Teachers' Workshop Scheduled At FTU

Applications are being accepted now for a two-week national teachers' workshop at Kennedy Space Center June 28-July 9 and co-sponsored by Florida Technological University and the National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

The workshop is being coordinated by Dr. Anthony P. Tesori, who is director of FTU's Center for Continuing Education in Brevard County and Florida coordinator of the newly-organized Space Education Advisory Council.

Teachers accepted for the workshop will earn four quarter hours of credit. Instruction will be directed toward translation of space age information, science, technology, and new discoveries into useable forms for the classroom, said Dr. Tesori.

Each workshop participant will be expected to aid in the production of learning activity packages, based upon development of concepts and instruction materials and methods, once they return to their own schools.

Applications are being accepted until May 1 from elementary and secondary teachers throughout the country, according to Dr. Tesori. The co-sponsored program is the first of its kind in the country and was generated and developed through a series of meetings between officials from the State University System, FTU, the University of South Florida, the University of Miami, and NASA.

Similar sessions will be conducted at KSC July 12-22 by NASA and USF, and again next April by UM and the Space Agency.

A limit of 35 teacher-students has been established for each of the two-week workshops, Dr. Tesori noted.

Sure it was cold this morning... and those with vegetables and fruit on the limb or vine were concerned... like the ecologists.

So, how can you blame a man for burning tires and lighting fires to protect his investment? Pollution?

How do you solve it?

We hear that Constable Jack L. Busher has removed his office to Southeast Lake Street in Longwood.

Colleague and good friend Jack Gardner of that "other paper" is in line to make the next step forward. More on this later...

Add the name of Kay Parker to yesterday's list of honor roll students at the Sanford Middle School... Kay Parker.

DeMoyley Week... the 32nd anniversary of DeMoyley International... is being kicked off locally with a bazaar and bake sale on March 13 at the old Family Recreation location in the Sanford Plaza. On hand will be the Mother's Club leading their talents... as they do so often on other occasions.

More on food stamps... understand that some of the applicants are trying to use the stamps to pay for other services... like plumbing and TV repairs?

Go ahead... keep it up... and you who are trying to "beat the system" are going to ruin it for those really in need of assistance.

Investigations already underway locally...

UGLY RUMOR... I am not going to Daytona Beach to watch the closed circuit boxing match between the ultimate winner Joe Frazer and "what's-his-name"?

IT IS TRUE... covering the Seminole County news scene for WKIS radio of Orlando is yours only... I just spreading the good word about our favorite county to all corners, and all will take the time to listen, folks.

There are a lot of things I'd have liked to be... but, a doctor isn't one of 'em. Can't stand the sight of blood, least of all my own.

Let's pretend, though... can't you just imagine me being a doctor and having a night call... and then Martha Mitchell treat me like dirt.

Gee, I can't see myself restraining at the bit... biting my tongue... and not saying a word!

Like heck you can... this has ceased to be funny and is downright rude!

Personal Opinion: I think that the TV Program "All in the Family" is one of the funniest on the tube. And if you want to call some of 'em dumb Polacks, etc., I don't find it objectionable at all. As long as they don't mess around and start using phrases like Dumb Ukases, etc.)

Anyone who takes offense at it, well...

It is better to ask some of the questions than to know all the answers.

Moore Opens Door For Public Zoo Action

Volunteers Invited 'To Get Down To Work'

By BILL SCOTT

"I don't believe the City Commission will allow you to work until Sept. 30 and then say we're sorry but you can't do it."

Sanford Mayor Lee P. Moore used these words to members of the city zoo committee, representatives of SISTER, two other city commissioners and a Cleveland (Ohio) zoo official during a Thursday night committee meeting.

Mayor Moore met with Commissioners Julian Stenstrom and Gordon Meyer, SISTER president Ruth Swinney, Valerie Colbert, Harold Rowland, B. C. Cookin and Dr. Edward Calvin, zoo committee members, to question Dr. J. J. Goss, Cleveland zoo director, on ways to save the Sanford Zoo from being phased out Sept. 30, the last day of the city's current budget year.

Moore explained to the group the intent of the City Commission, when it authorized the zoo phaseout due to a lack of city money, also included the provision that the city would cooperate with a responsible organization to relocate the animal farm from the present one-acre area in a 14 acre site.

"At no time, no responsible group has come forward and there won't be one unless you all don't quit worrying about Sept. 30 and start doing something," Moore stated.

It was at this point that Moore indicated the commission would not arbitrarily go ahead to phase out the zoo, if there was an indication that something was being done to save it by a qualified group. Moore said the time had come to quit signing petitions and start working to raise money to operate the attraction.

Rowland asked the mayor if the City Commission would participate in helping to fund the zoo, in conjunction with a zoological society, admission tickets and concessions, other devices mentioned as ways of raising the zoo, and Moore replied, "You are asking a question that I cannot answer. But, I feel the commission won't cut you off if you are doing something." (Continued on Page 3A, Col. 6)

Separate Units Proposed For 2 City Operations

The Sanford City Commission favors two separate boards to operate the city's airport and industrial functions.

This was the indication at a work session called to discuss the expansion of the Sanford Industrial Commission (SIC) from its present six to seven members and the creation of a second city board for the exclusive operation of the Sanford Airport.

After a two-hour discussion, the commission indicated when an airport authority is formed or after the enactment by the Legislature of a bill to allow industrial revenue bonding for an airport district, a seven-man body separate from the SIC operation will be charged with the city air facility.

But, to keep the costs of an added board down, the commission indicated its desire to have the new authority operation housed at the airport in an office to be jointly operated with the SIC.

The city fathers want to effect a savings on the taxpayers by moving the SIC from the City Hall to the Lakeway Plaza back to the airport in former Navy quarters.

Although the SIC and airport authority will be housed in the same office, both will maintain separate activities with one section.

Meyer, in the meantime, has resigned himself to accepting the unspoken indications of the commission that he not be named to the SIC, and is submitting the names of three other persons, all of them city residents, as possible SIC members. Meyer has publicly expressed his desire to see city board operations filled by persons living in the city limits.

Charlene Powers Second Degree Murder Trial Set For Monday

Trial will begin in Circuit Court on Monday in the case of Charlene Powers, charged with second degree murder in the February 1970 death of her two-year old daughter by a previous marriage, Lana Bennett.

Mrs. Powers, 32-year old Longwood resident, was originally scheduled for trial on Nov. 30, 1970, but the illness of a defense witness postponed the proceedings.

The child was taken to Orange Memorial Hospital on Feb. 4, 1970 by the mother for treatment of internal injuries, said at the time to have occurred from a fall. The child died two days later. Her death certificate listed the cause of death as a ruptured spleen.

The child, according to J. Q. Galloway, chief county detective, had been admitted to Orange County Hospital several times previously for treatment of injuries to have occurred by falls, and county authorities were alerted by Navy authorities of possible child beating. The little girl reportedly spent over two months in the hospital for treatment of injuries, including several broken limbs.

Mrs. Powers was indicted by the Seminole County Grand Jury on March 9, 1970 and arrested shortly afterwards. A motion to dismiss the indictment was denied on August 20, 1970.

The child was the youngest of four children, and the other three, a seven year old daughter and sons five and eight, were placed under the supervision of the Division of Family Services on Feb. 28, 1970. They were subsequently returned to the custody of their mother on Sept. 18, 1970.

Mrs. Powers, who was employed by Winter Park attorney, Clark Jennings, is free on $4,000 bond.

Also charged in the case was Ronald Powers, 22, the child's stepfather who was arrested two weeks prior to Mrs. Powers. He, also a free on $10,000 bond.

Date for the trial of Powers has not been set. The couple lives at 297 Lake Gene Drive, west of Longwood.

Naval Academy Clean-Up Drive Opens For Funds

A letter from a member of the faculty at the Sanford Naval Academy to parents of its midshipmen has sparked a drive to have Commodore Barry Hall, formerly the Mayfair Inn, restored to its pristine whiteness.

Since the academy moved into the building on First Street in 1965 many residents and visitors to Sanford have suggested that the 44-year-old building be cleaned up. Climatic conditions require the removal of a fungus surface condition and the academy's administrators, faced with many recent expenses, including the construction of the Herard Macfarland gymnasium, have had to use all available funds for purposes other than refurbishing the exterior of the building.

The success of the letter to parents of midshipmen, written by William L. Dewey, instructor of English, psychology and reading, brought immediate results from many parents.

The total estimated cost of the project, however, has not been attained and the academy hopes to attract contributions from many residents and business organizations in the Sanford area.

Lawrence G. Turner, superintendent of the academy, has offered to make all contributors honorary "commodores" of the naval school. The building to be painted was named in honor of Commodore Barry, father of the U.S. Navy.

Girl Scouts' Camp Dedication Sunday

By MARILYN GORDON

Citrus Council of Girl Scouts, Inc., will dedicate the new council camp near Chuluota Sunday, 2-4 p.m., and the public is invited.

"Cook's sales build camps," and for many years Citrus Council has pointed to Deer Lake and Camp Titchees as proof.

On Oct. 9, of the Citrus Council has had a good piece of evidence to show the value of cookie profits. On that day, 140 acres of land in Central Florida became the property of Citrus Council Girl Scouts.

The new campsite is the result of a long search for suitable property in the central part of the county. It is south of Oviedo in Seminole County on the west side of RR 418 approximately five miles north of Highway 80.

The new camp has been named Mah-Kah-wee, a Seminole word meaning Earth Maiden, 2-4 p.m., and the public is invited.

There are many features on the site including a clean sand bottomed lake suitable for water activities, woods, rolling land with considerable forestation and natural floral, cleared grassy areas suitable for playing fields, troop house with attached storage shed, meeting room, kitchen, restrooms and a trailer used to house unit caretakers.

Can Man Be Really Free?

By PASTOR LESLIE R. MANSELL
Forest Lake Seventh-Day Adventist Church

Recently a large group of young people stood before a government building in one of our cities, carrying placards which read: "We Want Freedom!" "Make Us Free," and "Freedom Now! Freedom For All!"

From college campuses, freedom marches, youth rallies, the flower children, unshibbed hippies — in large cities and small — the struggle for freedom has become an obsession with the peoples of the world. Their cry is: "Away with restrictions, give us our privileges, down with the establishment!" The new morality has come to mean a loose attitude with a sense of values to regulate everyday behavior, with freedom for everyone. This so-called freedom by some of the leaders of society is costing our country billions of dollars of money for drug abuse, disease, crime increase — all in the name of liberty. And along with the struggle for freedom has come another word — rebellion.

The step from freedom to license is a short one, and like the prodigal son in the Bible story, the product of this new freedom find themselves far from home, bereft of self-respect or security. From behind the dark glasses, the unwashed and disheveled countenances, is revealed not freedom but enslavement; not enrichment but poverty; slaves to corruptness and violence of every sort.

To be mastered by the lower nature, man becomes a slave. This slavery is worse than that of being bound in chains in a dungeon. Riots, rallies, recklessness, and freedom-demonstrations, are not the answer to the need of humanity today.

Christianity claims to have the answers in the words of Jesus, found in John 8:31-36: "If ye continue in my word, then shall ye be free indeed; and ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free." Jesus is saying if you want to know what freedom really is, you must come to Him, believe Him, and believe His word. If we experience freedom, we must accept His word. The Bible clearly declares that man is free to decide his own beliefs and the Master whom he will follow. Real freedom and authority come together, this is the natural rule of life. If we accept the authority of Jesus, we do not lose our freedom.

Freedom frees a man to say "No" to error, and "Yes" to truth. The Bible records how weak, sinful man, under the influence of God, became free and commanding characters. We become free from every evil thing, instead of being slaves to passion and license; we can achieve in our life what would be otherwise impossible.

Every man, woman, and child, whether they are listed in the church books, or have never found Christ as their personal Saviour, should be willing to accept the authority of God as found in His Holy Law, the Ten Commandments, and be ready to follow this rule of life in full obedience. Jesus said: "If ye love Me, keep My commandments." John 14:15. This, dear friend, will bring to the human heart the freedom that will bind up the wounds of the world, and prepare men and women for eternal life.

A Dialogue With The Lord

By DAVID POLING, D.D.
The most popular devotional book in Christian literature has been "Of the Imitation of Christ" by Thomas à Kempis, of Kempen, Germany. Compiled around 1441, the author's life is attributed to several writers who may have been members of the Brothers of the Common Life, an order to which Thomas belonged in Holland. Thomas à Kempis, as he was to be widely known, published a masterpiece that is really a dialogue between the writer and his Lord. Prayers, passages of scripture, and thoughtful discourse for the pursuit of the Christian life are arranged for easy reading.

When we are under personal strain and depression, we should read again.

That a Man Should

Not Be Too Dejected at Failures or Trial

"My Son, patience and humility in adversity are more pleasing to Me, than much consolation and devotion in prosperity. Why are you so grieved by every little thing which is said against you? If it had been much greater, you might not have been troubled at it. But now I demand it from your thoughts; it is not the first trial, nor anything new, neither will it be the last if you continue to live. You are brave enough, when no trials come against you; you can give good advice, and know how to strengthen others by your words, but when sudden tribulation is at your door, you fall in counsel and in courage.

"I still live, saith the Lord, and am ready to help you, and to impart more than ordinary comfort, if you put your trust in Me, and earnestly call upon Me. Be more calm, and give yourself to greater endurance. All is not lost, because you feel yourself very often tried or much tempted. You are a man and not God; you are flesh and not an Angel. How can you expect always to remain in the same degree of virtue, when an angel in Heaven, and I call to mind Paradise, failed to do so? I am He who lifts up "those who mourn" to safety; and those who recognize their own weakness, I call to the participation of My Divinity."

—from "Of the Imitation of Christ"

Thomas à Kempis

Criticism Of The Church Can Be A Healthy Thing

By LOUIS CASSELS
UPI Religion Writer

It's easy to criticize the church.

At any time and in any place, men can justly accuse the church of failing to live up to its own teachings. The charge is always correct, to some degree, because the church proclaims ideals of unselfishness, love and service which no group of human beings can perfectly achieve.

As an antidote to complacency and a spur to greater effort, criticism of the church can be a healthy thing. When it's overdone, it becomes merely destructive.

It's one thing to say the church has shortcomings, which it certainly has. It's quite a different thing to suggest—as many now are doing—that the church is obsolete, useless and expendable.

Company is Necessary

History says otherwise. From the time of Jesus until now, Christian living has been an adventure in which men and women have found it necessary to have company. It is difficult enough to be a real Christian when you have people around you who share your commitment and conviction, people on whom you can rely for support and encouragement, and who enlightened the commission when he reported that the Federal Aviation Administration (FAA) would not allow expenditures of airport funds to promote industry at the airport.

Two years ago the GSA asked $80,000 for the airport's industrial area, which consists of 150 acres, and did not include the entire airport property which is 1,650 acres, most of which is undeveloped.

Because Sanford did not have the necessary funds to purchase the facility, the FAA had GSA release the airport to the city, but placed a mass of restrictions on the facility and the money raised by the lease of former Navy buildings to industry that has hampered the efforts of the SIC to obtain blue ribbon industries.

Waterway Future 'In Limbo' -Krider

By BILL SCOTT
St. Johns Indian River Canal District Attorney Mack N. CUSTUMER has called to call John Heubach Aske's office Thursday morning to determine whether the Governor had signed appointments to the canal district before a quorum could be reached and a scheduled meeting held.

The problem came about when two new appointees of Aske, Enderly Huskey and Edwin P. Sanders, of Orange and Volusia Counties, arrived at the session without receipt of the signed credentials from the Governor.

Cleveland called Aske's office and received assurance that an effort might be made in the next legislative session to abolish the canal district.

Krider said he had heard that conservationists might try to introduce such legislation.

In other business, Krider was appointed as a delegate to represent Florida at the National Rivers and Harbors Congress at its 58th Washington convention. Krider was named by Governor Aske as a delegate to the annual affair.

4 Letter Words Not Filthy

All four letter words are not filthy, vulgar or bad. Some, if heeded, could even save your life—or mine. Here are a few to consider; you can probably add to the list:

AUTO—An AUTO is much too often an unguarded deadly missile with a loose "nut" behind the wheel.

BELT—A seat BELT will not save a life unless it is worn.

CARE—Drive your car as though you CARE.

DARE—DARE to drive cautiously and defensively.

GOOD—A GOOD driver is no accident!

HEED—HEED traffic signals.

LIFE—LIFE is a precious commodity.

LOOK—LOOK for the unexpected to happen when driving; LOOK for pedestrians who "jay-walk"; LOOK for traffic signs and signals; LOOK where you are driving.

MIND—MIND over matter equals safety. A safer driver usually has his mind on his driving.

OBEDY—OBEDY the law and your driving will be safer.

PAYS—IT PAYS to drive defensively and good judgement pays.

PLAY—Children should PLAY in provided AUTHORIZED areas, NOT in the street.

ROAD—Know your ROAD, respect it, share it.

SAFE—A SAFE driver doesn't take chances.

NEED—WE NEED each other.

Let's drive to stay alive.

Two thoughts to consider: Wearing Seat belts is only a warning. Seat belts is only a warning. Seat belts is only a warning. Seat belts is only a warning. Seat belts is only a warning.

50 Students Visit Florida Power

By MARILYN GORDON
CASSELLBERRY—To see to believe and Richard Miller, eighth grade science teacher, South Seminole Middle School, brought a group of 50 students here for themselves. Miller arranged for 50 of his students and two chaperones, Mrs. Marilyn Gordon and Wallace Angel, to be the guests of the Florida Power Corporation plant in Enterprise.

Curtis Noble, representing Florida Power, served as guide and instructor for the group.

Florida Power works with absolute dedication to give dependable year round service. They have over 2,500 employees working at 437 jobs requiring over $600 million in assets. There are eight generating plants; 17,500 miles of distribution lines; 1,213 vehicles and 46 offices. All this is still only a part of the tools and facilities needed to do the job.

This job of producing and supplying power is big and getting bigger because more people are using more electricity and the cost of living and an increase in inflation. Florida Power has made five rate reductions between January, 1968, and January, 1970. If your electric bill is larger now than it was last year it is because you are using more electricity in more different ways, Noble stated.

Despite an increase in the cost of living and an increase in inflation, Florida Power has made five rate reductions between January, 1968, and January, 1970. If your electric bill is larger now than it was last year it is because you are using more electricity in more different ways, Noble stated.

Plans are made for a nuclear power plant to be built. There are many advantages to atomic plants, Noble pointed out. The operation is quiet and it does not cause pollution from combustion of fuel. It requires no docking space or outdoor fuel storage. Nuclear power is not toxic. It is accepted worldwide and is rapidly gaining in use. It is estimated that within 20 years, half the electricity in the United States will be generated by nuclear plants. Nations now using nuclear power include the United Kingdom, France, West Germany, Japan, and India.

At the end of the informative tour and lecture, refreshments were served to the group.

Mayor Moore Opens Door For Public Zoo Action

This was the second time during the discussion that the city executive indicated his belief that the commission would help save the manatee. If there was a like indication from a responsible group.

The mayor went on to say the zoo committee through the formation of a zoological society should be able to raise between $25,000 and $30,000 a year by contributions. At present the city is spending about $27,000 to operate a free zoo but additional money will be needed to relocate and operate a zoo on the new site.

Stenstrom said a meeting should be called at the Civic Center and set up an organization to raise funds. "Will STENSTROM be willing to setup the first meeting with tentative officers until a zoological society is organized?" Stenstrom asked.

A discussion developed over what plan to lay before the commission at Monday night's meeting when the zoo committee is scheduled to present a plan for funding and operating a zoo.

The committee thanked Dr. Goss for his help in coming to Sanford to offer his advice and adjourned the session until 2 p.m. Saturday, when a plan will be ready for the Monday night's commission session.

Bishop Visits All Souls

By Ann Siczekowski
The First Sunday of the season of Lent was made more eventful at All Souls by a visit of Bishop William B. Collins, Orlando, who spoke at all the masses of the day.

In honor of his visit, the Folk Choir made up to 11 young people of the Parish, initiated the use of their robes at All Souls. They are gold with white crosses.

Sister Leone, S.C.C. is the director of the choir, which meets each Thursday evening for rehearsal at the convent. The songs which are sung represent the tastes of the Youth, but are enjoyed by all the parishioners, giving evidence to the belief that congregation participation is the key to a more meaningful union with God.

The five guitar accompanists are Mary Smith, Mary and Agnes Hockabein, William Harrison and Anna Siczekowski.

The Parish Council held its regular monthly meeting early this month. Mrs. Marion LaTour, president of the Catholic Women's Club, reported success with their annual card party. She said that installation of new officers would be held at the 8 a. m. mass on Sunday with Rev. Ennis officiating. The installation banquet will be held at the House of Steak on Monday night, March 5. Women of the Parish may make reservations by calling Mrs. Bridgit Kolari or Nina Cruise, Mgr. Power will be guest speaker. Rev. Ennis reported that 25 young people from All Souls Catholic Youth Organization were guests on the USS Saratoga in Jacksonville, recently.

He said that efforts are being made to give the young people activities they will enjoy. There are 25 CYO groups in the Diocese and all were invited to Camp San Pedro on Sunday for a Youth Rally, with Rev. Redmond in charge. The local CYO meets every second Sunday in the social hall. At present, there are about 40 members, with more joining at each meeting. The group will be out in the community on Saturday, selling tickets to the luncheon to be held at the Club on Sunday for All Souls' "Cracker Day."

The Bishop commended the Parish leaders present in the meeting for their efforts in encouraging individual involvement in the Parish and in the community and in increasing the spiritual and social attitudes among their members.

Editorial Comment

Proposed Convention Hall Stimulates Vision

"Where there is no vision, the people perish." This sage observation was made by Solomon and is recorded in the King James version of the Holy Bible.

Yet it is applicable to Sanford-Seminole in this year of 1971. Anno Domini and is most current when applied to some of the bold proposals which are being made in various fields and by assorted spokesmen.

Each of these has attracted editorial comment in the past. Each is becoming more and more critical. Each has, within itself, results which do not take anything more than common sense and common resolve to become visible.

Sanford, of course, is the city where these two operations — or lack of operation — has brought the most criticism. It is also, happily, the city where recent attention to the parks has improved their terrain so that greater use is easier.

Morale Important

As Chief of Naval Operations, Adm. E. R. Zumwalt has made it clear that he does not intend to paraphrase Winston Churchill — intend to preside over the dissolution of the United States Navy.

Since World War II, the Navy has been operating on a virtual wartime basis. That means long hours of sea duty, separation and inconvenience for families, hard work to maintain fighting readiness.

Coupled with a loss of individual privileges available in civilian life, the net effect has been a marked decline in enlistments and re-enlistments.

Neither Admiral Zumwalt nor anyone familiar with military operation wants to entrust national defense to an undisciplined crew.

It's well to remember that civilians in uniform — from back-woodsmen to bank clerks — historically have demonstrated their adaptability in times of national crisis.

The Navy today need be no exception — but first it must attract an adequate number of civilian volunteers.

Helen Fuller Says:

Mayor Lindsay's Rubicon

WASHINGTON — Is there anything harder than being mayor of the world's greatest headache city, New York?

Yes. Being President of the United States. Mayor John Lindsay, head guy of the Fun City, perhaps out of Scottish earnestness is about to try for the hooter spot.

Reaction to his anticipated announcement of a switch from Republican to Democrat is likely to be, "so what?" That would be a mistake. Another personable finger in the Presidential pie, on the Democratic side, means more interest in this already mixed up concoction.

Don Oakley Says:

Sew Fine Seam

Home sewing has boomed into a $2-billion-a-year industry. Last year about one billion yards of material were sold at an average price of $2 a yard. Nations such as thread, zippers, pins and buttons amounted to $400 million.

Reasons for the phenomenon include a renewed interest in home crafts, rising prices, rebellion against the dictates of the fashion designers (the mid-skirt, for example) and new fabrics that make sewing easier.

Domestic Commentary

Lawbreakers' New Chance

By RAY CROMLEY

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Little notice has been given to what may be the most radical attempt in this country's history at reform in dealing with men and women accused of crime.

If experiments now in their infancy are successful, there may be no trial, no sentencing and no "record" for many men and women arrested and brought to court.

Instead, for some there will be intensive counseling, group therapy and a voluntary rehabilitation program which will normally last 90 days but which can be extended to 120 or 150 when necessary.

A job will be found for each man, or he'll be enrolled in school or vocational training.

He'll be held to strict rules on reporting for school or work, on making an attempt to shake old habits, on seeking aid for his problems.

His counselors will probably be at once himself, a man who may have spent two to 16 years behind bars.

Men who make good in these three-to-five-month programs and impress the judge will go free with no time in prison and no criminal court record.

They will, in the strictest sense of the word, begin again with a clean slate.

No one knows yet if this approach will work. But one small-scale, experimental, federally financed program has been successful enough that

Cromley

New York City has taken over its management and financing in Manhattan and expanded its coverage to Brooklyn as well.

President Nixon has been so impressed with the experiment in New York and one in Washington, D.C., that he has asked Congress for funds to support similar programs in 18 other cities.

It is estimated that 40 to 60 per cent of those selected make it through the 90-to-150-day period. Follow-up studies in the Washington experiment indicate that of those who were then released without trial or jail sentence, some 80 per cent have kept clean of crime for the first year following their participation.

The theory behind these experiments is simple. A man is (it's hoped) less likely to commit crime if he has a stake in society.

As one member of the New York staff puts it: "The single, most important claim we can make... is that we give some few people a choice which because of the color of their skin, their ethnic background, the neighborhood in which they grew up, the schools they attended, their family situation, their economic status — because of all these reasons — opportunities have been denied them. It is a choice they have never had before.

The relative merits of that choice can be argued among those who have had it. But it has been our experience that for many who have never had this choice, it is still very much in demand."

Thus far, also, the experimenters have shied away from attempting to handle in these programs men and women on drugs, alcoholics, prostitutes, gamblers, those accused of heinous crimes and other types they feel would not respond to the work-self-respect technique.

For the above reason, no one working on the program sees it as the way to handle all lawbreakers.

But with some local surveys indicating that repeaters may account for 35 to 66 per cent of today's crime, even a partial solution can be a major step forward.

House Republican Minority Leader Don Reed may feel certain kinds of ignorance are bliss and the state's government in the sunshine law only for the press.

Reed was roaming the halls earlier this week and poked his head into a meeting of Democrat Rep. Murray Dubbin's appropriations subcommittee.

"Come on in, Mr. Minority Leader," called out Dubbin. "We're in the sunshine around here, you know."

Reed paused a second, then commented: "I don't want to know anything — I just want to stay ignorant and vote the way I always do."

Both showed up for committee meetings this week with hair sprouting from their upper lips. Neither had much of a mustache, though.

As might be expected, the hairy ones took a lot of ribbing from their colleagues. Hartnett had a fast answer: "I'm just getting ready for those 18-year-old voters."

Fleece asked a mustache reporter for advice on how to trim his mustache.

Two other House members, Minority Leader Don Reed, R-Boca Raton, and Rep. Don Tucker, D-Tallahassee, have shown up for legislative meetings in the past with mustache sprouts but both have since chickened out. They're clean shaven again.

TALLAHASSEE (AP) — Gov. Reubin Askew is being asked to pay off on a promise he made several weeks ago to blacks from nearby Gadsden County.

Among a list of grievances presented Askew by a group of protesters from Quincy was that he consider blacks for local government posts when vacancies arise. He promised he would do his best.

Now, with the unexpected death of Gadsden Sheriff Robert Martin of a heart attack last weekend, black leaders are asking that a black man be appointed to that post.

Ironically, another request presented during the Gadsden County demonstrations last month was that Martin be suspended. Blacks said he and his staff discriminated against them.

Askew press aide Don Pride said he didn't think the governor had "time to think about it yet," but said he "wouldn't rule out the possibility" of a black appointment.

If Askew doesn't appoint a black man to the post — the NAACP has already come up with a name — he might find it hard to persuade black protesters in the future that he will do whatever he can to see more blacks in state and local politics.

Gadsden County's population is more than 60 per cent black, but only about 40 per cent of the voting roll is black, and there are no black elected officials in the county.

Same Ground

Former Atty. Gen. Earl Faircloth spent $30,000 during 1970 on fighting the Mafia, and filed 21 suits against resorts and other businesses he suspected of being run on Mafia money.

Every one of those 21 suits has either been thrown out of court or withdrawn by the attorneys who filed them.

Now his successor, Atty. Gen. Robert Shavin, reportedly is preparing to cover some of the same ground. In his proposed 1971-72 budget, he calls for $45,000 in general revenues to continue the war against organized crime.

The difference, says Shavin aide Louis Wainwright Jr., is twofold. First, Shavin isn't running for governor. At least not this year. And second, "We won't file any suits unless we know they'll stand up in court. We don't plan to move against anybody until we have all the evidence."

Faircloth's suits were filed under a 1969 law allowing the state to bring civil actions against firms it suspects of being infiltrated by organized crime.

'In The Sunshine'

House Republican Minority Leader Don Reed may feel certain kinds of ignorance are bliss and the state's government in the sunshine law only for the press.

Reed was roaming the halls earlier this week and poked his head into a meeting of Democrat Rep. Murray Dubbin's appropriations subcommittee.

"Come on in, Mr. Minority Leader," called out Dubbin. "We're in the sunshine around here, you know."

Styles Change

Each time lawmakers come to Tallahassee for committee meetings, it seems more and more of them have changed their dress or hair styles to keep up with the latest trends.

The latest are Rep. William Fieser, R-St. Petersburg, and Robert Hartnett, D-Miami.

Both showed up for committee meetings this week with hair sprouting from their upper lips. Neither had much of a mustache, though.

As might be expected, the hairy ones took a lot of ribbing from their colleagues. Hartnett had a fast answer: "I'm just getting ready for those 18-year-old voters."

Fleece asked a mustache reporter for advice on how to trim his mustache.

Two other House members, Minority Leader Don Reed, R-Boca Raton, and Rep. Don Tucker, D-Tallahassee, have shown up for legislative meetings in the past with mustache sprouts but both have since chickened out. They're clean shaven again.

Freshman Rep. George Williamson, R-Port Lauderdale, had a mustache when he reported to the House.

Other legislators who have been mustache-d for a while include Reps. Ray Moudry, R-West Palm Beach; Robert Woodward, D-Quincy; and Joe Land, R-Kernah, D-Miami. But their mustaches are the little, under-control type — not the hairy bushes favored by the lip.

In the Senate, that staid upper chamber, there isn't a single mustache, unless you count the imposing ones adorning the portraits of some of the past Senate presidents which hang on the chamber walls.

Railroad Canal

Secretary of State Dick Stone, who has never been accused of lacking imagination, wants the missing link on the cross-Florida barge canal completed with a narrow wide railroad with cars that would resemble giant bathtub.

The idea is to hoist the barges onto the railway cars and move them overland through the Ocala National Forest, with two "lifting stations" at either end — one in Dunnellon and the other at Lake George.

Stone, however, may not have anticipated the consequences of a derailment along the way. It could make Florida the first state in the nation to have an oil spill in a national forest.

'Greenbelt' Assessments At Issue

Florida Timberland Tax Values In Court

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) — Property taxes on 13 million acres of Florida timberlands could go up if the Florida Supreme Court rules against Jacksonville millionaire Ed Ball in a case now before it.

Ball's St. Joe Paper Co. is appealing rulings which upheld St. Johns County Tax Assessor Harold Wayne's decision to deny greenbelt law tax breaks to 800 acres of SJP's land in 1968.

Only a few thousand dollars in taxes are at stake in the specific case, but attorneys for SJP said 13 million of Florida's 16 million timber-bearing acres could be affected.

A central issue is whether wild, unmanaged lands with trees on them qualify as agricultural land for the lower greenbelt law assessments.

Wayne argued at a hearing Thursday that it should not be permitting the land to grow wild and it was holding it only for speculative purposes.

Until 1968, Wayne had assessed a 4,300-acre tract as greenbelt property. The 1967 assessment on the property was $251,500.

He contended there was "no stumpage" to prove SJP had cut timber on the land since it was purchased in 1942, that it was permitting the land to grow wild and it was holding it only for speculative purposes.

And another SPJC attorney, former Circuit Judge William L. Darden of Jacksonville, remarked, "A lot of people can remember when the land in north Florida wasn't on the tax rolls at all. The companies were invited to come in and buy the land, build pulp mills and put people on the payroll. They did this."

The court did not indicate when it would rule.

Three Raid Bible Class, Escape With $1,000

MIAMI (AP) — Three men, one of them brandishing a saw-edged shotgun, raided a Bible study class in an Opa-Cola church Thursday night and made off with more than 1,000 in cash and jewelry taken from the startled congregation.

Seventy-five men, women and children were gathered to learn how to "carry the messages of the Bible to others," when a man appeared in the back of the Kingdom Hall holding "what looked like a sawed-off double barrel shotgun," said one parishioner.

"Don't turn around; hold it right there," she quoted the gunman as saying.

While the gunman held the congregation at bay, two accomplices appeared and began weaving through the gathering collecting cash and jewelry.

Detectives said the robbers appeared to be professionals because they spoke calmly to the parishioners, all Jehovah's Witnesses, and were careful not to panic the several children present.

The most frightening of the trio, according to police, was the man carrying the shotgun because he pointed it around the room frequently.

One of the accomplices was dressed in black, wore a handkerchief over his face and was carrying a pistol.

All three men were black, police said, and dressed in dark clothing.

After the trio had departed, several men in the congregation locked the doors and waited a few minutes for safety's sake. Then Brother George Zautner went to the alert police.

Although police estimated the take at better than $1,000, the thieves overlooked collection boxes containing the building fund and regular donations.

Proposed Convention Hall Stimulates Vision

"Where there is no vision, the people perish." This sage observation was made by Solomon and is recorded in the King James version of the Holy Bible.

In this grand design, we are not, at this time, concerned with the details. Nor are we well enough informed to comment on the project per se.

Each of these has attracted editorial comment in the past. Each is becoming more and more critical. Each has, within itself, results which do not take anything more than common sense and common resolve to become visible.

Not can it be said too often that the need for use of all the recreational facilities which the city of Sanford has is a matter which should not be stymied by neglect to boldly determine the causes and remove them.

Morale Important

As Chief of Naval Operations, Adm. E. R. Zumwalt has made it clear that he does not intend to preside over the dissolution of the United States Navy.

Since World War II, the Navy has been operating on a virtual wartime basis. That means long tours of sea duty, separation and inconvenience for families, hard work to maintain fighting readiness.

Coupled with a loss of individual privileges available in civilian life, the net effect has been a marked decline in enlistments and re-enlistments.

Neither Admiral Zumwalt nor anyone familiar with military operation wants to entrust national defense to an undisciplined crew. But by broadening the range of personal decisions which do not detract from overall efficiency, the new Navy is strengthening its esprit de corps.

And lest some seamen interpret the new rules too loosely, the admiral has let it be known that the Navy still maintains discipline.

It's well to remember that civilians in uniform — from backwoodsmen to bank clerks — historically have demonstrated their adaptability in times of national crisis.

The Navy today need be no exception — but first it must attract an adequate number of civilian volunteers.

Lawbreakers' New Chance

WASHINGTON (AP) — Little notice has been given to what may be the most radical attempt in this country's history at reform in dealing with men and women accused of crime.

If experiments now in their infancy are successful, there may be no trial, no sentencing and no "reformatory" for many men and women arrested and brought to court.

President Nixon has been so impressed with the experiment in New York and one in Washington, D.C., that he has asked Congress for funds to support similar programs in 13 other cities.

It is estimated that 40 to 60 per cent of those selected make it through the 90-to-100-day period. Follow-up studies in the Washington experiment indicate that of those who were then released without trial or jail sentence, some 80 per cent have kept clean of crime.

The theory behind these experiments is simple. A man is (it's hoped) less likely to commit crime if he has a stake in society.

As one member of the New York staff puts it: "The single, most important claim we can make... is that we give some few people a choice which because of the potential swarm of candidates. The possibility that some contenders will be declaring, or making sounds like running, every month from here to November, makes it impossible to be firm on issues it would be easier to leave unmentioned for the moment.

Toure's Terror In Guinea

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Foreign newsmen are barred from the West African "Republic" of Guinea where President Sekou Toure is exterminating opponents of his Marxist-Leninist dictatorship.

Like the genocide practiced by the Arab regime in the Sudan against that country's southern tribes, this is another case of blacks killing blacks.

And outside observers could only be an embarrassment to Toure and his Russian advisers.

Nevertheless some information on the massacre in Guinea is reaching the United Nations.

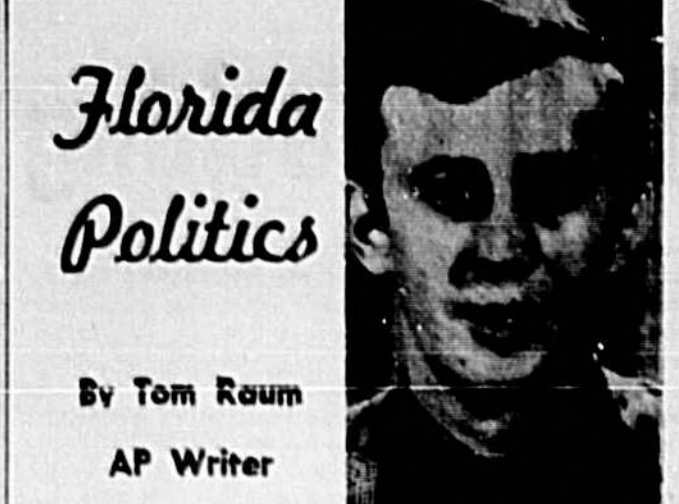

According to eyewitness reports, bodies suspended from a bridge over the main street of Conakry, Guinea's capital, were black and not white.

The foreign minister for the African state of Mali, who went to Guinea to "see for himself," said that he saw no Portuguese or any other white mercenaries, "dead or alive."

This is important to a great because of the biased and misleading account by a "Special United Nations Mission" that investigated Portugal's alleged "invasion" of Guinea in November.

The report on the tragedy in Guinea is another world episode in the history of the United Nations. It explains among other things, why the United States and Britain finally decided to resign from the U.N.'s extremely anti-Russian-dominated "anticolonial committee."

When Conakry was invaded by Guinean dissidents in November Sekou Toure claimed that Portugal — a favorite whipping boy for the anticolonialists

TALLAHASSEE (AP) — Gov. Reubin Askew is being asked to pay off on a promise he made several weeks ago to blacks from nearby Gadsden County.

Among a list of grievances presented Askew by a group of protesters from Quincy was that he consider blacks for local government posts when vacancies arise. He promised he would do his best.

Now, with the unexpected death of Gadsden Sheriff Robert Martin of a heart attack last weekend, black leaders are asking that a black man be appointed to that post.

'Greenbelt' Assessments At Issue

Florida Timberland Tax Values In Court

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) — Property taxes on 13 million acres of Florida timberlands could go up if the Florida Supreme Court rules against Jack Sanville millionaire Ed Bell in a case now before it.

Bell's St. Joe Paper Co. is appealing rulings which upheld St. Johns County Tax Assessor Harold Wayne's decision to deny greenbelt law tax breaks to 800 acres of SJP's land in 1968. Only a few thousand dollars in taxes are at stake in the specific case, but attorneys for SJP said 13 million of Florida's 16 million timber-bearing acres could be affected.

A central issue is whether wild, unmanaged lands with trees on them qualify as agricultural land for the lower greenbelt tax assessments. Wayne argued at a hearing Thursday that it should not.

To rule so would "pose a threat to Florida's ad valorem tax structure," he said. It would mean that "anybody who bought land with timber on it was entitled to a greenbelt exemption."

Until 1968, Wayne had assessed a 4300-acre tract of greenbelt property. The 1967 assessment on the property was $251,580.

In 1968, acting on recommendations of a zoning board, Wayne split off from that parcel for tax purposes 500 acres west of State Road 11 on the shores of the St. Johns River.

He contended there was "no stumpage" to prove SJP's claim that timber on the land since it was purchased in 1963, that it was permitting the land to grow wild and it was holding it only for speculative purposes.

An attorney assisting him said "Evidence shows no use of the lands for 10 years; no cuttings, no bulldozing, no forestry — just another nature letting it grow. In fact, it is deteriorating because of the failure to cut."

He said the riverfront land could sell for "a hundred dollars a front foot for use for first rate, $50,000 homes."

The Florida Forestry Association has told the court if it regards unmanaged land as not qualified for greenbelt exemptions, 92,000 landowners holding 13 million acres of land in Florida would be affected.

Fred H. Kent Jr., Jacksonville attorney representing SJP, said the company bought the land with "good faith" intentions to use it for timber. He argued that SJP is a paper company, not one involved in land speculation.

He said virtually all of the timber on the 500 acres is "merchantable," and contended tax assessor Wayne was mistakenly considering the "high cost and best use" of the land, which both sides agreed was residential.

Craig said and-canal bills were being held "for further study" in his committee.

"We have some crackpots in South Florida," said State Sen. Bill Buford, D-Jacksonville, referring to canal opponents.

Meanwhile, Army engineers said in Jacksonville three projects on the canal will be finished for reasons of safety and environment.

A U.N. team of observers was at once dispatched to Conakry where it was wined and dined

The special mission's report was based on the "confessions" of seven men who claimed to be members of Portugal's armed forces. The mission promised other evidence to substantiate its charge of Portuguese complicity in the invasion.

Reasons for the phenomenon include a renewed interest in home crafts, ringed prices, rebellion against the dictates of the fashion designers (the mid-jacket, for example) and new fabrics that make sewing easier.

Something else may be involved — a happy blending of the self-sufficiency of our ancestors with the products of a machine age in which everything is done for us. Home sewing is only one part of the do-it-yourself trend which began after World War II, and which continues today.

True enough, few of us cut down trees to make our own lumber any more, or spin our own thread and weave our own cloth. Big industries process our raw materials.

But in the burgeoning market for home remodeling materials and tools and craft and hobby supplies, and in the intangible pride of accomplishment that accompanies making something yourself, we may not be so different from the glenns.

U. S. Plans No Invasion Of No. Vietnam-Nixon

By LEWIS GULICK
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon says the Laotian operation ensures continuation of U.S. troop withdrawals from Indochina, but adds there are no plans for American support of an invasion of North Vietnam.

In a televised news conference Thursday night, Nixon said U.S. forces must remain in the South as long as the North holds American prisoners.

And he vigorously defended Secretary of State William P. Rogers — "my oldest and closest friend in the Cabinet" — against a charge by Sen. Stuart Symington, D-Mo., that Rogers had lost his role to Henry Kissinger, the President's national-security-af-airs adviser.

"I think Sen. Symington's attack upon the secretary frankly was a cheap shot," Nixon said, adding that he wasn't condemning Symington for his statement in the Senate Tuesday.

"As to whether either Secretary Rogers or Dr. Kissinger is the top advisor, as to that of course is very simply that the secretary of state is always the chief foreign-policy adviser and the chief foreign-policy spokesman of the administration."

The Indochina war dominated the half-hour news session devoted to foreign affairs. The President went to some length in pronouncing the Laos operation a success.

U.S. troop withdrawals have been averaging roughly 12,000 a month since Nixon began reducing the 543,000-man U.S. force in mid-1969. By May 1 the U.S. force remaining in South Vietnam is slated to be down to 281,000, and the President plans to announce further withdrawals next month.

"Our troop-withdrawal schedule will go forward at least at the present rate," Nixon said.

He said the U. S. commander in Vietnam, Gen. Creighton W. Abrams, "tells me that in both Laos and in Cambodia his evaluation after weeks of fighting is that to use his terms — the South Vietnamese by themselves can back it . . . ."

"This means that our withdrawal program, our Vietnamization program is a success, and can continue on schedule, and we trust even ahead of schedule assuming there is more progress in Laos."

Nixon said Abrams reported the South Vietnamese units in Laos already have cut North Vietnamese southbound track traffic by 55 per cent, "which means that those tracks that do not go South will not carry the arms and the men that will be killing Americans."

While some television commentators have kept up a drumbeat of criticism, Nixon said without naming anyone, the aim of the Cambodian and Laotian operations has been to reduce U.S. forces and casualties and "that is exactly what his administration has done."

"We are going to continue to reduce our forces, and we are getting out of Vietnam in a way that Vietnam will be able to defend itself," he said.

Nixon portrayed talk by South Vietnamese President Nguyen Van Thieu of possibly invading North Vietnam as natural for the leader of a country under invasion. But he drew limits on what the United States might do.

"We will have no ground forces in North Vietnam, in Cambodia or in Laos" outside of rescuers for fliers or prisoners, Nixon said.

He said the U.S. airpower will be used against the North, against threatening missile sites and against military targets where increased infiltration endangers remaining U.S. forces.

Nixon
At A Glance

WASHINGTON AP — Here in brief are major points covered by President Nixon in his news conference on foreign affairs Thursday night.

INDOCHINA — No plan to provide air support for a South Vietnamese invasion of the North; South Vietnamese troops can fight without U.S. help; continued U.S. withdrawal is ensured.

MIDEAST — The United States will not attempt to impose a settlement on the Arabs and Israelis.

Soviet Union — Any U.S.-Soviet arms-limitation agreement must cover offensive and defensive weapons.

ROGERS - KISSINGER — Secretary of State William P. Rogers and White House foreign-policy adviser Harry A. Kissinger are trusted aides; Rogers is chief foreign-policy spokesman for the President.

Allies Preparing Major Attack On Red Supply Lines

By GEORGE ESPER
Associated Press Writer
SAIGON (AP) — South Vietnam troops just outside Sepone today in preparation for a large-scale assault on the town and airstrip two miles to the west in the heart of the Ho Chi Minh trail supply network.

Sources in Saigon said U.S. helicopters flew the fresh South Vietnamese reinforcements to within three miles of Sepone and that an assault on the enemy transshipment point 25 miles inside Laos was planned.

Lt. Col. Le Thung Hien, a South Vietnamese spokesman in Quang Tri, said the forward-most South Vietnamese in fantrypmen were 25 to 28 miles deep into Laos and added: "This is the most significant troop movement in two weeks."

Associated Press Correspondent J.T. Wolkertorfer reported from Quang Tri that virtually the entire South Vietnamese 2nd Regiment of the 1st Infantry Division had been committed to the Sepone drive, and that the South Vietnamese now have about 20,000 troops in southern Laos.

This new troop movement left South Vietnam's northernmost province of Quang Tri virtually bare of South Vietnamese army forces. Nearly 2,000 more U.S. troops were moved north to guard against a North Vietnamese thrust across the demilitarized zone. This put the entire northern rim of the country in the hands of the American blocking force of 12,000 to 15,000 men.

Army Snooping Unveiled

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Army surveillance was so pervasive in one major city that "anybody who seemed to be a little out of line and didn't express the orthodox point of view" was spied on, according to Sen. Sam J. Ervin, D-N.C.

Ervin revealed the extent of Army intelligence operations in Minneapolis-St. Paul, Minn., Thursday as his Constitutional Rights Subcommittee wound up its second week of investigation into government snooping.

Ervin produced a small brown box kept by the Army intelligence unit in Minnesota containing 35 index cards with the names of students and teachers at the University of Minnesota plus community leaders and organizations. The file was kept for 18 months, until January, 1970, as part of the Army's reaction of civil disorders. It was resumed again after last spring's Cambodian invasion disruptions.

Malcolm Moos, president of the university, said unorthodox statements made within the confines of the classroom sometimes were taken down and filed. The practice, he said, is one which suffocates learning and free speech.

There was one card in the file on Harry Davis, who was a Democratic-Farmer-Labor party candidate for mayor, Eugene Eidenberg, an assistant vice president at the university, said Davis was "one of the most respected and distinguished leaders of the black community. Somehow he got caught up in the file."

Surveillance also covered the St. Paul Department of Human Rights, an official arm of the city government, and the University Student Association, the elected student body organization on the campus, Ervin said.

VANCOUVER, B.C. (AP) — The 22-year-old daughter of a veteran politician has ended the long bachelorhood of Canada's Prime Minister Pierre Elliott Trudeau.

Trudeau, 51, and Margaret Sinclair were honeymooning today at a ski resort north of her home in Vancouver. They plan to return to Ottawa next week.

The nation was stunned by the announcement late Thursday night that the couple had married at St. Stephen's Roman Catholic church here "in a quiet ceremony attended only by members of the two families."

Trudeau met Miss Sinclair in Tahiti three years ago while both were on vacation.

She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Sinclair of Vancouver. Her father is a longtime power in the Liberal party, a former cabinet minister and a member of the Privy Council.

The bride's mother, who is two years younger than the prime minister, said after the wedding, "It wasn't sudden. They gave a lot of thought to it."

"The secrecy surrounding the romance and the wedding was completely in keeping with Trudeau's reputation as an unorthodox politician and an intensely private person."

Death Is The Great Equalizer

There
Are No Dead

... Maeterlinck

AND NOBODY CAME . . . A simple name plate marks the bare sandy grave of Albert Snyder whose death Monday, March 1, at the age of 105, went unheralded.

When he was born, Andrew Johnson was president and the Civil War had just ended. It is not known where he was born, or what historic events he may have observed during his extra long life.

Having outlived many generations of friends and loved ones, he died in a local nursing home and was buried without benefit of flowers or mourners. This young visitor to Sylvan Lake Cemetery, noting the starkness of the grave, brings a flower to show that someone cared.

Others are laid to rest among the marble monuments, who died poor or unloved and whose graves are nameless or marked only with impromptu wooden stakes with their last name penciled on.

It is said death is the great equalizer, but there is often a marked contrast in the simplicity or elaborateness that accompany the passing. It always seems a little sad when there is no one left to remember or shed a tear.

Controls Tightened On Charter Flights

By VERN HAUGLAND
AP Aviation Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Transportation John A. Volpe has ordered tighter control over small charter-flight operations, placing them under the same type federal surveillance faced by commercial airlines.

Acting in the wake of a study of the Wichita State football charter crash in Colorado which killed 31 persons last October, Volpe ordered the Federal Aviation Administration Thursday to begin a closer watch of all air taxi charter operations.

As a first step, FAA field offices will begin continuous surveillance of all jetliners and larger prop planes operated by small chartering outfits.

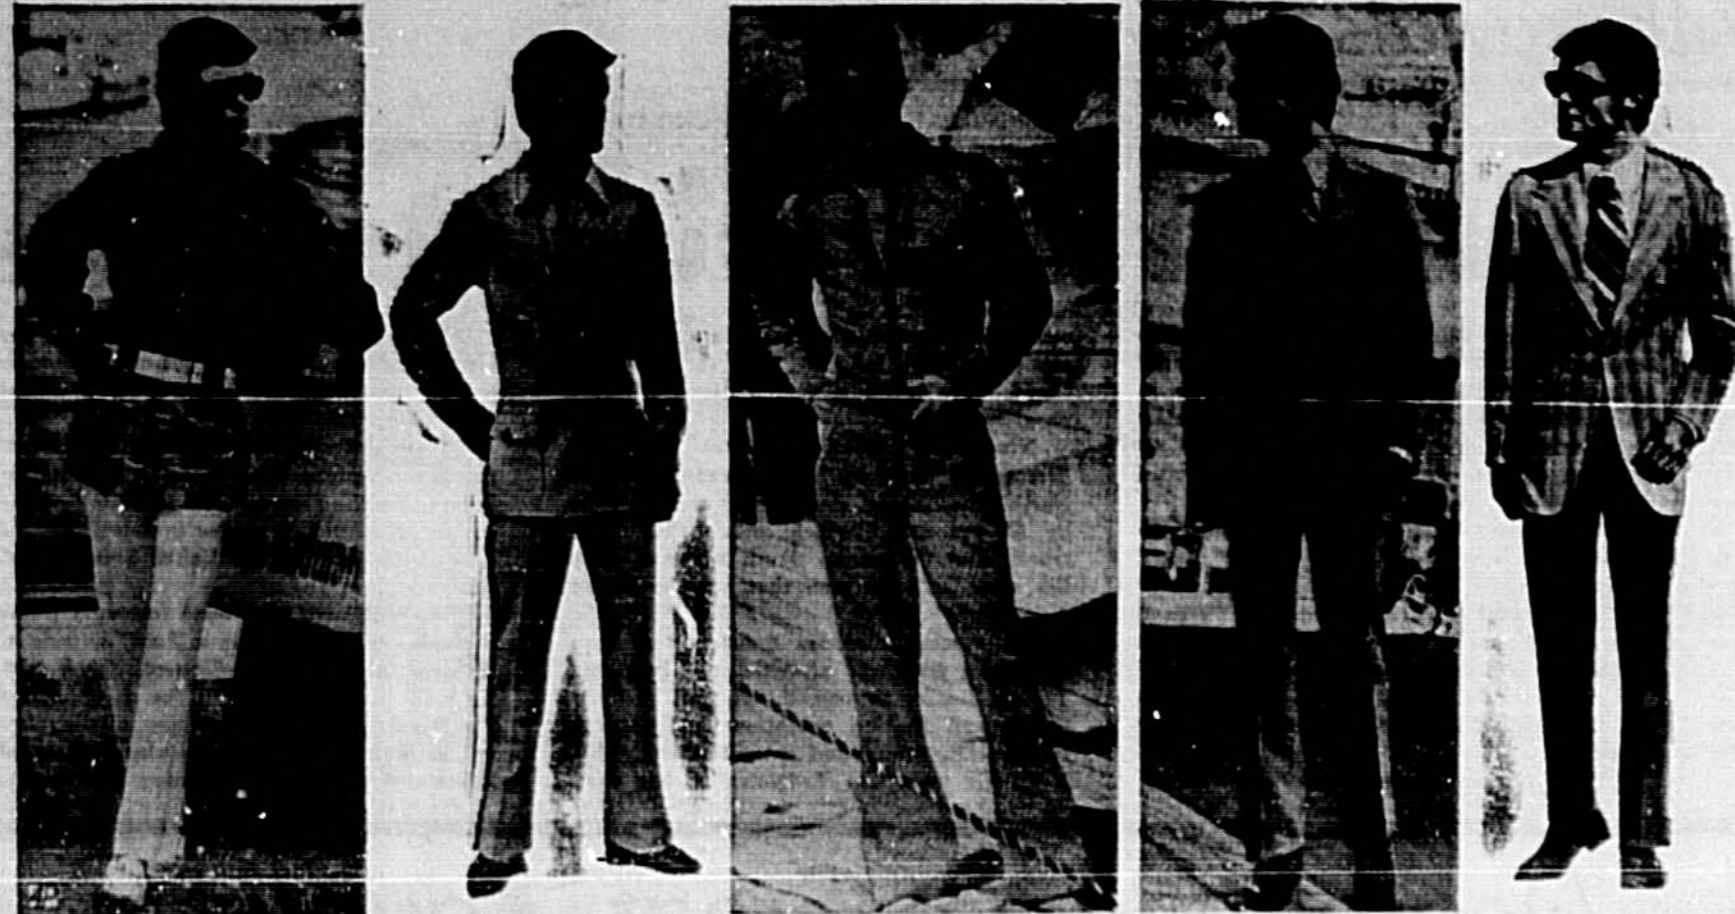

The need, FAA officials said, is closer regulation of the small independent operators as distinguished from supplemental and regularly scheduled airlines.

Comprehensive guidelines are being developed and will be issued to all FAA field offices in April, officials said.

In the past, the FAA said, many charter operators have used various dodges to evade federal regulation. By claiming their operations were not for compensation or hire in private carriage, they avoided the FAA's broad rules for that category.

As a result, the FAA has had to determine in each case whether an operation is "for compensation or hire."

"We feel the time has come for the FAA to no longer concern itself with making economic determinations so that we can concentrate on our primary concern—safety," the FAA said.

BP's Are Doing Their Own Threads

Learn To Sew And Love It

By HELEN HENNESSY
NEA Women's Editor
NEW YORK (NEA) — There's been a tremendous boom in home sewing chiefly due to the need to stretch the family budget, the desire for individuality in fashion and the consumer's inability to find the right clothes for her particular mode of living. Even the Beautiful People have become aware of what you can whip up on your trusty sewing machine.
Recently they turned Rockefeller Center into the scene of a sewing bee. Well—perhaps not the kind of sewing bee that great aunt Agatha would recognize. But they did BILL the event as a Society Sewing Bee.

Actually it was a glamorous dinner-dance held in the Singer
Center in New York's Radio
City and it came about this way.
Mrs. Clyde (Maggi Mc. Ellis)
Newhouse dreamed up a new angle for charity functions.
Southampton Hospital needed a ventilator—aesthesia breathing device for its operating room.
The Singer Sewing Machine
Company agreed to donate it.
In appreciation for the gift, a group of Southampton-oriented ladies volunteered to model fashions whipped up on you know what kind of sewing machine.
And the Clyde Newhouses, the
William Rayners and the Virgil
Sherrills sent out invitations to 150 of the Beautiful People.

Then they proceeded to transport help of Bill Gilbin of the Singer Center into a Henri Bendel window decoration golden fairyland with the extra fine fame.

Free Spirit In Hairdos
In these days of the "total look," fashion and beauty can no longer be separated into categories. Each is part of the look chosen for any occasion. The two Fontaine-inspired pretties shown here depict (left) the gamine spirit, gently placed sprites of hair, deceptively boyish, distinctly girlish—as free-spirited as the put-togethers part attire of the season. The carefully co-ordinated accessories, bejeweled or be-ribboned, express the do-your-own thing mood. The more formal flatterer (right) was created from the latest love from Paris, the butterfly motif. Literally a winged-victory for fashion, this gently bouffant style will complement the romance in much of today's couture.

Dear Abby: By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: A friend of mine told me something that has upset me terribly. She wouldn't tell me who had told her, so there is nothing I can do about it. I suppose that is why I am so upset.

She said she had heard that my husband and I were splitting up. Abby, my husband had had to travel more lately for his business and I can't go with him, but we certainly haven't been happier, and this splitting up "rumor" couldn't have shocked me more.

I know there is nothing you can do about it, Abby. I just had to tell somebody how heart sick I am. How does a person go about proving something is a lie?

HEARTSICK: One shouldn't have to. But be aware that a real friend would not bring you gossip or any hurtful "sorry-I-can't-tell-you-what-to-do" tales. Since you are helpless to do anything about gossip (real or possibly dreamed up by the one who told you she had "heard" it), disregard it. A word of consolation: Carriers of such tales are usually jealous and miserable and take pleasure in chipping away at the happiness of others.

DEAR ABBY: Once again

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22): You want more success in your life, and if you will give it some thought you will see how to attain it. Pick matters over with bigwigs who show more enthusiasm about whatever you want to do.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22): You need to get out into the social whirl more and this is the time to plan for it. Talk over your aims with associates and get their approval. Remember that you are a practical person and not just a dreamer.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21): Keep rooted to business affairs, but if you mix a little pleasure with business, you find you get better results. See what bigwigs have to suggest for your advancement. Follow best ideas presented.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21): Use more modern methods and get the assistance of experts if you feel your understanding is lacking. If you take a trip, it is good now. Count the cost.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20): Keep these promises you have made to the letter, but plan the future more intelligently. Find right way to delight mate and go ahead with your plans. Forget all that angling and be direct.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19): Listen to what a conservative associate has to suggest before you start to plan. This brings in more money in the future. Direct energies more wisely in the days ahead. Show that you are active, determined.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20): Do something about improving your environment and become a happier person thereby. Use the talents of your workers for better results. Relax and get rid of that tense feeling that others resent.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be one of those young people who will require a pat on the able back when something especially fine has been accomplished. Observe the fine promise here may not be realized to the full. Do not neglect to give chores to do so that the feeling of being important and contributing to life is soon learned. An ideal chart for improving affairs of other people; much money can be made while saving others money. See that you do not neglect.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

We The Women: By Betty Canary

I had lunch with a beauty consultant and asked if she had any tips for readers.

"What I wish," she said "is that instead of putting on so much mascara, women would notice the basics—such as checking to see if they have hairs growing from their noses."

"You don't mean..."

"Look around," she advised. "I'd better tell them!" I said through my hands.

"You can take your hands down," she said. "You don't have the problem."

"I wasn't sure," I said with relief.

"If you write about this, be sure to tell women they should never pluck the hairs," she advised. "Clip hairs carefully with blunt scissors. Pulling a hair from the nose can result in a serious infection, blood poisoning, even brain damage. And, should you use a depilatory cream either," she warned.

"What else?"

"Mainly I try to get across to women the truth that cosmetics can't cover dirt."

"I don't think women reading my column are the sort who don't wash," I remarked hotly.

"You'd be surprised how many women have a bad case of Groupy Neck," she said. "They're well-dressed, spend lots of money on the latest moisturizers, but they forget a neck has a back as well as a front."

"Also, you might mention the condition called Gray Elbow," she said. "It's caused by the same thing as 'Gritty Heel.'"

"You're right. It's a combination of dead skin and dirt. And all one needs to correct the problem is a pumice stone and, if you'll pardon the expression, a little elbow grease."

"Any more common, everyday but too-often-overlooked conditions you'd like to mention?"

"It won't hurt to warn them about Peckish Leg," she said. "Just tell women that cosmetics do the most for clean and healthy skin."

"No tricks you'd like to pass on about how a woman of 30 can look 25?" she asked.

"Sorry, I'm as cosmopolitan as a magician."

Polly's Pointers By Polly Cramer

Polly's Problem

DEAR POLLY:—Please tell me how to remove a brown spot left on my vinyl floor from a cigarette burn. I have tried everything but this yearns remains. —MRS. M. S.

DEAR POLLY:—Mrs. C. L. N. can lengthen her expensive dresses without letting down the hems and in several ways. An entire new midriff section of lace, matching or contrasting material, will add considerably to the length. Also one wide or several narrow ribbons can be added to the skirt. These could be made of a variety of materials depending on the fabric in the dress. There are beautiful embroidered ribbons for luxury fabrics, braid and wide ribbons that can be used on contrasting fabric. —POLLY I.

DEAR POLLY:—Mrs. C. L. N. could use a contrasting or harmonizing fabric and a false skirt, sewed on the bottom of a petticoat, and wear her too-short dress over it as a tunic. If the dress is too long for good proportions it could be hemmed up. Some of the material used for the new skirt can often be used on the actual dress, perhaps as a mesh or tie.

Such dresses can be converted to new long tops to be worn with harmonizing pants and have a new pantunit. Sewing in a piece of contrasting material at the waist or above and below the waistline, as so many new dresses are styled, is also an answer to too short dresses. —MRS. B. G.

DEAR POLLY:—I do hope to help Mrs. C. L. N. with her dress. Cut the dress either straight or on a slant all the way around just below the zipper ending. For the neckline, use fabric of the same texture as the dress and cut the material on the same angle, straight or on the bias, as the dress. Be sure the side seams are even. A fringe also could be added around the lower edge of the garment.

Make an overskirt or full-length vest and wear it over the dress. A deep hem in the overskirt, once made, is the length of the original garment. Color works wonders with any of these ideas and buttons could match the inserted strip or added fringe. Jewelry and accessories to match also will add. —A SEWER

IT MAY LOOK like Miami Boat Show queen Beverly Harris of Miami, a statuesque stewardess with such noble attributes as 38-23-37 measurements, is trying to twist world outboard champion Bill Stiros' head off but its just one of the hazards of posing for publicity photos. Billy, the 30-year-old Miami bachelor who drives for the Miami Mercury Yacht Club, recently won the $58,000 world championships at Lake Havasu in this 21-foot wooden Italian made tunnel hull powered by two 155 h.p. Mercury engines. The sleek craft has a top speed of approximately 115 m.p.h., which definitely puts it out of the fishing class.

Jacoby On Bridge Jacoby and Son

North's two-heart call was one of those cue bids. With a sound opening spade bid opposite his partner's vulnerable double he wanted to force his partner to bid so as to be sure to reach some game contract.

East cashed two hearts and shifted to his singleton spade. South cashed four rounds of trumps and the three top diamonds. Then he led ace and another club. East took his two top clubs. Down three.

South was bitter about the whole thing. "Why does it always happen to me?" he moaned. "I never get any breaks."

"You might try playing a little better," suggested North.

Worry Clinic By Dr. Crane

By GEORGE W. CRANE, Ph. D. M. D.

CASE P-389: Norma T., aged 28, has a sex problem. "Dr. Crane," she began, "the girls in our college club have been arguing about your newspaper column."

"For you said that the normal wife is definitely not as erotic as her husband."

"Most of the women agree with you."

"But two of my friends and I disagree violently."

"For us can experience general climaxes in rapid succession!"

"So what do you say to that?"

Well, I say what you all experience wives could tell Norma, namely, that she and her girl friends have never yet experienced the acme of sexual satisfaction!

This is a common fallacy, even abetted by the Kinsey Report and that lewd book by a couple of contemporary Mississippi "experts."

It is as ridiculous to say a wife can have multiple orgasms within a brief time, as to argue she can't have several. Thanking her for the rapid succession of orgasms in rapid succession.

But Norma and her two girl friends are quite sincere and honest.

They simply are inexperienced wives.

Their erotic appetite is simply whetted by ineffectual husbands who need to use the medical advice in the booklet below.

"For us are erotically excited to a level that is called the pre-climax stage."

Any slight additional stimulation thereafter, though still low, is that explosive climactic plateau, is thus misconstrued by the novice wife who has never been fully initiated into an orgasm.

Kinsey's interviewers thus even abetted the Kinsey Report and that lewd book by a couple of contemporary Mississippi "experts."

"Send for my medical booklet 'Sex Problems in Marriage,' enclosing a long stamped, return envelope, plus 35¢ and you'll understand Dr. Kinsey's error!"

Understand Dr. Crane who writes to Dr. Crane in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long stamped, addressed envelope plus 35¢ or typing and printing costs when you send for one of his booklets.

Warner's 'Recycles' Old Props

By DICK KLEINER
HOLLYWOOD used to be famous for never throwing anything away. Everybody's old costumes, all the old sets, thousands of ancient props—they were always somewhere around the lot. It was everybody's attic, on a monster scale.

Mostly, that's all gone now—MGM auctioned off everything and 20th Century-Fox is about to do the same. But, at the moment, the Warner Bros. studio still has much of its grand past, and it is currently paying off.

They are shooting a two-hour pilot for a detective series set in the '30s, "Banyon." It will be shown this spring as a movie-for-television and if it sells, it will be a series next season.

The company was filming on a set, and even the set was a left-over—it was the grand entrance hallway of "Hotel." Parked outside were four or five cars from the '30s, part of the studio's still-intact fleet of old vehicles. And the costumes were hand-me-downs, too.

The male extras had fun looking at the labels inside, which frequently indicated that the garments had been worn by Bogart or Cagney, and the girls' gowns had similar labels, bearing names like Sheridan and Hayworth.

"Banyon" is the brainchild of an old radio writer named Ed Adamson. He goes back to the days of Inner Sanctum and he says he has always loved the '30s era. He missed his leading character, a private eye, Miles Banyon. He says the Miles is a tribute to Dashiell Hammett, because Miles was Sam Spade's assistant.

Playing Miles Banyon is Robert Forster, one of the best young actors around. It's his first try for a series and he's not sure whether or not he wants it to sell.

"I'm going back to New York," he says, "to do a play—'The Edge,' Michael Gazzo's new play, with Martin Balsam and Bernadette Peters. If it's a hit and 'Banyon' sells, there's a conflict, but I'll worry about that later."

P. Newman Stars At Drive-In

"Butch Cassidy and the Sundance Kid," starring Paul Newman, Robert Redford and Katherine Ross, will open on Sunday at the Movieland Drive-In Theatre for a four-day showing.

Produced by John Foreman and Directed by George Roy Hill, "Butch Cassidy and the Sundance Kid" deals with the leaders of one of the last of the great bands of riders to take to the outlaw trail. Butch and the Kid did their thing at the turn of the century, much later than Jesse James and his brother Frank whose exploits have had far greater attention from moviemakers. William Goldman based his original screenplay on the true story of fast draws and wild rides, battles with posses, train and bank robberies, a torrid love affair and a new lease on outlaw life in far away Bolivia.

It is also a character study of a remarkable friendship between Butch — possibly the most likeable outlaw in frontier history — and his closest associate, the fabled, ever dangerous, Sundance Kid, a story told with warmth and great humor.

This Newman-Foreman presentation has Paul Newman as Butch Cassidy, Robert Redford as the Sundance Kid and Katherine Ross as Etta Place, the hot-blooded schoolteacher who becomes emotionally involved with both Newman and Redford as she joins in their exploits as highwaymen, gunmen and train robbers in both the Old West and South America.

Companion feature is "Sand Pebbles," in color, starring Steve McQueen. This program is rated "GP."

MARILYN MONROE, seeking a divorce, and Clark Gable, a cowboy, meet in Reno in "The Misfits," at 8:30 March 20 over WESH-TV, Channel 2, and NBC-TV.

'Tora! Tora! Tora!' Featured At The Plaza

"Tora! Tora! Tora!" the mammoth recreation of the events leading up to the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor is currently playing at Sanford's Plaza Rocking Chair Theatre.

Three years in the making, filmed in locations in Japan, Hawaii and Washington, D. C., "Tora! Tora! Tora!" traces the events culminating in the attack of December 7, 1941—"the date of infamy"—that catapulted America into World War II. The picture has won seven Academy Award nominations.

Telling the story from both sides as it occurred on the highest diplomatic, political and military levels, the 20th Century-Fox film is climaxed by a full scale restaging of the attack itself photographed on the actual locations in Hawaii where it all took place almost 30 years ago, at such historic sites as Ford Island, Hickam and Wheeler Fields, Kole Kole Pass, Schoefield Barracks, Waikiki and Aloha Tower.

Extensive official cooperation and assistance was provided by both the Japanese and U. S. governments in authenticating all information, materials and props used in the film. In this sense, "Tora! Tora! Tora!" can be described as a film historical in itself; never before have two former warring nations joined creative minds to make a motion picture of their first battle.

"Tora! Tora! Tora!" in Japanese means "Tiger! Tiger! Tiger!" This was the code signal flashed by Lt. Cmdr. Misuo Fuchida back to the Japanese carrier Akagi to signify his attack squadron had achieved complete surprise in the strike against the U. S. Naval Base, Pearl Harbor.

Top TV Shows Face The Axe

By RICK DUBROW

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Bill Cosby, Red Skelton, Don Edotts, Andy Williams and Diahann Carroll are among the stars canceled in a tentative NBC-TV schedule for next season currently being passed around the advertising agencies of Madison Avenue.

Also canceled in NBC's planned drastic revision of its lineup — which finds all of its Tuesday, Wednesday and Friday prime time programs replaced — are "The Men from Shiloh" (formerly "The Virginian"), "The Name of the Game," "Kraft Music Hall," "Four-in-One," "The High Chaparral" and "Strange Report."

Although the schedule is tentative and it is more than half a year before the September debuts, one can only admire NBC for being willing to replace much of the old with the new after a season in which it has done well in the ratings. Some of the series headed for axing had pretty fair, even good, audience rankings — but none of those listed could be said to have had a distinguished creative season in 1970-71.

Prime-Time Reductions

On the other hand, there are reports that "The Senator" segments of NBC's "The Bold Ones" series may also be eliminated because of low ratings. That would be a pity because these episodes with Hal Holbrook have often been among the better hours on television. A two-part program of "The Senator" based on the Kent State tragedy was among the season's top series achievements.

One cause of NBC's revamping, of course, is the ruling by the Federal Communications Commission that each network must cut back its prime time programming by half an hour a night starting in the fall in order to encourage local and independent production.

When To Take Your Vacation

By PAUL CORCORAN
Copley News Service

The majority of Americans for years scheduled their vacations for the summer months. It was the thing to do.

But the fact is, there is no one season limiting the time you should take a vacation: the best time to take one is the time of year that suits you, within the limitations of seasonal climate changes.

In fact, there are many instances when a vacation in the spring or fall is more desirable — and less expensive — than in the summer.

Hotel rates often are reduced after the summer rush, and it is more relaxing when you do not have to fight the crowds. This is especially true in resort centers such as Palm Springs, Las Vegas, Cape Cod and a score of other places where business reaches a peak in the summer.

Winter vacations present special problems, but as the individual obtains more time off and seeks new avenues of recreation, they are increasingly popular.

It once was the case that only the wealthy could afford to go to Palm Beach, Palm Springs or Arizona when the snow began to fall in Manhattan, Chicago or Des Moines. Now, with an increasingly large number of motels with facilities for children, the middle-class family can go away for a week or two in a warm climate without blowing the entire budget.

A few key things to remember about vacations in any season include:

1. If you fly, schedule your trip in the middle of the week. Airlines are not as busy and fares usually are lower.
  2. Seek information in advance on hotel rates. The off-season rates differ considerably from place to place.
- If you choose to stay in a busy, expensive resort such as Las Vegas for a few days, and have a limited budget, always schedule your visit in the middle of the week.

OUR SIDE OF THE GAP

By KATHY NIBLACK
News is scarce this week, gang, so this is probably going to be a short column. Sorry about that!

I hope that this has been a great week for you—hope you had a chance to get to the Central Florida Fair. And I'm sure you've had "fun" at school!

four area dance students will be competing in the "MISS DANCE" Contest in Winter Park. The contest is sponsored by the Dance Masters of Fla., Inc., and is the only beauty contest in the United States where talent is a main concern. Those area girls participating are Sharon Clinton Shelley Mebane, Jinia Meyer, and Kathryn Bliss. Each contestant will be judged on dance talent, interview, leotard competition, and evening gown competition. Good luck, girls!

evations throughout the United States for both programs.

Selection for candidates for FTU's nominations for Who's Who on College Campuses will begin March 29, and last until April 23. FTU has the opportunity to nominate 22 students, but this does not mean that that many will be selected to represent FTU. Winners will be announced May 1.

Congratulations to the GIRL SCOUTS on their week—Mar. 7-13 and the dedication of their brand new camp at Chuluota, which has been named Mah Kah Wee (translated that means Earth Maidens). The theme this year is "I Caru", an emphasis on conservation and ecology.

Speaking of conservation and ecology . . . A group of FTU students and faculty have become involved, knee-high and elbow-deep, in the Big Econlochatchee River during weekend expeditions of collecting data and samples. They have enlisted in ECO, Environmental Coordinating Organization, composed of people from all walks of life including students and Scouts.

Samples taken are duly recorded and preserved in the FTU biology lab in the monitoring project. The chief concern is to save the 57-mile Big Econ from the fate which has already overtaken the stagnant, silt-laden Little Econ: hopeless pollution. The fighters in waders and armed with nets, jars, and curiosity have set their sights on a campaign of conviction. As Steve Rose, FTU Biology major and campus ECO team leader, explained "We're out to impress people of the seriousness of pollution right in their own backyard. And convince them to take the steps necessary—even into court—to stop the ruination of the environment." Right on, Steve!

See you next week—same time, same paper, same page! Till then—stay happy.

THE NATIONAL REPORT ON WHAT'S HAPPENING

By ROGER DOUGHTY

BEE GEES BOUNCE BACK—The Bee Gees (better known as the Brothers Gibb to their dear old (mom and dad) are back, what with all three of them having big egos and larger tempers, but all that is forgotten. The reason? "What with the Beatles out of the way and the Rolling Stones in disfavor and Tom Fogerty leaving Creedence Clearwater," says Brian (known as the good-looking one to those who groove on such things) "we saw a great chance to make a lot of money." Not that the guys are after the good for themselves, no indeed. "We want to make all we can," claims Robin, "so we can pay a lot of taxes and save the British Empire. It's our duty to make a lot of money so Prime Minister Heath can sleep well at night." And, as Maurice points out, "With the new decimal system in England, we're not sure just how much we have to make to insure Mr. Heath his proper rest, so we're trying to make a bit extra, just in case." If you get a chance to see the Bee Gees during their current U.S. tour, don't miss out. They earn that gold. If you can't see 'em, pick up on their Alco LP, 2 Years After. Think how much better Mr. Heath will sleep on account of you.

FORE!—Spiro Agnew, everybody's favorite golfer, now has the honor of having had a comedy record about his life and times cut by Stanley Myron Handelman, another household word. If you haven't heard it on the air, it figures. Radio stations seem to be afraid to play the disc since Mr. Agnew has been known to get a bit up-tight about what gets said and printed. But it's really a good-natured thing and the Vice President, who has a pretty good sense of humor of his own, would probably dig it. Stanley should send him a copy.

PASTA NICE—Youth Beat salutes the nation's macaroni makers and eaters who set a record in 1970 by burning out (and consuming) 1,542,991,880 pounds of macaroni products (like spaghetti and egg noodles and stuff). "We owe it all to the youth of America, who groove on macaroni products," says a spokesman for the National Macaroni Institute. Take a bow, youth of America, if you can still bend over.

WHO'S NO. 1?—According to the Gallup people, the college students of the United States pick New York's Mayor John Lindsay as the politician they dig the most, with Eugene McCarthy, Edmund Muskie and George McGovern running behind. All well and good, but that leads us to wonder who Youth Beat's readers like the best (we always wonder about things like that). So, let us know and we'll run our own poll. Personally, the Youth Beat staff believes that no elected official will ever come close to doing as many good things as Millard Fillmore accomplished (after all, he did open rock palaces on both coasts!), but you may have other ideas.

WOODSTOCK REVISITED—Let's bear it for Linda Behrens of Woodstock, Ill., who, along with roughly 275 other readers, came up with the correct answer to our famous Quiz No. 362, which was the one about which rock star is really named Reginald Dwight. Of course, it's (suspenseful music, please) Elton John. For reasons that we haven't figured out yet (except maybe that everybody knows that the one he's using can't be his real name) we got almost as many letters from people who thought Engelbert Humperdinck was really Reginald Dwight. Actually, Engel is named Jerry Dorsey. Neil Diamond's real name is Neil Diamond. But more about that later.

DANIEL CHISHOLM, adviser for the Photography Club, one of the activities groups meeting at South Seminole Middle School, explains techniques of a 35-millimeter camera. The purpose of the club is to set up a lab where pictures can be developed. The president of the club is Eric Kaster; vice president, John Pitrom; and secretary, Monica Cremonese. The students are so interested they often stay after school to work. (Marilyn Gordon Photo)

So You Want To Be

What's Outlook For Engineers?

By ERNIE HOOD

Roland B., Syracuse, N. Y., asks: "What's the job outlook for engineers and scientists?"

Dear Roland: Prospects were bleak six months ago, and are worse now. As a matter of fact, the Labor Department's Bureau of Labor Statistics notes that unemployment among professionals has increased about 50 per cent in the past two months, from 2 to 3 per cent of the professional labor force. The U.S. Civil Service Commission also reports having received more than 1,650 job applications from engineers and physical scientists in a recent, four-week period. A year ago, applications in a corresponding period totaled 1,104.

Sally M., Portland, Ore., inquires: "Can you provide me with information on career opportunities for licensed practical nurses?"

Dear Sally: Licensed practical nurses are expected to be in strong demand during the years ahead. Employment is expected to continue to rise rapidly all through the 1970s, and a large number of new jobs will have to be filled each year as health facilities continue to expand.

In addition, many workers will be needed annually to replace those practical nurses who retire or stop working for other reasons.

Franklin O., Chicago, wonders: "Is there much of a future for purchasing agents?"

Dear Franklin: Definitely. Opportunities are expected to be very good all through the 1970s for people to enter and advance in purchasing occupations. Demand is expected to be especially strong for graduates of schools of business administration who have taken courses in purchasing.

U.S. Labor Department Bulletins are sources of depth information on career fields. They can be obtained from the Superintendent of Documents, U.S. Government Printing Office, Washington, D.C. 20402. For Engineers, ask for Bulletin 1650-23, priced at 15 cents; for Licensed Practical Nurses, Bulletin 1650-9, 15 cents; and for Purchasing Agents, Bulletin 1650 5, 10 cents.

If you have a question about another career field, write to SO YOU WANT TO BE in care of Newspaper Enterprise Association, 230 Park Ave., New York, N.Y. 10017.

(Ernie Hood is a public information officer for the U.S. Department of Labor.)

College Students Using Blocks For Good Future

FTU—Students in Florida Tech University's Elementary Education program are using blocks to build a better foundation under their futures.

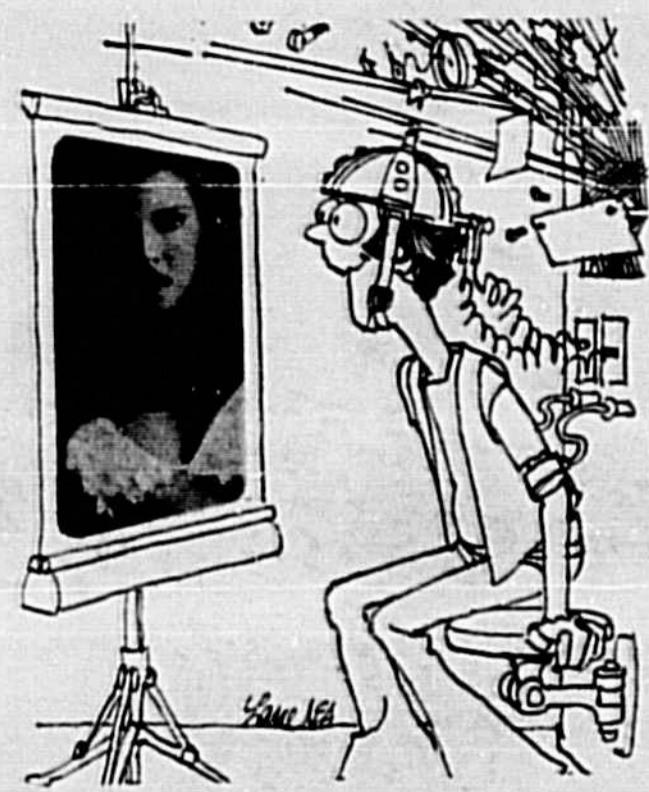

In this case, the blocks are measured in time—not space—and are limited to "A," "B," and "C."

Each of the time blocks occupies 10 weeks, and each provides students with an additional boost toward graduation. But more importantly, each offers a better insight into what awaits them when they finish FTU and walk into the working world, diplomas in hand.

What makes the block system unique is that FTU is one of the few universities utilizing the technique. Most teacher education programs still rely on the well-worn "laboratory" which is more theory than fact. Too often, the student teacher has no chance for practical experience until he reaches his senior year in college.

An example of one facet of the FTU block system can be found with the 87 juniors who have advanced to the "B" block after spending an earlier 10 weeks in "A", learning what faculty members like to call "an overview" of elementary education as onlookers only in elementary classrooms. Once they reach "B" however, they see some action. All directly assist full-time teachers in their elementary classes each morning, then return to the FTU campus to discover what they did wrong—or right.

Research: 36-24-36?

By LEE MUELLER
NEW YORK (NEA)—This is the age of the Vanishing Unturned Stone, a time when scientific inquiry among other things has leaped the wall of conventional investigation to run amok in way-out pastures.

With certain personality traits determined by standard psychological tests. From this data, Wiggins was able to determine what kind of men prefer women with, say, large tops, small bottoms and slender legs.

Big Men-On-Campus, he discovered, like girls with ample tops, moderate to small bottoms and moderate legs. Ascetic types on the other hand prefer girls with moderate tops, small bottoms and moderate legs.

Wiggins' "Losers" like Reubenque figures. Big. To date, the Wiggins have not done research involving women's taste in men, but that takes—along with other related fields of inquiry—is being undertaken in other parts of the country.

Dr. Jerry Wiggins, 39, a professor of psychology at the University of Illinois, says this is not true; that today's news reporting techniques only make current research sound kinky. "There always have been some pretty farout investigation going out," he said.

There are people, for instance, who might find kinky the investigation Wiggins and his wife are conducting. The Wigginses and a colleague, Judith Conger, are attempting to determine just what makes a member of the opposite sex physically attractive.

Wiggins' research began with his theory that personality is determined by the way society reacts to our bodies. "Persons with valued characteristics will be treated differently—and reacted differently—than persons who do not have them," he said.

Research included the testing of 95 undergraduate males to determine their body preferences in females. For hours, the men peered at black and white silhouettes of women being flashed on a screen. Men, he found, do prefer emphasis of one body component or another and the preferences correlate

Soil Needs Organic Matter

By DAVID DeVOLL
Extension Agent
The success of your flower garden may depend on how you prepare soil for annual plants. If you continue to grow plants in the same soil, the soil aggregates will break down into smaller aggregates, reducing the air available to roots.

Soil improvement starts with adding organic matter. Well-rotted manure or compost may be spread over the surface and mixed into the soil to a depth of six inches. Peat moss is an excellent soil amendment and is a good soil builder.

Peat moss, which is available at garden stores, should be spread at the ratio of 4 to 5 cubic feet per 100 square feet of bed. If soil tests show that the soil is acid, it may be advisable to add from 2 to 5 pounds of lime per 100 square feet. As for fertilizer spread 2 pounds of 6-6-6 or 6-4-8 per 100 square feet of flower bed.

Harvest Time For S'berries

By LOUISE L. GILL
Home Economics Agent

While March winds blow in many parts of the country, fresh red strawberries are being harvested in southern Florida.

Did you know that the strawberry is the only fruit with seeds on the outside? First shipments of strawberries come from Southern Florida in January, and then production increases, gradually spreading north and west into many parts of the country before tapering off in the fall. Strawberries are in best supply in May and June.

Look for berries with full red color and a bright luster, firm flesh, and the cap stem still attached. The berries should be dry and clean, and usually medium to small berries have better eating quality than large ones.

REAP New Name For ACP Plan

By FRANK JASA
County Agricultural Agent

The name has been changed and the program has been adjusted to meet present needs, but conservation remains its primary goal.

REAP (Rural Environmental Assistance Program) replaced the ACP program which was the principal channel through which the Federal Government, in the national interest and for the public good, shares with farmers and ranchers the cost of carrying out approved soil, water, woodland, wildlife conservation and pollution abatement practices on their land.

Emphasis is on practices which are of an enduring nature and which will contribute to the control of soil, water and air pollution. This voluntary program was in operation long before "pollution" and "ecology" became everyday terms and farmlands all over the country have benefited from improvements made possible through this program.

Suspect Held In One Incident 2 Weekend Rapes Reported

By BILL SCOTT
The rash of Sanford and Seminole County reported rape cases continued during the weekend with two physical assaults, bringing to five the number of such county incidents in the past week.

A 17-year-old Sanford high school girl was ravished in a Sunday pre-dawn assault at an east Sanford residence by a stocky, masked, pistol-toting man, who entered the house, tied up the family and raped the daughter in a separate bedroom.

County authorities have arrested a 24-year-old Winter Park man after a 27-year-old Orlando woman told police the man assaulted her in an orange grove near Forest City.

Det. Sgt. William Lykens and Roy Williams are conducting an extensive investigation into the Sanford report that came at 4:25 a.m. Sunday when a Sanford businessman called police and reported his home was entered and his daughter raped by a man wearing a stocking mask and brandishing a .32 caliber pistol.

Det. Lykens said there were no visible signs of entry into the house indicating the door may not have been locked. The incident reportedly happened about 3 a.m. when the wife was then tied by the assailant, who covered all his victims' mouths with tape. The daughter was removed to an adjoining bedroom where she was raped.

Girl Ex-Addict Tells Drug Story As It Is

By DAVID L. LANGFORD
ORLANDO (UPI) — Barbara Eisenstadt was a barefoot maverick in bellbottoms sipping orange juice while fellow members of the legislative task force on drug abuse were helping themselves to the scotch and bourbon.

It was cocktail time in a crowded motel room Saturday night and the predominantly male, conservatively dressed legislators were loosening up after a day of gloomy testimony about Florida's drug-kid problem.

At the University of Florida, Miss Eisenstadt founded the Corner Drug Store, a rap house for drug users which has attracted national attention and was named a special consultant to the National Institute of Mental Health.

With work on a master's degree in educational psychology just completed, she has accepted a job at the Tennessee Psychiatric Hospital in Memphis. "I'm very good with users and heads and I want to see if you can apply the same techniques to addicts," she said.
