SANFORD METHODISTS ARE PREPARING FOR GREATEST REVIVAL-EVER HELD HERE

REV. C. F. WEIGH, NOTED EVANGELIST, WILL BE IN CHARGE.

START SEPT. 30TH

In Big Tent That Will Comfortably Seat 1,200 People.

Rev. Charles F. Weigle, one of the leading evangelists of the South, assisted by Mr. Jeff Wall as leader of music, will begin a series of meetings in Sanford, Sunday, September 30, to continue three weeks.

The meetings will be held in a large tent seating 1,200 or more. This will enable the crowds to be cared for comfortably during the services.

While this is not to be a union meeting, in the strictest sense, yet each of the evangelical churches will heartily and sympathetically co-operate with the First Methodist church in this glorious work. Any series of meetings which blesses Sanford will add much to every church in the city.

REV. CHARLES F. WEIGLE.

Dr. Weigle is a preacher of great power and has been greatly blessed in his ministry both in the South and in many cities of the North. He is the equal in the pulpit of any evangelist in the field. As chaste as a woman, without an element of coarseness in his pulpit work, he is an expounder of the Bible, basing his sermons on numerous quotations of Scripture.

The people of Sanford will be delighted and greatly profited by the ministry of this consecrated man.

Mr. Jeff Wall, who will lead the music has recently been in a meeting at Bartow. The Tampa Tribune correspondent speaks in the highest terms of Mr. Wall's work as a leader of song. Those who know him say he is first class in every respect.

He is from Cookeville, Tenn., where he is very popular. His home paper thus speaks of him in a recent issue. The people of Cookeville have re-

KLAN OFFICIALS ARE ORDERED TO GIVE TESTIMONY

(By The Associated Press) ATLANTA, Sept. 15.—An order compelling the officials of the Ku Klux Klan to give testimony before the court commissioners in hearing the evidence of the original petition of David M. Rittenhouse of Philadelphia, and others to place the Klan under a receivership, was today issued by Judge Bell of the Fulton county superior court. The Klan officials had refused to appear before the commissioners.

STILL IN JAIL CANNOT RAISE 25,000 BAIL

(By The Associated Press) CHICAGO, Sept. 15.—Unable to raise the $25,000 bail fixed by the court for his release, B. I. Saling, under indictment in the federal court of Sioux Falls, S. D., on charges of using the mails to defraud South Dakota farmers out of $1,000,000, is in jail here. Saling, who has been a fugitive from justice since he forfeited $15,000 bonds in 1917, was arrested at a local hotel yesterday.

son to feel proud of one of their fellow citizens, namely, Jeff Wall, who has forged to the very front in his calling as an evangelist or gospel singer.

Recently Mr. Wall was invited to sing for the Allen Fort Bible Class at the Knickerbocker Theatre in Nashville. This is one of the largest and most cosmopolitan Bible Classes in the world. His singing took the class by storm. Again and again he was encored.

Professor Davidson, well remembered and popular former teacher at T. P. I., who was present on the occasion, said he had witnessed the reception of Judges and Governors and eminent men, but that he never witnessed as hearty, as enthusiastic, as spontaneous a reception as that given to our fellow townsman, Jeff Wall, by the men of the Allen Fort Bible Class.

We have every reason to feel proud of Jeff. May his great work go on.

It is the desire of those in charge of this meeting that there should be the utmost brotherly feeling prevailing among all Christians. Every member of any church in Sanford is urged to cooperate in this work for the good of Sanford, and not in the interest of any special church. The time has come when we need a spirit of co-operation which will bring to all of our churches a great spiritual blessing.

We want all those who sing, whether members of any choir or not, to help in the music. The leadership of Mr. Wall, will be a real school of music to those who assist him. We shall need at least one hundred voices in the great chorus choir.

There are no financial obligations assumed by any one in this work. There will be no "twisting thumb screws" to get money. No man will need to withhold his cooperation on that score. The rich and poor are to be recognized as Christian workers for our Lord and his kingdom.

Dempsey Retains Title K. O. Firpo in Second Fight Fast and Furious

RINGSIDE, POLO GROUNDS, NEW YORK, Sept. 15.—Jack Dempsey last night retained his world's heavyweight title, knocking out Luis Angel Firpo, the "wild bull of the Pampas" in the second round of one of the fiercest, fastest and most spectacular battles in the history of pugilism.

The champion floored his Argentine challenger five times in the first round and twice in the second round before a short right uppercut to the jaw sent Firpo down for the last time. But in the three minutes and 57 seconds of whirlwind terrific mauling, Dempsey himself once was knocked clear through the ropes on top of the press benches and, groggy under a bombardment of mighty rights, once sank to his knees.

Before Firpo went hurling down to defeat, carrying with him the shattered hopes of a continent, he gave a vast, frenzied throng of 85,000, one of the most thrilling and courageous ring exhibitions of all time. Battered, bloody and groggy, he showed his marvelous stamina by coming back with a whirlwind crushing drive toward the close of the first round.

It had the little-holder tottering closer to losing his crown than at any time in his career.

Firpo fought the best fight of his career. The challenger's mighty right was never mightier. Against the relentless power and versatility of the champion's furious attack, he went down but in defeat, he gained more glory than in any battle of his career. He was beaten, but his menace to the heavyweight throne was not removed.

Round One.

Dempsey missed a left hook to chin and dug right to Firpo's body, sending him to his knees. Dempsey floored Firpo with a left hook to the chin but he staggered to his feet at a count of one. The champion sent him crashing to the floor for the third time with a hard right to the jaw but he did not take a count. Dempsey, fighting furiously, knocked him to the floor for the fourth time with a right to the chin. When he got up, Dempsey chased Firpo to a right and left to the chin for the fifth knockdown. Firpo battling like a tiger, chased Dempsey to the other side of the ring, knocking him through the second time with a savage right to the jaw. The champion, bleeding from the mouth was groggy. Firpo hit the dazed Dempsey on the jaw with sledge-hammer rights when the round ended. Firpo also was bleeding from the mouth as he went to his corner.

Round Two.

Firpo swung a right to Dempsey's shoulder. Dempsey hooked a left to the chin and then drove both fists to the body and the challenger fell to the floor. Firpo, bleeding and groggy, was cornered and floored for the second time, but he quickly jumped to his feet. Dempsey chased Firpo to the center of the ring, whipping over a left hook and a right to the chin, knocking the giant Argentine flat. With blood trickling from his mouth, Firpo rolled over on his back while Referee Gallagher counted him out. Dempsey, nervously rushed over and helped pick up his fallen foe and then trotted to his corner.

Macon, Sept. 14.—State today called witnesses in rebuttal to defense testimony as to the bad character of witnesses in the cases of Dr. C. A. Yarbrough, who is charged with flogging R. F. Mills. Several testified to the good character of W. O. Burnett, who claimed to have been a victim of the floggers. The defense had intimated he had mistreated his wife while she was ill. The family physician testified that Burnett was at home every night during her illness. His daughter testified that when defense attorney Ross learned the nature of the testimony she would give, he paid her witness fees, and mileage, and asked her to leave town.

NEWSPAPERMAN OF NEW YORK VISITS SANFORD

Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Holcombe, of New York City, were guests of the Valdes yesterday, and The Herald enjoyed a visit from Mr. Holcombe, who is night editor of the New York Tribune. He was shown through The Herald plant and, while he frankly admits The Tribune has a larger printing plant than this paper, he says The Herald has a well equipped shop, and complimented us on the appearance of the paper generally. His praise was appreciated, as he holds a very responsible place in the newspaper world.

Mr. Holcombe is spending his vacation in this part of Florida and, with Mrs. Holcombe, is today visiting in Lake county, returning to Sanford this afternoon. He is prospecting for an orange grove and The Herald trusts he will find exactly what he wants in Seminole county, as that when he reforms and quits the grind of newspaper work he can come to Sanford and spend the remainder of his days amid peace and plenty.

DAYTON, Ohio, Sept. 15.—Major E. L. Napier, flight surgeon at McCook Field, was instantly killed this morning when the foraker plane in which he was riding fell to the earth. The fatal fall was witnessed by a number of persons at the field who agreed the right wing of the plane had crumpled in the air.

After the wing broke the plane turned over in a barrel roll, and Major Napier attempted to use his parachute but the fast turning plane prevented him jumping and he fell with the parachute open but tangled with the plane.

MERCHANT IS CHARGED WITH MANSLAUGHTER

Nashville, Tenn., Sept. 15.—Ben F. Morse, a merchant of Galdesville, a nearby village, is held here by Davidson county authorities on a charge of manslaughter while Coroner J. R. Allen is preparing for an inquest into the death of an unidentified woman whose body was found on a roadside here yesterday afternoon.

Morse, according to officers, declares that the woman had been accidentally killed when struck by his automobile. Officials stated that they are of the belief that the woman apparently about 20 years old, met death by means other than having been struck by an automobile.

Officials charge that Morse drove quickly away from the scene of the alleged accident. He was overtaken, they said, by Donley Davenport, a merchant, who took Morse and another man, Parver Riggett, also of Galdesville, to the police station.

Witnesses claim to have seen one man in an automobile right after the finding of the body point to a side street near the road and addressed the driver: "Turn in there." Morse was overtaken at the end of this street.

There was no personal effects tending to establish the identity of the woman.

One family, after viewing the body claimed it as that of the daughter of the family, but on returning home to tell of the death, met the daughter on the street.

ON BASIS OF NEW ITALIAN PROPOSALS, AS YET UNKNOWN

NO DANER NOW

Of Hostilities Between The Two Nations Involved.

(By The Associated Press) London, Sept. 15.—Italy's notice to Jugo Slavia with respect to the settlement of the Fiume problem, sometimes referred to as an ultimatum which is due to expire today has been extended according to official quarters here. It is stated that diplomatic negotiations regarding Porto Barros and the Delta there immediately adjacent to Fiume will continue as the basis some new Italian proposals, the nature of which is not yet known. All danger of hostilities between Italy and Jugo Slavia have been removed, British officials believe.

Paris, Sept. 15.—When Premier Mussolini declares the annexation of Fiume to Italy he will announce the withdrawal of the Italian troops from Porto Barros, the adjoining harbor, it is learned here from an authoritative quarter. He will then give up any claim to that port, to Suseak and to the delta there which will be left to Jugo-Slavia.

This, it is stated, is the result of direct negotiations now going on between Premier Mussolini and the Jugo-Slav government which are reported at about the point of completion. Jugo-Slavia being satisfied to have a free hand in the development of the ports left to it.

Premier Mussolini's declaration of the annexation of Fiume was fixed for tomorrow, the fifteenth, according to previous announcement and it is tomorrow also that the time limit expires on Mussolini's note to Jugo-Slavia which had been construed in some quarters as an ultimatum.

The latest development both in Rome and Belgrade appear to tend toward a settlement which will remove the Serbo-Italian crisis, at one time threatening the breaking of relations and possible hostilities from the international field, as the German-Italian situations appear to have been removed.

TRYING GEORGIA METHODS HERE GETS 60 DAYS

(By The Associated Press) MIAMI, Sept. 15.—The four Fort Lauderdale men who last night are alleged to have attempted to kidnap Charles Freed, a confectioner of this city, were sentenced in police court today to serve sixty days in jail. The men are J. B. Marshall, H. D. Durance, L. T. Yarbrough and E. T. Hanson. In addition they were remanded on a county charge, charged with carrying concealed weapons. The men are alleged to have called Freed from his place of business and forced him into an automobile, saying they were going to handle him because he was not running his place right. A policeman who was off duty and standing nearby, arrested them. The defendants denied they attempted to kidnap Freed, saying they only wanted to talk to him.

Soon as the Firpo-Dempsey winner gets rested a little we want him to meet a real contender.

DEATHS

DEATH OF MRS. J. Q. ADAMS.

The many friends of Mrs. J. Q. Adams were grieved to learn of her death in the hospital here after an illness of several weeks. Mrs. J. Q. Adams was born in Jackson, Michigan, November 8th, 1857, and before her marriage was Wilhelmina Keilman. Mr. Adams was a direct descendant of John Quincy Adams and was well known in his native state. His early life was devoted to railroad work in Michigan and he came to Florida about twenty-eight years ago purchasing a home and orange grove at Geneva, but he and Mrs. Adams resided for some time at St. Augustine where Mr. Adams was connected with the Ponce DeLeon Hotel and the East Coast Railway.

Mr. Adams died about twelve years ago since which time Mrs. Adams had resided at Geneva among her many old friends. Three years prior to his death Mr. Adams had returned to live permanently on his Geneva orange grove. Mrs. Adams was one of the most prominent and one of the best beloved residents of the Geneva section. A woman of education and high ideals and with a heart that took in all the troubles of those about her, the greater part of her time was taken up with doing good deeds, of charity, of helping others.

Mrs. Adams spent much of her time in club work and had many friends in Sanford and other cities who recognized her many fine traits of character and her ability. For several years Mrs. Adams was the correspondent of the Sanford Herald at Geneva and her death has cast a gloom not only over Geneva but in other places where she was known for none knew her but to love her and none named her but to praise.

Deceased leaves one sister, Mrs. Fred Ogden of Buffalo, New York, who was here to attend the funeral yesterday. The interment was made in the Geneva cemetery and was attended by a large concourse of people the floral offerings testifying to this love and esteem in which this good woman was held by everyone.

Only Seven Jurymen Were Selected Yesterday.

White Plains, N. Y., Sept. 14.—Mrs. Walter S. Ward yesterday stepped into the limelight while opposing counsel were wrangling over the jury which is to try her husband on a charge of having murdered Clarence E. Peters.

Mrs. Ward was absent yesterday at the opening of the trial, but today she seated herself at her husband's side, chatting with him thru the dreary process of selecting jurors, only seven of whom had been tentatively accepted when court was adjourned until tomorrow.

During the noon recess a subpoena was served on Mrs. Ward, who created a stir after the first investigations of the blaying of Peters, ex-marine, when she declared she would clear up the case with "a few sensational statements." At that time, newspapers were filled with rumors concerning the nature of the blackmail plot which Ward, wealthy baker's son, had claimed led him to kill Peters and other blackmailers and at which claimed to have shot Peters in self defense.

Mrs. Ward for some time has been reported out of the state and it was rumored that she and George S. Ward, her father-in-law, were dodging process servers. Her appearance in court today, therefore came as a surprise.

THE GOOD ROADS BOOSTERS CAME HOME THIS MORNING FROM GREEN COVE SPRINGS

then retired early in order to get up early and see the sun rise over DeLand Landing.

They all arrived safe and sound this morning at nine thirty and while most of them are back on the jobs today they will not soon forget their trip on the City of Jacksonville, the fine river trip, the fine fellows they met on the trip—not to speak of the ladies—and the courtesy and excellent service of all the officials of the City of Jacksonville and especially of Capt. N. V. Coleman, Purser R. A. Sommerville, chief steward W. J. Leach and Mate Biggs. They spent all their time making their guests comfortable and happy and they shall not be forgotten soon and it is safe to assert that they will not soon forget the bunch they had on board.

Notes From the Ship Log.
Walter Ross lost several votes on the ship this morning on account of his absence from the public forum on P. Deck.

Mose Overstreet and Lige Louglass have Firpo and Dempsey skinned a mile when it comes to real form.

The folks at Green Cove Springs have nice whiskers, don't you think? If any of the married men show up today wearing a badge stamped with pink ink saying something about the Good Roads Rally don't ask them any questions. They don't know anything about the badge any more than you do.

Sometimes the fellows from Orlando and Sanford are going to charter the City of Jacksonville and keep it a week and really stay up at night and have some fun. There was hardly time on the trip to Green Cove—everyone was so busy writing home to the folks.

Say, can you keep a secret? If you can meet the bunch with a shovel at midnight tonight and bring "it" out to the gate.

Green Cove Springs is all right. They gave us the glad hand yesterday and gave us plenty to eat and then allowed us other privileges.

Don Cheney, that silver throated Curuso of Orlando made a hit with his stuff yesterday.

And after it is all over, honestly, fellows, it is what we all need. Let us get together more than we have been doing and enjoy life as we go along. That trip and all that went with it was worth a thousand dollars to everyone present.

And we want to say again—Good Old Orlando—they are there with the goods and we were all glad they came and made merry with us. Sanford and Orlando can beat the world and we should stand together on all questions for the welfare of this community.

PATHFINDER CAR TO VISIT SANFORD

ATLANTA, Sept. 14.—The official pathfinder car of the Atlanta Constitution will leave Atlanta tomorrow for an exploration trip over practically all the roads in Florida to determine the best routing for motor tourists during the fall and winter season.

The pathfinding party contemplates a short stop in Sanford to gather publicity data and confer with local road officials and public spirited men who are interested in promoting automobile travel.

When the best routes through Georgia and Florida are determined, maps and logs of these routes will be published in The Constitution, and then reprinted in handy little folders for free distribution to tourists. For the past three years, the road information bureau, and the officials of this paper state that though it has required a substantial appropriation each year, results obtained in the way of additional automobile tourists in the southeast, particularly Georgia and Florida, have more than justified the expense.

The touring bureau conducted by the Constitution keeps accurate tab on road conditions east of the Mississippi river, from Miami to Canada, with the exception of Mississippi and Louisiana, and has routed more than 6,000 automobiles to Florida within the past year. More than 200,000 pieces of free road data compiled by The Constitution have been distributed. The proposed trip to Florida is being made in order to revise and enlarge its information files on Florida roads and points of interest to tourists.

More than 50,000 miles of road of these roads are given free to all who call in person, or send sufficient work have already been driven by the postage to cover cost of mailing.

Sometimes the fellows from Orlando and Sanford are going to charter the City of Jacksonville and keep it a week and really stay up at night and have some fun. There was hardly time on the trip to Green Cove—everyone was so busy writing home to the folks.

Say, can you keep a secret? If you can meet the bunch with a shovel at midnight tonight and bring "it" out to the gate.

Green Cove Springs is all right. They gave us the glad hand yesterday and gave us plenty to eat and then allowed us other privileges.

Don Cheney, that silver throated Curuso of Orlando made a hit with his stuff yesterday.

And after it is all over, honestly, fellows, it is what we all need. Let us get together more than we have been doing and enjoy life as we go along. That trip and all that went with it was worth a thousand dollars to everyone present.

And we want to say again—Good Old Orlando—they are there with the goods and we were all glad they came and made merry with us. Sanford and Orlando can beat the world and we should stand together on all questions for the welfare of this community.

WILLIAM JENNINGS BRYAN'S WEEKLY BIBLE TALK

LUKE, THE BELOVED PHYSICIAN

By WILLIAM JENNINGS BRYAN

By WILLIAM JENNINGS BRYAN
When one speaks by inspiration, his personality becomes a matter of secondary importance; it is the divine current that counts.

When God wanted to rebuke Ahab he called Elijah, the Tishbite, out of an obscurity that succeeding generations have not been able to penetrate. But Elijah delivered the message as faithfully and as effectively as he could have done if he had been an illustrious son of illustrious parentage. And so, when Christ chose His disciples He did not advertise that an examination would be held on a certain day and invite applicants for the place to appear and prove their qualifications.

Four of the twelve who were chosen as His first companions were fishermen, and yet two of these share with two scholars, Paul and Luke, the honors of leadership among the early Christians. Peter became the dominant character among the twelve, while John came next to Paul and Luke in the space occupied by his writings in the New Testament.

A Talented Slave
But while the message overshadowed the messenger, the Heavenly Father uses talent when it is consecrated to His service, and Luke brought to the service of the kingdom a splendid mind, splendidly trained.

He was born a slave in the household of a wealthy official named Theophilus, who held a government position at Antioch. He is described by commentators as having an engaging appearance and a most attractive personality. He was quick of mind and obliging in disposition.

To the credit of his master's intelligence and sense of appreciation, as well as to his own credit, he became a favorite in the household and so impressed Theophilus that the latter educated him at his own expense, giving him the best advantages to be secured. When he had finished his academic education at Tarsus he studied medicine.

Fortunately, his home was not a great way from the temple of Aesculapius, the best equipped of the hospitals of that time. He studied under the ablest physicians and then acquired practical knowledge in the hospital.

A Christian Convert
But good fortune was still more kind to him; it brought him into personal acquaintance with Paul and Barnabas, with whose lives his own was to become entwined. Having completed his education at Tarsus and his work in the hospital at Aegada, he returned to Antioch, where he became one of the first Christian converts. Through his influence his master, Theophilus, was brought into the church and Theophilus showed his appreciation by giving Luke his freedom.

Then Luke indulged a very human trait and started out to find some place where he could begin life on his own merits where his early servitude was not known.

He found a position as a physician on a vessel that made trips across the Mediterranean. This brought him into acquaintance with a great many people and into the kind of acquaintance that enabled him to extend the circle of influential friends.

A Piece of Good Luck
It was in this way that, through another piece of good luck—what a chain of happy circumstances make up a great life—he met the parents of the Latin poet, Lucretius, not long before the birth of their celebrated son. He accompanied them to their home in Spain and was honored by having the child named after him. Gallio and Seneca also were among the prominent men with whom he became acquainted.

Being a golly man he and Paul were one in spirit. Being a scholarly man, he and Paul were congenial intellectually. Being a physician, he could minister to the physical needs of Paul during the trying days through which the great preacher passed.

Luke as Author
Luke is the author of the third Gospel and also of the book known as the "Acts of the Apostles." Any one interested to know the large contribution made by Luke, when measured

Text of Today's Bible Talk by Mr. Bryan

LUKE THE BELOVED PHYSICIAN (Luke 1:1-4; Acts 16:1-16)

Forasmuch as many have taken in hand to set forth in order a declaration of those things which are most surely believed among us.

Even as they delivered them unto us, which from the beginning were eyewitnesses, and ministers of the word;

It seemed good to me also, having had perfect understanding of all things from the very first, to write unto thee in order, most excellent Theophilus.

That thou mightest know the certainty of those things, wherein thou hast been instructed.

x x x

And a vision appeared to Paul in the night; There stood a man of Macedonia, and prayed him, saying, Come over into Macedonia and help us.

And after he had seen the vision, immediately we endeavored to go into Macedonia, assuredly gathering that the Lord had called us forth to preach the gospel unto them.

Therefore loosing from Troas, we came with a straight course to Samothracia, and the next day to Neapolis;

And from thence to Philippi, which is the chief city of that part of Macedonia, and a colony; and we were in that city abiding certain days.

And on the sabbath we went out of the city by a river side, where prayer was wont to be made; and we sat down, and spake unto the women which resorted thither.

And a certain woman named Lydia, a seller of purple, of the city of Thyatira, which worshipped God, heard us; whose heart the Lord opened, that she attended unto the things which we spake of Paul.

And when she was baptized, and her household, she besought us, saying, If ye have judged me to be faithful to the Lord, come into my house, and abide there. And she constrained us.

Probably others of his day had equal opportunities, but few were able to make as good use of the opportunities as Luke—a very important fact to be considered. Success may be defined as the conjunction of opportunity with preparedness to take advantage of it. And, it may be added, that failure follows more frequently from lack of preparedness than from lack of opportunity.

There is an old saying that "God helps those who help themselves," and it is certainly true that one who diligently prepares himself for service along any line is quite certain to find that his preparation fits into some work, even though it be a work he did not have in mind. So with Luke; there is no reason to believe that he had any thought during the days of his preparation of the use to which he would finally put that preparation.

Paul's Companion
After considerable experience in travel he returned to Antioch where he resided for a while, identified with the activities of the church. Then he moved to Troas, where Paul renewed acquaintance with him on his second missionary journey. While trained for the medical profession and with opportunities that come to but a few, his religious convictions had evidently deepened—the call to an exclusive service for Christ became more and more audible. When Paul invited Luke to join him, he accepted and was Paul's traveling companion until the great apostle's death.

Luke seemed to combine three qualities that specially fitted him to be Paul's co-laborer. Being a golly man he and Paul were one in spirit. Being a scholarly man, he and Paul were congenial intellectually. Being a physician, he could minister to the physical needs of Paul during the trying days through which the great preacher passed.

Luke as Author
Luke is the author of the third Gospel and also of the book known as the "Acts of the Apostles." Any one interested to know the large contribution made by Luke, when measured by space, can take his New Testament and make the calculation himself. In the Bible which I use most (the "Two-Verse Edition" which gives the Old Version text and the New Version notes), I find that the New Testament covers 315 pages. Of this space, the Gospel by Luke occupies forty-two pages and the Acts forty-one—a total of eighty-three pages or a little more than one-fourth of the entire New Testament.

Luke pays a tribute to his former master, Theophilus, to whom he was so deeply indebted for his educational advantages, by addressing both books to him. Those who are studying this lesson will find it interesting to compare the introductory verses of the four Gospels.

Matthew, after referring to the genealogical tree of Christ as recorded by the Jews, begins, "Now the birth of Jesus Christ was on this wise, etc.

Mark commences with John the Baptist. John devotes five verses to the beginning of all things and then takes up the preaching of John the Baptist.

Luke's Explanation
Luke is the only one of the four who gives an explanation of his reasons for writing. He says:

"Forasmuch as many have taken in hand to set forth in order a declaration of those things which are most surely believed among us.

"Even as they delivered them unto us, which from the beginning were eyewitnesses, and ministers of the word;

"It seemed good to me also, having had perfect understanding of all things from the very first, to write unto thee in order, most excellent Theophilus.

"That thou mightest know the certainty of those things, wherein thou hast been instructed."

It will be noticed that he refers to what others have written and credits them with drawing up a narrative concerning those matters which are most surely believed among us, even as they delivered them unto us, which from the beginning were eyewitnesses, and ministers of the word."

Luke lived at a time when eyewitnesses were living and when he could gather many of the facts from those who knew. He thought it worth while to make a record of what he knew, "having had perfect understanding of all things from the very first."

The fourth verse places additional emphasis upon the personal knowledge which Luke had. He tells Theophilus that he writes that "thou mightest know the certainty of those things wherein thou hast been instructed."

Luke's Life of Christ

Here we have a man, one of the most learned of the period, a man acquainted with the world and its ways, converted to Christianity and so impressed by a sense of duty that he gave up his profession and devoted his life to the spread of Christianity. What could be added to strengthen the presumption of veracity that should be accorded to him or to compel confidence in his writings?

Luke gave us the most complete record that we have of Christ's life. He begins with John the Baptist, the forerunner of the Saviour, describing the birth of John in answer to prayer. He then gives us a detailed account of the conception of Christ. (What authority can be trusted in such a matter, if not the authority of a physician?)

It is Luke, also, who gives us the details of the birth of Christ and tells us of the song of the angels that startled the shepherds at Bethlehem when the virgin mother cradled her babe in a manger. It is Luke, also, that tells us of the visit of Jesus to the temple when, at the age of twelve, he astonished the doctors by His questions and answers.

Some Famous Parables

Several of the most frequently quoted utterances of the Saviour are recorded by Luke alone. Among these may be cited, the Parable of the Prodigal Son, the most beautiful and life-like story of its kind ever written.

Only Luke gives us the story of Lazarus and Dives, the most powerful portrayal of the sin of selfish indifference and its certain and awful punishment.

It is Luke also who gives us the most striking illustration of the common sin of ingratitude—the story of the Ten Lepers, all of whom were cleansed, but only one of whom returned to render thanks. All other of the innumerable lessons if ingratitude combined have not been used as frequently or with such far-reaching effect as the rebuke of Christ quoted by Luke.

"Were these not ten cleansed? but where are the nine?"

A Simple Moral
It is to Luke also that we are indebted for the story of the Good Samaritan which has illumined, as no other story has, the second of the two condensed commandments:

"Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself."

The moral of this lesson is very simple, but very practical—God can employ the talents of any and all of His children. His spirit can so endow the lowly and the unlettered as to make them powerful in the promotion of His kingdom. He can likewise consecrate to His work the highest talents and the largest experience.

Man reaches the maximum of his possibilities when a strong body and a strong mind, under the control of an enlightened heart and obedient to a heavenly vision, enlist in the service of God and His Son, our Saviour.

SCIENCE AND CIVILIZATION.

Dr. Scinmetz, perhaps the greatest of electrical wizards, delivered a lecture in one of the eastern cities that attracted wide-spread attention. He dwelt largely upon the future use of the "subtle fluid" and as an illustration of the pretentious field of thought, two of his predictions may be cited: The universal reduction of the hours of a day's labor to four, with a production of greater results than the eight sought for now, and the ability to communicate with the inhabitants of Mars and other planets. Such things appear to the layman as idle dreams.
A few days ago he addressed an audience in Denver, and the burden of his talk was in presenting his views of the changes already wrought in the world by the scientific application of this agency to the tasks of men. His later address is impressive to the point that his predictions in the former appear to be approaching events.
The Denver Times gives an analysis of his address. The great ancient nations that flourished and crumbled, did not perish because of luxury as many of those who study their history tell us, but "rather, they were doomed from the first because their political philosophy did not provide for popular control and equal opportunity for all. The French slogan, "Liberty, Equality, Fraternity" sounded the note which emancipated men's bodies and souls, but even these ideals offered no universal panacea until science and invention came to the rescue and made them practical benefits to all mankind.

"Until the era of science and engineering," according to the electrical wizard, "90 per cent. of the world's population was engaged in manual labor. Education was not needed and when obtained created only dissatisfaction and discontent. With the advent of machinery, however, education became a necessity, for the transition of man from a machine himself to a machine tender marked the great and wonderful step which relieved him of drudgery, gave him leisure and self-development and culture and provided opportunity for recreation.

"Today the benefits of applied science and invention are shared by all. The democracies of 1923 are ruled by majorities, not by minorities, as in the disastrous experiments of Greece, and the material comforts provided by machinery are carried into the most remote hamlets by the use of electricity. It is in this role, therefore that we find electricity playing its vital part as an element which develops civilization and should render the present type safe from the perils which overwhelm the empires and states of ancient times.

"Electricity is the most easily convertible source of energy, and modern science, industry and prosperity depend upon energy. It can be harnessed at a waterfall and delivered hundreds of miles away to a mammoth manufacturing plant or to a tiny fan with which to dispel summer heat. It brings to the lowliest of today luxuries not even dreamed of by the princes and potentates of past civilizations. It has indeed been the handmaiden of education and democracy, transmuting into practical and material form the abstract benefits of idealism and theory."

Hanes Cord Tires have been in Use since 1917

Hanes never rush in. They try things out thoroughly. The test tells. When an article is marketed by Hanes, it is dependable.

Some men who read this wear Hanes underwear. They don't need to be told how good the Hanes product is. Hanes are located in North Carolina. They know cotton—and the tough fine cotton cords that are important in a tire as is rubber. Hanes got one rubber expert from Europe. He was heart and soul a tire-maker. With him, they put two big American experts to work. To these three men, they gave their own knowledge of cotton and its working.

Two years the combined force went in studying and planning—two years before they even tried to make a tire. But when they did go ahead—the Hanes tire was worthwhile. It went into all sorts of service. It underwent all sorts of tough tests on mountain and country roads. Hanes is not only a city tire but an all-around tire. You can bank on it.

Gradually it is being introduced in the whole country. It is our good fortune to introduce it to Sanford. Here it is—and here's your car's size and price:

Now they say the Germans have found a way of secretly disabling the airplanes. The forced landing of thirty French planes are accounted for by this method. Of course this is the offspring of some imaginative mind, but it is a tribute to the acknowledged supremacy of the German genius, and who would rob it in the hour when tributes in that direction are so scarce.

It was a hard task the president and coal board turned over to Governor Pinchot, but he has accomplished it. There is a man for every task in the country—the job is to find him. Governor Pinchot is entitled to credit for the way he has handled the problem, though his plan may add somewhat to the price of anthracite coal. The strike, continued, would in the end have cost more, but we are slow to believe Pinchot arrived at his accepted terms of adjustment by that manner of reasoning. He must have believed that the demands of the miners to the extent of an increase of ten per cent in wages were just. Governor Pinchot's service is not limited to the good that comes from the settlement of this strike alone, but the peaceful settlement, without a strike, should serve to lessen the number of strikes in the country as it gives confidence to both sides of a controversy in the adequacy of arbitration, and will thus tend to the settlement of contentions in that way.

In later years there has been an increasing hope that capital and labor would learn to settle their differences by arbitration without disturbing the public by strikes, but the confidence of both sides in the plan has been wanting. Its successful operation in this instance should further the cause. The man with the qualities for such service is a valuable asset even for such service alone.

While other European nations are stirring up the troubled waters, there is a rift in the cloud hanging over France and Germany. More than intimations carried in the latest news point to the surrender of Germany to the inevitable. She has paid full price for her stubbornness—loss of revenue from her richest district for months, the cost of repairing the occupied territory, chaotic condition of finances, and a second great humiliation.

GERMANY SHOWING SENSE AT LAST.

Passive resistance, as a German policy against the demands of the French, is about to come to an end. It has been unprofitable to both parties. It has in no way absolved the Germans from the ultimate responsibility of making reparation to the French for the wanton and serious damage done to their country during the World war. It has seriously weakened the ability of Germany to pay the immense sums which she owes to the world because of her mad and unprovoked assault upon it in 1914. It may well be doubted if France has secured enough from the occupation to pay the expense that it incurred.

It has widened the breach between the two countries, and has intensified the racial hatred that has existed for centuries and will always exist until it again finds vent in bloody and destructive war.

France has at least an excuse for her action. First, she can plead the example of Germany, which held her troops on French soil, when she was the victor 50 years ago, until the last franc of an enormous indemnity had been paid, and then Bismark expressed his regret that he had not made it twice as large. France paid on the nail when the fortunes of war went against her, although her armies had not invaded German soil, had done no damage to German interests. It was clearly in the nature of a penalty that she was compelled to pay. It is different now. Her land has been invaded by the Kaiser's brutal soldiery; her people have been butchered and driven from their homes with almost incredible cruelty; her cities and villages have been razed and destroyed; her factories have been ruined and their machinery stolen; her live stock has been driven off; her forests and orchards cut down, and her land made a barren desert. It was not war of which she complains, although Germany was the unprovoked aggressor. It was the savage barbarity and cruelty, the evident determination to cripple her beyond the power of future recovery, the material damage to her fair land for which she asks reparation and insists upon guarantees. Who can blame her if she stands inflexibly on her rights? Let the German nation toil and struggle for a lifetime if necessary to make good the damage she did with such infernal glee in four years of war. It will be no more than just. There are signs that Germany is at last coming to her senses in this matter; that she is preparing to abandon the shifting, wobbly policy of the past four years, and meet the issue in a more manly and honorable way. If that shall be the outcome of the occupation it will have been worth while. Let us hope for the best.—Tampa Times.

INTEREST IN FLORIDA.

The great interest people all over the United States feel in Florida has been measured in a substantial way this summer.

To begin with, everywhere the Johnny Jones shows go, the people hear about Orlando, and the thousand and one questions Edgia Salter and others are asked about Florida and Orlando indicate the interest that is felt.

Then there are the Ringling Bros., covering the eastern part of the United States with their shows and everywhere they are singing the praise of Florida, and especially Sarasota. In New York City a wonderful piece of effective advertising was done by these circus managers. The Royal Scotch Highlanders Band is traveling all over the middle west covering weekly engagements at state fairs, chautauquas and other gatherings. In flaming letters over the face of the big bass drum are the words: "Royal Scotch Highlanders Band, St. Petersburg, Florida." Wherever that big drum goes, Florida is advertised.

Across the end of a large hall at the Indiana State Fair is partitioned off space which is richly decorated in the tropical plants from Florida and a typical Florida rest-room is filled daily with ladies who listen to the music of an orchestra and hear lectures on Florida. This is the work of the promoters of Hollywood By The Sea. And this same performance is given at other fairs.

In another place is an exhibition of the "Polk Products" from Haines City where the hearts of grapefruit are being canned. In one of the best hotels in Chicago the great number of good brands of cigars are from Tampa and Key West.

Everywhere the fame of Florida is being heralded. And it is noticeable that people are anxious to know more about Florida both as to climate and productivity. These and similar agencies are giving people that intelligent information that is helpful. —Reporter-Star.

Buick four-wheel brakes meet the demands of present day traffic conditions by having power in reserve to insure a rapid, safe and reliable "stop".

Actual braking effectiveness is practically doubled by Buick four-wheel brakes. This is accomplished by slowing down the two front wheels. Each brake band has a three-quarter wrap or grip on its brake drum, rather than the half-way wrap in common practice.

The Buick four-wheel brakes are an integral part of the Buick front axle design. Their arrangement and operation are simple. The front brakes are coupled in relation to the rear so that when the brake pedal is operated more pressure is put on the rear brakes than on the front.

Buick four-wheel brakes (on all models) are one of many definite advances in motor car operation and maintenance that the 1924 Buicks have contributed to automobile transportation.

And the Angel was brought low!

In fact the Angel was brought to the floor several times before he decided that he wanted to make a permanent visit.

Dempsey evidently decided after Firpo knocked him through the ropes that it was time to finish his Argentinian foe before further damage was done.

And he did it. Dempsey was in his worst danger when he took a sight seeing tour and saw about eight million stars, according to his own estimation, but after this Mr. Firpo met his Waterloo.

In speaking of Jack's "sightseeing tour" to the stars which he made when Luis knocked him thru the ropes, the Angel showed his inexperience as a fighter by not following this up by what should have been a knockout blow. Dempsey was about ready to cash in when he climbed back into the ring and should have been easy meat for Firpo according to our estimation.

But of course we didn't see the fight—only heard about it.

Which was enough to settle our wants.

Now Jack Dempsey after collecting the kale on this scrap will leave for a hunting trip. Hope during this outing he will change his mind about fighting Harry Wills, negro aspirant to the heavyweight championship. If he will come back from this trip with the decision to fight Wills there will be a big negro funeral soon after.

And this mauling will be a whole lot shorter than last night's too.

And that's going some—just think last night's affair only lasted three minutes and fifty-seven seconds. According to that, Wills had better look at the crowd before he enters the ring.

He won't have time to look afterwards.

George Burns, first sacker for the Boston Beaneaters made a triple play unassisted yesterday, which was the fourth of its kind in big league records.

Expect Boston needed that triple play bad too. Though, after adorning the cellar position for so long a time she needs something more than triple plays to pull her out.

S. H. S. football squad went thru its ninth practice of the season yesterday. Coach Wilkinson certainly has a fast, strong and brainy backfield crew in Ted Lewiskey, McLucas, Peck and E. Moye.

Thursday afternoon Coach announced that the squad would practice until midnight if the above mentioned backfield didn't get a little more pep and tear thru the scrubs for a touchdown. Ed Moye evidently had a date on hand because after this announcement as soon as he could get his hands on the ole pigskin he tore thru the opposing line like Firpo hit the floor last night. Lee Peck followed it up with another line crasher and scored.

So beware all ye state championship contenders—when you play S. H. S.

Season tickets will be placed on sale very soon. These tickets will admit you to all high school athletic games this term and will be $7.50 instead of $10 as formerly announced.

REDS AND THE BRAVES SPLIT WHILE GIANTS LOSE.

Cincinnati, Sept. 14.—Luque registered his 24th victory of the season when Cincinnati defeated Boston 9 to 1 in the first game of today's double header, but Boston secured an even break on the day when Barnes shut out the Reds, 4 to 0, in the second game.

Luque allowed only four hits, while Oeschger was knocked out of the box in the third inning. In the second game, the Reds made 11 hits, but were unable to score a run.

That Iowa judge who fined himself for the violation of the traffic laws of his city is to be commended, but as he made the fine only $1, it looks like he is not unlike the rest of us—looking for the easiest way out.

Now they say the Germans have found a way of secretly disabling the airplanes. The forced landing of thirty French planes are accounted for by this method. Of course this is the offspring of some imaginative mind, but it is a tribute to the acknowledged supremacy of the German genius, and who would rob it in the hour when tributes in that direction are so scarce.

THE COAL STRIKE SETTLEMENT

It was a hard task the president and coal board turned over to Governor Pinchot, but he has accomplished it. There is a man for every task in the country—the job is to find him. Governor Pinchot is entitled to credit for the way he has handled the problem, though his plan may add somewhat to the price of anthracite coal. The strike, continued, would in the end have cost more, but we are slow to believe Pinchot arrived at his accepted terms of adjustment by that manner of reasoning. He must have believed that the demands of the miners to the extent of an increase of ten per cent in wages were just. Governor Pinchot's service is not limited to the good that comes from the settlement of this strike alone, but the peaceful settlement, without a strike, should serve to lessen the number of strikes in the country as it gives confidence to both sides of a controversy in the adequacy of arbitration, and will thus tend to the settlement of contentions in that way.

In later years there has been an increasing hope that capital and labor would learn to settle their differences by arbitration without disturbing the public by strikes, but the confidence of both sides in the plan has been wanting. Its successful operation in this instance should further the cause. The man with the qualities for such service is a valuable asset even for such service alone.

While other European nations are stirring up the troubled waters, there is a rift in the cloud hanging over France and Germany. More than intimations carried in the latest news point to the surrender of Germany to the inevitable. She has paid full price for her stubbornness—loss of revenue from her richest district for months, the cost of repairing the occupied territory, chaotic condition of finances, and a second great humiliation.

GERMANY SHOWING SENSE AT LAST.

Passive resistance, as a German policy against the demands of the French, is about to come to an end. It has been unprofitable to both parties. It has in no way absolved the Germans from the ultimate responsibility of making reparation to the French for the wanton and serious damage done to their country during the World war. It has seriously weakened the ability of Germany to pay the immense sums which she owes to the world because of her mad and unprovoked assault upon it in 1914. It may well be doubted if France has secured enough from the occupation to pay the expense that it incurred.

It has widened the breach between the two countries, and has intensified the racial hatred that has existed for centuries and will always exist until it again finds vent in bloody and destructive war.

France has at least an excuse for her action. First, she can plead the example of Germany, which held her troops on French soil, when she was the victor 50 years ago, until the last franc of an enormous indemnity had been paid, and then Bismarck expressed his regret that he had not made it twice as large. Dempsey evidently decided after Firpo knocked him through the ropes that it was time to finish his Argentinian foe before further damage was done.

And he did it. Dempsey was in his worst danger when he took a sight seeing tour and saw about eight million stars, according to his own estimation, but after this Mr. Firpo met his Waterloo.

In speaking of Jack's "sightseeing tour" to the stars which he made when Luis knocked him thru the ropes, the Angel showed his inexperience as a fighter by not following this up by what should have been a knockout blow. Dempsey was about ready to cash in when he climbed back into the ring and should have been easy meat for Firpo according to our estimation.

But of course we didn't see the fight—only heard about it.

Which was enough to settle our warts.

Now Jack Dempsey after collecting the kale on this scrap will leave for a hunting trip. Hope during this outing he will change his mind about fighting Harry Wills, negro aspirant to the heavyweight championship. If he will come back from this trip with the decision to fight Wills there will be a big negro funeral soon after.

And this mauling will be a whole lot shorter than last night's too.

And that's going some—just think last night's affair only lasted three minutes and fifty-seven seconds. According to that, Wills had better look at the crowd before he enters the ring.

He won't have time to look afterwards.

George Burns, first sacker for the Boston Beaneaters made a triple play unassisted yesterday, which was the fourth of its kind in big league records.

Expect Boston needed that triple play bad too. Though, after adorning the cellar position for so long a time she needs something more than triple plays to pull her out.

S. H. S. football squad went thru its ninth practice of the season yesterday. Coach Wilkinson certainly has a fast, strong and brainy backfield crew in Ted Lewiskey, McLucas, Peck and E. Moye.

Thursday afternoon Coach announced that the squad would practice until midnight if the above mentioned backfield didn't get a little more pep and tear thru the scrubs for a touchdown. Ed Moye evidently had a date on hand because after this announcement as soon as he could get his hands on the ole' pigskin he tore thru the opposing line like Firpo hit the floor last night. Leo Peck followed it up with another line crasher and scored.

So beware all ye state championship contenders—when you play S. H. S.
