Berth Of A Marina

Waiting for permanent anchorage, about 100 of 173 berths have been delivered to Hidden Harbor at the Port of Sanford Where a marina is expected to open in January or February. Bill McVay, a consultant for Florida Sun International which makes the berths, said the floats are delivered to the private marina by truck. The harbor with its 12-foot draft will be able to accommodate boats up to 45- to 50-feet long.

Neighbors Lose Last Plea Against Rezoning

Carolyn Johnson, of 127 Academy Ave., tried one more time to persuade Sanford City Commissioners Monday night to deny a request for rezoning of a parcel adjacent to her home subdivision, Academy Manor. She was not successful.

The commission voted 3-2, just as they had in a preliminary vote two weeks ago, to adopt an ordinance rezoning the 12.5 acre parcel to restricted industrial from apartment zoning to allow development of warehouses.

Voting, as at the previous meeting, infavor of the rezoning were Mayor Lee P. Moore, Commissioners David Farr and Milton Smith, while voting against were Commissioners Eddie Keith and Ned

Both Yancey and Keith said earlier they wouldn't want warehouses next to their

But one of a group of owners of the property. Wick Austin, said he has owned the property for 20 years and it cannot be developed into apartments.

The rent would be higher than the people could afford," he said.

He said limited industrial development could provide jobs to the area and provide the city with a tax base.

Mrs. Johnson said the people in Academy Manor know what they want and it lan't industrial development close to their homes. She also said that the Academy Manor residents had been trying to contact Austin for years to find out about the park he had promised the neighborhood 24 years ago.

Moore suggested she talk to Austin after

Tom Ball, of 107 N. Crescent Boulevard. said he is buying the property from the Austin group and that the parcel changed in character over the years to where industrial development is its highest and best use.

Ball, at Moore's instigation, repeated his commitment to contribute financially to the dr :-lopment of a park at Academy Manor.

In other business. City Manager W.E. "Pete" Knowles advised the commission that a city check for $161,500 has been made out to RGK Inc., of Burlington, N.C., for the balance owed on the new Oregon

Avenue well field site. The city paid $8,500 down to RGK Inc. for the 24.5 acre tract in August. The buy was contingent upon the site being suitable for a well field and the city's ability to get a conditional use from the county for the purpose and a permit from the St. Johns Avenue to Old Lake Mary Road. River Water Management District after water samples were obtained.

Knowles reported that the water management district has given its informal approval for the permit. He said a hydrology report shows the field is limited to a capacity of about 4 million gallons per day with no more than three out of five wells pumping at any on time.

This will be the city's fourth operating well field. Sanford has others at the Mayfair County Club, at U.S. Highway 17-92 and Airport Boulevard and in a park at the Hidden Lake Development. A total of 19 wells are operating at those three sites.

However, city officials have been concerned about the stability of the seven Country Club wells, rehabilitated after contamination late last year by EDB. ethylene dibromide, a fumigant injected into the soils to kill nematodes by gold course operators in the summer of 1983. Knowles also reported that resurfacing work has begun on Sanford Avenue. The resurfacing projects are to include Sanford Avenue from Seminole Boulevard to 25th Street: Mellonville Avenue from Seminole Boulevard to 25th Street; and W. 20th Street-Country Club Road from French

Farr Defends Expressway Panels' Work

By Donna Estes Herald Staff Writer

David Farr, in his role as chairman of the Seminole County Expressway Authority. Tuesday evening rejected "outside reports" that the Seminole and Orange County Expressway groups are failing to exercise coordination in their projects.

And Harry Bertossa of Howard, Needles, Tammen & Bergendorff, an architectural, engineering and planning firm working as consultants for the authority, denied that it has been decided a Seminole County expressway, an easterly extension of the Orange County expressway, is not feasible.

There has been no determination of feasibility made and we won't be making one." Bertossa said, despite published reports to the contrary. "We will present information to you (the Seminole County Expressway Authority and you will determine feasibili-

Meanwhile, John Gray, executive director of the Orlando-Orange County Expressway Authority, attending the meeting, also poo-poohed any reports of friction, lack of cooperation or coordination between the two groups. At the same time, Farr said there is some merit to the thought, mentioned by the Greater Orlando Transportation Study Committee last week, of creating a tri-county (Seminole-Orange-Osceola) expressway authority, and this could be of some benefit to Seminole County.

But, he noted, Osceola County officials last week announced that such a consolidation would be of no benefit to their county.

County Commissioner Bill Kirchhoff, elected vice chairman Tuesday evening by his colleagues on the expressway authority, reminded there would be times when Orange County's and Seminole County's Interests would not be the same. He said it is to the Orlando-Orange County Expressway Authority's best interest to extend its expressway

Into Seminole in the Dean Road area in east Seminole County.

He said this would "feed traffie" - toll paying customers to the Orlando expressway, but would impact roads in Seminole's unincorporated areas, in Oviedo and in Winter Springs.

Larry Sellers, acting executive director of the expressway authority, cautioned the members about the definition of feasibility regarding a bond issue for an expressway in Seminole County when feasibility is finally determined. He said while it may be found that tolls from an expressway might be insufficient to pay off bonds for an expressway, that finding would not mean that the facility isn't needed. Just the same.

"Financial feasibility and need are not related," Sellers said.

The Seminole Coun Expressway Authority, composed of the five county commissioners and two city representatives - Sanford Commissioner Farr and Altamonte Springs Commissioner Lee Constantine - is looking at creating an expressway from the Dean Road area, an extension of a proposed extended expressway from the Orlando Orange County Expressway Authority's castwest expressway.

FBI Nabs East Europe Double Agent

NEW YORK (UPI) - A Czechoslovakian double agent who infiltrated the CIA and spied on the United States with relative case for 19 years was arrested hours before he was to leave the country for good.

FBI agents arrested Karl Koecher. 50, and his wife, Hann, 40, at 4:15 p.m. Tuesday as the couple was leaving their Manhattan cooperative apartment for Kennedy International

In papers filed in U.S. District Court in Manhattan, the FBI said Koecher, who immigrated to the United States and became a citizen, met with an agent Friday and outlined a 19-year spying career that included such cloak-and-dagger tactics as passing classified documents in cigarette

The FBI said the couple had sold the apartment Monday and were due to leave on a jet for Zurich, Switzerland.

Koecher was charged with providing lassified national security information to the Czechoslovakian intelligence Service. The charge is a felony carrying a sentence of up to life in prison. His wife, said to have been a CIS courier from 1974 to 1983, was held as a material witness.

In his statement, Koecher told the FBI he was trained by the Czech spy agency from 1963 to 1965 as an intelligence officer, came to the United States in 1965 with his wife and served as a CIS "illegal officer" for 19

The FBI said Koecher had been directed by the Czech agency to inflitrate "through employment (in) any U.S. intelligence agency."

Koecher told the FBI agent Friday that he "successfully penetrated" the CIA in February 1973.

Officials said he worked for the CIA as a contract employee from February 1973 to August 1975. During that period, he held a security clearance and had access to classified material.

Tax Proposal Seen As Just Start Of Reform

WASHINGTON (UPI) -- The Treasury Department's proposed overhaul of the tax code is not expected to be enacted in its present form, but it already has sparked a national debate over tax reform that may in time bear results.

Initial reaction to the plan Tuesday was somewhat subdued, with a number of key members of Congress calling it a good start and several saying (is passage depends on the enthusiasm the White House shows for the plan.

The sharpest criticism of the plan came from special interest groups intent on preserving endangered tax deduc-

President Reagan, for his part, was keeping his options open. Briefed on the proposal, he neither endorsed nor criticized any part of it, saying he would study it and listen to outside views before presenting his own tax plan to Congress in his State of the Union address in January.

Treasury Secretary Donald Regan. openly inviting suggestions and criti-cism, said the plan was drawn with the intent of being easy to alter.

"This thing was written on a word processor. It can be changed. It is the Treasury's tax proposal. It is not the administration's tax proposal. We have to start somewhere. This is just the start of tax simplification."

"If there are better ideas," Regan said, "or if some of the proposals that we have really will hurt one group or another ... we want to hear about it."

The proposal would reduce the present 14 different tax brackets, with rates ranging from 11 to 50 percent, to just three, with rates of 15, 25 and 35 percent.

The personal exemption for taxpayers and spouses would be raised from $1,090 to $2,000. The "zero" bracket limit, below which no taxes are imposed. would be raised from $3,710 to $3,800 for a joint return.

According to Treasury figures, the proposal would result in lower taxes as a percent of income for 56 percent of Americans: 22 percent would have tax increases, and 22 percent would see no

Landmark Nativity Scene Goes Up Without Fanfare

PAWTUCKET, R.I. (UPI) - A city-owned Nativity scene, the centerpiece of a four-year legal battle that went to the Supreme Court. Is on display now and many residents cay they're pleased.

The 17-piece display, depicting the birth of Christ, was set up earlier this month with little fanfare on public land near the Blackstone River.

In March, the Supreme Court, in a landmark 5-4 decision on Pawtucket's traditional Nativity scene, ruled that government-owned creches do not violate the constitutional separation of church and state.

The American Civil Liberties Union had sued the city over the scene four years ago, charging it was unconstitutional to have government fund a religious display.

The city sponsored the Nattvity scene since 1966 but the court case kept the city from setting up the crech last year. Local merchants purchased a new display after the Supreme Court ruling.

Mayor Henry Kinch is considering saving the old figures to the Smithsonian Institution in Washington.

Anti-Heroin Drug Approved

WASHINGTON (UPI) - The government today approved a "new weapon" to fight heroin addiction - an oral medication that blocks the narcotic high and thus can help former users avoid relapses.

The Food and Drug Administration said the product, naltrexone, will be marketed by DuPont Pharmaceuticals of Wilmington, Del., under the trade name trexan.

The FDA said the drug is for persons who have gotten off heroin and are in treatment. The agency said it should not be used by those still dependent on the narcotic or those who may be sensitive to it.

Among the major side effects found in testing the drug. the FDA said, include excessive sweating, skin rash, chest

There are an estimated 1.5 million heroin addicts in the United States.

Damaged Ship Limps To Port

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) - A 482-foot Indian freighter with a 4-inch hole in the bow just below the waterline plowed through choppy seas today to a port on the southern over diet where officials said it could make temporary repairs.

The origin of the 4-inch opening in the bow was not known, officials said. 👝

Schroeder Home For Holidays

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (UPI) - The shoulderslung portable air compressor that may be hooked up to artificial heart patient William J. Schroeder by Friday is the key to his quality of life, said the inventor of the plastic and metal heart.

Schroeder is now tethered by tubes leading from his chest to a 323-pound bedside unit the size of a desk at the foot of his bed at Humana Hospital Audubon.

The portable air compressor eventually will enable a patient to leave his hospital room for periods of four to five hours. although Schroeder will remain bedridden during initial testing of the device until he regains his strength.

Doctors could not predict when that would be, but said they hoped he could take a few steps to a chair by the weekend and be home for Christmas.

The leather-encased unit, which resembles a large camera case and weighs only 11.4 pounds, is designed to help artificial heart patients lead a life closer to normal, said the heart's inventor, Dr. Robert Jarvik said he expected the portable drive unit will be regularly used after the initial test period.

"I think that after it is initially applied, we will likely come to the phase where the patient is doing very well and it will be routinely used," he said.

Jarvik said initial test periods will then last three hours.

The portable unit is powered by a rechargeable nickel cadmium battery pack that can be changed in seconds without interrupting the operation of the heart. An emergency backup battery will operate the system for approximately 12 hours if

Dr. Allan Lansing, chairman of the Humana Heart Institute at the hospital, said he did not expect the portable unit testing to begin until Friday, after developer Dr. Peter Heimes arrives in Louisville Thursday

During those tests doctors will be monitoring how well the portable drive unit works through special measuring catheters implanted in Schroeder's remaining natural heart tissue and in the aorta, the main artery leading from the heart. The first artificial heart recipient, Dr. Barney Clark, was too ill for doctors to seek approval to use the portable system.

Jarvik said the Helmes driver has been tested on 50 to 60 animals. "In all the animals there has never been a problem with the Helmes driver," Jarvik

Troops Put Down Protests With Clubs, Water Cannons

SANTIAGO, Chile (UPI) - Troops backed up by helicopters with search lights patrolled Santiago's slums today to clear the streets of flaming barricades and enforce a state of siege.

The government harassed journalists in the area and revoked foreign correspondents' press credentials.

Police used batons and water cannons Tuesday to quell demonstrations against the 11-year-old military government in downtown Santiago and on university campuses. The protests were expected to continue today.

Soldiers armed with automatic weapons fired warning shots into the air to scare away demonstrators who set fire to rubber tires in the streets of a militant slum area called

Ailing Ustinov Upstages Budget

MOSCOW (UPI) - The Soviet Parliament's vote today for an increased defense budget was overshadowed by speculation that Defense Minister Dmitri Ustinov, the architect of Soviet military might, was seriously ill.

The vote on the $469 billion total national budget for 1985 was set for a joint session of the bicameral Supreme Soviet, or parliament, this afternoon.

Ustinov, 76, has presided over the Soviet military buildup, but has not been seen in public since Sept. 25 and is believed by diplomats to be possibly recovering from a stroke. A Kremlin spokesman, however, said recently he had only a sore throat.

Police Arrest 31 In Narcotics Sweep

MIAMI BEACH (UPI) - Police rounded up 31 suspects in an early morning narcotics sweep, including a bedridden polio victim, a grocer who sold cocaine over the counter and a man who peddled marijuana cigarettes on his bicycle.

The suspects, many of them sleepy and half-dressed. were arrested by police and SWAT teams in a series of raids that began at 4 a.m. Tuesday.

Officers involved in the two-month undercover operation called "SINK" for "Street Initiated Narcotics Krackdown." said 14 others were already in custody and another 17 suspects were still at large.

Most were small-time dealers charged with selling marijuana, cocaine and LSD in the decaying neighborhood on the south end of Miami Beach, police said.

U.S. Embassy Shrugs Off Bomb Plot

ROME (UPI) - The U.S. Embassy shrugged off what Italian police described as a plot by eight Lebanese terrorists to mount a suicide bomb attack against the compound and arranged to return to business as usual today.

The Lebanese, including a man carrying more than 4.4 pounds of explosives, were rounded up in Italy and Switzerland during the last 10 days. Police Chief Aldo Monarca said Tuesday.

Investigation by the crack undercover Digos anti-terrorist police indicated the suspects planned to drive a truck loaded with explosives into the embassy compound on Rome's high rent Via Veneto in an attack similar to the terrorist bombings of three U.S. installations in Belrut since April 1983.

"Fortunately, we were able to identify and arrest all of them," Monarca said. "There was irrefutable proof of a plot against the U.S. Embassy." He did not say when the attack was to have been carried out.

Police identified the accused terrorists as members of Islamic Jihad, the pro-frantan movement that claimed responsibility for the three suicide truck bomb attacks against the U.S. Embassy and Marine barracks in Beirut that together killed more than 300 people.

If the suspects are members of Islamic Jihad, they would be the first to be captured by police, Middle East experts said in Beirut. An embassy spokesman said U.S. officials were "not planning any emergency security procedures" following disclosure of the plot.

"It will be business as usual," the spokesman said. "We try to keep the security as tight as we possibly can (at all times). There is no panic among the staff and we're not having any absentee pro-

Seven of the suspects were arrested near Rome Saturday and were held at an undisclosed site near Rome. The eighth man, carrying explosives and arrested in Zurich Nov. 18 as he was boarding a plane for Rome, was being held in Switzerland.

Police said the suspects, all in their late teens and early 20s, refused to cooperate with authorities. Those arrested in Italy have been charged with being members of an armed group and plotting a massacre.

How Mexico Colors Relations

It is unfortunate that some Latin American nations have viewed the ebbs and flows of America's complex relationship with Washington. Fortunately, other Latin American nations have historically either had or are acquiring the self-confidence and political sophistication to deal with the United States

Costa Rica, for example, has long dealt with the United States without being influenced by the Mexican rhetoric that Washington doesn't understand the aspirations of Latin Americans and can't be trusted.

El Salvador - which is maturing fast in the Central American atmosphere of distrust, revolution and political suicide - also has learned that its strongest friend can be the United States.

Simply put, however, Mexico often distrusts the United States because of past exploitation by this country. And the United States is uneasy about Mexico because of that country's intransigent devotion to a ruling party political system, intimidation of the press, discouragement of the private sector and a world view that publicly praises leftist totalitarianships such as that in Cuba while flawing U.S. efforts to back true democracy in areas such as El Salvador.

Does Mexico truly advocate Castro-ism for Latin America? The answer is no. But it pains the Mexican government to praise the United States, especially, in the field of foreign

It can, in fact, be politically dangerous in fumed when the Reagan ad-Mexico City to side with the Western States States States of the World Court Through its rhetoric, the Mexican govern- stacked deck of the World Court ment has convinced many of its people that Washington doesn't have the shared cultural background to be a role model for Central and South America.

There is much truth in this viewpoint. On the other hand, nations struggling to create jobs for their people will find more guideposts for success in the American system than in that of Mexico.

Mexico is wallowing in debt despite its abundance of physical resources and the natural entrepreneurship of its people. Years of corruption, nationalization and a closed political system have squandered Mexico's potential.

Mexico must make it a top priority to unleash its private sector, and, indeed, seems to be considering tentative steps in that President Miguel de la Madrid's impressive crackdown on corruption provides another hopeful sign for Mexico's future.

Still, Mexico has a long way to go before it becomes a country to be economically emulated by its Latin neighbors.

Latin America's emerging or economically struggling nations cannot totally emulate any other society. The El Salvadors and Guatemalas must find their own way.

But such countries can learn from the experience of others. Even more importantly, they can communicate directly with other nations with the goal of mutual benefit at the top of the agenda.

Politically stable, democratic and sophisticated Costa Rica is friendly with both Mexico and the United States. It does not allow the history of U.S.-Mexican relations to unduly color its dealings with either power.

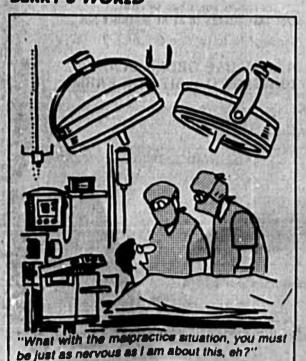

This is the lesson for other Latin American nations in dealing with Mexico City and Washington.

Stand on your own diplomatic feet.

Never Boo A Black Sheep

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A resident of York, England, has been fined $125 for meowing at a police dog. Maybe it served him right but the case brings up the larger question of what vocal noises around animals are legally acceptable.

A member of the British Parliament was quoted as predicting that eventually "somebody will be arrested for saying boo to a goose

Could anyone in the British Isles, or elsewhere, possibly be that heartless?

I may have barked at a few cats in my time. but I have never once booed a goose. Such a thought simply never entered my head.

When I am beset by geese, it doesn't occur to me to try to frighten them away, or otherwise register disapproval, by crying "boo."

But what vocal sounds should be permissable, and which outlawed, within earshot of geese and other types of waterfowl and members of the animal kingdom?

Shouting "shoo" won't do it. Nor will hollering "scat." A person can feel pretty silly trying to shoo away a goose by yelling "scat."

Although that word might work with cats that are becoming a mite too friendly, geese tend to Ignore it. And honking at geese can be even Once I tried making honking noises at some geese who were surrounding my ball on the edge of a water hazard on a golf course. My honks merely attracted them to me. When geese hear someone honking, they instinctively assume he or she is one of their kind.

But booing geese, especially while waving one's arms, is cruelty per se. Hissing at geese won't get you anywhere either.

If it were left up to me, I would propose that geese be dispersed, or warded off, by crying 'fore!" However, I couldn't guarantee how they might respond to that type of verbal alert.

Anyhow, I would no more boo, honk or hiss a goose than I would neigh a horse.

In some areas, you know, mounted policemen are as much in evidence as those leading dogs. A sure way to make police horses suddenly shy or rear up is to make a noise like a snake. But

Neighing, on the other hand, might seem relatively harmless. But suppose one uttered a mare's whinny when an officer was riding a stallion? Or sounded a stallion's whinny around a mare member of the Equine Corps? Growling at bears, mooing at cows and squealing at pigs also might be legal. But is it ethical? That is a question that bothers me. Braying probably would do no more than annoy a donkey, although it could throw a mule off its feed for a week. In the absence of clear-cut, hard-and-fast legal guidelines. I would say the circumstances under which an animal noise is simulated has a lot to do with whether it is lawful. If an officer trying to break up a street gang is accompanied by, say, a Sianiese cat then squeaking like a mouse probably would a provocative, and therefore injudicious, thing to

But most Judges in all likelihood would pardon anyone who roared like a lion.

Liberal Pundits Losers

The biggest loser in the presidential election was the electronic media-liberal pundit complex. For the last four years, these major media elements campaigned furiously against President Reagan and his conservative economic and foreign policies.

Dan Rather of CBS sought to make it appear that Mr. Reagan's America was a land of homeless people living on iron grates in the sidewalk. John Chancellor of NBC rule on America's actions with respect to Nicaragua. National Public Radio, operating with taxpayer funds, used so-called news programs to propagandize against the Reagan administration. NPR's Morning Edition lavished time on congressional critics of the President. NPR's "All Things Considered" let Nicaraguan government spokesmen have a field day. It provided air time for spikesmen from such hard Left organizations as the Institute for Policy Studies. In the final days of the presidential campaign, NPR let applause for the President's opponent run on and on. Liberals, who say that tolerance is one of their highest values, were utterly intolerant of President Reagan and his policies.

A baitalion of big name liberal pundits were also arrayed against Mr. Reagan. Anthony Lewis was indignant about the President's intervention in Granada - and dozens of other administration actions. Tom Wicker characterized the President as reactionary. Carl Rowan expressed the view that administration policies were oppressive to black citizens. Richard Reeves launched one abusive attack after another. The Chicago Tribune's stable of liberal columnists were part of the pack that sought to bring down Mr. Reagan. The Washington Post writers also were doing everything possible to achieve a political kill.

All this was to no avail. Despite the liberals' near-monopolization of the media, the American people refused to be brainwashed. Fortynine states voted for Mr. Reagan and his policies. The electronic media-pundit complex should be in a state of shock.

The network anchormen looked sick on election night, for they saw their political propaganda efforts come to nought.

The liberal media-pundit complex has a long way to go to regain the confidence of the American people.

Different Strokes

WASHINGTON (UPI) - A cursory examination of the election results. could lead to the conclusion that it is permissible for a congressman to hop in the sack with a teenage boy - but not a teenage girl.

Now, it is much too early for the Rev. Jerry Falwell and other fulltime moralists to become alarmed. Certainly, one election does not indicate a trend.

But — as the saying goes figures never lie and the presumption must be that this applies as well to elections, except sometimes in Chicago.

The case, at least on the surface,

-Gerry Studds, Democrat of Massachusetts, was re-elected to a sixth term from the 10th District although censured by the House in 1983 for the seduction of a trenage

-Daniel Crane, Republican of Illinois, was defeated after three terms from the 19th District after being censured by the House in 1983 for the seduction of teenage (girl) page.

As a result, Studds comes back to the House in January, chastised by his peers but accepted by the voters of his district in the party primary and in the general election

Crane, chastised equally, was deemed unfit to serve his constituents and will return to the practice of denistry, his political career at an

Crane and Studds were censured not so much for what they did but

"victims" were. The girl and boy in question were 16 and 17 and, more damaging, they were pages entrusted by their families to the keeping of the House.

Or, seeing their dalliances were about a decade old, they were indicted by the House Ethics Committee, which spent about a $1 million on the investigation and had to come up with something.

The presumption could be made that the voters of Massachusetts's 10th District can accept homosexual conduct on the part of its congressman and the voters of Illinois' 19th reject the idea of their congressman having extramarital affairs with a girl.

But the reasons go deeper than that.

Studds' district certainly is not Greenwich Village or San Francisco where homosexuality is an accepted lifestyle, although taboos against seducing an impressionable teenager probably exist.

But it evidently is a district liberal enough in its thinking that it can forgive one trangression when, as it was in Studds' case, balanced off against 10 years of admirable service to the constituency.

Crane, unfortunately for him, was not blessed with the same kind of district nor with the same kind of record in the House.

Public officials in trouble often claim that the judges of their conduct are the voters. This year, they came in with a split decision.

Bacteria: For Skiers

By Gino Del Guercio UPI Belence Writer

Billions of bacteria will be giving up their lives this winter so that skiers may swish down their favor-

The dead bacteria will be mixed with water, added to compressed air and propelled out the nozzles of snow-making machines. As the bacteria fall to the earth through freezing air, their tiny bodies will be enshrined in ice crystals.

The particular strain of bacteria. called pseudomonas syringae, allow snow to be made at warmer temperatures — as high as 29 degrees Fahrenhelt as opposed to 17 degrees for most snow-making operations. The bacteria also increase the volume of snow per volume of air and water.

Advanced Genetic Sciences, the Greenwich, Conn., manufacturer of a bacteria-based snow maker, has begun small-scale marketing of its product this ski season and expects to begin full-scale marketing by next season.

"This will be the fourth winter we've tested it," said Doug J. Sarojak, director of marketing and product development.

Although water freezes at 32 degrees Fahrenheit, lower temperatures are required to turn pure water into ice. This is because at temperatures just below freezing ice crystals require something solid to form around.

in nature, snow flakes and ice crystals form around dust particles in the air. Most ski areas use silver iodide as a seed for snow making. which is better than dust but still requires lower temperatures.

The active ingredient in Snowmax is a protein that resides on the surface of the bacteria. The protein attracts water molecules and pulls them into a formation that makes it easier to crystalize.

"We know it works. You can visually see it makes more snow." said Mike Snider, anow-making boss at Copper Mountain ski resort in Colorado, where the product has been tested for three years. "All we're really concerned about is the price."

The company believes Snowmax may also be used to make construction materials in the arctic using salt water and to make rain.

Snowmax might also be used by the frozen food industry, because laboratory tests indicate it can substantially increase the speed of freezing of products, such as populcies and ice cream.

Far-Out Ideas To Tackle Terrorism

WASHINGTON — Have the people at the Los Alamos National Laboratory been watching too many Sat-urday morning children's TV shows?

Some of the anti-terrorist devices they've recommended to the Federal Emergency Management Agency sound as if they were stolen from an old Buck Rogers serial - or even Wile E. Coyote's flendishly clever traps for the Roadrunner. Here are some of the far-out proposals:

"A potential assassin entering the White House for a tour or reception, or standing in a crowd waiting for a presidential appearance, or a terrorist going through airport security or passport control. is likely to be under stress," the laboratory experts point out in a report to FEMA.

"The manifold symptoms of such stress may make such persons recognizable through the use of remote or other surreptitious equipment, the existence of which will not be apparent to them."

The concept seems to be psychological "metal detector" that can scan everyone within its range and identify those under stress. It is not clear how the machine would differentiate between a potential terrorist and, say, someone who's just had a domestic spat or is worried about being parked in a towaway zone on Pennsylvania

- "Human Performance Enhancement in a Counter-Terrorist Context" is a benign weapon that would appeal to He-Man and other cartoon heroes. Secret injection of chemicals into food, water or air delivered to the bad guys would put them to sleep instantly.

"For example," the Los Alamos study explains, "hostages and guards could be overwhelmed by sleep in a hostage-barricade situation by some substance in the air they breathed, the food they ate or the water they drank. The hazards inherent in this situation could be quickly overcome without risk of injury or death. We do not, at present, know how to do this, but it is an exciting avenue to explore."

The study, reviewed by my associates Donald Goldberg and Indy Badhwar, notes that development of such a weapon would be useful to "many other sectors of the military and civillan communities as well.

There's a certain irony in the respectability the scientists seem prepared to give this idea, which sounds exactly like the empty threats of radicals 15 or more years ago to pour LSD into municipal reservoirs. The study does not address the possibility that while the CIA, for example, may be putting Cuba asleep for a bloodiess takeover. Fide Castro may be doing the same to Manhattan or Miami.

Zapping terrorists with microwave radiation could kill them, stun them or at least modify their behavior by changing their "perceptions," the study claims. And it suggests that the Kremlin is already hard at work on this diabolical ray gun: "There are reports of Eurasian communist countries performing research with combined fields of signals from several different microwave frequencies to produce at least perceptual distortions in humans,

For the time being, Los Alamos recommends that FEMA limit its psychological microwave cooking to experimenting with mice.

Footnote: A FEMA spokeswoman said that the Los Alamos study was merely a catalog of potential ideas, and that FEMA has spent no funds to follow up on the proposals.

Indexing Can Make Deferring Income A Wise Move

Editor's Note: This is the final article in a four-part series on saving on your taxes.

By Robert Mets

We all like to receive income as soon as possible, but deferring income this year can reduce the amount of tax you will ultimately pay on it.

Look to the new indexing provisions of the income tax law for help. They are designed to eliminate the tax increases that have been brought about by Inflation.

Tax brackets have their impact at set dollar amounts of income. But each year inflation has added to the bite. Raises that help taxpayers keep up with inflation have put many in higher brackets. They pay more tax though they haven't carned more money on a dollar-adjusted

In Search Of Ancient Killers

LONDON (UPI) - Scientists are trying to discover who bashed well-groomed, red-haired "Pete Marsh" in the skull with an ax 2,500 years ago and why they drained the blood from his body.

Weeks of research at the British Museum on the remains of the man, whose astonishingly well-preserved body was pulled from a peat hog in August, show he apparently was slain in a ritual to obtain his blood, scientists said.

The remains of the Iron Age man, nicknamed "Pete Marsh" for the peat bog, or marsh, where he was found in western England, are being pored over by scientists who want to glean as much information as possible before the body is permanently preserved and put on display.

The body, chanced upon by workers digging for peat - a coal-like substance - has been described as the best preserved specimen of Iron Age man in Britain, though the bottom half was destroyed by peat-cutting equipment.

The man had red hair and a neatly clipped moustache. Most striking of all was his beautifully manicured fingernalis, indicating, the scientists said, that he was in the "upper classes" of Iron Age society. He appears to have been about 30 years old when he died.

The ancient killers chopped their victim twice in the head with a narrow-bladed ax and bound him with a kind of primitive string, said lan Stead, the researcher heading the museum's examination of the

Then they sliced open his jugular vein to get his blood. Stead said. He did not speculate on how the drained blood was used.

The ax blows were delivered with enough force to drive fragments of his skull into his brain, Stead said.

Want To Buy Slightly Used Citrus Tower?

CLERMONT, Fla. (UPI) - For Sale: 226-foot high tower located in the heart of Florida's citrus country. View: Rolling green citrus trees dotted with oranges and some brown wilt.

The Florida Citrus Tower, located about 40 miles west of Orlando, has been a landmark for 28 years. It cost a group of private stockholders $300,000 to build in 1956 at a time when there was no other tourist attraction for miles on U.S. Highway 27.

But the tower has suffered a decline in visitors in recent years, particularly because of the harsh winter freezes, and its current owner. Wometco Enterprises, wants to get rid of it.

Wometco, which owns movie theaters, the Miami Scaquarium and bottling plants, bought the tower in 1972.

Wometco vice president Stanley Stern said the company has "spread the word" through the tourism, industry, that this landmark downs and-surrounding property is for sale.

'We are not actively pushing (the sale) but it's no secret in the industry that we're interested in selling it," Stern said.

He would not reveal Wometco's asking price for The tower's spectacular view, which once was

'the view is certainly not what it used to be," said Ed Rainey, general manager of the tower.

"Once the freeze happened, it interfered with the thinking of many people who would normally have come down here," sald Rainey.

The tower employs about 60 people. In addition to the tower, Wometco wants to sell a candy factory, jelly manufacturing plant and citrus packinghouse on the 12.5 acresite?"

You Love Me For My Sebum!

LONDON (UPI) -- Kissing is only "a type of sucking behavior" that passes on a biological signal, and love is just a chemical reaction, according to skin expert Bubba Nicholson.

Nicholson, writing in the British Journal of Dermatology, believes lovers seek chemicals in each other located in sebaceous glands, which secrete a substance called sebum.

Nicholson, who works in Tampa, describes klasing as a type of sucking behavior which is intended to sample the semiochemicals of the other Semiochemicals are substances that communicate a biological signal from one unimal to another, according to Nicholson. Because they rest on the skin, you have to kiss to pass on the biological aignal.

He said the glands are all over the body but are present in particularly large quantities on the scalp, face, neck, the female nipples and the surrounding

At puberty, more of these glands appear inside the mouth and "in copious rosettes on the ... borders of the lips," Nicholson

"The licking and sucking of these same interior surfaces during a passionate 'French' kiss may effect removal and transfer of sebum," Nicholson said.

Nicholson concludes that an increased sebum secretion rate can result in bonding - or love between individuals.

SCC Cagers Split With Indian River

Tammy Turns The Key As Lady Raiders Romp

By Chris Fister Herald Sports Writer

Finding a point guard who can run the offense well may not be too hard, but when you get one that can shoot from the outside and go inside too, then you've found something special.

Seminole Community College's Tammy Johnson runs the offense like a general would his troops but she also lets loose a few bombs and penetrates enemy territory on her missions for the Lady Raiders.

Johnson, a 5-8 freshman out of Lake Howell High, scored in just about every way imaginable Tuesday night as she poured in a game-high 28 points in leading the Lady Raiders to their second straight victory, 66-53, over In-dian River's Lady Pioneers at the SCC Health Center.

"She's a real sparkplug," SCC coach lleana Gallagher said of Johnson. "She runs the offense well and she'll take the outside shot when she's open.

Johnson bombed away from outside when she was open Tuesday and was also on the scoring end of a number of fast-break layups set up by the impressive board work and outlet passes of Juana Coletti and Kim Lemon. Coletti pulied down a game-high 14 rebounds to go along with her 11 points and Lemon contributed nine boards and 11 points.

"The scouting report told us that Indian River was a tall and physical team," Gallagher said. We were prepared for them. They were slow and we took advantage of it."

The Lady Raiders, 2-0, return to action Friday when they host the SCC Tournament. The first game Friday night, starting at 6. pits South Georgia against Panola, Texas and SCC goes up against Brunswick, Ga. at 8. The final will be Saturday night at 8.

SCC took advantage of Indian River's sluggish start and built an early seven-point lead, 14-7. But Indian River bounced back with eight straight points to take a 15-14 lead with 7:50 left in the first half.

The Lady Pioneers got the ball back on an SCC turnover, but Johnson then picked Denise Bussie's pocket for a steal and raced downcourt for a layup and a 16-15 SCC lead. The two teams traced baskets the rest of the first half and the Lady Raiders had a 26-25 lead at halftime.

Pam Lee popped in a jumper on an assist from Coletti to open the second half and Coletti came back with a nice move and banked one in for two points and a 30-25 SCC lead. Johnson then dropped in an pair of fast break layups as the Lady Raider built a nine-point lead, 34-25.

Indian River came back with four straight points to make it 34-29, but the Raiders reeled off six points to take a 40-29 lead with 14:40 remaining. The first bucket of the scoring string came on a layup by Lemon off Coletti's assist. Coletti's layup made it 38-29 and Johnson's layup put the Raiders up by 11.

The Pioneers came back to within eight points, 42-34, but that was as close as they could get as SCC scored six straight points for a 48-34 lead. Included in those six points was Coletti's layup on an assist from Lee, a nice driving bank shot by Johnson and a Jumper by Lee. Indian River couldn't come closer than 12 points the rest of

Brantley's Effort Can't Save Men

By Sam Cook Herald Sports Editor

FORT PIERCE - SCC's Rob Brantley bounced off the bench with another stellar effort Tuesday night but he couldn't save the Raiders from dropping a 101-90 junior college basketball game to Indian River at IRCC.

The setback is the second for coach Bill Payne's team in seven decisions. IRCC avenged an earlier loss to SCC and improved to 7-1. Seminole hosts Manatee Thursday at 7:30 p.m. at the SCC Health Brantley, a 6-3 forward who plays much bigger. scored 17 points and grabbed 10 rebounds. He also defended Indian River's 7-1 Kenny Roper effectively in the second half, but the damage had already been done.

Roper, who was farmed out to Indian River via the University of New Orleans, scored 22 points. snared seven rebounds and blocked six shots. He continually hurt the Raiders in the first half on the offensive boards as IR built a 45-39 lead.

The Raiders played behind Roper defensively and the 7-1 giant hurt them with turnaround Jumpers and by crashing the offensive boards. "Roper was just rebounding flatfooted and putting it back in," said assistant coach Dean

Ben Wilson, who finished nine points, hit three straight jumpers to push Indian River to an eight-point lead in the first half Roper scored 11 points the first half. Brantley held him in check (two rebounds and none on the offensive boards) most of the second half, but the Raiders' penchant for fouls did them in.

Smith said the SCC strategy worked in the second half, but the Raiders still couldn't overtake the Pioneers. "We got the big kid (Roper) and (Mike) Bethel in foul trouble, but they still had enough come off bench to hold us off.

'We just fouled too much and turned it over too much. The offciating was pretty good," Smith

"We forced four or five turnovers at the beginning of the second half," said Smith. "But then we just gave it right back to them."

Indian River converted 35 of 48 free throws while the Raiders hit 20 of 29. Roger Roach came off the bench for IR to can all six of his free throws and keep SCC at bay in the second half.

Indian River pushed its lead to 10 points with six minutes to play, but Brantley scored on consecutive reverse layups against Roper to pare the margin to six points. That was as close as SCC could come, however, as the Pioneers blew the lead back to double figures at the end. Seminole had a miserable shooting night, hitting just 35 of 89 shots for 39 percent. The Raiders were also outrebounded for the first time this year, 47-45.

'We played a poor game. We played ignorant and we fouled too much," said Payne. "Our style was bad. After we got behind we pressed all the time. It was a horrible game to watch. We won't play that style again."

Linny Grace led the scoring with 18 points and Greg "Skywalker" Bates added 13. Grace handed out four assists. Mike Tolbert had five steals while Mike Landell and Willie Strother had three each. Slim Johnson had seven rebounds while Artis Johnson and Bates had six apiece.

Doubles? Sorry, Martina, Fleming Already Taken

Well, we might say that a good doubles partner has an untouchable first serve and always gets it in, never misses a return, has great volleys and overheads and never fusses at his partner when his partner blows an easy one and is a great competitor without being obnoxious about it.

That's what we might say and, of course, that would make any of us very happy to have a partner like that. But Peter Fleming and Martina are taken already so we must somewhat re-evaluate what we would like.

A good doubles team you see is a lot like a good marriage. The two players have been together a long time, they know each others moves almost instinctively, their games complement each other, they know what situations each other are comfortable in, they know each others moods and can shore up their partner up when one is

Of course, it helps to be able to play the game well, doesn't it? We are taking a lot for granted here, however, that the players can play and play on a high level. What we are searching for are the intangibles that make a doubles team click.

The fact of the matter is that there have been many doubles teams formed that had two excellent tennis players but for some reason or another they made a lousy doubles team. Often their personalaities or dispositions on the court clashed, possibly their games did not complement one another at any rate they just did not come through as a solid pair.

Some things that I have learned over the past 25 years of playing doubles and coaching some really line doubles teams are as follows. These things were true 25 years ago and I think are still true today.

First of all, the two people playing doubles together must genuinely like each other as people. Now, I'm not talking about liking each other as tennis players - they must be friends and really like each other on and off the court. This closeness is a very really big points or tight matches.

You should never be critical of your partner nor he of you. I have seen some doubles players stare at their partner in disgust when a shot is missed. I have even heard one partner actually yell at the other one or worse yet, just ignore his partner and not even talk on change-overs.

Fortunately, this kind of team usually doesn't last long and the offender is usually sent tooking elsewhere for another partner to abuse. I believe that it is also good to have the two members of a doubles team complement each other in the way of emotional makeup. Some players are very quiet on the court and never seem to get even a little "fired up." While others are 'fired up' and chattering from the git-go. The best doubles teams I ever back, unemotional player teamed with the fired-up, go-getter. One could calm things down when the situation called for it or the other could put fire into the game when that was needed.

Of course, the two players games must also mesh. I never liked to have two big hitters, two "go-for-it-all" type players on the same team. On the other hand I did not like to have two soft or very steady players on the same team. I think you need a mir; one to set the point up and one to put the point away.

Fire and ice so to speak. Most of the great doubles pairs, if you will check, had this combination. One kills you softly, the other with a sledge hammer.

Anyway, that's what we would like in a doubles partner. They are hard to find but worth their weight in gold.

Florida Cracker 200 Gets Cracking Sunday At Smyrna

NEW SMYRNA BEACH - The Seventh Annual "Florida Cracker 200" Late Model Championship will take place on Sunday afternoon at New Smyrna Speedway. The high banked half-mile, paved oval is located at the intersection of routes 44 and 415, 10 miles east of I-4 and five miles

Cash purses amounting to $18,000 have been posted. On Saturday at 8 p.m., the "Cracker" tune-up will include a 50-lapper for the late models paying $800 to win plus lap

On Sunday afternoon at 2 p.m. the time trials will precede the "Cracker 200". The thundercars, street stocks and four cylinders are also slated for both days

As the "Cracker" is scheduled on the week between the World Crown 300 in Jefferson, Ga. and the Snowball Derby in Pensacola (Dec. 8), many of the top traveling pros are expected to stop by New Smyrna Speedway to race on their way to the Florida panhandle.

The previous winners of that event were John "Andy" Anderson in 1978, Dick Trickle in 1979, Junior Hanley in 1980. Gary Balough in 1981, David Rogers in 1982 and LeRoy Porter in 1983.

The original meaning of the word "Cracker" refers to the early Florida cowmen who sometimes cracked their tow whips when working cattle.

But on Sunday, the sound of the cracking whips will be replaced by the crisp roar of 38, 600-horsepower racing engines as the green flag is waved for the Seventh Annual "Florida Cracker 200".

English: Too Good Too Fast

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) - Wally English, whose four-year contract as head football coach at Tulane football squad was cut in half this week, says he was fired because he wanted "to go forward and to be too good too quick."

Tulane Tuesday fired English, whose teams were 7-15 during a tenure that included bitter court battles, a spying incident and contractual squabbles.

Athletic Director Hindman Wall refused to discuss specifically why English was terminated, but referred to a university statement citing "broad, irreconcilable policy differences between English and the Tulane administration."

English, 45, who left a post as offensive coordinator for the Miami Dolphins in 1982 to take his first college head coaching job, said he was fired because he was committed to a legitimate football program, and Tulane was not.

Irvin, Arkansas Topple Knights

PINE BLUFF, ARK. (UPI) - Freshman Byron Irvin scored 16 points and grabbed 8 rebounds Tuesday night to lead No. 18 Arkansas to a 59-45 victory over Central Florida.

Irvin scored 12 points as the Razorbacks built a 33-24 advantage at the half. He was aided by Charles Balentine, who finished with 12 points and 9 rebounds. Center Joe Kleine had 11 points.

Guarda Stan Kimbrough and Julian Butler led the Knights, 0-2, with 12 points each and Dan Faison added

The Razorbacks, 2-0, put the game away midway through the second half, outscoring Central Florida 18-5 for a 55-35 lead.

Decker To Wed Discus Thrower

EUGENE. Ore. (UPI) - Track star Mary Decker will celebrate the New Year with a new husband - British discus thrower Richard Slaney.

Decker, whose collision with Zola Budd at the Olympic Games crushed her hopes for a gold medal, will marry Slaney in a church wedding in Eugene Jan. 1, her coach said Tuesday.

"I would assume there are going to be a lot of track and field athletes around town invited," Coack Dick Brown said. "Those are the people Mary competes with and is friends with."

It will be Slaney's first marriage and Decker's second. She was married for two years to marathon runner Ron Tabb before they divorced last year.

Decker and Slaney, who live in Eugene, met at the Jesse Owens Awards in February 1983, Brown said.

Brandon's Mack Opts For 'Dogs

ATHENS, Ga. (UPI) — Toney Mack, a 6-5 prep All-America from Brandon, is the third men's basketball signee of the year for the University of Georgia, head coach Hugh Durham announced Tuesday.

Mack, beginning his senior season at Brandon High School, is one of the most sought after players in the South, having caught the attention of recruiters when he earned Most Valuable Player honors at the B-C All-Star Camp in Milledgeville, Ga., last summer.

As a junior, Mack led his Brandon team to a 26-3 record last year and a runner-up finish in the Florida AAAA State Finals. He was one of two Florida juniors on the Florida AAU team last year.

Mack, who has already scored more than 1,000 points at Brandon, averaged 25.2 points and 13 rebounds last year. He scored a career high 44 points against Chamberlain last year and also had a career high 27 rebounds. He shot 63 percent from the field.

Mack is the Buildogs' third men's basketball signee this year. He joins Eric Burdette, 6-8 of Greensboro, and Chris Duncan, a 6-5 guard from Jonesboro.

College Football

ATLANTA (UPI) - Vanderbilt's Kurt Page, who has a shot at becoming the league's third-leading career passer despite only two years as a starting quarterback. and a trio of 1,000 yard rushers make up the offensive backfield on the 1984 UPI All-Southeastern Conference football team.

Joining in the backfield with Page, a sentor who has thrown for 2,294 yards and 14 touchdowns so far this season, is Tennessee sentor Johnnie Jones, LSU junior Dalton Hilliard, and Kentucky senior George Adams.

Seniors Chuck Scott of Vanderbilt and Eric Martin of LSU are the wide receivers. Scott played his prep ball at Lake Howell High School. He lives in Maitland.

The interior offensive line, which averages 275 pounds from tackle to tackle, includes seniors Lomas Brown of Florida. Lance Smith of LSU, Bill Mayo of Tennessee, Rob Monaco of Vanderbilt, and Phil Bromley of

The kicker for the third time in four years is Georgia senior Kevin Butler, the SEC's all-time scoring leader with 337 mints on 72 of 92 field goals and 121 of 124 conversions.

The all-SEC defensive unit has juniors Gerald Robinson of Auburn. Jon Hand of Alabama and Pat Swoops of Mississippi State, and seniors Freddie Nunn of Ole Miss and Tim Newton of Florida on the line: seniors Gregg Carr of Auburn and Knox Culpepper of Georgia and Junior Alonzo Johnson of Florida at linebackers; and seniors Jeff Sanchez of Georgia, David King of Auburn, Paul Calhoun of Kentucky and Liffort Hobley of LSU in the secondary.

The punter, for the second year in a row. is Vanderbilt senior Ricky Anderson who is averaging 47.8 yards per kick. This is the fifth straight year that the All-SEC punter has been from Vanderbilt, Jim Arnold capturing that honor in 1980-81-82.

Holmes Is Tired Of The Garbage

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) - Larry Holmes has been in the ring with a lot of tough fighters during his illustrious career, but he says the "garbage" outside the ring has worn him down more than punches.

For this reason, the 35-year-old undefeated heavyweight champion says he will retire from boxing after n planned international Boxing Federation title defense in February against David Bey.

Size Will Not Keep Flutie Out Of NFL

NEW YORK (UPI) - I can't read the future. Tea leaves, either. Fortune cookies are different. I try them sometimes, and I'll eat my hat if Doug Flutte turns out too small to make it with the pros.

He sure was big enough Tuesday. You should've seen how beautifully he handled the media.

Now I know what you're going to say. Facing them Isn't the same as coping with those defensive monsters they've got in the NFL. I'll give you that. But don't ever underestimate the media. They can make you feel like General Custer.

Have you ever been entirely surrounded by a bear-down mob of television and radio interviewers, photographers and newspaper people all after the same thing at the same time?

Flutie was. He found himself encircled four floors above the street of a midtown restaurant Tuesday and he came out of the whole thing magnificently, much the same way he did last Friday night in Miami's Orange Bowl. That was where on the last play of the game and with only four seconds left on the clock, Boston College's 5-foot-9 %, dark-halred Golden Boy threw a 64-yard rainbow into the end zone to his roommate, wide receiver Gerard Phelan, for the touchdown that provided a 47-45 win over favored Miami in a disbeliever everybody is still talking about.

Phelan was among those on hand at Tuesday's get-together marking the announcement of Eastman Kodak's All-American team picked by the American Football Coaches Association. Kenneth Davis. Texas Christian's classy running back, also was present. Like Flutie, he made the team. The good-looking, 21-year-old Phelan didn't, but having him along, anyway, was Flutie's idea. That tells you something more about BC's stocky odds-on favorite to win the Heisman Trophy. He isn't a front runner and he sticks by his friends.

"As far as being a person is concerned." Phelan said about Flutie. "he's one of the finest representatives our school could possibly have. That says a lot for his character. As far as being a football player is concerned, he has been the cornerstone for our success the last three years."

Phelan still has the ball he caught for the winning touchdown. He gives all the credit for the play to Flutte.

"Doug called it, in the huddle," he said. "The play is known as Twins right up.' Two receivers line up on the right side and the tailback lines up off the butt of the tackle. I'm in the interand the whole idea of the play is for me to run downfield as fast as I can so Doug can throw the ball where I am. My job is to try to catch it if I got a shot. If I can't eatch it, then I try to tip It to someone else.

Actually, Miami's secondary defenders blew the play. They made it possible by allowing Phelan to get behind them and Flutte hit him with the ball right in the numbers.

"It wasn't that difficult a catch," said Phelan, who has made 60 of them for BC this season. "It certainly wasn't the hardest one I ever made. And after I realized I caught the ball, there was just complete euphoria. It was not a sette for words. Vishagged each other and jumped up and down like kids. It was like opening up your presents on Christmas morning.

Flutte confessed he was among the last to know what actually had happened. "I felt I held back a little when I threw the ball." he said. "I wasn't sure it would go all the way to the end zone. I thought Gerard was six or seven yards deep. I knew he was back there but I thought he had fallen down. I dtd know he had until what seemed like a couple of minutes later. I started walking off the field knowing the game was over when I saw the referee's hands go up in the air. Then I knew we had won. How did I feel? Well, I never saw that home run Bobby Thomson hit to win the pennant for the Giants. but I've heard about it. I imagine I felt exactly the same way he did."

Flutie, the all-time major college career passing and total yardage leader, has been hearing he was too small to be an effective quarterback since he came out of high school in Natick. Mass. He believes he can make it in the pros, and having seen the way he operates. I'm convinced he can, too.

Did you ever hear of Davey O'Brien? Or Eddie LeBaron? Things were different then, you say.

Okay, then, how about Fran Tarkenton? He was anything but a glant. And how about Washington's Joe Theismann? He's listed as 6-foot even, which would make him only 2 14 inches taller than Flutie, but I'd like to get a look at the tape measure they're using to measure him

"I don't know what it takes to make it in the NFL, but I think that when Doug gets there, he'll pick up where he left off," said Phelan, a finance major from Rosemont, Pa., who very likely

There are others, professional observers, who think Flutic will do all right in the pros despite his size. One of them is Jack Butler, who played for the Pittsburgh Steelers nine years, and now heads the Blesto Scouting Service for seven NFL clubs.

'The kid can play," Butler says of the 21-year-old Flutle. "When you talk about instinct, savvy, ability and awareness, here's a young man who has all those qualities. He's a winner. The fact he's 5-9 % doesn't climinate him. Our job is looking for gifted people, people with talent, and he certainly has it."

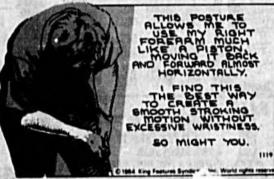

Harry Buffington goes along with that. He runs the National Football Scouting Combine in Tulse for 19 other NFL teams.

"The only question about Flutie is his size, and quite truthfully, I don't think that's much of a question," Buffington says. "He has everything else we're looking for. Of course, we'd wish he'd grow four inches in the next six months, but look at the history of some of the players in the NFL who were under six feet. Flutte has a very good arm, excellent instincts, good movement and he always knows what he's doing. He's some kind of pro-

Martina Marches To 71st Win

MELBOURNE, Australia (UPI) - Defending champion Martina Navratilova and No. 4 pick Wendy Turnbull of Australia. expected to the second round of the $1.5 million Australian Open at Kooyong. Navratilova overwhelmed Yvonne Vermaak of South Africa 6-1, 6-1, and Turnbull ousted Larissa Savchenko of the Soviet Union 6-2, 6-1.

Navratilova was in her usual devastating form and needed only 39 minutes to collect her 71st straight singles victory for the year. The first set lasted just 18-minutes with Vermaak taking only 14 points.

The second set lasted three minutes longer, only because one game went to deuce. The agile South African chased every ball, but still only managed 10 points in that set as Navratilova moved into top gear. After the match, Navratilova revealed that she sprained her ankle last month playing basketball. "It doesnt worry me on the court but it is very uncomfortable when I ice it," said Navratilova. So apparently, her main worry at the moment is that specially

Navratilova's main rival for the title. Chris Evert Lloyd, has started a vigorous weighttraining program in an attempt to improve her physical fitness. But the world champion seemed unimpressed.

"One week isn't going to do a whole lot for her, that's for sure." Navratilova said. "You need more than that, but I'm sure Chris knows what she is doing. When she was beating me, I changed my game to more of what she wasdoing. Now she is changing to my way.

I think that women should train more because they are not so strong and it can only help their stamina. You dont have to get muscular just to become stronger."

Top men's seeds Ivan Lendl and Matts Wilander have not yet seen action as they received first round byes along with the rest of the 16 seeded players.

Lendl, who lost last year's final to Wilander, will play Bill Scanlon of the U.S., and Wilander will take on David Mustard of New Zealand.

Toney's Clutch Shot Defuses Washington

United Press International

The Philadalphia 76ers executed in time to avoid their own execution at the hands of the Washington Bullets Tuesday night, after shooting only 29 percent in the first half. Andrew Toney connected on an 18-foot jumpshot with one minute remaining and Maurice Cheeks added two free throws as the 76ers powered to a 93-89 decision over the Bullets at the Capital Centre in Landover, Md.

Our offensive execution was very good down the stretch," said Toney, who finished with 19 points on the night.

Gus Williams had tied the game at 89 with a three-point play with 1:43 remaining, but Toney was able to get free in the final minute to hit his game-

Sweet And Simple Breads To Make Holidays Festive

Herald Correspondent

This week's cook, Pat Fleming. offers recipes for sweet and simple breads which are sure to help make your holiday festive. Fresh, homemade breads are also great for gift giving. Who doesn't appreciate something made with the greatest gift of all - love?

Pat was born in Georgia, but has lived in the Sanford area long enough to qualify as an honorary native. She has worked at Stromberg-Carlson for the past 13 years and is active in her church, First Assembly of God. where her husband. Ken, is an associate pastor. Pat and Ken have three children, two grandchildren and are expecting two more additions to the family very soon.

Pat says that she enjoys traveling. One of her more memorable tripa was her honeymoon cruise to the Bahamas with ports of call in Nassau and Freeport. More recent excursions include Niagra Falls in New York, Windsor, Ontario in Canada, Vall. Colo., Herliage Village in North Carolina, and a visit to the World's Fair in Knoxville, Tenn.

Closer to home. Pat says that she likes to go boating on the St. Johns River with stops at Blue Springs and Hontoon Island. Both places have wonderful nature walks which show off Florida's flora and fauna at its best, in its natural state.

Her lovely lakeside home is usually filled with family and friends. The cozy family room which features an old-fashioned style brick fireplace, adds warmth and comfort to each winter gathering. Since she and her husband are both good cooks, there's always an abundance of good food to round out the year. At this season it is shaped with a cross on top. Spread honey on the fragrant alices.

Following are Pat's holiday bread recipes. (Note: These breads are best when made with 44 teaspoon a generous amounts of tender between fingers

Reflective Banner Bright Idea For Drivers With Car Trouble

CONFIDENTIAL TO TALKS shut is worth a pound of expla-

wrote a column telling women what to do if they have car trouble while they're alone at night. It read (in part): "Turn your emergency blinkers on, or lift the hood to let passers-by know you have car trouble, then sit in your car with the windows rolled up and wait for help.

Then a reader wrote in to say: "Abby, I wouldn't recommend getting out of the car even to lift the hood. I bought an inexpensive reflective banner with large red letters bearing the message, 'PLEASE CALL POLICE.' It is easily secured to a car windshield and/or inside the rear window with preaffixed double-faced tape so the driver doesn't have to get out of the car. It is highly visible both day and night. This discourages would-be robbers or rapists from attacking because they might assume the police are already on their way." (The 3-foot reusable plastic banner folds up to glove-compartment size.)

This inspired our group, the Minneapolis chapter of the National Council of Jewish Women, to promote those banners. They are now available for $3 each, or two for $5, plus 50 cents for postage and handling. Checks or money orders should be made payable to : NCJW-BANNER, 4330 Cedar Lake Road, Minneapolis, Minn. 55416.

JUDITH TRAUB, PRESIDENT,

DEAR JUDITH: I with you luck with the project. These banners are not for women only. They can also be lifesavers for males, teen-agers and any elderly person who might develop car trouble on a lonely road or a busy highway.

DEAR ABBY: I am a 24-year-old widow and mother of three children and a set of twins due to be born in three months.

My husband died less than three t onths ago, and already my friends are trying to set me up with a new romantic interest to help me forget my sorrow.

Believe me, Abby, I do not need a new man in my life to help me get over my tragic loss. I know my friends are trying to have the same number of ribs. help me, but I am in no mood to (Who is ribbing whom?)

listen to their offers to fix me up with a man to replace my husband. A woman in my position doesn't need that kind of help right now. And for all I know, I may never need it.

Thanks for listening. I hope you will print this so my friends can see it. IN MOURNING IN WEST VIRGINIA

DEAR IN MOURNING: My heart goes out to you and your children. Your friends obviously don't realize that the only way to 'get over" grief is to accept it. feel it deeply and then slowly let go of it. One who is in mourning cannot simply "forget" his sor-row. Letting go of grief takes time. I hope your well-meaning friends see this.

DEAR ABBY: I must add to your answer to the woman who was being courted by a gentleman who was a tightwad, cheapskate or whatever you call a person who is just plain stingy. You weren't strong enough in your advice. I would have told her to forget the man. I have been in her shoes and made the horrendous mistake of marrying Stinginess is not a matter of pocketbook alone-it bespeaks a selfish, mean spirit that pervades the whole personality. This type of person is sure to be selfish when it comes to giving of himself, which is even more important than money.

'n' roll pioneer Little Richard's $115 million lawsuit against three record companies he says owe him royalties on his hit songs since 1955 has been thrown out of federal court

U.S. District Court Judge Alicemarie Stotler said Monday that Richard's claims that he had not been paid royalties did not violate federal statutes, and she suggested that he rellie the case in state court.

Arthur Pollock, Richard's attorney, said he would appeal Stotler's ruling to the U.S. 9th Circuit Court of Appeals.

The lawsuit was filed in June against Specialty Records Inc., ATV Music Corp. and Venice

LOS ANGELES (UPI) - Rock Richard Penniman, signed with Specialty Records in 1955, granting ownership of his songs to the company in exchange for 50 percent of the royalties.

> He sued the company in 1959, claiming he had not received any money. He settled the Superior Court suit that year, accepting $11,000 to waive his right to royalties from the sale of records - including such hits as "Long Tall Sally," "Tutti Fruitti" and "Bama Lama Bansa

Arthur Rupe, president of Specialty Records, filed a $3 million slander suit of his own against Richard in September. Rupe claimed the flamboyant Richard implied he was a racist while discussing his lawsuit on a of Connoisseur Magazine, said ascribed to Picasso's father, Jose Rulz, and another artist named Ozo by authorities at the Museum of Fine Arts of Catalonia in Barcelona, Spain in

However, a current Met museum curator sald he knows of nothing to substantiate the Ruiz ascription. The works were bought by the Met in 1958 by director James J. Rorimer from a pair of elderly Barcelona collectors, who were paid $350,000. It is not known whether the sellers knew the works probably were faked by Rulz, whose son used his mother's family name rather than his father's. "I was in the Barcelona museum with Jim Rorimer when a curator told us Rulz and Ozo had taken late Romanesque objects, either unadorned or in bad condition, and painted them up in a glorious way, and he showe i new ... seden madonna," Hoving recalled. "Flooked at Jim. and he looked at me and we both said 'My God!' because they were just like the pieces he had bought for the Metropolitan." These objects had passed the first test by museum conservationists, but after what we had seen in Barcelona they were tested again and failed. We kept quiet and stored them away. The then-president of the museum figured the embarrasament factor would be more painful than the loss of the money, Asked why Rutz, a professor at the Academy of Fine Arts in Barcelona, would stoop to fraud. noted that the works probably were painted around 1910 when sentiment for a separate Catalan state was running strong. He said it was a period when Catalans collected everything they could find of the Romanesque period, the golden era of Catalonian Independence. "There just wasn't enough to go around and artists began turning out fakes to meet the demand," he explained. "Ruiz occasionally turned a fast peacta in Catalan religious art. I'm sure some of his work is on display in other museums as the real

Whether it's a late-morning party with visiting relatives, a daytime feast for football fans or a New Year's Day get-together with friends, you'll dazzle your guests with an easy to prepare brunch that fits the holiday occasion. And with the help of these make ahead recipes you'll be able to relax and enjoy your party, too.

Start by delighting your company with a Brunch Strata that's as elegant as a souffle but infinitely more reliable. To save time and money, Tupperware Educational Services suggests chopping leftover holiday ham or turkey in advance and freezing it in an air-tight container. The day before the party, defrost the meat, prepare your Brunch Strata in minutes and refrigerate it for 24 hours. To finish this hearty dish, just pop it into your oven, bake and serve.

To complement your Brunch Strata, serve savory Herb-Onion Crescents. The delicate herbonion flavor is sure to be a hit. and these fragrant morsels take just a few minutes to make.

Andrea's Broccoll Salad adds color and interest with a unique Navor combination and deliciously different dressing. And you can prepare your salad in advance, refrigerate it in an airtight scaled container and add the dressing right before serving.

Dessert la Fruit Jubilee. It la easily prepared using a variety of canned truit layered with crumbled macaroon cookies and almonds. Served hot, this delightful dessert can bake while you enjoy the meal with your guests. A perfect complement to dessert is a specially flavored mint coffee that you mix at home, with ingredients you probably already have on your kitchen shelf.

To complete your holiday festivities. flatter your guests with Christmas gree Cookie Ornaments that bear the names of each person attending. You can make a batch of cookies ahead of time and freeze an airtight container. Then, when your guest list is set, just decorate each cookie with a name and hang them on your tree. Your guests will have fun hunting for their ornaments as they admire your thoughtfulness and beautful decorations.

And you'll be able to relax and have fun throughout the holtdays as you discover the easy way to entertain friends and family in style. ANDREA'S BROCCOLI BALAD

English Tradition

Here We Come A-Wassailing...

The weather is brisk...the streets echo with the sound of carolers...storefront windows are filled with wondrous gifts, and homes are decorated with wreaths of holly. Truly, 'tis the scasoni

Christmas has been celebrated all over the world for the past 2,000 years in climes ranging from the mild, sunny environs of Jerusalem to the cold. dark winters of Scandinavia. Each country has its special customs, and each family carries on its own cherished traditions. But people everywhere share the universal sentiment, "Merry Christmas."

One of the oldest Christmas customs is the Wassall Bowl. The word wassail literally means "good health" in Old English. and the steamy, spiced liquid was celebrated in rhyme by Robert Herrick in the early 17th century. It remains popular to this day.

Holiday Wassail Bowl makes a bow to tradition by mingling ale and apple juice, warmed with aromatic spices, but brings this beverage into the 20th century with a great splash of piquantsweet grapefruit juice.

1/2 cup slivered toasted lemon juice

2 dozen medium size almond or coconut macaroon cookies brown sugar

1/2 cup margarine (1 stick) Drain all canned fruit and set fruit juice aside. Place fruit in mixing bowl. Slice bananas, sprinkle with lemon juice and mix with fruit. In another bowl, crumble macaroons. Using a 2-quart baking dish, layer half of the fruit mixture in bottom of baking dish. Cover with half of the crumbled macaroon cookles, dot with half stick of margarine, sprinkle with brown sugar and 4 cup of slivered almonds. Repeat layers. Pour 1/2 cup of drained fruit juice over layers. Bake at 325° for 40 minutes. Makes 6-8 servings.
COOKIE ORNAMENTS

34 cup margarine

1 cup sugar

2 eggs 1/2 teaspoon vanilla

3 cups flour

1 teaspoon baking powder 1 teaspoon salt

1 tablespoon light corn syrup few drops food coloring Quick Royal Frosting: 24 cups powdered sugar

1 beaten egg white

11/2 teaspoons lemon juice .

food coloring
In mixing bowl, beat margarine and sugar until light and fluffy. Blend in eggs and vanilla.
Add combined dry ingredients:
mix well. Chill in sealed container for several hours or overnight. On pastry sheet, roll dough to thickness; cut with cookie cutters. Place on ungreased cookie sheet. Bake at 400° for 5-7 minutes or until edges are lightly browned. Cool slightly: remove from cookie sheet. Cool.

Makes four dozen cookles. To make cookie ornaments, use a drinking straw to cut a small hole near edge of cookie. Bake as directed. When cooled, decorate with glaze or frosting and thread ribbon or yarn through hole and hang on Christmas tree.

For snowflake pattern glazed cookies, combine corn syrup and food coloring. Paint cooled cookies using small brush.

For frosted cookies, combine powdered sugar and beaten egg white in small mixing bowl. Beat for one minute with mixer. Add lemon juice while beating for 1-2 minutes longer until stiff. Add food coloring and decorate cooled cookies.

thing different in your entertaining. Since your guests will have a myriad of holiday parties from which to choose, surprise them with a brunch. Then they holiday shopping afterwards.

The festivities can begin with an asparagus quiche, prepared with frozen or canned asparagus from Washington state. A revered vegetable in the springlime, asparagus is often forgotten in the winter. Its lively green color, coupled with bright red pimiento as in the quiche featured here, adds just the right touch for hollday dining.

And there's nothing quite so welcoming as an array of festive holiday foods, including an enticing buffet of holiday desserts.

Dazzle your guests with a collection of classic chocolate and coconut confections. Taking the star role in our buffet is an old favorite - Southern Chocolate Pecan Pie. This delectable pie ia chock-full of fresh, chewy pecans and rich Baker's German's aweet chocolate. It's cradled in a flaky homemade pie crust and garnished with a lattice of Coffee-Flavored Topping - a welcoming combination of flavors that's sure to be a

For a change of pace, offer your visitors alices of Carrot Coconut Cake with a Coconut Cream Cheese Frosting. This 9-inch tube cake is moist, light and full of the sensational flavors of freshly grated carrots, crushed pineapple, spice cinnamon and flaked coconut. It's the addition of Baker's Angel Flake coconut, full of real cream of coconut, that steals the scene. Blended with the cake mixture just before baking, the coconut flakes add a sweet and crunchy touch that's irresistible. And what could be more appealing than a rich Coconut Cream Checae Frosting that's crowned with more coco-

Top off your buffet with an assortment of chocolate truffles. They're quick, easy-to-serve treats that will delight one and all. Two special recipes are particularly impres ange Truffle Cups and Chocolate-Coated Almond Truffles. The Orange Truffle Cupe are a sweet, nutty candy given a tangy twist by the addition of orange liqueur and orange rind. This wonderful chocolate concoction is spooned or piped into chilled Bonbon Chocolate Crinkle Cups made with Baker's semi-sweet chocolate. The Chocolate-Coated Almond Truffles combine the flavors and textures of both chocolate and almonds. The truffles are shaped into balls, rolled on a bed of ground almonds, chilled and coated with melted semi-sweet chocolate.

No chocolate lover or coconut connoisseur will be able to resist such an extraordinary collection of holiday desserts.

Y'all Come To Dinner At Ashley Wilkes' Twelve Oaks Plantation

Talmadge was married for more than 30 years to a politician who liked to invite people to dinner -400 or so at the time - so she knows how to fix a home cooked

The marriage to former Sen. Herman Talmadge has ended, but the cooking goes on and now Betty Talmadge lives in style on the earnings she receives host-ing dignitaries who visit her home about 25 miles south of Atlanta.

"I finally found a way to make money from what I had been doing for free all those years," Taimadge said during a tour of her antebellum home.

The home was one of the reasons Talmadge became an entrepreneur — it takes a huge pile of money for upkeep.

The house, built in the 1840s, was the prototype for Ashley Wilkes' Twelve Oaks plantation in Margaret Mitchell's "Gone With the Wind." Politicians and businessmen who went to imprese their clients call Talmadge to arrange a meal at the home she calls Lovejoy Plantation. For a price — and she admits it is steep, starting at $2,500 — Talmadge serves her guests an Old South meal thad would force Scarlett O'Hara to loosen the stays on her corset.

For politicians Taimadge serves such dishes as Dark Horse Dip and Bitters, Waterloo Celery With Old Goat Cheese, Cooked Goose, Sour Grapes Salad and Filibuster Pie.

But the political season is over and Talmadge, who has published two cookbooks, is looking forward to Christman. She has already decorated the front room of her home with amilax, a festive green vine.

Talmadge reserves Christmas Day for her family, including a son and five grandchildren.

Combine oyster liquor with enough half-and-half to make I cup liquid. Add salt and Worcestershire sauce. Pour over casecrole. Top with remaining crumbs. Bake at 350 degrees for 30 minutes.

Rhett Butler's Biscuits actually came from Bess Abel, who was social secretary to Lady Bird Johnson when she lived at the White House. "I can't make biscuits but this recipe really does work," says Talmadge. It is Note the yeast AND the self-

WIN AT BRIDGE

By James Jacoby If I tell you to cover up the another club. One more heart East and West hands and plan rull and one more club rull the play in six spades, what enable you to make the smallhappens? Of course you can simply ignore the instruction and quickly read on to find out the solution to the problem. Or, bearing in mind that something exists beyond the obvious, you may ponder what might happen to cause six spades to go set. If you decide that a 4-0 trump split is the only danger, you will perhaps see what must be done

At trick two you must trump a club with one of your little spades. Now the spade ace reveals the bad split. Play ace of hearts and ruff a heart. Then ruff slam contract, since West must follow to the ace and king of diamonds. The last trick goes to the opponents, who are forced to play a winner on a winner -West with his long trump and East with his diamond queen.

There is a lesson in this deal. We can all be better declarers if we remember to ask ourselves what can go wrong. The next question follows logically what can we do about it? In this case, making all our trumps separately is the answer, but that doesn't work if we don't trump a club at trick two.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Be patient in your present endeavors, even if they are proceeding slowly. Some surprising developments may occur behind the scenes to speed everything

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Friendships can be enhanced today if you go out of your way to be helpful to pals who have treated you kindly over the years. Don't wait to be asked.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Even though your goal today may be personal, you'll receive rather unexpected support from others.

associates to help you reach it. CANCER (June 21-July 22) Do not use intermediaries today to represent you in important matters. You'll fare better handling the negotiations on a one-to-one basis. LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Strive to take a more active role today in a situation where you share a mutual interest with another. Your input will be of considerable help. VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Conditions are generally favorable today for putting important agreements together. Don't waste time because later influences may be less friendly.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Today, unique premiums could be attached to any work or service you perform for others. Don't fret about compensation, just do good job. SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Your thoughts are likely to prove the wiser today so take a chance on your own ideas and concepts. rather than gambling on those of
