

WIGGIN GIVES FORMULA FOR BUSINESS CURE

Wiggin Recovery Depends On Purchasing Power Of Other Nations Of World

NEW YORK, Sept. 30.—(A.P.)—If tariffs, reparations and inter-allied debts are lowered, and if Germany and France settle their differences, Albert H. Wiggin, head of the world's largest bank, believes the United States soon will be "doing business as usual."

Mr. Wiggin, chairman of the governing board of the Chase National bank and chairman of the international committee which studied the German credit situation at the suggestion of the London conference, expressed that opinion as he arrived here yesterday from Europe on the liner Majestic.

"The business depression is worldwide," he told reporters. "Normal business conditions will not prevail in the United States until there is purchasing power in Europe, South America and Asia, and until Europe—and particularly England and Germany—can do business normally."

"England and Germany already have taken vigorous action," but they need the help of the rest of the world, and particularly the United States and France.

"The gold of the world is concentrated in few hands. The extension of credit is necessary, but credit alone is not enough, nor can adequate credit be given under existing conditions."

"In my judgement, an adequate recovery can be achieved only by a concerted effort on the part of all nations."

Episcopal Church Adopts New Matrimonial Canon Flavored With Liberalism

LAWYERS' FEES IN WENDEL CASE MAY SET RECORD

Court Fight Over Huge Fortune Presages Big Litigation Cost

DENVER, Sept. 30.—(A.P.)—The Protestant Episcopal Church adopted a new matrimonial canon yesterday, a canon flavored with liberalism and approved over scattered opposition by convention delegates weary from prolonged legislative sessions.

A rather unruly house of clerical and lay deputies raised only a few voices in protest as the Rev. Z. B. Phillips, Washington, D. C., presiding officer, called for the vote on the most controversial issue of the convention. The vote was not recorded but was overwhelmingly favorable.

In the House of Bishops, 70 affirmative votes were cast against 19 nays after Presiding Bishop James de Wolf Perry, of Rhode Island, had guided the bishops through a parliamentary maze and speakers had presented final objections and cries for the question.

The canon, as finally adopted, was a compromise between the wishes of the deputies. Questions not definitely settled were referred to the next general convention.

Efforts were made in both houses to recommit the entire question to the joint commission on divorce and marriage.

The canon provides for the establishment of an ecclesiastical court operating through the bishop for the consideration of matrimonial cases, in each diocese and missionary district, at the discretion of the diocese or district.

No marriage shall be solemnized unless the intention of the contracting parties has been signified to the minister at least three days before the ceremony.

No minister, the canon reads, shall solemnize the marriage of any person who has been or is the husband or wife of any other person then living, from whom he or she has been divorced for any cause arising after marriage."

POSSIBLE KEY TO COLLINGS' DEATH FOUND

Body Of Unidentified Man Washed Ashore Near Place Where Tragedy Occurred

NEW YORK, Sept. 30.—(A.P.)—From the waters of Long Island Sound yesterday came the body of an unidentified man, a possible "key" to the Benjamin Collings yacht murder mystery.

Apparently about three weeks in the sound waters, the body was washed ashore at flood time on Asharoken beach near where the Collings cruiser Ponton was on the night 20 days ago when Mrs. Collings says two men, who had added the cause for the announced purpose of seeking air for a wounded companion, killed her husband and abducted her.

Careful search for the "wounded man" produced no results and authorities until yesterday leaned to the theory that he existed only as a pretext for invading the Collings yacht.

But the body found yesterday by Milton Bonneau, a milkman, at Asharoken, bore a hole in the back of the head possibly a pistol bullet wound, possibly the "wound" to which the cruise invaders referred, such a trace of reasoning turned up fresh evidence in the investigation.

An autopsy was begun at once to determine if possible his identity and the cause of his death.

A left lobe, marked "X" and sealed yesterday after noon, is the most tangible clue to the man's identity.

The authorities said a current in Long Island Sound could have carried a body from the scene of the Ponton tragedy to the spot where it was found yesterday.

It was recalled that N. L. Note, a New Rochelle attorney, had related hearing the struggles of an apparently drowning man in the water near the Ponton on the fatal night.

Last night Assistant District Attorney Fred G. Mander, of Suffolk county, said Detective Felix de Martin, who earlier had gone to Ridgeport tracing blankets which had figured in the case, had been partly successful.

Mander said de Martin had shown the blankets to Fred J. Voss, president of the Bridgeport Baseball club, who identified one of them as having been used by Sen. Fletcher.

COOLIDGE SAYS HE WON'T RUN, IS FOR HOOVER

Declares Party Needs More Co-Operation, More Harmony, And More Confidence

By BYRON PRICE
WASHINGTON, Sept. 30.—(A.P.)—Calvin Coolidge does not intend to run for president in 1932, but proposes to support Herbert Hoover for a second nomination, which this is brought measurably nearer.

"When we need more harmony, more co-operation, and more confidence," said Mr. Coolidge in a copyrighted article published yesterday by the Saturday Evening Post, "it would be a distinct disservice to promote a factional conflict against a president in office."

"The responsible elements of our party should offer a solid front in their support of the president. That is the course I propose to pursue."

While a few of the skeptical hesitated and sought to read between the lines, most political leaders saw in these words a final disposition of the greatest riddle which has stood between Mr. Hoover and re-nomination.

For months political gossip has played with the possibility that the president who retired with honors in 1929 would emerge from retirement to lead his party in the troubled campaign year of 1932.

From at least one state definite overtures had been made to Northampton for use of his name.

Abstract Company Will Open Oct. 1 In Connelly Office

An important announcement, particularly to lawyers and real estate men of this section, Monday revealed the organization of the Seminole County Title and Abstract Company, which will be ready for business on Oct. 1.

The abstract records of the new company are under the supervision of Mrs. Esther W. Rive, and are said to be among the most complete in this section of the state.

Mrs. Rive is recognized as one of the most efficient abstractors in Central Florida, and with her assistance the company expects to maintain a most dependable and efficient abstract and title service.

An innovation in the abstract business of Sanford was pointed out by L. H. Connelly, manager of the company, as being the tabular measurements printed on the inside of their abstract binders.

The company, Mr. Connelly stated, intends to make every effort to prepare its abstracts so as to render them easily intelligible, and this table should prove of material assistance not only to examining attorneys, but also to the owners of the land for which the abstract is prepared.

The officers of the new company include Ralph B. Wight, president; H. B. Stryker, vice president, who has served for many years as president of the Perkins Glue Co. of Landale, Pa.; and Fred Wilson and G. W. Spencer, local attorneys, who will serve on the board of directors.

The Graf Zeppelin, now engaged in ferry service across the Atlantic on a strictly basis as a mail, accounted for nearly 200 of the ocean passages in two trips between Friedrichshaven and Pernambuco.

Two unannounced problems, said to be of vital importance to every grower and shipper in this section, will occupy the attention of members of the Seminole Agricultural Club meeting at 8:00 o'clock, according to P. F. Dornier, president of the club.

SCHOLARSHIP TO FEATURE IN NEW DIXIE GRID BODY

Formation Suggested Of Ten-Team Athletic Association

ATLANTA, Sept. 29.—(A.P.)—The formation of a 10-team athletic association within the southern conference for 1932 seemed probable today, with announcement here that representatives of eight universities would recommend such action to their faculty athletic committees.

Foundation of the association would be uniform scholarship requirements. A statement said the new group was conceived because of a "feeling that the time has come when scholastic standards should be emphasized rather than technicalities in eligibility."

The proposed body tentatively formed at a meeting here Sunday night, would be limited to 10 Southern conference schools with the following eight as original members: Alabama Polytechnic Institute (Auburn); Georgia school of technology; University of Georgia; University of Florida; University of North Carolina; University of Kentucky; Vanderbilt university; and Tulane university.

The group appointed a committee of coaches to formulate rules and report at another meeting in New Orleans in December and the day before the winter meeting of the southern conference.

It was said that faculty athletic committees at the various schools concerned probably would not give their decision on the proposed organization until that time. Therefore, the new conference, if formed, would not be recognized until next year.

Present plans call for the eight group teams to retain their membership in the southern conference. However, there were some who feared the formation of such a conference within a conference would lead to the division of the older body.

Leaders in the move for the "big ten" said it would have an effect on their loyalty to the conference and their competition with other conference teams. One of the Virginia delegates to the fall meeting of the conference, also held here yesterday, said informally that the formation of such a group would "sound the death-knell" of the older conference.

Gabby Street Will Not Announce His Starting Pitcher

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 29.—(A.P.)—Manager Gabby Street, of the Cardinals, told The Associated Press yesterday he would not announce until Wednesday what pitcher he will start against the Philadelphia Athletics in the first game of the world's series here Thursday.

"They just surmised that," Street said, when told of published reports he would start Paul Derringer, sensational first year pitcher, in the first game and follow with "Wild Bill" Hallahan, a southpaw.

Street, however, did not deny Derringer and Hallahan would pitch the first two games.

With Jess Haines, a veteran, apparently lost to the Cardinals for the series, baseball followers today continued to predict an even manager that Derringer would get the call in the opening game. Haines injured a muscle in his throwing arm three weeks ago and has been unable to throw since.

Fractured Ankle To Keep McClellan Idle For Long Time

GAINESVILLE, Sept. 29.—(A.P.)—A fracture, right ankle, received in a scrimmage Saturday, will keep "Bo" McClellan, senior halfback and one of the mainstays of the University of Florida Gators out of football for most of this season. Dr. H. G. Manchester announced yesterday.

Two sophomores and one junior are bidding for the position left vacant by McClellan. They are Kenneth of Bradenton, Fountain of Moorestown, N. J., and Kelly of Tampa.

"WE WANT BEER"

BY MARK SULLIVAN

The beer story was out again last week. The number of times the story has flown through the land during the past few months must be upward of 50. The rumor always hits Washington with a manner of excited insistence...

Or a Washington correspondent of a newspaper in St. Louis, or New York, or Boston, or Milwaukee (especially Milwaukee) reads a telegram from his home office reading: "Very definite rumor here that government is going to legalize 3 per cent beer within next forty-eight hours stop. Facts have been to bear out rumor stop. Unusual activity at local brewery stop. Brewery said to be preparing to expand two million dollars to bring plant up to date stop. Please send full information about Washington angle."

To which the Washington correspondent commonly replies, as he has already replied to a score of previous queries: "Absolutely nothing to beer story stop. Situation absolutely unchanged from what it has been for years past."

And if the correspondent is unusually patient, if he has not been bored to irritability by repetition of the query, he may add: "Absolutely no way to legalize beer except by act of Congress stop. Congress does not meet until December 7 stop. Very doubtful if this Congress will act on beer when it does meet."

That beer story is one of the current mysteries of our day. It is like those war time stories about the death, or the continuance in life, of General Lord Kitchener, or about the trainloads of Russian troops coming through England to the Western front—stories whose essential improbability was one cause of their vili-ty. The stories were so important and so sensational that the newspapers couldn't print them. Consequently they had an immense word-of-mouth circulation.

Who starts each recurrence of the beer story—they reach Washington several times a week? Where does it spring up? Or is it just one identical story having a continuous life, going round and round like the "Flying Dutchman," in a repeated and constantly more rapid circle, touching at Washington and New York like a dashing meteor and passing on to the next lap of its nation-wide beat?

The rest of the country lately has come to know the story as well as New York, and come to doubt it as definitely as Washington does. That exceptionally able newspaper, The Youngstown, Ohio, Vindicator—decidedly not a dry paper, by the way—and incidentally an extremely sane and straightforward one—said the other day in an editorial under the caption, "Rumor About Beer!":

"Youngstown is not escaping the flood of stories about the imminent legalization of beer. Here, as everywhere, countless rumors are spread of deals between the government and the wet interests which would allow the breweries to open, and—if the stories are to be believed—the breweries are kept ready to start up at a moment's notice. Just how the government could take such action, the rumors do not say. . . . So when you hear reports that President Hoover is to make a radio address tonight in favor of beer, think it over carefully before you take it at its face value. . . ."

Whatever the mystery of the starting and circulating of the beer story, the vitality of it argues a good deal of public curiosity about whether, and how, beer could be brought back.

Beer could be legalized very simply, by an ordinary act of Congress, passed by a simple majority of that body. The legalizing of beer is very different from the repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment to the Constitution. Repeal of the prohibition amendment would be an immense, complex and time-consuming business. . . .

The Eighteenth Amendment, in a broader way than the prohibition amendment, is of the nature of a "wet" law. It is a law which says that no one shall sell or give away any intoxicating liquor.

OH YEAH?

By FRANK SCHAAL

Back from a two week tour of the East, mainly Forty-second and Broadway, the Yankee Stadium and the Polo Grounds, we learn with much interest that Coach Leonard McLean's Seminole Rough eleven had to really battle in beating Winter Garden 12 to 0 last week; that the championship series between Daytona and Cocoa appears to be one of those things, both teams having won a pair of games, and having been ruined out yesterday; that local fans seem to think that Barham's Oilers are in for a tough season; and that while there are plenty of Athletic fans in this section, the Cards are certainly not being overlooked as possible World Champions.

Seminole High's football team, we claim, received a severe setback when young Stinson Kinsler suffered his leg injury. He was nearly sixty per cent of any backfield combination. McLean could have selected the injury coming two weeks before the opening game, was bound to make a serious dent in what had then been remarkable progress, considering the fact that much of the material was green. So McLean has had to shuffle most of his time to backfield affairs, and neglect his line, with a result which we understand was apparent last Friday. A different story may be told over in DeLand Friday night when Sanford meets the DeLand eleven under the floodlights. Why? Well, because for the past few days Hugh Whitfield, former coach here, and at one time outstanding guard in the entire southland, has been assisting young McLean by coaching the line. All you fans who go to DeLand Friday night should be a greatly improved team in action, and another DeLand team on the road, so was the case last year.

This post-season series between the Cocoa and Daytona eleven appears to be a slugging two extra-inning. How about that second game, 21 to 1 in favor of Cocoa? Not to mention the 10 or 11 hits each team has made with surprising regularity. It has long been our private opinion that Cocoa has the better team, and will win without much trouble. Atkinson, Murdock, Joiner, that's a pitching combine that ought to outlast Ratto, Young, Peltier, and Lane any day. Provoost, Culbreth, Wall, Joiner and Murdock ought to outlast McGowan, Mobley, Hutto, and Peltier any day too. We'll take the Indians, four out of seven.

The Gators get away to their first big chance next Saturday when they travel to Raleigh to do battle with the wolfpack of N. C. State. Barham says that while his boys have words of enthusiasm and spirit, there is a certain something lacking which will mean. Let's hope he's wrong again. He has too much good material this year.

We understand that there are several players over there whom you and I would like to see in our own town. But when ability is said to be abundant, Saturday's game will probably be a low score affair in which Barham will see several combinations. Probably a 37 to 0 affair.

Let's end this agony column by predicting that the Macks will make world history in winning their third straight world's series. Gaby, Street and his Cards are going to put up an entirely different fight than they did last year, and Connie and his boys are going to have to really hustle. If James Bottomley is any where near right, the Card betting machine is going to be a wreck, too. Al Simmons, whose lower limbs have been bothering him plenty during the past week, is expected to be the same old Al, but those limbs are something else again. Wouldn't it be odd if he proved to be the Bottomley of the Athletics this year? No use saying anything about Lefty Grove and what he's going to do. After Connie wisely let him get a shattering other day, Lefty will probably be pitching his arm off during the series, winning games too. The Macks to win.

WIGGINS GIVES FORMULA FOR BUSINESS CURE

(Continued From Page One) quite program for reviving confidence and for establishing a sound basis for credit is contained in the report of the Beale committee.

"I believe prompt action along the lines of this report will speedily turn the course of world affairs so that the necessary credit to other nations can be extended and the United States again its business as usual."

He was asked what he considered the chief provisions of the report that he and his fellow conferees drew up at Basle, Switzerland, after their study of the German situation, and which he felt should be carried out to insure the speedy recovery he mentioned.

His reply was that the essence of the report said restoration of Europe's credit depended on lower reparations, lower inter-allied debts, lower tariffs, and rapprochement between France and Germany.

Reporters who boarded the Marseilles at quarantine to interview the man who had spent the summer conferring with leading financial experts from all over the world found Mr. Wiggins waiting for them in his stateroom with a prepared statement in his hand.

"I know already the questions you want to ask me, so I have prepared replies to all of them I wish to answer," he said with a smile.

When told a record amount of gold, about $228,000,000 worth, had been earmarked for European countries since Sept. 20, when the English gold standard was suspended, he replied emphatically with a single word: "Good."

Asked to amplify the comment, he said:

"The gold situation is nearly like the story about the little boy who played marbles so well that pretty soon he had all the marbles there were and then there was no one left for him to play with."

COOLIDGE SAYS HE WON'T RUN, IS FOR HOOVER

From all of this the former president directly disinterested in the article published yesterday, reiterating that he sought to prevent a re-nomination three years ago, and asking:

"Why should it be supposed that what I was now seeking to escape, I am now seeking to accomplish?"

Even to gain a temporary victory, he continued, no party should temporize, compromise, and desert its leaders.

By Senator Fess of Ohio, most insistent of the "Draft Coolidge" leaders in 1928 and now chairman of the Republican National Committee, Mr. Coolidge's pronouncement beyond question a re-nomination was interpreted as nomination for Hoover.

Senator Watson of Indiana, the party leader in the Senate, said the former president had taken a sincere position behind a successor now assured of a second nomination.

Others were not so sure, remembering the speculation and uncertainty which followed the "I do not choose to run" statement just four years ago. Senator Copeland of New York, Democrat, remarked that by his choice of words Mr. Coolidge demonstrated he had not lost "his canny, New England nature."

Some Republican politicians, noticeably shy about the use of their names in the newspapers, also privately promised a wait-and-see attitude; but the doubtless were far in the minority.

Among the Republican insurgents of the West, the feeling was that Mr. Coolidge had taken himself out of the picture, but that it made little difference. Those elements of the party, where the opposition to a Hoover re-nomination now is expected to center, would not have supported the man from Northampton. They will have their own candidates, probably a collection of favorite sons none of whom they expect to nominate.

Copies of the Coolidge article were eagerly sought yesterday throughout Washington. They circulated from hand-to-hand among senators and representatives and cabinet members. They were scanned with a consuming curiosity but without comment at the president's secretaries at the National Committee. They were carried into the offices of the president's secretaries at the White House, and undoubtedly read by every occupant there, from the highest down.

At noon when the president met the newspaper men in his regular press conference, a whole handful of written questions about the latest turn of presidential politics were in the grip of interrogations awaiting him. But he only smiled and talked about other things.

The president himself has made no public statement about 1932. By his silence he has followed the precedent of many years. It has been a half century, however, since a Chief Executive failed of re-nomination, and politics take it

Pick The Winner

Get busy, football fans! As an extra added feature to get you fans interested in the contest, The Herald will offer a ticket to the Florida-Kentucky game to be played at Jacksonville, Dec. 8, to the person who selects the most winners during the season which will and with selections of games played on Thanksgiving Day. In order to be eligible for the football ticket award, you must enter the contest either this or next week. The final award will be based on the percentage of wins, and it is necessary that you enter the contest early in the game.

Just clip this list, place a "W" in the column opposite the name of the team you think will win, and send it to the Sports Editor of The Herald before noon Saturday, Oct. 3. ## DISCORD EXISTS OVER SUM TO BE SPENT FOR NAVY

Each department has just been asked by the Chief Executive to reconsider its requests for appropriations, with a view to scaling them down.

There was a conflict of information today on the question of money for the navy. First, in the highest quarters it was said the president wants $61,000,000 allocated off the $401,000,000 asked by the navy for 1933. Later, Secretary Adams said no specific figure had been set, but "he asked us to see what we could do."

This fiscal year, the navy had $360,000,000. In other words, $41,000,000 more than wanted by the navy. That's what set the White House on the aggressive. It was emphasized however, that all was harmonious between the president and his navy secretary.

It was explained Mr. Hoover does not want the present building program scaled down. This includes seven cruisers of 10,000 tons, one aircraft carrier, two 1100 tons and one of 1500 tons, of 13,800 tons and three submarines.

Later, Secretary Adams announced a cut from 11 to 5 in destroyers, which are to be built now. For this purpose $10,000,000 is available in the name of J. T. McLean. Unless such certificate shall be reduced according to law tax deed will issue thereon on the 15th day of October, A. D. 1931.

The navy's present program is considered to include only five new destroyers, the construction of which the Chief Executive hopes to maintain or slightly speed during 1933.

Savings are hoped to be made otherwise than in construction in the navy. Secretary Adams said a considerable savings would be effected through a reduction in living costs.

POSSIBLE KEY TO COLLINGS' DEATH FOUND

(Continued From Page One) marked with the name of the Hotel Charles, Springfield, Mass., and three others as having been stolen from his motorboat while it was anchored in the Housatonic river.

The blankets were among six which Mrs. Collins said the elder of the two "pirates" had given her, after he had attacked her and abandoned her in a moored boat, the Bo-Prop.

Murder said also that two pairs of trousers, a bathing suit and other items of clothing dragged on Sunday from the water near Price's Bend, in Oyster Bay harbor, did not check with descriptions of articles Mrs. Collins had said the elder pirate threw overboard from one of two duffin bags he had in a canoe which Mrs. Collins was abducted.

Trial Of Banker In Big Damage Suit Is Started In Gotham

NEW YORK, Sept. 30.—(A.P.)—A jury yesterday began hearing a $500,000 damage suit brought by Mme. Lydia Lindgren, blind singer known as a "Swedish nightingale," against Otto H. Kahn, banker and opera patron.

Mrs. Lindgren, now the wife of Raoul Quere, Italian opera singer, charged that Kahn failed to keep an agreement to provide her with a manager and his own moral support upon condition that she drop a slander suit she instituted in 1929 against Mme. Julia Clausen, Metropolitan Opera company diva.

"At the request of Kahn," her counsel said in opening the case in Long Island city court, "Mme. Lindgren withdrew her action against Mme. Clausen. Kahn promised to pay her $160,000 in cash and secure a career for herself and her husband. He paid her $10,000 and then stopped."

Mme. Lindgren was in court, but the finances were not present. There were indications, however, he would testify today.

"Runs true to Coolidge's canny cunning foresight."

Representative Wood (R. Ind.):

"Very timely. Hoover is entitled to another term."

Representative Welsh (R. Pa.):

"The soundest party policy."
