By NICK PFEIFAUF Herald Staff Writer

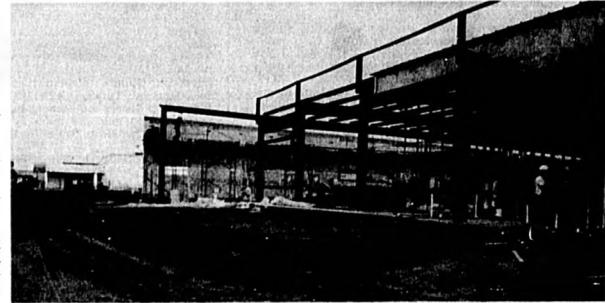

SANFORD — Construction is progressing rapidly on the new International Arrivals Terminal at the Central Florida Regional Airport.

"Not too long ago," said airport director Steve Cooke, "the contractors were a little behind, but now they are ahead of schedule."

Cooke attributes the rapid progress to the lack of bad weather which often causes stalls on major construction Jobs. "The construction is to be completed by the end of October," Cooke commented, "and barring any unforseen storms. we expect it may be done even earlier."

Judge asked to declare Sessions dead

TAMPA - After five years of searching for her missing daughter, Tiffany Sessions' mother has asked a judge to have the girl declared dead.

Hilary Sessions filed the petition Wednesday to collect on a $50,000 life insurance policy issued on Tiffany's life eight years ago, three years before she disappeared.

"It's been very hard to do what was done," Hilary Sessions said of the filing. She said she planned on "utilizing the proceeds from this policy to work to protect every child in the

Budget turkeys making comeback

By ADAM YEOMANS Associated Press Writer

TALLAHASSEE - The budget turkey is making a comeback in Florida's proposed $38.6 billion spending plan.

The total amount of money spent on local and special-interest projects considered suspect has yet to be determined, but there apparently are enough of them to worry Gov. Lawton Chiles.

Chiles promised to eliminate specialinterest projects when he was elected in 1990. The governor said he is ready to use his veto power to eliminate spending he considers wasteful.

"I've been practicing a lot of mornings." he said Thursday, wielding a pen in his

The 1994-95 budget appears to include even more special projects, said Dominic Calabro, president of the government

The governor's office is focusing on the grants section in the budget, which includes hundreds of millions of dollars for local projects. It also includes money received through the Hurricane Andrew Recovery and Rebuilding Trust Fund.

Dozens of cities and organizations in South Florida received money from at least $58 million doled out from the Hurricane Andrew recovery fund created to help that region hard hit by the Aug. 24, 1992, WASHINGTON - The Senate confirmed Florida jurist Rosemary Barkett as a federal appeals court judge despite unusual opposition from conservatives who claim she is soft on crime.

Barkett, a former Roman Catholic nun who is chief justice of the Florida Supreme Court. was confirmed on a 61-37 vote. Thursday to the 11th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals, which covers Florida, Georgia and Alabama.

First conviction obtained under Brady Act for gun theft

By Associated Press

PENSACOLA - What was probably the first conviction under the new Brady gun-control law has been obtained against a Florida Panhandle gun collector found guilty of stealing firearms.

John Arnold is not the first person in the nation prosecuted -- but most likely the first convicted - under any portion of the Brady law, Justice Department spokesman John Russell said Thursday in Washington.

In addition to its better-known requirements of a five-day waiting period and background checks for handgun purchases, the Brady law also makes it a federal crime to steal weapons from a licensed gun dealer.

The 12-member jury Wednesday convicted the Fort Walton Beach man of violating that portion of the law for stealing five guns from the Gulf Breeze Pistol Parlor in January. Arnold could get a maximum term of 10 years in federal prison when U.S. District Judge Roger Vinson sentences him June 21.

Arnold, testifying Wednesday, claimed the store's owner, Duke McCaa, told him he could borrow the weapons. That was something he had done frequently in the past so he could examine, test or try to sell the guns for McCaa, Arnold

Sometimes McCaa would let him take a gun and pay for it later, he said.

Reforms to juvenile justice system passed

By JACKIE HALLIFAX Associated Press Writer

TALLAHASSEE - Teen-age criminals may have had a good laugh at Florida's juventle justice system, but reforms passed by state lawmakers should sober them up fast, one legislator says.

The system will be both bigger and tougher under a bill the House sent to Gov. Lawton Chiles on a 117-0 vote Thursday, seven months after the last of a string of fatal tourists attacks that gave Florida unwanted headlines around the world.

Chiles described the legislation (CS-SB 68) as a pretty good package. The bill creates a new state agency to handle teen-age criminals. It provides for more adult prosecution of hard-core delinquents, longer stays in detention centers and residential programs, after school programs at middle schools, alternative classrooms and more school police

'If kids think that our juvenile justice system is a joke, they're going to have a rude awakening shortly," said Rep. Buzz Ritchie, a Pensacola Democrat who chaired the House's special committee on Juvenile justice.

"Let us take our streets back," a tearful Rep. Larcenta J. Bullard said, describing a recent attack on her son by three teen-agers ranging in age from 16 to 18.

"We've got to do something," said Bullard, D-Miami. "These young people have taken over." The legislation, which carries a pricetag of $237 million, doubles a 50-cent fee on auto tag renewals and adds a $20 Save The Children specialty tag to Florida's ever-widening array of car license plates. The bill expands space in residential programs to hold 2.847 more beds and detention centers by

Teen-age offenders are now put on a waiting list for a spot in a residential program - and sent home. Under the biff, they'll stay in detention centers until there's room for them in a boot camp or any other kind of residential program. The bill also creates a more intensive residential program, where teens will be kept under 24-hour watch for up to three years.

Under the measure, prosecutors can transfer defendants as young as 14 into the adult court system; current law limits that transfer power to 16- and 17-year-olds, though younger teens can be moved into the adult system by a grand jury.

In addition, the legislation requires that juveniles, regardless of their age, be treated as adults if their rap sheets include three felonies and three stays in residential programs.

Parenta, too, are affected. Judges would have the power to order them into court when their children get into trouble and sentence the parents to community service or training classes.

Parents also may take a bigger bite in the wallet. The bill crases the current $2,500 cap on the amount of restitution a parent can be ordered to pay for damage wreaked by their children.

The bill gives judges the authority to sentence teen-agers who mouth off, threaten them or ignore court orders to detention centers. Last year, the state Supreme Court said the wording of current law did not give judges that power.

In addition, the bill includes $61 million to pay for an after-school program at every middle school and at alternative schools for disruptive students - and to provide more school police officers. The bill has $30 million to establish a residential academy for troubled teen-agers. While lawmakers applauded the bill as a good start, they agreed it won't crase juvenile crime.

"Government can't solve this problem alone," Rep. Lori Edwards, D-Auburndale, said, "I'm afraid it's going to take a tide of individual private commitment upheld a Public Service Commission order interpreting a state law as giving the panel authority to decide when local telephone company services can be deregulated because they have become "effectively competitive."

The Florida Cable Television Association appealed the PSC order, arguing for automatic deregulation of competitive services regardless of the degree of competition. Cable operators are worried phone companies will use proceeds of monopoly regulated service to subsidize competitive services.

The decision will have an Impact only if Congress allows phone companies to offer televiston, electronic publishing and other competitive services, said PSC lawyer William Wyrough.

EDITORIAL

Seminole County officials should be commended for taking time to notice the many volunteers who serve the citizens with little notice. Next week, the some 1,300 volunteers of numerous organizations will be personally invited to a county reception at Sanford Civic Center, Members of Friends of the Library, Master Gardners, the Library Advisory Board and a host of other boards, committees and groups will be recognized for their long hours of often thankless service to the citizens of the county.

Next time you yell at Planning and Zoning Commission members for a decision, remember, if for only a moment, those folks are volunteering their time to serve. When strange things pop up in your yard and you call the County Extension Office in a panie, odds are, the person you talk to will be a skilled volunteer.

Volunteers with Retired Seniors Volunteer Program provide help throughout the county. Seminole Volunteer Enterprises operates a successful food commodity program solely

Good for the goose

There seems to be an entirely new noise coming from some of our legislators these days. Maybe it's good. Maybe it's bad. In either case it seems to me to be just another transferral of actual responsibility for someone's actions to the shoulders and backs of someone else. Whatever happened to the old truism that "You are responsible for your actions"? When did Congress and/or Tallahassee repeal that one?

What is this new noise that I make reference to? Well now, guys 'n gals, get ready, brace yourself, here it comes. There's a move afoot to make "you" all moms and dads — responsible — legally for the criminal acts of your kids. When your kids 'get out of hand" in a major way, "you" pay the price, "you" get fined, "you" go to jail. How do you like "them apples," all you moms and dads out there in La-La-Land?

Right about now it might be a good idea to "back up" about a vard'n-a-half- and take another hard look at that legislative proposal. If it is to be directed primarily towards those parents - those moms and/or dads who almost never know where their kids are, and who couldn't give a rat's-back-door-less what those same kids are doing, then that proposal just might be a great idea. If it is to be directed towards those parents those moms and/or dads - who are genutnely trying to bring up their kids according to those tried and proven "old fashioned methods," then that proposal might not be worth three cents.

In any case, there is a flip side to the coin. If the Legislature is proposing to make parents legally responsible for the criminal acts of their children. then that same Legislature should make judges and parole boards legally responsible for the future criminal acts "recommitted" by those persons released early — well before their term of punishment has been fulfilled. "They" would pay the price - "they" would get fined - "they would go to fail - just like the moms and/or dads. After all, what's good enough for moms and/or dads ought to be good enough for judges and/or parole boards. Remember that old saying: "What's good for the goose is good for the gander." Well, it

Perhaps if judges and/or parole boards were held accountable for their "actions" in the same manner as the Legislature may want the parents the moms and/or dads - to be accountable for their "inactions," there just might be a whole big bunch fewer "mistakes" running around loose in our society, recommitting more violent felonies. And it doesn't take a rocket jockey to realize that fewer "early released felons" back on the streets means fewer recommitted crimes.

After all, what judge in his or her right mind is going to release a felon on "probation," when that same judge knows that he or she will face the same charges as the felon upon the "next re-arrest" of that felon? Maybe - just maybe - when "their liberty" is at risk, they might take less risk with "our safety."

What say you, moms and dads? Good idea? Bad idea? Couldn't give a damn less? How about you, judges and parole boards? Good idea? Lousy idea? Couldn't give three damns less? Hey there, all you good folks in law enforcement, what are your thoughts and feelings on this? Why not let your paper, the Sanford Herald. know where you stand?

The women Tar Heels were joined to their male counterparts flast year's NCAA champions) in a sports marriage of national excellence. But I also rooted for Arkansas' hogs for three reasons. 1) The president desperately needed a joyous deflection from the overhyped Whitewater affair. 2) Arkansas' men joined North Carolina's women in reaffirming the emergent South as a mighty presence in sports. 3) Nolan Richardson

That last fact is especially important since Richardson is one of a handful of black coaches, despite the fact that black basketball players constitute 65 percent of the teams. Not to worry. ## Renewal of 'lovelanguage'

WASHINGTON - I can't recall exactly what my husband had asked me to do in that conversation some weeks ago - maybe it was to stop writing on deadline to give him a ride to the Metro or to help him locate some missing mail. I was deciding on an answer when I realized my 8-year-old son was listening.

When my husband asked, "So, are you going to help me out, honey?" Darrell smiled expectantly.

"C'mon, Mom," he said. "You know that 'honey' means 'please' in lovelanguage.'

It's amazing, the gifts kids can give you with their fresh-out-of-the-box insights. At age 2. my elder son once stared at a fat, white congregation of clouds against the blue sky and gasped, "Look, Mommy - suds!" And there's the time when I was frantically rushing him to dress for preschool. "Oh all right," he snapped. "Hold your pontes!"

"Lovelanguage" was such a gift. Of course love has its own special vocabulary, I thought. So does hate.

In situations like the one with my husband, do we use lovelanguage primarily to manipulate others to do what we wish? Or is its purpose to remind us that even in our selfishness, our affection is paramount?

Darrell's words made me think of language more as an emotional and visceral system of communicating than as an intellectual and cultural one. And since my husband's "honey" had the desired effect - took me out of myself just enough to feel why it would be good to say yes - I had to wonder:

"Why don't we use lovelanguage more?" My early childhood was spent in a household like many in '50s and '60s America, one where lovelanguage was seldom spoken - at least out loud. "Honeys" and "sweethearts" were rarely exchanged by my parents; I don't know if I ever heard them say, "I love you" to each other. I don't know if the L-word was just something you didn't toss around or if my memory's faulty. But my difficulty in recalling spoken endearments - or regular praise, such as "You're pretty" or "Aren't you smart!" --makes me think that the language of love was less verbal.

But I never doubted that I was loved. Affection was verbalized in our off-the-wall nteknames - my mom called me "Sissy Sue-kins" - and in Christmases far more extravagant than we culd afford. It was announced in rituals - in home-cooked meals caten nightly together, in how my mom took me on her rounds as an insurance agent, in how on special Sundays, we'd pile into the car, ride slowly through "rich" neighborhoods and pick out dream homes.

Parents gave voice to their love through everyday action. Its echoes were heard in hard work, in doing whatever was needed to ensure a better life for their kids. When words were used, they were often wielded as a scythe - to chop a child's errant ego down to size, to keep him from getting "the big head." Kids rarely were told of their inherent greatness - but they were repeatedly reminded of each flaw that could keep them from fulfilling it.

most families I know. In any given week. my kids could smother a van-sized croissant in the "honeys" that get spread around. Is my generation more verbally affectionate because the women's movement somehow freed fathers' oncefrozen tongues? Could parental guilt over less time spent with kids make us reinforce love with words? Maybe it's what we can give our kids that we missed.

Today, lov

elanguage is spoken

aloud in the homes of

Of course love has its own special vocabulary, I thought. So does hate.

But outside the home, the public use of lovelanguage is becoming rarer. Or maybe we notice it less because pop culture's downward spiral has made hate language seem more dominant. These days, old-fashioned politeness sounds like lovelanguage to me.

Profanity screeches at us from passing car stereos, at every sporting event or mall. Madonna, frantle over her shrinking attention-base, hit pay dirt by tossing the F-word at David Letterman 13 times. NBC recently apologized for comic Martin Lawrence's obscene chatter on "Saturday Night Live." Women's magazines now encourage females to celebrate "the bitch within."

Members of aggrieved groups who spew venom or contempt at the others get press. Those who use lovelanguage - not "honeys" or "dears" but the vocabulary of concillation, of undertstnaiding — get ignored. Rodney King's once-wrenching, "Can't we just get along?" has for some folks become a running

There are people who tell me to write meaner, nastier - to use sharper words to stick it to those who "deserve" It.

But the more venom and contemptuous rage we express, the more unlivable the planet feels. The hatelanguage that we delight in hearing flung at our enemy increases hurt and intolerance on the other side. It wastes time.

U.S. embassies: Shanties, palaces

WASHINGTON - For the State Depart ment it's a familiar crisis between the world's haves and have-nots - but with one twists in this version, the disparity between the prosperous and the poor plagues the more than 300 American diplomatic outposts around the world.

Some embassies look like Third World shantles while others resemble live-star hotels. An internal State Department in vestigation has found that some U.S. embassies are longing for basic necessities while others are spending lavishly on everything from resurfacing tennis courts and heating swimming pools to barbecue pits and patio furniture. In a diplomatically worded report on thriftless diplomats. the State Department inspector general has concluded that miltions of dollars in embassy expenditures "may not have been the most ef-

Department's limited resources.

With "limited resources" why are some embassies crumbling while others indulge in creature comforts? Funds Congress allocated for repairs and maintenance are getting mischannelled, according to one inspectors general report. In January 1992, Rep. John Conyers, D-Mich., chairman of the Government Operations Committee, initiated the first comprehensive investigation into the State Department's management of its $10 billion worth of overseas real estate and construction. "I am concerned that the American taxpayer is footing the bill because the State Department up until now - has failed to develop sound. overseas management planning," Convers said. "During a time of dwindling foreign aid dollars. It is essential that the State Department make it a top priority.

Convers found that 30 percent of U.S. embassies do not annually survey the condition of their property as they are required and that 10 percent of the embassies do not even have a preventive maintenance program. Most of the posts do not annually complete inspection summary reports used to develop long-range maintenance planning.

The legacy of loose accounting is that the State Department is strapped with more than $350 million in overdue repairs and crumbling infrastructures at many of its overseas properties.

Meanwhile, Embassy Moscow is deteriorating from swelling workloads and shrinking budgets. Embassy Moscow is among the State Department posts in desperate need of maintenance and repair funds. We reported last fall that conditions there had reached a critical stage. Employees were working at desks made of plywood and saw horses, diplomatic meetings were being held in janitor's closets for lack of space, and the phone system was in such disrepair that it took the ambassador there two hours to return a call to the White House.

In the event of a crists, Embassy Moscow may not even be able to contact Washington, a second report warned. "Communications at the Russian posts are dangerously inadequate. The lack of emergency telephone networks at any of the posts could become life threatening in case of civil disasters or unrest. Inadequate circuitry linking Moscow with Washington... frequently interferes with the conduct of essential business.

If Embassy Moscow wants to find out how the other half lives in the diplomatic world, they can check out Embassy Damascus, American diplomats there used approximately $80,000 of routine maintenance and repairs funds to do a general upgrade.

Paternity tests: Swabs replace needles

GREENSBORO, N.C. - Someone has come up with a way to take the sting out of paternity testing — at least for the baby. Genetic Design Inc., which processes 50,000 paternity tests a year, has introduced GenSwab, a cotton swab that can collect DNA — an individual's genetic blueprint — by lifting cells from inside the cheeks of even newborns.

Normally, paternity tests are done by drawing blood with a needle. It's painful, and often it cannot be done until the child is at least 6 months old, said Dr. Robert Bever, who oversees the Greensboro company's DNA department.

The blood samples are very reliable but they can be very traumatic for the baby and the parent," Bever said. "We feel we have a test that's just as reliable while also being safer. cleaner and painless."

GenSwab will also enable mothers to establish the paternity of the child earlier and obtain child support more promptly. The technology already is used by the Pentagon to identify military personnel. Genetic Design is offering GenSwab tests for the same price

TOLEDO, Ohio - A woman was asked to leave a Toledo Museum of Art exhibit containing Rubens nudes while she breast-fed her 3-month-old son.

The museum later apologized and said nursing is now allowed in exhibit rooms if done discreetly.

Jane Noffke of Ann Arbor, Mich., complained that she was nursing in the corner of an exhibition room Feb. 26 while draped with a shawl when guards told her breast-feeding was "not acceptable" and escorted her to a private room.

This type of unfriendly and aggressive behavior to a mother and nursing baby is absolutely uncalled for," she said in a letter to the museum.

"We posed no threat to the paintings nor other viewers. In fact, many of the paintings had nude women in them, not that my breasts were exposed.

Big Boy bounced out of New England

SPRINGFIELD, Mass. - The Big Boy needs to grow up, says a New England restaurant chain that's replacing the burger-toting kid in red-checked overalls with less fatty cutsine. Abdow Corp., the region's last Big Boy franchise holder, has dropped its affiliation with the Michigan-based Elias Bros. chain that now holds the rights to the chubby-cheeked mascot. The fiberglass figure has been removed from 18 Abdow restaurants in Massachusetts and Connecticut.

The break stemmed in part from a decision to move further into family-style dining with menus featuring more home-style New England favorites and brotled foods with less fat, said George and Ronald Abdow. The two operate the Springfieldbased chain.

And as Big Boy became more Midwest-centered, Midwestern tastes and consumer preferences dominated its menu and advertising, they said.

We just felt we were not getting the value of service for the franchise fee." George Abdow said Thursday.

The chain has 950 restaurants concentrated in the Midwest and South, said Tony Michaels, vice president for marketing for Elias in Warren, Mich. He confirmed Abdow's defection.

An audit by Interior's inspector general last year, obtained by The Associated Press, set the figure at as much as $105 million. The Park Service acknowledged losses of at least $40 million a year but found fault with the auditing procedures of the IG's office.

We have not had the staffing to collect as much money as could have been collected," Dick Martin, chief of resource and visitor protection at the Park Service, conceded in an interview. 'It's just a matter of all the competing demands."

You're in good company

WASHINGTON - If you've been scurrying to meet tonight's midnight deadline for filing federal income tax returns, you've got plenty of company.

The Internal Revenue Service estimates it will receive 35 million returns plus 5 million extension requests this week - a goodly portion of them mailed today.

Many IRS offices are planning late hours to handle last-minute requests for forms and information. And no doubt the familiar lines will appear at post offices.

IRS Commissioner Margaret Milner Richardson says she hopes such queues soon will be a nightmare of the past. banished by modern innovations such as electronic and telephone filing.

Trade war waged

MARRAKESH, Morocco - They came to sign the biggest trade treaty in history today, but the world's four biggest trading partners spent most of their time waging trade war.

The United States has falled to make headway in prying open Japan's markets and is scuffling with Canada over wheat aubaidies.

And an Internal battle in the European Union over bananas threatens EU approval of a deal reached Wednesday with the United States on government procurement contracts.

The disputes will not affect today's signing by about 120 countries of the Uruguay Round free-trade accords, reached under the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade. But the disputes may point to larger conflicts in store.

Ethnic bloodbath continues

KIGALI, Rwanda — Rwanda's capital smells of rotting flesh; its streets are littered with decaying corpses. Still, there was no letup in the central African nation's ethnic bloodbath.

Foreigners braved a rocket attack on Rwanda's airport Thursday as they fled the relentless fighting between government troops and the rebel Rwandan Patriotic Front.

Mortar shells continued to explode as rebels rejected U.N. efforts to broker a cease-fire. Rebels warned the 2,300 U.N. peacekeepers in Rwanda they would be considered "hostile" if they weren't out today.

The U.N. Security Council has decided not to withdraw the mostly unarmed peacekeepers, but said it would not use force to try to stop the bloodshed.

Chopper shootdown probe begins

By SUSANNE M. SCHAFER AP Military Writer

WASHINGTON - Air Force investigators are sorting through gun camera footage, audio tapes and pilot interviews to determine why two F-15C Jets shot down two U.S. Army helicopters over northern frag.

Defense Secretary William Perry said he was taking personal responsibility for Thursday's tragedy in which 26 people were killed when the Air Force pilots apparently mistook their fellow soldiers for Iraqis.

Already, Perry said, changes in procedures had been instituted to help prevent a recur-

The secretary said that for security reasons he could not describe the exact steps taken, but presumably rules under which pilots attack targets have been made more strict or the authority for firing must come from higher-level officers.

Questioned how such a tragedy could occur. Perry replied. There were errors. There were Fifteen of the dead were military officers from the United States, three from Turkey, two from Britain and one from France, all supporting the U.N. humanitarian relief operation for the Kurdish minority in northern Iraq. Five Kurd passengers also were killed.

The Pentagon had not released names of the dead by late Thursday.

President Clinton expressed terrible sorrow" and pledged a thorough investigation. He ordered U.S. flags on public buildings throughout the nation to be flown at half-staff through sun-set Monday "as a mark of respect for those who died as a result of the tragle incident."

Perry said he had set in motion two investigations. One, initiated immediately by Joint Chiefs Chairman Gen. John Shalikashvili, was to review the flight procedures in the three no-fly zones where U.S. alreraft fly - in northern and southern Iraq and Bosnia.

Perry asked Shallkashvill "to take action which can minimize the chance of any kind of recurrence of this," Perry said.

Lt. Gen. Richard Keller, the chief of operations for the U.S.

human errors, probably, and European Command, sald a group of military and legal specialists would spearhead the investigation, including experts in F-15 and UH-60 Black Hawk > helicopter operations. Representatives from the other nations who also lost people would be invited to assist the study, said Keller, speaking by telephone with Pentagon reporters from the European Command Center in Stuttgart. Germany.

Following a survey of the crash site, the investigators would study the voice transmission tapes from the helicopters and the F-15s, the camera footage normally on the jets and the radar data from the AWACs warning and control aircraft that observed the incident, a sentor Pentagon official said.

U.S. military officials acknowledged that during the three years allied aircraft have been patrolling northern leaq, no lraqi hellcopters ever have been sighted as far north in the no-fly zone as the Black Hawks were.

Keller did say, however, that increased fragi alreraft activity had been observed south of the zone delineated by the 36th parallel and that there had been sporadic incidents of ground fire and Iraqi radar activity inside the zone.

Hawks were Iraqi attack helicopters known as Hinds. "The pilots of the F-15s feel they had positively identified the Hinda," said Keller. Iraq is prohibited under a U.S.

daylight, in good weather, and established what he called "visual identification" of the choppers. In other words, they could see the choppers but mistook them for Iraqi.

U.S. warplanes and helicopters normally use electronic identification systems designed to tell friend from foc.

Asked what threat the helicopters might have posed that justified shooting them down, Keller replied, "I honestly don't know."

A Kurdish spokesman said the helicopters were ferrying U.S., British, French and Turkish officers from the U.N. office in Zakho, near the Turkish border.

BRIEF

LOCALLY

Hornets hold off Magic

ORLANDO - Alonzo Mourning, overshadowed statistically by Shaquille O'Neal, made the biggest shot of the game as Charlotte tightened the Eastern Conference playoff race with a

112-108 win over Orlando on Thursday night. Mourning made a 15-foot jumper over O'Neal after Orlando's All-Star center scored 12 consecutive points to trim Charlotte's lead to 109-107 with just under a minute to go.

O'Neal led Orlando with 37 points and 18 rebounds. Dennis Scott had a season-high 32 points while Nick Anderson scored 21.

AROUND THE STATE

Santiago, Abbott lead Marlins

MIAMI - Benito Santiago hit a three-run double and Kurt Abbott followed with a homer as Florida scored six runs in the first inning and beat Houston 8-2 Thursday.

Jeff Conine hit a two-run homer and moved into a tle for the NL lead with five.

Pete Harnisch (0-2) lasted only two-thirds of an inning against the hot-and-cold Marlins. They've scored 32 runs in four victories and nine in five defeats.

Panthers shoot down Islanders

MIAM! - Jody Hull scored two goals and John Vanblesbrouck broke out of a slump with 33 saves Thursday night in Florida's 4-1 victory over the New York Islanders, the team which edged the Panthers out of the NHL playoffs.

Florida had hoped the final game of the regular season would be a showdown for the eighth and final playoff position in the Eastern Conference, but the Islanders foiled that plan Wednesday with a 2-0 win over Tampa Bay.

Lightning finish with win

ST. PETERSBURG - Petr Klima and John Tucker each scored twice and Daren Puppa made 31 saves as Tampa Bay beat Quebec 5-2 Thursday in the season finale for both teams.

Both teams finished out of the playoffs, but the victory helped second-year Tampa Bay end on a positive note. The Lightning finished last in the Atlantic Division, but their record of 30-43-11 produced 71 points, 18 better than their inaugural season.

Shula, Huizenga talk contract

MIAMI - Miami Dolphins coach Don Shula formally discussed a contract extension with prospective team owner H. Wayne Hulzenga for the first time. Their 45-minute visit Wednesday offered an indication that Shula will remain with the Dolphins after his current contract expires following the 1994 season.

"We discussed things in general but there weren't any specific details about the contract," Shula sald.

Greyhounds slug way to SAC softball crown

By DEAN SMITH Herald Sports Writer

ALTAMONTE SPRINGS - The "real" Lyman softball team showed up at Lake Brantley Thursday night, much to the chagrin of the Patriots.

Over the past couple of weeks the Greyhounds had been playing well enough to win, but had not really been awinging the bats with author-Ity like they had early in the season.

That changed Thursday night as Lyman exploded for 17 hits and clinched the first-ever Seminole Athlette Conference fastpitch softball title with a 14-8 victory over Lake Brantley at Patriot Field.

"The real Lyman is back," said Lyman head coach Christy Tibbitts. This (the championship) is awesome, I'm so proud of the girls. Lake Brantley is tough to beat here. They always have been and always will be. We've been talking about this game for the past three weeks."

The Greyhounds used a pair of five run innings to take a 10-1 lead. but needed a three-run sixth inning to put the game away after the Patriots appeared to be taking the momentum after scoring six runs in the fourth and fifth innings to cut the lead to 10-7.

"We made a good try," said Lake Brantley head coach Brian Shafer about his team's comeback. "We just have not been hitting the ball very good the last few games. Lyman did (hit the ball) tonight and that was a big key."

The victory was the Greyhounds' 16th in 17 starts and eighth without a loss in the conference. The SAC GREYHOUNDS 14, PATRIOTS E crown was the third straight for Lyman, which had shared the title the past two seasons.

Senior pitcher Michelle Bishop allowed 14 hits, but only three of the eight runs were earned and she. did not walk a batter as she ran her record to a lofty 14-1.

Powering the Lyman offense were Karen Kalicak (3-for-5, home run, two runs, four RBI), Carolyn Crager (3-for-6, triple, two runs, two RBI). Jaime Beland (2-for-4, double, run, RBI), Wendi Acey (2-for-3, double, three runs, RBD, Bishop (2-for-5, two runs, three RBII and Jaime Sharp (2-for-6, RBI).

Also contributing were Jodi Beland (1-for-3, two runs). Stacey Ritter (1-for-5, run, RBI) and freshman Jonnie Beland (1-for-5, run).

The loss ended a five-game winning streak for the Patriots, who are now 16-6 overall and 6-2 in the SAC

Pitcher Annie Freeburg also deserved a better fate, as only eight of the 14 runs were carned, but she saw her record fall to 13-4.

Providing the offense for Lake Brantley were Stacey Stuller (3-for-4, double, four RBI), Nadine White-Davis (2-for-4, double, run), Tracy Brown and Katie Helmers (both 2-for-4 with a run scored and □ See Champions, Page 2B

From Staff Reports

LAKE CITY - Seminole Community College's baseball team saw its chances for a winning season ended by strong pitching and its own defensive lapses in a 3-1 Mid-Florida Conference loss at Lake City Community College Thursday afternoon.

Anthony Von Dolteren (1-3) pitched well enough to win, scattering seven hits over eight innings, but three errors led to three uncarned runs as the Raiders fell to 18-23 overall and 9-11 in the conference. The local squad only has four regular season games left, so the best they can finish is 22-23.

SCC also suffered at the plate as, after getting two hits in the first inning. Timberwolf hurler Carlton (2-4) held the Raiders without another safety until the seventh inning. # Lake Mary on verge of another SAC sweep

Ry TONY DeSORMIE Herald Sports Editor

ALTAMONTE SPRINGS - Once the singles competition finally was finished Thursday night at Sanlando Park, Lake Mary High School was in position to sweep the boys' and girls' titles in Seminole Athletic Conference tennis toornament.

The Ram boys, who won all the five singles finals, took a commanding 15-10 lead over take Brantley into doubles play.

Trailing the leaders are Seminole (4), Oviedo (3), Lyman (2) and Lake Howell (1).

Lake Mary's girls, who claimed three of the five singles crowns, led Oyledo 13-9 with Lake Brantley (8) a close third. They're followed by Lake Howell (4), Sentuole (1), and Lyman (0).

Lake Mary won both conference titles last year. The Ram boys are shooting for their fourth consecutive SAC crown.

According to Lyman High School coach and tournament director Jack Bloomingdale, the doubles portion of the tournament will be completed this afternoon at Sanlando Park.

"We were going to try and get the whole thing in tonight," said Bloomingdale Thursday night, "But there was just no way. So we'll come back tomorrow and wrap it

Marlins, Red Sox parlay walks into Little Major wins

From Staff Reports

SANFORD - As Branch Rickey used to say, "Oh, those bases on balls."

The Marlins and the Sunniland Corporation Red Sox took advantage of wildness on the behalf of their opponents as both "walked" to victory in Sanford Recreation Department Little Major Baseball League action Thursday night. In an American Division game at Roy Holler Field, the normally hard-hitting and high-scoring Red Sox were limited to only three hits by the Stair Realty White Sox pitching.

But the defending city champions still got their seventh victory without a loss, 3-2, as Levi Raines Jr. drew a bases loaded walk with two out in the bottom of the sixth. Raines' walk was the fourth of the inning around two strike outs.

The National Division contest at Lakefront Field was not quite as exciting, but it was still the walk that spelled the difference as seven free passes and one hit led to five first inning runs that propelled the Marlins to a 10-2 decision over the Expos

Five of the first six Marlins batters walked to plate two runs before a Ricky Wells single scored another. Two more walks added two more runs to the total.

The league will return to a full six-game schedule Saturday.

At Roy Holler Field, the Fun World at Flea World Cardinals (2-5) play the Red Sox (7-0) at 8 a.m.; the Rinker Materials Dodgers (5-2) face the Cook Construction Orioles (3-4) at 10 a.m.; and the Freddie Howard Pirates (1-6) take on the White Sox (4-3) at 4:45 p.m.

At Lakefront Field, the Railroaders Cubs (7-0) welcome the Disabled American Veterans (DAV) Royals (6-1) at 8 a.m.; the Expos (1-6) battle the First Union Bank A's (0.7) at 10 a.m.; and the Marlins (4-3) meet the Fisher, Laurence, Deen & Fromang Blue Jays (2-5) at 4-45 p.m.

RAINES GAUGE

Tim Raines is a Sanford native and Seminole High School graduate now playing for the Chicago White Sox. His stats are for the 1994 season in the first column, personal-best season totals in the second column and current career totals (including 1994 games) in the third column.

Raines, who missed three games with a hamstring strain, started Thursday's game against the New York Yankees when Joe Hall was scratched with a similar injury. Raines responded with a single in four at bats as the White Sox lost, 10-3.

Survey shows drug abuse on increase

DEAR READERS: The results of the 1993 National High School Sentor Survey have been released by the National Institute on Drug Abuse (NIDA) and the news is not good. Indications are that both drug abuse and attitudes favorable to drug abuse are making a clear comeback among 8th, 10th, and 12th graders throughout the country. The combination of drugs now growing in popularity — mari-juana, LSD, amphetamines, and inhalants - is reminiscent of what was popular in the early days of the drug epidemic in the 1970s. The recent increases in abuse of these substances are occurring across all regions of the country, all races, and all socio-economic groups of teens.

While the rates of use of marijuana and LSD are below the peak levels reached in the late 70s, they represent a reversal of the declines in use for the preceding decade. It may be that today's young adults will have to learn the same lessons of the preceding generation the hard way, since they have not experienced or witnessed the devastation first-hand.

The abuse of Inhalants such as glue, solvents, and aerosols have also risen in the past two years among eighth, 10th, and 12th graders. Unfortunately, they can also be lethal.

Alcohol and eigarettes are still the most widely abused drugs at all grade levels. In fact, while the rate of smoking among high school seniors had remained fairly steady for a decade, the rate of daily smoking rose signifteantly in all three grade levels In 1993.

DRUG COUNSELOR

Contrary to conventional perceptions, African Americans report the lowest rates of use for virtually all drugs, lielt and illicit, among all three grade levels surveyed. They additionally show a long-term continuing decline in smoking while whites and Hispanics leveled off several years ago.

If today's students have lost the lessons taught by the '70s and early '80s concerning the dangers and devastation of drug abuse, we as parents and educaavailable to reteach them, lest we are doomed to repeat the tragedy of a lost generation.

(Mary Balk is a Certified Addiction Prevention Professional and counselor. Write her at the Sanford Herald, or call the Seminole County Schoole' Drug Prevention office, 323-5710.)

Health care fraud

How to protect yourself from being taken

Ten cents out of every dollar you spend on health care goes to cover the cost of fraud in the health care system. The trend toward increased public awareness of health issues seems to have created a larger market for scam operators. With the media exposure ensuring that scientific terminology and breakthroughs are constantly being announced, it is no wonder that the consumer's skepticism about inflated claims for medication and treatments has softened. If their claims were true, the media would ensure that this knowledge became public very quickly. Unfortunately, the advertising media continues to run promotion for "transparently bogus medications and treatments" and consumers are continuously "taken in". How can you protect yourself from health fraud? Ask yourself

Putting around

Bette Gramkow, owner of Gramkow Funeral Home in Sanford, took some time out of her busy day to shoot a round of golf to benefit Seminole Community College yesterday. The annual SCC "Mulligan Masters" golf tournament has been a part of the college's fundraising agenda for the last decade and a half. It is expected that this year's sold out tournament will raise more than $10,000 for the college's general scholarship fund. This year's event allowed participants to play a round at the lush Timacuan Country Club in Lake Mary, to hob nob with college administrators and employees and to help students get an education.

Woman airs myths about fat people

DEAR ABBY: was disappointed in you for printing Becky Tigges' diet tips on Feb. 25. No. doubt both you and Ms. Tigges meant well in your attempt to "educate" us fat people about how to lose weight. Unfortunately, it is the public who needs educating about two of the most destructive myths surrounding Myth No. 1: Anyone can lose weight if they really try. Study after study has proved that permanent weight loss is impossible for most of us; approximately 95 percent of people who lose weight gain it back within a few years. Diets have long been promoted as a "cure" for obesity. If any other treatment for a medical problem had a success rate of only 5 percent, it would be pronounced a failure, not a

If diets worked, there wouldn't be a single fat person left on the face of the earth. We have tried evey diet known to man. Now we know that we didn't fail; the dicts falled.

Myth No. 2: All fat people are compulsive eaters. The truth is: Not all fat people eat compulsively, nor are all compulsive caters fat. A few years ago, the Smithsonian Institution exhibited a collection of diet products, books and videos next to a poster stating that fat people "do not on the average eat any more than anyone else. Most scientific researchers now agree that weight is determined mostly by genetics and heredity rather than environment or behavior. So much for the old saw that all fat people have poor eating habits and no willpower.

Abby, we fat people don't need diet tips; we need champions. NAAFA (National Association to Advance Fat Acceptance) and tors must use every technique other advocacy groups are doing a superb Job to educate the public and change their attitudes toward fat people. We hope you will support our fight against ignorance and prejudice.

Youngsters from throughout Central Florida engaged in fun, fellowship and Christian education during the weeklong First Baptist Church, Sanford, Youth Blast '94 Revival. The young people were able to do some hands on activities with local law enforcement agencies, left, and fantasize of possible future occupations. A pizza party on the grounds of the church brought members and residents of the community together to hear the word of God. A young man pauses to give thanks for the nourishment and fellowship with

Where revivalists have succeeded

Plagenz

Jonas Nightingale isn't real. Everything about him is take.

He's the antihero of the 1992 movie "Lean of Faith" (which has been showing on cable TV lately), with Steve Martin in the title role.

Jonas Nightingale is an updated version of Elmer Gantry, the antihero of Sinclair Lewis' 1927 novel of religious corruption under the revival tent.

The 1960 film "Elmer Gantry" earned Burt Lancaster the Academy Award for Best Actor. No Oscar could have been more fitting, for everything was an act with Gantry and nobody was better in the part.

A likable scoundrel, Gantry found his tehe as a touring evangelist. He was, one reviewer, "lechery and hypocrisy incarnate." Another critic observed that, after Wednesday night prayer meeting, Gantry 'could always find a girl, a drink and a

Yet the evangelist claimed he was "bringing a whole lot more souls into churches than any of these pussy-footing tinsaints who are afraid to laugh and jolly

Nightingale, who shared Gantry's gift for fast talk and charade, could have said the same thing of himself. He packed 'em in,

Gantry and Nightingale are only paper and celluloid creations. But there are real-life versions out there Remember Jim Bakker and Jimmy Swaggart? A few years before, there was Marjoe Gortner, the boy evangelist who grew up to be a religious huckster.

Many of those who saw the 1972 Hollywood documentary "Marjoe" left the theater feeling that the believers he had fooled would have heard him gladly again -- even after his confession that he never believed a word of what he preached. Marjoe did what he did for money. But a lot of the people hearing him would have said they got their money's worth. They felt the spirit. The question of hypocrisy is one that many ministers have to wrestle with at times. Is it the clergy's job first and foremost to preach the gospel effectively - to touch people's hearts and souls? Or must they first ask themselves whether they fully believe what they preach?

The words of comfort a minister speaks to a bereaved person about a blessed reunion in heaven - does he always believe that without a doubt?

A minister once said to me, "If you and I made a case only for the things we have succeeded in proving to ourselves -- intellectually or otherwise - then we would be restricting our congregations to our own personal theological development. I think we always teach and preach more than we have successfully made our own.

Does that make us hypocrites? Revivalism had its great awakening in the late 18th century. It gave birth to the camp meeting out under the trees, and lent an air of expectation and drama to the monotony of backwoods life.

As Kathy Luchetti says in her book

"Under God's Spell," few who had "passed through a season of sorrow on the frontier. facing death, illness and family separation could resist the friendly hand-shaking and the rousing gospel songs of the camp Preachers described as "fond of the open sky and their own sweeping rhetoric' discoursed in florid hyperbole. Many of them were just as colorful as their 20th century descendants would turn out to be.

There was, for example, Lorenzo Dow. as "The Latest Authentic News From Hell." On one occasion -- preaching on "Where Will You Be Going When Gabriel Blows His Horn?" - Dow persuaded a small boy to hide in a tree outside where a meeting was going on. Then, on a signal from Dow, the boy blew a blast on a tin horn.

The more sophisticated Christians of today can say what they want about revivalists and their excesses You don't have to condone the con men among those preachers. But you will have to concede that the revivalists have been successful where most of the other churches have not.

Revivalists succeeded in making people "alive to the spirit." and in bringing "a whole lot more souls into churches" than the pussy-footing kind. Copyright 1994 NEWSPAPER EN TERPRISE ASSN.

Husband may not be linked to infection

DR. GOTT: My gynecologist told shape to start with. me I have trichomoniasis, yet my husband says he has never cheated on me. I'm 40 and have NEVER been with anyone else. If my husband is telling the truth. how could I have gotten this? If he's lying, should I get an AIDS test? Please answer soon as the tension between us is growing.

DEAR READER: This vaginal infection, which is caused by a microorganism, commonly affects women of child-bearing age: Up to 20 percent of adult women are estimated to have the

Although trichomoniasis usually causes a painful, frothy vaginal discharge, men are frequently symptom-free and may unknowingly harbor the infection for years. True, the infection is customarily spread during sexual contact .. but your husband may have picked it up as a young man, before he even knew you. Also, young women may unknowingly become infeeted, without showing any symptoms until years later.

Therefore, I'd believe your husband. Rather than destroy what is probably a sound relation. I urge you to direct your focus away from who gave what to whom (and when). Rather, you and your husband should simultaneously be treated with Flagyl, a prescription drug that cures the infection. Please devote your attention to lessening tension in your marriage, in preference to making matters

With respect to the HIV test, I see no reason why you both shouldn't have it. Knowing you're free of AIDS would further reduce aerlmony and enable you and your husband to work on re-establishing an at-Utude of mutual trust.

If, indeed, your spouse isn't telling the truth, sooner or later he'll trip himself up. But, for now, give him the benefit of the doubt " assuming, of course, that your marriage is in good

Right now, your first priority is to obtain treatment. To give you more information, I am sending you a free copy of my Health Report "Vaginal Infections." Other readers who would like a copy should send $2

N AT BRIDGE

By Phillip Alder

One of the greatest composers of bridge deals was Hungarian Robert Darvas. But today's deal, which he described, occurred at the table. I have a sneaking suspicion that Durvas was the West led the club eight. East studied this for some time and then covered with the nine.

South had three top losers. He had to avoid a second heart loser; either from a club rull by West or via a trump promotion if _ West had A-10-x of hearts.

It was clear that if South played a trump now. West would win with the ace and collect the fatal club ruff. Instead, declarer played a spade to dummy's king. cashed the spade acc, discarding the club king, and played a third spade, discarding his last club. Lucky that West couldn't unblock: South had cut the defenders' communication with a Scissors Coup.

West returned his second club, ruffed by South. Declarer saw that he still couldn't afford to lead a trump. West would win with the ace and exit with the ace and another diamond, Trapped in the dummy, declarer couldn't stop West's heart 10 from winning the setting trick.

Correctly South led a diamond toward dummy's king. But incorrectly he led the nine. West grabbed his chance, covering with the 10. After winning with dummy's king, declarer played a trump to his king. However, West won with the ace and underled his diamond honors. East won with the eight and returned a club, promoting the heart 10.

As Darvas said, playing the diamond nine was like kicking over a full bucket of milk after a long and tedlous milking.

HOROSCOPE

By Bernice Bede Osoi YOUR BIRTHDAY April 16, 1994

In the year ahead you might establish two very unusual obicctives that may not make sense to others. However, they could turn out to be ingenious ways to gratify your ambitions.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) It might be difficult for you to establish a proper mode of behavior today. In situations where you should be mildly assertive you could become aggressive. Charm is a better choice. Know where to look for romance and you'll find it. The Astro-Graph Matchmaker instantly reveals which signs are romantleally perfect for you. Mail $2 and a long, selfaddressed, stamped envelope to Matchmaker, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 4465, New York, N.Y. 10163.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Sometimes it's difficult for you to forgive and forget, and when you experience these moods. they are usually counterproductive. Let go today and get on with your life.

you, you'll deal with others in a generous manner. However, if someone makes demands on you, he/she may not be treated so lavishly. CANCER (June 21-July 22)

Today if the idea originates with

Enjoy friends today for what they are and not for what they have to offer. Manipulative moves could jeopardize relationships, so don't try anything cute. LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) This is not a good day to discuss politics or religion with a person who feels as strongly about his/her views and opinions as you do about yours. Sparks are likely. VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) In a joint endeavor today, be careful to involve yourself only with persons who are as open and above broad as you are. Back off If you suspect someone of being devious.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Effective allies might be difficult to find today, so in matters of extreme significance, rely upon your own assets Instead of theirs. BCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22)

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Subordinants can be led today. ENTERPRISE ASSN.

but they can't be driven or pushed. If you attempt to do so. it could prove to be a regrettable tactic.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Upon occasion you can be a bit of a risk taker when you sense the odds are titled in your direction. Today, however, you might take chances without signals from any positive indicators.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan.

19) It might be difficult for you to admit to your mate today that he/she is right and you are wrong. If you take this position, you could prolong an argument that should have been ended.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Today if you have to work with unfamiliar tools or materials, besure to read the directions or instructions very carefully. Better yet, find an experienced assistant to help you out.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Early in the day a lack of fiscal discipline could sow the seeds for apender's remorse later. Guard against surges of impulsive extravagance. Copyright 1994 NEWSPAPER
