

Advocate Judge Of Camp Blanding Old Trapshooter Is Ready To Meet Enemy Paratrooper

CAMP BLANDING, Oct. 16. (Special) — Lieut. Col. William C. Coulbourn, Judge Advocate of Camp Blanding, went to Gainesville recently to tell a radio audience and the State Federation of Women's Clubs that every man, woman and child in the country has a job to do to win the war and that unless each does his part "the war is lost to us and you and I lose our freedom, our democracy, our religion, our homes — our very lives."

Col. Coulbourn, native of Richmond, Va., and a veteran of World War I, prepared his address for delivery over Radio Station WRUP on a program sponsored by the Florida Federation of Women's Clubs. He said "when a soldier assumes duties in Florida, whether he be a native or from one of the 47 other states, he knows that he is entering an area both vital to the nation's defense and notable for its scenic beauty."

"Becoming a soldier who is versatile in the ways of modern war and the preservation of the Four Freedoms is his first thought; but because Floridians have launched themselves wholeheartedly into a program to make soldiers at Camp Blanding and other training centers over the state conscious of Florida's attributes, officers and soldiers have become increasingly conscious of the state's importance."

"As a training site, Florida offers climatic conditions closely parallel to those on far-flung fronts where American soldiers are even now battling for the endurance of our democracy. The feet of tomorrow's heroes have marched and continue to march over its sandy soil."

By HERB KAMM
RED BANK, N. J., Oct. 16. (WW) — If the Axis ever got the notion to drop paratroops in this neck of the woods, they'd be sure to find one ready receptionist in 31-year-old Albert L. (Al) Ivins, former Grand American trapshooter champion, who keeps his shotgun handy these days for just such occasions.

The tall veteran, still a fine marksman, considers this sort of preparation one means of contributing to the home front war effort. The duties of a fully-qualified air raid warden are a bit too heavy for one of his age, but he figures he could make a heap of trouble for any "visitors" with the highest honor in trapshooting, 22 years ago, last August.

More than that, Ivins recently joined other trapshooter enthusiasts in this section to instruct youngsters in the rudiments of gun handling and firing at moving targets. "We felt that if an invasion were going to be attempted — and there was quite some talk of it earlier in the war — folks at home could play an important part in defense if they knew how to shoot at moving targets," he explains. "Picking off those paratrooper fellows would be dark work."

With firearms and ammunition at a premium now, the course has been discontinued, but it is not uncommon for Ivins to take a youngster aside and give him a few pointers.

For this own part, "Just let them try to drop troops or saboteurs or any others of that bunch around here," he says.

Ivins has held a keen interest in target shooting ever since his boyhood days in nearby Rumson, when he kept his father's coveys out of the Shrewsbury River with well-aimed charges of stinging shot.

From coveys, he went to law books in the office of his brother, Earl, who was prosecutor of Monmouth County.

That tape on William Dahler's head covers a laceration on his scalp which he received when he was slugged in Joliet Prison, Ill., during the escape of desperado Roger Touhy and his four companions. Dahler is foreman of the prison's mechanical department. Touhy and the men who made the break will him were all serving life-terms. This is a phonograph. (Central Press)

Capt. Olaf Breiland, 53, of Long Beach, Cal., is skipper of an American merchant tanker which was recently the target of an enemy torpedo off the West Coast. The torpedoing left six men missing, and two seriously burned. Thirty-nine survivors were safely landed at a West Coast port. Breiland was the ship's skipper for seven years. (Central Press)

Still yawning, Piler was arrested for burglary.

U. S. Army Uses New Method To Train Drivers

DENVER, Oct. 16. (WW) — In two days the Army is making good drivers out of poor ones. Lieut. W. O. Earl of Buckley field, Denver, had to turn out drivers that fast to keep the Buckley field war wheels moving. He designed a circular driving range, about a quarter mile in length, that gives a student the thrill of a long cross country run plus the headache of city driving all within the space of a few minutes.

The student takes one of the Army's big trucks, in soldier slang a "six by six," over, around, through and across deep gullies, plowed ground and other hazards that would upset any passenger car that attempted the trail. "This looks like spectacular driving," says Lieutenant Earl. "But that isn't its purpose. It simply crowds the driving experience that a person would meet in a rear or two of normal work into the space of a day or two of driving on the range."

In addition, this spectacular portion of the course isn't its most important part. The drivers spend only a small percentage of their time on this section. Their most important instruction is obtained on the parking, signaling,

About the latest man we ever heard of was one who drove a 1910 Fiver as the far would knock the ashes off his cigarette, and the meanest one is a man who gives his little son a quarter each week and has him drop it in the gas meter, telling him it is a savings bank. ### CANNED FOOD

After jars of home-canned food have cooled test them to make sure that they are perfectly sealed. Turn them upside down for 12 hours if no juices seep out the seal is perfect and the jars can then be stored in the coolest, darkest place in the house. Never give the lids of canned foods an extra twist after the jars have cooled, as this is likely to break the air seal, which might cause spoilage. If any juices do come out the tops of the jars, recock for 15 minutes and can over again, making sure that the jar lids and rubbers are in excellent condition.

Reds Lose Ground, Nazis Advance In Stalingrad Siege

New Russian Forces Sent in, Report Annihilation Of 1 Croatian Legion

(By Associated Press) The Germans made scattered daylight raids over Britain, causing considerable damage to the east coast and London had three, bomb-bomb alerts as night mounted in Axis-occupied Europe.

(By Associated Press) In Russia, German troops today were advancing over the bodies of hundreds of their dead and captured a new block, and the siege of Stalingrad took another turn against the Russians. Although the situation is critical, the force of current attacks is less than that of previous assaults.

Moscow reported the destruction of 18 tanks, 14 planes and all except 200 of 4,000 members of a Croatian legion pushed into the Volga struggle. The Germans were repulsed northwest of Stalingrad and the Germans claimed an additional area in Stalingrad had been mopped up and Nazi attacks in the western Caucasus was progressing.

Meanwhile from England came the report last night that ninety-four giant R.A.F. Lancasters heaved almost 850 tons of bombs in seven minutes into the German-controlled Scheldt armament works at La Croisot, France, Saturday in the most audacious and spectacular daylight raid of the war.

They rained explosives at the rate of more than 100 tons a minute onto the "Krupp of France" whose 287 acres of artillery locomotive and shell factories were captured intact by the Germans in 1940 and they left great piles of rubble and hope just before sundown.

Only one of the 30-ton, four-motored Lancasters was lost and they saw a 750-mile trip without a fighter escort. The world's most powerful bombers, the Lancasters carry up to 17,920 pounds of explosive each.

Pilots said they bombed the arms factory at from 4,000 to 6,000 feet. One arrogant pilot said they saw a stick of bombs drop right across the works, and buildings just flooded apart. "In a little while all I could see was a cloud of smoke with red fires and bombers bursting inside it."

 A collection of ten cents each has been placed on Florida roads.

Gas Tax Amendment

Most of Florida's newspapers appear to be strongly in favor of the proposed constitutional amendment authorizing for a period of 50 years the distribution to the various counties of the state of 2 cents of the present gasoline tax on the basis of area, population and amounts contributed by them for state road construction.

Under this system a county's pro rata share of such taxes would be used by the State Board of Administration for the retirement of county road and bridge bonds, with any surpluses of such taxes to be used for the construction of state roads or the freeing of toll bridges in the county or for the construction and maintenance of county roads, 80 percent for the former and 20 percent for the latter.

"Florida motorists and other taxpayers can save themselves millions of dollars and eventually get many more miles of modern paved highways by being prepared to vote intelligently in November on the gasoline tax amendment," says the Tampa Times. "It guarantees that the old bond debts will be paid off at fair rates so the maximum amount of revenue can be used to build new roads."

The Lake County Citizen declares, "Every taxpayer should go to the polls and vote 'yes' for the first of nine amendments that will appear on the ballot, headed 'Joint Resolution 324' . . . Let's save on taxes and keep Old Glory waving"; while the Orlando Sentinel says, "Since it involves no increase in taxation and relieves the counties of an obligation that was not properly theirs, we think the amendment deserves the support of the people."

The Tampa Tribune thinks it is a good way of killing two birds with one stone. "Seldom have the people of Florida been given the chance to reduce public debt and existing taxes at one and the same time," says the Tribune. "They will have that opportunity at the November election when they vote on the proposed constitutional amendment allocating two cents of the seven cent gasoline tax to retire county and special district road and bridge bond indebtedness."

From Euclis comes this opinion from the Lake Region, "The people of Florida have many times been urged to go to the polls and vote for issues that increase their taxes but now they have been given the opportunity to vote for an amendment to our constitution which will reduce their taxes"; and the Clearwater News declares, "Property owners of Pinellas county for the first time in Florida history, will be able to use their ballots to reduce their tax burdens when they vote for ratification of the amendment."

And the Miami News points out, "While the large counties stand to gain from the deal because of the situation of their road building credits, the small counties stand to gain just as much from the prospect of reinforcement of fiscal structures that are shaky in many instances. . . . It is a wise and far seeing piece of fiscal legislation."

Tire Saboteurs

Being passed on the highway by someone driving at least sixty miles an hour, after all that has been said and done in this country to popularize the conservation of rubber, is something which probably cannot be stopped altogether. There will always be a few that cannot be reached either by appeals to patriotism or threats of imprisonment. But every possible effort should be made by everyone to discourage such speeding.

"There ought to be a better and wider public response to the campaign for slower driving in the interest both of tire conservation and of safety," says the New York Times. Agencies of many kinds have now entered into this campaign. A nation-wide speed limit of thirty-five miles an hour has been established. Many Government agencies have explained repeatedly by public statement the vital necessity of preserving the stockpile of tires, which is the largest stockpile of rubber we possess for war and war production purposes.

"The National Safety Council now makes another suggestion that might help matters. Every one who uses the highways these days is aware of the driver who persists in slipping past the motorist traveling at or below the thirty-five-mile limit, not infrequently racing at sixty or more miles an hour. The council suggests that the conservative driver take a hand in this situation without attempting to act as a policeman.

"It proposes that when such a driver whizzes by, or makes jack-rabbit starts, or bucking-bronco stops, the patriotic driver give him three shorts and a long on the horn. That, of course, is Morse code for 'V' for victory. Since much fast driving is the product of sheer habit and thoughtlessness, the 'V' signal might well shame many operators into slower driving, just as the hoots of the pedestrian used to shame drivers off the roads on gasless Sundays in the First World War."

The Florida Legionnaire says that more than 10,000 of its members have rejoined the colors. The magazine reports a state membership of 14,664 and that the recent national convention voted to open its membership to soldiers of the present war. It is destined to become the most powerful organization in the world, its present membership being 1,114,215.

Sometime figures present unpleasant facts and some recent ones indicate that there is an increasing number of people in Florida who do not care to work. In September of this year this state paid out $2,851,215 to unemployed people; in Sept., 1941, it paid out for the same purpose $2,856,109. Twenty-five million dollars a year eats a big hole in the state's revenue. In the face of the present demand for labor, the figures are not encouraging. A writer in the current issue of Natural History magazine says Germany has 50,000 dogs in war service, Russia an equal number and that we hope to have 2,500 by the end of the year and to double that number next. It is claimed that as sentries a trained dog will relieve six men for other duty; they also guard tanks, planes, munition stores, etc. The period of training requires about two months. Medium sized dogs of good blood, but not necessarily pedigreed, are desired, with no promise of return. If you can help, address Department of Defense, 22 East 60th street, New York City.

 "A Friendly Institution"

NATURALLY
 we kept faith with the South!

Southerners are in the middle of the fight on all the fronts of the world. Wherever our Armed forces go into action, our boys are hanging up records that make us all mighty proud of them. And here at home too, Southern men and women are carrying on with the same kind of courage and stamina—in defense work, in the shipyards . . . and in building morale.

We in the Atlantic Company, brewers of Good Old Atlantic Ale and Beer, are proud to be numbered among those Southern institutions who are fighting the production problems created by war conditions 24 hours a day.

Faced with shortages of metal for bottle caps, restrictions on deliveries to conserve vital rubber and gasoline, shortages of man power because so many of our men have enlisted in the Army, Navy and Marines, we at the same time must produce more because many of our former competitors have abandoned this market and are now devoting all their efforts to serving their own home communities—and we must fill in the gap.

In pledging ourselves to make every effort humanly possible to insure our customers and trade against any avoidable shortage of Good Old Atlantic Ale and Beer, we are, in our own way, simply doing our bit in the country's war effort, for we recognize that in the strain and tension of the wartime job, there is a real and vital need for the healthy relaxation which comes at the end of the day from a refreshing glass of cold Ale or Beer.

Fashion Editor Gives Hints To Save Stockings

By DOROTHY ROK
Wide World Fashion Editor
Dear Miss or Mrs. USA: You ought just as well stop lamenting your dear-departed silk and nylon stockings, because that's all there is, there isn't any more.

The thing to do now is dry those tears, get a firm grip on yourself and prepare to be surprised at the progress that has been made in improving rayon stockings. From now on, you know you're going to be wearing rayon whether you like it or not, unless you prefer to paint your legs and that still seems a terrifically good idea for winter. You may, of course, adopt heavy ribbed and mesh wools and cottons for sports and country wear, but you'll still need rayon for dress. So you'd better learn how to get the most for your money.

In the first place, you must remember that it's most important to buy the correct foot size and leg length in rayon hosiery—it hasn't as much elasticity as silk or nylon, and to look well it must fit perfectly. When rayon stretches in a day, stretched until it's washed, so if your foot is slender, you probably will take a half size smaller than you have been buying in nylon. For the same reason, avoid too-long hose, and be sure you buy stockings with a deep double welt or adjustable top to give you leeway for stretching your garter, if necessary.

Celery Feds Lose Friday Game To Deland Bulldogs, 13 To 6

A determined and plucky team of Celery Feds saw their initial chances of victory over the Deland Bulldogs slip away Friday night, when Walter was declared out of bounds on what appeared to be a 23 yard punt down, during the first few minutes of play. Deland, won, 13 to 6.

The wild enthusiasm of the fans died down somewhat after that run although they kept cheering the Fed's for a touchdown. However, the "magic spell" appeared to be broken and although the Feds began making desperate first downs, a Fed punt, covered by Grovenstein of Deland, broke the spearhead of the attack which had reached the Bulldogs' 25 yard line. A bit later when the Feds renewed the attack they lost 15 yards on a holding penalty, and the first quarter ended with no score.

Daniel started the second quarter with plunges through the Bulldog center that netted 22 yards. Fleming added six more and then the Bulldogs stiffened their defense and the Fed attack failed to reach the goal line. Deland on its own 20 yard line launched frontal attacks and the Fed's were unable to get the ball into the end zone. The fourth quarter brought joy at last to the loyal Fed fans. Landress, substitute back caught the Bulldogs' kickoff and began a ground and aerial attack through the entire team and had gained

Navy Pre-Flight Team Prepares To Meet L. S. U.

ATHENS, Ga., Oct. 19.—Lieut. Ray Wolf called his U. S. Navy Pre-Flight School Skyrackers back to the practice field today as the team prepared to meet Louisiana State University's Bengals in a football contest at Baton Rouge Saturday night.

The Tigers will be the third strong college eleven on the Skyrackers' schedule. The local team defeated Penn's Ivy League champions 14 to 6 in their opening game and later won over Duke University's Blue Devils 20 to 12.

Lieutenant Wolf hopes that the Skyrackers will be able to settle throughout the week. Last week as he drilled his team for the contest with the Penn State Naval Air Station team, three players left the squad and two newcomers joined. Aviation Cadet Johnny Poolan, 180-pound end, and Fred 190-pound blocking back from Deerfield, Ill., was sent to the Naval Reserve Air Base at Anacostia, D. C., for aviation flight training. Fred formerly played at Marquette University, Milwaukee, Wis., and the United States Naval Academy, Annapolis, Md.

Ensign Jack Crain, who as a member of the University of Texas Longhorns was one of the greatest ball carriers in Southwest football history, had to give up varsity football because of the press of additional duties at the Pre-Flight School.

As Crain received orders that precluded his possibility of continuing on the football squad, Ensign D. K. Noel, 215-pound former Milligan College tackle, received a change in duty hours which enabled him to return to the squad. He had worked out with the team in early practice sessions, but later was unable to find time to devote to football.

Wolf was cheered when Noel Langdale, plant operative University of Alabama tackle, came out for the team. Langdale, an Ensign, weighs 235 pounds and no doubt will play against Louisiana State University.

When Washington opened its Stage Door Canteen many notables were on hand to help. High government officials waited on tables, acted as bus boys, and washed dishes, while other entertained the boys. Donald Nelson-WPB chairman, is pictured as he waited on one of the tables at the new canteen.

The eleven-year quarrel between Mrs. Anna Rubinstein (left) and Mrs. Yetta Furt finally landed in a Los Angeles court. They make a rather frank start on their day sentence they must serve in same cell. If they don't patch up their differences, the jail term will be increased to thirty days. (Central Press)

The largest crowd ever to visit Florida Field in Gainesville was present last year for the Villanova-Florida football game. Official figures list 18, 645 people as being in the stands.

BATON ROUGE, La., Oct. 19.—Since Louisiana State University seems to be doing pretty well at wartime football, it's time the word got around that Woodrow Wilson and John Jacob Pershing are playing for the Tiger.

Woodrow Wilson Holland and John Pershing Holland are identical twins from Plain Dealing, La., a pair of 195-pound World War No. 1 "babies," they work at end and guard respectively. Woodrow letted last year, principally because he slid in under a pass to score the third and clinching touchdown against Tulane. But until this season John was just sat on the bench sampling blades of tasty Louisiana grass.

NEW YORK (AP)—The professional Reading for a golf ball is teaching for trouble, according to Coach T. M. Lieb. ## Red Armies Still Hold Stalingrad

German Agency Says Only Small Part Of Volga City Is In Russian Hands

(By Associated Press) Swarms of German dive-bombers and fighters resumed full-scale assault on Stalingrad today after cold rains had driven them from the skies in a short forerunner of winter, but Red army headquarters declared the Russians still held their lines—unbroken for the past 36 hours.

The storm subsided, the German Transoceanic News Agency asserted only "a few square kilometers" of Stalingrad was left in Russian hands. The agency said supplies and troop reinforcements continued to reach the defenders on the ruined Volga metropolis and German long-range guns were heavily shelling the river in an attempt to interrupt crossings.

Two German columns advancing north and south of a pass road leading to the Black Sea port of Tuapse below Novorossiisk, were said to have joined forces. The Soviet midnight communiqué yesterday said the Germans continued to launch "fierce" tank and infantry attacks in a desperate effort to "take the city, and that fighting was particularly stubborn in the area of one factory," but indicated that there had been no change in the general situation.

"Our troops in the course of the day," the communiqué said, "cut off all enemy communications and destroyed eight tanks and wiped out two battalions of enemy infantry."

In one sector 18 German tanks were destroyed and 400 men were killed.

Heavy fighting also continued farther south in the Caucasus, but along the Black sea coast east of Novorossiisk and in the Moxok area where the Germans were trying to reach the Grozny oil fields.

In the Black sea area, the communiqué said, Russian troops evacuated two villages after a fierce battle, but in another sector they had repelled their former lines.

There were some indications that heavy losses among the 75,000 Germans in Stalingrad had weakened their all-out drive to smash Soviet resistance.

The resolute Russians declared they had convened the latest German offensive, now five days old, into a long grinding battle like its forerunners by wholesale killing of the attackers, and wearing down the survivors to exhaustion by day and night counter-attacks.

Stalingrad remained in grave peril, however, since the Germans showed intent on occupying the Volga city and thereby provide a victory needed not only for military reasons but for home front morale as well.

The German communiqué, usually brief, said that a long-range bomber force had been moved up and had planes attacking the city. Further progress was claimed in the western Caucasus where a fortified position was claimed. Bombing attacks were reported on the central front where the Germans were moving westward.

The Moscow midday communiqué reported that the Germans had moved up 18 tanks and 14 planes for their latest attack.

FLORIDA—Continued mild temperatures tonight with slight falling tendency over north part.

Restrictions May Surround New Draft Law

Solons Requested To Provide For Protection Of Young Men In Service

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Oct. 23 (AP)—Senator Robert Taft predicted today an amendment would be offered to the proposed draft bill to ban 18-year-old men with protective restrictions for their schooling, training, and military activities.

Following the introduction of an amendment to lower the voting age from 21 to 18 yesterday, Senator Vandenberg (R-Mich.) declared that his purpose was to give the privilege of the ballot to men who would be inducted into the fighting forces under the pending bill. The amendment would require ratification by three-fourths of the States, after approval by Congress, before it could become effective.

"If young men of 18 are to be drafted to fight for their country," Vandenberg declared, "they should be able to vote for the kind of government the country is to have."

The wording of the Vandenberg amendment would make it apply to "citizens" of the lower age group, thereby making it applicable to girls as well as youths.

Curtailment Of "Luxury Crops" In U. S. Looms As Possibility

Curtailment of 1943 acreage and production of "luxury crops" such as winter vegetables, produced in the South and in California, may be a possibility following a report from the Department of Agriculture that a new policy would be adopted to curtail the production of such crops.

A recent article in the Post-Courier News lists these so-called "luxury crops" as winter vegetables, such as cauliflower, cucumbers, eggplants, green beans, green peas, green peppers, lettuce, artichokes, and mushrooms.

The report stated that the Department of Agriculture is now studying the possibility of curtailing the production of such crops in order to conserve the land for the production of food crops.
