Berlin Crisis

sent letters to General Lucius D. Clay, the American commander, protesting the Soviet violations.

However, Clay's office said no such letter was received Sunday. One American spokesman said such a letter might not reach Clay until today.

The 400 planes sent to Berlin yesterday compared with 224 flights made during the previous 24-hour period.

Despite the giant air lift Berlin still faced economic paralysis by the Soviet ground blockade, now in its 17th day. The stoppage of coal shipments from the West already has halved Western Berlin's industrial output.

The Western Allies are reportedly to be setting up a plan to fly coal into the city, but the Communist press warned Berliners that a hard winter lies ahead.

There were new indications that the Russians want a meeting of the Big Four foreign ministers to take up again over-all discussions on Germany. The Russians have demanded for some time that the Western Allies abandon their plan for a Western German government.

In London it was regarded as virtually certain that the Western Powers will send a formal protest to Moscow concerning the blockade responsible diplomatic authorities there said, however, that no agreement yet has been reached on the wording of the protest.

British Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin is scheduled to report on the Berlin crisis at a special cabinet meeting today. At a Labor Party rally in Symondham, England, yesterday he charged that Russia is starving innocent people to force the Western Powers from Berlin.

Declaring the Western powers will not surrender the city, he said:

"We are always ready to discuss Berlin if they (the Russians) are willing to discuss it, and I am not unhopful that sanity will prevail."

Business, Industry Vie In Price Spiral As '48 Reaches Mid-Point

By G. A. PHILLIPS

NEW YORK, July 5 (AP)—Business and industry were in a close race with inflation as 1948 reached its half-way mark last week.

High wages, high prices, high employment, high production, high consumption and high demand all were in full swing.

And there were indications the momentum might be even greater in the final half of the year.

A quick glance at the overall economic picture at mid-year disclosed:

The national income running far ahead of anything ever dreamed of. A record number of gainfully employed civilians. The highest average wages in history being pushed still higher by third round pay increases. Wholesale and retail prices at new historic peaks or closely approaching old ones established after World War.

A tremendous and growing demand for all kinds of consumer and durable goods. The biggest building boom in history in full stride. A tremendous program of plant expansion and improvement involving huge capital outlays.

Excellent crop prospects. And to these the government's European Recovery Program and large expenditures for armaments and you have an economic situation unparalleled in history.

Prevailing opinion is that the not breath of inflation will continue to exert powerful pressure on the price-wage structure in coming months but if industrial production is given an uninterrupted run and crops are not damaged by bad weather, a turning point may not be far distant.

In the final week of the half-year period business conditions remained highly favorable despite a soft spot here and there caused by materials shortages, scattered labor troubles and some inroads on production brought on by vacation closings.

Crude oil production established a new top for the seventh straight week, aided materially by runs from new wells; electric power output was the highest since mid-March; automobile output compared favorably with the best weeks of the year; engineering construction awards topped both the previous week and last year's figures.

The stock market finally threw off all restraints and made a last-minute dash of Friday that carried prices to a new average high since the summer of 1946. Rails were the star performers, closely followed by selected oils.

A feature of the week's news was a further spread of third round wage increases in such important industries as chemicals, rubber, oil, copper fabrications and building. Increases followed closely the national pattern of 11 to 13 cents an hour established recently in the automobile and electric appliance industries.

All eyes were turned on the important steel industry and the feeling was widespread that it would be only a matter of days or perhaps hours before the United Steelworkers' would walk out of the conference room with the promise of higher pay safely trucked away.

"Iron Age," authoritative metalworking weekly, made a flat prediction that both steel wages and steel prices would be upped "within a few weeks" and that the steelworkers union would win additional social security advantages to boot.

"Capitulation on the steel wage issue," will come," the publication said, "but the steel industry has admitted that their attempt to stem inflation by cutting prices and refusing wage increases has failed. It was a good gesture. It means that the steel industry for once will not have to take the blame for a new inflation spiral."

New price increases announced during the week involved copper and brass products, electric home appliances, a auto mobile replacement parts, automobile tires and inner tubes, and oil country tubular goods. The subway fare in New York went up 100 per cent—from a nickel to a dime.

Increases and declines in food items just about cancelled each other, but wholesale commodity prices, as measured by the Bureau of Labor Statistics rose to a new post war high at 166.7 per cent of the 1926 average. At the latest level, the index is now only 0.3 per cent under the all time high established in May, 1920, at the peak of the inflationary era following World War One.

A mid-year survey of business executives by Fortune magazine turned up some interesting thinking in high places.

Returns from 28,200 ballots sent to a carefully selected cross section of executives in all lines of business throughout the country showed two per cent expect business in the second half of the year to be sharply higher; 32 per cent believe it will be moderately high; 17 per cent believe it will be about unchanged; 28 per cent believe it will be down moderately and only one per cent think it will be down seriously.

More than half of the executives believe the business boom has yet to pass its crest, Fortune said, adding: "There is a strong tendency to think that prices are leveling off."

Palestine Issue

Palestine Such a link would confirm Zionist claims that Palestine and Trans-Jordan are one country—claims which cannot be accepted by the Arabs.

The proposals would achieve Zionist aspirations by the partition of Palestine and the creation of a Jewish state, and in addition the Jewish state would gain advantages from economic unity with the proposed Arab state.

AMMAN, Trans-Jordan, July 5. (AP)—Police arrested an American Jew today when he arrived in Amman by air from Cairo without a Trans-Jordan visa.

The man identified himself as Donald E. G. Trimpe and said he was enroute to Tel Aviv, Israel's capital, to work in the American diplomatic mission as chief clerk.

Tukan Bey, Trans-Jordan minister to Cairo who was a passenger on the same Egyptian plane, requested Trimpe's arrest immediately on arrival.

"I refused this man a visa in Cairo and he has no right to be in our country," Tukan Bey declared.

A second American on the plane had a Trans-Jordan visa and was cleared. He was on his way to Jerusalem.

ASBURY PARK, N. J., July 5. (AP)—Frank Hague has thrown New Jersey's 36 Democratic National Convention votes into the draft-Eisenhower boom.

The National Democratic vice chairman told a hastily-summoned caucus of Jersey delegates yesterday that "We cannot be successful with President Truman as the candidate."

The people are clamoring for leadership," he said. "They do not feel they have that leadership in the President of the United States or in the Republican nominee."

"But they do believe they have world leadership in the person of General Eisenhower," he said.

The caucus was called by Hague, who previously had come out for Truman. Hague and his lieutenants personally summoned by telephone the New Jersey delegates and alternates.

Rep. Edward J. Hart, New Jersey Democratic chairman, told the caucus that Hague had switched to Eisenhower because Truman's candidacy would not only lose the presidency for the Democrats but also would cost them many congressional seats.

The caucus resolution endorsing Eisenhower was offered by former New Jersey Attorney General David T. Wilentz and was carried by a voice vote that was drowned out by three minutes of applause, whistling and cheering.

Hague recalled to the caucus his 30 years of leadership in New Jersey and "The prominent part I played in Chicago four years ago in nominating the vice president."

Sgt. Arthur Dudley Has Leave In Japan

WITH THE EIGHTH ARMY IN OKAWA, JAPAN: July 5 (Special) Sgt. Arthur Dudley son of Mr. A. V. Dudley of 1109 Orange Avenue Sanford, has recently returned from a 15 day leave which he spent at the Patterson Club Inuyama, Japan. Sgt. Dudley is a member of Company M 24th Infantry, now stationed at Gifu, a part of the 25th Infantry (Tropic Lightning) Division, commanded by Brigadier General Everett E. Brown.

Sgt. Dudley enjoyed the many recreational activities available at the rest hotel and he is one of the many service-men in Japan who are taking advantage of the opportunity to see more of the country and at the same time get a well earned rest.

Sgt. Dudley entered the Army in October, 1942 and received his basic training at Camp Hood, Texas. He departed for overseas duty in February, 1947 and upon arrival in Japan was assigned to the 24th Infantry.

of low-income families. He also complained that it failed to provide adequate funds to strengthen the soil conservation program and to carry out market research.

Mr. Truman said the legislation extending the terms of the atomic energy commission wasn't in the best public interest "since it keeps the atomic energy program with an aura of uncertainty and of partisan politics."

"Politics and atomic energy do not mix," he said.

The terms of the atomic energy commission were due to expire Aug. 1. Mr. Truman named Chairman David E. Lilienthal for a new five-year term and the other four to terms ranging from one to four years. Congress balked at this and extended all five terms until July 1, 1950.

As a result, the next President will have the right to appoint the commission to full term.

Mr. Truman Saturday disposed of the last 12 of a batch of 350 bills which had piled up on his desk in the past two weeks. He vetoed some minor bills, bringing to 42 the number he had disapproved in the second session of the 80th Congress which convened last January. He vetoed 32 in the first session in 1947.

of the 60-vote Illinois delegation will support Eisenhower. He regarded the 72 delegates who now saw they are undecided or in favor of Mr. Truman as just sitting on the fence, waiting for developments.

Some pro-Truman delegates, he says, favor the President because they are sure Eisenhower would accept a nomination.

A newsmen's survey of about half of the delegates showed Mr. Truman leading by about 2 to 1.

Arvey said Illinois may put the General's name in nomination—an arena he says would "outspend" the convention to Eisenhower.

If the present plan for Alabama to yield to Eisenhower's native Kansas for the nomination is not changed, Arvey says Illinois at least will make a second speech for Eisenhower.

Arvey said the switch by Frank Hague and New Jersey's 36 votes from Mr. Truman to Eisenhower is "very good news" and shows that all of the big city party leaders are falling in line with the Eisenhower movement.

Inside WASHINGTON

Vandenberg Sticks to Post Though Presidency Beckons | Truman-Vandenberg Campaign to Be on Lefty Scale

Special to Central Press

WASHINGTON—Tourists in the national capital view Senator Vandenberg as a possible president of the United States who says he is not a candidate. Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg (R), Michigan, occupies a unique position. He seemingly makes no effort for the Republican presidential nomination, yet it may come to him without the slightest move on his part.

Vandenberg does not budge from his duties in Washington. He makes no campaign speeches. He doesn't challenge anyone. He doesn't go around mixing with people, even in Washington. Usually, following a heavy day's work, he is in bed by 9:30 p. m. And by 4:30 in the morning he is in his office in the Senate Office building again.

The senator doesn't even make much of Republicanism. He is an elder statesman whose advice is sought constantly by the Democratic administration in power—and that was true even before the Republicans regained control of Congress.

Sometimes Washington wonders whether he does not have more influence over American foreign policy than does President Truman. Secretary of State George C. Marshall constantly is seeking the advice of Senator Vandenberg. Vandenberg wields more power than usually befalls the chairman of the Senate foreign relations committee, or an ordinary member of the Senate.

Washington analyzes that, given the answer—he and Senator Tom Connally of Texas, ranking Democrat on the committee and its former chairman, have had more across the table dealings with the Russians (at conferences) than any other high-placed Americans.

Thus, people believe Senator Vandenberg knows his way, and they have confidence in him. The Soviet high command doesn't like him, blames him for much of the "cold war." That, so far, has strengthened Senator Vandenberg.

However, the senator does not remain a negative figure. He is a shrewd man but not a wary politician. He is independent-minded, speaks his thoughts not matter the outcome and has no hesitancy in changing his views when met with changing conditions. For years he was an isolationist.

Today he is the leader in world co-operation—Russia included, if it will go along with the remainder of the countries in the United Nations. Senator Vandenberg was a prime mover in charting the original course of the United Nations, and he has not lost his faith in it.

Vandenberg's tall figure, pompously erect, his neatly combed gray hair, thin now, his sparkling eyes behind his rimless glasses, his smile that is almost a grin cause him to be recognized immediately by tourists. He "looks like" his pictures.

The senator's attire is immaculate—and his office is immaculate. He has a passion for orderliness. That is apparent, also, in his reasoning. He will rewrite, clearly proposed bills and treaties which the State department has toiled over for weeks.

While his own speech is flowery, in the manner of editorial writers of yesterday, he strives for simplicity of statement in documents. He conceives the terms that will catch the mind of senators and representatives—and the public.

The senator's re-election in 1946 was the strangest in the Senate's history. He did not appear in the state until election day did not make a single campaign speech. He was attending these conferences with the Russians either abroad or in New York.

As an associate of Harry S. Truman in the Senate during the president's 10 years there, Senator Vandenberg developed a friendship for him. If the two should become opponents for the presidency in the election, Washington believes the campaign would be of high order—between the top men at least. Senator Vandenberg is considerably to the right of President Truman on various domestic and economic matters, and the debate would be on that and on better administration.

There would be no debate on foreign policy. If lighting should strike this time, Washington assumes either Harold E. Stassen or Senator Leverett Saltonstall (R), Massachusetts, or even Senator Irving M. Lee (R), New York, would be his running-mate. But on such matters, Senator Vandenberg remains silent and seems equally friendly to all factions in the party.

Plans For Three-Day Birthday Party Being Made For Washington Monument

By ED CREEGH

WASHINGTON, July 5. (AP)—They're planning a three-day birthday party this weekend for a fine, upstanding old-timer in the nation's capital: the Washington monument.

It should be quite a show—parades, fireworks, a pageant, a radio speech by President Truman (1 P. M., EST. Saturday)—all recalling that the cornerstone of the great white needle was laid 100 years ago.

But it promises to be small potatoes compared with the ruckus slated on July 4, 1948, after the cornerstone-laying ceremony itself.

That was a day to remember. Backwoodsmen hoisted jugs skyward on the street-corners. Slaves paraded and cavorted. Firecrackers popped and thundered at the hooves of terrified horses, and put enfolded ladies to scrambling flight.

President and Mrs. Polk threw a glittering full-dress party in the White House. Army brass, loaded with honors from the Mexican War, harrumphed in dignity—and sobriety. Mrs. P. wouldn't allow any hard stuff in the house.

But outside, in the unlighted muddy streets, the common people whooped it up with no prohibition. Fights broke out from free soldiers and upholders of slavery.

Fights broke out from the simple, average boy of fighting. It was, said a newspaper reporter on the spot, "One of the most splendid and agreeable days Washington has ever witnessed."

Anybody who thinks Congress taken its own time about things nowadays should read the story of the Washington monument.

Old-time guards at the monument tell of the senator who used to fortify himself once in a while and climb, or take the elevator, to the top of the 555 feet, 8 1/2 inch obelisk.

Finally somebody asked him why "Beauregard" he thundered, "this is one way I can look down on that so-and-so in the White House!"

Then there was the Southern gentleman who came to town in 1935 when the monument was enclosed in scaffolding because the P.W.A. was cleaning it. He grabbed the telephone and called his congressman.

"This is the best screw," he gaped, "I've ever seen. I'm going to call the Washington monument—be's got it screwed already!"

Israel Rejects Bid For Peace In Palestine

Jews Object To Placing Jerusalem Under Arab Control; Haifa As Free Port

CAIRO, July 6, (AP)—Israel today formally rejected Count Folke Bernadotte's Palestine peace proposals. Neither Arabs nor Jews gave a definite reply on the United Nations mediator's bid for an extension of the Holy Land truce.

Israeli Foreign Minister Moshe Shertok handed Bernadotte a 1,000-word reply to the mediator's proposal to turn Jerusalem over to Arab rule, make Haifa a free port and regulate immigration.

The reply said Israeli leaders were deeply wounded by the Jerusalem proposal. The Jews expressed emphatic opposition to any restriction on immigration, and urged Bernadotte to reconsider his whole approach to the problem. This latter was taken as an indication that the Jews are willing to extend the truce if new talks develop. The truce expires Friday.

A dispatch from Tel Aviv last night quoted an Israeli government spokesman as saying 27 cabinet members voted against the Bernadotte proposals and four abstained, after a three and a half hour cabinet session.

Bernadotte planned to leave Tel Aviv for Cairo tonight to resume conferences with the Arab and Jewish leaders.

Benes Lauded By Czech Marchers; Gottwald Snubbed

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia, July 6, (AP)—Cheerful crowds today thronged the streets of Prague today from the throats of 80,000 marchers in the Sokol congress parade. Klement Gottwald, the Communist premier who succeeded Benes, got silent treatment.

There were cheers also for Yugoslavia and Premier Marshal Tito, denounced recently by the Communists as a heretic from the Marxist-Lenin line.

"We have no true republic without T. G. Masaryk and Benes," the marchers chanted as they thronged through central Prague in the rain.

Masaryk was founder and first president of Czechoslovakia. His son, foreign minister Jan Masaryk, plunged to his death soon after the Communists seized the country. Benes resigned recently without signing the new Communist constitution.

Sokol members shouted "Long live brother Benes!" but there were no cheers for Gottwald. The marchers passed coldly by the reviewing stand in the old town square where Gottwald spared the drive for Communist power last Feb. 22.

Seaman Questioned In Death Of Young Girl

SEATTLE, July 6, (AP)—Authorities planned to renew their questioning today of a 26-year-old merchant seaman held in connection with the "hide-and-seek" death of nine-year-old Ellen Jane Fulwiler.

The seaman, a 40-year-old woman with whom sheriff's officers said he had been living, and a second man, also 40, are being held. All have denied any knowledge of the crime.

The body of the fourth-grade school girl was found Sunday afternoon in a brushy section of a north and park where she had been playing hide-and-seek with her younger sister and a 12-year-old playmate.

Gashed about the lips and chin and heavily bruised, the girl's body was partially covered by ferns and leaves. Death resulted from suffocation.

Truman Cheered By News Of Ike's Refusal To Run

President Sure General Was Only Menace To His Victory

ABOARD TRUMAN TRAIN ENROUTE TO WASHINGTON, July 6, (AP)—President Truman sped back to Washington today with what his aides said was the feeling that the rug had been pulled out from under opponents of his nomination.

They reported Mr. Truman was convinced General Dwight D. Eisenhower's assertion he cannot accept nomination for public office had removed the only dangerous threat to his first-ballot selection at the Democratic Convention in Philadelphia.

Mr. Truman had retired for the night aboard his private car when it reached St. Louis shortly before midnight. A telegram from the Associated Press to this staffer aboard the presidential special train was the first word Mr. Truman had of Eisenhower's action.

The reporter sent the telegram to the president via Brig. General Wallace H. Graham, the White House physician. Graham returned with his comment from the President: "General Eisenhower is an excellent man."

AMERICAN LEGION, PTA Leaders Pledge Federal School Aid Fight

By RICHARD H. SMITH

CLEVELAND, July 6, (AP)—The American Legion commander and the head of the National Congress of Parents and Teachers today pledged to help the National Education Association get a federal-aid-to-schools bill through Congress.

The legion, said National Commander James F. O'Neil "stands four-square behind proposed legislation to extend federal financial support for schools."

"More specifically," he added, "I favor that Congress be recalled into session this summer to take up and pass legislation for federal aid to schools and to resolve other major issues neglected during the regular session."

A Senate-approved measure to provide federal aid for equalizing educational opportunities failed to reach the House floor for consideration in the 1948 session. That failure evoked widespread criticism as the five-day meeting of 3,500 NEA delegates from every state and territory opened here yesterday.

Mrs. Mabel Williams Kingless of Arlington, Tenn., national PTA president, pledged her organization to "work shoulder to shoulder" with the NEA's 440,000 members, "resolutely determined that what has happened to American education cannot and must not happen again."

Glenn E. Snow, NEA president and head of Dixie Junior College at St. George, Utah, estimated 35% as the minimum needed for each child in a school year.

Snow keyed the 86th convention last night.

He summarized problems before the convention.

Holiday Death Toll Soars Past 500 Mark, Higher Than In 1947

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

The nation's death toll in violent accidents over the three-day Independence Day holiday soared far past the 500 mark today and higher than the total of 1947.

Four persons lost their lives in fireworks accidents. An undetermined number of persons suffered injuries in fireworks mishaps.

A final survey of accidental deaths from 6 P. M. local time Friday until last midnight showed:

290 persons killed in traffic accidents; 181 drowned; 60 fatally injured in miscellaneous accidents; and four deaths from fireworks.

The toll of 550 compared to 346 killed in accidents over the three-day Fourth of July holiday last year. The 290 fatalities resulting from accidents on highways were more than the 235 estimated by the National Safety Council.

Clear skies and hot weather lured millions to lake resorts and vacation lands. The council had estimated 30,000,000 cars would be traveling during the three days. The traffic deaths compared to 264 last year, while the 184 drownings compared to 114 in last Independence Day holiday in 1947.

Only two of the 48 states—New Hampshire and South Dakota—reported no accidental deaths. Pennsylvania had the heaviest state toll—44, including 23 traffic fatalities; 14 drownings; six deaths from fires; and one firework accident.

California, Iowa and Oregon each reported one death from fireworks.

Michigan followed Pennsylvania in total violent deaths—36, while 35 lost their lives in California in accidents. Ohio's toll was 31; New York's 27; Illinois' 22 and Texas' 20.

The deaths by states, listing traffic, drownings and miscellaneous accidents, are as follows:

ALABAMA, 10; ALASKA, 1; ARIZONA, 1; ARKANSAS, 1; CALIFORNIA, 44; COLORADO, 1; CONNECTICUT, 1; DELAWARE, 1; DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA, 1; FLORIDA, 1; GEORGIA, 1; HAWAII, 1; ILLINOIS, 22; IOWA, 1; KANSAS, 1; KENTUCKY, 1; LOUISIANA, 1; MAINE, 1; MARYLAND, 1; MASSACHUSETTS, 1; MICHIGAN, 36; MINNESOTA, 1; MISSISSIPPI, 1; MISSOURI, 1; MONTANA, 1; NEBRASKA, 1; NEVADA, 1; NEW HAMPSHIRE, 2; NEW JERSEY, 1; NEW MEXICO, 1; NEW YORK, 27; NORTH CAROLINA, 1; NORTH DAKOTA, 1; OHIO, 31; OKLAHOMA, 1; OREGON, 1; PENNSYLVANIA, 44; RHODE ISLAND, 1; SOUTH CAROLINA, 1; SOUTH DAKOTA, 1; TENNESSEE, 1; TEXAS, 20; VERMONT, 1; VIRGINIA, 1; WASHINGTON, 1; WEST VIRGINIA, 1; WISCONSIN, 1; WYOMING, 1.

Boy, 18, Killed While Making Firecracker

AMBLER, Pa., July 6, (AP)—Edward Foulkes, Jr., 18, was killed yesterday while attempting to make a giant firecracker with a piece of pipe and some chemicals. Corner W. J. Rushong of Montgomery county said.

Rushong said the youth, son of a prominent attorney, had gone to an estate at nearby Blue Bell with three other boys.

The coroner said the four purchased some chemicals and dragged the pipe onto the estate lawn. After they had put the chemical in the pipe, young Foulkes started jamming in some paper when the mixture exploded.

Rushong said.

Foulkes was taken into the house on the estate but was pronounced dead on the arrival of a doctor. The other youths were not hurt because they were out of range of the flying particles of pipe, Rushong said.

50,000 Miners Strike Due To Contract Row

Mines In 2 Leading Coal States Are Idle Causing Loss Of Steel Production

PITTSBURGH, July 6, (AP)—A walkout embracing 50,000 of the nation's 400,000 bituminous miners was launched today in the two leading coal states—West Virginia and Pennsylvania.

Most of the idle were miners protesting lack of a contract in steel company captive mines. The rest were commercial coal diggers in Western Pennsylvania who stayed home in sympathy.

Steel production was hit at once. The Carnegie-Illinois Steel Corp., a U. S. Steel subsidiary, announced at Pittsburgh the banking of at least eight blast furnaces and 28 open hearths. Its West Virginia output at Youngstown, O., was cut in half.

Captive mines all in West Virginia included those of the American Rolling Mill Co.

Overall coal production in western Pennsylvania, which employs 50,000 miners, was only 20 per cent of normal.

The big U. S. Steel Corporation reported all 14 of its Pennsylvania mines employing 11,000 men, were idle, causing a daily loss of 55,000 tons of coal.

Among other captive mines closed were those of the Jones & Laughlin Steel Corp. and the Westinghouse Electric & Manufacturing Co. captive mines are those whose output goes to a parent firm, like a steel company.

The Western Pennsylvania Coal Operators Association reported commercial coal production in the Pittsburgh-Youngstown area was only one-third of normal, with 30 pits and 10,000 men idle. The output of commercial mines is sold on the open market.

Commercial producers hit hard included the Pittsburgh Coal Company, which reported 14 of its 17 deep mines in Pennsylvania closed. With 3,500 men idle, its daily production loss was 24,000 tons.

The captive miners stayed away from work because of lack of a new contract because of a union shop clause.

The majority of the 50,000 bituminous miners had a new contract from commercial coal operators granting a $1-per-day pay raise.

The walkout actually was a extension of the 10-day miners' vacation which ended yesterday. The captive miners held to the old contract.

Removal Of Burned Dock Piling Has Begun

Work of removing piling of the burned out St. Johns River Line dock is proceeding under direction of Otto Caldwell, company manager.

Mr. Caldwell's terms with the city in the municipal purchase of the waterfront site of the dock specify a time limit on Nov. 1 to complete the work.

City Attorney Fred R. Wilson is reviewing an abstract of the original Spanish grant, also records of conveyance to 1893 from trustees of the Florida Land and Colonization Company to Adolph Du Barry of New York City. The description reveals that at that time Lake Monroe came within 100 feet of Commercial Street.

FLORIDA ACCIDENTS

TALLAHASSEE, July 6, (AP)—Director H. N. Kirkman of the State Highway Patrol reported six persons were killed in Florida traffic accidents over the Fourth of July weekend, compared with 26 last year.

There were 111 accidents on the highways from July 3 through July 5, in addition to the six dead, 104 were injured.

Hillsborough and Polk counties had the most accidents, nine each. Twelve were injured in Hillsborough, nine in Polk. Dade county reported four injured in seven accidents and Duval had only one injury in three crashes.

There were three deaths in Putnam county and one each in Hardee, Gadsden and Howard.

VICTIMS 'CYCLE

RIVERSIDE, Calif., July 6, (AP)—As the last of "those wild motorcycle boys" chugged off, citizens of Riverside began sweeping their way today out of the dust and debris.

Signs of relief were audible on all sides, but perhaps the loudest came from Sheriff Carl P. Rayburn, sponsor of the three-day meet, which disrupted the city.

"That's the last time I'm inviting the motorcycle crowd," said the sheriff. "I don't think it's a good thing for a little town like Riverside."

Movie Career Of Carole Landis Comes To End By Her Own Hand

LOS ANGELES, July 6, (AP)—The glamorous movie career of actress Carole Landis came to an abrupt end yesterday with the finding of her body in the bathroom of her Pacific Palisades home. Police said she had taken her own life.

Clutched in her hand was a satin ribbon with the Lord's Prayer imprinted in gold lettering. On a nearby dresser was a final note addressed to her mother.

Captain of Detectives Emmett Jones said: "This is definitely a suicide." The detective said there were four bottles of sleeping pills in Miss Landis' bathroom and dressing room. He said an empty bottle was found near the body.

Capt. Jones reported the beautiful blond actress, 29, had died perhaps 12 hours before she was found by film actor Rex Harrison, who said he had been unable to reach her by telephone regarding a business matter.

The officers said a maid was in the home but had thought Miss Landis was still in her bedroom and did not notice the body huddled in a corner of the bathroom.

Miss Landis left a note, written on her own stationery, which read as follows:

"Dearest Mommie—
"I'm sorry, really sorry to put you through this but there is no way to avoid it—I love you darling, you have been the most wonderful Mom ever—and that applies to all our family. I love each and every one of them—dearly—everything goes to you—look in the files and there is a will (Continued on Page Six)

Red Plot Exposed To Drive Western Allies From Berlin

German Reds Are To Create Incidents For Intervention

PARIS, July 6, (AP)—The French foreign office announced today it has received from the British embassy documentary evidence of a Russian plot to drive the Western Allies from Berlin.

The foreign office said that Communists in Berlin were instructed by Moscow to touch off incidents which would cause intervention by Soviet forces.

Similar information has come from French officials in Berlin, the foreign office added. Neither the British nor the American embassies here would comment.

French diplomatic informants said the Kremlin has ordered demonstrations leading to street fighting which would give Russian troops a chance to intervene and occupy all Berlin.

Referring to a statement carried by the conservative Paris newspaper L'Espresso, which claimed to have a copy of the Soviet order, one source said: "I cannot vouch for that particular communique, but everything in it is true."

The communique, which L'Espresso said was issued to German Communists in Berlin by the secretary general of the party there, ordered the "disorganization" of electrical power and other essential services.

The newspaper's account was written by Roger Massin, chief of the foreign service of Figeon, a radical Socialist paper. L'Espresso carried about the same information.

800 Attend Oviedo's Independence Affair

Oviedo Memorial Post of the American Legion was host yesterday to more than 800 visitors at the Oviedo Independence Day celebration at Sweetwater Park.

Speakers at the gathering included Sixth District Legion Commander George W. McGowan of Kissimmee, Mayor Frank W. Taylor of Oviedo, Representative J. Bradley Odham and Phil Packard, commander of the Oviedo post.

The program included dancing, swimming and a baseball game. The swimming pool was reopened after purchase of a chlorinator by the Legion Post, was a popular spot for the youngsters.

C. R. Clonta, county commissioner, today termed the celebration one of the best that he had ever attended.

MISS RIVERS IMPROVES

The condition of Miss Catherine Rivers, who was injured in a fall from a house while racing New Smyrna Beach three weeks ago, has improved to the extent that she was brought home Sunday. Her doctor, however, has from the New Smyrna Hospital advised that she be permitted absolute rest, and not allowed to see visitors during the next two weeks.

RATES INCREASE

TAMPA, July 6, (AP)—The Florida Railroad and Public Utilities Commission took under advisement today a request by the Gulf Coast Motor Lines of Clearwater to increase its general passenger rates nearly 14 percent.

C. R. Wickman, manager of the line, told the commission the increase did not apply to commuter rates for regular passengers.

No protests were heard at the hearing, but Joseph S. Waite, Tampa news editor for the Florida Greyhound Lines, said his company "has no objection if similar increases were granted Greyhound."

ARMY RECRUITING

BIBLE VERSE TODAY

John continued to live as an immortal in history and was glorified
in a higher life, but Herod condemned his memory to horror
and his name to eternal shame.
Pity Herod not John. And he sent and beheaded John in the prison
—Matt. 14:10.

We see where over in Sumat-land, Uzbekistan, some archaeologist has just discovered the thigh bone of a manthropus, the so-called Peking man who is supposed to have roamed this earth
several million years ago. Boy!
We'll bet he could tell us about the good old days!

The British government, which some people have called socialistic, is putting into effect this week a system of FREE medical care for everyone. The government will pay the doctors who participate $1,200 a year plus a special fee for each person assigned to him during the year.
The system is free only in the sense that those who benefit from it do not have to pay. The taxpayers will foot the bill.

When you stop your car, be sure there is no one following close behind you. A taxi-cab driver with two girls and a sailor
as passengers suddenly stopped his car near the St. Johns River bridge at Palatka. The car following him also stopped, but not soon enough. Crashing into the rear of the first car, the second driver cracked the gasoline tank.
There was an explosion and the sailor and two girls were hurled to death. That accounts for three of the 550 accidental deaths during the Fourth of July week-end.

Southern bankers are warned against loading up too heavily with home mortgages. Some of those who have been trying to finance homes may complain there isn't much danger. Nevertheless, anyone who is successful in his efforts to raise the money to build a house, will find that it will cost him about twice as much as he anticipated, and when he is done
he will have a $10,000 house worth maybe $5,000. The bank which has a $7,500 loan on that kind of house will be left holding the shell when there is no longer
any housing shortage.

The next battleground of the civil rights issue will be at the Democratic convention in Philadelphia next week where 50 northern Democratic leaders have banded together to have the President's Civil Rights program incorporated into the party platform. The group includes such notables as Edward J. Flynn, of the Bronx, former chairman of the Democratic National Committee; Mayor Hubert H. Humphrey of Minneapolis, a member of the committee which will help draft the platform; and Jimmy Roosevelt and Franklin Jr., sons of the late President, all of whom seem to think they are well qualified to speak on the subject of racial relations in the South.

General Eisenhower, whom all the Democrats, except President Truman, seem to want for the Democratic standard bearer, represents his "No" of last January with regard to the presidential nomination. He is in no mood for party politics or partisanship.
Despite the housing shortage, he has no desire to move into the White House where it is like living in a gold fish bowl. So the General's popularity may be secure for the time being at least.
As long as he remains a private citizen, and keeps his mouth shut,
there are few who will have anything to say against him. But just as he becomes a candidate, tell me what he honestly thinks of the civil rights, the Palestine question, or labor legislation, and I think he would become the biggest bunch of brass that nearly lost the war in Europe.

Famous Feud

When Constance Lodge Williams died the other day, the last chapter in an old enmity was written. She was the daughter of the Massachusetts isolationist, Henry Cabot Lodge, Sr., and she carried on her father's animosity against Calvin Coolidge and his followers.

Lodge scorned the silent man from western Massachusetts, and let him know it. Partly on this account when Coolidge was nominated for the presidency in 1924, Lodge, who for years had held the highest offices at Republican conventions, and who had led an attempt to nominate Coolidge in 1920, was shunted off to the committee to notify the vice-presidential candidate of his nomination, about the least significant honor that could be granted. This operation was carried out by Coolidge's political manager, William M. Butler of Massachusetts, then chairman of the Republican national committee; but the voice that directed it was that of Coolidge.

Two years later Mrs. Williams had her revenge. Lodge was dead, and Butler, who had succeeded him in the Senate, came up for re-election. Lodge's daughter took pleasure in announcing that, though a regular Republican, she would vote for Butler's Democratic opponent, ex-Senator David I.
Walsh. Walsh won handily though his personal popularity might have brought about this result in any case.

Lodge, Coolidge, Butler and Walsh are all dead, and now have been joined by Mrs. Williams. Thus ends an old feud.

Write It Right

Those who disapprove of the laws being enacted by their duly elected representatives in Washington are often advised to write to the lawmakers informing them of their attitude. Protest usually takes the form of a telegram or a postcard containing a few general statements. In many cases groups of people send in cards with the same wording, the result being a miniature avalanche of mail which means little to the congressmen.

Senator Raymond E. Baldwin, writing in the magazine Freedom and Union, states that "effective letters are those which are individual expressions of opinions; the less formal,
the less dogmatic, the less stereotyped, the better. An individual writing to his representative should describe fully and completely what would happen in his personal case if rent controls were relaxed, so that I can get a clear and useful picture of the problems involved."

Sentiment and representatives realize that they are in Washington to serve the interests of the people. They are glad to know from the people themselves how to do that.
They are right in discounting any but direct, sincere, concrete expressions of opinion.

Beneficent Ice Cream

Some serious-minded women students and professors at Iowa State College have made a pleasant discovery in their laboratories. They announce that there is more useful vitamin B-2 content in ice cream than in green peas, almost as much as in pure riboflavin.

Through tests and carefully prescribed diets that women students followed as guinea pigs, the particular vitamin was discovered to have been absorbed more readily from ice cream than from other tested food sources.

While the chemists try to learn why, it's nice to know that during these dog days a person is really doing his body a service when he eats a big dish of ice cream. It seems happy, that the day is past when almost everything that was good to eat was considered bad for the body, and generally unpleasant things were considered good for the system.

Inside WASHINGTON

Armed Services Unification | Navy and Air Force Feud
Running Into Many Hitches | Over Their Aviation Roles

Special to Central Press

WASHINGTON—Unification of the armed services, as far as the Air Force and the Navy are concerned, just isn't working.
Despite outward signs of harmony, official Washington knows that the rift between the services is widening and probably never will be closed.

The issue is the same old fight—the respective aviation roles of the contenders. Latest skirmishes include:

The Air Force objected to comparison of land-based and carrier-based planes in Pacific war statistics. A Naval Reserve officer used the figure in a story written for general circulation. The Navy mimeographed copies of the article and distributed them.

Adm. Ernest J. King, retired, wartime chief of naval operations, went out of his way to state on the sixth anniversary of the Battle of Midway that Air Force B-17's failed to score a hit while carrier squadrons sank four enemy battleships
and broke the Japanese navy's back.

Spokesmen for Defense Secretary James Forgan told reporters that the Air Force used a "back door" to get three U.S.F. jet projects introduced in Congress, despite the secretary's opposition.

The projects are a one billion dollar air engineering research center, a long-range guided missile proving ground, and a 164 million-dollar radar warning network.

● AIRSIGHTS—The federal government has decided to re-enter the lighter-than-air field of aeronautics—but the Maritime Commission, rather than the Navy, will operate the new program.

It was while the Navy was sponsoring the program, before World War II, that a series of disasters befell the dirigibles Shenandoah, Akron and Macon.

After these aerial catastrophes, the Navy understandably softpedaled airships, although small blimps were particularly effective in anti-submarine warfare.

Maritime Commission has been assigned the task of "setting up a lighter-than-air division to consider experimental rigid airship construction and operations."

Actually, the United States never has constructed a dirigible solely for commercial purposes. The Germans pioneered and led in this field before the war.

● TRUMAN'S TRIP—Opinion is divided in Washington on whether President Truman's trip to the West Coast improved or damaged his chances for another four years in the White House.

Although Mr. Truman maintained that the expedition was "non-political" there is no doubt in the capital that the junket marked the opening of the chief executive's campaign.

Some Democratic chieftains, and apparently the president himself, believe that by carrying his criticism of Congress directly to the people, Mr. Truman strengthened his position as a candidate.

The chief executive obviously was elated with the outrages he received in Los Angeles and elsewhere.

So far, he was so jubilant that he several times
announced his intention of making return visits later this year.

Republicans, however, insist that the president, by his campaign against Congress, damaged his prestige and that in the long run the voters will show their approval of the work done by the legislature.

Mr. GOP attacks on the Truman trip have targeted his failure to let the Democratic national committee foot the bill for the expen-
sion instead of charging it up to the taxpayers.

THE WORLD TODAY

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
AP Foreign Affairs Analyst

Little Finland's daring swing wards the political right in her national election has given the Bolsheviks another setback in their cold war against European Democracy—but the Reds are making progress in the Far East where developments give fair warning that we are in for a truth dealing with world revolution.

For some months observers have noted a decided increase in Auscovite activities in the Orient,
quite apart from the major operations in China and Korea. More and more the Russians have been financing their agents into Burma, Indonesia and Siam to take advantage of the unsettled conditions in those areas.

Now we get a further important and highly significant move.
More than forty Russians are in Bangkok, Siam's capital, establishing their first legation. There would be no call for such a big staff for the conduct of normal
affairs, and this fact fits in well with a remark the other day by a friend of mine just back from the Far East.

"I think you may expect the Russians to establish a branch of the Cominform in Bangkok in the immediate future. From that strategic point they will direct their drive in that whole vast area of South-Eastern Asia."

Approximate the general situation, AP Correspondent Spencer
Davis reports that Edwin F.
Stanton, American ambassador to Siam, told him:

"The game Moscow is playing is not just a European game. It is a China game—if all southeast Asia becomes a solid hostile Communist bloc, it will be a cause of great concern to all the world."

Well, it looks as though the Reds had established that Asiatic Cominform as predicted. And we are reminded by the American owned Bangkok Post that "The vacuum caused by British withdrawal from many areas in Asia is slowly being filled by Russian ideology. The process may be slow, but it seems to be a certain one."

Meantime that Finnish election, which appears to have reduced the Communist front from first place to third in parliament, must be a risky dose of medicine for Moscow to swallow. And maybe the Russians won't swallow it, though they perhaps would be showing more daring than prudence to try any stronger stuff against the Finnish now, in view of the difficulties with Yugoslavia and her cheaty dictator, Marshal Tito.

Yugoslavia appears to be maneuvering for a showdown with Moscow and the other Communist countries over the status of Tito,
who is charged by the Cominform
with having deserted the Moscow party line. The Yugoslavs have invited all other Communist Parties to attend the Fifth Comgress of Yugoslavia's party in Belgrade on July 21. The response to this invitation is likely to be illuminating.

The other big issue of the moment remains the Russian front in Germany. The Russians want to starve the German civilians of Western Berlin by a food blockade.
The purpose of this devilish plot is to force America, Britain and France to withdraw their occupation forces from the city and thus leave the Germans free to establish a Bolshevik state with Berlin as capital.

The week-end saw American and British air forces continuing their sensational efforts to break
the blockade by flying supplies
to the beleaguered metropolis.

They were getting ahead with the job, too. At the same time the three Democracies were planning
direct demands on Moscow to end
the blockade.

It is difficult to see how the Bolsheviks can fail to recognize that they are doing themselves no good in world opinion by such an exhibition of ruthlessness. They maintain a brazen attitude of not caring a fig for the dam about world opinion—but they do care.

Mal Heimer

NEW YORK—A couple of months ago, one of
the daily Manhattan columnists, suffering
possibly from ennui or a hangover, accepted a
press agent's word that the clock atop the Metropolitan Life Insurance company was the largest in the world.

This is a considerable misstatement of fact and
the position in which the columnist found himself
is one I fearfully expect to find myself any day,
since I also suffer from occasional ennui and
hangovers, and I also accept press agent's statements as gospel truth.

The cold, clear fact is that the Colgate clock,
just across the Hudson river in Jersey City, is
the largest in the world, a fact which the press
agent for THAT clock promptly howled indignantly to the world.

This clock, which is the official timepiece for the tens of thousands of lost souls who take the ferries from New Jersey to New York and back each morning and night, is 50 feet in diameter, as contrasted to a mere 26½ feet for the Metropolitan timepiece.

The thing about a 50-foot clock that interested me was—who in the name of sweet heaven keeps it wound? I found out by the simple procedure of picking up the telephone and saying "Yes, Agnes, I'll talk to him now," thus ending a three-day visit by the indignant press agent who had been parked night and day by his phone like someone trying to buy the first bleacher ticket to the World Series.

HAROLD J. SCHEER WINDS THIS MONOTONITY. He is a man of 53 who has worked for that certain soap company since 1919, or ever since he honorably severed connections with the Seventy-Sixth Infantry.

Scheer has a married daughter who takes a dim view of his occupation. "A lot of good it does us," she comments. "Dad takes care of the world's biggest clock and more than 150 smaller ones, but mother has to wind the one at home."

Actually, there is no real winding of the clock because it operates on power furnished by 24 batteries which recharge automatically.
However, Mr. Scheer is the custodian of it, and of all the other clocks in the plant, and he checks things.

He has an electrician-assistant named Norman Reeves who replaces the electric bulbs on the face and hands, and he swings out 43 stories above the cobbly streets of Jersey City to accomplish this precocious task.

Scheer worked, from 1932 to 1939, under a man named George Steele, and he tells an interesting story about Mr. Steele. Mr. Steele loved clocks, with that hipped passion that some men have for stuff like that, but he had a dislike of the big one. On Nov. 1, 1939, he died atop a ladder in the plant, and every clock in the joint stopped
—except the big one. Presumably, the dislike was mutual.

THIS MAMMOTH WRISTWATCH WAS DESIGNED by the late
Warren Davey and was set in motion officially Dec. 1, 1924. It has an area of 1,963 square feet, which means nothing to me, since I failed algebra in high school, but which evidently is quite large.

The dial's framework is made up of structural steel and the face
made up of steel alata, four inches wide and spaced two inches apart, but treated in such a way with white enamel that from a distance
the dial looks like a solid slab.

The five-minute symbols are markers seven feet high, each surrounded with 90 inches of neon tubing for night lighting. The minute hand measures 27 feet 3 inches, exclusive of a 10-foot counterbalance (a 10-foot WHAT?) and there would be hell to pay in 13,451 offices
if the clock ever gave the wrong time in the morning.

Mr. Scheer, a walking encyclopedia of data on the clock, can report to visitors that the tip of the minute hand travels 31 inches per minute or 185 feet per hour. That goes up to three quarters of a mile in a 24-hour day, and if you want the figures for a 26 or 28-
hour day, and a week or a year, you just get out your little pencil and paper.

The pendulum (now THAT I know; that's something E. A. Poe wrote about) is eight feet long and carries a 250-pound weight, a package which I often think is aboard some of the horses on which I bet.

The clock has 348 lamps which consume 4,350 watts (well, some of YOU must know what those are) and the press agent who started all this is going to get you-know-what for remarking—usually, mind you—that Mr. Scheer certainly has time on his hands, doesn't he?

The entire weight of the hands and movement is four tons, and that's about enough facts for today. It's a fairly big clock.

DARK HORSE WHO MAY DECIDE THE ELECTION

NEW YORK—A couple of months ago, one of
the daily Manhattan columnists, suffering
possibly from ennui or a hangover, accepted a
press agent's word that the clock atop the Metropolitan Life Insurance company was the largest in
the world.

This is a considerable misstatement of fact and
the position in which the columnist found himself
is one I fearfully expect to find myself any day,
since I also suffer from occasional ennui and
hangovers, and I also accept press agent's statements as gospel truth.

The cold, clear fact is that the Colgate clock,
just across the Hudson river in Jersey City, is
the largest in the world, a fact which the press
agent for THAT clock promptly howled indig-
nantly to the world.

This clock, which is the official timepiece for the tens of thousands of lost souls who take the ferries from New Jersey to New York and back each morning and night, is 50 feet in diameter, as contrasted to a mere 26½ feet for the Metropolitan timepiece.

The thing about a 50-foot clock that interested me was—who in the name of sweet heaven keeps it wound? I found out by the simple procedure of picking up the telephone and saying "Yes, Agnes, I'll talk to him now," thus ending a three-day visit by the indignant press agent who had been parked night and day by his
phone like someone trying to buy the first bleacher ticket to the World Series.

HAROLD J. SCHEER WINDS THIS MONOTONITY. He is a man of 53 who has worked for that certain soap company since 1919, or ever since he honorably severed connections with the Seventy-Sixth Infantry.

Scheer has a married daughter who takes a dim view of his occupation. "A lot of good it does us," she comments. "Dad takes care of the world's biggest clock and more than 150 smaller ones, but mother has to wind the one at home."

Actually, there is no real winding of the clock because it operates on power furnished by 24 batteries which recharge automatically.
However, Mr. Scheer is the custodian of it, and of all the other clocks in the plant, and he checks things.

He has an electrician-assistant named Norman Reeves who replaces the electric bulbs on the face and hands, and he swings out 43 stories above the cobbly streets of Jersey City to accomplish this precocious task.

Scheer worked, from 1932 to 1939, under a man named George Steele, and he tells an interesting story about Mr. Steele. Mr. Steele loved clocks, with that hipped passion that some men have for stuff like that, but he had a dislike of the big one. On Nov. 1, 1939, he died atop a ladder in the plant, and every clock in the joint stopped
—except the big one. Presumably, the dislike was mutual.

THIS MAMMOTH WRISTWATCH WAS DESIGNED by the late
Warren Davey and was set in motion officially Dec. 1, 1924. It has an area of 1,963 square feet, which means nothing to me, since I failed algebra in high school, but which evidently is quite large.

The dial's framework is made up of structural steel and the face
made up of steel alata, four inches wide and spaced two inches apart,
but treated in such a way with white enamel that from a distance
the dial looks like a solid slab.

The five-minute symbols are markers seven feet high, each surrounded with 90 inches of neon tubing for night lighting. The minute hand measures 27 feet 3 inches, exclusive of a 10-foot counterbal-
ance (a 10-foot WHAT?) and there would be hell to pay in 13,451 offices
if the clock ever gave the wrong time in the morning.

Mr. Scheer, a walking encyclopedia of data on the clock, can report to visitors that the tip of the minute hand travels 31 inches per minute or 185 feet per hour. That goes up to three quarters of

Vicksburg Enjoys
5 Days Of Dixie
Festival Frolic

VICKSBURG, Miss., July 5
(AP)—Vicksburgians started a five-day dual celebration Friday to observe Independence Day
and to mark the old confederate
town's return to the union.

Townpeople for 82 years after the war between the states ignored Independence Day.

They remembered how General
Grant shelled and starved the city into submission.

Let the Danyankes celebrate,
they said.

But four years ago, with great fan fare, they "rejoined the Union."

Vicksburg's Dixie Festival
started Friday night with selection of a queen.

Saturday started with a bang,
when gulf salutes marked the turning of the batteries of old Fort Vicksburg by Grant's gun-boats forces.

There was parades for both white and negro children, and the queen's ball Saturday night.

Sunday there were speed boat races and aquatic exhibitions on the city's waterfront, as well as the first sun presentations of the festival.

Today will be the big day, with the Dixie Festival parade featuring floats and bands. The floats will portray city history and old river scenes.

Fireworks will start at night
and U. S. Senator John C. Stennis will speak.

The festival will close tomorrow night with a final rendition of the songs of the Dixie pageant.

The name "Electra" is given

Marines Open Booth
At Local Post Office

SANFORD, July 6 (Special)—
The Marines landed today and have the situation well in hand.
Sgt. Willard J. Mason, veteran of the war in the Pacific, established a temporary recruiting station today at the local post office. The station will be open daily from two until 7 P. M. His purpose is to acquaint as many young men of Sanford and vicinity as possible with the advantages of service with the Leather-necks.

"Travel, adventure and education remain the by-words of the Marine Corps," said the sergeant.
"The Corps opens a wide vista of travel that extends from the Orient to the Old World. Adventure is to be found around every corner
in these mysterious, exotic and ancient lands. And education is ever present, for not only does a Marine learn much about customs and people of the lands through which he travels, but wherever he goes he also has the free facilities of the Marine Corps Institute with its over 300 courses."

Sergeant Mason said that he would be glad to discuss any and all phases of Marine Corps life
with applicants and their parents.

WASHINGTON LETTER

By JANE EADS

WASHINGTON — The nation should take notice of the increasingly alarming proportion of youngsters dropping out of school annually without completing a high school education, warns the National Education Association (NEA).

Only 453 pupils out of every 1,000 are in school when the final year of high school is reached, NEA states in a survey just completed. The survey is based on "school survival rates" for the nation, computed by the U. S. Office of Education over a number of years. This means that over the nation each year 1,000,000 to 1,250,000 children drop out. They are quitting from "disinterest, discouragement, or for other reasons."

"If secondary education constitutes an essential minimum of training, which should be the common heritage of all citizens of this democracy," says NEA, "the nation can ill afford the prodigious waste of human resources represented by the numbers who leave school prematurely."

During the decade preceding World War II, the school survival rate into the final year of high school increased steadily. With the coming of World War II, however, this trend was halted and then reversed, the survey reveals.

NEA says a single cause is responsible and points out "that many are forced by strained financial circumstances in their families to go to work. Others lack the sympathetic interest and encouragement at home. . . . A few withdraw for health reasons."

The authors of one recent study of school withdrawals were led to the following conclusion: "Perhaps the best explanation of the fact that children who are past the upper age limit of the compulsory attendance law are not in school is simply that they do not like school. The reasons behind this attitude are many, chief of which are a dull and uninteresting and equipment, lack of interesting extra-curricular activities, and the inconveniences of bus transportation."

NEA along with other educators see in the proposed federal aid to education legislation, "an effective positive step" in keeping young people in school.

"When more communities can have the facilities, the personnel and the program that are essential for a 'good' school, more and more of the boys and girls will see the value of that program and will remain in school to complete it."

Sheila Brannon Wed To Robert Altman

Of interest to many friends in Sanford is the marriage of Miss Sheila Brannon, daughter of Mrs. William Edward Sneath of Jacksonville, to Robert Emerson Altman, son of Mr. and Mrs. D. I. Altman, formerly of Sanford now of Columbia, S. C. The wedding took place on June 15 at 6:00 o'clock at the First Baptist Church in Richmond, Va. Dr. Theodore Adams officiated at the double-ring service.

Tail baskets of white gladioluses interspersed with tiny white flowers against a background of greenery formed a lovely setting for the ceremony. A program of nuptial music was played by the church organist and the traditional wedding marches were used. John Conley, soloist, sang "Because" prior to the wedding.

The bride wore a lovely wedding gown fashioned of white organdy over tulle with a full skirt, round neckline, puffed sleeves and very full skirt. She wore a coronet of stephanotis and carried a white Prayer Book topped with a white orchid.

Serving as her maid of honor was Kathryn Edwards of Jacksonville who wore a dress of pink embroidered organdy with white accessories. She wore a coronet of stephanotis and carried a Colonial bouquet of pastel flowers. Acting as best man for the bridegroom was Gordon Stanley of this city.

Immediately following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of Miss Eleanor White in Richmond. The rooms were decorated with arrangements of white gladioluses. The bride's table held a low arrangement of white gladioluses flanked with light white tapers and at one end was placed the tiered wedding cake.

Late in the evening the couple left for a short wedding trip and are now making their home in Richmond. For traveling, Mrs. Altman wore a Navy blue suit with gray accessories. An orchid formed her corsage.

The bride attended schools in Jacksonville and graduated from Andrew Jackson High School. She was formerly connected with the Eastern Airlines in Jacksonville. Mr. Altman graduated from Seminole High School after which he attended the University of Florida in Gainesville where he was a member of the Delta Tau Delta fraternity. He served for six years with the Army Air Corps during the war. He is now staff announcer for Radio Station WRVA in Richmond.

Fewer Holiday Accidents Would Occur If People Would Think, Then Act

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK.—(AP)—It was a bright sunny morning in Heaven. St. Peter yawned, pulled a cloud over his head to shade his eyes—but he couldn't get back to sleep. There was an awful clatter at the gate.

"This job would try a saint," he grumbled as he shuffled to his post. "It'll be the death of me yet."

His keys clanged against the nearly lock. He grunted, gave a mighty shove, the gate swung ajar—and Heaven was open for business.

St. Peter took one long look outside. He grumbled, gave a mighty shove, the gate swung ajar—and Heaven was open for business.

"Good Heavens!" he exclaimed. "It's just like the war again. For there stretched before him, as far as eye could reach, a dolorous line seeking admission. There were young in that line and there were old. Many had torn clothing, some wore makeshift bandages stained with the red tide of life.

"Take it easy!" St. Peter shouted. "There's no hurry. All right, All right. Who's first?"

"Me," said a fat little man importantly. He gave his name. St. Peter scanned his big, golden book. His brow furrowed.

"Why, according to our records, you weren't due here until 1965." He ran his finger down the column.

"Yep, that's right," said the saint. "Cause—Pneumonia. Year—1965. Right after your youngest boy is to graduate from college."

The little man's eyes grew misty.

"What happened?" asked St. Peter gently.

"I was driving home, and I tried to beat the train to the crossing," said the little man.

"And—?"

"I didn't," said the little man. "Teh! Teh!" said St. Peter crossly. "When are you mortals going to get over your immortal nonsense? Any more Sunday drivers?"

Down the long sad line hundreds raised their arms. One hand still clutched a broken steering wheel. St. Peter shook his head. A small boy stepped up nervously.

"I'm Johnny," he said. The old saint peered into his book. "Son, we didn't expect you here for another 60 years. There were great things ahead for you down there. You had something the world needed."

"We sneaked off from the picnic," Johnny said. "We didn't known the lake was deep." A small girl with an elfin face was next. Her white dress was flame-blackened.

"My name's Mary," she said. "I was naughty. I held the sparkler too close to my dress. Where is my mama? She was with me at the party. I can't find her."

She started to sob. St. Peter silently motioned to an angel. Hour after hour the line moved up to the gate. At last St. Peter said wearily:

"What's gone wrong in the world?"

A man's voice answered dully: "It was a holiday. Everybody was celebrating."

"Celebrating what?"

"Our independence," the man replied.

St. Peter shook his head again. "And what have you left your independents to celebrate? Next?" And the line moved on.

PEPTOP NEWS . . . Hinting of an important autumn trend, this New York dress in light gray tissue moire has its skirt tapered from peptop-like folds below the slim hips. Neckline is newly-collared in deep points, and the sleeves finished with up-turned cuffs. Such a dress, though perfect for summer afternoons, could, with a few changes, make the new season—and what better choice for the bride who is planning an informal wedding? (N. Y. # Sanford Is Scheduled To Meet St. Augustine Here Tonight

Locals Drop Contest To Red Hats, 12-6; Bride Is Manager Of DeLand Combine

DeLand, July 6 (Special).—The Sanford Giants return to their home port tonight to tangle with the St. Augustine Saints, after dropping a 12 to 6 encounter with DeLand Red Hats here last night.

Each team used three pitchers, but the combination of Art Dunham for the Sanford aggregation, were nicked for 11 hits by the Hats. Hal Stewart, Wayne Nelson and Vigi Alonso limited the hard hitting Giants to five well scattered hits.

Dave Bride, former Sanford Colery Feds player, is now in the drivers' seat for the Hats. He has taken over the reins of the DeLand aggregation, since Manager Joe Vitter has been handed his release by the local organization. How long Bride will continue to manage the club has been undetermined by local officials. It is possible that he will continue to pilot the destiny of the Red Hats until the end of the season.

The Red Hats jumped into a three run lead in the first frame, and never relinquished the lead. Alonso, the final hat pitcher, received credit for the victory, since he pitched the most effective baseball during the evening.

Five Sanford errors assisted the locals in their efforts.

MEXICO CITY—Mexico's 110-man London Olympic squad will compete in an unlucky 13 sports, but real hope lies in two: equitation and basketball.

Gen Ignacio M. Beteta, government-appointed head of the Mexican Olympic committee, sums it up: "In the Olympics it is important to compete honorably, win or lose. Mexico is sending a team of true amateur sportsmen who have no other aim than to represent her cleanly and honestly."

The squad, picked by a series of national runoff competitions, will be represented in track and field, basketball, boxing, cycling, fencing, football (soccer), gymnastics, wrestling, weight-lifting, swimming, equitation, shooting and pentathlon.

Besides the 110-man squad of contestants and trainers, the Mexican delegation will include Gen. Beteta, director of the military supply department, and the army's former director of physical education, and a staff of 15 ranging from executives and doctors to a cook to whip up the traditional tortillas, tamales and frijoles.

A good supply of local foods will be taken along to round out the diet available in London.

Mexico's equitation team, triumphant in New York, Boston, Ottawa, and Rome against stiff foreign competition, is her chief hope for a win at London. The crack eight-man team is captained by Lt. Col. Humberto Mariles Cortes. It is now touring Europe for matches and exhibitions at Rome, Cannes, Nice, Brussels, Dublin, in preparation for London.

All team members and the veterinarian Capt. Federico Franco are of the Mexican army. The 15 horses with the team also are army, including the famous "Rhinoceros" to be ridden by Capt. Gabriel Gracida of the polo-playing Gracida brothers.

In basketball the Mexican first quintet is said to be as good as the best to the Berlin 1936 Olympics when Mexico was finalist in its division and placed third. The Mexican team then was noosed out by the United States which went on to defeat Canada in the finals.

The 14-man basketball squad, plus two trainers, is mainly made up of members of the Mexico City national amateur champions with reinforcements from provincial teams, principally Chihuahua which was runner-up in the championships.

The team won without dropping a game at last year's Central American and Caribbean sports games at Barranquilla, Colombia, after being defeated by Cuba in preliminaries. The Mexicans, though not tall, are fast and tricky players with plenty of experience in the game, a mile and a half altitude. In final training they defeated the champion 20th Century Fox quintet here recently.

Most of the Mexican faces are new to Olympic competition, but there are a few old timers. Franco, Maj. Antonio Hinojosa, who learned the art in Italy and France, competed at Los Angeles and Berlin. He recently went back to France to teach basketball.

Sanford's three pitchers, but the combination of Art Dunham for the Sanford aggregation, were nicked for 11 hits by the Hats. Hal Stewart, Wayne Nelson and Vigi Alonso limited the hard hitting Giants to five well scattered hits.

Calumet's Citation Cops Chicago Race

CHICAGO, July 6 (AP)—Citation did it again, this time against some of the best older competitors available. The Calumet triple-crown winner remains the class of the country and many observers contend he is the greatest thoroughbred in racing history.

The three-year-old son of Bull Lea, with jockey Eddie Arcaro giving him a punishing ride, scurried to a two-length victory over Eternal Reward to win the $50,000 Stars and Stripes handicap yesterday. The sweltering holiday crowd of 46,490—an all-time high for Arlington Park—sent the Calumet entry postward 1.5 favorite. Citation paid $2.60 and $2.20. There was no show betting.

Behind Eternal Reward came Pellicle, with Louisa fourth. Following were Star Reward; Perpet Citation's 4-year-old stablemate; Knockdown Colonel and Mighty Story. Calumet's third entry, Faultless, Delegate and Stud Poker were withdrawn.

In one of his greatest triumphs, Citation uncorked his usual stretch drive to whip the finest field he has faced in his two years of campaigning.

Citation was in such a hurry he matched the track record of 1:49 1/5 for the mile and an eighth. Another Calumet flyer, Armed, was clocked in the same time winning the Stars and Stripes a year ago. The triumph was worth $28,000 to Citation, boosting his 1948 earnings to $427,020. This establishes a new money winning record for a single year, topping Assault's mark of 1946 by $2,825.

Tigers Tie Dodgers For G-F Leadership

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Thomasville Tigers of the Georgia-Florida league are tied for first place with the Valdosta Dodgers at .602.

The Tigers gained the tie last night when they edged the Waycross Bears 6-5 while Valdosta was losing to the Tallahassee Pirates 9-2.

At the other end of the standings eighth place Americus defeated the Cordele Indians 12-3. Albany stopped a four game winning streak of the Moultrie Packers with a 5-3 triumph.

After an eight game winning streak the Bears have dropped three out of their last four games. Thomasville collected but five hits off Harwood but they counted for six runs. The Tigers made three miscues.

The Pirates added their third straight victory last night after dropping nine straight. They also were outbatted by their opponents, scoring nine runs on five hits in the 11-inning game. The Pirates scored seven times in the eleventh to take the game.

The American Phillies opened with a four run lead over the Indians and were never seriously threatened. With 13 hits they added to their lead in the fifth, sixth, seventh and ninth innings. Cordele was scoreless after the third inning.

Moultrie and Albany both scored twice in the first inning. In the second frame Albany pushed across two more to clinch the game. The Cards hit Moultrie's Busa for eleven times. Back of the Cards was touched for nine hits.

"Goodbye, my angel—pray for me—my baby."

Harrison told police that Miss Landis had been ill for a week, suffering a recurrence of an amoebic infection she incurred during a wartime entertainment tour in the South Pacific. The actor said he and Miss Landis had been discussing plans for a film they were to make in England.

Only last Mar. 22 the actress filed suit to divorce her fourth husband, theatrical producer Horace Schmidt, on grounds of cruelty. Schmidt, who was at Cincinnati, O., said he was shocked by his wife's death and was leaving immediately for California.

The actress' mother, Mrs. Clara Landis of Seminole Hot Springs, Calif., did not arrive at her daughter's home until about four hours after the discovery. She collapsed, crying:

"Oh, my baby, I want to see my baby. Why didn't somebody call me?"

The mother was accompanied by Miss Landis' sister, Mrs. Walter L. Ross, of Long Beach, Calif. Other survivors are the father, Alfred L. Landis of Richmond, Calif., and a brother, Lawrence R. Landis, San Bernardino, Calif.

The body was taken to a Santa Monica mortuary.

Miss Landis, daughter of a railroad mechanic, was born Frances Beale at Fairchild, Wis. She moved to San Diego, Calif., as a small child and was educated there and at San Bernardino.

She had been in films for 11 years and made her first real hit when she appeared in a leopard skin in the "1,000,000 R.C." Thereafter she starred in many films.

Before her marriage to Schmidt she had been the wife of Major Thomas C. Wallace, author Irving Wheeler and yachtsman Willie Hunt. All three marriages ended in divorce.

Arabs and to return to Tel Aviv Wednesday to hear a Jewish reply on the truce extension.

In Cairo an Egyptian cabinet source said there is little doubt the Arabs will resume fighting in Palestine when the four-week truce ends Friday, despite U.N. appeals for an extension.

Emerging from a three-hour conference of the Arab League's general committee, Secretary General Azzam Pasha reported no decision was reached on the truce extension proposal.

Azzam Pasha said Count Bernadotte had been sent to the Middle East primarily to reach a final Palestine settlement, not a truce, and that such talks might continue six months, even if fighting is resumed in the Holy Land. He said Count Bernadotte will meet Arab leaders tomorrow.

The cabinet source said last night the majority of Arab leaders opposed extending the truce.

BELGRADE, July 6 (AP)—Yugoslavs were reported today to have given evidence of support for Premier Marshall Tito, who has been denounced by the Soviet-controlled Cominform.

The Yugoslav Communist newspaper Borba said last night that in five days the public subscribed $50,000,000 of the $70,000,000 national loan.

Other press accounts said local committees of the Communist Party all over the country are sending messages to Belgrade that they are "with the Marshal."

The national organization of war invalids resolved that its members will renew their efforts toward helping build socialism under Tito.

Yugoslav-Albanian relations apparently remained strained. The Yugoslav legation in Tirana said Albanian police had blocked all food for Yugoslavs in the border town of Buttriti.

Borba, which carried the report, said: "This made the feeding of Yugoslav representatives impossible."

It was assumed in Belgrade that the Yugoslav representatives were supervising one or more of the numerous Yugoslav-Albanian trade agreements.

Albania severed trade relations with Yugoslavia last week and ordered the expulsion of military, political and cultural missions but there was no indication that any of them had left Albanian soil.

SEASIDE PARK, N. J., July 6 (AP)—The fishing trawler Reliable blew up in a 50-foot burst of flames within sight of the New Jersey shore early today and all seven crew members were found uninjured in a drifting lifeboat several hours later.

The rescue was made by a picket boat from the Barnegat Inland Coast Guard station which came upon the small lifeboat after several hours of searching.

Finnish Reds Expected To Demand Key Posts

HELSINKI, Finland, July 6 (AP)—Finnish political circles believe today the Communists and their allies will demand key posts in the new cabinet despite their loss of at least a dozen parliamentary seats in last week's election.

The informants predicted that a cabinet will be formed only after long negotiations. A government spokesman told newsmen last night that preliminary negotiations will begin July 12 when the present parliament meets for the last time. Formal negotiations, however, will not begin until the new parliament meets July 21.

There were rumors that the Communists would back their demands for strong representation by strikes, if necessary, which apparently will emerge from the election as Finland's strongest political organization, probably will demand the premiership, informed sources said.

The Agrarian Party, which apparently will emerge from the election as Finland's strongest political organization, probably will demand the premiership, informed sources said.

Panamanian Leaders Flee Political Riots

PANAMA, Panama, July 6 (AP)—Arnoldo Arias Madrid, his election to Panamanian presidency challenged, many of his supporters under arrest and he himself a political refugee, says "my little country is going to hell."

Arias showed up in the United States-controlled canal zone, where he took refuge yesterday with a dozen other top leaders in the wake of political riots which claimed three lives in Panama over the weekend.

Truman-Hopeful

One of Mr. Truman's confidants, who would not be quoted by name, said he felt that much of the strength behind the move to deny him the presidential nomination would disappear with the removal of General Eisenhower from the picture.

The President has maintained all along that he will win nomination on the first ballot. He said as much at his last Washington news conference.

Since that time the movement to draft Eisenhower had spread, Frank J. Hague, national committeeman from New Jersey, was among those who joined it.

Even in the face of the growing opposition, the President's official party has insisted that General Eisenhower is a Republican and would not accept a draft.

Mr. Truman appeared in good humor as he met crowds at Willard, Mo., Springfield, Mo., and other points on his way back east from Bolivar, Mo., where he spoke yesterday with President Richard M. Nixon.

He steered clear of political talk at his platform appearance at Springfield. He held to the theme of Western hemispheric solidarity that he used at Bolivar. Asked to say something at Newburg, Mo., he said: "There is nothing to say—this is really a non-political trip."

Mr. Truman has not indicated his choice of a runningmate in the event of his nomination, his associates say.

His chief counsel, Clark M. Clifford, likely will go to Philadelphia to help present the presidential view point in the drafting of a Democratic platform.

Mr. Truman has not said whether he will go to Philadelphia for the acceptance speech if he is chosen although his associates believe he will do so.

In the little southeast Missouri town of Bolivar, Mr. Truman received a statue of Simon Bolivar, the South American liberator, from Venezuelan President Romulo Gallegos. The Venezuelan chief executive and his wife accompanied Mr. Truman to Bolivar.
