HUNTING SEASON OPENS SATURDAY OF THIS WEEK REPORT GAME PLENTIFUL

Hunters and Huntresses Are Making Up Many Parties

DEER TURKEY QUAIL

PETER CARNER GIVES SOME GOOD ADVICE ON HOW TO CONDUCT YOUR TRIP.

The following from the St. Augustine Record is so good for all counties that we reproduce it:

The hunting season in Florida opens on Saturday, November 20th, and a goodly number of licenses to hunt have been procured by sportsmen at the office of the county judge. However, in view of the nearness to the opening of the season, the number of licenses is not as large as it should be, indicating that scores of persons, as usual, will attempt to hunt without license, the proceeds of which go to the school fund.

The county game warden has the co-operation of the sheriff's office in the enforcement of the hunting statutes, as well as the backing of every law-abiding sportsman who has paid his license fee and does not approve of shooting more game in a season or day than the law allows. Shooting out of season will not be tolerated, and unmerciful slaughter of birds and other game will be punished, officers declare.

An individual hunter may take only one deer, two turkeys, twenty quail or twenty-five other birds in a day, and killings for the season shall not exceed three deer, ten turkeys, and three hundred other birds. Pheasants and grouse are so scarce in Florida that the open season is only one month—from November 20 to December 20.

With the approach of the hunting season it is only appropriate that that branch of sport be given mention. Locally the season promises to be the greatest ever witnessed. Hunters throughout the vicinity are busily preparing for it and indications point to a plentiful year of game. Much stress has been laid, and rightly so, upon violations of the game laws.

While on the subject, which brings forth a lot of kick each season from people who do not understand or love the sport, it is appropriate also to mention a few cautions, which if observed, will do away with the howl of the opponents of the sport. Peter Carner, editor National Sports Syndicate, has admirably covered the question. His "don'ts" follow:

Every year the hunting season brings with it its spoils in the form of human sacrifices. For the benefit of gunners who are going after game this fall the following list of don'ts is given:

Don't take any chances. The function of a shotgun is to scatter shot, but be very careful where you scatter it.

Don't blaze away in haste and don't get excited. Many a shooter has filled his favorite dog full of lead, just because he was over anxious.

Don't point a gun at any person in test. It is always the gun "he didn't know was loaded" that goes off and does the damage. The only time to point a gun is when you intend to kill.

Don't take every rustle of a bush or a bough, to be a sure indication of game. Remember sometimes an inquisitive person has a penchant for being in strange places.

Don't carry a loaded gun through the street or in cars, trains, automobiles or any other kind of vehicle, or leave it around farmhouses to have some child playfully blow a head off.

Don't get excited and shoot without making sure your object is game. Don't shoot until you see the rabbit, or whatever it may be, and then be sure that he is clear of both man and dog.

Don't drag a gun under a fence with the muzzle pointed toward you. Don't climb over fences with your gun or lean it against tree until you get over. Put it through the fence and on the ground, business end before.

Don't hunt with any one that you know to be careless. Carelessness with three and a quarter drama of

THREE NEGROES ARE KILLED BY GEORGIA MOB

(By The Associated Press)
DOUGLAS, Ga., Nov. 18.—Two negro men and one negro woman implicated in the killing of Pearly Harper, a young planter here today, were lined up and shot by a mob of a hundred and fifty men who overpowered the sheriff and his two deputies while attempting to take the negroes to a place of safety.

HARDING SPEAKS AT NEW ORLEANS

AND SAYS, SANITY, CLEAR THINKING, COMMON SENSE, HONESTY AND CO-OPERATION SHOULD RULE THE WORLD.

(By The Associated Press)
NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 18.—President-elect Harding in a speech here today declared plain living and square dealing are the nation's strongest reliance during the coming period of after war readjustment. "Sanity, clear thinking, common sense, honesty and co-operation" are prime necessities in meeting the demands of new world order.

"If we seek understanding which reveals mutuality of interests no difficulty can long abide. Such solution cannot come from greedy thoughts of profiteer or revolutionary agitation of those who would destroy. There has been wild contemplation of earnings whether in wages or dividends, terms of dollars rather than purchasing power. We must be more concerned in the substance of the reward for activity than in the coin measurement. We want fortune and common progression with the cotton farmers of the south having their reward with the wool grower and wheat grower of the north. We want Southern factories turned to music of the mills of the north. There is no sectionalism in righteous American ambitions."

of powder behind one and one-eighth ounces of shot is inviting "sure death."

Don't load your gun until you are actually ready for business. At all other times it should be empty. Keep your finger off the trigger until you are looking along the barrel at your game.

Don't use a cheap gun, as it is apt to explode when a heavy charge is used.

Don't borrow a dog or gun or loan either.

Don't rest on the muzzle of your gun.

Don't violate the game laws. It is not only criminal, but sometimes very costly.

Don't "hog" all the game. Leave some for the next fellow.

Don't rest the muzzle of your gun on the ground. A gun muzzle clogged with dirt or mud is a dangerous proposition.

Experiments With Frozen Fruit

Frozen fruit is a comparatively new fact in the experiments of the department of agriculture. The photograph shows several baskets of small fruits which have been in cold storage for three months without impairing their flavor or quality. The experimenters believe the freezing process to be more economical as well as more satisfactory than canning.

Sanford Theaters Are All Right

NEW YORK CATASTROPHE CALLS UP FACT THAT OUR THEATRES ARE WELL CONSTRUCTED

There should never be a catastrophe in the moving picture theatres in this city such as occurred in New York one night last week. In one of the crowded theatres on the East Side the cry of fire was raised and many children were trampled to death in the rush to get out of the door and the proprietors of the theatre have been arrested and will be held responsible for the deaths of the little ones as they did not have the proper means of egress from the theatre. The theatres of Sanford all being on the ground floor, with many doors on the sides are especially adapted for clearing the houses in case of fire and this is especially true of the Star Theatre that has two doors on each side of the building and many windows and the front doors are made to open either way in case there was a rush to the front.

This was called to the minds of many people last night when little Osborn Herndon put a piece of film on the stove near the entrance, making a blaze and caused a momentary rush at the front door by several who saw it. The others were kept back by the presence of mind of a few who told them to sit down as there was no danger. It could be seen though that it was the impulse of everyone to start for the front doors worst thing to do as it is this crowding of the people in the back that tramples the youngsters under foot. Should the audience in any of the theatres in Sanford ever become panic stricken for any cause let all those on the left side of the house go out the left side entrance, the same on the right and let the ladies and children go first and every real man in the house will see to it that the children get out first of all, ladies next and then it will be time for the men to go as they can always move faster than women and children. We hope this time will never happen but if it should, bear this advice in mind. Manager Herndon has made every provision in the world for the safety of the people here and while these exits have never been used for fire escapes they are used now for people who wish to get out of the buildings when the shows are over and they should always be used in case anything happens that calls for a quick exit of the theatres in Sanford. It is not a matter of fire but anything that should happen to startle an audience into starting for the front doors in a mad scramble to get out and usually it is a small matter but always enough to stampede a crowd. If it ever occurs in Sanford remember the side exits and use them but remember that if you are a man your safety is only a secondary consideration, and crowd the aisles which is the

ST. PETERSBURG BASE-BALL MANAGERS PLEAD GUILTY AND PAY FINE

ST. PETERSBURG, Nov. 17.—On pleas of guilty, Dr. J. L. Moorefield and "Babbles" Hargrave, owner and manager of the St. Petersburg baseball team in the Florida winter league yesterday were fined $1 and costs on charges of violating the law that forbids playing baseball Sundays. The local club owner and his manager went before Magistrate R. R. Carter, who issued the warrants and entered pleas of guilty. The nominal fine was imposed.

Warrants were sworn out yesterday by John P. Lynch, who lives close to the ball park and who is a leader in church work. He had tried to prevent the game being played here Sunday afternoon when the locals met Tarpon Springs, and failing in this had the club leaders arrested.

Whether an attempt will be made to play here again next Sunday is not known. There is some talk of having another game, but the general opinion is that there will be no game. Those opposed to Sunday ball are prepared to swear out warrants for all the players and others connected with the game if there is a contest at Moorefield park next Sunday or any subsequent Sunday. It is believed that the baseball men have admitted defeat by pleading guilty and paying fines and it is likely that the affair will end with this.

HELEN'S DRESSES EYEBROW-RAISERS

But the Director of "Parlor, Bed-Room and Bath" to To Blame."

"I want you to dress in such a way that when you appear on the screen every man there will give a short whistle and every woman will raise her eyebrows and say, "O-o-oh!"

Thus Edward Dillon instructed Helen Sullivan, "the other woman" in "Parlor, Bedroom and Bath" at the Metro studios. This photoplay is adapted from the stage success by C. W. Bell and Mark Swan and shows tonight at the Star Theatre.

The young woman immediately set forth to the shop of a modiste (not modest) in Hollywood and repeated her director's orders.

The modiste, having knowledge born of many dealings with the foibles of the flickerite brought out a creation striped in black-and-white—the kind of stripes that convicts and zebras wear.

"Horrors!" exclaimed Miss Sullivan when she saw the short skirt, the low neck, the shiny, black sash about the hips and the stripes that fairly screamed "Look!" It was a dress that might be called, daring, sinuous, audacious, dashing and even "risque."

When Miss Sullivan wore it on the set, Director Dillon took one all-encompassing glance and cried, "Excellent!"

"Parlor, Bedroom and Bath" includes in its all-star cast such screen favorites as Eugene Pallette, Ruth Stonehouse, Kathleen Kirkham and Henry Miller, Jr., son of the famous actor and producer. It has to deal with the adventures and misadventures of a young married couple, the better half of which wanted a husband who was wild and who was as rough on the hearts of the ladies as the eighteenth amendment is on the old soaks. It is a play jammed to the top with absurdities and hilarious situations of the sort which cannot be explained and yet which have to be somehow.

CECELIN PROGRAM

A large number of patrons and friends attended the recital given by the Cecilian Music Club last Saturday afternoon. Mrs. Munson opened the program with a talk on the life of the immortal Master Haydn and emphasized many valuable lessons to the young music student from the facts of his efforts and success; the struggles that so gloriously triumphed.

In addition to the usual piano numbers, Miss Lilly Ruth Spencer accompanied by Mrs. Claud Herndon, gave a group of vocal solos. Miss Spencer is a young student of the Sanford High school and possesses a splendid and most promising voice.

COOLIDGE AGAINST CANCELLATION CONTRACTS

(By The Associated Press.)

BOSTON, Nov. 18.—Cancellation of contracts by trades people who were caught in the falling markets with orders for goods at high prices were condemned by Governor Coolidge in a letter to the Boston Boot and Shoe Club today.

DORNER SELLS LETTUCE.

Albert Dorner gives us the following interesting information this morning:

R. R. Eldridge has sold Albert Appolpo Dorner's lettuce to A. H. Moses for $1,000 cash for the first car. There are more to follow every day.

Albert was only farming four years before he came to Sanford. He was a pioneer flyer for 7 years, spent many sorry, unhappy and cheerful days when he flew with John B. Moisant, Graham White, Croiel Johnson, Fred Schneider, the sons of President Carranza, Rene Simon, Andree Houper and Miss H. Quimly, also Matilda Moisant with a 30 h. p. Azani motor.

The B. & O. Garage has an ad in this issue of the Herald, announcing a big cut in the price of the well known Kokomo Auto Tires. Here's a chance to save some real money—it will pay any auto owner to equip his car with new tires all around, as the price is far below any quoted here in many moons. Perry Jernigan has gone to Tampa for a few days and you should take advantage of the opportunity before his return as he may raise the price to get even on the trip.

E. C. Harrington, of Wekiwa Springs, was in the city today enroute to Daytona. He is a former newspaper man, has at one time been on the Orange county papers.

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 18.—President-elect Harding will not stop at a Mexican port on his voyage to Panama as invited by Mexican officials.

Six Kinds of Safety

Have you every paused to consider the safety of the bank where you deposit your money?

The first consideration is the capital, which should be ample to meet the requirements of the community the bank is to serve.

The next question to consider is the officers in charge. They should be men of experience, high character and successful. Without men of ability no institution can succeed.

Then there is the question of confidence. The public should have confidence in the officers and in the bank.

These three principles determine the success of a bank.

We adopted these principles in the outset of our career and we expect to live up to this high standard and increase our usefulness to the community as the years go by.

We Offer You:

- 1ST: LARGE CAPITAL AND WORKING RESERVE.
- 2ND: TRAINED MEN IN CHARGE—MEN OF SEVERAL YEARS EXPERIENCE.
- 3RD: THE CONFIDENCE OF THE PUBLIC, WHICH IS PROVEN BY THE DAILY ADDITION TO OUR LINE OF DEPOSITORS.
- 4TH: PROTECTION BY TWO EXAMINATIONS EACH YEAR BY THE STATE BANKING DEPARTMENT, TWO AUDITS EACH YEAR BY AN INDEPENDENT RECOGNIZED PUBLIC AUDIT COMPANY AND TWO SWORN STATEMENTS SUBMITTED TO THE STATE COMPTROLLER BY THE CASHIER, GIVING THE BANK'S CONDITION IN DETAIL, ALL OF WHICH INSURES REGULAR, SYSTEMATIC AND THOROUGH OPERATION OF THE BANK.
- 5TH: THE ADVICE OF A COMPETENT BOARD OF DIRECTORS, WHO MEET WITH THE OFFICERS REGULARLY EACH MONTH AND ADVISE THEM AS TO THE OPERATION OF THE BANK.
- 6TH: INSURANCE OF ALL DEPOSITS EVERY DAY OF THE YEAR. THIS IS A PROTECTION NOT COMMONLY FOUND IN BANKS AND IS AN ABSOLUTE PROTECTION FOR YOUR FUNDS, IN ADDITION TO ALL THE OTHER USUAL SAFEGUARDS.

THESE ARE REASONS WHY YOU SHOULD DO BUSINESS WITH US, AND WE BELIEVE THAT NO BANK CAN OFFER BETTER INDUCEMENTS.

Rio Grande

From the famous play by Augustus Thomas

SYNOPSIS.

Though Maria Inez Lopez had been taught by her father, El Capitan of an insurgent band, to hate American and the "Gringo," she could not resist the ardent love-making of Danny O'Neil, a Texas ranger, who saved her from capture by the Mexican police.

Lopez was caught smuggling arms across the Rio. Maria Inez believed her romance with Danny was responsible for her father's capture, and her love turned to hate. She led a raid on the frontier town, but the American forces were the victors. Lopez, wounded, was trapped in the burning jail and saved by Danny.

The climax is reached when the dying Lopez is taken to Danny's home and recognized by his foster mother as her long lost husband.

THE FLAMINGO, A BIRD OF BEAUTY AND MYSTERY, IS SAVED FROM EXTINCTION

Assurance that the flamingo, bird of beauty and mystery, will escape extinction is contained in a letter from H. E. W. Grant, colonial governor of the Bahamas, which says:

"You will be glad to hear that an order in council has been passed giving complete protection to the flamingo. This glory of our marshes owes the expedition a debt of gratitude."

The action of the Bahamas' council was taken following an expedition, which trailed the flamingo, the most beautiful of the world's larger birds, to its last stand, took motion pictures of the timorous creature; and brought about a realization of how near they were to becoming extinct in the new world through annihilation by native sponge fishermen. These fishermen hunted them down for food purposes at the nesting and molting season.

The first American naturalist to locate and study the gorgeous flamingo was Dr. Frank M. Chapman in 1901, when he estimated that some 20,000 flamingoes were to be found on one of the little known islands of the Bahamas group. Since then it is believed that fully two-thirds of the colonies have perished.

The expedition that spent ten days in the abysmal salt swamps of Andros island, filming the flamingo and studying his habitat for scientific purposes, was sent out by the Miami Aquarium association.

A yacht was the mother ship of the expedition and an express cruiser was used as a scout boat. Canvas canoes were taken along to get into the shallow salt creeks, and nose into the lagoons for deep entrances to the murky swamps where the flamingo hides. A Bahama guide, Peter Baumister, who had aided Doctor Chapman's party 19 years ago, also went with the party.

After penetrating to the utmost navigable points with the canoes it was necessary to traverse miles of the "swash" or tidal marshes, carrying the heavy cameras and motion picture machines. In search for the birds, wading in water up to the waist, knee deep in the mud mud, was the daily program, while lifeline swarms of mosquitoes compelled nightly retreats to the yacht, anchored several miles off shore.

But the hardships found a worthy reward when the party came upon colonies of several hundred birds, described by a member of the party as "a flaming mass of brilliant scarlet bodies, jet black beneath the huge wings, with their long, slender necks gracefully lowering and raising their Roman-nosed heads as they sought beneath the water the tiny spiral shells known to scientists as 'Cerithium,' upon which the flamingo lives exclusively in its native habitat."

SARDINIA: THE ISLAND OF PYGMIES AND WOLFRAM

A traveler of fine imagination suggests that travel involves a double journey—"one forward through space, the other backward through time." Your steamboat ticket from Civitavecchia, the port of Rome, entitles you to an eight-hour voyage to Sardinia, but affords a premium of several thousand years backward to Europe's earliest traceable history.

Sardinia has a double interest just now because of the reported native demand for home rule, and because Americans have found tracts containing wolfram, highly prized as a source of tungsten.

Second only to Sicily among Mediterranean islands, Sardinia has been referred to as the lost island of that sea. Geographically it has been said to turn its back on Italy, for its east coast is mountainous. This isolation has a compensation in preserving the homogeneity of a people who have a special interest for students of racial history. Sardinians are small of stature. Even their soldiers have an average height a fraction under five feet, four inches.

But the most conspicuous curiosities of Sardinia are its nuraghi, great round towers, relics of the bronze age, which served as fortified dwellings for some prehistoric people. There are 5,000 or more of these towers, some 60 feet high, usually about 30 feet in diameter at the base, made of stone blocks and smeared with clay on the inside. Stairways lead to upper chambers and platforms.

Interesting as are these relics of unknown inhabitants, even more fascinating are the traces of ancient civilizations to be found in the daily life of Sardinians of today. One may find oxen plowing as they did in the days of the Roman empire, implements which were introduced by the successive occupants, one Catalan town (Alghero) where there is no jarring note in the illusion of old Spain, and dances of the classic Greek period at the mountain fests.

Only in Sardinia and Corsica is the mutton, predecessor of our sheep, to be found. Wild deer and wild boar are plentiful in the mountain districts. Tunny fishing is a major industry.

In area Sardinia is comparable to Vermont, but has more than twice the population of that state. The island lies directly south of Corsica, and is separated therefrom by the narrow straits of Bonifacio. In shape it has been compared to a human footprint.

AIRPLANES TO WHIR OVER THUNDEROUS FALLS

While Niagara Falls will continue to hold their own as a mecca for honeymooners and other travelers, they must henceforth submit to comparison with another natural wonder, the Victoria Falls of the Zambesi, as Africa becomes frequented by tourists.

From being a place of mystery, so feared that Livingstone, who discovered the falls in 1855, had great difficulty in persuading his followers to accompany him, the falls now are visible from a railway that crosses the river half-mile below them, and they lie under the route of the proposed Cape to Cairo aerial service.

Louis Livingston Seaman, in a communication to the National Geographic society, describes a visit to Victoria Falls and contrasts them with Niagara, as follows:

"Early in the morning of the third day, we were suddenly awakened by the guard and treated to a scene of beauty never to be forgotten. Some ten miles distant five enormous columns of vapor were shooting their roseate-tinted shafts hundreds of feet heavenward, while the faint roar of the falls told us the Mosoa-Tungu—the smoke that sounds—was no longer a mystery.

"Each moment increased the beauty and vividness of the scene. With the first rays of the rising sun came a picture of color of wondrous loveliness. Delicate tints of violet, crimson, and teryl played through the mounting spray as it shot higher and higher, ultimately disappearing as virgin clouds in heaven, while the ever-increasing thunders of the waters lent an added solemnity to the view.

"Hardly could we wait to reach our destination, so great was our enthusiasm. But our hopes were doomed to momentary disappointment, only to be more than realized after a study of the environment; for, notwithstanding their magnitude, the first view of Victoria Falls is decidedly disappointing.

"Although nearly a mile in width and 400 feet in height, the grandeur of their proportions is eclipsed by the sudden disappearance of the river, as it plunges into a narrow, rocky fissure extending across its entire width. Only at a single central point is there a breach in this fissure through which the falls can be seen and appreciated in their full proportions, where the converging waters rush madly to the zigzag canyon below. So restricted is this view that there is an entire absence of that awe-inspiring and most paralyzing effect which strikes the visitor dumb with wonder and amazement when Niagara bursts on his near vision.

"On first sight of the Victoria Falls one involuntarily exclaims, 'Oh, how beautiful!' but they lack the majesty of our grand Niagara."

"No single visit can adequately reveal the fullness of their charms, but repeated excursions must be made to their islands and precipices, their grottoes and palm gardens, their rain forests and projecting crags, their rainbows and cataracts and many-sided views of their exquisite setting in the emerald framework of tropic forests, before their indescribable beauty can be appreciated.

"Had the falls been in America, the Indians would surely have named them Minnehaha, Laughing Waters."

CAROLINE ISLANDS: AN OCEANIC MUSEUM

Whatever the political future of the Caroline Islands, which Japan seized from Germany, they are bound to be objects of scientific interest for generations to come.

Who built the massive stone structures which give evidence of a high degree of civilization at some prehistoric time?

What was the origin of the stone currency, some "coins" of which weigh five tons?

These are but two of the many questions which these Pacific Islands of mystery present.

The stone ruins extend from Ponape, an island toward the east of the group, to Yap, on the west. Yap will be recognized as the island which figured so conspicuously in the peace treaty discussion because of the proposal to cede it to the United States.

On Yap are great stone terraces, embankments and roads, composed of neatly laid stone blocks, stone graves, stone platforms and enormous chambers resembling council lodges with gables and tall pillars, frequently carved.

Ponape is the "Pacific Venice." There the ruins are partly submerged. Apparently they once stood on an island city, unless their site was connected with other islands before a terrific upheaval inundated them.

What remains today is more than half a hundred rectangular walled tablets, projecting above the waters of a lagoon. There is an outer lagoon, separated by a breakwater three miles long. In all this construction huge basalt blocks were used. Apparently they were untouched by iron tools. Recent study has confirmed the belief that these mighty megalithic monuments antedate the present native population of the Carolines.

Origin of the unique stone coinage is not known. Shell money seems to have supplanted the unwieldy stone disks for "small change" long before the white man arrived. The stone "money" is made from limestone or calcite. It probably was employed for primitive banking rather than for general circulation. Its security from theft was assured by its weight. Specimens are found piled about the homes of native chiefs.

Including reefs not inhabited, the Caroline Islands number more than 500. Of the total land area of 300 square miles 307 square miles is uninhabited.

King of Muai District and One of His Wives.

prised in Ponape, Yap, Kusate and Hougou, or Tuak. In 1911 the total population was about 55,000, and of these fewer than 400 were Europeans.

The islands extend for about one thousand miles east and west. They lie more than fifteen hundred miles to the east of the Philippines and about a thousand miles north of New Guinea.

and that Comr. C. W. Entzinger be instructed to post said bridge.

Reports of the several county officials were received, read and ordered filed.

Warrants paid during the month of October, were ordered cancelled or record.

Bills as audited by the clerk and approved by this board were ordered paid.

Only a few more days till hunting season.

No finer place in the world to hunt than right in Seminole county.

But get your license from the county judge before you venture into the pine woods.

A day in the woods and by the lakes and streams will net you all the game and fish you want—if you can get them.

Weather report says the frost will be on the banana bush tonight. Hope it will not be strong enough to kill the beans and other tender stuff.

Everything points to a grand session this year as far as the fruits and vegetables of Florida are concerned. Good prices will mean much to our growers when the freight rates and labor prices are so high.

The next big day is Thanksgiving Day. And again we can all give thanks that we are living in Florida, the best state in the union where there are no coal shortages and the sun shines 360 days in the year.

There is no reason for getting excited over the milk situation. The state board of health has simply demanded that the dairies keep the kind of premises that the regulations demand and in case they do not they will not receive a permit to sell milk. Those that keep clean and sanitary dairies can sell milk and those who do not conform to the regulations cannot sell. This has been done in practically every county in the state and there is no reason in the world why the dairies in Sanford should not conform to the same regulations that are demanded from every other dairy in the state.

TIP TO THE LEGISLATURE

It will be necessary to increase the amounts to be turned over to the State Road Department, at the next session of the legislature. Two ways of increasing this amount have been mentioned—one by a slightly higher millage (the present levy is two mills), and the other by doubling the auto license.

To double the auto license means that the large land owner, the corporation which uses the roads and mostly benefits from any increase in value of the land of the state, the railroads and telegraphs, will entirely escape bearing its share of the expense, which is to be of benefit to the entire state.

To place the entire burden on the auto driver will be unjust. It might just as well be placed entirely on the hotel keeper, or on the railroad which hauls more people into the state and more produce out as a result of good roads.

Most of the increased revenue should be raised by taxation on land and buildings. To do this it should not be necessary to increase the total millage levied by the state. The past two years are the only ones in fifty years when state taxation has exceeded eight or ten mills. The legislature should cut down on unnecessary expenses and appropriations, and devote at least four mills from the present levy to road purposes. Four mills will give about two million dollars per year derived from taxation; the federal government will match this amount with an equal amount, which will give the State Road Department four million dollars per year beside the auto tax and the use of state convicts. This is enough for any one board to spend in the state of Florida for one specific purpose.—DeLand News.

WEATHER, CROP CONDITIONS

In Florida for the Week Ending November 16, 1920.

Temperature: On the whole the temperature was moderate during the week, except on the 13th when freezing occurred over the extreme north-west portion, and where the temperature deficiency was 6 degrees to 8 degrees for the week. The temperature averaged warmer than usual for the period in the peninsula.

Precipitation: The week was featured by much cloudiness with rain in all divisions—heavy in much of the peninsula, the week's total exceeding 2 inches at Jacksonville, Lake City, Gainesville, Davie, Hypoluxo, Moore Haven, Titusville, and locally elsewhere in the several divisions. Low lands are rather too wet in some localities, as a result of the rainstorm that passed over the section during Tuesday morning.

Condition of Crops: The well distributed rains were very beneficial to truck, and the setting of lettuce, celery, cabbage and some tomatoes continued. The early planting of most truck is much improved. Some beans, onions, cauliflower, and other truck in market. The soil was improved by the rain and the planting of oats was resumed. The change to colder weather on the last day of the week, when a cold wave was indicated, will improve the condition of citrus fruits, which, as a result of the previous warm weather, has matured slowly, although shipments continued from all portions of the belt. Ranges are in fair condition.

ODESSA: PARIS OF THE UKRAINE

Before the war no city of the Near East save Bucharest so nearly resembled Paris and Vienna in its hectic night life as did Odessa, conspicuous in the fighting of Ukrainians, Poles and Bolsheviks.

Odessa had hundreds of sidewalk cafes, its municipal opera and its palaces of chance. It had more than half a million population, yet it is one of the newest cities in Europe. Moscow's history extends over a thousand years, that of Odessa only a little beyond a century.

There is a unique analogy between Odessa and the capital city of the United States. Both were started at about the same time—during the last decade of the eighteenth century—and both were begun because of the far-seeing wisdom of the chief executives of the two nations.

Perhaps the oddest coincidence is the fact that they both were planned by foreign civil engineers of the same nation. While Major L'Enfant was devising the "city of magnificent distances" to be erected on the banks of the Potomac, Voland, also a Frenchman, laid out Odessa on the shore of the Black sea. While President Washington was dreaming into being the beautiful city which bears his name, Czarina Catherine the Great was sponsoring the upbuilding of a municipal stepping stone toward the chief object of the Russian Bear's stealthy tread—Constantinople.

Like Washington, Odessa was laid out in the midst of a virtual wilderness and swamp. An isolated Turkish fort, Khaji-Bey, stood on the site of the present city at the time, 1780, when it passed to Russia. In early years of the Christian era Greek colonists had taken advantage of the bay of Odessa.

Until five years ago the railway distance between Odessa and Moscow was more than a thousand miles, but a new line, via Bakhmatch, reduced that distance to 814 miles. The steamship distance between Odessa and Constantinople is 300 miles.

From its history it is evident why Odessa was far from a typical Russian city. Mark Twain found the only Russian things about it to be the shape of the droshkis and the dress of the drivers. He might have mentioned the gilded domes of a few churches. There the Russian likeness ends.

A few miles to the north and also to the southwest are three "limans," or lagoons, famous for mud baths believed to benefit persons with rheumatism, gout and skin diseases. The most popular of these is 20 miles long, a mile wide, 10 feet deep and lies 16 feet below the level of the Black sea.

THE ORIGINAL SKYSCRAPER CHURCHES

Plans to erect in an American city a "skyscraper church," to be used both as a place of worship and an office building, recall that the ancient monasteries of Thessaly are nature-made skyscrapers, reached by unique elevators. In a communication to the National Geographic society—Elizabeth

Perkins describes these structures of the Greek Church as follows:

"There is a legend, perhaps it is history, that there was once a ruler in Constantinople who disliked his brother and wished to banish him to the remotest corner of his kingdom. Consequently the monarch built a monastery on a well-nigh inaccessible mountain in Thessaly and founded a brotherhood, about four hundred years ago, in what seemed to be the uttermost corner of the earth.

"The monastery was called 'Metiora,' meaning 'domicile of the sky.' After the original was built 23 others grouped themselves around and were inhabited for a while. They were, however, finally abandoned, with the exception of three which are still in use.

"As we looked in wonder at one detached pillar of stone we discovered on its seemingly unattainable summit a building. This habitation of man, half natural rock and half artificial, seemed most extraordinary. Our guides drew attention to the higher precipices, and as we grew accustomed to their outlines we saw on all sides monasteries tucked into the ledges of the perpendicular walls. They are not all inhabited today, but they are there, bearing testimony that man has climbed and built and lived on crags that seem impossible for goats to climb.

"The whole of the west plain of Thessaly lay at our feet, and the white mountains of the Pindos range rose rugged and imposing before us. At the base of the rock on which Trinity is perched, like an eagle's nest, our guides hallooed and beat with a stick on a tin can found in the bushes. Soon an answering call came back, and over the precipice, some three hundred feet above us, the peering faces of several monks were seen. Then something serpentine flew into the air, and as it dropped perpendicularly we saw dangling from a coil of rope what looked like a small fish net. Down came the cable until it touched the earth at our feet, and the fish net proved to be a large-sized rope bag which opened and spread out flat on the ground.

"One at a time we were invited to step into the middle of this net and squat Turk-fashion. The edges were gathered together onto a large iron hook, a shout was given and the net soared upward, while its occupant felt somewhat like an orange at the bottom of a market woman's bag.

"The ascent takes just three minutes. Occasionally the openwork elevator swings into the rock with a bump, but the monks at the top wind the winch slowly, and the bumping does not hurt, and as a compensation the view grows more beautiful every second. At last the top was reached."

In and About The City

Summary of the Floating Small
Talks Succinctly
Arranged for Herald Readers

H. Kellerman, of Tampa, representing the Dalton Adding Machine Co., was in the city today calling on the local trade.

The thermometer went down some last night but no damage has been reported to any of the vegetables in this section.

Don't forget that you should send a Sanford post card to your friends today. Advertise your city and keep up your correspondence at the same time.

Sanford certainly needs a bunch of new houses to keep the people here who are already here and take care of those who are coming in every day.

If any of our subscribers have a Weekly Herald of November 12 and will bring it to the office we will pay them for it. We need a copy of that date.

D. G. Wagner, of Kissimmee was in the city today calling on his many friends. He is state agent for a life insurance company and it keeps him busy making the entire state.

R. A. Jenkins, of Longwood, was among the many visitors to the city today from Longwood. He was accompanied by Mr. Short, one of the new and progressive citizens of that section.

Secretary Pearman, of the Sanford Chamber of Commerce and City Attorney Geo. C. Herring, representing the city of Sanford, have returned from Tallahassee where they appeared before the Railroad Commission on the question of the raise of rates of the Southern Bell Telephone Co. The case was continued until an audit of the accounts could be made which means that the matter will not come up again for many months and the matter of the raise will be in statu quo for some time.

Time to send out Thanksgiving cards now. The Herald Printing Co., has a fine line of Thanksgiving greetings. Only one cent each.

Come in and inspect that wonderful line of stationary at the Herald office. You can get your monogram printed on them, making one of the finest and most substantial Christmas gifts that can be purchased.

The Sanford boosters, under the leadership of the Chamber of Commerce, are thinking of taking up the proposition of the Baptist Hospital and will attend the meeting in Kissimmee with a bunch of cars and a bunch of boosters at the meeting to be held there soon.

W. A. Rayner, of Celery avenue, brought a head of lettuce to the Herald office yesterday that was the finest we have seen this season. It was hard and firm and he said he had just sold two cars of it through F. F. Dutton Co., and realized a fine sum of money for it. Mr. Rayner is one of the successful growers of this section and knows how to raise the best of everything.

Al Dorner is passing his pictures around showing him in the role of a beggar man asking for money for the county home. He is some beggar all right and intends to sell the post cards for the benefit of the Red Cross or of the county home or some other good purpose. Al enjoys the life and we should worry.

Perry Jernigan, of the B. & O. garage, left this morning for Tampa where he will spend the day on business.

Bud Pell was taken to the Fernald-Laughton hospital today and will be operated upon this afternoon for appendicitis.

Next week is Thanksgiving and the stores should be preparing for the big week by advertising in the Daily Herald. The holiday season is here and the people are beginning to buy. Get ready for them!

All the hotels are being filled every night now and the need of more hotels is apparent in Sanford. This city is noted for its good hotels and there should be plenty of them to supply the demand.
