Teachers deal with drugs and potential violence every day. It may be harmless, with a student showing off a realistic gun in class that turns out to be a toy. Sometimes it's a real gun. But, there were no guns found in Seminole County schools last year, according to school district records.

Save the manatees

Manatees evolved in the vast Amazon River system of Brazil over 15 million years ago. Not surprisingly, manatees still thrive in rivers, in Florida as well as many other parts of their range. The spring-fed rivers of north Florida are particularly important, as they provide winter refuge for the cold-sensitive manatee, as well as abundant food, fresh water, and shelter. The number of manatees wintering at Blue Spring, in the upper St. Johns River, has increased from 22 in the winter of 1978/79 to over 100 in the winter of 1998/99.

This encouraging news is tempered by the fact that the human population in this region has increased as well. A recent study by the St. Johns River Water Management dis-trict indicates that over approximately the same period. Blue Spring flow has declined by 20%. The bad news for manatees is that when decreased flow that occur simultancously with higher river levels and cold temperatures, the probability increases that cold river water will intrude on the Blue Spring run, where manatees take shelter. At the current rate of decline in spring flow, Blue Spring may no longer be a reliable winter refuge for manatees in another 20 years.

Among the alternatives that should be considered to offset the human impacts to the region is the restoration of the Ocklawaha River. Manatees are known to move between Blue Spring and sections of the St. Johns River centered around the Barge Canal. Removing Rodman Dam and closing Buckman Lock would allow manatees to move freely into what used to be a significant tributary of the St. Johns, without risk of being crushed by dam or lock structures. Restoration of springs cur-rently drowned by the Rod-man Reservoir would provide additional habitat for manatees when they most need it, during the winter. The source of manatees that might use the Ocklawaha River is not just the population that overwinters at Blue Spring, Manatees migrate seasonally up and down the Atlantic Coast, investigating any river or creek that is deep enough (approximately 3 feet) for them to enter. "Chessie," the manatee that traveled from Florida to Rhode Island and back in one summer, is an extreme example of mer, is an extreme example of what comes naturally to all manatces. Make the habitat available, and they will come.

The obstacles to restoration cannot be ignored. Rodman Reservoir is a recreation area for base fishermen, particularly during the periodic larly during the periodic drawdowns required to control aquatic plants and improve water quality. Potential impacts on this recreational activity must be weighed against existing and future development impacts on all of the re-gon's natural resources. A restored river system will ultimately be better appreciated by a wider range of people. and may help to maintain was ter quality and quantity for us as well as for the manater. Restoration requires visions and dedication to revise status quo. As we approach the end of this century of incredible change to Florida's landscape, what better gift can we give future generations than our willingness to bring back some of the natural treasures that, like the Ocklawaha River, we have lost?

But with its largely British cast and creetively, "thekespeare" was not creetively. "Shakespeare" was not, creatively, much of an American movie at all; no more so, really, than Sony's "Men in Black" was a Japanese movie. The thinking man's romantic comedy was directed by the British John Madden and co-written by the British playwright Tom Stopperd. Its co-star, Joseph Flennes, and Best Supporting Actress winner Judi Dench are British, and its Best Supporting Actor nominee, Geoffrey Rush (a past Best Actor winner for "Shine"), is Australian.

That has been changing for a while, and today, overseas revenues represent the ma-jority, 60 percent, of Hollywood's total theatrical film revenues. Cultural imperialism? On the contrary, it means that the suits in the American studios now give more weight to foreign tastes and sensibilities in decisions about which movies are green-lighted and the size of their budgets. Hollywood does dominate overseas, with American movies commanding market shares in the 60- to 80-percent range. But this, too, is probably good news on balance for foreign filmmakers. The growing popularity of American movies has fueled an overseas building boom in newer, more com-fortable and technically sophisticated theaters. This means that foreign producers have access to more screen and a shot at a larger movie-going public. Joint distribution deals between the Hollywood studios and for eign distributors also mean more cash for foreign distributors to invest in lecal productions.

It's harder to say whether foreign movies are making inroads in the U.S. market. The anecdotal evidence of recent foreign surprise smashes like "Four Weddings and a Funeral," "The Full Monty" and "Life is Beautiful" suggest that they are,

The success here of these and other foreign movies implies that American audiences don't reject foreign movies per se; they reject movies with a foreign acathetic, wherever they are

"Life is Beautiful" is a fable about the power of story telling invention. Benigni plays a comically inventive waiter who shields his young son from the horrors of the Final Solution by making up a story: The concentration camp is the site of a game in which the grand prize goes to the first contestant to earn 1,000 points, points earned for not crying, not complaining

Strawberry time for a grand lady

"I tell you, I just can't stop - maybe I'll live to be 200," Ruth Hamilton said at a party this week.

She was eating strawberry ice cream and celebrating her 101st birthday.

The day before, she had partied at Church Street Station. "I had my wig on, my best dress and my gold shoes," she said.

A couple of weeks ago, Hamilton was moved from her 7th floor apartment at Bram Towers in Sanford to the 4th floor at Lutheran Towers in Orlando

That meant celebrating her 101st birthday with a new bunch of friends. "They've been singing and partying all afternoon," she said. This is the most fun some of them have ever had."

Ruth Hamilton said that anything new - even a move -at her age is a snap. "I can adapt to anything," she said. "I wish I knew what I do now years ago. Then, I'd surely live to 200."

Hamilton said that her advice to everyone is to be so enthusiastic about life that you don't pay attention to how old you may be getting.

"As a girl I wanted to learn everything I could," she said.
"I studied books on logic. Books about what made people tic. I read biographies of those who had succeeded."

Hamilton is concerned that most people today don't have very good attention spans. There are too many distractions - television is one. People forget what was on their mind and get trapped by TV.

"Everyone is in a hurry. And there are so many people - 7 billion in the world. That's too many."

Born in Alta, Iowa in 1898, Hamilton has led three or four more lives than most women. She was a school teacher, a New Hampshire State representative, she married a small town doctor.

She traveled the world. She was close enough to Adolph Hitler in 1936 to spit in his face - and she wishes she face - and she wishes she She's lived through two world wars, the Great Depression, assassinations and scandal. She watched the first cars go on the road, the first airplanes in the sky, the first men reach the moon...

She mediates frequently and listens to religious or philosophical tapes before going to sleep at night.

"I also have nightly con-yersations with St. Peter. He s I supposed to stay here while longer. How many copie get to live as long as have and enjoy it all the

The little ones want to know about The Yearling." Parker said.

The Yearling, a tale about a lonely boy who is forced to kill his pet deer after it de-stroys the crops his family needs to survive, has for nearly six decades been a staple in classrooms.

Students in Sanford's old Grammar School may have read The Yearling. On Fri-day, Parker toured the for-Grammar School building with Walker. The old school is now serving as the Student Museum after the school was closed in 1984.

Parker's niece, Jobana Tyson, lives in Sanford and works as a loan officer for a local credit union.

"I wish I had a whole week here," Parker said. "It's so enchanting. I had asked why she (Rawlings) would come to Sanford. Now, I can understand."

Florida is adding a new area code.

The 407 Central Florida Region* needs new phone numbers. Numbers for the kids, numbers for the office, numbers for pagers, faxes, and cell phones. And don't forget about computer modems. Each one needs a number, and there are only so many to go around. It's just a mathematical fact. So to open up a few million more, the 407 Central Florida Region is adding a new area code: 321.

The 321 area code will overlay the existing 407 Central Florida Region effective December 1, 1999. Existing numbers will not be affected, because only new numbers will receive the new area code. With the addition of the 321 area code, local calls within the overlay area will require ten-digit dialing.

If you have any questions about 321, visit www.bellsouth.com/areacode. Or call us at 1 800 964-7941.

cerned about what it might add up in costs for extra police, fire and rescue, and schooling.

Growth does not really pay for itself," Henley said.

Speaking for 1 1/2 hours. Henley said the county was entering a "crucial time" as it prepares to enter the third Millennium.

Henley said he was concerned that the county would have "to wait its turn" for funding needed to build the St. Johns/Interstate 4 bridge. He said seven new roads are being completed and that 15 more would be constructed by the end of the year.

The bad news, he said, is that there are 120 miles of unpaved roads in the county. That there are drainage problems. A water shortage. Potential for more wild fires - with the memory of last year's "season of fury." Henley said the county needed to spend $20 million on a new courthouse, $11 miltion of expansion of the jail. $36 million on the zoo, undetermined millions to fix up the county building, $56 million parks and trails, and as much as $300 million on stormwater improvement.

He said that many of the county's older subdivisions need to be brought back to standards.

The quality of life in the county has been enhanced as the city of Casselberry has been helped in its effort to "climinate the all-night party image," Henley said. A new public decency law has cut down on the activity at adult clubs that no longer offer totally nude dancing.

At the same time, Henley said that unless all those in the community work in "harmony," that there would be more fear, frustration, anger and road rage. "In six months, it's been an eyeopening experience to see the hostility in the community," he said ..

The former Lyman High School principal chastised parents who allowed their children to be "absentees" from school. There's nothing wrong with the Seminole County School system, he said, "the trouble is with the par-

Henley urged the business leaders to adopt a policy not to hire school dropouts. Tell them there are no joba if you don't have educations, he said. You will not be employed. Make education important. Do not lower our standards."

Henley gave himself and the current board of commissioners a pat on the back, mying, "all the commissioners are acting responsibly. Folks, this is serious business.

Another challenge by Henley was to stop developers from getting rezoning requests granted when it is definitely detrimental to the county.

He said that everyone can't always get what he or she wants, that there has to be compromises and good will to each other. He called for harmony and respect."

Article 2: Goals and Objections

SPECIAL TO THE HERALD

Regardless of what security we select, it should meet our goals.

One of the basic tenants of investing is that it should not be done on impulse. Know what you want before you buy. Then, determine if your selection will do for you what you want - in short, if it will meet your needs.

If, for example, you want your investment to give you income, then you must expect your choice to provide suitable dividends (stocks or equity investments provide dividends) or interest (bonds or debt securities produce interest) to meet your needs. In addition, you must be reasonably convinced that this income will be paid to you regularly and on time.

Whether you receive this income will depend on the ability of that particular corporation to meet its obligations. It is also generally true that the higher your yield or return, the more risk you provide as much income as Financial Services.

an unsecured note of a small corporation. On the other hand, the government bond will afford you more safety. So, if you're aiming for maximum income on your investment, chances are you're going to have to sacrifice a bit of safety. To put it another way. There's no such thing as a free lunch."

If, on the other hand, income is secondary and you're after capital appreciation, then you probably should invest in securities you believe you may sell for more than you paid for them.

One thing you can be certain of, however, is that no stock or bond can simultaneously offer you minimum risk, attractive income and tremendous growth potential. If a security features one of these attributes, the other will be secondary or practically nonexistent. At certain times, however, it may be possible to obtain securities that potentially offer some modest combination of these features over a period of

Why do pro athletes go brain dead in Florida?

SANFORD - What is it about the state of Florida that continues to get so many professional athletes in trouble?

Surely it has nothing to do with their own stupidity.

Consider these incidents over just the past several years that have ruined the careers of athletes either from Florida or in Florida.

Now these incidents only reflect players who have played in Florida, hailed from Florida or occurred in Florida, but you'll get the point if there is Obviously, Darryl Strawberry is the most obvious. He was busted in Tampa this week offering $50 for what he thought was a prostitute (at his salary. what did he expect he was going to get?). An already wasted career now seems over. His life time stats? Tax evasion, domestic violence, alcohol abuse, drugs and soliciting.

Dwight Gooden (Tampa) wasted what might have been one of the greatest pitching careers of all time because of cocaine.

Lawrence Phillips played for the Dolphins for a spell in 1997. He's the guy that dragged his girlfriend down the stairs by her hair, then served time in prison for violating probation with a DUI.

Apopka's Sammy Smith is still in prison for getting busted with over a pound of cocaine after a huge career at Florida State and a promising pro career in the NFL.

Apopka's Warren Sapp. now with the Tampa Bay Bucs, was busted for marijuana at the University of Miami and fell several spots in the draft. costing himself millions of dollars before the Bucs took a chance on him.

Dallas Cowboy star Michael žrvin, let's see, cocaine use in a notel room with prostitutes, is from the University of Miami. He barely was welcomed back to the Cowboys who take just about anyone.

There are more, including a few that hit close to home, but you get the point. It's not that Florida is the only place with a problem; in fact, Florida mentions are just a way to keep this column from going on forever.

The real point is that it is so casy for athletes with so many millions of dollars adding up to ruin it all on a night, or a lifetime, of stupidity.

Instead of concentrating on Strawberry, who is getting enough raps these days, look at some of the good guys.

Remember, not everybody in the professional sports ranks are on drugs or soliciting pros-

It's just become common to ppen up the daily sports pages and see a police blotter. There's something wrong with what's happening to these guys. A player like Smith had the world at his feet. He had a promising NFL career and wasted it all on drugs. Instead of appearing on ESPN, he's appearing before a warden looking for early release. Sapp could have been a topfive pick in the draft. Instead, he tested positive. He'll always be more remembered for his draft day ordeal that anything he does for the Bucs. And, yes, let's talk about Strawberry.

For our sake, not his. How many times will we be deceived? How many times will we be-lieve an athlete who promises to have found God? How many times will we continue to forgive and forget?

Lions put pressure on foes

OVIEDO - When Oviedo High School varsity baseball coach Kenne Brown played for High School he had something of a dubious reputation.

We hated him," says Oviedo varsity football coach Greg Register, who played for Seminole High School when Brown was at Lyman. "He's the kind of player who tried to get under your skin and stay there." Not blessed with superior size, speed, or talent, Brown did whatever he could to help his team win. He'd find a way to get on base, take an extra base whenever he could, and willingly sacrifice his body to make a play that might mean a

This year's Oviedo High School varsity team is a reflection of its coach. The Lions try to put pressure on their opponents to execute on every play of every game.

Friday night's contest with the visiting Lake Howell Silver Hawks is a case in point. While the Lions only had five hits, they took advantage of 10 Lake Howell errors on the way to a 5-2 vic-

"We came out flat, but we found a way to win," said Brown. "We ran the bases well tonight and took advantage of every opportunity. Of the five runs scored by the Lions, Lake

Howell errors contributed to four. On the season, Oviedo has benefited from 65 errors by its opponents. Opposing pitchers have thrown 57 wild pitches, balked five times, and hit 21 Lion hitters with pitches. That works out to almost an extra three outs, more than two extra bases, and nearly one extra base runner every

Going into Friday night's game, 58 of the 208 runs scored by the Lions this season were unearned. On top of that, Oviedo has made a habit of scoring runs with two outs. In last Monday's win over Lake Brantley, for example, 11 of the 14 runs scored by Oviedo came with two out.

"That's what we preach," said Brown, to seize every opportunity and get the most out of every out. We try to put pressure on the team to have to make, if not a perfect play, a good play every time. If they don't - and no one does, not every play - then we try to exploit it.

In the bottom of the third inning Friday night. the Lions were trailing 2-1. After leading off with a double, Paul Lubrano eventually coaxed a wild throw on a pickoff attempt. When the throw to try to nail Lubrano at third sailed out of play, Lubrano scored the tying run. Larry Grayson then reached on an infield single. He took second on a wild pitch, went to third when the throw went into center field, and scored when the throw in from the outfield went over the third baseman's head. An error on a pick-off attempt put courtesy runner Nick Tenekedes in position to score Oviedo's fourth run. A dropped fly ball, a steal of third, and another overthrow resulted in the fifth Lion run. Steve Frey (4-0), who worked 1-2/3 innings in relief of starter Jeremy Griffith, was the winning pitcher for the Lions. J.C. Blass retired all seven batters he faced to earn his first save of the sea-

Brad Hoffar (0-1), who allowed just two earned runs on five hits while striking out eight and walking two in pitching a complete game for the Silver Hawks, was tagged with the loss.

Providing the offense for the Lions (who improved to 22-3 overall and 10-0 in Class 6A-District 3 play) were Lubrano (double, run): Brett Murphy and Jered Goodwin (each with a single and an RBI); Grayson (single, run); Javie Alvarez (single); Tenekedes (two runs scored); and Please see Lions, Page 2B

LONGWOOD - Don't overlook the Rams. With state-ranked Oviedo rolling along undefeated in the Class 6A-District 3 race and everyone always concerned about Lake Brantley, it would be easy to forget about the Lake Mary baseball team.

Reliever Steve Frey improved to 4-0 on the season as Oviedo rallied to defeat Lake Howell, 5-3, in 6A-District 3 action at Mikler Field Friday night.

But the Rams proved Friday night that it will be a force to be reckoned with in the upcoming district tournament as it knocked Lyman ace Kevin Graves out of the game in the first inning and won its 20th game of the season with a 17-7. five-inning thumping of the Greyhounds.

Lake Mary (20-6) scored six runs in the first inning, chasing Graves, who has been outstanding in district games this year. After the Rams increased the lead to 7-0 in the top of the second inning. Lyman tried to make a game of it, scoring four runs in the bottom of the second inning. The game looked like it might turn into a slugfest as Lake Mary scored five runs in the top of the third inning and the Greyhounds answered with three runs in the bottom of the third to make the score 12-7. But the Rams of coach Allan Tuttle were then inserting Nuss (3-0) into the game for not in the mood to stay on the field for a slowpitch softball type affair, scoring five more runs in the top of the fourth inning.

Jose Tormos and Staats carried the big bats in this game for Lake Mary, Tormos going 3-for-5 with a home run and three RBI and Staats going 2-for-4 with a double and driving in four runs. Rob Macchione contributed a 2-for-5 evening to the Rams' 12-hit output.

Graves was 2-for-2 for the Greyhounds. Lake Mary will play again on Monday, traveling to Sanford to take on the Fighting Seminoles at Alumni Field starting at 7 p.m. Lyman only has two games left before the district tournament, hosting tough non-district foes Deltona on Monday and West Orange on Thursday. Both games will begin at 7:30 p.m.

Field Friday night.
For years Lake Brantley and Sarasota High have battled it out to see which school has the best baseball program, meeting in the finals of the Big Blue Baseball Bonanza and the State Tournament several times in the 1990's.

But this year it is a little different as the Sailors are 21-3 on the season and a definite threat at the Class 6A state title, while the Patriots are just 14-12 and trying to get some momentum going with the district tournament only a week away.

Sarasota took control of the game by scoring four runs in the second inning and then adding insurance runs in the sixth and seventh innings.

Lake Brantley, meanwhile, could do little with the offerings of Sailors pitchers Miller and Foster, only getting two hits on the night.

APOPKA - Fresh off clinching the top seed for the Class 6A-District 3 Tournament, the Oviedo softball team went on the road and doubled the score on Apopka, 6-3, in a nondistrict game Friday night.

Lions' senior pitcher Tanya Howard scattered seven hits to raise her record to 9-1 and she got more than enough offense when her teammates scored five runs in the top of the second inning.

The Lions actually led 6-0, scoring a run in the top of the sixth inning, before

Smith was on top of her game last night and saved her own life, snaring back-to-back line drives headed right back at the mound in the fifth inning. Lake Mary Jumped out early against Deltona with two runs

The Wolves did get to Smith for single runs in the fourth and fifth innings, but they would get no closer and Lake Mary closed the scoring with a run in the sixth inning.

Seniors Otero, Collins and Crispell made their big night even more enjoyable, each going 2-for-4.

Just say no to "fat-burners"

DEAR DR. BLONZ: I'm hoping that instead of having to search for hours on the Internet or in a health food store, you can tell me where to find information on fat-burning foods that cause weight loss and products that help you lose weight while you sleep.

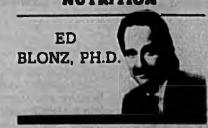

I am also looking for information on foods that help reduce the risk of certain cancers. I want to know your opinions on all of these products. I read your column every week and feel you are someone I can trust. Thank you in advance for your help. — G.E., Everett,

DEAR G.E.: Thanks for your kind words. Regarding fat-burning foods, don't believe the hype: It is mostly non-sense. Some people claim that certain foods encourage fat-burning but it is a mystery as to how this might work. Fat is metabolized (burned) as a normal part of energy metabolism. To burn more calories, the body has to partake in more energy-demanding ac-tivities — exercise and other forms of muscular work. The thought that certain foods can burn more calories than they contribute is tough to swallow.

You should also avoid buying weight-loss products based on "speed" substances such as ephedra, ma huang, guarana or caffeine. They artificially increase your metabolic rate, but for many this is downright dangerous and these substances do not offer any longterm weight loss advantages. There is no magic bullet to replace the bene-fits of regular physical activity. Lose weight while you sleep? If you think about it, we all do this. In fact,

we are losing weight whenever we are not eating or drinking, and the longest fast of the day is — you guessed it — while we sleep! However, the idea that pills can help you drop a few sizes while you alumber only sounds great in a sales pitch — there is no real science to back it up.

If you want to eat foods that reduce the risk of certain cancers, I would look to vegetables, legumes, fruits and other high fiber foods. This group, by the way, will reduce the caloric density of your diet (fewer calories per unit weight of food consumed), so they would be beloful in reducing your overall intake of calories — the real key to

DEAR DR. BLONZ: Can you recommend vitamin and herbal supplements for poor circulation, especially in the legs? Mine ache and feel very heavy whenever I'm standing. — P.C., Lombard, Ill.

DEAR P.C.: It is important to de-termine what is behind the aches in your legs and the heavy sensation you feel. It could involve something as basic as rest or muscle tone, for which supplementary herbs, vitamins or minerals would be of minimal help. What you are experiencing could also be signs of a developing problem in your cardiovascular system. If this is the case, it's in your best interest to con-front the problem before things get worse. The key is to find out what's wrong before you start taking supplements, so I advise you to check with your health professional. Please write back when you have more information, and I will try to provide more specific

DEAR DR. BLONZ: I received information on the diet supplement formation on the diet supplement Serotril. It says a lot of negative things about the "Fen Phen" diet, but it ap-pears to be a convenient way to pro-mote its own doctor-developed product made with natural Serotril ingredients. Are you familiar with this product? — T.D., Boise, Idaho DEAR T.D.; According to my sources, the product named Serotril contains an antidepressant (St John's Wort) and a few of the B vitamins. That this combo could confer special weight-loss powers is a strutch. Oh, I forgot... there's a booklet that casses with the product and tells you to eat less. What an amazing concept! Save

Give up homemade nasal spray

DEAR DR. GOTT: My daughter has been using a homemade nasal spray, consisting of a combination of hydrogen peroxide, spices, chili and pickling juices. She has gradually been losing her sense of smell and has constant headaches and nasal congestion. She has had examinations and tion. She has had examinations and tests, but never tells the doctors about her home remedy. I'm very concerned about this problem. She says that since she's not using commercial sprays, she doesn't have to worry about becoming dependent on this

DEAR READER: From the sound of your letter, I'd say that your daughter is pickling her nose, and the nerves of smell as well. The strong components of her spray may certainly cause tis-sue damage. It's curious why she refuses to divulge her secret to the doctors. Perhaps she is experiencing secondary gain by being miserable and overtested. This is not appropriate. Try to convince her to give up her kitchen-medicine proclivity and put herself in the hands of a capable earnose-and-throat specialist.

People do not become dependent on commercial nose sprays. Rather, the problem is that many of these preparations cause a condition called "rebound": After about a week of constant use, the sprays cause (instead of relieve) nasal congestion. To counteract this complication, patients often increase the use of the sprays, thereby subjecting themselves to a vicious cycle of yet more nasal irritation and congestion. I'm sure that your daughter can be helped by stopping her homemade spray and 'fessing up to a specialist.

DEAR DR. GOTT: Which is safest for children: sugar, NutraSweet or saccharine?

DEAR READER: This disarmingly simple question is actually quite com-

Many nutritionists believe that Americans consume too much sugar. Although the substance itself is safe for general use, a problem may arise because of quantity. Among other effects, sugar provides unnecessary

("empty") calories that contribute to overweight. Some authorities question the safety of heavy reliance on aspartame (NutraSweet or Equal) in children's diets. Again, the question is one of quantity. In addition, aspartame must not be used by people who have the genetic disorder called phenylketonuria (PKU). Similarly, saccharine is probably best limited to small

I believe that moderation is the best approach, although all three substances are probably harmless in the quantities ordinarily consumed. Potential trouble may arise if both natural and synthetic sweeteners are ingested in excessive amounts.

DEAR DR. GOTT: Two years ago, my prostate specific antigen blood tests was 7.5. My doctor repeated the test six months later: It was 8.4. He suggested a second repeat in six months: 9.8. Now, another six months later, it is 11.2. Should I be doing more? I am 73.

DEAR READER: Yes, you should. The normal PSA value is 0 to 4. Initially, yours was high but not worrisome. However, the fact that it is climbing is ominous: 11.2 is clearly abnormal. In my opinion, your doctor should stop sitting on his hands and refer you to a urologist for prostatic ultrasound and biopsies. While your elevated PSA may not reflect cancer, the prudent practitioner should check to make sure. Don't delay in seeking a urological consultation.

SHS 60th reunion celebrated, dancers perform for club

The 1939 class of Seminole High School met over the weekend at the Marina Hotel in downtown Sanford to celebrate the 60th class reunion. From all reports, "It was wonderful...we had a great time."

For the past several years, this class has presented the Seminole High School "Teacher of the Year" with $1,000, and this year was no difference. On behalf of the class, Mary Nancy Brock Terwilleger presented $1,000 to Bill Klein, this year's SHS Teacher of the Year. The class calls the contribution the "Marjorie Tillis Lansing Excellence Award," and is in honor of a former class teacher.

Class members recall attending school when there were no carpeting, airconditioning nor computers. Sue Eisele said," We had a lot of fun in high school. Today, there are so many more choices and options."

DANCERS PREVIEW CHINA TRIP ROUTINE

Highlight of the April meeting of the Sanford Woman's Club was a performance of Sanford's traveling S.O.D.A (School of Dance Arts) Pops. The dancers delighted members with a dazzling preview of the exciting numbers they will perform in China when they visit there from June 20 to July 4 to experience the China Cultural Exchange.

The 18-member dance troupe entertained the club members with tap, ballet, jazz and point numbers, choreographed by Miriam Doktor and Valerie Weld, operators of the School of Dance Arts. Vivacious narrators were Christina Prusak and Jenny Dennis who gave a highly professional description of the dances. Natalie Weld, an immediate past contender for the Miss Florida crown who was awarded for her talent, did a specialty tap dance to "Yankee Doodle" to reflect the finest in Americana. Courtney Roberts thrilled the members with a lilting pointe solo.

Other dancers performing were: Melissa Garris, Valerie Taricano, Karolyn Mantuano and Shivon McLamb.

At the conclusion of the program, under the auspices of the arts department, the dance troupe was presented a monetary gift from the club to add to

Stardust Olympics a big hit in Lake Mary

MARY ROWELL

It had many of the elements of the International Olympics: the javelin, the triathlon and the shot put. But since the majority of the Girl Scouts participating in the 6th Annual Stardust Olympics on Saturday, April 10 were elementary school age, the events were changed a little.

The javelin was a funoodle cut in half. The three elements of the Triathlon were kicking a soccer ball around cones, ninning backwards and crabwalking. And the shot put, the girl's favorite event, used a water balloon.

Almost 200 girls competed in Saturday's event behind Lake Mary City Hall.

After the girls competed, they got to watch their other favorite events, the leader competition. Leader competed against each other in the three-legged race. Then, it was the Brownie eaders (the largest group of leaders) against the Daisy, Junior and Senior leaders in the tug-of-war. Much to the delight of all the Brownies, the Brownie leaders won.

Stardust was very lucky with their community support this year. Because of the expense of the Olympics, the Service Unit sells gold, silver and bronze sponsorships. This isn't a fund raiser, the money covers the cost of the event only. T-shirts and medals are expensive. Gold sponsors this year were Baker & Hostetler, Counsellors At Law; the Sunniland Corporation; Gastroenterology Associates of Central Florida: Doug Forner Photography: Longwood Lincoln Mercury; Integrated Office Networks; Emulsion Engineering, Inc.; Tile Professionals, Inc.; Starstone and the Omni Capital Group, Cumberland Farms was a double gold. # Every child must learn that actions have consequences

DEAR ABBY: I would like to comment on the letter from "Victorious in Oregon," the woman whose young daughter and niece made adult entertainment telephone calls amounting to $260. She was fortunate that, by law, she was not obligated to pay for the calls, but there are other issues involved.

The girls were old enough to know they were doing something wrong, and I assume they were punished. But I still think the charges were legitimate. Parents should be financially responsible if their children break the law (i.e. commit vandalism).

Children must be taught that actions have consequences for which they must take responsibility. Years ago, when my daughter was a teen-ager, she was careless about guarding her telephone calling card PIN number, and a friend of hers used the calling card without permission to make $50 worth of calls.

Neither of us knew the source of these charges, and the telephone company was willing to remove them from our bill. When we figured out the identity of the caller, I asked the phone company not to deduct the charges, and my daughter paid them.

It was an expensive lesson for her, but an important one. Today she is a thoughtful, responsible adult — not that she wouldn't have been had I paid the charges or allowed them to be deducted.

LYNN B. FOUNTAIN VALLEY, CALIF

DEAR LYNN: I agree that children should be taught the consequences of their actions—and I'd be surprised if the children involved in making those phone calls didn't receive a severe lecture and grounding for their mischief. Styles of discipline vary from family to family, and making the girls foot the bill seemed excessively strict to me since it was a first

I am aware that there are more issues involved than whether the parents should have been liable for the phone hill the girls ran up. The children seem to have a lot of unsupervised time on their hands, which in this case they used to satisfy their curiosity about sex. "Victorious" is overdue for a frank discussion with the girls about sex. Now that the hassle with the phone company has been settled, she should turn her attention to enrolling the girls in after-school activities such as music, sports or special-interest clubs, so their minds will be occupied with more wholesome things than Xrated adult entertainment.

DEAR ABBY: I am a bride-to-be who is in the midst of planning my wedding. I have several single guests on my wedding invitation list, Am I obligated to invite the single person with a guest if I know that they do not have a significant other? I did not find that point in your wedding booklet.

JUNE BRIDE

DEAR BRIDE: You are under no obligation to invite single guests to bring an excort to your wedding, but it would be very gracious of you to do so. Sometimes unattached people feel isolated at weddings because it may seem that everyone else is part of a couple.

Thank you for pointing out that this was omitted in my wedding booklet — I'll correct it in the next printing.

ING FOR A BETTER FUTURE":
"When things are bad, we take comfort in the thought that they could always be worse.
And when they are, we find hope in the thought that things are so bad they have to get better." (Malcolm S. Forbes)

CONFIDENTIAL TO "LOOK-

have been liable for the phone hill the girls ran up. The children seem to have a lot of unsupervised time on their hands, which in this case they they're almost all teen-agers.

Emmy recently separated from Brad and is considering divorce. The main reason seems to be that Brad's children are disrespectful and disobedient, and are getting into trouble at school. Emmy says she's tired of being "the wicked stepmother" trying to discipline them without any help from him. Brad is very easygoing, and his children do have some behavioral and emotional problems.

I don't want my sister to be unhappy. She should do whatever she thinks is right for herself, her son and daughter. Frankly, if she can't deal with her stepchildren, perhaps they're better off without her as

My problem is, I like Brad and I'm fond of his kids. For five years I've considered them part of our family. I feel very uncomfortable suddenly having to treat them like outcasts. Emmy feels that if I continue to see them, I'm taking his side and not supporting her.

Personally, I'm happily married, with a new baby who is very popular with his "step" cousins. I'd appreciate hearing what you think.

BETWIXT AND BETWEEN

DEAR BETWIXT: The root of your sister's unhappiness is her husband's unwillingness to accept his responsibility as a parent, and it has sabotaged the marriage. Small wonder the children have problems! It's interesting that you are not more sympathetic to the battle she has been through during the last five years, nor more protective of her feelings.

What you decide to do in the long run is up to you. However, until your sister decides whether to continue or end the marriage, in the interest of family loyalty, I think you should back her up.

BRIDGE

Endplayed in all suits

It is well-known that if an opponent bids, you enjoy a considerable edge when the play begins. His bid marks the location of the missing high-card points. This deal is a textbook example. After East opens one club, you storm into three no-trump. West leads the club four: 10, queen, ace. How would you continue? Would you have opened that East hand?

To answer the second question first, my view is that opening with 12 high-card points is fine if you are going to bid a decent suit, one you would be happy for partner to lead. Also, you need to have an easy rebid whatever partner responds. So, I would open with this hand. I would prefer to have four clubs, but the suit does contain two top honors. And there are no rebid problems.

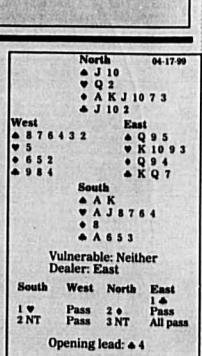

The deal, which occurred in Portugal, was declared by Miguel Goncalves. Unfortunately, no auction was given, and I couldn't think of anything convincing. In my sequence, North's two-diamond bid is forcing.

(This is not the mainstream view now, but I think it will be in the future - though maybe not for 20 years!)

Move into the South seat. You are missing only 12 high-card points, so East must have them all. After winning with the club ace, play three rounds of diamonds (ace, king and jack), discarding the ace and king of spades! What can East do? He may cash the spade queen and club king. cash the spade queen and club king, but whatever he leads next puts you back into the dummy for access to those three diamond winners. And note that East, if he had a fourth diamond, would be endplayed in all four suits. I never saw that before.
