Red Sox win upset over Royals

SANFORD — The Seminole Ford Red Sox became an early 1-0 deficit to pull its second straight upset, 15-12 in seven innings, over the Disabled American Veterans Royals in American Division action of the Sanford Recreation Department Little Major Baseball League, at Roy Heller Field.

In the other game, the SunBank Orioles again came close, but couldn't pull off the upset as the First Street Astors defeated the Orioles 6-4.

Land purchase approved

INDIANAPOLIS — The governing board of the Southern Water Management District today approved a purchase of 1,514 acres on the north shore of Lake Joseph, including 1,200 acres of the Lake Joseph Wetlands, for the Seminole County Expressway Authority. The purchase is subject to a wetlands condition to protect wetlands destroyed by the expressway.

The water management district in turn will use the money from the expressway authority to purchase more land on Lake Joseph, possibly 1,000 acres, it said. Sanford Herald.

Acting deputy manager resigns

SANFORD — The appointment of a new deputy county manager proved to be too much of an extra workload for Seminole County Planning Director Tony Vanderwoop, who resigned the appointment last week.

Vanderwoop, as planning director, is charged with producing a complete update of the county's comprehensive development plan and determining ways that population growth will impact the county's ability to provide adequate roads and other services. The work must be completed by April 1991.

Last October, Vanderwoop was appointed acting deputy county manager to replace Jim Pihle, who resigned following the resignation of County Manager Ken Hooper. Pihle's responsibilities included oversight of county planning, building and land management functions.

Larry Sellers, public works director and acting deputy county manager, over administration will assume both deputy responsibilities, county roads superintendent Jim Wilson will become acting public works director.

Schools face crunch time

Board to discuss overcrowding woes in special session

By VICKI DeSORMIER
Herald staff writer

SANFORD — The School Board of Seminole County hopes to decide next week how it will deal with overcrowding in the school system next year, school officials said Tuesday.

Overcrowding, according to board chairman Art Newswelder, has reached a point where proposals to build new schools are being considered.

The board will meet in a special session at Seminole High School, 34001 Georgia Ave., Sanford, on Tuesday evening, May 15, to discuss the alternatives.

Some schools, particularly in the area around Lake Howell, are being considered for double sessions. See Page 5A.

The board will also consider the possibility of using portable classrooms.

SANFORD — A group of Oviedo High School students were not given the chance to speak to the school board in defense of a teacher who has been accused of giving alcohol to her students.

Mathematics teacher Jeanne D. Michael has been suspended indefinitely without pay since April 15 pending a hearing on accusations that she provided alcohol to students and made inappropriate comments to students. No other detail was released by school officials.

Several of the 12 students at yesterday's Seminole County School Board meeting said at first they believed it was wrong for the teacher to be taken out of the classroom before the charges had been substantiated.

Expressway reservations are removed

Action could spark flood of lawsuits by landowners

By J. MARK BARFIELD
Herald staff writer

SANFORD — In an action that may increase litigation and land costs for the Seminole County Expressway Authority, the reservation of land for all sections of the proposed 14-mile road from State Road 129 to Interstate 4 was removed Tuesday.

A 10-hour hearing by expressway authority officials said they expect 100% of the cost to come from the sale of property owners, indicated otherwise.

Dennis Wells, a condemnation attorney, said he would confer with his clients on whether to seek damages from the authority. Wells represents more than 1,000 families who own 300 acres south of Lake Joseph. Wells said property owners who were prevented from SANFORD — In a meeting with the Regional Airport Authority yesterday, the Orlando-based airline Airlines was turned down on its request for a year's free rent at the Central Florida Regional Airport here.

We would like to see some arrangements with a special U.S. Airline school, which is a building space at the airport, space that that's about $30,000.

If all goes as well as we think it will, said Stuhler, Vice President Charles F. Cook, Rights will be leaving Sanford for Chicago, New York City, Atlanta, Dallas, Fort Lauderdale, Miami and Washington D.C. by July 1st.

Cook said that he thought that within the Authority would come a good deal of rent, but

Rain may provide relief in battle against brush fire

By J. BRAD DILLING

LAKE MARY — Firefighters hope that Mother Nature will lend a hand in extinguishing a fire that has burned more than 100 acres of brush, forest and park near the southern Lake Mary border in north Polk County.

Fire officials have indicated there is a 70% chance of rain Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday.

A Division of Forests Inspector reported that it rained at about 4:30 p.m. Tuesday night on the fire, which is 2.9 miles long, that is about 100 acres of brush and forest.

Firefighters said the area will be a good area for bulldozing brush and forest. See Fire, Page 5A

Martinez gets execution report

Document says killer died instantly despite electric chair malfunction

TALLAHASSEE — Gov. Bob Martinez accepted without criticism Tuesday a report that says condemned inmate Jesse Tafero died instantly in the electric chair last Friday despite problems with the chair itself.

Anti-death penalty critics have complained loudly about the execution, describing it as torture and calling on Martinez to at least suspend further executions pending a full investigation.

Tafero's autopsy, released Monday, revealed a 5-inch-by-4-inch burn on his head and a slightly larger one on his right leg. He also had small blunt-force injuries, including cuts on the knuckles of his right hand.

POLICE BRIEFS

Police investigate rape report

APOPKA — A 46-year-old Haines City woman has reported to Seminole County sheriff's deputies she was raped when attending a cookout at the house of a rural Apopka man. The attack reportedly occurred at 4:30 p.m., April 22. The woman reported her allegations Tuesday. Deputies have the name of a possible suspect.

Man accused in necklace theft

SANFORD — City police here charged Jerry Lewis Littles, 25, 1819 Summerland Ave., Sanford, with strong arm robbery in connection with the theft of two necklaces.

Police said the necklaces, with a combined value of $550, were ripped from the neck of Joyce Nelson on Bay Avenue at Eighth Street, Sanford, at about 1:40 p.m. Tuesday. Littles was arrested at home at 1:24 a.m. today.

Man charged with sex assault

SANFORD — Seminole County sheriff's deputy Jim Virgin reports the arrest on a warrant of a Sanford man accused of sexually assaulting a child.

Dennis Lester Flauding, 35, 1613 Terrace Drive, was arrested at the U.S. Post Office in Sanford, where he works. The arrest was made at 10:20 a.m. Tuesday on a charge of engaging in a sexual act with a child.

Pregnant woman battered

(PREGNANT WOMAN BATTERED)
SANFORD — Keith Allan Gelman, 23, 136 Long Leaf Pine Circle, Sanford, was charged with aggravated battery after his wife reportedly told police he hit and kicked her and held a knife to her neck.

The arrest was made at Gelman's house at 10:44 p.m. Tuesday. Police said the victim is almost nine months pregnant.

Husband jailed on battery charges

SANFORD — A man who allegedly grabbed his ex-wife and slapped her face, and who allegedly cursed the victim in the presence of Sanford police, has been arrested.

Jody Lynn Roberts, 25, 631 Riverview Drive, Sanford, was arrested at 1015 W. 20th St., Sanford, the scene of the incident at 7:14 p.m. Tuesday. He is charged with battery.

Seminole County DUI arrests

SANFORD — The following persons face a charge of driving under the influence in Seminole County:

- Stuart James Hillver, 24, 1620 Woodduck St., Winter Springs, was arrested at 2:13 a.m. Tuesday after his car failed to maintain a single lane on State Road 434, Winter Springs.
- Thomas Frances Kollar, 61, 725 Saffish Road, Winter Springs, was arrested at 1:52 a.m. today after his car failed to maintain a single lane on Alton Road, Winter Springs.
- Lee Hann, 38, 535 Eden Park Road, Altamonte Springs, was arrested at 2:40 a.m. Sunday after his car traveling erratically was seen weaving on State Road 436, Altamonte Springs.

Deputies report struggle with suspect

CASSELBERRY — A man followed from the scene of a traffic accident on State Road 434, Longwood, Monday afternoon, allegedly struggled with the Seminole County sheriff's deputy who caught up with him.

The deputy, who was riding a motorcycle, reported he confronted Thomas Patrick Kenny, 44, 250 Aurora Circle, Casselberry, near his home. Kenny allegedly tried to run over the deputy and then struggled with him. Casselberry police assisted in the arrest, a sheriff's report said.

Kenny was charged with aggravated assault on a policeman, resisting with violence and driving with a revoked license, at 3:05 p.m. Longwood police were investigating the traffic accident, during which the deputy allegedly witnessed Kenny's car hit a van, the report said.

LOCAL BRIEFS

Longwood hires personnel director

LONGWOOD — The Longwood City Commission Monday approved the hiring of a new personnel director. City Administrator Mike Abels announced that Larry Nelson, of Brainerd, Minnesota has accepted the post at an annual salary of $31,470.

Nelson will assume the position vacated early this year by Lois Martin, who left Longwood to pursue a similar position in Lake County. Nelson has had ten years experience as personnel director of a major hospital in Brainerd, as well as a number of years with the city.

Abels said Nelson is expected to begin work at his new post in Longwood May 16.

Airport hires PR consultant

SANFORD — The Sanford Airport Authority this week agreed to pay Bonnie Manjura, director of the Centerra Group, $835 per month for public relations work she had been doing as a volunteer.

Steve Cooke, airport director of aviation, said Manjura had been volunteering her time to act as a welcome center receptionist and public relations person for Central Florida Regional Airport.

"We weren't even paying her before," Cooke said. "And it's certainly not a lot of money, but it is something that she just likes to do."

Lunchroom containers studied

By VICKI DeBORMIER
Herald staff writer

SANFORD — In recent weeks, students at Oviedo High School have not been quiet in the defense of the causes which are important to them.

Two weeks ago, a group of students representing the student government came before the board to offer alternatives to the use of polystyrene containers in the cafeterias throughout the county. The polystyrene (more commonly known as Styrofoam) containers are known to be an environmental hazard because they release chlorofluorocarbons (CFCs) into the atmosphere as they slowly degrade. The CFCs have been shown to, among other things, destroy the ozone layer which protects the earth from harmful ultraviolet rays from the sun.

Yesterday a smaller group, led by student body president Chris Cogle, petitioned the board to form a committee to study the alternatives to the use of polystyrene containers.

Adding that he had spoken with a company in Mims which was willing to assist in the safe recycling of the polystyrene containers in use in school food service facilities, Cogle said he believed the alternatives were "available to those willing to look for them."

The board, acting on a recommendation from Supt. Bob Hughes, unanimously approved the formation of a committee to consider the alternatives to the current practices.

Census workers hit streets

The near forty percent of Seminole Countians who have not sent in their census forms may soon be visited by Census Bureau enumerators, census officials said today.

"Seminole and Volusia County residents are still hesitant about returning their completed census forms," according to Pat Ryan, district office manager of the Census Bureau. "The mail response is running only 62 percent at this time," she said.

Speaking primarily about the longer form, Ryan said, "People don't seem to understand why certain questions are being asked, especially the question about their income. They apparently believe this is confidential information."

"But the individual income statistics become completely impersonal in the statistical compilation, and end up being fed into a data bank of similar information from the 480 district offices across the nation," she said.

About 500 census takers are now traveling throughout Seminole and Volusia counties in an attempt to obtain census reports from those who, for one reason or another, have not responded.

Weaker wetlands rules rejected

United Press International

PALATKA — Regional water managers voted today a rules change Tuesday that would have opened thousands of acres of wetlands in northeast Florida for development.

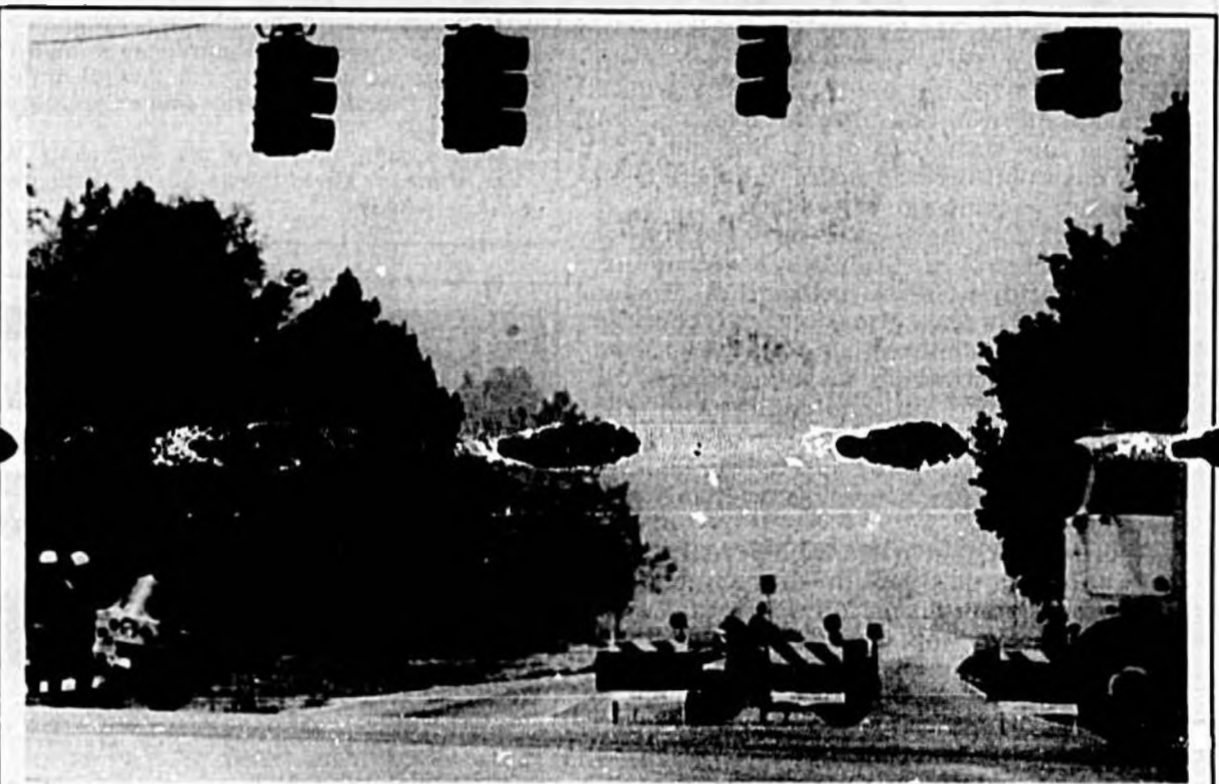

In an 8-0 vote, the St. Johns River Water Management District rejected a more restrictive definition of wetlands. Had the new language been adopted, about 3,000 acres in 19 northeast Florida counties would have been stripped of wetlands protection.

The vote came one day after an aide to Gov. Bob

Martinez telephoned board members, asking them to kill the proposed changes.

Board members acted quickly at Tuesday's meeting, which had been expected to drag on because of heated debate. Executive Director Henry Dean spoke for about 10 minutes, telling board members the existing rules functioned well and should not be weakened. The board then voted and moved to other issues.

The Legislature in 1984 toughened rules for preserving Florida wetlands, dramatically expanding a list of vegetation that determines whether land is wetland.

Road closed

Sanford police yesterday blocked a portion of Old Lake Mary Road from Airport Boulevard to Crystal Lake Drive in Lake Mary as firefighters continued to battle a brush fire that had consumed about 100 acres in the area. Lake Mary police officials said this morning they expect the road to be reopened by this afternoon. Firefighters remained on the scene this morning.

Bush drops election suit

LONGWOOD — Craig Bush announced this week he has dropped a lawsuit against the city and the Seminole County Canvassing Board over the results of his unsuccessful bid against incumbent District 2 Commissioner Hank Hardy in November.

Bush told the city commission Monday he filed his complaint over voting irregularities six months ago. He said, however, no court hearing has been held or is expected within the next six months, which would be too close to the next city election to be worthwhile.

Bush had complained that the display of a photograph of Hardy at the City Hall, which served as election Precinct 33, may have caused him to lose votes.

But according to Longwood City Clerk Don Terry, Phyllis Slater, a senior attorney with the Division of Elections in Tallahassee, told him there was "no law prohibiting the display of such photographs," although the display of actual election material is forbidden.

Bush filed suit seeking to have the vote declared a tie, which, according to the city charter, would have called for a runoff election. Hardy received 42.6 percent of the votes.

Launch may be delayed

United Press International

CAPE CANAVERAL — NASA engineers are debating whether to replace an apparently balky cooling system valve aboard the shuttle Columbia, a tricky repair job that could delay next week's launch nine days or more, sources say.

Such work has never been attempted with a shuttle in the vertical position, and if the problem cannot be fixed at launch pad 39A, the sources said, NASA could be forced to haul the shuttle back to its hangar for repairs, delaying the mission up to one month.

On the other hand, agency managers could elect to launch Columbia "as is," although that option was not considered likely. Repairing the problem at the launch pad, however, would take nine days or so, pushing liftoff to around May 26, according to a preliminary repair schedule.

More killing fields

It may seem inconceivable that the civilized world would countenance a resumption of the killing fields in Cambodia. Yet that is precisely what will happen if Pol Pot and his Chinese-backed Khmer Rouge guerrillas are allowed to regain power. The risk of such a tragedy is, in fact, increasing.

During Pol Pot's murderous reign from 1975 to 1979, an estimated 3 million Cambodians were summarily executed or tortured and starved to death. Not since the black days of Hitler and Stalin has there been such a brutal campaign of genocide.

In addition to the human carnage, Pol Pot virtually destroyed Cambodia's economic, political and social infrastructure in his maniacal bid to make the country a showcase of orthodox communism. Having been thwarted by Vietnam's invading troops, he now has Vietnam's elephant re-education camps as a model. The odds of his doing so are greatly enhanced by the military assistance the Khmer Rouge is receiving from China.

Approximately 40,000 Khmer guerrillas have taken up positions in the countryside. They are waiting for an opportunity to overwhelm the Vietnamese-installed government of Hun Sen. The government's 45,000 troops and the 25,000 guerrillas loyal to Prince Norodom Sihanouk or his former prime minister, Son Sann, are no match for Pol Pot's formidable forces. To begin with, the anti-Khmer Rouge fighters lack the training and firepower of their brutal communist foes. Meanwhile, the Khmer Rouge advantage in arms and ammunition is increasing with each passing month.

China has recently sent to the Khmer guerrillas large shipments of rifles, anti-aircraft guns, mortars, rocket-propelled grenades, rocket launchers, 122-millimeter howitzers and other heavy artillery. During the past six months Beijing has accelerated arms transfers to the Khmer Rouge, despite suggestions to the world that it might consider withdrawing its support if a peace plan could be worked out.

Such a plan could be supervised by the United Nations. It must include a cease-fire, complete withdrawal of Vietnamese troops and free elections. Hopes for an agreement along these lines were dashed earlier this year when China and the other permanent members of the Security Council — the United States, Britain, France, the Soviet Union — deadlocked over how the deal could be implemented.

No peace accord is likely as long as China keeps arming the Khmer Rouge. That is why the Bush administration, which has tried to bring Beijing along by gentle persuasion, should resort to a stronger approach.

President Bush must decide by June 3 whether to renew China's most-favored-nation trade status. This would give Chinese goods advantageous access to American markets. The Beijing regime is concerned the White House might deny most-favored-nation status in light of the Tiananmen Square massacre and the crackdown on pro-democracy forces.

President Bush should make clear to Chinese leaders that continuation of the favorable trade status will hinge on their cooperation in helping to bring about a U.N.-supervised end to the killing in Cambodia. Secretary of State James Baker already appears sympathetic to this toughened approach.

Is U.S. reaching end of an era?

Although no formal announcement has yet been made, newly available government data reveals that fertility rates in the United States are up, and for the first time in nearly a generation American women are bearing an average of more than two children. The new trend will likely have profound and positive effects. The turnaround is probably not happening in Europe, and certainly not in Japan.

In early May, the National Center for Health Statistics computed the estimated annual U.S. Total Fertility Rate (TFR). Simply put, the TFR is the number of children, on average, that a woman bears in a lifetime. It is both a bedrock demographic statistic and a primal cultural indicator.

The new TFR is remarkable. Consider the recent sequence: U.S. TOTAL FERTILITY RATE

1976-86: 1.74-1.84 children per woman
1987: 1.87 children per woman
1988 (estimate): 1.93 children per woman
1989 (estimate): 2.00 children per woman
The precise new number is 2.0009. In short, the Birth Death in America still exists, but may be ending.

What's going on? There are solid clues. What does it mean? Good things for us, problems for our competitors.

The biggest reason for the change is that thirty-somethings are having more kiddy-somethings. The sound we hear is the snooze alarm on the biological clock, a final-chance collective understanding of a demographic axiom: "fertility delayed is fertility denied."

From 1977-87 the fertility rates of women aged 30-39 rose from 40 to 50 births per thousand women. The new data indicates that this increase among older women apparently continued through 1989, more than overcoming a slight ongoing decrease in the fertility rate among teenagers and twenty-somethings.

The rise puts the United States within range of returning to the TFR "replacement level" of 2.11. That is the rate required to keep a population just stable over time, not counting immigration. But because America accepts a solid number of immigrants, we may already be at, or slightly above, the replacement equivalent.

Accordingly, when the Census Bureau does its next projections, the "most likely" calculation will probably no longer show America losing population in the next century. The difference between the 1.8 TFR used in the recent projections and the current 2.0 rate generates more than 20 million additional people by 2050. Instead of a declining population of 299 million at that time, there would be a growing one of 321 million.

The potential economic effects are great (particularly if augmented by moderate immigration increases now being considered). For example, the Social Security shortfall would be cut (because of more contributors), and growing American markets would likely yield a future boost for existing businesses.

America's competitors are in no such happy mode. The Japanese TFR is falling, now down to 1.64, an all-time low. The growth of feminism in Japan may lower the rate further. European rates are more complex.

The biggest reason for the change is that thirty-somethings are having more kiddy-somethings.

GEORGE F. WILL

Novice senator's bark has bite

WASHINGTON — The rush of Washington life is like a mountain stream in which rocks are tumbled and, over time, become smooth, polished and pretty but without edges. Sen. Bob Kerrey, the freshman Democrat from Nebraska, still has edge.

Kerrey's language has teeth. It bites, as when regarding the President's education proposals, he said, "At their worst...they offer promise unsupported by honest evaluation." Kerrey calls himself a writer, so assume he uses words fastidiously, words like "insupportable" and "honest." "Unsupported" would have been less harsh; "honest," as used, is stinging. In George Bush's Washington, which is most congenial to people who went to charm school rather than real school, Kerrey may have to heed the Truman advice he quotes: "Don't have a friend in Washington. Buy a dog."

When a senior Bush adviser denounced "now-nowism" — living for the moment of tomorrow's seed corn (actually, the Bush polley) — Kerrey said the real problem is "now-nowism." (Kerrey will learn how little the President likes canine comparisons.) Politicians, said Kerrey, like dogs, will bark at any moving target.

"The President is the best example....He wants to be the education President and the environment President and the housing President and the kind and gentle President. He wants to go to the Moon and maybe even to Mars. He wants to do something about investment and computer technology and the space station and the superconducting supercollider. He wants to do something about Poland and Hungary and Colombia." And drugs.

But "drugs are not America's No. 1 problem. Our No. 1 problem is that politicians have been drugged into believing that Americans don't love their country enough, their children enough, or life enough to pay the price." Actually, politicians, most egregiously the President, are the pushers of that narcotic, which produces taxaphobia.

Kerrey says he made a lot of money in the restaurant business, partly because his parents' generation built the Interstate Highway System. "They didn't sit around the dinner table and wonder about what their rate of return was going to be on every single investment....They didn't sit around and say their taxes were too high. They tried to provide me with greater opportunities and by God I've got an obligation to do the same with my children."

Kerrey wishes we could "repeal the year 2000," which is becoming "a garbage can" into which we dump problems. He etches his position with the acid sarcasm: "President Bush has become fascinated lately with the potential for harmonic convergence in the year 2000. He wants to eliminate adult illiteracy, reduce dropout rates to 10 percent and advance 17-year-olds to the top of the industrial world's math and science class by the dawning of that magical moment."

But right now "another baby is born into poverty every 40 seconds. Every 40 seconds. For example: Now. And then, again — every 40 seconds. And, "a minority child under the age of one has less chance of being immunized in America today than does a baby in Botswana." We invest in getting babies born, then next take notice of them five years later when many of them, from dysfunctional families, are severely damaged.

"We are not spending enough on the poor who most of us do not know. Instead, we are spending on the more well off who are apt to be our friends." The deficit reflects this disparity. It produces unnecessarily high interest rates, which particularly punish, in the end, the working poor. "And" — note the dry understatement — "it is the working poor who are least likely to be able through either individual or direct purchase of Treasury bonds or indirectly through a pension fund, to feel the benefit from the debt-financed growth in our gross national product."

Recently, Kerrey has had his basic American entitlement, 15 minutes of fame. That resulted from the reaction of some Democrats and journalists to the ennuil enveloping the Democratic Party. Seized by an inexplicable longing for Iowa, and saddened by so little stirring in presidential politics on the part of the party's pinups (Cuomo, Bradley, Nunn), adlets of presidential politics, have turned their gaze toward Kerrey as an alternative to terminal boredom.

Kerrey, 46, is indeed something of an exotica — a Congressional Medal of Honor winner who lost a leg below the knee in Vietnam but has run marathons, who has dated actress Debra Winger while living in Nebraska's governor's mansion from which (the mansion, not Ms. Winger) he walked away after one term while enjoying stratospheric (70 percent) approval.

Democrats could do worse. Usually do. Probably will. But they should note that Bush's composure some-ones cracks under serious criticism, so a Democrat with Kerrey's bite would have an interesting edge.

Kerrey wishes we could 'repeal the year 2000.'

JACK ANDERSON

TV Marti fails to aggravate Castro

WASHINGTON — Just as the detractors predicted, TV Marti, America's latest effort to needle Fidel Castro, is a disaster. The Cuban leader has successfully blocked TV transmission of U.S. propaganda into Cuba. Not only has TV Marti been a $7 million bust, but Castro has used it as an excuse to turn giant transmitters toward the United States and block commercial radio broadcasts.

Critics, even some within the State Department, predicted that TV Marti was doomed. Several members of Congress said the project, by Voice of America, would unnecessarily aggravate the relations between the United States and Cuba. Some even argued that beaming TV Marti across international boundaries to an unwilling Cuba violated international broadcasting laws. So why did the federal government do it anyway? The answer lies in the enormous political cloak of Cuban-Americans and the leading group of exiles, the Cuban American National Foundation.

Based in Miami, the CANF is a powerful lobby with plenty of money to spread around to members of Congress in the form of campaign contributions. CANF's flamboyant leader, Jorge Mas Canosa, personally hands out the campaign donations like candy through CANF's political action committees.

It was Mas who successfully lobbied for the creation of Radio Marti broadcasts to Cuba in 1982, despite the objections of then-Secretary of State George Shultz. Supporters of Radio Marti talked it up as a great success, but congressional critics said Cubans paid the price. Castro retaliated at home by cracking down on political dissidents.

CANF's tightest grip is on the House Foreign Affairs Committee chaired by Rep. Dante Fascell, D-Fla. Fascell's district in Miami is the stronghold of Cuban exiles, and he has steadfastly backed their cause. He told us he has always been solidly anti-Castro, even before CANF became a force.

Through Fascell, CANF has even been able to cow one of its traditional enemies, Rep. Mervyn Dymally, D-Calif. He thinks the United States ought to mind its own business and leave Castro alone. Dymally vehemently opposed Radio Marti eight years ago, calling it "an outrage, a total scandal." He argued that "the American public ought to know that we are wasting money disrupting other people's lives. Cuba is a sovereign nation." But that was then and this is now. Dymally chairs the Foreign Affairs subcommittee that authorized TV Marti, and when it came up for a vote, he didn't oppose it.

As a subcommittee chairman, Dymally would be unwise to irritate his committee chairman, Fascell. A spokesman in Dymally's office told our associate Scott Slick that it wouldn't have been diplomatic for Dymally to oppose TV Marti when Fascell was so supportive of it. Dymally is also starting to receive campaign contributions from the Cuban-American community.

The influence of Cuban exiles extends all the way to the White House. Mas is a major fund-raiser for the Republicans, and sources say he boasts about his friendship with "George and Barbara."

Mas wants to be the first president of a democratic Cuba after the overthrow of Castro. To protect his high profile from his enemies, the wealthy Mas rides around in an armored car once owned by the late Nicaraguan despot, Anastasio Somoza. Cuban-American sources told us that Mas has a tendency to strong-arm the exiles who aren't as fervent as himself. Former Radio Marti director Ernesto Bentacourt, who criticized the TV Marti plan, has accused Mas of having a hand in Bentacourt's ouster.

Iran-Contra figure Channell dies

United Press International

WASHINGTON — Conservative political fund-raiser Carl "Spitz" Channell, a former West Virginia motel operator who became the first person convicted in the Iran-Contra scandal, has died.

Channell, 44, died Monday at George Washington University Hospital, reportedly of injuries received about two months ago when, as a pedestrian, he was struck by a car. He also had pneumonia.

The funeral was tentatively scheduled for Saturday, but final arrangements were pending.

Channell operated a motel until 1979 before he became a major national fund-raiser for conservative causes. He founded or gained control of numerous conservative organizations, among them two political action committees, a tax-exempt foundation and the organization Western Goals, which has two subsidiaries.

Channell pleaded guilty to using his non-profit National Endowment for the Preservation of Liberty to raise more than $2 million to arm the Nicaraguan Contra rebels.

On July 7, 1989, he was sentenced to two years of probation and ordered to pay a standard $50 federal court assessment for conspiring to defraud the government of taxes due on the money he and former White House aide Oliver North raised for the guerrillas.

Channell's confession was part of an agreement reached with independent prosecutor Lawrence Walsh in exchange for Channell's testimony against North, the fired National Security Council aide identified as the chief operator in covert U.S. arms sales to Iran and the diversion of profits to the Contras.

Federal Election Commission and Internal Revenue Service records indicated Channell raised more than $5 million between 1985 and 1986 and through his foundations and political action committees spent much of the money on a propaganda blitz to win public support for Contra aid.

The Lowell (Mass.) Sun reported that $5 million in profits from the Iran arms sales was diverted for conservative political purposes and some of it was funneled to Channell's organizations.

Channell denied he received any Iran arms money.

Government records indicated that groups run by Channell bought political advertisements against congressional candidates unsympathetic to the Contras.

Channell's activities angered Democrats early in 1986 when Congress was considering appropriating more official funding for the rebels. Channell and other conservative group leaders campaigned in favor of the plan and against members of Congress who opposed the legislation.

One of the groups that joined in the campaigns was the National Conservative Political Action Committee, where Channell had served as finance chairman. NCPAC leader Terry Dolan, Channell's former boss who died in December 1986, sought the defeat of 33 members of Congress who opposed aid for the Contras.

Channell's endowment also paid the Robert Goodman Agency of Baltimore nearly $200,000 to produce a series of pro-Contra advertising films that contained footage of Soviet military equipment. A spokeswoman for Goodman's agency said the films were from White House files and were supplied directly by North.

developing or improving their property because of the reservation may be entitled to damages.

Expressway attorney Lonnie Groot said no one would be entitled to damages because no one had sought permission to develop their property within the reservation area.

Harry Robson, the owner of Center Mall on U.S. Highway 17-92 at Airport Boulevard, said the removal of the reservation should reopen the issue of whether the expressway should pass through Sanford at all. Robson's comments irked expressway director Gerald Brinton.

"That comes from someone who we went through great pains to miss his property," Brinton said. The authority approved a redesign of the U.S. 17-92 interchange last year to protect Sanford Plaza, Center Mall and several other businesses that would have been destroyed for the interchange.

On April 26, the Florida Supreme Court ruled 4-3 that a state law allowing land to be reserved for future roadways was unconstitutional and amounted to an uncompensated "taking" of the land. Their ruling following more than 18 months of deliberations.

First adopted in 1985, the law prevents any vacant land from being developed for up to 10 years in a reserved area. The law doesn't prevent homeowners from making improvements or additions to their homes, but it does prevent business owners from adding more than 20 percent of the value of their property before the reservation was made.

The law also allowed anyone who wanted to develop their property to seek a waiver from the state or expressway authority. If the road-building agency finds the property owner's right to use his land is being denied by the reservation, it must buy the property within six months or allow the development to occur. Only one property owner used the administrative process to force the authority to buy their property.

As a result of the decision, the authority held an emergency meeting Tuesday to remove all reservations for the entire expressway right of way. Some reservations had been removed earlier this year on existing businesses west of U.S. 17-92.

Expressway officials were quick to say the action should have no effect on the expressway, expected to be under construction by November and be completed by October 1992.

"If people wanted to develop their property, they would've let us know about it," Brinton said.

"I don't think this will have any affect on people who wouldn't have settled with us anyway. Most people just want their money as soon as they can get it."

"We don't have any money for right of way," Brinton said. "If we did, we'd be ready to begin purchases within 90 days on the 135 parcels we need to acquire."

Jerry Kirk, an Orange County owner of land needed for the Central Florida expressway system, said he planned to organize Orange and Seminole County property owners who were affected by the reservations to challenge the expressway authorities.

"What they did was wrong and they're going to have to pay for it," Kirk said.

Duck attacks leave residents squawking

United Press International

PEMBROKE PINES — A campaign to control the burgeoning Muscovy duck population by stealing their eggs may have prompted some of the ducks to seek revenge by attacking humans, condominium officials suspect.

Some residents at the Century Village retirement complex in Pembroke Pines believe the ducks are frustrated at the egg pilfering and are pecking humans as an emotional outlet.

Another theory holds that the ducks have grown used to being fed by humans and the attacks are simply a signal that the animals are hungry.

"How can you figure what's in the mind of a duck?" asked City Commissioner Kitty Thibault, executive coordinator of the Condominium Owners of Pembroke Pines Association.

Whatever the cause, residents at the Century Village and nearby neighborhoods have complained of increasingly frequent attacks by the fat, ugly, profit-stealing ducks.

Maintenance crews at the complex and residents throughout Pembroke Pines have been removing duck eggs from nests for about a year. They insist the duck attacks have grown more common since the program began.

"I don't know if it's what made them more disagreeable ... but I think taking the eggs may have something to do with it," said Thibault.

Wildlife experts said the ducks' behavior poses no threat of injury.

"If you're not used to it and a great big duck nibbles your arm, it could be frightening," said Gill Monteiro, interim director of the Wildlife Care Center in Fort Lauderdale.

"But I've never known these ducks to actually attack," she said. "They'll peck at you but it's their way of communicating. They're frustrated. They're looking for affection. They'll fill their motherly instinct."

It is annoying, however, especially for older people less able to maneuver around duck droppings.

"I like ducks, but I don't like gettinglobbered on or getting my nylons ripped by hordes of those big, ugly ducks," Thibault said.

The egg removal campaign has drawn some complaints from animal rights activists, but wildlife experts said it does not harm the ducks.

"It isn't cruel," Monteiro said. "The baby ducks aren't going to suffer. The female will breed and lay again. You eat eggs, don't you?"

Airport

that beginning flights by August would be very early.

"I'm not going to say it can't be done, but that would be very optimistic," Cooke said.

"We are negotiating with the CFRA and they were very receptive," Parker said. "We'll be meeting with (CFRA Director of Aviation) Steve Cooke further to complete negotiations. After the meeting with Cooke, he will then present what we have come up with to the authority for final approval."

Parker said that Sunline would have about five aircraft that would transport an estimated 800 passengers daily.

Three of the airplanes will be Boeing Aircraft Corporation 737s, capable of carrying 125 passengers each, and two British Aerospace Corporation 111s, which can carry 80 passengers each, Parker said. "Then we would have to be certified by the Federal Aviation Administration," Parker said. "We don't anticipate any problem with that, but we do need to be in as soon as possible in order to begin operations."

The airline plans to employ about 100 people, the vice president said.

Parker said that according to demographic studies, Sanford was ideal.

"Seventy-five percent of the traveling public that live in Orange and Seminole Counties live in northern Orange and Seminole Counties. It would be easier for them to travel to the Sanford Airport than to fight the traffic to Orlando," the official added.

Cooke said the expansion was a terrific thing for Sanford and that it would have a beneficial multiplying effect for the community.

"Tourists will create an additional need for hotels, restaurants and attractions like the Central Florida Zoo and the Riverboat Romance. All of them have the potential to benefit from this service."

Cooke said that on bad days, commuters can need as much as two hours to get to Orlando International Airport.

Need may also be created for international flights, Cooke said. In that case, the airport would have to pay the Federal Aviation Administration a $75,000 starting fee plus the cost of personnel.

"We are proceeding down that avenue now," Cooke said. "We're not real close, but we are pursuing the FAA."

Cooke did not know how soon such a plan might be implemented, but added that such facilities could service other airlines as well.

"It's definitely desirable," the official said. "And it is feasible because we could operate with other airlines as well as Sunline, but we have to see how much of a need there is first."

Parker had said that Sunline would consider having charter flights to and from Cancun, Mexico and Montego Bay, Jamaica, but that they would have to be routed in and out of U.S. Customs at Orlando International.

on double sessions, with one group attending classes from 7 a.m. until noon and the other in class from 1 to 6 p.m.

• A portable, also at a cost of about $7,000 will be needed to accommodate bathroom facilities for the portables farthest away from the main school.

• Playground space could be placed in the nearby Kingsbridge area. The city of Oviedo has agreed to let the school board use the land. The school maintenance department and Stenstrom parents would help provide and lay sod for the area.

• If additional classroom space is needed, the art and music classrooms could be converted for other purposes.

Wilson Elementary School, 985 Orange Blvd. in Sanford.

• All five portables already in use on the campus will remain in place.

• An additional three portables, at an approximate cost of $7,000 will need to be placed at the school.

• Two self-contained ESE programs would need to be relocated to another site which has not yet been determined.

• Additional growth would have to be absorbed by converting the auditorium, the multi-purpose room, the media center and music and art classrooms into classrooms for other purposes.

Spring Lake Elementary School, 695 Orange Ave. in Altamonte Springs.

• The zones from which students for this school are drawn would have to be realigned to help ease the overcrowding.

Students living in Spring Oaks South, Spring Oaks Woods and Heatherton Village would go from Spring Lake to Forest City Elementary School, 1010 Sand Lake Road in Altamonte Springs. That would move approximately 117 students for the 1990-91 school year. Students who have been assigned to the fifth grade at Spring Lake will have the option of staying at their present school for their final year, but parents will have to provide transportation for that year.

Having had public input at the work session in March, the board will hear only the superintendent's recommendations and the reports of Richard Wells, assistant superintendent of facilities and Ken Bovio and Nancy McNamara, area directors of elementary education before making their final decision on the matter, however, a large crowd is expected to be in attendance.

Michaud has denied the charges through her attorney, John Chamblee of Tampa.

"She is the best teacher I have ever had," said senior Rebecca Pittman, 18, who believes Michaud's activities outside the classroom do not affect her teaching abilities.

She said stories about the charges against Michaud changed daily. "The tales grow taller down the line," she said.

Duncan Jones, 19, who graduated from Oviedo High School two years ago said he thought the "whole thing was asinine." He said the "only ones who are being hurt are the students." He said Michaud had been his teacher at Oviedo and was currently his instructor at Seminole Community College.

Angered that the students were not given their say, Jones said, "Supt. Hughes just doesn't want to hear what's going on."

Junior Mirette Ugrin, 16, said she doesn't see how the accusations, if they are true, would have "anything to do with her performance in class." Ugrin echoed the comments of Chamblee who said it was wrong to suspend Michaud because Seminole County needs good math teachers to help motivate students to their fullest potential.

"She always takes special time with all of us," Ugrin said, "even kids who aren't in her class."

Expressway officials say their toll estimates are conservative and they actually expect to collect higher amounts.

Traffic and toll projections show at least $11.3 million will be collected during the first year with the established $1.50 maximum toll. Those collections will increase to about $14.7 million in 1998, projections show. Operations and maintenance costs are expected to require about 10 percent of the revenues.

Commissioners pledged the full amount of the estimated $2.6 million they'll have available from construction gas tax, motor fuel, and a 10 percent entitlement revenues. But actually one-twelfth that amount — the amount collected monthly — will be held in reserve to back the toll bonds.

Tolls from the first six months of collections will finance a $6 million reserve fund.

dense forest cover and wet swampland. One of two of the tractors being used was immobilized when it broke a track yesterday while plowing fire breaks around the blaze in an effort to contain the blaze.

The fire is still smoldering today, said Lake Mary Police. Old Lake Mary Road south of Airport Boulevard had been closed due to smoke and probably will remain closed, police said.

The fire appeared to have started by humans Monday in a graveyard behind Seminole High School, spokesmen from the Division of Forestry said. The blaze came within 20 yards of homes in the Lake Villas neighborhood in Sanford.

Units from the Sanford Fire Department, Lake Mary Fire Department, Seminole County Fire Department and the State Division of Forestry have responded since the blaze began.

Quayle visits Paris, honors war dead

PARIS — Vice President Dan Quayle arrived in Paris and immediately drove to the Arc de Triomphe in the center of the French capital where he paid tribute to the dead of World War II.

The vice president stood at attention Tuesday with his wife, Marilyn, at France's tomb to the unknown soldier below the arch.

Quayle was scheduled to meet with President Francois Mitterrand today and take part in ceremonies honoring the 100th anniversary of the birth of Dwight Eisenhower, supreme commander of World War II Allied forces in Europe and U.S. president from 1953 to 1961.

The vice president, in his role as chairman of the White House's National Space Council, also planned to visit the European Space Agency's headquarters where he was expected to discuss possible European participation in the "space exploration initiative," a proposal by President Bush to send people to the moon and Mars.

Four states begin primary flurry

Rep. Donald Lukens, R-Ohio, convicted in a sex scandal last year, lost his bid for reelection in the Republican primary, while in North Carolina, Charlotte Mayor Harvey Gantt and Michael Easley appeared headed for a Democratic runoff to decide who will face Republican Sen. Jesse Helms in November.

In addition to the Buckeye and Tarheel states, voters cast primary ballots in Indiana and West Virginia on Tuesday, beginning a five-week period in which 22 states — nearly half the country — will choose candidates for the November general election.

Generally, the most important November battles in the four states — a gubernatorial race in Ohio and Senate races in the other three — were not major features in the primary, since the candidates faced either little or no opposition.

The sole exception was in North Carolina, where Democrats fought down to the wire to win the right to challenge Helms, a three-term conservative stalwart who easily won the GOP nomination.

Fire probed aboard damaged destroyer

NORFOLK — The crippled guided missile destroyer USS Conyngham, rendered powerless from a boiler-room fire that killed one sailor and injured 18, limped into its home port early today as the Navy investigated the cause of the blaze.

Navy officials said the cause of the fire had not been determined. The fire apparently erupted as the No. 1 boiler was being lit during routine maneuvers early Tuesday about 80 miles off the North Carolina coast.

Fat fannies less dangerous than spare tires

United Press International

DALLAS — A "spare tire" around the middle is more hazardous to your health than "thunder thighs and hippo hips," researchers reported.

A study of 1,124 healthy men and women in Milwaukee confirmed the relative importance of the location of fat on the body, and may explain why men tend to be more at risk for heart disease than women, researchers said.

Women tend to be pear-shaped, with fat accumulating in their buttocks and thighs. Men tend to put on fat around the waist. Men also are more likely to have higher levels of cholesterol and other fats in the blood, key factors in the development of heart disease, the nation's No. 1 killer.

The study adds weight to mounting research suggesting that in the development of heart disease, the type and location of body fats are as important as the total amount of fat, said David S. Freedman, an epidemiologist at the federal Centers for Disease Control in Atlanta.

Oils affect cholesterol

United Press International

BOSTON — Researchers fired another salvo in a battle of the oils, contending that olive oil and corn oil have an equally beneficial effect on cholesterol levels.

Scientists in California said a study of two types of unsaturated fats contained in the two kinds of oil found no difference in the impact either has on high-density lipoprotein, or HDL — the "good" cholesterol in the body.

The findings agree with research reported last year in the Netherlands and disagree with several previous studies that suggested the monounsaturated fats in such oils as olive oil were better from an HDL standpoint than the polyunsaturated fats found in corn, safflower and sunflower oil.

North diaries renew questions about Iran-Contra controversy

By STEVEN HEILBRONNER
United Press International

WASHINGTON — The government released 1,400 pages of former White House aide Oliver North's diaries that renew questions about the role of George Bush and other Reagan administration officials in the Iran-Contra affair.

The documents, ordered released by a U.S. District Court judge on Tuesday, give a daily account of North's meetings, plans and observations from 1984 to 1986, during which Reagan lieutenants traded weapons to Iran for hostages. The profits of the sales were funneled to the Nicaragua Contra rebels.

North, a National Security Council aide, used hundreds of spiral-bound reporters' notebooks to log meetings with top administration people, including Vice President George Bush, CIA Director William Casey and Assistant Secretary of State for Latin American Affairs Elliott Abrams.

In one entry, dated Dec. 20, 1985, North lists Bush's March 1985 trip to Honduras under the heading, "third country solicitation plan."

Bush has denied his meeting with Honduran leaders was an attempt to solicit help for the Contras in exchange for U.S. military and economic aid.

Like most of the accounts, the Dec. 20 entry raises questions about Bush's role in the Iran-Contra operation but contains no revelations of the meeting.

In another entry, dated Aug. 6, 1986, North lists a noon meeting with Bush that reads, "mtg w/v.p." The meeting lasted 15 minutes, according to the account, which contains no other details.

At the White House Tuesday, press secretary Marlin Fitzwater said of the new revelations, "The vice president's role in the Iran-Contra affair was completely examined in the congressional inquiry and we have nothing to add."

U.S. acknowledges poor's problem

United Press International

GENEVA — U.S. Health Secretary Louis W. Sullivan said poor and minority Americans have serious medical problems despite the $600 billion the country spends each year on health care.

Sullivan, in an opening statement Tuesday to the May 7-19 annual assembly of the World Health Organization meeting, said health continues to improve for the U.S. population as a whole, with longevity increasing and infant mortality declining.

"However, we realize that our efforts are far from complete," he told the organization, known by its acronym WHO. "We are working to reduce the high cost of health care and to provide affordable access to care for all of our citizens."

The WHO meeting was marked by intense back-room maneuvering over a Palestine Liberation Organization demand that the 167-nation United Nations agency recognize the self-declared Palestinian State — a move that would mean the automatic loss of crucial U.S. funds.

Washington warned Monday it is obliged by law to immediately cease all financial payments to any organization recognizing the self-declared "State of Palestine."

WHO Director-General Hiroshi Nakajima appealed to members to avoid a decision on Palestinian membership.

"I stress the fact that, by its very mandate, WHO is a technical agency, not a political one," Nakajima told the assembly. "We should use political means to attain health objectives but not health issues to serve political ends."

The U.S. argument, supported by most Western countries, is that no such state as Palestine exists under international law.

Ambassador homeless in Mongolia

UPI report

WASHINGTON — The U.S. ambassador to Mongolia doesn't live in that country because he has been unable to find a "suitable" home. State Department officials acknowledged Tuesday.

The United States established diplomatic relations with the Asian nation sandwiched between the Soviet Union and China in 1987, and Richard Williams was appointed ambassador July 11, 1988.

But during a House hearing of the improving human rights climate in Mongolia, Desaix Anderson, deputy assistant secretary of state for Asian and Pacific affairs, said Williams, a career diplomat, still lives in Washington.

Anderson said the problem is that Williams has been unable to find "a suitable place" in the Mongolian capital, Ulan Bator, a city of about a half million people.

IN BRIEF

AMERICAN LEAGUE

Perry slams Ryan, Rangers

Hitting a grand slam home run, particularly against a future Hall of Fame pitcher, was the furthest thing from Gerald Perry's mind Tuesday night.

But it happened.

Perry's first grand slam highlighted Kansas City's six-run first inning off Nolan Ryan and led the Royals to a 10-5 victory over the Texas Rangers at Arlington, Texas.

The victory was the third straight for the last-place Royals. Mark Gubicza, 2-4, allowed four hits and struck out eight over seven innings for the triumph.

Elsewhere in the American League, Oakland blanked New York 5-0, Chicago topped Toronto 4-1, Milwaukee shaded Detroit 7-5, Minnesota scalped Cleveland 6-5, Seattle edged Boston 2-1 and California blasted Baltimore 6-0.

YOUTH BASEBALL

Clinic set for parents

The Oviedo Little League is sponsoring a clinic this Saturday, May 12, to help parents of handicapped children find out what the new Challenger League can offer them.

Players may register at the Little League complex located on King Street next to Oviedo High School at 9:30 a.m. The clinic will begin at 10 a.m. and should be over by noon. All participants will receive a free Little League hat.

For more information, call Donna Walton at 365-8216 during the day or evening or Paula Church at 365-7063 in the evening.

BASKETBALL

Boston Celtics fire Rodgers

BOSTON — Jimmy Rodgers, who led the Boston Celtics to their worst consecutive playoff showings in 38 years, was fired Tuesday after just two years as head coach of the NBA's winningest franchise.

"This was a decision made by upper management and ownership," said Celtics General Manager Jan Volk, who broke the news by telephone to Rodgers, a close friend. "He didn't win. He wasn't able to do that. He wasn't able to translate what he wanted to do into success on the court. It's as simple as that."

The Celtics also dismissed assistant coach Lanny Van Eman Tuesday, and said assistant coach Chris Ford would be considered for the head coaching job.

NHL PLAYOFFS

Oilers pull even with 'Hawks

CHICAGO — Mark Messier took matters into his own hands Tuesday night.

The All-Star centerman scored two goals and assisted on two others, lifting the Edmonton Oilers to a 4-2 victory over the Chicago Blackhawks to tie the Stanley Cup semifinal series at 2-2.

"Mark Messier was a dominating force tonight. There's no question about that," Edmonton Coach John Muckler said. "He was the best player on the ice by far."

The Oilers scored three goals on their first four shots to regain home-ice advantage in the best-of-seven Campbell Conference final, which moves back to Edmonton for Game 5 Thursday night.

NATIONAL LEAGUE

Dawson's homers lift Cubs

Andre Dawson borrowed power from the wind and the pitcher to hit two homers in a game for the 30th time of his career.

Dawson tied the game with a homer in the ninth and won it with a two-run shot in the 11th Tuesday at Chicago, handing the Cubs a 10-8 victory over the Atlanta Braves.

"The blasts came with 25 mph winds blowing out at Wrigley Field."

"I didn't hit it as good as I'd like but with the way the wind was, it went out," Dawson said of his ninth-inning solo homer into the empty center field bleachers.

With one out in the 11th against Dwayne Henry, 0-1, Mark Grace singled and Dawson drove a 2-1 pitch to dead center for the game-winner.

In other National League games, Pittsburgh clubbed San Diego 10-2, Montreal slammed Los Angeles 9-1, New York trimmed San Francisco 4-1, and Houston edged Philadelphia 3-2 in 10 innings.

Mack, Graham lead battle for baseball expansion

United Press International

TAMPA — Senator Connie Mack, eager to land an expansion baseball team in Florida, said Tuesday major-league owners may have "thrown the American people a bone" by refusing to commit beyond two new teams.

Mack spoke after a meeting between baseball commissioner Fay Vincent and the Senate Task Force on major-league expansion. The one-hour session produced few specifics.

"I was glad to hear the commissioner talk about the National League's plans to expand by two teams next year," the Florida Republican said. "I think it's a start, but it's not enough. Florida clearly is at the top of the expansion list, but we could handle three teams alone. My fear is that baseball has thrown the American people a bone with the two-team expansion. Now we need the meat with four more teams."

The leading contenders for expansion are St. Petersburg-Tampa; Denver, Washington and Buffalo, N.Y.

Task Force Chairman Sen. Tim Wirth, D-Colo., presided over a morning session in the Russell Senate Office Building in Washington as the committee received an update on baseball's plans to add two National League teams. The NL is committed to announcing an expansion timetable by June 14, with new teams expected on the field by 1993.

The task force, which had met previously with former commissioners Peter Ueberroth and A. Bartlett Giamatti, pressed Vincent for a date when the announcement of specific franchises would be made. Douglas Danforth, chairman of the NL's expansion committee, recently indicated cities would not be officially named until the summer of 1991 — almost one year after presentations are made by interested ownership groups.

"I'm encouraged there will be a shortened period between the announcement of a timetable and when the actual cities will be named," said task force member Bob Graham, Florida's Democratic senator.

"Mr. Vincent was reluctant to make a

Lake Brantley trilogy

Patriots had seven qualify for state meet

By TONY DeSORMIER
 Herald Sports Editor

There are three faces to the story of Lake Brantley High School's qualifying seven athletes for this Saturday's Class 4A state track meet at Winter Park's Showalter Field and the success, satisfaction and frustration.

Let's begin with the hope. Of the seven who have qualified, four are juniors — Amy Ginette, Joyce Tullis, Mona Ariza and John Feola. Barring anything unforeseen, the quartet should be back at the state meet again next year.

Ginette, Tullis and Feola are all distance runners while Ariza qualified in the 330 low hurdles.

"Mona was sixth at the regional meet in the 330 low hurdles last year," noted Lake Brantley coach Charlie Harris. "This year, she finished second. She's a great athlete."

Both Ginette (first in the mile run and third in the two-mile run at the regional meet) and Tullis (fourth in the two-mile) suffered through injury-riddled cross country seasons in the fall. Tullis had a muscle injury while Ginette had an inflammation where the hamstring inserts into the hip, a kind of tendonitis.

"Injuries like that could be short term or they could be long term," said Harris. "But because of our trainer, who guided the girls' rehabilitation, it looks like those things are over."

"Also, Tullis was on our girls' soccer state championship team. Coming back off something like that and competing in track says a lot about her. Ginette just keeps improving each year."

Harris noted that competing in Seminole County has provided

All three girls from Lake Brantley High School who qualified for this Saturday night's Class 4A state track meet at Winter Park's Showalter Field are juniors. Mona Ariza (left) will compete in the 330 low hurdles, Amy Ginette (center) is entered in the mile and two-mile runs and Joyce Tullis (right) is in the two-mile run.

Ginette and Tullis with the perfect opportunity to continue to improve.

"It makes for a real good way of training, knowing that you have to compete against the best," said Harris. "Sometimes we get away and go compete other places, but it helps you through the year to compete against top competition."

"Seminole County probably has the best girls' programs in the state when you look at all the schools."

Harris added that not only are Ariza, Ginette and Tullis great athletes they are all honor students.

John Feola completes the hopeful aspect of the Patriots' state meet story. Primarily a cross country runner, Feola is in his first season running track and managed to qualify for the state meet by finishing fourth in the mile run at the regional meet.

"He did a really outstanding job," said Harris. "I don't think he's close to running to his potential. He has a lot more to show. He'll probably really blossom in another two years, when he's in college. He's a real hard worker."

Providing the satisfying aspect to the story are seniors Matt Jewell and Clint Johnson, both of whom have qualified for the state meet in their last year of high school. Jewell

Seminole Ford rallies for upset win over DAV

From staff reports

SANFORD — The Seminole Ford Red Sox overcame an early 6-0 deficit to pull their second straight upset, 15-12 in seven innings, over the Disabled American Veterans Royals in American Division action of the Sanford Recreation Department Little Major Baseball League at Roy Holler Field Tuesday night.

In the other game, the Sun-Bank Orioles again came close but couldn't pull off the upset as the First Union A's defeated the Orioles 6-3.

With three games remaining in the season, the A's are back in the race, trailing by two games.

The Royals still lead at 10-3, but the A's are right behind at 8-5, followed by the Red Sox (6-7) and the Orioles (1-12).

The Red Sox will go after their third upset Saturday when they face the A's at 8 a.m. followed by the Royals and the Orioles at 10 a.m.

The Royals used a four-run first inning and a two-run third to take a 6-0 lead over the Red Sox. But the Red Sox used a two-out error in the fourth to ignite a nine-run outburst.

The two teams then traded the lead back and forth until the top of the seventh, when the Red Sox struck for four runs.

Blowouts open play in women's softball league

From staff reports

SANFORD — The first night of the Sanford Recreation Department Women's Summer Slowpitch Softball League featured a trio of blowouts at Chase Park Tuesday night.

In Home Medical won the opener 18-5 over the Honey Bears. Seminole defeated Harear 16-8 in the second game and Thermo Carbon shut out Seko Air Freight 13-0.

The first game was 6-1 until the sixth, when In Home Medical sent nine batters to the plate and scored five runs on six hits. The big hits were doubles by Liz Taggart and Dawn McCall and a home run by Marquette Gather.

In Home Medical kept up the pressure in the seventh, sending 12 batters to plate and scoring seven runs. They had eight hits in the inning, only one of which, a double by Clifton, went for extra bases.

In Home Medical collected 30-hits on the night with Abby Dealba leading the way with two doubles, three singles and five runs scored. Other contributors were McCall (double, three singles, two runs scored), Yvonne Simms (four singles, run scored), Gather (home run, two singles, two runs scored) and Clifton (double, two singles, three runs scored).

Also contributing were Sheri Yates (three singles, two runs scored), Lee Powell (three singles), Liz Taggart (double, single, run

Fitzsimmons, Suns break long losing streak at Forum

United Press International

The last time Cotton Fitzsimmons coached a winning team at the Forum before Tuesday night, Richard Nixon was President and the New York Knicks were defending NBA champions.

And the Phoenix Suns last won there more than six years ago, until their stunning 104-102 upset of the Los Angeles Lakers at Inglewood, Calif., in the opener of their Western Conference playoff series.

Fitzsimmons' losing streak at the Forum was at 37 games, dating to Feb. 17, 1974 when he coached Atlanta. The Suns lost 22 straight on the Lakers' court since April 1984.

"The streak has nothing to do with this building," Fitzsimmons said. "The streak had to do with the fact that the Lakers always had good players and our players weren't so good."

Usually calm 6-foot-10 Phoenix center Mark West gave credit to Kevin Johnson for his career playoff-high performances of 24 points and seven blocks. West added 16 rebounds to help the Suns gain the homecourt edge in the best-of-seven series.

"We talked about a lot of things," West said. "(Johnson) said everybody has to do their role. He told me I had to stay aggressive and intense for us to have a chance."

Aggressiveness paid off as Phoenix rallied from an eight-point deficit in the final period. Los Angeles, which had beaten the Suns eight straight times in the playoffs was held to just one free throw over the final 3:39.

The fact that Phoenix was playing just two days after eliminating Utah in Game 5 of the first round may have been a factor in the win.

"This was a big advantage for us because we jumped from one series to the other," said Johnson. "We didn't want to sit around and rest."

The series will continue at the Forum in Game 2 Thursday night before shifting to Phoenix for two games.

Pistons 112, Knicks 77

At Auburn Hills, Mich., Isiah Thomas scored 21 points and James Edwards added 18 to lead Detroit to a club playoff record equalling victory over New York in the opener of their Eastern Conference semifinal series. Patrick Ewing led New York with 19 points despite sitting out the entire fourth quarter. Eddie Lee Wilkins scored 14, and Trent Tucker and veteran Maurice Cheeks added 10 each for the Knicks.

Trail Blazers 122, Spurs 112

At Portland, Terry Porter scored 27 points helping the Blazers take a 2-0 lead in their Western Conference semifinal playoff series. Clyde Drexler scored 22 points and Jerome Kersey added 20 to help Portland to its fifth straight playoff victory and 13th triumph in its last 14 games. Terry Cummings scored 33 points to lead San Antonio and David Robinson added 31.

Apopka's Russell makes successful return to New Smyrna Speedway

Special to the Herald

NEW SMYRNA BEACH — Making a successful comeback from a life-threatening crash on Nov. 27, defending champion David Russell returned to New Smyrna Speedway for the first time since the accident, turning in the last time and making it to victory lane in Saturday night's FASCAR-sanctioned Late Model feature.

"It sure feels good to be winning again," Russell said. "It has been a long five months."

After taking over first place for good on the second lap from early leader/teammate Pete Orr, Russell had to hold off strong challenges by Ed Meridith, who applied heavy pressure for the first half of the race.

Stan Eads, the second fastest in time trials, started sixth and moved up into the second spot on the 27th lap after a lengthy duel with Meridith. He managed to hang on to the position till the end of the race.

Finishing third was Meridith with former track champion Joe Middleton coming out on top of a race-long dogfight with early leader/pole sitter Pete Orr.

Milo Vidic, a former Mini Stock track champion, won by a bumper over Von Crews as he scored his first victory in the Sportsman division. "The car was pushing so bad that I had to run the high groove," Vidic said. "But then I found out that I could go faster up there."

Crews was second followed by Mike Kubanek, who got a taste of Crews' bumper in the early rounds.

Defending track champion Bobby Sears scored an easy Mini Stock victory over young Dwayne Cochran. The third and fourth-place finishers tangled on the last lap coming off turn four as John Phipps edged Dink Sullivan after knocking Dink's front bumper.

Mike Fitch won the Florida Modified feature for the 14th time this year.

Second-place finisher Gary Salvatore should be much more competitive in the near future as he is now putting the finishing touches on his new 1990 Pontiac Sunbird-bodied Modified.

"My old car is still fast, but the new one will be a beauty," said Gary. "And it should run as good as it looks."

Making it three victories in a row, Donnie Narmore outfoxed early leader Steve Hall on lap five to take the lead and the win.

Early in the race, heat winner Bentley Meade went down in the speed bumps trying to get around the leaders. But the car just couldn't take it and a broken axle sent a wheel flying, forcing Bentley out of the event.

John Ripley locked horns with Ricky Marshall but still managed to outrun him for the "B" Bomber feature. The V-8 Enduro went to Randy Grief with John Pettit winning the Spectorator Races over a large field of participants who came right out of the parking lot with their family transportation.

at Orlando SpeedWorld
ORLANDO — Hard-charging Pete Orr scored his sixth feature win of the season on Friday night in FASCAR-sanctioned Late Model stock car racing at Orlando SpeedWorld.

Veteran Dave McCabe led the early laps while Orr, the only driver who could run up in the slick high groove, was gamely moving up from the back of the field. Just before the midway point, Orr took the measure of McCabe and led the rest of the way in the Fountain Auto Mall/Q-96 Radio/T.J.'s Pub/Penninsula Petroleum Oldsmobile.

M McCabe put his new Dencil's Used Cars-sponsored mount across the stripe in second place, just in front of Jimmy Sills and defending FASCAR Late Model champion David Russell.

Making his first start since he was injured in a bad crash last November during the Florida

Cracker 200, Russell, in a brand new Hamke racer, finished fourth with Ed Meridith rounding out the top five.

With his main competition out of action, Von Crews scored an easy 15-lap Sportsman feature win. Ricky Marshall, an eight-time winner in the last two months, never made the main as he snapped an axle in the heat and slapped the wall.

"Caveman" Jones put his Jack's Country Vittles/Run-A-Bout Auto Sales Monte Carlo out in front early and appeared heading for Victory Lane. But an overheating engine allowed Crews to make the pass on the Caveman. From then on, it was "Crews Control" to the stripe. Ronnie Burkett also got around Jones to claim second over Jimmy Todd and Mike Ankney.

Holding off a late charge by Bobby Sears, Craig Reynolds won the Mini Stock final.

Glen Carter, driving his WIKR Radio/Rain-Soft/Gulfside Supply Cavalier, took Florida Modified feature win Mo. 8 over previous week's winner Wally Patterson and Jim Sills.

Rick Johns pulled off an early-race Kamikaze move, then led all the way in the "A" Bomber feature, besting Donnie Narmore and Paul Colgan.

Popular Barbara Ann Pierce had the "B" Bomber feature in the bag, but a caution on the white flag lap turned the whole race around.

On the double-file restart, Pierce and John Potts tangled in front of the field. With nowhere to go, Bill Clark Jr. smashed into Pierce's car. Fortunately, no injuries resulted but Pierce, Potts and Clark were out.

Tom Peters then assumed the lead, but Sanford's John Ripley passed him during the last remaining lap to score his fourth win of the year. Peters held off a hard-charging Dave Waddell for second.

The Spectorator Races went to Michael Williams in a 1972 Olds Cutlass. Gary Roberts won the Four-Cylinder Enduro.

This coming Friday night, the Three Quarter Midgets return to SpeedWorld. A V-8 Enduro, along with the regular racing program, are also slated.

will compete in the 880-yard run (after placing second at regionals) while Johnson is entering a 220-yard dash (third at regionals).

"Matt is a senior who came from Colorado two years ago," said Johnson. "He had to make a lot of adjustments, to the life style, to the academics, to the environment. We didn't know where we were going to run him. Then he seemed to blossom in the half mile.

"If he gets a chance to run in the state meet, he could be a contender. In middle school, he was a big factor in maturity. And it's not chronological age, it's their competitive age. Feola and Jewell could compete a long time and blossom later in life. We're looking at the longevity of their career."

For Johnson, who will be attending Notre Dame in the fall on a football scholarship, qualifying for the state meet culminates a prep track career where he has been the county's dominant sprinter for four years.

"As a freshman, he was the quarterback on the football team and was sixth in 100-meter dash at the regional meet," said Harris. "He won district in 100-meter and 220-yard dash as a sophomore. As a junior, he won the 100-meter and 220-yard dashes at district."

"This is the icing on the cake. He finally made it to the state meet. He's worked hard for four years."

Which brings us to the frustrating part. While Feola's and Johnson's hard work has paid off, the effort of senior Matt Kaiser was cruelly thwarted Monday when he suffered a hairline crack of his tibia during practice. Kaiser was to compete in the pole vault, having finished third at the region meet.

He is the second Lake Brantley pole vaulter to be taken out by injury in the last three weeks. At the district meet at Lake Mary on April 27, Jason Hobbs injured his back during a practice run and could not compete.

"Matt Kaiser is a kid I really feel bad about," said Harris. "He came out in the 10th grade and worked hard for three years. This year, he came along and qualified for the state meet. Then he got injured. He's the kind of kid you want to see something good happen for him."

Kaiser also competed in two other sports this year.

Three years of hard work was frustrated Monday when Lake Brantley senior pole vaulter Matt Kaiser suffered a hairline fracture of the tibia during a practice jump. He was one of seven Lake Brantley athletes who had qualified for Saturday's Class 4A state track meet.

scored) and Pat Smith (single, run scored).

Pacing the Honey Bears were Kelly Gault (three singles, two runs scored), Stacie Seekinger (three singles), Barb, Fr (two singles, two runs scored), Sandy Manning (two singles), Anette Gregskowski (single, run scored) and Peggy Wages and Gretchen Walker (one single each).

In game No. 2, Seminole sent 19 batters to the plate and scored 13 runs on 14 hits, all singles. Harcar only allowed three more runs the rest of the way but the damage had already been done.

After a leadoff walk to Argie Walker the next seven Seminole batters singled. After a pair of strikeouts, Seminole got three singles, a walk and three more singles before the side could be retired.

Providing the offense for Seminole were Bobbie Osborne (two doubles, two singles, two runs scored), Val Wilks (four singles, two runs scored), Tiffany Jones and Latrice Turner (three singles and two runs scored each), Andrea Ruffin (two singles, two runs scored) and Carey Dryden (two singles, run scored).

Also chipping in were Argie Walker and Rita Fison (one single and two runs scored each).

Allison Webber and Lisa Howington (one single each) and Tina Rathbun (run scored).

Getting hits for Harcar were Denise Byrd (three singles), Belinda Anderson (home run, double, two runs scored), Pat Black (double, single, run scored), Arlene Ling (two singles, run scored), Teresa Rink (two singles), Debra Boyer, Sharon Glass, Tammy Nadeay and Pam Logston (one single and one run scored each) and Rosa Williams (single).

Thermo Carbon had little trouble with Seko, scoring three runs in the first, six runs in the second, five runs in the third and one run in the fourth. The game was called after four by the mercy rule.

Pitchers Theresa Walberger and Terri Mann scattered eight hits to combine for the pitching victory.

Doing the damage in an 18 hit attack for Thermo Carbon were Mann (three singles, three runs scored), Connie Thomas (double, two singles), Michelle Widener (two singles, three runs scored), Sharon Paulk (two singles, two runs scored), Betty Drivers (home run, run scored), Mimi Raub (double), Rhonda Gorman, Lisa Jones, Kim Eltonhead and Sue Sojka (one single and one run scored each, and Jackie Suggs (single).

Surgery is treatment for hiatal hernia

DEAR DR. GOTT: Would you please elaborate on hiatal hernia? I'm a female in my 60s and have been diagnosed with the condition. Can it heal by itself, or will I always have it?

DEAR READER: The esophagus passes into the stomach through an opening in the diaphragmatic breathing muscle. Ordinarily, this opening is just large enough to permit the esophagus to pass through. However, as people age, this normal hole may enlarge, permitting part of the stomach to protrude (herniate) upward into the chest. This usually causes no symptoms and is a common consequence of the aging process.

slow-growing and easy to remove surgically. Most parotid tumors are of this type.

Muco-epidermoid carcinoma is malignant and, therefore, more difficult to treat because it grows relatively rapidly and spreads.

Consequently, the answer to your question depends on the type of tumor. A physician who is familiar with the case would have to give you specific information.

WIN AT BRIDGE

By James Jacoby

More often than not, declarer will hold the club queen, in which case there is no defense against the contract. But when South holds a ragged opening of 11 high card points, the defense must be on the mark. The defense becomes much more difficult when the opening lead is a low diamond rather than the queen from Q-J-10. Now it may seem poor, but East should still try his best. It may well be that West does not hold the cards necessary to defeat four hearts, but it is still your obligation to picture a minimum opening bid in the South hand and then develop the proper strategy for taking four tricks. Well? If you led a low club back at the second trick, give yourself an A-plus for astute defensive imagination.

WEST holds the heart ace, declarer may be able to play three rounds of spades, shedding a club to still make the contract.

Here is another defensive hand involving an assumption necessary to defeat a game contract. If you want to test yourself, cover the South and West hands and plan your defense after West's opening lead. Since West's queen of diamonds denies possession of the king, the chances of taking four tricks seem poor, but East should still try his best. It may well be that West does not hold the cards necessary to defeat four hearts, but it is still your obligation to picture a minimum opening bid in the South hand and then develop the proper strategy for taking four tricks. Well? If you led a low club back at the second trick, give yourself an A-plus for astute defensive imagination.

YOUR BIRTHDAY
May 10, 1990

Unique circumstance may develop in the year ahead that could lead to something profitable. They might involve a person you have known but with whom you were never tied in previously.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Your key to success today could be your ability to ascertain the true needs of others. You'll be able to diagnose their wants and know how to fulfill them as well. Trying to patch up a broken romance? The Astro-Graph Matchmaker can help you to understand what to do to make the relationship work. Mail $2 to Matchmaker, P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, OH 44101-3428.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Even though you usually strive to be logical where judgments are concerned, your intuitive perceptions could be the ones on which you should rely today. Don't discount your hunches.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Your best ideas today might be the ones that appear to be far out to your friends. However if you take time to explain them thoroughly, they'll appreciate their merits.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) An unexpected development may arise today where you're forced to take a calculated risk where your career is concerned. Go for it, but only if you're certain it's worth it.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) One way to turn a new acquaintance into a friend is to entertain this person on a one-to-one basis today. Your new pal will appreciate the attention.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) A matter that is of substantial importance to you should not be left unresolved today. Focus your efforts and energies on bringing it to a satisfactory conclusion.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) If you have to negotiate something of value today, make your best offer up front. However, do it without weakening or giving away what you have in reserve.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) The payment for any work or services you're offering today should be agreed upon before starting. Solidify the deal with a satisfactory advance.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Strive to appraise people and situations objectively today. The more you are able to separate emotion from reason, the more accurate you'll be.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Pay particular attention to details today, particularly in an arrangement you're anxious to wrap up. Small points you ignore now could become important later.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Events might not go exactly as you planned them today and some last minute adjustments may be required. However, your second script will be much better than your first one.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Associates might not be perceptive enough to appreciate your progressive idea today, especially those that have commercial applications. Trust your own judgment.

Weekend schedule of events

For the boat racing fans and spectators, here is a schedule of weekend events for the Superchallenge '90:

Friday

May 11, downtown
To start the weekend off right, a block party will begin at 5:30 p.m. Friday, May 11, and continue until about 11 o'clock that night.

The following streets will be closed for the event: First Street from Sanford Avenue to Park Avenue and Park Avenue from Commercial Street to Second Street.

There will be 35 to 50 hydroplane race craft and power boats on display with the racers available to meet the public and talk about their boats.

The party will also include: mimes, jugglers, clowns, face painters, dunking booths, a kiddie train, moon walk and other carnival-type amusements.

For entertainment there will be three live bands: The Killer Dudes, Big Red and the Kountry Cruisers and Stony Sixma.

Saturday

May 12, on the waterfront:
● 11 a.m.: The opening ceremonies for the races will begin with the drop of the checkered flag by a parachutist who will land in Lake Monroe.
● 11 a.m. to 5 p.m.: 13 classes of racing

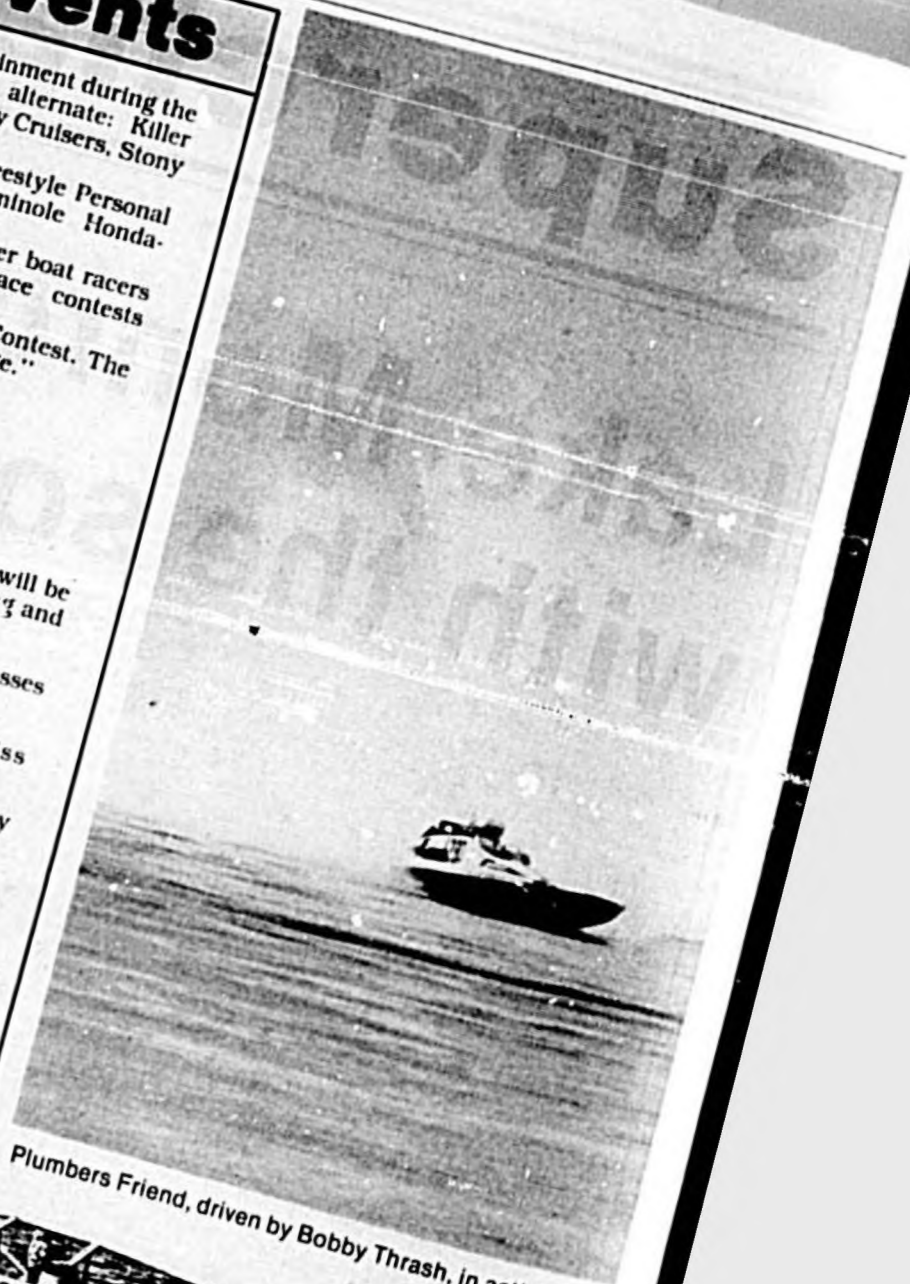

● Noon to 10 p.m.: For entertainment during the races, three live bands will alternate: Killer Dudes, Big Red and the Kountry Cruisers, Stony Sixma.
● 12:30 p.m. and 2:30 p.m.: Freestyle Personal Watercraft Exhibitions by Seminole Honda-Kawasaki.
● 3:30 p.m.: Hydroplane and power boat racers will have personal watercraft race contests between races.
● 5 p.m.: Skip's Bootlegger Bikini Contest. The winner becomes "Miss Superchallenge."
● 9 p.m.: Fireworks display.

Sunday

May 13, on the waterfront:
● In the morning, before the races, there will be a Mother's Day Brunch at Sanford Landings and at Holiday Inn.
● 11 a.m. to 5 p.m.: Boat racing with 13 classes of boats.

● 11 a.m.: V.I.P. Parade starring Miss Superchallenge.
● Noon to 5 p.m.: The Killer Dudes and Stony Sixma will be playing during the races.
● 12:30 and 2:30 p.m.: Freestyle Personal Watercraft Exhibitions by Seminole Honda-Kawasaki.

● 3:30 p.m.: Hydroplane and power boat racers will have personal watercraft race contests between races.
● 5:30 p.m.: Awards ceremonies at the Holiday Inn.

An open letter to the City of Sanford...

Sunset Sports Associates would like to thank all of the people who helped to make this event happen.

Without the cooperation of City and County offices; the Chamber of Commerce, Downtown Merchants Association and area businesses; we would not have been able to complete this event in such a short period of time.

Thank you Sanford; for being the kind of community that takes the initiative to make things happen. Super Challenge '90 promises to be an annual event that all of our community can be proud of throughout the years...

Come be part of this festival event starting with the "Hysterically Historic Downtown Sanford Street Party at 7:30 this Friday night; an evening you will not want to miss! Followed by Boat Races starting on Sat. at 11 AM in front of the Holiday Inn Lake Monroe. Purchase your tickets at the gate.

Superchallenge invades Sanford

By BRADLEY DILLING
Herald Staff Writer

More than 25,000 people are expected to crowd Lake Monroe's shores for a weekend that will include everything from boat racing to block parties to concerts to a bikini contest.

It is the Sanford Coors Light Super Challenge '90 and it will start at about 5:30 Friday night when the Sanford Historic Downtown District is closed for a party that will feature carnival games, mimes, magicians and a display of about 35 race boats.

The party will be followed by two days of boat races running from at 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday and Sunday, with Saturday being capped off by a fireworks display over the lake at 9 p.m.

Race promoters and members of the American Power Boating Association, the governing body of boat racing, have been predicting that this weekend could prove Sanford to be the new boat racing capital of the country.

"We are looking for this to be the premier race course to break records at," said Tom Sayward, in-board chairman for the American Power Boat Racing Association.

Sayward had favorably compared Lake Monroe to Lake Maggory in St. Petersburg. The official said that Lake Maggory used to be one of the top body's of water in which to set and break speed records.

"Every time we had a race at Lake Maggory, records were broken. We are looking for that to happen at Lake Monroe."

Racers who tested their craft in the water a few weeks ago said that they counted on setting speed records on the lake.

"If we don't break any (records), I'm going to be really disappointed," said Bob Ward, who at the age of 12 was the first national championship hydroplane racer in 1947.

There will be two types of boats in 13 different classes. The boats will be hydroplanes and jersey skills.

The hydroplane boats are the type that ride on the water on what looks like pontoons. Because these boats tend to trap air beneath their fuselages — and thus between the pontoons — hydroplane racing can be a particularly dangerous sport if the water is rough and/or winds are strong.

The jersey skill boats are long and narrow and are enclosed except for a small space at the back of the craft were for the driver(s).

The jersey skills are not as sensitive to wind and water conditions and racers of each of the two types of boats are very dedicated to their chosen craft, said Michael Hyams, a member of SSA, which is promoting the event.

"You better not confuse the two," Hyams said. "These drivers take it seriously. They practically get into fights about it," Hyams laughed.

Businessmen in the area have expressed enthusiasm about the large influx of tourists predicted to come to town and the added commerce that the weekend will bring.

"I have to tell you how much we appreciate the business and commerce and how much you are going to do for downtown," David Farr told racers at a news conference about four weeks ago. "Thank you very much." Farr is the Chief Executive Officer for the Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce.

Sunset Sports Associates, the promoters of the race, have paid for the cost of about 22 extra policemen from the Sanford Police Department to keep the crowd under control.

SSA heads up races

By BRADLEY DILLING
Herald Staff Writer

If you've seen the advertising flyers and heard and/or seen the radio and television commercials, you have heard of Sunset Sports Associates.

They like to think of themselves as a group of people who materialized almost overnight and who began to successfully market one of the premier muscle machine events.

The event is the Sanford Coors Light Super Challenge '90 and if all goes according to plan, the organization will be able to say that it put Sanford on the map of world-wide racing events.

The group started with Patrick O'Neill, owner of Sunset Sports Associates.

O'Neill began promoting waterfront activities last fall when he moved his business, Sunset Sailboards, into the Holiday Inn Complex. He had formed an agreement with Holiday Inn in which he promised to try to make the waterfront more attractive to locals and tourists.

"I was charged with promoting activities on the waterfront," O'Neill said. "And I started a volleyball tournament and had jet-ski races."

When representatives from the American Power Boating Association finally decided to look at Lake Monroe in January, they were impressed enough to have the course surveyed. After the APBA concluded that the lake did indeed have the potential to be a record setter, SSA gelled quickly.

John Johnson, a representative for Coca-Cola was interested enough to persuade the soft drink mogul to be a secondary sponsor, after Coors Light.

At about the same time Earl Tennent and Michael Hyams, who had been concert promoters all over central Florida for several years, heard about the project and asked Sunset Sports if they could use a couple of businessmen who knew how to pull off a good concert.

"And that's how we treated it," Hyams said. "We knew we had something that the public wanted to see."

Rick Namey, who has had more than 20 years experience directing television coverage, also came into.

The owner of the Holiday Inn, Wallace Schoettelkotte, has been one of the principals and promoters of the event from the start as has his General Manager, Jeff Blackstone.

Grand Prix racing class hydroplane attracts crowds

By BRADLEY DILLING
Herald staff writer

SANFORD — The newest item hydroplane boat race promoters are going to use to draw crowds to the Coors Light Sanford Superchallenge '90 is a one-of-a-kind design hydroplane capable of reaching speeds greater than 150 mph.

The boat will feature a high-performance, supercharged, fuel-injected 1,200 horsepower Chevrolet block engine, said Michael Hyams, of Coors Light Sanford Superchallenge '90 promoters Sunset Sports Associates.

The boat will not race with the others, but will perform demonstration runs. The boat is in the Grand Prix racing class, one of the classes that will not race on Lake Monroe.

Classes are based on the sizes of boats and the power of each engine. There will be about 13 classes of boats in the races on Lake Monroe May 12 and 13. The Grand Prix class is just below the Unlimited Class sometimes referred to as the "anything goes class" because there are no limits on size or power of engines, Hyams said.

"It's a crowd pleaser," Hyams said of the new boat. "These things are even more dangerous and more likely to crash, but someone has to push the limit and find out just how fast they can go."

Owner and designer Beau Adams said the boat was designed to reach higher speeds without crashing.

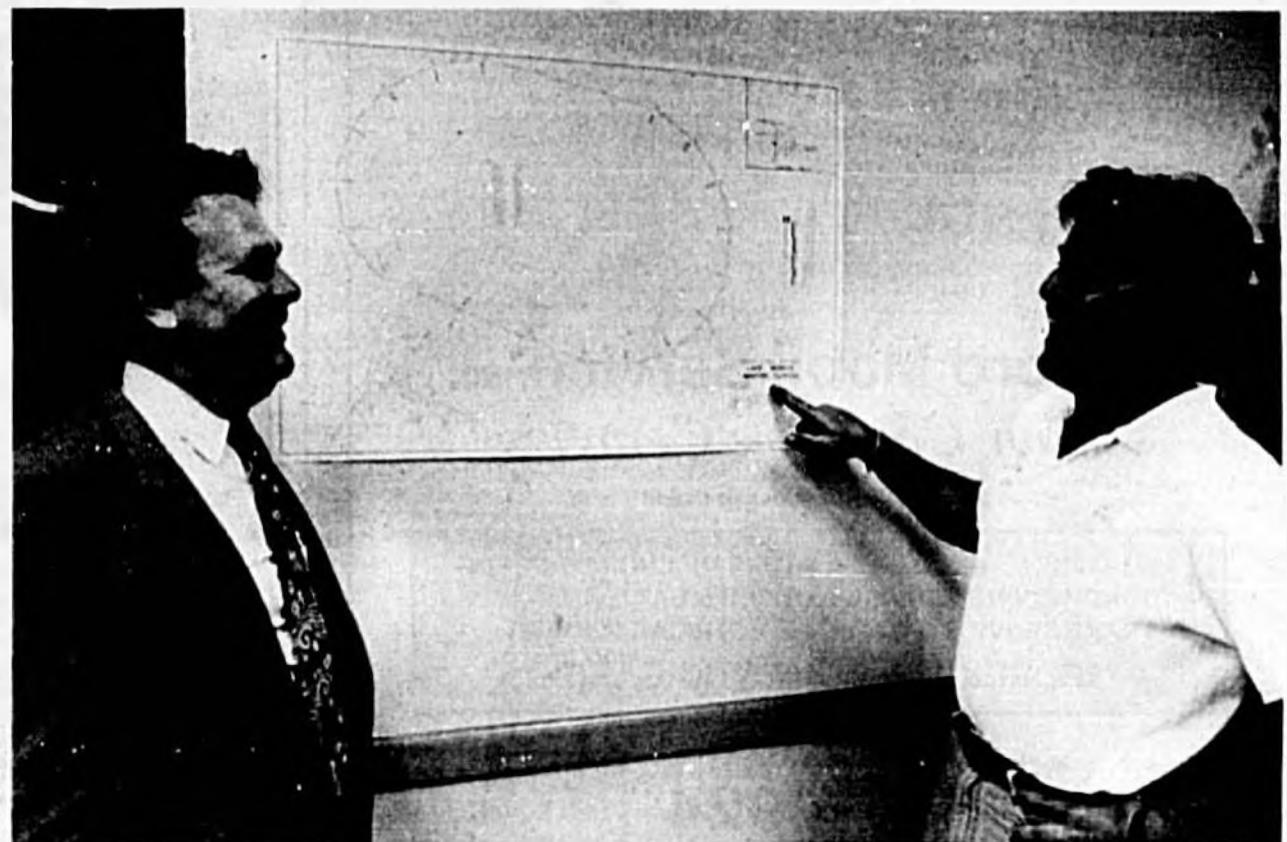

"We tried to reduce the air cushion beneath the boat," Adams said. "Hydroplanes tend to keep a lot of air underneath, so when they hit a bad wave they flip over."

Adams said that while there are other boats in the Grand Prix class, none of them have the design this one has.

Adams said the Grand Prix class boats are crowd pleasers simply because they are big and loud.

"We're hoping to reach around 150 to 170 m.p.h.," Adams said.

Chuck Woodruff, one of the racers, will also be driving Adams' boat for the demonstration runs.

Veteran racer takes competition to shore

By NICK PFEIPAUF
Herald staff writer

SANFORD — When the hydroplanes take to the waters of Lake Monroe this weekend, Art McDougall of Ormond Beach may or may not be on hand, but the former racing champion will be present in spirit.

McDougall spent 22 years in hydroplane racing, beginning in 1954 with the 48 cubic inch inboard class later to become known as the 850cc class. During his racing career, he captured the Presidential race held in Washington, D.C., three consecutive times. Shelves in his 1069 George Anderson Street home in Ormond Beach are loaded with other trophies, to the point where he cannot immediately recall all his victories.

He finished his career in 1976 following a victory in the St. Petersburg Southland Sweepstakes

R e g a t a in West Florida. He said he gave it up because of the "expense, extensive travel time, and my age," which at that time was 61. In 1978, McDougall got the racing urge once again, but this time he chose to remain on shore, and took up model hydroplane racing.

In 1987, after nine years of building and running radio controlled models in races across the eastern half of the nation, and capturing more trophies, he suffered a crippling stroke, which left his right side paralyzed. "But when boat racing gets into your blood," he said, "You can't give it up."

The former race champion had a new challenge. With the inability to move his right arm and most of the use of his right leg gone, he forced himself to learn to use his power and hand tools with only his left arm. His wife, Grace, was able to help from time to time, but McDougall managed to build his first boat, and other boats soon followed. "I had to learn how to handle glue again, by the time I put the glue on the wood and recapped the glue tube, using only one hand, the glue had already dried," he said. "So, I just started using slow-drying glue."

At age 75, Art McDougall is currently running one-eighth scale unlimited class hydroplanes, and his star is a hand-made 48-inch long actual scale model boat, capable of speeds up to 90 miles per hour. His latest first-place victory was in Jacksonville last September.

McDougall knows hydroplane racing, the feeling of victory and the sadness of defeat. But, he says, "I just can't give it up."

The aquatic equivalent of monster-truck shows

By BRADLEY DILLING
Herald staff writer

They're loud. They're cool. They're hot. They're hell on water.

They are souped up, streamlined, sharp-edged wings fastened to the surface of the water by propeller shafts — and then only for short periods of time.

They are the hydroplane race boats and if you've paid the hard-earned-cash admission fee, you are probably looking for an aquatic equivalent to the monster-truck mud bogs that you see on Saturday afternoon television.

You may also be wondering how it is that such a muscle-machine event landed in the quaint, quiet city of Sanford.

Who are these Sunset Sports Associates people, anyway?

Where did they come from and why did they decide to bring these boat races here?

Sunset Sports Associates is the company that was created to promote this race and anything else that will bring the tourist to Sanford's shoreline.

SSA started only a few months ago, after Patrick O'Neil had talked officials from the American Power Boating Association into looking at the lake. It is composed of eight people who have had nothing else on their agendas except promoting this event.

O'Neil had established his business, Sunset Sail, in the business park near the Holiday Inn. He began working with the Holiday Inn to develop interest in the lakefront and to promote activities like volleyball tournaments and jet ski races late last year.

While orchestrating these events, O'Neil had been in contact with the American Power Boating Association, the governing body of the sport. Hydroplane racing was an event that O'Neil had been interested in bringing to the lake for some time, but he hadn't had much luck getting people interested in it until a fateful day in January.

"It was Jan. 15. One of the racing officials stopped by to look at the lake," O'Neil said. And from there it didn't take long for them to see that they had a potentially world-class competitive body of water to work with.

"When they saw the site, they said 'we have to have our races here,'" O'Neil said. "Then we sat down and formed Sunset Sports Associates."

Original members include Wallace Schoettelkotte, owner of the hotel, and Jeff Blackstone, general manager of the Holiday Inn.

Shortly after the group began working with the idea, Earl Tennent and Michael Hyams were called in.

Tennent had run his own entertainment agency in Central Florida for about 15 years and worked with Hyams frequently. Since the two were accustomed to producing concerts, that's the approach that they took to the race.

And Tennent is hardly reluctant about boasting of SSA's achievement.

"When we had the racers here (at a press conference about three weeks ago), they said that they had never been in anything organized this well. We treated it pretty much like a concert. We had a lot of people wanted to see it."

Not long afterward, Tennent and Hyams had enlisted the business and public relations savvy of Rick Namey, Tracey Schramm and John Johnson, all area businessmen with a vested interest in seeing the race off to a successful conclusion and — they hope — bringing more events like it back to the area.

Namey and Schramm helped produce the television commercials that you may have seen and Johnson has been involved with promoting concerts in the Orlando area.

The area is ripe for this sort of event, Hyams has said. It's good family fun.

O'Neil may have summed up the feelings of the other members of the

Monroe was love at first sight

BRADLEY DILLING
Herald Staff Writer

So why did the American Power Boat Racing Association, the governing body of power boat racing, decide to hold their races in Lake Monroe?

Pat O'Neil, one of the principals of Sunset Sports Associates, had been trying to spark the interest of the APBA for months. Since last fall, O'Neil had been organizing such events as jet-ski races and volleyball tournaments in an effort to make the lake a sizeable dot on the tourist's map of places to visit. But it was not until January that race officials finally agreed to give the lake a look.

And it was love at first sight for Tom Sayward, inboard race chairman for the event.

The official was firmly convinced that Sanford would become one of the boat racing capitals of the world, and compared the body of water to Lake Maggory in St. Petersburg, formerly one of the brightest jewels in the crown of boat racing.

"We are going to set this water on fire," Sayward said. "We are looking for this to be the premier course to break records at. Every time they had a race at Lake Maggory, records were broken. We are expecting this to happen at Lake Monroe."

Like Lake Maggory, Lake Monroe is not particularly deep, which keeps the size of the waves down, which makes it a safer place for these high-speed muscle machines to race.

Every racer who put his machine in the water here, seemed convinced that the lake would be the new place to be seen racing.

Bob Ward, who at the age of 12 captured the first national championship boat racing title in 1947, echoed the sentiments of Sayward.

"If we don't break records here, I am going to be really disappointed,"

Downtown merchants improve community

BRADLEY DILLING
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — We're here and we want to make a difference. Dan Hall will tell you.

Hall is the president of the Sanford Historical Downtown Waterfront Association, more commonly known as the Downtown Merchant's Association.

But the latter name just doesn't say enough, Hall said. Because Sanford is a city that is developing a keener interest and insight into its past as the present rolls forward.

Once known as the "Celery City," founding father Henry Shelton Sanford came to the area in the early 1870s and proceeded to try to develop Sanford as a gateway to Central Florida by fostering Lake Monroe as a shipping port where trains and river boats met to transfer goods.

It is this part of the city's history that Hall and the merchants near the waterfront — along with several other city and civic organizations — are trying to develop.

This common interest with other sectors of the community ties the community together, Hall said.

"And No, we are not a competing interest with the Chamber (of Commerce)," Hall is quick to point out. We work together on projects, because everyone has an interest in seeing the business community thrive, Hall said.

"We're really active. We were involved in the bridge painting on 17-92 and we really had a hand in the Make Sanford Shine project," Hall said, referring to the trash blitz in which about 19 organizations stormed the city streets with trash sticks and plastic bags.

There are about 25 downtown businesses represented by the group and they intend to continue making their presence felt.

"We want to show the community that we are a valuable part of it. And we'll become more valuable as we grow and grow."

AIDS foundation to benefit from race

By MARK BARFIELD
Herald staff writer

SANFORD — To Jeff Blackstone, the choice was obvious that the Thomas Whigham AIDS Superchallenge Foundation should benefit from the Sanford Coors Lite Superchallenge '90 hydroplane boat races this weekend.

"It was something that we didn't think long and hard on," said Blackstone, a principal in local race organizers Sunset Sports Associates and general manager of Holiday Inn-Lakeaside. "It was an obvious choice, being who he was in the community and his influence on the schools and everything."

Blackstone said between $18,000 and $20,000 could be raised from ticket sales and other sales to the estimated crowd of 15,000 to 20,000 people expected to be attracted to the two-day event. The money will be used by the foundation to finance a AIDS research chair at the University of Miami Medical School.

Ten percent of the gross collections of ticket sales, 10 percent of the SSA's share of the concert on proceeds and a share of the proceeds from the May 11 downtown street party will all go to benefit the foundation, Blackstone said.

Blackstone said if the races become an annual event as they're planned, other local charities and causes will be considered for support from the race.

By the way, Blackstone said selection of the "Superchallenge" name was coincidental to the Whigham foundation's "Superchallenge name."

"We got it from an advertisement for the race that said "Can you accept the challenge?," Blackstone said. "We started playing around with the name and came up with 'Superchallenge.' It was a coincidence we selected the Whigham foundation which has 'Superchallenge' in their name."

For anyone who doesn't know who Thomas E. Whigham was, he was a Sanford hero — and still is for many.

Once president of the Seminole High student body and captain of its undefeated football team during his senior year in 1970, Whigham went on to garner seven scholarships and a West Point appointment. He later graduated from University of Florida and received his lawyer's degree from Nova University.

He joined the largest law firm, Stenstrom, McIntosh, Julian, Colbert, Whigham & Simmons. The community embraced him. He was named Optimist of the Year when he was 35 years old. He had a wife and two young children.

And then he got AIDS - acquired immune deficiency syndrome — perhaps the most feared disease of our time. The disease was transmitted to his body by a series of blood transfusions required when he underwent surgery in April 1983. Whigham first learned he had AIDS in July 1987.

The Whigham family, respected members of Sanford since they moved here in 1960, decided to keep the knowledge quiet, not wanting to attract negative responses. News about an Arcadia family's harassment because of that town's awareness of AIDS in the family was making headlines at the time.

But a year later, as the disease progressed and his body weight dropped, news of Whigham's disease slowly spread. But the family's fears were unfounded. If anything, Tom Whigham became more of a hero to the community, concerned about his plight and unprejudiced about the cause. Friends and well-wishers literally lined up to visit him and hug him during his last days.

The Seminole High football stadium was named for him Sept. 30, 1988.

Eighteen days later, he was dead of a disease that had slowly destroyed his brain.

"I love you" were his last words to the family members that surrounded his bed.

Parking facilities expanded

By SUSAN LODEN
Herald staff writer

SANFORD — The Coors Light Super Challenge '90 will challenge not only the boating participants, but also the spectators who are expected to crowd into the city by the thousands.

Sanford Police Chief Steven Harriett said months of planning for the event have brought plans for security, crowd and traffic control and parking.

The event promoters, Sunset Sports Associates, Inc., have arranged for two off-site parking served by shuttle buses, and have hired off-duty Sanford police to maintain a force of 24 extra officers on duty in the city during next weekend's festivities. Police will be posted at various locations to aid in traffic and crowd control, Harriett said.

Seminole County sheriff's range and water off-duty deputies have also agreed to patrol Lake Monroe during the event, Harriett said. He expects that about 5,000 more cars per day will enter the city Saturday and Sunday.

City Commissioners have suspended the city's open alcohol container ordinance for the Sanford Lake Monroe Marina Isle area, which is the official center of events, Harriett said. However, open containers of alcoholic beverages, as usual, will not be tolerated in other public areas of the city.

Harriett said the two city parking lots downtown will be open, along with the lots at the Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce, City Hall and the Civic Center. Other city parking spaces also will be available along the streets. Some downtown business closed for the weekend will also open additional parking space.

Col. Jim Olsen, of Sunset Sports, who is coordinating parking efforts, said traffic from Interstate 4 will be directed to the old Sanford Auto Auction lot on east First Street just east of the Chase Overpass, and to Zayre's Plaza lot on south U.S. Highway 17-92 at Airport Boulevard. There will be a $1 fee to park at those two lots. The fee, Olsen said, is to cover the costs of operating shuttle bus rides from the two lots to the marina site.

"I'm sure with these two outside lots there will be plenty of parking space," Olsen said. "We don't expect any more problems with traffic than normal."

Harriett said, "I anticipate some impact on traffic circulation. I believe we will be able to handle it and keep interruptions minimal. We believe we have a good handle on it with a lot of planning and cooperation with the promoters, the fire department, the sheriff's office and us. I think it's going to come off okay."

Scheduled street and boat ramp closings

SANFORD — Whether you are a visitor to Sanford or a long-time resident of the city, traffic patterns, streets and other access to downtown and to the shore are going to be drastically different.

Here's a rundown of where you will be able to go, where you won't and when.

The Marina Isle boat ramp will be closed from 3 p.m. Friday, May 11, until one hour after completion of the last race. The last race is scheduled to be finished at 5 p.m. Sunday. The Osteen Bridge Fish Camp and both boat ramps at 17-92 and 1-4 will be open.

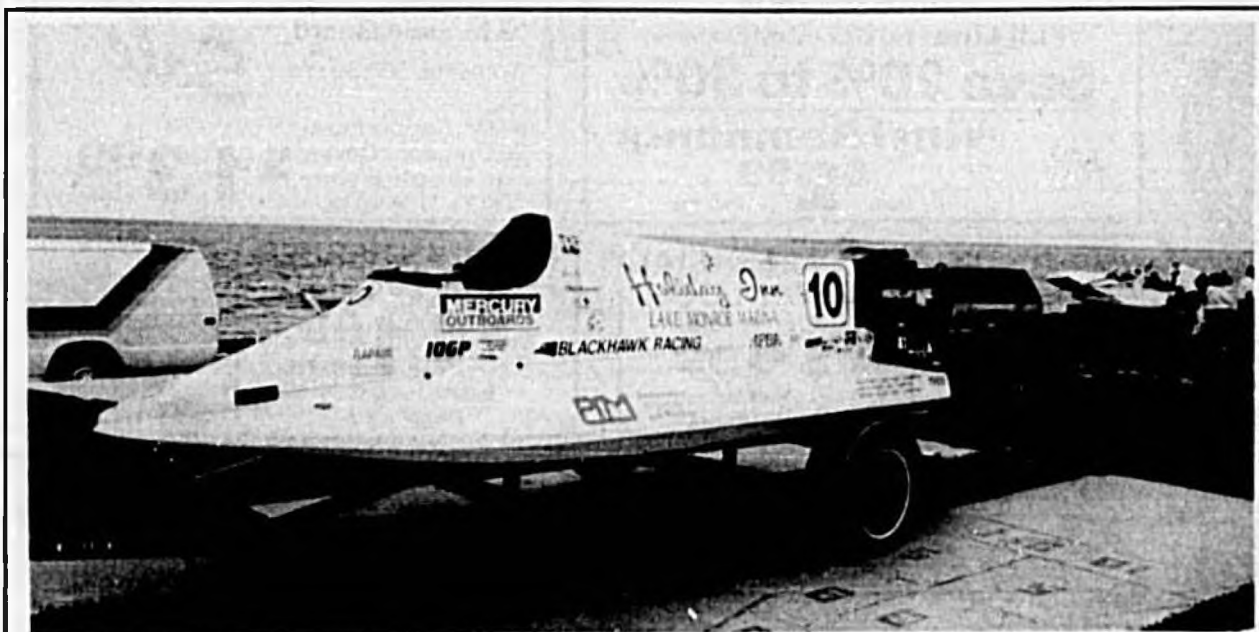

The inshore areas to be closed include: Seminole Boulevard from Myrtle Avenue to Palmetto Avenue including City Island Park and the Marina/Holiday Inn complex from Friday at 3 p.m. to Sunday at 6 p.m. restricted travel on and off the peninsula.

Seminole Boulevard between Myrtle Avenue and Palmetto Avenue will be closed as will the Marina Isle at the entrance of the Marina from 3 p.m. Friday, May 11, until 6 p.m. Sunday, May 13.

With the city closing traffic to the downtown area, you'll have to hoof it through one of the nicest parts of the city.

A renewed interest in the city's past has sparked civic groups to become very active in digging up Sanford's history and showcasing it for all to see. You will find brass plated plaques outside more than 20 buildings in the heart of what used to be called "the Celery City."

There will also be plenty of eating and shopping areas for you to enjoy. See the chamber of commerce for brochures on the walking tour.

SST-140 will contend for title

The Holiday Inn sponsored SST-140 will be one of the boats racing in the event this weekend. The driver of the boat, Jack Withrow, is a National Marathon Champion and National High Points Champion for 1989.

Plumbers Friend E 280, owned by David and Barbara Lake Monroe Holiday Inn to give fans and spectators Kalm of Merritt Island, was recently on display at the the chance to get an up close look at the racer.

Mechanic helps boats and astronauts fly

SANFORD — When David and Barbara Kalm bring their 5-liter hydroplane, Plumber's Helper, to the boat races on Lake Monroe this weekend, they'll be assisted by a mechanic with some rather high-frown references.

The Kalm's mechanic and crew chief, Dick Burns, works at Cape Canaveral organizing personal gear and equipment for Space Shuttle astronauts.

"It really doesn't have a whole lot to do with boat engines," said Barbara Kalm. "But it's a real perfectionist type job, so it kind of spills over there. He's a top-notch mechanic."

The Kalm's had additional reason to be satisfied with Burn's maintenance skills. They had just come from a weekend of racing in Cheraw, S.C., where their boat took second overall in the Palmetto Regatta races.

The Kalm's got to know Burns a couple of years ago through a mutual friend who had also worked with Burns at Cape Canaveral.

"He seemed to know a lot about carburetors, and the friendship just kind of grew from there," Kalm said.

The Kalm's former mechanic became the crew chief for Gary Brown's hydroplane.

"He's the local competition, and he's going to be (at Lake Monroe) too," Kalm said. "You're going to see some exciting racing."

But for Michael Hyams, another member of Sunset Sports Associates, the primary goal is nothing short of making Sanford famous and to keep people coming back. Hyam is certain that people will like what they see enough to want to make Sanford their home.

"The idea is to put Sanford on the map,"

Hyams said. "People will come here and one of them will say 'Hey, what this place really needs is a deli or a muffler shop' and they'll come back and they'll stay," he said.

"We have something really beautiful here. I'm sitting here looking out at the lake and there's this palm tree kind of slanted to one side with the water in the background and the sun going down at the end of the lake and it's just gorgeous. And I'm thinking to myself 'My God. We could be in some place like Chicago.'"

Not Just Lights and Sirens

American Medical Transport is a private company, contracted by the county to provide emergency and non-emergency transportation from the site of an accident to the nearest hospital. AMT receives no tax dollars for this service.

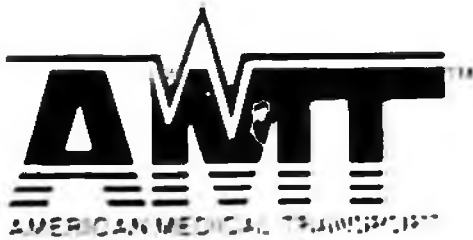

But the scope of the involvement in the community by AMT goes far beyond transportation services.

The EMT's, paramedics and support staff at AMT volunteer countless hours to civic and charitable events, distribute information to local elementary schools about Safe Kids, they present information seminars to groups regarding emergency medical services, and fully endorse the blood restraint program at local hospitals.

So, AMT can be your best friend. Call us today for more information.

Volunteer EMT's and paramedics from AMT will be standing-by in case of medical necessity. First Aid tents and ambulances will be posted at strategic areas to help make SUPER CHALLENGE '90 safe, as well as fun.
