President To Sign Bill, Tax Increase Postponed

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford says he will sign the compromise tax bill, averting an automatic income tax increase that would have hit American workers on New Year's Day.

The bill, which extends 1975 income tax cuts into the first six months of 1976, is expected to reach Ford's desk today and be signed in a signing ceremony on Saturday that he plans to sign it quickly.

Without approval of the tax bill, the 1975 temporary tax cuts would have expired as of Dec. 31, meaning individual income taxes would have jumped by as much as $8 per week for the average worker.

On Saturday, Ford called the compromise measure "a good tax bill for six months." The President claimed a victory over Congress, saying the lawmakers, "after a lot of pulling and hauling... finally agreed that we would have in principle a tax reduction and a spending limitation...."

Millions Dodge Voting

ATLANTA (AP) — Millions of Southern blacks still dodge the voting booths because of registration and election procedures which discourage their participation, a Voter Education Project study shows.

The simple process of attempting to register the unregistered, to avoid the synthetic to action, to urge the voiceless to vote is obviously seen by many who hold power as a counterproductive, dangerous challenge to the status quo," the study said.

VEP, based in Atlanta, said in the study released Saturday that official registration figures and U.S. Census data indicate a big gap still exists between black and white voter registration in rural and urban areas of Florida, Louisiana, North Carolina and South Carolina.

Recovery Danger Cited

WASHINGTON (AP) — Government spending does not present a problem to the economy, but recovery from recession may be in serious trouble without major changes in federal policy, says the staff of a congressional budget committee.

The staff of the Joint Economic Committee, in a report to House and Senate budget panels, said its study of the fiscal outlook for the next five years shows that "the federal budget is not out of control."

But it said its investigation into the effects of federal budget restrictions proposed by President Ford showed that the economy could suffer a setback and that major policy changes are needed if economic recovery is to continue.

Senate Attendance Good

WASHINGTON (AP) — Although debate lingers on its legislative record, the Senate rates good grades this year on an attendance record of close to 90 per cent, an 11-year high.

An Associated Press study of attendance for Senate roll-call votes showed that 19 senators were present for all 57 recorded votes during the six weeks between the August and October recesses.

The Senate's consistently good attendance record for all 100 senators was 82.9 per cent with most absenteeism concentrated on two Fridays and the last day before the October recess started. Senate figures show similar high attendance throughout the session.

Airlines Resumes Flights

BURLINGAME, Calif. (AP) — United Airlines mechanics have returned to work, and the nation's largest domestic air carrier said it will resume flights today and will be in full operation by Christmas Eve.

The mechanics ratified a three-year contract Sunday. Their two-week strike had forced United to cancel all its flights through Jan. 5, adding to a bleak picture for holiday travelers already faced with a strike now in its third month against National Airlines.

Lighting Plan To Be Discussed

By DONNA ESTES
Herald Staff Writer

LONGWOOD — Discussion of a contract on the Skylark II lighting plan in the lone item on the agenda, along with routine reports, for the 7:30 p.m. meeting today of the city council.

Council has taken the position that failure of the builders in the development to pay a $100 assessment per lot for the street lighting cost should be met with liens placed against the property.

Wade Hargradon, a representative of CAM Construction, developers, has indicated an unwillingness to sign a contract permitting the liens.

Council may adopt on first reading an ordinance raising its pay from $150 to $200 monthly, as moved by Councilman Don Schreiner last week.

Schreiner, to be replaced in office on Jan. 5 by Parker Anderson, who defeated him at the polls earlier this month, received support from three of the four remaining members of the board last week for the pay raise retroactive to Oct. 1.

Council early this year in an economy move, reduced its pay and that of Mayor James R. Lormann to $150 monthly.

Only lame duck Councilman H.A. Scott voted against the raise. Scott is to be replaced in office by Lawrence Goldberg. Usual practice is for council to pass an ordinance on first reading and then set a public hearing and second reading for three weeks later.

The second of Mayor Lormann's vetoes of a land development ordinance stood up to attack last week.

FLORIDA IN BRIEF

Men Asked To Be Set Adrift, Rescued After Three Days

KEY WEST (AP) — Two Florida men on a disabled sailboat, missing for nearly three days after voluntarily being set adrift by a cruise liner in a hurry to get to Miami, have been rescued, a Coast Guard spokesman said early today.

The sailboat was found late Sunday about 40 miles south of Key West, the spokesman said.

He said Scott Wilford, 21, of St. Petersburg, owner of the 35-foot Red Zan, and Frank McIntyre Jr., of Tarpon Springs, were apparently in good health. They were towed into Key West.

The men were found 135 miles from where they had been set adrift Friday after refusing to abandon their sailboat to stay aboard the luxury liner Southward.

One Traffic Death Reported

By The Associated Press

Only one traffic death was reported by the Florida Highway Patrol over the weekend. A patrol spokesman said early today that he was uncertain of the reason for the unusually low figure.

"That's the least number of deaths I've known of this year for a weekend period," the spokesman said. "I don't have any explanation, unless possibly everybody's driving better."

The only traffic death reported to patrol headquarters occurred Saturday in Key West.

Air Jamaica Slowdown Over

MIAMI (AP) — Air Jamaica resumed full operations today after obtaining a court injunction to end a weekend slowdown by ground workers in Kingston, Jamaica, a company spokesman said.

"They are going back because of a court injunction," said Suzanne Ogilvie, tour-deck agent for the airlines. "And they hope to resolve the (contract) problem by the end of January so this does not happen again."

The ground workers, who have been working without a contract since October, held a one-day strike several weeks ago.

Freighter Still Missing

MIAMI (AP) — Despite a fruitless three-day search for a Cyprus-registered freighter missing with 22 crewmen aboard, officials say they still hope the ship is safe and will make its scheduled stop in Canada this week.

"The ship is due in at Port Carter, Canada, Dec. 24th or 25th, we'll wait until then to speculate about what happened," a U.S. Coast Guard spokesman said.

The Coast Guard late Saturday abandoned its search for the freighter, which was last heard from when a crew member radioed a distress signal Thursday.

Graham Says Revenue Needed

TALLAHASSEE (AP) — The legislature will have to consider new revenue sources, such as local sales taxes, in its search for ways to meet state and local construction needs, says Sen. Robert Graham, D-Miami.

Graham heads a Senate Ways and Means subcommittee working on a study that shows state government could need $10 billion for construction in the next five years.

In addition, an estimated $1.5 billion will be needed for local school buildings, $1.6 billion for federally mandated pollution control programs, $1 billion for mass transit at the local level, and lower amounts for such items as airports.

HRS Eliminates Vacant Jobs

TALLAHASSEE (AP) — Nearly 450 jobs are being eliminated from the Department of Health and Rehabilitative Services. But officials hope no one will be fired.

Bob Williams, director of financial management, said the agency hopes to avoid dismissals by eliminating vacant positions rather than filling one and reclassifying some of the others.

"We're hopeful that it won't affect any jobs," Williams said. "We have a rather substantial vacancy rate."

Goals Are Clear For Councilman

By DONNA ESTES
Herald Staff Writer

LONGWOOD — Parker (Donnie) Anderson III, at 30 years old, may not be the youngest councilman-elect in Seminole County, but he has to be the tallest — at six feet seven inches.

A native of the area, having been born at the old Florida Sanitarium and Hospital (now Florida Hospital South), Anderson took his first dip into the city's political waters this year and handily won a berth on the city council, defeating the incumbent and another opponent.

Owner-manager of a nursery in Fern Park and another in Lake Mary, Anderson says he thought he "had something to offer, believed he could do a better job than the people on council and wanted to see things done right."

He is a member of the board of directors of the state and local nurseries and growers association and a past president of the local chapter.

Anderson holds a bachelor of science degree in business administration with a major in real estate and urban land study and development.

Married and the father of two children, Kristine, 4, and P.D. IV, 22 months old, Parker and his wife, Barbara, known to her friends as Babe) have their home in Lake Ruth South.

He is a man who knows what he believes. Anderson was one of the leaders of his subdivision's unsuccessful fight to stop the industrial rezoning of property adjacent to the development and he believes it is time to update the city's zoning ordinances.

"And, we need enforcement of the ordinances that are already on the books and a comprehensive land use plan."

"We need a complete revamping that doesn't tie itself to one set of councilmen, that doesn't change every time there is a new appointment to the zoning board," he said.

"The overall plan should encompass the complete use of land within the geographical area, eliminating spot and strip zoning, taking into consideration population, current land use, roads, drainage, open spaces, schools, water and sewer and the characteristics of the neighborhoods.

"It is difficult to have an effective land use if an industry is already located improperly. While what is already there cannot be changed, we can keep it from happening again," Anderson said, adding proper land use planning is not a new idea.

"My technical training lends itself to involvement in land use planning which is a big part of the Council's job."

He feels his successful business experience will be an asset to the council position and wants to see the governing body operate with a more businesslike approach.

"Council should set the policy guidelines and the city employees should be permitted to make decisions based on that policy," Anderson said.

Among the projects that can be readily accomplished and which the people in a door-to-door campaign indicated they wanted to see done, Anderson said, is cleaning up of the city parks and solutions to the dog problem.

"There is a lot of broken glass in the children's parks in the city and mounds of fire ants. A better park maintenance program is needed."

"The city's contract with the county on animal control apparently is not working," he said, adding an awful lot of people are complaining about dogs running loose and one person complained about a dog which chased his children.

Anderson would also like to see a correct and up-to-date city map showing the correct city limits and the zoning of all city territories. An adequate job description of city employees must be formulated, he said, so that everyone knows who is responsible for putting into action policies set by the council.

Anderson's wife, who managed his election campaign in her first involvement in politics, has a bachelor's degree in nursing.

She and Parker met while students at the University of Florida. She is now going part-time to Florida Technological University and is seriously considering pursuing a master's degree in microbiology.

Sidewalk Vote Is Commendable

The Sanford City Commission is to be commended for its decisive action to "go it alone" on the sorely-needed sidewalk on SR-46A in the vicinity of Idyllwilde Elementary School.

This very busy thoroughfare is used daily by a number of youngsters who attend the school and it has long been a source of concern for parents of these children.

For a period of time it appeared that the project would be tied up in wrangling between the city and the county over just whose responsibility it is to pay for the project. Some city officials indicate that the property belongs partly to the county and believed that the county should share the cost. County officials, meanwhile, deny that the property is theirs.

Regardless of who owns the strip of land in question, we are delighted that the city fathers decided that the safety of the children came first and voted to get on with the project at city expense.

Revenue Sharing

The federal revenue sharing program dominated recent meetings of the National League of Cities and the conference of Democratic governors. Mayors and governors do not agree on how the revenue sharing pie should be divided among them, and some believe Washington should even create some new programs to provide federal money to the states and cities.

Our advice to the mayors and governors is to stop quarreling over the size of these federal handouts and how they are distributed and consider the possibility they eventually may be phased out.

The federal government will have dispensed $38.2 billion in revenue sharing funds to states, counties and cities by the time the present program expires at the end of next year. President Ford asked Congress last April to renew it for another six years, with the funding increased to $48 billion, but there has been no stampede in Congress to vote the extension.

The financial crisis in New York has stimulated national debate on whether it is proper for federal tax dollars to be used to bail out a faltering city government. Many Americans are telling their congressmen they think not. While revenue sharing was conceived as a means of giving states and cities the money to undertake programs they otherwise could not afford, the federal funds in some cases are being used to meet day to day operating expenses of local government.

This may or may not make revenue sharing a "bailout," but the fact is that many officials believe that these federal dollars are helping cities avoid the kind of fiscal responsibility that finally is being forced on New York. It would be irresponsible to phase out revenue sharing overnight and President Ford's proposal should be adopted. However, with all the pressure to keep a ceiling on the federal budget, governors and mayors are making a mistake if they take the future of the revenue sharing program beyond that for granted.

'Fair Trade' Ends

It was a derelict of the Depression that stuck around, refusing to go away, like an old hobo. Manufacturers and merchants promoted "fair trade" laws during the dark Depression days, taking refuge in government protectionism to escape the harsh discipline of free market competition.

They besought the government for permission to fix minimum retail prices and prostrate merchants who sold for less. Permission was given by the federal government for this restraint of trade. Many states then passed "fair trade" laws. Now, under pressure of double-digit inflation and rising consumer indignation, Congress has finally passed a bill repealing the "fair trade" antitrust exemption. President Ford supported the bill and undoubtedly will sign it into law.

Then the state will have to repeal their "fair trade" laws. Some merchants thought they could not survive without price-fixing protection. They will, although they may have to sharpen up their pricing pencils, or provide more convenient and efficient service to their customers in order to meet the competition.

So long, "fair trade," you will not be missed.

Around

The Clock

Did you know that in the State of Florida, a person found guilty of using a gun in the commission of a crime will automatically go to jail for at least three years?

If you do know of this law, you're among the minority.

Seems the Law Enforcement Assistance Program sponsored a survey recently to expose Florida's new guaranteed sentence for gun-carrying felons and less than 20 per cent of those persons interviewed were aware of the new law. Sen. Jim Glisson, who sponsored the bill in this year's legislative session, said the survey indicates the belief that harsher sentences will definitely deter potential criminal activity and that most people feel a return to capital punishment would be the most effective measure in reducing crime.

"People have lost faith in rehabilitation as a means to reduce crime," Glisson said. "Less than one-half of one per cent of those interviewed thought more or better rehabilitation would reduce the crime rate and 53 per cent feel that judges should issue stricter penalties."

"This lack of faith is well-founded as is evidence by the continued increases in the crime rate," Glisson said.

According to the latest figures released by the Federal Bureau of Investigation, all crimes increased by 18 per cent in 1974. Since 1969 violent criminal activity has increased by 47 per cent. The state survey shows that 67 per cent of those interviewed believe that Florida's guaranteed sentence law would help reduce crimes committed with a firearm if people knew about it.

"We have an effective tool for fighting crime," Glisson said, "if we can just get the word to the criminal. The guaranteed sentencing concept is being used in several states now and I predict the federal criminal justice system in our country will eventually incorporate this concept in fighting crime. It is definitely the coming thing."

Using a gun when ripping someone off could take an additional three years on your sentence — and it's guaranteed that you'll spend that much time if found guilty, 'cause there's no possibility of parole during that time.

Auditors Subject Of Audit

NEW YORK — The New York-based public accounting firm Arthur Young and Company has just published the results of a curious audit: an examination of a rival accounting firm — the biggest of them all, Peat, Marwick, Mitchell, which has more than 1,400 partners in 50 countries.

And who ordered the audit? Peat, Marwick itself, which paid over $500,000 for it.

Earlier the firm had backed out of an audit arranged by the American Institute of Certified Public Accountants because the institute wanted to keep the results secret. Peat, Marwick wanted public exposure of its auditing practices, which had come under sustained and detailed attack from the Securities and Exchange Commission.

The SEC had sued Peat, Marwick as auditors of four financially troubled companies where full disclosure was an issue: Penn Central (now bankrupt), National Student Marketing, Talley Industries and Republic National Life Insurance. An SEC suit was pending regarding another now-bankrupt client, Sterling Homex.

In several of these audits, Peat, Marwick was criticized for accepting statements from management without independent verification. Implicit in SEC's complaint was the belief that the firm had grown too fast and that its standards had suffered as a result. Growth is a problem that Peat, Marwick shares with many other large accounting firms, some of which now find themselves with a shortage of senior partners to perform necessary supervision.

But Peat, Marwick may also have overreached itself in taking on the audits of National Student Marketing and Republic National after disagreements between company managements and the predecessor auditing firms. In both cases, the SEC charged, Peat, Marwick neglected to inform itself of the details of the disagreements.

Like Peat, Marwick, many American accounting firms are increasingly finding themselves the defendants in litigation from disgruntled stockholders in client firms. The example of how for the accountant's liability extends is yet to be resolved. But Arthur Young has now passed its competitor on the back.

After 12,000 hours of work by 150 accountants, including 50 partners, Arthur Young concluded that it was "favorably impressed with the extent of commitment to the conduct of (Peat, Marwick's) practice in accordance with professional standards."

There were a few quibbles, several instances where Arthur Young's accountants did not agree with Peat, Marwick's decisions and some places where the written evidence of the audit was less complete than could have been wished; but on the whole the report was respectful of the professional competence of the rival firm.

An interesting innovation — but will non-accountants be eager to believe it?

Admiral Backscratches Defense Firm

WASHINGTON — Even confidential Pentagon files, we have learned that Vice Admiral Malcolm W. Cagle last year tried to wangle a multi-million-dollar contract for a firm that had just offered him a lucrative job.

Afterward, the admiral quit the navy to join the firm, Lulejian and Associates, which he had tried to enrich.

The multi-million-dollar finagling attempt occurred last year in Iran. The Pentagon was helping Iran improve its navy. As part of the effort, Cagle was dispatched to Iran to study its naval problems.

He wound up the study by advising Iranian officials to hire a single U.S. training management firm to upgrade its navy. In a letter eventually marked "personal and confidential," he stated:

"There are many management companies in the U.S. who have experience, capability and who will compete and qualify to undertake such an effort in your behalf. But I believe that you must specify a company experienced and devoted to U.S. naval training management."

His letter then set forth qualifications that he judged to fit Lulejian and Associates exactly. Impressed, the Iranian officials asked

WASHINGTON — Underlying our problems with the Soviet Union is a lack of confidence in what we are and what we believe. We do not have that self respect necessary in dealing with a strong and determined adversary.

We have, therefore, over the past few years, attempted to bribe the Soviet Union to end its aggression and its military buildup.

But bribery does not work, even in a good cause. The Russians take the bribes and come back for more.

This is why detente is failing. No one, least of all Leonid Brezhnev, has respect for men who show little respect for their own beliefs.

Item — We have repeatedly insisted that detente rests on a change in Russian actions, that we will not go along with continued Soviet aggression in countries around the world. In that context, we have issued strong warnings on Angola, where the Russians have openly moved in on a civil war. No sooner had Moscow ignored our warnings, than we looked word of new SALT concessions, though we said we could go no further.

Item — We averted our eyes when the Russians, using technical evasions known to every U.S. lawyer, evaded the spirit and meaning of the SALT agreements, while looking to a twisted interpretation of the letter. The administration not only accepted these violations, but defended the Soviet actions, though they directly contradicted published U.S. understandings at the time the treaty was signed, a clear signal to Brezhnev we do not have the moral courage to stand up to what we believe.

Item — In Vietnam we made a deal with Moscow concerning restraint in the supplying of war materials. The Russians broke their word, watched us back out under a face-saving ploy. Item — Though we have time and again reaffirmed our alliance with Taiwan, the men in the Kremlin have the Secretary of State Henry Kissinger has in effect promised the Chinese that one of these days we will turn Taiwan over to the Peking Government, wash our hands of the matter.

Item — The U.S.S.R. has seen us formally agree to recognize the Russian puppet of Eastern Europe, gaining in return only a promise of certain individual freedoms, a promise the Soviet Union promptly ignored, most publicly in the person of Andrei D. Sakharov, the great Russian physicist, not allowing him even a trip to Oslo to receive the Nobel Peace Prize.

As noted above, our answer to these Russian violations — in Angola, in SALT, in the case of Sakharov, has been to give in, to promise further concessions in SALT and to offer more technical secrets.

In the name of heaven where do we stand? It is not necessary to be belligerent. To be firm is to stand on what we believe does not require we call the Marines or move aircraft carriers. This might not, in any event, impress the Russians who have seen us regularly back down in the crunch.

We can, however, say deal or no deal.

"What they know may not fall neatly into categories like biology or introductory psychology, but they often deserve credit for it just the same."

"Show us what you've done in the course of your life," advertises one large eastern university, "and if it's solid, we'll give you academic credit."

Since the mid-1960s, the College Level Examination Program set up by the College Entrance Examination Board has conducted a national system of examinations in a variety of subject areas to evaluate what people have learned through independent study.

All kinds of people — janitors, company presidents, housewives — have been motivated to earn college degrees because they've been able to cut a year or so from the conventional two-year or four-year program.

The Regents External Degree Program of the University of New York awards degrees to people whose knowledge and abilities, which they have gained, are judged to be equal to a college-sponsored education.

These external degrees have won by thousands of servicemen for a combination of military courses, regular college classes and competency tests, and by citizens of nearly every state.

Another source of nontraditional education that is gaining recognition is in the courses and programs conducted by industry, labor unions, and government, as well as such cultural organizations as museums. Taken together, they provide a formidable array of courses which, according to one estimate, involve 22 million Americans. Many of the courses are comparable to college-level studies.

A new program, the "Cooperative Assessment of Experiential Learning," (CAEL), is a joint effort of the Educational Testing Service in Princeton, N.J., in 190 institutions around the country. One woman who needed a degree to advance in the civil service had 19 years of experience as a bookkeeper but she thought gave her knowledge equivalent to what students learn in several accounting courses. Through a CAEL institution, she received academic credit for her work experience.

Says CAEL director Warren Willingham: "Thirty-year-olds aren't 18-year-olds. They have done a variety of things in their lives. In the process of work, travel or voluntary experiences, they have learned much that has real academic merit."

"What they know may not fall neatly into categories like biology or introductory psychology, but they often deserve credit for it just the same."

In that context, we have issued strong warnings on Angola, where the Russians have openly moved in on a civil war. No sooner had Moscow ignored our warnings, than we looked word of new SALT concessions, though we said we could go no further.

Item — We averted our eyes when the Russians, using technical evasions known to every U.S. lawyer, evaded the spirit and meaning of the SALT agreements, while looking to a twisted interpretation of the letter. The administration not only accepted these violations, but defended the Soviet actions, though they directly contradicted published U.S. understandings at the time the treaty was signed, a clear signal to Brezhnev we do not have the moral courage to stand up to what we believe.

Item — In Vietnam we made a deal with Moscow concerning restraint in the supplying of war materials. The Russians broke their word, watched us back out under a face-saving ploy. Item — Though we have time and again reaffirmed our alliance with Taiwan, the men in the Kremlin have the Secretary of State Henry Kissinger has in effect promised the Chinese that one of these days we will turn Taiwan over to the Peking Government, wash our hands of the matter.

Item — The U.S.S.R. has seen us formally agree to recognize the Russian puppet of Eastern Europe, gaining in return only a promise of certain individual freedoms, a promise the Soviet Union promptly ignored, most publicly in the person of Andrei D. Sakharov, the great Russian physicist, not allowing him even a trip to Oslo to receive the Nobel Peace Prize.

As noted above, our answer to these Russian violations — in Angola, in SALT, in the case of Sakharov, has been to give in, to promise further concessions in SALT and to offer more technical secrets.

In the name of heaven where do we stand? It is not necessary to be belligerent. To be firm is to stand on what we believe does not require we call the Marines or move aircraft carriers. This might not, in any event, impress the Russians who have seen us regularly back down in the crunch.

We can, however, say deal or no deal.

"What they know may not fall neatly into categories like biology or introductory psychology, but they often deserve credit for it just the same."

"Show us what you've done in the course of your life," advertises one large eastern university, "and if it's solid, we'll give you academic credit."

Since the mid-1960s, the College Level Examination Program set up by the College Entrance Examination Board has conducted a national system of examinations in a variety of subject areas to evaluate what people have learned through independent study.

All kinds of people — janitors, company presidents, housewives — have been motivated to earn college degrees because they've been able to cut a year or so from the conventional two-year or four-year program.

The Regents External Degree Program of the University of New York awards degrees to people whose knowledge and abilities, which they have gained, are judged to be equal to a college-sponsored education.

These external degrees have won by thousands of servicemen for a combination of military courses, regular college classes and competency tests, and by citizens of nearly every state.

Another source of nontraditional education that is gaining recognition is in the courses and programs conducted by industry, labor unions, and government, as well as such cultural organizations as museums. Taken together, they provide a formidable array of courses which, according to one estimate, involve 22 million Americans. Many of the courses are comparable to college-level studies.

A new program, the "Cooperative Assessment of Experiential Learning," (CAEL), is a joint effort of the Educational Testing Service in Princeton, N.J., in 190 institutions around the country. One woman who needed a degree to advance in the civil service had 19 years of experience as a bookkeeper but she thought gave her knowledge equivalent to what students learn in several accounting courses. Through a CAEL institution, she received academic credit for her work experience.

Says CAEL director Warren Willingham: "Thirty-year-olds aren't 18-year-olds. They have done a variety of things in their lives. In the process of work, travel or voluntary experiences, they have learned much that has real academic merit."

"What they know may not fall neatly into categories like biology or introductory psychology, but they often deserve credit for it just the same."

WORLD IN BRIEF

Airliner Crashes In Italy, Reports Say Nobody Killed

MILAN, Italy (AP) — A Trans World Airlines jetliner on a flight from San Francisco and New York crashed as it was landing in thick fog today at Milan's Malpensa airport, but TWA said first reports indicated no one was killed.

The airliner said more than 100 persons were aboard the Boeing 707, and some of them were reported injured. Police said the plane crashed in flames.

Police sources said the flight was No. 842.

Terrorists End Occupation

ALGIERS, Algeria (AP) — Pro-Palestinian terrorists ended their occupation of the Vienna headquarters of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries today and flew to Algiers with 10 oil ministers and 31 other hostages on a plane supplied by the Austrian government.

The Austrian Airlines DC9 landed at the Algiers airport at 11:35 a.m. The terrorists and their hostages started leaving the plane 10 minutes after it landed.

One of the terrorists who was wounded in the attack on the OPEC headquarters was taken away in an ambulance.

Argentine Revolt Ended

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP) — The air force announced early today that rightist air officers had ended their revolt against President Isabel Peron after four days.

A brief air force communique said that as of 2:15 a.m. the rebels holding Moron air base, 20 miles west of here, and Buenos Aires airport "once again answer to their natural commanders."

Negotiations Under Way

MONTREAL (AP) — The first negotiations between the Canadian Paperworkers Union and four Quebec newspaper producers since the union went on strike Oct. 10 are under way.

A union spokesman would not say whether progress has been made in the talks, which started during the weekend.

Parents Confused, Upset By He-Man Son's Gay 'Marriage'

Dear Abby

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN
DEAR ABBY: Our tall, handsome, athletic son served four years in the Navy, returned to civilian life and college, and "married" an undersized, effeminate male hairdresser. We have no idea how to handle this situation or our ambivalent feelings.

This "odd couple" came to visit us, and they want us to visit them. They are inseparable and act out a peculiar husband-wife relationship that is both bewildering and disturbing to us.

So far we have been polite, but what the dickens do you say to friends and relatives? We can't condone it.

We love this boy, but as his parents we feel torn and hypocritical to say the least.

DEAR TOBY: You owe friends and relatives an explanation, so don't feel obligated to offer any. Since your son's lifestyle bewilders and disturbs you, either learn to accept it or quit seeing him.

DEAR ABBY: What do you think of a 35-year-old married woman (no kids and says she doesn't want any) who wasn't satisfied with her 38th husband, had silicone implants and now is a 38C?

Just Asking
DEAR JUST: It's all right with me. Maybe she wants the "booby" prize.

DEAR ABBY: I've been divorced for 12 years. Men and women tell me I am very attractive. I've had several love affairs, but I was looking for the "real" man. Three years ago, I met him. When he asked me out I was on cloud nine! We dated nightly for six months. He told me he loved me. It was heaven.

Suddenly everything came to a screeching halt! I didn't hear from him for two weeks. I knew where he lived and had his phone number, but I'm not one to run after a man. He finally called, saying he'd be over that night. When he arrived he acted as though he'd seen me the night before. I didn't question him, but he tried to make me believe his job kept him too busy to contact me. I knew he was lying.

Shortly after that, some friends took me to dinner, and there he was—with another woman! He stopped by our table and made small talk. I was blind with hurt and jealousy.

Now, for two and a half years this man calls me and drops in to see me, and he thinks I

Cook Low Cost Holiday Treats

By NANCY BOOTH Herald Correspondent

The holidays are upon us and most homemakers are busy cooking their favorite traditional treats.

This year, more than ever, homemakers must combine what they want to make, with what they can afford to make. A difficult task indeed!

One approach to the problem is to serve one or two of those special expensive dishes along with a couple of low cost delicacies.

Fruit is low cost, low caloric and easy to prepare. For a tasty dessert try cutting up pieces of your favorite fresh fruit and arrange attractively on a platter. Add wedges of cheese and maybe a simple dressing.

When friends drop in, serve the above and add a glass of your favorite wine and some bread sticks and you have the makings of a party.

Rather than buying expensive cocktail frankfurters, try buying the cheaper, full size variety. Take a few minutes to cut them yourself. Put a tooth pick in each, add a cocktail sauce. You have an inexpensive appetizer. Pieces of chunk pineapple adds to the color and flavor.

English muffins can be made into tiny pizzas by the addition of a couple of slices of tomato, grated or sliced cheese, oregano and a drop of oil. Place under the broiler until cheese bubbles.

Your blender can be particularly useful this time of the year. Experiment with creating your own dips. It takes a little imagination, but will be uniquely yours.

A favorite meatball recipe can be turned into a party dish by simply making the meatballs into one inch sizes, adding pineapple, olives, a piece of cheese or pimento, sticking a tooth pick through the mixture and placing on a platter with a colorful garnish.

Those low cost rolls can be turned into savory garlic bread in a matter of minutes by brushing them with a mixture of melted butter, paprika, garlic and onion powder and placing them under the broiler until brown.

Rock shrimp is plentiful and inexpensive this time of the year. (If you don't like the chore of preparing shrimp, maybe your children would consider it fun.) Boil the cleaned shrimp in water containing onion or garlic powder salt and lemon juice until pink. Serve on a bed of lettuce with a seafood sauce.

Take a can of tuna fish or left over chicken and make a salad. Spoon salad onto individual romaine lettuce leaves. Roll up and secure with a toothpick. This makes a tasty finger food.

Try chopping canned beans, adding mayonnaise and minced onion for an unusual dish.

HOROSCOPE

By BERNICE BEDE OSOL
For Tuesday, December 23, 1975

ARIES (March 21-April 19) If you want things done right today, depend on yourself. Someone who promised to help may let you down and you'll lose valuable time.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) You may meet someone new and interesting. See to it that his dynamic personality doesn't dazzle you so you hurt a friend by ignoring him.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) An ambitious project for the home can be a success today, but only if you're wise enough to secure your mate's blessing before embarking on it.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Be sure to have the facts straight when you repeat something a friend told you earlier in the day. A twisted tale could cause consternation.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) If you're buying essentials for the home today, be wary of luxury items. You have a tendency to go overboard.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Though you have a lot of things on your mind today, you'll handle most things quite capably. However, make a check list and check it!

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Don't curb your impulse to be generous today, though you may have doubts about the appreciation you'll receive.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Early in the day you are conservative and get good value in items you shop for. Later you'll tire and settle for second-best.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) You'll be more fortunate today in things in which you use your imagination. Don't fear being innovative. Pioneering is your strong suit.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Someone distant from you will be on your mind today. Why not give this person a call?

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) A friend of yours will be impulsively generous with you today. Accept, though you may be a bit embarrassed to be on the receiving end.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Have faith in your ideas today. You'll come up with a way to do something that is a departure from the norm. Nothing ventured, nothing accomplished.

YOUR BIRTHDAY
Dec. 23, 1975
You will be interested in gaining a new type of knowledge this coming year, but it will take research on your part. Make the effort. Results will be worthwhile.

DEAR DR. LAMB—I have a question that concerns a paternity possibility. Can a male with type O positive blood and a female with type A positive blood produce a baby with Rh positive blood?

If this combination isn't possible what would the combination be to? Any information will be gratefully appreciated.

DEAR READER—The basic blood type, A, B, AB, or O has no effect at all on whether the baby will be Rh positive or negative. They are separate gene characteristics. If both parents are Rh positive you should expect the baby to be Rh positive, regardless of the baby's blood type.

About 15 per cent of Caucasians are Rh negative while those with a pure black genetic background are almost always Rh positive.

DEAR DR. LAMB—I would like some information concerning cod liver oil for the 50 to 60 age group. Should it be taken every day? Is it beneficial to the bones? Will it help dry skin when taken DEAR READER—Remember there is an optimal amount of everything, including vitamin D. A good diet is your best assurance of the optimal amount. If you need something better, let your doctor decide what and how much for your own case.

Vihlen Absent With Injury Vote To Oust Freeman Deadlocked, 2-2

By ED PRICKEIT Herald Staff Writer
Amid charges and counter-charges and citizen demands that County Atty. Thomas Freeman step down, grand jury charges are cleared, the county commission today voted 2-2 to leave Freeman in his post.
Commissioner Sidney Vihlen Jr., was absent from the action-packed meeting in which Commissioner John Kimbrough strongly questioned the county's standard for a county attorney. Vihlen was in Seminole Memorial hospital with a broken foot.

"I assumed Vihlen wouldn't be here for any controversial issue," Kimbrough said. Vihlen was in Seminole Memorial Hospital.
Commissioners Michael Hattaway and Harry Kwiatkowski, both under indictment by the same grand jury that charges Freeman with seeking a $12,400 kickback from John Morris, a title insurance firm officer, fought back by labeling all the charges "politically motivated."
Both Hattaway and Kwiatkowski voted to retain Freeman, while Kimbrough and Commissioner Richard Williams voted that Freeman be suspended until charges are cleared by the courts.
Freeman, who is also charged along with Kwiatkowski and Hattaway with violation of Florida's Sunshine Law, remained silent during this morning's session.
Kimbrough hammered away at the proposition that the county attorney should at least be required to meet the same county standards as those applied to semi-skilled and skilled laborers.

"As an individual and as a commissioner, I have faith in Mr. Freeman," Kwiatkowski said. He said grand jury charges were "politically inspired by State Atty. Abbott Herring's office, a position with which Hattaway agreed."
John Albee, vice-president of the South Seminole Jaycees, said it would be in the county's "best interest" if Freeman stepped down until charges against him are cleared. Albee said he was speaking as an individual, not on behalf of the Jaycees.
"Tom Kumbarger would be proud of this moment," remarked Hattaway. Howard Marsee, a member of Kumbarger's law firm was the county attorney who was voted out and replaced by Freeman earlier this year.
Hattaway said that if he felt charges were justified, he would also ask Freeman to step down, but he called the charges "political harassment" and said he would not take "any part of it."
Some citizens at the meeting did not see it the same way. "I find it regretful for any member of this board to impugn the motives of the grand jury," said Jimmy Ross of Longwood.
Ross said the grand jurors issued the indictments, not Herring.
Tom Kamelis, vice-president of the county's league of civic associations, also asked that Freeman step down.
Williams said that in 1973 the commission asked for the resignation of a county advisor, similar to Freeman, and he said today's request for Freeman's ouster was an "identical" situation.
Williams said Freeman's removal was made as "restoration" (Continued on Page 5-A)

County Offices Closing

Governmental offices in Seminole County have a variety of openings and closings during the Christmas and New Year's holidays.
Seminole County Courthouse will close Thursday and Friday for Christmas and New Year's Day, but will be open Jan. 2, for regular business.
City Halls in Sanford, Altamonte Springs and Lake Mary will close Dec. 23-28 and Jan. 1-2, but will maintain emergency service crews.
Garbage pickup in Sanford will continue on schedule, not affected by the holidays.
Garbage service will be discontinued in Altamonte Springs this week. There'll be no pickup Thursday and Friday, but there will be on Dec. 29. Regular collection will take place during the Jan. 1-3 holiday period.
Lake Mary has a private garbage pickup service which won't be in operation Christmas Day or on New Year's Day, but normal service will be provided on other days.
Longwood and Winter Springs city functions, except standby work crews, will be closed Dec. 23 and Jan. 1. Both city offices will be open Jan. 2, for business as usual.

Academy Seeks Bankruptcy Status Foreclosure Filed Against SNA

By BOB LLOYD Herald Staff Writer
Sanford Naval Academy (SNA) officials today were going ahead with plans to open the private school in January for the Spring term despite a foreclosure lawsuit filed by the National Exhibition Co., and the filing for bankruptcy by the school in Orlando federal court.
Sanford attorney Ken McIntosh, who filed the foreclosure suit Monday in circuit court for National Exhibition, said today that the federal court petition for reorganization under the federal bankruptcy law won't affect the local court action.
National Exhibition (San Francisco Giants) alleges Bernarr McFadden Foundation Inc., defaulted on a $138,437 purchase money mortgage on Oct. 1 and on Aug. 30 on a $179,415 promissory note.
National Exhibition is asking Circuit Court Judge Dominick Saito to place the school in receivership and to appoint John S. Kridler of Sanford as receiver to operate the facility and collect monies.
When filing for bankruptcy in federal court the McFadden Foundation listed $2-million in assets and more than $1-million in liabilities to 168 creditors including the $662,848 owed the San Francisco Giants.
Other creditors listed included $150,000 to the Bank of Commerce in New York, $19,271 to Morrison's Inc., and smaller amounts to other suppliers.
Meanwhile, in circuit court at Sanford on Monday, attorney Thomas A. Speer filed lawsuits against the McFadden Foundation demanding judgments of $2,536,300 to Robinson's Inc., of Orlando, and $3,066,111 to Hill Lumber and Hardware Co. of Sanford, for building supplies.
SNA officials today declined to discuss the financial difficulties of Sanford Naval Academy but administrator Jesse Harry said classes, now dismissed for the Christmas holidays, will resume on Jan. 4 and the Spring term is scheduled to begin Jan. 26.
The Academy Senior School is located between Seminole Boulevard and East First Street on the Sanford lakefront. The 1925 vintage three-story building was purchased by the McFadden Foundation in 1963, along with 18 acres of land, for $850,000 on a 25-year mortgage. At that time the former Mayfair Hotel, a Sanford landmark, was owned by the then-New York Giants baseball club.
The academy's Junior School at 1211 Mellonville Ave. was separated from the main school in 1967, officials said.
Sanford Naval Academy reached a peak enrollment of nearly 400 students in 1969. The school became co-educational in 1972 and had approximately 130 students, including four girls, last September.
Harry said an enrollment of 150 is expected for the next semester starting in January.
"We're hopeful we can hold our heads above water," Harry said today, "and that we're now on the road to recovery."
He said the future looks bright enrollment-wise for the academy and that the school is now being run more efficiently than ever before.
McIntosh said National Exhibition's position is that they are the preferred creditor in the Sanford Naval Academy financial tangle and are convinced that the Senior and Junior school properties are sufficient equity.
After suffering four student-set fires within 12 months, the Sanford Naval Academy was ordered closed July 14 by state fire marshals. The facility reopened in September after promising to correct fire code deficiencies.
The state granted permission for use of the first and second floors of the Senior School building on E. First St. for classrooms and dormitory housing of students.

The Junior School on Mellonville would no longer be used for a dormitory, officials said, but would be used for office, storage areas and band and athletic practice.
The former Mayfair Hotel building (the Senior School) is protected by a fire sprinkler system, Harry said.
Authorities said two fires were set in October 1974 at the Junior School by a student, causing $1,000 damage.
Two fires on the third-floor of the Senior School were quickly extinguished and damages were confined mostly to mattresses.
All three students involved were disciplined and sent home, Harry said.
The Giants baseball club is reportedly in financial trouble, too. Owner Horace Stoneham has been trying to sell the team for some time. He says there (Continued on Page 5-A)

MARCH OF DIMES-CHAIRMEN

National Chairman of the March of Dimes Arnold Palmer (right) congratulates Seminole County's Superintendent of Schools William P. Lages on his appointment as campaign director of the 1976 March of Dimes fund-raising drive for the county. Palmer, one of professional golfer's living legends, and Lages urge everyone to support the fund drive in order to help fight birth defects.

Churches Slate Holy Services

By JANE CASSELLBERRY Herald Staff Writer
Area churches are celebrating the Birth of Christ with live outdoor nativity scenes and special Christmas Eve and Christmas Day services.
Among the churches planning Christmas Eve services are: St. John Chrysostom Eastern Orthodox Church, Fern Park, will hold a Matins service at 10:30 p.m., vesper at 11, Christmas carol sing at 11:40 and Christmas liturgy at midnight.
Tr. Christmas Eve service at First Presbyterian Church of Sanford will begin at 7:30 p.m. Rolling Hills Moravian Church will have a lovefeast at 6:30 and 7:30 p.m. There will be a midnight Mass at Church of the Nativity.
First United Methodist Church of Sanford will hold a 7:30 p.m. candlelight communion service. First Christian Church will hold a carol sing and communion beginning at 7 p.m.
Lutheran Church of the Good Shepherd, Sanford, will have an 11 p.m. candlelight service Wednesday and a Christmas Day service at 10 a.m.
Messiah Lutheran Church of Casselberry will have an 11 p.m. candlelight service. Altamonte Community Church will have a family carol service at 7:30 p.m. and holy communion at 10 and 11:30 p.m.
Holy Cross Episcopal Church will have an 11 p.m. carol service with choral Eucharist at 11:45 p.m. There will be a 10 a.m. service on Christmas Day.
St. John the Baptist Eastern Orthodox Church will hold a Typica service at 1 p.m. Christmas Day at First United Methodist Church of Sanford.

Psychologist Says 'We Need Santa'

CHICAGO (AP)—A psychologist says kids need Santa Claus. Even one on a billboard.
"Santa Claus, because of his consistent good humor, his warmth and his generosity, is an especially desirable companion for a youngster," declares Marilyn Whiteside, a psychology professor at the University of Maine at Gorham.
And although he only shows up once a year, his influence is positive, she adds in U.S. Catholic, a magazine published here.
"He's more interesting and less demanding than parents," says Prof. Whiteside. "And he shares his power with children by declaring himself their patron saint."
Last year, U.S. Catholic ran an article criticizing Santa and asked readers to respond to statements about him. Among them was: "Santa teaches children to be greedy." Some 31 per cent of the readers responded that they thought Santa helped teach greed. And 91 per cent responded they "never suffered any harm as a consequence of the Santa myth."
Prof. Whiteside also disagrees with Santa critics who assert the white-bearded old fellow competes with the Christ child.
"Actually," she contends, "the birchside old gentleman is probably protecting the Christmas Baby from the onslaughts of Madison Avenue."
"As long as Santa smiles down from the billboards and touts the latest toothpaste, the new-born Messiah may remain in his manger and testify solely to the goodness of God."
Prof. Whiteside takes issue with behavioral scientists who suggest parents encourage the Santa myth because of their own insecurity.
At least as likely a motive for Santa-supporting parents is that they, too, enjoy a "brief and merry return to the fantasies of their own childhood."

Board Opposes Utility Control

By AUDIE MURPHY Herald Staff Writer
Sanford City Commission Monday night authorized the drafting of a resolution intended to fight proposals in the state legislature to place publicly-owned utilities under the Public Service Commission.
The resolution, to be sent to the Seminole County delegation of the Florida League of Cities, urges the following:
—Clarification of present law on double taxation;
—Retention of local options in collective bargaining;
—Support of legislation that will give public agencies the option to pay for unemployment compensation as a contributory system, as in private industry, rather than the present reimbursement system;
—Support of legislation that will require governmental agencies constructing facilities within the area of jurisdiction of a municipality to comply with local codes and regulations.
About the last provision of the resolution, City Manager Warren E. Knowles explained that at times government entities such as counties or the state, will build facilities such as schools, colleges or other structures "in the backwoods" and "then expect the city to provide them with sewer and water service."
Knowles said legislation requiring compliance with local regulations would facilitate more cooperation on such projects.
In other actions, the City Commission authorized $25 awards be presented to two city employees who suggested that name signs be placed on the Civic Center and that curb ramps to aid handicapped persons be built onto city sidewalks.
Knowles said his office currently is studying the feasibility of providing ramps for some sidewalks. Which intersections should receive the ramps, the type of slope to be constructed, and the cost of
