Sanford Commissioners Ok Library, Lakefront Project

By Karen Talley
Herald Staff Writer

In unanimous votes, Sanford city commissioners have struck down two board rulings to enable Seminole County's construction of a new downtown library and John Smith's commercial development of city owned land along Lake Monroe.

A "relieved" Smith said he expects to complete his 14,000 square foot, $1 million retail complex by summer's end. An "excited" Jean Rhein, county library services director, said the 12,000 square foot, $780,000 Sanford project will now be presented to the city's Planning and Zoning board for review and if site plan approval is obtained, construction will begin during the summer and be completed approximately eight months later.

Because the library is to be located in the city's historic district, the project had to receive a Sanford Historic Preservation Board certificate of appropriateness prior to its P&Z review. The historic board, however, cited the library's design as being "too contemporary" when it declined issuing the certificate in a 6-4 vote on Feb. 13.

The P&Z denied Smith's project by a 5-3 vote on Feb. 20, primarily on the basis it would measurably add to existing traffic problems at the Lake Monroe marina. Smith is the son of Sanford Mayor Bettye Smith, who did not comment or vote on the marina proposal Monday night.

The library project received a certificate of appropriateness from city commissioners after they determined its benefits to the community outweighed the historic board's ruling that the downtown district's historic ambience would be compromised by the new structure. It will be built on Palmetto Avenue, behind the existing Sanford library, which, according to Ms. Rhein, is too small to serve the city's needs.

In sanctioning the permit, commissioners also said it was "unfortunate" the library was the first proposal the fledgling board had to rule on.

Commissioner David Farr, when moving for permit approval, pointed to a "drastic need" for a library in downtown Sanford, the three to four year delay the city would face for a new facility if not allowing the project to proceed and the fact that the developer planned to work with brick and metal "historic building materials."

"I believe the children of Sanford need a library more than historic preservation," said Farr, whose comment received a round of applause from the audience.

The Smith project was approved after almost two hours of discussion. Among those present for the appeal were P&Z chairman John Morris, vice-chairman Brent Carl and several local supporters and opponents of the plan.

New School Zone Plan Scrutinized

By Paul Schaefer
Herald Staff Writer

The ninth middle school rezoning plan for the Seminole County district was unveiled at a special work session Monday night. Superintendent of Schools Robert Hughes displayed the latest zone map, Plan I, said to be a combination of previous Plans C and G, which were recommended to him by the middle school zone task force in January. Final approval of a plan is expected at a one-item agenda meeting scheduled for March 12.

Under Plan I, the majority of students in the Lake Mary area would go to the new Greenwood Lakes Middle School in Lake Mary. Previous debate over the boundaries for the new school — which is the reason new boundaries are needed — centered on the possible busing of students in the area near the school to other schools.

The standing-room-only audience of parents, many of whom were from Lake Mary, broke into thunderous applause when Hughes opened the meeting by saying, "Obviously, our best shot now is Plan I." After the room was calmed, board chairman Nancy Warren reminded the parents that Hughes' comments were only speaking to what he would recommend, and that the board would have to give final approval to any plan to be adopted.

There remained a few Lake Mary residents who were still not satisfied.

Dennis Smathers of Lake Mary said a small group of students in the Rinehart Road area north of Lake Mary Boulevard would still be required to attend Lakeview Middle School instead of Greenwood Lakes. Some residents of the Heathrow Development added that 10 students there would also have to be bused away from Greenwood Lakes, which is much nearer to them. All asked the Superintendent to include those students into the Greenwood zone.

Concern was expressed by parents of students coming out of Winter Springs Elementary School. They said that those students would be divided among at least four middle schools, including Lakeview, Greenwood Lakes, South Seminole, and Jackson Heights.

Residents of San Sebastian were quick to say they disliked Plan C, because they wanted their children to continue to attend Teague Middle School, instead of being bused away from their community to other schools.

Under Plan I, two schools would be filled to over capacity, and would have to be supplemented with portable classrooms, at least for the time being. Jackson Heights would have a projected enrollment of 924 students, above the recommended maximum capacity of 890. And Tuskawilla Middle School would be swollen to 1,210 students, surpassing the recommended maximum capacity of 1,098.

Yet, the apparent feeling of those involved and interested in the latest plan is that Plan I is the best proposal yet.

The plan was so popular Monday night that Ms. Warren had to ask the crowd assembled to refrain from applause after each speaker who supported it spoke so the meeting could move along.

One school board source said after the meeting that it was apparent parents were beginning to realize that

Boat Capsizes At Lake Harney; One Man Hospitalized, One Feared Dead

Rescue workers were searching Lake Harney early today for a 62-year-old Titusville man who after clinging to a capsized canoe for eight hours slipped into the water.

The man's brother, Hugh Edward Garland, 53, of Swartz Creek, Mich., was pulled from the water at about 4:20 a.m. today by Seminole County rescue workers.

He was being treated for hypothermia at Central Florida Regional Hospital in Sanford after having been in the water more than 12 hours.

The canoe the two men were in capsized at about 4 p.m. Monday in choppy water with two-to-three-foot waves, sheriff's deputies said.

The search, by Seminole and Volusia county sheriff's deputies and firefighters, continued this morning for Claude Lee Garland of Titusville, but Seminole County Sheriff's Capt. Roy

Migrant Worker Stabbed Over Song Selection

By Susan Loden
Herald Staff Writer

A man who "stole" a jukebox song on Friday from another migrant worker at a work camp west of Sanford, died Monday of a stab wound allegedly inflicted by the man who paid to play another song. The victim did not seek medical treatment for the wound to his stomach area and was found dead in his room at about 6 p.m. Monday.

Seminole County Sheriff's Capt. Roy Hughey said today that Bobby Davis, believed to be in his 30s, treated his own wound with peroxide, but did not seek medical attention over the weekend as he lay dying at the Chase Labor Camp on Sipes Avenue in Midway.

Davis' body was found by a coworker, and Seminole County firefighters who were first to arrive on the scene told sheriff's deputies who arrived after Davis had been moved to Central Florida Regional Hospital in Sanford, that he appeared to be dead at the scene.

James Littlejohn Rhodes, 35, of the same labor camp has been charged with murder in connection with the killing and was being held without bond today in the Seminole County jail.

Sheriff's Lt. George Hagood said the stabbing was reportedly the result of a dispute over a jukebox song. Reports indicate Rhodes put a quarter in a jukebox at the camp at about 8:30 p.m. Friday and Davis pushed ahead and punched the machine to play the song of his choice, not the one Rhodes had selected.

There was a confrontation and Rhodes has told sheriff's investigators that Davis choked him.

Davis was stabbed during the dispute and later spent time in his room treating himself. He also reportedly told other persons at the camp what had happened to him.

When sheriff's investigator Greg Futch arrived at Davis' home, witnesses reportedly gave him the name of a suspect and told him he might be at a "Ms. Martin's" bar on Sipes Avenue, a sheriff's report said.

At the bar, Futch was told by Rudolph Robinson that the suspect had left the bar when Futch arrived. Robinson reportedly gave Futch an account of the dispute between the suspect and the victim.

Sheriff's Sgt. John Thorpe arrived at the bar and reported finding Rhodes hiding behind the building. He was taken into custody at about 8 p.m. Monday.

An autopsy was scheduled on Davis today.

Porn Not Sex Bias, Supreme Court Rules

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Supreme Court, handing feminists and religious conservatives a major defeat, ruled Monday it is unconstitutional to define pornography as sex discrimination.

The court affirmed a ruling by the 7th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals that found an ordinance passed by the city of Indianapolis was unconstitutional. The ordinance had attempted to fight pornography by defining it as sex discrimination and allowing those aggrieved to bring charges.

Supreme Court To Decide Fate of Gramm-Rudman, 2A

The court's action affirming the ruling came in a brief order that noted Chief Justice Warren Burger and Justices William Rehnquist and Sandra Day O'Connor wanted to hear the case.

The case involves a novel approach to controlling pornography. Some feminists who oppose pornography because they believe it leads to violence against women and conservatives who oppose such material on moral grounds have joined together in a number of cities to propose ordinances defining pornography as obscenity but as sex discrimination.

The object is to allow women, who supporters of such laws argue are victims of pornography, to bring civil suits against those who produce, sell or exhibit pornography, which is defined as material that presents women as sexual objects to be injured, degraded or dominated.

Those opposed to the laws, including feminists, point out that, besides the constitutional question, much radical feminist literature is explicit and could come under such ordinances. Others point out accepted works of literature from James Joyce's "Ulysses" to Homer's "Iliad" depict women as submissive objects for conquest and domination and could come under the laws.

Such an ordinance was approved by the city council and mayor of Indianapolis in 1984. The law was

Three Charged With Battery To Sheriff's Deputies

Three persons have been charged in weekend batteries on Seminole County sheriff's deputies. Two of the suspects allegedly battered two deputies during a fight at a Fern Park bar and the third was arrested at his Sanford home.

In the first incident deputy David Hadley reported he was hit in the chest and pushed by a man who said "Don't push me, cop." when Hadley was trying to break up a fight at Fern Park Station, Fern Park Boulevard, at about 2 a.m. Sunday.

At about the same time another man who was on an exit ramp of the bar reportedly poked deputy Debra Jacobs in the chest.

Arrested in the first incident was Charles Daniel Pietrzak, 23, of 1423 Ash Circle A, Casselberry. He has been released on $1,000 bond and is scheduled to appear in court March 3.

Kenneth Thomas Pierce Jr., 23, of 340 E. Citrus St., Altamonte Springs, was arrested in the second incident and was being held in lieu of $1,000 bond.

In the final case, at about 8 p.m. Friday, Richard Stephen Sandkulla, 23, of 3807 Cypress Ave., Sanford, was arrested at his home after he allegedly grabbed and cursed sheriff's deputy W.L. McNett, who reported he was trying to assist a woman Sandkulla had been fighting with, and who was trying to leave the house.

Sandkulla has been released on $1,000 bond to appear in court March 10.

RIDER RAPED

A 22-year-old Orlando woman reported to Seminole County sheriff's deputies two men who picked her up in Orlando slapped her, threatened to break her neck and then drove to Forest City where they raped her.

The rape reportedly occurred at about 4 a.m. Saturday in a wooded area on Arletta Street in Forest City, a sheriff's report said.

When the men released the woman they threw her keys on the ground and fled with her leather jacket. The woman walked to a Shop-N-Go on Forest City Road and called police, the report said.

KNIFE IN POCKET

A man in a group outside "The Crab Man," on Sipes Avenue, east of Sanford, was searched by Seminole County sheriff's deputies who reported finding a butcher knife with a 7-inch blade in the man's pocket.

The man was searched, deputies reported, because he appeared to be trying to conceal something in his coat.

Henry Alexander Gordon, 38, of Route 2, Box 253 Sipes Ave., was charged with carrying a concealed weapon at 10:15 p.m. Saturday. He was being held in lieu of $500 bond.

KNIFE THREAT

A 29-year-old Sanford man who allegedly threatened another man with a knife during a dispute at the Bicentennial Park on Park Avenue at Fifth Street in Sanford, has been charged with aggravated assault.

Sanford police reported arresting Scott Allen Seaton of 500 N. Oak Ave., at the park at 11:15 p.m. Saturday. He was being held in lieu of $1,000 bond.

TWO WITH POT

Two men who Seminole County sheriff's deputies allege were smoking a marijuana cigarette in the parking lot of the ABC Lounge, U.S. Highway 17-92, Casselberry have been charged with possession of less than 20 grams of pot.

Michael Allen Eck, 23, of 2228 Acorn Drive, Longwood, and Kenneth Alan Wallgursky, 19, of 1610 1/2 W. Ninth St., Sanford, were arrested at 1:40 a.m. Sunday and were being held in lieu of $500 bond each.

CIGARETTE JAIL FIRE

A Seminole County jail inmate for the second time within a week on Saturday allegedly caused a fire in the jail when he flipped a cigarette over his head from an upper bunk to a lower bunk in his cell.

Seminole County sheriff's investigator Barry Brady said the first fire, which was very minor, was not reported to jail officials until the inmate was being questioned about the second fire, which occurred at about 10:15 a.m. Saturday.

In the second incident the mattress from the lower bunk, a bag and some clothing caught fire, Brady said, and about 10 to 15 inmates were evacuated from that section of the jail while the fire was brought under control.

Damage was estimated at about $30, Brady said, and he added that recent, minor fires within the jail may bring a limited-smoking policy for the inmates.

Brady said he hasn't decided yet the 17-year-old Sanford youth, who had been scheduled for trial as an adult Monday on burglary, battery and grand theft charges, will be charged in connection with the fires in his cell. The youth has been jailed since September, Brady said.

THEFT ARREST

A man witnesses reported seeing in the area and who reportedly had goods stolen from a van parked at the Barn on U.S. Highway 17-92 in Sanford on Saturday night has been charged with grand theft—possession of stolen property and burglary.

Sanford police reported a van at the barn had been forced open, and the suspect reportedly identified by witnesses.

Jeremy Todd Greenlee, 20, of 2309 Lisa Court, Sanford, was jailed at 12:48 a.m. Sunday and has been released on $1,000 bond to appear in court March 10.

A LITTLE POT

A 42-year-old Sanford man, charged by police with possession of less than 20 grams of marijuana, reportedly found in his car during a search has been released on $500 bond and is scheduled to appear in court March 5.

Police reported spotting a small quantity of pot in the suspect's car which was stopped on 13th Street at about 8:15 a.m. Saturday.

Dock Gunn of 1603 Roosevelt Ave., was arrested in the case.

BOAT THEFT

Three suspects, two 17-year-olds and a 20-year-old, all of Longwood, have been charged with grand theft in connection of the alleged theft of a boat from Quality Marine Supply, State Road 436, Fern Park.

A Seminole County drug task force agent reported seeing the suspect drive away from that business with a boat attached to their pickup truck at about 5 a.m. Sunday. He followed them on to U.S. Highway 17-92, northbound, where the boat was detached from the vehicle, which drove onto Charlotte Drive, where the suspects were arrested by a Seminole County sheriff's deputy who had been called in on the pursuit.

Arrested along with the two juveniles was Ronald Eugene Smith, 20, of 93 Sweetbriar Branch, who was being held in lieu of $1,000 bond.

Woman Sentenced In Case Involving Taking And Concealing Her Children

A Jacksonville woman who pleaded guilty to concealing a child contrary to court order has been placed on three years probation. Her's was one of five cases heard recently.

Deborah Musee Graham was also fined $350 by Circuit Judge Kenneth M. Laffer. She could have received up to five years in jail.

According to court records, Ms. Graham tried to visit her two daughters, 8 and 4, in a foster home in June. The girls, up for adoption, had been placed in the home by court order pending the completion of the adoption process. The foster mother's daughter would not let Ms. Graham in the house but told her she could talk to the girls through a screen door. When the girls got to the door, they ran outside.

Ms. Graham scooped up her daughters, placed them in the backseat of a car, got in the passenger's side and an unidentified driver sped away.

Authorities located Ms. Graham and her daughters a few weeks later in Alabama where she was reportedly staying with her boyfriend. After her arrest she was transported to Florida. She was free on bond pending the sentencing.

In other court action: —Benjie James Peterson, 21, of Box 46, Stephen St., Oviedo, arrested Nov. 10, has pleaded guilty to grand theft. He entered the plea before Circuit Judge Robert B. McGregor who set March 27 for sentencing. Peterson could receive up to a year in the county jail. According to court records, Robert Rosser, 20, of 356 Central Ave., Oviedo, told police he had just shown a chain to a group of men when Peterson snatched the chain and ran. The 18-karat gold-overlay chain was valued at $640. The suspect ran into Browdy's Grocery and Pool Hall, 427 Geneva Drive, and Rosser went to the Oviedo Police station to report his loss. Police went to the area near Browdy's and watched a car believed to be the suspect's, a police report said. When an attempt was made to drive that car, its occupants were stopped. Peterson was questioned at the Oviedo police station and then arrested.

—Victor Vitiello, 20, of 412 East St., Altamonte Springs, arrested in October on a charge of burglary to a car, was sentenced to 90 days after pleading no contest to the lesser charge of trespass to an occupied vehicle. He was also ordered by Laffer to pay a $250 fine, complete 100 hours of community service and serve a year of probation. Vitiello could have received up to a year in the county jail. According to court records, Vitiello said he was looking for a marijuana cigarette when caught in a car. A second suspect, outside the car of Patricia Hale at Windsong Apartments, fled when her fiancé, Kevin Helton, confronted them, records show. Vitiello told police that a friend who had a similar car had promised to put a marijuana cigarette for him inside the car and he was looking for it. The incident occurred Oct. 9.

—Vanessa Lane, 28, of 9930 Mathews Road, Altamonte Springs, arrested in August on charges of possession of more than 20 grams of marijuana, possession with intent to distribute and sell, has been sentenced to 60 days in the county jail. She was also ordered by Laffer to serve five years probation, pay the Public Defender's office $200, pay court costs and complete 200 hours of community service. According to court records, drug task force agents with a search warrant found the drug in the woman's home. They reportedly had purchased marijuana there on July 25 and 29.

—Dawn Marie Bonanza, 18, of 267 W. Park Ave., Longwood, arrested in October on a charge of grand theft after stealing $125 from a billfold. She was sentenced by Laffer to six months probation, four days in jail, ordered to pay restitution and get a high school diploma or GED. The theft occurred at 1846 Longwood-Lake Mary Road. Ms. Bonanza was arrested at her home. She could have received up to a year in the county jail.

Diet Pill Sweeping U.S.

New Super "Dream Pill" Lose Weight As You Sleep!

No Dieting — Eat All You Want

NEWPORT BEACH, Calif. — An amazing new super "dream pill" has recently been developed and perfected that reportedly "guarantees" that you will easily lose up to 10 pounds in 10 days. Best of all, it allows you to "eat as much as you want of your favorite foods and still lose a pound a day or more starting from the very first day until you achieve your ideal weight and figure."

This remarkable new diet pill combines two natural substances which cause adults to lose weight fast by "tricking" the body into acting like a teenager. These nutritional substances, called L-arginine and L-ornithine, stimulate the body's production of growth hormone. Dr. Robert Harris, a specialist in nutritional medicine in Stafford Springs, Connecticut, was recently quoted as explaining: "Growth Hormone may be what's responsible for allowing teenagers to down thousands of calories in hamburgers and other foods and still be thin as a rail."

"Growth Hormone is present in people up through the teenage years, then slowly diminishes with age. But L-arginine and L-ornithine make the body 'think' it belongs to a teenager again, allowing adults to eat as much as they want — and still be thin and wiry."

"Pill Does All The Work"

According to the manufacturer, "the pill itself does all the work while you quickly lose weight with NO starvation 'diet menus' to follow, NO calorie counting, NO exercise and NO hunger pangs." The pill is not a drug! It is 100% safe consisting of natural amino acids just like those found in the foods you eat everyday.

Life Extension Authors Confirm Results

Durk Pearson and Sandy Shaw, graduates of MIT and UCLA respectively, introduced these miracle substances to the public in their runaway best selling book, Life Extension. They discovered the weight-loss effects by accident.

On Bulgaria's 'Purity' Campaign

Persistent reports from persons claiming to be eyewitnesses accuse the Bulgarian government of persecuting its ethnic Turkish minority — some 800,000 people in a nation of 9 million — in an effort to assimilate minority groups. Ethnic Turks, it is said, are being forced to "Bulgarize" their names and even to abandon their Islamic faith. Those who refuse are beaten and, in a number of cases, killed, according to these reports.

It's next to impossible to verify these claims, so tight is the control of the Bulgarian authorities over troubled regions where the Turkish population is large. And yet Bulgaria's official response to the accusations is so lame as to lend credence to the reports. To assert, as the government has done, that massive name-changing by ethnic Turks has been "voluntary and spontaneous" — this in a region of the world where ethnic groups have fought countless wars over the centuries to resist subjugation by others — is absurd on its face.

Another tack taken by the government is to quote "anthropological tests" that purport to prove that the Bulgarian nation is "pure" and has remained unchanged since the Middle Ages. That is historical nonsense and uncomfortable close to the arguments used by an earlier totalitarian regime — Nazi Germany — to justify its racial policies.

Turkey has lodged repeated complaints and has demanded an explanation, so far to no avail. Even the Soviet Union, which has its own internal problems with large ethnic groups, has noticeably failed to side with Bulgaria on the Turkish question and has displayed a public coolness toward a regime that has slavishly followed Moscow's line on virtually every international issue.

Doubtless none of that offers much comfort to Bulgaria's ethnic Turks. But that's all the more reason why other governments and human rights organizations should take the trouble to put a little pressure on the Bulgarians. That might not have much effect either, but to ignore the problem is tantamount to conceding that communist countries are impervious to such pressure. That hasn't been universally the case in the Soviet bloc, and it shouldn't be in Bulgaria.

3-Ring Circus

If Interior Secretary Donald Hodel was trying to take the spotlight away from Lee Iacocca, he made a political blunder.

What Hodel did could be compared to putting up a circus tent and offering the Chrysler board chairman the center ring.

As everyone must know by now, Iacocca was chairman of two Statue of Liberty commissions, and Hodel "terminated" the Chrysler executive from one of them. The interior secretary said he feared a conflict of interest.

Others say Hodel was acting at the behest of White House chief of staff Donald Regan, and the termination was a political move. Iacocca has been mentioned as a potential Democratic presidential candidate. And if Iacocca is a presidential hopeful, Republicans certainly don't want him to be a main attraction when Statue of Liberty centennial ceremonies take place July 4.

Iacocca remains in charge of the private foundation which has raised $233 million to restore the Statue of Liberty and nearby Ellis Island. He was fired as chairman of the commission that advises how the money should be spent.

The good part of the whole flap is that national attention now will be focused on plans to restore Ellis Island, which served as an immigration station in New York Harbor for 60 years.

Iacocca opposes construction of a luxury hotel on the island. He suggests, instead, an ethnic theme park.

Iacocca's idea sounds better to us. He isn't going to quit pushing it — and he is certain to be heard after the Hodel circus act.

Football Viewers Have Camel-Like Water Habits

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The way I figure it, using one of the rating formulas, television sets in more than 41 million homes were tuned to this year's Super Bowl game.

According to another rating service reporting last week, the audience totaled 127 million viewers, give or take a couple of kids who were channel-hopping at the time. That figure amounts to about half the nation's population, making it the largest TV audience in history, despite the lopsided score.

If these statistics don't impress you, you might prefer some approximations made by Jay Lehr of Worthington, Ohio, executive director of the National Water Well Association.

He estimates the water level in many of the nation's 13.5 million wells dropped as much as 11 inches, the length of a football, during the halftime break in the game.

Talk about complicated! The water well method of judging the relative popularity of TV shows is even more complex than the techniques used by conventional rating systems.

Lehr conceded it was only an educated guess to say that up to 50 million gallons of water were consumed by stay-at-home football fans in just two minutes during halftime.

He also guessed that more well water was used for drinking and flushing during halftime than during the "minute of silence" observed by a pre-game show. Here again he had no figures to support his conjecture, which was based on the assumption that more people watched the game itself than tuned in during the pre-game festivities.

Only the U.S. Geological Survey maintains a continuous monitor on many municipal water supplies, he told me. But orthodox rating systems tended to bear out his supposition.

After talking with Lehr, I called the Geological Survey, a part of the Interior Department, and learned that there are constant fluctuations in the 6,500 surface and underground water sources it monitors.

A spokesman said one day's measurements would be meaningless unless all of the taps were turned on simultaneously. The latter happenstance would be improbable even during the halftime of such an important game as Super Bowl XX between the Chicago Bears and New England Patriots.

Once a month, the spokesman explained, district engineers submit reports, but nothing unusual was noted on Super Bowl Sunday.

Lehr agreed it is unlikely the engineers would have noticed anything. He said it would take an awful lot of money to check municipal water tables at a specific time on a specific day.

However, his estimates were close to rating system calculations that about half of the population saw at least part of the game, making it the most-watched sporting event of all time.

You can, of course, draw your own conclusions from these estimates. One of my deductions is that professional football viewers have camel-like bodily mechanisms that enable them to wait until halftime before going to the bathroom for a drink of water.

DON GRAFF

Waiting For The Crunch

Christopher Dickey is no friend of Nicaragua's Sandinistas.

From the very start, they were had news. They were hostile to the United States and their goal was a controlled society.

But he is even less taken with this country's response to the Sandinistas. As he sees it, it has only helped them tighten the screws on Nicaragua internally. It has converted a left-leaning country into a full-fledged Soviet client state.

Dickey, the Washington Post's former man in Central America, is the author of "With the Contras," an account of the origins and operations of the Nicaraguan rebel force that is the Reagan administration's primary weapon in its campaign to dislodge the Sandinistas.

That weapon has had a boomerang effect, working counter to the primary U.S. interest in Central America. And that, says Dickey, is stability and peace in the region — not having to divert resources to it but, in effect, being able to forget about it.

What has actually happened, says Dickey, "is that the war we helped to create in Central America has now become the most destabilizing element in the region, far more than Nicaragua itself or whatever subversion it is involved with."

Even worse, it is a no-win war in that it is much easier and cheaper for the Soviets to continue shoring up the Sandinistas than it is for us to keep the contras going. That road leads to a stalemate, with only one logical way out.

"The only way we're going to get rid of the Sandinistas is by direct military action," says Dickey.

It did not have to come to this. Dickey sees several points along the way when the Sandinista threat might have been averted or contained. The Carter administration could have forced an earlier abdication of the last Somoza and installed a democratic regime. But it hesitated too long.

Even after the Sandinistas were in power, they might have been tamed by "constructive engagement," a policy that has been a no-show in South Africa but might have worked in a small country with few resources smack in the middle of our own sphere of economic influence.

Dickey thinks that over time and with patience, "we could have penetrated Nicaragua economically to such an extent that we would have been able slowly to pull it in our direction."

Part Of Mengele Puzzle Won't Fit

By Jack Anderson
And Joseph Spear
WASHINGTON — Serious differences of professional opinion have split the team of forensic experts who traveled to Brazil last June to determine whether skeletal remains exhumed there were, in fact, those of Dr. Josef Mengele, the Nazi war criminal.

In its preliminary verdict last summer, the team expressed confidence that the remains — a skull, bones and seven teeth — were Mengele's. But in the eight months since, some members of the team have admitted privately to doubts that the remains were Mengele's.

If the discovery of the bones was simply a hoax planned by the old Nazi and his accomplices, it has already achieved at least partial success. The concerted worldwide search for Mengele was called off when the experts proclaimed their "scientific certainty" that Mengele was dead. If he's alive, the trail is now eight months colder.

ROBERT WAGMAN

Louisiana May Be A Test Area

NEW ORLEANS (NEA) — Election Day is Nov. 4 — but in Louisiana, the key date is Sept. 27. What happens on that day could determine which party will control the U.S. Senate after this year's elections.

The Democrats can regain control of the Senate, which they lost in 1980. If they score a net gain of four seats. To accomplish this, they can't afford to lose any seats that they now control.

Most Democratic seats seem safe, but the GOP believes that incumbent Democratic Sen. Patrick Leahy is vulnerable in Vermont; that they're ahead in Missouri in the race to replace the retiring Tom Eagleton; and that they have a chance to win the Louisiana seat that Russell Long will vacate. If the GOP captures any of these Democratic seats, its chances of retaining Senate control would be greatly enhanced.

Louisiana has an open primary — one in which any candidate can run, regardless of party. Whoever gets more than 50 percent of the vote wins the office. If no one receives an absolute majority on Sept. 27, the two highest vote getters will be thrown into an Election Day runoff contest. This year, the Republicans hope to force a runoff and capture Long's seat.

Democrats have dominated Louisiana's political scene so much that there hasn't been a real Senate contest since Russell Long first ran in 1948. In 1984 — in the face of the Reagan landslide — Louisiana's junior Democratic senator, J. Bennett Johnson, won 86 percent of the primary vote, despite a well-financed Republican opponent.

But this year the Republicans feel they have a chance simply because their candidate is about equal to the Democrats'.

Gov. Edwin Edwards was considered the most likely Democratic candidate but his federal bribery indictment put him out of the race. Rep. Lindy Boggs and Louisiana Secretary of State Jim Brown refused to run, so the Democrats opted for a "fourth choice" — whom everyone recognizes as such. He is Rep. John Breaux.

The GOP candidate is the state's only Republican congressman, Rep. Henson Moore. The popular Moore represents the state's most prosperous congressional district, which includes part of Baton Rouge and its suburbs. Breaux is less well-known statewide and represents a largely rural district.

What's Good For Disney ...

Former Secretary of Defense Charles Wilson once said...

... "What's good for General Motors is good for the USA."

Lately, one could interpret certain statements and actions by those in power at Disney World as saying, "What's good for Disney is good for Central Florida." ... regardless of any resulting negative impact on the rest of Central Florida!

If I correctly understand what I read and hear:

1. Disney is against any increase in resort taxes or other taxes to fund a better highway system here in Central Florida. Doesn't Disney realize a good amount of traffic on our highways is generated by Disney visitors?

2. In its own self-interest, Disney evidently doesn't mind forestalling if not cancelling completely any chances for the planned rapid transit system serving Orange and Seminole counties and the Disney complex.

3. Instead, Disney wants an exclusive rapid transit train system between Orlando International Airport and Disney only ... possibly using state and federal funds to build it ... so Disney can monopolize visitors to Central Florida.

Since Disney's impact on the total marketplace is measured in megatons, isolation from the surrounding and supporting tourist community will be the kiss of death to untold numbers of peripheral operators whose rooms and food were good enough for Disney guests when the rooms and food were needed, but won't be when Disney cranks up the drawbridge on its new, self-contained fantasy island.

When that happens, as seems to be planned, Orange, Osceola and Seminole counties will surely suffer and the general public will suffer.

We all value Disney tremendously. Without question in anyone's mind, Disney has meant more to Central Florida than any entity since Florida became a state.

However, we respectfully caution Disney not to adopt the shortsightedness of parochial inbreeding to the disadvantage and eventual destruction of its Central Florida neighbors, supporters and patrons.

When the egg tries to swallow the chicken, severe indigestion is certain.

In our opinion, the seemingly negative path of Disney lately could well spark resentment enough to stir up a constitutional challenge to the 1967 Florida legislation granting Disney such sweeping governmental powers. It could happen.

We simply suggest Disney not "throw out the baby with the bath water."

Yours very truly,
Jeno F. Paulucci

Book's A Treasure To Help Recall Names

DEAR ABBY: Here is a dilemma that I think we've all faced at one time. You are at a party and someone greets you by name. The face is familiar, but you can't remember the name. The person begins talking to you, then suddenly somebody you know joins you. You want to introduce the two but can't remember the name of the stranger. What do you do?

Dear Abby

ON THE SPOT

DEAR ON: You'll probably never believe this, but I just happen to have a brand-new book on my desk titled "Letitia Baldridge's Complete Guide to Executive Manners." I looked in the index under "Introducing People" and found the following: "While the easiest solution is to admit that you have temporarily forgotten a name, there is another alternative. It's called the 'talk fast and maybe they won't guess the truth' solution. If you have forgotten the name of the person who has joined your group, begin talking quickly in a pleasant, even funny exaggerated way. Build up the ego of the person whose name you can't recall."

"Listen, everyone, this is someone I haven't seen for a long, long time, but he was such a fantastic salesman that the rumor is he almost sold the office building to his company president"

"If the only thing you can remember about a person is where he lives, you can almost always drag out a little story that will cause everyone to smile. Soon they are shaking hands and everyone is introducing himself all around. Probably the newcomer and the others in the group don't even realize you never once mentioned his name. (It works, because I do it all the time.)

"Honesty, however, is always the best policy. Just admit the name has slipped your mind. Generally, you will be forgiven."

This book is an absolute treasure. You don't have to be an executive to learn from it; anyone who works with other people will find it enormously helpful. It's more than a guide to manners: It's a practical guide to common-sense behavior in hundreds of social and business situations. It's published by Rawson Associates, and can be found at your local book dealer's. The price is $22.95 — not inexpensive, but worth every penny.

DEAR ABBY: You told "The Woman He Pushed Aside" that unless he was hypnotized or kidnapped, he was a free agent, thus perpetuating the common myth that a person in a hypnotic trance can be made to do things against his basic nature. This is not true. If it were, a criminal could be "made" not to break the law, lazy people could be "made" to be productive, and I would be a lot richer.

HYPNOTHERAPIST

DEAR HYPNOTHERAPIST: Men and women are not by nature monogamous, they are polygamous, so a man who has vowed to be forever faithful to one woman can conceivably stray while under a hypnotic trance since it is human nature to do so.

CONFIDENTIAL TO P.F. IN COLUMBUS, OHIO: Dare to aim high, and go for it! Nobody said it better than Billy Sullivan, owner of the New England Patriots: "Shoot for the moon. If you land in the stars, that's not bad company to be in either."

Planning Scholarship Fashion Show-Luncheon

chairman. An Easter parade of fashions for adults and children will be shown by RoJay, J.C. Penney's and Wee Kids during the luncheon which starts at noon. The event is open to the public. Tickets may be purchased by club members for $5 each.

NOW Wants Pay Equity

The Florida National Organization for Women called pay equity its No. 1 priority at its quarterly meeting in Orlando. The organization wants the state to conduct a pay equity study, and Senator Carrie Meek has introduced a bill to the Florida Legislature to commission this. NOW spokeswoman Julia Dawson said the organization resents the legislature's past failure to pass the bill. "We're giving them another chance to take a public stand on paying women and minorities fairly," she said, adding that "without economic rights, women and minorities often do not have the means to exercise all the other rights we have gained in the last twenty years."

Allergy Is Cause Of Discoid Lupus

DEAR DR. GOTT — I took a series of tests five years ago and found out an internal infection is causing me to have discoid lupus. The doctors did not find out what the infection is. I have a slight deficiency of iron and thyroid, so I take an iron capsule and 0.05 mg. of Synthroid daily. Are there foods I should not eat? Where can I get more information?

DEAR READER — Discoid lupus is ordinarily considered to be a skin disease due to a person's allergy to his own skin components. The generalized form of the disease, systemic lupus, is more serious and can be associated with anemia and thyroid disorders. Food usually doesn't play a role in the disease. You can obtain more information by writing The Lupus Foundation, 11673 Holly Springs Dr., St. Louis, MO 63141.

DEAR DR. GOTT — My father is 89 years old. He's a happy old guy with a daily routine of mowing the lawn, taking care of his garden, going to the post office and conversing with my 90-year-old mother. The problem is he hears music and says that people are talking and moving around, the lights go up and down, people take doors off and put them back, etc. This happens mostly in the afternoon and late evening. He's on furosemide, digoxin and Atenolol. It is bothering him more and more. Is this normal for a man his age? Do you have any suggestions?

DEAR READER — Your father is showing signs of senility that suggest one or more of his medicines may be causing his problem. As people age, they may exhibit behavioral alterations: forgetfulness, fatigue, lack of concentration, vagueness, poor judgment — these are recognized components of brain arteriosclerosis. Your father's pattern, however, suggests to me that his senility may be accentuated by drugs. He is hallucinating. Ask his doctor if it would be safe for your father to discontinue all medicine for a short period of observation. Atenolol, for example, can cause fluid retention that requires digoxin and furosemide treatment. Few older people need digoxin. All three medicines have been associated with drug-induced dementia; perhaps your father doesn't need any of them. If he does require treatment, the doctor may be willing to alter the drugs he is taking, or to substantially reduce the dosage. I'd be curious to see if, under medical supervision, your father might think more clearly when he is drug-free.

WIN AT BRIDGE

By James Jacoby
Slam looks easy after the lead of the heart five, right? All declarer has to do is make sure that he does not lose two diamond tricks. And we all know that standard safety play: Play a high diamond, get back to the South hand and lead the eight. If West follows with a low card, play low. Even if East wins that trick, the next high diamond played will make the suit good. If West shows out, go up and lead back to the jack. It does not matter which opponent may hold Q-10-x-x; you can protect against it.

Declarer thought of all this as he played low from dummy at trick one. East played the queen and South took the king. Now came a diamond to dummy's ace, a spade back to the king and the eight of diamonds. The eight was ducked by West and in dummy, and East showed out. Now what? After cashing dummy's other high diamond, declarer had to reach his hand twice, first to force out the remaining defensive stopper and then to cash his long diamond winner. To create a second entry he had to take the club finesse. When it failed, so did the contract.

A player able to see the need for a safety play should also be able to solve the problems of communication between his hand and dummy. A simple play at trick one would suffice. Let declarer play dummy's heart jack on the opening lead. Now the 10 of hearts becomes South's second entry and the dangerous club finesse can be avoided.

HOROSCOPE

What The Day Will Bring...

YOUR BIRTHDAY FEBRUARY 26, 1986
The year ahead represents a favorable growth cycle where you will get more of the material things you've always wanted. You must be patient, however, because it'll take time to develop.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Don't be disappointed today if the returns from an enterprise you're involved in are a bit slim. Grand rewards are in the offing. Major changes are ahead for Pisces in the coming year. Send for your Astro-Graph predictions today. Mail $1 to Astro-Graph, c/o this newspaper, Box 1846, Cincinnati, OH 45201. Be sure to state your zodiac sign.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Today you might be called upon to make a difficult decision. When deciding, try to do what's best for you without ignoring the needs of others involved.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) A commercial situation will work out profitably for you today if you give it the time and attention it deserves. Don't go off on tangents.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) A pleasurable social gathering today could turn out to be advantageous for you from a business standpoint. Look for contacts among the canapes.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) You'll be more productive today performing tasks unaided. Assistants will slow you down rather than help you accomplish more.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) The proper time and circumstances will present themselves today to enable you to get something off your chest that you've been eager to discuss with a pal.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) The bargains you've been looking for will be available today. But you might have to do a lot of comparison shopping to determine the best values.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Take a no-nonsense approach today in matters that can help advance your self-interests. Others will fall in line if they see you mean business.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) An old obligation that is owed you is going to be paid in a roundabout way. People behind the scenes are now putting the deal together.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) An old friend who has done much for you in the past will be in need of a favor today. It may require a sacrifice on your behalf to even up the account.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Viewing challenges from a distance could intimidate you today. But once you jump into the fray, you'll have adequate courage.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Things in general will work out favorably for you today, provided your expectations aren't unrealistically high. Be positive, but also be practical.
