Florida Now Has Three Times As Many Congressmen As 109 Years Ago

By R. W. Patrick
 Member of governing board of P. K. Young Library of Florida History

University of Florida
 GAINESVILLE, Jan. 15 (Special)—The eight congressmen who serve the people of Florida and the nation in the Seventy-Ninth Congress of the United States are almost three times the number that represented the State in 1822, when Florida became a territory of the United States. One hundred years ago there were two senators and only one representative.

The first elected representative from Florida, David Levy, was elected to the House of Representatives in 1822. Levy was chosen by popular vote in May, 1825, over his Whig opponent, Benjamin A. Putnam. The first General Assembly that met in Tallahassee the following June elected David Levy and James D. Westcott to the United States Senate. Because Levy preferred the Senate to the House, he accepted the nomination before he had the opportunity of serving in the House of Representatives.

David Levy, who later took the name of St. Thomas, was born in St. Thomas, West Indies. He came to Florida as a youth with his father, but was sent to school in Norfolk, Virginia. He later worked on one of his father's plantations at Micanopy, Florida, and studied law at St. Augustine under Robert A. Reid who became the Territorial Governor of Florida. After he was admitted to the bar in 1836 Levy's political star ascended rapidly.

As a member of the St. Joseph convention he helped write Florida's first Constitution and in 1845 he was elected Territorial Delegate to Congress. By 1846 he was the best known man in Florida.

James D. Westcott came to Florida from New York, where his father was a well known politician. Westcott served as secretary of Territorial Florida in the United States District of Florida, and as a delegate to the 1845 convention. A year later he was elected to the Florida House of Representatives. In 1845 he was elected to the United States House of Representatives. He served in the House of Representatives until 1850. Two popular Tallahassee lawyer planters succeeded to the people in the election held on Oct. 6, 1850. These were the first returns made by the secretary of State in Tallahassee since Edward Carrington Cabell a majority of 51 votes. The apparent election of Cabell, a Whig, absent from Florida, was a surprise to the self-proclaimed Democrats who had carried the state by a tremendous majority in the previous election.

Cabell's popularity accounted in part for his success. Many Floridians may have voted against the Democratic candidate, William A. Brockenbrough, a resentment against Levy's failure to accept a seat in the House. What ever the reason for his good fortune Cabell received the certification of election from the Secretary of State.

Senators Levy and Westcott and Representative Cabell took their respective places in the Twenty-Ninth Congress on Dec. 1, 1845. Florida's first senators held their offices until the end of their terms, but Cabell's place was soon contested by his opponent Brockenbrough.

Late election returns, those received in Tallahassee later than thirty days after the October election, favored Brockenbrough. Armed with certified statements he hastened to Washington and appeared to the House of Representatives. The Democratic House debated and finally declared Cabell not entitled to his seat and Brockenbrough the representative from Florida. Brockenbrough took his place in the House of Representatives on January 24, 1846.

Florida's first Congressmen were able legislators. None of them were natives of the State they represented for Florida was young, in population. In the State those congressmen were young in years. The oldest, Westcott, was only 43 and the youngest, Cabell, was barely 29. Senator David Levy made the greatest political reputation of the four. Cabell who replaced Brockenbrough in 1847 and was re-elected again and again was perhaps second only to Levy.

German officials estimated the population of Paris and suburbs during the occupation at 4,617,579.

Formosa And China Coast Hit By Planes

Yank Troops Repulse First Jap Counter-attack Since Landing on Luzon Island

(By Associated Press)
Waves of China-based Superforts bombed Formosa today in an explosive aftermath of a three-day carrier raid on the fortress-like island and 350 miles of the China coast in which more than 35 Jap vessels were destroyed or crippled.

The slashing carrier-paced air war stole the limelight from the U.S. Sixth Army's invasion of Luzon island in the Philippines. Yank troops there repulsed the first Jap counter-attack on one flank while the other covered a third of the distance to Manila, widely announced.

Associated Press war correspondents at the front reported that patrols sometimes ranged as much as 25 miles in advance of the U.S. lines and that being Japs were dumping food in the river to keep it from falling into Yank hands.

Tokyo, alarmed by continued Superfort raids and continued talk of an impending cabinet downfall, heard its own radio report that evacuation from the capital will steadily increase despite lack of housing facilities elsewhere.

Hare Ahead on Plain
MacArthur's communique gave no details of the intensity of the Japanese counter-attack, but violent enemy reaction had appeared over the several days as the Sixth Army blows kept the Japanese off balance.

Heavy fighting of the entire front has been under way in the Pozorrubio sector almost from the start.

Rapid gains were scored Sunday as the battlefront widened. U. S. troops drove a series of strategic thrusts across main highways of Luzon's central plain while patrols pushed ahead 10 miles southeast of captured Bayambang, on the main road to Manila, which is some 80 airline miles to the south.

At Monaca Bay, Americans were 32 miles inland from the Gulf. North of the Pozorrubio sector American troops executed a flanking movement east of Damortis northwesterly to cut the road behind the Japanese entrenched between Damortis and Rosario.

Roads from both points on the coast and Pozorrubio inland, lead northward to the Philip-

Armored Breakthrough Possible

ACCORDING TO A DISPATCH from the Philippine front, there is possibility that American armored forces may be able to sweep down the Luzon plain to Manila in a matter of weeks instead of months as first thought. Some army vanguards, striking out from our beachheads at Lingayen Gulf, were moving so fast they had to be slowed down to keep in touch with units behind them. Suffering resistance will undoubtedly be met when the Japs, caught off balance by the initial landings, regroup their forces to the south. Meanwhile, so hot the northward flow of feverish enemy reinforcements, Yank planes have knocked out at least three of the main bridges above Manila. Black area shows U.S. holdings as our forces spread from beachhead. (International)

Many Projects Are Discussed At C Of C Meet

Federal Housing Projects For Low Income Groups Are Among Those Listed

Future prospects for improvement of Seminole County's road system, establishment of a frozen food and cold storage plant in Sanford, the completed employment survey and establishment of a Federal office for veteran's employment, plans for new parks in the county and city, and many other projects, some of sub-standard income, were among topics brought up for review at the meeting Tuesday night at Hotel Mayfair of the Board of Directors of the Seminole County Chamber of Commerce.

Past President W. A. Leffler presided at the supper meeting in the absence of President T. W. Lawson, and read a letter expressing the latter's regrets at being unable to be present. About 30 directors were present.

So many live topics came up for review that Mr. Leffler proposed that the directors meet oftener to discuss them, and it was agreed that meetings in the future will be held on the second Tuesday of each month.

In the absence of R. E. Wheeler, chairman of the Good Roads Committee, State Representative W. B. Smith made a report of his trip to Tallahassee when he was accompanied by Senator L. E. Boyle and Representative L. B. Mann in the interest of county road projects, and reported satisfactory progress on these. It is expected that War Production Board priorities will be secured very soon on Road 203 from Howard through Chuluota to the Cheney Highway, and for Road 44 from the Titusville bridge over the St. Johns River to Lake Jessup, he said.

Representative Mann reported fine progress on real of locks for the proposed frozen food and cold storage plant, and said the project is going forward in a satisfactory manner.

Following the report of W. B. Smith, chairman of the Committee on unemployment, in which Mr. Smith told of the employment survey made by Charles Morris and of establishment here of the Federal Employment Office, it was agreed, at Mr. Smith's request to discharge the Committee on unemployment and create a new one for its work in this regard.

Reporting for the Public Parks Committee, Sanford J. Bondurant, county tax assessor, told of the proposed county park to be sited at Mullet Lake and Lake Island, of addition of 20 acres to the Municipal Ball Park, which would permit training here of major league baseball clubs in the postwar period. He said that the County had donated to Sanford Park Avenue between the streets of Park Avenue and the Municipal Ball Park, and of a site for a County Park between Chuluota and Oweeth.

Chamber Manager Edward D. King in his report said that the deferred River and Harbor Bill (Continued on Page Three)

The broadcast was repeated three times, followed by the playing of the Polish national anthem.

The Allies in the west in resumption of their offensive gained 1,000 yards in a British Second Army drive 21 miles above Aachen and smashed anew at the German bridgehead over the Rhine in the Strasbourg area, far to the south.

Sanford Sailor Is Pictured In Life

Frank E. Halman, Pfc 2/c, USN, World War veteran and enlisted man of the present war, formerly stationed at the Sanford Naval Air Station where he was affectionately known as "Pop," was pictured among servicemen sitting in the GI Phone Center with windows overlooking Times Square in the December 25 edition of Life Magazine, page 75. He is seated face to the camera at the extreme right in the group. "Pop" Halman was probably the only enlisted man to serve at Sanford Naval Air Station who also served with the Fifth Battle Squadron of the last war. He was present at the surrender of the German Fleet of 350 vessels at the Frith of Farth, Scotland, Nov. 21, 1918.

Halman was discharged from the service in July, 1919. Feeling that his services were needed in the present war, he re-enlisted in Jacksonville in September, 1942. While in Sanford he lived at 1200 Park Avenue with his wife and two sons, George, 19 and Leonard, 14.

Army Looter Gets Life Term In Sale Of Gas

Sold 20 Gallons In Paris Black Market; Others Get 25 Years

PARIS, Jan. 17. (AP)—Private Level Ealy was sentenced to life imprisonment last week by a court martial at headquarters of the Oise section for an illegal sale of twenty gallons of American Army gasoline to the French black market. Two military policemen and a convicted French black-market operator testified against Ealy.

Two other enlisted men were sentenced to twenty-five years of hard labor, at a trial held here for their part in grain-looting black-market deals by members of an Army railway battalion.

They were found guilty in a general court-martial session convened by the protest of one defendant that he was brought into making a signed confession.

This defendant, Sergeant Frank C. Pozzi, of Chicago, testified that Army investigators "threatened me with 'jury' until he decided to sign the confession of theft of government property."

The second defendant, Sergeant Walter G. Thorsell, of Portland, Ore., testified that an investigator "threatened me verbally with a rubber hose," but he corroborated the essential points of his signed confession.

The life sentence for selling gasoline emphasized the grim view the Army is taking of criminal diversion of fuel into the black market.

The railway battalion cases being tried in Paris have not yet involved any diversion of Army gasoline. Hence, the heaviest sentence in the series of trials so far has been fifty years but this is drastic enough to underline the Army's determination to crush racketeering on supply lines to the front.

Pozzi and Thorsell were accused of participating in thefts of post exchange supplies from trains and selling the cigarettes and other items to the black market. The testimony of undercover agents pictured an atmosphere of corruption along the railway line from Dreux to Paris.

Want the low-down on SYNTHETIC TIRES?

Oh Boy, here's all the dope on synthetic rubber tires and tubes

Because we urge you again to make your tires last we want to tell you that we do have a very interesting booklet on "The Inside Facts About Synthetic Tires." You will enjoy reading it.

Save rubber and shorten the war

Even though there's lots of synthetic rubber, it's being used to win the war. Bombers, fighters, jeeps, trucks, tanks and the endless caravans of supply trucks devour tires at terrific rates. That's why you may have to wait for your tires. However, we can keep you rolling by skillful repair and recapping of your present carcasses. Don't let them wear down too fast.

Post-War Draft Seen Essential By Wadsworth

In GOP Club Talks He And Tunney Say U.S. Safety Demands It

NEW YORK CITY, Jan. 17. (AP)—Universal military training was declared imperative to the future protection of America in talks recently by Representative James W. Wadsworth, of New York, and Commander Gene Tunney, U. S. N. R., former heavyweight boxing champion, before the regular Saturday Luncheon Club of the National Republican Club, 54 West Forty-fourth Street.

Wadsworth expressed confidence that the bill introduced by Representative Andrew J. May, of Kentucky, the chairman of the House Military Affairs Committee, providing for year of active service by American boys between the ages of eighteen and twenty-one will see approval. This provides for service in either the Army or Navy.

"Despite the fact that we passed the selective service act (which is sponsored) fourteen months before Pearl Harbor," Representative Wadsworth said, "we still were only getting ready when it came. Our allies held the lines eighteen months while we were finishing our preparations. The next time we may not have that good fortune. Hereafter every boy called to the colors will have been trained."

As chairman of the Senate Military Affairs Committee immediately after the last war, Mr. Wadsworth recalled the efforts to enact universal military training. He said it was rejected largely on the contention there would be no more wars.

Commander Tunney said "we are fighting bullets and bullets attack the weak, not the strong."

FORMER screen star Alberta Vaughn is shown in Van Nuys, Cal. jail with a policeman after she had been arrested. Police said they found her performing a "smokey dance" in the street wearing wooly GI drawers, and a long undershirt. The ex-film player said she staged the dance to obtain cigarettes. (International)

"If we had an army of 2,000,000 or so backed by a great trained reserve, I do not believe for a moment that Japan would have attacked us at Pearl Harbor or that Hitler would have struck in Europe," he said.

"A trained reserve will prevent war; if war comes it will make the next war shorter, acerbic in life and treatment."

Vegetable Group Asks More Money For Research Aims

Lakeland, Jan. 17. (Special)

A new major industry for Florida developed from the by-products of its vegetables is one objective sought by the Florida Vegetable Committee in its 1945 legislative program based on a state expenditure of $10,000 annually for research at the University of Florida, it was stated by LaMotte Graw, committee manager, this week on his return from Tallahassee where the State Budget Commission approved the proposal for submission to the State Legislature.

The Budget Commission, in addition, gave its blessing to a proposed $10,000 annual appropriation for studies of vegetable grading, packaging, handling and transportation improvements, and approved budget increases ranging from 10 per cent to 30 per cent for the various vegetable experiment stations, including $12,500 for new studies on the sandy soils of the lower east coast.

Pointing out that much too little has been publicized of the high nutrient values of Florida crops, Graw said the new State Legislature would be asked to finance a research program that would result in the production of such by-products from waste vegetables as vitamins, pigments, essential oils, pectins, acids, flavonoids, etc.

According to figures submitted by the Florida Vegetable Committee's legislative group, it would cost $30,000 for research buildings and equipment at the University to put the program into operation and then $30,000 per year for salaries and equipment to carry on adequate research into such preservation activities as canning, freezing, cold storage, dehydration, concentration, brining, pickling, bottling and other means, as well as investigation on by-products.

"If ever there is to be a new major industry for Florida," Graw said, "it will come from her vegetable and fruit products. A very high percentage of our State income comes from these two sources and, until recently, we have done very little research on food products."

"A majority of research to date has been to improve on methods of culture to make vegetables grow where one grew before. Now we have reached the place where it is necessary that we show the producer what to do with this second vegetable, now that he has grown it and has no fresh market for it."

Sonnet for the Year's End

(From The Lyric) There is no darkness of a thousand years...

There is no expiration, no rebirth, Only man's joy forever on the earth;

All born in joy, all exquisite, no fears.

All born in joy! Joy, joy, all only joy!

Joy from the boy to man, from man to boy!

All joy ascending, ecstasy, all praise,

All carrying kindness to the end of days.

Tell yet in eager testament, proclaim

The sight and sound of man, his holy name,

Roll ever through the old misal mist,

In thunder yet, the dear, the beauty-kiss,

The fierce, fond truth of being, praise and plan,

The infinite sublimity of man.

JOHN BLACK.

What this country needs is more "presentism" less "absentism."

A Washington politician says there are 30,000 more Army officers in Washington than necessary.

And thirty thousand more politicians.

The waste has lost their Belgian but their photograph indicates Herman Goering is still carrying a little extra weight around the middle.

It's funny how many people think it's all right to draft men to die for their country but all wrong to force men to work to support those who are fighting.

Senator Wheeler seems to think that a negotiated peace would save American lives. But Senator Wheeler may merely be trying to maintain his record of always being wrong.

Mobilizer Byrnes rules that temperature regulators must be turned down to 68. We are winning the war by degrees.—Fort Myers News Press. Yeah, half a degree, half a degree, half a degree, upward, through the valley of death rode the six hundred.

The Hughes Aircraft Company of Long Beach, Calif., announces a new eight-engine cargo transport plane, said to be the largest in the world. Nearing the flight test stage, the company recently had to lease seven more acres of land for the purpose.

Dade county established another record for itself in 1944, though one that only the lawyers and the courts can "point to with pride." It had nearly a thousand more divorces than in 1943 and so reached 5,105. Very likely in 1945 it can do even worse.—Melbourne Times. Sanford has been making a few records of her own along this line lately.

Senator Pepper advocates lifting the excess profits tax in the $10,000 to $25,000 class of small business in order to encourage expansion and bigger post-war payrolls. The purchase of new equipment, the erection of new factories or additional buildings, in fact expansion along any line, means some out of profits, and if the bulk of the profits have to be turned over to the government for excess taxes there's precious little left for expansion or new payrolls.

Some Sanford citizens are making a good bet in not signing for one of the lockers in the proposed new frozen locker plant which is going to be erected in the near future at the State Farmers' market. This plant will be of great value not only to farmers but to folks with victory gardens and even to thrifty housewives with no farm product of their own whatever. The greatest problem about victory gardens has always been that the carrots, beets or what have you, all come in at about the same time, giving you more than you can eat for a few weeks and then none at all for the rest of the year. With a frozen locker, you simply put your excess in cold storage, get it out when needed.

Slackers On The Home Front

Many a prominent businessman or official attributes his success in life to the fact that he arose early, worked hard all day, stayed late in the evening and never thought he was too good to do well any job that came his way. One hardly expects to find 19th century methods applied to 20th century problems, but some of the lessons which our grandfathers learned so well would be a big help today in abolishing this country's manpower shortage.

A housekeeper was telling us the other day that she had engaged a cleaning woman to help give her house its somewhat belated annual Fall housecleaning. Everything had been agreed upon. Windex, floor polish, scrubbing brushes, Dutch Cleanser, and waxing machine had been procured. Everything was in readiness. And then the cleaning woman failed to show up.

A local farmer had engaged a crew of field workers to harvest his peppers. They failed to show up. Another crew was located and they went to work but after a little while an argument arose between one of the workers and the foreman who contended he was spending more time talking than he was working. The whole crew quit. After several similar false starts the peppers were left to rot in the field.

When such things happen it isn't the farmer who is hurt the most; it is the consuming public, you, me and all the rest of us, the tired hands themselves, who can't eat the peppers unless they are picked. When girls hired at a restaurant fail to show up for work it isn't the restaurant owner who suffers so much as it is the patrons who can't get anything to eat, or at best have to wait an hour or more for their meals.

Unfortunately a great many people in these days of high wages and plentiful jobs are building up a very poor reputation for themselves. Instead of making a record of dependability, competence, efficiency, they are leaving behind them a trail of dissatisfied employers who will never offer them another job as long as they live. Irresponsible indolent employees making a reputation for themselves that will cause the mto be the first to be laid off when the soldiers come home, that will put them on the relief rolls when the war is over.

These are good times, a very prosperous era, for the average wage earner who manages to avoid being drafted. This is a great war if you don't have to fight it. But the time is coming when all that will be changed, when jobs will not be so numerous and plenty of honest hard working boys who have seen service in France and the Pacific will be ready to fill them.

Slackers on the home front would do well to think this over, change their ways and go to work and tie themselves to a good job, before it is too late.

Brilliant Historian

The late Philip Guedalla interested thousands of people in history and biography who otherwise would never have dreamed of reading either. He was a sound historian, but also captivated his readers by his brilliant style, crackling with puns and epigrams. If he had written a book on the construction of hot-air furnaces, his followers would have read it, and would have been fascinated.

Starting out with French history, Guedalla wrote an Napoleon and on the Second Empire ruled by Napoleon's nephew Napoleon III. Then he turned to the English 19th century. Among his subjects were Gladstone and that great English statesman of the first half of the century, the carefree, bantering Palmerston. He also portrayed England's Gen. Grant, the Duke of Wellington, who, like Grant, was the most successful soldier of the day, but found his country's highest office beyond his powers.

Sometimes Guedalla forced his brilliancy. Tops for badness was his account of the French Writer, Marcel Proust, who, said Guedalla, attained "a wave of popularity, a Marcel wave". His best, however, was beyond that of almost any other historian of the day.

FAVORITE STAMPING GROUND

Too Late To Classify

By RUSSELL KAY

There is a bit of fabled ground in Tarpon Springs that a mad world passes by in its frantic scramble for material gain and so-called safety and security.—On this ground stands a tiny church, where those who know its amazing story and BELIEVE come quietly to kneel and pray.

I am indebted to Tommy Guthrie, former staff writer with the St. Petersburg Times and to Mrs. Helen Hennig, publisher of the Tarpon Springs Leader for the facts that make this column possible.

It goes back five years to a February morning when 11 year old Steve Tsalikis, son of a Greek sponge fisherman, stayed home from school because of a terrible headache.—The pain in Steve's head persisted and became so acute that a doctor was called. His trouble was diagnosed as a brain tumor and he was rushed to a hospital in Tampa. Specialists examined the boy and said there was no hope. Steve was going to die.

The boy's father, at that moment was somewhere in the Gulf of Mexico, perhaps walking on the bottom, in his diving suit looking for sponges. In the hope he might be reached and brought to the bedside of his dying son, a coast guard plane was dispatched. No one knew the exact location of the sponge fleet, it could be anywhere on the open Gulf. Whose unseen hand guided the direction of that speeding plane no man can say but it flew directly to the fleet and locating Tsalikis' boat, the "Goldie" swooped down to pick up the fisherman and speed him back to Tampa.

In the meantime, Marie Tsalikis, mother of the doomed boy, sat sobbing softly at the bedside of her dying son.—Deeply religious she had brought with her an icon of St. Michael. Little Steve lay with this clutched tightly in his hands.—Then suddenly he began to speak. "Mama," he said, "St. Michael has been talking to me. He says I am to be a priest and I am to build a church for him in Tarpon Springs."

Too Late To Classify

By RUSSELL KAY

Then with faint but eager voice little Steve continued, "Mama, St. Michael came out of the sky and took my hand and we traveled through the sky, we stepped at our house in Tarpon Springs and he showed me where I was to build the church, then he took me to his monastery in Symi and talked to me about being a priest." (Steve's parents were born on the island of Symi, off the coast of Greece and had visited the Monastery of St. Michael.)

"Yes, my son," the mother replied, wishing to encourage the boy.

"I told St. Michael I was sick and didn't think I could be a priest," Steve continued, "but he says I am to be a priest and that I will be well in the morning." From then on Steve rallied. By morning he was well. Doctors attending him were amazed. They said it was truly a miracle. His father arrived to find a living happy boy instead of the corpse he had expected.

Back in Tarpon Springs Steve returned to school. The trouble with his head never bothered him again. But he continued to have visions or dreams. It seemed that St. Michael returned again and again to remind him that he must build a church and that he was destined to become a priest. His family explained that while they were most grateful to St. Michael, they were very poor and had no money to build a church. Alone, little Steve began laying stones one upon the other. He said St. Michael told him if he would start the church it would be built. His faith was unswerving. Then the second miracle occurred.

Friends and neighbors in the Greek colony who knew the story of Steve's miraculous recovery volunteered to help. They contributed money, labor and material and the Church of St. Michael became a reality. Built of stone, covered with stucco, painted white and trimmed in blue, a brown cross rises above its door and smaller crosses near-lighted rise above the edifice at each end of the peaked roof. Inside alcoves house sacred icons and statues. Every minute that he was not occupied with school work or chores Steve spent in his church, which is dedicated to St. Michael and is Greek Orthodox.

Thus the simple faith of a child reached the realm "of things not seen," to rob a grave and give the world a House of Worship that would otherwise not have existed. Such faith is the world's greatest need today and mankind must find it if lasting peace is to be achieved.

Eugene Wilson Shepard, Pan-American Airways pilot and son of Justice and Mrs. John Wesley Shepard of Hollywood, on Dec. 15, in Fort Lauderdale. The ceremony was performed by Howard county Judge Boyd H. Anderson at the courthouse.

He attended Hurst Private School and Hollywood Central School and is a graduate of South Howard High School. He began his aviation training at Embury Riddle School at the age of 16. For nearly a year before war was declared, he was a civilian flight instructor at Fort Field, A. F. Transport Command under contract with Pan American and is now with the Latin American Division of the company.

RURAL COMMON SENSE

By Spuds Johnson

FLORIDA FINE GUM IS ESSENTIAL TO THE WOODS. GUMS AT THE FRONT. Gum dipped from a Florida pine may go to a flame thrower welded by a Florida boy against the enemy on a Pacific island, into the medicine for an other Florida's boys wound in the European area, or into the paint on the hull of a transport carrying Florida boys to distant battlefronts.

Fine gum is used in the manufacture of fuel for "lime" power in medicine, in making paper for ships, and in a large number of other things that are vital and needed for fighting the war.

Fine gum is also the main component of the war and the necessary weapon for the armed forces.

Jap Area Of Kobe-Osaka Gets Bombing

Yanks Hold On Highway To Manila Is Ture Of Urdaneta Extended With Cap-

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19. (AP)—America, Britain and Canada are agreed upon continuing until the Japanese defeat, all machinery now coordinating the production and allocation of vital war supplies and food. The agencies to be retained after the German collapse are the Combined Production and Resources Board, the Combined Food Board and the Combined Raw Materials Board.

(By Associated Press) Superfortresses today shifted the Pacific bombing back to Japan. About 80 Marianas-based B-29s rained destruction on the Kobe-Osaka industrial area. Tokyo reported, admitting "some damage."

On Luzon, the capture of Urdaneta extended the Yanks' hold on the northern sector of the vital highway link Manila and Baguio. Other Yanks drove toward Agno while southern columns captured Paniqui, a highway-rail junction. The northern section of the main highway to Manila opened for Gen. Douglas MacArthur's steamroller when the Sixth Army captured Urdaneta, 27 road miles (Continued on Page Two)

ALONG A 600-MILE FRONT from Budapest to the Baltic Sea, the huge Russian winter drive is under way with the main push headed for the ancient Polish capital of Krakow (1) and southern Germany. ## Celery Losses Are Estimated At Up To 50%

Some Fields Reported At Making Fine Gains Since Storm

By Willard Connolly
Outright losses in yield of 25 to 50 percent of celery planted in the Sanford area prior to the hurricane of Oct. 19, was estimated yesterday by a number of west side growers in the celery avenue region.

One grower, Kirby W. Eble, estimated a 50 percent increase in loss on celery would result to some growers of the section, both by outright loss of crops in the field, damage to seed beds, resulting in some land not being planted, and also the fact that pre-storm celery has been delayed in marketing from three to four weeks behind schedule, resulting in probable loss to the grower due to not being able to obtain early market prices.

Some fields were observed to be making fine gains since the storm.

Nursing Need Growing With More Patients

Battle Casualties Up 270 Percent With Increase Of Only 2 Thousand Nurses

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19. (AP)—The Army Surgeon General today said the inadequacy of nursing care, in the face of a 270 percent increase in battle casualty patients, makes it imperative that nurses be drafted. Maj. Gen. Norman Kirk told a House Military Committee subcommittee that the number of nurses has risen only 2,000. He supported the President's nurse draft proposal.

A high government official said the Army and Navy have lent about 10,000 more nurses to combat duty to fill labor gaps in critical war production. They have been working on such items as tires, copper and laundry products. The Army and Navy now want them back in uniform, it was reported today.

With objectors still far from overpowered, plans for a 45,000 labor draft sought to entice agricultural backing with testimony that it should aid farm labor.

The timetable which had called for House Military committee approval yesterday was thrown overboard.

At their call for a nurse draft, the Surgeon General and the War Relocation Authority, the particular measure of a nurse draft was not mentioned. The army's position for a general national service law, however, was fully stated and was complicated by Marshall yesterday. He did not, however, specifically mention the pending measure of a nurse draft.

Yesterday's testimony came from Gen. James H. Doolittle, chief of the War Relocation Authority. He said the pending bill for selective action against men 18 to 45 who won't stay on war jobs but seek "greater chances to do farmers' work."
