Legality Of Viet War Challenged By Preacher Opposing Violence

By DON McLEOD
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Bomb throwing is the easy way to dissent and working within the system the most difficult, says the author of a Massachusetts law challenging the legality of the Vietnam war.

"And yet, these militants get all the support, and people like us, trying to act within the law and uphold the law, get little or none," declared the Rev. John M. Wells.

He spoke angrily as he stood on the steps of the Supreme Court, where he seeks to bring the war issue and looked across at the U. S. Capitol, torn by a bomb March 1.

"When I see things like this," Wells gestured toward the Capitol, "I feel like bashing my head against the wall. Things like this can undo in a minute all we've been able to accomplish in two years."

"There's a bomb and you can get all kinds of publicity, financial support," Wells added. "But file a suit or support a piece of legislation and you have to live with it for the rest of your life."

Wells, 43, says he is dedicated to the system and conceived his Massachusetts bill to uphold the Constitution, rather than end the war.

It is the constitutional issue which is important, Wells said, and his efforts were focused on getting the Supreme Court to rule on how the nation legally can go to war.

The Massachusetts law and resultant court cases seek to have the high court decide if the Vietnam conflict is unconstitutional because Congress receives the responsibility by the Constitution—has not declared war.

The Supreme Court has refused so far to consider the question.

In the fall of 1969 Wells, then minister of the First Parish Unitarian Church of Lexington, Mass., drafted a bill and got State Rep. H. James Shea to sponsor it in the Massachusetts legislature.

The bill, passed early last year, general to sue in Federal courts to protect any Massachusetts citizens required to serve in foreign hostilities in the absence of a congressional declaration of war.

The Supreme Court refused last fall to take original jurisdiction of the suit, and Massachusetts Atty. Gen. Robert H. Quinn refiled in U.S. district court in Boston in February.

The suit says 12 Massachusetts servicemen required to serve in an "unconstitutional war," are being deprived of their liberty and perhaps their lives in violation of the due process clause of the Fifth Amendment.

The New York legislature was about to get a similar bill, but researchers found one on the books since 1797 when President John Adams sent troops against the Indians without congressional authorization.

Two suits so far have been brought in New York, and another in California.

Meanwhile, bills similar to the Massachusetts model are moving through the legislatures of 13 states—a number which Wells finds significant.

'No World Talks' On Delay Of SST

By STAN BENJAMIN
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Despite contentions a superjet transport fleet might alter the world's climate, the Nixon administration brushed aside the idea of an international moratorium on SST construction, with an asking if other nations were interested.

Bertram W. Rein, deputy assistant secretary of state for transportation and telecommunications, confirmed in a telephone interview "there has been no approach of that kind" to the Soviet Union, Great Britain or France which are building SSTs.

SST supporters argue other countries will build the faster-than-sound plane even if the United States does not.

In an environmental impact statement issued last December, the Transportation Department mentioned the possibility "that production of all SSTs on a worldwide basis is halted until the environmental effects of SST flight can be explored."

But the statement dismissed the idea with the argument: "It is unlikely that at this stage production could be halted since it would appear to be a U.S. attempt to overcome their lead."

The British-French Concorde already is being tested and may see commercial operation by 1974. The Soviet Union is reported on the verge of starting commercial SST flights this year.

The possibility high-flying SSTs might affect the weather has been a major argument of opponents of the aircraft.

The Transportation Department's environmental impact statement quoted a Massachusetts Institute of Technology study group's recommendation for more research on the possibility SST exhaust might increase winter cloudiness in the polar regions.

But it omitted the group's finding that "a feeling of genuine concern has emerged from these conclusions."

The MIT study recommended that uncertainties about SST contamination and its effects be resolved before large-scale operation of SSTs begins.

American carriers will fly the best planes available. But if they cannot get them with a made-in-the-USA label, they will get them elsewhere.

A Senate Appropriations subcommittee is taking testimony on the Nixon administration's request for $290 million to continue development of two SST prototypes.

In a statement prepared for the subcommittee, AFL-CIO President George Meany said continuation of the SST program will create an eventual 290,000 jobs, help recover a favorable U.S. balance of trade and put the slumping aerospace industry back on its feet.

"The opposition of the conservationists is based more on emotion than on fact... We do not view the SST as a 'hobby' for the international jet set, but as the top of a product line that can help to stem and reverse the nation's dollar drain," Meany said.

Linked With Corruption

Ex-General Called In PX Probe

By LAWRENCE L. KNUTSON
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Stripped of his general's star and accused of taking bribes in Vietnam, retired Army Col. Paul Franklin Cole was called to the Senate witness stand today following allegations he covered up a web of corruption influencing sales to U.S. military clubs around the world.

Cole was scheduled to appear Tuesday but the panel didn't get to him and track his testimony to an apartment section; and a third section will be placed to the right of this wet section, making two apartments to a floor.

Wells has claimed Cole repeatedly protected the allegedly illicit sales operations of civilian friends in Vietnam and prevented or whitewashed investigations into their activities.

Most of the testimony about Cole in the past two weeks dealt with his activities as chief adviser to the Army PX and club systems in Vietnam in 1967 and 1968.

Witnesses said Vietnam sales entrepreneur William J. Crum boosted Cole was costing him $1,000 monthly for such services as protecting his slick machine and whiskey-distributing firms from the police and for causing raids on his competition.

Tuesday, Brig. Gen. Harley L. Moore, provost marshal general of the U.S. Army in Europe, related a new episode in what some senators are calling the Cole saga.

Moore said Cole was relieved of duties as head of the giant Army Air Force Exchange Service in Europe following an investigation into contacts he had made with Hong Kong merchants.

About a month later, Oct. 10, 1969, Cole disappeared. After a search of several European countries, his staff car was found, and in it was an unlocked briefcase containing two "secret, specific and highly important" documents on military operations in Vietnam, Moore said.

Cole was found two days later and told investigators con-

Immokalee Education 'A Fraud'

By PAT LEISSNER
Associated Press Writer

IMMOKALEE, Fla. (AP) — Education is a fraud in Immokalee, charged a former school teacher who improved the state Tuesday to launch an investigation.

"All I'm saying is come in and see for yourself," Marcelle Thompson asked the Joint Legislative Commission on Migrant Labor during a hearing Wednesday.

Spanish-American youngsters in Bethune Middle School are "abused," she claimed, because they are promoted through grades with no consideration as to whether the pupils have digested the previous classwork.

"How can Spanish speaking youngsters be taught if the teachers don't even speak Spanish? Seventh, eighth and ninth graders can't read Spanish or English," said Mrs. Thompson.

There are bilingual courses in the early grades but they don't solve the problem, she said.

Deviates 'Phone, Molest Women

AROUND THE CLOCK

Hey, I thought that the Mumps were only for the kids! Further, that you couldn't be bothered with 'em more than once. . . . Ha!

While learning my ps and ms of life, I can remember Mom telling me 'bout how healthy I was, and that I really didn't contract none of the normal childhood diseases, etc.

Yep real healthy . . . EXCEPT that now each one of my own youngsters come down with this 'bug', Dear Old Dad has to run out and get himself a shot.

And if you only had to get one injection, it wouldn't be too bad . . . but the darn thing is that you have to go back in a week for the booster. (And I'm certain that my favorite nurse Betty, loaded it with a dosage.)

It's been said that misery loves company. . . So, come on in, I'm lookin' and the welcome mat is out, folks. . . .

Get the feeling of the growth going around on you? For those of you living in quiet, little North Orlando (which really isn't so 'little' at all) it is about to change its physical characteristics so much, that in the next two years or so you won't be able to remember it the way it is right now.

Sound far fetched, you say? Don't kid yourself. . . everyone, but everyone wants to come into Seminole County.

Not only is this area going to mushroom with many, many houses (of all sizes and shape and construction) but there's bound to be more than a few huge condominiums, too.

Speaking of those multi-storied structures, don't be surprised if the announcement isn't made shortly about a couple of 'em along Lake Monroe, too.

It may be redundant on my part, but there's just no way that the majority of us can envision how Seminole County is going to "explode" with growth in all areas. . . .

The Catholic Diocese of Orlando is going ahead with their plans to "arouse public support for legislation aimed at providing State Aid to non-public school children in Florida. Five different meeting sites have been selected with the closest in Orlando at Bishop Moore High School on Wednesday, March 3 at 7:30 p.m.

No sense in kidding yourself. . . if these private schools. . . and I'm not restricting it just to Catholic Parochial Schools. . . If these schools go broke and the students are forced to enter the public schools. . . Look Out Katie!

Where you gonna put 'em. . . and where are you going to put the extra money to build the extra schools?

A woman, whose truck driver husband was away from home, complained to county authorities that a man knocked her out when she entered her Longwood-Markham Road home.

She stated the man followed her inside as she arrived home and she observed a "hippie" type character wearing a head band and a suede poncho outside in a car.

The woman said she fled to the kitchen with the man in pursuit and grabbed a knife, which she threw. The blade struck in the man's shoulder but he withdrew it, cursed and slugged her in the head, she said.

When she awoke the man was gone, she concluded.

Finally, a Sanford woman reported receiving two obscene calls from a man who told her he was the person who raped a Sanford girl last weekend after lying up the girl's family.

She said the voice told her she would be his next victim.

Sanford Scores As Seminole Loses

By BILL SCOTT
Sanford received approval for its airport authority creation bill but Seminole County got thumbs down on three pieces of intended legislation at Wednesday night's Seminole-Orange legislative delegation hearings at Mason Temple.

The county bills, two of them aimed at annexation and one to establish a study commission to probe consolidation of governments and boards, were turned down after strong vocal opposition from south Seminole municipalities.

The annexation bills would have limited the county cities in the ways by which they can annex property and forbade the annexing by highway rights-of-way.

Altamonte-Longwood City Atorney S. J. Davis Jr. and Dr. Edith Duerr, Casselberry Council chairman, spoke long and loud against the annexation bills, as did Edna Norman, representing the Seminole County taxpayers group, who traditionally oppose all plans of annexation.

Mrs. Norman said she wanted to live in the country and did not need city services. She said the broad annexation bill would allow only one referendum, which would include both in-town and outside residents and

Child Frightened Of Stepfather, Aunt Testifies In Murder Trial

By MARION BETHA

Mrs. Smalley said she questioned Mrs. Powers as to the child's apparent fright and Mrs. Powers replied that Ronald said he was "not going to have a two-year old in my house who needs a blanket and baby bottle." Consequently, she said he took the bottles and shot them full of holes.

After the child's death, Mrs. Smalley said that her sister told her that bruises on the child's buttocks, were inflicted by Powers although Mrs. Powers told the Navy physicians that she had inflicted them because the child had run away.

Upon cross examination, defense attorney Clark Jennings attempted to establish the reasons for the child's apparent fright in the hospital as being Powers having a handage on his eye.

Mrs. Smalley refuted this and said the mother had told her the two did not get along and that she believed the patch was of no consequence.

She did admit that the child's reluctance to return with her stepfather could have been due to having a good time at Mrs. Smalley's home and that she was told the bruises noted stemmed from being told the child was pushed from a truck.

Upholds Board Of Adjustment

Building Exception OKd By County

By LARRY NEELY

The Seminole County Commissioners Tuesday morning upheld the decision of the Board of Adjustment and denied an appeal of its decision.

The Board of Adjustment had granted a special exception to W. T. Barnes to build a guest house with kitchen facilities in Longwood Hills, Commissioners Greg Drummond, Sid Whelan and Ed Yorkborough voted to deny the appeal of the Board's decision made by Michael Dennis, an adjacent property owner. Commissioners Al Davis and John Kimbrough dissented from the majority.

Barnes said that he had been told by the Board of Adjustment that he could build the guest house first and then add the kitchen and would not have to seek a special exception, but he wanted everything to be above board.

Whelan noted that he could also build a piece of his six-acre lot to build the guest house and then would not have to have approval. Davis then pointed out that he (Barnes) would not build the guest house without a special exception if he did not include a kitchen. Barnes reiterated at that point that he realized that there were ways of getting around the issue legally but that he wanted everything "above board."

Davis based his opposition on the fact that it would be difficult to prevent future owners from renting the property as is often done in that area to accommodate seasonal tourists who follow the dog racing and jai alai seasons. The approval for the exception was granted with Barnes offering for the record his willingness to state that he would not rent the guest house while he owned it and would place a deed restriction at the time of sale preventing the next owner from renting it.

County Planner David Ferr said the question raised in his mind on the matter was whether the county could prevent the construction of more than one home meeting the minimum of 700 square feet of living space on a single lot in an A-1 zone.

That question went unanswered.

Drummond stated that question in this case was the kitchen as Barnes would build the guest house without a special exception if he did not include a kitchen. Barnes reiterated at that point that he realized that there were ways of getting around the issue legally but that he wanted everything "above board."

Davis based his opposition on the fact that it would be difficult to prevent future owners from renting the property as

Cesar Augustus may have been the original tax collector but he was strictly small-time when it comes to the tax collectors that rate the bits on American taxpayers each year.

Some taxpayers are naive enough to believe that the tax drags on their pocketbooks stems only from such things as income tax, sales tax and property tax.

How many of you know that there are 151 taxes on a loaf of bread alone?

Or that there are 800 tax bites (not nibbles) on a house?

As April's tax deadline rolls around again, Frank Macomber has prepared a report on the overtaxed American.

New Fighting Breaks Loose As Commies Attack In Laos

SAIGON (AP) — New fighting erupted in the Serepon area in southern Laos today as U.S. B-52 bombers kept up their heavy pounding of the Ho Chi Minh trail.

Helicopter pilots shuttling into Laos reported heavy rocket and mortar attacks by the North Vietnamese. One helicopter landing zone was said to have been hit by more than 100 rockets and mortar rounds.

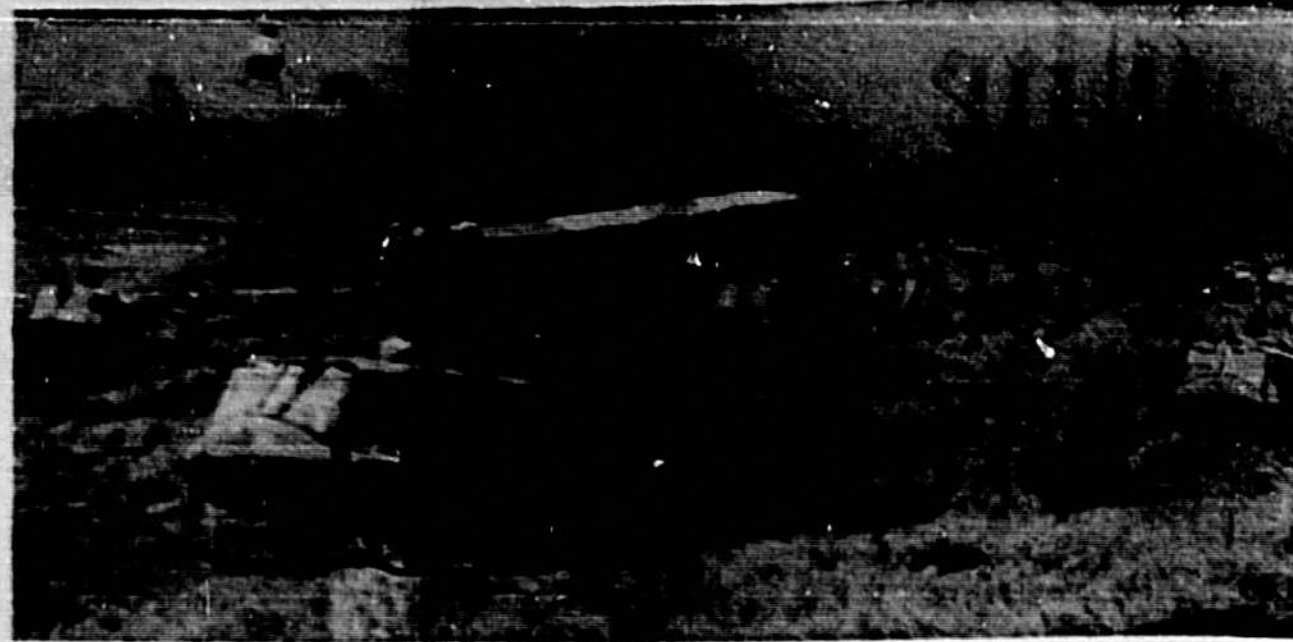

Planes also reported heavy ground contact but could give no details.

A South Vietnamese military spokesman at Quang Tri, Mai

Fog and low clouds for the third day cut heavily into U.S. helicopter support for the South Vietnamese ground troops sweeping across the North Vietnamese supply network in Laos, the report said. The weather had no effect on the eight-engine B-52s flying at altitudes up to 30,000 feet.

Welfare Failure: Reagan

By BILL STALL
Associated Press Writer
SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — Gov. Ronald Reagan says welfare in the United States has failed because it has no goal.

"The Republic overhauls program for California which he says can be a model for the nation.

"The purpose, he says, is "to see how close you can come to making welfare eliminate the need for itself."

The key is found in one word: work.

Reagan's program includes a public work force for able-bodied welfare recipients who won't or can't get jobs or work in job training projects.

It would be something like the Depression-era Works Progress Administration.

"If you check back to the pre-World War II days, you'll find that WPA, with all the welfare systems we have today about it, was far more successful than it is now," Reagan said in an interview Wednesday.

"And it had virtually replaced welfare."

Tax Relief 'Ace in Hole' For Nixon, His Promise

Magnetic Train Is Coming

MENLO PARK, Calif. (AP) — The federal government is backing research on a passenger train that would travel up to 1,900 miles an hour through a tube containing this air at a temperature of 450 degrees below zero.

A $12.257 Department of Transportation grant to determine the feasibility of such a system was announced Wednesday for Stanford Research Institute, which is working on the project.

An institute spokesman said this marked the first time the federal government had taken a financial interest in research on the concept, which has been studied in the United States and Japan for several years.

The objective is a pressurized train that would roll on rubber tires until it reached a 50-mile-an-hour speed through a tube where a partial vacuum had been created to minimize air resistance. Then the vehicle would be lifted off the ground by magnetic force, and whiz silently through the thin air.

Save Our Shad-SOS Is Chamber Theme Song

By BILL SCOTT
Save our shad (SOS) was the theme at this morning's Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce waterways committee meeting.

Chaired by James Ryan, the committee met with Orange-Seminole Rep. William Fulford, Rev. Williams and Jerry Berger of the State Department of Natural Resources, Ben Franklin, Winter Park conservationist and Charlie Harris, outdoor editor for the Orlando newspaper.

That shad is a declining fish species was not debated; however, the best method for restoring the St. Johns River to its former status as world class fishing headquarters either by making the species a sport fish or limit the number of days that commercial fishing interests can reap the fish was the subject for much discussion.

Rep. Fulford said he had a bill to introduce in the legislature that would step commercial fishing for a 75-hour period on the weekends.

According to Williams and Berger, the Natural Resources Department had agreed, along with the commercial fishing interests to the restriction in an effort to save the fish.

Testimony in the murder court-martial of Lt. William L. Calley Jr. ended today after Col. Ora K. Henderson laid the stand and disclosed that higher commands at My Lai were concerned over civilian deaths even while the operation was in progress.

Henderson, who commanded the brigade that bombed the My Lai assault task force, was the 104th and final witness.

He testified that the commander of the division over him, Maj. Gen. Samuel W. Koster, ordered a report on the number of civilian casualties a little over two hours after the helicopter-borne mission began on March 16, 1968.

Senator Warns General

WASHINGTON (AP) — Investigating senators have set a Friday deadline for a former general to explain financial arrangements involving his alleged protection and promotion of corrupt business schemes on Army bases in Vietnam.

Former Brig. Gen. Earl Franklin Cole left the hearing room of the Senate's investigations subcommittee Wednesday with a senator's warning of possible perjury still ringing in his ears.

Committee members said they were unconvinced by Cole's complete denial of any wrongdoing and his charge he had been destroyed by "untrue, unproven and slanderous" accusations by disgruntled former associates.

Chairman Abraham Ribicoff, D Conn., ordered Cole's lawyers to produce his complete financial statement before the Friday deadline.

Ribicoff scolded them for not preparing it sooner as ordered.

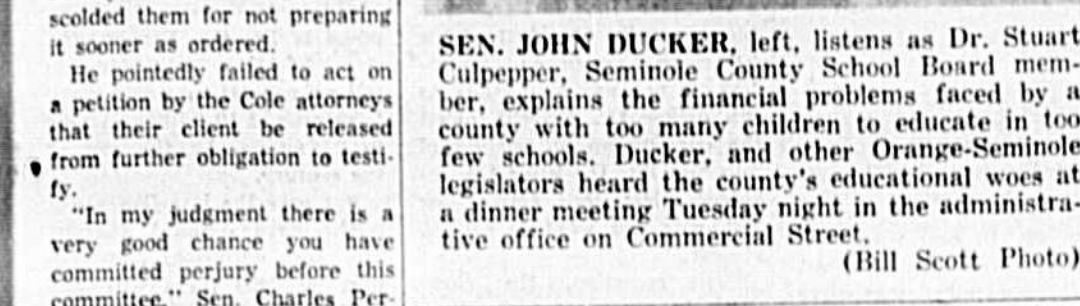

He pointedly failed to act on a petition by the Cole attorneys that their client be released from further obligation to testify.

"In my judgment there is a very good chance you have committed perjury before this committee," Sen. Charles Percy, R-Ill., told Cole after 3½ hours of testimony. "In my judgment you have disgraced the uniform you have worn so long."

Percy said Cole had failed to disprove even once the sworn testimony of two dozen and more witnesses, most of them Army career officers and investigators, who accused him of "favoring" and "using" favors, pressure and influence "to boost the fortunes of get-rich promoters dealing with the clubs and PX systems in Vietnam."

"And you failed to offer any explanation of why so many would come before this subcommittee simply to defame your character," Percy said.

Much of the previous testimony over three weeks of hearings concerned Cole's relationship with entrepreneur William J. Cronin, and two of his companies — Sarl Electronics, a slot machine distributor, and Price & Co., dealer in beer, whiskey and other goods.

SEN. JOHN DUCKER, left, listens as Dr. Stuart Culppey, Seminole County School Board member, explains the financial problems faced by a county with too many children to educate in its few schools.

Demos Pushing Raise In Social Security

By JOE HALL
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Quick enactment of a 10 percent increase in Social Security benefits for 26 million Americans appears certain under a short-cut maneuver worked out by Democratic congressional leaders.

Under the strategy, the increase in benefits and in wage deductions to pay for them would be enacted months ahead of the schedule likely for the Nixon administration's own plan.

The maneuver calls for adding the Social Security provision as a Senate amendment to a House-passed bill raising the national debt limit by $25 billion.

The Senate will open consideration of the debt measure Friday, although final action may not come until Monday.

Democratic leaders said the amendment will be adopted without difficulty, noting the Senate passed it in last December a bill providing a 10 percent Social Security hike; it died because the House refused to go to conference on it.

However, it is understood Rep. Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee has now agreed to add with an increase along to the debt limit bill.

But Ways and Means has run into trouble with the complex welfare changes, and final action by the House is considered weeks away.

Then, Senate leaders estimate, another three to four months would be required for House hearings, drafting, debate and passage.

The strategy of splitting Social Security from the welfare bill will relieve much of the public pressure for fast action on the combined measure and leave time for more consideration of welfare reform.

Congress has agreed to make the Social Security increases retroactive to last Jan. 1.

President Nixon has asked for a 6 percent Social Security increase, but congressional leaders are confident he will sign a 10-percent boost if included in the debt limit bill.

Captain Contradicts Lt. Calley's Testimony

By HARRY F. ROSENTHAL
Associated Press Writer
FT. BENNING, Ga. (AP) — Gen. Ernest Medina says his first panic thought on realizing the bloody carnage his troops had visited on My Lai was "Oh, my God. What happened?"

And then he told Lt. William L. Calley's murder-trial jury in a voice that sometimes quavered, "I realized exactly the disgrace brought upon the Army uniform that I am proud to wear. I realized the repercussions that it would have against the United States of America."

Nothing in the four months of Calley's court-martial matched the dramatic confrontation Wednesday of two former commanders in arms.

Calley had testified that Medina, commander and his platoon leader—each accused of wanton mass murder. In sworn testimony, some of their statements on key points were sharply contradictory.

Three times, Medina said, he warned his troops not to kill innocent civilians and when he happened upon a pile of 20 to 28 bodies at a village trail crossing the career soldier said, "I wanted to believe what my heart said that it happened by artillery or gunshot fire."

Calley had testified that Medina had given orders to wipe out civilians.

Today's witness was to be S. Sgt. David Mitchell, who protested at his own court martial. "I never shot at anyone," and was acquitted of charges he assaulted 20 civilians with intent to kill.

Calley is charged with premeditated murder of 102 My Lai inhabitants. Medina is to be court-martialed on a similar charge. Each could be sentenced to death.

3 British Soldiers 'Executed'

By DONAL O'DRISCOLL
BELFAST, Northern Ireland (UPI) — Six gunner police believe to be members of the outlawed Irish Republican Army (IRA) "executed" three British soldiers Wednesday.

The triple killing brought to six the number of British soldiers slain this year. The troops are being used to try to bring law and order to Northern Ireland's battling Protestant majority and Roman Catholic minority.

What happened was pieced together from a number of reports.

A Quiet Night
The soldiers—Fusilier John McCallig, 17, his brother Joseph, 18, both from Ayr, Scotland, and Fusilier Donald McCaughey, 23, from Glasgow—took advantage of a quiet night to go out for a drink. Wearing civilian clothes, they chose the quiet area of Ligoniel, a suburb about four miles from the city center.

Now there's a new, small Pontiac with a small-car price for small-car lovers.

Wouldn't you know it would be fun to drive stingy on gas, quick to service and built to last?

Of course you would. We wouldn't build a small car unless we figured it would give you more of what you want a small car for.

Take that low price. Ventura II is a small car, so it has a low, small-car price. But it's what you get for that small price that makes Ventura II worth a close look.

Ventura II is fun to drive. It should be. It's from the Wide-Track people. Which means you get a smooth, comfortable, Wide-Track ride.

The handling's quick. There's a rifty 111-inch wheelbase for easy parking. And both the 250-cu.-in. six and available 207-cu.-in. V-8 respond beautifully in city traffic or on the expressway.

Ventura II is stingy with your gas money. Both the standard six-cylinder engine and the V-8 you can order run beautifully on regular gas of the new low-lead and no-lead kinds. The catalytic on the six is an economical one-barrel, and the transmission for both six and V-8 is a practical 3-speed manual.

Ventura II is quick to service. If you're a do-it-yourselfer, you'll like fiddling around with the new Ventura II.

New twist-lock lamp sockets let you make changes in seconds.

The engine is uncomplicated, and there is plenty of engine-compartment space, especially with the six.

If you ever need to have somebody else work on your car—well, you'll like Ventura II, too. Both the standard six and available V-8 are tough, time-tested designs. Same goes for transmissions. The standard 3-speed manual and the available 2-speed automatic, Turbo Hydra-matic or 4-speed, dependable units.

Ventura II is built to last. There's nothing lightweight about this car. It's welded—not bolted—at hundreds of strategic points to help keep it tight and quiet.

The body is heavy-gauge steel. And it has double panealing in the deck lid, hood and doors. You could probably sum it up best with three little words. Body by Fisher.

So come on, if you're a small-car lover, stop by your Pontiac dealer's today. Tell him you want to see the new Ventura II. It's the small car that gives you more of what you want a small car for.

Wise Leadership In State-Local Operations

Taxpayer resistance and public demand for services at the state and local government levels are on a collision course. This is widespread in extent and recognized as a most dangerous fact of today's political life.

In fact the cost of the legislature is so obviously out-of-line with the dollar resources which come out of the pockets of taxpayers to foot the bill, that a reduced bicameral body or a unicameral legislature are being discussed as not only possibilities but probabilities.

There are 119 representatives and it is in this branch where a savings in dollars and, probably, in overall costs in excess of the $1,000 monthly salary which each now collects, would result from judicious reductions.

One of the unwanted byproducts of the expansion of the bureaucratic side of government during the past two decades (note the Washington Window on this page today) is the expansion of services with consequent addition of personnel.

Biggest Gamble

Viewing demands upon the public purse with alarm, Rep. Louis C. Wyman of New Hampshire has proposed a national numbers drawing at least once a month as a new source of federal revenue.

Untuned Cars

Environment-conscious Americans have shown an avid interest in do-it-yourself anti-pollution efforts. And conservation groups have responded nobly in advising the housewife on the advantages of soap vs. phosphates and returnable bottles as opposed to cans and plastic containers.

Washington Window

State - Local Government Costs!

The U.S. population has grown by more than 50 million and prices have risen more than 60 per cent since 1950. But these factors, by themselves, cannot explain a 300 per cent rise in state and local spending.

Another factor, often overlooked, is that major changes that have taken place in the age and geographical distribution of the U.S. population. We have today much higher proportions of young people, who require expensive education, and old people, who often need costly health care or welfare assistance.

Don Oakley Says:

The "Ph. D." Glut

The fact is that "for the first time in history there may be enough good young teachers to fill the available openings in all four-year and two-year colleges. We may even have a chance of bringing a few more highly trained young men and women into secondary schools."

By 1980, junior college enrollment will be four million. Yet few Ph.D.s look for jobs in junior colleges, even though salary scales compare favorably with large universities, and many junior colleges don't want to hire Ph.D.s.

Domestic Commentary

Just Too Many Eggheads?

EDUCATOR Dr. Cartter, who once was vice president of the American Council on Education, is not as optimistic as cab driver Dr. Grinnell, about the opening up of meaningful jobs for Ph. D.s after the recession, business slump, or manpower which they would not and could not afford in their businesses or homes.

He said the Ph. D. production boom has been startling. Back in 1959, the total output was 9,400. Ten years later it had ballooned to over 26,000 annually. At the growth rate projected by the U.S. Office of Education, the total will reach a yearly total of 87,000 by 1973.

Over the last five years, births have declined sharply. The best estimates now are that by 2000 there will only be 18 million college-age persons. The five years and six months between 1965 and 1970, according to Cartter, can expect the first absolute decline in the number of students eligible for college.

Every official proclamation since the early 1950s has stressed the chronic scarcity of teachers. But one year ago the public school teacher shortage ended. This year there is a surplus. Over the last 10 years, Carter's statistics reveal, about three-fourths of the demand for new college teachers was met by expansion. Only 25 per cent was for replacement of faculty who died or retired.

Gierke, Sherman Combine For One-Hitter

SJC Raiders Stop Valencia In Squeaker

By GARY TAYLOR
Herald Sports Editor

DELAND—Barold Dixon fired a three-hitter and pitched 20 hitless innings. He held the powerful Seminole Junior College Raiders to only one run. His control was nearly perfect as he issued only one base on balls. But he lost the game.

The Raiders put it all together in the bottom of the second inning to score the only run of the contest and depended on the superb pitching of Chip Gierke and Bobby Sherman to lead them to their seventh win in 11 outings.

Joe Turnbull led off the second inning with a single. Steve Shumaker followed him at the plate and drove the ball straight up the middle. Both the second baseman and the shortstop stepped to let the other handle it and the ball rolled between them for a base hit as Turnbull went to third. It was this mental error that lost the game for the Matadors. Steve White was up.

This game had a drag on it due to prepare the field prior to the game. The two were still sitting in the dressing rooms when players walked past them to retreat to the dressing rooms for a shower.

One small boy, about 12 years old, walked up to the pair in the golf cart and asked, "Are you gonna go out and rake the field now?" A stunned Hank Aaron said a negative answer.

It was obvious that the young lad didn't recognize the Atlanta superstar, but when asked later, "Did you know that was Hank Aaron you were talking to?" he replied, "Who's Hank Aaron?"

Secrecy May Be Lifted Soon On American POWs

By JAMES CARY
Copy News Service

WASHINGTON — The United States believes the Viet Cong's Provisional Revolutionary Government (PRG) is close to lifting the secrecy that has masked the fate of 550 U.S. soldiers and 50 civilians missing in South Vietnam.

U.S. officials report they have gained the impression from PRG representatives in Paris that a list of those Americans they hold as prisoners after being captured in the south will be provided soon.

Wives of the missing men also have come away from conversations with the PRG in Paris with the same impression. If this happens, the list will provide the first official information on those among the missing who are still alive and in prison camps, perhaps also names of some who have died.

The United States is now virtually certain that most and probably all Americans captured in South Vietnam, Laos and Cambodia have been moved to prison camps in the North.

It is also believed that those captured in the south are being held in the north for the PRG and theoretically are under PRG jurisdiction.

The same is believed true to some degree of the 250 U.S. pilots shot down in Laos, who are under the control of the Lao Patriotic Front, also known as the Pathet Lao. At least some of the 250 are believed to have been captured.

Pre-Nuptial Tea Honors Melissa Wilkins

BY DORIS WILLIAMS
Society Editor

Mrs. M. D. Walker and her daughter, Mrs. J. S. (Sharon) Duncan of Orlando, were hosts Saturday afternoon, March 7, to a bridal tea at the Walker home on Fairway Drive, honoring Miss Melissa Wilkins, March 20 bride-elect of Daniel Ralph Kenbalo Jr.

For the occasion, the pretty hostess chose a long sleeved spring green afternoon frock complemented with a yellow carnation corsage, a gift from the hostesses.

Mrs. Melissa Wilkins mother of the bride-elect, wore a pastel, sheer floral print dress enhanced with a white carnation corsage, also a gift from the hostesses.

Mrs. Walker was attired in a yellow knit princess styled dress and Sharon wore a pale blue, sleeveless mini.

The refreshment table, overlaid with a natural Italian cut cloth, featured a floral centerpiece in a porcelain pedestal container accented by two porcelain candleholders with tall glowing yellow tapers. Silver coffee service graced one end of the table with Lime Sherbet punch in a pedestal cut glass bowl at the opposite end.

A pot pourri of luscious tea fare, delicately arranged on silver service, completed the party, pretty setting.

Pouring were Miss Laura Wilkins, sister of the bride-elect, and Mrs. C. E. McCard.

Miss Wilkins also received a gift of stainless steel cookware from the two gracious hostesses.

Mr. and Mrs. Ross Adams, grandparents of the bride from Sanford, also attended the wedding. Mrs. Adams was attired in a blue lace dress enhanced with a white carnation corsage.

Immediately following the ceremony, N.A.S. Chiefs Club was the reception site.

Following a wedding trip to South Florida, the newlyweds are making their home in Jacksonville where the bride is a receptionist with Medicenter Hospital and the bridegroom is self-employed with R. K. Sheppard Construction Co.

Spring Fantasy To Benefit Deltona Youth, Inc.

BY ELLA MAY FRAZER

DELTONA — Deltona Youth, Inc. is bringing a "Spring Fantasy" to Deltona on March 26. Staged in the Community Center at 7:30 p. m., the fashion show will donate proceeds to Deltona Youth, Inc., to help build that Youth Center everyone is thinking about.

Chairman of the event is Mrs. Ruth Rulo who says, "It is a family affair, showing styles for men, women and children, and youth. Grandmothers will find something for birthday, mothers for Easter, dads for golf or fishing, and the youngsters of all ages, for any time at all, and all the time."

Styles to be shown have been carefully selected from fresh supplies at Turtle Dove in Deland, and Capp's Clothier for men in Sanford. They represent a variety of casual, sportswear, daytime, and dress clothes. Models will be local Deltona youths and older residents. It's definitely a "something for everybody" show.

One of Deltona's busiest young people these days is Pat McDonald. He is assisting Mrs. Rulo with construction of a set to provide the proper setting for this fun evening.

Decision was reached among the young people to make the show more like a "play," with sets, and scenes, etc., instead of just showing off clothes.

It's a good idea, and family and friends should turn out in droves to give the young folks the feeling of support that runs high in Deltona. Seeing is believing, and when they see a community auditorium full of loyal Deltonans, they will "believe" Deltonans care about young people!

Also assisting Mrs. Rulo is Dale Gearon, president of the Youth Club. Tickets are now on sale, and may be obtained by calling Bonnie Lewis at 658-8036.

NEW U.S. CITIZEN
MRS. ALIDA FORE of the Citizens' Bank of Oviedo, is shown at her desk where she was surprised with an "All-American Girl" cake to celebrate her citizenship examination. She is employed in the Loan Department and is the wife of Kelly Fore of Chuluota. Born in Zuelte, The Netherlands, Mrs. Fore came to America in November of 1957. She is a graduate of Oviedo High School and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. P. L. Tulp of Maitland. (Liz Mathieux Photo)

By CYNTHIA LOWRY. AP Television-Radio Writer. NEW YORK (AP)—Jack Benny, with an NBC special Wednesday night, was still generating laughter with jokes about his age and his skill on the violin—apparently there is no end to the variations that can be rung on these themes. After almost 40 years on radio and television, the vain, miserly character that Benny has evolved is still funny. And his special was as bright and amusing as the comedian himself.

The Great Tax Bite

It Started With Caesar Augustus—But He Was A Piker

(Editor's Note: Taxes climb steadily each year and no one has been able to do much about this fact of economic life since the Boston Tea Party. This is the first of four articles on taxes—one of the most complex and vexing problems confronting Americans.)

By FRANK MACOMBER
Copley News Service

"There went out a decree from Caesar Augustus that all the world be taxed."

That was Luke's preamble to the biblical account of Christ's birth. Nearly 2,000 years later, times haven't changed much from the days when the Romans began to slap a property tax of 25 to 33 percent on a crop's yield.

The Romans also can be credited with—or blamed for—"poll tax" that included a uniform head tax, an income tax and other personal levies. The taxes varied from place to place, often at the collector's whim.

Again, time pretty much has stood still for one of the chief complaints of the American property owner is that the assessor often boosts his property valuation for tax purposes by apparent rule of thumb or sleight of hand, whether or not he has increased its value with improvements.

Too many tax statutes, of course, are dull. But how do these grab you?

In 1942 the per capita annual tax payment was $12. That means every man, woman and child in the nation either paid that much or somebody else put up enough extra to take care of those who didn't pay any.

Federal, state and local taxes. In the same year government at all levels spent $34 per capita. Last year the per capita tax approaching the 16 million mark, are paying a whopping 33 percent more out of each dollar that goes into federal, state and local levies. The Tax Foundation says, "It can overwhelm you with graphs and charts to prove its point."

Over the long run, Parker explains: In an interview, the course of taxation will depend directly on how well government spending is limited.

"At all levels of government, turning up extra billions of dollars of revenue, but spending has grown even faster."

While the Vietnam war is a nationally recognized major cause of increased federal spending, Parker says that "few people seem to realize that non-defense spending also has grown rapidly in recent years.

"Unless this spending somehow can be harnessed, the look is for heavier taxes."

Our 69th Anniversary.

Saving was never so exciting. Shopping was never such fun.

Interest Rates Near 8% Are Common

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — While borrowing costs have dropped generally and sharply during the past week and months, some of the nation's biggest corporations and soundest government units are paying more rather than less for money.

The situation is unique in money markets today, although it could change almost overnight. But until it does, those seeking to raise money in bond markets are finding their costs considerably higher than anticipated.

In order to attract funds of investors, some of the highest rated borrowers have had to pay rates a full percentage point above those of a month ago. Rates close to 8 percent are common or corporate offerings in the past three weeks.

The main factor that produces the situation is a temporary but tremendous demand for long-term funds, for money that can be used for the next 20, 30 or 40 years rather than for a couple of years or less.

The March "calendar" of issues to be sold totals $4 billion, for example, the highest ever for any month and double the figure for many months.

Many securities dealers feel it could be temporary. As rates rise, they reason, lenders will be attracted to the market. They note that some institutional funds have already jumped over from the stock market.

Others feel the situation is rare and somewhat unpredictable. As one bond dealer explained, it would be easy to foresee lower rates if the borrowing costs for the usual reasons, to expand or improve plants and facilities, as in the past. But this money is rarely going to that use.

Instead, he said, corporate treasurers now are borrowing money to pay off debt of bank loans. They are seeking to substitute long-term financing for short-term bank loans.

Many of these treasurers had been stung in the past year by tight money. The severe credit squeeze of last year proved a harrowing experience to many of them. They are, therefore, now lining up money for years in advance.

While higher rates inevitably attract investors if there is capital spending does indeed rise, they say, the pressures will remain.

Moreover, they add, the Federal Reserve has given no overt indication so far that it will accede to the administration's wishes for an even easier money policy, which would tend to reduce upward pressure on prices.

Recent surveys suggest that while borrowing for new plants and equipment is still relatively slight, the situation is changing. The latest Commerce Department survey of capital spending plans shows projections of $33.1 billion for 1971, a rise of 4.3 percent over $31.6 billion over 1970. A similar survey last December projected an increase of only 1.4 percent.

While some bond men are still forecasting for April a new COMMAND POST — Communications center helps homemaker keep tabs on all parts of home via closed circuit television. It enables her to close curtains, lock doors, talk with any of 500 persons or summon police at the mere touch of a button.

DENVER (AP) — Dr. Linus Pauling, who has suggested big doses of Vitamin C to ward off the common cold, says his critics should save their breath and "have an extra glass of orange juice."

The Nobel Prize-winning chemist says he has been the object of false and misleading criticism since December when he said a daily dose of 1,000 to 5,000 milligrams of Vitamin C would prevent common colds. To avert a cold, he suggested 15,000 to 15,000 milligrams daily.

Such massive doses, in contrast to the 35 to 60 milligrams generally recommended to prevent scurvy could have severe effects on the human body, Pauling's critics contend.

Pauling said Tuesday at a news conference "Vitamin C is about as common a substance as there is in the world."

He said "half a dozen first-rate studies" back him up.

Severe diarrhea could result from massive doses of Vitamin C, according to the U.S. Food and Drug Administration. Some members of the medical community say huge doses could increase acid in the urine and lead to painful kidney and bladder stones.

"No one, to my knowledge, has ever gotten sick from ingesting Vitamin C," Pauling said.

Anybody fearing high acid levels in the urine could take the vitamin in the form of sodium ascorbate, he said.

Pauling noted he has recommended that anyone with medical problems consult his physician before embarking on a Vitamin C regimen.

St. Paul's Cracks From WW II Hits

By GUY RYAN
Capley News Service
LONDON — At long last, the German bombing barrage of World War II has begun to take its toll on St. Paul's Cathedral, England's biggest ecclesiastical building and second only to St. Peter's in all Christendom.
Major cracks in the building, resulting in large part from the nightmare of German bombs, were discovered when the exterior of the old building was cleaned some four years ago. And more deterioration has been discovered in the last 18 months.
The Dome and the Whispering Gallery of the architectural masterpiece created by Sir Christopher Wren more than 250 years ago still have to be closed to the public unless repairs are made. And soon, it is expected that the interior of the old building was cleaned some four years ago. And more deterioration has been discovered in the last 18 months.

COOKING

By JEANNE LESEM
UPI Food Editor

NEW YORK (UPI)—In her own special way, the American wife of a Frenchman did her bit for the Women's Liberation movement back in 1929.
That was the year a Mme. Ellinger founded the Cercle des Gourmettes, a gastronomic society for women only, after hearing the president of a similar and chic dining club for men only that women are not capable of emulating them.
The story was told in this reporter by a current member of the Cercle, Simone Beck, co-author with Julia Child of "Mastering the Art of French Cooking," Vols. I and II.
Club Mainly French
In an interview here, Mme. Beck said Cercle membership remains mainly French, although four Americans, whom she did not identify, do belong.
Mme. Beck was here to promote Vol. II. In Portland, Ore., her cooking demonstrations presented in cooperation with a local department store, raised several thousand dollars for the American Theater Co., a non-profit organization to establish a professional theater.
The also emigrated French cookery at James Beard's Cooking Classes here and at Malvina Kinner's classes in Westport, Conn.
Founded School
After World War II, Mme. Beck and Louise Bertholle, also a co-author on Vol. I of the now famous cookbook, founded and ran a cooking school in Paris for 12 years, and with Mrs. Child for an additional three years.
Even so, Mme. Beck remained active in the Cercle which, like its male counterpart, the Club des Gents, limits its membership. She added that meetings take place at 22 different sites and have included visitors into the areas," said Sir Peter Studd, lord mayor of London. Plans are already under way to raise funds for the repairs which could avert the closing.

Sir Christopher spent most of his life designing the cathedral and watching it grow. He was 30 when the Great Fire of London razed the city, and old St. Paul's, along with it, in 1666. He immediately began plans for the new edifice.
The first stone was laid nine years after the fire, when he was 43. He was 77 when the last one was set in 1711. He died at 91 and is entombed in the cathedral. St. Paul's is his monument.
Slatemen, warriors, poets and painters have their graves here — Lord Nelson, Lord Colingwood, the duke of Wellington, Lawrence of Arabia, Florence Nightingale and many others.
And here among the chapels and the tombs is a tribute to the Americans who died in military operations in Britain in the last war.
The American Chapel was dedicated in 1958 as Britain's memorial to them. It contains the armor of the American states in stained glass, wood carvings of American birds and animals, and a Roll of Honor bearing 22,000 names.
Commonwealth war dead also were honored in 1958 when a new altar of marble replaced a bomb-damaged altar screen.
(The cathedral took two direct bomb hits, but damage was relatively light.) This altar is Britain's memorial to more than 224,000 Commonwealth men and women who lost their lives in the war.
Millions of visitors to the cathedral have climbed the steps to the Whispering Gallery 100 feet above the floor of the great edifice. (The gallery derived its name from the fact that a whisper against the wall on one side can be heard distinctly near the wall on the opposite side, 107 feet away in a straight line.)
From here, one can step out onto the Stone Gallery for a view excelled only by that from the Golden Gallery above it.

Handicaps Fail To Deter 3 Determined Persons

By FRANK MACOMBER
Capley News Service
Some morning when you wake with a headache or your arthritis is kicking up something fierce, think on the plight of Billy Butts, or Steve Deely, or Charlie Cooper. You might begin to feel better.
Billy Butts was abandoned at birth in Norfolk, Va., nearly a half-century ago. The Negro baby was born blind and there was no place to send him but the Norfolk City Home for the Aged of all places.
When he was 6 years old, Billy was transferred to the Norfolk Detention Home for Juvenile Delinquents, though he was not a delinquent. By then religion, for the old folks in the home had read to him daily he already had a knowledge of from the Bible.
Billy was moved from institution, from school to school, his thirst for more knowledge never slaked. He became the first student at Booker T. Washington High School in Norfolk.
Now, at 46, Dr. William H. Butts is a professor of history and religion at Norfolk State College and recently received his doctorate in philosophy at Columbia University.
It was a long, dark road from the Norfolk Home for the Aged to Columbia, and Billy thinks he might have made it because one of the "old gents" in the home once told him long ago, "William Henry, God has something in store for you, and you're going to get it."
Steve Deely has been blind all his life, too, but his philosophy that you never find out whether you can do something unless you try it already is paying off.
A freshman at suburban Cincinnati's Delhi Junior High School, he is a straight-A student through Braille and a winning member of the school's 145-pound wrestling team.
Steve's father, Eugene Deely, encouraged his son to participate in athletics seven years ago at a school for the blind.
Three years ago Sister Marie, a nun at Ponton Beach, Ill., was beaten and robbed by a gang of youths who needed money to buy drugs.

Chapeaux For Hippies, Others

Old Line Hat Firm After Youth

By WALTER LOGAN
NEW YORK (UPI)—First he had the youth revolt against the Establishment. Now we have the Establishment, represented by Steve Seidman, 33, revolting against itself and turning out hats that even a hippie would love.
Seidman is head of the Tenderfoot Hat Co., which sounds vaguely like a rock group, and his wide-brimmed floppy hats are worn alike by hippies, other youth in revolt, Southampton socialites—and indiscriminately by persons of either sex.
Seidman's role came about because part of the youth revolt is against brand names, or well known brand names and, for a while, against hats in general. Then they began picking up odd-looking things from old army and navy stores like Australian campaign hats and the like.
So he came up with the idea of producing some far out numbers and designed such things as suede studded with nailheads, railway engineer type caps printed in funky little animals, and a Scaramouche hat—one with a wide brim from which three dangles at the back a six foot long tail which when wrapped around the neck becomes a scarf.
The Establishment in this case was the Hat Corporation of America, an old line firm which has taken brief flings at such things as fake fur hats with built-in transistors and semi-cowboy hats called west after the youth market.
Charles Saleky, the president of the corporation, told Seidman that he would manufacture the hats if Seidman could sell them. So Seidman returned to the drawing board and came up with such things as purple velveteen with stitched brims, patchwork suede and leather

'Hot Pants To Stay,' Avers N.Y. Designer

NEW YORK (AP)—"Hot pants are here to stay," says designer Arnold Scaasi. Scaasi takes his shorts seriously and particularly likes them under skirts, translucent for evening, slit high for day. However, a woman may order a dressy combination with a slip instead of pants.
He offers shorts in lengths from very, very brief to Bermuda length to just above the knee.
Outfits in Scaasi's new made-to-order collection range from $75 to $195 and those aren't joking prices.
The "funniest" dress he did was a "seed catalogue" evening patchwork pattern dress—covered by a ruffled shawl, "to make clothes look softer."
"Now clothes are stark and simple. Because of the confusion in fashion, we are falling back into a simple way. But kind of it will come a more settled kind of fashion," he says.
In his best designs, Scaasi does keep simple lines: round collars or wide scoop necks, cap sleeves, neatly bound waists, easy bias cut skirts.
For day, he trims dark solids with generous dashes of white like white-lined hood, turned back around the face.

Greenhouse Trading Stamps Wanted

One Green Stamp book, multiplied by 5,000, equals one greenhouse for Florida Tech University.
The greenhouse, measuring 25 x 50 feet, would be used by budding botanists and others on campus as a practical classroom.
The operation, which has been dubbed "not so strange" as "Green Stamps for a Greenhouse," germinated some time ago in the fertile minds of FTU's Fidelis Sorority. Since then, it has lain more or less dormant. The seeds hope the idea will bloom as Spring approaches.
The girls have been assured that 5,000 of the stamp books will be accepted in trade for the greenhouse. Now what they need is some help from others in the community who feel as they do. And don't mind parting with a book or two... or three?
The first three books toward the goal were contributed by Mrs. Charles N. Milligan, wife of FTU's president, when she presented them to project chairman, Paula Bamford, of Titusville.
Contributors can mail stamp books to the FTU Foundation, Box 25,060, Orlando 32816.

Success For The Women?

By GAYNOR MADDOX
NEA Food Editor

Do these things spell success to the modern woman — an expensive apartment on New York's fashionable Sutton Place, a yacht moored at the Grand Point Yacht Club, memberships in important business and social clubs and frequent air travel, plus every symbol of approval by the Establishment?

Sally Dickson does not do these things. To many others, however, they do. To many women, they do not.

Sally Dickson is a 37-year-old woman living in New York and is married to a man who works for the United Fruit Company. She has two children, a 10-year-old son and a 7-year-old daughter. French Have A Test For Braless Decision

By PEGGY WALKER
Copley News Service

While some American women are still debating whether to wear a bra, French women are already taking advantage of their liberation.

The French women started it, probably because, in one sense at least, they are more liberated than American women, even without Women's Lib.

That is not to say the French are not discriminating about the contemporary braless look; in fact they seem to be quite so. One newspaper, France Soir, a Paris daily, even came up with a test to make it very clear to its readership exactly who should and should not take advantage of bra liberation.

It's a fashion question to the French, mind you, rather than an equality question.

Believing that women are not all created equal, this is how France Soir, at least, suggests women determine who should and should not be liberated — from the bra. A pencil is all that's needed for those who wish to test themselves.

Ready? Place that pencil horizontally into the fold under the bra. Should the pencil fall, you see, sorry ladies, but you need one. If it stays put, you're good to go. A T-shirt maybe, but not a bra and you qualify to go braless. However, if the pencil stays put, well, sorry ladies, but you need one.

Everett C. Spellman said a gap is widening between demand and supply for new homes. Demand is defined as a combination of the desire and the ability to buy.

Spellman cautioned builders and lenders to keep an eye on demand when making their plans for home building this year. Government officials estimate that housing starts may reach the 2 million mark in 1971, a figure which might swamp the market, he indicated.

Unless there is caution, he said, "we will once again see through a housing cycle of overbuilding, declining prices, rising foreclosures, bankruptcies and failures of financial institutions."

The culprit, Spellman said, is the spiraling cost of home construction.

"We have reached a point where national policy planners can contribute very little more to the housing supply with credit programs until they face the problem of costs," he said.

Soaring Home Prices May Kill The Market

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The president of the Mortgage Bankers Association says although millions of Americans are still poorly housed, soaring costs may soon make it difficult to sell new homes by pricing many prospective buyers out of the market.

Preston Martin, chairman of the Federal Home Loan Bank board, said the government will continue to support programs intended to increase the supply of funds available for home loans.

Martin said in a recent speech that the new Federal Home Loan Mortgage Corp. will buy about $1 billion worth of FHA and VA mortgages this year, pumping that much money back into the market for new loans.

He said the board also is sponsoring a $85 billion program to lower mortgage payments by $20 per month on about 70,000 homes of moderate-income families.

Martin said his board, which regulates savings and loan associations, is remodeling rules and regulations to make it easier for the $170 billion savings and loan industry to meet the need for home loans.

Home building activity has been increasing in recent months following the severe slump of 1969 and early 1970.

BRALESS LOOK — To wear the bra or not is the question in the minds of many women. A Paris pencil test indicates some measure up, some don't. Gown by Morton Myles is for the Malcolm Charles spring 1971 collection.

"Nobody cares about women anymore" is the fashion cry from females all over the country, a spokesman for Saccy said at the New York Couture fashion press week in New York. The complaint: There are so few wearable, believable, practical clothes for the suburban woman, with cash in hand, to buy what she wants. The complaint comes after viewing clothes said to be only for the young, the slim, the rich. "Women want fashion, not absurdities," the commentator said.

Big Money Maker

By WILLIAM D. LAFFLER

NEW YORK (UPI)—Rock music is still the big money maker in the phonograph record business but there is always a good market for other artists.

Roger Williams, for instance, has been in demand for almost two decades. His latest recordings—"Love Story" (Kapp KS 345) and "Roger Williams Golden Hits Vol. II" (Kapp KS 2638)—are excellent additions to his big repertoire. "Love Story" includes the theme song from the hit movie. Among those in the Golden Hits album are "The Impossible Dream."

Tony Bennett also has been able to attract new fans through the years. His latest "clatter," "Tony Bennett Sings His All-Time Hall of Fame" (Columbia C 30240), features "I Let My Heart in San Francisco" and "One for My Baby."

Like Roger and Tony, Ed Ames has sustained interest year after year. He has selected works of the country's hottest composing team for his newest LP, "Ed Ames Sings the Songs of Bacharach and David" (RCA Victor LSP 4433).

Concert

By DELOS SMITH

NEW YORK (UPI)—This season New York recitals have been delighted by the joint recitals of the singers Janet Baker and Dietrich Fischer-Dieskau and the pianist, Daniel Barenboim.

They gave these recitals first in London, where one was recorded. It was "an evening of duets" — by Purcell, Schumann, Mendelssohn, Cornelius and Brahms.

They project this 19th century and beyond music with such ultimate effectiveness it can seem relevant to these times. The accompaniments are greatly enhanced by a pianist of Barenboim's artistry (Angel 9872).

Recordings of the late George Solti are still coming out.

In this new one he conducted the London Symphony as it accompanied Elisabeth Schwarzkopf and seven songs of Richard Strauss.

All have orchestral accompaniments worthy of the efforts of the giant among conductors who was on the podium. Yet Solti kept them in their properly subordinated places. The Mozart arias are among his less challenging. Nor do Strauss pieces make any extraordinary demands on a vocalist. But all offer opportunities for emotional expressiveness which Miss Schwarzkopf seized to the fullest (Angel 36643).

For his newest record E. Power Biggs assembled players of the Royal Philharmonic and their conductor, Charles Groves, among the Great Hall of the Royal Albert Hall, and they all had a go at a Mendelian miscellany using the original scores in which the organ provides the continuo.

The announcement was made in Orlando by Robert Keith who will serve as WKIS Station Manager, Herbert Levin who serves as Vice President of Florida Operations for the broadcasting firm, and Buell Duncan Jr., Senior Vice President of First National.

In announcing the affiliation, Levin and Keith both pointed to the tremendous growth potential of the Central Florida area and the progress of Central Florida. In the Orlando area, as in our other markets, we look forward to becoming active and concerned in the business sector as well as all other facets of community life.

Susquehanna Broadcasting assumed operation of WKIS on Monday, March 1st, bringing to this number of radio stations owned and operated by the firm's Broadcasting Division.

Scouts Do 'Good Turn' For Goodwill Industries

In what is hoped to be the greatest "Good Turn" effort yet, 16,000 Boy Scouts and 5,000 Scout leaders throughout the six-county Central Florida area will distribute 100,000 door knob hangers on Saturday, to homes throughout the area. The information on the door knob hanger asks for donations of clothing, shoes, large wheel toys, furniture, appliances and miscellaneous household items for the handicapped at Goodwill Industries.

Boy Scouts will return to the same homes on Saturday, March 20, to pick up all donated articles left in front of homes. These materials will then be taken to Goodwill Industries - Boy Scout collection center and later to the workshop to provide much needed materials for the handicapped to work on.

The need is great this year. Increased numbers of handicapped workers are now at work in the Orlando area. New workshops for the handicapped have been opened in Melbourne, Titusville and Leesburg. This marks the first time a program has been provided for the handicapped in these areas. New shops are soon to open in Daytona Beach, Kissimmee and Sanford.

If the homeowners will set out all articles on Saturday, March 20, they will be taken to Boy Scout-Goodwill Collection Centers at strategic points throughout the six county area. From there they will be taken to the different Goodwill workshops where the items are repaired by the handicapped and later placed on sale in Goodwill stores. The income from sales provides 90 per cent of the total support for the rehabilitation, training, and employment services provided by Goodwill Industries.

Nostalgia Is Sweeping Roman Fashion Scene

By CIMA STAR
ROME — Nostalgia for things past swept America during the first year of the seventies. Now, that bitter-sweet breeze is sweeping across the Atlantic to nearly every one of the 40,000 high fashion houses in Rome.

Along the runways of the glitteringly chandeliered ballrooms and tapestried salons, where the cream of Italian designers compete each year, the high fashion look for spring season 1971 echoes of roman-traditional monotone designers like the super-stylish Valentina, turning to vivid shades of fantasy prints. The signed waitline is back as well, and the designers are even conceding that women come complete with bosoms. Pleats, tucks, flaring skirts, all add up to the feminine women that men like to remember.

SEASON STYLE—Lachose presented this white outdoor ensemble in London as part of the spring-summer show. The muff is a hit on days when temperatures drop.

Valentino, who finally gave in to the demands of his clients and shortened his formerly calf-length skirts, turned this time to red, navy and black, along with his old favorite, white, and conjured up a de-javu look straight out of Hollywood's Golden Era, with wide, Jean Crawford shoulders, long, curly hairdos tied with intricate ribbons ending in a how on top, and, of course, brightly lipsticked mouths.

He has plenty of suits this season, in a wide variety of jacket lengths, in mixed colors, and sometimes with hats slouched over one eye, a la Carole Lombard.

Stylists are often pleased, and the blouses have scarf-like necklines, long full sleeves. Gay Thirties-style sandals slipped down the aisle to the old tunes of Benny Goodman and Glenn Miller.

Tiziani, who sometimes comes across a bit like a count himself, but is really a transplanted Texan, is also aiming for a Hollywoodian spring. And appropriately enough, since so many of his clients, starting with Elizabeth Burton, are from the film industry, his look is pure thirties, with wide shoulders, flowing sleeves, and his-cut swirly skirts, plus romantic, Golden Era party dresses, often in white silk with embroidery and inset lace.

After the last couple of seasons of muted shades, brighter colors will be very much in evidence this spring, with even

Plan Shelf Contents Before Installation

By MR. FIX
There's no such thing as a house with enough shelf space, unless it's an empty house. Live in a house while and you'll soon find that there are not nearly enough shelves.

Even those that came with the house may not be what you want or need. The builder of your house had no way of knowing whether you wanted shelves hidden or displayed or what you might put on them.

For the same reasons don't get their cardboard jackets they measure a quarter inch more all around, so allow accordingly.

You can buy fully prefabricated shelves, shelf stock that is veneered and sanded but not finished or you can start with raw wood. Let your pocketbook be your guide. The thicker the shelf, the less likely it will sag, but remember extra support will always take care of sagging problems.

'Hot Line' Checks Migrant Children

The federal government wants to install a "hot line" in the Seminole County District School Board's office to keep tabs on Central Florida's migrant children.

The "spy" system will be hooked onto a computer in Little Rock, Ark., and compile information on the goings and comings of Central Florida migrants and their children.

Described as a locator, to be used to keep migrant children in school, despite the desires of some parents to use them as field hands and baby sitters for their smaller brothers and sisters, the system will follow migrants as they travel across the country seeking work.

Fred Taylor, Seminole County school director of federal programs, said some migrant parents do not care about school for their children and try to use them for labor.

This locator will find out where families are moving when children are withdrawn from school and information fed to the Little Rock computer, then migrant parents will be located at their new destination and made to place their children in school.

Taylor said the cost for the locator will be borne by the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare's (HEW) Title One Program.

The local School Board will be asked to approve the system at the next board session.

Surgeon Summarizes Dead Girl's Record

By MARION BETHA
Dr. Lee Haasis, Orlando surgeon, took the stand this morning in the trial of Charlene Powers, testifying for the defense for over an hour at press time.

Admitting that he had never seen or treated Lana Bennett, Dr. Haasis testified as to official clinical summaries of the deceased child's hospitalizations in 1969, which he said were furnished to him by defense attorney Clark Jennings.

Enumerating the many admissions of the child, he stated the reason was for unexplained swelling of the head and neck. The state objected to taking the medical history from the report out of context and said that the defense was requesting a medical opinion based upon someone's opinion.

Judge Richard Muldrew admitted this was unusual but allowed the testimony, saying the jury could give it whatever credence it chose.

Jennings continued interrogating the witness as to the medical report and asked about another admission in which prisoners convicted of inside maneuvers and give less than a year terms in the county jail.

This was announced today by James G. Lee, Sanford district supervisor, Florida Parole and Probation Commission, and Sheriff John Polk.

According to Lee, the program modeled after the Marion County pilot project, will start with one male prisoner, sentenced to five months after conviction on unauthorized use of automobile charge, and will be expanded to other acceptable prisoners convicted of inside maneuvers and give less than a year terms in the county jail. Sheriff Polk said papers were signed Thursday with Lee to give a man a chance to support his family, thus keeping it off welfare while he is serving time. "I don't care what a man does he is still human an entitled to have a room in himself," the sheriff said.

Polk said prisoners to participate in the work release program must be approved by the parole commission, and a job will have to be available. The first to be released working his job through Lee, obtained with the jail chaplain.

CHARLENE POWERS on trial, charged second degree murder.

Beard Growing Contest Will Feature Promotion

Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce commercial committee mullied over proposals advanced to protect merchants against bad checks artists and Hodges asked if the committee would be interested in setting up a forum on bad checks to help merchants in being aware of check artists.

Hodges said a program could be set up if the merchants wanted it. "Old Fashion Days" promotion sale with beard growing contest, prizes for best costumes, etc., was also discussed for the last weekend in September by the committee.

New Movie Outlines Stalinism

By PEACE STERLING
NEW YORK (AP) — Pacing the small sitting room of his hotel suite, flipping cigarette butts into the wastebasket, looking out the viewless window, Yves Montand could talk at the moment about only one subject—his latest film, "The Confession."

"Even for a million dollars, I wouldn't do 'The Confession' over again," he says. "I lost 24 pounds during six weeks you might say. The film, I had to. It was the kind of film you couldn't cheat on."

"The Confession" is the story of Arthur London, a former vice-minister of foreign affairs in Czechoslovakia who was forced by the Communist party to confess to crimes he did not commit. He was sentenced to life imprisonment, but was rehabilitated by the party and wrote a book, on which the film is based, about his experiences.

"The film is about how we can destroy someone," Montand says in his French flavored English. "What was interesting is how we destroy what a man believes in most."

"Playing London was very tough to do," he continues. "I know him well. He came on the set one day, and I was so upset. I asked him not to come back."
