"Sunny Side Up," Film Milane, Gets Over On Opening Night

Recent stars, an all-star cast, a delightful story, comedy and a half dozen national song hits in the production presented in "Sunny Side Up," Fox Movietone musical comedy which had its premiere performance before a capacity audience at the Milane Theatre last night.

Janet Gaynor and Charles Farnham, making their musical comedy debut, gave an amazing performance. Both have pleasing voices and sang their songs in a spontaneous, approval from the evening night's audience. Miss Gaynor also blossoms out as a singer and proves she is as proficient in the theatrical art as she is in acting.

Sharon Lynn, Frank Richardson, Marjorie White and El Brendel, in the supporting cast of principals, gave excellent performances and received their fair share of acclaim, also.

DeByline Brown and Henderson authored "Sunny Side Up," a comedy to words and music, with their first picture production and proved they are as talented in this medium as they are in concocting successful stage musical comedies. David Butler did a splendid job directing, and by his work in production has elevated him to a place among the leading stars of Hollywood. Seymour Chaskin's noted dance director, purely outdid himself in directing the ensembles and song numbers. Summed up, "Sunny Side Up" is superlative entertainment, should keep the Milane box busy.

A DISH A DAY

By NANCY DORRIS
A sort of menu years ago Heavenly Food, a nice cake clock-full of walnut meat, and shredded dates, struck the Pacific Coast. It began when the new concoction became the rage. A most overrated every hostess served the tiny squares in her guests.

Heavenly Food made the afternoon tea and added to the culinary reputation of hostess after hostess. But in time the rage died away and only now and then is served this chewy, rich cake.

By request the recipe printed here nearly two years ago is given in time for Christmas leaves and tea parties.

HEAVENLY FOOD
One cup broken walnut meats
One cup dried, shredded dates
Three-fourths cup brown sugar
Two eggs
Four tablespoons flour sifted with
One teaspoon baking powder
A few grains of salt
Baking time: 6 to 10 minutes
Oven temperature: 350 degrees F.

Yield: One sheet.
While white sugar may be substituted for brown, the real Heavenly Food has the depth of flavor brown sugar imparts to food. The nuts may be used instead of walnuts with good results.

Too fine nuts are not the rule in Heavenly Food. Irregular pieces of nuts and dates add to the enjoyment of the chewy confection.
Break the eggs in the mixing bowl and beat enough to mix with sugar and yellow. Gradually pour in the sugar, beating the white and then stir in the flour, baking powder, salt. When well blended stir in the nuts and dates and if taste demands, a little vanilla flavoring.

Spread the batter about one-fourth inch thick in a greased, paper-lined, shallow tin and place in a hot oven. In six to eight minutes the sheet should be brown and well baked. If not, a minute or two longer may be allowed.
Remove the baked sheet from the oven to the rack and let cool five minutes. Cut into squares of strips with a sharp knife and lift from the pan with a spatula. After cooling pack into oil paper lined tin boxes, cover and serve at will. Or serve the warm Heavenly Food with tea.

One reason for the success of the Heavenly Food is the ease and despatch with which a batch may be made and baked.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCHES
"Christian Science" was the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all churches of Christ Scientist, on Sunday, December 29.

The Golden Text was from I Peter 1:25: "The word of the Lord endureth for ever. And this is the word which by the gospel is preached unto you."

Among the citations which comprised the Lesson-Sermon was the following from the Bible: "The people which sat in darkness saw great light; and to them which sat in the region and shadow of death light is sprung up" (Mat. 4:16).

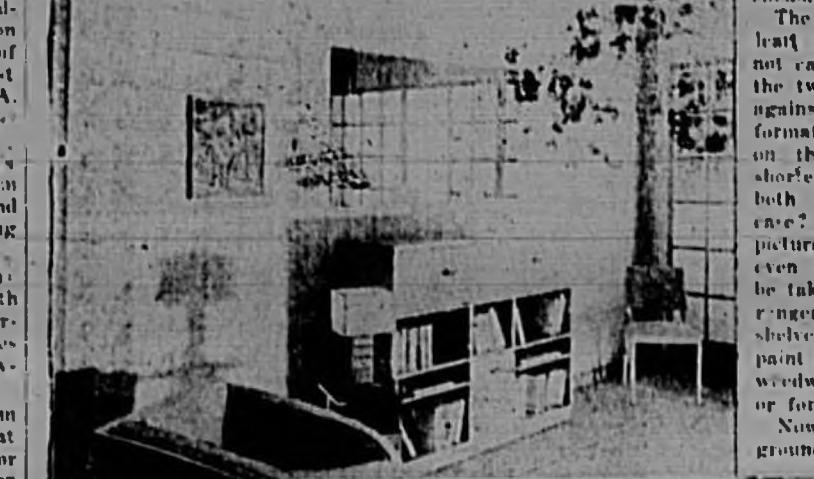

The Lesson-Sermon also included the following passages from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "Beyond the frail premises of human beliefs, above the loosening grasp of crowds, the demonstration of Christian Mind-healing stand; a revealed and practical Science. It is imperious throughout all ages as Christ's revelation of Truth, of Life, and of Love, which remains inviolate for every man to understand and to practice" (p. 108).

MODERNIZING THE HOME

What Can Be Done With a Background of Modern Paper

Dear Miss Zais:
We have a nice light living room in a four-room apartment which the landlord will redecorate in the early spring. We can have our choice of paper or paint for the living room, and would like to think about different schemes in the mean time. The walls have always been painted before, but this time we would like a change only we do not want anything too startling.

Our furniture is not stylish any more, but is still good. Sorry, but there is a "three piece suite" and it must stay. We also have two other chairs, a log, a day-bed, a light table, two little sets of light walnut bookshelves that worry me, as one is almost two feet taller than the other, and they never balance well on that account. They are rather shabby, too, so perhaps we had better discard them. The rug is a light taupe, and though I am very tired of it we must keep it. Fireplace is faced with tan-colored tile. I always wished it was colored. The mantel is plain and I think would not be bad with modern things.

Now what I most want to know is whether you can suggest some small things that will completely change the look of this room and make it up to date with out disposing of the main pieces of furniture and without going to too much expense. I can have the walls repainted and get new curtains if not too expensive. Overstuffed pieces need reupholstering. Have you any suggestions about that? Also please give any suggestions for rearrangement. I do not care much for the way things are now.

With many thanks if you will help us again.

New We'll for Old Help to Solve This Problem
Coming at the very beginning of our Home Modernization Service to readers, this letter from Mrs. G. is particularly welcome. For her desire for a change and her wish to introduce the modern into her home is probably not an unusual problem. She is weary of the same old walls; the same good but uninteresting furniture; the same atmosphere that has surrounded her for six or seven years. Her eye is turned to decorative ideas and she is looking for a way to solve her problem. She is weary of the same old walls; the same good but uninteresting furniture; the same atmosphere that has surrounded her for six or seven years. Her eye is turned to decorative ideas and she is looking for a way to solve her problem.

Although she is probably not aware of it, Mrs. G. has drawn a very clear picture of an almost universal problem. She is weary of the same old walls; the same good but uninteresting furniture; the same atmosphere that has surrounded her for six or seven years. Her eye is turned to decorative ideas and she is looking for a way to solve her problem.

Adapting the background for Mrs. G.'s room, the same wall and woodwork might be chosen, the beige rug fits into the scheme, and instead of new upholstery for the three-piece suite, well tailored, light fitting slip covers of a heavy, modern fabric, shading from copper into terra cotta and brown tones, would give these pieces a very trim and modern appearance. This work is now done by one of the department stores at an extremely reasonable cost compared with the usual charge for custom-made covers. Fabrics for the two smaller chairs might introduce deep green in a self-toned pattern.

Instead of the conventional lamp on the long table before the window, it would be nice to have a large table lamp of deep turquoise pottery or one of green glass, filled with a soft, or a distance plant growing in bark in the water. If the book shelves are painted the living might have a shade of apricot, against which bits of deep blue green and old ivory pottery would be most effective.

For the space above the sofa a fairly large modern picture in harmonious colors would add much life to the room, or several related pictures could be used there in group arrangements.

Perhaps the mirror Mrs. G. now has over the mantel could be given a smart frame of plain silver to harmonize with the silver lines of the paper, and pane modern light shades at either side of the mantel would add greatly to the scheme. Shades on table and floor lamps should be modern in feeling. The plain coral shade of gold or silver metal pipe are quite attractive; shades of straw-colored hide lac'd with leather would also be good; and there are countless pretty modern parchment shades. Care must be taken to obtain reasonable harmony between lamp bases and shades, however. The types suggested are all suitable for rather plain pottery bases, or woven or metal standards. They would do so well for the more elaborate lamps, which usually call for shade of pleated or stretched silk.

This completes a very modern scheme in soft shades with sharp accents of contrasting color introduced through book bindings and ornaments. We have not changed a stick of furniture, and the only addition suggested is a little modern end-table of silver metal with a back glass or mirror-glass top for the chair to the left of the hearth.

For the second scheme, the shaded paper shown in the lower picture a pattern in tones of cream, beige and pale brown, accented by horizontal stripings—would make an excellent background. Woods at here would of course be soft beige or cafe au lait, or it could be cream color, and this note could be accented elsewhere by old ivory pottery.

Green-brown velvet would make a luxurious covering for the sofa, while the two chairs, originally belonging to the suite might be upholstered in two different but harmonizing fabrics, showing a modern design in beige and brown tones. At the casement windows straight, full length draperies of hand-blocked linen in a dignified modern pattern showing the penwork colors would add much interest to the scheme. Opposite the window the notes of green, buff and blue would be repeated by book bindings, among which should be a few volumes bound in leather or cloth for accent. Touches of this rich in the accessories would also be very acceptable.

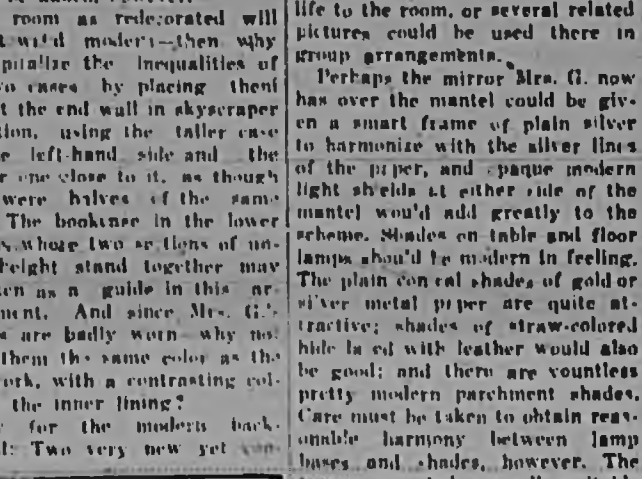

Thus have two conservative but pleasantly modern schemes developed against a new background of soft shades of old ivory pottery. And, considering the radical changes wrought with little expense to the hostess, the plan of substituting new backgrounds for old is one which I can only commend itself to many households.

Griffith Looms As Most Probable Candidate For Jack Sharkey At Miami

By Davis J. Walsh
Sports Editor
NEW YORK, Dec. 30.—Having apparently promised Sharkey and the Miami fight to everybody in the telephone book, the garden corporation now will proceed to discover whether talking one way out is as rudimentary a matter as talking another way in.

The trouble with the garden crowd is that it realized all of a sudden, that you can't have a prize fight without somebody to lose it. So, fearing that a one-man fight might lack the element of human interest, the boys were all a-twitter and promises drooled from their ashen lips upon all who came within the spell of their oratory.

"Win from Rocky and you get Sharkey at Miami," they told Tuffy Griffith. He won from Rocky. "Come back to the United States and we will give you Sharkey at Miami," they called Vincent Campbell. He is coming back.

There probably is one of those perfect understandings, too, with the winner of the Paulino-Von Porat fight next week, although it is probable the latter can't win before the entries close and the field is officially made up. At the moment, Griffith has the pick position and this "pick" isn't a Lithuanian, either. Sharkey, in fact, turned Griffith down like a dollar on Saturday, his claim being that Campbell was promised to him and that he was only to the gentlemen's agreements and everything.

According to one story today he has capitulated and the Sharkey-Griffith fight will be signed this week, with Griffith getting 20 percent of the gate, provided the latter has anything beside a couple of hinges. If Griffith thus gets the break that originally wasn't intended for him, Campbell will have to be quarrel, it probably will be Paulino-Von Porat sure yet.

They say, in fact, that the garden people are seriously considering a Miami program, where Sharkey and Griffith will be the show, with Campbell getting either Paulino or Von Porat in the semi-final and Young Siga in the final of the evening. I have a way of knowing whether this is the line, contemplated by the garden, to make it as much as possible out of nothing.

If Sharkey takes Griffith, the garden people are in a bit of a predicament. One or both are in a bit of a predicament. The latter will have only one thing to thank for the fact, namely, that the garden did it talking by nose and not by means. It is down on white paper to give Griffith this spot, Tuffy, manager having turned in a preliminary telegram to that effect. The only protest was that he had Risked decisively and even Risked will agree that he did that.

CAGLE HAS BEEN SHINING STAR ON CADET GRIDIRON

Brilliant Player Will Leave Vivid Memories Of His Career

NEW YORK, Dec. 30.—When the senior class at West Point is awarded commissions in the regular army next June, the rampant ghost of Harold "Red" Grange, none other than Christian Keenan ("Red") Cagle, of the U. S. Military Academy, shall have commemorated his four year term at the Point and departed from the Army football team—just like his school-mate, the Illinois professor for fame, acclaimed a great All-American halfback.

Cagle, like Grange will leave vivid memories of a brilliant pigskin career and his fame and color will be associated with that of other Army stars, Oliphant, Merritt, McIlwain, Daly, Greenish, Bunker and his former teammate "Light Horse Harry" Wilson. It will just be another case of "the young is ended, but the medals linger on."

One of the most capable backfield runners and forward passers that ever graced an Army line up, Cagle, captain of the year's team, first crashed the headlines in 1926 as Harry Wilson's running mate. A versatile athlete, Cagle never was found out of the pink of condition, for after sports occupied his attention when his football make-up was evoked among the cadets.

It was the 21-21 contest with Navy at Chicago that year that showed Cagle's endurance and ableness to combat the fiercest opposition as a regular in the backfield. And it was that game which finally established Cagle as a center.

In 1927 and 1928 Cagle's efforts continued to bear fruit. In fact Cagle was chosen for an All-American backfield by almost all experts at the conclusion of last year's season. This season Cagle's dominant class was never overshadowed, which, in a way, simply demonstrated how steady, reliable and efficient a backfield player he is.

With all the sorrow occasioned by West Pointing by Illinois' 17-7 "removing of Army recently, more Cagle's team remained unflinched. Bob Zwick, the famous coach of the team, particularly lauded after the battle, that Cagle will be his when the time comes for such matters, and went on to rave about Cagle for his passing, kicking, and his ability to make a play.

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Dec. 30 (INS).—The contest of the week will determine whether Young Stridling and Paulino Vondra will meet in a 10-round bout here early in February. Stridling is coming here late in the week to talk things over with promoter George E. K. Carter. Billy Gannon, Cuban champion, said he knew the outcome of the fight, but a promise of a percentage, making return. The percentage question is expected to be ironed out in the next week.

World Of Racing Is Mourning Death Of Prominent Figure

NEW YORK, Dec. 30. (INS)—The world of racing had lost one of its best friends and staunchest admirers today in the passing of Richard T. Wilson, not only a turfman and closely related to several of New York's leading families. He was sixty-three.

Wilson's youngest sister is the present Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt, his brother, M. Orme Wilson, married Caroline Astor, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Astor. Another sister was the late Mrs. Ogden Goelet, widow of one of the wealthiest men of his day.

Wilson, whose death resulted from cerebral pneumonia, was best known for his recent fight for racing in this city, being credited for preserving the sport when it was threatened by both legislation during Governor Hugh's administration.

His official connection with the turf dated from 1896, when he was elected a member of the jockey club. In 1909 he was made president of the Saratoga association for the improvement of the breed of horses, an office he held until the time of his death.

In his youth Wilson was associated in racing with Whitney, the late August Belmont, F. R. Hitchcock and others.

Collins Declines To Coach Georgetown

CHAPEL HILL, N. C., Dec. 30 (INS).—Charles Collins, head football coach of the University of North Carolina, has declined an offer from Georgetown University and will remain here, it was announced today.

Collins met with the athletic council yesterday, but following the session no information was given as to what Collins' decision would be. Collins' contract has one year more to run.

It was understood that the Georgetown offer carried an increase in salary. Both Collins and Charles T. Weiler, graduate manager of athletics, declined, however, to discuss whether or not the contract had any effect on the salary matter.

Army Team On Way Home After Defeat By Stanford Outfit

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 30. (INS)—The Army football team, Christian Cagle, et al, were en route to West Point today, not only having lost its attempt to average a 25 to 0 defeat last year but also smarting under another one this time to the tune of a 21 to 10.

After holding Stanford to a one-point lead in the first half, the Cadets, thoroughly bewildered by the spines, reverses and double reverses the Warner team, uncooked, wilted in the final half, allowing the Cardinal to run up 20 points.

Although Cagle turned in a number of sparkling plays, by the whole, was pretty well bottled. He averaged four yards however, every time he carried the ball, which is pretty fair ball packing at that.

Individual honors went to "Chuck" Smalling, playing his last game. Smalling turned in the most brilliant game of his career, gaining 162 yards from scrimmage and averaging six yards every time he started for the Army goal.

Eastern Football Officials Believe Game Is All Right

NEW YORK, Dec. 30. (INS)—So far as the officials of the section of the country are concerned, football as it was played during the past season, was a pretty good game.

A four hour discussion of the rules and regulations was held here yesterday by 62 officials of the eastern association of intercollegiate football officials with only one recommendation of importance passed for forwarding to the American intercollegiate football rules committee.

Two important recommendations were voted down, one that the new time rule be abolished and the other that defensive fouls committed in the try for extra point be penalized half the distance to the goal line instead of the automatic awarding of the extra point to the attacking eleven.

The recommendation passed on the rules body provides for a five-yard penalty against a member of the attacking team who coaches a punt by a teammate before an opponent has touched the ball.

The officials, modest souls, declared officiating this year was better than ever.

Arthur Shires Has Become Victim Of Whispering Attack

CHICAGO, Dec. 30.—(INS) Charles Arthur Shires, "the great," the "one and only" all that sort of thing, today found to be the victim of an "indirect" "whispering" campaign.

Nasty things are being said about the bona fide identity of some of the White Sox. Some say that had Bill Bailey whom Shires floored in the first round of his fight in Buffalo a year ago, was the same as dangerous Dan Daly who Shires pushed over in his debut here.

Scurrilous gossip even goes far as to say that the White Sox hero is going to meet Dan Shires in a third time. In fact, the gossip says, in even within the course of a week with Dan (posing as Mean Bill Bailey), the snarling cat could be.

Shires, passing through the city last night, paused to deny the mean things being said about his fight campaign. "That's all very shallow talk," said modest Arthur. "I wouldn't expect the public like that. I don't know a Dan Bill Bailey is, but if it was my business Dan Daly has a record for taking off weight 20 pounds in two weeks."
