TALLAHASSEE - The state comptroller demanded Thursday that a lottery official repay $1,015 in compensation for trips to his Tampa home and issued a report criticizing lack of supervision at the agency. James W. Spencer, who has already been demoted by Lottery Secretary Marcia Mann. took 24 trips at state expense over an 18-month period that took him to Tampa, where his wife and children are living, the report found.

Comptroller Gerald Lewis said Spencer, who is based in Tallahassee, must repay the state for excessive mileage claims, airline tickets purchase over state contract rates and excessive claims for meals.

"We are going to seek that money from him." said Terence McElroy. spokesman for Lewis.

Overall. Spencer was reim-bursed $14,000 for travel since he was hired in March 1991. His main duty was closing out cor-porate sales and he also occasionally visited retail lottery vendors

Hill told The Tampa Tribune in a story published Thursday she didn't remember ever discussing the status of homosexuals as foster parents with licensing counselors.

"It appears that this situation was allowed to continue because Spencer received little or no supervisory oversight or direc-tion." Dudley wrote.

After a previous critical inquiry by Gov. Lawton Chiles' inspector general. Spencer was demoted from special assistant to Mann to a job working with minority business recruiting and corporate accounts.

But before that, Dudley found that Spencer was essentially allowed to do what he wanted on the job.

Rinehart extension

By J. MARK GARFIELD Herald Stall Writer

SANFORD - The new extentions of Rinehart Road may finally be nearing an opening date.

Rains last week prevented crews from laying stripes along the new two-mile road, but county project manager Steve Krug said Monday he hopes the stripes can be applied this week. After signal testing is completed and some extra sod laid down. Krug said he expects to open the road in about two weeks.

The opening of the road has been something of last-minute decision. Originally scheduled to open in December, crews from Briar Construction Corp., Lake Monroe, completed most of the work at break-neck speed and had the first layer of asphalt poured by June.

Then a change. Melvin Simon and Associates, developers of the proposed Seminole Towne Center, were committed to widening Rinchart Road to four lance by the time their new mall opened. But work on Rinehart advanced faster than anticipated and Simon officiale weren't ready to add their two lancs.

mall advanced and three weeks ago. McCollum said Simon vice president Tom Schneider paid the $5,000 tab to place temporary striping on the road in anticipation of beginning the widening soon.

Parents of girl killed in club shooting sue

By The Accesisted Press

MIAMI - The parents of a girl killed when bullets flew at her 17th birthday celebration are suing the restaurant where it happened, a newspaper reported. David and Elonia Reynolds are seeking more than $15,000 in compensatory damages from owner Norma Gordon and the Taste of the Islands restaurant north of Miami, the Sun-Sentinel in Fort Lauderdale reported today.

Hilda Latoy Reynolds was one of four people killed and 18 wounded by gunfire Aug. 15. She was on a dance floor in the restaurant, which also functioned as a nightclub.

No one has been charged in the shootings. Also named in the suit is Sheridan Properties II Inc., owner of the shopping center where the restaurant is located. The action alleges that both Gordon and Sheridan were negligent because they knew the restaurant was a likely place for disturbances, crimes or violence and failed to provide adequate security. The Reynoldses want compensation for loss of future services, funeral expenses and mental pain and suffering.

The newspaper was unable to reach Gordon for comment at her home or business Thursday, and David Reynolds declined to discuss the matter.

EDITORIALS Women and AIDS

Men and women don't have the same bodies, a distinction that isn't lost on the AIDS virus. Although the virus causes death In both genders, men and women get nick with AIDS in different ways. Up to now the focus has been on AIDS in men. either gay men or male intravenous drug users. That must change. The Centers for Disease Control should redefine its definition of AIDS to include illnesses peculiar to women.

AIDS can be present from the early asymptomatic stage to the last phase in which the disease is fully developed. The criteria for this final stage — which brings a formal diagnosis of AIDS — consists of a list of symptoms and opportunistic infections. But the checklist was developed by the CDC in the early years of the epidemic when virtually all the people with AIDS in the United States were gay or bisexual men.

The checklist doesn't include gynecological manifestations that kill women infected with the virus. They never are counted as true AIDS patients. Yet for many women. gynecological problems are the first hint of AIDS.

The virus can cause an aggressive form of cervial cancer and pelvic inflammatory discase that resist treatment and are painfully disabling. Their presence also indicates the rapid onset of other fatal infections.

Excluding gynecological conditions creates both medical and legal consequences. Women with those problems aren't eligible for disability payments under Supplemental Security income, which itself often determines eligibility for Medicald. Many don't qualify for housing and other social service programs that automatically include children and men with AIDS.

Moreover, statistics that exclude women's illnesses adversely shape the allocation of resources. If fewer women are recognized as having AIDS, the agencies that treat women will receive less funding. Policymakers should stop ignoring medical evidence that shows men and women fall prey to AIDS in different ways.

LETTERS School's image perpetuated

This letter is written in response to your article appearing in the Sept. 16, 1992 edition entitled gnetis my B actions of Supt. Hagerty and the school board serve to perpetuate the perceptions that have plagued Seminole High school and the city of Sanford rather than address the reality of locality. In a mutshell, Supt. Hegerty's recommendation for the establishment of an Academy of Applied Technology translates into the creation of a " school" or at least the perception thereof, further fostering the very image that has undeservedly dogged this community for the recent past. On a more sinister note, the superintendent's recommendations feed the outdated, unintelligent and despicable emphasis on race which has unfortunately crept into the boundary line issue. Creation of vocational educational programs for the school which is perceived to serve the more economically depressed area of our county smacks of superficial placating. The real issue is whether or not the present school board will insure on a timely basis an equal opportunity for the full range of educational opportunities to all of the students of Seminole County. It is ridiculous to presume that we can achieve this goal by creating the program suggested by the superintendent. How many of us believe that the students who now attend schools in the southern part of the county will traverse existing boundaries to attend Seminole High School? It would appear that the initial effort of the board and stalf was to divert the attention of the present and future parents of this district from the in we of rezoning with discussion of academic enhancement called "international baccalaureate." As I understand this concept, it was intended to provide a lure to the students in the remainder of the county and a boost to our local students who wish to pursue higher education and economic opportunity. In short the board hoped to entire volunteers to adjust student population. While attractive on its face, the plan was more of the same, i.e., inequitable and discriminatory treatment of the Seminole High School district. When the Seminole High School district is treated differently than the remainder of the county the old perceptions based in racism and bigotry are fortified. When academic enhancement is replaced with vocational training the perceptions are strengthened. Vocational education is appropriate and necessary in our school system and I do not by this letter denigrate its value to our students. It should be made available on an equitable basis to the students in each district without the necessity of volunteerism and unnecessary travel. If the present board and superintendent do not have the fortitude to stand up to their obligations to all of the students of this county by providing an equal opportunity to earn an equal piece of the American dream, they must be removed and replaced.

Truman. But Bush and Clinton won't allow his body to "the a molderin" in his grave." Both continue to insist at the drop of a hungry sound bite that their policies are closer to those of the man whom Bush told me two years ago at a White House news luncheon was the greatest Democratic president. Were he alive, there's no doubt that this unimpeschably loyal Democrat would vote for Clinton. But he probably would hold his nose in the process. Both Clinton and Bush seem afraid to take a stand on anything, lest they offend someone, and have miserable civil rights records.

Neither Bush nor Clinton will ever make their mark on this nation's foreign policy as Truman did, either. Two of the greatest secretaries of state in American history. Gen. George Marshall and Dean Acheson, served under him. Along with Truman, they established some of the most far-reaching and innovative foreign policy initia-tives ever -- the Marshall Plan, the Truman Doctrine, Point Four and the "White Paper on China."

Truman may have had too much pe unaccompanied by a rigorously disciplined mind. But he cared for people and wanted all Americans to have a "fair deal."

GOP fund-raising woes continue

WASHINGTON — In an already strange election year one thing that has shocked insiders from both parties is the difficulties encountered by the QOP in raising funds. For more than a decade the GOP has been able to raise huge amounts of money. In the last three presidential elections Republicans have had a tremendous fund-raising advantage over Democrats. The result: In the final weeks before Election Day — as Democrats were before Election Day - as Democrats were forced to count every penny — the GOP could spend whatever was needed for last-minute polling, phone banks and get-out-the-vote efforts.

efforts. This year, however, as President Bush's popularity ratings have plummeted, donors' checkbooks have stayed closed. According to the most recent filing with the Federal Election Commission. in July the GOP collected $7 million and in August another $7.4 million. By comparison, in the same two months, the Democrats reported raising $10.1 million in July, and a staggering $17.3 million in August. The latter represents the best month of fund-raising in party history. Under federal election law, the bulk of money for a presidential campaign comes from the $55 million in federal matching funds. In additional $10 million on its presidential campaign. Then, on top of this, each party can raise an unlimited amount of so-called "soft money," which can be spent on general party activities, but not directly on the presidential campaign.

activities, but not directly on the presidential campaign. In the past three presidential campaigns, the GOP has had the additional $10 million in the bank long before Labor Day. This year, though, the GOP's "presidential trust" - as they are calling 1992's $10 million fund-raising effort - had only accumulated $2.4 million by Labor Day. This year, in a complete role reversal, the Democrats had reached their $10 million goal by mid-August. Rahm Emanuel, Bill Clinton's finance chairman, says that this year the Democrats have been raising large sums through rela-tively small donations from women, and through maximum personal contributions tively small donations from women, and through maximum personal contributions from businesses executives and professionals. He points to the success of events like an August appearance in Boston by Hillary Clinton. From an audience made up of professional women, the campaign raised more than $500,000. At a similar event in Washing-ton, featuring both Hillary Clinton and Tipper Gore, so many women wanted to attend they Gore, so many women wanted to attend they had to substitute a box lunch for the planned sit-down lunch because they had to pull out the tables to get everyone into the largest ballroom in the nation's capital.

"The single best day of fund-raising we have had was the Monday after the GOP conven-tion," says Emanuel. "We opened our mailbox and it contained almost $1 million, almost all of it in donations of less than $100."

One effect of the GOP fund-raising difficulties is that time formerly spent on the stump now has to be spent raising funds. In early September, Bush had to schedule a fund-raising breakfast, lunch or dinner as part of almost every campaign day. This level of personal involvement in fund-raising may have to continue for the president through mid-October

How political do things get during the final months of an election year?

How about this: The Justice Department recently tried to back out of a nettlement because the other side was bragging about a "victory," and this "victory," and this was upsetting special interests with highlevel GOP ties.

Fourteen years ago, lawyers repre-senting people sc-cused of being illegal immigrants filed a es action lawsuit cla against the federal government alleging that detainees were being denied their legal rights. For more than a decade the Justice Department and immigrant rights groups battled over the insue. Finally, under the supervision of a Los Angeles-based federal judge, William

Byrne, a actilement was worked out. Under its terms, people detained will be told they have a right to confer with an attorney before any administrative proceedings can proceed, and they will be given a written copy of any charges brought against them.

After the agreement was reached, Justice Department lawyers tried to downplay its significance. But spokesmen for immigration rights groups were quoted in various national news stories calling the agreement "ground breaking." "historic" and a "landmark." am's collin.

The bigger story here is that there is a nasty feud festering between Gorbachev and Russian President Boris Yeltsin, a feud so bitter that some observers here believe Yeltsin's real aim is to see Gorbachev jatied for crimes committed on his watch as the last communist leader of the old Soviet Union.

Yeitsin's embarrassing rebuke of Gorbachev in the wake of last year's coup and his refusal to allow him to depart office with a fig leaf of dignity, is said to have strained the relationship to the breaking point. Since then, Yeltsin has described Gorbachev's reign as "seven years of singna-tion" and suggested that he lacked the "personal courage" to engineer real economic change.

"Yelisin is not Jesus Christ," Gorbachev said last spring. "He is not the kind of person to whom I should answer." Soon after that statement. Gorbachev was stripped of his government-supplied limousine.

ironically, Gorbachev played a mentoring role for Yeltain by overaceing his promotion to the Politburo. Yet Yeltain has told us the two men were never friends. "We never drank volks together." he said. Originally, Yeltain and Gorbachev had a failing out after Yeltsin, in one of his trademark tantrums, criticized Gorbachev's rule and the pace of reform back in 1967. Yellain was hauled before a communist jury and summarily fired, before beginning a remarkable comcback.

Yeltsin is clearly uncomfortable knowing that he still lives in his predecessor's long shadow, which explains why Yeltain took such umbrage carlier this summer at the Bush administration after it hosted a White House dinner for Gorbachev. The fact that Gorbachev could re-emerge as a rival is also said to be weighing on Yeltain's mind. Gorbachev has done little to dispel the fear, giving interviews to the Russian media, for example, in which he took credit for economic aid passed by the U.S. Congress.

Though he holds no official title, Gorbachev is accorded head-of-state status wherever he is accorded head-of-state status wherever he travels, and has been shadow-besing with Yeltain over the fate and direction of Russin. Now Yeltain's aide are spreading stories that Gorbachev aided terrorists. Yeltain alao subscribes strongly to the belief that tens of billions of dollars were pirated from govern-ment coffers by former communist officials, and has hired a top-flight American in-vestigative firm, Kroll Associates, to help in the international scarch. the international search.

Register's investigator backs Smith

By Associated Press

GAINESVILLE — The chief investigator in the officer of State Attorney Len Register has resigned and thrown his political support to Democratic challenger Rod Smith.

Investigator Hilly Malphurs said Thursday he quit because he did not want to work for a candidate he did not support.

Malphura charged Register's poor leadership and hiring of inexperienced staff members have caused a high turnover rate among prosecutors, low morale and poor relations with law enforcement agencies.

Register, a Republican, coun-tered Malphura' charges by saying turnover rates are mod-crate compared with statewide figures and said his office's conviction rate was the most improved last year.

Register's office has been preparing for the prosecution of Danny Harold Rolling, who is charged with the 1990 slayings of five Gainesville college students. The trial is scheduled next September.

Energy reform awaits Buch's s

WASHINGTON - The biggest package of energy reforms to clear Congress in a decade awaits President Dusin's signature. But it reflects hundreds of hours of give-and-take and swatts some of the toughest questions: whether to impass energy taxes, allow new oil drilling or demand better auto fuel efficiency

While the bill approved by the Senate on Thursday was praised widely for promoting energy conservation and for iouching on myriad energy programs, some of the most controversial measures were absent.

There was no suggestion to open new lands to drilling, though oil companies and it was the only way to spur domestic production. And there was nothing to make cars run farther on a gallon of fuel, though transportation gobbles up more oil than now observation. any other activity.

These measures were jettisoned early - or in the case of energy taxes, not even considered. They were deemed "killer issues" that threatened to doom the prospects of any energy bill getting to Bush.

Abortion choice for voters

PHOENIX - Abortion will be a matter of choice for Arizona voters come Election Day, when they will be asked to enact a virtual ban on abortion.

On the other side of the country - and the debate, for that matter - Maryland residents will vote Nov. 3 on a measure that would bar the state from interfering with a woman's decision on abortion.

The Arizona measure would amend the state constitution to outlaw all abortions except to save the mother's life. However, the measure would allow the Legislature to enact exceptions for rape and incest.

This is the most extreme and punitive and restrictive ballot measure any state has seen." said Berry Sweet of Arizona Right to Choose. "If it is enacted, it will be the most restrictive constitutional prohibition in the nation."

Asthma rates double

NEW YORK - Asthma rates in children ages I to 14 doubled and even tripled over 20 years in a new study, and scientists speculated that the trend toward tightly sealed, energy-efficient homes may have played a role.

Making homes more efficient by reducing air leakage may trap more airborne particles like cat dander inside, possibly promoting asthma, researchers said. The study calculated asthma rates from 1964 to 1963 for residents of Rochester, Minn. The annual rate of new asthma cases roughly tripled in boys and girls ages 10 to 14 and in girls ages 5 to 9. The rate doubled or nearly so in boys and girls ages 1 to 4 and boys ages 5 to 9. No increases appeared in other age groups

Pope visit heightens controversy

ROME - John Paul II's visit to the Dominican Republic today, his first trip abroad since undergoing surgery in July, heightens the controversy over celebrations marking the landing of Christopher Columbus. While in the Dominican Republic, John Paul will open a regional bishops' conference that will set the direction of the church in Latin America over the next decade.

The 72-year-old pontiff has been slowly regaining his strength since doctors removed a benign colon tumor on July 15. But the Vatican cut back the itinerary of his five-day Dominican trip, the Polish-born pope's 56th foreign pilgrimag Mexico, Nicaragua and Jamaica were dropped, and only two events are planned each day - in marked contrast to trips that have taken John Paul to as many as three countries on the same day.

AP Tax Writer

WASHINGTON — Bichering right to the end. Congress closed up shop until Jamusry. But not before tossing President Bush a final bod potato: a tax bill loaded with goodles and financed with tax increases he opposed. The president has declined to any whether he would veto the bill, some parts of which he proposed. But Senate Republican leader flob Dole of Kansas told colleagues. "The bottom line is the president will not sign this bill."

The bill was approved by the Senate on Thuraday on a 67-22 vote. It was backed by 44 Democrats and 23 Republicans — nearly two-thirds of the GOP members who voted. The measure had cleared the House on Tuesday. 208-202. The bill would raise taxes by about 927 billion over the measure function

Brandt mourned today

BONN, Germany — Politicians and diplomats today mourned and lauded Willy Brandt, the former West German chancellor whose overtures to the Soviet bloc bridged the East-West chasm and sped the unification of Germany. Brandt, 78, died of cancer at his home in Unkel outside Bonn on Thursday afternoon and bis ton aids Klaus Lindenberg on Thursday afternoon, said his top aide. Klaus Lindenberg. Brandt had been suffering from intestinal cancer for more than a year.

Lindenberg said funeral arrangements will be announced in the next few days, and said Brandt will likely receive a state burial.

As chancellor from 1969 to 1974, Brandt initiated Ostpolitik - overtures to the East. He normalized relations with the Soviet Union and Poland and improved ties with East Germany.

Bosnian government stronghold falls

BOSANSKI BROD, Bosnia-Herzegovina - Hundreds of Serb fighters cheered and danced in the streets to celebrate the fall of the last major Bosnian government stronghold in the north. They swigged liquor and fired their machine guns into the sky.

Bosanski Brod is ours now, the Croats and Muslims are gone forever." 2nd Lt. Djordje Rogic said Thuraday as he watched his men stuff six motorcycles into an army bus. He said Bosnian government forces had offered almost no resistance in the last two days before the city of 15,000 people fell Tuesday.

Their victory in Bosanski Brod gives the Serbs virtually undisputed control over a wide swath of territory linking Serbla proper with territory they hold in Krajina, the western part of Bosnia.

African immigrants protest housing

PARIS - Through narrow, muddy pathways, women with babies strapped on their backs lug water to crowded, makeshift tents. It looks like an African refugee camp - yet across the street is a pleasant Parisian cafe.

For nearly five months, more than 1,000 African immigrants have camped on a dirt-covered plot beside the historic medieval castle of Vincennes. They are protesting the scarcity of decent low-income housing in Paris.

Their campaign has embarrassed officials across the political spectrum, sparked anti-immigrant protests by the far-right National Front, and spotlighted the bleak lodging alternatives that confront many poor people in and around this prosperous. expensive capital.

We're not here to demand financial aid," said one of the tent camp's leaders, Kunte Serinte of Mali. "We're workers. We've got jobs. What we want is housing."

Last week, extra pay for coaches in Los Angeles was cut by nine percent, a savings of approximately $145,000. Earlier, two seministrative positions in the district's athletic office were cut, saving another $180,000 in salaries and fringe benefits, but

Other systems have sought to close budget gaps with fund-raising activities like golf outings, garage sales and theatrical productions, the survey found.

"The situation is very bad virtually everywhere in the country," said Wayne Wilson, director of research and library services for the Amateur Athletic Found tion of Los Angeles, which conducted a conference on the matter last spring.

"We had about 55 or 60 people at the conference from all over the country and most of the people felt it would be necessary to find outside sources of funding." Wilson said. "In terms of proposed solutions, people recommended developing a better un-derstanding of the commercial value of high derstanding of the commercial value of high achool sports.

"Without some outside funding, it will be impossible to fund high school sports at the same level they've been funded in the past. I would say in many school districts, that needs to begin immediately."

Fred Clark, athletic director of the Har-risburg, Pa., School District, said he thought interscholastic programs would solve the financial crisis much the yeay many major bowl games already have. "In the future," he said, "you're going to see football having corporate sponsors."

The Lake Howell Greyhounds and Winter Park both totalled 228, but Lake Howell was awarded eighth ahead of Winter Park because the Silver Hawks' sixth runner finished ahead of the Wildcats'. Seminole did not qualify for a team score. County runners also dominat-ed the varsity boys' three-mile race, claiming seven of the top 10 Anishes.

Locals who trailed Ayers across the line were Lyman's Danniel Gonzales (second. 15:51). John Scott (fourth. 16:13) and Dan Melvin (sixth. 16:17); Dan Hilley (third. 15:57)

While the Lyman girls won handily despite the absence of Laurie Elias (10th at the University of Florida Invitational last weekend), the boys' team was much closer, the Lake Brantley Patriots forging a five-point win over the Greynounds, 44-49. Lake Mary (85), Tituaville-Astronaut (102) and St. Cloud (107) rounded out the top five in the boys' team standings. Oviedo (230) was sixth and Lake Howell (243) claimed seventh. Like the girls, the Seminole boys did not have enough runners to qualify for a team score.

In junior varsity competition, sophomore Chrissy Yusefs won the girls' race in 13:59 while junior teammate Lucy Cross finished third in 14:24 to lead the Lake Brantley Patriots to a 22-90 win over second-place Boone.

Eating better when eating out Adults eat 30% of their calories away from home Eating away from home has become a national pastime. Adapting to fast-paced lifestyles are families that are flocking to restaurants of all kinds for lunch and dinner.

According to recent surveys

Americane eat more than one of every five meals at away-from-home cating catablishments.

• Fast-food places serve four out of 10 meals esten at these away-from-home cating entbiinhments.

Adulta eat roughly 30 percent of their calories away from home

• Americana spend more than 40 cents of every food dollar on food eaten away from home.

What to order: If eating out is a rare treat for you, then you have the leeway to order your favorite foods from the menu. If they are higher in fat and calories than usual, balance it over the next day or two with meals that are lower in fat and calories. If you know ahead of time that you are going out to dinner, eat lighter meals and anacks earlier that day, However, if eating out is a frequent pastime for you. you will want to select healthier foods from your menu choices. These nutrition tips, starting with appetizers and finishing with dessert will give you lots of good ideas and options.

Appetizers: No need to skip the appetizer If healthy choices are available. You can enjoy steamed seafed and shellfish and raw vegetables or fruits like melons and assorted fruit cups. Go easy on appetizers that are breaded and deep-fried or that come with rich sauces and dips.

Soups: Ask for a small cup rather than a bowl. Broth or tomato-based soups, like chicken noodle or minestrone, are much lower in fat than cream-based soups, like cream of broccoli or chowder. For more fiber, bean soups are a good choice. Unfortunately, soups in restaurants are often saliv.

Breads and grains: Breads and bread sticks are fine, as long as they are not pre-buttered. Skip the croim nts, biscuits and hushpuppies: they are high in fat and calories. Go easy on the butter or mangarine.

Entrees: Choose lean meats, fish or poultry that is brotled, grilled, baked, steamed, or posched rather than deep-fried or rich sauces. Ask that your entree be brolled or grilled without added fat or just a small amount or prepared with lemon juice or wine instead. Do further trimming of your meat entree and remove skin from the poultry. Many restaurants serve large por-tions of meat, often six or eight ounces. Just eat half and ask for a take-home bag: another option is to ask for a petite cut of about four ounces, instead.

Vegetables and salads: Plain vegetables are low in calories and fat and high in fiber...but, with added butter or cheese sauces, calories and fat contents begin to climb. Ask for your vegetables plain or with herbs or a squeeze of lemon. Baked potatoes with just a little bit of margarine or butter are much leaner than French fries. Salada are great nutrition bargains, but be sure to ask for your dressing (preferably a low-cal one) on the side or the kitchen may drench your salad in a high-fat dressing. Use less than one tablespoon of dressing on your salad. If there is a salad bar, go for the raw vegetables and fresh fruit. Creamed salads, like macaroni and potato, are made with mayorinaise and/or large amounts of oily dressings - bypasse these and load up on the fresh veggies instead.

after discount for the way one

Desserts: Fruits, if available, are your best choices. Sorbets (fruit ices) and sherbets are other options. Alas, most desserts are tempting sweets high in fat and calories. So, If you are really tempted, try splitting your dessert order with a friend.

Beverages: If you drink alcoholic beverages, set limits beforehand on how much you will drink. To control calories and sugars, request liquor mixed with water or seltzer, rather than sweetened mixers. Order a glass of wine rather than a carale or try a wine spritzer (wine and seltzer water) in place of wine. Of course, the ideal thirst-quencher is ice water. If you want milk, ask whether they have skim or low-fat avilable.

Ordering it your way: Many restaurants are changing their menus and cooking styles to suit health-conscious customers. To encourage this, go to restaurants that offer the healthful foods you prefer or that prepare food to your order. Remember that you are the customer. Don't be afraid to ask for what you want. Study the menu carefully, then feel free to ask your questions of the wait-person.

Ask about serving sizes: Are petite servings or half-portions available? You can reduce portion aises by choosing an ap-petizer as your main dish, ordering a la carte or sharing food with a friend.

Ask how menu items are prepared and what ingredients are used: Are the ments broiled with butter or other fats? Is the entree served with a sauce? Are the vegetables served buttered or creamed?

See if you can order fish, chicken or meat broiled without added fat. Aak if chicken can be prepared without the skin. Request foods be served with dressings and sauces on the side.

Ask about availability of foods not listed on the menu: Like low-fat or skim milk. fresh fruit and so forth.

Mom's drinking ruins holidays

DRAR MARY: As we head toward the Thanksgivingn holiday sea finding myself getting depressed, as usual, because I snow what's coming. We will be expected to spend one or the other of the holidays at my parents' house for what is supposed to be sort of a family rounion. What will really happen though, is my mom will be alightly tipey by the time we get there and by the time the evening meal is over she'll be drunk and then Lord knows mom understands it. If she is unwilling to abide by it, let your dad know that he is welcome to monster off forever

AR ABBIT: I am in love with a man I have gone with for a year and a half. He is 56 and I am 48. I was married (no children) and so was he. He has three grown children (and aix grandchildren) whom I have never met because he had a failing out with his family and doesn't see any of them.

Abby, I am having problems with his jealous nature and some of his beliefs. For example: Women should not wear shorts. two-piece bathing suits or tight-fitting dresses. He hates to see a woman in pants or jeans. He thinks a woman should dance only with her flance or husband. He says all men have dirty minds and all women (except me) are "bitches" and cannot be trusted. He says a married woman should never have a repairman in the house unless her husbad is home.

He does not approve of make-up.() have toned mine down), but he prefers that I wear none.) He does not want me to work cause of the close contact I have with men. (I am a physical (heraplat.)

I am by nature a friendly on, but he has forbidden me to hug even my male relatives. I have told him all about my life. ad now I'm sorry I did because he heres throwing it up to me. He has a terrible temper. He got engry once and put his fist throath a unit rough a wall.

I suppose he sounds like a nonster, but at times he can be very sweet and loving. Please help me sort out my feetings. He is begging me to marry him.

DEAR GERIOUS: It's time to be the facts that are abundantly clear. This man has all the qualities that make for a miscrable marriage. He wants to control you totally. Worse yet, he is pathologically jealous, suspicious and possessive. Unless you want to live like a prisoner the rest of your life, say goodbye to this evil man. And the sooner. the better!

DEAR ABET: | just read your booklet "What Every Teen Should Know." I learned a lot. but there is still a question in my mind about something.

1 am 17 and my boyfriend is 19. (I will call him Bob, which is not his real name.) We have been going steady for two years. When we met, I was a virgin but Bob was not. I have never had sex with anybody but Bob, so obviously I do not have any sexually transmitted discuss.

Bob went to a clinic two months ago to be tested for everything — including AIDS. He came up negative for every-thing. Abby, since Bob does not have any diseases and neither do I, and we do not cheat on each other, do you think we have to use condoms?

ANONTHOUS IN VERSIONT DEAR ANONTHOUS: 1 re-commend using a condom every time you have sex - whether you think you need to or not.

DEAR ABSY: I am ticklish, and my boyfirend thinks it is fun to tickle me. I have told him mney times to stop it. because it is addrevating.

Well, he seems to be offended now, and wont't touch me at all. I think of this as a "punish-ment," and I'm hoping if he sees this in print, he'll realize tht he's overreacting.

What do you think? DEAR TICELISH: Tell him that anything a person does to another without consent is unwelcome and abualve.

what will happen. This has been our family's holiday pattern since I was a teenager and I'm sick of it. I hate the thought of my dad being alone for the holiday, but I don't want my kids to have to go through another holiday with a drunk grandmother. I feel caught in the middle and don't know where my loyalty should lie.
