" regulations requiring hospitals that receive federal funds to make every effort to keep severely handicapped newborns alive regardless of doctors' or parents' wishes.

The President did win a victory of sorts when the high court held that a key provision of the Gramm-Rudman-Hollings budget law is unconstitutional because it encroaches upon executive power. Similarly, the court sided with the administration on several cases that strengthen the hand of law enforcement and school officials.

Mr. Reagan could also take heart from the court's ruling in the Indiana gerrymandering case. Concluding that political redistricting is subject to constitutional challenge, the court opened the door for legal redress in 26 states, including Florida, where the Democrats have a virtual lock on state legislatures.

Although the administration did not file a brief in the controversial Georgia sodomy case, it was nonetheless pleased by the court ruling upholding the right of states to prohibit such sexual acts.

The court made the public and the press victors in holding for open pretrial hearings. First Amendment rights were enhanced when the court placed a greater burden of proof on plaintiffs in libel cases. Working women won a significant victory when the court said that employers may be sued under federal civil-rights laws for allowing sexual harassment. Finally, in two unrelated cases, the court wisely ruled that prosecutors could not ban persons from juries solely on the basis of race, but that persons opposed to the death penalty could be excluded as jurors in capital cases.

If there is a common thread running through the Supreme Court's tumultuous history, it is that there is precious little ideological symmetry among nine justices once they don their robes.

How Much For Nancy's Book? They Ain't Sayin'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Nancy Reagan faces a book deadline, but not until 1989 when the president is out of office.

The first lady has agreed to do her White House memoirs for Random House, but neither her office nor the publisher, are saying for how much. Considering the $2 million given to former budget director David Stockman and the $3 million for Edwin Morris to write President Reagan's official biography, Mrs. Reagan's book is expected to command megabucks.

She has been keeping a diary since she moved into the White House — usually four a year, going by season, jotting down her impressions day by day, sometimes on planes or in spare time.

She plans to hire a research assistant who will help her to organize her material, but not a ghost writer, says Elaine Crispin, her press secretary. Mrs. Reagan plans to write her own book.

In that respect she has good company. All the previous contemporary first ladies have written their memoirs except Jacqueline Kennedy Onassis and Pat Nixon. Julie Nixon Eisenhower is writing a book about her mother, which should be on the stands late this year or early next year.

Sugar Ray Leonard, the retired boxer seeking a comeback against Marvelous Marvin Hagler, was, in his glory days, one of the many athletes received at the White House by President Reagan.

When Ray and his wife were introduced as "Sugar Ray and Mrs. Ray," Leonard recently told a reporter, Reagan looked around and asked him where his son, "Little Ray," was.

"He wasn't invited," Leonard said he replied, to which the president asked, "He was invited?"

Leonard, resisting suggestions he stay retired rather than reinjure his eye and risk defeat and loss of his stature, said one big factor in his decision to fight again is tax reform. With the prospect of a multimillion dollar payday, Leonard said he was well aware of the pending reduction of the top tax rate from 50 percent to about 27 percent.

President Reagan told a White House gathering that when looking at "Bedtime for Bonzo" in which he starred with a chimpanzee in his

Hollywood days: "It reminds me of the son I never had."

Blair House, the president's guest house across the street from the White House, is under reconstruction and will not be completed until 1988.

The immense project started last fall, which involves four buildings and 100 rooms, "is pretty much on schedule," says curator Clement Conger.

He said the wiring, the heating and air conditioning of the buildings, all different, are being constructed into one uniform system.

Conger, who recently was dismissed by Nancy Reagan as White House curator after many years of service starting with the Nixon administration, is in charge of decorating the historic rooms at the State Department and Blair House.

He has been successful in persuading the rich and philanthropic to make priceless donations to the White House in the past. He said that many of the previous furnishings of Blair House, mainly English and American, will go back into the house once it is renovated.

Credit Where Credit Due

American Express likes to brag that 30 percent of its card holders are women. Visa counters with a full-page ad in Working Woman magazine boasting that it provides cash in five times as many places around the world as American Express. Seems like the money-lenders are knocking themselves out to give credit to women.

Well — yes and no. While the purveyors of plastic are courting women, it is only an illusion that women have equal access to money and credit. In truth, we often don't.

Women have been asked to provide collateral for loans while men with the same qualifications borrow on signatures alone.

I know a woman whose unemployed college-age son had no difficulty getting credit cards, while she, a working, single parent, was turned down for a $1,500 car loan.

In another case, the Federal Trade Commission charged a credit union with sex discrimination after investigating women's complaints that they were denied loans because they were pregnant.

Even women who own businesses sometimes get the big "No" at banks when they ask for a loan. The Wall Street Journal tells of a Chicago construction firm-owner who complained that even though her company landed $3.8 million in contracts this year, she couldn't get a $100,000 line of credit without her husband as co-signer. "He's a lawyer and has nothing to do with the company," she brawled.

A Wichita, Kan., woman was told by her banker not to even bother filling out the loan application for her five-year-old skin-care clinic: "They said they'd give me money to buy a pig or a machine, but not cosmetics."

Women entrepreneurs have, in fact, collected so many similar tales of woe that the National Association of Women Business Owners is detailing them to present to a White House conference on small business in August.

In addition, while doing research for an article on women and money for Woman's Day, I found that women can get shortchanged in their personal credit histories.

New federal credit laws require that family credit records include the wife as a participant even if she's not employed. Yet, when I went to my local credit bureau to see what kind of rating I had, I was shocked to discover that of the five department stores where my husband and I carry charge accounts, only two rated me as an equal. I am now in the process of making the rounds at store credit departments to get this rectified.

Credit records at banks and department stores should be designated as Joe OR Jane Doe, not Joe and Jane Doe.

Justice Asks Fraud Suits Be Barred

By Jack Anderson
And
Dale Van Atta

Without any explanation, the Justice Department has reversed itself on a matter that could affect many Americans who have been fleeced by con artists or racketeers.

In proposed legislation sent to Congress late last month, the department recommended barring civil suits for fraud and racketeering until the perpetrators had been convicted in criminal proceedings.

In June the Justice Department assured us that it supported victims' rights to sue under a 16-year-old law.

An attorney for Public Citizen called the turnaround "particularly outrageous" at a time when

ROBERT WAGMAN

Pentagon 'Cooks' Budget

WASHINGTON (NEA) — If you want to provoke an argument with a Reagan administration official, suggest that something was done better in 1978 than it is being done today, or that some triumph claimed by the White House is actually the result of policies or programs started in the previous administration.

The fact is, from the day Ronald Reagan took office, the White House and the administration have been totally paranoid about comparisons with the Carter years.

This is especially true at the Pentagon, which has repeatedly defended the soaring defense budget by pointing out what awful things Jimmy Carter did to the military and how, despite huge budget increases, money today is being better and more wisely spent.

One perfect example supposedly is the procurement of naval aircraft.

Over the last several years, on countless occasions, Navy Secretary John Lehman and Defense Secretary Caspar Weinberger have claimed that, because of their tough-minded administration, today's naval aircraft are being purchased less expensively than during the Carter years. President Reagan has from time to time echoed the statement.

For instance, in a recent speech Lehman said, "Every Navy aircraft today is less expensive in constant dollars than it was four years ago. Every Navy aircraft, Lee Iacocca can't say that about Chrysler; we can say that about Navy aircraft." ("Constant dollars" refers to dollars adjusted for inflation. "Four years ago" is the Reagan administration buzzword for the Carter years.)

With the cost of everything going up, this sounds too good to be true. It sounded too good to be true to

Sen. Lowell Weicker, the maverick Republican from Connecticut and frequent Pentagon critic. So he asked the Pentagon inspector general to investigate the claim.

Reportedly, in a still unreleased study, the inspector general has shown the claim not only not to be false, but to border on a downright lie.

The report finds that Navy analysts had consistently overstated aircraft costs during the period running from 1976 to 1980 and have badly understated costs over the last five years.

The inspector general looked at five Navy fighter aircraft procurement programs: the A6E bomber, E2C radar-warning plane, EA6B radar-jamming plane, F14 fighter and P3C anti-submarine plane. In the inspector general's opinion — after adjusting for inflation — every one of the planes costs more today than it did during the Carter years — with the exception of the A6E in two of the four Carter years. In 1977 and 1980 the A6E cost more than it does today. But in 1978 and 1979 it cost less than it does today.

The report says "the Navy's interpretation only demonstrates a willingness to conveniently report steady price increases prior to 1981 and take credit for price decreases after 1981 without regard for factual or consistent application of cost analysis techniques."

Specifically, the inspector general said that analysts: used different cost-accounting systems for both administrations; used "unofficial" inflation-rate figures to arrive at constant-dollar comparisons; made "inconsistent" adjustments to plane prices in both administrations; and used different definitions of what the "full price" of aircraft are today as compared to 1976-1980.

ANTHONY HARRIGAN

Deflation Harmful To Economy

Business Week recently described deflation as "a cancer spreading across America's heartland," adding that it is not just the slowing down of inflation but a price collapse. As the magazine pointed out, "it destroys wealth even more surely than inflation does."

For five years, while the American people have heard that everything was rosy, there has been a downward spiral in raw material prices, real wages, and asset values. The value of farm land in many areas has fallen by more than 50 percent. The price of wheat is down by a third. Metals have lost a great deal of their value. On July 15, oil was trading at $8.55 a barrel, the lowest price since 1976. On that same day, the Hughes Tool Co. reported that the count of rigs operated in U.S. oilfields had sunk by nine in the previous week, reaching a new postwar low of 663. Two good-sized banks in Oklahoma and New Mexico also went under that week.

Today, a Deflation Belt extends from the Gulf Coast to Canada and from the Rockies to the Mississippi. The situation is worst in the major energy states — Texas, Louisiana and Oklahoma. These states are running massive deficits.

While the administration and the supply-side theoreticians talk about prosperity ahead, economic growth slows almost to a halt. As Business Week said, "deflation is insidiously eroding the demand side of the equation." The magazine also warns that "deflationary pressures are gathering force."

Part of the picture is the trade deficit that continues to worsen despite a steady fall in the value of the U.S. dollar. The Reagan administration has been dead wrong on the trade issue, but refuses to admit that it misunderstood foreign trade offensives and miscalculated the effects of a weakened dollar. Japan and other countries are determined to maintain market share in the United States at any cost.

The entrenched U.S. political forces on both sides aren't prepared to recognize that we need a true national interest economic policy that puts America first in all international economic trade contests. It is a policy that recognizes manufacturing, mining, oil exploration and agriculture as the basis of a strong national economy. It is an economic policy that accepts the truth that a country's wealth is derived from its productive capacity, not from monetary juggling.

Today, the United States is letting its basic industries wind down through neglect and its natural resource base suffer enormous damage as a result of foreign subsidies and price manipulation.

white-collar crime costs U.S. citizens $200 billion a year.

MINI-EDITORIAL: It's rare when any politician, much less one in the well-coached milieu of the White House, will admit that something — anything — is being committed purely for the sake of politics.

But that's what an (unfortunately) unidentified White House official acknowledged the other day when a reporter asked whether there was any detectable policy reason for Vice President Bush's 11-day Middle East junket.

"Nothing but politics," the official said.

This refreshing candor almost takes the sting out of our resentment of the fact that Bush (but not his retinue) is traveling at the taxpayers' expense.

Almost, but not quite. SOMETHING ROTTEN: The Reagan administration stopped federally funded hospital testing of disinfectants in 1982, and only four states have had testing programs since.

The rest rely on manufacturers' claims.

Random sampling in 1982 showed that 20 percent of the supposed germ-killers didn't work — and since then 3,300 untested disinfectants have come on the market.

Florida, which still tests, found "large numbers of bacteria growing in the disinfectant that was supposed to kill them." The American Society for Microbiology estimated last year that 2 million people are infected in hospitals every year, and 20,000 of them die.

MINI-EDITORIAL: Americans have learned to joke about it. But in Liberia, there's not so much as a furtive smirk when the country's dictator, Samuel K. Doe, announces yet another "new" incarnation.

Since he seized power in 1980, Doe's titles have included master sergeant, general, "Commander-in-Chief Dr.

Doe," and now "His Excellency the President Dr. Doe." Who does he think he is: Queen Victoria? She at least had some geographical justification for her many titles.

Hawks Soar To National Tourney Berth

By Scott Sander
Herald Sports Writer
CLEARWATER—The Seminole Hawks 12 and under girls softball team did something this past weekend that they have been striving for since their first tournament of the summer. They qualified for the American Softball Association National Tournament.

The Hawks went 4-2, in the ASA Southern Regional Tournament at Sid Lickton Field in Clearwater and it was good for third place in the 15-team, double-elimination tournament.

"I can't tell you how happy it makes me to be going to nationals," jubilant Hawks manager Larry Risse said. "These kids played their hearts out and they deserve to go."

The National Tournament will be held in Marietta, Ga., starting on Friday, August 8th.

The Hawks, who raised their overall record to 41-7, used a very balanced hitting attack in qualifying for the Nationals.

"I was very pleased with the way our girls hit the ball," Risses said. "We played sound defense as well. The two games that we didn't hit well and played poor defense we lost."

Michelle Davis was the offensive star of the tournament for Seminole. Davis went 10 for 14 in her final 24 at bats and delivered several key hits. "I've been hitting the ball pretty well," Davis said. "Hopefully we will keep on playing well in the Nationals. We are all looking forward to it."

Christine Risse was the pitcher of record in all but one game and ended up with a 4-1 record. Risse proved that she is without question one of the best pitchers in the state. "I was happy with the way I pitched," Risse said. "I need to keep on pitching well in order to do well at Nationals."

After winning their opening round game, 10-3, to Hollywood Hills on Friday night, the Hawks took on U.K. Garrett, the Alabama state champs on Saturday morning.

It was a superb pitching performance by Risse and a tough defense that boosted the Hawks to a 6-0 win over Garrett.

"This was the best defensive game of the year," manager Risse said. "We got some big hits but our defense definitely carried us through this game."

Second baseman Kristy York had a great offensive game with three hits and one RBI. Davis had a super defensive game at shortstop and chipped in offensively with a single and a double good for an RBI.

"We played good defense today," Davis said. "Coach Risse has been working on our defensive game a lot in practice."

Risse held Garrett to only three hits and only issued one walk. Risse also contributed offensively with a run-scoring double.

It was extremely ironic that it was the defensive miscues that caused the Hawks to lose their third round game to the Pembroke Pines by the score of 4-3.

The Pembroke fans felt it necessary to use distraction techniques to supposedly help their club. Whistles were blown. Air horns and cowbells were blown and rung in order to distract 12-year-old girls.

Michelle Davis

Christine Risse

A fight broke out at the end of the game when the Pembroke third base coach raced into the stands and attacked his own teams fans.

"We made some mistakes that cost us," Risse said after the rumble. "We didn't hit the ball well (six hits) and you can't expect to win without

Cubs Send Martinez To Minors

Chicago Cubs rookie outfielder Dave Martinez, a Lake Howell High graduate, was sent back to the club's AAA team in Des Moines, Iowa Saturday to make room on the 24 man roster for pitcher Rick Sutcliffe.

After being promoted from Des Moines to the Cubs earlier in the season, Martinez started a number of games in center field and batted in the leadoff spot. While his glove was a welcome addition, Martinez had trouble adjusting to the big league pitching.

In 39 games, Martinez had just eight hits in 65 at bats for a .121 average. He hit one home run, one double, drove in five runs and stole four bases in five attempts.

"Martinez just never seemed comfortable at the plate," Chicago manager Gene Michael said. "But he has good work habits. And he runs down the ball in the outfield real well."

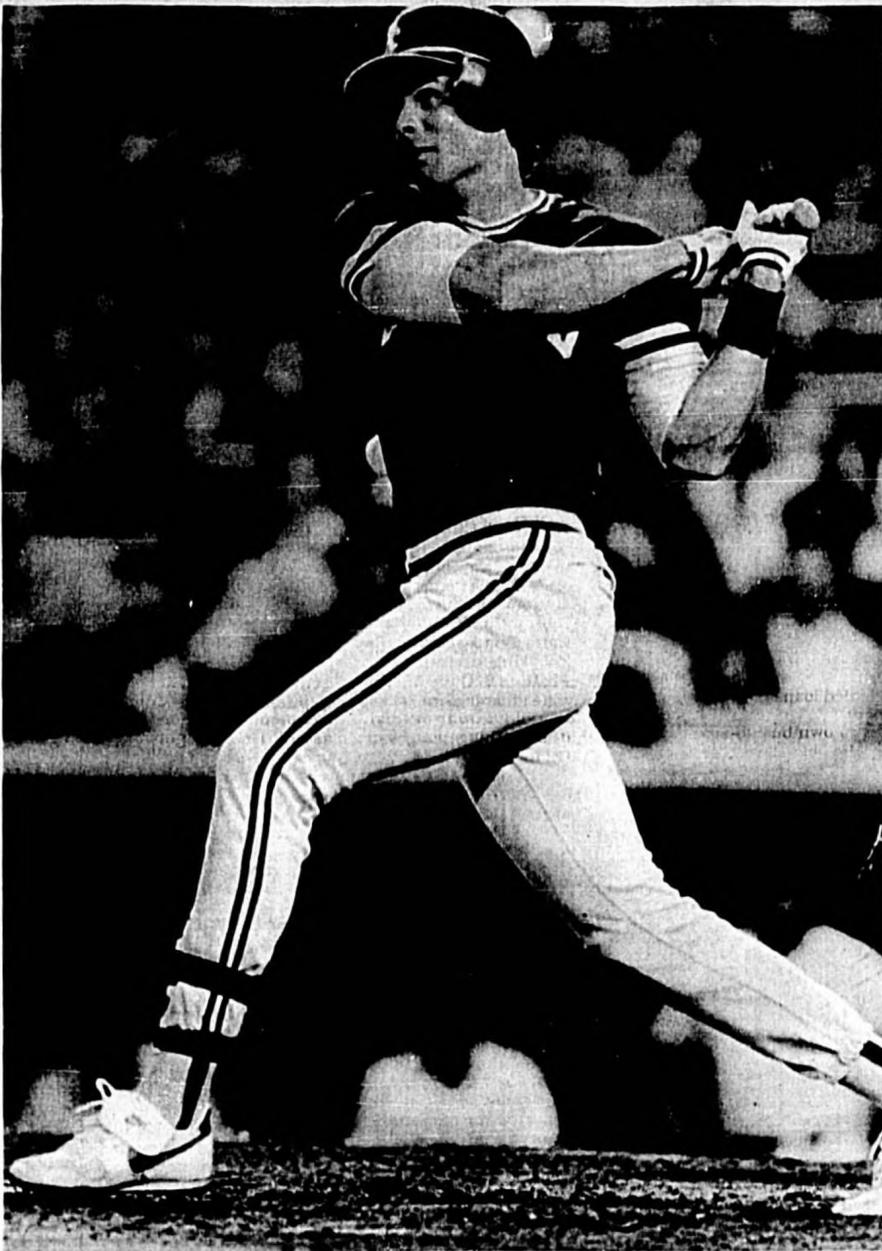

Martinez said he hopes being sent back to Des Moines will enable him to work out the kinks in his hitting so he can return to the Cubs later this season.

"In a way, I'm happy about the demotion," Martinez said. "I'll get some at bats and hope to be ready to come back in September (when rosters are expanded to 40 players).

"At 21-years-old, I'm too young to be considered just a defensive outfielder," Martinez added.

Before he was promoted to the Cubs, Martinez was hitting close to .300 at Des Moines. Martinez started in center field and was hitless in his first four games. He stole four consecutive bases before being caught.

After coming off the disable list, the struggling Sutcliffe started Sunday's game for the Cubs against Philadelphia. Sutcliffe went four innings, allowed two runs on three hits, struck out two and walked two. He was not involved in the decision in the 6-2 loss to the Phillies.

Oakland rookie outfielder Jose Canseco takes a rip. Canseco's RBI double with two out in the top of the 11th gave the A's a 5-4

Opening Loss Dooms Savages

By Chris Flater
Herald Sports Writer

HOLLYWOOD — After losing to Plantation in their opening game of the ASA Southern Regional Tournament, the Seminole Savages were put in a familiar position. In the Metro Tournament, the Savages lost their first game and then came all the way back through the losers' bracket to win the tournament.

This past weekend, however, with a roster trimmed down to 12 players, some of which were playing hurt, the Savages could not produce the magic that carried them through the Metro.

Seminole won three games after the opening loss, but then dropped a 9-2 decision to the Miami Waves and were eliminated from a shot at a third straight trip to the ASA National Tournament. The top three teams in the regional go on to the nationals in Lubbock, Texas.

"We didn't have the eye of the tiger," Savages' manager Carlos Martinez said. "We were flat all day (Saturday) and it's tough to keep it going when you're down to 12 players."

The Savages originally planned to take 13 players to the regionals but had one quit the team days before they left. Seminole also had its first baseman, Rixja Millwood, playing with a sprained knee and its top pinch hitter, Lisa Boatwright, with a broken nose.

In Friday night's opener, the Savages hit the ball well with 11 hits compared to 13 for Plantation. However, Seminole committed eight errors and Plantation capitalized on most of them to claim a 15-6 victory.

Softball

On Saturday, the defense picked up and the hitting was on in two consecutive losers' bracket wins. In their third game Saturday, defense once again carried the Savages as they were held to just six hits in a 6-1 win over the Tampa Mustangs.

Seminole got all it needed with three runs in the bottom of the first. With one out, Heather Meyer ripped a single to right. Jodie Switzer followed with a single up the middle and both advanced on an outfield error. Meyer then scored on Tammy Jenerette's groundout. Heather Golden followed with a base hit and an error on the play enabled Switzer to score and Golden to go to third. Anna Hollis then singled up the middle to score Golden for a 3-0 lead.

Led by the solid defensive play of Jenerette at shortstop, Hollis at second, Corrie Lawson in left center field and Meyer in right center, the Savages held the Mustangs scoreless through three innings. Seminole then added some insurance with three runs in the bottom of the third.

Lawson stepped up and unloaded a mammoth drive over the fence in center field for a lead off homer, her second over-the-fence round tripper of the tournament. Meyer and Switzer followed with consecutive walks and both scored when Golden ripped a double to left center.

The Mustangs scored once in the top of the fourth but never

Phillips Grabs Festival Spotlight

HOUSTON (UPI) — An arena used to boasting Twin Towers embraced a budding media sky-scraper Sunday night, 4-foot-10 Kristie Phillips.

Upstaging a man more than twice her age, the 14-year-old Phillips won three gold medals in the women's individual gymnastics to bump veteran sprinter Harvey Gance out of the concluding spotlight at the U.S. Olympic Festival. A sellout crowd of 15,630 at The Summit, home playground for 7-foot-4 Ralph Sampson and 7-foot Akeem Olajuwon of the Rockets, were given a sneak preview of Mary Lou Retton's heir apparent.

The final night in the 10-day competition of America's premier amateur athletes also included a 5-4 victory by the North in the ice hockey gold medal game and Gance's surprising triumph in the men's 100 meters.

It was Phillips, though, who bent her flexible 80-pound frame into mystifying positions and captivated fans and judges alike. With coach Bela Karolyi contorting and exhorting on the sidelines, Phillips won the vault, the balance beam and the floor exercise.

Best friend and fellow Karolyi pupil Phoebe Mills, 13, finished second to Phillips in each event but won her own gold in the uneven bars — an apparatus Phillips didn't qualify for in the finals. On Friday night, Phillips won the gold medal in the all-around, edging Mills again in an amiable rivalry that could extend to the 1988 Olympic Games in Seoul, Korea. "That was the best balance beam routine I believe I have ever done," said Phillips after earning a 9.8 from the judges and a standing ovation from an adoring audience. "It was a very special night because it was my first Festival. The crowd was great — I'm very happy."

Festival

The effusive Karolyi, who also coached Retton and Nadia Comaneci to gymnastic glory, couldn't lose no matter who won the Phillips-Mills competition. "You could see how close they were," he said. "They are so competitive, but they didn't shake each other all night. Phoebe competed strong; it shows she's not scared."

The upbeat Festival atmosphere was shattered early Sunday morning by the death of 30-year-old Robert J. Roggy of Santa Barbara, Calif., who finished fifth in the javelin Saturday. Roggy, the top-ranked javelin thrower in the world in 1982, fell at 6 a.m. EDT from the back of a pick-up truck just inside the main entrance to the University of Houston campus, said U.S. Olympic Committee Secretary-General George Miller.

"Basically what happened when they brought him to the hospital was they found no heartbeat," said Festival head physician John Lombardo. "He was not breathing and they tried resuscitation and got no response."

Nationals Go After Region Title

By Scott Sander
Herald Sports Writer

The District 14 National Big League baseball team is one that has unlimited potential.

"I'm very optimistic about our chances in this tournament," Nationals' manager Howard Mable said. "We have got a very solid ballclub."

The Nationals, the Big League state champions, will play their first game of the Southern Regionals tonight at 8:30 in Pembroke Pines.

The Nationals are a very balanced team. Their hitting has been nothing short of phenomenal in winning the district, sectional, and state titles. Brevard College's Mike Hinde has been the leading hitter for the Nationals so far. Shane Letterio, Mark Merchant, Mike Pinckes, and Mark Coffey have all been hitting the cover off the ball.

Baseball

"We're really ripping the ball," Pinckes said. "If we keep on hitting the ball this well we should be tough to beat."

The Nationals pitching has also been superb. Jay Carter, Dave Westgate, Steve Shakar, and Craig Duncan have all done a fine job on the mound.

"Our pitchers have been doing a helluva job," Mable said. "They are all fine athletes."

Merchant is very optimistic about the team's chances. "We should take this tournament easily," Merchant said. "Then it's on to the World Series in Fort Lauderdale."

The Nationals have yet to lose a game and have only had two close contests. "We don't mind winning big," Hinde said. "In fact we kind of like it."

Competition will be tough in the regionals and the Nationals know it. "Nothing is going to be handed to us on a platter," Mable said. "The kids know what they have to do to win. They know that things won't be easy."

If the Nationals play up to their potential like they have been recently, it is very likely that they will win the Southern Regional title.

Walker Thrilled To Be One Of 133 In Hall

CANTON, Ohio (UPI) — As of Saturday, there are 133 enshrines in the Pro Football Hall of Fame. Doak Walker still has problems believing he is one of them.

"That's astounding to me," said Walker, who played six seasons with Detroit from 1950-55. "I can think of 200 players I thought were better than me. I'm just numb."

Walker, along with Paul Hornung, Ken Houston, Willie Lanier and Fran Tarkenton ascended the front steps of the Hall of Fame together as the 1986 class of inductees.

Football

"I really have to pinch myself to make sure this is happening," said Walker, the 1948 Heisman Trophy winner out of Southern Methodist. "I mean, I just never figured I would be here today."

Walker, a 59-year-old native of Dallas, scored 534 points and figured in every offensive category and even played defense en route to five Pro Bowl appearances.

"I may have been dull compared to (quarterback and Hall of Famer) Bobby Layne, but I did enjoy playing," he said. "I made $35,000 my final year, and quit before my skills deteriorated like my daddy told me to."

The enshrinement traditionally offers the honoree a chance to reminisce, tell jokes and even criticize.

Hornung said he "felt like a political football" during his 15-year wait to be elected.

"I know the reason I wasn't elected earlier," said Hornung, the halfback known for his blond good looks and flamboyant lifestyle during nine seasons with Green Bay.

"Being suspended for gambling (for the 1963 season) definitely caused this day to be

McCovey, Doerr, Lombardi Newest Members Of Baseball Hall

COOPERSTOWN, N.Y. (UPI)—Willie McCovey, one of the most feared hitters ever to play baseball, cried Sunday.

The 6-foot-4, 225-pound slugger who menaced opposing pitchers during a 22-year career said an emotional thank you as he joined Bobby Doerr and Ernie Lombardi as the newest members of the Baseball Hall of Fame.

Standing in a steady drizzle before about 5,000 baseball dignitaries and fans outside the Hall, McCovey choked back tears — twice unsuccessfully — during his brief acceptance speech.

He called his induction "the pinnacle of my life," and spoke of his friends and associates in the game as an extended family.

"This is the pinnacle of my life and my career," said the 48-year-old McCovey, who played all but four of his seasons with the San Francisco Giants.

"Even though it's raining, it's Sunday, and it's summer. And summer and Sundays mean two things to me — baseball and family.

"For me, each has enriched the other, shaped my character and values. Together, they have brought me here."

McCovey, who played from 1959 to 1968, became only the 18th player inducted in his first year of eligibility, not including the original seven enshrined in 1936.

Among his achievements, he was the National League's Rookie of the Year in 1959, its Most Valuable Player in 1969, and NL Comeback Player of the Year in 1977.

Baseball

With 521 career home runs — most by a left-hander in National League history — McCovey is tied for ninth place on the all-time list with Hall-of-Famer Ted Williams. He also cracked 18 grand slams, most ever in the NL and second overall to Lou Gehrig's 23.

Among the "family" members McCovey thanked were his mother, his managers, former Giants owner Horace Stoneham and current owner Bob Lurie, and the late Jackie Robinson. Robinson, he said, "broke the color barrier and made (black players) dreams of playing major-league baseball a reality."

Continuing his family analogy, McCovey called enshrinement at Cooperstown "the ultimate adoption."

Doerr played second base for the Boston Red Sox from 1937 to 1951, and Lombardi caught for the Cincinnati Reds in 10 of his 17 major-league seasons during the 1930s and 1940s.

A sure-handed second baseman who captained the Red Sox teams of the 1940s, Doerr said he felt "like a little boy, not a man 68 years old. It's a great thrill to be here.

"When I was growing up, it was my hope to become a major-league baseball player," he said. "When I made the majors, it was my hope to play in an All-Star Game, then a World Series.

All those things happened, he recalled — "But this tops off all the good things that have happened to me."

Besides being an excellent fielder, Doerr also was a remarkable hitter for a middle infielder. During his career, he batted .266 with 233 home runs and 1,247 RBI.

Lombardi, who died in 1977, was represented at the ceremonies by his sister, Rena Lenhardt.

Lenhardt recalled that her brother caught both of Johnny Vander Meer's back-to-back no-hitters in 1938, and that "The Schnozz" often joked about his own legendary lack of speed.

Dodgers Sweep Reds, Jump Into West Race

Los Angeles is starting to resemble the team that won the National League West last season, and more help is on the way as the Dodgers continue their run toward the top.

Orel Hershiser hurled a four-hitter over seven innings, drove in a run with a suicide squeeze bunt and scored on Bill Madlock's tie-breaking single in the sixth Sunday, lifting the surging Dodgers to a 2-1 victory and a series sweep of the visiting Cincinnati Reds.

Los Angeles posted its seventh straight triumph to match its longest winning streak of the season. The Dodgers, who had beaten San Francisco three straight earlier in the week, swept back-to-back series for the first time Aug. 19, 1963.

The triumph put the Dodgers at the .500 mark for the first time since June 19 and within 6 1-2 games of first-place Houston. Los Angeles hosts the Astros in a three-game series beginning Monday night.

"It's exciting to play on a winner, on a club that is playing to its potential," Hershiser said. "Frustration is starting to leave the locker room. "They (the Astros) are coming in for three games and we'll have seven with them over the next two weeks. They're going to be seven tough games. We have to start off real hot."

Pirates 3, Cardinals 0
At Pittsburgh, Rick Reuschel tossed a six-hitter to spark the Pirates. Reuschel, 7-12, walked one and struck out five in notching his second shutout of the season. Pittsburgh jumped on Danny Cox, 5-9, for three runs in the first, with Barry Bonds, Johnny Ray and R.J. Reynolds each knocking in a run.

Phillies 6, Cubs 2
At Philadelphia, Mike Schmidt broke a 2-2 tie in the eighth with a three-run homer to carry the Phillies. Schmidt connected off loser Frank DiPino, 1-6, for his 24th homer after singles by Jeff Stone and Juan Samuel. Steve Bedrosian, 8-3, was the winner.

Mets 4, Expos 3
At New York, Ray Knight blooped a two-out single down the right-field line to score Wally Backman from second in the bottom of the 10th to lift the Mets. Roger McDowell went 1 2-3 innings to improve to 9-5. Bob McClure fell to 0-2. New York starter Bob Ojeda held the Expos hitless through 6 1-3 innings.

Braves 4, Giants 2
At San Francisco, Dale Murphy drove in two runs and Ozzie Virgil hit his 12th homer to lead the Braves. David Palmer, 8-8, allowed four hits over seven innings for the victory, walking six and striking out four. Gene Garber earned his 14th save. Kelly Downs, 0-2, took the loss.

Padres 5, Astros 1
At San Diego, Graig Nettles and Steve Garvey hit back-to-back homers in the second inning to power the Padres. Andy Hawkins, 8-7, worked 7 1-3 innings and Goose Gosage finished for his 18th save. Mark Knudson slipped to 1-5. Nettles' homer, a two-run blast, was the 383rd of his career, giving him sole possession of 24th place on the all-time list.

Kite Comes From Seven Back, Wins Wester Open In Playoff

OAK BROOK, Ill. (UPI) — On Sunday morning, Tom Kite actually thought he had a chance to win the Western Open. He just never thought a 2-under-par 286 would do the trick.

Kite, who began the day seven strokes off the lead, won the $90,000 first prize, although he had to beat three other golfers in a one-hole playoff Sunday afternoon. Kite shot a final-round 68 then watched for more than two hours as the leaders all fell back toward his 72-hole total.

"This has been a long day," said Kite after winning his ninth PGA tournament in a 14-year career. "I'm kind of glad it's over."

The day started with Fred Couples and David Frost in first place at 5-under 211. Kite was seven strokes back at 2-over 218 but, while at the practice tee with Hal Sutton before his round, he began to talk about what it would take to get back into the tournament.

"Surprisingly enough, we both said if we shot a good score we thought there was a possibility," Kite said. "But we thought a good score would be a 65 or 66. I never dreamed 2-under-par would win the tournament."

That score was good enough because the leaders finally succumbed to Butler National, one of the toughest courses on the PGA circuit.

Couples and Frost both shot 3-over-par 75 Sunday, with Couples getting a birdie on the 17th hole and Frost getting birdies on the last two holes to make the playoff.

"The course played very difficult," said Couples. "I knew anyone who shot par or better played exceptionally well."

Kite finished playing at about 3:15 p.m. and the final group did not complete play until well after 5:15 p.m. Kite spent most of the two hours helping with a national broadcast but also hitting some shots at the practice tee.

Alcott Wears Pro-Am Crown

DENVER (UPI) — Amy Alcott found out she was in the lead on the 18th hole of the $300,000 LPGA National Pro-Am Sunday, and won it by promptly firing a par, something she did all week.

Chris Johnson and Pat Bradley tied for second a stroke back, and third round leader, Debbie Massey, fell to fourth with a 3-under.

Alcott, the fifth leading money winner on the tour, entered the final round two strokes behind Massey and a stroke behind Johnson, but she resisted the temptation to become aggressive on the 6,540 yard Lone Tree Country Club course.

"As I've said before here," Alcott said, "this was a week to stay patient. With the different conditions we faced this week, that was as important as ever."

Alcott, who won three tournaments in 1985, tallied only two birdies in the final 18 holes, the 12th and 14th, but she said she had to hit some excellent shots to accomplish that much.

"Even though I was making pars, I played some spectacular golf getting it up and down for par six times," she said.

"I would have liked to have been in the final group," she said. "I didn't know I was in the lead until after the 17th."

Novacek Stuns Tourney Field

WASHINGTON (UPI) — If anyone had told Karel Novacek a week ago that in the next seven days he would win six matches, beat five seeded players, including the top two, and capture his first career Grand Prix title, the Czech says his response would have been simple.

"I would have sent that person away," he laughed.

The unseeded Novacek, ranked 110th in the world and a first-round loser in his previous five tournaments, completed each of those tasks and finished the job Sunday night by thrashing second-seeded Thierry Tulasne of France, 6-1, 7-6 (7-4) for the championship of a $279,000 tournament.

"It's a great feeling to win," an elated Novacek said. "The tennis I played here was the best of my life. Now I feel I am a good player. I feel I can beat almost everybody."

Novacek, a 6-foot-3 right-hander with excellent range, rattled Tulasne with three service breaks in the opening set, then won the first three points of the second set-breaker and finished the 92-minute match with a soft drop shot. He raised his clenched fists when the shot dropped in, pivoting in a circle to acknowledge the cheering crowd.

Top Seeds Missing At Montreal

MONTREAL (UPI) — The absence of the five top ranked women tennis players in the world will likely lead to a lot of competitive matches when the week-long Player's Challenge gets underway today.

Among those missing will be No. 1 ranked Martina Navratilova, followed in order of world rankings by Chris Evert Lloyd, Steffi Graf, Hana Mandlikova and No. 5 ranked Claudia Kohde-Kilsch of West Germany. They withdrew from the $280,000 (U.S.) tournament because of injuries or personal engagements.

Ram Swim Physicals Aug. 13

Physicals for all Lake Mary High swimming and diving team members will be held Wednesday, Aug. 13, and Thursday, Aug. 14 at Lake Mary High school.

Cochair Walt Morgan also announced the first day of practice for the Ramphibians will be Monday, Aug. 18 at 4 p.m. at the Shardin Aquatic Center.

These Savages Have A Lot Of Class

A future ex-friend of mine, when he learned about my trip to Hollywood (Fla.) this past weekend, figured that I must have gone off the deep end. He wondered what possessed me to drive 495 miles round trip to see the American Softball Association 15 and Under Southern Regional Tournament.

"Are you crazy?" he quipped. "You drove all that way just to see some girls play softball, got sunburned and the team didn't even make the top three?"

I told him to take a long walk off a short pier.

Yes, the long journey to Hollywood turned out to be disappointing, but it was far from worthless and, although I returned with a burn, I did not come back a candidate for squirrel bait.

The Seminole Savages, the 15 and under all-star team out of the Seminole Softball Club, were short of players and had a few walking wounded. After losing by the score of 15-6 in their first game, the Savages could have just packed their bags and headed for home.

threatened again as Switzer pitched a four-hitter and was backed up by a defense that committed just one error.

After its three-run third inning, though, Seminole got no hits the rest of the game and its troubles at the plate would continue into the next game against the Miami Waves.

The Savages managed just one hit over the first three innings and once again it was defense that kept them in the ballgame. Miami had a chance to open it up early as its first three hitters smacked hits with one run scoring. The next hitter fled to medium depth left field where Golden made the catch and rifled the throw home to catcher Robin Whitehead for the double play.

But this is no ordinary team. They never quit and until the last few innings of their last game, their spirit was never broken. The Savages are also a very likeable group. Other teams who were already eliminated or waiting to play another game, were pulling for Seminole.

It's hard not to pull for a team that has players like left center fielder Corrie Lawson who talks as good a game as anyone and often has spells of hypochondria, but backs up everything she says with her talented play on the field. Then there's shortstop Tammy Jenerette, the exact opposite to Lawson when it comes to talking, but every bit as outstanding with the glove and bat.

And when you're not listening to Lawson, or waiting for Jenerette to go on a conversation binge, the other players, such as easy-going and equally easy on the eyes third baseman Brooke Burns, are special as well.

The coaches and the parents who made the trip to Hollywood further strengthened this reporter's opinion that these Savages have a lot of class.

And, although most won't put on a Seminole uniform again, you can bet these names will be heard a lot in the future in Seminole County high school softball:

Lisa Boatwright, Brooke Burns, Heather Golden, Anna Hollis, Tammy Jenerette, Corrie Lawson, Heather Meyer, Rixja Millwood, Terri Peters, Jodie Switzer, Robin Whitehead and Ginger York.

After being around the Seminole Savages entourage, I don't mind the extra miles on the car or walking around looking like a lobster the next few days.

COLLEGE FOOTBALL CAPSULES

BIG TEN

1985 champion — Iowa.
1985 UPI ranking — Michigan 2nd, Iowa 9th, Ohio State 11th.
1986 favorites — Michigan, Ohio St.
Leading contenders — Wisconsin, Iowa, Michigan St.
Most improved — Wisconsin, despite sudden death of Coach Dave McClain last spring, has veteran crew from last year's 5-6 club and has solid 1-2 backfield punch of Joe Armtrout and Larry Emery.
New coaches — Northwestern's Francis Peay replaced Dennis Green, who went to NFL as assistant with San Francisco after going 7-8; Minnesota's John Gulkuntz replaces Lou Holtz, who went to Notre Dame after 6-5 record; Jim Hillis, who replaces McClain after 5-4 record.
Starters returning, starters lost — Minnesota 17-5; Ohio St. 16-4; Wisconsin 16-4; Northwestern 15-7; Indiana 14-8; Michigan 14-8; Michigan St. 13-9; Iowa 10-12; Illinois 9-13; Purdue 9-13.
Leading players (1985 stats) — Michigan St. RB Lorenzo White, (2,421 yards in 503 carries over 2 seasons); Jim Harbaugh, Michigan QB, (passed for school record 1,913 yards and 18 TDs); Ohio State WR Chris Carter (52 receptions for 879 yards); Rob Houghlin PK Iowa, (tipped Big 10 in scoring with 97 points); Jamie Morris RB Michigan, has led team in rushing past 2 seasons and compiled 1,329 all purpose yards in '85. Chris Spielman LB Ohio St., a hard hitter who was a Butkus award finalist. Craig Raddatz LB Wisconsin, (118 tackles). Rob Woodson CB Wisconsin (All Big 10). Jim Karselos QB Ohio State, (2,115 yards passing and 19 TDs).
Leading newcomers — Purdue QB Jeff George, one of most highly sought prospects in country last year, may move into starting lineup.
Outlook — Michigan is favorite and likely to be challenged by Ohio State. Wolverines still have a tough defense and improved offense with Harbaugh and Jamie Morris. Buckeyes, if healthy, can contend. White will lead Michigan State but Spartans have some defensive concerns. Wisconsin is dark horse with Iowa and Illinois looking to rebound after strong years in conference.
Key games — Nov. 22, Michigan at Ohio State. Annual showdown should decide Rose Bowl title. Only once in last 10 years has game not had bearing on league race. Oct. 4, Michigan at Wisconsin. Wolverines tripped up in two of last three meetings with pesty Badgers. Nov. 1, Ohio State at Iowa. Hawkeyes rebuilding but game could be springboard for a bowl bid and Buckeyes may be looking ahead to Michigan matchup.

BIG EIGHT CONFERENCE

1985 Champion — Oklahoma.
1985 UPI ranking — Oklahoma 1st, Nebraska 10th.
1986 favorite — Oklahoma.
Leading contenders — Nebraska, but only way Cornhuskers challenge is if QB situation shapes up immediately. Oklahoma State and Colorado should round out upper division.
Most improved — Colorado, national power (No. 3 ranking) in '71 to laughing stock. But under Bill McCartney team has rebounded. Look for Buffaloes to play in postseason again. Also, Iowa St should improve.
New coaches — Stan Parrish of Marshall replaces Jim Dickey at Kansas St. Bob Valente elevated from assistant to Jamie Gottfried

Starters returning, starters lost — Colorado 15-7, Iowa St 13-9, Kansas 12-10, Kansas St 11-11, Missouri 14-8, Nebraska 11-11, Oklahoma 18-4, Oklahoma St 10-12.
Leading players (1985 stats) — Oklahoma, LB, Brian Bosworth (259 tackles to go with academic all conference); Oklahoma QB James Holeyway (led Sooners in rushing with 861 yards); Oklahoma FB Lydell Carr (rushed for 148 yards in Orange Bowl); Oklahoma TE Keith Jackson (only 20 catches, but they went for 484 yards, all conference performer); Oklahoma OL Mark Hulson (coaches say he seldom makes mistakes); Nebraska RB Doug Dubose (1195 Nebraska yards to rush for more than 1,000 yards each of his first 2 seasons); Colorado QB Mark Hatcher (rushed for 539 yards and 10 TDs in 125 carries); Colorado LB Barry Remington (more than half of 182 tackles were unassisted in first full year without major injury); Colorado P Barry Melton (All-American); Oklahoma St RB Thurman Thomas, (1,553 yards in workhorse 302 carries); Missouri OL John Clay (second-team All Big Eight despite injuries 1-10 season); Kansas DB Wayne Ziegler (smart, strong player coming off knee problems); Kansas OL Jim Davis (key to line that helped Jayhawks rush for 254.7 yards a game); Iowa St LB Dennis Gibson (led team in tackles); Iowa St WR Hughes Sufirin (Cyclones' second-leading receiver all-time); Kansas St DE Kevin Humphrey (119 tackles for losses).
Leading newcomers — Missouri RB Tony VanZant (St. Louis native considered to be best high school RB in country); Colorado QB Sal Aunsere (strong option QB in high school); Nebraska RB Terry Rodgers (former Heisman winner Johnny Rodgers); Iowa St WR Eddie Brown (standout at Dodge City, Kan., JC); Oklahoma St RB Vernon Brown (good size at 6-2, 199 and quick with 4.5 40 speed).
Outlook — Oklahoma, defending national champ, returns 10 starters to offense that was one of best in country. In addition, Sooners have 8 starters back on defense that was best in nation.
Nebraska will be good with one of best running game every year. Key is QB. If McCathorn Clayton comes along as expected or Steve Taylor does job, Cornhuskers could be problem for Oklahoma.
Oklahoma St lived with Thurman Thomas' running last year, and need to diversify it. Mc Schuler is in OSU's favor.
Colorado returns 15 starters from 7-4 team and with experience could improve Iowa St throws and throws, which could surprise some in ground oriented Big Eight. Missouri, after 1-10, almost anything would be boost. Several offensive questions to answer. Looks to be another rebuilding year, but not as down as '85. Kansas has new coach and new QB (Mike Orth) and needs to improve defense that will be a challenge to play last year with since graduated stalwart LB Willie Pless. Kansas St is looking to air for quick way out of cellar. It's tough to put in passing offense in year.
Key games — In conference known as Big 2 and Little 6, big game every season is Oklahoma Nebraska. This year they play in Lincoln, Neb., Nov. 22. The Sooners open season by hosting highly regarded UCLA Sept. 6 while Cornhuskers play Florida St that night. Texas plays 2 Big 8 foes, going to Missouri Sept. 20 and playing its annual battle against Oklahoma in Dallas, Oct. 11. Oklahoma, with one of hardest schedules in country, also plays at Miami (Fla.), the only team to beat the Sooners in '85. Colorado has game at Ohio St.

Australian Farmers Protest U.S. Grain Sale To Soviets

CANBERRA, Australia (UPI) — Australian wheat farmers dumped sacks of wheat on the United States Embassy lawn today in an angry protest against a U.S. decision to sell subsidized grain to the Soviet Union, undercutting one of their biggest foreign markets.

About 50 wheat growers braved heavy rain to picket the embassy, dump sacks of grain on its lawns and deliver a letter protesting the move to U.S. Ambassador William Lane.

"The Americans are using production and export subsidies which are diametrically opposed to the principles of free enterprise to destroy our stability," said the leader of the group, Peter Lock of Canowindra in central New South Wales state.

Lock said he favored using any means available to force the U.S. not to subsidize wheat sales.

China Rejects House Resolution

PEKING (UPI) — China today rejected as "extremely unfriendly" a House of Representatives committee resolution condemning Peking's civil liberties record and accused Washington of human rights abuses.

"All unbiased persons can see that in recent years the Chinese people enjoy all kinds of democracy and freedom," the Communist Party newspaper People's Daily said in an editorial on Friday's resolution by the House Foreign Affairs Committee.

"The U.S. resolution, in a totally hackneyed tone, demanded that China improve civil rights and attacked China's family planning program," the editorial said.

"The resolution asserted that Chinese-U.S. relations would be improved if China would guarantee respect for the integrity of the family and in a concealed manner called on China to ensure freedom of the press, religion, assembly and travel," it said.

South Africa Arrests Children

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (UPI) — Police arrested dozens — and possibly more than a hundred — black schoolchildren boycotting classes in Soweto to protest the deployment of police and soldiers at their schools, black sources said.

The sources said the children were taken to Soweto's Protea Police Station, but the reports that dozens and possibly more than a hundred were arrested could not immediately be confirmed.

The students were continuing a classroom boycott that emptied 10 of 56 high schools in the sprawling township Thursday and Friday.

More than 15,000 pupils joined boycotts last week in the schools to protest against the deployment of armed police and soldiers in and around their schools.

Islamic Law Supporters Lose

KUALA LUMPUR, Malaysia (UPI) — The ruling National Front crushed its Moslem fundamentalist opposition today, scoring a stunning general election victory despite a series of politically damaging financial scandals.

Final official results showed the multiracial National Front coalition won 148 seats in the 177-seat Parliament, far exceeding the vital two-thirds mark that allows the government to amend the constitution at will.

The Islamic party, PAS, which promised to establish an Iranian-style theocratic state, won only one seat and its three most powerful and charismatic leaders were defeated.

"People saw through their tricks," Prime Minister Mahathir Mohamad told a news conference today.

This segment of the meeting will be moderated by Apostolic Church member Larry Snell, who said he "has been there," and now has overcome his battle with drugs.

Sanford police will underscore their drug abuse discussion with the showing of a graphic film depicting its effects and a display of assorted drug paraphernalia.

Assistance in getting the word out for Tuesday's session is being provided by local churches, which have been contacted by the network and agreed to discuss the meeting itself as well as the dangers of drug abuse during Sunday's sermons and Sunday School classes, Jernigan said.

"It was significant that the heads readily agreed that adequate progress has not been made, and that there was no genuine intention on the part of the South African government to dismantle apartheid," Pindling told a news conference.

Pindling characterized the tone of Sunday's meeting as "cautious" and said it was taken up mostly by reports from a Commonwealth "Eminent Persons Group" that visited South Africa and from British Foreign Secretary Sir Geoffrey Howe, who returned last week from Pretoria after failing to win concessions on race reform.

Florida Power & Light Company is ready to ask for additional power from other companies as far away as Georgia in the event their generating capacity is reached.

FP&L district General Manager Marvin Whiteside said the company's capacity is 10,340,000 watts, and expected today's power demand to be 9,950,000 watts. Sunday, customers in the area used 9,895,000 watts of FP&L electricity, Whiteside said.

Florida Power spokesman David Waldrop said today power demand has actually decreased from last year because 1985's was a dry summer, but afternoon rains are cooling things off this year.

Animal owners are urged by Bob Young of the county animal control division to keep their pets supplied with water and shade if they are left outside, and are urged not to take their pets for rides in the car unless the cars are air conditioned and no stops are planned.

"The temperature in a car can climb to 110 to 112 degrees in five minutes," Young said. "A normal dog's body temperature is 101.5 to 102.2 degrees," he continued, and they can withstand temperatures of up to 107 to 108 degrees for only a short time before suffering irreparable brain damage or death."

Hatch also appeared on the ABC program, "This Week with David Brinkley" with Sen. Joseph Biden, D-Del., another committee member and a Rehnquist critic.

Biden repeated the contention he made during the confirmation hearings that Rehnquist "by far and away has always applied the most restrictive interpretation of extending rights to blacks and women."

Hatch responded that "the accusation that Mr. Justice Rehnquist is against civil rights is outrageous," adding that Rehnquist supported the Brown vs. Board of Education decision against segregated schools 34 times and he counted "at least 27 cases" where Rehnquist upheld women's rights.

"The Islamic Jihad is a very shadowy group. You never know who they are," he said. "I don't know who they are. I'm just keeping a promise to a man who held me — a man named Haj."

The Islamic Jihad statement accused the CIA of fabricating reports about the messages.

"Father Jenco, you know very well that we did not give you any messages to anyone," it said. "So do not let the CIA dictate on you to force you to fabricate lies that would harm this case more than benefit it," it said.

"If you want your colleagues (hostages) to join you and Father Weir, you both know from where the solution begins," the statement said.

The Rev. Benjamin Weir, 61, a Presbyterian minister, was released Sept. 14, 1985, after 16 months in captivity.

Islamic Jihad said it gave Jenco only a seven-minute videotape of hostage David Jacobsen, administrator of Beirut's American University, who was kidnapped May 18, 1985. In the tape, Jacobsen, 55, of Huntington Beach, Calif., appealed to Americans to pressure the government to negotiate for release of the hostages.

FBI Leak Probe Focuses On Jesse Helms, Aides

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The FBI is investigating whether Sen. Jesse Helms, R-N.C., or one of his aides passed sensitive American intelligence information to the Chilean government, the New York Times reports.

The newspaper, in its Sunday edition, reported congressional and Reagan administration sources said the inquiry was focusing on charges that the Chileans had been tipped off about a covert American intelligence-gathering operation.

The sources told the Times the inquiry had been requested by the Senate Intelligence Committee after reviewing evidence from the State Department that there had been a leak of information to Chile, possibly by Helms or one of his staff members.

Helms said that neither he nor his staff had provided classified material to the Chileans and that he was not aware of the FBI's inquiries, adding they appeared to be politically motivated.

"The State Department and the Central Intelligence Agency are constantly trying to discredit me and they're not going to be able to do it," Helms told the newspaper in an interview. "The real need is for the State Department and the CIA to clean up their acts."

"If they want to play the game of intimidation, of harassment and of leaks, we'll meet them right in the middle of the field," Helms said.

One congressional official familiar with the evidence said it pointed to a "Helms connection" with the incident rather than to any specific person as the source of the unauthorized disclosure. The official added, however, that personal involvement of Helms could not be ruled out.

Black Matter Out There

SANTA CRUZ, Calif. (UPI) — Astronomers who have measured vast regions of empty space in the universe think that it may be filled with invisible "dark matter" which may keep the universe intact.

Nearly 100 astronomers and physicists from more than a dozen nations concluded two weeks of meetings on the University of California-Santa Cruz Friday after sharing theories and observations, including plans to begin new investigations into the outer reaches of the universes.

The astronomers reported that countless galaxies like the earth's own Milky Way — each with billions of stars — often lie in gigantic clusters, and that many of the clusters form larger "super-clusters."

But it was the large "voids" of empty space at the center of these galactic clusters that drew much of the star-gazers' attention this week.

Robert Kirshner of the Harvard-Smithsonian Center for Astrophysics reported that his institution had measured one void far out in the universe and found it could be 300 million light years in diameter. A single light-year is nearly 6 trillion miles.

The void measured by the Kirshner group is one of many that have been detected in the past few years. They have led many astronomers to envision the universe as a domain of galactic clusters surrounding "bubbles" or "pancakes" or "filaments" of dark space.

John Huchra of the Harvard institution said that the voids are shaped like bubbles or ellipsoids and are surrounded by strings of galaxies lying in sharp-edged, clearly-defined lines of starry masses.

Huchra, who said he is half-way through a decade-long program of surveying galaxies, said, "If we are right, the bubbles fill the universe just like suds filling a kitchen sink."

The astronomers think something is in the so-called "dark matter" which makes up the voids.

Avishai Dekel of the Weizmann Institute of Science in Israel said, "If they are really empty, then none of our theories can explain how galaxies were formed in the first place."

"The only way to explain the voids is to think they are filled with dark matter."

Cruel Practices Make Product Testing Unsafe For Animals

DEAR ABBY: Your prayer for animals was very touching. Animals do need our prayers, but they also need us to stop the cruel and barbaric practice of using live animals to test cosmetics, hair spray, drain cleaner, nail polish remover, etc. No anesthetic is used, and these laboratory animals suffer agonizing pain. Dogs, rabbits, monkeys, cats, guinea pigs, mice and rats are used. For example: To test toxicity, animals are force-fed a substance such as drain cleaner, causing convulsions, paralysis and bleeding from the nose, eyes and mouth.

Dear Abby

unpleasant subject, but the public needs to know about it. There is a bill pending — it's the Humane Product Testing Act (HR 1877). Abby, please print this and urge your readers to let their elected representatives know that they want this bill passed. Please be the voice of the voiceless.

NANCI UNGER, LEXINGTON, KY.

DEAR NANCI: Here's your letter, and I hope that all who read it will write to their congressional representatives and urge them to vote YES on HR 1877.

Readers, if you don't know who your representatives are, call your local League of Women Voters and find out, but please don't put this off until tomorrow. Tomorrow is usually busier than today.

For more information, write to: PETA (People for the Ethical Treatment of Animals), P.O. Box 42516, Washington, D.C. 20015. It is a non-profit organization, so please enclose a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope.

DEAR ABBY: I was one of the 30,000 who submitted a letter to correspond with a Marine on Okinawa through "Operation Dear Abby."

This has got to be the world's greatest coincidence: My letter was given to a young Marine, Mickey. I had written a short letter about myself and life in California and enclosed my picture. Well, Mickey wrote back really fast, and when I received his letter I went into total shock. He sent me his picture and told me he still loved me!

Abby, he and I had been childhood sweethearts — better yet, summer lovers! We had met in Hawaii in 1980 while vacationing with our families. (I was 15 and Mickey was 18.) It was one of the best summers of my life. We kept in touch for a while. Then he went into the service and we lost touch. His family moved, so there was no way I could locate him.

In April I celebrated my 21st birthday, and to my surprise, flowers were delivered to me at my office from Mickey by Mickey himself — in person!

He's still in the service, but stationed stateside (in California). We're engaged to be married and making up for lost time.

Thanks, Abby, for a happy ending! Love,

MICKEY & MINNIE IN ANAHEIM

Local Industry Boosts Education With Grant

The ties between local industry and higher education have received another boost with the presentation of a matching grant from Cardinal Industries Inc., to the University of Central Florida for engineering studies.

The $5,500 grant will permit a member of the UCF engineering faculty to work during the fall semester with Cardinal counterparts to refine some everyday operations of the Sanford-based home building corporation.

The award from Cardinal is in response to an initial grant to UCF from the East Central Florida Consortium for Higher Education and Industry, the state-funded organization comprised of colleges and universities located in the region. One of several primary functions of the consortium is a "faculty return" program, whereby selected faculty from member institutions work with area industries on designated projects.

Dr. William Smart, chairman of industrial engineering at UCF, called the program "an excellent way to share mutual efforts and information. We look forward to working in this kind of environment whenever the opportunity arises."

Dr. John Biegel, a recognized expert on robotic engineering, will be working with Cardinal staff during the duration of the grant.

Post-Divorce Handbook Explains About Ex-Factor

By JOAN HANAUER UPI Feature Writer

NEW YORK (UPI) — The marriage may be stormy and the divorce bitterly fought, but then comes the ex-factor — the battles between ex-wives and their ex-husbands over support money, visitation and custody.

There are two major areas where the ex-factor comes into play — money and children. Sometimes they are intertwined, as in non-payment of child support.

The problems may be legal, but often there is not enough money involved to make it worthwhile for a lawyer to represent the injured party — particularly if it involves support payments and the woman already is hurting financially.

That's why Bernard Clair and Anthony Daniele — divorce lawyers who are the East Coast litigants for palimony lawyer Marvin Mitchelson — have written "The Ex-Factor," subtitled "The Complete Do-It-Yourself Post-Divorce Handbook."

"We think the post-divorce problems out there are vast, immense," Daniele said in an interview. "People have to be made aware that they can do something to satisfy their rights. Recent changes in the law, for instance, have made it so much easier to collect child support."

"We've been practicing matrimonial and divorce law for about 10 years. People come to us right after the divorce — or 10 years later — and they say, 'I have this problem. My husband is not paying me support and he owes me $1,200.'"

"Often the attorney's fee would be more than the money owing. The best thing we could do was tell them how to do it themselves in the family courts and local courts that will enforce their rights."

"The first thing that probably comes to everybody's mind is the failure to pay support and alimony or maintenance, particularly child support. It is

"We think the post-divorce problems out there are vast, immense. People have to be made aware they can do something to satisfy their rights." ANTHONY DANIELE almost a national disgrace and emergency that there is $5 billion in uncollected child support."

Congress came to the rescue in 1984 and enacted a law that establishes standardized, uniform procedures for mothers to collect child support.

"You don't even have to go to court," Daniele said, explaining the spouses who are owed child support can seek help at a local or state child support collection office.

The collection office can order wage deductions or a tax intercept, in which any tax refunds due the spouse are diverted to pay the child support debt.

"Another trend involves the rights of non-custodial parents," he said. "The custodial parent is usually the mother but the courts are now cognizant of the fact that it is important for children to have contact with both parents."

"When one parent deprives the other of visitation, that parent also is depriving the children of contact with their father. Some judges have come down so hard on custodial mothers that they have put them in jail."

"Many fathers are unaware of the changes in judicial attitudes in the last few years," Daniele said. "They have been afraid to make noise about their rights because then the mother might cut down even more on visitation. But courts today have much more interest than they used to in seeing that the child has contact with the non-custodial parent."

Daniele said that child custody cases are one area of post-divorce law where a lawyer is necessary — he does not recommend do-it-yourself law.

"You must focus on the fact that it is children who most often are hurt by post-divorce problems," Daniele said.

"Concerned parents who want to do something for their children should know there is much more available to them out there than they thought possible."

Doctors Should Be More Considerate

Dr. Gott

DEAR DR. GOTT — When I was pregnant with my first child, I went to a doctor who was an hour late for every appointment, even when I was scheduled to see him at 9 a.m. I complained to the receptionist and was told that seven patients were scheduled for 9 a.m., and two patients every 15 minutes after that. Because I had to be late for work, my boss reprimanded me. He didn't believe that any doctor would schedule appointments that way.

Now I am pregnant again, and I found another doctor. He kept me waiting for 45 minutes and carried on about how tired he was and how he didn't have enough time to spend with his family. When I complained, he suggested I find another doctor.

I have discovered that no doctors in my community will tell a prospective patient if they are running late or have overbooked. Is there any way to avoid doctors like this? Does a consumer have any recourse in such a situation?

DEAR READER — I wish there were answers to your questions. Although some doctors are very busy, I can think of no valid reason for them to routinely overschedule and keep patients waiting. This may be a matter of greed or such deep-seated insecurity that they cannot organize their offices to be more efficient. I believe that if doctors are this overworked, they owe patients the courtesy of referring cases to other practitioners (who aren't so busy) or limiting their practices to accommodate a reasonable volume.

While I may be drummed out of the profession for suggesting this, I recommend that you investigate the possibility of having a nurse-midwife provide prenatal care. If you are healthy and have no complications of pregnancy, this option may suit you. In most states, midwives are supervised by physicians, so a doctor would be available when you needed one or at the time of delivery.

All doctors experience particularly busy days or may have to attend to emergencies. However, in my opinion, routine overbooking is unfair to patients and is usually a sign of arrogant indifference on the part of physicians who behave this way. Since, in the future, you might wish to find a new physician, I am sending you a free copy of my Health Report, CHOOSING A

Answer to Previous Puzzle

WIN AT BRIDGE

By James Jacoby

"Review the bidding before choosing an opening lead" is one of H.W. Kelsey's instructions in his book "101 Bridge Maxims." Often the success of a slam ride solely on the lead. West did not expect today's slam to make, but wisely did not double.

South trumped the club lead and immediately ruffed a small diamond in dummy. Then he led dummy's spade queen, losing to the king. West returned a spade to South's jack, and declarer drew a third round of trumps, discarding a club from dummy. He could now play hearts, hoping that they split, but first he cashed the ace of diamonds, pitching a club from dummy. Since the king fell, he now had more diamond winners to play before trying hearts. On the Q-J of diamonds he threw two hearts from dummy. He then played his last spade. West now had to either discard the bare ace of clubs, which would make dummy's queen good, or shed a heart. When West led a heart go, declarer discarded dummy's club queen and cashed four heart tricks to make the contract.

Although declarer played with skill, he could never have made the slam if West had led a heart originally. Then, on getting in with the spade king, West would have led a second heart, allowing East to ruff. West should trust South's five-club cue-bid to be showing a void, and should not count on a club trick. He should also mark South with five spades and six diamonds, since bidding the minor first and then bidding and rebidding the major is the standard way to show 6-5 distribution.

HOROSCOPE

What The Day Will Bring...

YOUR BIRTHDAY AUGUST 5, 1986

An opportunity of extraordinary proportion might develop for you in the year ahead through mysterious circumstances. It's best not to discuss it with others until it is well on its way.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Something good is about to occur in an area where you are lacking. It will come about in a rather secretive fashion. Trying to patch up a broken romance? The Matchmaker set can help you understand what it might take to make the relationship work. Mail $2 to Matchmaker, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 1846, Cincinnati, OH 45201.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) A new venture that you are enthusiastic about will begin to garner supporters today. You might even pick up a partner. LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) You are capable of outstanding achievements today if you are willing to extend yourself. Go for something big and truly meaningful.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Dealings today with positive individuals who aren't afraid to take a chance could bring you success and abundance.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Your best chances for personal gain today are in circumstances where you share an interest with a family member or relative.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) You can make an important decision today that will have far-reaching beneficial effects, provided you follow through on things as you currently envision them.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Have faith in your talents and abilities today. You will not be denied the fruits of your labor if you go after something with all the gusto that's in you. PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) People who you see socially today could prove more fortunate for you than usual. Have a smile and a kind word for everyone you encounter.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Be hopeful about the eventual outcome of events today. Lady Luck may be a trifle slow catching up with you, but she'll arrive in time.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Good news is coming your way today through someone who has your interests at heart. It pertains to a new development that you've been hoping for.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) A big change is taking place today that will considerably brighten your material prospects. It could mean increased rewards in your work.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Focus your entire attention on optimistic thoughts today. This will enable you to create opportunities for yourself that will be denied others.
