

MINSTRELS OF LADIES BIG SUCCESS

SANFORD LADIES GAVE GRAND ENTERTAINMENT FRIDAY

It should not be a matter for wonderment if the attendance on Friday night at the Lyric is any criterion that the Ladies Minstrels under the auspices of the Music Department of the Woman's Club was a wonderfully big success. It was apparently a well satisfied audience that came knowing what to expect and had not been disappointed.

The jokes were fresh and unusually good, many of them being originated by Mrs. Barnes. The black faces in their songs made a tremendous hit and the dancing was right up to date.

The success of the Seminole County Fair Association is assured and is the opinion of President Walker; F. L. Miller, chairman of the directors and all the officials are delighted with the meeting of the directors in the court house last Saturday morning.

Every precinct in the county was represented and only one of the directors was absent which bespeaks a great interest in the fair.

J. J. Dickinson resigned as director and F. P. Rines was elected to take his place. The question of a director was taken up by the board and a proposition from George Marr was considered and will be settled at the meeting to be held tonight in the court house.

There are several names to consider as a manager and the directors can be depended upon to procure a man who will give us the right kind of fair and one that will be paying proposition as well. The directors are building not only for this year but for the future and feel that the success of the fair this year means a permanent organization that will give Seminole a good county fair every year.

The meeting last Saturday demonstrated that the people of every section of Seminole are imbued with the idea that this county can and should have a fair and one that we can all be proud of, consequently all of them will be found working for it day and night from now until the last week in January.

lack the expected piquancy. They were especially good in the musical number "On the Way to Seminole County," presenting Mrs. James Taylor, an Indian brave, Mrs. Deane Turner, Mrs. R. E. Tolar, Mrs. J. M. Wallace, Mrs. F. E. Roumillat, Mrs. W. C. Hill and Mrs. Archie Betts, Indian squaws, was a realistic Indian scene by night, and was intended to advertise Seminole County Fair.

The accessories of staging and costuming were especially suitable and under the capable management of Mr. Ed. Lane and Miss Gretchen Schultz, ably assisted by Mrs. Herbert Lyman and Mrs. Veda Ward Bowers, musical director, who gave careful attention to the re-arrangement of the score and to whose musical ability and talent much of the success is due, the minstrel show was decidedly a great hit and splendid success.

The ushers were Mrs. H. C. Gerrow, Miss Beas Tribble, Miss Fannie Reba Munson, Miss Agnes Berner and Miss Nellie Elder. Mrs. W. L. Morgan was the presiding genius of the office box. The hats worn by the end men were made at the French Millinery Shop. The red and green coats were made at the Quality Shop and the negro rigs were loaned by H. B. Crowder.

The following ladies were included in the cast: Mrs. Lyman, Mrs. Betts, Mrs. Deane Turner, Mrs. J. M. Wallace, Muriel Harrold, Mrs. M. Minarik, Mrs. Taylor, Mrs. B. A. Howard, Mrs. W. C. Hill, Miss Gretchen Schultz, Olga Schultz, Mrs. Taylor, Charlie Senay, Mrs. Barnes, Mrs. Carter, Mrs. Charles, Miss Clarissa Starling, Mrs. Roumillat, Miss McDaniels, Martha Fox, Junnie Stummon, Florence Frank, Mrs. Ratliff, Mrs. Mobley, Mrs. Stevenson, Mrs. E. P. Morne, Mrs. Ralph Wight, Mrs. A. B. Wallace.

TO HASTEN RAILROAD LEGISLATION

PRESIDENT AND HOUSE LEADERS FAVOR RAILROADS

Washington, Dec. 5.—Speaker Clark and Representative Kitchen, majority leader of the house, assured President Wilson at a White House conference that they would do all they could to hasten the passage of railroad legislation at the short session of congress which begins today.

The President summoned the house leaders to talk over with them the legislative program and to secure their cooperation in expediting important measures. Legislation to supplement the Adamson law, he said was of the utmost importance and he asked that this be given precedence over all other general legislation.

Realizing that three months is a short period for consideration of general measures when appropriation bills also must be passed, the President asked the house leaders if they thought there would be time for enactment of new railroad laws before March 1. Both told him they thought there would be and promised to exert every effort to economize time on other matters.

Speaker Clark reminded the President that congress would have to pay strict attention to business and asked him to help at the outset to eliminate the usual two weeks holiday recess. In that two weeks which otherwise would be wasted, the Speaker said several important appropriation bills might be disposed of by the house.

President Wilson did not discuss details of the railroad legislative program with the house leaders. He merely desired to get in touch with them on the subject and to have their cooperation. He spoke briefly regarding other important measures, among them the Webb bill to permit domestic corporations to maintain collective foreign selling agencies, the corrupt political practices bill and conservation measures. Proposed embargo legislation and issues raised by the high cost of living were not mentioned at the conference. In the opinion of the house leaders, however, the subject is bound to demand attention of the congress.

"There is no question," said Representative Kitchen, "that various measures aimed at high prices of food will be passed. Discussion of that issue is bound to consume time, but in spite of that, I think we can find time for consideration of railroad laws. Of course I assume to speak for the House only. I don't know what the senate can do."

No final plans have been made by the President for delivering a special message to congress on the high cost of living. Later, in the season, but he is understood to favor such a step when opportunity offers.

The President has made few general engagements for the week because of his desire to devote himself almost entirely to conference with congressional leaders in order to get the legislative machinery started promptly.

Tuesday Mr. Wilson will follow his custom of going before congress to read his annual message. Wednesday he will entertain William J. Bryan and Mrs. Bryan at lunch in the White House, and Thursday night he will give a dinner in honor of Vance C. McCormick, chairman of the Democratic national committee, to which have been invited members of the Democratic and Progressive campaign committees.

The visit of Mr. McCormick to Washington is expected to be marked by the appointment of a chairman of the inauguration committee. Active plans for the inauguration will be started then.

Very soon after congress convenes the President will make nominations to the tariff commission, the shipping board and the board created by congress to administer the workman's compensation law for federal employees. He has been steadily at work selecting the members of these bodies and is understood to have practically completed the task.

Within a few days the President proposes to talk with senate leaders regarding the legislative program.

MEMORIAL SERVICE B.P.O. ELKS

EXCELLENT PROGRAM MADE LODGE OF SORROW AN EPOCH

Fourteen hundred Elk lodges in the United States held their annual memorial services Sunday afternoon and Sanford lodge No. 1241 was among them and the services here while not as elaborate as some were just as impressive and went straight to the hearts of the large audience. Long before the appointed hour of three the Star Theatre was filled with those who expectantly awaited the beginning of the exercises.

Promptly at three o'clock the members of the Elks lodge left their lodge room and marched to the Star Theatre where they were seated in the chairs reserved for them. The stage was occupied by Exalted Ruler J. G. Hurley, Trustees Lake, Holly and Maxwell, Dr. Neal, Dr. Hulley of DeLand and Chaplain, Rev. Arthur Searing Peck.

After a beautiful voluntary by the Elks orchestra Exalted Ruler Hurley called the lodge to order and the formal opening exercises were carried out. The ladies choir composed of Mrs. F. L. Woodruff, Mrs. R. J. Holly, Mrs. W. C. Hill, Mrs. Eugene Roumillat, Mrs. W. L. Morgan, Mrs. B. A. Howard, Mrs. James Taylor and Misses Olga and Gretchen Schultz, Florence Frank and Ruth Mettinger rendered very sweetly "Father in Heaven," Handel Warhursch.

One of the most solemn parts of the entire program was then witnessed as the Exalted Ruler called the members to attention and the secretary, Cruse Barnes was instructed to call the names of the deceased members. As each one was called their names appeared at the corner of the stage in illuminated boxes flashed by electric lights and the names were illumined during the rest of the services. The roll of dead are as follows:

W. D. Holden, B. F. Higgins, W. M. Wadley, R. H. Marks, J. C. Higgins, W. H. Underwood, G. H. Fernald, E. W. Rowland, Jas. D. Roberts, D. G. Monroe and W. J. Hill. After a prayer by Chaplain Peck Mrs. James Taylor rendered the beautiful solo, "Cast Thy Bread Upon the Waters," accompanied by Mrs. R. C. Bower. "The Vacant Chair," by the Lyman Twins, Herbert and Howard Lyman was never given with such an effect, their voices in perfect harmony, the accompaniment being rendered by Mrs. Howard Lyman.

Instead of the Thanatopsis usually given at the memorial services Mrs. J. W. Barnes gave the beautiful version of "Why Should the Spirit of Mortal Be Proud" and gave it with all the power and significance of which this accomplished lady is capable and the ladies choir followed with "One Sweetly Solomn Thought."

The oration of the day was given by Dr. Lincoln Hulley, president of Stetson University and as usual the audience prepared for something good, in which they were not disappointed. Before the doctor spoke his little daughter, Mary Hulley was escorted to the stage and introduced by Dr. Hulley, who called attention to the fact that Old Glory was the emblem of the Elks lodge and Miss Hulley would give them the origin of Old Glory and the little lady then recited in a most finished manner "Who Gave You the Name of Old Glory."

Dr. Hulley then delivered one of the best orations that has been given here in any of the memorial services in which was interspersed many beautiful poems, among them being Thanatopsis. With a wonderful and most retentive memory Dr. Hulley can at will call up any of the masterful efforts of the celebrated poets and he is also a noted Bible student, his oration being a most comprehensive rendition of the beautiful thoughts of the masters and those of his own. He called attention to the beautiful custom of the Elks lodge in writing the faults of their brothers in the sands, their virtues in the tablets of love and memory by holding these annual services and the great good that the lodge was accomplishing in bringing the members together in the bonds of sympathy, friendship and fraternalism.

Dr. T. A. Neal and R. J. Holly followed with beautiful eulogies of D. G. Monroe and W. J. Hill, brothers who had died during the year of 1916 and their words breathed comfort for the hearts of the relatives of the deceased.

After the singing of America and the benediction the exercises closed and the large audience left the building with a greater respect and many praises for the Sanford lodge of Elks.

Much credit is due the committees on decorations and on music for the excellent program, for the beautiful music and the stage and theatre. The decorations are always a feature of the occasion and as usual they were of the best. The entire program could not be improved upon and will mark another successful epoch in the annals of Sanford lodge No. 1241. B. P. O. E.

Congressman Sears Here

Congressman W. J. Sears, known the length of the Fourth district as Joe Sears was here Saturday afternoon greeting his many friends. He spent part of the time at Monroe in company with Postmaster Elder and R. J. Holly and talked over the matter of the change in name of the postoffice at that place. Mr. Sears talked with many of the citizens here about the waterways, the new postoffice building and other matters of interest. He thinks that this will be a short session of congress but admits that no one knows just how long the members will be forced to stay at the capital after March 4th as there are many things that will come before congress and it will be a most busy session. Mrs. Sears and several other Kiamimie ladies accompanied Congressman Sears here and all of them spent a pleasant afternoon in Sanford.

TO REDUCE HIGH COST OF LIVING

CONGRESS OPENS AND FITZGERALD ALSO OPENS

Washington, Dec. 5.—Congress met at noon yesterday for the short session and settled down to work immediately. There was the usual flood of bills and resolutions. The leaders centered energy on supply bills and the general program, foremost of which was the President's railroad legislation.

Representative Fitzgerald of New York introduced bills designed to touch the high cost of living, two proposing a food embargo, one regulating transportation and cold storage, admission of farm products and manufactured food stuffs to parcel post and reducing food prices.

St. Augustine the Victors

St. Augustine defeated the local eleven on the Ancient City's gridiron last Thursday by a score of 37 to 0. A splendid crowd witnessed the fray. The officials estimated the crowd at 1000 people.

Captain Case, Colle and Cox were the individual stars for Augustine while Sanford stars were Spencer and Arthur, the former had a little hard luck on an attempted forward pass by one of the Saints' players. Spencer caught the ball and made a 60 yard run but he had the misfortune to fall in one of those GOPHER HOLES which are so abundant in St. Johns county.

George Arthur deserves high praise for his gameness during this game—with a badly sprained foot this boy went in the game when he had no business to, but on account of men not being on hand it was forced to play, and to see him limp around the field and continue to play speaks well for this boy's gameness and also the belief in his team.

The locals were treated royally by the Augustine people and though defeated they all came back satisfied that the trip was worth while.

County Commissioners in Meeting

The Board of County Commissioners of Seminole County are holding their regular monthly meeting today and have much of importance before them. Full report of meeting will be given in the next issue.

NATIONAL CONVENTION IN DECEMBER

RIVERS AND HARBORS ONE OF MOST IMPORTANCE TO SOUTH

It looks as if there might be "something doing" at the Thirteenth Annual Convention of the National Rivers and Harbors Congress, which is to meet in Washington on the 6th, 7th and 8th of December, for the president of the congress, Senator Ransdell of Louisiana, announces that any one who really knows anything about that matter talked of article will be given a chance to tell it.

But there has been such a vast amount of loose talk on the subject that the accent is to be placed on the "Know." No one has yet been found who will admit that there is any "pork" in his own pet project; it is always somewhere else and usually a long ways off. So, if a man from Maine criticizes a project in California, or a man from Minnesota jumps on a waterway in Texas, he will be expected to tell just how he comes to know so much about things two or three thousand miles away from where he lives.

Every waterway project in the United States, before it is submitted to congress has been finally passed on by the chief of engineers and the board of engineers for rivers and harbors. These men took eight or ten years of special study, have seen from twenty to thirty years of actual service, and base their conclusions on the most elaborate surveys and examinations. Yet there are editors of metropolitan newspapers who habitually refer to river and harbor bills as "practically all 'pork'."

If such a one, without technical training, engineering experience or personal investigation, should appear and denounce a project approved by the army engineers, it would seem to be in order to quote for his benefit the old English quatrain:

"Of all speculations the market holds forth, The best one I know of, for profit and pelf, Is to buy Mr. Blank at the price he is worth And then sell him at that which he sets on himself."

Speakers on this question will be expected not to indulge in loose talk or general charges but to get right down to the facts. If any one knows that a project has no merit, but that the appropriation for it was secured solely to promote the political fortunes of some senator or representative, or because some commercial organization wanted to boom local business with Government funds, he will be given an opportunity to publicly name the man or the community that has raided the public treasury for private gain. Common fairness requires that if any man, or community or project, is attacked, an opportunity shall be given for defense and refutation, and this will, of course be done. It looks as if the resulting discussion might be well worth hearing.

Liberty Lighted Again

New York, Dec. 2.—By a signal flashed by wireless from the government yacht, Mayflower, President Wilson bathed the Statue of Liberty with light tonight.

"I light this statue," said the President, "as a symbol of our purpose to throw upon our life, as a nation, a light which shall reveal its dignity, serene power, benignant hope and spirit of guidance."

The celebration was participated in by the President, Mrs. Wilson, French Ambassador Jusserand, and other persons of distinction.

Great throngs crowded the Battery and witnessed the illumination.

Weather Report

AMONG THE THEATRES

Chit-Chat of the Play Houses in Sanford

Marguerite Clark, the Princess of Liar

The average inveterate liar must possess a phenomenal memory or carry a note book in order to prevent mixing up his stories. But little Bernice Somers was so fast on her mental feet when it came to concocting lies that she needed neither memory nor note book—so her sarcastic friends called her "Miss George Washington." One need only mention that "Miss George" in this case is none other than Marguerite Clark, who plays the title role in the Famous Players Paramount picture "Miss George Washington" at the Star Friday, to arouse interest in this particular small fiber. It is Miss Clark's first introduction since the signing of her new contract with the Famous Players and was directed by J. Searle Dawley.

"Hell-to-Pay Austin" At Lyric Tuesday. A Fine Arts Drama in which there is a great bit part for a very little girl.

Mining camp stuff—cowboys—cowgirls—the great big wild and woolly west—that's the atmosphere to create when you come to show "Hell-to-Pay Austin." If ever there was a picture which fairly breathed of the western half of our country, it is this, a Fine Arts product of the very first quality. And in Wilfred Lucas and Bessie Love you have two people to work with who are quite as interesting and picturesque as was even the west in its palmyest days. Lucas has been a strong favorite with moving picture lovers for years. Bessie Love has become almost as strong a favorite in the past few months.

Gloria Stafford, at her father's country home, romps about on the ice with her brother, David, and Lois, her sister in law, in an attempt to forget her grief over the murder of Freneau, her lover. Then by chance she goes tobogganing with Mulry, Freneau's partner, who happens to be visiting in the neighborhood, but Mulry has been warned by Doctor Royce to avoid Gloria and so he flees when she begins to talk to him. Suspicious of such peculiar conduct Gloria follows him and learns with surprise that he has departed for Palm Beach. Thither goes Gloria, accompanied by her father, and Mulry leads her a merry chase about the environs of that fashionable resort. One day Gloria surprises him in the surf and he starts to swim straight out into the ocean, still followed by Gloria. When he is seized with cramps Gloria rescues him, and then loses him in the crowd ashore. He hastens back to New York on the next train to avoid her. Later Gloria encounters the Indian chief who proposed to her in the Everglades five years before and, while they are talking, Dr. Royce passes. The Indian reveals his hatred of Royce and explains it by saying it was Royce who had torn her from his embrace on that other occasion. Gloria can scarcely believe her ears, for Freneau had posed as the hero, but the Seminole chief tells her Freneau was a cowardly cad who fled in terror from the scene. More than ever then she doubts the honor of her dead lover. Later she questions Royce about the real truth of the matter and the latter, to prevent Gloria losing faith in the man she has worshipped, tells her the Indian had lied, that it was Freneau who rescued her. Kn doubt what to believe, Gloria wanders along the sands of the beach turning things over in her mind.

Advanced Case. "Your friend Dubwaite seems to have a very good opinion of himself." "I should say so!" Why, Dubwaite thinks a bronze plate will some day mark the street corner where he stands every afternoon to wait for a suburban car."

To Avoid Smoke. Simple way of avoiding the smoke and gas which always pour into the room when a fire is lit in a stove, heater or fireplace on a damp day. Put in the wood and coal as usual, but before lighting them ignite a handful of paper or shavings placed on top of the coal. This produces a current of hot air in the chimney, which draws up the smoke and gas at once.

Attractive Fur-Trimmed Suit

The combination of cloth and fur in suits never grows tiresome, and this accounts for the fact, in part, that furs are soaring in price. Certainly they are much higher than they were, and furriers appear to enjoy imparting to us the bitter truth, when they assure us that they will never be cheaper. If you are going to consider fur as a permanent you must reconcile yourself to paying a stiff price.

But it is not so difficult to pay the price for a suit as attractive as that shown in the picture. Besides, the fur used on it is one of those which furriers describe as "hard" and is very durable. It will outlast several seasons' wear, and the likelihood is that each year it will be worth more than it was the year before.

The suit pictured is of wool velours in a dark green, and the skunk banding is almost black. The coat is a beautiful model simplified and cleverly cut. There are small, shaped emplacements of the material at each side of the front, set on at the waistline. They are machine-stitched to place, with two rows of stitching, and finished with silk braid made into two round ornaments at the end of a short spiral design.

A similar design in braid appears at the top of the deep cuffs. The buttons are set in groups of three down the front and on each cuff there are three in a smaller size. There are two large fur-covered buttons at the back.

The ever present turnover collar for once is lacking in this model. A standing collar of velvet is banded with fur a little below the top edge and the fur band about the coat follows its example by finding its place away from the bottom edge. It is set above the hem.

Dark skunk fur looks well with all colors and every material used for the suits of the present season.

Model Likely to Be Popular.

The skirt of a one-piece dress of dark blue serge is made with a three-quarter length circular tunic and the waist has a straight back. The front is double breasted and finished with broad revers which fasten back with jet buttons. A V-neck is piped with white crepe and a broad, flat collar is of canary silk. The sleeves are long and the raised waistline is merely indicated by a cord. The left side is finished by a sash.

LAUD PRINCETON HEAD

Hugh Jennings Says Many Good Things of Coach Rush.

Compares Baseball and Football and Coaching in General—Leader Must Have Knack of Imparting Knowledge to Players.

Hear Hughey Jennings on John Rush, the Princeton coach, and football coaching in general. "I've never met Rush, but I have heard a lot about him, and I guess he has got the right sort of stuff. I heard at first that Rush had never played football, but I understand that he has; that is, he played in "prep" school and on scrub teams at college. Football and baseball are alike in some ways. I don't think a man could teach football very well if he had never played the game at all, but I doubt if it is necessary for him to have played on a college varsity team. If he has the right kind of brains in his head and is a good leader, he ought to do. Where a lot of these colleges make a mistake, it strikes me, is in choosing men without sizing up their mental ability. They look for a star who played last season or fifteen years ago, perhaps, and think just because he could get over the ground or could throw all his opponents out of the way, he ought to be a good coach. A baseball manager and a football coach have got to know the game from top to bottom and must have the knack of imparting that knowledge to others, and, in the bargain, must understand a whole lot about human nature. And make good. If he can produce a winning team he is all right; if not, he's down and out. A coach, if he is the right sort, should get a good lengthy contract with the college he is going to. Then he will have to make good. If Rush sticks to his job Princeton ought to get out of its bad rut. That is, if Rush is the type they say he is."

PING BODIE'S EYESIGHT

Scout Eddie Herr of the St. Louis Cardinals was out in San Francisco, watching Ping Bodie to determine if Ping was a prospective comeback and would be of value to the Cardinals next year. He decided to ask Bodie his own opinion of it. "How's your eye, now, Ping?" asked Herr, to start the conversation. "Eye! My eye?" answered Ping. "Say, I can count the nail heads in that center field fence from here at the plate." "How do you hit 'em in Salt Lake," asked Herr. "Great," answered Ping, as he fondled his bat. "Say, that high multitude in them mountains in Salt Lake is made to order for me."

SPRINTER MAKES FAST TIME

Jack Donaldson of Australia Defeats Applegarth of England in Two Running Events.

At the recent naval and military sports carnival in London, in which nearly 2,000 athletes participated, Jack Donaldson of Australia, a former world's champion, defeated Private W. R. Applegarth of England, the present sprint champion of that country, in the 100-yard dash in 9 4-5 seconds. Donaldson holds the record of 9 3-5. In the 220-yard dash Donaldson, with one and one-half yards start, beat Applegarth, scratch, by nearly two yards in 21 4-5 seconds.

Says England Needs Repentance.

Canon Newbolt, preaching at St. Paul's cathedral, said there was no good disguising the fact that England as a nation needed both repentance and hope. "Those of us behind the scenes in the moral life of the nation," he added, "know that in many ways things are as bad as ever they can be, and there are some things so bad that they cannot be alluded to with propriety from this pulpit." In a plea for a strong public opinion against evil, Canon Newbolt pointed out that if there were no demand there would be no supply. If youth would set its face against immodest post cards and other evils, the supply would cease. Much could be done by a few resolute men in purifying the atmosphere. "Let us," he urged, "make sin disreputable. Let us make it harder for men to do wrong than to do right."—London Times.

Make Silk Sausage Skins.

Germany now is making sausage skins of raw silk, according to the Rheinische Westfälische Zeitung. Ever before the war experiments were being conducted in the making of a hollow casing of raw silk to be filled with sausage meat. The Elberfeld ribbon factory is now turning out great lengths of this sausage casing. Just now, however, owing to the shortage of meat, very large quantities of casing are not needed. With the ordinary prices of raw silk prevailing the few casing is no dearer than the usual sausage skins. The Berliner Lokal Anzeiger of August 3 says that a new invention has been introduced by the Berlin inventions bureau for putting meat up in briquettes for transport. These briquettes, it is said, are impervious to the attack of insects.

A chemist has invented a way to convert gasoline or petrol into a stiff white jelly. It is done by adding 1 1/2 per cent. of stearite and alcohol. An economy of 30 per cent. is claimed for the solid form.

Very Good Business.

The wife of a wealthy business man of Chicago was the daughter of a policeman. As they grew rich, both she and her husband concealed the fact as much as possible, for the sake of their social prestige. At a luncheon several society women of high pretension had been talking about their families. "What was your father's business, Mrs. D.?" was finally asked of the business man's wife. Mrs. D. was not disturbed. "My father was in the copper business," she said with cool emphasis.

Basket Made of Paper Rope

Women are just learning how many pretty things for the house can be made of paper rope. They are weaving baskets and trays, vases, lamps and lamp shades, jardiniere, and other things of this easily handled and inexpensive material. It is sold at the paper dealers and is nearly always chosen in brown or green or white. The white can be painted any color to match decorations or wood-work.

All these things that are fashioned from paper rope are made over wire foundations. After a basket or any other object has been finished, it is varnished with shellac. This gives it a good finish and adds to its durability.

The basket for toilette articles (which might be used for almost any other purpose) which is shown in the picture, is made of white paper rope and is woven with a proper space on the foundation left uncovered.

This space is meant to accommodate the narrow satin ribbon in rose color that is strung through it. After the weaving of the basket is finished it is painted with white paint, or white and another color. When the paint is dry the whole surface is varnished with shellac.

When the ribbon has been strung in it is tied in a full bow at the base of each handle. Just to add to its ornamentation, the handles of the basket provide support for two full rosettes of gauze ribbon with a length of ribbon extending between them. Such a dainty and refreshing object might be used for serving cakes at five-o'clock tea.

The bottom of the basket is a circular piece of thin wood and is covered with colored milk. A dolly is to be placed over the silk if the basket is to be used for serving cake wafers, etc.

Pullman or Freight?

No one would think of riding in a freight car if he could enjoy the comfort of a big, comfortable easy riding Pullman parlor car. So with automobiles. Most of the popular priced cars ride like freight cars. This is due to the old fashioned type of spring. Many manufacturers still continue to use them. The Overland does not. The 75 B Overland has the latest type of cantilever shock absorbing springs. As a result it is one of the easiest riding cars in the world. One demonstration will prove this. $635 f. o. b. Toledo.

We don't care if turkeys are up. Never did like turkey after Thanksgiving Day anyhow.

Press report says that the Romanians although surrounded are retiring in perfect order. This is as it should be.

HAS OUR NUMBER The Sanford Herald comes out on Nov. 24 with another spread of printers' ink.

Bob, you are a pretty good fellow but you jump your trolley sometimes. I am not going to take time this week to answer your long cry of "falsehood and graft."

One thing I appreciate very much, Bob—your kind invitation to join your society in the Ananias Club of America.

THE HIGH COST OF PRINTING The print paper situation has reached a stage where it is being felt severely by newspapers generally.

a contract running until December 15th. After that date it is beyond the power of this paper to say where and how it will get the white paper supply necessary to continue publication.

The mills absolutely refuse to make contracts or, in many cases, to even quote prices beyond January 1. The brokers therefore are unable to do business. The latest quotation on newsprint is seven cents a pound, an advance of 300 per cent, above the price the Tribune has been paying.

The Tribune has been forced, already, to reduce the size of its type to the smallest possible usable. It has also been compelled to abandon the publication, for this year, of its Year Book, inasmuch as the paper required for that publication would cost three times as much as the total possible revenue therefrom.

Increases in subscription and advertising rates must necessarily follow. All the newspapers of the country, except those so fortunately situated that they can afford to operate at heavy loss will have to adopt similar plans in order to keep out of the bankruptcy courts.

The conditions which have brought this about are not the fault of the newspapers or of the newspaper patronizing public. But the public will have to bear with the newspapers, in their difficulties, appreciating the tremendous sacrifice that will have to be made in order to continue publication.

Not only paper but every other item included in newspaper making has advanced to practically prohibitive prices. No newspaper in the country can expect to make one cent of profit for the next year at least.

The Tribune is straining every effort to obtain enough paper to avoid a suspension of publication. In the meantime we must ask our patrons to be tolerant of shortcomings and to take into consideration the difficulties under which we are laboring.—Tampa Tribune.

THE MAN WHO STOOD STILL With the inimitable Lew Field in the leading role, that of Krauss, an aged jeweler, a motion picture masterpiece bearing the above title was recently presented in a local theater, and it told a story that should reach every business man in Tampa.

The story should have particular appeal for those who do not believe in advertising—if there be any men of this type in Tampa today—and to those who do not advertise intelligently. Nowadays success demands that you let the public know you and your business exist, where you and your business are to be found, what you've got for sale, and the price thereof.

The most successful business men of the present are the successful advertisers, and the largest business concerns, excepting those that are in the monopolistic line, are the largest advertisers. And even those concerns that have monopoly, are advertising extensively nowadays.

The great Pullman company is the latest convert to advertising. It has turned up, in newspapers and magazines with quite large advertisements, in which especially the cleanliness and good ventilation of the Pullman cars are pointed out. All this is known. Whoever travels and has the means to buy a berth is doing it anyhow.

to the prevailing public sentiment to present by advertisements what their business is and how they care for public consideration and appreciation.

In the past some business men of Tampa have actually advertised merely because they wished to assist the papers in which they advertised. Their generosity was and is appreciated, but the Times wants it understood that when one of its advertising solicitors asks for business he does so because he knows his paper will produce results—because he knows it will give more than value received if the advertiser has high-class goods to sell, and informs the public of the fact in an effective manner.

Advertising is a science which should be given first consideration by all men who depend upon public patronage for support. If they have goods for sale, they must let the public know it—not once, but regularly. If they have no business rivals, but wish to cultivate the good will of the public, they must tell the public, in truthful arguments, why they are deserving of goodwill—what they are doing in behalf of the public in return for the patronage and franchise privileges that are accorded them.

The concern that isn't doing this, whether it have a monopoly or is besieged with wide awake competitors is living the life of the aged and lovable Krauss, "The Man Who Stood Still."—Tampa Times

Rummage Sale The ladies of the Baptist church hold a rummage sale tomorrow next to Lefler's Grocery on Sanford avenue. Those having rummage will please phone Mrs. D. R. Brisson, No. 415-W and same will be collected.

"Find a wife, settle down and I'll fix you for life," pronounced Abel Drake, uncle indulgent of Rodney Blair.

"But, uncle," remonstrated the latter, "I don't want to marry. As to settling down, can anyone be more pleasantly and rationally adjusted to circumstances than I am? And as for fixing me for life, you have done that already."

But the resolute and obstinate old relative wagged his head defiantly. He was used to being obeyed; when he conceived a notion it was difficult to budge him from its execution.

"When I was a young man," he recited in quite a pathetic way, "I found an estimable girl. Like you, it jarred me to think of being tied down. She married well, probably never thought of me after she found a better man, but I missed it. Not only in losing her, but thenceforth adopting the lonely, selfish life that has made me half-savage, wholly hermit. Take a month, look around the world, find a mate and come back and begin life as a man should, with a loyal partner to share his troubles and joys."

For a week, pursuant to orders, Rodney drifted. He tried a fashionable summer resort and tired of its follies. It was a dreadful bore to wander about aimless, with no definite program to follow. He found innumerable fair faces, but they did not captivate him. "There must be something in this love business," he ruminated, "just as the analysts and sentimentalists aver, where ideal conditions and the ideal girl are in conjunction, are not to be sought after, but met, unexpectedly, fatefully."

lous-faced lady of middle age, stood there. Both directed quick, agitated glances at Rodney. "You are Mr. West," fluttered the girl, and her evident distress, even fright, almost pained Rodney. It was so intense. "We received your note. If you will call at our home tomorrow morning we will have the money for you, provided you deliver the papers."

"Yes, here is the address," fluttered the other lady, and then her words ended in a sharp cry. She had placed a card with writing on it upon the table. As she did so her eye fell upon the letter Rodney had just addressed. She turned white and faint. She seized the arm of her companion, awaying weakly, as though about to faint.

"Oh, Ethel," she gasped, "some new mystery! Quick! get me away from here." "I am not—" began Rodney in disclaimer, but the two visitors had hastened from the room. He was at a loss to understand the motive of the strange call. The fact that the superscription on the envelope on the table had caused the elder woman distress was palpable. He tried to study it out as he placed the letter in his pocket. Then he hurried into the hall intent on overtaking the two women, but they had evidently already left the floor on the elevator.

The incident gave him food for thought. There was a curtained alcove at a bay window at one angle of the room. Turning off the light, Rodney seated himself there and looked down at the street. Perhaps he might see the two women leave the hotel. The face of the younger one had impressed itself indelibly upon his memory. Suddenly he was aroused. Two men had entered the room. The electric light was switched on.

"No word at the office of the hotel," spoke one. "Oh, well, we shall still hear from them by morning," returned the other. "Here are the papers," and he extended a package. And then the men indulged in a brief, but enlightening conversation. Rodney Blair had led a quiet, uneventful life. The disclosures of the two men fairly horrified him. They were professional blackmailers. They had discovered some scandal against the dead husband of the elderly woman who had called with her niece. They had come to the town to demand all of the incriminating documents.

It was then that Rodney realized that he had been shown to the wrong room by the bellboy. The villainy of the two conspirators stirred him up intensely. They parted without discovering him. One of the men placed the package and some other belongings under a pillow of the bed, put out the light and retired for the night. It was a breathless experience that Rodney Blair went through before midnight, so foreign to the usual humdrum system of his life that he was burglar, fugitive and hero, all in one, according to story-book process. He was resolute to protect a defenseless woman, however. He regained his own room, the precious packet in his possession, grandly exultant.

More so, when he sought out Mrs. Mary Winslow the next day and gave her the papers that prevented a blot being placed upon the name of one dead, who had not been to her a good husband, but whose name she felt it disloyal not to protect. And then Rodney Blair made a discovery—why the sight of a letter directed to his uncle had so startled the woman. He made a second within the two ensuing weeks—that he loved her pretty niece, Alice Durant. "I have found what you sent me after, uncle," he announced, reappearing on the home scene one day. "Found a wife, have you?" chuckled the old man. "All right, let me see who she is and I'll give you my blessing."

Learning From Tumbles. It does not matter how many tumbles you have in this life, so long as you do not get dirty when you tumble. There is the greatest practical benefit in making a few failures in life. You learn that which is of inestimable importance—that there are a great many people in the world who are just as clever as you are. . . . and you very soon find out if you have not found it out before, that patience and tenacity of purpose are worth more than twice their weight in cleverness.—Huxley.

Over 900,000 bottles of Tanlac have been sold and distributed through the Atlanta office alone since last December.

If all the people who have taken Tanlac were to form a line of march in single file, this grand army would reach clear across the American continent from New York to San Francisco and extend over 500 miles into the Pacific Ocean.

A 30 ferry boat to Enterprise for Titusville train.

Tanlac is for the common, everyday ills of suffering humanity, which make millions of men and women miserable.

Mrs. B. T. Houser has returned from a pleasant trip to Cincinnati and Columbus where she was the guest of relatives for several weeks.

Herbert Lyman of Forest City was among the visitors to the city on Thanksgiving.

J. A. White, a well known Kentucky farmer said he could beat his hands shucking corn after taking Tanlac.

Spell of Samoa. Samoa, when he first saw the islands, appeared to Stevenson far less beautiful than the Marquesas or Tahiti. He was not specially attracted by the people, except for their courtesy. Yet the island grew upon his fancy so quickly that in less than a month from his first sight of the harbor of Apia he decided to make his home in Samoa.

Linnet a Fighting Bird. Linnets are great fighters. They are deadly enemies to the butcher birds and are seldom beaten in a fair fight. Rare ostriches, perhaps, they are matches for any bird. But, anyhow, no ostrich could ever catch them.

For a Creaking Door. The creaking of a door may be instantly stopped by rubbing the hinge with a piece of soap. It does not spoil the looks of the paint as if oil were used.

Nothing New. An Atlanta girl's fiancé existed only in her mind, which is nothing new, only many girls do not find it out until after marriage.—Indianapolis Star.

Optimistic Thought. Labor is the foundation of wealth in every country.

STRYCHNINE WILL KILL CROW

But Experts Are Asked to Explain Why Chicken and Quail Are Immune.

Harrisburg, Pa.—Experts in universities and colleges of the state have been asked to inform the state department of agriculture why strychnine will kill crows and not affect chickens when eaten.

The state live stock sanitary board stirred up the question by sending out a notice urging that crows be exterminated and giving instructions as to use of the poison.

Some people wanted to know if chickens would be harmed by it. The board officials replied that they would not, and told of the result of an experiment by one man who had written to the department that he had fed strychnine in corn to brown leghorn chickens and that they had not minded it a bit.

When he threw it out for the crows to eat he had to send out burial parties. On the other hand, quail did not seem to mind it a particle.

REUNION OF 'BLUE AND GRAY'

Two Visitors in a Dakota City Fought on Opposite Sides in Civil War.

Volga, S. D.—The Blue and the Gray had an interesting reunion in Volga when Mr. Witherspoon, a guest at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Samla, and Timothy Corcoran, who is visiting his son in Volga, chanced to meet and compare notes of the stirring days of the great Civil war.

Witherspoon served in the Union army, while Corcoran served on the Southern side. From their conversation they learned that the companies in which they served on their respective sides participated in several battles with each other, and on one occasion during a series of battles the two companies of which the two were members faced each other on the battle line.

The former member of the Blue and the former member of the Gray became great chums as the result of their reunion.

APPENDIX REMOVED ON SHIP

First Successful Operation of the Kind to Be Performed on Ocean.

San Francisco.—The first successful operation for appendicitis performed on the Pacific ocean was revealed here on the arrival of the United States transport Sheridan from Manila via Honolulu. Maj. E. A. Dean of the United States medical corps performed the operation on Milton S. Finch, a private soldier.

When the Sheridan was three days out from this port, Finch was suddenly stricken with appendicitis.

Major Dean, an army surgeon returning from the Philippines on the Sheridan, was called in and asked to operate on Finch, and while the Sheridan plowed through the waves he removed the appendix. Finch recovered rapidly from the operation and was removed to the army hospital at the Presidio when the Sheridan arrived here.

PEOPLE AND EVENTS

Beautiful Home Wedding

The marriage at one o'clock on Wednesday of Miss Saidee Christine Williams to Mr. Wiley Benjamin Edwards was a beautiful event, taking place at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas W. Williams. Yellow and white were the colors of the wedding carried out prettily in the decorations and in the dresses of the attendants. The lower floor of the home was thrown open and all rooms, from the top floor to the front door was filled with the soft radiance of shaded lights and candles and fragrant with cut flowers that filled the tables and mantels, against a cool, green background of graceful ferns and jessamine vine. In the reception hall the staircase was entwined with masses of dark green vine with baskets and bowls of gorgeous red roses placed everywhere. The ceremony was performed in the parlor. Opposite the entrance the improvised altar of white roses, chrysanthemums was very lovely with the delicate tracery of fern leaves. Lighted white candles in their crystal candlesticks completed its beauty. Big fluffy chrysanthemums filled baskets and vases everywhere and the fireplaces were banked with ferns and palms. In the library and dining room the same artistic decorations were used with yellow chrysanthemums, with the lights veiled with yellow tulle. The wedding music was played by Miss Florence Frank a girl friend of the bride and was very sweet. Preceding the entrance of the bridal party Mrs. A. M. Phillips sang "Because" and "The Proposal." To the strains of Lohengrin's "Bridal Chorus," the wedding party descended the stairway with the little ribbon bearers, Camilla Puleston and Jack Peters entering first, carrying the broad satin ribbons that formed the aisle. Next came the bride's attendants, Miss Charlotte Hand and Miss Ruth Mettinger, both lovely in pretty white frocks and white picture hats and carrying arm bouquets of big yellow chrysanthemums.

The bride entered alone and was met at the altar by the groom and his best man, Mr. William Charles Hill.

Petite and winsome, the bride is one of the most attractive girls in the most exclusive society set in Sanford. Her grace and loveliness were accentuated by her beautiful wedding gown of white satin Duchess, fashioned with draped bodice and long sleeves. Rows of silk fringe combined with white silk buttons gave a distinctive note of decoration to the charming costume. The tulle veil which enveloped the gracious young figure was worn away from the face prettily arranged in cap effect and caught in place by valley lilies. Her flowers were a cascade bouquet of bride's roses and lilies of the valley which fell over her arm to the edge of the short skirt. Her only ornament was an exquisite lavalier with diamond setting, the gift of the groom.

and Mrs. W. H. Peters and is one of the most attractive little lads in Sanford. He wore a white suit with white silk tie, white shoes and stockings.

After the ceremony congratulations were received and an informal reception followed at which refreshments were served, in the prevailing color tones of the wedding.

Mrs. Edwards is the only child of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Willis Williams. She is noted for her winsome personality, fascination and charm that has made her a popular favorite everywhere.

Mr. Edwards is the only son of Mrs. T. E. Davis of Wilson, N. C. He is a traveling salesman.

They left on the afternoon train for Jacksonville, Savannah and Charleston en route to Wilson, N. C., where they will be at home after December 1st at 520 West Vance street.

Mrs. Edwards was girlishly pretty in her traveling suit of grey broadcloth with which was worn a simple black velvet turban, grey gloves and shoes.

Numerous and beautiful were the wedding presents of crystal silver and china and lovely linens. One especially prized by the young bride is a silver cream ladle, the gift of Mrs. E. W. Peabody, one of her own wedding presents, fifty years ago. Mr. and Mrs. Williams' gift to their daughter was a check for five hundred dollars, while another check came from the groom's parents for a chest of silver.

Receiving were Mrs. W. L. Morgan and Mrs. Archie Betts. Others assisting were Miss Helen Rowland and Miss Nellie Elder. Mary Elizabeth Puleston presided over the bride's register and distributed the "cake to dream on," which was done up in dainty white boxes tied with yellow ribbon.

The Masquerade Skate

There was not even standing room behind the railings at the skating rink on Wednesday evening, when the big masquerade that has been anticipated by the skaters for weeks was successfully pulled off. On the rink itself the scene was one of brilliancy and life with its motley crowd of masqueraders, many of whom came from the nearby towns to participate in the fun. Notwithstanding the crowd excellent order was maintained and although there were several hundreds who could not secure seats, the spectators were loth to leave the gay scene and remained for the entire evening. Many of the costumes were unusually attractive while many more were of the class "unique" and funny. This was especially true of the negro impersonating which were in the majority. The grand march led by Mr. and Mrs. Flynn was as pretty as anything of the kind ever seen here before. In the various figures of the march the costumes were displayed to advantage and remarkably good time was kept by the maskers.

The judges, who were Mrs. Fred Wilmot, Mrs. Allan Jones, Mrs. D. G. Monroe, Mr. H. G. Dieterich and Mrs. H. C. Gerrer and Mr. Flaherty, the latter from New York, awarded the prizes, which were given for costumes as follows: Gentleman's first prize, a box of cigars, to Mr. Guernsey Doudney, who represented a gentleman of the colonial period, dressed in a light blue suit made in the regulation style of that day with powdered periwig and silk-ene hose. Miss Vera Terhoun was chosen as first winner for the ladies and was given a two pound box of Nunnally's chocolates. She wore also a Colonial costume which was complete in every detail. The second prize for ladies, a doll, was awarded Miss Myra Futch, for a splendid impersonation of Mary Jane, wearing a white frock and blue ribbons with hair in curls. Miss Futch is a Gr. mar. School teacher. The booby prize, a toy kodak snake was given Mr. Hugh White for a clever characterization of a cornfield nigger belle. The couple prizes, a pair of skates each, was awarded Miss Muriel Harrold, a Red Cross nurse and Mr. Hunt, a soldier boy, characters well sustained. It is worthy of mention that the prize winners were all of them expert and graceful skaters. Other costumes that deserve special mention was the really handsome Gypsy costume worn by Miss Lillian Schwartz an i made in Roumania. Fine materials and hand wrought embroidery in gold and silver threads, and in silk, made this not only attractive but the finest costume on the rink. Attractive costumes in the stars and stripes were worn by Miss Blanche Pattishall of Geneva and Miss Elizabeth Musson. Mr. Beecher Kent, a red devil was a close second to the prize winner. Miss Ruth McDaniel as Pocahontas was a charming Indian character. Master Robert Holly was a pretty Spanish sonrita. "Baby" Jarvis and his milk bottle attracted much attention and with his negro Mammy, Mr. Don McDonald was an interesting group. John Lee as a negro boy with klunky wool was especially good. Miss Frances Chappell another Colonial dame was very lovely. Many more could be mentioned but space forbids.

Turkey Party

In honor of the birthdays of Mary Harris and Boyce Ezell, Jr., a number of small people came to play on Saturday afternoon and help along the celebration. Outdoor games were first enjoyed and then the children were told a turkey story, after which they were ushered into a room attractively decorated in red and green, where a huge red turkey was strutting in the straw. After paying their respects to Mr. Gobbler they were given awards which when followed, led to the secret hiding places of the party souvenirs. To the great delight of the little folks, every one found a born. With noisy glee and to the sound of trumpets blowing, a start was made for the dining-room, where the pretty arrangements were in red and white. Two birthday cakes adorned the table on which were five and three candles respectively. After the serving of ice cream cones and cake, another story was told, this was about the "Fall of Jericho" and a "wall" had been cleverly constructed around which the children in couples marched seven times, blowing their trumpets. With one long, loud and mighty blast the walls fell and disclosed the booty within, big red apples and golden oranges and they "all played happily ever after," until time to go home, anyhow. Assisting Mrs. Ezell were Mrs. W. D. Lees, Mrs. Reitzel and Lucille Ring.

Auction Bridge

Mrs. A. P. Connelly charmingly entertained the Auction Bridge on Monday afternoon with the full membership playing, which has been increased this season to three tables. A lovely vase in cut glass was won by Mrs. E. B. Morse, one of the newly acquired members. There was a suggestion of Thanksgiving in the attractive little score cards.

Charming Dinner Party

Mrs. J. B. Calder entertained with a beautiful dinner party at seven o'clock on Thanksgiving Day. The table appointments centered by a vase of white roses were most attractive and a delicious six course turkey dinner with the usual trimmings was temptingly served. Covers were laid for six, which included Mr. and Mrs. Calder, Mr. and Mrs. D. R. Brisson and Mr. and Mrs. F. T. Rines.

Delightful Dinner Party

Mr. and Mrs. D. R. Brisson entertained on Tuesday evening with a charming dinner party at which the guests were Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Calder and Mr. and Mrs. M. M. Stewart. Mr. and Mrs. Brisson and their two children completed the party.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Johnson of Orlando accompanied by Pete John-

Mr. and Mrs. Johnson were to have been married Sunday but stole a march on their friends, were quietly married yesterday and slipped out to Sanford without the friends of the couple being any wiser. Mr. Johnson is a prominent business man of Orlando, being associated with his father in the Orlando Foundry & Machine Co.

The ladies of the Congregational church will give their annual bazaar and New England supper Saturday afternoon and evening in the new Seminole Bank building. The public is invited to look over the pretty Christmas and useful things, and to eat with us. The price of the supper is 35 cents. Remember the day and place.

Informal Dinner Party

The last of the pre-nuptial parties given in honor of Miss Saidee Williams was the charming little dinner party on Tuesday evening, given by Mrs. Samuel Puleston. Miss Williams and her fiancé, Mr. Edwards, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Chas. Hill, D. and Mrs. Puleston composed the party. After dinner Mrs. Puleston and her guests attended the Social Department dance at the Woman's Club.

THANKSGIVING SERVICES

Annual Thanksgiving Sermon by Dr. Davidson

The regular annual Thanksgiving service which is held in union by all the Methodist, Baptist, Presbyterian and Congregational churches was held yesterday in the Baptist Temple with Dr. J. A. Davidson of the Congregational church delivering the sermon.

Special music by the orchestra and special song service by the union choir were features of the service.

The theme used by Dr. Davidson in his sermon was an unusual one, entirely befitting the occasion and the message delivered could well be determined a masterpiece.

Dr. Hyman of the Baptist church announced the arrangement for the morning, and Dr. Bouchelle opened the service with prayer. Special Thanksgiving prayer was offered by Dr. Brownlee of the Presbyterian church and a closing prayer was rendered by Dr. Steunmeyer of the Methodist church.

An unusually large congregation was present at the service and a contribution was made for the Armenian sufferers.

Gladstone's One Pun.

Much interest and amusement has been caused by Mrs. Drew's revival in the London Cornhill of Gladstone's rhyme on the wedding of the captain and the cook of the convalescent home.

It is not generally known that Gladstone also once in his life made a pun. When Blondin appeared at the Crystal palace, he went to see the acrobat, and remarked that the performance was very interesting to a chancellor of the exchequer as an example of balancing.

Seems Profitable Investment.

How Had They Been Standing?

"I'm going to reverse matters," said the teacher, "and have the children stand on their feet when they recite."

Pleasing Types Among the New Hats

Three new hats belonging to types that are always pleasing are shown here. They have been chosen from among many others that are destined to add zest to life for the younger women during the coming winter. Two of these hats are broad-brimmed, dignified and picturesque shapes, and the third is a moderately small jaunty affair.

The hat to the left is of gray velvet faced with rose crepe and has a crown covered by rows of chenille of the same shade of gray as the velvet. The brim is wide and droops a little. It is trimmed with a flat rose made of embroidery in dark red rose shades. There is a single embroidered leaf and a long and slender stem of chenille that rests on the brim.

The small hat at the right is in purple velvet and is shown in other colors. It has a pert bow perched on the brim near its edge, finished with a long pointed end.

The big hat at the bottom of the picture is of white haters' plush faced with velvet in the color of moleskin. There is a heavy chenille lattice work about the side crown, in the same color as the facing, and three little ostrich tips, also in taupe, are perched at the back as if to draw attention to the lift in the brim. A small painted apple of velvet is set in two velvet leaves at the right front.

No color takes precedence over taupe, which is another name for mole-skin, and moleskin has outdistanced other furs, in the estimation of milliners, anyway. Wide scarfs of it, made up with ermine, and smaller neckpieces made to match hats on which it is used, are among the most elegant offerings of the season.

Fruits for Hat Trimmings.

Fruits are practically the only trimmings for hats which are seasonable. Satins and velvets, furs and gauzes are worn interchangeably, winter and summer. The summer felt hat is an accepted article of headwear. Individuals may wear spring hats trimmed with cherries and early summer hats trimmed with currants late in the season, but no respectable dealer would show them. They must appear in season, although they may exceed nature in color and design. A rather small, round hat has clusters of grapes, purple, green and red, drooping from the stems of the vine which encircle the top of the crown.—New York Times.

Equipped for the Morning Swim

At last the time has come when a regulation, practical swimming suit is good to look upon. If anyone doubts that it is possible to look pretty when emerging from a morning dip let her contemplate the picture here. So far as her clothes are concerned, the maid may be said to have on a most becoming outfit, as full of style as any other of her apparel may be.

Wardrobes are full of variety this year, and there are outfits for all times and occasions. The swimming suit, the bathing dress, and the beach dress have all arrived at standards of beauty.

The suit pictured is of black and black-and-white striped satin, and is made up of roomy bloomers of striped satin, reaching to the knees and, with a rather wide frill at the bottom, and a one-piece overdress cut in an easy-fitting princess style. There is a pointed panel at the front of the bodice provided with buttons in black and white composition. The buttonholes are let in on both sides. The bodice is cut with short kimono sleeves lined with the striped satin, and a border of it outlines the V-shaped neck. The skirt is open at the sides in a slit that is rounded at the bottom. It is finished with a cord covered with the plain satin and reaches a little below the knees.

The stockings are of black silk with plain stripes in white, and the shoes of black cloth are finished with white also.

When the maid is fully equipped for her plunge she will don a close-fitting satin cap of black or black-and-white satin and it is likely to be provided with a visor or something in the way of a little shade for the eyes. Underly she may wear a close cap of rubber cloth or she may select one of the many rubberized caps or hats which the season provides for the swimmer.

Long wide hearts of rubberized cloth worn shawl-fashion are among the new fancies for bathers and swimmers. They answer the same purpose as capes and are wrapped about the shoulders when the swimmer comes on shore.

Danger Pointed Out.
During a class in construction work in one of the primary grades of the public school, the teacher endeavored to make the children understand that they should be careful in handling the scissors they had to use. Shortly after that Joey, a little chap of six, noticed the little girl across from him standing on one foot beside her desk with the sharp end of the scissors pointing directly toward her eye. With all due authority he called out: "Look out! You better watch out or you'll be wearin' a wooden eye."

the head and a bullet wound was found. Shelby Pleasants, a Huntsville attorney, and Sheriff Robert Phillips of Madison county, shot and killed themselves three days apart the next week. They left word they could not bear suspicion they believed was pointed to them in connection with the killing. Overton, testifying at his trial, admitted he shot and killed the jurist the night of June 14, but declared it was in self defense.

OVERTON FOUND GUILTY

Alabama Clerk of Court Appeals The Case

Huntsville, Ala., Nov. 28.—David D. Overton, former clerk of the Madison county circuit court, once chief of police of Huntsville, and prominent in political circles in North Alabama today was found guilty by a jury of murder in the first degree on a charge of having killed Probate Judge William T. Lawler, his political opponent, here in June. The former clerk was sentenced to die by hanging January 12, but on motion for his counsel for an appeal, Judge Miller suspended sentence. Before pronouncing the sentence, Judge Miller asked the prisoner if he had anything to say. "Not guilty," was the reply, in a voice hardly audible.

Overton was moved to the county jail where he will be held pending appeal. The case was given to the jury yesterday and the verdict returned at 11:30 this morning. After deliberating until shortly after 10 o'clock last night, the jury retired. The twelve men arose this morning about 8 o'clock, had breakfast and immediately resumed deliberation.

When the verdict was read there was a notable expression of surprise on Overton's face. The Alabama law provides for an alternative penalty of first degree murder, of death by hanging or life imprisonment.

Judge Lawler's body was found in a slough of the Tennessee river beneath the Whitesburg bridge ten miles from here, June 17, after he had been missing three days. His body was weighted down with railroad iron. There were abrasions on

BUY GOOD TIRES

The Extravagance of Buying Cheap Tires Set Forth

Mr. Hal Wight of the Wight Grocery Co., in speaking recently on the subject of tire economy, referred to a timely editorial by Arthur Brisbane that appeared last Sunday in all the Hearst newspapers.

Mr. Brisbane, who is probably the highest paid editorial writer in the world and who is himself an ardent motorist has strong convictions on the tire question, and his views are well worth reprinting for the information of others who are desirous of getting the most value possible when they buy tires.

The making of tires is an absolute science, to which engineers and manufacturers have devoted years of study and millions of dollars in experiments.

The well made tire represents actual cash invested. It has its fixed value, and do not let anybody persuade you to the contrary.

Beware of a dealer who tells you that he can sell you "this tire cheaper and just as good." It has no name on it that you ever heard of before.

Such talk is misrepresentation and cheating.

Study the tire question for yourself; act in the purchase of tires as you would in the purchase of materials for your business.

To buy cheap tires, cheap tubes, wastes money and destroys pleasure.

This applies especially to the man who owns one of the lower priced cars and drives it himself.

The man driving his own car knows that a well known tire is one-half the pleasure of automobiling.

Fortunately the makers of the best tires devote special attention, to the light cars. There is nothing more extravagant than a cheap, poorly made tire on one of the lower priced automobiles.

Dollar for dollar the good tire will give more than double the mileage and five times the pleasure.

Mr. Wight, who is the local Michelin dealer, says that his business this year has been better than ever before. He attributes a large measure of his success to the Michelin Universal Tread, which is a tire of the very highest quality, yet the price is extremely moderate.

Regiment of Redheads.

Give a regiment an inspiring name and it charges on the double-quick to glory. The Death's Head Hussars, the Life Guards, the Black Watch, the Rough Riders—one's blood tingles to such names as to a bugle call.

Who wouldn't fight hard in the regiment now being recruited for Uncle Sam as "The Redheads?" Every man in this new volunteer organization is to qualify, first of all, by the fire in his thatch.

The editor of a magazine published in the special interests of adventurers is sounding the call to colors, and redheads are flocking by dozens round his gory standard. "The main point," he contends, and we agree with him utterly, "is that the redheads ought to be one of the best fighting units, and one of the best known, that ever took the field."

Territorial Taxation.

Generally speaking, the cost of territorial administration in the United States is borne by the federal government. In Hawaii a direct property tax brings in most of the receipts, which in 1914 were $3,768,468, while the expenses of the territory were $4,687,545.

Quick Work.

Hank had been courting Mandy for six years. At last he plucked up courage to pop the question.

"Oh, Hank," said Mandy. "This is so sudden!" "I know it is, Mandy," replied the ardent swain, "but I was afraid if I didn't get a hustle on me some of these other fellers might get ahead of me."

Fortune and Fame in Pies. Cleveland, O.—Pies have brought fortune and honor to Fred C. Elmer, father of the nickel pie—once a prized lunch in itself. "I became so well known as the original pie baker that when I ran for State Senator I was easily elected," he says. "I was the first to see the possibilities of nickel pies and to make them go. From Dec. 10, 1877, when I opened my shop, pies went like wildfire. The kids were my best customers."

CARLISLE TO DROP FOOTBALL

Indians Will Not Be Contenders in Intercollegiate Sport—Game Ordered Subordinated.

The Carlisle Indians will not be contenders in intercollegiate football in the future as a result of a decision rendered by the powers that be. Secretary of the Interior Lane held that in the future football must be subordinated to the educational features of the school.

BASKET BALL GREAT GAME SANFORD WON

OVIDO GIRLS GO DOWN BEFORE CELERY FED LASSES

After waiting long, long months for Sanford's athletic world to wake up and bring home a victor, the local Sanford High School girls' basketball team defeated the fast flying quintette of Oviedo. The boys failed to win in football, the only game played in basketball by the boys was lost and it was left up to the ladies to save the day.

On the heads of Cora Lee Tillis and Helen Hand goes the crown of honor, for both of these young ladies played a sterling good game from every standpoint. Oviedo would constantly tie the score, later to be untied by one of the above mentioned girls.

as good as the fairer sex will turn out. Her ability to throw baskets bordered on the marvelous, while her science at this game could not be equalled.

Oviedo displayed a hard fought game all the way through. At no time were they convinced that they were defeated, through the work of Edith Howard and Elsie Marshall the Oviedo club was able to give the locals all they were looking for.

Another bright star and probably the best defensive player on either side was Olive Lezette who was playing left guard for Oviedo. This young lady amazed the fans with her long distance throws across the court.

The two lady referees of the two schools rendered their decisions to the satisfaction of all those present such violations as fouling, unnecessary roughness was easily detected by the two ladies.
