Chicago University Named As Investor In Rich Ship Deal

Senate In Committee Probe Of $100,000 Investment

WASHINGTON — The University of Chicago was named today as one of the three major investors in a richly profitable deal in war surplus ships now under Senate investigation.

A Senate investigations subcommittee is studying whether the deal which returned $14 million dollars profit on investments of $100,000 in less than three years—was legal and "whether federal taxes were avoided."

William Leese, staff counsel of the subcommittee, testified the records of the deal show the university invested $100,000 in the venture, acquiring stock in the two key firms which engineered the complex transaction.

Leese did not immediately say what the firms' books and records showed as to the university's return on its investment.

Leese named Joseph S. Casey, Washington lawyer and former Congress member, as the largest single investor. He said Casey put in $50,000, receiving 2,000 shares of stock in American Overseas Tanker Corp., a firm, and 4,000 shares of stock in Greenwich Marine Corp., its subsidiary.

American Overseas bought eight tankers from the government and chartered them to Greenwich, a Panamanian firm which had the same stockholders as American Overseas.

Casey was named, as among those who shared in the profit, retired Adm. William F. (Bill) Halsey of World War II fame; the late Edward R. Stettinius Jr., a wartime secretary of state, and Julius C. Helmer, minister at the U. S. embassy in London.

As the hearing resumed, two subcommittee members told reporters that staff investigators had produced evidence of "some big fees" which were paid to Casey, Halsey and Stettinius.

Morris, who was appointed by the President recently to direct a cleanup of scandals in the government, has cleared Casey, Halsey and Stettinius of any wrongdoing.

Nixon and Mundt said the fees reportedly were paid to Morris's law firm on a transaction which shifted three of the eight tankers involved to ownership of China International Foundation Inc., a nonprofit corporation which Morris heads. They said the legal work was done by Houston H. Wasson, Morris's law partner.

Witte To Run For Lions' District Governor Office

Henry Witte, Jr., announced he would be a candidate for governor of the Lions Club District "O" at the Lions Club weekly luncheon in the Yacht Club today.

Mr. Witte, 1947 president of the local chapter, District Deputy in 1949 and current Zone Chairman, told the Lions that he was in the race to win.

"I will need everyone's backing in the chapter to win," he continued. "And if I am elected I will try to do my best."

Two Big Hurdles Still Blocking Korean Armistice

Agreement Reached On High Level Political Conference

MUNSAI, Korea — Negotiators agreed today on the final clause of a Korean armistice, but two major hurdles still blocked a truce settlement.

Today's agreement: To recommend that belligerent governments hold a high level political conference within 90 days after an armistice to consider withdrawal of all foreign troops from Korea, the peaceful settlement of the Korean question, etc.

Agreement was reached in a full-day session.

Staff officers were assigned to the job of incorporating the recommendation into the armistice agreement.

No date was set for the first staff meeting.

Other staff officers are working on two other uncompleted clauses. But they are stirring around the two big unsettled questions.

1. Voluntary repatriation of prisoners of war.

2. Rebuilding of Red airfields during a truce.

The hearing of the political conference recommendation was drafted by the Communists, including the "sic."

The third staff conference meeting was a Communist idea. Red negotiators insisted on it when the United Nations Command accepted the Communist war clause for the political conference recommendation.

U. S. negotiators said they would not accept the Communist recommendation.

North Korea Gen. Nam Il said the meeting of staff officers was necessary to write a preamble and for proper wording and insertion in the armistice agreement.

U. S. negotiators said they would not accept the Communist recommendation.

No progress was made toward agreement on Feb. 17.

Florida Is Given Lots Of Publicity In Moscow Pravda

MOSCOW — "Florida, United States," read a headline today in Pravda, the Communist Party organ.

The story beneath it described the funeral of Henrietta Moore, victim with her husband Harry, a Negro worker for the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, of a Christmas night bombing of their home in Florida.

The Pravda article, written by American writer Albert G. S. also described an interview with Florida Gov. Perry Warren of a mixed white and Negro delegation demanding prosecution of those responsible for the bombing.

The bombing of the Moore home has been investigated, but has not made any progress.

Gov. Warren said he would do everything he could to help Mr. Witte become the state district governor.

Golf Champions

Ralph Bogart, Washington, D. C. 32-year-old insurance salesman, left, smiles after receiving his prize for winning the championship flight of the Mayfair Inn and Seminole Country Club's third annual invitational golf tournament last Sunday. Bogart defeated Don Biplinghoff, Orlando Senior High School Junior, right, 2-1 on the 35th hole of a scheduled 36-hole final match. Robert Billhimer, center, President of the Seminole Country Club Men's golfing association, made the prize presentations.

Power Asked For Morris Rejected By House Group

Tri-State Delegation Asks $17 Million For River Projects

WASHINGTON — A House Judiciary subcommittee today unanimously rejected a proposal by President Truman to give Cleanup Boss Newbold Morris power to grant immunity to witnesses in his scandal investigation.

The subcommittee is to confer with Morris at 4 p. m. today about the second part of Mr. Truman's request: That Morris be granted subpoena power usually reserved for courts and congressional committees.

The President's attorney General, Tom C. Clark, said Morris is a Republican and was a member of the House of Representatives in 1948.

North Korea Gen. Nam Il said the meeting of staff officers was necessary to write a preamble and for proper wording and insertion in the armistice agreement.

U. S. negotiators said they would not accept the Communist recommendation.

No progress was made toward agreement on Feb. 17.

Questions will be held in May at the Lions' state convention in Daytona Beach. There are no other announced candidates for the post as yet, Mr. Henderson said.

Secretary Jack Morrison announced that a $5,000 scholarship fund for the fifth annual Lions Club Junior baseball league is complete. He stated that the fund will be used to subsidize the league's expenses.

Madeline MacNeil, world program chairman, introduced Charles Morrison at the meeting who conducted the quiz contest among the members.

Henry Robinson reported that the Lions' blood bank was on hand for any and every occasion to donate blood to deserving patients in need of it.

More Than Half Demo Committee Opposes Truman

Only Five Of Florida Group Reply "Yes" To Questionnaire

TAMPA — More than half the Florida Democratic executive committee members answering a Tribune poll said they would not support President Truman for another term.

The newspaper asked this question of 128 committee members elected in 1950:

"Do you expect to support President Truman or a Truman candidate for President in the coming election?"

Only five of the 128 who replied gave an unqualified "yes."

Eleven others who didn't prefer Mr. Truman as first choice said they would back him if he were nominated, or would support any Democratic nominee.

Thirty-two answered a flat "no." Ten refused to express a choice.

Two questionnaires were returned with notations that the committee member addressed had died.

Some of the answers against Mr. Truman were pretty hot, but the strongest sentiment for him was a mild "hope Pres. Truman wins" from J. K. Scott, Williston.

Others outright in favor of Mr. Truman were Y. E. Hall, Fernandina; and Mrs. G. O. Watkins, Williston. Two more remained anonymous.

Those who did not commit themselves said it was too early to decide to know all the candidates first and that the question was ambiguous.

E. B. Donnell, West Palm Beach, state committee chairman, voted "no" but added:

"I take it you are referring to (Continued On Page 21a)

Willie Sutton Pleads Innocent To Theft Charge

Notorious Bank Robber Held In Prison In Brooklyn

NEW YORK — Notorious Willie Sutton (The Actor) Sutton pleaded innocent to bank robbery charges today and was ordered held in prison for a hearing Feb. 23.

The elusive Sutton was arrested Monday in Brooklyn, where he had been living the role of an obscure miser in a 26-week room, after being caught as one of the nation's top bank robbers and escape artists.

He broke out of two of Philadelphia's best prisons, once in 1945, when he was recaptured soon after, and again in 1947.

Two alert young policemen recognized Sutton on a Brooklyn street Monday to end a 3-year manhunt launched when he made the second break five years ago.

Queens County authorities have him under indictment here for the $64,000 robbery of a Sunnyside bank in 1950.

Sutton has been suspected of having a hand in the famous 1934 million-dollar Brink's robbery in Boston the same year.

Asked about the Brink's job Monday, Sutton affected a toothy, theatrical smile and told newspapermen: "Hell, I don't know anything about it. I'll probably be blamed for anything I've done in the books."

Police Commissioner George P. Monaghan called Sutton "the Babe Ruth of bank robbers" and "the world's No. 1 criminal."

Monaghan said the arrest "ends the greatest manhunt in history." Then he gave immediate promotions to the two young patrolmen who made the arrest, Joseph J. McLaughlin, 28, and Donald Sheen, 26. He also promoted Detective Louis Weiner who aided them.

Sutton was spotted lurking at his automobile battery because he did not want to pay a garage mechanic $1.50 to do the job for him. But police found $7,000 in cash in his pocket and another $2,000 in his 36-a-week room.

Sutton earned his name of "The Actor" as well as "Blick Willie" from the disguises he used in his bank jobs. He has pulled robberies dressed as a Western Union messenger, mail carrier, private chauffeur and even as a policeman.

His police record goes back 31 years.

Agreement Nears On Admission Of Germany

Seven Points Listed By Foreign Ministers Ending Block

LONDON — The Foreign Ministers of the three Western powers and Chancellor Konrad Adenauer of Western Germany said today they have removed obstacles to Germany's entrance into the European community.

United States Secretary of State Dean Acheson, British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden and French Foreign Minister Robert Schuman listed in a communique seven points which they said assured a successful conclusion of talks now going on in Bonn and Paris.

The three ministers and Adenauer had been engaged in conferences here, since Saturday in an effort to smooth out German-French relations, open the way for creation of a European army in which German and French armed forces would be unified, and pave the way for a "peace contract" between Western Germany and the occupation powers.

Earlier today the French National Assembly, by a vote of 327 to 267, gave a qualified approval to the European army plan for rearming Germany.

The foreign ministers conference here were a prelude to a full-dress meeting of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO) in Lisbon, Portugal.

In a separate communique Eden, Schuman and Acheson declared their "abiding interest in the establishing and integrity of the European Economic Community (EEC)" and recalled their governments' pledges to maintain armed forces in Europe.

The statement was considered as answering France's desire for a guarantee that the United States and Britain would stay in Europe and thereby prevent any possible German withdrawal from EEC to embark on an aggressive policy once she is rearmed.

The seven points in the 4-page statement were:

1. They have decided to set up a series of meetings to deal with the problem of re-establishing armament production in Germany. They did not set into any greater detail but they were sure of "speedy results."

2. Have agreed on methods for dealing with war criminals now held in the Federal Republic of Germany.

3. Received the report of the NATO Temporary Committee of "wise men" headed by W. Averell Harriman, recommending that West Germany contribute 1 1/2 billion (Continued On Page Two)

Methodist Church In Florida Gains 1,436 Members

More than 1,436 members were added to the Methodist Church in the district between Marianna and Key West as the result of the Methodist United Evangelistic Mission program last Sunday, the Rev. J. C. McKinley, pastor of the First Methodist Church, announced this morning.

Rev. McKinley was one of more than 300 Methodist pastors of the Florida Conference of the Methodist Church who gathered in Jacksonville last week.

The mission began Sunday in every church of the conference and results were impressive with total attendance in the conference area reported at 89,260. Of the new members, 692 were received by profession of faith and 774 by transfer from other churches.

This, said Rev. McKinley, was the result of co-operation of church members who called in pairs at houses. The calls numbered 3,999 and 5,659 interviews were made.

Evangelistic services are continuing nightly throughout the district. In Sanford the Rev. James W. Keiser of Huntington Ind. is the guest pastor of the First Methodist Church and conducts evening services at 7:30 o'clock. He is serving his own conference as the Board of Evangelism secretary.

Tanker Fort Mercer Reported A Wash; 9 Lost, 9 Missing On The Pendleton

CHATHAM, Mass. — Rough seas of the Atlantic boiled anew today under freshening winds as the Coast Guard cutter Esbared moved toward the stern of the evered tanker Fort Mercer which has 33 survivors aboard.

Nine men were believed lost from the tanker Pendleton, which suffered the same fate as the Fort Mercer in Monday's blinding snowstorm. Nine others are unaccounted for. Thirty-two were saved Monday night.

At 8 a. m., the Eastwind reported she was only 10 miles off the drifting wreck of the Mercer which was more than 30 miles off Cape Cod. Three hours later, the Eastwind did not report again.

At Coast Guard headquarters it was considered probable the Eastwind might throw a line aboard the Mercer and tow her into Boston rather than attempt a rescue in the rough sea.

The cutter Yakutat, meanwhile, reported taking four survivors off the bow of the Mercer before it overturned in heavy seas. The message said the Yakutat planned to sink the wreckage with gun fire.

Among those rescued by the cutter were the Pendleton's captain, Frederick C. Paetel, Houston, Tex., and Purser Edward E. Turner Jr., New York City.

The Yakutat reported the weather was "worsening" and that she was unable to remove two other survivors by boat. She said she would try to shoot a line aboard and use a raft to effect a rescue of the other pair.

The Yakutat said the skipper and purser were taken off the Mercer under extremely hazardous conditions and that the sea was running high. Earlier it was believed no one was aboard the bow of the Mercer.

The fate of saving those on the Mercer's stern is in the hands of Capt. Oliver Peterson of Winchester, Mass., who was named officer in charge of the tactical operation.

The Coast Guard in Boston said it might be more feasible to tow the stern to port rather than attempt a rescue in the high waves.

The Pendleton which was around 1,500 yards off the Pollock Rip Lightship.

First word that 33 survivors were aboard the stern half of the Mercer came from the military transport Short Splice just after rescue operations resumed at dawn.

"We have just contacted the stern of the Fort Mercer," the Short Splice messaged Coast Guard headquarters. "There are 33 survivors aboard. They all seem OK. The stern is riding good."

Among those feared lost in the bow of the Pendleton was her skipper, Capt. John Fitzgerald, 38, of Boston.

Thirty-two seamen were rescued from one section by the light of force in a daring, split-second operation carried out in the face of a screaming northwest storm off perilous Chatham Bar.

A moment after the rescue, the section was smashed against Chatham Bar by breakers 25 or 30 feet high.

The two tankers broke up Monday in the winter's worst storm off this little fishing port. The five, and possibly six, men perished early today when they leaped from the tossing bow of the Fort Mercer and missed the bouncing life rafts put out by the Coast Guard cutter Yakutat.

One man was lost while heroic Coast Guards were taking the 32 seamen from the stern of the Pendleton.

Still another, although clad in a lifejacket, was swallowed up by the angry seas when he leaped from (Continued On Page 21a)

TODAY'S BIBLE VERSE

The Infinite is constantly calling to us, but our ears are not always attentive. The still small voice cannot be heard above the idle chatter of our lives. I have spoken unto them, but they have not heard, I have called unto them but they have not answered.—
Jer. 35:18.

When compliments are offered as an investment from which no return is expected, the earnings may be surprising.

The average woman's purse is said to contain thirty-one items.
Who has courage to survey the clutter of an average man's desk?

Playwrights in Russia are under strong criticism these days.
Their plays apparently are not good enough. Inspiration cannot be acquired when little inspires.

Somebody says that the average American housewife washes six tons of dishes a year. This is something for the family to think about at dinner time, and do something about afterwards.

Youngsters, these days, should certainly be up on the modern soap powders. According to a prominent educator, children of 12 and 13 in the cities spend five more hours a week watching television than they do attending school.

No Story
A youthful reporter turned up at the office one day being sent to write up a fashionable wedding.
"Well," snapped the news editor,
"where's your copy?"

"Oh, I didn't bother to do it," said the young man, "You see, the bridegroom didn't turn up."—Ex-

A quick reply to the Korean peace talks and an early end to the war is predicted as General Nuccio sagely declares, "We are only waiting for them to accept our acceptance." One wonders how they could refuse. And yet stranger things have happened. In fact, it used to be a custom with Adolf Hitler to make an impossible demand, and then when it was granted, to refuse to accept it unless further demands were met. And so we may be no nearer peace than we were a month ago, or a year ago. And yet what a feather in Truman's cap it would be if he could go before the electorate next fall and say, "I kept you out of war."

This is National Brotherhood Week when we are urged to give some thought to the Golden Rule.
"Do unto others as ye would be done by," especially unto various minority groups. But that is something which we should do every day in the year, not just for one week. For if some minority is despised, how much more does it need our help, our sympathy, our brotherhood than if it were strong and powerful. In the South we tend to think of minorities as Negroes. In New York it is Jews.
In California Chinese. And in Texas Mexicans. And in Hong Kong it is the British. And in Spain Americans. It is not always pleasant to be in the minority. But it would help if the majority today would remember it might be the minority tomorrow.

From the Miami Herald, by way of Bill Kirtz, comes an interesting dissertation on taxation.
Did you know, for instance, that in 1915 a family of four paying an income tax of $1,000 a year would have an income of $39,000.
Under present laws any such family having an income of $39,000 a year would pay that tax? Did you know that the federal government contributed income in excess of $1,000 a year it would have to pay to the government just about two weeks and a half all in excess of $6,500 would have enough to pay for of the federal tax? For 1951. So do you see what a good thing it is to be in the majority? And do you see the risk of the minority?

A Queen's Husband

The husband of a career woman may be proud of his wife's success, but occasionally find it trying. Particularly difficult is the position in which Prince Philip, Duke of Edinburgh, finds himself, that of being the husband of a ruling queen. Without legal authority, he is yet in a position to influence royal decisions, and thus embarrass the queen's lawful advisers.

This is not the first time in which an English prince consort has had this experience. The classic example is Victoria's husband, Prince Albert. The queen adored him, and was ready to adopt his slightest suggestion. The prince resisted the temptation which this must have been, and rarely interfered. He felt that the British crown should have more power than it does, but never let this belief get beyond the stage of thinking.

Prince Albert did render one important service. In November, 1861, two Confederate commissioners, James M. Mason and John Slidell, were sailing in an English boat to Great Britain to try to bring about British intervention in the War Between the States. They were seized by an American cruiser commanded by Capt. Charles Wilkes. Lord Palmerston, the British premier, wrote a stiff note to President Lincoln which would have offended Northern sentiment and possibly led to war. Prince Albert, seeing the note before it was sent, softened its phrases. The dispute was settled by Lincoln's release of the prisoners with an apology. Without doubt the Prince's tactful rephrasing made this act of Lincoln's much easier.

Britons appear to like Philip and to be thankful that Elizabeth has his strength and support.

Lure Of The Sea

The romantic call of the sea is heard thousands of miles inland. "The Sea Around Us," for which Rachel L. Carson has just won the annual National Book Award for non-fiction, has sold 180,000 copies, more than all but a few novels. This popularity is due in part to the author's style which brings home the appeal of the ocean. It is also due to the wide variety of the subject. Storms, icebergs, fish, superstitions and practically every other topic which could be thought of in connection with the sea are included in the volume. No wonder it has become popular.

Unfortunately not all lovers of salt water can live in sight of it. Next best is to live on other bodies of water, such as lakes and rivers. If anyone is unfortunate enough, to a seaman's mind, to dwell where even these are not available, he will have to fall back on reading about them, and realizing what he misses. Kipling, however, states the case of the inland hill people:

"Who hath desired the sea?—the immense and contemptuous surges?
The shudder, the stumble, the swerve, as the star-stabbing bowsprit emerges?
His sea in no wonder the same—His sea and the same through each wonder:
His Sea as she rages or stills?
So and no otherwise—so and no otherwise—hillmen desire their Hills."

Legend On Horseback

On February 20, 1846, William Cody, "Buffalo Bill," great granddaddy of all present day cowboy heroes, was born in Scott County, Iowa. None of the highly publicized western stars of today ever achieved his fame. He rode with the Pony Express, served as a cavalry scout during the Civil War, hunted buffalo for the men building the railroads west and fought Indians.

Despite his exploits—it is possible that William Cody would have passed from the American scene with little notice had it not been for some enterprising eastern writers who built him into the hero of many of the pulp fiction stories of that day. It was these writers who dubbed him "Buffalo Bill," a name that was to become legendary. "Buffalo Bill" proved to be a born showman and when he opened his wild west show it met with popular approval everywhere. He became a hero in Europe where his show played as well as in America. He died in 1917 in Denver. Few Americans have lived more glamorous lives through a more exciting era than Cody, one of the last of the frontiersmen.

Walter Lee Irvin Asks New Trial In Lake County Case

OCALA (AP)—Walter Lee Irvin, Negro, Monday asked for a third trial in the rape of a white farmer's wife for which he has twice been sentenced to death.

The motion filed by Attorney Paul C. Perkins, Orlando, alleged the Circuit Court here, which Thursday sentenced Irvin to die, committed 22 errors in the trial. One of the alleged errors was that the court denied disqualification of State Attorney J. W. Hunter, who the motion said made an "improper and prejudicial argument" at one point in the trial.

Another was that the court allowed the farmer and his wife, over defense objections, to testify about a conversation in which she said she had been raped by four Negroes.

The retrial motion also said the court erred in not allowing Dr. Julian L. Woodward to offer as testimony the results of an Elmo Roper public opinion poll about the case.

The first conviction, in which Irvin and Samuel Sheppard were sentenced to death, was set aside by the U. S. Supreme Court because Negroes were excluded from the jury and a new trial ordered.

A jury of 12 white men Thursday deliberated one hour and 13 minutes before returning a verdict of guilty. It did not recommend mercy.

Irvin is the last defendant in the case. Sheppard was killed and Irvin wounded last Nov. 8 by Sheriff Willie McCall as McCall was returning them to Tavares for a hearing in connection with the second trial.

McCall, convicted by a coroner's jury, said the attack was unprovoked.

A third Negro sentenced in the first trial was Charles Greenlee, who was only 14 years old at the

The Allies accused the Reds of violating a previously agreed upon principle by insisting on demanding the Soviet Union as a neutral observer. The Reds stood pat on their non-alignment and demanded the U. N. negotiators withdraw their "groundless and baseless" objections to the Russians.

Allied staff officers said the Red position was breaking an agreement in principle that neutrals named to act as supervisors should be acceptable to both sides. The Communists insisted that any neutral nominated by either side should be accepted by the other.

Other Allied jet fliers reported they destroyed four locomotives on the Communists' North Korean supply network.

Twenty-six Sabres fought elements of a 50-MIG formation Tuesday in a 15-minute battle. The Sabres started near Sinanju and ended near the Yalu River when the Red fighters fled into Manchuria.

Van E. Chandler, Washington, Tex., was credited with one MIG kill in the afternoon battle. Col. Albert W. Schinz, Ottawa, Ill., and Capt. Paul R. Henderson, San Rafael, Calif., shared credit for shooting down another in that fight.

The morning fight was between 27 Sabres and parts of a flight of 100 MIGs. It raged several to eight miles above the ground. Lt. John C. Frazier, San Antonio, Tex., was credited with knocking down one Red plane in the clash.

Allied losses, if any, will not be announced until Saturday.

The U. S. Fifth Air Force said about 300 MIGs were sighted in Northwest Korea Tuesday—100 in the morning and 200 in the afternoon.

The North Korean Pyongyang radio reported the Communists have devised new methods with mobile "plane hunting units" in an effort to check the Allied daily bombing of Red transport routes and supply centers.

The radio quoted Premier Kim Il Sung as saying Red forces now operate with speed and shoot down all enemy planes that bomb our positions.

Communist flak, night fighters and searchlights tried unsuccessfully Monday night to break up an attack by five B-29 Superforts on the Sinanju rail bridge complex in Northwest Korea.

One Red night fighter made a pass at one of the B-29s. Four B-29s shot down the intruder. The other B-29s flew through flak and blasted Chinampo, Pyongyang's port, with 40 tons of bombs.

On the ground three Allied raiding parties and one counter-attacking U. N. force ran into stiff opposition Monday. Tanks supported two of the raiding parties.

Allied "snipers," riflemen, artillery and mortars killed or wounded an estimated 120 Communists in a 2-hour fight around Silver Star Hill south of Pyongyang, apex of the old Red Iron Triangle on the central front.

A U. S. Eighth Army briefing officer said the Reds suffered 1,518 casualties in seven days of ground action ended last Thursday.

Port Canaveral Is Transformed From Dream To Reality

PORT CANAVERAL — Port Canaveral, a project that for many years a million dollar dream has been, is now a reality. A multi-million dollar reality.

A big turning basin for sea going ships has been dug and a large bopper dredge of the U. S. Engineers is cutting an approach path into the Atlantic Ocean as some first steps.

The port is located 12 miles east of Cocoa, and is right between the big Patrick Air Force Base and the base's Guided Missile Launching Center.

The Canaveral Port Authority, composed of Brevard County commissioners and officials of Cocoa, are busy answering inquiries concerning leases on dock and warehouse space. Half a dozen major oil companies have asked dock space or gas selling rights on the port when it is finished.

Shrimp boats by the dozens tie up in the port and within a year seafaring ships are expected to be using the harbor.

Port Canaveral will be the first deep sea harbor between Jacksonville and Ft. Pierce. Proponents foresee it as a terminus for oil freighters, possible site of a big power plant and generally as a port for all Central Florida.

The port plan calls for a barge canal into Bunnah and Indian Rivers which parallel the coast for many miles. The canal will make it possible to barge supplies to cities up and down the coast. Rail road connections are expected to be built too.

First construction on the outlying property of the port is a crash boat headquarters for Patrick Air Force Base.

The harbor proper covers one square mile. The turning basin is 20 feet deep, 1,000 feet long and 2,000 feet wide.

Port officials say a couple of operators of menhaden plants, similar to one at Apalachicola, have been checking for sites here. Menhaden, a little fish valuable for vitamin content and as substitute for fertilizers, are caught in Atlantic as well as Gulf waters.

The port project is estimated to cost upward of $2,000,000. The Authority, by a bond issue, raised $1,300,000 and Dave Nesbit, a member, says the federal government has actually spent the most money.

"We hope it will spend more; our funds are running low," he commented.

FREIGHTER FLOUNDERS
NEW YORK — The Coast Guard said today the freighter Helen Stevenson, with 35 aboard, had radioed it is in danger of splitting in two about 230 miles northwest of Bermuda.

An SOS received from the 7,266 ton freighter, the Coast Guard said, reported that cracks across the main deck were widening. The craft sent its first SOS Monday afternoon.

Estonian Artist, Wife In Florida, Leaps To Death

SANTIAGO, Chile — An Estonian artist leaped to death from the seventh floor of the U. S. embassy after throwing two homemade bombs to "blow the whole place up" because he was repeatedly refused a visa to visit his wife.

The exploding bombs only burned a rug and a sofa.

Consular officials said the Estonian, 43-year-old Richard D. Pallas, returned to the embassy Monday afternoon with the bombs after a visa to enter the United States was again denied during the morning.

An embassy spokesman said the visa was refused Pallas because consular officials "thought he had been deported from the United States."

His wife, Irene Teresa Pallas, is a U. S. citizen who lives at 11 S. Consul Camden McLean said when Pallas returned in the afternoon he was carrying the two bombs and said, "I want a visa or else."

The bombs were made of 15-inch pieces of pipe, filled with dynamite and equipped with a trigger detonator.

McLean and Vice Consul Richard Tearshane talked with Pallas for two hours, trying to dissuade him. Other consular employees were moved off the floor.

McLean talked by telephone with U. S. Atty. Gen. J. Howard McGrath in Washington, discussing the case with him, then momentarily left the room.

Police had been called and Pallas saw them, standing outside the office, as McLean left.

"This is more than I can stand," he said. He heaved the grenades, leaped on a window ledge, hesitated a few seconds, and jumped off.

A Florida driver's license issued June 20, 1950, was found among his papers. An embassy spokesman said Pallas was one of a group of Estonians who entered the U. S. in 1945. He had lived in Chile for eight months.

REPUBLIC MEET
JACKSONVILLE — A meeting of the Florida Republican State Executive Committee, originally scheduled for Jacksonville, has been transferred to Gainesville Feb. 25.

State Chairman G. Harold Alexander, Fort Myers, said the move was made because hotels here could not guarantee sufficient accommodations because of heavy reservations.

One purpose of the meeting, he said, is to determine the way delegates to the National Convention will be selected.

Supporters of Gen. Dwight Eisenhower and Sen. Robert A. Taft are expected to clash over control of the state delegation to the Chicago convention.

Blues In The News

With George Washington's birthday this Friday making a holiday for the media in blue, plans are being made by all hands for the extra long weekend. From secure at 4:00 Thursday afternoon until Monday morning, it is off-duty for all but the duty sections aboard the air station. Trips to Miami, Tampa, Jacksonville, Daytona Beach, and other places are in the wind. Fun is the key word in every plan.

Carl Swanson just returned from a 15 day leave in the nation's capital. Carl said that Washington couldn't have been better especially since it was home.

From the tired look of Oscar New Monday morning, I would say his weekend in South Carolina was an enjoyable one. "Oh, as most of his shipmates call him, went to Hamburg for a quick visit. Bill Hicks was another sailor to go galavanting over the weekend. Bill headed for Georgia and a visit to Cedarston. His face was tired but happy looking, too, as he mustered in yesterday morning.

George Valls took three days leave to go north of town for twenty miles to spend sometime at his home in DeLand. Two other leave-takers were Billy Perry and J. K. Brendel.

Chilbonnet Calvin Hagaman has checked out for a ten day leave. Calvin is planning on a visit to his family in Cincinnati. George Lawless checked out for ten days, too. "The Outlaw's" home is in Kingston, New Jersey, and when he shaved off he was heading that direction.

An invitation has been extended by Lt. W. F. Vollmar, the station Ordnance Officer, to everyone to witness a skeet shooting contest at the Skeet Range on the station. The Naval Auxiliary Air Station, Cecil Field, Jacksonville, will try to set about our station team Thursday afternoon at 1:00.

The station skeet team is composed of LCDR. H. B. Gibbs, Lt. J. F. Stone, Chief Kitter Von, Chief George Funk and Branchbridge Roberts. Mr. Vollmar is an alternate for the team.

You are welcome to be sure and try to get to the event. Cecil Field, Jacksonville-Sanford Navy Skeet Shot. The place: Skeet Range, Sanford Naval Auxiliary Air Station. The time: Thursday afternoon at 1:00.

"Blues in the News" stated in the Monday Column that "Club Vagabond" sponsored the Candlelight Valentine Dance at the Yacht Club last Saturday night. This is a contribution to the statement. "Club Vagabond" is under consideration as a name for the organization sponsoring the dance. But to date no name has been selected. The Tarbutton is heading the organization with Don Dies, John Louis and Richie Saithe as members.

It was announced that another dance would be given next month. It would be a St. Patrick's Day Dance about Mar. 15. Till did not name the place but the Yacht Club, the Sanford Armory and the American Legion Hut seem to be on the list.

After today there are only four days more to order your copies of the Sanford Herald's Mail-away Edition. The mail-away will come off the presses next Monday afternoon. This special edition of the paper will contain about 70 pages about Central Florida with

HOLLYWOOD — Why are there so many unmarried actresses in Hollywood?

There are far more bachelor girls than bachelors among the film famous. To name a few: Katharine Hepburn, Elizabeth Scott, Debra Paget, Mila Gynor, Piper Laurie, Jean Peters, Ann Blyth, Patricia Neal, Yvonne DeCarlo.

The list grows greater when you consider the unattached divorcees. Betty Hutton, Joan Fontaine, Barbara Stanwyck, Ginger Rogers, Kathryn Grayson, Marilyn Monroe, Ann Sheridan, Joan Crawford, Ann Miller, Paulette Goddard, Marilyn Maxwell, Rhonda Fleming.

This social phenomenon interested me, so I sought more information from one of the gals, Marta Toren. She didn't seem happy at the implication she might be an old maid (she's all of 25), but she tried to be helpful.

"Why haven't I married? Because I'm old-fashioned," she remarked on the set of "Assignment: Paris." "I just want to be married once, not 10 times. That's why I've waited."

The Swedish miss admitted that being a movie personality was not conducive to romance.

"Many men hold an actress somewhat in awe," she explained. "They are afraid to ask her for a date. And when a man does ask you for a date, you cannot be sure what his motive is. Very often it will be a lesser-known actor who wants to take you to a premiere, so he can get his name in the papers and his picture taken. I turn that kind of a date down."

Marta agreed with Joan Fontaine, who told us recently that it was difficult to find a man who would live happily with a movie star.

"When you are in a picture," said Marta, "it is like being in prison. It is a very nice prison to be sure, but still you are confined to the picture alone and would not have time for a family."

But she didn't agree with Miss Fontaine, who said she wouldn't marry until she gave up her career.

"Marriage would be very difficult," said Marta, "but not impossible. I would have to find a man who would be very sympathetic to the kind of work I do and understand it. Preferably, it would be someone in this business, but I don't think I would marry an actor."

"I think another problem in an actress marrying is that she would often be making more money than her husband. I think that would be a very hard situation for a man. As for myself, I still think the man should be the provider. If I married, I probably would just sign over my salary checks to my husband." (What an opportunity, huh?)

Marta Toren has been in this country four years and will become a citizen this year. She said she hasn't gone steady with any man since she has been in Hollywood. The only love in her life has been a childhood sweetheart in her native Sweden.

"We were engaged since we were children," she explained. "But unfortunately, he must live in Sweden to manage his shipping company and I have chosen to live in the United States. Also, since coming to this country, I have acquired a new language, new customs, a new rhythm of life. I am a different person."

The frozen waffles now available may be thawed and heated in a toaster; serve with butter, syrup or caramel sauce for a luscious quick dessert.

Coast Guard

One of the survivors of the Pendleton, Ray Sybert, Norfolk, Va., said the noise of the vessel breaking up sounded "like the roar of thunder."

"The seas were breaking in every direction," he said. "The tanker cracked right through No. 3 hold, and the rest of the ship. Right up to that time we had no warning anything was wrong."

The rescue crew braved buffeting seas to make repeated passes at the Pendleton's stern as a plane dropped flares to light the scene. Each time the lifeboat passed, one man leaped off the derelict.

Southern's mate, First Class, Bernard C. Webster, who was in charge of the 36-foot open lifeboat, told about the rescue later.

"We lost our windshield on the way out. The snow kept hitting my eyes so hard I could hardly keep my eyes open. I couldn't see much and had to steer mostly by instinct. I was strapped to the wheel so I wouldn't get tossed overboard. A very hard situation for a man. As for myself, I still think the man should be the provider. If I married, I probably would just sign over my salary checks to my husband." (What an opportunity, huh?)

People Don't Make Historic Remarks At Big Moments

NEW YORK — Everybody knows that history has had its big moments.

But when they depict them in the movies they always have a wise old character around to make some "historic" remarks, usually by saying how important the event is. And the bystanders generally nod profoundly — as if they knew what was going on, too.

My theory is that people don't usually make historic remarks at historic moments. They just talk like they always do. I know I was aboard the battleship Missouri when the Japanese surrender was signed, and the most historic remark I recall overhearing was, "Quit shoving."

Historians generally agree that the most important event in the story of the human race was the discovery of fire. Ten to one the most memorable observation at that moment wasn't something like, "The torch of man's upward march is hereby lit." It was probably a simple exclamation — "ouch!"

Recently two university professors — Louis L. Snyder and Richard B. Morris — polled historians on the ten most decisive events in man's past. They were put into a book called "They Saw It Happen: Eyewitness Reports of Great Events."

Here is their list — along with a remark I think probably would be typical of the average reaction at the big moment:

1. The destruction of Carthage, 146 B. C., which put the Roman Empire at the top of the world. (Roman soldier: "That's the big brass for you every time — burn a town down so the guy in the ranks won't have a place to enjoy himself.")

New way to cook shrimp: Shell shrimp, remove black vein, and cut in two lengthwise. Heat a little butter or margarine in a skillet with a crushed clove of garlic, add shrimp and cook and stir until they are cooked through. Serve the shrimp with baked potatoes and a tossed green salad for a delicious supper.

Chili con carne may be served either on rice or on elbow macaroni.

Next time you prepare apple sauce try adding a dash of cinnamon or nutmeg, and some seedless raisins to it. Serve for dessert with whipped cream.

Good sauce for snap beans: Make a cup of medium white sauce and while it is hot stir in a half cup of mayonnaise-type salad dressing (commercially prepared) and two or three teaspoons of lemon juice.

Canned meats will slice neatly and easily if you chill the can in the refrigerator before using, then remove both ends from the can, and push the meat out in one piece.

Louisiana Voters Got To Polls To Elect Governor

NEW ORLEANS — Louisiana chooses a governor for the next four years today and tests the strength of Gov. Earl Long and his opposition of major Democratic political factions.

Former District Judge Carlos Spahn, 61, 58th "major" in the standard bearer for the "minority" faction. He was picked for the race by Gov. Long who is constitutionally barred from succeeding himself.

Spahn is opposed by Appeal Judge Robert Kennon of Minden. Spahn was first and Kennon was runnerup in a field of nine candidates in the Jan. 15 Democratic primary. The seven eliminated candidates have thrown their support in Kennon.

The winner of today's primary will be formally chosen governor in the April general election when he runs against Harrison Bagwell, the Republican candidate. There are only about 1,300 registered Republicans in Louisiana.

Interest in the campaign and predictions of ideal voting weather brought expectations of a record turnout.

Approximately 760,000 persons voted in the January Democratic primary out of 981,000 qualified. After the registration books were reopened, the list of voters reached 1,048,877.

Spahn's second primary campaign was based on his first primary platform—to continue the services and benefits now provided by the administration of Gov. Long. Kennon who is anti-Long, as were the other seven candidates in the first primary, called for tax reductions and legislation to remove the spending power of the governor.

this time. I don't care who knows I'm against him."

The Anderson, Monticello—"I will support a conservative Democrat, who will adhere to the policies and principles of the South."

Mrs. Mary N. Scott, Sarasota—"I consider him (Truman) too big a deal from Democratic principles. Would support Russell, George, Hyman, Byrd, too, under certain conditions. I will not support or vote for Taft or any other Republican."

Modern Way To Control Roaches!
Hotheard by roaches or ants? Johnston's NO-ROACH, applied by brush in the kitchen, kills roaches, ants, and waterbugs. What's more, the colorless coating is effective for months, and kills the strays that wander in and walk over it. For scientific control, see Johnston's NO-ROACH. Prices: 3 oz., 39¢; pint, $1.49; quart, $3.29, available at Rounit & Anderson.

Demo Committee

Support for Gen. Eisenhower turned up even though he is running as a Republican.

"If Eisenhower gets the Republican nomination, I will certainly not support anyone against him," said Mrs. Robert B. Knowles, Bradenton. "If Taft is the Republican candidate I will support the Democratic candidate, whoever he may be."

Comment from those who oppose Mr. Truman included: "I support Mrs. Mildred Taylor, LaBelle—"I'll not say anything as to how little I think of Truman." W. H. Peacock, Perry—"I expect to support a Democrat, but not President Truman." Mrs. Mattie Stokes, Graceville—"I truly hope and pray the Democratic Party won't let Truman run."

25 Seaman Are Rescued From Tanker Stern

Shipmates Clinging To Broken Hulk Are Being Towed To Port By Guard

CHATELAIN, Fla., (AP) — Thirty weary seamen, clinging to the wreckage of the tanker Fort Mercer, were rescued today from the sea, struck it out today on the derelict stern of a broken tanker—hoping to salvage the hulk. Crewmen of the Fort Mercer were torn in half by the worst storm two days ago—passed up rescue Tuesday night. Twenty-five of their mates were taken off the wreck by Coast Guards. Efforts will be made to tow that half of the ship to port.

The Fort Mercer was one of two 10,000-ton tankers which broke in two about the same time in a terrific northwest storm off this little fishing port Monday.

The other tanker was the Pendleton. Both her halves have gone aground.

The latest batch of survivors brought to 37 the number rescued from the four sections.

Six are listed as dead and eight are missing, presumed dead.

Eighteen of the 25 men rescued Tuesday night were due to arrive in Boston today aboard the Coast Guard cutter Acushnet.

Three others, also rescued from the Fort Mercer, are being towed to the cutter Eastwind standing by at the scene.

The other four were taken off the bow section of the Fort Mercer and put on the cutter Yakutat, expected to reach Portland, Me., sometime tonight.

Two of the four taken off the bow were hauled aboard the Yakutat from the cutter Yakutat, expected to reach Portland, Me., sometime tonight.

The Arushnet and the Eastwind teamed up to rescue the 21 men from the stern half of the Fort Mercer.

The two rescue vessels floated life rafts to the Fort Mercer—then pulled the men to the Eastwind.

When that operation proved "too slow," the Acushnet made two more trips to the Fort Mercer.

The rescue operation was carried out by 25 men from the cutter Nantuxet. The bow of the Fort Mercer capsized after 15 men were rescued from it some 30 miles from the stern.

Five men lost their lives from the forward section of the Fort Mercer in an earlier rescue attempt. The sixth was crushed beneath a rescue craft while the stern end of the Pendleton.

The eight seamen presumed dead were washed overboard from the bow of the Pendleton.

Tourist Club Donates $100 For Building

The Sanford Tourist & Shuttleboard Club treasury was directed to give the Jaycee Committee a check for $100 for the Tourist Building fund at its meeting Monday night.

The building will be completed in time for the next tourist meeting to be held there, Hasky Wright reported today.

"Part" will be given at the Vacht Club. The program will include musical numbers by the Lake Mary Orchestra, skits, group singing and other entertainment features. Refreshments will be served.

On Friday afternoon the Shuttleboard team will go to Winter Park to play a matched game with that club. It is expected a good crowd will accompany the players there.

On Saturday afternoon at 8:00 o'clock all members of the Sanford Tourist Club are requested to be present at the courts, as a "Surprise" will be presented.

COLORAD AID

Papils and the faculty of Croesus Academy have co-operated in three major drives for funds by contributing $100. Fred J. N. Croesus, principal, announced today.

Of the donations, $41 was for the March of Dimes for polio research; $43 to the Seminole County Tuberculosis and Health Association; and $10 to the Junior Red Cross.

LAST DAY

Today was the last day in which to secure a 1952 automobile license at the office of County Tax Collector John L. Galloway.

The time of applicants, however, was not as long as it has been in the past. It is believed that a large majority of car owners have requested to purchase tags early. There have been many applications in the last three days.

SCOUTERS COURSE

The Scouters training course in Sanford is being conducted by the Florida Scout Council at the Sanford Hotel, Thursday night at 8:00 p.m. All persons taking part in the course are urged to attend.

At the meeting plans will be made for the next course, which will be held at Camp Leach this weekend.

Air Force Studies Notification Of Next Of Kin

New Regulation Postpones News From Four To 12 Hours

By ELTON C. FAY
WASHINGTON (AP) — Should the military announce immediately the names of men killed, injured or missing in major accidents with both them and relatives have been notified?

This question has been logical and humane arguments can be made of either way.

The regulation increases from four to 12 hours the time that official notification of next of kin and the release of names for use by press and radio.

What troubles everyone — relatives, military and press-radio—is this:

In holding back names for publication the relatives of 10 or 20 men may be shielded from the shock of receiving the first word through press or radio announcement.

But the other side of the problem is that the relatives of possibly 10,000 other men, known to be in the area of the accident, undergo hours of anxiety until they know the names of their service men are not on the grim list.

The military feels that its policy— withholding names for a specified period until either relatives have been notified or it may be assumed sufficient time has elapsed for such notification to be completed—is the lesser of two evils.

But the other side of the problem was demonstrated recently in an incident during winter maneuvers at Camp Drum, N. Y. A plane with four crewmen and a load of paratroopers crashed on takeoff.

Authorities announced that four men were dead. The news appeared in early morning newspapers and on radio newscasts.

At Camp Drum for the maneuvers were 25,000 soldiers, paratroopers and members of plane crews. Any of these men could have been in the crash. The base telephone was flooded with calls from anxious relatives. The names of the men were not announced until the following day.

The time interval for publication of names now differs with services. While the Army and Navy follow the general policy of releasing names involved in accidents in the United States after the 4-hour interval, the Air Force has revised its time to 12 hours.

An Air Force spokesman says this was done because a survey showed a large percentage of soldiers do not reach next of kin in some cases, that sometimes it takes as much as 24 hours.

Senate Group Is Reported Urged To Push Inquiry Of Sen. McCarthy

PROVIDENCE, R. I. (AP) — The Providence Journal-Bulletin said today the unpublished, month-old report of an investigation of charges of perjury, lying and deceit made against Sen. Joseph P. McCarthy (R-Wis.) recommends that a Senate Elections Committee push ahead with hearings on McCarthy's activities.

The Providence newspaper published excerpts it said it, together with the Minneapolis Tribune and the Des Moines Register, had obtained from the report of the Senate committee's staff investigating charges leveled against the Wisconsin senator by Sen. Benton (D-Sen.) in a December 22, 1951, resolution seeking McCarthy's expulsion from the Senate.

The report, the newspaper said, recommends that hearings should be conducted on five of the 10 Benton charges.

The closely guarded 300-page report was filed with the Senate committee on Jan. 18. There is a possibility a decision whether to go ahead with the hearings, as recommended in the report, will be made at a meeting Feb. 28.

McCarthy turned down an offer to testify before the Senate subcommittee in a letter to Sen. Gillette (D-Ia.) last October in which he said:

"Frankly, I do not intend to even read much less answer, Benton's smear attack."

"I am sure you realize that the Benton type of material can be found in the Daily Worker almost any day of the week and will continue to flow from the mouths and pens of the camp followers as long as I continue my fight against Communists in government."

The newspaper said the five cases into which the investigating committee has recommended further inquiry are:

Case 1. Benton's charge that McCarthy committed perjury when he denied under oath that he had said in a Wheeling, W. Va., speech that the Ku Klux Klan had a right to challenge a third Negro was eliminated by the court on Hendrix's motion after he said he was a member of the Ku Klux Klan 30 years ago. However, he left on the jury another who said he was a member of the organization in 1928 but doesn't intend to join it again.

The Allies offered "in the interest of progress" to pay their own rotation figure—$100,000 annually in 1950, the Allies would not even talk about it.

No specific progress was reported from another truce meeting on prisoners of war. And no date was set for a third committee of staff officers to work out technicalities on the final truce clause—recommendations to governments.

Red negotiators were insistent that the Soviet Union be the third neutral nation, nominated by the Communists, the United Nations Command already has approved Poland and Czechoslovakia.

U. N. negotiators refused to indulge in a debate on the neutrality of Russia in the Korean conflict despite repeated Red hints they would like such an argument.

The Allies said simply that Russia, as sponsor of Red Korea and Communist China, was "not acceptable" as a neutral supervisor.

Col. Andrew Kinney said the Red nomination of Russia was not "acceptable in both sides" as called for in previous agreements.

He said the Communist stand "is in direct violation of the agreement reached between the delegates and in violation of the instructions given to the staff meetings."

SEOUL, Korea (AP) — U. S. Sabre jet pilots today shot down two Communist MIG jets and damaged five in two furious fights over Northwestern Korea.

Col. Francis S. Gabreald, 101st Air Division, said the MIGs were shot down by a B-26 bomber crewman saw strange-looking orange globes over North Korea the night of Jan. 28.

An Air Force spokesman in Washington said B-26 crewmen reported they sighted the objects late Monday about three feet in diameter, generally light orange in color with an occasional change to a bluish tint. The objects were shot down with a B-26 over North Korea about five miles above the ground.

The objects stayed with a B-26 over North Korea about five miles above the ground.

Each moved to within half a plane of becoming a MIG jet actor. Credit for the other MIG down to the afternoon went to Maj. William F. Sheffer, Boone, Iowa. His total is three destroyed and one probable.

Talks Stalled By Red Demand Over Russia As Neutral

Allies Troop Rotation Figure Pared From 40 To 35,000

MUNSAN, Korea (AP) — Communist insistence that Russia be invited as a neutral nation to help supervise the Korean truce stalled armistice talks today.

The Allies offered "in the interest of progress" to pay their own rotation figure—$100,000 annually in 1950, the Allies would not even talk about it.
