"Poetry is just a hobby," said Judge Frank L. Miller, who is one of the 500 poets in the United States to have their works chosen by the Avon House Publishers for publication in a book entitled Poets of America, 1940, Damocracy Speaks. More than 12,000 poets submitted their work but only a small percentage of these were found to write poetry of sufficient merit to be published in the volume, according to the publishers.

Judge Miller first started writing poetry in 1914 when he "dashed off a piece for a party gives at his home. Business and other activities stopped his literary career until 1926 when he began to write bite of verse for the morticians' trade publications. What A Nazi Victory Means

Tomorrow night President Rossevelt will deliver another of his famous "fireside chatt" to the nation on a subject perhaps more important than any he has ever delivered before. He will discuss the subject of national defense, our relation to the European war, and the extent of possible U. S. aid to Great Britain. It may be expected that he will reiterate his policy against any appeasement in this country and take a strong stand against aggression from whatever source. sion from whatever source.

Within the past few days the President has received a petition signed by a number of prominent educators and other leading thinkers throughout the country urging the Administration to take whatever steps may be necessary to prevent an Axis victory while at the same time certain other groups are demanding that the United States keep out of foreign affairs, and especially avoid doing anything which might involve us in war, even if such a policy means the fall of Britain.

Thus, the nation makes up its mind what to do in the gravest hour through which it has passed in over a generation. Not even during the World War did this country face so dangerous an alternative, for although the Allies were sorely pressed at the time the United States entered the war, at no time during that struggle did Germany gain so completely an ascendancy over her enemies as she

The decision in this war rests solely with the United States, If the American people throw their full weight into the struggle the aggressor nations can and will be defeated. If the United States pursues any other policy, if we take half-hearted measures to assist Great Britain, if we persist in our "cash and carry" plan in which we must be paid cash in advance for everything we do; if we tolerate PRHEDOM FROM TRIL atrikes, sabotage and sulversive activities while preparing for defense, the British will be defeated.

And so it is well for every American to consider just what kind of a world this will be if British is less than the defeated.

And so it is well for every American to consider just what kind of a world this will be if Brittania no longer rules the waves and England is no longer the dispost of democracy, and decide whether we want to live in that kind of a world. We should study carefully this "new order in Europe" and try to determine whether we could endure it if it were extended throughout the world.

As we see this "new order," its roots are planted in envy, jealousy and greed. It is nourished by lies, deceit, prejudices and hatred. It has grown and flourished through fraud, treachery, murder and plunder. And by means of its bombing planes and indiscriminate killing of defenseless women and children, it has spread its branches over Mill Fight, says Fas- all Europe. It is not the tree of life and hope; it is the tree -headline. Yes, but of death and devastation.

If it is allowed to continue its growth, acorns will soon appear, which dropping to the ground, or perhaps blown across the oceans, will soon sprout into new trees. Where there was a single tree before, there will soon be a whole forest. The entire world will be turned into a "new order" Gleam is where the most vicious attributes of depraved beings are extolled instead of condemned.

We are not afraid that Germany or Japan could conquer this nation in an honest-to-God free-for-all fight; but ore the Japanese go too far iteration in the Far East, it might ill for them to count ten. thing the peaceful melting pot of European culture and as leaders in business, the sports civilization will become a seathing cauldron of social, economic and racial prejudices and flatreds.

And the whole Western Hemisphere will become embroiled in constant civil strife, revolutions and wars, That is what a victory for Germany means to us,

To Meet Stetson
On Jan. 9 and 10

CORAL GABLES. Dec. 28
With three players counted on for regular duty still nursing football injuries, the University of Miami basketball team is expected to get a slow start this winter. Inasmuch as Coach Hart Morria' men must tackle powerfal Stetson in the openers Jan. 9 and 10, the situation is not helped one bit.

Stetson has four veterans from its 1939-40 squad—along with the brilliant sophomores who won the state A. K. U. crown last year as freshmen.

John Tobin, Joe Ksutulis and Bill Totterdale, a trio of juniors, are the potential regulars who will be reporting late for practice. Tobin was the high score on the team last winter as a sophomore and Kéutulis, who gave Tom Hibbish a great race for running up in scoring last year, are lettermen. Totterdale was unable to play last year because of a bad knee but he won all-atate honors in Ohio in high school days.

Adding: to Coach Morris' trouble is the fact that both the regular guards of 1939-40 are gone so it looks as though the regular guards of 1939-40 are gone so it looks as though the regular guards of 1939-40 are gone so it looks as though the regular guards of a spanners in first eventure. Adding to Coach Morris' trouble is the fact that both the regular guards of 1939-40 are gone so it looks as though the first few games will see Tom Hilbish's senior veteran forward and a quartet of sophomores in the lineup. The best of the new men are Norman Scott, Jimmy Kees and Eugene Bogatt, who won fame in Miami high school days.
