5,000 Join Voter Rolls In Final 2 Months

70% Turnout Predicted

By Donna Estes
Herald Staff Writer

Supervisor of Elections Sandy Goard is predicting that 90,000 Seminole County voters will be eligible to cast ballots in the Nov. 6 general election.

She said during the final two months before the voter registration books closed Oct. 6, about 5,000 voters added their names to the rolls.

"We were bombarded with new voter registrations. If those new voters will get out to vote as well as they did to register, we will have an exceptional turnout," Mrs. Goard said.

Mrs. Goard and 10 employees, including three temporary clerks authorized hired by the county commission, are working overtime, she said, to get the names of the new voters punched into the computer and to mail out their new voter identification cards. This work must be done by Sunday, the deadline for submitting the information on the numbers of eligible voters to the state Department of Elections as required by law.

In addition, Mrs. Goard said volunteers from the Seminole County League of Women Voters are helping complete the process.

Already a record 2,500 to 2,600 absentee ballots have been mailed to residents in foreign countries and to most of the states, she said.

Almost 1,900 of those absentees went to military personnel and their families serving around the world, Mrs. Goard said.

The ballots for the countywide election are cumbersome, she said. They include three punch cards with two sides each listing candidates, proposed state constitutional amendments, and the county referendum on an additional 1-cent sales tax to finance construction of a jail addition and renovations of the courthouse.

Separate ballots are also being printed for city elections in Casselberry, Altamonte Springs and Winter Springs, slated to be held Nov. 6.

Mrs. Goard said election results will be slowed down somewhat election night because of persons are permitted to write in candidates for president and vice president.

This means that poll workers in each of the 72 precincts will have to separate those ballots containing write-ins from the others before the ballots are taken to the county services building for tabulating.

In addition, she predicts at least a 70 percent turnout, meaning some 63,000 persons are expected to go to the polls election day.

Herman Gean shows off the 6-foot, 2-inch-long diamondback rattlesnake he killed Sunday afternoon with a garden fork.

Viper Sniper

Herman Gean's nosey English Bull Terrier, Friskie, didn't know what he was getting into Sunday when he confronted a rattlesnake coiled at one corner of his master's house. The pit viper, with seven rattles and a button, struck and bit the dog on the side of the head, Gean said.

Gean, who lives at state Roads 419 and 436 in Winter Springs, killed the viper by hitting it once with a 4-foot garden fork.

Friskie survived her bite after 460 shots of anti-snake venom at a Winter Park emergency veterinarian clinic. She was discharged in good condition Monday morning, according to a clinic spokesman.

U.S. Kids On Fitness Decline: Study

NEW YORK (UPI) — Two out of three school-age children are too out of shape to pass a basic physical fitness test including running, jumping, situps and pushups, an American Athletic Union study showed today.

The AAU study was released a day after a separate government study found half of America's 5th through 12th graders do not get enough exercise to develop healthy hearts and lungs and most do not work out often enough or in a wide enough variety of activities.

The National Children and Youth Fitness Study, which surveyed 8,800 fifth through 12th graders nationwide between February and May, also found physical education classes tend to emphasize group and team sports, rather than "lifetime" skills that encourage students to keep fit on their own after graduation.

The AAU study's tests were given during the 1983-84 school year to more than four million children from 6 to 17 years old in about 17,000 public and private schools nationwide. Only 36 percent met AAU standards for distance runs, springs, long jumps, high jumps, situps, pushups and pullups.

Surveys from 1979 to 1982 showed 42 percent of the youngsters were able to pass the fitness tests.

Ire Up In Chuluota

'Return Our Post Office'

By Rick Brunson
Herald Staff Writer

Chuluota residents, 400 strong to date, are petitioning for restoration of the community's post office.

They're also complaining about what their spokesmen describe as poor postal service in the area.

The residents, whose postal station is a branch of the Oviedo Post Office, say they often don't get their mail because of the hardline policies of the Oviedo postmaster.

According to Virginia Chadwick, 66, of 521 E. Third St., residents have missed Medicare checks and other important mail because Oviedo Postmaster Sam Musgrove refuses to send mail to Chuluota street addresses. She said he only forwards mail addressed to a post office box number.

Musgrove said the petition effort is due to "rumors," and "if any mail has been returned, it has only been small quantities."

Mrs. Chadwick and six other volunteers are going door-to-door nightly, she said, circulating a petition requesting Regional Postmaster Robert Sheehan to have the practice halted and to give Chuluota its own post office. She said the group has collected 400 signatures and contacted Rep. Bill McCollum (R-Altamonte Springs) about the problem.

'Chuluota is soon going to have just as many houses as Oviedo ever dared to have.'

Mrs. Chadwick said Chuluota had its own full-service post office 20 years ago. But it was converted to a postal station in 1960 and made a branch of the Oviedo Post Office.

The group fears, according to a flyer they are circulating, that they may even lose the postal station, meaning they would have to drive six miles to Oviedo just to mail packages and buy stamps.

Those fears are unfounded, according to Musgrove.

"It's my post office. If there was a move a foot to remove the post office I would know about it," he said.

The group says Chuluota has tripled in size in the last 20 years and deserves its own office. They point to nearby Geneva, a city of similar size, and say it has its own office, so why shouldn't Chuluota?

"Chuluota is soon going to have just as many houses as Oviedo ever dared to have," said Maureen Bell, a former Chuluota postmistress.

But residents will have to wait a long time before their wish comes true, according to a spokeswoman for the Regional Post Office in Orlando.

"It's our commitment to provide efficient service to the entire country," said Marjorie Brown, manager of retail sales and service. "We're not going to build a post office for a community when their is one within a reasonable distance. We see them no different."

As for the charges of poor service, Ms. Brown said they were based on "misinformation."

She said mail is only returned to the sender when it is insufficiently addressed, meaning, without a street

Banks Drop Prime Rate

NEW YORK (UPI) — Most of the nation's major banks, headed by Citibank of New York, Tuesday lowered their prime lending rate to 12 1/4 percent from 12 3/4 percent, refusing to match a 12 1/4 percent prime posted by Bankers Trust.

In addition to Citibank, Chase Manhattan, Morgan Guaranty Trust, Marine Midland and Chemical Bank, all New York, First National Bank of Chicago and Bank of Boston adopted a base lending rate of 12 1/4 percent.

Bankers Trust Co. Monday lowered its prime to 12 1/4 percent.

The bank's move on the prime is a lagging reaction to a sharp drop in their cost of money since early September.

In addition to a lower cost of overnight money, rates on jumbo certificates of deposits banks sell also have dropped significantly in the wake of an easing of tensions over Continental Illinois' problems.

But probably the most important factor in the decision for banks to drop their base rate on which loans are priced is a continued slackness in business loan demand.

Large business has been borrowing in the commercial paper market where rates are lower than on bank loans.

William Dunkelberg, business professor at Purdue University and economist for the National Federation of Independent Business believes interest rates will be slightly lower by year-end for a number of reasons.

"The Fed recognizes that the recovery is starting to mature and that there is increased risk of aborting it if money becomes tighter," Dunkelberg said. "If the Fed is going to err it would now prefer to err on the side of ease."

Even Henry Kaufman, the influential Salomon Brothers chief economist who earlier this year predicted "spectacularly high" interest rates by the beginning of 1985, now says rates will probably rise only moderately this year.

Kaufman said because of the moderating economy, Fed easing actions and the strong dollar, the peak in rates he predicted may be delayed until 1986.

Holiday Break On SR 436 Boon For City Road Plans

The city of Sanford is taking advantage of the state Department of Transportation's planned halt to reconstruction work on sections of state Road 436, in Altamonte Springs, for the Christmas shopping season beginning at Thanksgiving time.

City Manager W.E. "Pete" Knowles said when the paving contractor, WNJ Paving Development of Jacksonville, stops the work on 436 for the six-week period, his crews will move into Sanford for 10 working days to resurface five streets in Sanford.

The streets are being improved with city's share of the county's imposed 4 cents per gallon gasoline tax.

The paving should begin Nov. 26, Knowles said.

And by Nov. 1, contractors, RQK Inc., of North Carolina, will have completed the reconstruction of County Club Road from Hardy Avenue to Old Lake Mary

Road and a portion of Country Club Road and W. 20th Street, in preparation for re-paving by WNJ.

The repaving of Country Club Road will extend from French Avenue to Old Lake Lake Road.

Other streets to be resurfaced by WNJ during the 10 working days include: Sanford Avenue from Seminole Boulevard to 25th Street, Mellonville Avenue from Seminole Boulevard to 25th Street and Hardy Avenue from Country Club Road to 25th Street.

Cost of the projects is $3,520,000, Knowles said.

Meanwhile, some 27 miles of city streets are slated to be resurfaced, beginning in March or April, 1985, through a method called "slurry sealing."

Total cost of that work is estimated at $168,643.

Mondale, Reagan Question Fitness To Lead

United Press International
Writer Mondale and Ronald Reagan, their debate on foreign policy four days away, are searching back into each other's political history to support their growingly bitter contentions that neither is fit to lead the country in the nuclear age.

Reagan and Mondale campaigned with a vengeance Tuesday, getting in last-minute shots before exchanging speeches and fund-raising dinners for briefing books and rehearsals in preparation for their second and last nationally televised showdown Sunday in Kansas City.

The president and his opponent appeared to be testing out lines of attack for the debate with some of the harshest and most personal language of the campaign.

Each also relied on old statements the other had made on defense and security issues.

"For 30 years, Mr. Reagan has had a naive and primitive notion of national strength and we can see it in the work of his presidency," Mondale told an enthusiastic audience of 1,000 students at Stanford University in northern California.

Mondale then ran down a list of what he said were Reagan's views on how several presidents had dealt with defense issues.

Reagan once called Kennedy "weak" for "not taking what he called the final step in the Cuban crisis," he said. "He called Lyndon Johnson weak and attacked him for not threatening the use of

Investment And Trade, Not Food, Key To Easing Hunger

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The administration says development assistance, private investment and trade are preferable to food aid as long-term solutions to global food problems.

"Food aid can create a destructive dependency," Agriculture Secretary John Block said Tuesday at official ceremonies to commemorate the fourth observance of World Food Day. In a proclamation, President Reagan said real progress in reducing hunger will be made when nations are able to produce or purchase their food.

Warnings sounded a decade ago that there would be global food shortages have not materialized in this current area of surpluses, Block said. The real issue, he said, is not whether there will be enough food to feed an increasing population by the year 2000, but whether the world will do what must be done "to end that remarkable paradox of global food surplus and widespread hunger."

Block said some nations are reforming policies to make farming profitable and President Reagan has called for a $500 million effort to encourage African nations to reform their economic policies and promote food production.

Alzheimer's Treatment Found

HANOVER, N.H. (UPI) — Researchers say injections of a chemical that is missing in the brains of Alzheimer's disease victims may be the first effective treatment of the mind-crippling illness.

Although no one knows what causes Alzheimer's disease, the team of Dartmouth University doctors said victims had lower-than-normal levels of a brain chemical called acetylcholine.

By continuously injecting the drug bethanechol chloride, which is similar to acetylcholine, into four victims' brains, doctors were able to improve the condition of three patients and stabilize the condition of a fourth.

Between 1 million and 2 million Americans are believed to have the disease, which erodes the victim's memory and thinking ability. It generally strikes older people, but has been known to affect people in their 20s.

Strikers Accept Disney Pact

ANAHEIM, Calif. (UPI) — Striking Disneyland workers voted to accept a new contract and end their three-week walkout, but many boycotted the balloting and others said they were unhappy with the pact and its two-year wage freeze.

The divided rank-and-file voted 696-292 Tuesday to accept the contract, and will return to work today. More than 800 of the 1,844 members of five unions who walked out Sept. 26 did not vote.

Labor leaders said the contract includes a two-year wage freeze, and "concessions" by Disneyland in the key areas of medical benefits and subcontracting.

Under the new contract, current employees will retain the medical and other benefits they have had in previous years. Disneyland would also be prohibited from subcontracting to non-union workers any more than 10 percent of the work now done by union employees.

State Officials Call For Unitary Tax Repeal

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — Gov. Bob Graham and the Cabinet have approved a resolution calling for the legislature to repeal the controversial unitary tax and replace it with a half-percent increase in corporate income tax.

The unitary tax resolution said the tax, which allows the state to tax a portion of the worldwide income of companies doing business in Florida, had caused "uncertainty as to the official attitude of the state of Florida toward continued domestic investment and business development."

The resolution also said the tax legislation should be limited solely to the terms of an agreement already worked out by legislative leaders and not become what Graham called "an early Christmas tree" laden with other tax proposals.

The unitary tax was passed in July 1983 as part of a legislative package to increase education spending. Big business fought the tax bitterly but was unable to agree on a source of replacement revenue in time for the regular 1984 legislative session.

Bilingual Compromise OK'd

MIAMI (UPI) — Dade County commissioners have unanimously approved an amendment to an anti-bilingual ordinance that will allow the use of foreign languages for emergency services and tourism promotion.

By a vote of 9-0, the county commission voted Tuesday to amend Dade's law against bilingualism. The amendment didn't pass, however, until after a noisy commission hearing at which several people in the audience spoke out against the changes in the community because of the concentration of refugees.

The anti-bilingualism law mandated that all county business be conducted in English. The amendment changes the ordinance so the county may use foreign languages to provide medical services, promote tourism and provide emergency services to the elderly and handicapped.

Ms. Pac-Man Sparks Lawsuit

Sheriff Polk Sued Over Car Accident

Two Winter Springs residents are suing an Orlando man because he purchased, allegedly with malicious intent, their Ms. Pac-Man machine. In a second case, a woman is suing Seminole County Sheriff John Polk and the sheriff's department's insurance company for injuries received in a car accident involving a deputy.

William Friskey and Audrey Bullock filed suit against John C. Davis for buying their $1,500 Ms. Pac-Man machine for an undisclosed amount from a third party, Larry Herman, of Florida Amusement Company, Altamonte Springs.

According to the suit, the couple is asking an unspecified amount of damages in excess of $5,000 and specific compensation damages three times the determined actual damages, whatever they may be. They also ask to be awarded court costs and attorney's fees.

The suit, filed Tuesday, states that Davis purchased the machine from the amusement company in June or July 1983 after being told the machine belonged to Friskey and Ms. Bullock.

They state in the suit that Davis acted "willfully and wantonly with malicious intent of depriving (them) of their property and converting said property to his own use," by using it in a commercial establishment for profit.

They assert in the suit that Davis has committed theft.

The case has been assigned to Circuit Judge C. Vernon Mize, but no trial date has been set.

In the second suit, a Winter Park couple is suing for injuries one of them received after an Oct. 23, 1982 auto accident with a Seminole County sheriff's deputy.

Ruth and Herman Fritsch filed suit Tuesday and are asking for an unspecified amount of damages in excess of $5,000 from Polk and Utica Mutual Insurance Company.

According to the suit, Mrs. Fritsch was involved in a car accident with deputy James Frederick Tizzio at state roads 438 and 431 in Oct. 1982.

The accident, according to the Fritsches, occurred either because of negligence or poor maintenance or both by the deputy or the sheriff's department.

Mrs. Fritsch states that because of the accident, she has suffered pain, bodily injury, disability, disfigurement, mental anguish, loss of capacity for the enjoyment of life, medical expenses, loss of earnings and loss of the ability to earn money.

Fritsch states in a second count in the suit that the accident has resulted in the loss of his wife's society, services, companionship, protection, support and consortium.

They ask for general and specific damages, court costs and trial by jury.

The case has been assigned to Circuit Robert B. McGregor. No trial date has been set.

Buhl Chemical fire which destroyed business

Fire Sparks Chemical Firm Suit

Citing loss of business and smoke damage, a Sanford cabinet shop is suing a neighboring chemical company for a fire five months ago.

Beardall Cabinets Inc., 1699 Beardall Ave., filed suit Tuesday against Certified Products Inc., doing business as Buhl Chemical or Buhl Products, 1671 Beardall Ave.

Buhl Chemical, adjacent to Beardall Cabinets, was destroyed by fire in a spectacular blaze May 15. The two-alarm chemical fire burned for a day and fumes forced the evacuation of residents downwind in the Midway community east of Sanford.

Beardall Cabinet is asking for an unspecified amount of damages in excess of $5,000.

According to the suit, Buhl Chemical "conducted their business at a chemical plant and site in a negligent manner, so as to cause a fire to occur."

Beardall Cabinet states that the fire caused smoke damage to its business, an interruption of and total cessation of business, a loss of work and a loss of profits.

The case has been assigned to Circuit Judge C. Vernon Mize though no trial date has been set.

And Always Have Been

Miss America Hopefuls Must Vow 'I Am Woman'

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (UPI) — Nude photographs will not necessarily disqualify future Miss America candidates, but they may have to swear they are not transsexuals, pageant officials say.

Pageant chairman Albert Marks said Monday that officials were considering some rule changes for the contest that was rocked by nude pictures of Miss America 1984 in a girls magazine and a revelation that Miss Ohio 1985 once pleaded no contest to shoplifting charges.

Marks said the changes, which are "very general" in nature, are expected to be adopted within a few weeks.

"We're tightening up the language rather than stipulating things," he said. "If you stipulated every pitfall of mankind or womankind, you'd never stop."

The changes will be reflected in a contract that must be signed by every contestant in all pageants around the country, down to the local level, Marks said.

One clause prohibits transsexuals.

"She must affirm that (she's) always been a female," Marks said.

But the revisions will not specifically prohibit posing nude for photographs — the situation that forced Vanessa Williams to give up her crown in July.

"There's nothing in there about (nude photographs)," said Marks. "That's one of the things you can't stipulate, because you have to judge every case individually."

Williams, 21, of Millwood, N.Y., was forced to step down when Penthouse magazine announced it would publish sexually explicit photographs of her with another woman in its September issue.

The pictures were taken in 1982 and more of them from the same session were published in the latest issue of the magazine. A third set of Williams' photos — said to be sadomasochistic in nature — will be published in the January Penthouse.

Williams has sued the photographer for a share of the money he was paid for the first set of pictures.

This year's pageant was marred by the disclosure that Miss Ohio, Melissa Bradley, pleaded no contest in 1982 to shoplifting charges. She was placed on probation for 90 days, but pageant officials decided it was not an infraction of the Miss America rules.

Seminole Farmers May Qualify For Loan Rescheduling

President Reagan's farm credit initiatives to reschedule portions of loans for some financially stressed Farmers Home Administration (FmHA) borrowers and to guarantee loans of some other borrowers may help farmers in Seminole and Brevard, FmHA county supervisor, James E. Merrick said today.

Annual review of FmHA farm loans will soon begin, Merrick said. A major priority of the review will be to determine which farmers in Seminole and Brevard counties will qualify for a rescheduling of part of their loans for up to five years.

The president's plan permits up to a five-year deferral, with no interest payments, for as much as 25 percent of a loan, up to $100,000, for FmHA borrowers who are experiencing severe financial stress and who show promise of success with a temporary economic boost.

Under the new guarantee plan, FmHA will be able to guarantee a loan in severe difficulty if the lender is willing to write off at least 10 percent, up to the amount necessary to give the borrower a positive cash flow. The borrower must meet general eligibility criteria for FmHA farm operating and ownership loans.

—2:52 p.m., 1206 W. 15th St., rescue. A 38-year-old man who rescue workers suspected of being drunk refused treatment.

Tuesday
—2:19 a.m., 2130 S. French Ave., rescue. A 48-year-old woman who had a stroke was taken to the hospital.

DUI ARRESTS
The following persons have been arrested in Seminole County on a charge of driving under the influence:

—Anthony Robert Hosae, Jr., 50, of 2384 Riverbend Blvd., Altamonte Springs, was arrested at 8 p.m. Monday after his car was involved in an accident on state Road 436, Altamonte Springs.

—Daniel Mott Brenner, 37, of Orlando, at 9:30 p.m. Monday in the parking lot of Club Juana, U.S. Highway 17-92, Casselberry, after he reportedly drove his car across state Road 436, Casselberry, in front of all six lanes of traffic, causing other drivers to slam on their brakes to avoid an accident, according to a Highway Patrol report.

Dangerous Byproduct

Microwave transmission towers and communications satellites have been made long-distance telephone systems far more efficient than they were when signals traveled by wire, but there is a dangerous byproduct from these advances in communication technology. Phone conversations have become highly vulnerable to electronic eavesdropping, and the National Security Agency is urging both government and industry to do something about it.

The NSA takes it for granted that the Soviet Union is listening in on much of the chatter passing between telephone relay stations on the East and West coasts of the United States. The Russians do their listening from their embassy in Washington, their United Nations mission in Manhattan and their consulate in San Francisco, which can monitor phone traffic from high-tech firms in California's Silicon Valley. Computers make it possible for eavesdroppers to zero in only on conversations about subjects they are interested in.

Defense secrets are probably not the only subject that attracts the Russians. They are believed to have used information from telephone eavesdropping during price negotiations in their purchasing of American grain. The same technique used by the Soviet monitors can be used by business firms to discover secrets of their competitors. Walter G. Deeley of the NSA points out that the existence of technology permitting people to listen in on telephone conversations poses more than a threat to security; it strikes at the very fabric of our society.

What is needed is a program bringing government together with private industry in a cooperative effort to develop secure telephone systems and put them into use. Banks, insurance companies and many other businesses are known to be concerned about the security of their phone systems, especially when they are being used regularly to transmit confidential computer data.

Several years ago, when the Carter administration asked Congress for funds to buy secure phones, they cost $35,000 apiece. That's a lot to pay for privacy, but refinement of the technology and mass production of the equipment probably can bring down the price. Huge sums have been invested in the satellites and microwave systems that symbolize a revolution in communications. Now we need to make an investment in the technology that will make it harder for the wrong people to listen in.

Skybound Chatter

It's now possible to "reach out and touch someone" from the passenger cabin of an airliner 30,000 feet in the sky. Nine airlines will begin offering a service from Airfone Inc., in which any two passengers at one time can place calls from aloft to anywhere in the United States for up to 45 minutes.

Airline telephones have been attempted before, but were not successful because the connections were poor and the equipment was stationary. Airfone's technologically improved system permits a caller to insert a credit card into a wall unit, releasing a cordless headset that can be taken to one's seat. (The credit card is not returned until the headset is.)

Airfone and the airlines hope to cash in on business fliers who comprise a good portion of the 300 million annual airline passengers. One goal is to eventually provide a connection between phones and computers so business travelers can work while flying.

One feature of Airfone the airlines will not permit is ground-to-air calls, because of the nuisance factor.

No doubt, many business travelers and incessant chatters will want to avail themselves of the service. And competitive airlines can be expected to fall over each other promoting the new gimmick. Our main concern is that if air telephones become too popular and noisy, airlines might start having to figure out how to mix "talking" and "non-talking" sections with those for smoking and non-smoking.

On The Beach With Internal Revenue Service

WASHINGTON (UPI) — According to published reports, the Air Force is preparing to spend $50 billion or so to dig a big hole in which to hide nuclear missiles from the enemy.

At some point after an attack, the weapons could be brought to the surface and fired as a counterattack. Or so the theory goes.

At first, this plan sounded suspiciously like a continuation of the MX missile basing mode flap. But then my attention, which was languishing below the minimum speed limit, was arrested by a salient point.

The underground missile base, defense officials noted, also could be used to preserve "critical assets," such as tax records. That was when it hit me.

Why, I asked myself, dig a $50 billion hole when the nation already has in existence a network of tax shelters?

Put a missile in each tax shelter and everyone would be happy — the Pentagon, Internal Revenue Service and all. Consider these pluses:

1. During the current fiscal year, the Defense Department is expected to spend almost $220 million on new superhard MX silos. Reinforcing tax shelters surely would be a lot cheaper than that.

2. Making tax shelters sturdy enough to withstand nuclear attacks would please taxpayers who have been using them to withstand IRS audits.

3. The Pentagon would be relieved to have a MX basing system that didn't involve (a) shuttling missiles among hidden launching pads, (b) beefing up existing Minuteman silos or (c) digging a huge new hole in the ground. Let's consider 3-a first.

The original MX basing proposal called for building tracks in Utah and Nevada along which 200 missiles could dart in and out of 4,600 different bases.

I don't know how many different tax shelters there are — 4,600 in Utah and Nevada may be on the high side — but the total undoubtedly is high enough to accommodate 200 missiles.

It simply is a matter of making the tax shelters strong enough to withstand nuclear attacks (see 3-b).

As for 3-c, the account I read did not make clear whether tax records preserved in the missile hole would belong to the government or to individual filers. I presume the latter.

Although individuals are supposed to keep records justifying deductions at least three years after filing Forms 1040, there is no provision I am aware of for keeping the evidences safe during a nuclear attack.

You have heard about the "nuclear winter" and other dire consequences of atomic warfare? Well, losing one's tax records could make the holocaust that much worse.

Imagine the horror of surviving a nuclear attack and then not having any records to present in event of an IRS audit.

That possibility, which is almost too dismal to contemplate, gives us extra reason for making tax shelters a part of the defense program.

The switch might have to be approved by Congress but that should be no problem, especially if the enabling legislation is introduced as an amendment to a "continuing resolution" budget bill at the end of an election-year session.

Trade Zone Issue

If American plants aren't to be shut down and workers displaced, major changes will have to be made in the nation's trade laws.

Often the changes needed are obscure or technical in nature. They may not be well-understood by the general public. They are very important, however.

Consider the situation with respect to foreign trade sub-zones. Most probably not one citizen in many thousands have even heard of a FTZ, as they are known in business. Yet they are extremely damaging to many American companies.

Foreign trade zones were created in 1934 to permit duty-free imports into specific zones for processing and re-export. In 1952, sub-zones were authorized to permit manufacturing and assembly.

Nowadays, however, most shipments from sub-zones go into the U.S. domestic market. That was not the intention of the framers of this provision in the law.

Statistics tell the story. In 1983, the U.S. motor vehicle parts industry recorded a $1.85 billion trade deficit. In 1972, foreign parts represented 2.1 percent of the components in American-made vehicles. In 1983, they accounted for 5.6 percent. The industry estimates that they will account for between 20 and 25 percent by 1990.

Foreign-made engines are increasingly used in U.S. car and truck production — $675 million worth in 1978 and $1.66 billion in 1982.

In 1983, Japan exported $2.1 billion in parts and accessories to the United States. In the same year, the U.S. exported $148 million worth to Japan.

There is a short-term advantage to American automakers that depend on foreign outsourcing. The foreign trade sub-zones enable them to avoid import quotas on finished products and reduce unit costs. The system adversely affects those automakers who want to rely on domestic producers of parts and accessories.

Proponents of foreign sub-zones may argue that the system creates jobs in foreign automakers with plants in the United States. However, the losers in the current system are the American-owned companies. Sub-zones stimulate imports rather than exports.

Clearly the foreign sub-zones aren't in the U.S. national interest.

Mondale's No Hero To Air Force

WASHINGTON — Walter Mondale's chances of becoming commander in chief of the armed forces may be slim, but the very thought that he might succeed is enough to cause apoplexy among some Air Force generals.

Such is the bitterness with which the former vice president is regarded by the Air Force brass. Some generals say they'd resign if Mondale is elected.

Mondale's enemies in the Air Force blame him for things grandiose and picaresque — from opposing the B-1 bomber and the MX missile to letting his staff spill drinks and steal highball glasses on Air Force Two.

They blame Mondale for letting highly trained pilots be hired away by commercial airlines and even for the Air Force's purchase of greatly overpriced spare parts.

Whether the generals' wrath is justified or not, the fact remains that it exists, and would certainly affect relations between the Air

JEFFREY HART

Why Reagan Lost

Life is full of surprises, but who would have guessed that Walter Mondale would win a stylistic victory over Ronald Reagan in their televised debate. Yet that is exactly what he did.

The affair represented a complete role reversal. The erstwhile dour Mondale, a gloomy cruncher who bristles with "position papers," appeared relaxed and humorous, quoted Will Rogers, and had a neat comeback on Reagan's "there you go again" line. Reagan, who has always been a polished performer, looked gloomy and even nervous, never smiled and said nothing funny, and worst of all, spouted a lot of boring facts with which he had been crammed by his handlers. In the debate, Mondale played Reagan and Reagan gave a good imitation of the plodding Mondale.

Throughout the proceedings, Reagan looked extremely uncomfortable, as if he would have preferred to be anywhere else, and the reason is that he was miscast in the role he was playing. Once again, as has happened repeatedly in his political career, he was the victim of advisors who do not appreciate him and who do not understand his natural political gifts. No doubt his advisors reasoned that Reagan has been accused of being inattentive and out of touch, so they force-fed him on all those facts and had him recite them to prove how in-touch he is. But Ronald Reagan is not a David Stockman-style numbers-crunching grind. Reagan is superb at limning broad themes and illustrating them anecdotally, and he has natural poetic gifts. Small wonder that he seemed uncomfortable in his new role as federal bureaucratic or even economics graduate student.

Reagan's fizzled concluding peroration has persuaded some commentators that the age issue has come into the campaign.

Reagan was not really tired at the end of the debate, merely bored and uncomfortable. The only advice to offer is, as usual, let Reagan be Reagan.

Mondale accomplished a good deal for himself with his performance. Before the debates, he was a political joke. Geraldine Ferraro, who is not a gracious person, had been saying she was being scapegoated because the ticket was unpopular. In view of the fact that Mondale is the only other person on the ticket, the meaning of that remark is clear enough. And other Democrats had been keeping clear of any suspicion of being part of the Mondale campaign. With his performance in the debate, Mondale is no longer a political AIDS case.

But it seems highly unlikely that Mondale can significantly close the gap with Reagan. One year ago, polls indicated a 12-15 point lead over Mondale and other Democratic candidates. During September, Reagan added about five points to that lead, but essentially the lead has remained stable for at least a year. The voters appear to have made up their minds months ago, and not on the basis of personalities but on the issues.

IN TALLAHASSEE

Fixing Faulty Ballots

By Wayne Snow

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — Some final thoughts on the Florida Supreme Court's decision to kick Amendment 9, the Florida Medical Association's proposal to limit damages plaintiffs can recover in civil actions, off the Nov. 6 ballot:

When the court released its opinion in the Amendment 9 case, a majority called for legislative action to create a mechanism for correcting faulty ballot summaries short of knocking the proposal off the ballot.

The procedure would not have made any difference in the Amendment 9 case — a 6-1 majority found that the proposal violated the Florida constitution's one-subject limitation on citizens' initiative ballot questions.

But the justices saved the strongest language for the part of the case against Amendment 9 — that its ballot summary, the description voters would have seen, was clearly deceptive.

In a concurring opinion, Justice Ben Overton called on the Legislature to devise a process to allow misleading language to be challenged and corrected in sufficient time to allow people to vote on otherwise acceptable proposals.

He said that in the state of Oregon, for instance, the attorney general prepares a ballot summary of no more than 75 words describing in impartial terms the chief purpose of the proposal.

The summary can be challenged in the state Supreme Court, and if the challenge is successful, the court is empowered to clarify or correct the language. The result is the people get to vote on the issue.

"The problem of misleading ballot language which now results in the removal of a constitutional proposal from the ballot is correctable by legislative action and it should be accomplished at the next legislative session," he said.

In another concurring opinion, Justice Parker Lee McDonald said he had been mistaken in his belief that proponents of constitutional amendments would "fairly and accurately" summarize their proposals without misleading comments.

He suggested that a third party such as the secretary of state be given the task of drafting ballot summaries. Justices Raymond Ehrlich and Leander Shaw agreed with McDonald.

Force and the White House in the event that Mondale pulls an upset next month. Here is their bill of particulars:

— Cutting the defense budget: The Air Force felt Mondale was their main enemy in the Carter administration at budget-trimming time. One official claimed that disgruntlement over budget cuts caused thousands of Air Force and Navy pilots to resign in 1978-1980.

The official complained to my associate Dale Van Atta that these highly skilled pilots cost the taxpayers $8 billion to train and they "walked out the door because Carter and Mondale were penny-wise and pound-foolish about the national defense budget."

— The B-1 and MX: Mondale was considered the point man in the effort to kill these two controversial weapons.

— Abuse of Air Force Two: Mondale is accused of having abused the privileges of the vice presidential plane by flying frequently to Minnesota to fish and by hosting local politicians to dinner aboard the plane.

The abuse, sources added, extended to Carter-Mondale appointees, who favored inspection trips to bases near golf courses and ski slopes.

"It was not unusual," one official said, "to have the troops kept waiting for a view of the high and mighty while these people were frolicking on the slopes or out on the lake."

— Deadbeats and rowdies: Sources complain that they had to dun Mondale repeatedly for a $9,000 tab he had run up for meals, drinks and other expenses aboard Air Force Two. The Democratic National Committee and others eventually paid $7,000 of the bill; the rest was paid recently when my associate Tony Capaccio and Donald Goldberg began making inquiries.

— Inattention to business: Ac-ording to Mondale's Air Force critics, some of the horror stories about extravagant replacement and equipment costs date to the period when officials, appointed by Carter and Mondale, were too busy with other things to manage the Air Force properly.

STRICTLY PERSONAL: The mail has brought a downpour of political questions. I'll try to answer a couple.

Is President Reagan just a front man for political pros who really run the country? No. He delegates a lot of authority to subordinates, but he has a firm hand on the helm. He's steering the ship of state.

Would Walter Mondale, if elected, give away the store to the special interests that support him? No. He's an old-style politician who practices the politics of compromise and accommodation. But he's a solid professional who knows how to say "no."

Mondale Alone Conforms With Church On Abortion

By David E. Anderson
UPI Religion Writer

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A comparison of the abortion teachings of the churches of presidential and vice presidential candidates shows only Walter Mondale is fully consistent with the stance of his denomination on the issue.

Democratic vice presidential candidate Geraldine Ferraro has frequently been heckled for differing with her church's teaching on abortion but Vice President George Bush, an Episcopalian, deviates even further from his church's position.

Ferraro, who says she is a "devout Catholic" who "personally opposes" abortion also says, "I cannot force my religious views on someone else."

Bush, in last week's debate, said he backs

Reagan's call for a constitutional amendment overturning the 1973 Supreme Court decision legalizing abortion but would allow legal abortions in the case of rape or incest as well as when the mother's life is directly threatened.

The Episcopal church's view is starkly different.

One of the first religious bodies to call for making abortion legal, its 1982 General Convention expressed its "unequivocal opposition to any legislation on the part of national or state governments that would abridge or deny the right of individuals to reach informed decisions in this matter and to act upon them."

While recognizing that abortion is a tragedy, the church allowed abortion not only in cases of rape or incest but also when "the physical or mental health of the mother is threatened seriously or where there is substantial reason to believe that the child would be born badly deformed in mind or body. ... Termination of pregnancy for these reasons is permissible."

President Reagan, raised as a member of the Christian Church (Disciples of Christ) who before becoming president attended a Presbyterian church, also sharply deviates from those denominations' position.

Reagan has made overturning the 1973 Supreme Court decision a cornerstone in his "social issues" platform. He has compared abortion to murder and would allow it only when the life of the mother is directly, physically threatened.

But the Disciples and the Presbyterians, while seeking to minimize abortion, uphold its legality.

In a 1975 resolution, the Disciples said the church will "respect differences in religious beliefs concerning abortion and oppose, in accord with the principles of religious liberty, any attempt to legislate specific religious opinion or belief concerning abortion upon all Americans."

Mondale, a supporter of the existing law, is the son of a Methodist minister and frequently attends Presbyterian churches. His position is consistent with both church's teachings.

Like the Presbyterian church, the United Methodist church at its General Conference in May said a decision about abortion "should be made only after thoughtful and prayerful consideration by the parties involved."

Cobra Venom Extract Tested Against Herpes

MIAMI (UPI) — Researchers are testing an extract of cobra venom to see if it cures herpes in humans, and the chemical is promising because it has already worked in test tubes and lab animals.

Bio-Genics, Inc., a firm in Boca Raton, Fla., already has taken out a patent on the substance, which is called peptierone, said UM researcher Dr. Kent Miller.

"It works in tissue culture and it works in small animals," Miller said. "Whether it works on large animals, for example humans, has to be worked out very carefully. It would be foolish to say anything preliminarily."

"The first thing you check is safety. You must be cautious with patients for obvious reasons," he said. "But it's been used in humans with other diseases fairly extensively without ill effect."

Even if it turns out the chemical works, it could be several years before it reaches the market depending on how long federal authorities take to approve its use, Miller said.

The extract was used to cure genital herpes — a so-far incurable malady affecting 20 million Americans which is spread through sexual contact — in mice that were artificially infected.

The drug's anti-viral properties were first noted in the 1950s when scientists searching for a cure for polio experimented with it. The Food and Drug Administration later approved its use for victims of Lou Gehrig's disease, amyotrophic lateral sclerosis, but that research was not promising.

The FDA, a federal agency, has not approved peptierone for herpes experimentation, Miller instead got approval from Florida's Drug and Cosmetic Technical Review Panel. Now he is using it on 40 herpes sufferers.

The treatments began in September and it could be up to a year before Miller is ready to make a final judgment on its effectiveness, he said.

In 1977, peptierone was used on other viruses. In 1978 it was applied to herpes simplex 1, which affects the skin and causes cold sores.

"The experiments we did involved primary herpes infections, where you take an animal, inject the virus and then treat the animal. The virus never had a chance to get into the nerve," Miller said. "In humans with recurrent infections, the virus travels up and down the nerve paths ... and drugs applied locally may not get to the virus."

Another University of Miami researcher is testing peptierone for its ability to fight genital warts and said it has the potential to stop a precursor of cervix cancer.

Dr. Robert Girtanner believes peptierone could cure genital warts, a venereal affliction that may strike three times as many people as herpes. Girtanner said it also has the potential to stop dysplasia of the cervix, vulva and vagina, an early stage of cancer.

Girtanner already has tested peptierone in Peru where, injected into genital warts, it prevented recurrences in 90 percent of his patients. He said the figure is not completely reliable because some people dropped out of the study.

Girtanner said peptierone appears to have prevented recurrences on patients he's begun testing in Miami but it's too early to judge the treatment's success.

Man Suing Night Spot Owners Over Stabbing In Parking Lot

A Casselberry man has filed suit against the owners of an Altamonte Springs night spot, claiming they were responsible for conditions that led to his stabbing in the bar's parking lot.

Manuel Remon filed suit Friday against Geoffrey W. Paxton and Donald W. Paxton, owners of The Rendezvous, now known as the Solid Gold, 116 N. Longwood Ave., Altamonte Springs. He is asking for an unspecified amount of damages in excess of $5,000.

According to the complaint, on July 6, Remon was attacked by an unknown assailant and stabbed repeatedly in the chest, body and extremities.

He is suing the nightclub for not providing customer protection, inadequate lighting in the parking lot, lack of security, failing to come to his aid after the attack was known, and failing to make changes to prevent the attack. He states in the suit that the attack was the sixth assault or robbery at the club.

As a result of the incident, Remon says he has suffered medical expenses, physical pain, physical handicap, disability, disfigurement, mental anguish, loss of the capacity to enjoy life, loss of wages, and that his work ability and capacity was impaired.

He is asking, besides damages, for interest, court costs and a trial by jury. No trial date has been set.

The sessions will enable participants to continue the forum for the exchange of information related to the use of microcomputers that was initiated at the initial conference last year.

Software and equipment for use in civil engineering will be exhibited. Technical papers will be presented on such topics as geotechnical engineering, flood forecasting, office automation and steel design.

All sessions will be held at the Harley Hotel. Information on registration and fees can be obtained by calling the University of Central Florida's College of Extended Studies at 275-2123.

Model For Other Countries?

British Panel Suggests Rules For High-Tech Reproduction

By Bryan Silcock
Editor's Note: Silcock writes on science and technology for the London Sunday Times, the British weekly newspaper.

LONDON — There are probably several thousand individuals in Britain today who owe their birth to artificial insemination. Legally speaking, their parentage is a muddle.

As far as the law is concerned, their fathers are not the infertile men who agreed with their wives to resort to the practice, but the unknown donors of the sperm. So, in theory at least, the biological fathers could be sued and made to contribute to the support of their offspring.

This is only one of the confusing points that has arisen in connection with the new developments in human reproduction. Legal uncertainties also surround other advances in the field, such as test tube babies, frozen embryos and the use of surrogate mothers.

After deliberating for two years, an official committee here has recently reached some recommendations on the complicated and controversial subject. Its conclusions are likely to influence forthcoming legislation, and could serve as a model for other countries.

Headed by Mary Warnock, a prominent scholar, the group favored the creation of an authority to license the various forms of artificial insemination. It also urged a ban on surrogate mothers, and it suggested that research on human embryos be permitted only up to 14 days after fertilization.

The government is virtually certain to follow its proposal that artificial insemination, egg donation and test tube fertilization be encouraged. The British public is overwhelmingly in agreement.

What remains, then, is for legislation to clarify such questions as the paternity of a child born through one of these methods. Most likely, the legal father will be deemed the husband of the woman who gave birth — provided, of course, that he concurred in the procedure in the first place.

On the other issues, however, the committee was split. And its divisions reflect differences of opinion in Britain and no doubt in other Western nations as well.

The first of these was the matter of surrogate motherhood, on which the practical and ethical problems are clear. It would be monstrous, for example, to deny the baby to a substitute mother in the event that she decided to keep it. Or how would the contracting parents react if the child was born deformed?

For these and other reasons, the majority of the subcommittee members judged that the promotion of surrogate mothers ought to be regarded as a criminal offense. But the ruling was not unanimous.

Though they accepted most of the arguments against surrogate motherhood, two members of the group took the view that it might be justifiable in certain circumstances, and they recommended leaving the door ajar. Their view is unlikely to win legislative approval.

The second issue, that of research on human embryos also split the committee, and it is going to be a difficult one to resolve. For a substantial number of religious leaders, doctors and political figures oppose it.

Most of the committee members felt that research on embryos was allowable up to 14 days, at which time the first sign of a nervous system appears. Warnock saw this period as a compromise between those who want total protection of the embryo and those who favor research.

By and large, those who resist experiments with embryos are the same as the opponents of abortion. They strongly hold the belief that an embryo, even when it is only a bundle of microscopic cells, is a potential human being that is entitled to life.

Assuming the advocates of research are upheld, a related question could be even thornier. It is whether embryos ought to be deliberately created, even with the consent of the "parents" of the future child.

It is over embryos that the biggest battles will be fought in the months ahead, as Parliament begins to prepare its legislation. But the committee has at least focused on the need for new laws to define the practice of human reproduction in this very sophisticated scientific age.

All Souls School Wants Your Old Newspapers

An ongoing newspaper collection drive to raise money to buy computers and science equipment for students will be held alternate weekends at All Souls School.

The drive began Oct. 13-14, but publicity chairman Diane Crapps said the number of newspapers brought was disappointing.

"It is really for a good cause," she said, urging parents and others to collect their newspapers until the next collection weekend, Oct. 27-28.

The papers may be brought to the parking lot of the church adjacent to the school at 902 S. Oak Avenue, Sanford. There will be a large bin there where they may be left.

Longer School Day 'No Problem'

While high school students in Orange County struggle to live with a state law requiring a longer school day, a Seminole School Board spokesman said students here are doing fine.

Because of the new law, which says students must attend a course 135 hours during the year to get credit for it, Orange County students have almost no time for extracurricular activities. Other students cannot take time for family trips or to observe religious holidays because missing class could mean not getting credit.

The law has forced some Orange schools to cancel pep rallies and field trips to preserve academic time. At others, practice times for sporting events have been cut.

Orange County school officials are trying to come up with ways to ease the law's impact on students.

But in Seminole County, students are going on field trips, getting off for religious holidays and playing football as usual, according to Jack Heisler, director of secondary education for Seminole public schools.

"We don't have the same problem they have," Heisler said.

And the reason is because Seminole schools are on a different schedule which allows for more flexibility, he said. While Orange County schools have a seven, 50-minute class schedule, Seminole students go to six, 60-minute classes each day.

This means they attend a class a possible 180 hours a year, 45 over the state requirement, Heisler said. Because they start and end the school day earlier, it also means students have more time to participate in extracurricular activities.

With Seminole's schedule, Heisler said a student "would have to be out almost a whole nine-week period" to not get credit for a class.

Heisler said the state asked Seminole County to go on the seven, 50-minute class schedule — and offered additional money for doing so — but the board declined.

According to Heisler, the state offered to give the county about $163 per student to go on the 7-50 schedule, as compared to about $113 to stick with its own.

"It would have cost more money than they would have paid us," he said.

Going on the a schedule would have meant hiring more teachers and building more facilities, Heisler said, and the board didn't think it was worth it. He also said the board did not believe 50 minutes was long enough for classes like physical education or lab classes.

But just because Seminole students have more time does not mean field trips and absences have not been examined.

"Some of the 'traditional' field trips the schools took that were not instructional are out," he said.

Seminole Chamber Closer To Building Goal

The Greater Seminole County Chamber of Commerce has moved a step closer to realizing its $100,000 goal for construction of a new building in Altamonte Springs with a donation of $5,000 from Barnett Bank.

The donation brings the amount raised during the fundraising drive to $72,146.56, said James Stelling, president.

The new chamber facility, planned in conjunction with the expansion of the existing city library, will be located at 291 Malland Ave., Altamonte Springs. Cost of the total project, funded jointly by the chamber and the city, is about $300,000, Stelling said.

Other major corporate sponsors of the chamber's building project include Sun Bank, Freedom, United Telephone, Florida Power, Altamonte Springs developer Wallace Schoettkotte, Florida Hospital and former Altamonte Springs City Commissioner and chamber founder Helen Keyser.

Construction is planned to begin in November with completion of the project sometime in the spring of 1985, Stelling said.

Drinking To Benefit Special Olympics

The Seminole County Special Olympics will benefit from the drinks sold at the Why Not Lounge in the Holiday Inn, Altamonte Springs, Friday and Saturday.

Holiday Inn spokesman

Sammlie Smart said the lounge will donate 25 cents from every drink served to cover the $6 registration fee for the handicapped players in the games that are scheduled for Oct. 27.

The Special Olympics is intended to provide athletic competition for the mentally retarded, and to stimulate development of additional physical activity programs.

This year's games will be held at Milwee Middle School, Longwood, and Altamonte Bowling Lane, Altamonte Springs. Basketball and gymnastics events will be held at the school at 10 a.m. and the players will bowl at 1 p.m. For information, call 869-4338 in the evenings.

Lake Howell Clinches Conference Title

By Chris Fister
Herald Sports Writer

APOPKA — "No excuses" was the motto of the Lake Howell volleyball team in 1983 as the Lady Silver Hawks were favored to win the Five Star Conference and the district. However, the Hawks finished second to DeLand's Lady Bulldogs in both.

Lake Howell could have come up with some excuses this year. After all, it lost four starters and after Jo Luciano, one of the most astute volleyball teachers in the state, took a leave of absence, the Lady Hawks to put their faith in first-year coach Teresa Tutusky.

In stepped Linda Morales. Morales, a member of the 1978 University of Central Florida team which went 55-0 and won the National Championship, became the Hawks' assistant coach and, while Tinsley was learning the ropes, Morales was instrumental in the team's progress.

Early in the season, the Lady Hawks were 1-1 in the conference and didn't seem headed for a banner season. But, thanks to Morales, and the outstanding senior leadership of Beth Saunders and Eileen Thiebaut, Lake Howell put the slow start behind it and became contenders.

Tuesday night, in a tri-match with Seminole and Apopka, Lake Howell clinched the Five Star Conference title with a three-game victory over Apopka. Lake Howell now stands at 8-1 in the conference. DeLand, which is 7-1, could tie the Lady Hawks if it wins its final conference game. If there is a tie, Lake Howell will be the conference champion since it beat DeLand in head-to-head competition.

The Lady Hawks also upended Seminole High in a non-conference game to improve their overall record to 10-3. Seminole, which also lost to Apopka Tuesday, now stands at 2-10 overall and 1-7 in the Five Star.

"We accomplished more than a lot of people thought we would," Tinsley said. "Linda (Morales) has really helped out tremendously. It's a great asset having her as a coach."

The Lake Howell-Apopka match was the last of the evening in the humid, unair-conditioned Apopka gymnasium. The Lady Hawks rolled to an easy 15-5 win in the first game as Saunders served the final seven points. The hitting of Thiebaut and Kim Montegny keyed the Lake Howell attack.

Saunders served four more points to open the second game, giving her a string of 11 straight between the two games, and Lake Howell looked like it would put the Lady Darters away early. Lake Howell eventually went up 9-1, before Apopka came storming back to win the game 15-12, and for a third game.

"We didn't play our game," Tinsley said of the second game. "But we just had to dig down deep to win the match."

The third game was even in the early going, but Lake Howell, leading 5-3, took command when Sandy Gillies' spike gave the Hawks the serve. Gillies then went on to serve seven straight points as Lake Howell took a 12-3 lead. Most of Gillies' serves weren't returned and the big hit of the rally was the Melissa Schneider's spike.

Lake Howell took a 14-4 lead on Montegny's serve with a nice spike by Saunders providing the 14th point. Apopka made it 14-5 before the Lady Hawks regained the serve and Saunders served the final point which came on another spike by Gillies.

The Lake Howell-Apopka match was over at 8 p.m. Tuesday, three and a half hours after the first match. Seminole-Apopka, started. Seminole, though, would like to forget the night's first match even happened.

Seminole's defense broke down in the first game as Apopka, leading 8-7, reeled off eight straight points to take the first game, 15-7.

The Lady Seminoles came back strong in the second game and cruised to a 15-3 win. Janet Hauck served six of the points for the Tribe and Becky Baker served five.

Seminole took control early in the third game and went on to build a 14-6 lead. But, as it has so many times this season, Seminole failed to get the 15th point and Apopka came back to win the game, 16-14, and the match.

"We should have never lost that match and the girls know it," Seminole coach Beth Corso said. "It took what happened against Apopka to wake us up for Lake Howell."

The loss was a frustrating one for the Seminoles, but the night wasn't a complete disaster. In fact, Seminole came back to play impressively at times against Lake Howell in the night's second match.

Seminole got a fine all around team effort against the Lady Hawks as Beth Nelson, Hauck, Jill Witherow, Jackie Farr, Cindy Hogan and Debra Hillery all played well.

The first game was even most of the way, but Lake Howell broke a 9-9 tie with three points

County's Quality Girls Stock Local Basketball Teams

For the past few years, Seminole County has been one of the top areas in the state for girls high school basketball. Now, a number of those outstanding prep players have moved on to college and many of the local college programs have benefited from the abundance of talent in the county.

Seminole Community College, which consisted mostly of players outside the area last season, has a local flavor this season with five former Seminole County prep standouts, three of which are currently listed as starters by second-year coach Heana Gallagher.

Tammy Johnson, a Lake Howell High graduate, was among the top players in the county in every category (scoring, assists, steals and rebounding) last season. Johnson, 5-8, will play the point guard for the Lady Raiders this season.

A pair of Lyman High graduates will also see plenty of action for SCC this season. Vikki McMurrer, a 1983 graduate who didn't play last season, at 5-11, is listed as the starting center. Kim Lemon, who was one of the county's strongest rebounders last season, is currently one of the starting forwards. Both girls played for veteran Lyman coach Dick Copeland.

Another Lake Howell product of coach Dennis Codrey, Elizabeth Dietrich, will see plenty of playing time for SCC. Dietrich was a strong rebounder and one of the county's best free throw shooters for Lake Howell last season. Andrea Johnson, a Lake Mary High graduate who prospered under coach Bill Moore, will also suit up for the Lady Raiders this season and Gallagher said she likes Johnson's aggressiveness.

DeLand High graduate Rayaha Roberts, who played on the 4A state championship team last season, is coming off knee surgery but is expected to be an important part of the team when the season gets underway.

Other newcomers to SCC include sophomore guard Karin Bolin from Hardee High in Wachula and freshman guard Ann Hopson from Edison Tech in New York. Returning starters Pam Lee and Juana Coletti are the most experienced players for the Lady Raiders and will be looked up to for leadership in 1984-85.

"We have a challenge ahead of us," Gallagher said of the upcoming season. "We're expecting an exciting year. We don't have a lot of size but we have good quickness. Our goal this year is defense, we have to be strong on defense for the size we are."

SCC opens the season Tuesday, Nov. 20 as it hosts Edison Community College at 5 p.m.

The Stetson University Lady Hatters landed an outstanding prospect when they signed Sanford's Dieldre Hillery. The 6-2 center led coach Ron Merthie's Lady Seminoles to their best season ever last year as she led the county in rebounding and was among the leaders in scoring. Hillery was the Evening Herald's Seminole County Player of the Year last season.

"Dieldre will grow and develop into a strong rebounder with a fast break and a good, quick outlet pass," Stetson coach Nancy Nichols said.

Lake Brantley High graduate Linda Nunez, a 6-5 guard, will also play for the Lady Hatters this season. Nunez, one of the best ballhandlers in the county and a three-year starter at Lake Brantley, was a Second Team All County selection last season. Nunez played for coach Rennie Betris.

Other Central Florida prep players signing on with Stetson for the 1984-85 season are Tris Bell, 6-0 forward, and Pam Payne, 5-9 guard, both graduates of Orlando Edgewater High.

Stetson opens the season Saturday, Nov. 24 at home against Rollins College.

Three Seminole County prep standouts, all three sophomores this season, are expected to lead the way for Rollins College this season. Lake Brantley graduates Rhonda Vazquez and Linda Trimble and Lake Howell graduate Cindy Blocker all saw plenty of action at Rollins last season.

Kim Goroum, a fine point guard out of Lyman High, is playing for the University of Central Florida as is former Lake Howell standout Chiquita Miller. Goroum was a Second Team All County selection last season and was one of the county's leaders in assists and scoring.

Dooley Wary Of Vanderbilt

ATHENS, Ga. (UPI) — Georgia coach Vince Dooley says it is going to take a "complete effort" by the No. 14 Bulldogs Saturday to beat the high-scoring Vanderbilt Commodores.

Dooley, at a Tuesday news conference, compared the Commodores, who have averaged over 28 points a game while posting a 4-2 record, to No. 11 South Carolina, which handed Georgia its only loss this season, 17-10.

"Their football team is totally impressive," said Dooley, who always looks on the dark side while talking about an upcoming game. "It could well be the best football team we've played, perhaps right along with South Carolina."

"I think there are a lot of similarities with the South Carolina team. One, they have an experienced offensive football team as South Carolina has. Second, they have a grizzly, hustling, fighting football team as characterized by South Carolina. And, they have an exceptional kicking game."

"It is going to be important that we play totally our best football game if we are going to have a chance to win."

The oddsmaker disagrees, establishing the Bulldogs a 6 1/2-point favorite.

Dooley said Georgia's defensive unit has a tougher challenge in past games against Vanderbilt because he said the Commodores have added a strong running game to their "traditionally strong passing game."

"They are just about an all-senior football team," said the Georgach, "certainly the most complicated we see year in and year out. What has made Vanderbilt so much better than they were in the last couple of years is they have a running game."

"Now they have a balance to their offense," said Dooley. "Now defense can not hone in on one phase of their football game."

Dooley spoke of Georgia's "adversity" after loss of quarterback Todd Williams who suffered a shoulder bruise in last Saturday's 18-12 victory over Ole Miss and is expected to miss several games.

Sad But True: Pro Tennis Players Must Start Before Teens

Anyone who has played tennis for any great length of time and who is very serious about the game has from time to time fantasized about being a pro tennis player.

We have all had pipe dreams about playing on center court at the U.S. Open or Wimbledon — thousands of screaming fans and world-wide TV coverage, all eyes on us as we prepare to return McEnroe's or Martina's serve.

Of course this is just a dream for about 99.5 percent of us but its fun to dream and, in a way, it even makes us play better, work harder and be more enthusiastic about the game.

Well, believe it or not I am asked this question quite often. Someone will come to me and want lessons for themselves or for a member of their family. Often the person is in their twenties or thirties or maybe their children are in their teens.

Unfortunately what I have to tell them is often quite discouraging to them. The simple facts are that if a person is over 12 or 13 before they start taking tennis seriously, they have practically no chance of becoming a professional and, indeed, must work very, very hard to even become a tournament or "A" level player.

I even get a lot of students in my classes that frankly state: "I've tried most of the other sports and did not do well, so I thought I'd learn to play tennis." The truth of the matter is that tennis, to be played well, requires more motor skills, more natural ability and more time to develop than most any other sport.

Larry Castle
Herald Tennis Writer

So how do you get to be good enough to become a pro? Say in the top five hundred in the world? Well, the steps are long and very, very hard. To begin with its very helpful to start early. A lot of the pros started hitting the tennis ball when they were five years old or even younger.

The person must possess a lot of God given natural ability. No one has ever made it very far in tennis without good eye-hand coordination and good natural athletic ability.

Even at an early age many hours a week must be spent in practice. Chris Evert-Lloyd, for example, would practice before school each morning and then after school each day. Day in and day out for years she hit the tennis ball. I'm talking about three or four hours a day for years and years. One must have the financial means to hire a private coach, buy lots of expensive equipment and be able to afford to travel to play age group tournaments.

In fact, many thousands of young players go to various camps or "tennis schools" where they go to school and work on their tennis. As you can see, everything revolves around and is focused on tennis in this person's life.

Even with all this only a very, very few ever make a living at it.

Along with all of this, there still has to be a burning desire with the player himself to make it. If the player does not really want it, it doesn't really matter how much anyone else wants it for them — it won't happen.

Put years of work, lots of money, great athletic ability, fine coaching, supportive parents and friends, good competition, some luck and a burning desire to be great and you might make it. Put all of this into a person and they have a chance to make some money.

Even then it's very hard and only a select few make it big. There are so many really good players in the world today. Every state, town and club have good ones, but only a few get to the inner circle called "Professional Tennis."

Wallace-Carlson Bomb Derails Lakeview, 14-7

By Rick Crawford
Special to Herald

Thadd Wallace tossed a 45-yard touchdown pass to Todd Carlson as the Tuskawilla Warriors held off Lakeview, 14-6. In a big Seminole Youth Sports Association Pee Wee Division football game Saturday at Sylvan Lake Park.

Neither team was able to put points on the board in the first quarter due to strong defensive play.

Lakeview got in the scoring column first, with a 55-yard TD run by Bernard Eaddy. The Tuskawilla offense could not get untracked until the opening possession of the second half when the Warriors used a ball control offense that drove 60 yards in 15 plays. The Warriors consumed eight minutes of the third quarter before Carlson dove over from one yard out. Carlson's kick for the PAT was blocked, however, and the Warriors still trailed by one.

Both teams had trouble holding on to the football in the fourth quarter. The Warriors recovered 2 fumbles in the quarter and they had one last try with 1:30 left on the clock.

On the first play of the drive, Thadd Wallace threw an incomplete pass to Craig Doyle. Then came a key play as the Dolphins were flagged for pass interference. The Warriors were first and 10 on the Dolphin 45. On the very next play Thadd Wallace hit Carlson on a 45-yard scoring toss. Carlson kicked the extra point, and the Warriors led, 14-6.

The Dolphins, however, weren't done yet. They made one last attempt with just 1:06 remaining, but fell short.

Andy Malen and Carlson led the way for the Warriors with a combined total of 51 yards on 16 carries.

It was true defensive struggle as the outstanding players for the Warriors were Mark Arnold with 9 tackles, Andy Malen with 9 and Lee Wallace with 8.

In other action, the Teague Tigers took the Bobcats of Jackson Heights. The Tigers managed to ease by 6-0 on a first-quarter scoring run by Sadat Smith. Smith also carried the ball 14 times for 70 yards. Helping out on the ground was Chris Starke who had 42 yards on 10 carries.

Quarterback Pat Battle had one completion for 20 yards. Tucker Nixon made the lone reception for the Tigers.

600,000 Attend Block Party For Champions

DETROIT (UPI) — Tiger faithful threw a giant block party for the champions of baseball Tuesday.

Police estimated a crowd of "upwards of 600,000" swarmed the two-mile route from Tiger Stadium to Kennedy Square. In contrast to the violence of Sunday night, after the World Series victory over San Diego, the party played peaceful and there were few arrests.

Peaceful, but not quiet. Henry Greenfield of Detroit strained to hear and shook his head.

"I can't hear nothing. I can't see nothing," he said. "It was just like this in '68. I couldn't hear anything then, either. Only it's louder this time."

For those who could hear, Tiger manager Sparky Anderson gave them more to cheer about.

"First of all, I don't think all of us yet realize what kind of people you have," Anderson said of his Tigers. "They not only won this year, they will win again in 1985."

Fans ignoring barricades surged into the parade route to clutch for handshakes and autographs, leaving barely enough room for the open-topped cars to pass single file at a crawl.

A blizzard of paper — sheets from telephone directories, computer paper, stationery and newspapers — tumbled through overcast skies onto the par hordes in Kennedy Square.

A beer-drinking man on a ladder related activities on the grandstand to his friends below. Agile young people scrambled up a monument, shouting and chanting from the shoulders of the pigeon-fleeced soldiers there.

Goalie Can't Give Cold Shoulder To Islanders After 50-Foot Score

By United Press International
Starting his first NHL game, New Jersey Devils goaltender Hannu Kampurri could be expected to see some new things. But what the New York Islanders' Paul Boutilier showed him was startling.

With the score tied 2-2 Tuesday night at Uniondale, N.Y., Boutilier fired a 50-foot shot which sailed over the net, struck the glass backboards and rebounded toward the cage. It went off Kampurri's shoulder into the net to put the Islanders ahead 17 seconds into the third period. It was the first of four third-period goals for New York in its 6-4 victory.

"I just shot the puck and if it goes in it counts," said Boutilier, a defenseman. "I'm not going to start looking for more goals. I'm just going to play my game."

Capitals 5, Kings 3

At Landover, Md., defenseman Scott Stevens scored on a power play and set up two other goals and Gary Sampson added two goals to lead the Capitals. It was the Kings' third loss in four games with one tie. Washington, which blew leads in its first two starts, won its second straight.

Oilers 7, Bruins 2

At Edmonton, Alberta, Jarl Kurri scored two unassisted goals and added two assists and Wayne Gretzky collected two goals and one assist to pace the Oilers. Kurri raised his point total to seven, including three goals, over four games. Gretzky raised his mark to three goals and six assists.

Reinhardt Is Serious But Stable

DENVER (UPI) — Ed Reinhardt, the 19-year-old University of Colorado football player severely injured in the team's season opener, was listed in serious but stable condition at University Hospital where he was transferred following a three-hour flight from Oregon.

Tom Rees, a hospital spokesman, said Reinhardt was transported to Denver Tuesday in a flying intensive care unit operated by Airlift Northwest at the University of Washington. He was accompanied by Dr. Glenn Kindt, a CU medical school neurosurgeon and his father, Edward.

Kindt, chairman of the division of neurosurgery at the CU School of Medicine, said Reinhardt, who had been hospitalized at Sacred Heart General Hospital in Eugene, Ore., since his injury, remained in a semi-comatose state.

"He opens his eyes, but in general he doesn't respond to commands," Kindt said.

Celts Deal Henderson To Sonics

BOSTON (UPI) — The world champion Boston Celtics have traded guard Gerald Henderson, who just signed a new contract last week after a lengthy holdout, to the Seattle SuperSonics for a first round draft choice in 1986.

Henderson, 28, was traded Tuesday by the Celtics after playing five seasons with the team, including the 1981 and 1984 championship teams.

Seminoles Squash Hawks

'Battering Ram' Curry Moves Lake Mary Past Lions

By Chris Fister
Herald Sports Writer

After a sluggish first half, Seminole erupted for 26 points in the second half en route to a 32-0 trouncing of Lake Howell Tuesday night in freshman football action at Lake Howell High.

Seminole, which has won three straight, now stands at 3-2 and returns to action next Tuesday night in what should be an interesting matchup when it hosts 4-2 Oviedo.

While Seminole's offense had a hard time getting started in the first half Tuesday, it was the defense that pulled the Tribe through as it shut down the Silver Hawks all night long. Arthur Hersey, Nick Casello, Willie Campbell and Jerry Blankenship were among the defensive leaders for the 'Noles.

After a scoreless first quarter, Seminole took a 6-0 lead in the second as Curtis Rudolph's one-yard plunge capped a 70-yard scoring drive. The extra point was blocked but Seminole's defense held up the rest of the half and the Tribe went in leading, 6-0, at halftime.

"I don't know why, but we were sluggish in the first half," Seminole coach Mike Ferrell said. "We got everybody together at halftime and the kids came out and played really well the second half. The defense had an exceptional game."

Seminole put up a pair of TDs in the third quarter, the first coming on Jeff Blake's 30-yard pass to Rudolph and the second on a one-yard quarterback sneak by Blake. The extra point on Rudolph's TD was blocked but, after the second touchdown, Blake passed to Blankenship for the two-point conversion and a 20-0 Seminole lead.

The Tribe lacked on two more touchdowns in the fourth quarter. Tracy Turner's six-yard run upped Seminole's lead to 26-0 and the defense accounted for the final score as Ardiene Daniels scooped up a Lake Howell fumble and rambled 32 yards for a TD.

Turner was the Tribe's leading rusher Tuesday with 70 yards while Rudolph picked up 57 yards.

RAMS RUN RECORD TO 6-0

Sanford's John "Battering Ram" Curry bulldozed inside for two touchdowns and Curt Beauchamp broke loose for a 60-yard score as Lake Mary ran off its sixth straight victory without a loss with a 20-0 shutout of Oviedo in freshman football Tuesday night at Lake Mary High School.

Coach Jim Hughes' Rams host Lyman next Tuesday and Seminole in two weeks in quest of a perfect season. "Oviedo had us scouted real well," said Hughes. "They shut off our outside game with (Terry) Miller and the inside game with Curry. They're a lot better than a lot of the teams we're played."

The Lions, 4-2, couldn't stop Miller, Beauchamp and Curry forever, though. Lake Mary's hardrunning three combined for 220 yards as Miller and Curry led the way with 75 yards and Beauchamp added 70.

The Rams, behind the quarterback leadership of Kelly McKinnon, pushed the ball down the field on their first possession. Curry did most of the damage inside. He added the final three yards with 7:37 to play in the first quarter. The PAT kick was blocked.

Oviedo, which received some determined running from Carl Wright and Alan Greene, couldn't convert the big third-down play and most of the second period became a battle of punts.

The Lions tried a statue-of-liberty play off a fake punt on fourth down, but came up a few yards short as Beauchamp delivered a crunching hit at the midfield stripe.

Just four minutes remained in the half, but Lake Mary moved the ball quickly and eventually scored with just 26 seconds left. The key plays were a 13-yard burst by Miller and a 25-yard swing pass from McKinnon to Miller, who swiveled around, made the catch and turned it up field for a first down at the Oviedo 6.

From there, it took "Battering Ram" Curry two thrusts for the second score. The bruising fullback powered five yards to the one and then pushed it home on the next try for a 12-0 advantage. McKinnon then zipped into the end zone with a two-point conversion for a 14-0 halftime lead.

After a statement most of the third quarter, Beauchamp put the game out of reach with the best run of the night as he broke over right tackle and never looked back en route to his 60-yard scamper.

"Our offense wasn't as tough as usual," said Hughes. "We'd like to go unbeaten but playing Seminole a second time (Oct. 30) is going to be tough. They're really coming on."

The other touchdown was accounted for by Lancer Hoeltke. The Tiger defense was led by a host of players, including Hoeltke who accounted for 10 tackles. Sean West had 6 solo tackles, and Jalliet pitched in with 2 TD-saving tackles in the first half.

There were not many bright spots offensively for the Jackson Heights Bobcats Saturday. One of those bright spots, though, was Brian King who rushed for 64 yards on nine carries, and had a 40-yard touchdown run called back on a tripping penalty.

Andy Haynes, playing both ways, had a pass completion for 10 yards, but also threw one interception.

Defensively, Haynes had 5 tackles and one fumble recovery and accounted for the only points scored by the Bobcats. He tackled a Tiger in the end zone. Helping out on defense was Kevin Wimberly who had 3 tackles and one fumble recovery.

The Dolphins of Lakeview rolled again Saturday by defeating South Seminole, 33-0. The Dolphins used 5 players to do the scoring. Alton Jenkins who carried the ball one time for 50 yards and one TD. Don Hunt rushed 9 times for 51 yards and a TD. Germaine Hartfield had three carries for 54 yards and a TD. Varshon Williams completed 4 passes for 67 yards and two TDs.

Jamie King and Craig Merckson were on the receiving end of the two TD passes.

On the defensive side of things, the Dolphins used 7 players to account for 35 tackles to shut off South Seminole. Among the 7 were King with 9 tackles and Hartfield with 9. Benjamin Moon, Ron Parker, T. Jackson, Ray Byrd and Cornelious Williams contributed 2 or more tackles on defense.

JUNIOR PEE WEE; BERGONDY RUNS WILD

The Tuskawilla Warriors took on winless Lakeview and the Warriors prevailed 19-6 to improve their record to 3-0 while the Dolphins fell to 0-4.

The Warriors got two second-quarter scores from Mike Bergondy on runs of 32 and 25 yards. Bergondy finished the day with 102 yards on 11 tries. Quarterback Mike Brooks carried the ball 6 times for 32 yards and the other Tuskawilla score that came in the 4th quarter. Joe Kuehler had one reception for 7 yards.

Defensively, Brooks had 7 tackles, Ryan Dailey lended a hand with 5 tackles and Rafael Valle had 4 tackles and recovered 2 fumbles.

It took three and one-half quarters for Lakeview to score its lone TD. Anthony Roberts took a hand off from Demetry Beamon and dashed 45 yards. Beamon also was 4 of 6 for 49 yards in passing.

Powerful Jackson Heights took on Teague and the Bobcats blitz the Tigers, 27-0. The Bobcats used 2 punt returns by Terry Smith for TDs to do most of the damage.

On the day Smith returned 4 punts for a remarkable 148 yards. Smith also had his hand in the other two scores, throwing a four yard pass to Kevin Blagg and running 8 yards for the other. Star running back McGill Hodges could only muster 21 yards on 4 carries. Smith carried the ball 9 times for 56 yards and was 6 of 7 for 37 yards with an interception in the passing department.

Defensively, Karl Galm and Harlon Wilcoxson were the standouts.

The Tigers only managed 88 yards offensively. Cuyler Davis and Hunter Thompson contributed 60 yards on 13 carries between the two. Mike Speranza completed 3 passes for 28 yards. Scott Simpson was on the receiving end of 2 of those for 25 yards. Good offensive line play was led by Mike Rowe, James Owen and Jason Simon.

The defense was led by James Owen and Davis with six tackles each followed by Jerry Riddell and Grant Wistrom with five each.

Milwee took on Rock Lake in the afternoon game and destroyed the Raiders, 38-0.

Todd Cleveland, another one of the Lyman-bound Clevelandians, had a field day for the Spartans. Cleveland had 149 yards on just 5 carries and 3 TD's. He also had 1 pass reception for 63 yards and a TD. Bobby Washington had 80 yards on 7 carries and a TD. Quarterback Steve Harris had only 1 completion, but for a 18-yard TD pass.

Defensively the Spartans used a fine performance from Willie Campos, who made 9 tackles. Cleveland also intercepted a pass and returned it 37 yards for a TD. Andrea Sampson was also strong on defense.

for a 12-9 lead. Seminole regained the score and tied the score at 12-12 on Baker's serve.

Thiebaut's hit gave Lake Howell a side out and the good-looking senior then went on to serve the last three points of the game for a 15-12 Lake Howell win.

Lake Howell built an early 3-0 lead in game two on Kellee Johnson's serve, but Hogan served four points to give the Tribe a 4-3 lead. The lead see-sawed until, with Lake Howell holding a 7-5 lead, Seminole took over with five straight points, three on Nelson's serve and two on Jill Withrow's.

Seminole went on to take a 13-9 lead on Hillery's serve, but Lake Howell came back to within 13-10 with two points on Gillies' serve. Seminole regained the serve but Schneider's hit gave it back to the Lady Hawks.

Lake Howell then reeled off three points on Schneider's serve to take a 14-13 lead. Jolee Johnson's spike highlighted the rally.

Nelson's save kept the Seminoles alive and they tied the game at 14-14 on Farr's serve.

Saunders then drilled a spike into Seminole's defense to give the Hawks a side out and Montegny served the final two points of the match. The last point came on a spike by Thiebaut.

"I was very happy with what I saw against Lake Howell," Corso said. "Beth (Nelson) really took control on the floor. Our other setter (Sheri Peterson) had an off night and Beth really took charge. Janet (Hawck) was all over the floor and Jackie (Farr) played her best game since she first moved up to varsity."

U.S. Skeptical Of Report Sakharov Given Exit Visa

COPENHAGEN, Denmark (UPI) — A U.S. official says a statement by a Soviet leader that dissident Andrei Sakharov had been given an exit visa but does not want to leave the Soviet Union "can't be trusted."

Ivan Polyakov, vice-chairman of the Supreme Soviet Presidium and member of the Central Committee, Tuesday told a group of 10 Danish parliamentarians that Sakharov could leave his internal exile in the Soviet city Gorky for the West any time.

In Washington, the State Department was skeptical of Polyakov's remarks.

"The Soviets have failed to provide us with any verifiable evidence of Sakharov's conditions, whereabouts or anything else for a number of months," State Department spokeswoman Anita Stoen said.

"Statements like this can't be trusted. The Soviets haven't allowed anyone from the Western world to see him. Sakharov has frequently indicated his willingness to go abroad," she said.

American Wins Chemistry Nobel

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (UPI) — American Professor R. Bruce Merrifield today won the 1984 Nobel Prize in Chemistry, and Italian and Dutch scientists shared the physics prize, the Royal Swedish Academy of Sciences said.

Merrifield, of the Rockefeller University in New York, won the prize for bringing about "a revolution" in chemistry while the two Europeans shared the physics award for probing the force field that makes the sun shine, the academy said.

Merrifield, the first American to win a Nobel this year, was cited "for his development of methodology for chemical synthesis on a solid matrix."

Merrifield, 63, a professor in biochemistry at Rockefeller University, developed a simple and ingenious method for creating protein molecules, the academy said.

Earlier, the academy announced Harvard Professor Carlo Rubbia of Italy and Simon Van de Meer of the Netherlands won the 1984 Nobel Prize in physics.

Tutu As Nobel Choice Blasted

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (UPI) — Pro-apartheid newspapers today condemned the selection of black Bishop Desmond Tutu for the Nobel Peace Prize, saying the crusader against South Africa's system of segregation "stands for anything but peace."

The government maintained its silence on the Norwegian Nobel Committee's award Tuesday to the opponent of apartheid, the South African government's system of discrimination against the nation's 22 million black majority by the minority of 4.5 million whites.

Supporters of the 53-year-old Anglican cleric joyfully celebrated the award and prepared a hero's welcome for his expected return to his parish in Johannesburg's Soweto black ghetto Thursday.

Drug Deal Interrupted; Buyers, Seller Nabbed

Two alleged drug buyers were arrested on North Street in Altamonte Springs, and although the dealer ran he was captured later.

One of the buyers wound up with more than a drug charge when lawmen found out he had given them a phony name.

Both buyers who reportedly made a deal for less than 20 grams of pot from their vehicle on North Street were arrested by a Seminole County sheriff's deputy at 7:09 p.m. Monday. The man who sold them the marijuana fled on foot when a deputy moved in, but was captured at 7:40 p.m. by another deputy at the Lily Pad Restaurant, Lake Howell Road, Altamonte Springs.

The alleged dealer, Dwain Arthur Handford, 25, no street address given, of Altamonte Springs, was charged with possession of marijuana with intent to sell. He was being held in the county jail in lieu of $5,000 bond.

The passenger in the car, Troy Lee Perkins, 19, of Room 4, Oasis Motel, 250 S. Orlando Ave., Winter Park, was charged with possession of marijuana and was later released on $500 bond.

The driver of the vehicle, who identified himself to lawmen as Richard R. Stein, of the same address as Perkins, initially faced the same drug possession charge. But after he was booked into jail, corrections officers reported that a woman, Patricia Curry, who identified herself as his girlfriend, called and inquired about him, but called him by another name.

Sheriff's deputies confirmed that Stein is really Randal Richard Sprague, 29, and that he lives with Ms. Curry and Perkins at the Oasis Motel.

He was charged with obstruction of justice by giving false information. Sprague was released on $1,000 bond and is scheduled to appear in court Oct. 24.

Before Beirut Bombing; Reagan Turned Deaf Ear

Pullout Of Marines Was Urged

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Five days before a truck bomb killed 241 Americans in Lebanon, the Pentagon recommended that the Marines be withdrawn to ships offshore, but President Reagan ignored the advice and a CIA warning of a terrorist attack, a magazine reports.

The Nation magazine also said Tuesday National Security Adviser Robert McFarlane interfered with attempts by the U.S. ambassador to Lebanon, Robert Dillon, to keep the Marines from becoming embroiled in Lebanese political disputes by mediating between the Druze and Christian leaderships.

The U.S. Marine barracks building at Beirut International Airport was destroyed by a suicide truck bomb Oct. 23, 1983 after the Marines repeatedly had come under fire. The bomb killed 241 American servicemen in the biggest single U.S. casualty toll since the Vietnam War.

In an article for its Oct. 27 issue, The Nation said Defense Secretary Caspar Weinberger recommended to Reagan at a National Security Council meeting Oct. 18, 1983 that the Marines be withdrawn from Beirut.

Gen. John Vessey, the chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, formally proposed to McFarlane "a few days earlier" that the Marines be pulled out because their peace-keeping role had been "wrecked" by the U.S. Navy shelling of Druze positions. The Nation said.

"The Central Intelligence Agency, working with what analysis later called 'good quality' intelligence, had warned the White House of an upsurge in threats of terrorist attacks against the Marines, who were seen by the Lebanese as siding with the Christians, it said.

The magazine said an investigatory commission headed by retired Adm. Robert Long "was aware of what took place at the Oct. 18 White House meeting — that Reagan ignored CIA warnings of a terrorist attack and the formal recommendations of his senior civilian and uniformed advisers that the Marines be pulled out."

"Had Reagan given the order that day, the troops could have been evacuated within 24 hours. Marine Corps officers estimated at the time," the magazine reported.

Citrus Freeze Depressed Wages In Central Florida

ORLANDO (UPI) — Wages throughout most of Florida stayed ahead of inflation last year but workers from the center of the state lost some of their spending power because of declines in the citrus and phosphate industries.

Average income in Florida climbed 5.1 percent in 1983 to $15,543, U.S. Department of Labor statistics released Monday show. The increase gave workers an average jump of $282 over inflation.

But in the Lakeland-Winter Haven area, earnings fell behind cost of living increases, rising only 2.9 percent over the year. The region's frostbitten citrus crop and lagging phosphate production were blamed for decrease.

The state's overall pay increase was .3 percent larger than the nation as a whole. Foster said the improvement reflects the state's solid economic recovery.

"Our job growth is above the national average," he said.

But Florida's wage increase, which averaged $756 a year, still left annual pay $2,001 less than the national average.

The best paid workers in the state were those in the Miami-Hialeah area, with an average salary of $17,411. The area also is one of the state's most expensive to live in, Foster said.

The Space Coast, including Melbourne, Titusville and Palm Bay, ran a close second in average wages — $17,201 — thanks to the presence of the high-paying aerospace industry.

Ocala workers remained at the bottom of the state scale, earning an average of $12,841 a year. The area's rural layout and its lower cost of living were partly responsible for the relatively low wage, Foster said.

Workers in Gainesville and the Forst Lauderdale-Hollywood-Pompano Beach area got the biggest pay increases, of 6.5 percent and 6.2 percent, respectively.

The Labor Department's statistics covered 88 percent of the workforce, excluding soldiers, elected officials, students, most railroad employees, some non-profit agency employees, workers on small farms and domestic workers.

Evidence Tampering In David Kennedy's Death?

MIAMI (UPI) — A lab report shows drugs were found in the toilet of the hotel room where David Kennedy died last April, prompting investigators to speculate someone may have tampered with evidence before police arrived.

Toxicologist Jay Pintacuda was quoted Tuesday as saying investigators had discovered drugs in the toilet of the Brazilian Court Hotel room where the son of assassinated Sen. Robert F. Kennedy died of a combined overdose of cocaine, Demerol and Mellaril.

But Pintacuda, who works for the Palm Beach County Sheriff's Department, declined to identify the drugs found in the toilet.

Two hotel bellhops, David Dorr, 30, of Yarmouth, Mass., and Peter Marchant, 24, of Warwick, R.I., are charged with selling cocaine to Kennedy, who had a long history of drug abuse.

Statements by witnesses indicate investigators suspect someone may have entered the room after Kennedy died, but before his body was found by hotel employees April 25.

Hotel employee Douglas Moschiano told investigators Caroline Kennedy, the daughter of President John Kennedy, and another woman visited the hotel about 10 a.m. — about 90 minutes before Kennedy's body was found.

Moschiano said the two women stopped at the front desk, then walked through the hotel courtyard toward Kennedy's room.

Moschiano was uncertain whether the women had a key to Kennedy's room. But another witness told police a room key was left on the molding above the door to Kennedy's room, allowing access by Kennedy, his younger brother Douglas and a friend, Derek Evans.

Defense lawyers have listed Caroline Kennedy as a possible trial witness.

Ms. Brown said she has told Musgrove to inform the residents they have 18 months to get their addresses clarified with the post office and their correspondents. They can either get a mail box or a post office box.

Mrs. Chadwick said the group doesn't want post office boxes because they don't like to drive two miles to get their mail.

"They like their mail delivered to their door," she said.

In the meantime, she said the group will continue to collect signatures and badger the post office until they get their way.

"All we want is our own post office again and not to be under the jurisdiction and supervision of the Ovidio Post Office," Mrs. Chadwick said.

Musgrove said he will continue to deliver the mail the same efficient, professional way he always has and will try to calm the fears of the residents.

"A lot of people have gotten upset over nothing," he said.

atomic weapons in Vietnam. He called Gerald Ford weak and said he and Henry Kissinger were bowing and scraping before the Soviet Union.

Reagan went back almost as far, citing comments Mondale made when he was the junior senator from Minnesota.

The president quoted Mondale as saying, "The old days of a Soviet strategy of suppression by force are over. And that was just before the Soviet Union invaded Czechoslovakia" in 1968.

"And after they invaded Afghanistan (in 1979), he said, 'It just baffles me why the Soviets, these last few years, have behaved as they have.'"

Reagan said in a speech at the College of Du Page, near Chicago.

"Doesn't he know it's their nature?" Reagan asked the student audience who roared with laughter. "But then, there's so much that baffles him."

The remark about the nature of the Soviets was a throwback for Reagan, who has been trying to distance himself from the tough anti-Soviet rhetoric that characterized much of his term.

Mondale, seizing on the most serious foreign policy question, charged in his California speech that the president's leadership might prove deficient during a nuclear attack.

He noted that Reagan once said that submarine-based nuclear missiles could be recalled, adding that the president might someday be awakened at night and told missiles are on the way.

"At a moment like that, we have a right to demand a president who knows the crucial facts that he must know," Mondale said. "This is a record of profound confusion."

"In view of these (recent) test scores, you would have to say that the levels of fitness of American youth are somewhat below those most experts would regard as desirable," said Dr. Wynn F. Updyke, who compiled the results.

Updyke, associate dean at Indiana University's School of Health, Physical Education and Recreation, blamed school policies that do not require physical education classes after the 8th grade.

"Fitness seems to peak at age 14 and to flatten out or decline from that point on," he said. "This is particularly true of girls."

"Performance should improve though the teens," he said. "But it doesn't in some areas. What this means is that Americans are entering their adult years with a declining fitness profile instead of an improving one."

Cook of the Week

Her Husband Taught Her To Cook

By Brenda Lowe
Herald Correspondent

JoAnne McCall was born and raised in the tiny, picturesque town of Estill, S.C. Her recollections evoke a sense of nostalgia for a simpler day and time.

"There was a real sense of community in Estill. My mother was a widow with three daughters to raise and everyone helped. Our friend's fathers treated us just like we were their own."

"In the summertime, we would sit in the pecan trees and talk. Sometimes we would take our lunch with us and stay there for hours. Those trees were our 'playhouse.' Or we would swim in the community pool which was fed by an artesian well. My mother swam in that same pool when she was a little girl in the early 1900's. And it's still in operation today."

"My grandmother was the first woman in the country to ship sweet potato plants. The men had been doing it for years, of course. We children would help bundle the plants. They were shipped 50 to a bundle. We had the job of putting big rubber bands around them."

"When I was in high school there wasn't much to do but we had dances in the school gymnasium and I played basketball. That was the only sport offered to the girls."

"Going back home to visit is still the ideal vacation for me. And I always make a point of visiting the nurse who took care of my sisters and me while Mother worked. She's just like family."

JoAnne came to Sanford in 1957. In 1958, she met and married her husband, Ed, who is a Florida native. They had five children: Edward, Stephanie, Mason, Stephen and Alison. The family lived away from Sanford for a while, but returned three years ago. At that time, Ed purchased the Thrifty Service Station on East Second Street. JoAnne is employed as a secretary at Seminole High School.

Of her cooking, JoAnne says: "When Ed and I first married I didn't know how to cook. We lived on bacon, lettuce and tomato sandwiches and eggs. Ed taught me a lot about cooking, which he learned from his mother. When I was growing up, our nurse Kate did all the cooking. And I had no interest in learning about it then."

JoAnne says she enjoys reading and playing bridge but her favorite hobby is doing counted cross-stitch. She says that it's impossible to think of problems or anything else while doing it. Consequently, it is very relaxing for her.

JoAnne's recipes offer a variety of tastes. Following are some of her favorites:

VENISON ROAST

4 to 5 pound venison roast salt, pepper and garlic to taste bacon strips to cover roast potatoes onions

Salt and pepper the roast and place in baking pan with just enough water to cover the bottom of the pan. Cover with bacon strips. Place potatoes and onions around the roast and bake at 275 degrees for 4 to 5 hours. The bacon takes the "wild" flavor out.

CHICKEN BAKE

Prison Pen Pal Wants Address Kept Secret

DEAR ABBY: We fellow inmates do not believe a prisoner should have to identify himself as a man who is in prison when he's corresponding with a pen pal.

Sure, we prisoners have made mistakes in our lives, but there are plenty of people who have committed crimes and are still on the street because they haven't been caught.

Most prisoners are trying to get their lives together and we think they should be given a chance.

Please publish this, Abby.

DOING TIME IN FREDONIA, KY.

DEAR DOING TIME: I agree, prisoners should be given a chance to get their lives together. I'm for wiping the slate clean after they have paid their debt to society. But while they're in prison and corresponding with strangers on the outside, I think those strangers should be aware that their pen pals are in prison.

DEAR ABBY: You published a piece titled "What Is a Grandmother?" You said a reader clipped it out of the Catholic Digest, and it was written by a 9-year-old third-grade girl.

I found the piece very engaging, Abby, but I enjoyed it more when I read it in Erma Bombeck's column about 10 years ago. (Some teacher must have been awfully naive to believe it was written by a 9-year-old third-grade girl.)

ANOTHER GRANDMOTHER

DEAR GRANDMOTHER: I promptly sent your letter and the piece in question to my friend Erma Bombeck, with this frantic SOS:

"Dear Erma: Help! Did you write the enclosed piece, or was it written by a third-grader? This reader says she read it in your column about 10 years ago. Please help clear up this mystery.—Abby"

Erma replied at once, stating that the piece appeared in her column on May 8, 1970, at which time she gave credit to the 9-year-old third-grader who had written it.

Since that time, the piece has appeared in the Catholic Digest (and in several other publications). So you were right, you did read it in Erma's column, but you apparently forgot that Erma had credited the 9-year-old author.

DEAR ABBY: A few years ago, I gave my next-door neighbor a gift. Last week she had a yard sale and put my gift out to sell. When I saw it, I asked her if I could please have it back, and she said, "No, but I will sell it to you," so I bought it.

Abby, neither one of us is destitute, so the $2 I paid to buy it back didn't break me, nor did it make her rich.

How would you have handled it? And was I wrong to feel hurt?

NAMELESS, PLEASE

DEAR NAMELESS: When I saw my gift for sale, I'd have quietly bought it without comment.

Were you wrong to feel hurt? Feelings are neither right nor wrong. In this instance, I think they were appropriate.

Volusia Fair Nov. 1-11

Musical madness, elephants, tigers, trapeze artists, clowns, mime and gospel singing — it's all happening at the Volusia County Fair, Nov. 1-11.

One of the stars of the show is Vic Hyde who dazzles his audience with his musical madcapery and humorous patter. Vic, a Michigan native now living in Florida, performs such musical feats as playing the organ and trumpet at the same time, the organ with one finger and two coronets at once and climaxes his repertoire of songs for all ages by playing six coronets at once.

No fair is complete without a circus and the Volusia County Fair will for the second year present The Hannefords.

The Hannefords perform in the true tradition of the traveling circus under the big top. The circus boasts 28 performers: eight Siberian tigers, two lions, three Indian elephants, ponies and dogs.

Sunday, Nov. 4, will be Church Sunday, highlighted by outstanding gospel singing groups. At 2 p.m., Uncle Al and The LeFevres will inspire listeners with their gospel music that has earned them two Grammy nominations.

Lunch Packing Ideas Make Mornings Easier

A new school year signals the start of morning rush hour in many households. The kitchen is often the scene of family traffic jams as household members prepare on-the-run breakfasts and hastily pack bag lunches.

To put an end to some of the morning confusion and to help provide more creative, nutritious take-along lunches, here are some suggestions:

— Create a bag lunch menu that allows you to shop and plan ahead for supplies.

— Keep utensils, countertops and cutting boards clean.

— Spread butter, margarine or mayonnaise right up to the edges on both slices of bread to prevent sandwich fillings from seeping through and jellies and jams from "weeping."

— Spread bread slices or hamburger buns out and, using an ice cream scoop, fill sandwiches assembly line fashion.

— Stack several sandwiches together and cut all at once.

— Cut sandwiches for youngsters in small, fun shapes — hamburger buns into ple-wedge quarters or bread into diagonal strips.

— For dieters, put sandwich filling into a scooped-out tomato or roll up in a lettuce leaf. Seal into a sandwich bag.

BANANA QUICK BREAD SANDWICH

WITH PEANUT BUTTER BACON FILLING

Filling:
1 loaf Banana Quick Bread, (recipe below)
1 tablespoon peanut butter per sandwich
1 slice crumbled bacon per sandwich

Mix 1 slice crumbled bacon with 1 tablespoon peanut butter for each sandwich. Slice bread into 1/2" slices and spread with filling. Assemble finished sandwich and store in individual sandwich bags.

BANANA QUICK BREAD

1 1/2 cup flour
1 1/2 teaspoon baking powder
1/2 teaspoon baking soda
3/4 teaspoon salt
3/4 cup sugar
1/2 cup shortening
2 eggs
2 tablespoons milk
1 cup mashed ripe bananas (2-3 medium)

1/4 cup chopped nuts
Pre-heat oven to 350 degrees. Mix together the flour, baking powder, soda and salt. Set aside.

Using an electric mixer, cream sugar and shortening until light, scraping sides of bowl often. Add eggs, one at a time, and the milk, beating until smooth after each addition. Add flour mixture and bananas to creamed sugar and shortening, beating until smooth after each addition. Fold in nuts. Pour batter into a lightly greased 8x4x2" loaf pan. Bake for 60-65 minutes. Cool in pan 10 minutes. Remove from pan; cool.

CHICKEN SALAD SANDWICH IN HARD ROLL

Dressing:
1/4 cup sour cream
1/4 cup mayonnaise

2 tablespoons pickle juice
2 dashes hot pepper sauce
1/4 teaspoon salt

Filling:
3 cups cubed cooked chicken
1/2 cup chopped celery
1/2 cup sliced green onions
2 tablespoons chopped gherkins
6 hard rolls
Combine ingredients for dressing. Add chicken, celery, onions and pickles. Slice top off hard roll, hollow out and fill with chicken salad mixture. Replace top. Store individually in sandwich bags. Makes 6 sandwiches.

Baked Fish Is Elegant Dish

A whole fish, baked with vegetables in a butter-wine sauce, makes an attractive dish for guests. And baking a fish is simple to do.

Add a green salad and fresh croissants for a special dining event.

BAKED RED SNAPPER PROVENÇE

6 tablespoons butter or margarine, divided
1 whole red snapper or striped

(4 to 6 pounds) dressed
3 Idaho potatoes, parboiled, pared and sliced

3 thin lemon slices
2 tomatoes, quartered
1 large onion, sliced
1/4 pound small fresh mushrooms

2 cloves garlic, mashed
2 bay leaves
2 sprigs fresh thyme, chopped or 1/4 teaspoon dried leaf thyme
1/4 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon pepper
2 1/2 cups dry white wine

Coat braiser or roasting pan with 2 tablespoons butter. Place whole fish in pan. Arrange potatoes, lemon, tomatoes, onion, mushrooms and garlic around fish.

Sprinkle with bay leaves, thyme, salt and pepper. Dot with remaining 4 tablespoons butter. Pour wine over and around fish. Cover.

Bake in a 350-degree oven for 30 to 40 minutes or until fish is tender and flakes easily with a fork. Serve with lightly sauteed green beans. This kitchen-tested recipe makes 4 servings.

(Note: A sauce can be made by reducing 1/4 cup of the pan juice to 1/4 cup. Remove from heat and cool slightly. Whipping constantly, add enough softened butter to make a thickened butter sauce. Adjust seasoning.

Score With Fall Tailgate Picnic

Tailgate feast features Marinated Steak Sandwiches.

Tailgate picnics have become football season classics, combining good food, friends and pre-game enthusiasm. To plan a winning stadium-side celebration or backyard pre-game party, here are some tips:

- Plan menus with easy-to-serve recipes that can be prepared ahead. Add zest to beef sandwiches by marinating steaks in a spicy herb sauce for up to 24 hours before serving. Cover the marinade mixture securely with plastic film retain flavor.
- Broil steak and thinly slice (just before departing for the picnic site). Package meat in Saran Wrap and place in an insulated thermal container.
- Bring along a creative array of fresh fruits and cheeses or try a winning combination of favorites. Core and cut a pear in half, dipping in lemon juice to prevent browning. Fill the pear cavity with soft Brie cheese; sprinkle with chopped pecans.

- Clean and slice crisp vegetables, wrapping in plastic wrap and neatly tucking in a picnic basket. Take along a simple dip to complete the course.

To help plan creative tailgate picnics, the makers of Saran Wrap have prepared the following recipe suggestions.

Marinated Sirloin Steak Sandwiches

Steak Marinade:
 ½ cup olive oil
 ¼ cup red wine vinegar
 2 tablespoons soy sauce
 1 teaspoon minced fresh ginger root
 1 clove garlic, sliced
 2 green onions, chopped
 Whisk together oil, red wine vinegar and soy sauce. Stir in ginger, garlic and onions. Place meat into marinade, turning several times. Cover with Saran Wrap, place in refrigerator for 6 hours or up to 24 hours.
 1 sirloin steak, 1½" thick, approximately 3 lbs., marinated overnight.

Broiling Instructions:
 Place marinated steak on broiler pan 5" from heat source. Broil 8 minutes on each side. Let stand 5 minutes. Slice very thin for sandwiches.* Assemble on pita or pumpernickel bread, or hard rolls, with Bleu Cheese Spread for added zest. Sandwiches can be topped with sliced onion rings, tomato and avocado slices. Wrap sandwiches individually in Saran Wrap.

Bleu Cheese Spread
 3 oz. cream cheese
 1 tablespoon bleu cheese
 ¼ teaspoon hot sauce
 Soften the cream cheese, stir in bleu cheese and hot sauce. Mix to spreading consistency. Makes about ¼ cup.

Pears With Brie
 4 Bartlett pears, halved and cored
 Lemon Juice
 4 oz. Brie, room temperature
 Chopped pecans
 Cut pears in half, lengthwise, and core. Dip cut edges in lemon juice to prevent browning. Fill cavity with soft Brie; sprinkle with pecans. Wrap halves individually in Saran Wrap. Chill until ready to pack in picnic lunch. Makes 8 one-half pear servings.

Grapefruit Pie A New Twist

Lemon pie and Key Lime pie have always been American citrus-dessert favorites. For a change, shift your basic citrus ingredient to grapefruit juice and continue to make a creamy rich treat. This one has a chocolate crumb crust and is topped with toasted coconut.

CREAMY GRAPEFRUIT PIE WITH CHOCOLATE CRUMB CRUST
 1 box chocolate wafer cookies
 ¼ cup butter or margarine, melted
 1 cup sugar
 1 envelope (1 tablespoon) unflavored gelatin
 ¼ teaspoon salt
 1 cup grapefruit juice
 3 large eggs, separated
 ¼ cup heavy cream, whipped
 ¼ cup toasted coconut
 Heat oven to 350 degrees. Crush enough cookies to yield 1 ½ cups crumbs. Reserve remaining cookies (there should be at least 12). Put crumbs in a 9-inch pie plate; add butter and mix until crumbs are moistened.
 Press crumbs over bottom and up sides of plate to form crust. Bake 10 minutes; remove from oven and cool completely on a wire rack.

In a small saucepan mix sugar, gelatin, salt and bottled grapefruit juice. Heat at low setting, stirring constantly, until sugar and gelatin are completely dissolved. Beat egg yolks in a small bowl; beat in gelatin mixture and return to saucepan.

Heat over low heat for 4 to 5 minutes. Do not overcook, mixture will curdle. Pour into a small bowl; put a piece of plastic wrap directly on surface of custard and chill about 1 hour or until mixture begins to set.

In a small bowl, beat egg whites with an electric mixer at high speed until stiff peaks form. Fold into chilled custard mixture with whipped cream until well blended.

Pour about ¾ of the mixture into pie shell. Insert 12 of the remaining cookies around edge of filling, overlapping them slightly, to form a high scalloped rim. Add remaining filling and sprinkle with coconut. Chill 4 hours before serving. This kitchen-tested recipe makes 8 servings.

Diet Key In Managing Painful Diverticulitis

Dr. Lamb

DEAR DR. LAMB — My medical book says that diverticulosis is a weakening of the large bowel, with inflammation and outpockets of mucus membrane lining the bowel in the weakened areas. It says that treatment includes elimination of the underlying infection, and sometimes surgery is required.

If this is an infection, can it be cured with medicine or is surgery the answer? I've had this problem for just the past eight months. Can diet help? I eat grains and cereals and drink milk. Can any of these affect the problem?

DEAR READER — You may be confused about what your medical book describes. Diverticulosis is not an infection. It involves spots in the wall of the colon that are weakened, perhaps because an artery penetrates the colon at that point. The inner lining of the colon then ruptures through the weakened muscular wall to form little sac-like protrusions, which are called diverticula. So they are little ruptures.

If one of these gets inflamed, the condition is called diverticulitis. This is an infection and does require treatment with antibiotics. But probably no more than 1 percent of people with diverticulosis develop diverticulitis as a complication.

The symptoms most people complain about are related to spasm of the colon, distention and crampy pain. It is not even clear whether these are caused by the diverticula or if the diverticula develop because of the underlying spastic colon.

An attack of diverticulitis is of short duration and is much like an attack of acute appendicitis. After you recover from the attack, you usually do not have another one. But people do have recurrent complaints, which are more properly related to a spastic colon.

Yes, diet is very important in the management of diverticulitis. Most doctors believe that unless one of the complications is present, a diet that contains lots of bulk is helpful. However, you need to avoid things that produce gas, which may include bran or even bulk laxatives. Milk may also cause gas, which contributes to the spastic-colon symptoms.

DEAR DR. LAMB — Please explain dilation of the aorta. Is it a more diplomatic way of saying "aneurysm of the aorta"?

DEAR READER — No. Dilation of the aorta means just that — the aorta is dilated. The aorta is the large artery that receives blood from the left side of the heart when it contracts and carries oxygenated blood to the body. It often widens as people get older. One reason for this widening is the gradual loss of elastic fibers in the wall of the aorta. It is not an indication of significant heart disease.

Send your questions to Dr. Lamb, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019.

WIN AT BRIDGE

By James Jacoby

Dr. James Tucker of Abilene, Texas, was my partner two months ago in a regional Swiss team event held in St. Louis. "Swiss team" refers to the format of the competition and the nationality of the contestants or what type of dairy product they might be carrying in their pockets. My team, and all others, played eight short matches, consisting of seven deals. The team with the best win-loss record at the end of the day wins the event. Since the matches are short, it is possible to know by the sixth or seventh deal of the match if it is reasonable to press a bit.

It was just such a situation for Jim Tucker, who held the South cards. Our opponents had outplayed us on the earlier deals in the match, and both of us knew we needed a pickup. When West bid one club, I passed, hoping the opponents were headed for trouble. Tucker reopened the bidding with one diamond. I cue-bid two clubs and he rightly showed his heart suit. My four-diamond bid was meant not only to force but also to imply slam interest. He needed no further urging. Knowing we needed a good result, he promptly bid six diamonds.

Since our opponents at the other table had stopped in three no-trump, bidding six diamonds was enough to erase our earlier deficit and win this particular match of seven deals.

HOROSCOPE

What The Day Will Bring...

YOUR BIRTHDAY
OCTOBER 18, 1984

This coming year you are going to make a valuable new friend. He or she will be introduced to you through someone you already know. Your new pal will be instrumental in opening up many new vistas.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Someone you haven't been too closely in touch with may pop into your mind today. Follow your intuition and contact him or her. The areas in which you'll be the luckiest in the year ahead are revealed in your Astro-Graph predictions for the coming year.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) The only stimulus you'll need to awaken your ambitions today is to visualize the material rewards and what they'll mean to you. Use your imagination.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec.

21) Experience is a great teacher and today you'll be one who has profited from your past mistakes. You'll derive victory where you once met failure.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Your imagination and resourcefulness are the trump cards which will give you the edge over your competitors in difficult business dealings today.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) In order to enjoy today to its fullest, it's important that you spend your time with friends whose interests and ideas are in harmony with yours.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) There are some unusual career opportunities hovering about you today. Others might not appreciate their value, but fortunately you'll recognize their worth.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Things which contain elements of chance could work out rather well for you today. You'll understand the difference between a foolish gamble and a calculated risk.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) An unexpected shift in conditions will occur today that will be of benefit to you and your family. All of its ramifications won't be visible.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) You have the ability today to improve upon and put into action the good ideas offered by others. Don't let your talents go unused.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Be alert today because a material opportunity could suddenly develop from a least expected source. It could be quickly withdrawn, so act promptly.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Enterprises or ventures you originate today have excellent chances of living up to your expectations. Don't dillydally getting them started.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) The opening you've been hoping for to put the finishing touches on an unclosed matter could present itself today.

Time Saving Ideas For Busy Cooks

Remember to set back the clock one hour Saturday night, Oct. 27. That's the only day this year that will have 25 hours.

But when you have only the regular 24 hours, time often isn't on your side. That's when you really need fast food ideas, such as:

Freeze Ahead: Bake two pans of Chocolate Caramel Squares and freeze one for later. Individually wrapped frozen squares are super for bag lunches.

Make Ahead: Chocolate Chip Cheesecake with Raspberry Topping is great for entertaining. Prepare the dessert at your convenience and store it in the refrigerator until serving time. There's no last-minute fuss.

Start with a Mix: Quick and easy muffin mix is great for muffins, true. It also is the instant base for old-fashioned Apple-Blueberry Crisp.

Let Someone Else Do It: Isn't it time to let the kids make Clock Cake? Adding hand-decorated cookie clocks to this pomped-up version of chocolate cake won't take but a minute.

CLOCK CAKE
1/4 cup strawberry preserves
1 package stir 'n frost chocolate peanut butter chip cake mix with milk chocolate frosting
6 vanilla-type wafers
6 pieces candy corn, cut lengthwise into halves

Mash preserves in small bowl with fork to break up large pieces. Prepare cake mix as directed on package except — drizzle preserves over batter. Bake and cool as directed. (Cake will have craters from the preserves.)

Make dots of frosting with wooden pick on wafers to represent numbers of a clock. Brush edges of candy corn with water; place 2 halves, cut sides down, in center of vanilla wafers to represent hands of clock. Frost cake with remaining frosting. Press vanilla wafers evenly on cake. Cut cake into 6 pieces, each having a clock in center of piece. 6 servings.

CHOCOLATE CHIP CHEESE CAKE WITH RASPBERRY TOPPING
1 1/2 cups finely crushed chocolate cookie crumbs
2 tablespoons sugar
1/4 cup margarine or butter, melted

3 packages (8 ounces each) cream cheese, softened
1 tub creamy deluxe chocolate chip or chocolate chocolate chip ready-to-spread frosting
3 eggs

1 tablespoon vanilla
Raspberry Topping (below)
Heat oven to 350 degrees F. Butter springform pan, 9 x 3 inches, or square pan, 9 x 9 x 2 inches. Mix crumbs and sugar; stir in margarine. Press in bottom and halfway up sides of pan. Bake 10 minutes; cool.

Heat oven to 300 degrees. Beat cream cheese in large bowl until light and fluffy. Add frosting, eggs and vanilla; beat until smooth. Pour over crumb mixture. Bake until center is firm, about 1 1/4 hours (center may look slightly glossy). Refrigerate at least 3 hours. Loosen edge of cheesecake with knife before removing side of pan. Spoon Raspberry Topping over each serving. 12 to 16 servings.

Raspberry Topping Mix: Mix 1 package (10 ounces) frozen raspberries, thawed, and 2 teaspoons cornstarch in small saucepan. Cook over medium heat, stirring constantly, until thickened and clear. Stir in 1/2 cup red currant jelly until melted; cool.

CHOCOLATE CARAMEL SQUARES
1 package brownie supreme mix (with can of Chocolate Flavor Syrup)
1/4 cup plus 2 tablespoons water

1 1/2 cups powdered sugar
1/2 cup chopped nuts

Drizzle reserved Chocolate Flavor Syrup over caramel topping; swirl gently. Cool completely; cut into 1 1/2 inch squares. Refrigerate any remaining squares. 48 squares.

Heat oven to 350 degrees. Drain blueberries; rinse. Mix blueberries, apples, sugar, cinnamon and nutmeg. Spoon into ungreased square pan, 9 x 9 x 2 inches. Mix muffin mix, margarine and nuts until crumbly; sprinkle over blueberry mixture. Bake until golden brown and blueberry mixture begins to bubble around edges. 30 to 40 minutes. Serve warm with Spicy Whipped Cream. 6 to 8 servings.

East Meets West At John's Diner

By John DeMers

FORT WALTON BEACH (UPI) — Rudyard Kipling, who carried on about East and West having no common ground, obviously never lunched on barbecued chicken, mashed potatoes and Tawm Yahn Gai at John's Diner.

John Robertson, a veteran of both Navy and Air Force who ran three restaurants in Thailand, mixes the country cooking of his Missouri boyhood with the spicy delights of his wife's native cuisine.

"I've been to every country in the world and eaten in every major city," said Robertson, 59, sipping coffee at his table near the kitchen. "But I've never seen anybody else put chicken and dumplings and fried rice on the same damn menu."

That menu is the heart of the diner's fascination. The list juggles items like meatloaf, baked ham and rice and gravy with the pungent, texture-rich creations of Thailand.

These Oriental dishes, though similar in some ways to Chinese, are almost always spicier and lighter, sidestepping heavy breading and the ever-present sweet and sour for sauces built on meat stocks and spiked with an assortment of Thai peppers.

The kitchen has a series of imaginary lines dividing the American and Thai cooks, the latter brought over by Robertson through a dizzying complex of contacts and paperwork.

The Americans come in before dawn, to make breakfast and start the time-consuming baking and roasting. They also get the stock pots going, so the Thais can leap directly into stir-frying as soon as they arrive about 10 a.m.

"That's the part everybody said would never work," Robertson remembered. "It took me two years to convince them it would work, because it worked for me in Thailand."

He blends different types of soy sauce to achieve a consistency and flavor unavailable commercially. He also grows five types of hot peppers to assure supply and price — jalapeno, cayenne and three brought in from Thailand.

Robertson detects most requests for recipes from his diner by explaining his cooks do their work without any.

That cuisine, like most found in the Orient, is an accumulation of techniques rather than a handy set of steps. And besides, he adds, few home cooks would spend the hours required to produce the meat stocks at the heart of his best dishes.

With some prodding, however, Robertson parts with a quick and easy recipe of sorts for his Thai Curry, a dish far removed from the thicker, darker versions served in India.

He says it can be made with vegetable oil instead of stock, but in home testing the addition of canned chicken broth pushed the product miles closer to that enjoyed at the restaurant.

Much is left to the individual taste buds. For example, people who love the taste of curry can increase the amount of powder added. Those with no particular feeling for curry but an affection for highly spiced dishes can add a few ground jalapeno peppers in lemon juice (a liquid the Thais tend to substitute for vinegar).

THAI CURRY

- 2 chicken breasts
- 3 tablespoons chicken broth or vegetable oil
- 2 large onions, sliced and separated
- 1/2 cup bamboo shoots
- 4 ounces canned coconut milk (curdles less than fresh)
- 6 ounces canned chicken broth
- 2 ounces whole milk
- 4 tablespoons dry red curry powder
- 1/4 tablespoon Nampla fish sauce (Thai fish sauce, available in specialty stores)

Stir fry the chicken pieces in 3 tablespoons of broth or vegetable oil until they are cooked through but not brown, then set aside to cool. Lightly saute the sliced onions until they begin to soften, then add bamboo shoots, coconut milk, whole milk and 6 ounces of chicken broth.

When that mixture begins to bubble, stir in the curry powder. Cover and let simmer for 10 minutes before adding the Thai fish sauce, starting with 1/2 teaspoon and increasing to taste.

Served over white rice, the curry serves six as part of a full Thai meal or four as a main course. Crushed jalapeno peppers in lemon juice should be served on the side so diners can stoke up the dish as much as they prefer.

Note: Though John's Diner does not do so, frozen peas, chopped and lightly sauteed green peppers or whole red peppers can be added to give the mixture color.

Freeze Now, Enjoy It Later

Increasingly, the motivation for having a garden is not a matter of economics, it's a matter of taste and nutrition.

These days, freezing is the preferred mode of "putting up" the autumn squash, beets and broccoli being harvested now. Most foods preserved by freezing can be stored for up to 10 months.

Whether you grow your own vegetables, or buy them by the bushel at roadside markets or in city-side farmer's markets, the makers of freezer bags have the following suggestions for successfully harvesting frozen vegetables:

- Select young, recently picked vegetables at their flavor peak. Freezing will help preserve, but not improve the quality of foods.

- After cleaning and trimming a vegetable, blanch in steam, boiling water or microwave oven, according to cookbook directions.

- Pack vegetables into airtight pint, quart or gallon freezer bags. Press as much air as possible from bags before sealing.

- Freeze broccoli, beans, carrots and beets individually on cookie sheets placed in the freezer. When vegetable pieces are frozen nearly solid, transfer into bags and place in the freezer. The desired amount of vegetables can be poured from the bag when needed.

Label bags with the type of vegetable, date and number of servings. Keep track of freezer inventory with a freezer notebook, including lists of foods contained in the freezer, the date and where they can be located.

- For quickest freezing, place bags of vegetables against walls of freezer. Leave small spaces

Desserts For Fall

An eye-catching, elegant — but easy — addition to any autumn party menu is a molded, fresh pear and cranberry frozen salad. The two uncooked fruits — mixed with cinnamon and sugar — are combined with tangy yogurt, gelatin and La Creme whipped topping with real cream. For convenience, the creamy frozen salad may be prepared a day or two before the party date. To make unmolding easy at serving time, oil the mold lightly before filling.

More fast (but fancy) full party fare from the freezer are Frosty Pumpkin Squares. A fluffy pumpkin filling, luscious with frozen whipped topping and spicy with cinnamon and nutmeg, is spooned over a ginger snap cookie crust made with pecans...then topped with a creamy topping subtly flavored with coffee granules.

When party preparation time is super-limited, serve the after-dinner beverage as dessert! Hot coffee laced with creme de cacao, creme de menthe or amaretto and topped with frozen whipped topping with real cream is a "simply" spectacular way to end an evening.

Microwave Magic

Please Hubby With Hearty Beef Stews

When I can't make up my mind about what to have for dinner my husband will often suggest stew. I guess most men do like a good hearty meat and potatoes combination. It's quite possible to achieve a tasty, tender meat stew with your microwave if you follow a few simple rules.

The cuts of meat for most stews are the less tender cuts from the round, fore shank, and chuck. These cuts require moisture and longer and slower cooking for tenderization. If your microwave has a variable power setting program, cook on medium or low (50%-30% power). Cook with the container covered with a tight fitting lid. The steam is a secondary cooking agent. Moisture may be supplied by bouillon, water, wine or fruit juices. Cut the cubes of beef in ¾-1-inch uniform pieces. I have found the size of the cubes cut by the butcher too large; therefore, requiring much more cooking time for tenderization.

With these few microwave hints a flavorful beef stew can be on your table in an hour. Normally this time would be doubled at least.

sliced
 1 rib celery, cut in ½-inch slices
 2 medium turnips, cut in eights
 1 large onion, sliced; or 6 boiler onions left whole
 1 bay leaf
 1 tablespoon instant beef bouillon
 1 teaspoon sugar
 1 teaspoon salt
 ¼ teaspoon pepper
 1½-2 cups water
 ½ package (10 ounce) frozen peas

Toss meat and flour together to coat well. Place in a 3-quart casserole. Stir in remaining ingredients, except peas. Cover. Microwave on 100% power for 5 minutes. Reduce power to 50% (medium). Microwave for 35 minutes. Str. Cover. Microwave 40 to 45 minutes, or until meat is fork tender. Add peas during last 10 minutes of the cooking. Let stand covered for 10 minutes before serving.

If there are just two of you for dinner, this reduced portion recipe might be a good solution.

STEW FOR TWO
 ¾-1 pound stew beef, cut into ½-inch cubes
 2 tablespoons flour
 1 medium potato, peeled and cut into ½-inch cubes
 2 medium carrots, thinly sliced
 4 small onions, left whole
 1 clove garlic, minced
 ¼ cup water
 ½ cup red wine
 1½ teaspoon instant beef bouillon
 ¼ teaspoon salt
 ¼ teaspoon pepper
 1 cup sliced fresh mushrooms

Toss meat and flour together. Use a 3-quart casserole to prevent boil over during the microwaving. Stir in remaining ingredients except mushrooms. Cover. Microwave on 100% power 3 minutes. Reduce power to 50% (medium), microwave 40 to 50 minutes, or until meat is fork tender. Let stand, covered, 10 minutes before serving.

One more recipe for stew! This has a few extras for special flavor and color.

HERBED BEEF STEW
 ¾ pounds stew meat, cut in 1-inch cubes
 1 tablespoon flour
 ½ teaspoon salt
 2 tablespoons shortening
 1 cup tomato juice
 ¼-teaspoon powdered bay leaf
 Dash of thyme
 ½ teaspoon Accent (can be omitted)
 ¾ cup red wine — or apple juice or water
 2 teaspoons vinegar
 ¾ cup thinly sliced carrots
 1 medium potato, cubed
 1 rib celery, sliced
 6 small onions
 ½ cup frozen peas

Coat meat with flour and salt. Brown in shortening on range top or in a browning dish for the microwave. Add tomato juice, seasonings, wine and vinegar. Cover, microwave for 20 minutes. Add celery, potato, onion and carrots. Microwave on 100% power for 10 minutes. Add peas and cook 2 minutes longer. Allow to stand, covered for 6 minutes. Serve.

Complete the beef stew meals with a crusty bread, a congealed salad and baked apples.

Oranges Brighten Pot Roast

Pot roast has been a family stretch dish for years. It's good when first served with vegetables cooked in the basting liquid. And many believe it's even better as sandwich meat.

This Mexican version uses several seasonings to add a special flavor to this braised beef roast. The long cooking time will tenderize less expensive cuts.

Add to the original gravy and serve, with the meat sliced thinly, on toast for breakfast or lunch.

MEXICAN BEEF WITH ORANGE SAUCE

1 4-pound pot roast of beef (rump or chuck roast)
 Salt
 Pepper
 3 tablespoons vegetable oil
 2 celery stalks, diced
 2 large onions, diced, (2 cups)
 1 ½ cups beef broth
 2 cups orange juice
 2 cloves garlic, minced
 ½ teaspoon dried leaf thyme
 ¼ teaspoon ground coriander
 ¼ teaspoon ground cinnamon
 ¼ teaspoon ground cloves
 1 orange, thinly sliced

Sprinkle meat with salt and pepper. Heat oil in Dutch oven or heavy kettle. Brown meat on all sides. Remove from pan. Set aside. Saute celery and onions in pan until golden; return meat to pan.

Add broth, orange juice, garlic, thyme, coriander, cinnamon and cloves. Cover. Simmer on top of stove, or cook in 350-degree oven 2 ½ to 3 hours until meat is tender, turning meat occasionally during cooking.

Remove meat from broth, let stand 10 to 15 minutes. Slice into ¼-inch slices; arrange on heated shallow platter.

Garnish with orange slices. Skim fat from broth. Strain broth over meat. This kitchen-tested recipe makes 6 servings.

Sauerkraut

The Stuff Of Which Legends Are Made

Legend has it that sauerkraut came from the diet of laborers who built the Great Wall of China. The summer staple of shredded cabbage and rice was fermented with a rice wine for winter meals.

Eventually, the dish found its way to Europe where the "soured cabbage" vegetable dish was further developed by the Austrians.

Kraut has several nutritive values, including vitamin C, and has proved a tasty staple to grace a variety of wurst and pork dishes. Kraut relishes are year-round favorites and may be sandwich fillings or toppers for meats and cheeses, served hot or cold.

CUCUMBER-KRAUT RELISH

- 1 1/2 cups sauerkraut
- 1 cup chopped cucumber
- 3 scallions, chopped
- 1 garlic clove, minced
- 1/2 teaspoon dillweed

In a medium bowl, combine all ingredients. Refrigerate until ready to serve. This kitchen-tested recipe makes about 2 cups.

CAPONATA-KRAUT RELISH

- 2 tablespoons salad oil

- 1 garlic clove, minced
- 1 small eggplant, diced
- 1 medium onion, diced
- 1 16-ounce can tomatoes, drained
- 1 teaspoon basil leaves
- 1 cup sauerkraut
- 1/4 cup chopped green olives

In Dutch oven, heat oil over medium heat. Stir in garlic, eggplant and onion; saute 5 minutes until onion is tender-crisp.

Stir in tomatoes and basil; cover and simmer 15 minutes over medium-low heat until eg-plant is tender. Stir in kraut and olives; cook 5 minutes longer until heated through.

Serve warm or chilled. This kitchen-tested recipe makes about 4 cups.

GARDEN KRAUT RELISH

(Makes about 2 1/2 cups)

- 1 1/2 cups sauerkraut
- 1/2 cup thinly sliced celery
- 1/2 cup chopped green pepper
- 1/4 cup minced radishes

In medium bowl, combine all ingredients. Refrigerate until ready to serve.

CARROT-ONION-KRAUT RELISH

(Makes about 2 1/2 cups)

- 1 1/2 cups sauerkraut
- 1 cup shredded carrots
- 1 medium red onion, sliced into thin rings

1 teaspoon caraway seed
In medium bowl, combine all ingredients. Refrigerate until ready to serve. This kitchen-tested recipe makes about 3 cups.

Talking Turkey

You might think that because turkey is the main attraction in many an American holiday meal most consumers know all they need or want to know about how to buy, store, thaw, stuff, and prepare it. The following commonly asked questions to the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Meat and Poultry Hotline show that's not the case.

Question: How can I figure out the correct size turkey to buy?

Answer: You can figure on 1 pound of turkey per person. If the turkey is prestuffed, allow 1 1/4 pounds per person. This will provide generous servings with enough leftover for second day dishes.

Question: What is the safest way to thaw a turkey?

Answer: Your best bet is to thaw the turkey in your refrigerator. Simply place the turkey in its original wrap on a tray or in a pan to catch moisture that accumulates as it thaws. An 8 to 12 pound turkey will take 1 to 2 days to thaw; a 12 to 16 pound turkey 2 to 3 days; a 16 to 20 pound turkey 3 to 4 days; and a 20 to 24 pound turkey 4 to 5 days.

Question: I forgot to take my turkey out of the freezer to allow enough time for it to thaw in the refrigerator. Isn't there a faster method that is also safe?

Answer: You can thaw the turkey in cold water. Check the wrapping to make sure it has no tears. Then simply place the bird in its unopened bag in the sink or in a large container and cover it with cold water. If the wrapping is torn, place the turkey in another plastic bag, close securely, and then place in water. You will need to change the water frequently — about every 30 minutes — to assure safe but effective thawing. An 8 to 12 pound turkey will take 4 to 6 hours; a 12 to 16 pound turkey 6 to 9 hours; 16 to 20 pound turkey 9 to 11 hours; and a 20 to 24 pound turkey 11 to 12 hours.

Question: I want to stuff my turkey. When should I do it?

Answer: Turkeys should be stuffed only at the last minute. However, the dry stuffing ingredients may be prepared the day before, tightly covered, and left at room temperature. The perishables (butter or margarine, mushrooms, oysters, cooked celery and onions, broth) should be refrigerated. The ingredients should then be combined just before stuffing the turkey. Allow three-fourths of a cup of stuffing for each pound of ready-to-eat turkey. Extra stuffing may be baked separately.

Question: How can I tell when my turkey is done?

Answer: The most reliable method for detecting doneness is by using a meat thermometer. The turkey is done when the temperature reaches 180 degrees F. to 185 degrees F. in the inner thigh of whole turkeys and in the center of the thickest part of turkey pieces. To check the stuffing, insert the thermometer through the body cavity into the thickest part of the stuffing and leave it for 5 minutes. As soon as your turkey is completely cooked, you should remove all the stuffing from the cavities. Harmful bacteria is more likely to grow in the stuffing if it sits in the bird after cooking. If you do not need all the stuffing for first servings, you can put the remaining stuffing in the oven at 200 degrees F. to keep hot until you need it.

Question: How long is it safe to keep cooked turkey leftovers at room temperature?

Answer: Think of the post-cooking stage as a countdown which begins when you take the turkey out of the oven. From that time you have approximately 2 hours to serve it and then refrigerate or freeze the leftovers — the turkey, stuffing, and gravy — before bacteria that cause food poisoning can multiply to undesirable levels.

Easy supper of Italian Beef Patties starts in a frozen cooking bag.

Key To Fast Italian Meals Is 'In The Bag'

Sitting down to a home-cooked Italian supper seems like the perfect ending to a long hectic day, but putting it on the table can be the last thing you feel like doing. Who has the time?

Forget the hours of stirring and simmering. Help is here, and it's "in the bag." Single serving cookin' bags of frozen prepared chicken a la king, Salisbury steak or breaded veal parmigian can be transformed into savory Italian suppers with the addition of a few simple ingredients. In their easy-to-use packages, these entrees help to create a meal for two in less than 20 minutes.

Keeping a supply of cookin' bag entrees in the freezer makes it easy to fix a Roman classic after the busiest day. Italian Beef Patties start with two cookin' bags of Salisbury steak and gravy. Add canned mushrooms, tomato, seasonings and serve hot over crusty hard rolls.

ITALIAN BEEF PATTIES

2 packages (5 oz. ea.) frozen prepared Salisbury steak with gravy, thawed

1 can (2 oz.) mushrooms stems and pieces, drained

1 small tomato, chopped (about 3/4 cup)

1 tablespoon catsup

1 teaspoon instant minced onion

1/2 teaspoon Italian seasoning

2 hard rolls, halved

1/4 cup (1 oz.) shredded mozzarella cheese

In small saucepan, combine gravy from Salisbury steak and mushrooms, tomato, catsup, onion and Italian seasoning. Heat until boiling. Add steaks and heat until hot. Place on steak on each hard roll. Top with gravy. Sprinkle cheese on top. Makes 2 servings.

FETTUCINE A'LA KING

2 tablespoons butter or margarine

1/2 teaspoon garlic powder

2 packages (5 oz. ea.) frozen prepared chicken a la king, thawed

1/4 cup grated Parmesan cheese

2 cups cooked fettuccine (4 oz. uncooked)

1/2 teaspoon parsley flakes

In small saucepan, melt butter. Stir in garlic powder and chicken a la king. Heat until boiling. Toss with cheese and fettuccine. Sprinkle parsley on top. Makes 2 servings.

VEAL PARMIGIAN WITH LINGUINI

2 packages (5 oz. ea.) frozen prepared breaded veal parmigian

1 tablespoon vegetable oil

1 tablespoon butter or margarine

1/2 cup cooked linguini (2 oz. uncooked)

1/4 cup sliced ripe olives

2 tablespoons grated Romano cheese

1 cup cooked linguini (2 oz. uncooked)

Prepare veal parmigian according to package instructions. In small saucepan, heat oil and butter. Stir in garlic powder, Toss with olives, cheese and linguini. Serve with veal. Makes 2 servings.

Barbecues Spice Up Campaigns

Barbecue seems to be America's favorite up-and-coming food, and nowhere is the pork barbecue as popular as in the Carolinas.

"During the campaign season, there's hardly a hog safe anywhere in South Carolina," said the state's Rep. Robin Talton. The statement may be even truer of North Carolina, where the rituals of pit cookery and "pig pickin'" or whole pig cookouts have developed into a high art. The hogs are covered with a sauce that's less likely to be divulged than top secret campaign strategy.

Barbecued Ribs from the Carolinas is an eastern North Carolina version featuring a vinegary barbecue marinade. The piquant taste comes from Tabasco pepper sauce, the American condiment so flavorful, one teaspoon provides the seasoning level of two teaspoons of other brands of liquid hot pepper sauce. Frequent basting with the marinade will help produce the rich, smoky, tart flavor essential to Carolina-style pork barbecue.

BARBECUED RIBS FROM THE CAROLINAS

8 lbs. pork spareribs, cut in 2-rib widths

2 quarts cold water

Barbecue Sauce:

1/2 cup firmly packed light brown sugar

1 tablespoon dry mustard

1 teaspoon black pepper

1 teaspoon salt

2 cups cider vinegar

Juice of 1 large lemon

2 tablespoons red pepper sauce

1 cup (2 sticks) unsalted butter

Preheat oven to 325°F. Arrange ribs in large shallow roasting pan, pour in water to depth of 1 inch, cover with foil and bake 2 1/2 hours. Meanwhile, prepare Barbecue Sauce: Combine sugar, mustard, black pepper, salt, vinegar, lemon juice and Tabasco sauce in a small heavy pan; drop in butter and simmer uncovered, 5 minutes. Remove from heat but keep warm. When ribs are tender, increase oven heat to 400°F. Drain ribs, arrange one layer deep on large baking sheet, pour on barbecue sauce and marinate 1/4 hour. Lift ribs to a second baking sheet, again in one layer. Brush with sauce and bake uncovered 10 minutes per side, brushing often with sauce. Top with remaining sauce and serve. Serves 8.

WE'VE GOT THE BEEF

If you've ever wondered how some stores can sell beef at such low prices — ask yourself a few questions. Is it U.S. Choice? Naturally aged? Naturally tender? Trimmed of excess bone and fat BEFORE it's weighed? If you can't answer "yes," you might be getting inferior beef that only seems like a bargain. With W-D Brand, you never have to wonder. It's always the best.
