MISS ANNA NELSON, MANAGER of the Sanford Grammar School Lunch since 1921 retired yesterday at ceremonies conducted at a meeting of the Seminole County Food Service Association after 31 years service. (Staff Photo)

Sanford Library Plans 'Incentive Reading Program'

Attention has been directed by the Sanford Library, to its "Incentive Reading Program" which will get underway on June 1 and continue through August 31.

To create a greater interest in reading, the Sanford Public Library will present two age groups—6-10—a picture of a big bookworm.

For every book that is read, the child will be given a segment to paste on the body of the bookworm. At the end of the incentive reading program, the children's bookworms will be finished if they have read 15 books.

The other age group—11-15—will be given a map of the United States. For every fiction book the child reads there will be given a star to paste on the map and for every non-fiction book that is read the reader will be given two stars to paste on the map. The stars will be in different colors.

If the projects are finished on time, reports the Sanford Public Library, there will be an extra award for each one. But regardless whether they are finished on time or not, each child may keep the map or bookworm.

Parents are reminded that if their child is a good reader and in the first group but would like to try for the map, they may request to be signed up for the map. Some ten year olds read the advanced books.

The Sanford Public Library has the books divided so that each child will find it easy to find books approved by the librarian for his or her reading class. There will be a slip inserted in each book for the parent to sign, certifying that the child has read the book.

This is the first year the "Incentive Reading Program" has been attempted by the Sanford Public Library and it is hoped, by the Library staff, that both children and parents will like it.

Object of the program is to encourage good reading habits, especially during the summer months when a little encouragement may turn a slow reader into a good reader.

The Sanford Public Library has requested that children sign up as soon as possible for the mid-year program.

Miss Nelson Honored Upon Retirement

Miss Anna Nelson, after 31 years service in the lunch room at Sanford Grammar School, retired yesterday at a ceremony conducted during the meeting of the Seminole County Food Service Association.

Miss Nelson began her work at Sanford Grammar School in 1921 and became manager in 1924.

She was presented an orchid by Sanford Grammar School principal Harold Heckenbach, a gold pin was presented her by Mrs. Irene Sewell, and a life membership in the Food Service Association was presented by Superintendent of Public Instruction R.T. Milwee.

New officers of the Seminole County Food Service Association were also installed at yesterday's meeting conducted in the lunch room of Sanford Grammar School.

The ceremony, conducted by Superintendent R. T. Milwee, named Mrs. Dorothy Griffith as president, Mrs. Lucille Fester, vice-president, and Mrs. Clarice Dekle, secretary-treasurer.

Christian Church Plans To Publish Monthly Paper

The First Christian Church plans to publish a monthly paper, as the weekly bulletins do not have the space for adequate news coverage and do not reach every church family.

The Friendship Class, Mrs. F. L. Elliott, president, is taking the lead in initiating the project.

The paper will be mimeographed on three 8 1/2 x 11" sheets. It will come out at the end of the month, reporting on the events that have occurred and plans for the coming month. The deadline for the turning in of material is the 25th of the month. A name for the newsletter has not been chosen, and suggestions are requested. A token prize is offered for the name that is finally adopted.

Mrs. John Bair is in charge as editor of the paper; Clyde E. Feathers, business manager; Mrs. Eugene W. Pattie, circulation manager; and Miss Flo Bishop, mimeographer. Pastor Perry L. Stone, W. H. Young, treasurer, and George W. Morgan, education building committee chairman, will have columns in the publication.

April Savings Bond Figures Released

W. A. Patrick, Volunteer Savings Bond Chairman for Seminole County, today released purchase figures for the April period. Series E and H totals for the month in the county were $19,710 and for the first four months of 1936 now are $150,378, a 2.06% loss from the record level reached in 1935.

"May 1, 1936," Patrick said, marks the 15th Anniversary of the Series E Savings Bond and in that relatively short period of time they have become a mighty factor in the household economies of nearly 40 million American families. They have been the means by which untold millions of people have accumulated the money to achieve many different varieties of worthwhile benefits—new homes, new cars, college education for the children, more comfortable retirement, travel to satisfy life-long desires—and there are still held in reserve for future need $37.8 billions to keep on making more dreams come true."

"Sales statewide," Patrick concluded, "have reached $29,299,927 which is 35.3% of the 1936 goal of $83,100,000."

BPW Installs Officers

The Sanford Business and Professional Women's Club installed officers for the year 1936-37 last night at a banquet at the Sanford Yacht Club.

The president for the coming year is Mrs. Myrtle Graddock; first vice president, Miss Betty Wolfram; second vice president, Mrs. Peggy Kuhn; recording secretary, Mrs. Gertrude Gilbert; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Anna Rinehart; and treasurer, Mrs. Viola Kastner.

Installing officer was Miss Adrienne C. Watts, Orlando, third vice president of the Florida Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs.

Following the invocation by Mrs. Eula Grantham, the retiring president, Mrs. Olga Hunter, expressed her appreciation of the good work done by the club during the past year, then introduced Miss Watts who spoke on the theme of the National Federation for the coming year, "Leadership." The ceremony of installation then took place, a beautiful one in which the new officers held ribbons of different colors denoting Tolerance, Wisdom, Loyalty, Understanding and Courage. The ribbons were attached to a book of gold and green, the colors of the Federation, held by the new president and denoting Vision.

In conclusion, the gavel of office was turned over to Mrs. Graddock by Mrs. Hunter, and a past president's guard-pin was presented to Mrs. Hunter.

The hostesses for the banquet were the past presidents, Mrs. Evelyn True, Miss Gene Nunnally, Mrs. Marguerite Graham, and Mrs. Sybil Routh.

Two Car Collision On 17-92 Yesterday Sees $500 Damage

A two-car collision eight and one half miles south of Sanford on Highway 17-92 was investigated yesterday by Florida Highway Patrolman Carl Williams shortly after 12:30 p. m.

Properly damage was estimated in the neighborhood of $500 to the two automobiles.

A 1931 Mercury coupe driven by Roger Henry Miller, 62, of Rt. 1, Box 129, Maitland, was parked facing north when a 1935 Buick Coupe driven by Mrs. Ann Glover Baggett, 26, a navy wife of Lt. one, Box 144, Longwood was traveling south at a moderate rate of speed.

According to Patrolman Williams, the Mercury pulled across the road into the path of the oncoming Buick in an attempt to reach a row of mailboxes on the opposite side of the road.

The Mercury was hit broadside in the door.

Miller complained of his right arm hurting while Mrs. Baggett received a bump on her chin and bruised knees. An occupant of the Buick, Catherine Louise Lee was thrown into the windshield which was shattered with her forehead. She also received bruised knees.

Patrolman Williams charged Miller with violation of the right of way.

Morris Attends State Directors Meet Recently

Herman E. Morris, principal of Seminole High School, recently returned from a three-day State Directors meeting of the Legislative Council of three Florida High School Activities Association.

Morris is one of ten men chosen from Florida to serve on this board that governs the athletic, glee clubs, and bands, as well as all other activities sponsored by the high schools throughout the state.

The agenda for the recent meeting covered plans for the various State meets and the program for the school year 1936-37.

The meeting was held in the Activities building in Gainesville.

SHS Senior Boys To Have Big 'Feed' At Morris Ranch

All boys in the senior class at Seminole High School will be guests of Herman E. Morris and Mrs. Morris at their M-41 Ranch this afternoon for a "feed".

Tomorrow night, following the Senior Play, the entire staff will be treated to a feed at the sprawling ranch near Osteen.

RAIN MAKING PROJECT UNDERWAY

LAKELAND FL.—A rain making project in Lake, Polk and Orange counties has gotten underway and 45 generators are sending clouds with silver iodide to try to make it rain more.

The project, to cost $22,500 for an year, is financed by citrus men in the area.

State Mental Hospital May Locate In Seminole County

SHERIFF DENVER CORDELL, Mayor F. D. Scott, and Police Chief Roy G. Williams sign Safe Driver League pledges yesterday. (Staff Photo)

Mayor Scott Urges Citizens To Drive Safely Every Day

Mayor F. D. Scott yesterday issued a proclamation designating "every day of the year" as "Safe Driving Day", and called upon all citizens of the community to join in the President's Safety Crusade.

Pointing out that the nation's highway death toll is still at the rate of some 38,000 lives annually, Mayor Scott said in his proclamation that "individual action will be necessary if we are to reduce this needless slaughter."

In the proclamation, the Mayor cited the Safe Driver League program instituted by the B. F. Goodrich Company as a member of the President's Inter-Industry Safety Committee, and urged citizens to pledge their support to the movement.

The proclamation was an unusual official document in that it did not specify any single day or week for the community observance. Instead, the proclamation put the full official weight of the city administration behind an all-out, year-round observance of "Safe Driving Day."

Woman's Condition Critical From Wounds

A Negro woman in Seminole Memorial Hospital in critical condition from two bullet wounds allegedly inflicted by her husband from whom she had been separated for three weeks.

Sheriff Denver Cordell said yesterday that Carrabella Wilson Williams, 37, was shot twice, once above the heart and again below the left breast, Sunday night shortly after 11 o'clock.

Leon Williams, her husband, allegedly fired the two shots through her bedroom window just as she started to retire.

Williams is being held in Seminole County Jail, said Sheriff Cordell, on an open charge pending the outcome of his wife's condition.

The investigation into the possible family dispute and shooting, was conducted by Sheriff Cordell and Deputy Sheriffs James Singletary, Denton Prevatt and Pat Baker.

Williams was taken into custody at his home on Sixth St. in Sanford about 1 a. m. Monday morning.

Unemployment Payments Drop

Of particular interest to Sanford and Seminole County is a report from the Industrial Commission Chairman which reflects the year "round employment activities affecting local conditions.

Payments to workers out of jobs through no fault of their own took an eight per cent drop in April, Industrial Commission Chairman James T. Vocolle reported today.

Total payments were $621,861 for 29,809 weeks of covered unemployment or an average weekly amount of $20.96. Recent figures show the average weekly wage of workers in Florida is just above $60.

April payments were down 55.1% below March and weeks of unemployment were 2,456 fewer. Although there were 1,000 fewer weeks of compensable unemployment than in April of last year, payments were $17,895 more because of legislation which increased maximum weekly benefits to $26 from $20.

Local Architect To Receive Bids For Church June 6

It has been announced by John A. Boston, IV, Architect, that bids will be received in his office at 10 a. m. June 6, for the completion of the Christian and Missionary Alliance Church.

The building, located on the corner of Park Ave. and 14th St., had been partially constructed a few years back with the Sunday School portion having since completed since that time. The present proposed construction will consist of necessary work to complete Sunday School wing, and refurbish main part of structure.

Letter Reveals Possibility

Possibilities of a State Mental Hospital located in Seminole County came up again recently when Mrs. Richard Stover, Campaign Chairman for the Florida Mental Health Association wrote Mrs. C. L. Park Sr., of Sanford, a member of the Seminole County Mental Health Association committee.

Mrs. Stover revealed in her letter "You might tell your Mayor, Mr. Scott, who seems anxious to have the Central Florida State Hospital in Seminole County, that this campaign being successful and your getting your citizens behind Mental Health will help in getting the next regional hospital that is set up for Central Florida."

The letter also cited "He will know about that for the prospectus that was worked out two years ago for a hospital in Seminole County was an excellent one—and my personal belief is that it would be an ideal county in which to place the hospital."

The various clubs and civic groups throughout the county are being approached or have been approached to support the Mental Health fund raising campaign. The response, according to the chairman of the Seminole County Mental Health Association, has been most gratifying.

The civic groups that have been approached and have responded to the appeals are: the Sanford Pilot Club, Kiwanis Club, Rotary Club, Sally Harrison Chapter of the DAR, and the Central Circle of the Sanford Garden Club.

Plans now include a request to each of the school P-TA groups to support the present campaign which continues through May 21. The committees heading the Seminole County Mental Health Association and conducting the present campaign is: George Fouby, chairman, Mrs. C. L. Park, Sr., Mrs. Sidney Ives III, and A. L. Wilson.

North Carolina Man Arrested Yesterday Held For Officials

A North Carolina industrial engineer was arrested yesterday afternoon shortly before 3 o'clock and held for Charlotte, N. C. officials.

Murray F. Allison, 46, said yesterday that he had been formerly employed by the Incom Corporation, and was on his way to Miami to seek employment.

According to a long distance call from Charlotte Chief of Detectives Bill McCall, Allison is to be held here on worthless check charges and for jumping a $600 bond.

Allison, according to Sheriff Denver Cordell, was originally arrested in Seminole County by Florida Highway Patrolman Carl Williams, and charged with operating his car with "no drivers license". However, he was released after paying a fine and ten minutes later the report from Charlotte, N. C. was received to hold him.

Allison said yesterday afternoon "I will waive extradition and return to Charlotte." After talking with the Chief of Detectives by phone Allison said "There is nothing that I can't get straightened out when I get there." He said that his wife and two grown daughters were both in Charlotte.

He was driving a 1935 Blue Packard hardtop. It was understood that a check which he had given in payment for the car was involved.

Longwood Ladies To Hold Food Sale For Building Fund

By MRS. RUTH LAYO

The Longwood Chamber of Commerce received a report from Treasurer Lew Arnold at its regular meeting saying that the Medical Building Fund would not have money enough to finish the interior of the building. There are funds enough left to install the windows and doors and to paint the exterior.

The ladies immediately set this Saturday, May 19, to hold a food sale. Mrs. Carhart will be in charge and the sale will be held in Carhart's Variety Store, starting at 10 a. m. and continuing as long as any food stuffs are brought in.

Assisting Mrs. Carhart will be Mrs. A. Van Fleet, Mrs. Lew Arnold, Mrs. Larry Jones, Mrs. Charles Morrison, Mrs. Russell Grant, and Mrs. Claude Layo.

All funds realized from this sale will be given to the Medical Building Fund to start the foundation for the interior fund needs. Anyone wishing to contribute may do so.

Weather

Generally fair through Friday; not quite so warm today; low tonight 54 to 62.

Anthony Perkins Enjoying First Blush Of Fame

HOLLYWOOD (U.S.)—Can you imagine that? I got 350 letters from one television show alone! And I'm going to answer them all myself. This was the youthful wonder of Anthony Perkins, enjoying his first blush of fame. He was in his dressing room at Paramount, and the letters were scattered about the place. In the center of the room was a typewriter which the studio had loaned him. "I suppose I should have a secretary to do this," he added. "But gee, I'd hate to send out form letters in reply; the kids would know that's what they are." I counseled young Perkins that he would soon have to give up his personal fan mail answering routine. The current trick is to have a secretary to do this. Tony is destined to become one of Hollywood's new — and much-needed — stars. He is tall and handsome, and grins easily. This he will have to bear the inevitable comparison to Jimmy Stewart. But he's liable to cut his own niche in Hollywood. He'll soon be seen as Gary Cooper's son in "The Friendly Persuasion." Right now he's Jack Palance's son in "The Lonely Man." Next he has a plum role of his own in "The Jim Piersall Story." He plays the big league ballplayer who suffered mental illness. After that, he'll play in the film version of "Joey," the TV drama that brought him the mail. Besides facing comparison with veteran stars, Tony has another burden: He is the son of the great stage and screen actor Osgood Perkins. He says that people often say to him, "So you're Osgood Perkins' son — well!" And that's all they say, leaving Tony up in the air. He has made his way in the acting business without any family help. He has no memory of his father, who died when the boy was 5. Now 24, Tony knows his father only from a few old movies he has seen. There are about 20,000 units in a dragonfly's compound eye.

Spotlight On Hollywood

HOLLYWOOD (U.S.)—In 10 years Hollywood's star system has done a complete flip-flop. A decade ago, nearly all stars of any importance—and most of the others too—were under exclusive contracts to studios. Today, most stars are not under exclusive studio contracts, and that has brought a revolution in the production of movies. "We have 20 million dollars' worth of pictures ready to go," said one studio head recently. "But we can't start them because we can't get the stars. We have to wait until they're available." And when the stars are available, their money demands give the studio bosses ulcers on their ulcers. "We might as well sign over the studio to them," sighed one of the bigwigs. The star is king in the movie world today. This puts his agent in the role of prime minister, and the studio grumbling about this can be heard from Culver City to Universal City. When Don Hartman was production head at Paramount, he stated bluntly: "We don't do business with stars any more. We do it with their agents. They tell us who we can put in a picture, when we can have them and if we can make their pictures. And that's not all. They tell us how to make them." This is a far cry from the days when studio bosses used to dictate what stars were to do, both on the lot and off. How has the change come about? It was one of the results of Hollywood's postwar depression. When the war was over, studio contract lists were jammed. During the war years when entertainment hungry Americans jammed theaters, the studios could take the expense to develop new stars. These were augmented by the players returning from the service. Peace brought a change in national habits. People were not moving all over the country and the world, in need of a few hours' diversion in movie houses. His returned, bought houses, settled down. Soon they were able to find entertainment in their own homes via television. The studios were caught with their markets down. No longer could they afford to pay millions of dollars yearly to keep actors on salary. You could hear the dropping of options all over town. "Tomorrow I'll discuss how the star system evolution has changed film industry economics. It takes about $20,000 invested to create one job in U.S. industry."

DIANE DALY, 19, follows in her sisters' footsteps after enrolling in the Mount Sinai Hospital Nursing School in New York to become the fourth Daly to take up the profession at the school. Trying a student's cap on for size, Diane will not start classes until the fall. The sisters (l. to r.): Carol, 21, a graduate; Joan, 24, now married and a mother; Diane, and Ariene, 20, still a student. (International)

Sanlando Springs Reports Increase In Attendance

More than a 100 increase in attendance during the first 14 days of this month was reported today by Sanlando Springs and Tropical Gardens as compared with the same period one year ago.

The growing population of Seminole and Orange County, was credited for the gain along with an increased advertising and publicity program.

During the first two weeks in 1955 Sanlando Springs had 2,608 visitors as compared with 3,239 in the same period this year.

Casselberry To Be Included In Road, Bridge '56 Budget

By MRS. RAYMOND MORRIS
After being denied its pro-rata share of the State Road and Bridge Tax refund for several years by the County Commission, Mayor Julius J. Allen has been advised that the town of Casselberry will be included in the 1956 budget.

Previous requests by city attorney Alan Grant that the town receive its portion of the tax were ignored until Grant stated a suit would be instituted if necessary.

In a letter over the signature of Mack N. Cleveland Jr., attorney for the County Commission, Mayor Allen was advised that Cleveland and Clerk of Circuit Court, O. P. Herndon of Sanford, would soon meet with the board of aldermen to run an appraisal on which the refund will be based.

The board Monday night, took action on a request by Hubbard Casselberry to rezone, in accordance with the findings of the zoning board, highway property beginning at the Evans' Building and extending north on the east side of Highway 17-02 to Melody Lane. The request was to change the set-back from 25 feet to one foot.

Clerk, Frances Allen, reported a balance of $2,331.23 in the street lighting fund, and $1,762.50 in the sewer fund. The State Cigarette Tax Refund, which maintains the street lights, was $199.37 for month of March.

A special meeting has been called for next Monday at 7:30 p. m. to consider further the proposal made by Casselberry, whereby the town can acquire the water system without cost or financial obligation to any citizen.

Announcement Is Made Of New Firm

Announcement is made of the architectural firm of John A. Burton, IV, A.L.A., at 507-512 Sanford Atlantic National Bank Building, "This firm, a continuation of the over 35-year-old firm established by the late Elton J. Moughton, has been operating since October, 1955 under the name of Burton and Rogers—Jas. Gamble Rogers II, Architect.

Mr. Burton, a graduate of the School of Architecture, Clemson College, Clemson, S. C., came to Sanford from North Carolina and had been associated with Mr. Moughton since 1951. He received his early architectural training with the firm of McMin, Norfleet and Wicker, Greenville, N.C. and is now a registered architect both in North Carolina and in Florida.

Local buildings designed by this firm since 1954 include, among others: Pinecrest School, Goldsboro School, the Lutheran Church, the General Henry S. Sanford Memorial Library, and a number of Otham and Tudor Grove Manor houses.

Mr. Burton's office is now engaged in preparing drawings for the Dormitory for the New York Giants, additions to Lynnwood School, and 30-unit Public Housing projects for the City of Sanford and City of Ocala Housing Authorities; along with other commercial and residential projects.

The staff at the present time includes Miss Mary George who is continuing as secretary, in which capacity she served Mr. Moughton for many years. Herbert S. Hirschberg, Chief Draftsman, was graduated from the School of Architecture, University of California, and came to Sanford from Las Vegas, Nevada. Mr. Hirschberg is a registered architect in the State of Nevada.

John Langley, draftsman, trained at various colleges, including study of architecture at Kansas State College, and holds a Masters Degree in Fine Arts from Columbia University. Mr. Langley recently came with Mr. Burton from the firm of Jas. Gamble Rogers II, Architect, Winter Park, Florida.

Robert A. Ingram Jr., apprentice draftsman, studied at Mary Carl Vocational School, Daytona Beach, Florida, and is now receiving further training in this firm.

Church To Observe 'Loyally Sunday'

This Sunday has been designated "Loyally Sunday" at the First Methodist Church. The plan for this Sunday is for as many of the entire congregation as possible to attend the morning worship service. Following this service members of the official Board will be at tables at the front entrance and in the patio to accept pledges to the budget, for the year June 1, 1956 to May 31, 1957.

The Finance Commission, in cooperation with the other three Commissions and agencies of the church, prepares the annual budget, submits it to the official board, and when approved the budget is presented to the congregation. This coming year they plan to finish paying off the parsonage debt and buy some additional property for expansion. In order to meet the increases in the budget because of these items it will require some new pledges and some increases in old pledges.

Following the worship service, a dinner will be served by the Women's Society of Christian Service for the more than 100 convalescers. After a brief instruction period, membership assignments will be given to the workers, who will then go out and make personal contact with other members who have not had the opportunity of subscribing.

It is requested that members of the congregation assist in this program by remaining at home during Sunday afternoon until called upon by the workers.

The following is a list of the convalescers for Sunday afternoon: Frank Adams, Rod Adams, Mrs. J. N. Azzarello, Mrs. J. C. Davis, Mrs. M. E. Baker, Mrs. J. M. Leonard, James Bizard, Ted Williams, C. SHS Dance Band Will Play May 26 For 'Holidays Hop'

The 15 piece Seminoles High School Dance Band with Leslie Smith as leader will play for the first school dance "Holidays Hop" Saturday, May 26, at 8 p. m. in the "Celery Crabs".

This will be the first school dance the group has played for since its reorganization. However, this year they have already performed for the Latin Club, Tourist Club, Casselberry Lions Club, at the Boone High School Exchange Program, in a special high school assembly concert and on the Annual Spring Band Concert.

They have also been heard many times on the WFTS Student Program.

The "Holidays Hop" promises to be one of the outstanding dances of the year with this full sounding and versatile group playing forth with anything from fox-trots to rock and roll.

A floor show will consist of imitations of big name bands such as Harry James, Glenn Miller, Clyde McCoy and Peres Prado, also persons from the audience will be called in "lead the band" reminiscent of Sammy Kaye's "So You Want to Lead a Band." Pat Harrington will be the featured vocalist. Tickets and table reservations for the dance may be purchased from dance band or

City Commissioners Face Busy Year, Many Serious Problems

The Board of Sanford City Commissioners is now up to full strength and action is about to start on the serious issues facing the City in the few months to come.

Among the more serious issues to be considered and hammered into shape to fit the City's needs are: annexation, the power issue, pay raises for city employees, the Sanford City Court, street paving and various minor issues that must reach a meeting of the minds.

One can readily see that the five-man Board of Commissioners has a full schedule ahead of them with no time off for play or idly-dallying.

We can also see that there must be some serious thinking ahead for the five men who guide the destinies of our growing city.

On top of the issues to be considered by the City Fathers, the top job of the year, that of molding a budget that will not only meet the requirements of the City's needs but will also come within the limitations of the City's income, is in the immediate future.

One thing in favor of the now complete Board of City Commissioners is the addition to its membership of A. L. Wilson, a local furniture dealer and civic leader.

Wilson has two up on most members of the Board of Sanford City Commissioners. He has met many of the problems firsthand while serving on two of the City's important commissions.

Then again, Wilson is president of the Sanford Kiwanis Club, a group of civic leaders who have already voiced their faith in placing him in the top spot of their organization.

Wilson, known to his friends and acquaintances as "Al", is a deep thinker who ferrets out all of the underlying problems that beset some of the projects into which one might run head-on.

He has been known as a consistent believer in progress, not at the expense of one or two, but as an overall endeavor participated in by those who will benefit, not one above the other, but for the betterment of the entire citizenry.

Sanford is confronted with growth. Not a painless growth that will keep moving out, building up, and expanding without any effort—but a growth that will mean planning and scheming, working and concocting, looking ahead to the future instead of taking care of the things that have gone by.

Certainly, we need many things. Such as the one pointed out yesterday in these columns—a newer and better Sanford City Court. We need a new, modern, well-paid Fire Department. Equipment must be secured, a new building erected.

And we must not overlook the fact that we need police officers who are not only well paid but are well trained. Police protection needs to be expanded—traffic officers added to meet the need for controlling fast moving traffic through our busy city.

Above all—we need the thinking out loud by our Board of Sanford City Commissioners so that the citizens of Sanford might be informed of what is happening. It is a well informed citizenry that will meet the issues of additional taxes knowing where their money is going—where it is used—and that it is being used for their own personal benefit.

Now that we have a good commission—one that is aware of all of the problems that beset us—we are sure that they will work on top of the table, laying their plans and discussions before the people based on the needs and wishes of the people.

We have faith in the group of men forming our Board of Sanford City Commissioners—F. D. Scott, Earl Higginbotham, David Gatchel, John Krider, and A. L. Wilson—faith in them as long as they have an equal faith in the people who have elected them to their high office.

Now—let's see Sanford progress!

TODAY'S BIBLE VERSE

Ye cannot serve God and Mammon, Matthew 6:24—We must make one or other our chief interest. Men and women of means give to benevolent causes each year over five billion dollars in America alone. Material wealth as a means to a good end is a splendid thing; but sought for selfish ends it destroys countless great families and individuals.

This Is National Tavern Month

NEW YORK (AP)—Has life held for you lately? Have you felt better without knowing why?

Maybe it's because spring has come at last.

On the other hand, it may be because this is National Tavern Month. Yes, good old National Tavern Month is just another page on the calendar—the interval between the end of April and the first of June, just a time when the days get longer and warmer.

This disinterest naturally hurts the feelings of the sponsors of National Tavern Month, who spend a lot of money promoting it.

They don't expect the populace to turn the occasion into another Fourth of July, and go around shooting off firecrackers. But they do think it would be nice if you'd drop into your favorite tavern for a friendly drink at the pump, and pause for a moment in silent reverie over the long and important role taverns have played in history.

Many a wife thinks the neighborhood tavern is just a husband trap where the head of the household slips off on the way to the grocery store, stays five hours and comes home without the groceries.

The sponsors of National Tavern Month think this is an extremely limited and prejudiced view of a time-honored institution.

They say the origin of the tavern is lost in the mists of the past, but that it helped keep their Roman Empire intact. Along their famous roads the Romans had a network of taverns where the weary traveler could sleep, dine and gulp from the cup that quenched.

This chain of early hostleries presumably was founded by a Roman named Conradius Ellipton.

The sponsors like to point out that Thomas Jefferson and some of the other Founding Fathers gathered for relaxation in a tavern while composing the American Declaration of Independence.

That, of course, has endured much longer than the usual declarations of independence that flow in barrooms.

They like to point out that in Colonial days, as now, taverns were the centers of social and political discussions. As a matter of fact, in young New England town hall meetings and even court trials were held in taverns.

It might be a good idea even today to hold the Republican and Democratic national conventions in taverns. This would certainly make them shorter. It would be even better if they held both national party conventions in the same tavern at the same time, and let all the politicians uncork their oratory at once.

What can the average man do to honor National Tavern Month? Mother's Day and Be-Kind-to-Animals Week have already taken place during this period. This sure is a thought.

If you have sent flowers to your mother and tossed a box of kennel brunch to man's best friend, why not sit down and figure out some way to show your appreciation to the guy who has given you some of the best beers of his life—your favorite bartender?

I consulted a number of bartenders on what form their honest opinion would like this testimonial to take. To a man they proudly distill their desire for small gifts—such as a motor car, a trip to Paris, or a $1,000 government bond.

Bartenders, after all, are not like big league baseball players. They don't expect much from their fans.

"I'd be satisfied if a guy would just order a martini," one said, "without adding—and be sure to make it extra dry." Nobody ever orders a wet martini.

"Just tell women—all women—to stay out of the bar for the whole month and give us a rest," said one lady-hating bartender. But most of the bartenders surveyed said something like this: "If the customers would just shut up about their troubles for a while—and listen to our troubles—life would be a dream."

There you are. For most of the year the bartender is standing psychiatric to his patrons. Why not, just for a month, become his psychiatrist? The poor fellow might be so

No Doubt Of Soviet Leader's Hopes

WASHINGTON (AP)—It's easy to see in this country it has become a habit which may prove dangerous—to look coldly upon each new move the Russians say they make to ease tensions.

It has been both popular and safe in this country to be anti-Russian to the extent of belittling the actions taken over the past year by Stalin's heirs, shrugging them off as propaganda, or claiming American policy forced the Soviet action.

But no one in this country can honestly say he knows the full significance of the changes which have occurred in Russia and the satellites, internally and externally, or how far they will go or where they will end.

There is no reason to believe the Russian dictatorship in the foreseeable future will melt away

Too Late To Classify

When you stop to consider the fact that one person out of three in Florida is dependent on the tourist business for their livelihood and that one third of our state's revenue comes directly or indirectly from tourism you must admit that tourism is big business and worth cultivating.

When we set up the Advertising Commission a few years ago and appropriated a very modest amount for its operation we thought we had done something. Since then we have tasted the fruit of this sound investment and have found it one of the smartest things we ever did.

Since then we have doubled the appropriation and our returns have been even more impressive. We have eliminated the tourist "season" and now our summer tourist business equals the winter season and is getting better every year.

On top of that, we find that thousands who come to Florida for the first time as a result of our promotion, returned and brought their relatives and friends. Many invested in homes and are now permanent residents and boosters.

It is imperative that this tourist business be sustained and increased. We are now feeling the accumulative effects of the advertising we have done and our competitors are determined to divert this business and partake in the harvest.

An example is the tiny resort of Nassau. Seeing what we had done they got busy and are now spending several hundred thousand dollars a year more than we are to attract year 'round tourist trade. How successful they have been is evidenced by the statement of an official of the Bahamas Development that the investment of $1,000,000 brought a return to the island resort of over six million dollars.

You will have to admit that any investment that returns six times the original investment is humbly grateful to find a listening ear he'll break down and even buy a drink on the house. Don't count on this, however, not even during National Tavern Month.

The Tourist and Advertising Committee of the Florida State Chamber of Commerce realizes the importance of spending one tax dollar now to insure a return of six tax dollars tomorrow and is leading the effort to keep Florida out in front in this scramble for worthwhile tourist patronage.

Consumers Can Expect Higher Prices

NEW YORK (AP)—Consumers can expect higher prices on autos, shoes and men's and boys' suits next fall.

"If goods don't move at present prices," some ask, "how can they expect to sell the new ones at higher prices?"

Merchants and dealers know that some customers always buy their clothing at the markdown sales at the end of the season. They know that the auto factory's list price is only the point at which the bargaining begins. But they also know that many people will pay the higher prices next fall because they want to be the first to have the new styles, the new models.

As for cars: In a sense this fall's boom, if it comes, will be the result of the inflation of the 1940's still catching up. It works this way:

Steelmen says they must spend hundreds of millions of dollars a year just to replace these old furnaces, let alone build new capacity. The furnaces that may have cost 10 million dollars to build will cost 64 million to replace. Inflation may have been halted some time back, but its delayed effects are still popping up. This inflated cost of building steel mills is one of the many reasons steelmen give for needing to hike steel prices. If the price of these steel items goes up, auto makers say that will be one of a number of reasons that the price of the new models must be higher next fall.

The reason given for a price hike in men's and boys' suits this fall, of from 75 cents to $2.50 at retail, is that on May 1 there was a general wage hike in the industry of 12 1/2 cents an hour.

These workers are now turning out next fall's suits. With few exceptions, clothing manufacturers have hiked their prices by 2 to 4 per cent. Retailers are reported ordering in good volume and showing little fear of buyer resistance in the fall.

Rising wage scales don't always mean a corresponding price rise. Often productivity rises at the same time, holding costs down. And when sales are booming, as now in many lines, a little margin on each unit adds up to a satisfactory gross profit.

In the American economy there'll always be price changes. At the same time there'll always be markdowns, clearance sales, and bargains to hunt for.

Annual Spring Frolics Given By 175 Students At School

A delightfully different and well-presented annual Spring Frolics show was presented at the Pinecrest School Auditorium Friday night before a crowd of overflowing and enthusiastic persons.

The Junior High School affair under the direction of Mrs. W. G. Fleming, included over 175 students with special lighting, and musical effects.

To start the program off the Eighth Grade Girls Glee Club and the Singing Ensemble sang "It's A Grand Night for Singing"; "Rock and Roll Waltz"; "Accordian Solo"; "Suddenly There's A Ballet"; "Hi Li Li"; "China Fire"; "Mocking Bird Hill"; and "Moonlight Bay".

The girls were dressed in pastel formal and to look at them from the viewer's eyes the stage seemed set with a hundred blooming pastel flowers.

The Seventh Grade Double Sextet then took over with "Christophers Robin"; "Ode to God"; and "The Lillac Tree".

The boys of the Eighth Grade Glee Club did themselves "proud" as they presented "The Yellow Rose of Texas"; "The Lord Is A Busy Man"; and "Cool Water"; "Dry Bones"; always a good one for laughs, was sung also. The Glee Club was assisted by the singing ensemble.

For variety and spice Part IV of the program entitled "Ten Pretty Girls" included a short playette along with the song featuring Tom Sawyer and a Bridal Scene. The singers included both seventh and eighth grade girls and the Singing Ensemble.

The Seventh Grade Mixed Glee Club sang "Let There Be Music"; "Holla Le"; "Nobody Knows The Trouble I've Seen"; "La Bella Bimba"; "He"; "What Good Does A Long Face Do?"; and "Battle Hymn of the Republic".

As a booming climax the Eighth Grade Mixed Glee Club ended with "Swing Along"; "Kentucky Waltz"; "Tribute To Song"; "The Shua"; "I Believe"; and "The Day of St. Mary".

Both Glee Clubs ended singing "You're Land and My Land".

As a special feature for the program, Mrs. Fleming was surprised at the end of the affair with a special song, composed especially for her by the eighth grade girls to the tune of "Mother". Miss Diane Aiken then presented her with a bouquet of red and white flowers.

Eighth Grade Accompanists included Sandra Melkin, Kay Key, Marilyn McDaniell, Judy Herzon and Eddie Kirchhoff.

Seventh Grade vocalists were Judy Ludwig, Stanley Vilson, Billy Johnson, Anne Libbey, Helen Pittard, Margaret Grey and Margaret Jones.

Trumpeters were Tommy Brown and Johnny Crofchik; Sax players, Buddy Kirk and Alex McKibben and Color Guards, Glenn Hodges and Ronald McDonald.

On The BOOKSHELF

By S. DRIGGERS

Reviews of new books on the rent shelf: "Sudden Strangers" by William E. Barrett is the story of Bart McVidie, a minor league ballplayer, who comes to New York to see his mother, who is a glamorous Broadway star, and to try to do something about a gnawing problem; what had happened to the girl he knew before he went into the Army—and the child? Receiving no help from his mother, Bart turned to a stranger—his father who was now his brother in a monastery on Mt. Hudson. But it was Bart who finally, through finding himself, resolved his own confusion.

"For All We Know," by G. B. Stern, is about Gillian Ayelsford, an inquisitive schoolgirl who takes notes for a biography of her famous family—her glamorous aunt, one a fashionable and cruelly clever writer, the other a dazzling political hostess; her charming cousin, Timothy, an actor, and Rendal whose life has been a splendid tragedy. The interplay between the members of the family, their triumphs, quarrels and reconciliations, make one of Miss Stern's most entertaining novels.

"Abode of Love," by Aubrey Menen. This is the story of an unusual clergyman of the Victorian era who publicly maintained a program of more than Oriental proportions in a country house, which he supported from subscriptions collected along the south coast of England. Basing this account on allegedly true reports by visitors to the house, Menen reconstructs the life and customs of the place, and draws a portrait of the founder—part accountant, part libertine, and part genius.

"Faith Is The Answer," by Norman Vincent Peale and Smiley Stanton (on 14 day shelf) in which a pastor and a psychiatrist discuss your problems.

"Saddledag Parson," by Sara Jenkins is the story of Jared who rode out into the Florida wilderness in 1827 to bring religion to the frontier. The Seminoles, deprived of their hunting and fishing, were raiding the white settlers—some of whom were a pretty unsavory lot—and before Jared found himself forced to fight against the Indians he had formerly befriended. An exciting story, told against the interesting and unusual background of Methodist circuit-riding.

"Frozen Jungle," by Laurence Earl, an adventure story of disaster and survival in the bleakest part of Labrador, where a plane crashes in a virgin wilderness of tundra, lake and forest in the early winter, and its occupants are trapped until the spring thaw—eight months away.

"Your Prayers Are Always Answered" by Alexander Lake (on 14 day shelf). From his collection (a lifelong hobby) of over 2000 authenticated stories of people whose prayers have been answered, the author has selected 25 dramatic accounts demonstrating the power of simple faith to rebuild broken lives, restore lost fortunes, and bring peace, contentment and prosperity to its possessors. A readable and entertaining book.

Also a number of new westerns and love stories and of course the favorite—mysteries.

reviews to do the column. Don't forget to sign up for your child or have him sign up for this summer. We have a pretty good start all ready, and I hope no one gets left out. But we do have just so many blanks. This is the first year we have tried this and I didn't know how many to count on. The program will start on June 1, and end August 31. If your child finishes his reading on time there will be a prize. If not, he will get his bookworm or map he has filled out, anyway. If you are interested, please tell us and let us sign you up. We are hoping this program will help the slow readers, and help the fast readers to read good books during the summer months which will help him keep "in touch" with school starts again.

May Day, Play Day Will Be Observed At Grammar School

Friday, at the Sanford Grammar School, May Day-Play Day will be observed. This is something new for the students.

Play Day is an entire day of fun, there will be contests for all to enter, such as checkers, chess, horseshoes, and dancing. Winners of the different events will be given medals.

The schedule for the day is as follows: Checkers, chess, and horseshoes will be played first thing in the morning, with 154 playing chess, 24 playing chess, and 142 playing horseshoes. After the winners of those games are chosen everyone will go out in front of the building for the races, which will consist of a 50 yard dash, for each grade. Both boys and girls will participate in the races. There will be 350 boys and girls racing.

After lunch there will be moving down to the pupils. Three entries will be shown. After the races are shown there will be a talk, dancing in the gym in front of the school, until the bell rings to go home.

Each child was able to sign up for the contest in which he or she wanted to participate. This is strictly voluntary.

Eighty-seven per cent of the pupils signed up to take part in some one of the contests. The other 13 per cent will read comic books, sit in their rooms, or watch the other events.

June Graduates Are Honored Tuesday

Mrs. John Schirard Jr., and Mrs. J. S. Adams gave a graduation party Tuesday for June graduates, Miss Mary Rose Speer and Miss Elizabeth Woodruff at the Schirard home in Loch Arbor.

The affair was a garden party and the guests were seated in chairs on the lovely lawn. Red and white, the class colors, were used as the color scheme and white gardenias adorned the center of the tables.

A unique way of serving the soft drinks was the placing of them in a dog basket filled with cracked ice. Each bottle was tied with a ribbon.

Those invited to attend the affair were Miss Harriett Redding, Mrs. Marty Cameron, Miss Mary Tanner, Miss Betty Ann Munson, Miss Janice Kinlaw, Miss Geraldine Silver, Miss Yvonne Cullen, Miss Mary Ann Wright, Miss Sarah Jacobson, Miss Margaret Moore, Miss Pat Dunn, Miss Geraldine Smith, Miss Faye Ashly, Miss Dawn Pearson, Miss Nancy Travasos, Miss S. A Doctor in the Family

By ELIZABETH SEBERT

CHAPTER SIXTEEN

THE NIGHT was a clear one, but the stars were now blotted out above the town by the glow of a hundred headlights, and swirling clouds of spark-spangled smoke. Linda stayed with the car—a warden would tell her where to put it. Alan and Jacob got out and ran, side by side, as they had done things together, when they were babies, little boys and growing ones.

Old Jasper would take masterly charge, herding the women and children, sending the abashed men off to their assigned places. She craned her neck to see. The main fire seemed to be in an out office building down the side street. The feed mill was beyond, and a stream of water was played upon it. But the fire that was in the Merritt building was in the double gallery of the second-story wood that would go like tinder. On the second floor was a beauty parlor. And the Fowler apartment...

Mrs. Fowler had arranged for Mrs. Fowler to live in one of the old office suites, and pay her rent by cleaning the nails and stairs. And now flames were cutting from the windows of the mansard roof attic; when the warden came to her, Linda screamed that children were up there.

"Well, get 'em down, Miss Linda," the man assured her.

She put the car where he directed, and then hurried back to Main Street. Excitement was mounting in shouting waves, much as the fire mounted and mounted, painting the smoke clouds with crimson, sending bits of charred paper down upon Linda's coat sleeve while she was still a block away.

The ambulance came from the hospital and stopped, mid-block, obeying the rules of procedure. After a bit, Linda ventured to cross to where it stood, and to speak to the driver about the Fowler. It had been unwise, she cried, to let the warden and her children live in such a firetrap!

"She poor, Miss Linda," said the driver. "Four folk learn to take chances. They got to live some-where. An' don't you worry—en the doctor's there, them kids have been thought of. Now look there! They gitlin' the furniture down off the gallery! Stand to reason they got the kids out first."

"I hope they save her loom. She earns her living by rug weaving."

"Well, they'll save it, given time."

"Still she fretted. 'If I only knew the children were out and safe...'"

She put the question to each one who came down the street from the direction of the fire. Eventually old Jasper came, plunging along at his usual speed—

"Yes, Lindy," he boomed. "All the kids out and counted. Along with half a set of Sir Walter Scott's in imitation leather. A lot 'em riggin' a rope to let down the organ."

"What about her loom?"

"Miz Fowler, even with her back...

hair mingled off, seemed mighty concerned about that organ!"

Old Jasper went on his way, and Linda decided to return to Alar's car. Coughing in scold air, she crossed the street, stepped up on the curb and was almost knocked down by a running child—a small boy, racing blindly along the sidewalk, bare as Mother Nature except for his night shirt blown up into a rope around his neck. He carried his britches in one hand; the other arm protected a pink and white china piggy-bank, in which a single coin rattled lonesomely. He was sobbing in terror, and gasping for breath. His face was streaked with grime, his eyes pale and staring. Linda caught strongly at his arm, and held him. "Dow'r run!" she cried. "Don't run!"

She unbuttoned her big coat, and wrapped one half of it around his bareness. He looked up at her, uselessly, and gulped agonizingly for air.

"Lady," he gasped finally, "I'm pure scared."

"Well, there's no need now. Here—let's find the car."

He went with her docilely. She was the one sure, firm thing he had found in a world of turmoil and terror.

Gradually, then, the excitement diminished with the flames and smoke. Jacob came with the word that Alan would go on to the hospital. He was to take Miss Linda home.

By that time Linda had talked her little boy companion into sleepy calm. Jacob said the rest of the Fowler family was being cared for. As they passed the night-duty police officer, they told him that they had this one child.

When they reached the Green, Linda wrapped her coat around the child and led him into the wide hall. His eyes were as big as saucers to see lamplight twinkling in a thousand stars upon the Christmas tree. "It's purty," he said, sleepily.

She made a bed for him upon the deep couch in her own room, and he was asleep before he finished the glass of milk and the cookies which Jacob brought.

Linda lay in her own bed, listened to the sound of a child's breathing close by and liked knowing he was there. Next morning, it was pretty fine to let him dress in some of Jim's clothes, to take his hand and lead him downstairs, to escort him through the glories of Christmas in that house. The family had not told they would have such a guest, and there were gifts for the child beneath the big tree: a book and candy, mittens and a red fire truck with a ladder that cranked up.

His name was Manning, he had freckles across his nose and a cowlick in his straw-colored hair. He was nine, and once his shyness had melted, full of questions.

Jim and Ann would have taken over his entertainment, but the boy clung to Linda.

What with the tree, the gifts, meals and callers, Christmas was a busy day, but Linda found the little boy constantly at her elbow. He followed her like a puppy, and gazed at her with adoring eyes. Early she sent word to his mother that he was safe. By mid-afternoon snow was coming down in thick white flakes, and the children planned excitedly on coating.

But the servants said that tomorrow would make a good butchering day—first real good freezing! The signs were right—the sausage wouldn't fizzle down to nothing, nor the bacon swivel up in the pan. The children debated the charms of this development. "Butcherin'!" Jim told Manning, "can be most as much fun as slidin'."

On smaller farms, hog butchering required days of preparation. At the Green it meant only a bringing in of extra hands to help, the early lighting of fires in the trough, the work table brought out, the beam raised to its supports.

And early rising, too, of course. But even so, Linda was brushing her hair when the first shot rang out.

Excited by the talk and the preparations, Manning was anxious to be out and away, and would scarcely let his mother, Linda, walk down with him far enough to point out where he might go, and where not. The twins came pelting down the hill to join him, and the wide-eyed children stood staring at the first hog being lifted from the vat of scalding water, drawn over the table, steaming hot, where the men and their sharp knives were all ready to work swiftly at their job of scraping off the hair.

Linda gave the overseer authority to send the children back to the house if they misbehaved, and she herself went hastily up the hill again. "Butcherin'" was not her first choice of amusement. That night, she knew from experience, the row of naked carcasses in the lantern light would be a sight to avoid—but she must be sure that some of the meat was sent to Manning's mother.

With a final glance over her shoulder to see that the children were still where she had left them, she went into the house, and back to the breakfast room where the family still lingered at the table.

"Hello, Lindy," roared Jasper, "you get things under way?"

She nodded, smiled and slipped into her chair.

She thanked Jacob for the food he brought her, and mentioned her hope that Manning's mother be allotted a share of the bounty.

"See you lost your snappa," teased Jasper. "Did he trust you enough to leave his piggy-bank behind with you?"

"I think so—he didn't have it with him. But, Father, that bank holds a whole nickel!"

The old man chuckled. "I knew it was a treasure," he agreed.

Linda nodded, smiling wistfully. "It's rather wonderful to be loved that way," she confessed. "And trusted. I thought, just now, that I'd like, perhaps, to adopt Manning."

Reasoners' Discussing Preakness

By WALTER BOWEN

BALTIMORE (AP)—As usual they're searching today, mostly to have something to talk about at Pimlico, for reasons why Needles might not be able to follow up his Kentucky Derby victory in the Preakness Saturday.

But it's pretty hard since the character from Florida has collected more money than all of his eight likely challengers put together.

Jack Dudley and Bonnie Heath have collected $462,053 from the racing of Needles. Owners of the eight other 3-year-olds could show only $343,860 if they pooled their earnings.

The eight and their individual earnings are Count Chic, $84,925; Effie Blue, $48,675; Fabius, $78,515; Golf Ace, $58,850; No Regrets $30,000; Come On Red, $26,660; Fleet Feet, $9,225; and RATHERAM $10,150.

The bulk of dough bagged by Needles derives from victories in three straight 100-grand affairs, the Flamingo, Florida Derby and Kentucky Derby. The Preakness will return a profit of $84,250.

Trainer Lloyd Lawson of Count Chic, one of the few mentioned most prominently with having a chance to upset Needles, had this to say:

"He's tough, but we're going to try him a time or two more. You never can tell with a little racing luck..."

Count Chic was beaten by three quarters of a length by Needles in the Florida Derby and three lengths when he finished fourth in the Kentucky Derby.

Trainer Henry Clark, who reluctantly scratched Ricci Tavi as a Preakness probable, is one of those who thinks that Calumet Farm's Fabius may beat Needles if anyone does. "Frankly, Jimmy Jones seems to have things going for him now," he said.

Needles passed Fabius in the stretch of the Kentucky Derby and won by three quarters of a length. While Needles loafed all week in his stall, Fabius sped three quarters of a mile Tuesday in 1:12 2/5.

"The reasoners" believe the mile and three sixteenths along with the shorter stretch will help Fabius as compared to the mile and quarter, derby. However, Needles also beat Fabius twice at a mile and eighth and once at a mile.

Baron Bullpen Is Most Peaceful Spot In Southern Assn.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The most peaceful spot in the Southern Assn. for the past week has been the Birmingham bullpen.

Manager Phil Page's classy pitching staff has reeled off five consecutive complete games during a Baron winning streak which put them in the league lead by three lengths over the second place Memphis Chick.

John Wingo, who began the complete-game string last Friday, went the distance again last night and spaced eight hits judiciously in notching his sixth victory as Birmingham beat the Nashville Vols 5-1.

"The boys are playing fine ball."

New Twists Are Added To Boxing Last Night

By CHARLES CHAMBERLAIN

CHICAGO (AP)—A couple of new twists were added to boxing in Chicago last night.

George Katz, manager of Gil Turner, blew a fuse over Dr. Irving Slotz of the Illinois Athletic Commission.

Welterweight champion Johnny Saxton declared that fans who boo him unwittingly give him new incentive.

"They make me work just that much harder to beat the guy I am fighting," he said.

The nationally televised Chicago Stadium non-title bout between Turner and Saxton ended abruptly at the start of the 10th and last round.

Slotz, after the ninth, jumped into the ring to examine Turner, who was bleeding from a gashed eyebrow, cut nose and from inside the mouth. Turner was not allowed to continue on Slotz's order and Saxton gained a 10th-round TKO.

"Turner was bleeding excessively from the throat," said Slotz afterwards. "The cut at the edge of his right eye and nose lacerations also were taken into account in my decision."

Saxton, who was greeted by boos from a small turnout of 2,000 spectators, back-pedaled and picked up his shots with clever and smooth effectiveness.

Turner continuously hammered him against the ropes, but Johnny blocked many of the punches that may have looked as if they were on target to the TV audience. Saxton countered sharply and didn't have a scratch when it was all over while Turner looked as if he had been caught in a spray of red paint.

Saxton weighed 144 and Turner 151 for the bout which Johnny used as a warmup for a proposed return free march against Carmen Basilio in July.

"Turner was way ahead when Slotz stopped it," said the irate Katz. "In my 35 years in boxing, never have I seen such injustice as that doctor pulled."

Until the fight was halted, Judge H. Marovitz had Saxton ahead 87-84. Judge Frank Clark had Turner in front 88-86 and Referee Frank Sikora favored Saxton 87-85.

Red Sox Get Roster In Order

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Boston Red Sox, their plans stymied by baseball Commissioner Ford Frick shortly before the deadline, were the last club to conform to the player-limit rule which went into effect at midnight last night after a day of hurried trades and re-assignments in the major leagues.

The Cincinnati Redlegs just got under the wire, optioning pitcher Pat Scanlebury to Havana of the International League. The move was set up when the Redlegs made a one-for-two deal with the St. Louis Cardinals—receiving shortstop Alex Grammas and outfielder Joe Frazier for utilityman Chuck Harmon.

St. Louis, which earlier optioned pitcher Gordon Jones to Omaha of the American Assn., is a man under its limit following the trade.

The Kansas City Athletics met the limit by releasing veteran Elmer Valo, who broke in with the A's in 1940. Last night the Philadelphia Phillies invited Valo for a workout.

The Athletics also optioned pitcher Arnie Portocarrero to Birmingham of the Southern Assn. Art Carroll to Columbus of the International League, and Bill Harrington to San Diego of the Pacific Coast League, and sold catcher Joe Astoth to San Diego.

The Maryland Jockey Club was founded in 1743 at Annapolis. The association now races at the Pimlico course outside Baltimore.

Jerseyites Don't Like Dodger Team

Like Dodger Team

JERSEY CITY, N. J.—Jersey City's baseball fans made it official today—they don't like the Brooklyn Dodgers any more than the Dodger players like to play here.

For some strange reason, the Jerseyites have not accepted the Dodgers as their "home" team despite Brooklyn's "adoption" of Roosevelt Stadium as its home for seven games in each of the next three seasons.

The Dodgers have played two league games here so far, including last night's game against the St. Louis Cardinals. They've won both, but on each occasion they've heard more boos than cheers.

Why, no one seems to know.

Some say the Jersey City fans are natural Giant rooters. New York used to have an International League farm club here. Others say the fans are still smarting over the uncompromising remarks made by the Dodger players after Brooklyn's first game against the Phillies back in April.

Armed Forces Day Parade To Consist Of Five Sections

The five sections of the Armed Forces Day parade will form tomorrow morning at First St. and Sanford Ave. at 8 o'clock with the formation moving off precisely at 9:30 a. m. to move through the downtown section of Sanford.

Heading the formation, with Chester Mack as Parade Marshal, will be Sanford Police Chief Roy G. Williams, Seminole County Sheriff Denver Cordell, and the Florida Highway Patrol.

Classed Colors, followed by City officials and county officials will lead off the first section with Herbert J. Bauman as chief. In the first section will be seen the Seminole High School Band and Pop Club, Naval Air Station's marching unit, Navy ambulance and weapons display, Company B, 154th Armored Infantry, National Guard marching unit, National Guard truck, De Bary Ground Observer Corps, American Red Cross float and the Lyman High School Red Cross unit.

In the second section, with Sonny Powell as chief, will be seen the Lyman High School Band, Boy Scouts, Cub Scouts, Girl Scouts and Brownies, Spanish American War Veterans, Disabled American Veterans, VFW, VFW Color Guard, De Bary VFW, VFW Auxiliary and the Gold Star Mothers.

The third section in charge of T. V. Brown will have the Oviedo High School Band to lead followed by West Side School, Geneva School, Southside School, Wilson School at Paola, Pinecrest School, Paola School, Crooms Academy Band and the Crooms Academy Marching unit.

In the fourth section, headed by Harry Robson as chief, will be the Pilot Club float, Elks float, Anna Miller Circle float, Seminole County Jaycees, Sanford Lions Club, Sanford Kiwanis Club, Sanford Garden Club, Sanford Junior High School Band, Sanford Junior High School, Robson Sports-Tennis Goods float, Emily's Snaps float, Sanford's Ambulance and the Sanford Fire Department.

The fifth section in charge of M. R. Strickland will feature the Rusty Boots Riding Club.

Heading the Seminole County Chamber of Commerce Armed Forces Day Parade is Kaylye Householder with George Mayberry, outgoing Commander of the Commercial-Learning Post, American Legion, in charge of the arrangements for the parade.

The parade route will be from the corner of First St. and Sanford Ave. west to Oak Ave. on First St.; south on Oak to Sanford Ave.; east on Sanford St. to Sanford Ave.; and south on Sanford Ave. to Fifth St. where the parade will disband.

The first section of the parade will form on East First St. at the corner of Cypress Ave.; the second section will form on east First St. at the intersection of Pine Ave.; the third section forms on East First St. at Locust Ave.; the fourth section on East First St. and San Juan Ave.; and the fifth section on East First St. at Mallenville Ave.

FRA, Auxiliary To Install Officers At SNAS June 14

Officers of the Fleet Reserve Association, Branches 117 of Orlando and 147 of Sanford, announce that a joint installation ceremony of incoming officers will be held at the Sanford Naval Air Station's CPO Club June 14 at 8 p. m.

The Women's Auxiliary of the Fleet Reserve Association, Branch 117, of Orlando, will also install their officers at the same meeting.

Daniel Waltz, past president of Branch 180 will be the installing officer. Waltz resides in Sanford at 616 Briarcliff Ave. and is now a member of branch 117.

Ladies are invited to the joint meeting. A buffet dinner will be served.

OFFICERS NAMED
SARASOTA (A)—Dr. H. J. Wendland of Bradenton has been elected grand high priest of the Royal Arch Masons.

Other officials chosen yesterday include William J. Abram, Lakeland, grand king; Russell L. Houston, Miami, grand treasurer; Charles W. Arnold, Orlando, grand scribe; and John B. Phelps, Miami, grand secretary.

Pointing to the need for continual training and complete strength of the Armed Forces of the United States, Captain Robert W. Jackson, Commanding Officer of the Naval Air Station here, and a member of the Sanford Kiwanis Club's Public and Business Affairs Committee, reminded his Kiwanis Club audience Wednesday at its noon luncheon aboard the Naval Air Station of the strength that Soviet Russia had accumulated since World War II.

Captain Jackson said, "from reliable estimates taken from current newspapers we're learning that the Soviet shipyards are now turning out 100 submarines and since World War II has turned out more cruisers than all other countries combined."

The Navy has four primary responsibilities as a result of the Key West Agreement of 1948," Captain Jackson said. Research and development, procurement and training of personnel, and in Sanford the state of readiness to strike anywhere around the globe, are our responsibilities," he said.

By graphs, charts, illustrations and pictorial development, Captain Jackson pointed to the type of aircraft predominant in the Navy including the new ASD Sky Warrior which he said "We hope to have here in number."

"We hope to see the development of bases such as Sanford for the support of Heavy Attack Units," the NAS Commanding Officer said.

"To a casual observer our organization may appear cumbersome," Captain Jackson stated and then with the aid of charts outlined the complete organization of the local base with its functional type organization in nine separate and different departments. These he named as: Administrative, Industrial Relations, Security, Medical, Dental, Communications, Operations, Public Works and Supply and Fiscal.

Presenting his Department Heads, the operation of each department was explained in detail. Lt. Comdr. M. L. Beall, NAS Supply and Fiscal Officer explained the duties of his organization were to "pay the personnel, supervise money expenditures, provide machine oil, tires, tubes and oxygen and to provide the petroleum necessary to keep the planes flying."

Chief Carpenter H. W. Filby told the Kiwanis Club the responsibilities of his department included the "general responsibility for providing the fleet unit with real estate, planning for facilities to meet future fleet requirements, planning and development, construction and development."

Local Guard Unit To March In Armed Forces Day Parade

Company "B", 154th Armored Infantry, of Sanford, will participate in the Armed Forces Day Parade slated to stop off tomorrow morning at 9:30 a. m. from the corner of First St. and Sanford Ave.

According to latest information released this morning, a marching platoon will be seen in the parade from the local National Guard unit.

In addition, one man from the National Guard will be assigned to the Color Guard and a truck, mounted with weapons used by the local unit moving with the parade.

The National Guard unit here will have a display of small arms weapons for the public to examine in front of the Post Office Building between the hours of 10 a. m. and 12 noon.

1st Lt. John O. Keeling Jr. will be in command of the National Guard marching platoon in tomorrow morning's parade.

Double Sextette Will Sing Sunday At Church Service

Two numbers will be offered by a double sextette from the Junior High School seventh grade club at the evening worship service Sunday night, at the First Methodist Church. The young people, part of a group trained by Mrs. W. G. Fleming, will sing "Christopher Robin" and "One God" as the special musical features of the service which will be broadcast over WTRR, starting at 8 o'clock.

Included in the ensemble are: Lucetta Brinson, Malinda McMurray, Betsy Williams, Rosemary Richardson, Suzanne Jones, Dranna Nichols, Leslie Jones, Ann Lilly, Cindy May, Angie Stewart, Michael Payne and Shirley Jones. Judy Lind will act as piano accompanist.

'Crazy Hats' Featured At Meet

Orchid corsages were much in evidence as the Sanford Garden Club met yesterday to install officers; listen to a talk on Japanese flower arrangements and enjoy luncheon together. The Woman's club rooms were rich with bouquets and centerpieces of colorful gladioli presented by Mrs. Charles M. Flowers. Members and guests called out mirthfully as each arrival walked in carefully balancing a "crazy hat."

Mrs. George Robert McCall, president, opened the business meeting with requests of reports from each committee and from the chairman of each Circle, who then introduced the new chairman, of 1956-57, Mrs. McCall stated that when she took office there were 263 members, increasing to 346, with 83 new members in the last two years. "We have won some firsts for our club," she stated, "such as the Christmas parade. We rang bells for the Salvation Army, participated in the Philippines landscaping project at the new homes in Little Venice (where I am happy to say I was in the winning group). The Garden club won a National award, the Rose Rosette, given for the best standard flower show. We have applied, too, for a national award which will be decided at the convention in 1957, for our Christmas flower show."

"We had two money making projects; the water whips and all color calendars; we gave $60 to the conservation group for a bird sanctuary and have contributed to the Permanent Home fund and the hospital beautification work. We landscaped Crooms Academy and the Tourist center; we started the Mile of Beauty last year with over 15 palms and 1,000 feet of beautification."

After a rising vote of thanks given for her splendid stewardship of the presidency, Mrs. McCall presented corsages to the following officers as they were installed by Mrs. George Hardin: Mrs. Fred Gann, president; Mrs. Henry Simpson, vice president; Mrs. Karlisle Householder, secretary; Mrs. Ben Wiggins, corresponding secretary; and Mrs. Laurence E. Spencer, treasurer.

Amid cheers the three "craziest" hats were chosen: Mrs. Blanton Owen, (Palm Circle) first prize; Mrs. Edward Lane (Rose Circle) second and Mrs. Charles Hobson, guest of Mrs. Ralph Dean, third.

After a covered dish luncheon at prettily decorated tables the speaker of the day, Mrs. Raymond Greene, wife of the mayor of Winter Park, recounted tales of her trip through the Orient. She showed many flower pictures which she had painted while abroad. "I had the privilege of studying flower arrangements with the Japanese instead of the American tourists," she explained, "so that I could absorb the essential Oriental approach to this subject which they study so seriously. Each girl is taught this decorative grace as part of her education; flower arrangements to her are not simply a 'knack' of putting buds and leaves into a bowl; it is a ritual, taking hours of intensive study."

Mrs. Greene brought 10 vases with her from a huge collection chosen in Japan and showed slides of Japanese women among their flowers, he demonstrated the use of greenery as a background in rich arrangements. In her practical demonstration she arranged lilies and roses for the club group to show the beauty of simplicity which may be achieved from the summer profusion of Florida flowers.

Power For Peace Theme Of SNAS Armed Forces Day 'Open House'

SANFORD NAVAL AIR STATION as seen from this aerial shot, will be open to the general public tomorrow, between the hours of 10 a. m. and 3 p. m. in observance of "Armed Forces Day". The public is cordially invited to come out to Sanford Naval Air Station and see the many displays on hand for the public's inspection. (Official Photo, U. S. Navy)

Parade Starts 9:30 a.m.

The long-awaited Armed Forces Day "open house" celebration at the Sanford Naval Air Station will get underway at 10 a. m. tomorrow and continue through 3 p. m.

This event, which attracted hundreds of Central Floridians last year, is the seventh annual observance of this day.

Again, as last year, Power for Peace will be the theme of the day on which the general public has the opportunity to see first-hand its national defense system.

The NAS main gate will swing open to all traffic at 10 a. m. Visitors will proceed along McCrackin Ave. to Third St. turn right, and continue to a designated parking area just off Von Weller Ave. Guides will be present to assist those unfamiliar with the Station.

First on the list of events will be a simulated air-sea rescue by a Navy helicopter. Here, all guests will be able to see actual rescue procedures, including the hoisting of a survivor into the helicopter. Immediately following this performance, a precision fire fighting crew will give a fire fighting demonstration north-east of the tower. Two demonstrations of the simulated air-sea rescue will take place at 11 a. m. and 2 p. m. Also, two demonstrations of fire-fighting will take place at 11:15 a. m. and 2:15 p. m.

Another highlight of the "open house" will be the touch and go landing of a Navy Albatross. The ship-ship flight demonstration will be conducted between 11:30 and 12 a. m.

Open for inspection will be six of the Navy's carrier combat aircraft, Jet and conventional type planes included in the display are: Douglas "Skyraider", Gruman "Cougars", Lockheed "Neptunes", Lockheed TV-2 "Jet Trainer", North American "Fury" HUP-2 P-38 Lightning, "Retriever", HUP-3 P-51 Mustang, "Expeditor", North American "AJ-Savage" and the B-6D "Sky Master."

A static ordnance exhibition will be located near the aircraft display area. Continuous service made movies will also be shown.

As an added feature, the Ground Control Approach Unit, a fire fighting crash truck and field ambulance will be on display. The Ground Control Approach Unit is a device by which pilots are guided to safe landings during overcast weather. Also, Fleet Aircraft Services Squadron 31, will have an display survival equipment.

All visitors planning to attend the "open house" at the NAS are requested not to bring cameras or firearms aboard the Station.

Car Is Total Loss When Driver Loses Control, Overtakes

A 1954 Ford Victoria coupe was a total loss when it went out of control and skidded along the highway coming to a stop, overturned Wednesday night shortly before 9 o'clock.

Florida Highway Patrolman Carl Williams said the automobile was driven by Calvin Weaver Duck Jr., a 21-year-old Orlando Air Force Base man who was traveling south on Secondary Road 427.

Traveling at an apparent excessive speed, the driver failed to negotiate a curve, lost control of the car and went off on the right shoulder and turned in the same direction he came from in a 25-mile-per-hour zone.

Duck received minor injuries to his arms and head but not sufficient to be hospitalized. A passenger in the car with him was uninjured.

Damage to the automobile was estimated at $1,700.

Patrolman Williams charged Duck with reckless driving.

Picture Of Giants' Dormitory Released

A picture, shown today in the Sanford Herald, of the New York Giants' Dormitory Building, was prepared and released this morning by John A. Burton, IV, Architect, as representative of the finished appearance of the structure.

Burton informed The Sanford Herald this morning that the picture printed earlier this week was an interpretation of the Owner's New York artist and was apparently prepared from rough study sketches submitted by Burton's office which were not intended for release at that time.

Burton further stated the "publication of the May 21 bid date was erroneous and did not originate from my office."

He said, "Invitations to bid will be advertised in the latter part of this month with the actual date for receiving bids being, as yet, undetermined during the last week of June."

Construction is expected to begin some two weeks after the award of the contract with the completion scheduled for no later than Feb. 1, 1957.

It is anticipated that the owners will occupy the building around Feb. 15, 1957 in preparation for their Spring Training season.

City Manager's Report Reveals Cost Comparison

In a recent report to the Board of Sanford City Commissioners, City Manager Warren E. Knowles revealed the comparison of costs in the operation of the water division by both electric power and diesel fuel operation.

Following a month's operation test in the use of electric power exclusively during the month of April, City Manager Knowles compared the costs with the month of April when the division was operated exclusively with diesel fuel.

Comparative figures show that the cost per day in operation by electric power came to $19.88 compared to the diesel fuel cost of $12.85 per day.

Based on today's rate of consumption and costs, the annual cost for electric power would increase by 84 per cent. Annual cost by diesel operation was estimated at $4,000 while the electric power cost on an annual basis would amount to $7,200.

Knowles revealed, however, that figuring depreciation and repairs to equipment, the increase in cost with the use of electric power would be only 34.4 per cent.

In the City Manager's report, it was revealed that the No. Six well went dry during the heavy demand period caused primarily by the low water level in the well. The water division extended the depth of the well 30 feet to a total depth of 191 feet with a four inch bore. The well is now in operation pumping a 33.3 per cent gain in capacity.

Also in the City Manager's report to the Board was the fact that inactive water services has a cost of $3,000.

Water Department. A total of 222 inactive services were listed from the records of the water department and surveyed. As a result, according to the report, 108 unused meters have been recovered with eight more to be removed. "The total of 116 meters," said City Manager Knowles, "increases the meter assets of the City by approximately $3,000."

Unbeaten Apopka Plays Here Tonight

Rotarians To Have Boat Trip, Corn Roast Wednesday

There will be no meeting of the Sanford Rotary Club Monday, it was announced today by the club president William (Bill) Bush Jr. who called the attention of the members to the fact that the Spring Boat Trip and corn roast is to be held Wednesday, May 23 would take the place of the called-off meeting.

The group will embark on Skipper Gene Roumillat's "Skylark" from the Sanford Boat Works promptly at 2 o'clock Wednesday afternoon for a destination somewhere in the vicinity of Lemon Bluff.

A committee consisting of Al Lee, chairman, F. E. Roumillat Sr., F. E. Roumillat Jr., Jim Holtzclaw, Tom Brown, Tom Jones, and Earl Turner has the affair in charge and, based on past performances, this long-awaited boat trip will be a well attended outing.

Gray Is Director Of Training Unit

Lieutenant Commander "O" R. Gray has recently been designated as Director of Training at the Heavy Attack Training Unit, Naval Air Station, Sanford.

As Director of Training, Lt. Comdr. Gray is responsible for the coordination and prosecution of all training carried on by the unit.

Lt. Comdr. Gray, who relieved Comdr. D. Miller now in VAH-7, reported to HATU in August 1954 and had previously been the head of the Maintenance Department.
