Traffic Tie-Ups Down With Speed Limit Hike

By Genie Lindberg Herald Staff Writer

Traffic congestion along a section of Lake Mary Boulevard in Lake Mary has decreased during the last few months due to a speed limit increase. The increase was recommended in a Seminole County traffic study.

And that higher speed limit has eliminated what many motorists for a long time considered a Seminole County Traffic Engineer Steve Decker said the study showed that in the area from the intersection of Longwood/Lake Mary Road and Lake Mary Boulevard to the railroad tracks just east of Country Club Road (C-15), the speed limit should be 40 mph, an increase from 30 mph. Lake Mary Elementary School is on one corner of the Country Club Road and Lake Mary Boulevard intersection, Decker said.

From the Lake Mary exit of Interstate 4 to the Longwood/Lake Mary Road and Lake Mary Boulevard intersection, the speed limit is 45 mph. From beyond the railroad tracks east of Country Club Road, along Lake Mary Boulevard to U.S. Highway 17-92, the speed limit is also 45 mph.

When the speed limit drops from 45 mph to 30 mph as it did along Lake Mary Boulevard before the speed limit increase, Decker said, it slowed the vehicles down and grouped them to a point that actually decreased the service level. It caused longer delays which resulted in more accident potential due to the impatience of drivers, he said. Even though the area where the speed limit has now been raised from 30 mph to 40 mph is in a city and near a school, it had to be increased because the amount of traffic on that roadway due to a 30 mph limit was over the acceptable level of service known as service capacity "c." Decker said. "Anything over that traffic volume of level service 'c' becomes unstable.'

To address safety in that area, Decker said the county put in flashing signs with speed reduction on them due to the school location. The signs flash for one hour during peak traffic times in the morning and afternoon. He said the traffic situation during the afternoon peak has improved, but the morning traffic is still somewhat impeded due to school traffic occurring at that time, he said. The speed limit increase "has definitely helped in the afternoon because traffic See Traffic, page 6A

Deltona Doctor Charged

A Sanford area doctor has been accused by the state De-partment of Professional Regula-tion of violating Florida statutes regulating the dispensing of controlled medications and maintaining adequate patient records. The DPR is seeking disciplinary action by the Board of Medical Examiners.

A June 23 hearing by the DPR's Board of Medical Examiners has been set for Dr. Jerry Mason Robinson of 301 Medical Arts Center, Deltona. The hearing is scheduled to be held at Sanford City Hall, council chambers, 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.

The DPR claims Robinson prescribed inappropriate medication to a patient, Jesse Fleming, who was diagnosed as having narcolepsy. Robinson, who lives in Lake Mary, declined comment.

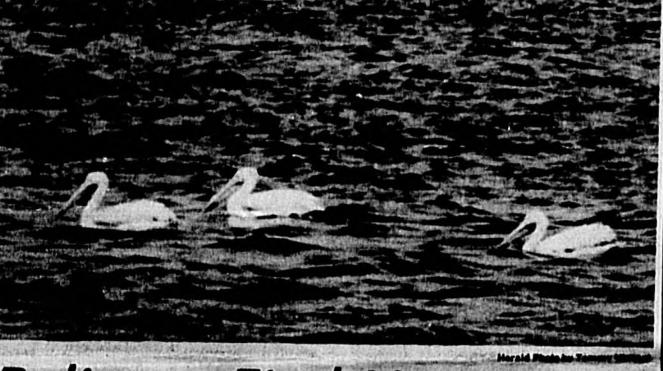

According to the DPR, between March 14, 1979, and Feb. 5, 1985 Robinson prescribed dexedrine to Fleming. Dexedrine is a central nervous system stimulant prescribed for diet control, abnormal behavior sysmptoms in children and narcolepsy, the uncontrollable and unpredictable desire to sleep, according to medical references. The DPR and medical references state dexedrine is an inappropriate drug for someone with certain heart problems.

Robinson prescribed the drug.

The DPR states there is no indication in Fleming's medical record that Robinson conducted any preliminary studies to determine the cause of Fleming's alcepiness. DPR states there are no medical records to substantiate the diagnosis of narcolepsy nor any indication that a second opinion was sought by Robinson.

"There is no evidence in the patient's records for Fleming to indicate that (Robinson) attempted any other forms of treatment prior to prescribing dexedrine to patient Fleming. In general, dexedrine would not be the drug of choice in treatment of Fleming's condition; and, furthermore, would be con-traindicated for use in patient with refractive heart failure." according to the DPR's com-

The DPR also alleges that between August 1981, and June 14, 1985, Robinson treated a patient named Fred Kipp, who See DOCTOR, page 6A

Sanford birdwatchers with their eyes trained on Lake Monroe in recent weeks have been seeing what they say is a rare sight, white pelicans bobbing on the water.

"They're the most fascinating thing to watch," said Ed Welch, owner of the shore-side Holiday Inn.

Welch, whose business has been in that location since 1979, said the sightings began about four years ago, when two or three pairs of these rare bird wintered on the lake, arriving around December.

"They stayed so far out in the lake you couldn't really see to tell what they were," Welch said. "They were just white dots on the water." But year after year the birds have increased their numbers and have moved closer and closer to the Sanford shore, he said.

Bill Jacobs, deputy Seminole County Circuit Court clerk, said from his office on the fourth floor of the Seminole County Court House in downtown Sanford, he spotted the white pelicans this year for the first time.

Their number and coloring, and just the novelty of so many sitting off shore, make them impossible to miss.

Rumors abound about the birds. Jacobs said he has heard they are from either Alaska or South America and that more of the birds have been spotted at the Osteen Bridge, east of Gorbachev also has released a number of well-known dissidents and allowed more Soviet Jews to emigrate.

Whitehead To Resume Visits With Baby M

TRENTON, N.J. (UPI) — Surrogate mother Mary Beth Whitehead and Baby M. the daughter she bore under contract to a childless couple, will soon be reunited — at least temporarily.

The New Jersey Supreme Court has ruled that Whitehead may resume once-a-week visits with 1-year-old Melissa Stern. The court said the visits may begin next week, though the lawyers had not yet selected a day.

The court's decision Friday allows Whitehead, 30, of Brick Township, N.J., to spend two hours a week with her daughter while she appeals a lower court decision that stripped her of all legal connection to the child.

The 6-1 ruling was released without written opinions.

In September. New Jersey's highest court will hear arguments on Whitehead's appeal of Bergen County Superior Court Judge Harvey Sorkow's decision to enforce her surrogate mother contract with William and Elizabeth Stern of Tenafly.

Sorkow allowed Elizabeth Stern to adopt the child moments after issuing his historic decision last week, and canceled Whitehead's visitation rights.

Frank Donahue, one of the lawyers who represented the Sterns in the landmark trial, said the court apparently followed the suggestion of Baby M's court-appointed guardian in ordering two-hour, once-a-week visits.

visits.
"I tried the medical aspects of the case and everyone said the child needs stability and tranquility," Donahue said. "And there's no question in my mind that this will work to the opposite. We're disappointed with the decision."

Donahue said Whitehead will be allowed to see the child, now legally known as Melissa Elizabeth Stern, during supervised visits at a youth home in Hackensack, the same facility where she visited with the child twice each week during the Baby M trial.

"Mrs. Whitehead was overjoyed that she would be able to see her baby again," said Kenneth Robbett, one of her lawyers.

"Apparently, the court recognized that the issues presented are complex and not easily resolved," Robbett said, "and further recognized that Mrs.
Whitehead would have suffered irreparable harm if she did not have contact with her daughter while the court addressed those issues."

Any requests to change the visitation schedule or increase the number or duration of the visits must be made through Sorkow, who will then make recommendations to the

Reagan: Soviet Foreign Policy 'Litmus Test' Of Relations

dent Reagan, on the eve of conduct here will be a litmus high-level U.S.-Soviet talks, says progress is being made in three of four key areas, but the Kremlin's conduct in Nicaragua Kremlin, Reagan, who once deis "a litmus test of our relationship."

Despite the controversy over mutual bugging of each other's embassies. Reagan told the Los Angeles World Affairs Council Friday that U.S.-Soviet relations are "proceeding - no great cause for excitement, no great cause for alarm."

Reagan spoke a day before Secretary of State George Shultz left for Moscow for three days of talks with Soviet Foreign Minister Eduard Shevardnadze, sessions expected to produce some hot rhetoric about spying but to move toward an agreement on eliminating mediumrange missiles from Europe.

Reagan, in a speech and question-and-answer session that avoided any comment about the Iran-Contra affair, said the Soviets have shown new seriousness in arms talks and that "a breakthrough ... is now a distinct possibility" on eliminating the medium-range missiles from Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev, on his first state visit to Czechoslovakia, proposed Friday new superpower talks to eliminate short-range nuclear missiles from Europe but said the talks should be separate from negotiations to climinate medium-range nunclear missiles already underway in Geneva.

Despite the furor over charges of mutual bugging of each other's embassies, Reagan said, "The welcome mat is still out" for a summit in the United States this year with Gorbachev.

But he warned against heeding the "voices of panic or accommodation" that seek a treaty at any price and would thus "lose sight of justice and world freedom as goals of American foreign policy."

reagan said progress is being made in three of the four goals he has set for U.S.-Soviet relations: arms control, human rights and cultural contacts.

Emergency Rules Curbs Tightened

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (UPI) - The government tightened emergency-rule curbs on anti-government protests today with a nationwide ban on public opposition to detention without charge.

In an official Government Gazette notice, national police chief General Johan Coetzee prohibited public demands for the release of detainees, barring even stickers or posters objecting to jailing without warrant.

Liberal opposition lawmaker Helen Suzman vowed to ignore the curb and human rights campaigners said it indicated government embarrassment at widespread detentions under 10 months of emergency rule.

Government opponents estimate up to 30,000 people have been held since President Pieter Botha imposed a na-tionwide state of emergency June 12.

Botha Friday issued a "friendly" warning to neighboring black-ruled states that South Africa may attack if they help African National Congress guerrillas disrupt a whites-only elections May 6.

Speaking at a pre-election rally, he echoed a warning by Foreign Minister Roelof "Pik" Botha that the outlawed ANC planned cross-border raids to break up the nationwide elec-

Coetzee barred petitions and statements demanding the release of detainces.

The curbs also prohibit "the wearing in public of a sticker or any article of clothing or the exhibition in public of a poster or sticker depicting a slogan protesting against or disapproving of 'emergency-rule detentions. Max Coleman, spokesman for the watchdog Detainees Parents Support Committee, said the curbs "interfere with the expressions of the universal rejection of a detention system which removes an individual's right to access to law in the courts."

LOS ANGELES (UPI) - Presi. tion." Reagan said. "Soviet was handled in Moscow." we now seeing the fruit of test of our relationship."

In a speech that sometimes sounded conciliatory toward the scribed Russia as an "evil empire," couldn't resist an "I told you so" about Soviet spying.

The United States and Soviet Union have been exchanging barbs over mutual bugging at embassies and the growing sex--for-secrets scandal involving Marine embassy guards and Soviet women.

"There's no excuse for what they did or for the way security

Reagan said. "Now, in response education that predominantly to those who think these recent throughout our country has events throw some new light on Soviet-American relations, I say, 'Where have they been?' Anyone familiar with the nature of the Soviet regime, its ideology and intentions, understands that such Soviet actions come as no surprise."

Asked to explain a "breakdown in patriotism" evidenced by a spate of American spy cases. Reagan blamed the 'value-free" education system he said is common in America. "I can't help but wonder are Moscow."

As the pelican flies, these birds have chosen to stop about 30 miles inland from the Atlantic Ocean.

While brown and gray pelicans aren't an uncommon sight. Welch and other lake watchers say the white pelicans are out of their usual element in the inland Sanford lake. "They're a real oddity. I've never seen them before, only gray and brown ones.

"These are pure white, but the wing tips are black. They look like swans and weigh about 20 pounds and have a five-foot wingspan." Welch

The flock of about 100, apparently adult birds. has grown accustom to boats, but they haven't been spotted landing on pilings. Welch said. The birds haven't moved in close enough for people to try to feed them.

"I hope people will just leave them alone and not try to feed them. They're very graceful and nice to look at," he said.

The birds, Welch said, are all about the same size. He hasn't spotted any babies. "I don't know where they nest. Maybe they just stay in the water at night."

The birds are seen during the daylight hours. and Weich said he has spotted them in the area of Interstate 4, west of Sanford.

Ed Poscy, general currator for the Central Florida Zoological Park in Sanford, clarified the status of the white pelicans.

It's not unusual for them to be here, he said. But this is the first year he has seen them in such great numbers. "They're not a rarity to the Gulf Coast of the U.S.." Poscy said. "Their standard range is western and central North America. In the winter they migrate."

That migration. Posey said, brings the white pelicans into Florida, south of St. Augustine in the east. They are more common around the Gulf Coast and up across the Panhandle as far west as Texas, he said.

The brown and gray pelicans might be seen in Sanford year round, Posey said. But the white pelicans are here only in the winter and this year their great numbers are bringing them added attention.

A spokesman for Sea World in Orange County said Sea World has been alerted to the presence of the flock, but hasn't sent anyone out to see the white pelicans first hand. Sea World workers say the birds are probably enroute to a wildlife refuge on Merritt Island in Brevard County.

where they nest, according to the spokesman. The birds are making birdwatchers out of Sanford residents and visitors. Sanford's Jan McClung said the white pelicans seem to know that Sanford is being beautified and the white pelicans decided to come in and add their beauty to the scene.

Lake Mary Police Chief Charles Lauderdale said it was decided to institute the speed limit change during the county schools' Christmas vacation to allow drivers to adjust to the change without the morning school traffic. Lauderdale said there have been less incidents of vehicle accidents and fewer citations given out because people are complying with the speed Shultz is expected to visit a new U.S. Embassy under construction that is said to be riddled with Soviet bugging devices.

At a news conference Wednesday, Shultz said he was "damned upset" about the spying charges that he said would "cast a heavy shadow" on his talks. He was instructed by Reagan to make it a "strong item" on his agenda in Moscow.

While in Moscow, Shultz will use a specially outfitted mobile trailer to handle his communications with Washington. Technicians also are working to secure meeting rooms in the current embassy for his private meetings.

The last meeting between Shultz and Shevardnadze occurred in Vienna in November, but no progress was reported. Arms Control and Disarmament Agency director Kenneth Adelman said that this time Shultz is carrying major proposals covering all arms control issues.

During 1983 and 1984 Robinson wrote several pre-scriptions of Percodan for Kipp and one prescription of Mepergan Fortis, says the DPR. Percodan is a narcotic pain-killer with aspirin and caffeine, mepergan fortis, another narcotic pain-killer, according to medical references.

"There is little or no documentation in (Robinson's) office records for patient Kipp of com-plete monitoring and evaluation of Kipp's multiple problems. Additionally, there is inadequate documentation in (Robinson's) records of examination of patient Kipp for each office visit.

Inmate Chooses Incarceration Over Probation

TOPEKA, Kan. (UPI) — Instead of leaving a correctional training center this week. an inmate persuaded a judge to let her stay eight more months to finish typing and bookkeeping courses.

"I wanted to get out, but I'm better off to stay here and get some education." Irena Dennis Hamilton County District Judge Paul Handy considered a recommendation by state authorities to place Dennis on probation, but agreed Thursday to allow her to remain at the Kansas Correctional Vocational Training Center and finish courses that she began in February.

Dennis, 25, was convicted last year of selling one gram of cocaine and was ordered by Handy to serve a three- to 10-year prison sentence. She wrote to the judge in March asking him to let her stay at the center.

Dennis, a high school dropout who has worked as a bartender, waitress and dishwasher, was taken to the Kansas Correctional Institute at Lansing Dec. 8 where she completed requirements for a high school degree.

Martinez Tours Lake By Air

OKEECHOBEE (UPI) - Gov. Bob Martinez soared over pasture, hiked through a soggy tangle of weeds in cowboy-style boots and gazed at tea-brown pools of water Friday on his first tour of ecologically troubled Lake Okeechobee.

Martiner, wearing blue Jeans and an open-collar shirt, took a 3-hour hellcopter "field trip" around the state's largest lake to gather information and first-hand perspective of its environmental pro-

The visit came in the same week the governor was criticized for ignoring the environment in spelling out his priorities for the 1987 Legislature. On Friday, he insisted he was not ignoring the "environment.

"You're may not be seeing me strumming a guitar with Jimmy Buffett, but that doesn't mean I'm not interested in the environment," he said. referring to the folk singer and Key West resident with a special love of Florida and ecology.

He said government revenues stretch only so "far. "I don't want to see a polluted lake, I don't want to see an abused child, I don't want to see a traffic jam, I don't want to see a child drop out of school. You've got to deal with those jother) problems."

Environmentalists say Lake Okcechobee is threatened by farm pollution - specifically, animal waste - that runs into they waterways and is gradually fed through a network of tributaries into the lake. The phosphorus-rich waste contributes to algae buildup, which can kill fish and harm the water if it grows excessive.

Huge algae mats cropped up last year in the lake, but gradually broke apart and did not result in large fish kills. The lake is the second largest body of fresh water entirely within the United States, behind Lake Michigan,

In a 7-copter entourage with environmental officials and the media, Martinez lifted off from Palm Beach International Airport and flew over green and camel-colored wetlands spiked with pines. Cows grazed near unfenced canals, colored black in the sunlight.

The first stop was a weedy field, part of the 16,000-acre McArthur Dairy Farms, northeast of Okeechobee, where the governor chatted briefly with Kent Bowen, president of the operation.

Bowen said McArthur has spent $500,000 on fences to keep livestock out of streams, recycle wastewater and otherwise divert pollution from the lake. He said an influx of public money is needed for cattle and dairy farmers trying to stem

'We want to solve the problem. We really do need some cost-sharing money. We want to get the monkey off our back," Bowen said.

The governor, declining to make financial committment, commended McArthur's environmental concern. "Conceptually, I agree with you. We intend to work with you. If we can do well and get a broadened tax base, we can get some money,

The next stop was near Boney Marsh on the bank of the Kissimmee River. State and federal officials are attempting to dechannelize the river and return it to its natural, meandering course.

"Kissimmee was channelized originally to give flood protection to its upper lakes. Now we're trying to divert the water into oxbows and spread it to the drier areas," said John Wodraska, executive director of the South Florida Water Management District.

Dr. Nicole Duplaix, director of district communications, said the theory is that restoring the river will replenish wetlands and make the area more habitable to wildlife.

Strange: Make No Mistakes

AUGUSTA, Ga. (UPI) Masters leader Curtis Strange hasn't forgotten the mistakes of 1985.

Two years ago, Strange, having rebounded from an opening round 80 with middle-round scores of 65-68, held a threestroke Masters lead going into the closing six holes and ran into disaster - bogeying three of those holes to wind up tied for second.

"Obviously, I have thought about it," the 32-year-old Virginian said Friday after taking a one-stroke lead at the midway point of this year's Masters. "Obviously, I would like to win."

Strange, bogeying two of the last five holes Friday, wound up with a 2-under-par 70 for the second round and a total of 3-under 141.

Right on his heels, at 142, were Roger Maltble, Corey Pavin, Larry Mize and John Maltble had a tournament-best the turn on the Augusta National, wound up with a 71. Mize held the same position he had at the end of Thursday's play with a 72. And Cook, the first-round leader, salvaged a 73 by making birdies on the last two holes after earlier suffering through a string of four atraight bogeys.

"I'd dearly like to win this tournament someday and now I'm in position to do it," said Strange, "But there will be a lot of players going up and down that leaderboard the next two days. The Augusta National is a course on which you can make a lot of birdles and a lot of bogeys."

Strange knows of what he speaks. Friday, he had five birdies and an eagle —when he sank a 185-yard 6-iron shot at the par 5 fifth hole - and still was only 2-under for the day because of five bogeys.

"You have to take the bad with the good," he said. "I've played well the last two days. I didn't finish as well as I would have liked, but it's frustrating out there. I'm leading. That's what Maltble finished 3 1-2 hours before the other leaders because his opening day 76 gave him an carly start.

"I wanted to shoot par today after that 76," he said. "I wanted to make the cut and hoped maybe I'd be in position to win. I got a big chunk on that today."

Pavin played the front nine in 4 under par and was 5 under for the tournament with seven holes to go Friday, but bogeyed three of the next four holes.

"It was almost two rounds, the front nine and the back nine." said Pavin. "I had a chance to be in the lead today and didn't get the job done. I'm just glad to be in the chase. The last day is what matters out here."

Mize, a native of Augusta. complained of fatigue after his round.

"I feel like I played 36 holes today," he said, "I struggled more than yesterday. I'm happy to get out with a 72, but I'm not happy with the way I played."

Cook, the only golfer in the starting of 86 to break 70
Thursday, said he was "glad" to get Friday's round over with.

Martin, King, Hersey Lead Assault On Book

By Chris Fister Herald Sports Writer

WINTER PARK - Records were falling right and left at the Mike Roberson Invitational Friday night and Seminole County shared the wealth as three athletes ran or jumped their way into the record book at Showalter Field.

Martin outdistanced Oak Ridge rival Richard Glover in the 440 yard dash and established a time of 48.4.

• Seminole junior Arthur Hersey soared to a personal record 14.3 in the 120 high hurdles and tied the meet record in claiming first place.

In the team standings, Oak Ridge used 16 points in the 880 to pull away from Seminole as the Pioneers finished with 65 points compared to 52 for the Seminoles.

"We hung in there and performed pretty well tonight," Seminole coach Ken Brauman said. "We still need to find the right combinations in the 440 and mile relay, but overall, it was a good meet for us."

Along with winning the quarter in record time, Martin also finished fourth in the 100 meters with a personal best time of 10.6. Martin ran a 10.6 in the preliminaries to tie the meet record but Lake Gibson's Keith Strong established a new mark in the finals with a first-place time of 10.4, Seminole also got second places from Seward in the 330 hurdles (40.1) and Butler in the triple jump and he soared to a personal best 47-3. Steve Warren set a personal record in taking third in the 220 dash at 22.2. Fourth places for the 'Noles came from Hopson in the high jump (6-4) and Sonny Osborn in the pole vault (12-0). Osborn said he was over at 12-6, but his nose touched the bar and knocked it down.

The 1987 debut of Lake Mary's King was one of the highlights of the meet for Seminole County. In the prelims of the triple jump. King sailed 48-2 and that jump eventually took first place but coach Mark McGee said he also scratched on a jump of 49.0. Along with taking the county lead in the triple. King also took over the lead in the long jump as he went 23.61/2 for second place.

Also placing for the Rams was Brad Smith in the two mile (fourth at 9:54.9) and Dan Ferris in the shot put as he unloaded a personal best throw of 47-8% for sixth place.

Whether is takes them across the state or just down the road from their Snow Hill Road residence in Chuluota, the Reichles have been matching smiles and miles all season. The Reichle brothers, both products of the Oviedo Little League program, carry some impressive credentials:

 Darrin, who just turned 21, is a junior at Saint Leo College, which is 35 miles northeast of Tampa. The 6-4 junior is one of the mainstays of SLC's mound staff and is highly regarded by the professional scouts. He has the option of signing a pro contract after this year if he so desires. Some scouts predict he may go as high as the second or third round.

• Glenn, who will turn 18 April 29, is enjoying a banner season for the Oviedo Lions. The 6.2 senior first baseman has orally committed to play for Jacksonville's North Florida University and will sign with coach Dusty Rhodes In late April or early May.

Darrin, one of the hardest throwers to ever come through the county, has been clocked at 95 miles per hour at Saint Leo. Needless to say, when Darrin heats up the scouts collect behind the backstop and pull out their radar guns.

Darrin has a 6-5 record in 58 innings. He has given up just 32 hits, while whiming 75. His ERA stands at 3.01. "I'm having a good time out here," Darrin said. "I am throwing the ball every day, and I'm pitching pretty well."

Darrin said that Saint Leo caoch Mike Marshall, a former Cy Young award winner with the Los Angeles Dodgers, has a different approach to the game. "He really doesn't care whether you win or lose the game," Darrin said. "He is there to make you a better player, and that's all he's concerned with. That is very important."

After relying primarily on his heat in high school. Darrin said Marshall has impressed upon him the importance of the screwball. "It's a tough pitch to throw," Darrin said. "I haven't mastered it yet, but once I do. I will be a much better pitcher.'

Mable said Darrin's work ethic fits right in with Marshall.

'Peaking' Lyman Upsets Second-Ranked Rams

By Scott Sander Herald Sports Writer

LONGWOOD - Lake Mary's Rams have made a habit of pulling out close games this scason. They seldom worry if they fall behind early. The Rams just reach into their bag of tricks in the final few innings to pull out a win.

Friday night, however. Lyman's Greyhounds left them holding the bag.

Coach Bob McCullough's improving 'Hounds upset the second-ranked (4A) Rams, 6-4, in Seminole Athletic Conference baseball before 188 fans at Lyman High. It was Lake Mary's first SAC loss of the year.

"We really played good baseball tonight." McCullough said. "We played them (Lake Mary) tough the last two games (a pair of 4-3 Lake Mary wins).

and we really deserved to win tonight.'

McCullough said that this is the perfect time for his club to be peaking. "It's nice to playing well before the districts," said. "We are playing better than we have been all season."

Lake Mary coach Allen Tuttle said that he was disappointed to lose, but was pleased that his squad finally hit the ball. "You have to lose once in awhile," Tuttle said. "But I was very happy that we started to hit the ball. Their hits dropped and ours didn't, that was the only difference.

The win lifts Lyman's record to 13-10 overall and 3-5 in the SAC. The setback drops Lake a lot of support out here to-Mary to 17-3 and 6-1.

Lyman pitcher Ken Oswald (3-1) went four and two-thirds innings as the southpaw tossed a three-hitter, with all of the hits being gopher balls. Senior righty Dale Stevens came in for Oswald and was credited with the save.

"I thought I pitched pretty well," Oswald said. "The pitches that they hit were all fairly decent.

Lake Mary pitcher Anthony Laszaic (6-1) was touched for his first loss of the year. "I didn't get night." Laszaic said. "I thought that I pitched all right, though."

Johnny Luce, Kenny Jackson, rapped out 10 hits. Lake Mary and Stevens each had a pair of

Letterio Picks Miami, Seeks Place In History

By Scott Sander Herald Sports Writer

LAKE MARY - Lake Mary shortstop Shane Letterio, one of the best fundamental baseball players to come through Seminole County, signed a grant-in-aid Thursday to play baseball for the University of Miami.

"When you play for Miami, you become a part of history," Letterio said about the 1985 national champions. "I am very anxious to do just that."

Letterio, 18, a four-year varsity starter with the Rams, said that he is thrilled to be a part of the Hurricane organization. "Playing baseball for Miami has been a life-long dream of mine," Letterio, who was voted first team all-state shortstop last year, said. "I think that Miami has the best college baseball program in the country. To me, playing for them is like playing professional baseball. I'm really looking forward

Miami coach Ron Fraser, the promotional whiz behind Miami's baseball success, said that Letterlo is tailor-made for the Miami program. "With the style of baseball that we play, Shane will fit right in," Fraser said. "I'm hoping that Shane will contribute to the team as early as next

Lake Mary coach Allen Tuttle, who has coached several players that went on to play college ball, said that he is positive that Letterio will be successful at any level he chooses to play at.

"When Shane was a 14-year-old freshman, he was playing up to and beyond the level of 18-year-olds," Tuttle, whose team is 18-2 and presently ranked second in the (4A) state, said. "Shane is the type of kid that will play up to the level of the opposition, and I'm sure that he'll do Letterio, who holds a second degree black belt in karate, said that he chose Miami because he feels that he can fit into its system. "I really like coach Fraser's approach to the game." Letterio sald. "He likes to run, and that's the type of baseball that I like. I went down to see a couple of their games, and I was very impressed.

Letterio was recruited by Florida, South Florida, Georgia, Lousiana State, South Carolina and Auburn. "It came down to Georgia and Miami," Letterio said. "I really like the coaches at Miami, they are all very good.

Letterio has ingraved his name in the Ram baseball record book on several occasions. His best season came as a Junior as he led the Rams to a second place finish in the state.

Letterio had a superb season at the plate as he hit a school-record .459. He added three more school-records as he stole 20 bases, cracked out 45 hits, and scored 34 runs.

"That was definitely my best season," Letterio said. "We had a heck of a team that season, and that was when I think I started to get noticed by

"I'd sure like to play," Letterio, who sports a 3.0 grade point average and plans on majoring in accounting, said. "I didn't want to go to a small school where I could be a star. I'll have to work very hard at Miami, and that's what I wanted."

Martinez Twins Batter Pats

By Sam Cook Herald Sports Editor

ALTAMONTE SPRINGS - Casselberry's David Martinez, currently carrying a major-league glove (spectacular catches) and a minor-league bat (0 for '87) for the Chicago Cubs, may be well advised to solicit a tip from his younger brothers back home.

Twin brothers Ernest and Eric, steadily developing seniors for Lake Howell's Silver Hawks, put on a hitting display Friday night which turned out to be double trouble for the Lake Brantley Patriots. Ernest, the right-handed hitting third baseman, rapped two singles and a double while driving in three runs and Eric. the left-handed hitting first baseman, roped two doubles and a single while driving in two runs, as Lake Howell outslugged Lake Brantley, 11-8, in Seminole Athletic Conference baseball before 76 fans at Lake Brantley High School.

Lake Howell snapped a four-game losing streak to improve to 12-9 overall and 5-3 in the SAC. Lake Brantley fell to 6-16 and 1-6. Howell hosts Orlando Trinity Prep Monday and Brantley entertains Lake Mary Tues-

Although the Martinez twins combined for six hits and five ribbies Friday night, Lake Howell coach Birto Benjamin said the best is yet to come. "Those two don't even know how good they can be." Benjamin said. "If they put their minds to it, they can hit every game like they hit tonight."

Benjamin and the twins agree: when the Silver Hawks hit, they win.

"It's that simple," Eric said. "When we hit we win. When we don't hit we lose."

"That's right," Ernest said. "Everybody played a complete game for us tonight. The hitting, pitching and defense were there." The brothers, along with winning pitcher Greg Hill (7-1), said past Howell-Brantley aluminum wars indicate double-figure scoring is usually necessary to pick up a

"I thought we might need about 13 runs,"

'When we got that 8-0 lead, I didn't know If that would be enough." Ernest said.

Hill, who surrendered all six of his runs in the fourth inning, said solid defense, along with the run production, helped the cause. "Lake Brantley has some good hitters, so I knew we'd have to score some runs," the senior right-hander said. "We made some good defensive plays (two double plays), but our hitting pulled us through."

The Martinezes jumped on ex-Junior League World Series teammate Randy Green (0-3) in the first inning. Eric drew a one-out walk and Corey Coljeski singled to right field. A passes ball moved them to third and second before Ernest singled to right field for a 2-0 lead.

Six more runs in the third frame swelled the advantage to 8-0. Eric rifled a double past first baseman Greg Ebbert and moved to third on a wild pitch as Coljeski walked. Ernest followed with a single through the left side to score Eric for a 3-0 lead. Both runners moved up on the throw to the plate. Chris Trier then struck out but when catcher Jerrey Thurston could not handle the pitch, he reached to load the bases.

Second baseman Marc Lowe followed with a base hit, scoring two more runs for a 5-0 lead. Vito Scutero, who had a pair of singles. then singled in two more runs before Brett White capped the 11-hitter outburst with an RBI single to right field.

The Martinez brothers turned in a double play inthe third. With Ted Schieffelin on first and running with the pitch. Jimmy Waring grounded the ball to Ernest at third. His throw cut down Waring and when Schiesselin tried to go all the way to third. Eric threw him out. Schieffelin overslide the bag and Ernest applied the tag.

Freshman Thurston, the most impressive newcomer on the county baseball scene, revived Brantley's sagging hopes in the fourth with a prodigious three-run homer. For Thurston, it was his third round-tripper of the year. He also just missed another one in the seventh, as a drive down the left-field line hooked foul.

Jimmy "Mongo" Morse, who had two hits in three trips, opened the fourth with a scorching single just missing Hill's head. One out later, Greg Thomas hit a groundball to shortstop but second baseman Lowe dropped the short toss for a force. Ebbert followed with a single to left center to load the bases.

Pinch-hitter "Downtown Terry" Brown then smashed a double to right center to drive in two runs and cut the deficit to 8-2. Brian Bellaw followed with a sacrifice fly to lest which scored Ebbert. Schiesselin then singled to left to set the stage for Thurston.

The 6.4 catcher ran the count to 3.2 before he brought the crowd to its feet with a long blast over the left-center field fence. The three-run shot pared Howell's lead to

Although the Pats pulled within two after four, they could do nothing right thereafter. Coljeski made a spectacular diving catch in center on Green's liner in the fifth and doubled up a runner. Hill retired seven of the last four hitters he faced to wrap up the victory.

In the fifth, Eric singled home a run. In the seventh. Matt Yearick's bases-loaded single brought home two more. Lake Howell slapped around four Brantley pitchers for 13 hits. Brantley mustered just six.

"Our pitching has not been good the last four games," Brantley coach Mike Smith said. "I just hope we can turn it around by the district (April 21)."

Cox Singles Lions Past Grimes, 3-2

Rick Thomas Special to the Herald

OVIEDO - Oviedo second baseman John Cox broke a 2.2 tie with a run-scoring single to center in the bottom of the fifth inning to lift the Lions to a 3.2 victory over Syracuse (N.Y.) Bishop Grimes in nonconference baseball Friday at Oviedo High. The victory was the fourth in succession for the streaking 14-5 Lions as Oviedo righty Scott Bowers (5-3) had his usual sound performance, striking out seven, and walking one as he upped his record to 5-3. Bishop Grimes fell to 0-1. Bowers said that he was pleased with his performance. "I felt pretty strong right from the beginning." Bowers said. "My change-up and fastball were working pretty well.

The Lions started the scoring in the second with a run. Randy Ferguson singled to left and Gary Pelczar then reached first on an error, advancing Ferguson to third. Steve Hoffman's perfect squeeze bunt scored Ferguson to give Oviedo a 1-0 lead.

Oviedo added another run in the third inning. Center fielder Mark Merchant led off with a single to left, stole second and went to third after the an errant throw. Another wild throw by the catcher on a pick-off attempt allowed Merchant to score, giving Oviedo a 2-0 lead.

Bishop Grimes tied the score in the top of the fourth inning with a pair of runs. Left sielder John Falgiatano reached first on third baseman Steve Hoffman's error to lead off the inning. He then stole second, and went to third on the wild throw. An error by shortstop Tony Belflower allowed pitcher Matt Fitzgerald to reach safely as Falgiatano scored, to cut the lead to 2-1.

After another error loaded the bags, Bowers beaned a BG player to force a run when Ram catcher Ryan Lisle threw the ball into center, in an attempt to nab Burton. Burton went to third when Laszaic unleashed a wild pitch, and scored when Marty Martin got a gift single to center. Lake Mary center fielder Aaron latarola lost the ball in the lights, giving the 'Hounds an easy run.

Lake Mary tied the game in the fourth when designated hitter Birle went with a pitch and drove it over the right-field wall for his third homer of the season.

Lyman took the lead for good in the bottom of the frame with a pair of runs. Stevens hit his second double of the game to left. Right fielder Gib Lundquist followed with a towering homer to left. The four-bagger was Lundquist's third of the season. "That was the farthest that I have hit a ball this year." Lundquist said. "He gave me a fastball up and in, and I got all of Lyman scored an insurance run in the fifth. Luce singled. stole second, and advanced to third on an error. Jackson then lined a triple to right, scoring Luce. "It feels really good to beat these guys." Luce, a junior, said. "This was a very big win for our confidence."

Lake Mary did come up with a run in the top of the seventh. Letterio doubled to right, scoring Matt Messina. But it was too little too late for the Rams.

Gant Sets Record, Wins Pole

BRISTOL. Tenn. (UPI) -Harry Gant led a quartet of drivers who broke the Winston Cup Series qualifying record Friday at Bristol International Raceway. Gant's 16.588 second run at 115.674 mph earned him the track record and the pole position for Sunday's 27th annual Valleydale Meats 500, Dale Earnhardt, who will try for his fifth NASCAR win in seven starts Sunday, ended up in third place behind defending Valleydale champion Rusty Wallace.

Gant, of Taylorsville, N.C., topped the existing record of 114.850 mph, which was set by Geoff Bodine last April in qualifying for the same race.

Auto Racing

"We've got a good race set up. I was real tickled with the car when I first went our for practice today." Gant said.

"It was a matter of having a good lap in qualifying. The car ran good all day - the best it's run this year. We've not run too good this year and this really helps," Gant said.

Wallace qualified with a speed of 115.347 mph. followed by Earnhart at 115.140 mph.

The second round of qualifying for the remaining 15 places in the nationally televised race is Saturday.

Flames, Bruins Need Rallies To Avoid Stanley Cup Pitfalls

United Press International

The Calgary Flames Saturday night need to mount a comeback on the road to avoid going from Stanley Cup finalist to first-round losers while the Boston Bruins must rally at home to avoid lengthening one of the most glaring losing streaks in playoff history.

The Flames, the Campbell Conference champion last year, play Game 3 in Winnipeg, Manitoba, with the Jets leading the series 2-0.

The Bruins host Montreal at Boston Garden with the Canadiens holding a 2-0 advantage and a dominance in the series history. Montreal has beaten Boston in their last 17 playoff meetings, dating back to 1943.

The Flames do have something to lean on - the NHL's best road record. At 21-18-1 away from the Olympic Saddledome, Calgary has tied Edmonton for the top road

"Calgary had a great road record all year long so they can win in Winnipeg. It will be tough for us," Jets Coach Dan Maloney said. "We have to keep surging ahead because Calgary will be ready for us in Winnipeg. They have a great hockey club. We're not out of this yet."

The Jets built a 2-0 edge with a 4-2 triumph Wednesday and a 3-2 victory Thursday. Game 4 of the best-of-seven Smythe Division semifinal also will be in Winnipeg.

Graf Gets Quick, Decisive Win

HILTON HEAD ISLAND, S.C. (UPI) - Steff Graf rolled to a quick, decisive quarterfinal victory Friday and still was dissatisfied with her performance.

"I wasn't that happy with the way I played," Graf said. "I know that sounds strange when you win 6-2, 6-2, but I wasn't concentrating and was not moving well. Overall, I'm not as satisfied as I should be."

Defending champion Graf will try to keep intact her record of not losing a set this year when she meets Gabriela Sabatini Saturday in the semifinals of the $300,000 Family Circle Magazine Cup.

Graf, who won her first professional tournament at Hilton Head Island last year, Friday cruised to an easy 6-2. 6-2 quarterfinal victory over Canadian Helen Kelesi. The West German, ranked No. 2 in the world behind Martina Navratilova, needed only 55 minutes to beat the unseeded Kelesi, but said she will need to play better to defend her

The other semifinal Saturday will pit second-seeded Chris Evert Lloyd against No. 6 Manuela Maleeva of Bulgaria. Lloyd advanced with a 6-3, 6-2 triumph over Bettina Bunge of Monaco and Maleeva upended No. 3 Zina Garrison of Houston, 6-2, 7-5. Sabatini, seeded fifth, ousted No. 4 Claudia Kohde-Kilsch 7-6 (7-5), 6-4.

Mecir Seeks McEnroe Conquest

DALLAS (UPI) - Miloslav Mecir, who has never beaten John McEnroe, clashes with him Sunday and it may be a good time for Mecir to make adjustments in his style.

McEnroe, with his serve and volley game, and Mecir, a dogged baseline player, meet in the championship match of the $675,000 WCT finals.

McEnore, a four-time tournament champ, edged past Stefan Edberg of Sweden 7-6, (7-4), 6-7 (7-5), 7-6 (7-3), 6-4 Friday night in the semifinals.

Mecir, the world's No. 5 player, from Czechoslovakia, fought off four set points in the second set tiebreaker to win it 13-11 and triumph over Andres Gomez of Educdor in four sets, 6-7 (8-6), 7-6 (13-11), 6-4, 6-2.

Brought to you By Ken Rummel Of all the teams in pro sports, which one do you think has the best winning percentage of all-time?...Taking every current team in major league baseball, the National Football League, National Hockey League and National Basketball Association since they came into existence, the team with the best winning percentage of all-time are the Raiders of the NFL who've won 65% of all their total games...Next come the Browns of the NFL (64%), the Celtics of the NBA (63%), the Dolphins of the NFL (63%) and the Cowboys of the NFL (62%). One of the most amazing jinxes in baseball is what happens to pitchers after they win the Cy Young Award as the best pitcher in the American League .. EACH of the last 6 winners. from 1980 through 1985, surprisingly, had LOSING seasons the next year...The 1980 Cy Young winner was Steve Stone; in 1981 it was Rollie Fingers; in 1982. Pete Vukovich: in 1983, LaMarr Hoyt; in 1984, Willie Hernandez; and in 1985, Bret Saberhagen. All those men lost more games than they won the following season...It'll be interesting to see if the 1986 winner, Roger Clemens, can break that jinx this year

I bet you didn't know...that Ken Rummel Chevrolet has a fine selection of new cars and trucks and OK used cars & trucks. Our service department is fully staffed with factory trained technicians and ready to serve you. No appointment necessary!

Saberhagen Shuts Down Yanks, 13-1

United Press International

The Kansas City Royals' Bret Sacerhagen decided to pitch to the New York's Dan Pasqua with a 3-0 count in the eighth inning. That decision lead to the · Yankee's first hit of the game.

Instead of walking the Yankee left fielder, Saberhagen threw one pitch that Pasqua fouled off. Pasqua then stroked a groundrule double which shattered Saberhagen's no-hitter.

no-hitter. I went after him." Saberhagen's teammates supported him with a trio of four-run innings en route to a 13-1 rout of the Yankees. Pasqua's hit dropped just out of the reach of Willie Wilson and bounced over the left-center field wall. Wayne Tolleson added a ninth-inning single and later scored on a sacrifice fly and Saberhagen, 1-0, had to settle for his third career two-hitter.

Wilson gave chase to Pasqua's shot to left-center, but came up "three or six inches short," the center fielder said.

"I thought I had a chance all the way, but I knew it was slicing away from me." Wilson said. "I just wish I could run like Bo (Jackson), maybe I would have got it.'

Rick Rhoden, pitching his first American League game, surrendered nine hits and five runs over 3 1-3 innings and suffered the loss.

Tigers 11, White Sox 4

CHICAGO (UPI) - Frank Tanana and Neil Allen both had miserable spring trainings for their respective teams this year. but only Tanana can confidently talk about how little those exhibltion statistics mean.

Detroit, getting four homers and 15 hits, Friday whipped the Chicago White Sox 11-4 to spoil Chicago's home opener before a crowd of 40,025. Tanana allowed only four hits through 7 2-3 innings for the Tigers, while Allen was tagged for four runs and a pair of first-inning homers , in just two innings of work.

Tanana, 33, had a 10.64 ERA and a 1-3 record during the spring but did not allow a hit until the fifth inning when Tim Hulett slammed an upper deck homer to left.

"After 2,700 innings, I'd be in big trouble if I worried about what I did in spring training." Tanana said. "I felt as good as I chave for an opener. I was moving 'the ball around well and getting my off-speed stuff over."

"All he has to do is loosen up and let the young kids go after his fastball," Detroit Manager Sparky Anderson said of his lest-hander.

The Tigers jumped on Allen's fastball for three runs in the first. Lou Whitaker led off the game with a home run to the second deck in right, his 19th gameopening homer. Pat Sheridan, who had three hits, followed with a sharp single and Matt Nokes belted a two-run shot to athe lower deck in right.

Orioles 12, Indians 11

At Cleveland, Ray Knight lined a two-out double down the right-field line to score Fred Lynn in the 10th inning, enabling the Orioles to spoil the Indians' home opener. Mark Williamson, 1-1, pitched three innings for the victory. Ernie Camacho, 0-1, took the loss.

Brewers 11, Rangers 8 At Arlington, Texas, Robin Yount drove in four runs in an eight-run first inning to power the Brewers. Yount started the scoring with a two-run homer into the center-field bleachers and capped the big inning with a two-run single in his second at-bat. Red Soz 3, Blue Jays O

At Boston, Jim Rice and Marc Sullivan stroked solo homers. and Bruce Hurst pitched a twohitter to carry Boston. Hurst surrendered only two singles. struck out six and walked one. Loser Dave Stieb, 0-1, struck out seven batters through seven innings. Twins 6, Mariners 1 in three runs and Mike Smithson scattered five hits over eight innings to lead Minnesota. Smithson, 1-0, struck out three, walked one and gave up an uncarned run in the fourth inning. Mike Morgan, 0-1, was the loser.

· At Seattle, Randy Bush drove

Angels 6, Athletics 4

At Oakland, Doug DeCinces drove in four runs, three on a seventh-inning double, to guide California. Kirk McCaskill, 1-0. no-hit Oakland over the first four up five hits and walked eight in game, he's guessing." 7 2-3 innings, took the loss.

Bob Horner could be headed for Japan.

Horner To Japan?

NEW YORK (UPI) - The Yakult Swallows Saturday declined comment on growing indications they may soon sign slugging free agent Bob Horner.

Horner, who failed this winter to generate any interest in the open market, has been talking to the club and has reportedly reached an agreement in principle.

If details are finalized, Horner would become the third of the so-called "eligible eight" top free agents to settle his situation. Previously, Andre Dawson signed with the Chicago Cubs and Lance Parrish with

Philadelphia. Remaining unsigned are catchers Rich Gedman and Bob Boone, left-hander Ron Guidry, outfielder Tim Raines and righthander Doyle Alexander. Raines, Boone and Guidry are expected to return to the clubs for which they played last season. Those free agents can resume negotiations with their former clubs May 1. The increasing likelihood that Horner will not return to the Braves dld not appear to bother Atlanta Manager Chuck Tanner.

"This is America," Tanner said at Shea Stadium Friday night before his club played the New York Mets. "He made his decision to do what he wants to do. He's a good guy. It creates opportunity."

Upon becoming a free agent, Horner rejected a three-year deal from the Braves totaling $3.9 million. He also failed to find any buyers in the major leagues and, as time wore on, even the Braves weren't too interested.

"He wasn't our player." Tanner said. "He was a free agent. It didn't matter to me. I have to go with the 24 guys I have. I didn't have time to worry." Horner combined with Atlanta teammate Dale Murphy to form one of the toughest Nos. 3-4 hitters in the majors. A righthanded hitter, Horner belted 215 career home runs and benefited greatly from playing in Atlanta-Fulton County Stadium. known to players as the "Launching Pad."

Injuries, however, have plagued Horner throughout his career. The 141 games he played last year were the most in which he has appeared in any season.

United Press International Darryl Strawberry is finally turning his potential into consistent performance. Strawberry hit his third home run in as many games Friday night to help the New York Meta to a 6-3 victory over the visiting Atlanta Braves. The defending National League champions are 3-O and Atlanta fell to 2-1.

The 25-year-old Strawberry, who already has seven RBI on the young season, says he isn't swinging for the fences.

"I'm really not trying to hit the ball out of the park." Strawberry said. "I'm just trying to hit the ball good. One for four wasn't one of my better days but I feel pleased I'm coming through for the ballclub.

Strawberry's three-run blast helped raily the Mets from a 3-0 deficit and Len Dykstra hit a tie-breaking, two-run shot in the seventh inning.

"I got a good pitch to hit and took advantage of it," Dykstra said. "That's the key to hitting - not to foul it off."

Sid Fernandez, 1-0, scattered four hits over seven innings for the victory. Doug Sisk pitched two hitless innings for his first save. David Palmer, 0-1, allowed five runs in taking the loss.

Elsewhere, Houston downed Montreal 6-1, Pittsburgh nipped St. Louis 4-3, Chicago edged Philadelphia 4-3, Cincinnati defeated San Diego 6-3 and San Francisco got by Los Angeles

In the American League it was: Boston 3, Toronto 0; Detroit 11. Chicago 4; Baltimore 12, Cleveland 11 in 10 innings; Kansas City 13, New York 1: Milwaukee 11, Texas 8: Minnesota 8, Seattle 1 and California 6, Oakland 4.

Astros 6, Expos 1

At Houston, Danny Darwin and Charlle Kerfeld combined on a six-hitter and Kevin Bass blasted a two-run home run to lead unbeaten Houston past winless Montreal. Neal Heston took the loss in his first National League appearance. Montreal committed four errors and Houston stole five bases.

Pirates 4, Cardinals 3 At Pittsburgh, Jim Morrison went 4-for-4 and scored from first base on Sid Bream's double with two out in the ninth as Pittsburgh beat St. Louis in the Pirates' home opener. Don Robinson pitched one inning of relief for the triumph while Dave LaPoint took the loss. Morrison hit two home runs, and added a double and a single. He knocked in two runs and scored three times. Cubs 4, Phillies 3

At Philadelphia, pinch-hitter Jerry Mumphrey drove in the winning run with a ground out in the seventh inning to lead Chicago over Philadelphia. Mike Schmidt hit his first home run of the season and 496th of his career. Ed Lynch picked up the win and Dickie Noles earned the save. Kevin Gross was the loser.

Casselberry's David Martinez was O for 3. Reds 6, Padres 3

At Cincinnati, Eric Davis slapped an RBI single in the fifth inning to snap a tie and lift unbeaten Cincinnati over winless San Diego. Dave Dravecky suffered the loss and Rob Murphy was the winner in relief. John Franco pitched the ninth inning for his first save. Giants 5, Dodgers 4

At Los Angeles, pinch-hitter Harry Spilman singled to center with two out in the 11th inning to score Jose Uribe and lift San Francisco past Los Angeles. Il was San Francisco's fifth straight win, tying the team record for victories at the start of a season. For the Dodgers, it was their fifth straight loss, tying the club mark for worst start ever established in 1970. Scott Garrelts was the winner and Tim Leary the loser.

'Miss Seminole' Will Give Pageant 'My Best Shot'

By Carol Gentry Herald Correspondent

Blonde and talented Alice Overstreet, 26, was selected by a panel of discriminating judges to represent Seminole County in the Miss Florida pageant to be held in Orlando in June. The competition was held last Sunday in the auditorium of Lake Mary High School. Miss Overstreet is a resident of Altamonte Springs and is employed by the Greater Seminole County Chamber of Commerce.

No stranger to pageants, the 5-foot-5-inches tall beauty queen was Miss Panama City in 1981 and Miss Tallahassee in 1983 where she was selected among the top 10 finalists for Miss Florida. Miss Overstreet feels that her strongest feature is her singing talent. She has been a professional singer for the past five years.

Originally from Panama City, Miss Overstreet graduated from Florida State University with a degree from the School of Communications. She has definite roots in Seminole County where her grandfather, the late Jacob Overstreet, was one of the founding fathers of the city of Sanford.

She stated that this pageant was one of the most competitive she has ever been in, with many beautiful and talented contestants. Some of her prizes include a $1,000 competition wardrobe for the Miss Florida pageant, a vacation in the Bahamas, $1,000 in scholarships and a trip to New York City for a New Year's Eve celebration.

On the subject of the woman's movement. Miss Overstreet is thankful that it came about. She strongly believes that a woman can do anything she wants to do including maintaining a career and a happy family life. Although not presently "officially"

Women Get The Attention Of Juveniles In Detention

By Susan Loden

Herald Staff Writer Youngsters charged with committing erimes who are held in the Seminole Regional Juvenile Detention Center in south Sanford get some special attention from a group of Seminole County women who call themselves the "Grandmothers."

The Grandmothers make monthly visits to the boys and girls, who are from 9 through 18 years old and who are awalting hearings on criminal charges that range from petty theft to attempted Sanford's Mary Smith. founder and president of the Grandmothers Club, said that every month the 59 "Grandmothers" take a birthday party into the JDC. with presents for the inmates who have birthdays during that month and refreshments for all.

They also bring love to the youngsters and seem to be able to reach out and touch the hearts of these troubled children, who in many cases have led lives of abuse and neglect.

The Grandmothers wear long dresses and sunbonnets. But the youngsters don't think they are odd, because, Mrs. Smith said, everybody has known and loved a grandmother of their own. And that's how she breaks the ice, by asking 'How many have a grandmother? How manyloveyour grandmother? Why do you love your grandmother?'

'They say, 'My grandmother listens to me when I get in touble." 'My mean.' 'No matter what my problem I could always tell my grandmother.'

"I tell them that's why we're here, 'We want to be all of this for all of you and to love you.' They're sweet children. Every one is sweet. And pretty children too. They're too sweet and pretty to be in there," said Mrs. Smith, who has two grandchildren of her own.

"We encourage them to change their attitudes about life totally and become productive citizens. They listen, because, I guess it's part of my mission. Anytime you have a mission you're supposed to have power to accomplish your mission. Our goal is to turn them around." she said.

Some of these youngsters have never thought that there is any place else for them to be except JDC. They aren't wanted at home and as they can go back to JDC. Until Mrs. Smith tells them. they haven't thought that if they go straight they can get a job and then start their own family to love. She also tells them. 'The movie stars are getting old. Somebody's got to replace them. Maybe you. The legislators, they're getting old. Whose going to replace them? Why not you?"

The Lord had to give me all this, I didn't read it out of a book," said Mrs. Smith. who is a member of the Seventeenth Street Church of Christ in Sanford.

The proof of the effective-ness of these visits from the Grandmothers, whose organization was established in 1985, is in touching letters, such as these that they receive from the detainees after their visits:

'To My Special Grandma.

How are you doing. This is ... writing you. I just like to let you know I enjoy your visit here coming to see us. And hope you can always come back to give us a visit. I will try to write you more if our teachers let us.

''l wish I still had a grandmal That's why you are so Special to me. God took the first grandmother away. I hope he don't take you away.

l miss having my grandma around. That's why I'm writing you to show how much I care about you and I know you feel the same way about me.

I'm going to straighten up my life and go back to school and make my mother proud

"Well I'm going to close this letter, but not my love. I wish you can come back soon or write me.

"I hope I can come here from you soon. My home address is ... I go to court on the 18th of this month. If I don't see you then I'll see you on the outs."

"Dear Grandmothers "Hi. My name is ... I am a detainee out here at S.J.D.C. I was here for your January visit, but I was in court the last time you came in Febru-

"I am writing to say thank you for taking your time and coming out and sharing yourself with us.

"I have just spent the past 14 months in a drug-rehab and really got in touch with my feelings and was really touched that you people care about us kids who usually break into your homes and steal you blind.

"I would like to know more about your organization and would like to help it in any way that I can. I really don't know what else to say except thank you and I hope you can keep coming back for the future kids."

 "Dear Grandmas. "Thanks for coming out and bringing a little happiness into our lives.

"It takes a special quality all have this special quality in great abundance.

"If you feel proud of your contributions. More power to you! You should because you all are a very nice group of lakes with some love to give. From me It's returned 100 percent. Your friend ... P.S. Have a nice day."

· 'Dear Grandmothers

"During your jovial visits I feel loved and sanctify the month's pet peevishes and release my soul temporarily.

"My name is ... and I have lived life to the fullest in all aspects of creative demeanor. Most of all I love to be loved and jump to the occasion of meeting charitable people such as yourselves. To give past the call of duty is surely an act of God.

"Your light is stong and casts out the shadows in our souls during your visits. If I go to heaven, which I'm not really sure I've deserved it, I visualize me swimming in the river of life and standing equal in the eyes of God. I know I'll feel your presence. My deepest gratitude and appreciation.

The typical inmate is a 15-year-old white boy who has been charged with burglary, according to a spokesman for the center. The youths spend an average of two weeks in detention before going before a judge. After the hearing they may be set free, put on probation and released to their parents, or transferred to a state halfway house or a long-term facility. The youths housed at the center may be from other Florida counties, as well as Seminole County. Many return to the center time and time again.

"Those children, they just work on you," Mrs. Smith said. "It has to be supernatural power to love children so hard and to not even know them. It's hard to leave them and you take them home with you in your heart all

When they are released Mrs. Smith tells the children, "If you nee me on the street make me know you.' And they don't fail to do it." She said her sunbonnet helps the youngsters recognize her.

You don't have to be a real grandmother to become one of the Grandmothers, said Mrs. Smith, who came to Sanford from Tailahassee as a "lap baby," and for 20 years worked as a cosmetologist. She said the idea for the Grandmothers Club came to her in a vision, in which she saw the initial 'GMC.' "I said, 'Not General Motors!'" In a second vision she got the clear message 'Grandmothers Club,' and was told to form a club of 100 members. She said, 'Lord,

Grandmothers to visit. "I went out to see and as I entered the door the look in the children's eyes said, 'Yes, we need you all.' And we started going there regularly beginning in September 1985." Since then, through March, "We've served and touched 734 children," Mrs. Smith said.

The grandmothers, many of whom are on fixed incomes, buy the gifts and a cake for the birthday honorees, sometimes as many as five each month, and the refreshments for all the youngsters. They use their own funds and although they are required by JDC officials not to bring in homemade food, Mrs. Smith said she won't accept offers of second-grade cakes and party supplies for the youngsters. They would accept financial donations or dontations of top quality items.

"These are our own children and they deserve the best. We want Grade-A. That's what we want to take to our children."

The Grandmothers have a wish list for donated items from the community for JDC. Included are new socks, tennis shoes and underwear for boys and girls: fresh commercially prepared cakes and candy for holidays: major appliances for the center; games and sports equipment, haircuts and dental service; and volunteers to spend time with the children. Mrs. Smith said the Grandmothers can be contacted for donations or membership information through letters addressed to 1703 W. 13 St., Sanford.

When It Comes To Having Babies, Thin May Not Be In

Heavier Women Deliver Healthier Infants

Special To The Herald

Thinner women may look good to the media. but they're not as likely to have healthy babies as those who weigh a bit more, a University of Florida nutritionist says.

"Nutritionists and other health professionals often promote a thinner image as healthy, but may carry it too far. We are all victims of the fear of fat. Women risk having low birthweight bables if they are too thin at conception," says Diana Dimperio, who directs the North Central Florida Maternal and Infant Care Project (MIC).

"The problem is not just a matter of health counseling," says Dimperio, "but a cultural problem. We need to bring back Rubenesque women. My preconceptual advice is to get up to between 90 and 120 percent of standard weight. and use contraception if striving to lose weight." Dimperio's office, with a $1 million annual budget, provides nutrition counseling to about 3.000 low income women annually in 12 northcentral Florida counties, and multidisciplinary prenatal care to about 1,700

Skinny mommies aren't the only problem newborns face, says Dimperio, who holds a B.A. in sociology from the University of California. Los Angeles and an M.S. in nutrition from the University of Texas, Austin. She is an associate in UF College of Medicine's obstetrics and gynecology department and an adjunct professor with the College of Health Related Professions.

"Maternal obesity, while it's not as likely to cause low birthweights in infants, may cause other problems such as maternal diabetes. hypertension, and difficult deliveries, as well as low blood sugar and obesity in the infants," she

But radical weight loss strategies such as gastric bypass and too-strict dicts are not a good

"Rapid weight loss before pregnancy is the equivalent of a state of malnutrition," says Dimperio, "and you need metabolic stability before you get pregnant.'

Good preconceptual nutrition is essential for good infant health, she says.

"Oral contraceptives impair the status of vitamins B6 and C and the mineral zinc. but may improve the status of vitamins A and K. and the minerals iron, copper and calcium. Long-term use of birth control pills can cause B6 levels to stay low all the way through pregnancy and breastfeeding. Also, some herbs can induce abortions, act as laxatives or affect heart rates." she says.

She noted that animal studies have shown that a folic acid vitamin deficiency can cause defects in the nervous system of an embryo. This essential B vitamin is plentiful in wheat germ, raw spinach and raw broccoli.

On Thursday April 16 at 7:30 p.m. the Holocaust Memorial Resource and Education Center of Central Florida will present the film Jakob The Liar as part of the 1986-1987 Memorial Center at 851 N. Maitland Ave., Maitland. There is no admission charge.

Jakob The Liar, directed by Frank Beyer is the story of the meaning of human survival during the Holocaust. Jakob uses his imagination to keep the life-giving force of hope alive with his Jewish companions. His "lies" do not change anything, but they convince the viewer that the right to live also includes the right to hope.

CHIROPRACTIC X-RAY

If your examination includes an x-ray, there are usually two important reasons why a doctor of chiropractic will do this.

First, he wants to be sure there are no complications in your case that might prevent or delay recovery. Using the x-ray picture. he can see if there are any obvious signs of fractures, malformations, or diseases present. This helps him decide whether to accept or refer

If there's nothing present to prevent the results you're seeking. he'll look for the cause of your condition and determine how it can be corrected. His prime area of search is for misalignments of the spinal vertebrae. Any pressure or irritation to the nerves within the spine or as they leave the spine may cause health problems in other parts of your body, depending where the affected nerves extend-

Through a gentle chiropractic adjustment he can correct any misalignment and remove the nerve pressures and trritations that are causing problems. This can relieve the pain without recourse to drugs or surgery.

When No Shadow Fel

Scriptures Selected by The American

> Scripture records that on the first Good Friday, from the sixth to the ninth hour, there was darkness over the earth. By Hebrew count that would be from Noon until three o'clock. These hours on Good Friday are still widely observed as a time of solemn Though no shadow fell on Calvary during those three tragic hours, the shadow of Christ's Cross has ever since fallen hauntingly across the pages of time . . . the globes of human culture.

Can the shadow of a political execution in a Roman province centuries ago have impact on modern man in the space age?

No! Not the shadow-that is absorbed in the dark of man's suffering and tragedy.

The Light that penetrates all gloom. The Light that radiates from God and makes the years of His Son's ministry on earth the brightest years of History . . . gleaming with hope and promise and faith for every generation.

It is the Light that men see and believe in.

Easter Promises A Great Day's Coming

Resurrection, of course, means it's time to get up. Easter is "that great gettin' up morning." to use the words of the old spiritual. It commemorates Jesus' resurrection early one fine morning and it reminds us that our own resurrection is to follow one fine morning in the

Of this much, says the Bible, we can be certain. There's a great day coming. But our resurrection from the dead of life's cold winter can take place any morning in our lives. Listen as Arthur John Gossip tells the story of one who made that discovery. "The raw soldier boy was tramping along one day with his buddies, footsore, long past whistling, when his eyes came upon a tree just bursting into bloom. And suddenly his heart stood still. 'If God can bring the wonder of fresh life out of a thing so dead, imagine,' he said, 'what he can do for me.

And there began one of the world's most inspiring stories. The soldier boy became Brother Lawrence, a humble monk who found he could glorify God in the monastery kitchen where he ows lengthen and winter winds is one of the most-read pieces of devotional literature.

Some of us consider it a happy coincidence that Easter comes in spring, when the crocuses are out, the buds are "bursting into bloom" and all of nature lends its reinforcement to the theme of resurrection.

We in the Northern Hemisphere forget that in the Southern Hemisphere Easter comes in the autumn, when the leaves are falling, the days are getting shorter, the nights are getting longer and winter is approaching.

But this perhaps provides a better test for our Easter faith. Easter is a hope for the future, a promise that no matter what lies the skies may darken, the shad- not vain.

worked. His little book, "The be on the way - this too shall Practice of the Presence of God." pass and the greenness of spring shall once more return.

A glorious spring morning does not an Easter make. Easter is not a matter of fair skies. It is a matter of never losing the Easter hope of heaven during what may be the worst weather and the worst time. Heaven lies about us in our infancy, said Wordsworth. He might have said heaven lies about us from our infancy. As much of heaven is visible as one has eyes to see. Enough at any rate so that we can greet each new morning by saying. "There's a great day coming. This one!

It may be that the skies are heavy-laden. Still we can "trace the rainbow through the rain" immediately ahead - though and know the Easter promise is

Ah, What Stories Gray Tells In 'Cambodia'

IN MOVIE THEATERS

SWIMMING TO CAMBODIA (R) Essentially this wonderful oddity of a movie presents a gray-haired man sitting at a table telling rambling stories. Ah. but what stories! And what a gray-haired man! The man is Spalding Gray, the performance artist who has developed a spare, witty and hypnotte form of theater out of autobiographical monologues filled with ribald, provocative digressions and countercultural

"Swimming to Cambodia" is based on Gray's experiences in Thalland playing a small role in the movie "The Killing Fields." That's the string on which Gray hangs jewels of observation about war, war movies, the artifice of movies, acting, a visit to a brothel, and the Khmer Rouge atrocities in Cambodia in the '70s (the subject of "The Killing Fields"). Gray's approach is dense and allusive: He's a great, loose raconteur. And he's a good actor; he holds us with his voice, gaze and ideas for a full hour and a half. Enter Jonathan Demme, inventive director of movies like "Melvin and Howard," "Something Wild" and the jubilant Talking Heads concert film "Stop Making Sense." Demme is similarly successful at capturing Gray's monologue on film. The means are simple: Avant-gardist Laurie Anderson has supplied some music and sound, and cinematographer John Bailey has lighted and shot Gray. When Gray talks about his acting in "The Killing Fields," we see seenes from the film, but mostly the movie offers Gray staring out at us and talking. There hasn't been this much unadorned talk in a movie since "My Dinner with Andre" - and that was at least a dialogue. "Swimming" is so good that you find yourself quickly succumbing to its verbal rhythms and being tantalized by its authorperformer's meditations on his

This 1986 hit blends sitcom and tear-jerker in the manner of "Terms of Endearment" - held together by a terrific performance by Tom Hanks. Hanks plays a wisecracking hotshot adman and ladles' man whose hip facade starts to crack when his parents split up and his dad (Jackie Gleason) undergoes an operation.

This Garry Marshall-directed movie is a moral lesson: After we've enjoyed seeing how funloving (read "shallow") the Hanks character is, we're meant to applaud his turn toward virtue. An example of the latter: Hanks supposedly shows his maturity by rejecting the rich, humorless career woman he's been dating in favor of his unaggressive former high school

"Quest for Fire"). Set in a 14th-century monastic world, the film stars Scan Connery and Christian Slater as a monk and his novice who attempt to solve a series of murders at a cloister. The movie is part murder mystery, part something else though what isn't clear. In transition from page to screen, a lot of the novel's ideas have been lost. But it's an atmospheric film - one that has a stirring reverence for the written word.

Focusing On Crime Victims' Problems

By Susan Loden Herald Staff Writer

Within the legal system and the community, attention is beginning to be focused on the victims of crimes and their special needs. For about a decade, Seminole County Sheriff John Polk has offered through his Victim Adovcate volun-teer program immediate support to rape victims. But sheriff's deputy Doris Hundley said concern for victims is beginning to go beyond the service she provides.

President Reagan has declared April 26 through May 2 "National Victim's Rights Week." Brevard-Seminole State Attorney Norm Wolfinger has planned two events to mark the week. One is a luncheon, with victims and support providers as speakers on April 30. That follows an 8 p.m., April 26 candlelight memorial to victims to be held at the Court House in Sanford.

"In the good old days, in the beginning stages of our great nation when crimes occurred, the victim was the single most important person in the process of criminal justice." Mrs. Hundley said.

"The victim made a complaint that a crime had occurred. Police or a sheriff found and apprehended the criminal and all appeared before a judge. The victim's role was one of importance and the victim was usually treated with respect.

"Over the years the victim's role slowly diminished as we (society) became more concerned with the 'rights' of the accused and our judicial system became more and more complicated.

'The victims were no longer individuals. A crime was no longer committed against an individual, but against 'people of the state.'

"Throughout my eleven-year career in law enforcement. I have ofter heard 'What rights do I, the victim, have? Who will listen to me? Who cares about what happened to me? Does law enforcement care. Does the judicial system care?'

"Maybe' seemed to be the answer to some extent, but clearing cases and conviction rates became more important. The victim became a necessary 'nuisance' to deal with when everybody was busy investigating and putting together a case: A nulsance who wanted to know what was being done. A 'good' victim was one who was ready to jump when everybody called and not before then, who just told what happened and didn't cry, complain or show anger of fear. "We tended to forget that victims were people with feelings. People who deserved to be treated with respect and people who had 'rights.'

"Over the last ten years we have slowly come to realize these facts, and throughout our nation a movement started and gained momentum in the form of victim advocates and rights of victims

"Our job as victim advocates is to ensure that victims are not victimized over and over again by the system. That they also have rights and are treated accordingly. To ensure these rights, often many obstacles have to be moved, starting with the first responding police officer (to) all the way through the criminal justice system. Often victims need additional help in order to restore their lives to where they were before a crime disrupted them and turned their lives upside down.

"Victims advocacy is everybody's responsibility, not just law enforcement, the judicial branch, government and community agencies.

To promote, educate and publicize victim's rights, we Victim Advocates, are commemorating all victims with a candlelight vigil starting "Victim's Rights Week" on April 26 at 8 p.m. This vigil will be held at the Seminole County Courthouse in downtown Sanford and the public as well as all service providers are invited.

"On April 30 at 10:30 a.m. a luncheon and seminar is scheduled. Our keynote speakers include actress Theresa Saldana, who was the victim of a vilent stabbling in California. She has been an active member of the victim advocacy and victim rights movement in California as well as nationwide," Mrs. Hundley said.

The cost of the luncheon is expected to be about $12 per person and reservations for that event scheduled at the Park Suite Hotel, State Road 436, Altamonte Springs, are required through Linda Kuhn at Wolfinger's office, 322-7534.

The events, Mrs. Hundley said, are intended to emphasize that everyone is a potential victim of violent crime.

'Department of Criminal Justice statistics show you are 100 times more likely to die from the result of a violent crime than to die from pneumonia or an automobile accident. The chances of a violent death are eight times greater than dying from a heart attack. And you are sixteen times more likely to die as the result of a violent crime than from cancer," Mrs. Hundley said.

Cow-Tipping, And Dollar-Dumping

Cow-tipping has come to Paonia, Colorado. As practiced in this tiny farming and mining community on Colorado's Western Slope, cowtipping works as follows: Visiting flatlanders. seeking greater excitement than shut-down mines and hay fields are able to offer, are asked if they'd like to try their hand at cow-tipping. Locals solemnly explain that cows, standing asleep in the pasture in the middle of the night, can be tipped over with a vigorous shove of the hand.

For some bizarre reason, tourists seem much enamored of the idea of tipping over a cow and are happy to be dragged out in the middle of a freezing Colorado night to topple an innocent bovine. Their failed efforts are accompanied by much mirth on the part of the natives, who find all of this highly amusing.

To ease the disappointment of would-be cow-tippers, local hosts often suggest that the remainder of the night be spent hunting snipe, a rare creature of varying description that is found wherever there are tourists or Cub Scouts.

The most recent victim of the cow-tipping scam was Finster Higgins, Esq., a distinguished U.S. Treasury official who was visiting his brother Homer, a Panola farmer.

Finster, having fallen for what the family cow did not, was subjected to endless mockery for the remainder of three of the longest days he had ever spent visiting his brother.

Finster decided to retaliate. He insisted on an immediate return visit to Washington by his brother, Homer, He would, he assured Homer, show him an amazing new Washington stunt, dollar-dumping.

Upon Homer's arrival in Washington a few days later, Finster explained solemnly to his visiting brother that the U.S. could, by dumping a few hundred million dollars out on the market from time to time, bring the price of the dollar down. It was just a matter, he said, of timely intervention in the currency markets.

'Now, hold on just a dad-burned minute there, brother. You mean you boys here in Washington can up and dump a few hundred million greenbacks and get their price down? I cain't rightly see how. I thought more than a hundred billion went through them currency markets every day, sure as the sun sets in the west. Hard to figure you could do much with a few hundred million now and again. It'd be like spittin' in the sea, I'm-a-thinkin'."

Finster was annoyed. Not only could he do that, he insisted, he had.

"Well, golly. I done thought you boys had been borrowin' so much money out here that you'd pushed interest rates up higher'n a possum lookin' down at a pack o' coon dogs, and that those high interest rates had tickled the fancy of them furriners and such, and that them furriners had up and bought dollars and pushed up their price higher'n a cowboy up a pole lookin' down at a angry bull."

Finster was very annoyed. Interest rates, he reminded his country brother, were down.

"Oh, the numbers is down, sure enough. But when you go and subtract out the inflation, you get the genuine interest rate. And that's way up, higher'n ..."

Finster's veins were now throbbing in his right temple. He admitted that real interest rates were high, but pointed out that his dollar-dumping effort had still been a success.

"Oh, you boys done brought the dollar down against pounds and yen and such-like, but you cain't hardly say the dollar is down much. It's still powerful high against most of that furrin' money, higher'n a small kite in a big storm."

Finster sighed with resignation. It was not, he decided, going to be possible to pull off the dollar-dumping scam against a person versed in the subtleties of cow-tipping. He put in a call to some network correspondents who could be trusted to fall for the trick every time. He wondered if any of them had ever fancied tipping over a cow ...

Coalition Seeks To Save Rain Forests

UPI Writer

BOULDER, Colo. (UPI) - Next to global nuclear war, the destruction of tropical rain forests presents the most danger for the future of mankind, according to the head of a worldwide environmental coalition.

To save these forests and the multitude of animal and plant life they make possible will take a grassroots campaign akin to the one mounted in the United States against the Victnam War, says Randall Hayes, director of the Rainforest Action Network.

The destruction of rain forests has become a cause celebre among biologists in recent years, with the continuing discovery of vast new species of animal and plant life in forested areas of South America, Africa, Southeast Asia and even Hawaii.

Biologists have estimated the rain forests, which cover 7 percent of Earth's land area, contain about half of the world's animal and plant species. At the current rate of destruction, these forests could disappear within the next 50 to 75 years, the scientists warn, taking with them all of the life they support. The current extinction of species has been compared to what happened 65 million years ago, when more than half of the world's species, including dinosaurs, died off. Plant and animal life is being killed so quickly - 17,500 species each year - that scientists can't keep their catalogs up-to-date.

At a recent conference at the University of Colorado, biologists warned of the consequences of rain forest destruction, while political conservationists such as Hayes argued for ways to stop it.

Beyond the loss of biological diversity, the destruction of the rain forests would have direct impacts on man's future, the biologists warned. The world's climate would change, with temperatures rising, rain patterns changing and new deserts forming. There would be more fam-

The potential medical and other uses of plant and animal life indigenous to the tropics also would be lost. About 25 percent of the medical drugs used today come from plant extracts, and many scientists think as-yet undiscovered plants could provide new wonder cures.

Hayes, who produced an Academy Award-winning environmental documentary about the Four Corners area of the Southwestern United States, heads a coalition of 60 environmental groups that operate in 20 countries.

His Rainforest Action Network, formed in November 1985, is trying to build a grassroots movement to bring political pressure in rain forest nations, as well as in the United Hayes said American tax dollars, through the World Bank, are financing much of the destruction for cattle ranches and agriculture. That is why, he said, it is necessary to change public opinion in the United States even though it might be difficult to convince Americans that an environmental question so far away might have an effect on them.

"It's a battle that can be won," he said, although his optimism wasn't shared by everyone at the conference. "It takes money to finance this destruction. If we can stop the money, we can stop the destruction.'

The organization, headquartered in San Francisco, has organized protest marches against World Bank policies and is forming action groups on college campuses around the country. It also is involved in regional public information workshops, and will soon come up with what Hayes calls a "dirty dozen" list of the 12 most destructive countries and a "fatal five" list of the five most destructive projects financed by the World Bank.

The call for action to halt rain forest destruction has been signaled. for the most part, by biologists and environmentalists in the U.S. and Europe. Hayes admits this is perceived as "beneficent imperial-ism" by the governments of the countries where the rain forest are located. That is why it is important to get native peoples involved in the movement, he said, which has been done in some nations, although not yet in South America.

Yan Linhart, a CU biologist, suggested people of the developed countries should change their lifestyles to eliminate the economic reasons for cutting rain forests. "We don't have to have coffee, we don't have to have tea, we don't have to have teakwood furniture." he said.

Linhart likened the rain forests to a giant library with several million volumes, "all with something to say. but only about 20 percent have even been named.'

Expressway Authority Should Be Local

As usual, some legislators are attempting to diminish Seminole County's ability to determine its own fate by proposing legislation that would virtually destroy the local expressway authority in favor of a fourcounty panel. That's intolerable.

Equally intolerable is the fact that one of the legislators who co-authored the bill is a Seminole County representative: Frank Stone, R-Casselberry. His partner in this damaging effort is Rep. Rich Crotty, R-Orlando.

What they propose is a nine-member expressway authority made up of five persons from Seminole, Orange, Lake and Osceola counties appointed by the governor, and the county commission chairman of each of those counties. That panel would replace the existing local expressway authorities.

And since, according to Rep. Art Grindle, R-Altamonte Springs, the governor is not required to make his appointments from all or any specific county. Seminole County could be left with just one vote. That would be the county commission chairman, unless one or more of those appointments by the governor is from Seminole County.

As it stands today, Seminole County has its own expressway authority made up of the five county commissioners and two city commissioners, Mayor Bettye Smith of Sanford and Commissioner Paul Tremel of Lake Mary.

Under existing guidelines, the local expressway authority has the final say on which route the proposed expressway extension will take into or through Seminole

If Crotty's and Stone's bill gets through the lesilature and the governor signs it, the new panel would be established July 1, and the local expressway authority disbanded, according to Grindle.

It doesn't take a genius to see what a hot issue the proposed expressway through Seminole County is, or how hundreds of residents who pack the room when the proposed routes are discussed express their concern. This is a crucial issue and will have a devastating impact locally when final decisions are made.

It stands to reason, then, that because of its importance locally, it should be local representatives and elected officials, as well as the citizenry who decide where that expressway

Try as they might, we don't believe citizens and elected officials from nearby counties are sufficiently in tune with Seminole County's needs, or the desires of its residents.

The bill proposed by Crotty and Stone should be defeated quickly and soundly.

After Highway Bill-No More Moderate Speeding? are county arteries where speed limits most WASHINGTON (UPI) - Although it took two votes in the Senate to do it. Congress has overridden President Reagan's veto of the $87.5 billion highway bill.

Shortly before the second Senate vote, Reagan paid a rare visit to Capitol Hill, ostensibly to twist the arms of recalcitrant senators. But I suspect there was more to it than that.

The president's real purpose, I'm told, was to establish contact with congressional moderates. Which, after all, was a prudent thing to do.

I mean, the political party that seized control of the legislative branch in the 1986 election can't hold the reins forever, you know. Sooner or later, the other party will take charge and then the White House, assuming it is controlled by the same group, will need to strengthen its Reagan obviously was looking forward to that day, and who can blame him?

Could he help it if mistakes were made and his policy deteriorated into a effort to free the budget deflett, which was being held hostage in Congress?

Sources say there was at one time a deal to trade the deficit for tax increases, which would have been a turn-around for Reagan.

He, however, has dented, or at least says he doesn't remember, agreeing to a new fiscal policy. So there the matter rests at this moment.

Of more interest to me than Reagan's charge that the bill amounted to congressional budget-busting was its provisions, of which the president approved, allowing states to raise the. federal speed limit along rural stretches of interstate highways.

To refresh your memory, the federal speed limit has been 55 mph since the days of worldwide gasoline shortages. The bill, however.

would permit states to raise the limit to 65. My main concerns as a commuter are drivers who exceed 65 on 45 mph roads. These mainly often are honored in the breech. Permitting interstate motorists to drive 65 is all well and good provided state legislatures don't enact "local option" laws leaving it up to the counties to decide what the speed limit

Y. YOU'D THINK E INVENTED ALDS

OR SOMETHING ..!

Although that would be the democratic thing to do. Interstate motorists might be in the same pickle airlines used to be in during repeal of prohibition - that is, never being sure whether they could legally serve drinks. If ever you were served pickle juice while flying over a "dry" county, you now know the reason. And I doubt interstate drivers would be too thrilled if they were pulled over for doing 65 in a 55 mph zone, particularly if they didn't know the speed limit hadn't been increased in that county. But bear in mind that a speeding fine sometimes is the price we must pay for moderation.

A Limb Growth Mystery

By Delthia Ricks UPI Science Writer

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Biologists are trying to decipher a baffling quirk of nature in a giant frog pond where hundreds of amphibians are developing more than their usual complement of legs - some as many as eight.

For years scientists have known that frogs and salamanders have the genetic capability to generate new limbs when any of the original ones are severed.

But just coming to the attention of scientists who are studying the inhabitants of a snail-infested pond in Santa Cruz are the ways in which parasites can play tricks on the normal growth and differentiation of "You can experimentally produce extra limbs in frogs and salamanders." said developmental biologist Stanley Sessions of the University of California, Irvine.

"But the effect we're seeing in the pond is a natural experiment like the kind we would see in the lab if we disturbed natural development."

He said that the abnormal animals were recently found by accident during an environmental impact study prior to a construction project that would encompass the area of the pond. The affected tadpoles were sent to his laboratory

Estimates now show that 70 percent of the tadpoles in the pond have unnatural limb growth and all of those with extra limbs are infested with the larvae of trematodes, insidious parasitic flatworms.

The worms are a relative of the schistosomiasis flatworm that causes organ damage and dysentery in people, especially in some underdeveloped nations where the larvae flourish in untreated bodies of water.

Larvae of both types of worms use anails as their first hosts where they undergo several stages of development but before they can become fully functioning worms they require yet another host.

In the case of the schistosomiasis worms, snails and people are the hosts while for trematodes, the hosts are snalls and amphibians.

The trematodes, Sessions has found, are burrowing into the eggs of developing frogs and salamanders affecting their development while they are embryos.

"Both the frogs and salamanders in this pond have massive infestations," said Sessions, who noted that the tadpoles are growing extra hind legs while the salamanders are developing additional fore limbs.

'Compassion' Folly

Recently some of our bolder liberals have concluded that the time is ripe to launch a cautious sortle or two on behalf of that once-popular buzzword, "compassion." Maybe it's still a bit too early to demand increases in the welfare budget, but the usual weepers and wailers have clearly decided that a little consciousness-raising won't hurt.

By coincidence. I recently received a letter from a member of the administrative staff of a large East Coast welfare agency. He is sickened by what he sees going on around him, and I am going to share with you a couple of the examples he cites.

I have taken the liberty of altering enough irrelevant details to protect the writer (since he would, of course, be sacked instantly if his superiors ever guessed his identity). But his account is graphic evidence of the way the taxpayers' money is being ladled out by your government in the high name of "com-

"We have upwards of 115 case workers, whose job is to monitor welfare 'clients.' At any time, one can see the majority of these overburdened case workers sitting at their desks, visiting each other. discussing their kooky clients. Most of their 'monitoring' of these clients is done by phone, not personal

"Speaking of personal visits, many of the clients refuse to meet with the workers, because they don't want to waste their own valuable time. Why can't these people be told that either they comply with court orders or all aid will be withheld until they do? Most often, these cases are closed out because the 'client' won't cooperate - but the AFDC checks keep rolling

"Or take the office whose job is to transcribe the dictated reports of the caseworkers. There are five transcriptionists. Would you believe that those 115 caseworkers cannot put out enough dictation to keep five people busy on a consistent basis? Two, or at the most three, are needed; the third person would be on part-time duty.

"One of those five, a clerk/typist, has spent her four years of employment at her desk sleeping. She falls asleep so easily that one day she fell asleep at the wheel of her car and had a serious accident. She has been checked out for narcolepsy, but the doctor assured her that she just needs the proper rest at the proper time.

"This woman signs in for work at 8:15 a.m. and falls asleep by 8:30 a.m. and siceps on and off during the day. (Mostly on.) She is never reprimanded.

"Also, there are a favored few in the agency who would be going on leave without pay if time off was taken into account. They sign out at noon or 1 p.m., but they sign out that they have worked until the regular quitting time. Yes, our president is really a bum, isn't he. for wanting to reform AFDC?

"You can certainly say that I am a disgruntled employee, but more than that. I am a disgruntled taxpayer! It is an absolute scandal. Admittedly a lot of good can be done if the employees are expected to work. If they refuse, then fire them with cause. At a minimum, as much or more could be done with half the staff. That half who work could get a nice salary increase and still save the taxpayers money."

The writer cites several other examples of bureaucratic sloth and outright fraud, and I may quote them some another time. Meanwhile, Speaker Wright - you of the quavering voice and the boundless generosity with the taxpayers' hard-earned money - you had better get ready to defend. rather than try to enlarge, the bloated and fraudulent mess you justify in the name of "compassion."

Nuclear Insurance May End

WASHINGTON (NEA) — The federal law governing the nuclear industry's unique insurance program expires at the beginning of August, and there is a very real possibility that Congress will not act in time to renew the legislation.

The insurance plan would remain in force for all nuclear power plants that received construction permits or operating licenses from the Nuclear Regulatory Commission before the law expired, but many industry officials are legitimately concerned that the lapsing of the statute will reinforce the public's uneasiness about nuclear power.

The law is the Price-Anderson Act, first enacted by Congress in 1957 and renewed every 10 years since. Its most notable feature is that it limits the industry's financial liability to members of the public harmed by accident - a special waiver granted to no other business. The law requires every electric utility company that operates a nuclear generating station to carry $160 million worth of liability insurance. In addition, the owners of each nuclear power plant can be assessed up to $5 million after an accident to pay damage claims.

With 109 commercial nuclear units now in operation, that formula provides $705 million to cover all insurance payments — but the potential for damage is far higher.

In 1982, the Sandia National Laboratory in New Mexico produced a "worst case" scenario in which there were in excess of 100,000 deaths and more than $100 billion worth of economic damage.

Nuclear Industry critics note that the annual premiums paid by utility companies for each nuclear power plant are $400,000 for their public liability insurance but about $5 million to insure their own property and equipment. Thus, the industry is spending 12 times as much to insure itself as it is to insure the public.

Moreover, members of the public cannot purchase supplemental insurance to protect themselves. Virtually all standard insurance policies specifically exclude nuclear-related damage.

Finally, the federal law places the entire insurance burden upon the operators of nuclear power plants. General Electric, Westinghouse and the other companies that design. build and assemble the reactors. generators and other components are exempt from any liability even if their work is defective because of criminal negligence.

Koop's Critics Rave At His Anti-AIDS Effort

By Jack Anderson Joseph Spear

WASHINGTON - C. Everett Koop, the pragmatic pediatrician who was named surgeon general six years ago with the fervid support of conservatives, is not deterred by the far right's disillusionment with him. He characterizes extremists' criticism as "ravings."

What has soured relations between Koop and the doctrinaire right beyond repair is his advocacy of sex education as a realistic method of curbing the AIDS epidemic and his recognition that abortion is one way that AIDSinfected women may decide to handle pregnancy.

These positions have brought down on Koop's head the wrath of such conservative stalwarts as William F. Buckley, Phyllis Schlafly and anti-abortion activist Judie Brown. In an interview with our associate Vicki Warren, the surgeon general declined to back down from his controversial positions. Instead. he added fuel to the fire by suggesting that the fault lies in conservatives' own feelings of inadequacy where their children are concerned.

"Conservatives get upset at the very mention of sex education," Koop said. "Do they believe they've done such a poor job of teaching their children that if I mention condoms they will go out and try one? If they do (think that), then I have more faith in their children than they do."

Koop added, "Many of my critics haven't read what I've written or listened to what I said." For example, he said he has never advocated supplying 8-year-old boys with condoms, as some opponents have charged. Among other reasons he doesn't favor this, Koop said dryly. is that they wouldn't fit.

Koop acknowledged that he was once numbered among the critics of sex education. "I thought teaching sexual technique without morality was improper," he said.

The trouble with many sex education classes, he said, is that they are "organ recitals" where children learn the names of body parts and are told what they should not do with them. He said every parent he has ever talked to agrees that children should be taught about sex, but by the parents - "and then they don't do it.

Koop advocates sex education classes that include frank discussion about anatomy, sexual relationships and the transmission of sexual diseases, and he has detailed plans covering what schoolchildren should be taught at what age.

He is also in favor of teaching about homosexuality. "I'm not the surgeon general of just heterosexuals," he said. "I'm also the surgeon general of the homosexual community. The fact that you don't like the idea of something doesn't mean it's

This reasonable approach has inflamed Koop's critics, but he is not visibly dismayed. There are those who "can find something unwholesome in everything." he said, adding: "The real problem with conservatives is that they can't balance good science, like that coming out of the National Institutes of Health, against the ravings of a few people" who are wrongly viewed as experts.

His concern about AIDS is not with the outraged sensibilities of a few conservatives, but with the health of the American public.

"When you are faced with a lethal epidemic that is doubling every 13 months (in the number of diagnosed cases) and the main victims are young people, you have to do something," he said.

About a third of the babies born to AIDS-infected women have the disease, and half of these mothers. Koop said, resort to abortion. But, he added, "It's not an answer. It just gets rid of the patient, and it's certainly not something I condone." He noted that most AIDS-infected babies are abandoned by their mothers, and about half don't survive two years. "They remind me of pictures from Auschwitz," Koop

The surgeon general insists he hasn't changed in his six years at the helm of the Public Health Service. "I've always been as honest as I could be," he said. "My job is to protect the health of the public."

Easter, Passover Bring Promise Of Peace, Redemption

Passover commemorates escape from bondage and God's guiding presence through difficult times. It also acts as a continual stimulus to cherish freedom and preserve religious identity and conviction. It gives promise of redemption to come.

Good Friday and Easter give further reminder of religious faith and values. Suffering and sacrifice, death and darkness, discouragement and despair, are replaced by resurrection and new life, triumph and victory, hope and hallelujahs. They serve as symbols of the deepest fears and tragedies of life, overcome by the greatest hopes and promises religious faith can arouse.

Too often we relegate religious faith to the sidelines of our experience. We downplay its importance in the ongoing affairs of everyday life. We become engrossed with materialistic viewpoints of social, economic and political issues and we lose sight of the spiritual ideals which had been entwined in the basic foundations of our nation's birth and development.

As millions worship in their respective ways this Passover-Easter season, we can reflect on the significance of religious faiths in our nation's past and how it can contribute to meeting the needs and problems which engulf and perplex our people today.

We need to regain a perspective of the impact of religious faith and practice upon our heritage. In world relationships and in national affairs. concepts of freedom from tyranny and oppression, as well as of equal rights and opportunities for minorities and the disadvantaged, are of prime im-

Compassion for the unfortunate, for the victims of oppression, for the unliberated hopefuls of many lands, are added concerns.

As religious faith and ideals had permeated our basic constitutional foundations, we become aware that the greatest needs of our times can only be met with a resurgence of these ideals impacting upon the negotiations and deliberations of those seeking to solve our most pressing problems.

The assurance of peace with justice and security, that points towards understanding and brotherhood between distrustful and opposing world blocs, is a major goal to achieve. Elimination of terrorism and war in the conduct of human affairs is of prime necessity if the world is to survive. Passover and Easter remind us that religious faith and values can overcome the barriers, they can promise those results - providing we can shake off our overly-materialistic thinking and give God a chance.

The world's only alternative to nuclear holocaust is to find hope in religious faith. Easter and Passover promise the world triumph and redemption!

This letter is to express my appreciation and thanks to the Sanford Herald and to Kathy Tyrity for the excellent report on the March 31 Idyllwilde area meeting regarding the proposed Seminole County expressway.

A HEAVY CROSS TO BEAR

Even though the article was published on April 1, it was no April Fool's joke that some of the proposed (expressway) alignments do cut right through Sanford.

One of our residents at that meeting commented on the "NIMBY" Syndrome (Not In My Back Yard." The general feeling expressed at our meeting, however, was, not only do we not want an expressway in our back yard, but, also we do not need one." In fact, we don't feel the need

The 157th Infantry Association is making a concentrated effort to locate all former members of the 157th Infantry Regiment and the 158th Field Artillery, 45th Infantry Division. for an expressway in northern Seminole County at all.

I compliment our good citizens of the idyliwide area for their involvement with this extremely important matter, and I hope that all of them will write letters expressing their concerns and ideas to members of the expressway authority.

I strongly urge the citizens of other areas of Sanford and northern Seminole County to become as informed as possible about this proposed expressway and the impact it would have on the area. Please, Sanford residents, get involved, as key decisions are being made in the next few months. No Matter where you live in Sanford, an expressway through this city would have a great impact on you and yours.

Expressway Will Cause Dramatic Change

Death of a city by expressway.

Well, perhaps not the death, but certainly a dramatic change.

What will the city of Sanford become if divided by a six-lane expressway? Will this quaint, residential and, yes, comfortable, small Southern town become a massive commercial development dotted by isolated, decaying residential areas? Will the dramatic and pleasing effect of downtown restoration and city beautification be for naught? It is hard to imagine the magnitude of the change which may occur if the proposed expressway bisects our future generations?

I had the great pleasure of spending the majority of my youth in this town. It was, and is, for the time being, a warm, protective haven for residential inhabitants and an excellent place in which to rear one's family. After an extended absence for schooling and

Will the benefits derived from an enhanced transportation system overshadow the destruction of established. well-kept neighborhoods and residential areas and the transformation of a city from its existing residential character to one based upon commerce?

I, of course, can only speculate as to the exact effect which may occur if either of the northerly routes are selected by the Seminole County Expressway Authority. Unfortunately, I do not believe that the Expressway Authority is in any better position to define the effects on the city with the possible exception of identifying the established residential neighborhoods which would be detrimentally affected, if not destroyed.

If you believe as 1 do that the benefits of a city like Sanford, as it exists, or may become, with proper leadership, greatly outweigh the benefits of an expressway around Orlando, I urge you to contact the Expressway Authority, your county commissioners and our city officials with vigorous encouragement to oppose any routing which would have the potential detrimental effects of the two northerly routes which are presently being considered. We should all keep in mind that our elected officials are morally charged with the obligation to protect, preserve, and enhance the quality of our life and the nature of our city. My hope is that the citizens and officials of our community will present a united voice in opposition to a project that will primarily benefit an adjacent county at the cost of our municipal character and existence.

Better Eye Care For The Elderly

.Two developments will help many older Americans get all-important eye care this year.

The first extends Medicare coverage to optometrists. The other is that many ophthalmologists are participating in a volunteer program to provide eye care at rates so affordable that no older person should allow an eye problem to go untreated.

The change in Medicare, the federal health insurance program for people aged 65 and over, will help older people living in areas not served by an ophthalmologist.

Ophthalmologists are medical doctors who specialize in diagnosing and treating eye disease. They can prescribe drugs and perform surgery. They often treat people who have glaucoma and cataracts.

Optometrists can examine your vision and prescribe glasses, contact lenses or low vision aids. Optometrists hold a doctor of optometry degree. earned after a minimum of six to eight years of college and professional educa-

The American Optometric Association estimates that in more than 4,000 American cities, mostly in rural areas, optometrists are the only eye-care specialists readily available. To allow these optometrists to be more effective. last year 14 states authorized them to dispense medication for some eye diseases. But if an eye disease requires prolonged medication or surgery, the patient should be advised to consult an ophthalmologist.

While extending coverage to services provided by an optometrist, the kinds of eye care covered by Medicare remain unchanged. Medicare covers the eye health part of an eye examination, when the patient has a symptom or complaint which makes the examin tion necessary; treatment for eye disease; and examinations and glasses or contact lenses for people who have had cataract surgery.

Medicare does not cover other prescription glasses, contact lenses, the part of the eye examination to determine a lens prescription, or a routine eye examination.

Even with Medicare coverage, some people suffering from eye problems do not seek care because they can't afford the co-payments. Because of this, many ophthalmologists have supported the Foundation of the American Academy of Ophthalmology's efforts to form the National Eye Care Project and its toll-free Helpline. Since its January 1986 start, 168,000 people called the toll-free number (1-800-222-EYES), and 113,000 eligible callers were matched to a nearby volunteer ophthalmologist.

These volunteer doctors accept as payment just the amount covered by the patient's insurance company. Those with no health insurance are not charged. The treatment continues as long as necessary, without becoming a financial burden to the patient. The National Eye-Care Project cannot cover the costs of hospital stays, prescription drugs or eyeglasses. However, it is still a visionary step in health care for the elderly.

These two developments are crucial for the elderly, who can develop cataracts, glaucoma or degenerative diseases. Responsible for nearly a third of all vision impairments, cataracts are small, clouded areas in the eye's clear lens that distort entering light and blur vision. An increase of fluid pressure inside the eye causes glaucoma, which can result in blindness if left untreated.

People with long-term diabetes are very susceptible to eye-deterioration and the threat of blindness. As people grow older, they also increase their chances of macular degeneration, which is caused by damage to blood vessels supplying the retina and creates a loss of sharp central vision.

A nasty spat over who should receive credit and patents for research had severely hindered vital international cooperatlon.

The accord ends a lawsuit over patent rights between French and American researchers. It calls for sharing the patent on AIDS blood tests and for contributing 80 percent of the royalties to an international research foundation. By removing the acrimony of a patent dispute. the accord can only speed up research in AIDS treatment and prevention. The announcement by President Reagan and French Prime Minister Jacques Chirac elevates the quest for answers to the highest levels of government.

It also marked a welcome entry by the president into the national discussion of AIDS. If a rational consensus about AIDS education and research is to be reached, the country's leadership, starting at the top, must help overcome the public fears and misconceptions about the disease.

Even more compelling examples of Mogul architecture are found in the descried city of Fatchpur Sikri, 20 miles outside making the visit should include Agra. This extinct metropolis was the capital of the Mogul empire for 16 years during the reign of Emperor Akbar, until a rival warlord diverted a river and left the city waterless, prompting Akbar to return to Agra in 1586.

Inside a courtyard reached by walking through a 170-foot high gateway sits Jami Masjid, an ornate white marble mosque said to be a copy of the main mosque at Mecca. There is also a deep well filled with murky green water into which local lads dive for a few rupees.

The city sits on a ridge that Pollution smudges have done yields a commanding view across crumbling walls to dusty farmlands.

It would be a mistake to visit Agra without seeing Bharatpur bird sanctuary. Rise early and drive the 32 miles to arrive before dawn and catch the best glimpses of some 370 species of birds that live in the 10 square-mile marshland area.

The sanctuary is best visited from November to January when about 150 different types of migratory birds, most notably the rare Siberian crane, descend on the national park, originally a maharajah's hunting domain.

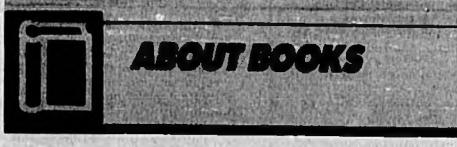

During British colonial times, English aristocrats held shoots at the sanctuary. The record number of kills was made by Viceroy Lord Linlithgow, who on a single day in 1938 blasted 4.273 birds out of the sky.

Agra can be reached by road. air, and one of India's better rail links. The daily Taj Express leaves New Delhi at 7 a.m. and returns at 7 p.m., with a travel time of three hours each way. Roundtrip rail fares from New Delhi range from $27 for air conditioned first class to $6 for second class.

At Agra railway station, daytrippers may want to join government-run tours of the key sights that are linked to train arrivals and departures. A state tourism bus leaves the rallway station at 10:30 a.m. for Fatchpur Sikri.

Comfortable accommodation can be found in Agra's three 5-star hotels, but be advised to book well in advance.

One warning: Beware of Agra's notorious commission agents. The presence of a tout will entail higher prices for accommodation and purchases.

The plotting of this novel is bafflingly

However, "Beach House 7" weaves a heartfelt, bittersweet tale around the central characters. The attempts by Peter and others to relive and re-create the excitement of the war years are often comic, achingly pathetic and ultimately lead to violence.

hints Heloise

DEAR HELOISE

I wanted to share this important hint with you.

With child safety so important these days I wanted to make sure my preschooler understands how important it is for her to know her name, address and phone number, in case she ever gets lost.

Since she is quite young, I knew I had to devise a special way of teaching this to her. So, I used the following method and it worked very well.

We would sing the first verse of a well-known nursery rhyme and the second verse we would sing our phone numbers. Sing another verse and then our address could folkew. When doing this yourself you will have to find a song that matches your address or phone number. (An example would be "Twinkle Twinkle Little Star"... 555-2793 that's my number please call me.) The next verse could then be the

We sang our little song every night and after a while she could sing it alone. She was so proud!

This method helped her learn the numbers quickly. Now when she is asked her phone number or address, she just sings her little song.

JoAnne Golden

What an easy and fun way for your child to learn phone number and address. You are right, it is important for all children to know this vital information. Making it easy for them to "remember" their name and address is one of the best hints yet.

Thanks so much for writing in!

ELDERLY HELP

DEAR HELOISE:

I think I have a good hint for your column.

I figure other people who aren't too spry anymore have trouble getting in and out of cars with cloth or plush upholstery like I do.

So, I thought up the idea of placing a new garbage bag on the cushion, and would you believe it works. I never could slide back and sit up straight, but now I can.

I love your column and read and learn from it each day. Keep up the good work.

DEAR READER:

This is your column. If you'd like to share a hint, ask a question or make a suggestion, write me, at P.O. Box 795000, San Antonio, TX 78279.

MARKERS

DEAR HELOISE:

I love drawing and use markers instead of a pencil or pen. Sometimes my little sister borrows them and leaves them out and they dry up.

I just get the marker and let some cool water run over it in the sink for a couple of seconds. Then when I take it out of the water I shake it in the sink to get rid of the excess water. Now it writes as good as new.

BNOWMEN

DEAR HELOISE:

Here is the way I made a snowman in my school art class. These are the supplies you will need:

1. I'wo plastic foam balls

2. Glue

3. Black and orange construction paper

Glue the two balls together and let them dry. Cut out some eyes, nose and a mouth, glue onto the top plastic foam ball. We even added some extra stuff. My mom made a little hat and helped me cover it with sequins... it was really pretty.
