LAKE MARY - Police encountered a new twist in the investigation of ever-increasing bank robberies in Central Florida, after a Lake Mary bank was robbed by a young woman Wednesday.

The latest robbery occurred at mid-afternoon

In Lake Mary, at Colonial Bank, at the corner of Lake Mary Blvd. and Lake Emma Road.

According to Lake Mary Police Chief Richard Beary, "At approximately 3:40 p.m., a white female, approximate age 27, entered the bank carrying a knapsack. She implied she had a weapon but none was actually seen during the robbery.

Speed humps save lives, some residents say; others claim they're a nuisance and a danger

By RUSS WHITE
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD - Bob Zaitooni, the manager of the county's Traffic Engineering Division, is braced for a bumpy ride.

He is determined to satisfy the residents along Holliday Ave., in the southwest section of unincorporated Seminole County, Holliday Ave. gently winds around Bear Lake, a hop, skip and hump short of a mile. It is splendidly lined with trees and shrubbery.

One would think life on Holliday Ave. was lovely, indeed.

As Zaitooni well knows, it isn't.

There are those 10 speed humps causing a stir in Camelot.

The county installed the humps four years ago in a response to the residents who were upset about people speeding 20 miles an hour or more over the 25 mph speed limit. Their children were in danger.

The 10 speed humps were designed to make all drivers observe the 25 mph speed limit. They were installed for $10,000.

For awhile the Holliday residents were more than satisfied.

Now, a few are complaining, arguing it's time the humpy dumplings be removed. The humps are causing damage to their cars. They're a pain. Emergency vehicles could be delayed. "Roads should expedite not impede traffic," says remove-the-humps advocate Bob Webster.

Zaitooni, a 40-year-old engineer, said he realizes the county won't be able to please everyone. He said that he figures 80 percent of the residents want the humps to remain. But the 20 percent opposed are blowing loud horns. He must be the peacemaker.

"This is an emotional issue," Zaitooni said. "Not many people like to drive over humps. They're annoying. But they were built for a purpose. At the time, they were the best device the county had available. Seminole County helped pioneer speed humps in 1991."

Zaitooni said that the 10 speed humps on Holliday are among 172 the county installed from 1991 to 1994.

The Holliday results were dramatic:

+ Speeders going over 30 mph were reduced from 38 percent to 5 percent.

+ The average speeds decreased from 29.1 mph to 23.4 mph.

+ The cut-through traffic volume was reduced by 30 percent - from 2,289 to 1,608 a day.

+ In the three years before the humps were installed there were seven accidents on Holliday Ave. In the three years after there has been one when a driver fell asleep and ran into a wall.

"There are a few people who call and harass the county about the speed humps and they should be ignored," Holliday resident Nancy Dunn said Tuesday at a work session by the Board of Seminole County Commissioners. "Please let this issue die. Leave the speed humps where they are."

Webster said he had not driven his Lincoln Town Car from the garage for three months because he had torn up the right from suspension driving on Holliday Ave. "I was not even going 20 mph," Webster said. He also said emergency vehicles come to a near stop to negotiate the humps.

Zaitooni's game plan is to form a Holliday task force that will explore all options, and if there is a better solution than the present humps, to remove some or all of them at a cost of $400 apiece. The task force would be comprised of home owners, a public safety officer, Mayfair money: How was it spent?

By NICK FREDAUF
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD - Commissioners this week asked for an accounting of spending for improvements on the city-owned Mayfair golf course.

The establishment had entered into a five-year agreement with the city that it would spend $91,000 annually on improvements. The total for the five year program was to be $455,000.

Questions were raised about the city receiving proof that money spent was done so in the proper manner and for the proper reasons.

A memorandum issued to the commissioners by Finance Director Donna Watt, she explained that while Mayfair apparently spent less than the required amount for the first three years, over $91,000 was spent on improvements during the final two years of the contract.

"One concern that I have with the tracking of the expenses as allowed in the lease," she wrote, "is the lack of documentation that was presented to substantiate the expenses." She explained, "We have statements from the Mayfair saying they spent the required improvement money, but we have no documentation regarding what the money was spent for."

Mayor Larry Dale observed, "That's possibly a six to eight million dollar investment." He asked City Manager Bill Simmons, "What's the best way we could conduct some kind of audit?"

Simmons responded by suggesting the city go back for several recent years and

The arts are alive and well in county schools

By DAVID FRASER
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD - Two special checks were presented during the Seminole County School Board meeting Tuesday night.

The checks were awarded to Midway Elementary and to the Seminole County Public Schools in the amount of $12,000 a piece. The money raised came from the Arts Alive program which is to help out the pursuit of the arts in county schools.

An Arts Alive event occurred in November with a highly successful "black tie" extravaganza. The now-annual party was held at AAA and 300 people attended. The prime sponsor of the event was Lockheed. The $24,000 was raised as a result. "People are already wanting tables for this year's party," said Seminole County School Board member and co-chairman of Arts Alive, Bob Goff.

"We look forward to next year for it to be bigger and better," said Dede Schaffner, coordinator of Community Involvement/Public Information for Seminole County Public Schools.

During the Arts Alive event, students from area schools showcase their work. There is also live entertainment and other festivities throughout the night.

There is some question as to who should run the event, however. A decision whether to keep it with the school board or designate it to another organization was post-

Free concert

The "WMMO Downtown Concert Series" will end with a bang this Friday night as Duncan Sheik takes the stage for the grand finale of free concerts at Church Street Market. The concert series began last month with Poco and continued last Friday with Marty Balin of Jefferson Airplane/Starship fame. The free concerts, featuring nationally known celebrity acts, continue to set attendance and restaurant sales records within the historic downtown area.

This week, Finlandia and WMMO present contemporary artist, Duncan Sheik. His Atlantic self-titled album included the hit single "Barely Breathing," which spent more weeks on the charts than any other single of 1997. "Barely Breathing" was also nominated for a "Best Male Pop Vocal" Grammy.

Duncan Sheik took to his family's piano around the time he learned to speak, and he hasn't come up for air since. While attending Brown University, Duncan played with Lisa Loeb before he struck off on his own. "I didn't really start singing until my first year of college—very late. But the songs I was writing had gotten to the point where I needed to express them myself."

The "Duncan Sheik" album brings together different musical elements like an acoustic guitar, powerful string arrangements and electric

1997 deadliest year on record for Florida bears

Special to the Herald

As the International Conference on Wildlife Ecology and Transportation gets underway next week, the Florida Game and Fresh Water Fish Commission reported that in 1997, 71 bears were killed on Florida roads as a result of collisions with automobiles. The purpose of the conference, being held in Fort Myers, is to assess the ever-increasing impact of transportation on wildlife. The 71 bears killed in 1997 represents an all-time record number of deaths - an 18 percent increase from the previous record set in 1996.

"The record number of bears killed last year was a step backwards in the Florida black bear's bid for survival," warns Christine Small, Florida representative for Defenders of Wildlife and Field Coordinator for the Habitat For Bears Campaign. "Installing wildlife underpasses under roads characterized by high numbers of bear mortalities is fundamental to combat this alarming trend. These accidents are fatal to the bear and also terribly traumatic for the driver of the vehicle."

Since 1976, 600 bears have fallen victim to vehicle-caused mortalities statewide. Of these deaths, approximately 40 percent have occurred in just five counties in central Florida -- Lake, Marion, Putnam, Seminole and Orange which comprise the home-range of the Ocala bear population. The Ocala region includes three of the four most dangerous highways regarding bear fatalities in the state: State Road 40, State Road 19, and State Road 46.

Once, as many as 12,000 black bears roamed throughout Florida. Today, only an estimated 1500 remain. A distinct subspecies of the American black bear, the Florida black bear is listed as threatened by the State of Florida and is a candidate for federal listing under the Endangered Species Act. While habitat loss is the primary threat to the Florida black bear's survival, road mortality and habitat fragmentation are also significant factors in the bear's continued declining populations.

"The recent increases in bear mortalities should not be perceived as evidence of increasing bear populations. It is more likely the disturbing increases are due to an increasing traffic volume on Florida's highways in the last several years" says Terry DeBruyn, the state's Black Bear Section Leader at the Florida Game and Fresh Water Fish Commission.

The conference, being sponsored by Defenders of Wildlife, the Florida Department of Transportation, the Federal Highway Administration and the U.S. Forest Service will be held February 10-12. The conference will bring together ecologists, scientists, engineers, advocates, and policy makers in the fields of transportation and wildlife conservation to discuss the impact of roads on wildlife populations and how to avoid and minimize those impacts.

Florida roads pose a great threat to the bear's survival by fragmenting the few remaining blocks of essential bear habitat left in the region. Roads bisect and isolate large habitat areas upon which bears depend for food, water, and shelter. They also act as barriers, limiting a bear's ability to find resources and mates and to move into new, more desirable, habitat if needed in the future.

Be my Valentine: Who gets the most cards?

By MARK MERRILL
Florida Family Council

This Valentine's Day you will probably either send or receive a Valentine from someone. More than a billion are expected to be given away in the United States alone. Who gets Valentine cards? According to Hallmark Cards, people receive them in this order: teachers, children, mothers, wives, and sweethearts. The Hartz pet food company says that 3 percent of pet owners will even give a Valentine gift to their pets.

If you're like me, whenever Thanksgiving rolls around you picture the Pilgrims and the Indians sitting at a table breaking bread together. It's the story behind the holiday that provides the spirit of warmth. When it comes to Valentine's Day, there is also a true life story behind the holiday, and it has a lot to teach us about the true meaning of love, sacrifice and commitment.

In the third century, the Roman Empire was ruled by Emperor Claudius II Gothicus. He was nicknamed Claudius the Cruel because of his harsh leadership and his tendency for getting into wars and abusing his people. In fact, he was getting into so many wars during the third century that he was having a difficult time recruiting enough soldiers.

Claudius believed that recruitment for the army was down because Roman men did not want to leave their loves or families behind, so he canceled all marriages and engagements in Rome. Thousands of couples saw their hopes of matrimony dashed by the single act of a tyrant. And no one seemed interested in standing up to the emperor.

But a simple Christian priest named Valentine did come forward and stood up for love. He began to secretly marry soldiers before they went off to war, despite the emperor's orders. In 309 AD Emperor Claudius found out about the secret ceremonies. He had Valentine thrown into prison and deemed that he would be put to death.

As Valentine was awaiting execution, he fell in love with a blind girl, who happened to be the jailer's daughter. On the even of his execution, with no writing instruments available, Valentine is said to have written her a sonnet in ink that he squeezed from violets. Legend has it that his words made the blind woman see again. It was a brief romance because the next day Valentine was clubbed to death by Roman executioners.

St. Valentine gave his life so that young couples could be bonded together in holy matrimony. They may have killed the man, but not his spirit. Even centuries after his death, the story of Valentine's self-sacrificing commitment to love was legendary in Rome. Eventually he was granted sainthood and the Catholic Church decided to create a feast in his honor. They picked February 14 as the day of celebration because of the ancient that birds (particularly lovebirds, but also owls and doves) began to mate on that very day.

It's surprising to know that Valentine's Day is really founded on the concept of love in marriage. On This Valentine's Day, what are you doing to keep the love in your marriage burning?

While giving a gift and card, having a candlelight dinner, and sharing special words of love are all important, the true spirit of Valentine's Day needs to last throughout the year.

Here are some ways to bring more love into your marriage:

- Schedule priority time together. Pull out your calendars and set a date night every week or two—just to spend time together and talk. (Note: movies don't count.)

- Laugh together. When was the last time you shared a funny story and chuckled with each other? Loosen up and laugh freely. Live lightheartedly!

- Play together. Find a hobby or activity you both enjoy—fishing, bowling, tennis, hiking, or biking.

- Be romantic together. Send your spouse a note of encouragement in the mail every once in a while just to say "I love you." Spend one or two weekends away each year, just with your wife. (No buddies allowed.)

While Valentine's Day is a good time to put a spark back into your relationship, the only way to fan the flame of a good relationship is for every day to be a Hallmark moment.

Moments author Deanna Edwards at Fences Cards and Gifts during reading and book signing on Jan. 31.

Reading held at local shop; start of something special

Special to the Herald

Florida author, artist, photographer, Deanna Edwards read excerpts from her book Moment Saturday, Jan. 31 at Fences Cards and Gifts in historic downtown Sanford.

Moment contains 14 stories that capture significant moments in the lives of her characters. Patrons enjoyed wine and cheese, provided by We Three Girls Cafe, while listening to Edwards tell a heart warming story of a handicapped child pretending to be a mermaid in the ocean. There was also a book signing for those who purchased the book that evening. Copies are still available at Fences.

Edward's lean prose is ideally suited to the expression of joy, anguish, hope and fear her characters undergo in the courageous daily battles in which all of us engage. The volume is enhanced with Edward's photographs which relate, often enigmatically and mysteriously, to the stories in the collection. They provide an additional dimension to the vision embodied in these simple, but momentous narratives.

College scholarships available

Special to the Herald

The BYU Management Society of Central Florida is now accepting applications for six $1,000 scholarships for high school seniors in Orange, Ocoola and Seminole counties to attend the college of their choice.

Students from the specified counties can obtain application forms from their high school guidance counselors; application deadline is March 1. The BYU Management Society awards the scholarships based upon a combination of the applicant's academic achievement, school leadership and economic need. The society will bestow the scholarships at a banquet in June.

Funds for the scholarships were raised through a 100-person golf tournament hosted by the society at Kissimmee Bay Country Club in late 1997, plus through donations by the following individual and corporate sponsors: Universal Studios Florida; Walt Disney World Attractions Sales; Dr. Michael Ingalls, dentist; Bogin, Munns & Munns, attorneys at law; Graham, Clark, Jones, Builder, Pratt & Marks, attorneys at law and Park, Techopp & Whitcomb, accountants. A silent auction featuring a wide diversity of items for bid also contributed to the event's overall success.

The BYU Management Society of Central Florida was organized not only to promote professional development and networking among its members, but to provide service to the community," said Rulon Munns, member of the board of directors and scholarship chairman. "The annual golf tournament is the means by which corporate sponsors and individual members help those in need gain a higher education."

The program is designed to get the students to think seriously about important consumer issues. High school students spend billions of dollars each year but studies show many lack knowledge about consumer issues.

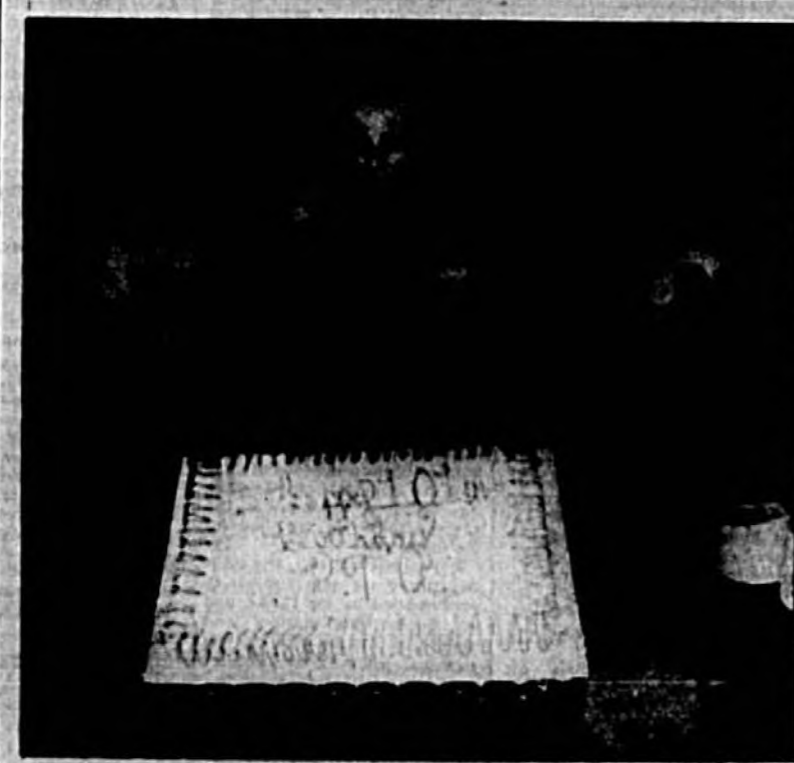

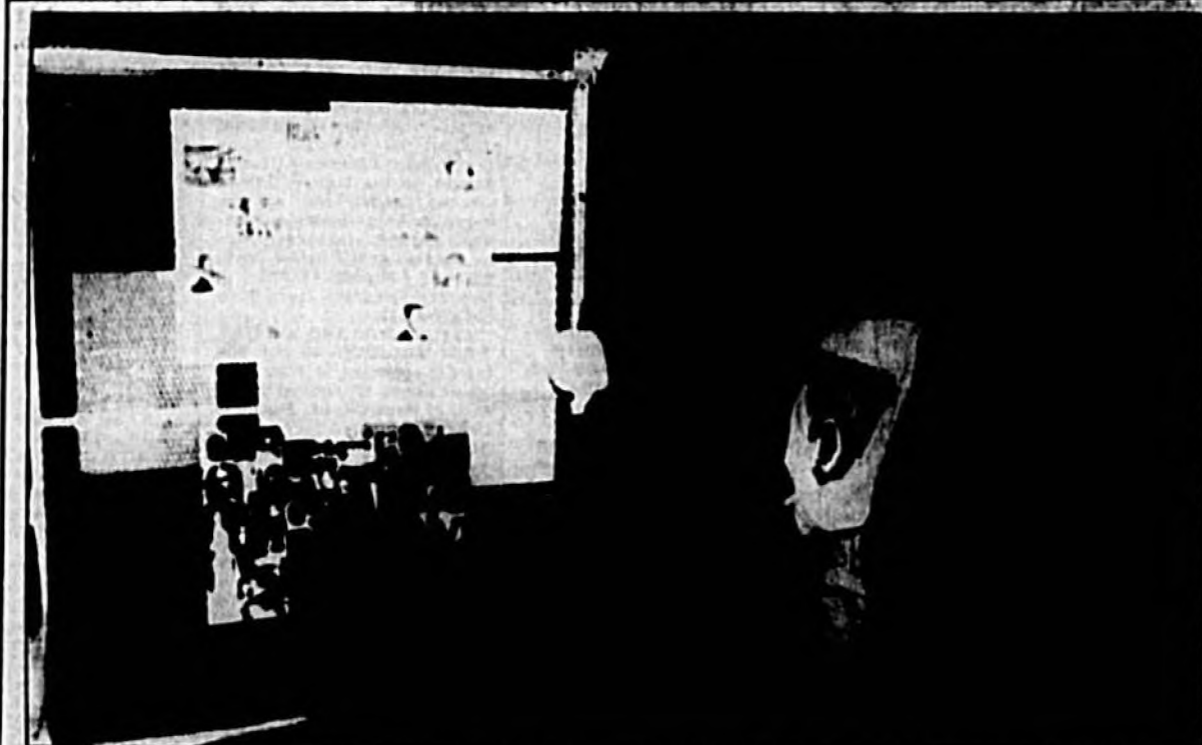

"What the students learn during Life Smarts competition may prevent them from costly mistakes when making decisions about purchasing cars and insurance, applying for credit cards or even the types of food they eat," said Agriculture and Consumer Service Commissioner Bob Crawford. "They will also learn where to go for more information and other assistance when making consumer decisions."

The Department of Agriculture and Consumer Services is the state's lead agency for consumer issues. The Department registers various businesses such as motor vehicle repair shops, health studios, telemarketers, business opportunities and charitable solicitors. Beary said the woman was wearing a Nike baseball cap, a Nike jacket, and overalls.

A photo of the woman was obtained from the bank security video. Beary said it was the best bank-taken video photo he had ever seen. Copies of the photo were being made this morning for distribution to the media and other law enforcement agencies. The photos were not available to the Herald by press time this morning.

While there were reportedly a number of clues connected with the bank robbery, Beary would not go into any detail, indicating the investigators in the robbery were pursuing each situation in an all out effort to locate and arrest the perpetrator.

Beary said the money was placed in a sack with a dye pack, which renders the money useless as it discharges ink when activated. Bank officials have still not determined the exact amount taken.

investigate expenses in the books.

"All we've seen are reports that they have spent the required money," Watt reiterated. "We haven't seen specific expenditures."

"That's not the city commission's property," Mayor Dale stressed. "It's taxpayers' property and if we are not getting something back on our investment something is wrong."

Simmons summed the discussion up by questioning if the commission wished to ask for records from the country club and pursue an audit.

Dale called for response, and received a unanimous response from members of the commission.

In other commissioner business, the City of Sanford received an excellent analysis Monday afternoon, regarding the Comprehensive Annual Financial Report. The document, covering the fiscal year ending Sept. 30, 1997 is required by both local ordinances and state statutes.

a county planner and engineer. "There are traffic calming methods today that did not exist before," Zaitooni said. Among them are chokers, diverters, traffic circles, smart trailers which flash the speed a vehicle is traveling.

Three years ago, a number of Holiday Ave. residents formed a similar protest but not enough responded to a petition the county drew up. Another petition by those who lived on Balm Beach Drive was received and three speed humps were removed.

"The Holiday Ave. situation is different from most of the other areas where there are speed humps," Zaitooni said. "These other areas have home owners associations that take care of things of their own."

of bears, panthers, and other animals under busy roads where road kills are common. These have been met with some success and are an important tool to reduce road kills in mortality "hot spots".

One such underpass under State Road 40, a site of previous multiple bear deaths, has been utilized by 21 black bears over a one year period according to the Florida Department of Environmental Protection. The structure also provided safe passage for a number of other species, including deer, coyote, bobcat, gopher, tortoise, and even snakes. The Habitat For Bear's Campaign supports the use of underpasses on existing roads where problems occur but oppose their use to justify new road construction projects through public lands and wildlife habitat.

The Habitat For Bears Campaign is a joint effort of Defenders of Wildlife and the Florida Chapter of the Sierra Club to protect the Florida black bear and its habitat, and associated biodiversity. Since 1993, the Campaign, and its more than 1000 activists, have been working to accomplish these goals through citizen participation and public education at the local, regional, state, and national levels.

Morse decked the money from Van Der Weide's Jan. 29 and Feb. 5 paychecks. She said he owed the money to the county because he had failed to provide meal receipts for an economic development trip to Europe in August. She also said he was not authorized to go to London, but only to the Netherlands.

Ex-wife's presence bothers girlfriend

DEAR ABBY: I am living with a guy (I'll call him Ron) who has an ex-wife and three kids. Whenever there is a family reunion or any kind of family gathering, Ron's ex-wife is invited. I do not like this woman and feel very uncomfortable around her.

Abby, since they have been divorced for nearly five years, she is no longer a part of Ron's family. I realize she's the mother of his children and they are a part of the family, but she is not. I am divorced myself. The only thing my ex and I have in common is our son, and I never get invited to his family affairs, nor do I even think about going.

What do you think about this?
HAD IT WITH FAMILY AFFAIRS

DEAR HAD IT: Apparently Ron's ex-wife has maintained a friendly relationship with her former family than you have with yours. Therefore, if you are going to attend reunions and other family gatherings with your live-in guy, you had better learn to tolerate her presence.

DEAR ABBY: What does one do with wedding pictures after a divorce? My daughter has given me strict orders that she doesn't want to look at them again.

These are large wedding portraits that include many family members along with the once bride and groom. Some of the relatives have passed away and the photographs are precious to me.

I hope you can help me. Please do not use my name.
CALIFORNIA READER

DEAR READER: On the backs of the portraits, write the names of those in the pictures and their relationship to you, along with the date they were taken. Then put the pictures away. They are part of your family history and some of your relatives may want them someday.

DEAR ABBY: I had been happily married to "Jake" for six years. Then last year, things started to go downhill. His sister committed suicide. I suppose I could have been more supportive, but I've never had anybody close to me die before and I couldn't handle it. Soon after, I found alcohol hidden in cabinets, which means that Jake, who had been sober for 10 years, had started drinking again.

One night, one of his female co-workers took him out and got him drunk. He said all he remembers is waking up in her bed. To his credit, he came home and admitted what he had done. Naturally, I kicked him out.

A week later, Jake collapsed on the job and was taken to the hospital where they found cancer all through his body. I rushed to his side. He begged me to forgive him and promised to stop drinking and to work hard at our marriage for his remaining months.

I don't know what to do. I still love him, but I don't want to get hurt again. He has broken promises before, but I just can't let him die alone. Please help me, Abby.
TORN APART

DEAR TORN: Please open your heart and your arms to your dying husband. You will never regret it.

DEAR ABBY: I am a woman in my early 20s. At the end of last summer, suffering from a broken heart, I took a trip to a beach resort where I met an attractive man and had a one-week fling. I know what I did was wrong.

ADVICE

As I was leaving, "Jordan" asked for my telephone number and promised he'd call me. He never did. Two months later, I discovered I was pregnant. I figured I'd better let Jordan know, so I tracked down his phone number (after some pretty extensive investigation), and called him shortly after Christmas.

I know he answered the phone, because he has a very distinctive voice. He was very rude to me, said I had a wrong number and hung up. I never got a chance to tell him about the baby.

Abby, I'm not looking for any support from this man, because I am financially well-off. I felt it was my moral obligation to inform Jordan that he is going to be a father.

Our baby is due soon. The ultrasound indicates it is most likely a girl. Part of me says, "Keep this little girl all to yourself. Jordan will only deny her anyway." Another part says, "Tell him and let him deal with it." I also worry about what I will tell my daughter when she is old enough to ask who her daddy is. Jordan is not good father material, so I may be doing my daughter a favor if I don't tell him.

Abby, please help. I am very ambivalent.

TO TELL OR NOT TO TELL

DEAR TO TELL OR NOT TO TELL: Jordan has a right to know he is going to be a father. It remains to be seen whether or not he is "good father material." Since you had difficulty informing him by telephone, write him a letter. If he runs true to form, it will be the last communication between the two of you.

Although you may not want to be reminded, you could have avoided this problem had you practiced safe sex in the first place.

To receive a collection of Abby's most memorable - and most frequently requested - poems and essays, send a business-sized, self-addressed envelope, plus check or money order for $3.95 ($4.50 in Canada) to: Dear Abby's "Keepers," P.O. Box 647, Mount Morris, Ill. 61064-0647. (Postage is included.)

Herald Staff Writer

Sometimes watching the fans is worth the price of admission

SANFORD As a sportswriter who sits through nearly 100 games a year, the mind starts to wander.

The 30-point basketball blowouts, the four-hour baseball marathons, the endless football games and the 0-0 soccer matches start to add up.

It's not like I don't enjoy my job. I love being a sportswriter; it's just that sometimes, one game blends into another and it becomes impossible to come up with a creative angle.

So I've decided to start concentrating on the fans. Everyone from the Little League softball fanatics on up.

In the last year, I've heard and seen some incredible things, some of which I don't understand.

At soccer games, you hear yells of, "Win it, see it, do it, do it. Forward the ball."

Excuse me if I'm not quite up on soccer, but what does that mean? If the ball doesn't go in the net, which it never does in soccer, does that mean the player didn't "win it," "see it" or "do it?"

I also love hearing the fans start screaming at the referees at basketball games. If you listen to the fans, you might think the three worst human beings in history are Adolph Hitler, Art Modell and whoever is refereeing or umpiring at any particular time.

Over and over, from Little League to the high schools, some loud-mouth is always coming up with something truly creative such as, "Put on some glasses. You're missing a good game!" or "Call it both ways!"

As if there was some sinister referee plot to destroy the feelings of a girls high school basketball team.

Believe me, you hear it every night. Inane comments like, "Go harder," "Go, go, fight, see it," and, in golf, "Yuda Man!!!"

Question: Since most golf fans scream, "Yuda Man!" at every golfer, shouldn't the yell be, "Yubee one of the men!"?

Another favorite of mine are the grandstand referees who, at every game scream, "Three Seconds!" at the top of their lungs every time the opposing team has possession. I've never seen one of these experts with a stopwatch counting the seconds. Obviously, they are the smartest person in the gym and want everyone to know it.

The cheerleaders also get into it. For awhile, I had no idea what they were saying during the patented "Gigolo" cheer.

Now I find myself doing it without even realizing it.

"Gigolo, Gigolo; We have our hands up high, our feet down low and that's the way we Gigolo."

What does that mean?

And why have I memorized it? Too many hot dogs at too many high school fields, I guess.

I also like to hear what the coaches have to say. I love it when a coach of a good team, looking at road kill on the schedule says, "We can't take them lightly. They have a lot of talent and we can't overlook anyone."

Final score, 80-12. Guess they didn't overlook them.

Coaches are also known for their wonderful clichés.

"We're taking it one game at a time."

"Somebody has to step up."

"We need to play within ourselves."

Who came up with that one? What does it mean to play within yourselves. Wait a minute, maybe I'd better not ask in a family newspaper.

I also love the way fans respond to an injured player. The team Superstar can be rolling around the field or court with their leg hanging on by a thread and invariably, fans will start screaming, "Get up! Walk it off!"

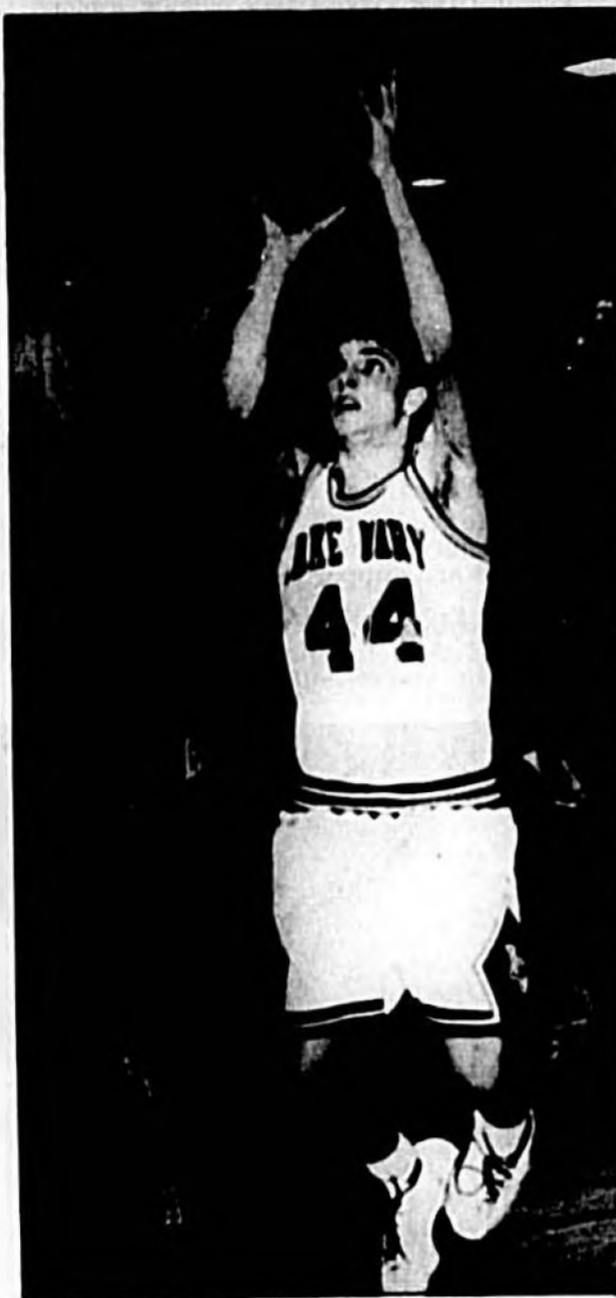

Then there are the Little League fans. Last season - I swear this really happened at an all-star game - a fan videotaped the game and went around replaying the tape to every parent in the stands every time he thought the umpire made a bad call.

At his most pathetic, he offered to show the umpire his video to prove how stupid and completely against his team the umpire really was.

The umpire had the good grace to ask the fan to umpire himself if he was such a genius.

Lake Mary, Brantley survive in Boys' 6A-3 quarterfinals

LAKE MARY - It couldn't be happening again, could it?

All season long the Lake Mary boys basketball team has been losing close games and, in last night's Class 6A-District 3 opener against Deland, saw itself give up a 18-point lead with just minutes to go.

This time, the Rams held together and outscored the Bulldogs 11-5 down the stretch to win 58-52 to advance to the district semifinals where they will host Oviedo at 7:30 p.m. tonight.

Lake Howell will play Lake Brantley, which beat Lyman 55-42 in last night's opening game, in the other semifinal at 8 p.m.

The championship game at Lake Mary High School is set for 7:30 p.m. on Saturday, following the junior varsity championship game between Oviedo and Lake Brantley at 6 p.m.

Raiders tied in diamond home opener

From Staff Reports

SANFORD - At least it was a good show for the fans.

The Seminole Community College baseball team opened its 1998 home schedule on Tuesday, but the only winner's at Raider Field was Mother Nature.

After nine innings, 22 runs and 27 hits the game was called on account of darkness with the Raiders and St. Petersburg Junior College tied at 11-11.

The goals are down, but Sellick still starring for Lake Brantley

By JEFF BERLINICKE
Herald Staff Writer

ALTAMONTE SPRINGS - Last year, Ginger Sellick was scoring goals, enough to lead the county in scoring.

This year, the goals are down but the assists are up and so are Lake Brantley's chances to come out of the toughest district in the state.

Last season, Lake Brantley made it to regionals before losing to Orange Park from Jacksonville. Twelve players were lost to graduation, but its leading scorer, Sellick, returned along with her 31 goals and 72 points.

Despite the graduation losses, the Lady Pats have held it together with a 12-6 record heading into play Friday. Sellick has been a main part of the success despite the lower output of goals scored.

"More people are marking me this year," Sellick said. "Sometimes there are too many defensive players to get around but I don't care how many goals I score as long as everyone else can contribute. Sometimes it gets frustrating, but I know we are winning and that's what matters."

Lake Brantley got off to a nice start this season, making it all the way to the Target Soccer Classic finals before losing to state powerhouse Spanish River. There have been some bumps along the way since then but Sellick said she's having more fun than she's ever had with her teammates. They have sleep-overs, pre-game dinners and are great friends. Sellick isn't alone in leading the Lady Pats. Heather Cooley and Maggie Tullis make up one of the state's best defenses and she's had help scoring from seniors Jennifer McKeon and Jenna Aymar. Goal-tender Sabrina Bonaparte has been tough and it is a young unit that will return next season.

Sellick, of course, won't be one of those returning. She signed a letter-of-intent to head for Boise State University where she will be united with former youth coach Julie Oriowski who Sellick considers her most important influence.

Boise, Idaho is a long way from Longwood, but Sellick is looking forward to next year.

"I visited the campus and it's awesome," Sellick said, wearing a Boise State jacket. "The weather shouldn't be that bad."

Neither are their prospects for the rest of the season. Sellick said she considers Lake Brantley to be in the toughest district in Florida and not many would argue. Lake Brantley, Lake Mary and Lake Howell have all been ranked in the state's top-10 and are threats to go a long way when playoffs start up later this month.

"We started getting a lot of confidence earlier this year, then a lot of people on our team got sick," Sellick said. "We know we can beat anyone we play."

She also concedes that a second straight county scoring title isn't quite that important. Currently, she leads Seminole County in assists with 15, but trails several players including the trio of county leaders - Aly Benitez (Lake Mary), Nandi Pryce (Lake Howell) and C.C. Oullian (Seminole) for the county lead.

See Sellick, Page 2B

Ginger Sellick led the county in scoring as a junior, but because of defenses designed to stop her, she has turned into the most prolific passer in the county.

"I'm a little bit older than most of these guys, so I'm beat," said the 50-year-old Sears. "Two weeks ago we crashed this car real bad and the whole crew worked on this car for the whole week to get it ready for the World Series."

This car ran good right out of the box, but in order to win here during Speedweeks you have to be there in order to be up front," Sears said.

Some are obnoxious, some are frustrated, some are happy. It's part of being a runner. They are much more concerned about the product on the field than they are sitting in a gym and watching a 4-point athlete play after he has the crowd and you might get your money's worth.

Last Second Shot: Who's the best pitcher in Seminole County? Robbie Siz at Lake Brantley or Ben Knapp at Okeech?

Drew Morgan scored a game-high 23 points to lead Lake Brantley to a come-from-behind 55-42 victory over Lyman in the opening round of the Class 6A-District 3 Boys Basketball Tournament at Lake Mary High School Wednesday night. Tonight the Patriots take on Lake Howell in the semifinals at 6 p.m.

Magner becoming a running star

By KELLIE WERNER
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — Seminole High School graduate Michael Magnier has been named as a sophomore standout at the University of West Alabama.

In high school, Magnier played football for four years and baseball for three. While at college, however, the cross-country coach noticed Magnier running and was impressed by his form and speed.

Magner has run daily for years as a form of exercise and until he was approached by the coach never gave much thought to joining the team.

Both his coach, Alan Wilson, and Magnier are glad to do it.

His accomplishments in the sport include logging in his personal best for the five-mile with a time of 28:07, achieving a best over-all finish in his team's ninth place finish at the Delta State Invitational in Cleveland, Miss., being named to the All Gulf South Conference Academic Team and placing third out of 243 runners at the National meet held in Memphis, Tenn.

In addition to all of his athletic accomplishments, Magnier, an accounting major, has maintained a 3.78 grade point average.

"Mike is a true team leader," Wilson said. "He leads by example and doesn't even know it. Mike takes pride in what he does and is a very serious athlete. He told me one day that his dream is to run in the Olympics. With his heart and determination, he can accomplish anything."

Saturday night's final playing host to the Class 6A-District 3 (Orlando) runner up in the first round of regionals, the 6A-3 runner up will travel to Orlando to play the 6A-4 champion.

Lake Mary coach Mike Gaudreau said he wasn't concerned, even after Deland knotted the score at 47-47 with 3:38 remaining in regulation.

"I had the confidence in everything," Gaudreau said. "If you do the right things you can learn from things that have happened in the past. I never thought about any of those other games."

Forward Ben Kersenbrock wasn't quite as confident.

"It was like, here we go again," Kersenbrock said. "I figured we had more intensity but it's happened before. He (Gaudreau) kept telling us it's still our game."

It was Lake Mary's game throughout the first three quarters. A Kersenbrock layup put Lake Mary ahead 15-14 to close out the first quarter and the Rams scored 15 straight points to take a commanding 37-19 lead midway through the third quarter. Kersenbrock was dominating inside and Randy Abrams was 3 for 3 on three-pointers.

That's when Deland mounted a comeback. The Bulldogs closed it to 43-33 at the end of the third quarter and outscored Lake Mary, 14-4 to knot the game.

Gaudreau called a timeout with the score tied but guard Jerome Bingham did a lot of the talking.

"I started to try to say something about being patient but Jerome just took over and told us we don't need to rush the ball," Gaudreau said.

Lake Mary took the lead for good after a timeout when Jamal Harrison followed on a missed shot to make it 49-47. Abrams followed with a pair of free throws and Bingham followed with the same.

From there on, it was a free throw contest, capped off with a Kersenbrock follow to cement the win.

"Now the Rams get one day to prepare for district champion Okeech."

"I know we can beat them if we play as well as we can," Kersenbrock said.

Kersenbrock had a game-high 21 points. Abrams added 11 and Jermaine Joubert had 10 to pace the Rams.

In the first game last night, Lake Brantley, formerly ranked in the state's top 10, survived a scare from Lyman.

The Greyhounds played without leading scorer Lance Vaz, but took a 13-8 first quarter lead and led 26-20 at the half before Lake Brantley dominated the second half, outscoring Lyman 16-4 in the fourth quarter.

Drew Morgan led the way for the Patriots with 23 points and Alfred Cleveland and Matthew Pearson each had 11 for Lyman.

Watch your cholesterol levels

By Peter H. Gott, M.D.

DR. GOTT

PETER GOTT, M.D.

DEAR DR. GOTT: I'm a healthy 53-year-old woman with a total cholesterol of 250, an HDL of 97 and an LDL of 148. What's the difference between HDL and LDL? How can I raise the "good" cholesterol?

DEAR READER: Although the total cholesterol is an important determinant of heart disease, a more accurate predictor is the components: HDL (the "good" cholesterol) and LDL (the "bad").

Most authorities urge people to get their totals below 220 milligrams per deciliter, raise their HDL above 75 milligrams/deciliter and lower their LDL to less than 120 milligrams/deciliter.

For a woman your age, a total cholesterol of 250 isn't bad; not perfect, but not bad. Your HDL is great. Your LDL needs some work.

Here's what I suggest. Buy lean cuts of meat and remove as much fat as you can. Avoid luncheon meats, bacon and sausage. Limit your egg consumption to no more than two per week. Go easy on cheese. Drink skim milk. Change from regular ice cream to sorbet or sherbet. Consume lowfat yogurt. Avoid fried foods when you eat out. If you fry at home, use a nonstick pan or olive oil. Get plenty of exercise. Consider using a vitamin E supplement (400 to 800 units a day). Buy fiber supplements that contain psyllium, which can lower cholesterol, and consume one portion a day.

These changes are not particularly daunting for the average consumer and may favorably alter your HDL/LDL ratio as well as lower total cholesterol.

To give you more information, I am sending you a copy of my Health Report "Understanding Cholesterol." Other readers who would like a copy should send $2 plus a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to P.O. Box 2017, Murray Hill Station, New York, NY 10156. Be sure to mention the title.

DEAR DR. GOTT: In your many articles on Alzheimer's disease, you never mentioned a hereditary factor. My brother-in-law just died of it, and my children are afraid they may have inherited it.

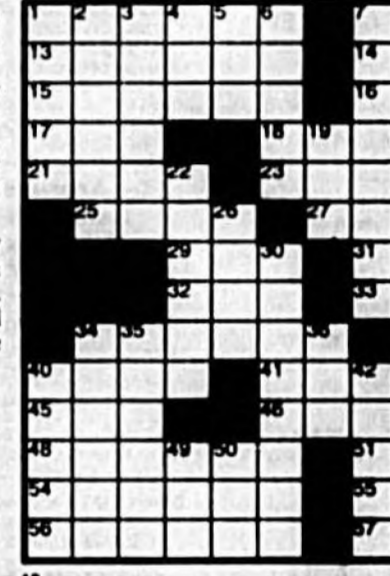

DEAR READER: The cause of Alzheimer's disease is unknown. Many theories have been advanced about this terrible affliction, and many medical centers are actively engaged in research to elucidate the basis of the disorder. As of now, heredity is not believed to be a factor.

Look to the future

By Phillip Alder

One guesses Robert Frost wasn't thinking about himself when he wrote, "Nothing to look backward to with pride, and nothing to look forward to with hope."

During a bridge deal, if you make a fatal error that leaves your contract unmakeable, you fit Frost's picture to a T. You are left to rue that more careful planning earlier in the deal would have brought rich rewards at the end. And trick one is never too early for that planning.

Against three no-trump, West led the heart jack. South ducked this trick but had to win the next, East being careful to unblock the queen.

There appeared to be nine easy tricks: two spades, one heart, one diamond and five clubs. And the "normal" way to play this club suit seemed to be to cash the king, then to lead low to dummy's ace. If West discarded on the second round, the finesse against East's jack would be marked. However, if the declarer had followed that plan here, he would have fallen to defeat. With the 5-0 split, he would get only four club tricks.

Noticing this, South led his low club to dummy's ace immediately. If every-one followed suit, he intended to return to the club king. Then, if East had started with jack-fourth, declarer could cross to dummy's spade ace, finesse in clubs, and run for home. But when West discarded on the first round of clubs, South's care paid off. He finessed in clubs, played a spade to dummy's ace, finessed again in clubs,
