SKETCH OF OLD FORT MELLON

This picture, a pencil sketch drawn over 100 years ago by John Lee Williams of Pensacola, shows the military post on the St. Johns River which in 1877 as Mellonville was incorporated into Sanford. Established by Colonel Fanning in 1836, the post was successively named Camp Monroe, Fort Mellon, Mellonville, and finally Sanford. Mr. Williams was sent out on horseback by the territorial government of Florida at Pensacola to find a suitable location for a capital, and the drawing was made on his visit to Fort Mellon. The site of the military post is now Second Street and Mellonville Avenue, where a marker has been placed by the Daughters of the American Revolution.

Transients Must Watch For Mail Of Draft Board

Delinquents Caused By Carelessness, Says Headquarters

Sanford, Feb. 7.—The Selective Training and Service Act requires that their addresses be notified by law to notify their local boards promptly, according to a letter received by the local draft board today from State Director, Col. H. P. Bays, at Tallahassee.

Carelessness on the part of registrants, rather than willful intent on their part, was found to be the cause of many violations of the law, according to a report by the national headquarters to Director Bays. Those who fail to report a change of address are liable to severe penalties, he pointed out.

Registrants should follow the following procedure: The Selective Service Act requires that the duty of each registrant is to keep his local board advised of all changes of address. All changes of address should be reported to the local board by mail. The mailing of any blank form by mail to a registrant is prohibited. Registrants should report to him of the communication, and actually receive it.

Heavy Loss Inflicted In Area Where Assault By Italians Failed 3 Days Ago

British Advance In African War

R. A. F. Ignores Bad Weather For Raid On Invasion Ports

The Greeks were reported today to have hurled back two Fascist counter-attacks on the central Albanian front, inflicting heavy losses in the same area where three days ago Italian tank and armored car assaults failed.

Dispatches from the front said the Italians were trying desperately to relieve the pressure on their sagging lines.

On the African front, matters were going even more disastrously for Mussolini's battered forces.

The last of the Fascist garrison of Bengasi was reported "surrendering in large numbers" after a furious tank assault failed to break the British trap along the coastal road of retreat south of the port.

The Italian resistance was collapsed completely, the British said.

Mobile British forces were pressing forward also in Eritrea, on the East African front, and in Ethiopia and Italian Somaliland.

Continued success of the British African campaign was believed by some observers to have encouraged the French government at Vichy in renouncing German demands for more active collaboration.

On the British home front, the R. A. F. disregarded dirty weather over the English Channel to pound the Nazi "invasion ports" of Dunkerque, Boulogne, and other German-held towns, while England reported another quiet night.

Japan has been reported gradually increasing her military and naval forces in Indo-China and off the Indo-China coast, leading observers to believe that she intends to exert pressure to make certain the Tokyo peace terms are accepted.

Domei, Japanese news agency, broadcast a report that the commander-in-chief of the United States Asiatic fleet had called a conference at Shanghai of American naval officials to discuss measures to cope with the developments arising from the French Indo-China-Thailand (Siam) peace negotiations.

Speer Grove Dedicated As Public Park

Marker Is Unveiled By Descendent Of Sanford Pioneer

Sanford, Feb. 7.—A grove of trees, known as Speer Grove, located at Nineteenth Street and Mellonville Avenue became a public park today with the unveiling of a marker by Thomas Algernon Speer, son of Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Speer, Jr., and great-grand-son of the planter of the grove.

Dr. Speer came to Sanford, then Mellonville, in 1844 and became Orange county's first representative in the Legislature. This was before Seminole County had been formed. A resident of Georgia before he came here, Dr. Speer placed the first passenger steamboat on the upper St. Johns River between Mellonville and Palatka.

Prof. A. J. Hanna of the department of history and government at Rollins College and president of the P. M. Mellon Chapter of the Sons and Daughters of the Territory of Florida, told some of the early history of the grove.

The Sons and Daughters of the Territory of Florida sponsored the marker with the Ballis Harrison Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution.

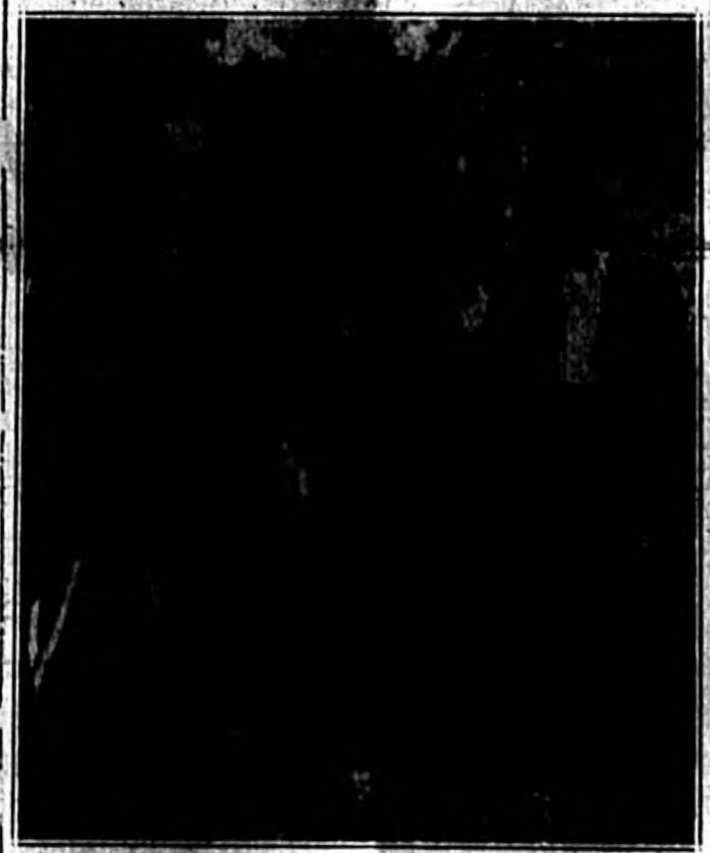

Charles Whitner, whose family in this section gave a sketch of the life of Dr. Speer. Following his talk, Mr. Whitner introduced several descendants of Dr. Speer.

Dr. E. D. Brewster, minister of the First Presbyterian Church, gave the invocation at the ceremonies, which were scheduled to begin at 10:00 o'clock. Edward Higgins, acting for Mayor W. C. (Bill) Hill, extended greetings for the City.

Following the unveiling of the marker in the grove, a tea was held at the Women's Club house at which Mrs. Abbot L. Dow of Winter Park, daughter of General Alfonso S. Sanford and Mrs. T. C. Maguire of Plant City, state regent of the D. A. R., were honor guests. Dr. Mary Martin, Hooper of the University School of Chiropractic, Dr. G. P. G. told about the school at the tea.

A meeting was held after the tea to discuss the possibility of obtaining a building room at the Sanford Public Library to house a collection of belongings of General Sanford. Mrs. Dow was offered to give these items, including his diary, a portrait and other articles, and a suitable room in the building for them, according to Mrs. E. K. Sanford, chairman of the Foundation Day Committee of the Daughters of the American Revolution.

REUNION AFTER 42 YEARS

These two brothers, J. S. Day (left) and H. P. Day had quite a bit to talk over when they met the other day in Sanford—neither had seen the other for 42 years. J. S. Day lives on the Country Club Road north of Goldsboro, and his brother is a resident of Louisiana.

104th Birthday Of Sanford Is Observed Today

City Was Founded On Banks Of Lake During Seminole War

Sanford is 104 years old today. The story of its development from a small log fort known as Camp Monroe to a thriving agricultural and tourist city of 11,000 inhabitants is a colorful one interwoven with tales of light-between-fires Indian tribes and courageous soldiers, of pioneer settlers who hacked farms and roads out of dense forests, of the coming of the railroads and the start of a new era, and of the men and women who built the community into a city.

One old winter day in 1836, Colonel Fanning of the United States Army and a small number of men landed on the south shore of Lake Monroe to establish a government military camp. After clearing a small plot of land, the troops set up their living quarters. Colonel William Selby Harney arrived at the camp and immediately ordered it fortified against attack from Indians who were then roaming the vicinity in a warlike mood.

Fierce Battle
It was fortunate that Colonel Harney arrived when he did, for two days later a desperate assault was launched against Camp Monroe by a band of Indians. The battle lasted over three hours. One of the officers, Captain Mellon, was killed and 15 were wounded. In honor of the captain who lost his life in the Indian battle, the name of the camp was changed to Ft. Mellon. According to military records, it became the "healthiest and most important inland military garrison in Florida."

Following the battle at Camp Monroe, one of the fiercest of the Seminole wars, the government saw the necessity for suppressing the Indians and soon 8,000 soldiers were scattered throughout the state. Up to this time no buildings had been erected at Camp Monroe, but a short time later eight two-story frame buildings had been erected.

Residents Reminded Of Security Claims

Sanford residents are losing thousands of dollars by the failure of some beneficiaries to notify the Social Security Board of their claims, Joseph Schuts, assistant manager of the Social Security Board's field office in Orlando, declared yesterday.

Mr. Schuts was in Sanford to assist several persons in filing claims for social security benefits. "Fewer claims are filed in Sanford in proportion to the number of workers than in many, if not most, of the cities in Central Florida," Mr. Schuts asserted.

"Experience indicates that such a low proportion of claims is due to the failure of prospective beneficiaries to notify the Social Security Board of events which might lead to eligibility," the official pointed out. Mr. Schuts said he will be glad to furnish information to inquiries if they will address him at 211 Orange Avenue in Orlando.

Poem Written Long Ago By Sanford's Son Is Published

A poem written by the late Henry B. Sanford, Jr., son of General Henry Sanford, founder of this city, was submitted to The Herald today for publication on the 104th birthday of the City of Sanford. The poem has been in the possession of Mrs. Abbot Dow of Winter Park, daughter of General Sanford.

Mr. Sanford wrote the poem many years ago when he lived here. It is as follows:

The Imps are happy up in the moon
Oh the Imps are happy up in the moon
They have nothing to do from midnight to noon,
And from noon to midnight they've nothing to do
Except to be happy the whole day through!

At sunset they dip up the great flood of light
And pour it all into the moon for the night
And when the sun rises—what else should they do?
They pour it all out to color the dew!

They dance in the ring that is seen cloudy nights,
And with little soft clouds they have great pillow-fights,
They cut up the old moon into stars, the moonlight
And fatten the stars that shall mold the new moon!

State Payment To Schools Received

A check for $18,864.74 was received at the office of the Superintendent of County Schools, as a payment from the State due Dec. 15, T. W. Lawton said today. The money will be used as a payment on the loans of the County Schools with the local banks, he added.

This amount leaves a balance of about $7,000 due to the County Schools by the end of the 1940-41 term. Yesterday over $17,000 was paid out to teachers salaries through a loan on a local bank, Mr. Lawton said.

A Preacher's Work

We have often thought that in proportion to the financial remuneration which they receive no profession or group of workers does so much for society as the ministers of the gospel. An article in Life Magazine last week detailing the daily activities of 'A Practical Man of God,' 'The Life of a Typical U. S. Parson,' has only strengthened our belief in the untiring, unselfish, underpaid devotion to their work of the average American preacher.

Life takes as its example the Methodist minister in a town of 11,000 with 1,400 parishioners. He is Dr. Edwin A. Briggs of Boone, Iowa, 37 years of age, aided by a capable and intelligent wife, and the father of two children. He is one of the 20,000 Methodist preachers who look after the spiritual needs of 8,000,000 Methodists in the United States. As such he receives a salary of $3,000 a year, much better paid than the average who receives only $1,200 a year.

Dr. Briggs' hours do not come under the Wage-Hour Administration, but begin at 7:00 o'clock each morning, seldom end before midnight. After a hurried breakfast he repairs to his study where his mornings are usually spent in working over various matters of church business, personal reflection and study, and in the preparation of sermons. In the afternoon he takes care of the church's heavy correspondence and calls on the sick, visits newcomers and confers with those in need. Almost every evening there is a board, committee or prayer meeting and then more study and preparation for sermons, weddings and funerals.

When a person has a heart attack or is injured in an automobile accident, it is necessary to summon a doctor to repair the damage, but oftentimes it is quite as important to call a preacher to minister to that person's spiritual needs. Small chance anyone has of recovering from any ailment if his mind is depressed and his soul not at ease. It is the parson's job to keep up the sick man's spirit and to console other members of the family as well. Frequently the task of comforting close relations is more difficult than helping the sick.

Life says that Dr. Briggs after a busy and tiring day often receives a summons from some ailing parishioner and so like any other doctor who wants to go to bed, puts on his overcoat instead and tramps out through the snow and cold of the night to do his bit for suffering humanity. His days are seemingly endless visits of this kind, telephone calls, consultations and meetings with the various members of his parish all of whom want his advice on their family matters, financial worries and life's endless tragedies.

An aged parishioner dies and Dr. Boone delivers a comforting funeral oration. The infant daughter of a young couple in his church has to be baptized. He takes his turn with the other ministers of the community in teaching character education to the rural school children nearby. He confers with his building committee concerning the long dreamed of improvement program. He performs the wedding ceremony, the outstanding event of their lives, for a young couple in his church.

On Sunday morning about half his congregation come to hear him preach. Some are kept at home by sickness, some by the deep snows, some by other reasons, but those who come listen intently. They hear a sermon that stirs their souls. They shake his hand and murmur politely "Amen." Not one of them realizes the hours of reading, study, of conscientious thought, of unselfish devotion to a life's work which made that sermon possible.

One British Aim

"My war aim is... social security," declared Ernest Bevin, Britain's Minister of Labor, in a speech to the London, England, Rotary Club reported in a current issue of the Rotarian magazine. "If this old country is beginning to weave that into its economic life, now, even while the struggle is going on, is not that the answer to Hitler?"

"If Hitler wins, as indeed if the Kaiser had won, we should have had rule from the top, and that would have meant in certain cases, probably, a social structure in which the masses of people would have been looked upon principally as soldiers for fighting," said this worker who has risen from a childhood of toil to become Britain's Number One labor leader. "Ours has been a different struggle."

"Probably the biggest contributing factor to the present disaster," Bevin continued, "was the failure to erect an economic basis on an entirely different footing for the development of humanity at the end of that (previous) struggle. We have to erect a different one this time. Unemployment has been the devil that has driven masses in large areas of the world to turn to dictators—to turn to anarchy. Unemployment and poverty led to social disaster."

"We must begin now, even while the heat of war and the din of battle are on," Bevin insisted, "and, apart from the interests of the moment, let the citizens of this country direct their aims and energies to contributing to the common good, for, after all, the youngest of us has not a long road to go, the youngest of us has not a long time to contribute."

Finally, Bevin declared, "I believe there is in the minds of the great people who have contributed so much to political freedom the same kind of ability which can make, probably in our generation, the greatest contribution the world has ever known to the solution of the economic laws which have caused so much disaster and distress."

World Trade Everywhere Reveals Grip Of War, Peirce Declares

WINTER PARK, Feb. 5.—(Special)—Everywhere world trade reflects the grip and distortion of war, with exchange controls, license requirements, blockades, our neutrality legislation, shipping losses through naval warfare, and fundamental changes in the economies of all nations, Dr. Paul E. Peirce, an economist and former professor of economics at Oberlin College, declared at the final session of the sixth annual Economic Conference at Rollins College this morning.

The economic structure of South America has been severely shaken by the loss of European markets which has been, he said, the most serious blow to the continent's economy. put up and a substantial officers quarters erected. The same year, a road was laid out between Ft. Mellon and Ft. Brook, now Tampa, along which was established a line of military posts, Ft. Read, Ft. Maitland, Ft. Gallin, Ft. Christmas, Ft. Meade, and others. Over this road, the northern end of which is now Mellonville Avenue, mule teams carried supplies to the soldiers stationed at the forts.

For a time, in the summer of 1837, the troublesome war was believed over. Col. Harney left Ft. Mellon, but he had become known to establish a trading post for the Indians further south on the Caloosahatchee River. The camp was attacked by the Indians on July 22, 1837, and the soldiers still represented the intrusion of the white men. Of the 30 men in Col. Harney's company, 18 were slain, and the colonel himself captured only by swimming across the river.

In 1840, the government ordered six months rations for those who would settle in the vicinity of the forts, and number of new citizens took advantage of the stake and moved in.

This section was then known as Mosquito county, and was a part of a grant of 25,000 acres which Philip Young obtained from the Spanish government in 1817. In 1821 Florida was transferred to the United States by Spain, and General Andrew Jackson was named provisional governor. Mosquito county was formed in 1824. New Smyrna, founded on Mosquito Inlet in 1787 by Dr. Andrew Turnbull, who brought over 1500 persons from Italy, Greece, Minorca and Smyrna, was the county seat until 1842, when it was changed to Enterprise on the north bank of Lake Monroe. On Jan. 30, 1845, a law was enacted changing the name of Mosquito county to Orange county. One month later, Florida became a state. Mellonville, as Ft. Mellon was now known, was selected as the county seat of Orange county on July 18, 1845, and Arthur Ginn was named clerk of the court. The county seat was moved to Orlando in 1856, against the protest of Mellonville citizens.

Community Expands

With more people moving in and settling here, Mellonville was growing rapidly. In 1844 Dr. Algeon Spencer came from Georgia, bringing his family and slaves, and secured the tract of land on which was planted the grove which before the great freeze of 1898-99 was known as the most famous grove in the state. Dr. Spencer placed two steamboats on the river to carry passengers and cargo, and the largest of these, the "Hancock," was the first passenger steamer on the St. Johns River between Mellonville and Tampa.

Dr. Spencer was one of the Orange county's first representatives in the legislature, and he is the son of the first settler on the river. He had been in Mellonville for some time when the great freeze of 1898-99 struck the state. He was one of the few who survived, and he is now one of the oldest men in the state.

Dean Matherly, P.T.A. Head To Be Heard Here

Dean Walter J. Matherly, head of the College of Business Administration at the University of Florida, and Mrs. Alma Gibbs of Orlando, state president of the Parents-Teachers Association, will be the principal speakers at the Founders Day program of the Seminole County P. T. A. on Feb. 17. It was announced today by R. E. Kipp, principal of the Grammar School.

Mrs. Gibbs will discuss "The Significance of Founders Day," Dean Matherly's topic has not been announced. Officers will be elected and installed at the meeting, Mr. Kipp said. Retiring president of the Seminole County Council is Mrs. E. D. Koonz. The meeting will begin at 8:00 o'clock. Musical interludes will be provided by members of the Sanford Glee Club from Seminole High School and an orchestra made up of grade school music students under the direction of T. M. Dollison.

Parents and teachers from all over Seminole County are expected to attend the meeting, Mr. Kipp said. This country is one of two in the United States in which every school has a P.T.A. unit, he pointed out, and a good representation is desired.

Sen. Capper Urges Defeat Of Aid Bill

WASHINGTON, Feb. 5.—(AP)—Senator Capper, Republican, Kansas, urging defeat of the British-aid bill, said last night its enactment would "take the United States into the European war, in spite of everything we can do."

The Kansas Republican, a member of the Foreign Relations Committee, said he was more concerned about this measure than any other that had come before the Senate. His criticism of the bill was broadcast by Columbia Broadcasting System.

From a few tents strung along the St. Johns River in 1836, Sanford has grown steadily until it is now one of the largest cities in Central Florida. It has maintained its position as the "gateway to the southern part of the state," and many tourists come here each year seeking refuge in the warm sun from the cold of the north. Many observers believe Sanford, together with the rest of the state, has entered upon a new period of development. Who knows how Sanford will appear on its 104th birthday?

Refueling Report Is Denied By Gonzalez

MIAMI, Feb. 5.—(AP)—Reports from Havana that German submarines had been permitted to refuel in Cuban waters were vigorously denied here yesterday by Col. Angel A. Gonzalez, deputy chief of the Cuban navy, who arrived aboard the Florida under a six months' visitors' permit.

Gonzalez, who was relieved of his duties by President Batista Tuesday on charges of a seditious plot against the government, expressed his thanks to Batista for the treatment he received and for being permitted to leave the country. "No German or Italian boat ever refueled in Cuban waters," Gonzalez said.

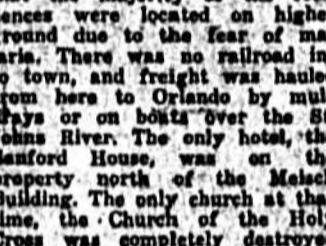

The 1940 census showed 92 cities had 100,000 or more inhabitants in 1940. The highest percentage increase in large city population occurred in cities of the South—13.2 percent. Cities in the West were second with 10.8 percent, while cities in the North increased only 2 percent.

HIGH TIME FOR A Low-Cost Extension Telephone Probably your stairs seem to assume these proportions after you've dashed down several times a day to answer the telephone. Then isn't it high time you thought about the only remedy—an upstairs extension telephone?
