

U.S. To Soviets: 'Business As Usual' Ends

World In Peril As U.S., Soviets Cool Relations

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Warning the Soviet invasion of Afghanistan threatens the security of all nations, President Carter related against the Soviets with a series of punitive measures, including a sharp curtailment in grain sales and military aid to Pakistan.

In a nationally televised address Friday night, Carter said no nation "can continue to do business as usual with the Soviet Union," in ordering the most stringent reprisals since the end of the Cold War.

He warned a Soviet-occupied Afghanistan threatens both Iran and Pakistan and "is a stepping stone to possible control over much of the world's oil supplies."

Carter said the Soviet Union will receive only 1 million tons of grain this year instead of 25 million tons the United States had agreed to sell them.

It was the first time the United States has used agriculture as a foreign policy weapon "for overriding national security reasons," a White House official said.

To soften the blow to farmers, officials said the administration will spend between $2.3 billion and $3 billion over the next two years to protect prices and markets.

Following his address, the president and Mrs. Carter drove to Camp David for the weekend, despite warnings of heavy snow and hazardous highways and mountain roads.

Carter also warned if Russia continues its aggression in Afghanistan where it now has 50,000 troops, the United States may withdraw from the Olympics in Moscow next summer.

Other retaliatory measures he announced included a severe reduction of fishing rights for Soviet trawlers in U.S. waters, a ban on exports of high technology, particularly oilfield equipment, and a freeze on Soviet consular, cultural and economic exchanges.

In addition, Carter offered to provide military equipment, food and other assistance to help Pakistan "defend its independence" against the Soviet threat. He said the United States also stands ready to help other nations in the region to forestall aggression.

A White House official said if Iran releases the 50 American hostages and comes to realize the threat to its own security, U.S. aid would be forthcoming.

Carter made it clear he fears the Kremlin intends to alter the world balance of power and may be bent on further expansion.

"If Soviets are encouraged in this invasion by eventual success, and if they maintain their dominance over Afghanistan and extend their control to adjacent countries, the stable, strategic and peaceful balance of the world will be changed," he said. "This would threaten the security of all nations, including, of course, the United States, our allies and friends."

Carter also delayed the opening of the new American and Soviet consular facilities. Aerial flights between America and Russia, which were to be increased, will continue on a twice weekly basis.

Carter noted he already had sought and won postponement of Senate debate over the Strategic Arms Limitation Treaty with Russia.

But he said he is not rejecting the pact for the long run because "the entire world will benefit from the successful control of strategic nuclear weapons through the implementation of this carefully negotiated treaty."

REACTIONS

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Carter has general bipartisan support of his actions in response to the Soviet invasion of Afghanistan, but Republican presidential hopeful Robert Dole called his Friday night address a "coverup" and "deception."

"The president is rushing in to say something about Afghanistan to avoid facing up to the problem in Iran," Dole, R-Kan., said.

California Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr., seeking the Democratic presidential nomination, said "I think we're beginning to see a crisis presidency and I find it ironic that the president brings home the ambassador to Russia but that he failed to bring home the 50 American diplomats that were in Iran, prior to admitting the shah."

Sen. Charles Percy, R-Ill., also expressed support. "I support the president's actions," he said.

AFGHANISTAN

By United Press International

Widespread fighting flared across Afghanistan today between occupying Soviet forces and Afghans, President Carter described the Soviet invasion as "an extremely serious threat to peace" and ordered a sharp curtailment of grain exports to Russia.

Carter, in a national TV address on deteriorating Soviet-American relations, also announced a cutoff of sales of high technology items such as oil-drilling equipment and threatened to withdraw the United States from the 1980 Olympics scheduled to be held in Moscow this summer.

The U.N. Security Council scheduled a full debate on the Afghan crisis today but any stern action by the council faced a certain Soviet veto.

Reports from Afghanistan and Iran indicated a fierce battle was being fought for control of Herat.

IRAN

TEHRAN, Iran (UPI) — Foreign Minister Sadegh Ghotbzadeh today rejected demands from the militants holding the American embassy that U.S. Charge d'Affaires Bruce L. Laingen be handed over to them to answer charges for a future spy trial of hostages.

In a letter addressed to Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini, Ghotbzadeh said Laingen and two other American diplomats had been placed under the Foreign Ministry's protection with the knowledge of Khomeini and the ruling Revolutionary Council.

"I follow orders only of the leader (Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini) and carry out decisions taken by the Islamic Revolutionary Council and request that necessary orders be issued in this matter," Ghotbzadeh said.

There was no immediate response to Ghotbzadeh's letter from either Khomeini or the council.

Teacher Hearing Slated Monday

A binding arbitration hearing will be held Monday in the contested dismissal of Raymond Masters, former guidance counselor at South Seminole Middle School.

The 10 a.m. hearing to be held in the board room at the School Administration Building, 1211 Melville Ave., is open to the public.

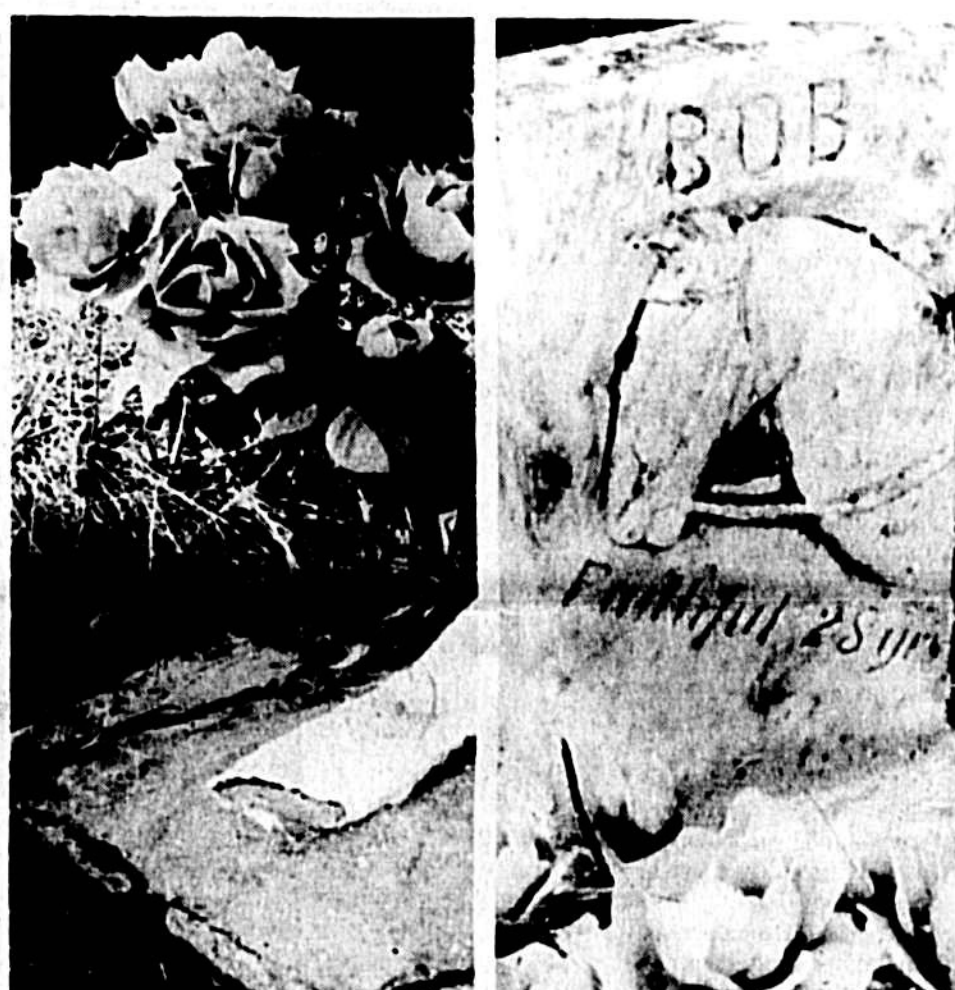

Masters, a counselor at the school for school years 1977-78 and 1978-79, was not recommended for reappointment by the school principal, Ernest Cowley, chairman of the school board, said the principal, Sidney Boyette, decided a "better qualified" and "more responsible" counselor could be found.

Masters filed two grievances against the school board which will be ruled upon Monday. These involve academic freedom and the principal's professional evaluation of his work, Cowley said.

"The arbitration hearing will determine whether or not his (Masters') contract was violated," Cowley said.

George Eyraud of Birmingham, Ala., will serve as arbitrator. Eyraud's decision in the matter will be binding. He is chosen as arbitrator from a host of qualified arbitrators provided by the Public Employees Relation Commission of Florida, Cowley said.

'Old Bob' Sanford's Funeral Horse Remembered With New Grave Marker At Cemetery

By JANE CASSELL BERRY
 Herald Staff Writer

Friends of "Old Bob" will be relieved to know his marker is back in place on his grave in Sanford's old Lakeview Cemetery.

Dead for many years, Old Bob, the horse who used to pull the hearse that carried the city's dead to their final resting place at the turn of the century, still has many friends — some of whom are too young to have remembered him.

In fact the plastic flowers that decorate the grave on the road right of way at the cemetery are placed there by children.

One of Old Bob's friends recently reported that his marker — decorated with an engraving of a horse head and shoe — has been broken and removed by "vandals."

City Parks Director Jim Jernigan explained this was not the case. It seems someone had backed into it at a funeral and it was safe in the maintenance building awaiting repair.

"Old Bob is still in our hearts and we're not going to let anything happen to his marker," Jernigan said.

The repair of the horse's grave marker became a priority item and in no time at all Jernigan reported it was back in place, in memory of Old Bob's "22 years of faithful service."

Martha Fox, who still remembers Old Bob, said: "I don't know how the poor horse got everyone out there, the road was just deep sandy ruts."

Miss Fox was 11-years-old when her mother died in 1904, and she remembers riding in a carriage behind the hearse pulled by "Old Bob."

Old Bob was later replaced by a team of horses to pull the hearse she said.

Miss Fox said her mother and father are buried in a family plot in Lakeview Cemetery, purchased in 1883 while they were still living in Lake Jessup before moving to Sanford.

"I've got 11 of my people buried there," said Miss Fox, whose father died in 1913.

Settlers from old Fort Field and Civil War veterans are also among those buried in the old cemetery.

Old Bob was owned by T. J. Miller, who owned a combination funeral parlor, furniture store and music store at the corner of Park Avenue and First Street, where the Atlantic Bank of Seminole now stands.

Back in those horse-and-buggy days, the stores closed out of respect when someone in the community died. "Everybody knew each other back then," Miss Fox added.

Although funeral services were held at Miller's funeral parlor and in local churches, many were also held in private homes. The deceased was taken back to the home on the day of the funeral and flowers were hung on the screen door.

Funerals for Miss Fox's father, mother and brother were all held at the family home on Oak Avenue, now the home of the Catholic nuns who teach at All Souls School.

Miss Fox, who has lived at 1208 Park Ave. for 30 years, would like to carry on this tradition.

"I've told them at Brissons, if they're still living to bring me home again for the last time and they said they would," she said.

Lake Mary: Will New Councilmen Turn The Tide?

VICTOR OLVERA ...forget magic
RAY FOX ...can't find cuts
GENE McDONALD ...questions numbers

Olvera, Fox, McDonald Hope To Sort Out City's Financial Woes

By DONNA ESTES
 Herald Staff Writer

No immediate solutions to financial woes which have plagued the city of Lake Mary for the past several months appear possible to the city's three new councilmen.

Victor Olvera, Ray Fox and Gene McDonald, elected in December and set to take office at 4 p.m. Monday say financial stability may be a long way off.

The city's financial distress came to light last summer when it was found that a city employee charged with preparing the prior year's budget had overestimated income and included within spending proposals some funds earmarked for capital projects.

The Legislature approved a new law last year permitting the city to raise property taxes only to the point of gaining five percent more income than the previous year. The council placed on the ballot a question asking for approval by the voters of a larger property tax increase.

The referendum was turned down in September by the voters. The resulting property tax rate of $2.84 per $1,000 assessed property value gave many property owners a 16-cent-per-$1,000-cut in taxes. The city previously levied a $3 rate for five years.

"I don't see anything magic happening," said Olvera. "The long range solution appears to be enticing industry to locate in the city to expand the tax base. But the city must be able to provide water and sewer service to entice industry to come here."

Current council member Pat Southward, whom Olvera will be replacing on the board, has for the past several months been looking into the possibility of gaining federal funding for installation of both water and sewer lines in the Rinehart Road and Lake Emma Roads area. So far her project has not been successful.

From first-hand experience, Olvera, employed by Herian Engineering, a new industry located on Rinehart Road, knows how necessary those two city services are. The firm has been in its new facility for several months, yet it is only within the past few days that central water and sewer service has been provided. The service is not provided by the city, but by Florida Land Company's privately-owned utility which serves the Crossings planned unit development.

The firm, which relocated to Lake Mary from Detroit, produces audio care products and currently employs 20 persons.

In the next few months, the production staff is expected to reach 75 in addition to increases in the office and engineering staff.

The firm is using only a couple acres of the 53 acres it owns on Rinehart Road.

Olvera said he also sees as a long-range solution the annexation of the Crossings. He said information must be gathered to prove to the residents of the Crossings that they will save tax money and receive better service by going into the city.

He said answers must also be found to the complaints of some landowners along Lake Mary Boulevard about the 104-foot setbacks from the center line of the highway. The setbacks were originally adopted by the city to provide a method of widening the road in the future.

Olvera said several of the owners of Lake Mary Boulevard property want to sell their lands for commercial development. The city must control the development, he said, to maintain a high quality. "We don't want another State Road 438 or State Road 434," he said.

Fox, who served on the city's planning and zoning commission, said several commercial developments are in the planning stages in the city. Several weeks ago, plans were announced for construction of a commerce park much like the Live Oak Center in Casselberry. This past week plans were announced for a warehouse park.

Fox said he has been studying the city's budget carefully and there appears to be no obvious areas where cuts can be made to save money. He noted the city council's first quarterly budget review will be held later this month.

The first meetings of the newly constituted city council will be a workshop on Jan. 17 followed by a regular meeting on the 24th.

Fox said he has no preconceived notions about the Lake Mary Boulevard controversy. He pointed out that quite a few new homes have been built during the past year that will be coming on the tax rolls this year. But he recognized actual taxes will not be received from many of those new houses until the 1981 fiscal year.

McDonald admits that the city has got to find some additional revenues, "but I don't know where those revenues are," he said, adding, in line with the information he has received, he is opposed to the institution of a utility tax.

"The council has to wrestle with the problem and see what it can come up with," he said.

McDonald said he has been studying the city's financial statements and asking questions to gain a better understanding of "why the numbers are what they are."

Auto Workers, Chrysler Edging Toward Agreement

HIGHLAND PARK, Mich. (UPI) — The United Auto Workers union and Chrysler Corp. are edging toward a new contract agreement incorporating $462.3 million in worker concessions ordered by the government. The two sides reopened talks Friday, then sat at the bargaining table for more than six hours discussing arithmetic. They planned to resume the bargaining today, perhaps turning toward specific areas where costs of the contract can be cut.

Chicago Schools In Peril

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (UPI) — Gov. James R. Thompson said early today no agreement has been reached in the Chicago schools crisis, continuing the specter of a walkout by teachers next week. The fired Thompson met with reporters shortly after midnight following a 16-hour marathon session with top Chicago bankers and school and government officials. There had been general agreement on short and long-term aid for the beleaguered school system, but there were "substantial legal and financial questions" raised by some parties concerning aid to schools for a period between the end of next week and May 1.

Elvis' Doctor Gains Ruling

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (UPI) — Attorneys for Elvis Presley's private doctor won a court battle to obtain a copy of the controversial autopsy report, but they were ordered by a judge not to reveal its contents. Circuit Court Judge James M. Sharpe Friday ordered Dr. Beacher Smith III, attorney for the Presley estate, to produce a copy of the previously unreleased autopsy report to lawyers for Dr. George Nichopoulos. Nichopoulos faces malpractice charges accusing him of indiscriminately providing Presley and other patients with various drugs.

Frisco Gas Cans Removed

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The helicopter removal of 35 two-ton chlorine canisters from a grounded barge on the coast north of the Golden Gate Bridge has been completed without incident. The last 12 two-ton canisters were carried by the heavy-duty chopper in a sling to the Army's Fort Cronkite to end a three-day operation that had been delayed by fog. The 42-foot Agattu and another barge carrying lumber as well as other goods were washed onto the rocks during a New Year's Eve storm. No one was hurt.

Henry Charged In Death

WAVERLY, Tenn. (UPI) — The charges against former prison guard James C. Henry, who allegedly beat and pulled some fingernails of a 21-month-old girl, have been changed from child abuse to murder following the little girl's death. Henry, 37, was charged with first degree murder Friday and ordered held without bond pending a Jan. 28 hearing. He has denied striking the child, and claimed he pulled the fingernails because they were infected. Stephanie had hung on for nearly a week but died late Thursday night at Vanderbilt Hospital in Nashville, about 60 miles east of here.

Graham Ignores Opposition, Names ERA Opponent Judge

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (UPI) — Ignoring the opposition of women's groups and labor, Gov. Bob Graham Friday made ERA opponent Guy Spicola of Tampa a circuit judge. ERA supporters charged the Senate leader, a Democrat, reneged on a commitment to vote for ratification of the amendment after accepting a $250 campaign contribution based on the promise. The AFL-CIO, which supports ERA, urged Graham not to appoint Spicola, presumably because of this and his vote to repeal the law restricting payment of prevailing union wages on public construction projects.

Common Calendar Is Closer

TAMPA, Fla. (UPI) — The state's higher education system is a step closer to using a common calendar for scheduling of school terms using a modified semester system. The Board of Regents voted Friday to join the Coordinated Council of Community Colleges in endorsing a recommendation from the Articulation Committee that the state's nine universities and the state's 36 community colleges operate on a system using the same schools terms beginning with the fall term of 1981. The state universities currently operate on a quarter system. The 36 community colleges operate on a semester calendar, but only eight currently use the same type semester calendar being proposed.

Student Kills Professor

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (UPI) — A student at Edward Waters College, apparently upset over a poor grade, shot and killed his history professor at his office while the teacher's secretary sat at a desk not far away, police said. Homicide detective Lt. Jim Suber said Friday the student, who police were trying to identify, shot Ira Holland, 68, an associate professor of education at the predominantly black college, then fled in a yellow car.

Archeologist Unearthing Answers About Virginia

WILLIAMSBURG, Va. (UPI) — Artifacts and skeletons found during a four-year dig at the site of a colonial plantation may answer lingering questions about 17th century Virginia life, an archeologist says. Ivor Noel Hume, resident archeologist at Colonial Williamsburg, said the just-completed dig at Carter's Grove Plantation on the James River uncovered several settlements that comprised Martin's Hundred. He said archeologists found a "suburb" of Wolfenholme Towne, thought to be one of the first settlements at Martin's Hundred, settled in 1619 by the London Company. Situated about 300 feet from the fort at the earlier discovered Wolfenholme Towne, the suburb contained one dwelling of poles surrounded by a fence, Hume said. Hume said his crew "won't do anything like this again," and called the discoveries "the most important thing we've ever done." The dig uncovered 47 skeletons, including a mass grave in which the remains were placed head-to-toe, Hume said. "For 50 years, Colonial Williamsburg has created national interest in 18th century America. Now, by accident, it is involved in the revival of interest in the 17th century," said the archeologist. Hume said he thinks the Carter's Grove settlements are significant because the original Jamestown settlement site has never been found. Wolfenholme Towne and the surrounding settlements, although 12 years later than Jamestown, "by default substitute for Jamestown" because the artifacts found indicate some of the lifestyle in Virginia prior to 1619, Hume said.

VALERIE "RHODA" HARPER ...smiles in the fat old days

'Tals' Val Harper, Boyfriend Are Together At Last

By PATRICIA MCCORMACK
NEW YORK (UPI) — Valerie Harper says she is a size four and weighs 115 to 118 pounds. And those facts amaze her. As television's Rhoda, Valerie, as she prefers to be called, says she battled blubber for nine years — the kind that brings a $400-8 frame up to 180 pounds. At her suite in the Plaza Hotel the other day she said the war on calories went on in real life, too — not just before the television cameras. "All those 'fat' jokes in the script hit home," she said. The last Rhoda episode was filmed Nov. 3, 1978, and Valerie weighed around 134. She turned to movies, hoping to shed the situation comedy stereotype character "Rhoda." First, she worked in "The Last Married Couple in America," which has not been released yet. Then she acted in "Chapter Two," a new movie based on the play. That was pound-shedding time. There was a swimsuit sequence and Valerie said it terrified her. "The cameras put on 15 pounds," she said. "And my thighs didn't need it." To get things and the rest of her anatomy camera-ready, Valerie said she rang up Tony Cacciotti, an actor, gymnast and fitness consultant-to-the-stars. He came to her house at Malibu Beach in California at the end of June and got her started on the diet and exercise way to a size four and 115 pounds. Valerie said he changed not only her body but her life. She said she and Tony fell in love and now live together. They have formed a production company called "Tals" — which stands for "together at last." The fitness regime combines stretching, weight training, running and a spartan diet, plus vitamins. During the interview, aimed at publicizing just-released "Chapter Two," Cacciotti returned from the green grocer's with victuals for Valerie. Celery, three tomatoes. Then he left for lunch with an attorney. Valerie's lunch was to be more than celery and tomatoes, by the way. Cottage cheese to supplement was in the suite's refrigerator. Earlier in the day, she and Cacciotti ran in Central Park. A run, not a jog, is part of the daily routine. Valerie said Cacciotti claims running exercises the thighs better than jogging does. When she was a young actress in New York, Valerie recalled she used to look at the Plaza as she passed by, wishing she could go inside and eat in one of the elegant restaurants. And now that she could afford expensive meals in the posh hotel, there was in a spacious suite nibbling celery and dining on cottage cheese — flavored with lemon or parsley flakes, if she desired. She praised the diet rather than cursing it. "It's not a crazy diet," she said. "It really works. I have done all the crazies. Grapes and fasting. And other ones. The fat always comes back. On this diet and exercise program, the fat stays off and I have energy." It took 49 days of the fitness treatment to make the size four. Early this month she's starting work on a movie for television, "The Shadow Box." It's about a hospice for the terminally ill and their families. Valerie plays the wife of a blue collar worker who is dying of cancer. Like her new shape, the role's a far way down the road from the Rhoda role. "Acting is hard work," Valerie said.

55 Editors To Judge Pulitzer Prize Entries

NEW YORK (UPI) — The appointment of 55 editors as Pulitzer Prize nominating jurors in journalism for 1980 was announced by William J. McGill, president of Columbia University. They will consider candidates for Pulitzer awards in 12 journalism categories, based on work published in the calendar year 1979. The deadline for the submission of entries and supporting exhibits is February 1.

The Pulitzer Prizes are awarded annually during the spring by Columbia University on the recommendation of the Pulitzer Prize Board. Jurors make their nominations to the Board. Before the jurors assemble in March to begin the judging process, they will be assigned to work in one of the journalism categories. These cover public service, local spot news reporting, local investigative reporting, national reporting, international reporting, editorial writing, cartoons, spot news and feature photography, criticism, commentary and feature writing. The jurors exercise their independent and collective judgment in each of those categories and are asked to submit three nominations for each. Inquiries, entries and exhibits should be addressed to Professor Richard T. Baker, administrator of the Pulitzer Prizes, Room 702, Graduate School of Journalism, Columbia University, New York, N.Y. 10027.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The United States will be out to buy all the foreign beef producers can provide in 1980, but a worldwide shortage is expected to keep imports below all the meat Americans can eat under a new law signed by President Carter.

Minority Bankers Seek Aid

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (UPI) — Minority bankers, anxious for a cut of the state government's daily business, have been told they need to seek accounts on their own rather than rely on a new state policy to send business to them.

Model Trains Take Over Home

The shiny black steam locomotive came around the turn with its headlights gleaming and its powerful wheels driving it over the steel rails.

WIN AT BRIDGE
By Oswald Jacoby and Alan Sonstegard

In the American card game known as Pitch, three for the king, four for the queen and one for the jack. This doesn't show the value of these cards in your hand but rather the points they represent in tricks you have taken.

Back in 1915, Bryant McCampbell of St. Louis wrote his friend Milton Work suggesting that the Pitch 2-1 count be used for notrump bidding. Work wrote about it and lots of players used it.

But other writers did not. When counting in the late '20s, the public followed Ely Culbertson and other tricks, which valued combinations of honors.

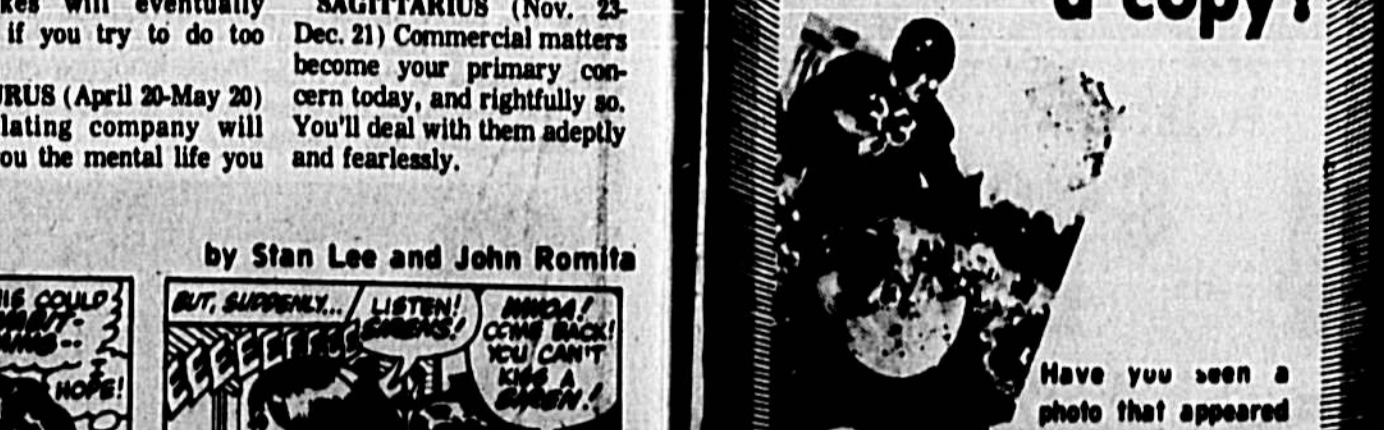

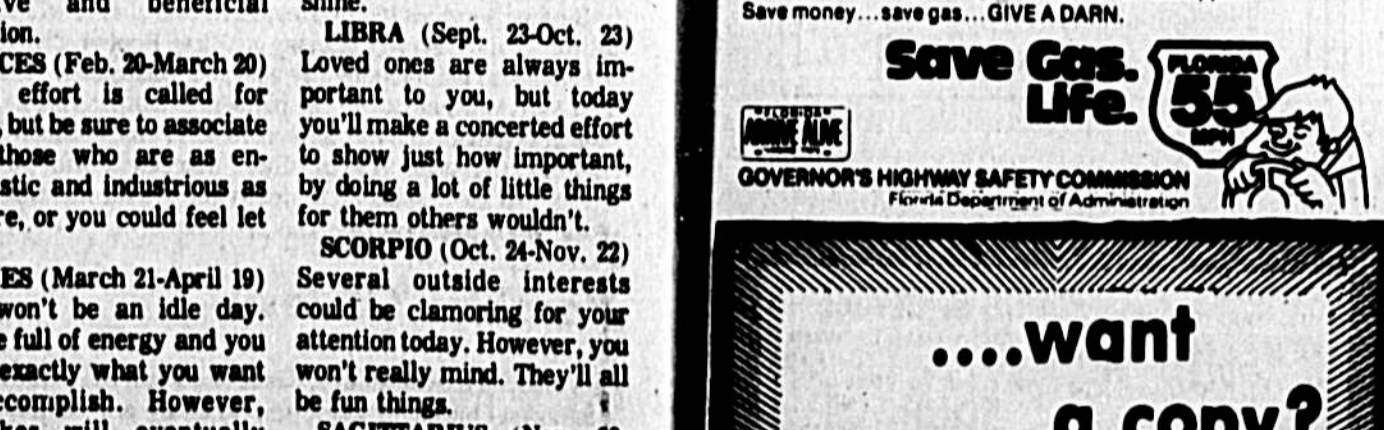

In 1932, Oswald Jacoby and Mary Zita McCallie. He wanted to teach her bridge in a hurry and decided it would be simpler if she gave each ace and face card a point value. It didn't take long to find that he could bid better with her than with the late '20s experts and he and she started using point count.

Then, in 1933, Charles Goren added short-suit points for use in suit bidding. The count was three for a two for a singleton and one for a doubleton.

Here is a simple distributional point table:

A. Each void (blank suit); three points.
B. Each singleton (one-card suit); one point.
C. Each doubleton (two-card suit); two points.

Olympics 'Boycott' Talk Upsets Network

By JOAN HANAUER
UPI Television Editor

NEW YORK (UPI) — Talk of boycotting the 1980 Summer Olympics has caused jitter at NBC and at ABC. NBC is sensitive to the situation and are watching it closely. "The discussion that is being had is one that we should comment at this time."

NBC is spending a total of $120 million on broadcasting the Moscow Olympics, and network executives are silently applauding the Olympic committees of NATO nations who have protested against a suggested boycott of the Moscow Olympics. The boycott was proposed to protest the Soviet Union's invasion of Afghanistan.

It isn't just the money. Of the $120-million NBC has budgeted for the Olympics, $87 million is covered in the rights deal negotiated with the Soviets. The remainder would cover actual broadcast production expenses and no big bucks have been spent yet.

Of the $87 million, $35 million goes for broadcast rights. It gets split, two-thirds to the Soviet Organizing Committee and one-third to the International Olympic Committee. In addition, $32 million goes to the Soviets toward construction of a new broadcast center.

While NBC has paid an estimated $63 million to date, it is insured for 85 percent of that amount.

What would trouble NBC is losing the huge Olympic audience it hopes to gain.

ABC has its own Olympic problems. It negotiated a $25 million deal to broadcast the winter Olympics from Lake Placid, N.Y., Feb. 13 through Feb. 24. No one has suggested a boycott of the winter games, and on the record ABC's comment reads: "The Olympic Games are non-political and will go on as scheduled."

Off the record, ABC must worry that any precipitous action on boycotting the Moscow games might anger the Soviets and their bloc to retaliate with other actions. In addition, the ABC is counting on the winter games to push way ahead of CBS, which is closing the gap in the ratings race.

To get away from it all, you couldn't escape to a more fascinating, earlier world than the ocean floor a mile-and-a-half below the surface of the Pacific off the Galapagos Islands.

That's where the opening show in the fifth season of National Geographic specials will take viewers who tune in PBS on Jan. 6 at 8 p.m., Eastern time (check local listings) to see "Dive To The Edge of Creation."

At first the casual viewer may find too much time devoted to the mechanics of building for the dive.

Then the submersible Alvin goes down and its cameras explore the world near mysterious warm water vents where no sunlight ever penetrates.

These huge red-topped colonies of tube worms, away, sightless crabs crawl in abundance and a delicate never before seen creature nicknamed the dandelion plucks at the water with petal-like tentacles.

Here is a chance for television audiences, as an explorer of galaxies might say, "to go where no man has gone before."

Get it in high gear

You'll save gas that way. Keep your car's transmission in the high gear position as you drive. More gas is consumed in the lower gears. If your car has a manual transmission, you should shift into high gear early and quickly. Then shift down to high gear as quickly as possible. This breaks the transmission to shift into high gear as quickly as possible. Break other gas-saving habits like pumping the accelerator or racing the engine while the car is stopped.

THE BORN LOSER

by Art Sansom

Heloise

DEAR HELOISE:
Aren't grandchildren wonderful! When mine started arriving I learned why "life begins at 40." My daughter gave me a bracelet with seven silver charm profiles of boys and girls, each representing one of my grandchildren. I loved it, but those little silver heads made as much noise in church as the little deers do when they all get together in the house, so I didn't wear it very often. Then I bought another link bracelet and fastened the two together...just the right length to go around my neck! Now the charms lie flat and make no noise. I have gotten so many compliments I just had to share the idea. Lydia Steels

ADD MINE TO YOUR LIST, LYDIA. Sounds absolutely adorable. I think grandmothers like you are wonderful for sharing such loving hints. Give each one of those "little deers" a big hug for me and drop in anytime. Love, Heloise

LETTER OF THOUGHT
DEAR HELOISE:
The serenity prayer is my favorite. I find the version that's best for me says: "Help me to keep my ears and eyes open, my big mouth shut, and my nose out of other people's business." Hinter Land

CATCH THOSE DRIPS!
DEAR HELOISE:
Whenever my 4-year-old daughter and her friends wanted ice cream on a stick, all I could think of was how many ice cream spots would drip on their clothes. Then, I got smarter... With a knife, I cut a slit in the bottom of a paper bowl. I stuck the ice cream stick through the slit. Makes a great drip-catcher! Debbie D.

KNOTS TO YOU
DEAR HELOISE:
For those who do macrame: Instead of tying a knot in the end of the cord, which makes it harder to pull through your macrame work, wrap a piece of sticky tape around the end. Keeps the cord from unraveling. Mrs. R. H. Memphis

DEAR READER:
This is your column. If you'd like to share a hint, ask a question or make a suggestion, write me care of this newspaper. Hugs, Heloise

MAKE A FUNNY FACE
DEAR HELOISE:
To entertain children, cut out pictures of faces from comics or magazines and let them draw on mustaches, beards, huge ears, etc., to make funny faces. Works terrific and keeps them busy for hours. Missy Williams, age 12

NEED A NAPKIN HOLDER?
DEAR HELOISE:
Don't throw away detergent bottles. Try making things with them. For instance, take a dishwashing liquid detergent bottle and make a napkin holder. About three inches from the bottom of the bottle use your scissors to cut off the top. Cut out the sides, but leave the front and back of the bottom as is. Round off the sharp edges at the top corners. If you like, you can decorate the napkin holder. Put decals on it or draw some flowers. Lynn Kagle, Age 11

Layer: Combined Schools Unlikely Soon

By DIANE PETRYK
Herald Staff Writer

Concern over proposed consolidation of three of Sanford's elementary schools is about four or five years premature, Seminole County School Superintendent William Layer said today.

Although there are indications a state survey team might recommend Hopper, Southside and Grammar be consolidated — and Layer emphasized "night" — he said the possibility of it happening within the next five years is remote.

The reason is simple: money.

Consolidation of the three elementary schools would require construction of a new, larger school. This won't happen, Layer said, until "unhoused pupil needs are met."

"Our first priority must be to build new schools in areas of the county where growth is occurring," he said.

"We can't have double sessions somewhere and spend money consolidating students where there are no double sessions," he said.

Each year the state allots money to a school system based on its unmet needs, Layer explained. These funds can be applied to various projects acknowledged on the state survey, he said, but building classrooms for students for whom there is no space must come first.

"If there is any money left over after unhoused pupil needs," Layer said, "it can be used for consolidation or other projects. But that hasn't happened in the past 10 years."

Although the students at Hopper, Southside and Grammar are in older buildings, "at least they are housed," Layer said. "What we really have to worry about are the unhoused students."

Sanford's Grammar school was built in 1904 and, according to Layer, is the oldest school in Florida used continually for housing students. Southside school was built in 1924. Hopper was built in 1960.

Currently Grammar houses 214 students, Southside 360, and Hopper, 235.

Larger enrollment schools are felt to be more efficient and more economical, Layer said. Because it costs more to provide each small-enrollment school with separate, full-time art and music teachers and guidance counselors, Layer said he favors consolidation.

None of the Sanford elementary schools has a full-time art teacher, and Southside, Hopper and Grammar do not have music teachers. Teachers of art and music travel from school to school.

A site behind the school board offices at 1211 S.

Mellonville Ave., Sanford, has been earmarked for the consolidated school if it is built, Layer said.

Some parents have criticized the idea of consolidating schools because they favor neighborhood schools within walking distance for youngsters.

The proposed consolidated school would still be a neighborhood school, Layer said.

"Only one area (attending Grammar school) won't be able to walk to it," Layer said. "Most will still be within the 2-mile walking distance."

Layer emphasized that Sanford's other elementary schools, Pinckney, Hylwilde and Midway, are not being considered for consolidation.

A report that mentioned all the Sanford area elementary schools in discussion of consolidation was misleading, Layer said.

"Pinckney alone has a 765 enrollment," he said. "And we would never have an elementary school of 1,200 as one person feared."

In addition to setting the optimum elementary school population at 750, the school board set 1,200 as optimum for middle schools and 2,100 as optimum for high schools.

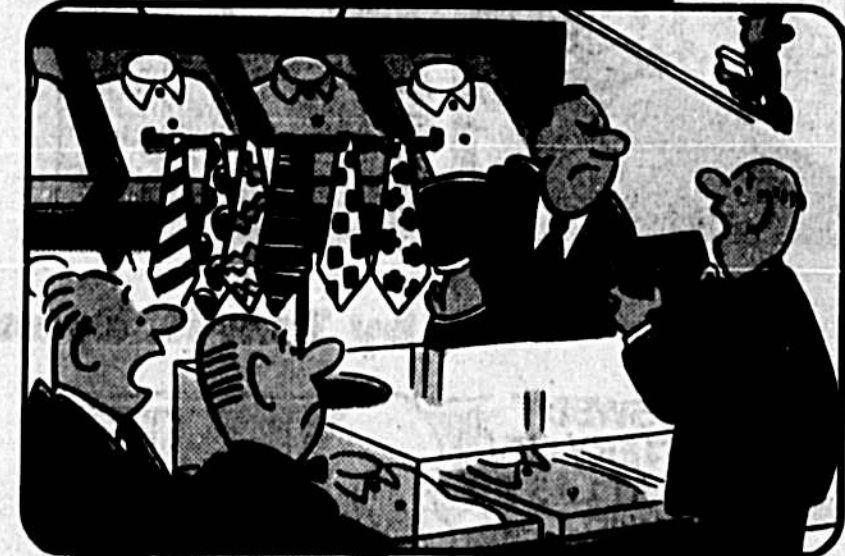

The state survey which may recommend the consolidation is not expected to be finalized until later this month.

"The state Department of Education conducts this state building needs survey to determine needs over a five-year period for all 67 counties," Layer said. "The five-year survey might run out before we could consider any consolidation, even if it's recommended."

"The concern is premature and unnecessary."

Carter Rejects Waldheim Plan

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Carter wants the United Nations to proceed with economic sanctions against Iran despite Secretary General Kurt Waldheim's doubts about their effectiveness.

Carter has rejected a proposal Waldheim brought back from his trip to Iran, calling for an international inquiry into alleged crimes of the deposed shah coupled with the release of the American hostages in Tehran.

The differences between the two leaders surfaced when Waldheim reported to Carter in the White House a two-hour meeting Sunday night on his three days in Tehran.

Press Secretary Jody Powell said Carter made it clear the United States wants the American hostages released before anything else can be considered.

"That is the single issue," Powell said. "All other concerns are not relevant before the hostages are released."

Carter, who returned Sunday night from Camp David, scheduled a rare morning meeting of his Cabinet, then planned to sign the $5 billion Chrysler Corp. bailout bill in the afternoon.

Waldheim was to report to the United Nations during the day on his trip.

Administration officials said the United States would not ask the Security Council to impose economic sanctions on Iran until later in the week.

Secretary of State Cyrus Vance, U.N.

Ambassador Donald McHenry, national security adviser Zbigniew Brzezinski and Rafi Ahmad, Waldheim's chief of cabinet, also attended Sunday's meeting.

"The president reiterated the position of the United States that the United Nations should begin without delay the process of implementing the U.N. Security Council resolutions of Dec. 31," Powell said.

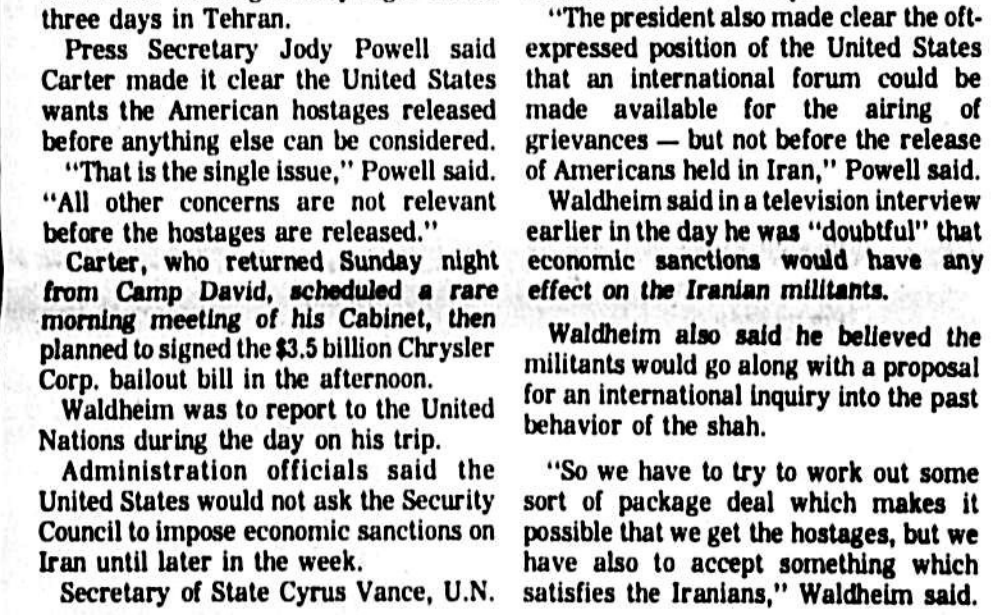

That resolution called for the immediate release of the hostages. It directed Waldheim to go to Iran to seek release of the hostages, and if he were unsuccessful in doing so, economic sanctions should be imposed.

"The president also made clear the oft-expressed position of the United States that an international forum could be made available for the airing of grievances — but not before the release of Americans held in Iran," Powell said.

Waldheim said in a television interview earlier in the day he was "doubtful" that economic sanctions would have any effect on the Iranian militants.

Waldheim also said he believed the militants would go along with a proposal for an international inquiry into the past behavior of the shah.

"So we have to try to work out some sort of package deal which makes it possible that we get the hostages, but we have also to accept something which satisfies the Iranians," Waldheim said.

Iran Threatens To Expel U.S. Journalists, Others

TEHRAN, Iran (UPI) — Iran threatened expulsions of journalists from the United States, Britain and West Germany at the end of a bloody weekend that left at least 58 dead in the Islamic Republic.

In Tehran Sunday, a small group of Afghan exiles seized their country's embassy and occupied it for nearly five hours to protest Soviet military involvement in Afghanistan.

There were no injuries during the embassy takeover. The group surrendered after consultations with a Foreign Ministry representative and after they were allowed to broadcast their demands from a loudspeaker in front of the embassy.

During the weekend, supporters of Islamic leader Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini clashed with groups opposing him, especially those backing his rival Ayatollah Kazem Shariatmadari, in a series of anti-revolutionary protests west of the capital that officials said left 30 dead.

Unofficial reports placed the death toll as high as 43. There were also 112 injuries reported in the rioting.

The official Pars news agency reported the deaths Sunday and said they were the result of bloody clashes between Iranians and Iraqis who crossed the border into Iran.

The worst fighting was in the southeast port city of Bandar Lengeh where 28 people were killed Saturday, according to casualty figures from the Pars news agency.

In another development, Iran announced late Sunday it was considering expelling all representatives of the American, British and West German media.

Abolghassem Sadegh, director general of the foreign press at the Ministry of National Guidance, told Pars the ministry was contemplating mass expulsion of some Western correspondents "as long as the Iran-U.S. relations had not been clarified and, especially as long as the U.S. espionage center (the former U.S. Embassy) was occupied."

MOVING UP IN THE WORLD

Employees on the second floor of the Flagship Bank at the Sanford Plaza were recently visited by a young squirrel that somehow managed to climb the brick wall and find a perch on the narrow window ledge outside the bookkeeping office. With cold weather moving into the area, he might have been looking for a vacation loan so he could fly farther south and spend a couple of weeks in a nice, warm coconut palm.

Soviets Accused Of Slaughter

United Press International

Expelled Afghan, calling their country "another Cambodia," today accused Soviet troops in Afghanistan of slaughtering hundreds of innocent Muslims in reprisal attacks against insurgent forces.

In the Afghan capital of Kabul, some 2,000 political prisoners were freed

Sunday, Radio Kabul said. The move was apparently part of the Soviet-backed government's conciliatory policy toward disidents, meant to defuse the widespread Muslim rebellion.

However, exiled rebel leaders said Russian troop strength in Afghanistan was approaching 80,000, with more soldiers arriving in the country every day.

At the United Nations, the United States Sunday accused the Soviet Union of committing a "blatant act of aggression" in Afghanistan and asked the Security Council to take "vigorous action" to remove Soviet troops and to restore international peace and security.

Officials in Islamabad said Pakistan President Gen. Mohammad Zia Ul-Haq Saturday met with his cabinet to discuss the situation in neighboring Afghanistan and President Carter's Friday offer to resume arms shipments.

Afghan Muslim leaders traveling overland from Afghanistan told United Press International in New Delhi, India, of reprisals against villages.

Report On Porter Passed On For Review

Results of the Florida Department of Law Enforcement's probe of Seminole-Brevard Public Defender David M. Porter, expected to be in the governor's hands this week, have been sent to the office of Bob Stone, state attorney for the 19th judicial district.

An investigation into charges of misconduct and sex discrimination at the 19th judicial district public defender's office was begun Nov. 27 and was concluded last week. The charges were brought by disgruntled employees.

The allegations, with a cover letter signed by Gov. Bob Graham, were forwarded to the Florida Department of Law Enforcement (FDLE) Nov. 27.

P. J. Doyle, of the Executive Investigations Division, FDLE, said the nature of the findings will not be disclosed until the governor is briefed on the matter.

Today, Dick Schodisch, the governor's assistant general counsel, said he expects to receive a copy of the FDLE report by this afternoon and will study it, as will Stone.

Stone said today he has been asked by the FDLE to act as legal advisor in the matter. He will send his recommendations to the governor.

"This does not mean there is a greater likelihood of a prosecution," Stone said. But, he added, if there is a prosecution he would be given the "executive assignment" to handle the matter.

He said he will study the report as quickly as possible but would not estimate how long it will take.

"I want to do a thorough job," he said. "I may have some more questions. I'm sure Mr. Porter would like it to be

Graham's Wife To Visit Area School Today

Florida's first lady, Adele Graham, will be visiting the Dividends School Volunteer program at English Estates School from 1:30 to 3 p.m. Tuesday.

A strong supporter statewide of school volunteers, Mrs. Graham will visit the art and classroom volunteer program at the school off Oxford Road.

She will be guest of honor at a reception in the media center at the school where she will meet the Dividends School board members, principals and Dividend coordinators from other schools in the county who will also attend.
