Spy Swap Complete

BERLIN (UPI) — Soviet dissident Anatoly Shcharansky crossed Berlin's Glienicke Bridge to freedom today.

Shcharansky was driven off the bridge in a grey Mercedes limousine flying the U.S. flag and taken straight to West Berlin's Tempelhof airport for a flight to Frankfurt.

His lawyer, Irwin Cotler, said in Israel that Shcharansky would meet his wife Avital there before the couple flew to Israel. A huge welcome awaits them.

Today's big East-West prisoner exchange started behind a screen of buses across the center of the Glienicke Bridge at about 11 a.m. local time (5 a.m. EST).

Crowds of officials could be seen on the center of the bridge which spans the East German-West Berlin border, but the screen of U.S. vehicles obscured what was taking place.

A total of nine people are involved in the exchange — Shcharansky and eight other convicted or accused spies from jails on both sides of the Iron Curtain.

Israel Radio said Yitzhak Ben Ari, the Israeli ambassador to West Germany, traveled from Bonn to Frankfurt with a passport for the Soviet dissident.

Shcharansky has served eight years of a 13-year sentence on what Washington has branded a trumped-up conviction as a CIA agent.

Cotler said the Jewish dissident, the champion of the "refusnik" movement of Jews wanting to leave the Soviet Union, would fly to Frankfurt by helicopter.

Security sources said there will be three others in Shcharansky's group — two Germans and a Czech — all accused of espionage for the West.

Traveling in the opposite direction are five convicted spies from western jails — a couple jailed in the United States for spying for Czechoslovakia, and a Pole, a Russian and an East German jailed on spy charges in West Germany, the sources said.

In Washington, White House spokesman Mike Guest confirmed the release, calling the exchange "the product of close U.S.-German cooperation over an extended period of time."

"The president has expressed his warm appreciation to Chancellor (Helmut) Kohl for the substantial contribution of the government of the Federal Republic of Germany to bringing about Mr. Shcharansky's release."

Order Signed Monday

Sanford's Entire Yankee Lake Efforts Tossed Out By Judge

By Karen Talley
Herald Staff Writer

Sanford's entire Yankee Lake condemnation effort has been dismissed by Seminole Brevard Circuit Judge Thomas Waddell Jr. In an order signed Monday, the judge not only finalized his Feb. 3 invalidation of the condemnation motion, but also dismissed the suit's eight additional pleadings which charged Seminole County representatives with violating the state Government in the Sunshine Law when negotiating for purchase of Yankee Lake.

City Attorney William Colbert had earlier contended that dismissal of the condemnation motion would leave the amended pleadings intact. Waddell, however, said the city's follow up measures against the county were void on the grounds that they stemmed from the Nov. 8 condemnation meeting that was conducted in violation of the city charter.

The defeat of the entire effort has, however, provided a reprieve for the four city commissioners who were scheduled to give depositions today to attorneys representing former Yankee Lake owner Jeno Paulucci. The attorneys had issued the subpoenas through the city's suit and now, "We've lost our vehicle," Paulucci attorney Mack Cleveland said today.

He added, however, "We're not abandoning the depositions."

The commissioners, according to Cleveland, can be called to testify under "the very viable" $28 million civil suit Paulucci's Heathrow Utilities and Heathrow Land and Development Corporation is pursuing against the city.

Cleveland said the Sanford representatives could be subpoenaed after Feb. 27, in accordance with the 30-day waiting period between the serving of an action and the taking of defendants' testimony. The city, its five commissioners and its manager were charged by the Paulucci organization on Jan. 27 with spearheading a condemnation effort that hampered the "contractual obligations" Seminole County assumed when it purchased Yankee Lake.

At Monday night's city commission meeting, Colbert asked for and received authorization to formulate Sanford's defense against the multi-million dollar charge. He said today city counsel expects to file a dismissal motion by the end of this week.

The four commissioners were to be questioned today regarding their discussion of the condemnation suit while traveling together in a mobile home to and from the Feb. 3 condemnation hearing in Melbourne. Paulucci attorneys contend the conversations may constitute violations of the Sunshine Law.

Scheduled for depositions were City Commissioners John Mercer, David Farr, Milton Smith and Bob Thomas, Mercer's wife, Juanny. Evening Herald reporter Deane Jordan and Smith's neighbor, Ramon McGough.

In stories the Herald published on Feb. 4 and 5, Jordan reported the condemnation suit was addressed by commissioners during the ride back to Sanford.

Cleveland said in addition to the published information, "We'd like them to tell us under oath exactly what they talked about."

The city, however, successfully staved off the writs on Monday, when it received a protective order during a conference call with Waddell. The motion was approved by

Have Martins Arrived?

By Jane Casselberry
Herald Staff Writer

The wait is over — or is it? The "color purple" is once again flying high over Sanford according to several bird lovers, but one holdout, his prophetic bird hanging in the balance, maintains they are not really martins.

The first of the eagerly awaited purple martin scouts were reported in Longwood and Sanford several days ago and the rest of the group began arriving Sunday — just as local expert Vic Arnett had predicted.

Arnett's wife, Loretta, Monday that she and her husband had been greeted early Sunday morning at their home at 122 Crystal View South by chirping of the purple martins who were announcing their arrival a day earlier than their usual arrival date.

She said Arnett jumped out of bed and pulled open the curtains to discover two pairs of the birds had arrived. "We are expecting more," Mrs. Arnett said, "we enjoy sitting by the window watching them. We like to make up stories about

Altamonte Doctor On Probation

By Sarah Nunn
Herald Staff Writer

The Florida Board of Medical Examiners Saturday placed an Altamonte Springs physician practicing in Winter Park on five years probation for drug abuse.

The board, which is the licensing group for physicians, agreed to allow Joseph Verlander, M.D. to continue practicing medicine although it also issued a reprimand against him, Florida Department of Professional Regulation (DPR) spokesman Pat Byrd said.

In April 1985, the DPR charged Verlander with violating the physician's licensing law by administering the drug sublimaze, an anesthetic, to himself and with being unable to practice medicine with reasonable skill and safety.

In agreeing to a settlement of the case, the medical examiner's board placed Verlander on probation, with the stipulation that he not use controlled substances, that he practice within a sheltered environment such as a group practice and that he be monitored by other physicians.

Verlander will be required to appear before the board before the restrictions are lifted at the end of the probationary period, Ms. Byrd said.

Verlander has been a licensed physician in Florida since 1982, where he has practiced anesthesiology. He is currently a physician with an alcoholism and drug dependency treatment program in Winter Park.

As part of the settlement, the licensing authority has agreed for Verlander to practice with Psychological Service Association, an Orlando clinic for pain management and drug treatment, and for detailed quarterly reports of his treatment to be provided to the board of medical examiners.

Citizens Say Developers Ignoring Wekiva Impact

A local citizen's group has raised concerns over the construction of a 1,600-unit residential development along the Wekiva River.

Patricia Harden, president of the Friends of the Wekiva River Inc., said backers of The Plantation project have ignored what she called several significant issues raised by the citizen's group over the proposed development in northwest Seminole County.

The group plans to meet with representatives of the project tonight in hopes that some of the environmental questions can be addressed. Ms. Harden said. The meeting, for Friends members, will begin at 7:30 p.m. at the Neighborhood Alliance Church on Markham Woods Road.

She said the citizens are concerned with plans for stormwater and wastewater management and fear the project could set a precedent for future high density development in the area.

The East Central Florida Regional Planning Council has approved the project, however the county planning and zoning commission delayed a public hearing on a rezoning request by Richmond American Homes, giving developers until March 5 to review the plan.

The construction would require the rezoning of 573 acres to the west of Markham Woods Road from agricultural to planned unit development.

Developer Hugh Harling of Harling, Locklin and Associates asked for the 60-day continuance last month to further study the effects of the development on traffic, sewage disposal and drainage in the area, as residents packed the meeting room for a public hearing on the rezoning request.

Harling said today a drainage re-design and other revisions have been forwarded to the county and the planning council. A review of the project's density to maintain the area's rural character is underway, he said.

The Plantation project does not adequately address sewage disposal and stormwater management, the county reported in a study on the project's consistency with its comprehensive land use plan.

The area where The Plantation is to be located is included in the county's

59 County School Buses Recalled For Faulty Steering Arm

By Paul Schaefer
Herald Staff Writer

School buses with a possible faulty steering arm, including 59 buses used to transport Seminole County school district students, have been recalled by manufacturer International Harvester, school officials said Monday.

The 55,816 buses being recalled nationwide by I-H were manufactured between 1977 and 1985, according to Seminole schools Director of Transportation Richard Wells.

"The recall notice said there had been two known failures of the steering arms, but there were no accidents or injuries reported," Wells said. Apparently the failure involved cracks in those elbow-shaped arms.

He said the county's 59 I-H "S-series" buses involved in the recall were inspected by 24-hour-a-day maintenance crews after he was notified of the potential problem Friday. No cracks were found in the steering arms during inspections conducted Friday, Saturday, and Monday, he said. The arm is part of the power steering system on the buses, he said.

The Seminole buses involved include fourteen 26-passenger buses, ten 47-passenger buses, and thirty-five 66-passenger standard buses, according to Wells, who said, "No visible cracks were found."

In all, the district bus fleet totals 200, said school district spokesman Karen Coleman.

Wells said the new arms should arrive in Orlando Wednesday.

Rash Of Suicides Stuns High School

OMAHA (UPI) — A meeting to explain the causes of suicide to parents, students and teachers degenerated into a shouting match as frustrations were vented over three teen suicides that stunned Bryan High School.

The two-hour meeting Monday night was nearly out of control as the pain surfaced among families and friends of the dead students, all who committed suicide within an eight-day period.

Several of the 800 people attending the meeting criticized a slide show presented by Dr. John Reidler, an Omaha specialist on teen suicide. They said the presentation was too technical and did not answer their questions.

Several in the audience shouted questions at Reidler and denounced the presence of television news crews at the standing-room-only meeting in the school auditorium.

Others criticized the staff of psychologists sent to the school last week by the Omaha Public School District to help students and faculty overcome the pain and restore life to normal.

Earlier Monday, teachers told their first-period classes of the Friday night shotgun death of senior Thomas Wach IV, 18, at his home. Wach's funeral was Monday.

On Feb. 3, Michele Money, 16, a junior, died from a drug overdose, and Mark E. Walpus, 15, a sophomore, died the next day of a gunshot wound.

Two other students have attempted suicide within the last two weeks. Both were hospitalized.

Walpus, described as a popular student who aspired to become an industrial engineer, had problems at home, his friends said.

Money, who always lent a sympathetic ear to friends and wanted to become a counselor, recently broke up with her boyfriend and had problems with her parents, said her schoolmates.

"All of us are going through very trying times," the teachers said in a statement read to students.

"There is no problem too big for us to handle if we get help with it and don't give up," the teachers said.

"Some students are afraid to come to school any more because they're afraid someone else might kill themselves," said John Querry, 18, a senior. "A lot of this talk about it is

Christmas Cheer Stretches Beyond Season To Help Kids

DEAR ABBY: A big round of applause for Ed McMahon's suggestion to send the fronts of attractive religious Christmas cards to St. Jude's Ranch for Children...

Dear Abby

get counseling with or without you. I sense that there is a reason for his lagging interest...

DEAR ABBY: Re the topless girl who knocked on a door one night: I had a similar experience a few years ago...

I had a chain on my door, so I got a beach towel and handed it to him. He thanked me and said he'd bring it back...

DEAR ME, TOO: I should think you saw enough of him. Poor guy.

DEAR FRIENDS: If you belong to a church, inquire about Marriage Encounter. Briefly, it is instruction (over a weekend) for couples who want to revitalize marriages...

Reading Mr. McMahon's letter in your column gives one renewed faith that Christmas isn't just commercial (no pun intended for Mr. McMahon)...

AGGIE O'CONNOR IN L.A.

DEAR AGGIE: I just called Father Ward's secretary, Edith, and was informed that the response has been incredible!

Volunteers (bless them) go to the post office three times a day to pick up the mail...

DEAR ABBY: I've been married for six years and have three beautiful children...

The problem is our sex life. With each passing year we seem to grow less intimate...

How do I get him to open up to me, or seek some outside advice?

Roy Mixon, owner of Mixon Auto Parts, says, "I want your business."

Mixon Auto Parts Has Complete Line Of Parts

Good news for auto repair shops and shade-tree mechanics! Roy is back and raring to go and invites his old friends and customers to drop in at his new location.

Roy Mixon with 40 years experience in auto parts has come out of retirement opening Mixon Auto Parts in Country Club Square at 2489 S. Airport Boulevard (at 25th Street) in Sanford on Jan. 1.

Before his retirement, the Seminole County native had operated Mixon Auto Parts in downtown Sanford for 15 years gaining a reputation for friendly, efficient and dependable service.

Counterman Pete Murray has 15 years experience. A certified mechanic, he has been working on cars since he was 12 and has a lot of experience in working with imports.

Roy also has mechanical experience and both have the expertise to help diagnose your problem, supply the proper parts, and if necessary, steer you to an honest, dependable mechanic for repairs.

"In the past, women weren't supposed to know anything about cars, but now women are learning about their cars and that's great," said Roy. "If they don't know who to take their car to for repairs, I can suggest someone to take it to who won't rip them off."

Mixon Auto Parts carries a complete line of auto parts, foreign or domestic. If they don't have it in stock, they will have it for you the next day.

Among the quality brands they stock are Standard Ignition, Els Brake Parts, a full line of Milton and Cal-Van tools, AC Delco and Gold Bond batteries, Moog suspension parts, and Dayco belts and hoses.

Mixon sells at wholesale prices and offers parts delivery to garages.

They are open Monday through Saturday, 8 a.m. to 6 p.m. and 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. on Sunday. Call 323-8101.

Nader Blames Insurers For High Rates In Canada

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Consumer advocate Ralph Nader said Monday skyrocketing insurance rates in Canada — despite laws limiting compensation — prove similar legislation proposed in the United States will not help lower premiums.

Nader told a news conference that insurance rates in Ontario, as in the United States, are soaring, even though the province has "tort reform" laws, limiting compensation in damage cases.

"This Canadian analogy shows the insurance emperor has no clothes," said Nader, calling new laws proposed by the industry unjustified.

Nader contended the industry is profitable and said the rising cost of coverage is "the principal inflation jolt to our economy in 1986."

He said state insurance commissions should limit rate increases and called for federal standards to govern the rate. Angoff said, as have Canadian should require insurance companies to disclose "how much they've taken in in premiums and how much they've paid out," Nader said.

Bob Hunter, president of the National Consumers Insurance Organization, said premiums are rising but so is "the industry's stock market performance."

"They've never lost money," Hunter said.

Jay Angoff, an attorney for the consumer group, said the insurance industry wants new laws that will hurt claimants by "making it tougher to sue and tougher to win," and also would limit the amount of money they could recover if they do win.

Angoff said that despite such laws in Ontario, premiums have risen 400 percent.

He said the industry has refused to provide insurance at any price for Ontario day care centers and to all but one of 121 Canadian school boards responding to a questionnaire.

Toronto and other cities have been denied liability insurance, Angoff said, as have Canadian ski teams that never made a major damage claim.

Home Remedies Not Recommended

DEAR DR. GOTT — What is tic douloureux and what is the prognosis?

DEAR READER — Tic douloureux is a form of degeneration involving the trigeminal nerve in the face. It is a neuralgia characterized by intense shooting pains that are brief but severe.

an allergic reaction. Since I require such a small amount, is there another medication that doesn't contain an iodine that I can take instead? My health, weight and diet are all good.

DEAR READER — Medicine containing thyroid hormone contains iodine because this element is part of the hormone molecule. I doubt that you are allergic to iodine. Reactions to Synthroid, which is purified, are quite rare. See an allergist to determine what it is you're allergic to. Perhaps the cause of your reactions isn't in the medicine at all.

WIN AT BRIDGE

By James Jacoby

It was surprising to me that declarer South would bid a grand slam on this deal, taken from rubber bridge play in Great Britain many years ago. That East had doubled North's cuebid of five hearts to direct partner's opening lead should certainly have been enough inducement for South to settle for a small slam.

Because of that double, South knew the heart finesse would lose. He rose with the ace, played a diamond to his hand and ruffed a club. Another diamond to his hand allowed him to ruff his other small club.

Then he played a spade back to his ace. Now all his diamonds and the ace of clubs were played as he discarded all of dummy's hearts, leaving the queen and two small spades. What three cards would you now hold, if you were East? If you throw the heart king, declarer's jack becomes a winner. If you shed a spade, dummy's last little spade will provide the thirteenth trick after South has cashed the spade king and has led to dummy's spade queen. In fact, the best thing for you to do in the East seat is to return to that point in the auction when you promptly doubled five hearts, and substitute a quiet pass.

If South then plays in seven diamonds and does not receive an opening heart lead, he will almost surely fall back upon the heart finesse after spades have failed to split.

HOROSCOPE

What The Day Will Bring...

YOUR BIRTHDAY

FEBRUARY 12, 1968
In the year ahead you are finally going to get certain things that are long overdue. What you receive will contribute to your security, both materially and mentally.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19)
To get your terms today, you'll have to be a bit firmer than usual so people you're doing business with take you seriously. Major changes are ahead for Aquarians in the coming year. Send for your Astro-Graph predictions today.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20)
Your financial aspects are extremely encouraging for the next two days. If you don't add to your holdings now, you may have only yourself to blame.

ARIES (March 21-April 19)
If you hope to impress others with your cause today, you must express it with conviction. Enthusiasm is the magnet that will attract their support.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20)
All will go smoother today if you back off a bit in a situation where you share a mutual interest. Let your counterparts assert themselves.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20)
Today will be rewarding, provided you align yourself with people who take what they do seriously. Don't let laggards hold you back.

CANCER (June 21-July 22)
Big steps forward can be taken today toward an objective you're anxious to achieve. It will require all of your energies and dedication, however.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22)
A domineering individual may try to dissuade you today from using your plans. If you think your concepts are better, stand your ground.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22)
There are some important changes stirring today. Fortunately, they will be positive ones with far-reaching effects.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23)
Partnership situations look promising for you at this time. In fact, two arrangements into which you'll enter will provide added security.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22)
Earnings you deserve are not going to be denied you. Conditions are now starting to shift, and you will be awarded what you're entitled.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21)
To the casual observer, something you accomplish today will appear to be due to luck or chance. In reality, it was your hard work that made it happen.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19)
You have an amazing amount of reserve to draw upon today if needed. Don't let the size or scope of a problem scare you off.
