Girls' Glee Club Receives Superior Rating At Contest

The Seminole High School Girls' Glee Club received a Superior rating at the annual district contest held for Class A, B and C schools in the District in Daytona Friday at the Peabody Auditorium.

The girls and "Dream Song" by Stringham; and "Give Ye Thanks" by Pearce. The judges liked the chorus that they asked Miss Olive Reese Whittle, director to present them at the Festival Concert held that night using the effect of colored lights to match the moods of "Dream Song".

Seminole County school teachers will receive an adjustment in their salaries amounting to approximately $200 for the 1956-57 season when a request made by Seminole County Superintendent of Education Rayburn T. Milwee and the Seminole County School Board for a $50,000 appropriation from race track funds was approved at a special meeting of the Seminole County Board of County Commissioners Saturday morning.

Milwee told the Board of Commissioners "It has become necessary for us to start early because we hope, in April, to have under our employment as many teachers as possible for the next school year."

The Seminole County Superintendent of Public Instruction, in a prepared statement, told the Board "Records from the Florida Education Association show that Seminole County is making an effort comparable to any county in the State in endeavoring to provide an adequate salary schedule for its teachers. Approximately 45% of the total current expense money in the 1955-56 Budget of the County School Board will be used for instructional salaries."

The Board of Public Instruction is now lowering the constitutional limit of 20 mills for the operation of the schools. Of these 20 mills, 12 are used to supplement teachers' salaries at the present time.

"In spite of this effort, 31 counties in the State pay a beginning teacher with a 1 year degree more money than Seminole, and 21 counties pay a teacher with a 4 year degree more than Seminole and 10 counties pay a higher maximum."

"With the school population increasing at the rate of several hundred new children a year, and teachers retiring, others leaving school, and still some leaving for the profession for more liberal opportunities, it will be necessary for the county to pay for an additional 100 to 150 teachers in the next 10 years. Therefore, it has become imperative for a county to make a salary schedule with some latitude, consistent with the public opinion, and retaining the Seminole County is one of the 4 counties in the State that does not use Race Track Funds for educational purposes. It is requested by the Board of Public Instruction that a portion of this fund be allocated for increasing the salaries of instructional personnel of the county school system."

The proposal to appropriate the $50,000 for teachers' salaries met no opposition from members of the Board of County Commissioners or from the small audience (Continued on Page Eight)

THE PROPOSED FOUR LANE route of 17-92 across Lake Monroe from the foot of the French Ave. throughway to join a Volusia County Road at Enterprise and the present route of 17-92 two miles south of Orange City. Proposed by Commissioner John Krider, the new route would be shortened by approximately four miles.

SNAAS Chaplain Is Speaker At Easter Sunrise Services

The annual Easter Sunrise Services sponsored by the Seminole County Memorial Association will be held at 6:30 a. m. Sunday, April 1, at the Memorial Stadium, Mellonville Ave., with the Rev. Robert H. Spear, pastor of the Church of the Nazarene, president and Chaplain Lynn Arnold of the Sanford Naval Auxiliary Air Station as the speaker.

The Seminole High School band, Ernest Cowley, director, will play "In Three Is Gladness" (Lundin) and "Jesus, Joy of Man's Desiring" (Bach). The choir of the same school, under the direction of Miss Olive Reese Whittle will sing "Beneath the Cross of Jesus" (Markus) and "Rise, Arise" (Norman). The Rev. Chester W. Plank, pastor of the Pinecrest Baptist Mission, will read the Scripture lesson and offer prayer. Led by the Rev. David S. Carney, pastor of the Christian and Missionary Alliance Church, the congregation will sing "Hail the Lord Is Born Today" For his Father's message Chaplain Arnold has chosen the theme, "What the Resurrection Means to Me."

The public is invited, and a large crowd is expected. Members of the Tri-H.Y. and the Key Club of Seminole High will act as ushers.

Some fear was expressed over the fact that registration books will close on April 6. In order that citizens might be better informed, the committee authorized the use of advertisements emphasizing both the closing date for registration and the location of political rallies in the county.

Mrs. R. A. Goodspeed told of the concern of the committee over the fact that the committee "has never been consulted when a vacancy occurs in an appointive office." However, no discussion grew out of the statement.

Prior to the business session considering the proposed agenda for the meeting, two new committee members were elected to membership from District 14. They were Mrs. Josephine Anselm and O. B. Hughes.

11 Rallies Slated Before May Primary

A total of 11 rallies will be held in Seminole County prior to the Democratic Primary of May 8, according to a decision reached by the Seminole County Democratic Executive Committee which met Friday night at the Seminole County Court House.

Committee members and committee women from each of the precincts in Seminole County, making up the Seminole County Democratic Executive Committee, heard remarks from candidates who will speak at the coming rallies.

Each candidate, making known his views regarding the number of rallies to be held and the locations where they will be held, presented as many rallies as possible and said, "I will abide by the wishes of the committee."

Judge Ernest Housholder, unopposed in the coming primary, told the committee and the group of candidates, "These meetings and rallies are very important and help in reaching voters."

Tax Collector John Galloway also unopposed said, "I suggest that local candidates be heard first at these rallies."

However, James Lee, chairman of the committee said, "That has always been our policy with few exceptions."

The schedule of rallies, approved Tuesday, April 3, Lake Monroe, Saturday, April 7, Lake Mary, Tuesday, April 10; Longwood, Thursday, April 12; Bear Lake, Tuesday, April 17; Altamonte Springs, Thursday, April 19; Paula, Friday, April 20; Fern Park at Prairie Lake American Legion Hut, Saturday, April 21; Oweo, Tuesday, April 24; Geneva, Friday, April 27; and in Sanford again, Friday, May 4.

Krider Proposes Extension Of 17-92 Across Lake Monroe

113 New Members Are Registered In Safety Club

More than 200 children turned out Saturday morning for the first big event to be enjoyed by members of the Bicycle Safety Club.

Sponsored by the Sanford Police Department, a winner road was held which attracted 113 additional members in register for the bicycle safety organization and more than 200 of the children who were already registered in two previous meetings held in Fort Mellon Park at the lakefront.

Sparked by a bicycle safety campaign in five of Sanford's public schools, children turned out for the get-together with good weather highly in favor of the successful venture.

Patrolman Ben Butler, in charge of the Sanford Police Department bicycle safety campaign, Patrolman Leo Brock, Mrs. Frances Murray, originator of the bicycle safety club idea for Sanford and Seminole County, and Mrs. Anne Mitchell, chairman of the P-TA safety committee, found Sanford schools in behalf of bicycle safety and invited boys and girls to the event.

Assisting the Sanford Police Department in furnishing hot dogs, cold drinks and potato chips for Saturday's winner road were: Nehf-Buttler Company, Lovett's Store, Lay Potlino Chip Company and Hunter Ice and Fuel Co.

Police Chief Dr. W. E. Williams, Sergeant Russell Teich, Desk Sergeant Estelle Jennings, Patrolman Ben Butler and Leo Brock were on hand to assist in the registration of boys and girls as well as to conduct the inspections and safety tests for those joining the bicycle safety group.

Inspection safety tests and registration were held from 11 to 12 o'clock Saturday morning with the winner road getting underway at noon with the assistance of P-TA members.

"It was the biggest turnout in our campaign to promote bicycle safety," Chief Boy Williams said.

"We are amazed at the big turnout at today's event," Patrolman Ben Butler remarked.

And Mrs. Frances Murray said, "We are pleased with the number of children who are responding to our campaign to promote bicycle safety."

Altamonte Springs Attains $500 Quota For Fund Campaign

Mrs. Alden L. Bridgers, chairman of the 1956 fund campaign of the Seminole County Chapter Altamonte Springs has attained its $500 quota for the 1956 fund campaign.

The Rev. John W. Clardy, pastor of the Protestant Episcopal Chapel and chairman of the Red Cross in the Altamonte Springs division, says that the credit goes to his co-chairman, Mrs. Carlisle W. Seymour but Mrs. Seymour says that it was Dr. Clardy's inspirational leadership that spurred her on to success in a race where all the odds were against them. The little town is also being canvassed for a $20,000 church school building fund.

Mrs. Helen Bassman and Mrs. J. R. Roberts were the first workers to turn in their kits. Although the quota for Altamonte Springs has been reached, Mrs. Seymour stated that it has not yet been fully canvassed, but plans are to complete the coverage by March 31.

At a county progress meeting held at the Sanford office, March 20, it was found that the county as a whole is lagging pitifully slow in its $2,070, total quota. As of March 20, $1,431.00 was deposited in the campaign bank account, with the $1,500 pledge of the Sanford Naval Base making a total of $2,731.00.

$700 of this amount was brought in by Mrs. Stanley Kuntze, chairman of the south Seminole division.

Mrs. Elizabeth Duff, head of the Stella group reported by telephone that she had collected $170, as of March 20. Mrs. W. R. Meck of Oweo had just begun the campaign there. This group is also being canvassed for a church fund.

According to Mrs. Daisy Knox, executive secretary of the Sanford office, Geneva has collected approximately $70 under the leadership of Miss Lucienne Stone. She also said that A. R. Peterson Jr., reported by telephone that the Sanford business district which he is heading has collected about $147 of the $1500 Sanford quota.

Mrs. Philip May, Sanford resident leader reported that she has collected about $300 of the $1300 residential quota.

Mrs. F. D. Scott and Mrs. Fred Pinkus, who head the outlying residential group had no report. Mrs. Elmer B. Palmer, Board member, will cover the business from 27 street south on French Ave. immediately.

The Negro division under Prof. J. S. Croome has not been heard from.

The proposed route is expected to draw wide approval from Sanford, Seminole and Volusia Counties where the problem of providing a throughway has been a complex one.

The sketch of the proposed route and causeway shows that two bridges would cross the present channels, both of sufficient height to allow a constant flow of watercraft traffic both of pinacure boats and freight barges.

Krider said today that the project should be one that demands immediate attention for the modernization of our Central Florida highway system.

AMA Interested In Legislative Health Matters

CHICAGO (U. S. P. —) Whenever Congress gets a proposal which seems to lack of government control over the nation's health problems, a thunderous protest comes from a gray, granite building on Chicago's North Side.

It's headquarters of the American Medical Assn., sounding its opposition in unmistakable terms.

Does the AMA have the ethical right to plunge so emphatically into controversial matters involving the nation's health? Did its founders intend the AMA to be a watchdog; or simply a body devoted to education and research?

Dr. George F. Lull, the association's bluff, genial secretary and general manager, maintains that it is perfectly proper for the AMA to take sides on health issues.

Dr. Lull, a former deputy surgeon general of the Army, goes back to the date of the association's founding—May 8, 1847—to support his point.

On that day, the 350 delegates meeting in Philadelphia, adopted a code of ethics which said, among other things:

"As good citizens, it is the duty of physicians to be ever vigilant for the welfare of their community and to bear their part in sustaining its institutions and burdens."

One report, read to the delegates, considered "the expediency and mode of urging upon state governments the adoption of measures for a registration of births, marriages and deaths." Another referred to "the inefficiency of legislative aid in sustaining sound scientific institutions."

Today the AMA pursues its interest in legislative health matters with undiminished vigor, even though such a course has often resulted in controversy and criticism. One recent critical study, for example, said some observers consider the association "the most powerful legislative lobby in Washington."

The doctors who founded the AMA in 1847 were concerned about the poor quality of medical education, the brisk traffic in patent medicines and secret remedies and the lack of a recognized code of ethics.

The organization dedicated itself to this purpose: "To promote the science and art of medicine and the betterment of public health."

To help promote the science and art of medicine, the AMA pumps 60 per cent of its annual nine million dollars revenue into scientific activities.

These include scientific publications for doctors, annual conventions and clinical meetings, medical exhibits and films, an elaborate medical library and the expenses of various councils, composed of doctors who serve without remuneration.

The AMA's stand on public health has attracted publicity since the organization declared war several years ago on legislative proposals which it says will lead to "specialized medicine."

This fight reached a peak in 1930 when the AMA waged a million dollar advertising campaign against what it called "the danger of socialized medicine and threatening trend toward state socialism."

Is American Race Realizing Genetic Change in Face?

LOS ANGELES (U. S. P. —) Is the American race undergoing a genetic change in its facial characteristics and inclining toward the receding chin type?

Dr. Alton Moore, assistant dean of the University of Washington School of Dentistry, says there is evidence to indicate that such a change is taking place.

The face of Mr. America of 2038 may look very much like Caspar Milquetoast of 1938. School surveys of children in Seattle and other cities in the nation showed that 71 per cent of high school students had badly aligned teeth. In more than half these cases, this defect causes disfigurement—usually a receding chin, he said.

This, he told the Los Angeles Dental Society, may mean that we are drifting away from the straight Roman profile as the common standard of facial beauty.

Our baseball team is off to a wonderful start—two wins and no losses. The team won their first game with Winter Garden 12 to 3 and Wednesday they beat Ovid 6 to 0. The boys have been practicing for weeks and it seems to have been profitable.

The three pitchers, Ernie Morris, Jim Hawkins and L. C. Smith have the complete support of the team. The starting line-up includes Bobby Johnson, Robert Cater, John Down, Ronnie Russi, Eddie Barbour, David Galloway, Robert Samuel and Edwin Madden.

Friday was the day for the Glee Club. Ever since the beginning of this semester they have been practicing for District. They performed together and in groups.

The Girls Glee Club made superior ratings, which means they will go to Tampa to compete in the State Contest; The Boys made excellent; and the Glee Club made excellent.

Saturday the solos were judged and have not been announced as of yet. Those singing were Pat Harrington, Kaye Jenkins, Wesley Dees and Kenneth Ramsey.

The ensemble which consists of Pat Harrington, Lois Barneau, Sylvia Price, Nancy White, Kenneth Ramsey, Richard Tison and Wayne McCoy sang also.

Wednesday the Library Council sponsored their annual vice-versa "Variety Show." Boone High School of Orlando presented the program which featured their Future Farmers String Band. Later this year we will present Boone High Variety Show.

March 21 the Library will attend a district convention. Pat Nix, Jerry Huxon, Claudette Hawkins, Carol McNeil and Eva Spears will be our representatives.

I would like to correct a small error I made last week. Janice Kinlaw wishes it made clear that she is not the simplest form of animal life. Her part in the Senior Class Play is Amelia not "Ameba."

Ware Bible Class Holds Supper; Has Business Meet

FEATURING WOOL FOR SPRING is this suit in "plique wool" of a bright new shade called "Bomina Blue." This Hattie Carnegie original features slim lines, discreet details and beauty of fabric. "Flutter openings" or wing insert detail below natural petal collar; are dramatized with bluebird jewels. The skirt is straight, the waistline slim, natural and easy, with jacket edges moulded over the blouse.

Dip small sugar lumps in orange juice; press into tops of rich laking powder biscuits before baking.

Work savor: canned scrapple that needs only to be sliced and fried. Nice for Sunday morning breakfast.

The members learned that Florida had the worst fire record of any state in the union and of the eight million acres set on fire in the U. S. two of them were in Florida. One important thing learned was "Woodman, Woodman, spare that tree, because by 75 you're going to need it."

Gov. LeRoy Collins was honored guest at the banquet. All members were then invited to the mansion for are ception. The tables were beautifully decorated in silver", one member said.

In the receiving line were Mrs. Arthur Moore, chairman of the convention; Gov. Collins, Mrs. Collins, Mrs. Bradley Morris, Mrs. C. J. Sanders of Nashville, Tenn. The reception continued until midnight.

Motorists—Drive Slowly; Check Brakes, Keep In A-1 Condition

Do you know that the average top speed of U. S. cars has gone from 66 to 97 miles per hour? It took a 1946 car 24 seconds to speed up from 10 to 60 miles per hour. Today's models can do it easily in less than 11 seconds. When you stop to consider the fact that the average braking distance for a car going 60 miles per hour is 100 feet, these high-speed statistics tend to be a little upsetting. Acceleration, it seems, is in the order of the day. Naturally, we begin to wonder who was doing anything about deceleration.

Well, you'll probably be glad to know that somebody is doing something about it. A check with one of the foremost manufacturers of friction materials for automobile brake makers, turned up the good news that, in spite of all the current emphasis on speed, the rush to rush pell-mell into destruction is not as rampant as it seems. Despite the increase in potential car speeds—the average highway speed today is about the same as it was eight years ago.

Moreover, automobile brakes are better than ever. According to the National Safety Council, a 26-state check of motor vehicles involved in traffic accidents turned up only 2% with unsafe brakes. And a study made by one of the leading insurance companies found defective brakes to be responsible for only 1.6% of more than 2,000,000 vehicles in non-fatal accidents, and only 1.5% of 42,850 in fatal accidents. Yes, evidently America's brakes are in pretty good shape, and engineers say they're getting even better.

On the other hand, studies show that motorists don't always keep their brakes in proper condition. For example, one nationwide safety-check of more than a million vehicles found more than a quarter of a million of them to be unsafe—and improperly serviced brakes were a major reason in over 97,000 cases. More than 23% of the passenger cars which were safety-checked

Ike's Illness Affects Heart Story

By BELMAN MORIN (For Hal Boyle)

NEW YORK (AP) — President Eisenhower's illness has had some interesting and far-reaching effects on the whole story of heart trouble in the United States.

It is as though a curtain had been pulled, letting in a lot of light. This thought struck me forcibly during some recent political pulse-taking along the Atlantic seaboard. I talked with politicians and corporation heads, but most with plain John Smith, the voter, and his wife. The question of the President's physical condition naturally figured in most of these conversations.

Several things emerged. People now have a very good idea of exactly what happens in a "heart attack." Newspapers published an immense amount of basic information and explanation, along with charts and diagrams, after the President was stricken. In short, the ABCs of this disability are pretty well known now whereas, before, it was a mysterious and terrifying subject to most of us.

Also, business executives discovered that they have more cardiac cases in their organizations than they realized. "I was surprised about some in this office," said a New York business leader. "I never would have suspected them."

Still another result seems to have been that people who had heart attacks have lost some sky-scraper about discussing the problem.

I met several who, in discussing the coming election, quietly volunteered the information that they had been through the same experience as Eisenhower.

Three out of four said they would vote for him, although one said he thought the President was "foolish" to undertake a second term.

Another story seems funny now to the man who lived through it. He said that, for years, he had pains in his chest and an occasional flutter, and was convinced he had heart trouble. He told nobody, and said he couldn't bring himself to see his doctor and get the verdict. Instead, he lived in spasms of dread. Then the President's case steered him to have an examination. It showed a spinal dislocation.

All he needed, he said, was a built-up shoe!

Unquestionably, some of the panic and terror about heart disease has been dispelled simply by the publicity the President's attack brought to it.

"People know that thousands of others have had attacks, survived them, and gone on to live happy and useful lives. They know that 'cardiac' is not an invalid. Statistics in the United States are sometimes called 'alarming.' But the odds are still heavily in your favor that you won't have an attack. One corporation, which had had a number of cases in a given year, discovered they amounted to exactly 1 out of every 100 employees.

It seems certain, too, that more

Holy Week

THE LAST SUPPER—When the day of the feast of the unleavened bread arrived, the disciples asked Jesus where they should prepare the Passover. He instructed Peter and John, "Go ye into the city, and there shall meet you a man bearing a pitcher of water: follow him. And whosoever he shall go in, say ye to the goodman of the house, The Master saith, Where is the guestchamber, where I shall eat the Passover with my disciples?" This accomplished, Jesus and the twelve disciples gathered to eat, but, as they did, Jesus warned, "Verily, I say unto you, One of you which eateth with me shall betray me." Breaking bread, He said, "This is my body which is given for you: this do in remembrance of me." Then He took the cup, saying, "This cup is the new testament in my blood, which is shed for you."

Senate Shows No Unusual Anxiety

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst
WASHINGTON (AP) — For 159 years—ever since 1797—Congress has talked about amending the Constitution to change the Electoral College system of choosing a president and vice president.

The Senate, debating it again, is wading in muddy water. Democrats and Republicans are divided among themselves. Neither friends nor foes of the amendment being considered can positively predict its ultimate effect if it became law.

Because delegates to the Constitutional Convention in 1787 didn't trust the wisdom of the average voter in choosing a president and vice president, they put this method into the Constitution: Each state would choose distinguished citizens—equal in number to a state's total number of senators and representatives in Congress—to select a president and vice president. These citizens were called electors.

The framers of the Constitution didn't foresee the rise of the big political parties which use the electoral system this way: Each party in each state picks a slate of electors. When a party's candidate wins the popular vote in a state, all that party's electors vote for its candidate although, under the Constitution, they could vote for whom they pleased.

A state's electoral votes all go to the candidate winning a plurality of the popular vote. For example, in a state with 45 electoral votes candidate Smith gets 100,000 U. S. Army Rifle and Pistol Team headquarters at Fort Benning, Ga.

The sergeant, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Gano, Route 2, is a veteran of nine years of Army service. He has served in the Far East.

Descendants of dogs used on previous arctic expeditions went with Adm. Richard Byrd's latest expedition.

41 electoral votes while the 499,000 people who voted for Jones count for nothing.

This has long been criticized as a weak spot in the electoral system. Why not a constitutional amendment to let a president and vice president be chosen directly by popular vote?

It is not being seriously considered now. It seems to have little chance. The Constitution can't be amended unless—in addition to two thirds of the Senate and House—38 of the 48 states approve.

The three-part main proposal for amending the Constitution now being considered in the Senate would retain the electoral system but work this way, with some of the arguments being offered against it:

No. 1. No candidate would automatically get all of a state's electoral votes. Each candidate would get a portion of a state's electoral votes in proportion to his popular vote.

Argument against: Big states whose popular vote might be pretty evenly divided—and thus have their electoral vote divided—would lose the importance and value of their big population. Smaller states, particularly those where one party dominates, would gain and might control an election.

No. 2. Instead of doing it the proportional way, a state legislature could decide to let the voters choose electors the way they pick members of Congress: two electors would be chosen for the whole state (as senators are) and the rest would be elected by congressional districts.

Argument against: Rural areas have too much influence now—both in state legislatures and the way congressional districts are set—in proportion to their numbers. This would give them even more influence in picking a president.

No. 3. If no party got 50 per cent of the electoral vote, the House and Senate jointly would pick the President and vice president.

Argument against: This not only would delay the choice of a president but could turn the presidency into a football in a game of political deals to get a majority vote in Congress.

Newspaperman's Tour Report

This is the seventh in a series of articles written by Mrs. Carnegie Walls while representing The Sanford Herald on a tour of foreign countries.

These last two days have certainly been exciting and — at times — uneasy ones for our group. As I told you in my last letter mailed in Rome, our departure for Athens was being delayed a day to await definite guarantee of our safety and permission to get in and out of Greece.

The past week has been chaotic in British-Greek relations. As everyone knows by now, when the negotiations between the two countries collapsed last week and Archbishop Makarios of Cyprus was arrested and exiled by the British, Greek anger and bitterness reached a new high. The Cyprus problem, of course, is an old one — going back many years — and is a simple one to explain. The island of Cyprus, half a million population, is owned by Great Britain. Greece because of the heavy Greek percentage of the population, is demanding self determination for Cyprus in the belief that the predominant Greek population will join with Greece rather than remain with Britain or join with Turkey.

However, apparently the solution is, unfortunately, not as simple as the explanation of the problem.

The United States is in a ticklish spot in that two of its allies are quarrelling bitterly and with a third, Turkey, interested and each is asking for the support of our country. The importance of this area is, of course, obvious when one looks at a map and sees the nearness of the Communist controlled countries.

I shall not begin to give an opinion on this question — much can be said for both sides and it is much too complicated an item for an inexperienced reporter like me. I will, however, report very briefly on what was said to our group of newspaper and radio people this morning by three members of the Greek cabinet — the Minister of the Prime Minister's Office, the Foreign Affairs Minister and Prime Minister Karamanlis himself.

In true Greek eloquence, these three men made passionate and firm appeals for U. S. intervention on behalf of Greece. They all made statements indicating their belief that if Greece doesn't receive the Western world's backing on Cyprus, she may very well go Communist because, in the words of the Prime Minister, (1) she is poor (the average per capita income of Greece is 250.00 annually) and (2) her people will believe that there is no justice or democracy in the West. These people are bitter and hurt and a great deal of the hurt feelings became violent ones when the Archbishop was exiled by the British.

It is hard for a non-Greek and especially an American to understand the system used here but the Church (Greek Orthodox Church) and the state are one. The head of the Church is quite literally looked to as the political head of the state although it is a limited monarchy.

Because of the anger and violence and the fact that on the day before we arrived, over 150 people were injured in Athens in riots, our group has had an armed police guard, furnished by the Greek Government, at all times. Most of the crowd's ire was directed toward the British but some of it was anti-American too and the officials wanted to take no chances with a group of English-speaking people. In the event a people's demonstration scheduled for this afternoon broke earlier, our group director had arranged with the officials for armored cars to take us directly to the airport and our planes. However, this proved to be unnecessary — to our great relief.

In spite of all the political excitement, etc., we have had a good time in the beautiful city of Athens. King Paul received us yesterday for an hour in his home. His lovely wife, Queen Frederica, was in Holland where she had taken their daughter to assist at the debut of one of Queen Juliana's daughters. This royal couple has endeared themselves to not only Greece but to the rest of the world by their personalities and relaxed good manners.

The King received us in a large sitting room, which had comfortable furniture, light, airy draperies, cut flowers and family portraits everywhere. It could have been, and obviously is, the living room of a close knit, well-to-do family. The whole palace was in the same vein. King Paul was a delightful host — ready wit, spoke beautiful English with a rather crisp British accent. He answered questions in detail — making points with hand gestures and never "fence-riding" as so many public figures do. He expressed a deep fondness for the United States saying he and the Queen wished they could come over every year for a couple of weeks.

Some of the many interesting things I noted in the room were the informal oil portraits of the King and Queen, an impressive bronze cast on the piano of their two right hands lying palm up ward and the King's really magnificent collection of jade. Another delight to the visitors was, of course, the complement of Palace Guards in their traditional costumes of red hats tipped to the side, short, fullpleated white skirts over long white tights and pom-pom adorned shoes. These guards are honor soldiers of the Greek Army and one of the physical requirements for this post is that they must be six feet tall and not bowlegged or knock-kneed.

A tour of the Acropolis was arranged for us for the afternoon and all I can say with my short space of time is that surely God and man joined hands centuries ago to create such beauty as is seen on the top of this hill overlooking Athens — the mountains and the Sea. The whole area topped by the Parthenon simply abounds with the Greek architectural beauty of simplicity and the knowledge that here — at this very spot — democracy in its purest form was born. I left with the feeling of having been to church an every night to my Maker.

U. S. Ambassador and Mrs. Cavendish W. Cannon entertained with a reception in our group's honor after our Embassy briefing session. It was a good party with many interesting local people as well as Americans — one of whom was a very intelligent and likeable Embassy economist named Dawson, whose home is in Montomery.

We are landing in Cairo in a few minutes and I want to get this mailed immediately so will close.

An Open Letter To Grace Kelly

HOLLYWOOD—An open letter to Grace Kelly:

Dear Grace:

This is the week when you are scheduled to leave Hollywood perhaps never to return. Your fiance, Prince Rainier, has said that he doesn't think you should make any more pictures.

It's a shame. Hollywood dearly needs new stars. It is ironic that the movies have apparently lost the two brightest new stars to come along in recent times—yourself and James Dean.

But what I wanted to write about was not the loss of box office brilliance which your retirement would bring about. It seems to me that if you leave the movie scene—as apparently you will do as a dutiful wife—something important will have gone away.

There have been times when you have been exasperated with Hollywood. And I know you are aware of those who have been exasperated with you. A director once snapped that you had "stainless steel inside."

One columnist said of you: "She remains Hollywood's most untalkative actress, a sort of female counterpart of Gary Cooper, except that the Kelly lass is far too well bred to say anything as gauche as 'yup.'"

You have been the despair of interviewers, sometimes including myself. Writers have poked fun at your long white gloves, your dignified bearing, your regal hairdo.

That's all part of the jostling around that all celebrities get. But I think your critics will share my sorrow at your departure.

You brought to Hollywood a quality that has seldom been seen here. The town has its ladies, but usually their dignity has come with the years. It is not often that a young actress presents herself so uncompromisingly as a real lady.

Usually it's quite the reverse. The quickest way to fame in this town is for a gal to display her more physical aspects. Many a famous name has taken that route, and I'm not knocking sex. No, indeed. My point is that it's refreshing and downright admirable for a girl to achieve fame strictly on the basis of her highest qualities.

Possibly you would have made it faster the other way. Certainly you didn't set the screen on fire in your early films like "14 Hours" and "High Noon." But you persevered and went straight to the top on the strength of your acting ability alone. No cheesecake. No sexy sayings. No pictures of Grace whipping up an omelet in the kitchen of her apartment.

Slice rounds of carrot and cut away the centers. Thrust small sprigs of water cress through the carrot rings and serve as an appetizer or use as a garnish.

Breading sea scallops for a Friday night supper? Count on a quarter cup of fine dry bread crumbs for each pound of scallops.

Too Late To Classify

The other day a man I have known for a good many years dropped by my office to pay his respects. He is an old man and has been kicking around here on earth for something over 80 years. He makes no claims as a philosopher, but he is retired and doesn't have much to do but read and talk and think. He set me back on my heels and gave me something to think about. It impressed me so that I felt justified in passing it on and maybe you will get the same kick out of it that I did.

We were just making conversation, talking about this and that and I was doing a heap of griping. You know griping is an old American custom. We all enjoy feeling sorry for ourselves. I was crying about the new $1.00 an hour minimum wage law and pointed out that I now had to pay slaves $1.00 an hour to do menial jobs that a grade school kid could perform. I also griped about the increased cost of living and doing business in general.

My old friend sat and listened. He didn't interrupt, just smoked his pipe and nodded his head. I thought he was sympathetic and got louder and more detailed.

When I was out of breath and all through he started in on me. First he asked if I believed in God. I indignantly assured him that I did. "Well," he said, "in that case, I assume you give God credit for whatever abundance you may enjoy. You have a business, a fine family, a car, a boat and a lot of things that a great many other folks don't have."

"Did it ever occur to you that other folks, youngsters coming up, want the same things that you enjoy? They have the same problems as you have - bills, increased living costs, sickness, and the like."

And he continued, "Now this money you are crying about. It isn't really yours you know. It's God's. Evidently He considers you mentally capable of receiving and using it in accordance with His plan; or, on the other hand, maybe He's not quite sure about you and is giving you a chance to prove yourself."

Then he went on to say that some years ago he learned the good Lord entrusted him with. Instead of thinking so much about getting it, he started to think about how much pleasure it was to give it; not necessarily as charity, but in paying his employees, his grocer, his taxi driver or barber.

kept thinking about it as "my" money, and spent my time griping about having to spend it."

"I'm not advising you to throw your money away or pay more than a service or product is worth. Get value received and be glad that you are able to pay the other fellow and find happiness for yourself in the knowledge that the money you spend can bring comfort and happiness to others."

Action by Commissioner Uitz... to make an annual appropriation of $50,000 met brief resistance in an attempt to change the action to provide the necessary money for one year only.

Commissioner E. C. Dodd said... Our road system is growing... that if $50,000 is taken away we will have to find additional funds.

The possibility of adding two mills to next year's requirement... additional tax monies brought... from the Board of Commissioners. John Melach said... The job of City or County Commissioner would not be near as hard if people were informed. The statement grew out of the fact that many of the taxpayers do not know where their money is being spent.

Questioned by the Board of Commissioners as to what other uses the new appropriation would be applied, Milwee said "The law provides that these funds supplement teachers salaries."

The motion to appropriate the $50,000 was seconded by Commissioner Melach and carried unanimously.

Old Hand-Dip Pens Will Soon Vanish

The old-style, scratchy, hand-dip pen in post offices will, within six months, be a thing of the past, Sanford Postmaster Joel E. Summerfield said today as he released a statement by Postmaster General Arthur W. Summerfield.

Summerfield said today that bids have gone out for the manufacturing of 500,000 ball point pens and 500,000 refills for use in post offices throughout the country.

"Based on extensive studies made of these pens in actual use," the Postmaster General explained, "we have decided to make ball point pens standard equipment for the use of postal patrons."

Summerfield said experiments have been conducted for many months in the use of these pens at selected post offices in various sections of the country. The results proved so encouraging that overall use was recommended by the industrial engineers of the Office Department.

"The public as well as postal employees favored the use of these pens because of their ability to produce greater legibility. At the same time, their use will mean important savings in custodial labor formerly needed to fill ink wells, replace points and other work conducted with the old type."

Commenting on the pillage of these new pens, Summerfield noted that it was held to a minimum.

Jaycees Request Okay To Erect Sign On French Avenue

The Seminole County Junior Chamber of Commerce has brought to the attention of the State Road Department a serious situation that exists on the new French Avenue Thoroughway that, according to the letter directed to the State Road Department "endangers life and property and should be attended to immediately."

The letter to the DeLand Office of the State Road Department, signed by A. B. Peterson, Jr., president of the local Jaycee organization states that "cars entering either end of the intersection will usually signal their direction of turn with directional turn signals, which most of the newer cars have as standard equipment."

The angle of turn, according to the letter, at both of these intersections is not enough to disengage the directional turn signals on completion of the turn; thus the motorist continues on, not realizing that he is still indicating a turn to the right or left.

Peterson, in his letter to the State Road Department, asks that the Seminole County Junior Chamber of Commerce be given permission to erect a sign on the highway right-of-way between the curb and the sidewalk at both ends of French Avenue with the words "CHECK TURN SIGNAL, THANK YOU" or words to that effect.

The letter states, "If it is not possible for us to erect this sign due to State Road Department policy, please notify us what action you plan to take."

Deadline Is Set For Registering

There are only 11 more days left for citizens to register if they expect to vote in the coming primary elections to be held on May 8.

Mrs. Camilla Bruce, Seminole County Supervisor and Registration said today, as she warned that the deadline for registering is Saturday April 7.

So far, Mrs. Bruce said, there are 9700 registered voters in the county.

Very important, she said, is the fact that those who have changed address should notify the Supervisor of Registration immediately. "Actually, citizens are not entitled to vote if they live outside of the precinct they are registered in," Mrs. Bruce said.

Last week, reported the Supervisor of Registration, 192 new registrations were received when books were taken to Longwood and Altamonte Springs. In Longwood 87 registered and 75 registered in Altamonte Springs.

Wednesday night, March 28, the registration books will be taken to Oviedo in the City Hall from 8 to 10 p. m. for citizens there to register. Friday night, March 30 the books will be at Fern Park at the Prairie Lake American Legion. Saturday, April 1, the registration books will be at the Florida Power Company lounge in Bear Lake from 8 to 10 p. m.

The office of the Supervisor of Registration, in the Chamber of Commerce Building in Sanford, is open every Tuesday night from 7 to 9 p. m. for registration of qualified citizens.

"We believe that there are a large number of qualified voters who have not as yet registered and are living in the Sanford precincts," Mrs. Bruce said. "We hope that they will avail themselves of the opportunity to register now while the office is not crowded," she said.

When eyeglasses first were produced in the Middle Ages they often were regarded as products of the devil.

Cub Scout Pack Ten had a large attendance at its March meeting last Thursday night at the First Methodist Church. The Honor Flag for largest percentage of representatives present was won by Den Six.

The Webelos Den conducted the opening and closing ceremonies. Europe Will Have Another American Motorized Invasion

NEW YORK (AP)—Europe is about to have another American motorized invasion. This time, however, it is a peaceful trip by folks taking their own homes with them.

About 225 people, ranging in age from 8 to 85, are in the junket called "Trailer Tour of Europe." The objective is to tour Europe and make friends, both for themselves and for America.

Mostly retired folks, these tourists are taking a total of 60 trailer homes with them. They represent 17 of the states, the majority of them from California and Florida.

Wallie Byam, who heads the junket, says, "We want to make friends for America in a real way, without resorting to the dollar sign."

The 60-year-old retired Los Angeles construction engineer calls the mountain of work of organizing and arranging the trip—"a no pay to himself or others—"my hobby."

As an assistant he has his cousin Mrs. Helen Byam Schwamborn, whom he calls his "secretary." Like her cousin, friend-making abroad is a passion with her. This is how it is done, she says:

"We move our homes to their cities and become a part of their community, invite them to our homes and they in turn invite us to theirs. That way we make good friends."

Byam and Mrs. Schwamborn will leave in the first section of tourists departing from Brooklyn next Tuesday aboard the Black Diamond liner Black Condor. The other tourists and their trailers will leave via separate means.

About 20 girls, representing various Florida cities, are expected to enter the Miss Florida Pageant at Sunshine Springs and the winner will compete for national honors at the Miss America Pageant in September.

Largest Porpoise Born At Marine Studios Is Dead

MARINELAND (AP)—The largest porpoise born at Marine Studios was discovered in the tanks early Wednesday, but it was dead.

The baby bottlenose dolphin was 44½ inches long and weighed 37 pounds. Normally they are about 23 pounds and about 30 inches long.

This was the infant of Spray known to have been born in captivity—born at Marineland in 1947. Spray has had one other baby two years ago.

F. G. Wood, curator, said he didn't believe the size of the new one was a factor in the death. The baby was taken from the water for examination.

On Thursday Susie gave birth to the 13th porpoise to be born alive in the tanks—Perky which was living up to its name today.

Fifty boys and girls, members of the fifth and sixth grades sang their way into the hearts of the ordinarily seriously minded businessmen and professional men in a manner that brought smiles to the faces of all concerned.

From the moment Miss Nunnally, after grouping the young singers to best advantage, called for and received their undivided attention until the final burst of applause from the Rotarians, the ensemble showed the effect of painstaking practice and diligent study. The event will long be remembered by both organizations.
