Norris Eliminates Self As Third Party Candidate In 1932

Will Ask For Abolishment Of Electoral College System Of Choosing Officials

WASHINGTON, Dec. 27.—(AP)—Senator Norris yesterday eliminated himself as a possible third party candidate for president in 1932.

At the same time, the Nebraska Republican Independent carved notice he would begin in the next Congress a fight for the abolition of the electoral college provision of the Constitution "so it would be possible for a man to run independent of any party in the United States."

Commenting on the letter of Mr. John Dewey, head of the League for Independent Political Action, suggesting that Norris leave Republican ranks and lead a third party movement, the Nebraska Independent newspaper it would be futile to attempt to organize another political faction with any hope of success as long as the electoral college exists.

"I doubt if we could start out now and get much of a nucleus behind a third party movement," he said, adding that under the present two-party system national conventions "pay little heed to the rank and file."

"Now, in order to nominate a man," he asserted, "for practical purposes you have got to organize in every congressional district and select candidates for the electoral college. It can't be done in any case without the expenditure of money."

Bishop's Son Bound Over On Charge Of Issuing Bad Checks

DEL MONTE, Calif., Dec. 27.—(AP)—Mr. Richard M. Cannon, son of Bishop James Cannon of the Methodist Episcopal church, South, was bound over to the superior court for trial on three charges of issuing worthless checks after a preliminary hearing yesterday before Justice of the Peace Wilson.

One check charge was dismissed on motion of the prosecutor.

Major Cannon also faced several labor claim charges, to which he pleaded not guilty and asked for jury trial. The first trial will be held here Jan. 8.

The check charges grew out of an alleged worthless $100 check given to George B. Myers, a plastering contractor. The second was for $25 given to Colvert B. Wilson, solicitor for the military schools here which Cannon was launching. The third charge alleged Cannon gave Miss Rose Burgess a check for $40, which was not paid on the bank.

Major Cannon, commandant of the military school, testified Cannon told him he knew there was not sufficient money in the bank to cover the checks, but he decided to issue the others. Case quashed the bishop's son as having the district attorney probably wouldn't set until he had three checks at least, and he didn't think the various claimants would know about the other checks issued.

4 Negro Robbers Fail In Stick-Up Of Depot

CHICAGO, Dec. 27.—(AP)—George Wells, 35, ticket agent at an outlying railway station got his chance to be a hero today and made good. Four negro robbers entered the station and leveled pistols at him. Even since last February he had been prepared because he was robbed at that time. Today, when he stopped as if to get the cash he came up shouting. The pistol brand across him and the robbers were probably fatally shot. Two others returned the fire of the agent but missed. They allowed to drop their weapons and were taken to hospital where they were held to stand up all night.

ANOTHER PLOT AT OVERTHROW NIPPED IN CUBA

Leading Figure In Nationalist Party Is Arrested In Connection With Intrigue

HAVANA, Dec. 27.—(AP)—Authorities last night disclosed that a revolutionary plot, scheduled to mature Christmas eve, had been frustrated by secret police. Col. Aurelio Hevia, a leading figure in the nationalist union party, was arrested in connection with the alleged conspiracy.

Arms and ammunition had been secured and a demonstration had been set for Christmas eve, officials said, but the demonstration was cancelled by its leaders when they learned that the government knew of the plans.

A number of nationalists and communists were involved along with some university students, the authorities said.

Colonel Hevia was taken to Cabanas fortress and it was announced he will be tried before a military court for his part in the alleged conspiracy.

President Machado yesterday ordered the deportation of Aldo Baroni, news editor of the Diario de la Marina, for his part in the publication of objectionable articles which resulted in suspension of the paper last week.

Baroni, an Italian, was expelled from Cuba during the administration of President Menocal but was permitted to return under a general amnesty decree. He is imprisoned at the Cabanas fortress. The presidential decree of expulsion did not stipulate the date for his deportation.

The Diario resumed publication yesterday under a provisional permit.

Garner's Plan For Veterans Payment Meets Resistance

WASHINGTON, Dec. 27.—(AP)—Opposition to the proposal of Representative Garner, (D. Tex.), for optional cash payments on veterans' compensation certificates, was expressed yesterday by Chairman Hawley of the House Ways and Means Committee.

"I am standing by the American Legion convention in Boston," Hawley said. "The matter was before the convention there and the Legion declined to take action on it."

"We've been working with the Legion all the way through and so far it has presented nothing of this nature."

When asked whether a change in the Legion's attitude would modify his position, Hawley said "That is a question for the future."

The Oregonian said he plans on hearings by his committee on pending bills for cash payments on certificates. His committee would act on such measures.

Meanwhile Representative Fish, (R. N. Y.), has started a drive to get the American Legion on record on his plan for a payment of one-fourth the face value of the certificates. Fish said local chapters have already unanimously endorsed his measure and National Commander O'Neill of Kansas has been asked for his opinion.

Says Her Daughter Is Not As Talented As Reports Have Said

WASHINGTON, Dec. 27.—(AP)—In the whirlwind of the most stupendous holiday party of many a Washington season, Mrs. Helen I. Doherty of New York, took time last night to do a bit of debunking on the subject of her debutante daughter, Helen I. Doherty.

"To be mother of one whose daughter had had double and triple the making, as among the preparations of a grand evening event, apparently had been somewhat disconcerting to Mrs. Doherty, despite an ever-existent sense of humor."

She expressed her surprise at the tremendous stir caused by Helen's night after Christmas ball at the fashionable Mayhew hotel in which the made-to-order and low to society.

She attributed the swelling crowds to her daughter's personal charms and literary fame, which, she said, had grown somewhat out of proportion to actuality.

Mrs. Doherty said her daughter did not handpick the list of guests for the ball, but her work on the elaborate sports automobile has been that of thinking out the idea and planning the details.

"The racing will be officially inaugurated Saturday, Jan. 10, at the Longwood Kennel Club," said William N. Ravenscroft, treasurer of the club, who arrived at Longwood from the north on Christmas eve. He is stopping at the Orange and Black Hotel Longwood.

According to Mr. Ravenscroft, who is superintending the detailed preparation incident to the opening of the track, more than 175 dogs are already booked to appear at the track during the indefinite race meet. Practically all of the dogs are newcomers to the racing enthusiasts of this section, and they have all been active at some of the larger tracks in the North during the past summer.

The grounds are open at all times to visitors and dog fanciers and an invitation to inspect the track and the dogs is extended every resident. Two or three nights before the opening night, a series of schooling races will be run, to which the public is especially invited.

NAVY DIRIGIBLE TO TAKE PART IN MANEUVERS

Los Angeles To Scout For 1st Time When Fleet Begins Operations In Canal Zone

WASHINGTON, Dec. 27.—(AP)—The Los Angeles is scheduled to fly to Panama on the first clear day after Feb. 10.

Admiral William V. Pratt, chief of naval operations, yesterday decided to use the dirigible for the first time in its new capacity as a military weapon. The Los Angeles will be used as a scouting and reconnoitering ship during the fleet concentration in Panama waters, Feb. 12 to Mar. 21.

Under agreement with Great Britain, France, Italy and Japan, the United States, on receiving the ship from Germany in 1921, was not permitted to use the ship for military purposes but permission to make such use of it was obtained recently.

David S. Ingalls, assistant secretary for accounts, said the Los Angeles would not be equipped with bombs or armor, but would be used for scouting work.

The Panama flight will be the second the Los Angeles has made to the Central American country.

During fleet concentration, the dirigible will be under command of Admiral John V. Chase, commander in chief of the United States fleet, from his battleship, Texas.

It is expected the ship will make the 2,220-mile trip from the Lakeside, N. J., hangar, to Panama on 21 to 26 hours, dependent upon wind conditions. The U. S. S. Patoka, equipped for military purposes, will accompany it. (Continued On Page Four)

Youth Is Sentenced For Attempting To Put Over Extortion

KANSAS CITY, Dec. 27.—(AP)—Admitting an attempt to extort $25,000 from B. A. Long, wealthy lumberman, Charles E. Duncan, 25, was sentenced to two and a half years in the Missouri reformatory in Criminal Court yesterday, in a charge of third degree robbery.

Duncan became the second youth sentenced by Judge Ralph S. Latham on charges resulting from attempts to extort money from Long. The first was that of S. Wilson, a school teacher, convicted in 1911 of attempting to extort $5000.

Duncan was arrested Wednesday when he started to recover a diary package placed by detectives at a place designated in letters received by Long demanding $25,000.

The youth declared his innocence through 20 hours of questioning, confessing, police said, when confronted with identical misspelling of words in the threatening letters, and in a text made by officers.

Duncan suddenly expressed a desire to plead guilty yesterday and was taken before Judge Latham. The youth told the court he was normal mentally but afflicted with epilepsy.

The sentence pronounced was the maximum provided by Missouri Statutes.

LIMITATIONS IN USE OF RELIEF FUNDS DEFINED

Secretary Hyde Says No Provision Was Made For Farmers Using Loan For Food

WASHINGTON, Dec. 27.—(AP)—Secretary of Agriculture Hyde yesterday definitely blasted any idea that the $45,000,000 federal drought relief fund recently authorized can be used for food loans, as well as for general seed, feed, and crop production loans.

The $45,000,000 authorization by Congress was a compromise between the House $60,000,000 bill and the Senate $30,000,000 bill, the former providing that loans should be made to farmers for food as well as for other purposes.

In the final bill a clause was inserted which provided for loans for seed, feed, and other purposes incident to crop production. "The group of House leaders in favor of food loans has contended that this wording can be construed to cover the food loans, since the former must have food to produce his crops."

Hyde, however, definitely declared that the department does not adhere to this construction. When the Senate bill was being framed by the federal drought relief committee, members of that body suggested that it would be necessary to provide for the purchase of gasoline and oil for operation of tractors in farming, and the clause was inserted. But that (Continued on Page Three)

Midshipman Forced To Quit Because Of Dormitory Pranks

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Dec. 27.—(AP)—Discovery of a labyrinth of wires radiating from his room, controlling clocks, telephones and elevators in a wing of Bancroft Hall, home of the midshipmen of the United States Naval Academy, has resulted in the resignation of a member of the second, or sophomore, class, if became known today.

The name of the student, whose quarters had been converted into a counting tower for the dormitory, was not made public but his roommate was given demerit for failing to report his companion's activities.

Testing the multitude of wires, authorities discovered the solution for many recent irregularities in the life in the dormitory. Among them was why the elevator used by the privileged first class men shot to the fourth floor when the third floor button was pushed and then dropped the sensors suddenly to the first floor without warning.

The discovery was made by an officer who heard the click of an electric clock behind the door of the student's quarters. It was found the time piece in the room was connected to the master clock on the first floor.

Other wires dropped to the second floor telephones and one of the lines tapped was connected with the outside world. Other wires caused the light in the corridor to burn brightly for a few minutes and then grow dim.

HIGH SCHOOL TEAM BEATS OHIO BOYS BY 18 TO 0

Southerners Are Too Fast For Visitors From Northern City

MIAMI, Dec. 25—(AP)—Fleet-footed gulfers of the Miami High School football team proved too much for the aggregation from Silvers High, Dayton, Ohio, here yesterday, and won an inter-sectional Christmas Day game, 18-0, before a crowd of approximately 2500.

The feature of the contest, played in semitropical weather and under a warm sun, was a 62-yard dash for a touchdown by Jack Henderson, Miami quarterback, in the third quarter. Henderson rushed and turned his way over 50 yards of the distance before he freed himself from clinging Silvers tacklers for an undisputed run to the goal line.

Beckwith, Miami halfback, accounted for the other 12 points. He pushed the ball over in the first period after a 60-yard drive by his teammates. This followed 30 yards of gains by Stivers and the subsequent loss of the ball on downs to Miami.

Beckwith's second touchdown was almost a repetition of the first, as he plunged off left tackle for a counter as a climax to another long march. Attempts for points after touchdowns by kicking failed in each instance.

Both teams threatened their opponents' goals at times, without result. A long pass by Miami put the ball on Silvers one-yard line in the half ended.

Late in the game, a desperate aerial attack by the Ohioans placed the ball on Miami's one-yard line. The Silvers held Stivers on down, but lost the ball on the next play as Leaven fumbled on the 11-yard line. Hetzel, of Silvers, recovered, but Mohler, Silvers' substitute back, fumbled within a few plays to return the ball to Miami on the 16-yard line.

The game ended with the ball still in Silvers territory after an exchange of punts.

PANTHER COACH GOES TO MIAMI TO COACH STARS

Will Drill Aggregation Scheduled To Play White Plains

TAMPA, Dec. 25.—Tom McCann, director of physical education and head coach of all sports at Plant high school, who has been named to coach the all-Florida high school football team which is scheduled to meet the White Plains, N. Y., eleven in a charity game at Miami New Year's day, left for the east coast city this morning to assume his post.

The Panther coach was given the assignment after it was learned that Charles Bachman, football coach at the University of Florida, would be unable to direct the all-stars in the game. New Year's day. However, the Gator mentor will be on hand to get the team started, that is, through several drills but will leave the burden of directing the team in the game with McCann. Coach Bachman is scheduled to attend the annual meeting of the Football Coaches association in New York next week.

Bob Shoun and Julien Lane, two of the Hillborough high school stars, selected for the team, will accompany Coach McCann. Charles Fleming and Hal Starzuck, Panther stars named, left last night by train. The first workout of the squad is scheduled for this afternoon at 3 o'clock. Coach McCann says last night.

Alex Reevy, former Gator football star, and now coach at Bradenton high school, will be picked up by the Panther coach in the Manatee county city and will aid in coaching of the team. Major Van Fleet, one of the assistant coaches of the Gator team, also will help McCann.

During his absence, Coach McCann has turned turned his basketball team over to Bob Sherrill, former coach at George Washington Junior high school, Sherrill will coach the team against the Seminoles Huskies in a practice game, which will be the second half of a doubleheader at the American Legion home tonight.

Crowded Courts Are Blamed On Prohibition Law

Jury trials could be abolished in such cases. Otherwise, it contained the cost would rise to $350,000,000 with an additional $20,000,000 added for the coast guard and customs service.

"All persons who have studied the problem," the association said, "agree that the enormous profits from the illicit liquor trade are now used to finance the underworld and to strengthen the grip of criminal gangs in communities throughout the country."

Citing a statement made last year by President Hoover that only a small part of the number of felonies "can be attributed to the Eighteenth Amendment," John C. Gebhart, the association's research director, asserted this was "an example of misinformation," since 88 percent of the prohibition violators sentenced in federal courts are misdemeanants and not felons.

"The effect of liquor law violations, both federal and state," the association concluded, "can not be measured by the number sent to federal and state prisons and penitentiaries—only a small proportion of those convicted are given felony sentences."

"Civil cases to which the United States is a party have increased 347 percent since 1920, but if we exclude prohibition actions the increase is only 117 percent."

"Federal courts and the personnel of the attorney general's department have never been increased sufficiently to take care of the 70,000 prohibition cases which the courts must handle each year."

The pamphlets also contained figures designed to show that if there had been no prisoners for violations of the Volstead act there would have been no increase in the number of federal prisoners since 1920. It was contended that last year "16,783 persons convicted of violating the prohibition law were housed out in state and county jails, to add to the already overcrowded condition of these local institutions."

WASHINGTON AND ALABAMA DRILL FOR ROSE GAME

(AP)—Washington State and Alabama gave vent to their Christmas spirit yesterday by dashing through workouts for their New Year's Rose-Bowl clash.

The Cougars hit a stiff pace again with considerable work on offensive formations. Coach Orrin (Babe) Hollingsbery said he would stage hard drills today and Saturday but would not work his men Monday.

Coach Wallace Wade put the Crimson Tide through about two hours of fundamentals and finished off by running signals. He continued his policy of conditioning the team and paid little attention to brushing up on new plays.

After yesterday's workout Hollingsbery said he felt his team needed only a few more hard sessions. He plans to start tapering down next week.

When told the Tide would probably outweigh his men with the possible exception of Glenn Edwards, the Cougar mentor said it didn't worry him any. "We were outweighed many pounds per man in almost every game this season, but it did not affect the outcome of a single one of the contests."

Washington State will step into the Rose Bowl New Year's day in new uniforms of crimson from shoes on up to helmets.

Apprised of this Coach Wade smiled and said:

"I allow as how we'll stick to our old work clothes. They were good enough to win all our games in this season and maybe they'll stand by us another game."

Coach Wade still is undecided about his line. If Newton Godfrey conditions well, he may send him in at tackle for Freddie Singleton and let the all-American tackle play guard both on the offensive and defensive.

The weather continued cool with the skies partially overcast.

"Factory employment and payrolls showed decreases in November reflecting in part changes of a seasonal character. In the industries producing building materials including lumber, cement and brick, declines in employment exceeded the usual seasonal proportions. In the automobile industry employment declined further but by an amount considerably smaller than is usual in November."

The board reported that from the end of October to the middle of December there were substantial decreases in wholesale prices of commodities including corn, hogs, pork, hides, tin and coffee.

The subjects outlined all related directly to state finances and methods of meeting deficits which he said were created by the legislatures of 1927 and 1929, and the only reorganization of departments mentioned has to do with creation of a state tax commission. He also recommended adoption of an executive budget system.

Pretending Guests Invade Rectory And Hold Up 4 Priests

CHICAGO, Dec. 25—(AP)—Pretending to be Christmas callers, two youths invaded the rectory of St. Adelbert's Catholic church last night bound three priests and forced a fourth to give them $2000 taken in offerings at services yesterday and Sunday.

After taking the money, they ordered Rev. C. I. Gronkowski, the pastor, to sit down, gave him a cigar, lit it for him, and said:

"Now, stay here a few minutes until we're gone."

The priest said he was chatting with two priests from neighboring parishes and the Rev. Joseph Hilda, a Jesuit missionary from Toledo, Ohio, when the front door bell rang. The maid ushered in the men, both of them well dressed.

Both of them pulled out pistols as they entered the living room, and said:

"Where's the money?"

"In that safe, there," Gronkowski said, pointing to a corner.

"No, it's not all in there," he quoted one man as replying.

"Show me where the rest is."

After tying the three other priests, and forcing them to lie on the floor one of the robbers stood guard while the other followed Gronkowski to his office, where the money was locked in a vault. A pistol at his back, the priest twisted the combination and opened the depository, handing the money to the man.

He called police five minutes after the pair had left.

districts of charities, and individuals elsewhere were leading thousands of the city's poor, and brightening thousands of homes with gifts and food and funds.

One feature of the communist observance of the holiday was a boxing bout between "Religion" and "Science," after being worked for six rounds, won in the seventh by a knockout.

In "Science's" corner stood workers—the communists' conception of workers. In "Religion's" corner were girls dressed as nuns, a body dressed as a rabbi, another crowned with a halo and a third dressed as a gangster.

As an interlude "Miss Religion" walked a rope, supported on either side by "Bosses" and "Ignorance."

A girl, representing a seeress appearing in another interlude and saw in a crystal ball a figure conceived as the "soviet movement," gradually sweeping the world her shout, "The United States soviet shall live forever," was loudly applauded.

A woman speaker referred to the bread lines as the workers' Christmas party. She denounced Mayor Walker, former Gov. Alfred E. Smith, "God, and other bosses," and wished everybody a "revolutionary Christmas."

The audience, with the voices of children rising in shrill treble above the rest, joined finally in singing, "Hail, Hail, the Gang's All Here," while on the stage a number of persons representing the "religious group," drank and reeled about the stage.

While this was going on, under the auspices of the Young Pioneers, a juvenile communist organization, 2500 were dining at the Tub, restaurant of Urbain Ledoux (Mr. Zero) on chicken-turkey muligun stew and coffee; the Old Bucks and Lane Ducks, Mr. Zero's club of unemployed men 60 years of age and older, were dining too, and in addition received gifts of clothing, toilet supplies and candy.

In the city's jails about 6000 prisoners ate turkey dinners. Many thousands ate through the bounty of the Salvation Army, and other charities, large and small, had busy days seeing that none was neglected.

At noon the Hoover family enjoyed a quiet Christmas dinner. Last night the Chief executive sat down to another big dinner with the members of his official family. All the cabinet members and their families were the guests.

PRINCESS

Only History

It has been less than a year since the Mediterranean fruit fly made its appearance generally known and caused the growers of this state to entertain grave apprehensions over the future of their crops.

Reporting the results of campaigns against the major plant pests which are the subjects of domestic quarantines, and summarizing the activities which guard the nation against the introduction of insects and plant diseases new to the United States, Lee A. Strong, Chief of the Plant Quarantine and Control Administration, in his annual report, devotes principal attention to the Mediterranean fruit fly and the pink bollworm.

Mr. Strong, in reviewing the campaign against the Mediterranean fruit fly, the quarantine on account of which has been withdrawn recently, says it is as yet too early to draw definite conclusions in regard to the outcome of eradication efforts, but states, 'If the fly has been eradicated, this has been accomplished with much less loss of property than was anticipated at the beginning of the campaign.

As compared with the citrus-canker eradication campaign conducted in Florida by the State Plant Board from 1914 over a period of several years, the destruction of property in the Mediterranean fruit fly campaign was much less. Despite charges of wholesale destruction, the fact remains that the Plant Commissioner of Florida reports that there were destroyed by official forces in Florida in the fruit fly eradication campaign some 608,000 boxes of citrus fruits, much of which would probably not have been marketed in any event; approximately 50,000 bushels of host vegetables, and less than 28,000 bushels of minor and non-citrus fruits.

'Extensive scouting in other fruit-growing regions has not revealed any place outside of Florida in which this fruit fly has established itself. Mr. Strong's report reviews the quarantine activities and control measures employed in confining fruit fly infestation to Florida and in eradicating the infestation to the degree that made it safe to remove the quarantine.'

Advertising Florida

The time to advertise most is when business conditions are bad and, possibly with this in view, a movement has been started to advertise Florida on a consistent and national basis for the next three years, the plan being to appropriate at least $500,000 for the campaign. 'The plan,' says the Miami Herald, 'will be under the direction of the Florida State Chamber of Commerce and a committee sponsored by Governor Carlton, who is chairman, and upon which are representative leaders from different cities. The Hamilton M. Wright Syndicate will direct the advertising, that syndicate having supervised publicity for the state and Miami. Headquarters are in New York.

'Florida does receive a great amount of advertising, possibly more than any other commonwealth. Newspapers and magazines are constantly carrying news, features and pictures of this state. For example, the front cover of The American Magazine for January depicts a young man looking over travel folders, with one blazoning the name of Florida. That is the only state represented.

'Such ideas keep our name before the nation and the world. They maintain interest in us. When winter vacationists consider a journey they naturally think of Florida. 'Most of our publicity is directed along these lines, together with the advertising of hotels and transportation agencies. Novel poses of bathing girls are constantly being scattered broadcast, but in course of time that kind of a display wears out its appeal. We must tell the North we have something besides bare backs and limbs. These are all right as methods of luring the temporary tourist, in sketching the attractions of our winter playgrounds.

'However, to build soundly the advertising and publicity for the state should be based upon permanent factors of industry, agriculture, commerce, location, not forgetting the climatic features and the resort facilities.

'Consequently, it is pleasing to know that the new advertising will be designed to make the most effective appeal in the area where it is offered. It will emphasize industrial, colonization, agricultural and vacation possibilities. It should stress the remarkable growth of the state. It should point to the fact that Metropolitan Miami is leading the nation in expansion. That will arouse interest and curiosity. The public will ask why and will investigate. People go where people flock. Success breeds success. Advertising is the keynote of many successful American enterprises. Tell the world what we have and the world will come.'

TELLING THE WORLD

By NEAL O'HARA

MAIL EARLY
'Here it's only a short time before Christmas, Angie, and we haven't mailed our Christmas cards yet.'
'What's all the hurry?'
'You should get them in the mail early so people won't think it's an afterthought.'

Most of those we received last year never cost more than a nickel.
'What of it? We don't want to be pikers, do we?'
'No; and we don't have to be suckers, either. If you can wish folks a merry Christmas for a nickel why spend a dime?'
'All right, have it your own way, dearie. Only I wish you were just as cautious about money when you're buying clothes.'

WORLD'S WINDOW

By PIERRE VAN PAASSEN

'There are some dead men that can't be killed.' One of them is Aristide Bruant, in his day—the 90's—a curiosity of Montmartre night-life, chansonnier-cabaretier, and poet of Paris ruffianism generally. Less than two years ago the affixing of a tablet on the house where he died brought him to life again in the presence of the Paris municipal authorities, including the Prefect de la Seine, at that time M. Paul Bouju, himself a poet, but his muse is less crapulous than was Bruant's. This time they are talking of a statue for Bruant. In the old days, every Parisian knew his burly figure, dressed in black velvet, baggy breeches tucked into top-boots, and with a broad-brimmed soft hat and a big red scarf framing, as it were, a clean-shaven face of the type that nowadays would be called a Mussalinee. It would be exaggeration to say that he was a celebrity, but he was most decidedly notorious. Quite a fashionable amusement then was to go at night up to Bruant's cabaret, the Mirillon. It was a dingy, smoke-clouded, beer-drenched room vily decorated with imitation antiques, frameless daubs and daubless frames. There the 'poet' reigned despotically, blackguarding his customers in the most vigorous Parisian equivalent of the foulest Billingsgate. No one was spared. Every newcomer was greeted with a demoniacal yell, taken up in chorus: Oh la la! c'est geule, c'te binette! . . . while the chansonnier, after expressing his unflattering opinion of the visitor, would allow him, or her, to pay for drinks all round and applaud his songs. The crowning point of his popularity was the visit of the Grand Duke, Vladimir and Alexis. They arrived one evening, with a group of 'friends,' gentlemen, in disguise, and were greeted uproariously. Everything passed off harmoniously, Bruant howling insults at all as usual, reserving some choice specimens for the imperial visitors. He had been warned of their coming and ordered to keep the secret and play the comedy thoroughly. The evening was a huge success, and when the news of it spread abroad a call at Bruant's den became an obligatory part of the program of a night at Montmartre.

A South African writer, Mr. Pienaar by name, has written a 'Story of a Lion Family.' The interesting part of this story is that the author describes a lion hunt not from the point of view of the hunter, but of that of the lion, with the result that the sportsmanlike reader is apt to wish the unhappy lions good luck. Mr. Pienaar's book comes almost simultaneously with the showing of a fine film taken by the Martin Johnsons on their trips in Africa. The film helps a great deal to make Mr. Pienaar's book clear. When the Johnsons leave the coast, they are followed by a regiment of porters, ten big movie cameras, five lorries, a lot of camels and oxen without number, so much indeed that the expression 'having so much baggage as the Johnsons' has become a popular pleasantry. What we learn from the film is that the lions have a panicky fear of the hunter; if he happens to be of the white race, this is also the impression gathered from Mr. Pienaar's book.

'I don't remember them. Shall I cross them off?'
'Go ahead—it'll save you a nickel. I suppose you think I can go out and buy a mink coat with that!'
'Oh, never mind that stuff now. Here are the Blootches on this list.'
'Cross 'em off and save another nickel, Shylock. They didn't send us a card last year.'
'I still think we ought to send them one. Maybe their's got lost.'
'Oh, yes—just because they're friends of yours! They probably left us off because they think they're too stooity.'
'Well I'll leave them on. Now how about the Groffs?'
'Don't bother to send them one. They've moved.'
'Just because they have a new address, shouldn't we wish them a merry Christmas?'
'It won't make one bit of difference to me, either way. Nor to them, either.'
'Well, I'll leave 'em on.'
'All right, Great Heart.'
'How about the Bartlett's?'
'Oh! Just because they're friends of mine, you'd just as soon cross them off!'
'It isn't that at all, Angie. But—'
'I wish you were married to some wretch! What clothes have I bought this year that were extravagant? Name me just one! You know well when we got invited to a bridge party I didn't have a decent stitch to wear. I just wish you could get along with as few clothes as I do. Way—'
'And so on for the rest of the night—high explains why Christmas greeting cards are often late in the mails.

A PRETTY ROCKET

shoots out a little flame and that the flame carrier a burning bee which pierces the body with excruciating pain. The lion's magnificent disdain for the boys who beat the grass and snorts and snorts tall, but the moment he spots the white man with that magic stick he loses his composure. Take one of the lions in the film. One Johnson has tracked him. He dances around, sniffs the sand between his paws, but obviously he can't make out the cold calmness of the lady who awaits him confidently and almost smilingly. All in all, looking at this film one feels somehow that it is not such a tremendous achievement—this hunting lions in Kenya or Central Africa. It looks more like a very easy victory, especially for men who tremble at the voice of their mother-in-law or the traffic cop.

THIS AND THAT

Einstein will reach Los Angeles on New Year's Day. That will make it the most unusual day's weather they've had that year.
Knute Rockne has gone to Mayo Brothers' clinic for treatment. That's one huddle who Knute won't give the signals.
An Iowa burial society has for its slogan, 'No man can live forever.' It sounds like Calvin Coolidge was writing their ads.
A Washington order forbids prohibition agents from pulling off any more raids in dress suits. But that won't put an end to their swallow tails.
In Wall Street they are referring to Mr. Hoover's regime as the ad-minus-tration.
If the financiers are wishing to improve the psychology of things, they might stop the market from being heavy if they took away its bathroom scales.

'It's the little things that tell'

THAT'S what big sister said to her boy friend as she pulled little brother out from under the sofa. But wait till big sister and the boy friend are man and wife, with a home of their own to run. Then how much more she'll realize the truth of her observation!

For then the age old problems will come pressing hard. So much in the pocketbook. So much on the shopping list. Will it fit? Then's when the little things make the big difference. The little savings—the small economies—the slightly better values of which a good housekeeper takes advantage.

Then's when big sister will read the advertisements as she never read them before. Comparing values; learning reliable brands; watching the bargain and reduction announcements . . . The advertisements will help her in a thousand ways to take care of the little things, acquire the little short-cuts in time and effort—in the big job of running a home.

Read the advertisements every day. Consistently advertised goods are worthy of your confidence. . . otherwise they couldn't be consistently advertised.
