Seventy-four-year-old Eberreal Taylor stands in the doorway of her Altamonte Springs home pointing out flaws in an aluminum siding job. The photo at left illustrates the type work an unscrupulous contractor has been performing on the homes of poor Seminole County residents. Independent evaluations have turned up major installation flaws and price gouging.

Riots Hit London Supporting Sands

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (UPI) — Riots and letter bombings spread to London in support of rapidly weakening IRA hunger striker Bobby Sands, and Catholic firebrand Bernadette Devlin McAliskey warned Britain if Sands dies "we will drive you to the boats."

Conservative MP Barry Porter, a highly outspoken IRA opponent who received the letter bomb which was defused, fumed: "They're damned cowards — rats from the sewers."

Sands' supporters said doctors keeping a watch at Sands bedside, on the 58th of his hunger strike, said the 27-year-old "almost died" Saturday evening and told his family "to be by a telephone at all times."

Doctors told his family he is now "extremely weak." He was reported to be down to 98 pounds.

In Belfast, about 20,000 people marched through the Roman Catholic sector of the riot-scarred city in Sunday's wintry weather to rally support for Sands' demands for political status for IRA prisoners — a demand flatly turned down by Britain, which now rules Northern Ireland directly and has outlawed the IRA.

"I say to mother England, if Bobby Sands dies, the might of the people will demonstrate you have forfeited any right you ever had to govern Ireland... we will drive you to the boats," Mrs. McAliskey said in a speech.

She also warned the Irish republic, to the south, that if Sands died the ruling Fianna Fail Party "will never govern again."

"Victory for the prisoners and life to Bobby Sands," she declared to loud cheers.

In London, police arrested 43 people in two demonstrations by about 600 Sands' supporters, who charged down a shopping street in defiance of a ban on marches. A handful also were arrested outside Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher's official Downing Street residence.

In an ominous development, a member of Britain's Parliament received a letter bomb he believed came from supporters of the hunger striker. The device was defused and police warned public figures to look out for suspicious packages in the mail.

At the head of Sunday's Belfast demonstration, carrying a cloth banner declaring "Day 57 Hunger strike," was Sands' sister Marcella. She was followed by 400 women headscarfed against the wintry weather — the mothers of IRA convicts in jail.

After them came 40 barefoot marchers clad in blankets, representing the IRA prisoners who refuse to wear clothes or use toilet facilities in the campaign for political status, freedom from prison work and the right not to wear prison uniform.

At the rally, former U.S. Attorney General Ramsey Clark, who was not allowed by Britain to visit with Sands, appealed "to the British government to grant his demands which are reasonable and confirm to the rights of human dignity. It is our duty as concerned and caring human beings to speak out on his behalf."

Arms Sale To Saudis Postponed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Senate Republican leader Howard Baker says a final congressional decision on a reworked arms package for Saudi Arabia will be postponed until fall or even later this year.

Appearing on CBS' "Face the Nation" Sunday, Baker said he advised President Reagan Thursday the package — including enhancement equipment for F-15 fighters plus five AWACS surveillance aircraft — faced considerable trouble in Congress, particularly in the Senate.

Baker said Reagan then agreed to postpone sending the package to Capitol Hill to "give to the members of the Congress an opportunity to have an input, to give advice on the final shape and form of the package that might be submitted."

"It is my understanding now that there will be an opportunity for extensive consultation between the Congress and the State Department and Defense Department, and perhaps with the president as well, on the shape and form of a package as it may finally be submitted."

Baker said it was unlikely the proposal would be sent to Congress before mid-summer, "So I would estimate that it will be late this year, certainly this fall, before the Congress can make a final determination of any recommendation that the administration may finally send."

Asked if it was pure coincidence that the postponement means the debate will not take place until "well after the Israeli elections" June 30, Baker said "that is a factor we also considered."

"The last thing it needs is to become a political issue in Israel," he said.

Thinking Of Siding For Your Home? Look Closely

By BRITT SMITH
Herald Staff Writer

Seventy-four-year-old Eberreal Taylor didn't know what she was signing. All she knew was that the smiling, smooth-talking, an-answer-for-every-question salesman promised that if she would just scratch her signature on the dotted line, he would make her aging home like new.

It was an offer too good to refuse. That tiny one-bedroom house at 191 North Street in Altamonte Springs was like a child to her; she had built it years ago following her husband's death. But now, it was falling apart. The wood was rotting, and the ceiling and floor sagged earthward in an unwilling admission to time and the elements.

The smiling salesman claimed he could fix all that. Shoring up the exterior with aluminum siding would not only reinforce the building and improve its outward appearance, he said, but would also serve to insulate the home which Mrs. Taylor says, "gets real cold in the winter. The wind just whistles through."

Mrs. Taylor was ecstatic. It didn't matter that the job would take $64 out of her $150 Social Security check for the next seven years. She lived alone so she figured she could get by on $86 a month.

She would be all right as long as she didn't have to mortgage her house. She told the salesman it was all hers and nobody else was getting a piece of it. He just smiled. He didn't point out the clause in the contract that stated her house would be used as collateral to ensure payment on the siding work. It wouldn't have mattered. Mrs. Taylor can't read. So, Eberreal Taylor signed the contract, got her house sided and dutifully began making payments. That was April 1977. She almost looked forward to the coming winter.

"I wanted to see would my sidin' stop the wind like the man say."

It didn't.

"They was cracks in them walls big enough o throw a cat through," Mrs. Taylor recalls. "The wind just come in."

That was doubtless due to the fact that the siding job hadn't been done properly. There were unsecured panels of siding which left large gaps in the walls. There was no trim, and no caulking around many of the seams.

And not only did the siding not buttress the sagging walls as the smiling salesman had promised, but it actually exacerbated the problem by holding moisture next to the rotten lumber, causing it to deteriorate even further.

The weakened wood shifted, making it difficult for Mrs. Taylor to open and close her windows and doors. The siding company denied responsibility, so "the folks from the county (Community Action program) had to come out and fix it just so I could get in and out," she said.

Despite the problems, Mrs. Taylor continued making her payments, that is until last winter when the wind and cold she thought the siding was supposed to keep out "gave me pneumonia. They said it was going to stop that. Well," she said, spitting out the words, "it didn't do nothing."

Angered, she refused to pay another dime on the siding. It was then that the smiling salesman pointed out that she had mortgaged her home in order to pay for the work and if she didn't come with the cash every month, he would foreclose and sell the house.

"No sir," she said. "I wasn't going to pay no more." That's when she sought help from Central Florida Legal Services, a federally-funded program designed to help poor clients with their civil legal problems.

Deb Sammons, Legal Services attorney, said Mrs. Taylor's situation was a classic example of "an unscrupulous outfit going through the poverty pockets and preying on the most powerless people they could find. They didn't go into the middle class neighborhoods where people knew they had rights that could be enforced," she said. "They victimized poor, illiterate minorities. They didn't explain contracts, they did shoddy work, and then overcharged for it."

For example, a local siding installer evaluated the job done on Mrs. Taylor's house and found that "the building wasn't suitable for siding in the first place, but even if it had been, the job was worth $1,000 tops," Sammons said. Mrs. Taylor was charged $3,100 plus $2,702.72 in finance and other charges, bringing the total price to $5,802.72.

With the help of Legal Services, Mrs. Taylor got the mortgage on her house cancelled, "but the thing is still giving her fits," Sammons said. "The house is so rotten, they're going to have to remove all the siding to repair it. Now, where is she going to get the money?"

Sammons said the Taylor case is not an isolated one. "We had a 54-year-old

FATAL ACCIDENT

A white sheet covers the body of 34-year-old Stanley Boyd Parrish, 3201 U.S. Highway 17-92, Sanford, who was killed in a one-car wreck on State Road 426 and County Road 15 west of Sanford about 7:30 p.m. Sunday. A passenger in the car, Harold E. Swim, 38, of 64-A Richmond Ave., Sanford, was treated at Seminole Memorial Hospital and released, according to the Florida Highway Patrol. Boyd was traveling north on C-15 at a high rate of speed when he hit a sign post and flipped over. The fatality brings to seven the number of traffic deaths reported in Seminole County this year.

Last Auto-Train Leaves Thursday

Some Employees 'Stranded' At End Of Line

By DONNA ESTES
Herald Staff Writer

The final northbound Auto-Train will leave Sanford at 4 p.m. Thursday. And there is almost no hope the company, which has carried passengers and their cars between Sanford and Lorton, Va. since Dec. 1, 1971, will be resurrected.

Thomas Tucker, in charge of public relations for the company and for Murray Drabkin, bankruptcy trustee, said today he would not want to give anyone "false hope" that Auto-Train will be saved at the last moment.

"Stopping the operation is very sad. It's a discouraging thing to have had to do. But there was no alternative for the trustee," Tucker said from his Washington office.

"Auto-Train is in the position of simply not having the money to go forward. With the most serious decline in ridership traditionally coming in the Spring and with the investors unable to reach agreement, an orderly shutdown had to be scheduled," Tucker said.

Auto-Train has 400 employees. Tucker said, and about two-thirds of those work in the Sanford part of the operation.

Only a skeleton crew will remain with Auto-Train after Thursday to complete work to maintain and secure the company's assets, Tucker said.

"We will do everything we can to help Auto-Train employees obtain jobs," Tucker said, adding a number of employees are close to having the 10 years service required for vesting in the railroad pension plan.

Richard Johnson, director of passenger service with Auto-Train in Sanford since the service was initiated more than nine years ago, was trying today to fit on scheduled trains today,

Tuesday, Wednesday or Thursday those persons who had pre-purchased tickets for use after Thursday.

Tucker said a reserve fund of $250,000 is being held by a bank to pay back credit card holders of advance bookings. Others who paid in cash for advance bookings are included among the firm's administrative debts and may receive partial refunds, he said.

Johnson said the employees to be laid off, including himself will be able to draw unemployment compensation while they search for new jobs.

Those who had hoped to get jobs with Seaboard Coastline Railroad (SCL), had those hopes dashed today.

"Seaboard Coastline is not hiring in the Sanford area at this time, said Owen Pride of Seaboard's Jacksonville office. "Nor do we foresee any recruiting in Sanford in the near future. However SCL is sympathetic to the displaced workers at Auto-Train and will consider their applications whenever openings do occur."

This news was particularly bad for James Bradwell Jr. of Sanford.

Bradwell left SCL after 12 years with that railroad to accept a job as a mechanic with Auto-Train two years ago. "I had hoped to go back to SCL," he said. "I don't know any place else where I can get a job."

"I'll have to leave home. There is no work in Sanford," he said.

David Henry, an electrician, plans to apply at Florida Power and Light for a job. He has been in railroad work for over 22 years. He came to Sanford seven years ago to go with Auto-Train from a job with the South Pacific Railroad. "It's a shame Auto-Train is folding," Henry said. Calvin Mosley, a junior mechanic, has been employed with Auto-Train since its Sanford operation began.

"I saw the beginning and I'm seeing the end," he said. "I'll have to adjust my life and go out and look for another job. I hope someone buys the place so people can keep their jobs."

Mosley said times are going to be hard for him and his family. "We live from check to check and we are buying a home," he said.

"It started looking bad for the company when I got my first bad check from them in September. I thought then this day was coming," he said.

Louise Hardin and her husband, Wayne, both work for Auto-Train. She drives cars and cleans the train. He is a purchaser. They are expecting a baby in September.

"I guess I can't look for a job until after Missing 21-Year-Old Atlanta Black...27th Victim?

ATLANTA (UPI) — Police today delayed a decision on whether a 21-year-old youth who vanished last Wednesday should be added to the city's official list of 26 young blacks missing or murdered in the past 21 months.

Because Jimmy Ray Payne is similar in size and age to the three most recent young black victims — all adults who have been found slain under similar circumstances in the past five weeks — authorities were considering adding his case to the list of 26 being investigated by a special police task force.

But Public Safety Commissioner Lee P. Brown said Sunday, "I have decided not to add the case to the metro Atlanta special task force on the missing and murdered children's cases today."

Brown said the task force is informally working with the city's missing persons unit on Payne's case.

Payne, a 5-foot-3, 130-pound black man, was last seen Wednesday by his sister when he left his northwest Atlanta home, hoping to sell old coins at a shop in the Omni, a popular downtown entertainment and shopping complex. His sister reported him missing the next day.

The Omni has figured in the disappearance of one other victim — Patrick Baltazar, 11, who was found slain Feb. 13, and was last seen alive near the huge mall.

Brown's decision broke a policy set last month that required investigators to decide within 72 hours whether the case of a person reported missing should be turned over to the special task force investigating the slayings.

That new policy was set after the city was criticized for the handling of the Timothy Hill case.

Hill, 13, was reported missing March 11, but because he was regarded as a runaway, his case was not turned over to the task force until his body was fished out of the Chatahochee River March 30.

If added to the list, Payne would become the fourth young adult victim since the body of a 21-year-old retarded black man, Eddie "Bubba" Duncan, was pulled from the Chattahoochee River.

The Duncan case apparently was the start of a new pattern in the killings. The next two victims also were young black adults. Prior to the Duncan slaying, all of the victims had been between the ages of 7 and 16.

Twenty-five of the victims have been found slain and one, 10-year-old Darron Glass, is missing. Glass disappeared Sept. 14, 1980.

Meanwhile, Sharman Meade, an attorney for 34-year-old Larry Marshall said her client may have some information that could be helpful in the case. Marshall is being held in Atlanta on an attempted robbery charge.

However, District Attorney Lewis R.

Slaton said Marshall has "to tell me something" of value before he will bargain as Marshall wants.

A woman who told UPI last week that her former boyfriend had boasted of four slayings of young blacks, said she had seen Marshall with her ex-boyfriend in Miami.

The woman was brought to Atlanta by the Congress of Racial Equality, which said this weekend it will equal to investigate the child slaying cases even though police don't believe their initial suspect was involved in the cases.

NATION IN BRIEF

Congress Returning After 2-Week Vacation

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Congress is returning to work after a two-week Easter vacation with President Reagan seeking to regain the momentum that had been propelling his budget and tax cut program.

In the Republican-controlled Senate, the administration used the holiday to work on disgruntled Republicans whose opposition to projected large deficits killed the plan in committee.

Republicans on the Senate Budget Committee will meet privately today to try to work out a solution, and the three GOP conservatives who opposed the plan, said an agreement is near.

White Cells-Cancer Link

BOSTON (UPI) — Tests by tumor specialists at Massachusetts General Hospital indicate there might be a link between cancer and certain human white blood cells that normally fight disease.

The investigators said their findings that the cells — called phagocytes — can produce mutation in bacteria may help define a link between cancer and chronic inflammation, which can precede malignancy.

Hospital Abortions

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Supreme Court today upheld Indiana's law requiring doctors to perform abortions during the second trimester of pregnancy in hospitals.

The justices, in a brief order, affirmed a lower court ruling that Indiana may legally require such abortions to be performed in a hospital — a rule included in the laws of at least 16 other states.

Three justices, one short of the required four votes necessary for the court to accept a case, said they would have liked to hear arguments on the issue. They were Justices William Brennan, Thurgood Marshall and Harry Blackmun.

Some Touching Moments

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The first National Day of Recognition for Veterans of the Vietnam Era was not widely celebrated, and the few events that were held drew only small crowds. But it had some touching moments.

Such as the two veterans who walked more than 800 miles, from Illinois to Washington, to raise money for a memorial to the 57,000 Americans who died in Southeast Asia.

President Reagan issued a proclamation Thursday declaring Sunday a National Day of Recognition for Veterans of the Vietnam Era. About 150 veterans congregated in a two-acre hollow on the Mall where eventually they hope to build a memorial with the names of those who did not return from Vietnam.

Jim Davis Dead At 65

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Jim Davis, the veteran movie and television actor who became internationally famous as the tough-talking family patriarch Jock Ewing in TV's "Dallas," died Sunday in his sleep. He was 65.

A family spokesman said Davis, who was recovering from abdominal surgery performed late last month, died at his Northridge home. His wife of 36 years, Blanch, was with him at the time.

No cause of death was given.

Miami's Latins Arming Because Of Violence

MIAMI (UPI) — Miami's Little Havana area — for many years popular with Latins and Anglos alike for its distinctive ethnic flavor — is gaining a violent reputation, with gangster-style shootings, stabbings and robberies claiming an increasing number of victims on its streets.

And like its businesses, the area's crime often bears a Latin trademark. With increasing frequency, police identify either victims or suspects — or both — as Latins.

Last week, two residents of the predominantly Cuban area were the targets of gangster-style shootings. Alberto Sarmiento, a Cuban-American candidate for mayor of Miami, was gunned down as he walked his dogs in front of his home last Thursday. Two days earlier, Latin attorney Luis Fernandez Caubi was shot and wounded in a similar attack as he left for work.

The incidents are far from isolated; Miami police report that of 87 persons murdered in the city so far this year, 52 had Latin surnames.

In several cases, the victims were slain in crowded bars. Others have been shot or stabbed in parking lots, nightspots, outside restaurants or just standing on street corners. In one incident last year, a man was stabbed to death in front of scores of domino players and onlookers in a popular Little Havana park.

Homicide investigators point out the escalating violence in Little Havana parallels the sharp jump in crime city-wide. But detectives agree that in the Cuban refugee population since last year as a result of the Mariel seafit has contributed to the higher incidence of crimes involving Latins.

Miami police records show that major crimes in the city — including murder, rape, robbery and aggravated assault — jumped by 40 percent from 1979 to 1980. According to a police study last fall, the newly arrived refugees "contributed significantly" to the hike.

"It's sheer numbers," said Miami Homicide Det. Luis Vasquez, who added that the refugee criminal element is "ruthless and hot-headed."

"The Latin community is afraid of them and they've got reason to be," said Vasquez. "More and more people are getting armed now and they're using the weapons."

Miami Police spokesman Angelo Bitsis said refugees are involved in unlawful activities at all levels.

"They are involved in everything from murder down to traffic violations," he said. "They are victims as well."

Still another prominent aspect of the Latin crime problem are the drug wars involving Colombian "cocaine cowboys." Last year, city and county police investigators estimated more than 100 slayings committed in the area since 1979 were drug-related executions.

United Mine Workers Planning Major Rally

United Press International

United Mine Workers officials predict little progress in the strike by 160,000 soft coal miners — now in its 32nd day — before union leaders deliver a message to the membership at a solidarity rally Thursday.

No incidents of violence were reported during the weekend in the nation's coal fields — scene last week of three shooting incidents.

But in eastern Kentucky, where two of the incidents occurred, authorities warned trouble might start.

"We anticipate trouble. Monday morning is the beginning of the work week, that's probably when it will start."

UMW President Sam Church said he expected little progress in the stalled coal negotiations before Thursday, when 5,000 to 8,000 union members are expected to attend a solid meeting in Pittsburgh. "It may be the largest union rallies since the strike began," Church said he would speak at the rally, and Pittsburgh District officials are trying to line up speakers from the nation's other large unions, including the United Steelworkers and AFL-CIO.

"We'll have a message to deliver and we will deliver it then," Church said.

The UMW boss said that until then, he'll conduct "business as usual" in Washington, little of it directly related to the dormant coal contract. The UMW's finance negotiating team had no plans to meet, Church said.

District 3 President Donald Redman said miners from as far away as Kentucky and Illinois plan to attend the rally.

Schools' Future Uncertain

BOSTON (UPI) — Boston's 64,000 public school students ended a 10-day spring vacation today, returning to classes as city officials and a court-appointed mediator struggled to raise $30 million to keep them open beyond Tuesday.

The city School Department officially exhausted its $210 million budget April 16, the day the recess began. The City Council and Mayor Kevin H. White have been unable to agree on how to fund the remaining two months of school.

Friday a court was asked to order the city to take money from other departments unless an agreement is reached by Tuesday afternoon.

White promised at the time to provide enough money to keep schools open until then.

The court court became involved in the case in March, when the state Department of Education filed suit against the city to keep classes operating for the full 180 days required by state law.

The state Legislature, meanwhile, was under pressure to approve a $9.4 million school aid bill for Boston to help ease the funding crisis. Officials were pushing for quick passage of the measure to give them more time to come up with the remaining money.

The City Council already has approved an $18 million bond package to keep the schools open, but the legislation was vetoed by White because he objected to amendments which would limit his authority and permit a recall election to remove him from office.

Patty Hearst Loses Bid In Supreme Court

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Newspaper heiress Patricia Hearst today lost her bid for Supreme Court review of a criminal conviction stemming from her 1974 kidnapping by the Symbionese Liberation Army.

The justices refused to hear an appeal by Miss Hearst from her armed robbery conviction.

She asked that her conviction be overturned because she was denied effective representation when her attorney — well-known criminal lawyer F. Lee Bailey — signed a $270,000 contract to write a book about her trial.

"Losing Hair? Try This At No Risk"

HOUSTON, Texas—If you don't suffer from male pattern baldness, you can now stop your hair loss...and grow more hair.

For years, they said it couldn't be done. But now a firm of laboratory consultants has developed a treatment for both men and women, that is not only stopping hair loss but is really growing hair!

They don't even ask you to take their word for it. They invite you to try the treatment for 32 days...at their risk, and see for yourself!

Naturally, they would not offer this opportunity unless the treatment worked. However, it is impossible to help everyone.

The great majority of cases of excessive hair fall and baldness are the beginning and more fully developed stages of male pattern baldness and cannot be helped.

But, if you are not already slick bald, how can you be sure what is actually causing your hair loss? Even if baldness may seem to "run in the family," it is certainly not proof of the cause of YOUR hair loss.

Hair loss caused by subnormal also run in your family, and many other conditions can cause hair loss. If you wait until you are slick bald and your hair roots are dead, you are beyond help. So, if you still have any hair on top of your head, and would like to stop your hair loss and grow more hair, now is the time to do something about it before it's too late.

Loesch Laboratory Consultants, Inc. will supply you with treatment for 32 days—at their risk—if they believe the treatment will help you. Just send them the information listed below. All inquiries are answered confidentially, by mail.

Nagging Won't Do It's Up To Smoker

Dr. Lamb

DEAR DR. LAMB — My husband doesn't know the difference between a devoted wife and a nag. He has a bad habit that I wish he would stop. He smokes like a chimney. He knows it may cause lung cancer. I've told him it can also cause a heart attack. He claims that since he has smoked all his life it is too late to improve his health by stopping smoking. I think he is wrong. He also says that if he quit smoking he would gain weight and that might cause him to have a heart attack. I tell him he doesn't need to gain weight just because he quits smoking. I'm really concerned about this and I don't want to be a widow the rest of my life. I've tried to tell him a good man is hard to find and his family has a stake in his health, too, but he won't listen. Can you help? If you have a Health Letter on smoking, please send it. Maybe he will listen to you.

DEAR READER — It is very hard to get anyone to do anything about his or her lifestyle if the person doesn't want to change. That applies particularly to stopping smoking. Your husband will need to want to quit for himself, not just to please you. He is wrong about not getting any benefits from stopping smoking. Within days after you have quit smoking you will significantly decrease your risk of having a heart attack or stroke. In fact, the risk of having a heart attack may decrease to the same risk that nonsmokers enjoy.

You can have him read The Health Letter number 2-6, Tobacco: Cigarettes, Cigars, Pipes, which I am sending you. Others who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

With effort you can avoid gaining weight when you stop smoking. The effort is in controlling your calorie intake and perhaps increasing your exercise. Statistics show that even the gain of a few pounds is not as dangerous as continuing to smoke. As a group, heavy smokers are three times as likely to have a heart attack or stroke and have a life span that is 14 years shorter than nonsmokers.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I have been interested in chest exercises to develop my bust. I've been told that putting the palms of your hands together in front of your face and pushing them against each other works. If I do these exercises and enlarge the pectorals muscles and increase my bustline, how long will I have to keep exercising to maintain this increase?

DEAR READER — Remember that you are not enlarging the breast, only the pectoral muscles behind the breast. That may increase your chest measurements but it will not increase the cup size. Claims to the contrary are false. The breast is not a muscle and you can't enlarge it by exercise.

Once a muscle has been enlarged by exercise you can maintain its size and strength by doing proper exercises once a week. Use the same routine you used to build the muscle, only do it once a week rather than three or more times a week. This applies to most muscles, including the pectoral muscles.

HOROSCOPE

For Tuesday, April 28, 1981

YOUR BIRTHDAY April 28, 1981
You're likely to be luckier this year in ventures or enterprises you undertake on your own, rather than those where partners are involved. Try to perform independently.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20)
If you have an ambitious undertaking in mind today, don't seek help from persons unless you are willing to share part of what you hope to achieve.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20)
There's a possibility your priorities could get a bit distorted today. You may place more emphasis on fun pursuits than you will on fulfilling duties.

CANCER (June 21-July 22)
You're capable of managing things for others today, as long as you don't run into anything unusual or unexpected. Unfortunately you may, so keep cool.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22)
Tasks to which you allocate proper time today will be performed efficiently, but those left to the last minute could get messed up or even left undone.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22)
Your possibilities for gain or acquisition today look good, but you must take care not to use methods others find unattractive to get what you want.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23)
You're lucky in most areas today, but getting something for nothing isn't likely to be one of them. Think twice before gambling or taking financial risks.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22)
Don't change things today merely for the sake of change. There's a chance your impatience could cause you to get something good going off-track.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21)
Friends are likely to play major roles in your affairs today. Some will be of great help, yet one with good intentions could cause problems.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19)
Things should go rather well today careerwise and financially, but you'd be wise not to broadcast what you have going. Jealous ears are listening.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19)
Your ability to plan and reason things out is very good today, but there's a possibility you may not heed your own counsel. Practice what you preach.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20)
Joint ventures could prove very beneficial for you today, provided you team up with one who is equally productive. Avoid noncontributors.

ARIES (March 21-April 19)
Relationships with friends should run smoothly today, provided business or money doesn't enter the picture. If either one does, it could cause all concerned to take opposing positions.

card combinations involving one particular suit. How about a few articles to illustrate?"

Oswald: "Here is an example of a play known as the obligatory finesse. Needless to say there is no one holding a gun to declarer's head and forcing him to take it. It simply is a play that can win for you and can't cost you a trick if you take it."

Alan: "South finds himself in four spades. Maybe North shouldn't have bid three. Maybe South shouldn't have bid four. It doesn't matter. That's the contract he has to play."

Oswald: "East takes his ace and queen of hearts. Then he shifts to the jack of diamonds."

Alan: "South has lost two tricks and expects to lose two more. He wins the diamond in his own hand and leads a low trump. West's ten loses to dummy's queen and the deuce of trumps is led back."

Oswald: "East plays the nine and now comes the obligatory finesse. South ducks. West has to play his ace and South gets away with just one trump loser. Luck, of course, but he had given the cards a chance."
