Taggart Launches Long Expected Drive For Indiana Senator

Attack of McAdoo's Feature

NEW YORK, July 3.—Faced by a new movement by many important leaders to end the Democratic convention by a compromise, Taggart would mean his elimination. William G. McAdoo still was refused last night even to consider release of those delegates who pledged or otherwise obliged to support him.

While men in other camps were in a conference convinced the way to end the deadlock would be the elimination of the California and perhaps Governor Smith, Mr. McAdoo's own managers and their associates entered a long in the Hotel Vanderbilt, and arrangements were made to their final drive.

The McAdoo managers called the strength on the floor to his vote over the 500 mark evening, and careful arrangements were made ahead of time to the affair the appearance of a steady.

However, with McAdoo's strength came an obligation. He been given to understand that had an opportunity to show it he could do it he found there every indication it was the

May Force Transfer
There is talk among McAdoo delegates that they will deadlock the convention and force its transfer to other city.

In top of this, Oklahoma let it known that it is not likely to go with McAdoo longer than noon.

It appeared to be recognized in McAdoo camp that it was last night or never. And the plan was to cut out every ounce of strength which has been counted on or could be counted on for the former secretary of the treasury. It was noted that his leaders failed to give an impressive showing they had to face definite decisions today that Mr. McAdoo step and permit the convention to have a nomination.

Bryan Adds Another Stormy Chapter To His Long Career As Leader of His Party

NEW YORK, July 3.—That stormy petrel of Democratic politics, William Jennings Bryan, added another tumultuous chapter to his long career yesterday when he went before the Democratic National Convention in an attempt to stem the tide of opposition to William G. McAdoo.

Interrupting an all-day succession of inconclusive ballots for a nominee for the presidency, the three-time candidate of his party plunged the convention into a riot and finally was all but driven from the platform by heckling delegates and boisterous galleries.

Besides Mr. McAdoo, he mentioned seven other presidential aspirants who would be satisfactory to him, but none of them aroused more than momentary enthusiasm and when the balloting was resumed scarcely a vote had been changed.

Neither did the conference of the leaders during an ensuing recess materially alter the situation, and the convention went on into another night session with the disagreement over the nomination still in a jumble. McAdoo and Smith, both unable to make material headway, kept their respective parties at the head of the list. Davis of West Virginia lost a few votes, but retained a third place, and the supporters of Ralston of Indiana became more active in presenting the qualifications of their candidate as a compromise selection.

Whole Effect Not Apparent
The entire effect of Mr. Bryan's appearance before the convention was not immediately apparent. The McAdoo men declared the incident would stimulate a new rally in the lagging fortunes of the former treasury secretary, but the Smith supporters said Bryan had turned the trick for which they had been waiting, and had relegated the McAdoo candidacy definitely to the limbo.

The most vociferous interruptions to the speech of the former speaker by the galleries, jammed with New Yorkers rooting for Governor Smith, but it was apparent that a large block of the delegates themselves resented what they regarded as a gratuitous effort to lecture them. Anti-McAdoo delegations broke in with a chorus of questions about McAdoo's "retainer" as soon as the candidate's name was mentioned, and tried vainly by parliamentary tactics to have the speaker removed from the platform. To these appeals Chairman Walsh presented a deaf ear, although he turned savagely on the galleries and at one time ordered that part of them be cleared.

Mr. Bryan obstinately refused consent to explain his vote on the thirty-eighth ballot. There were numerous objections, but Senator Walsh announced from the chair that he heard none, and the erstwhile Nebraska, now a delegate-at-large from Florida, mounted the platform.

Census of This City Is 10,432

Latest Population Figures Submitted by Polk Directory Show City to Have an Increase of 86 Per Cent—With Population of Adjacent Neighborhood Added The Figures Show 11,612

Sanford now has a population of 10,432 according to figures submitted today by W. P. Reeve, who has charge of compiling the new city directory by the E. L. Polk & Company.

This figure, according to Mr. Reeve, is the population within the city limits while additional figures show that there are 1,180 people living outside of the city limits but are in the adjacent neighborhood. This gives Sanford a total population of 11,612.

This is a considerable increase over the figures submitted four years ago when the Polk Company issued its last directory, said Mr. Reeve. The federal census of that year showed Sanford's population to be 5,688. This is a gain of 86 per cent within the city limits.

Mr. Reeve's letter to the Chamber of Commerce, concerning the increased population, observes the tremendous growth of the city. He writes:

"We have now completed the name-taking census for the 1924 edition of the Sanford City Directory. Since the last directory was published in 1920, we find a notable increase in the population within the city limits as well as in the adjacent neighborhood. We were so struck with this increase that we have counted the names and are thus in a position to state authoritatively the actual figures.

"Within the city limits and carefully excluding all duplicates we find a population of 10,432 people. Beyond the limits and yet really part of the community we find 1,180 more.

When Bryan Debated Klan Issue

William Jennings Bryan, caught at a critical moment in the Democratic convention debate on the issue of whether or not the Klan would be named in a platform plank, Bryan pleaded against making the Klan an issue and his appeal had an important bearing on the vote.

New Yorker Writes Bryan That He Has Heard That Great Commoner Is Not A Regularly Elected Delegate

MADISON SQUARE GARDEN, New York, July 3.—Wyoming went over to Smith while I was sitting with the Florida delegation and the Smith delegates staged another parade. North Carolina gave one vote to Daniels.

MANY PLAN TRIPS AND PICNICS FOR FOURTH OF JULY

Celebrations at beaches to be Banner Attractions—Some Plan Picnic and Motor Parties
—No Herald Tomorrow

According to its time-honored custom of observing Fourth of July as a holiday, The Sanford Herald will issue no paper tomorrow (Friday). The Herald, however, wishes to announce that if the convention is still in session Friday, that the office will remain open and receive mail on how the balloting is going. To those who are interested in the happenings at the New York gathering, The Herald will be pleased to furnish this information.

Although there will be no Fourth of July celebration in Sanford tomorrow other than the ball game between the local "Celery Feds" and the Titusville semi-professional team, citizens of Sanford will not remain idle. Many have expressed intentions of visiting to the beaches, lakes, woods and other places in search of amusement.

Sanford people are interested more than ever in the doings at Daytona Beach on July 4 this year because of the young ladies from this city who will compete in the beauty contests there, it is said. Many have said that they will go to Coronada Beach, near New Smyrna, because they believe it will not be so crowded.

The United Spanish War Veterans have announced a picnic to be held at Altamonte Springs where one was held last year on the Fourth for the veterans. They have stated that all veterans and their families not having a way to go will be carried in the cars of others.

Property Transfers Are Large

Real Estate Transactions Recorded During Last Month Amount to $246,500, Which Runs the Total for Two Months Up to $636,460—Indicative of the Rapid Growth of Seminole County

That Sanford and Seminole county are enjoying a period of general prosperity is evidenced by the large number of figures submitted during the past two months concerning real estate deals. Many valuable pieces of property have changed hands as well as numerous pieces of less valuable property. These figures show that in a period of 60 days more than $636,000 worth of property has been transferred.

Prominent business men point out the fact that in former years the business, but not the real estate transfers in this county, have dropped off in the summer months to a point which is hardly believable. This summer many of them state that business is almost as good as in the best winter months and shows good prospects of being good all the summer. Many think that there is no better sign of prosperity than for business to remain in a normal condition during this part of the year.

Substantial business men declare that Sanford and Seminole county are just hitting their stride and that next year will show more gains than ever before. They are investing in more property, they are building more houses, they are

Educators' Meeting Elects Florida Man As Vice-President

WASHINGTON, July 3.—Nomination of Jesse H. Newton, superintendent of Denver, Colo., for president of the National Education Association and other officers including 12 vice-presidents and a director of education for each state was the principal event Wednesday at the association's convention here. It is expected that nominations committees choice for all officers will be approved today at a general meeting.

Mr. Newton was chosen to succeed Miss Olive M. Jones, New York City school principal, who will become a vice-president. Other vice-presidents nominated were Albert B. Cook, Baltimore, Md.; Harold W. Fugst, Aberdeen, S. D.; J. M. Foote, Baton Rouge, La.; Florence M. Hale, Augusta, Me.; L. W. Marberry, Rockford, Ill.; Mary F. Mooney, San Francisco, Calif.; Helen E. Shore, Minneapolis, Minn.; B. M. Sealey, Tallahassee, Fla.; Cora Steele, Terre Haute, Ind.; W. D. Walsh, Globe, Ariz.; and A. A. Shrade, Casper, Wyo.

MEXICO CITY, July 3.—The campaign for presidential election next Sunday has been on a mere or less personal basis between General Angel Flores and Plutarco Elias Calles. In the main, the organizations of radical character have aligned themselves behind Calles, while conservative elements announced for Flores.

McAdoo Strength Crippled by Inroads Made By Indianan Who Takes Twenty Votes of Mississippi From Californian On Forty-Ninth Ballot—Taggart Grows Optimistic

McAdoo Writes to State Chairmen Declaring He Is Entitled to Victory

Fifty-second ballot: Missouri goes to Ralston. Iowa, after scattering on the fifty-first ballot, went back to McAdoo on the fifty-second, McAdoo 412.5; Smith 320.5; Davis 59; Underwood 39.5; Cox 54; Ralston 93; Robinson 42.

MADISON SQUARE GARDEN, July 3.—Thomas Taggart launched today his long heralded offensive for the nomination of Samuel Ralston of Indiana by the Democratic National Convention.

As the long succession of ballots approached the half century mark, the Indiana leader began to bring from under cover the votes he has been holding out until he was convinced the leaders had been eliminated.

The first result was that on the forty-ninth ballot Ralston further crippled the McAdoo strength by taking the solid 20 votes of Mississippi. The Indiana Senator also picked up five in Illinois and one in Minnesota, making his total 57 in place of the 31 given him on a long string of preceding ballots.

Taggart said he expected to ride the boom for all it is worth. Ralston was given the solid vote of Mississippi delegation on the forty-ninth ballot, and he began to pick up scattered groups in other delegations as well. Apparently Taggart was starting to give his candidate a "ride" in hope that he would break the deadlock.

William Gibbs McAdoo, in personal letters addressed today to the chairman of the state delegations supporting his candidacy for the nomination, declared "the strength we have manifested entitles us to victory."

Eclipsing all records for prolonged balloting, save one, the convention is still deadlocked as tightly as ever with no indication of how soon the break would come. McAdoo had dropped below the 500 mark again due to the loss of Oklahoma, which jumped to Robinson.

Smith people said they are laying back "letting McAdoo force his run" and the McAdoo forces said they were waiting for all of the Smith votes to be brought out on the floor before disclosing strategy further.

The convention went into the forty-sixth ballot and tied the record with Baltimore, where Woodrow Wilson was nominated in 1912. At the rate the balloting is going it seemed headed for the fifty-seventh ballot record of the convention of 1860, which non-elected Douglas.

JUNE BUILDING PERMITS SHOW BIG INCREASE

Junction of Celery Avenue and Mellonville Avenue. This permit, which was for $10,300, was issued during the first part of the month. The grandstand is now being rapidly constructed.

A building permit for an $8,500 addition to a brick garage was issued to Edward Higgins and J. D. Davison. F. L. Woodruff and Joe Cameron secured a $4,500 permit for alterations and repairs of business property. W. E. Walthall has secured a permit for the erection of a $3,500, one story, frame residence. A permit for a $5,000 frame residence was issued to J. C. Wainwright. Eula Lee Pace obtained a permit to have a $2,500 frame residence constructed.

George A. DeCottis alone secured permits for the construction of five one story frame residences at a cost of $2,700 each, making a total of $13,500. A permit was issued to M. Solomon for the erection of a cottage at a cost of $2,000. Harry Lee was granted a permit to construct a $3,200 residence. Besides these there were fully 20 other permits issued for the construction of residences.

The Union Lodge of the Knights of Pythias obtained a permit to erect a two story frame lodge building. In addition there were many small permits issued for alterations and repairs of many business blocks and buildings. Permits for garages, re-roofing of residences and other buildings, repairs and additions to residences and the like were issued during the month and show that the people of Sanford are taking advantage of the summer months to construct and repair their property for the coming winter season, many prominent business men state.

How Convention Is Balloting

16.5; Cox 54; Governor Davis 3; Glass 24; Ralston 31; Mississippi flipped to Missouri, so did Oklahoma.

Thirty-fifth ballot: McAdoo 439.5; Glass 24; Smith 323.5; Davis 107; Cox 55; Ralston 33; Owen 25; Underwood 39.5. Oklahoma went back to Owen.

Thirty-sixth ballot: McAdoo 438.5; Smith 323; Underwood 39.5; Robinson 24; Davis 107; Cox 55; Glass 24; Ralston 33.5; Owen 25; Doherty 1. Doherty vote was cast by E. J. Hughes, of Dickinson, N. Dak., an undertaker, who explained he did it for fun.

Thirty-seventh ballot: McAdoo 444; Smith 321; Underwood 39.5; Cox 55; Davis 107; Ralston 32; Glass 24; Robinson 24; Owen 24.

Thirty-eighth ballot: McAdoo 444; Smith 321; Davis 106; Ralston 32; Cox 55; Underwood 39.5; Ritchie 7.5; Glass 24; Owen 24; Saulsbury 6; Governor Davis 3; Walsh 1.5.

CLUB BUYS TOWN

SAN FRANCISCO, July 2.—Instead of a club house, the Delevan Club has bought a whole town. It is the village of Delevan, in Colusa county, in the rice fields. The purchase includes 72 acres of buildings and town lots and 2,000 acres of rice fields, which have been flooded for duck hunting. The town includes a hotel, a number of buildings, streets and sidewalks. Golf links will be built. The club's activities will consist of sports and diversions the year around.

Convention Still In Deadlock on Thirty-Seventh Ballot

The expected break was definitely at hand.

Ralston Men Confident was not determined as the convention got down to balloting again.

Illinois leaders were in conference with friends of Governor Smith during the recess and there was a whispered warning that anti-McAdoo managers had determined upon a plan of bringing into the McAdoo ranks by swinging away sizeable groups in the hope of getting a hand wagon movement under way for some one.

This plan, according to the McAdoo folks, was designed to wear away the votes in favor of any one who still would be stopped by the Smith bloc and the McAdoo strength had been undermined.

In line with this suggestion was the word from some of the Illinois men that Ohio might throw some of its strength to Newton D. Baker in the hope that he might prove a centering point for McAdoo votes that find no preference in the present list of avowed candidates.

McAdoo Strength Recedes

In the face of a recession in McAdoo strength during the day his several of the McAdoo and Smith delegations, in conferences during the recess, had held caucuses and decided to stand pat a while longer for their candidates. So far as Ralston was concerned his friends said they were certain sooner or later to get several blocks of votes in a general break up and they were not anxious to force it immediately. The Davis men seemed content with the strength displayed by their candidate during the day's balloting and, confident despite the fact that William Jennings Bryan had declared his opposition to Davis and was counseling his associates to go to Ralston if there were a break in the McAdoo ranks.

Some of the Illinois delegates said before the evening session that considerable strength was to be expected in the early night balloting. Whether the move would take in all the Underwood second choice voters managers still profess optimism in the outcome.

David Ladd Rockwell, campaign manager for McAdoo, said before the night balloting began that their efforts would not be relaxed. It was conceded that there might be some further falling off in the McAdoo vote but that after the favorable vote had had their run McAdoo would begin to show his real strength.

At the headquarters it was stated that it was a free fight and each one of the candidates should be given his opportunity for the nomination.

During the evening recess William Jennings Bryan called at the McAdoo headquarters for a conference with the candidate. Afterwards it was said there that Mr. Bryan's opposition to John W. Davis did not mean that he was prepared to throw his support from the McAdoo camp to that of some other candidate.

Commenting on the gain made by Davis on balloting yesterday, Rockwell charged that big business was interested in the Davis candidacy.

At 10 minutes after 8 Chairman Walsh began pounding for order. The delegates were not all in the hall but the chairman was determined to get started. The chaplain was Dr. Samuel Trexler, president of the synod of New York and New England of the Lutheran Church.

Twenty-fifth Ballot

Then twenty-fifth ballot was underway within 12 minutes after the time set for reassembling. The twenty-fifth ballot showed a loss for McAdoo, a gain of half a vote for Smith, and a loss of three and a half for Davis. Underwood was unchanged. On that ballot the leaders stood: McAdoo 439.5; Smith 308.5; Davis 126; Underwood 39.5.

Into the twenty-sixth ballot the convention plunged, led by a good reading clerk, who had refreshed himself and tuned up his vocal chords during the recess.

Oklahoma departed from McAdoo and cast her 20 for Senator Owens, the senior senator from that state. It was a favorite son diversion to give the delegation a chance to look around. It was promptly challenged by a delegate and the poll was deferred to the end of the roll call.

Demand Poll

The North Carolina delegation vote for McAdoo was in the face of a demand of the Davis adherents there for a poll, John G. Dawson of Kinston, chairman of the central committee, quieted the movement and went outside the hall to look around. The Davis people in the Tar Heel delegation pocketed their sentiments for the time any how and continued to follow the unit rule for McAdoo. They said a lot about what they would do later but they agreed that nothing would be done until John gets back from the show. It developed that Dawson, having seen enough of one kind of a show went out to see another.

On recurring to Oklahoma the 20 were cast again for Senator Owen, the challenge was renewed and the roll was called.

McAdoo votes were there but under the unit rule the votes went for Owen.

The totals for the leaders on the ballot then stood this way: McAdoo 415.5; Smith 311.5; Davis 125.

McAdoo Loss 21 for McAdoo; a gain of three for Smith; a loss of one for Davis. The break in Oklahoma came at the instance of the Davis followers, headed by Charles A. Welsh of Antlers, who demanded an opportunity to get the entire delegation behind the West Virginian. Unable to swing a majority from McAdoo to Davis direct, it was agreed to give Senator Owen the vote until the delegation could come to terms on some one else.

Chairman Walsh took a vacation during the twenty-seventh ballot and left the veteran Democrat Judson Harmon of Ohio in the chair. Having been a presidential contender himself the Ohio war horse looked over the tug-of-war with a good deal of interest.

N. C. Gives 2 1/2 to Davis North Carolina, who had been voting her 24 solid for McAdoo, broke on this ballot and gave two and a half to John W. Davis. The remainder went to McAdoo as usual.

Oklahoma kept with Senator Owen.

Wyoming made a switch by giving five to Smith and one to John W. Davis. Senator Walsh from whom they went did not look a bit disappointed and the Smith crowd got as much noisy satisfaction out of it as if the whole six had been deposited.

Massachusetts and Pennsylvania standards flew down the aisle and escorted the Wyoming standard into a quickly formed procession which picked up adherents as it moved.

When the results were announced the McAdoo followers exclaimed "oo oh oh."

Smith Force Jubilant The Smith adherents bellowed "hooray." The Davis people whipped "hurrah." A new clerk charged into the twenty-eighth ballot.

The four in Illinois which had been going to Glass went to Owen on this ballot.

McAdoo lost one and one-half votes in North Carolina, which divided one to Josephus Daniels and one-half to Smith. The Smith adherents in the gallery let out a roaring cheer.

Before the result was announced Senator Walsh announced amid cheers that he was surrendering the gavel temporarily to Edward J. Woodhouse, the Democratic mayor of Northampton, Mass., the residence of President Coolidge.

Wielding the gavel with his left hand, Mayor Woodhouse got the convention in order and announced this result of the twenty-eighth ballot.

MEANS IS FOUND GUILTY IN LIQUOR CONSPIRACY CASE

Elmer Jarnecke Is Also Convicted By New York Court—Counsel Given Until Noon Today For Any Motions.

NEW YORK, July 2.—Gaston B. Mans, former department of justice agent, and his secretary, Elmer W. Jarnecke, Tuesday night were convicted of having conspired with bootleggers illegally to withdraw whiskey from distilleries. The jury was out one hour.

Counsel for Means and Jarnecke were given until noon tomorrow by Federal Judge C. B. Wolcott of Oregon to file any contemplated motions. No date was set for sentence.

The indictments, returned against them in 1923, charged Means and Jarnecke with having entered into a conspiracy to remove fifty barrels of rye whiskey from the Sam Thompson distillery in Brownsville, Pa., to a warehouse in Pittsburgh. Government witnesses testified that Jarnecke had been given $15,997.60 with which to pay the tax and remove the whiskey and that Means received $5,297.60 of this money.

The whiskey, according to witnesses, belonged to John W. Hubbard, of Trenton, N. J., a steel magnate, and friend of Secretary of Treasury Mellon. He admitted during the trial that he had desired to obtain release of the liquor for beverage purposes and that he had given Charles W. Johnson, former Uniontown, Pa., brewer, the money with which to obtain the release. Johnson told the jury that Means had promised to help him, claiming influence with Jess Smith, friend of former Attorney General Daugherty and of the late President Harding.

Means admitted having entered into negotiations for the removal of the whiskey, but contended that he had done so in his capacity as an investigator to obtain evidence against big bootleggers and influential men suspected of violating the prohibition law. He swore that a letter signed by President Harding authorizing him to make an investigation, had been stolen from him on March 31 by department of justice agents while he was assisting the Brookhart committee in investigating the department of justice.

BEHAVIOR OF 2 FLORIDANS IS DENOUNCED

his name is either withdrawn from the convention or his managers say he releases all delegates. Anything short of this we consider to be dishonest. We signed a solemn and binding obligation to support the nominee of the presidential primary and so far as we are concerned that oath meant more than a scrap of paper. It is humiliating to us here at the convention and must be to you at home to have these two delegates forsake Florida's choice at the time when McAdoo was far in the lead.

Thousand dollar checks and wine, women and song are said to be persuasive influences extended by Smith forces in getting votes for their candidate. With Jet Bowden from fourth district and T. J. Appleyard, delegate at large, voting for Smith and Ralston respectively and with one other candidate wobbling the poll of Florida delegates shows that at least nine will stick with McAdoo as long as Californians do. Those nine hope that Florida people will wire Bowden and Appleyard to stay with McAdoo as long as he is in the lead and as long as Californians stick.

McAdoo Stages Wonderful Comeback During Wednesday's Balloting—Severest Test of Convention Assisted by the Supporters of New York Candidate

NEW YORK, July 3.—Pounded pitifully, the Smith lines held at Madison Square Garden today while a pulmotor was on the McAdoo candidacy. The Californian's agents opposed in every direction. It was severest test to which the phalanx had been subjected. Smith casualties were two: representative Lathrop Brown, James, Suffolk county, and the Irwin, former mayor of New York, leader of Ulster county former internal revenue collector for the Hudson Valley district. Both turned their backs on McAdoo and cast their votes for Smith.

Realizing the first break in the McAdoo delegation and leaving for the time being with only 90 delegates from his state, the first impulse of the McAdoo zealots was to turn vicious upon the two recalcitrants. Roosevelt to the Rescue

Franklin D. Roosevelt, floor manager for the New York government, lifted a restraining hand. The explanation was shot through the New York delegation. It comes from a hotbed of the Klux Klanism. He is a personal friend of McAdoo. Stuart Gibbons, former-law partner of McAdoo, prevailed upon him to do so. During the progress of 37 ballots, Brown stifled his personal prejudices and stuck to Smith. He finally obtained a release from the governor before deserting him. Had been for McAdoo for more than eight years. Weren't his almost torn from him in San Francisco four years ago when tempted to take the New York standard into a demonstration for McAdoo?

Smith has played political ball McAdoo for 12 years. McAdoo, when secretary of the treasury, appointed him internal revenue collector for the old Second district with headquarters at Albany. Irwin, loyal enough to McAdoo, but with a political obligation to discharge, indicated he would leave the governor a few ballots and be counted for McAdoo. Tremendous pressure was brought upon him, for final drive of the McAdoo campaign was impending. He would go back to Gov. Smith after a few ballots.

Smith's Only Comment

Governor Smith's only comment was that he repeatedly announced to any delegate that does not support the candidate of his party. There are not unit rules in this state. They are agents.

The governor seemed satisfied with the results of the third day balloting. When adjournment was taken for dinner he checked the tabulations and discovered that McAdoo had only 12 1-2 more than he received on the ballot while his own column had him to have obtained 80 more than were recorded for when the first roll was called. Smith appeared to look forward to tomorrow's session of the convention with expectation of lively gratifying happenings. Those who explained the Smith strategy were all set for an offensive into the 500 column.

Someone has asked the question: "Have children forgotten the true significance of Fourth of July in the stampedede on the firecracker counter?" They have asked that the true significance of the Fourth be instilled in all children so that they may not forget it. Many teachers state that at the present time numbers of children when asked about what is meant by the Fourth of July, say that they do not know and many do seem to care to know. They add, however, that the schools are doing all in their power to remedy this question and as larger and larger percentages of the American children enter the public schools they will be taught the significance of the great Independence Day.

ADENTOWN, July 3.—A survey is being made of Braden by an engineer preparatory to preliminary work in connection with building the city's municipal gas plant, for which it is needed to issue bonds. There are difficult problems involved in installation of the plant, it is expected, and the completion of the preliminary work should be effected in a short time.

McAdoo Attack ON WEDNESDAY IS BIG SURPRISE

surance there would be no early release of the McAdoo delegates.

"The delegations committed to Mr. McAdoo would not accept their release," he replied.

Would Know McAdoo Stand.

"Mr. Rockwell," he was told, "that is not an answer to the question. That expresses the attitude of the delegations. What we want to know is Mr. McAdoo's attitude in this deadlock."

"We can't conceive of any contingency that would even bring up the question for consideration," was the manager's amended answer.

There is one sort of "compromise" which the McAdoo followers would like to make. That is a deal by which their candidate would be named to head the ticket and Smith as the second man. But they have been told Governor Smith does not look kindly upon such a proposition.

And there is plenty of evidence that, falling in this, Ralston is getting very careful consideration, not only among the McAdoo delegations but at headquarters. There is reason for believing that Mr. Rockwell and Mr. McAdoo are in pretty constant touch with Tom Taggart of Indiana, who has predicted all along that Ralston would be the ultimate choice.

After Mr. Rockwell had issued his defy in the compromise proposition, he was asked how long Mr. McAdoo would remain in the race.

"A long, long time," was the response.

Indiana Senator Becomes Contender For Nomination

McAdoo people went into Wednesday night's session attempting to estimate what damage had been done to their cause by the riotous performance of the late afternoon session when William Jennings Bryan precipitated a tumult with the approval of McAdoo from the platform and aroused cries of "Oil!"

Effect of Bryan Incident

At first there were various predictions of what the effect might be at the night session but when the leaders got outside and thought it over it became apparent that the principal effect of the Bryan incident had been to solidify the Smith forces and to spur the McAdoo people on to a new effort. To pass the 500 mark last night and adjourn while it was held there was their first goal. They made it. To attain a majority was their next goal. Whether they can do that will be decided today.

Then in the offing lies a new threat of an attack on the two-thirds rule after the majority has been attained. That issue remains to be clarified. There is no authentic information concerning the McAdoo plans available last night. The day's proceedings were full of incident and color. Twelve ballots were the accomplishment of the two sessions of the day. The desertion of two votes in the New York delegation from Smith to McAdoo gave the McAdoo people all they wanted for a demonstration at the day session and the sliding of Missouri and Oklahoma to the McAdoo standards at the night session furnished the occasion for the demonstration last night. But the real feature of the day was Bryan, as of old, getting the platform to make a speech on pretense of explaining his vote; launching an attack on Bryan business and organized wealth, and presenting a list of candidates whom he considered available-headed by McAdoo.

Seldom Equalled

The rumpus Bryan kicked up has seldom been equalled at any national convention and it probably never has been surpassed in anything short of blows and bloodshed. For half the time allotted to him Bryan was shouting into a howling mob which was hurling cat calls, threats and epithets at him, and heckling him with demands to explain McAdoo's connection with "oil" and his activities as an attorney securing tax refunds for corporations from the treasury department.

The strategy by which the McAdoo managers picked up enough votes to pass the 500 mark was said to be an arrangement by which Oklahoma and Missouri promised to come over and give the McAdoo candidacy a chance to develop its strength for the satisfaction of wavering delegation. Mississippi was on the throes of deciding whether it would go back from McAdoo to John W. Davis, this morning.

The Smith people decided, contrary to report, that they would not trot out their full strength last night and from all evidences they did not do so. The McAdoo people decided they knew there were more Smith votes on the floor to be brought out when called for and they were playing a game which would force all the Smith votes out before they brought out their own full strength.

Forty-eighth ballot: McAdoo 483.5; Smith 321; Davis 70.5; Robinson 44; Underwood 38.5; Ralston 31.

Forty-ninth ballot: McAdoo 462.5; Smith 320.5; Davis 63.5; Underwood 42; Cox 53; Glass 25; Ralston 57; Robinson 45.

Fiftieth ballot: McAdoo 461.5; Smith 320.5; Ralston 58; Robinson 44; Underwood 42.5; Mississippi 11.

Fifty-first ballot: McAdoo 442.5; Smith 328; Davis 67.5; Cox 55; Underwood 43; Ralston 63; Glass 25; Robinson 43; Ritchie 16.5; Governor Davis 2; Walsh 2.5; Owen 4; Saulsbury 6.

MANY PLAN TRIPS AND PICNICS FOR FOURTH OF JULY

Weather conditions during the past few days indicate that an abundance of rain will be furnished by Jupiter Pluvius, it is said. "Old Timers" in this city are of the opinion that July 4 always comes during the rainy season and that it is more than apt to rain tomorrow. They state, however, that the rainfall on the Fourth is generally not sufficient to stop the pleasure-seekers. By comparison of figures it is found that in some states there is nearly always some rainfall on July 4 while in others it seldom, if ever, rains on that date.

Fireworks dealers state that although the great quantities of fireworks formerly sold on the Fourth have dwindled considerably, still there is quite a demand for them at this time of the year. The celebration of the Fourth of July with firecrackers and the like will in a few years be a thing of the past, state many prominent people who say also that this form of amusement hides the real sentiment and thought of the celebration.

"Safe and sane" Fourth's are now advocated by many of this country's largest newspapers who every year declare themselves against fireworks as they are generally handled. Some serious accident or accidents occur nearly every year from the handling of fireworks, especially by children, even in the smallest towns and villages, they state.

Over Ninety Percent of Childish Ailments, Come From Indigestion

—W. L. Hand.

Indigestion, in children, should be but a very temporary condition. Yet, while it lasts, it congests the liver and bowels, breeds germs and fills the blood with poisons that are the cause of many troubles.

Children's ailments develop suddenly, without much warning, but yield just as quickly to proper treatment. By simultaneous cleansing action of stomach, liver and bowels, my Liv-o-lax, a pleasant-tasting liquid remedy, gives the quick relief that mothers seek, and it saves the use of calomel and castor oil.

Just one trial will convince. Get a 30c bottle. Children love Liv-o-lax and mothers will be delighted with its quick action.

McAdoo Stages Wonderful Comeback During Wednesday's Balloting—Severest Test of Convention Assisted by the Supporters of New York Candidate

NEW YORK, July 3.—Pounded pitifully, the Smith lines held at Madison Square Garden today while a pulmotor was on the McAdoo candidacy. The Californian's agents opposed in every direction. It was severest test to which the phalanx had been subjected. Smith casualties were two: representative Lathrop Brown, James, Suffolk county, and the Irwin, former mayor of New York, leader of Ulster county former internal revenue collector for the Hudson Valley district. Both turned their backs on McAdoo and cast their votes for Smith.

Realizing the first break in the McAdoo delegation and leaving for the time being with only 90 delegates from his state, the first impulse of the McAdoo zealots was to turn vicious upon the two recalcitrants. Roosevelt to the Rescue

Franklin D. Roosevelt, floor manager for the New York government, lifted a restraining hand. The explanation was shot through the New York delegation. It comes from a hotbed of the Klux Klanism. He is a personal friend of McAdoo. Stuart Gibbons, former-law partner of McAdoo, prevailed upon him to do so. During the progress of 37 ballots, Brown stifled his personal prejudices and stuck to Smith. He finally obtained a release from the governor before deserting him. Had been for McAdoo for more than eight years. Weren't his almost torn from him in San Francisco four years ago when tempted to take the New York standard into a demonstration for McAdoo?

Smith has played political ball McAdoo for 12 years. McAdoo, when secretary of the treasury, appointed him internal revenue collector for the old Second district with headquarters at Albany. Irwin, loyal enough to McAdoo, but with a political obligation to discharge, indicated he would leave the governor a few ballots and be counted for McAdoo. Tremendous pressure was brought upon him, for final drive of the McAdoo campaign was impending. He would go back to Gov. Smith after a few ballots.

Smith's Only Comment

Governor Smith's only comment was that he repeatedly announced to any delegate that does not support the candidate of his party. There are not unit rules in this state. They are agents.

The governor seemed satisfied with the results of the third day balloting. When adjournment was taken for dinner he checked the tabulations and discovered that McAdoo had only 12 1-2 more than he received on the ballot while his own column had him to have obtained 80 more than were recorded for when the first roll was called. Smith appeared to look forward to tomorrow's session of the convention with expectation of lively gratifying happenings. Those who explained the Smith strategy were all set for an offensive into the 500 column.

Someone has asked the question: "Have children forgotten the true significance of Fourth of July in the stampedede on the firecracker counter?" They have asked that the true significance of the Fourth be instilled in all children so that they may not forget it. Many teachers state that at the present time numbers of children when asked about what is meant by the Fourth of July, say that they do not know and many do seem to care to know. They add, however, that the schools are doing all in their power to remedy this question and as larger and larger percentages of the American children enter the public schools they will be taught the significance of the great Independence Day.

MAKE SURVEY

ADENTOWN, July 3.—A survey is being made of Braden by an engineer preparatory to preliminary work in connection with building the city's municipal gas plant, for which it is needed to issue bonds. There are difficult problems involved in installation of the plant, it is expected, and the completion of the preliminary work should be effected in a short time.

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

THE BURDEN BEARER: Cast thy burden upon the Lord, and he shall sustain thee: He shall never suffer the righteous to be moved.—Psalm 55:22.

AWAKENING SOUL

Fly hence, shadows, that do keep watchful sorrows, charmed in sleep!
 Though the eyes be overtaken,
 Yet the heart doth ever waken
 Thoughts, chained up in busy cares.
 Of continual woes and cares:
 Love and griefs are so express,
 As they rather sigh than rest.
 Fly hence, shadows, that do keep watchful sorrows, charmed in sleep.
 —John Ford.

A hair-cut is another sign of progress.

It's a wise vendor who knows his bananas.

Appleyard has flopped from Ralston to Underwood.

Daytona is going after summer tourists and as a result the hotels there are well filled.

There's no reason why a poodle dog shouldn't make an excellent powder puff.

The little girl down the street says she has two suitors and four "dark horses."

The bulkheading of Lake Monroe and the construction of the boulevard will play a large part in making Sanford a tourist city.

Some men's idea of a home is a place where he has someone to blame for having a hole in his socks.

Calvin Coolidge will be forty-two years old on Friday, July Fourth. It's a shame that he won't be able to celebrate his next one in the White House.

Perhaps if the convention was moved to some other city it would be possible for the delegates to get together on some satisfactory candidate.

Now that the water works plant has been acquired by the city, many are awaiting some action to be taken regarding the purchase of the electric light plant.

The office of The Herald will remain open on the Fourth of July to furnish information regarding the Democratic convention and the progress of balloting.

Al Smith can be judged by the calibre of his supporters and especially by the class of noise-makers he always seems to have in the convention hall.

An increase of about two hundred percent over June of last year was made in the amount of building permits issued for June of 1924. And the building activity of Sanford has hardly begun.

The fellow who is always reminding you that he isn't an "angel" but that he wouldn't be caught doing some things that others aren't do them because he hasn't the opportunity.

They ought to use a little baseball strategy in the convention, walk the heavy sluggers for awhile and let the weak hitters. At least that would get a little nearer the nomination.

The United States last year made over three-fifths of the world's pig iron from which steel is manufactured. In one month recently Americans made almost as much pig iron as was made in the entire year 1881.

The merchant or business house which doesn't show a big increase over the business transacted a year ago is slipping. The progressive concern is going after new business and is continually reporting enormous gains.

Bowden and Appleyard made no friends by denigrating McAdoe and supporting Smith and Ralston. Florida's both at home and at the convention are disgusted with the actions of these two men.

It may be necessary yet for the convention to move to another city to finish its work. New York has demonstrated that it is no city for conventions of this kind. It will be a long time before another big political convention will select the big city as a meeting place.

"Hurray for America!" yelled a crowd of Florida sportspersons at the recent bout between Tommy Gibbons and Georges Carpentier when the former successfully checked the champion's second invasion of boxing circles here. A group of disgruntled Frenchmen answered with "Hurray for Hell!" That's right, hurray for Hell! That's the only hurray one for his own country.

Florida Getting Ready To Begin

In many Florida grocery stores handling high-class supplies, the most popular orange marmalade is found to be a brand made in Ireland! Florida housewives trying to put on a few extra frills will ask for Irish-made orange marmalade, California honey, and Italian guava jelly.
 Nor is The Herald telling this with the usual idea of pointing shame at the Florida citizen who does not patronize home industries. The Herald has been thinking, since it heard of the big sale made by one Florida grocery firm last winter of Irish marmalade, that it might be right good business to urge further patronage of the enterprising Irish who probably send to America for the oranges out of which they make the marmalade to send back to Florida.
 Florida has long been strangely lethargic in its attitude toward the manufacture of citrus fruit products. It has a few factories that are doing well. These factories advertise their products in a limited way. But the state as a whole is not known for extensive canning industries. We would wager that Irish housewives do not go into Dublin grocery stores and insist upon being sold Florida orange marmalade. And it would not be Irish patriotism that would prevent. The Irish housewife, trying to put on frills, just hasn't the opportunity to buy Florida canned goods in her local shops. They are not on sale there.
 Within the next twenty years, Florida's business sense will more generally come to life. Twenty years hence, The Herald believes, there will be canning industries extensive enough to put Florida in the forefront as a manufacturing state. Florida marmalade, Florida jellies and jams and preserves, yes, and Florida honey products, will occupy places of honor on the shelves of the best shops throughout the civilized world. It seems to take time for Florida to get started. But it is getting ready to begin, all right.

Opportunity Always Found If Sought

The self-helped man has a hard job. He has to think; there is no work harder than thinking: the majority question that statement because they do not think. He has to deny himself present desires to reach further goals: people want what they want when they want it; therefore they regard all self-discipline as hardship. He has to lay deep foundations for future growth; but people want shade-trees the first season and giant oaks in a single summer; they forget that as high as the branches spread in the air, so deep must the roots spread in the earth.
 Self-help means alertness? People don't like to keep alert, they want someone to do it for them; they like to doze along in comfort. Alertness is part of the price, and those who prefer undisturbedness to alertness, can get it. Most of them do get it.

Henry Ford said that. And Henry Ford has a right to say things like that because he knows.
 In the same article from which those paragraphs are taken, Mr. Ford expresses earnest disapproval of propagandists who try to show that present-day opportunities are less plentiful than the opportunities offered in previous generations. He cites the same attitude twenty-five years ago. Men in those days, he says, were bewailing the disappearance of opportunity, and yet opportunities like volcanoes opened at their feet.

The chief trouble, Mr. Ford thinks, is that people have the wrong notion of what opportunity is. "They think," he says, "opportunity is something nicely wrapped up and laid on their plate, something handed to them already finished."
 And isn't that the case in most of the instances of failure you have observed? The young man loafing in the cool drink stand, frittering away his days, bewailing the lack of chances for him to "make a strike," is usually a young man waiting for some agency outside of himself to make success in life possible for him. The young man and the young woman, the middle-aged man and the middle-aged woman who whine about absence of opportunity for them to make anything worthwhile out of life, are people without creative spirit or people who haven't the stamina to get out and work for what they want.
 As Ford correctly puts it, there is no work harder than thinking. Real thought is just about the starkest thing in America today. That is why opportunities, too, seem less plentiful. People who use their heads can always find opportunity. People who use their heads can attain success.

WHEN IN THE course of human events, it becomes necessary for one people to dissolve the political bonds which have connected them with another, and to assume among the powers of the earth the separate and equal station to which the laws of nature and of nature's God entitle them, a decent respect to the opinions of mankind requires that they should declare the causes which impel them to the separation.—Thomas Jefferson.

YESTERDAY THE GREATEST question was decided which was ever debated in America; and a greater perhaps never was nor will be decided among men. A resolution was passed without one dissenting colony, that those United Colonies are, and of right ought to be, free and independent States.—John Adams.

PRAYER STILLS TUMULT

Amid the turbulent activities of the Democratic National Convention, which stands perhaps unparalleled in history for acrimonious differences of opinions and objects among its delegates, an incident occurred during one of its sessions which carries with it a lesson, immediate in its good effects, and which might with profit be pondered by all.
 Of the incident the New York Evening World says:
 Chairman Walsh made attempts every few minutes from eleven to eleven-twenty a. m. to get quiet. There was all the time as much racket as there was during the low spots in yesterday's McAdoe war dance.
 Tammany leaders went up into the top galleries and pleaded with the excited routiers to "give Al a chance to get up in nomination."
 But, no, by no means. The megaphone man started, "Hail, Hail, the Gang's All Here."
 This chorus ended in with "Al Smith, Al Smith," in short staccato barks.
 But at last, along about eleven twenty-five, Mr. Walsh had his way. He got it by introducing the chaplain of the day, William W. Porter, C. S. B., of the Board of Lecturership of the Christian Science Church. Mr. Porter, placid, square-jawed, big-voiced, did a wonderful thing.
 "My dear friends," he said, "we will spend a few minutes in silent prayer and we will then, in unison, repeat the Lord's Prayer."
 Those who have learned to dread the way in which some good men of the cloth make a convention invoc-

CONVENTION SIDELIGHTS

No Nominee in Sight. Resembles Baseball Game. Dr. Murphee Lauded. Bryan Hissed and Booed.

By R. L. DEAN
 Editor, The Sanford Herald
 THE CONVENTION, like the needless Alexandria, is dragging its slow length along wounded pocketbooks by the score are forcing the delegates to return home and leave alternates to cast the votes. The forty-second ballot was reached last night and apparently the Democrats are no nearer a nominee than they were a week ago. True, McAdoe crossed the coveted 500 mark last night, but there are yet over 200 votes needed for his nomination and no one can figure who they are coming from.
 THE CONVENTION has now developed into something very similar to a baseball game in which a pitcher's duel is trying the patience of the fans. For perhaps seven or eight innings the three men up and three men down with unvarying monotony. Then suddenly several hits are bunched, bases are awfully excited, the stands roar and hats fly. This may be followed by a triple play which you might gladly have suffered a substrate for three years to see.
 CHAIRMAN WALSH calls the convention to order. "The secretary will call the roll for the thirty-eighth ballot." "Alabama has 24 votes for Oscar Underwood" replies a delegate from that state with perfectly consistent intonation. Then the delegates and unanimous consent is given. His first few remarks dealing with Democratic generalities are greeted with applause. But Bryan wants to illustrate his principles and he launches into personalities, but he criticized no one. He only pays high tribute to Florida. He denigrates Dr. Murphee as a man for the Democratic party's nominee for the presidency. He pays tribute to the South. He recommends Josephus Daniels and Senator Robinson of Arkansas.
 AT THE MENTION of each of these men the galleries show their breeding and are disrespectful enough, but when Bryan's list is concluded with McAdoe's the boos, hisses and cat-calls from the galleries are ample evidence that the missing 2,000 tickets went to the slums of New York. Bryan had much to say to the delegates and only 30 minutes to say it in, and the galleries did their best to denigrate and hurray. The 80,000 were courteous and considerate enough, and with the exception of a few in New Jersey and Ohio sections, showed their willingness to listen to what Mr. Bryan had to say.
 WALSH SHOWED an element of weakness in not adjourning the convention to another and impartial city, for his efforts to maintain order were futile. It was necessary for Bryan to continue speaking while the galleries rocked with shouts of derision. It was interesting fact, however, that he could be heard almost as plainly as the average speaker could when perfect silence was maintained. Whatever may be the final result of Bryan's effort to save the party the fact remains that McAdoe's vote jumped 55 on the next ballot and which is high water mark so far.

LOVE

There is a belief, common the world over, that man loves a dog. The truth is that man loves adoration when he thinks he is loving the dog. If he should enter the yard of a stranger and the world's prize bulldog should leap from the steps of the stranger's house and approach him with wagging tail and welcoming whines of delight, he would stoop to pat the animal's head and worry its ears and he would interpret the purring of his vanity as love for the humble creature at his feet; but if the dog should get to its feet and growl a warning or advance with obvious intent to discourage his visit, he would reach for his hip pocket and say: "Now start something, you ugly brute and I'll fill you with little holes that will let the breeze through."
 Such is the love of Bill for John. Bill has a store and John is one of his most liberal patrons. At frequent intervals John drops in to sit on a counter and chat. Bill has many friends, but he prizes John more than any other. Then a new store opens across the street, offering a little better goods for a little less money, and John begins to do his buying there. Months pass and he continues to drop in for chats with Bill, but he spends no money and Bill's cordiality becomes increasingly forced. In the end they are estranged. Bill no longer calls John a friend, for we get our living from our friends.
 But surely a man truly loves the wife of his bosom. Well, yes; most men do, after a fashion. But consider the case of Henry. He loves his wife, but he loves her because she keeps his house in order, mends his clothes, attends and trains his children, fondles him, feeds his vanity by listening to his boastings, nurses him, feeds him, puts him, entertains him. Now let her make an end of this business and devote herself wholly to interests outside his home. How long will Henry's love be lavished upon her?
 Job, you will remember, loved his God and remained loyal through all adversity. But how many vanquished nations have help public meetings to thank God for His mercies? And what righteous man, being deprived of the fortune in which he delighted, will keep his mind free of the idea that God was in some obscure way to blame for the loss?
 "For better or worse" is a large bargain for a man who is ninety-nine per cent selfish.

SELF DEFENSE

One of the excuses given for the continued sale of firearms with such freedom as prevails in this country is that the public must not be deprived of the right to defend itself against crooks. Theoretically his is sound reasoning, but in actual fact the public would generally be better defended if it were not armed.
 There is not, in times of peace, even one legitimate use for revolvers or any kind of firearm that can be hidden about the person, unless they should be needed by police officers. In England small arms are not carried even by police. It is very doubtful whether guns are of great use in the average operation of the police in this or any country.
 If the manufacture and sale of revolvers could be absolutely prevented there would be far fewer crimes of violence. As long as they are so freely available to criminals the public naturally feels entitled to their use and possession. This is true even though they are rarely used to the public.
 The fact of the matter is that the average citizen, even though armed, is helpless in a contest with a man inclined to violent crime. The criminal almost invariably "has the jump" on the proposed victim. He is usually more quick and certain with his gun, and any indication on the part of a citizen that he possesses a gun is likely to lead to a shooting which might not otherwise take place.
 An indication of the advantage which the criminal has is given in a recent case in St. Louis. A police lieutenant who was recognized as a crack shot was seeking to arrest a negro who was drawing his gun. The negro had a second's start on him and took the desperate chance of beating him to the draw. All the quickness and skill of the officer as a marksman did not save his life. A case of this kind indicates how helpless the average person is in a contest with a criminal. The possession of a revolver does not often save life. It may, in fact, be a menace.
 The criminal feels himself fortified by the possession of a gun. Many times he would not attempt crime if he was unarmed. There should be found some way to completely abolish the small arm.

THE FOURTH OF JULY

The real significance of Independence Day comes from an understanding of its meaning, a realization of what the Fourth of July stands for in American history.
 No child should be permitted to grow up with the idea that the Fourth is the day we all take a vacation and try to see how much noise we can make.
 Rather, every school child should be able to quote from memory the essential part of that immortal Declaration of Independence: "We hold these truths to be self-evident, that all men are created equal, that they are endowed by their Creator with certain inalienable rights, that among these are Life, Liberty and the pursuit of Happiness. That to secure these rights, Governments are instituted among men, deriving their just powers from the consent of the governed."
 In the words of Abraham Lincoln, "This was their majestic interpretation of the economy of the Universe. This was their lofty, and wise, and noble understanding of the justice of the Creator to His creatures."
 Americans today may well ponder carefully the expressions of these great men who gave years of thought and effort to the forming of our national ideals and who wrote these ideals into the two great basic documents of our civic life—the Declaration of Independence and the Constitution of the United States.
 The Declaration of Independence declares the doctrines of equality, liberty and that a government derives its just powers from the consent of the governed.
 Equality means fraternity, brotherhood, fair-dealing, exclusion of no one from public benefits because of race or poverty or lowly birth. It does not mean social equality or equality of wealth or equality of inherent ability. The Declaration referred to political equality, which means equal opportunity under the law.

 SPENDING is extremely important. If you can't spend effectively, you can't accumulate funds wisely. A prodigal throws his money away. A sluggard makes his row from lack of use. A wise man makes his grow. Each of us must decide this problem personally. If you spend with care, if you wish to build up an interest account, the First National will help you.

Spanish War Veterans Pic Will Be Held

Annual picnic of the Spanish War Veterans will be held this year at the home of Mrs. W. B. Ballard in Altamonte. All Spanish War veterans, families are invited to attend. The picnic will be held on July 4 at the same place as last year. It is expected that it will be duplicated next year, comrades from three years attending. The Ballards are a special invitation to all, as they are providing the picnic.

Marriage of Ethel Portland and Pierce Griffin is a Surprise

A wedding that comes as a surprise to a host of friends in Sanford is that of Pierce Griffin, of Sanford, and Miss Ethel Portland, of Altamonte. The young couple rode over to Sanford Wednesday afternoon and were married by the judge, returning to Sanford in the night. Miss Griffin was visiting her mother, Mrs. Merline Bledsoe at her home on Myrtle Avenue at the time of the marriage. Miss Griffin is the only son of Mr. R. L. Griffin, of this city and has a host of friends who wish him every marital bliss.

Alhambra Bridge Club Entertained By Mrs. James Ridge Tuesday

Mrs. James Ridge entertained the Alhambra Bridge Club Tuesday afternoon honoring Mrs. Dentzel, a bride of June. A lovely new home of Mrs. Ridge was attractively decorated with many colored zinnias. The guests enjoyed a most enjoyable afternoon. Mrs. Arthur held high and was given a beautiful tea. Ruth Gillon and a set of table numbers were given. Mrs. Stafford was present with a dozen Madeira tea.

Delicate Bridge Club Is Entertained

E. F. Householder was the hostess at a bridge luncheon Tuesday, entertaining the Delicate Bridge Club. One of the members being absent one table played bridge. Two unique glass flower vases were won by Mrs. S. P. and Mrs. F. E. Roumillat. A delicious picnic lunch was served after the enjoyable game of bridge.

The Magnificent Douglas Entrance

Ten acres of glorified architecture in picturesque Spanish note. A central plaza 250 feet in diameter. Striking entrance over 90 feet high flanked by a main arch 40 feet wide. Then stretching out in artistic and effective grouping, yet as one harmonious unit, apartment houses, stores, homes, antique shops and all of the delightful scramble of the minor Spanish town in its old world setting. Such, in brief, is the new Douglas entrance to Coral Gables.

The Douglas entrance will be the next great gateway to Miami it will be the main entrance and befittingly the finest of all Coral Gables entrances. Located at the junction of S. W. Eighth Street and Douglas Road, the Douglas entrance is of far greater significance in the development of Miami's Master Suburb than as a mere gateway to the Douglas section.

Within the shadow of this fine entrance will be erected many of Miami's finest apartment houses, to which visitors from every section of the country will gladly come for rest and quiet and refined surroundings that are not to be enjoyed in a busy and growing city.

The first unit of the Douglas entrance and of at least three of the apartment houses which are linked in the architectural schemes sketched above, will be erected this summer. A trip to Coral Gables now aboard a de luxe pullman bus is worth while if for nothing else than to make a mental photograph of the spot today for comparison with the remarkable achievements which will be completed here within the next few months.

Bryan hears Rumor He is not Regularly Elected Delegate

(Continued from Page 1.) McAdoo, box at the convention Tuesday opening a bottle of milk for Mrs. McAdoo and pouring it for her. Mrs. McAdoo told Mr. Mack that she hadn't lost her nerve that she had been through such a fight before and was prepared to spend several days more working.

"I certainly appreciate the way the Florida delegates are standing by their instructions," she said. Mrs. McAdoo and Miss Margaret Wilson still wear black and dress sippily. Mr. McAdoo wears a crepe band on his left sleeve.

The forty-eighth ballot, which is being called while I am sending this dispatch, finds the Democratic National Convention still in a deadlock, with the McAdoo and Smith forces holding out obstinately.

Indiana feels confident of Ralston's nomination. Tom Taggart, replying to McAdoo managers who approached him for Indiana's 30 votes, declared that Indiana would stick by Ralston to the end in the belief there was a chance for his nomination.

When Missouri went over to McAdoo on the thirty-ninth ballot last night there was a great demonstration. Smith galleries mumbled and the cry "Alas, poor York," reverberated through the convention hall.

The Virginia delegation, which is seated behind us in the convention hall, refuses to "break its glass."

"Oil, oil, oil" was the cry of the prejudiced East Side toughs in the galleries when Bryan brought out the name McAdoo in his talk before the convention yesterday afternoon. Bryan was cheered when he began speaking but McAdoo's name threw the convention into a turmoil and the cry came down from the gallery not to let the Commoner speak but three words. The only way to get relief was to clear the galleries.

Jerry Carter, a Florida delegate, grabbed a Florida banner and made a "forward pass" down the center aisle, waving the banner and crying "Clear the aisle!" He told the chairman of the organized work of rowdies and Walsh ordered the police to clear the aisles.

The rumor that Bowden left for Canada after voting for Smith is false. Appleyard changed his vote from Ralston to Underwood last night.

The Florida delegation has decided to ask that the convention be moved to another city if there is a repetition of last night's discourtesy, when Bryan spoke. They believe a motion to this effect will at least have a tendency to quiet the gallery.

Property Transfers During Past Two Months Show Gain

(Continued from Page 1.) interesting more foreign capital in this locality than ever before in the history of Sanford. Some have said that what is now going on in the line of construction is very small as compared with what they believe will be going on one year from now.

The city officials are not idle as demonstrated by the fact that they are rushing to completion the construction of a new and modern waterworks system. City Manager W. B. Williams states that the new plant will probably be put in operation in the late fall or early winter. On July 1 the city officially took over the old plant which it recently purchased from the Southern Utilities Company for a sum of $71,000.

Lately the City Commission approved of plans to extend the present bulkhead on Lake Monroe to reach to the limits of the city on either side. George A. DeCottas is now completing the legal work necessary and preparatory to voting bonds for obtaining money for this work.

Lately R. W. Pearman, Jr., secretary of the local Chamber of Commerce, stated that he had received inquiries from fully three-fourths of the states in the Union regarding available property and business conditions in Sanford preparatory to spending the winter here. Mr. Pearman states that the Chamber of Commerce recommends the building of several large apartment houses in Sanford and in the vicinity in order to house properly all of these visitors who will probably be here.

Besides the waterworks construction the city commissioners state that they are waiting for the time to become ripe to acquire the gas and electric plants as municipal property. The city is carrying on an extensive paving program and looking forward to a great season, officials state.

'CELERY FEDS' TO PLAY TITUSVILLE HERE ON JULY 4

Manager Whidden Urges Fans to Support Team—Titusville Has One of Best Semi-Professional Clubs in State.

By C. A. Whidden

Every preparation possible is being made to strengthen the local team which is to meet the fast Titusville team here at the Ninth Street Park on July 4 at 4 p. m.

Everyone is assured of a real battle, as some of the best ball players in this vicinity will be seen in action.

A large squad of ball players have been practicing to get in shape for the game, and the lineup will be more formidable than in previous games.

The campaign for funds was a success from every angle. While not complete, 25 merchants donated $120.50, which takes care of immediate needs, on past due accounts and the game for July 4. Just a little help from all the fans and Sanford can put out a winning team.

If there are any ball players in this city who would like to make the team, they will be given a chance to do so Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday of next week. Don't forget the game. Don't forget to pull for the locals, as it will help them to win.

Daily Fashion Hint

THE SEASON'S TAILLEUR
 To be correct, the season's tailleur must be slim and "boyish" in line. The materials favored for its development are the twills, heavy satins and broadcloths. The coat of the design pictured is bound with silk, braided and trimmed with buttons. The pockets are placed rather high in Director fashion and bound with self material. The skirt fastens at one side and is trimmed only with stitching. Medium size requires 4 1/2 yards 54 inch material. Pictorial Review Jacket No. 2116. Sizes, 34 to 44 inches bust and 16 to 20 years. Price, 45 cents. Skirt No. 1956. Sizes, 34 to 48 inches bust and 16 to 20 years. Price, 30 cents.

SIGNS YOU CAN BELIEVE IN

If your breath is bad and you have spells of swimming in the head, poor appetite, constipation and a general no-account feeling, it is a sign your liver is torpid. The one really dependable remedy for all disorders in the liver, stomach and bowels is Herbine. It acts powerfully on the liver, strengthens digestion, purifies the bowels and restores a fine feeling of energy, vim and cheerfulness. Price 60c. Sold by Union Pharmacy.

ONE IN TEN

Neglecting a little wound, cut or abrasion of the flesh may in nine cases out of ten cause no great suffering or inconvenience, but it is the one case in ten that causes blood poisoning, lockjaw or a chronic festering sore. The cheapest, safest and best course is to disinfect the wound with liquid Borozone and apply the Borozone Powder to complete the healing process. Price (liquid) 30c, 60c and $1.20. Powder 30c and 60c. Sold by Union Pharmacy.

Bowel Troubles Soon Relieved

The first two years of baby's life are the most trying on mothers. Inevitable care must be exercised by the mother in baby's diet. Her little stomach is so easily upset and bowel troubles are a constant menace. At such times Teethina will assist in keeping baby well and greatly lighten the mother's anxiety.
 Mrs. John W. Mobley, Route 2, Whigham, Ga., writes: "My baby had chills and fever. He was very sick and his bowels were loose. My doctor gave me a medicine for him, but it didn't do him any good."
 "It started him on Teethina and he soon got over the trouble and is now well and lively as a kitten."
 Teethina is sold by all druggists, or send 10c to Moffett Laboratories, Columbia, Ga., for package and FREE BOOKLET ABOUT BABIES
